THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

A Resolution Against the Passage by Congress of an Anti-Scalping Act Adopted After Some Discussion.

STOPPING THE FLOOD OF RESOLUTIONS

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 10.—The first business to come before the convention of the American Federation of Labor this morning was the introduction of additional resolutions. Unanimous consent was necessary, and First Vice President Duncan of Boston, protested against taking up the time of the delegates by the presentation of resolutions at this time.

The committee having charge of the secretary's report reported that the suggestions made in that report be accepted, with the exception of that referring to the per capita tax of national and international unions. The committee recommended that the tax be increased from one-third to one-half per cent a month.

The recommendations were adopted. The committee on resolutions presented a voluminous report. The resolution pledging the American Federation to use every honorable means to prevent the passage by congress of anti-scalping legislation was favorably reported by the committee. State Senator Tanquary of Colorado, of the Railroad Telegraphers' union, and John B. Lennon of Bloomington, Ill., of the Journeymen Tailors' union, vigorously opposed the resolution. Senator Tanquary declared that the Federation was going outside of its legitimate field in considering such a resolution and that the organization was treading on dangerous ground. Lennon said many ticket scalpers were criminals, and told of a case where 45,000 tickets had been forged on one railroad and sold by scalpers. The resolution was adopted by an overwhelming viva voce vote.

PASSENGER ASSOCIATION MEETS.

The Transcontinental Roads Want to Get Together on Military Rates.

St. Louis, Dec. 10.—The first session of the meeting of the Transcontinental Passenger association which will probably take up the next three or four days, began with representatives of most of the roads present. Chairman Carleton submitted a long docket of subjects to be considered and acted on.

General passenger agents of western roads have been much disturbed by the decision of the Southern Pacific to withdraw from the military agreement and interpret it as indicating a combination or alliance with the Santa Fe to control all Pacific coast passenger business.

In announcing its intention to be not longer a party to the military agreement, the Southern Pacific stated its action was not dictated by and desire to cause a disturbance in the rates of the military business, but by conditions having changed since the agreement was made.

The object is to bring about at this meeting a reconsideration of the entire situation and the adoption of methods to meet present requirements.

It Points Out the Injustice Done New Mexico by the Last Census.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The annual report of Governor Otero of New Mexico, renews the plea for statehood and says the federal census returns of 1900 do the territory great injustice. He says the population of the territory, based on careful estimates, should be at this time 313,191, including Indians; also takes exception to the census statistics for mining, stock raising, agriculture, horticulture, timber, coal and iron industries, and attributes the alleged discrepancy in figures to the inadequacy of the present system to the sparsely settled mountain sections of the country.

MILITARY POST CONTROVERSY.
Letter from Ex-Governor Prince on the Question at Issue.

The following appeared in Fridays issue of the Albuquerque Citizen:

As the Democrat has published letters from Mr. Cromwell and Mr. Ferguson, in which Ex-Governor Prince and Mrs. Prince are severely criticized, The Citizen publishes the following letter regarding the contest in Washington:

"Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—My Dear Mr. Hughes: I don't know that you care for anything from here, but I feel like writing a line on account of Ferguson's extreme attitude. I got here Thanksgiving noon. The army board has not met since. I learned from Baird that they do not wish to hear arguments, but a very brief statement, perhaps accompanied by a written brief setting forth facts. Rodey and Ferguson had been before the board very soon after it organized.

"I saw Rodey and we had a talk, much in the line with what you and I said in Albuquerque, I. e.: If there came a contest between an Arizona placard and one point in New Mexico (other New Mexico places being without chance) we should all unite for the New Mexico place. That seems fair and sensible. But Ferguson opposed this plan, having come from New York or Philadelphia, and is very belligerent in his language; he denounced Santa Fe territory; insisted that our people only started action to injure Albuquerque, etc. Really, I was amazed at such stuff, and tried to pacify him; but he became more violent and threatened terrible things about the capital when the territory became a state.

"I am preparing a brief as to Santa Fe, to file with the board, and I am absolutely certain that it will not contain one word unfavorable to Albuquerque or any other place, but simply be a plain statement as to climate, facilities, etc. I want you to understand this, for if I continue in his present frame of mind there is no telling what he may say. I had no idea he went off on such tangents.

Yours,
L. B. PRINCE."

I bought a bottle and took pleasure in stating that two doses cured me and enabled me to have a good time at the party." Mr. Snell is a resident of Summer Hill, N. Y. ## IPORMATION WANTED.

The manufacturers of Banner Salve have always believed that no doctor or medicine can cure in every case, but never having heard where Banner Salve failed to cure ulcers, sores, tetters, eczema, or piles, as a matter of curiosity would like to know if there are such cases. ## BUBBLES ON THE STREAM.

See the bubbles as they float on the stream. They are men!
You are there and moving swiftly on your way.

I behold you pass, and then find myself a peaceful eddy, and I stay there and dream.
See the little bubbles bursting as they start.
See the bubbles that have troubles as they go.

Each is some one's counterpart. Each is doomed to weal or woe. Some are carried with the current, some are dashed.

To destruction on the shores; some are dashed by the water, which is Fate. And the bubble that is great Oft is whirled around forever in some dark, secluded pool.

While there's many a little fool Or a bubble that goes floating smoothly past.

Ah, the bubbles are but men—some are carried, some are dashed.
Pierced out against obstructions and are lost.

Some are cast in the stream where all is clear. And at last, Whether justly or unjustly, it has got Far away from where it started forth or not.

Each frail bubble has to burst and disappear—Where they sparkle now and gleam Others shall appear again.
The bubbles come and go upon the stream. They are men.

The Way the Stories End

By J. A. FLYNN

"WELL," I asked, as she laid down the gay-colored magazine, "I was sorry for the ending of the tale, when the gray eyes ceased to flash and the kind lips to quiver."

"It is a pretty story, Mr. Norton," she said. "O, no, you needn't shake your head. I'm not saying so just because it's yours. I cannot imagine how you could write it."

"Pen and ink, whisky and soda, tailor's bill as a stimulant!" "Please don't make fun. I want to be serious." When she looks at me in her earnest way I am helpless.

"Does that mean criticism?" I inquired, leaning a little towards her. "Criticism and inquiry—if I may?"

"Inquiry by all means. I'm rather afraid of your criticism, do you know?" She is very bright, and her remarks often help me, as a matter of fact.

She opened and shut the magazine absently.

"What I was wondering," she said, "was why you wrote so seriously, and talked so frivolously; whether one mood was the real you, and the other a sham you; and which was which!"

"I think," I protested, "I would rather have the criticism, if you don't mind."

She laughed softly. I like her laugh. "It is rather an obtrusive question. But I should very much like to know. You do mean this?" she touched the book—"a little, don't you?"

"Yes—yes," I said, "I suppose I do. I did when I wrote it, anyhow."

"And afterwards?" "I keep my seriousness for serious occasions."

"Which is a rebuke for my inquisitiveness, I suppose?" She flushed a little. She is rather pale generally. Some people wouldn't call her good-looking. I do.

"I didn't mean it to be," I apologized. "I ought to be flattered at your interest."

"In your tales," she corrected. "In my tales, of course. I suppose the real answer is, that I do not carry my heart upon my sleeve."

"But you have one, all the same?" A touch of wistfulness makes her voice perfect.

"Try!" I caught her eyes for a moment and stopped. I had made up my mind to keep heart-whole before I met her.

"Now for the criticism," she continued, hastily.

"Or as large an installment as I can stand."

"The criticism must not be misunderstood. You will remember, please, that I like the tale—like it very much, in fact," I bowed.

"The criticism is—?" "That it is a repetition of your other tales," I gasped.

"Why, I thought it was quite different!" She shook her head. "Fresh characters, fresh scenery, new plot, original phrases—"

"The machinery is different, but the story is really the same."

"In what way? In being about a man and a woman?"

"Yes," I laughed.

"If you can invent a third kind of person," I said, "I'll utilize it with pleasure. At present I haven't made the discovery."

"Don't be absurd. What I mean is that your men and women always do the same thing."

"Fall in love."

"Exactly."

"There are lots of ways of doing it," I suggested.

"At the present rate you will soon exhaust them. Whatever will you do then?"

I lit a cigarette with her permission to aid reflection.

"I'm hanged if I know. I've often wondered myself. Make them fall out of love, I suppose."

"And when you've exhausted that?" "Make them fall in again!" She stamped her foot impatiently.

"Do you absolutely refuse to be original? I cannot think you do yourself justice in keeping to such a hackneyed theme—though I admit you do it very nicely."

"I might do it better if I had more practical experience," I suggested. There is something about her big eyes.

and the little droop at the corners of her mouth which makes a fellow say that sort of thing, you know.

"Now, remember our compact," she warned me. We were pledged to a purely platonic friendship. I've had that sort of thing in my tales, but it always broke down.

"The keeping of a platonic compact," said I, "would be a novel theme, don't you think?"

"Would it be interesting enough?" she asked, doubtfully.

"There! What stronger defense could I have? I propose to leave out the love-making, and you say that the interest would be gone." She drummed upon the table with her fingers.

"Surely there is some other theme?" I knocked the ash deliberately off my cigarette.

"Upon my word," I confessed, "I'm not sure that there is. But I'll think over it."

Then her brothers came in and we changed the subject until I was going. It is part of the compact that she shall see me out of the door. I insisted upon it.

"When shall I communicate the result of my deliberations?" I asked in the hall. "To-morrow?"

"I'm going to Verreker."

"And Wednesday, I'm due at a smoker. Thursday?"

"If you like."

"Thursday, then. Good night, Mary."

It is in the compact that I am not to call her Mary, but I do. Sometimes she objects, sometimes she doesn't. On this occasion she only tossed her head and half turned away from me. She is aware that she looks well in profile. I suddenly bent over her, and—

"How dare you!" she cried, hotly. "I couldn't help it, Mary; you looked so tempting. But she ran upstairs, with her face scarlet."

"I shall not be in on Thursday," she called, as she turned the corner, "or any other day."

So I went out, feeling triumphantly foolish.

Next Thursday I called, and she wasn't out; but she received me coolly, and kept the table between us.

"Look here, Mary," I began. "Miss Montague, if you please!"

"I don't please. It is quite natural to call a friend by her Christian name."

"Yes—yes; but people might misunderstand, we agreed; and so—"

"I'm not going to pander to other people's stupidity," I said, indignantly; "and I don't consider that friendship should have to be weighed and measured in exact words. I had prepared this remark beforehand."

"No—no, perhaps not." I knew it would occur. "Still, there are bounds to friendship." She shut her little mouth decisively.

"If you mean last Tuesday—"

"I don't want to talk about it," she interrupted. "Have you considered about the stories?"

"Yes; I have reasoned out my position most carefully—Mary."

She frowned, but passed the familiarity. "And your conclusions?"

"Is in verse."

"Oh how nice!" Women always like a fellow to run to verse. I suppose it is because he is sure to give himself away! "Let me see it."

"On condition that you read it aloud." She looked objections. "I want to hear if I have got the swing."

So she declaimed softly. I think I said that she had a pretty voice.

TO MARY.

I made me a tale of the tempest at sea, Full of thunder and of lightning above. And the terrors that be when the storm-winds are free—

But the end of the story was love! I sang me a song of a maid in the glen, With a lit of the piper who played, Strike again, strike again, and die fighting like men!

And the struggle was over a maid! I planned me a play of a monarch of fame, And his courtiers in silken attire, And his statesmen, who came like a moth to the flame—

For a pair of bright eyes were the first! I passed the praise of an hero so calm, And no strong in the tumult to stand, When I found me the charm that had strengthened his arm—

It was only the touch of a hand! And if I for my heart for a moment be strong, If my tale for a page ring sincere, And I let it belong to the play or the song— They are only your echoes, my dear!

When she came to the last line her voice was very soft, and just a little tearful. I put my hand on her shoulder, and we stood looking silently at the paper for a minute. Then I drew her gently to me—the way the stories end!—Black and White.

Readings of Plays Offered.

The reading committee of the Playgoers' club, of London, which has undertaken to supply George Alexander with a play by an author whose stories have heretofore not been staged, up to date, has read over 300 plays.

Mr. Alexander's offer to produce such a play by an unknown author was in the nature of a challenge whereby he wished to disprove the charge that managers neglected the works of unknown playwrights. The committee still has more than 100 manuscripts which have not been read.

The secretary of the committee says that so far six plays have been selected. Two of these were by well-known writers who had not written a play before. The other four were by unknown writers. Three out of the six authors were women.

What More Noble Object?

"The only objection," said the stern parent, "I have against the young man, my dear child, is that he has no noble ambition—no high or worthy object in life."

"Why, papa, how can you say that? He wants me!"—Stray Stories.

Reader Said Than Done.

The French have discovered that they can invade England with ease, but it is frogs' legs to beefsteaks, says the Chicago Tribune, that they won't do it.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils and other eruptions follow. The poisons method, of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove, DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition. They stimulate the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. Safe pills. Ireland's Pharmacy.

The Weak Spot.

If you are sitting in a restaurant where waitresses are in attendance, you will note now and again some young woman put her hand to her back, and straighten herself up, while her lips are tightened as if by pain. It's backache. Yet all day long she must be on her feet, lifting, carrying, hurrying.

That weak spot, the back, can be made strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the womanly diseases which cause headache, backache, sideache, nervousness and sleeplessness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, and is a wholly free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

I wrote you for advice February 4th.

"I was racking with pain from the back of my head down to my heels. Had hemorrhage for weeks at a time, and was unable to get up for ten minutes at a time. You answered my letter, advised me to use your valuable medicine, viz. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' also gave advice about injections, baths and diet. To my surprise, in four months from the time I began your treatment I was a well woman, and have not had the backache since, and now I put in sixteen hours a day at hard work."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Old Lady—Oh, I always get so nervous on a railroad. Don't you think we're going at an awful rate?

Mr. Illuck—Yes, but you needn't worry, mum; there won't be any accident.

How do you know there won't?

Cause I've got an accident insurance ticket.

A GOOD COUGH MEDICINE.

From Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia.

I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. Wockner. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited, as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold by all druggists.

A NEW REMEDY.

The old friends of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will be pleased to know that the manufacturers of that preparation have gotten out a new remedy called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and that it is meeting with much success in the treatment of constipation, biliousness, sick headache, impaired digestion and like disorders. These tablets are easier to take and more pleasant in effect than pills, they not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and correct any disorders of the stomach and liver. For sale by all druggists.

Excuse me, said Mr. Pompos, but I can't recall you. My memory, perhaps, is at fault.

AN EVANGELIST'S STORY.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies but I could not obtain permanent relief until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist of Belle River, Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from malady of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure affords immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kinds of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. Ireland's Pharmacy.

FOR MCKINLEY MEMORIAL.

The School Children of the County Are Asked to Contribute Toward It.

Superintendent John V. Conway has sent the following circular to all the school directors and school teachers in Santa Fe county:

Dear Sir: The superintendent of public instruction of the territory has informed me that the McKinley Memorial Auxiliary Committee of New Mexico has called upon him to request the different superintendents of public schools in the several counties of the territory to inform the school directors and teachers in their counties that the said committee is very desirous of obtaining subscriptions of five cents each from the school children of the territory to the fund of the said committee, in order to show the esteem and affection of our people for the martyred president.

I am very anxious that this county should make a creditable showing in this matter and therefore urge the city boards of education, the school directors and teachers of city and district schools to inform the children at the several schools accordingly and to explain this matter to them fully and after full explanation on the 29th day of December, 1901, to take up such subscriptions from all the children attending the city and district schools and to report amounts so collected forthwith to this office and to turn subscriptions so collected over to me as promptly as possible that I may turn them over to the superintendent of public instruction, who in turn will remit them to the McKinley Auxiliary Committee of New Mexico.

Your kind attention and prompt action in this matter is respectfully and urgently requested. Very truly yours,
J. V. CONWAY,
Superintendent of Schools, Santa Fe County.
