FATAL FLOODS!

Many Persons Reported Drowned.

Coal Fields and Railroads Badly Damaged.

West Virginia Coal Miners in an Angry Mood.

CLASH EXPECTED WEDNESDAY.

Bluefield, W. Va., June 24.—A series of electric storms and cloudbursts, with tremendous downpours of rain, caused a flood Sunday, which swept over 100 miles of the bituminous coal fields west and south of here. It is estimated 200 persons were drowned. It is estimated $2,000,000 worth of property was destroyed.

VOLUMES OF WATER.
Roanoke, Va., June 24.—When the train from the west over the Norfolk & Western railroad arrived this morning there were many people at the station who waited anxiously all night for the belated news carrier from the devastated coal fields of West Virginia. Among the passengers who had been in the storm were prominent business men of Roanoke, several railroad men and a woman and two children. They came direct to Roanoke from a visit and were compelled to walk eleven miles from that place to Enis, where they were enabled to get a train for this city. These passengers feel confident not more than a hundred people lost their lives. The mountain district lying back from the railroad probably suffered heavily. A railroad man who has been working at Vivian said the rain started Friday night, and shortly after midnight the heavens seemed to open and poured forth great volumes of water. When the clouds burst over Vivian there was a passenger train standing in the railroad yards. About forty passengers, of whom three were women, were in the car. The water rose rapidly and soon was over the trucks of the cars. The passengers were thrown to the ground, and the male passengers caught them and waded through the water waist deep to places of safety. The ladies were placed in the cars and were where they were safe. Other portions of the railroad yards were washed out and hundreds of box cars wrecked.

DEATH LIST.
Huntington, W. Va., June 24.—Governor White is here making arrangements to get the bodies of the flood-stricken district along the Norfolk & Western railroad. Says he fears the death list will exceed a thousand.

TOWNS WASHED AWAY.
Richmond, Va., June 24.—Conflicting reports received here place the loss of life in the Flat Top region from 200 to 300. It is pretty certain Keystone has been virtually washed out, but the loss of life there probably is overestimated. The tracks of the Norfolk & Western and Chesapeake & Ohio, near Keystone, are heavily damaged and trains are tied up. There has been tremendous flooding at Charleston, W. Va. Several children were drowned near Tazewell.

DAMAGE TO COAL FIELDS.
Roanoke, Va., June 24.—Norfolk & Western officials here say that owing to wires being down they are unable to estimate the damage caused by the flood in the coal fields. They do not believe the damage to property will amount to $5,000,000, first report. Estimates that 200 lives lost are now thought to be too great.

STORM DAMAGES.
Montgomery, W. Va., June 24.—It is estimated the storm and washouts Sunday did $75,000 damage to property in this vicinity. Coal tunnels were partly demolished but no lives are known to have been lost.

TRACK WASHED AWAY.
Columbus, Ohio, June 24.—The Norfolk & Western will accept passengers for no points south of Williamsport and information of local officials that twenty-five miles of track beyond that point are gone.

DAMAGE GREAT.
New York, June 24.—Mayor Land of Bluefield, W. Va., wires as follows: "It is estimated 200 lives were lost in the Elkhorn flood. Damage to the

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS.

Columbus, Ohio, June 24.—Republican state convention convenes here at 4 p. m. today to nominate a state ticket and organize for the election of state officers and members of the legislature, which will select a successor of Senator J. B. Foraker. Foraker, Hanna, Ohio republican congressman, members of former legislatures and other leading republicans arrived yesterday and were in conference during the night. Indications are that the old ticket headed by Governor Nash, will be re-nominated with the exceptions of Governor Nash, who has been an attorney of brewers in certain suits. The control of the legislature is of unusual importance this year, as the next general assembly appoints the state under the census of 1900 for legislative representation as well as other purposes and that apportionment cannot be changed until after the census of 1910.

The convention was called to order shortly after 4 o'clock by Peter W. Durr, chairman of the republican state central committee, who introduced Senator Foraker as temporary chairman. Ovation had been given Foraker, Hanna, Fish, Rushnell, and other leaders as they entered the hall, but Foraker was greeted with greater demonstration than ever before. He began speech. After appointment of committees it was announced they would meet tonight and have reports ready at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

INSURGENTS SURRENDER.
Gen. Callies, Staff and Men Lay Down Their Arms.
Santa Cruz, Province of Laguna, Luzon, June 24.—General Callies surrendered here today with 650 men and 500 rifles. Colonel Callies, who fled to the mountains with a portion of his command, likewise surrendered. Callies' force entered Santa Cruz to the music of native bands drawn up in the church yard. Callies and staff entered the church where war was conducted by Chaplain Hart, Eighth United States Infantry. The column passed in review before the United States army headquarters with arms at port, returned to enclosure where they surrendered their rifles and received receipts entitling to thirty pesos each. Callies' staff, his arms were not being sold, but belonged to the revolutionary government and the proceeds must go to widows and orphans. During the surrender of arms Callies and staff, who were called out of the enclosure, went. Callies tendered his sword to General Sumner, who gallantly handed it back. Sumner congratulated Callies on the surrender. The latter responded it was a happy day for Laguna province. Officers the men took the oath of allegiance publicly on the plaza. Frank Meekin, a deserter of the Thirty-seventh infantry, who had been acting as a lieutenant with the insurgents under Callies, and who surrendered today, was placed in irons.

A Fatal Fall.
New Haven, Conn., June 24.—Adelbert Stone May, former consul of the United States at Pretoria, South Africa, fell from the window of the third story of the New Haven house at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning and was instantly killed. He was 22 years old and a graduate of Yale.

FATHER LIL.
New Haven, Conn., June 24.—The condition of Secretary May, who suffered a collapse last evening, improved after arriving at the residence of Seth H. Moseley, where the body of his son Adelbert S. May now rests, was reported considerably improved this morning.

CAUSE OF BLAZE UNKNOWN.

Special to The Citizen.
Las Cruces, N. M., June 24.—Accompanying the Knights of Labor picnic party from El Paso yesterday were a lot of tough characters of both sexes who spent the afternoon drinking. A number of them were ordered away from the dancing pavilion and went to the cars, which they entered through the windows, the cars being locked. There a row started over one of the women and Perry Greer, proprietor of the Dewey saloon, of El Paso, pulled a gun on Bob Cartwell, an El Paso bartender. Another bartender interfered and gave the first chance to get away through a window. Cartwell soon returned with Deputy Sheriff Lucero and Burch, who, finding the doors locked, also entered through a window. The car was a double coach and the officers after entering opened the partition door and the man who made the "gun play" was pointed out to them. He was asked to surrender and replied by firing two shots in rapid succession at the officers, the first shot striking the mustache of Officer Bruce. The officers returned the fire and Greer fell with a bullet through his head, killing him instantly. All the occupants of the car were arrested and held as witnesses until evening, when a coroner's inquest was held. Four men and four women, all of El Paso, practically told the same story and the jury unanimously justified the actions of the officers.

Hilario Ran, of the excursionists from El Paso, while under the influence of liquor, rode at full speed down a street and ran over an aged Mexican woman, Nestores Miljares de Alderte. She died this morning from the injuries received. Preliminary hearing this evening.

The little son of Albert Fountain, of Mesilla, while trying to kill a rabbit, accidentally shot himself through the foot yesterday afternoon.

NEW UNIFORM FOR TOMMY.

British Soldiers Will Soon Be Provided with Fawn-Colored Sergeants.

It is probable that in a very brief period there will be considerable changes made in the material used for clothing the army on home as well as on foreign service, says the London Telegraph.

The committee dealing with the subject, which has been in session for about a couple of years, has at length been able to come to a final decision. Probably the events in South Africa have helped the members to make up their minds. At all events they have chosen an excellent woolen serge-like material in place of the flannel practically the whole work of the troops will be performed. It is not khaki-colored, though that is well known and serviceable, but is somewhat closely apportioned to the soldier's needs. It will be made from exactly the same material as the jacket, but of one somewhat rougher and thicker in texture. The new material is of excellent quality. It was selected from a great number of samples submitted to the committee and has been approved by the war office. Two other materials of the same tint, but of rather stronger texture, have been selected for the most important regiments, and a stout Bedford cord of the same color will be used for riding breeches. No regulation dealing with the new clothing has yet been issued, but one may be expected shortly, and from thenceforward uniforms made of the new cloth will supersede the serge and dark cloth trousers now worn for drill and field work, both at home and abroad. The same pattern of jacket will be used for all branches of the service, but each unit will wear a distinguishing badge on the cap and shoulder strap.

It is not, however, intended that the new clothing shall entirely supersede the old style of dress. The tunic to be worn for full dress, so that on full-dress parades the familiar blue and scarlet and black will still greet the eye. Of course, it will be a considerable time yet before the uniform will be ready, but it is probable that the spring and summer uniforms of the troops will include the new suit. It will be more handsome than khaki, while it will be far more comfortable and serviceable, and so far as experiments go to show it will possess equal invisibility. It is to be hoped that a suitable headgear may soon be devised for the army. The helmets worn by the regular troops in South Africa are excellent and have been used with a good deal of success. The new helmets will be made of a material which is hardy, suitable for home wear. A peaked cap of the new cloth, picked out with scarlet lines and made somewhat approaching the Russian pattern, would look very smart and be suitable for general wear. The new uniform, along with the blue and scarlet serge now about to be superseded by the new uniform.

YOUNG KRUGER IS A HERO.

Grandson of the Boer President Saved a Starving Sheep.

An English clergyman has had the extreme hardship of relating an anecdote in a Dublin paper that reflects great credit upon a young relative, a grandson of England's arch enemy, Paul Kruger. He was staying at Glandonah with two friends and while boating on the upper lake, under Chandler's mountain, noticed a sheep pitifully bleating on a ledge about 100 feet up the sheer cliff. The animal had been there for days and was in a state of semi-starvation. The peasants about had refused to shoot it and thus end its misery. Young Kruger, however, essayed its rescue. He tied a piece of tarred twine round the sole of his boots and climbed up the face of the precipice, much to the anxiety of his friends. The operation took him quite two hours, during which the slightest unsteadiness or wavering would have cost him his life. Halfway up he shouted down that he could not move further. With a final effort, however, he gradually worked his way up, reached the animal and led it down, cautiously until he regained the boat. His intrepid act excited intense admiration among the spectators. His task seemed utterly impossible and in any case was attended with a terrible danger. Young Kruger was a student at a medical school at Edinburgh university and on the declaration of war sailed for South Africa.

You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active, energetic man with a torpid liver, and you may know that his liver is torpid when he does not relish his food or feels dull and languid after eating, often has headache and sometimes dizziness. A few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will restore his liver to normal functions, renew his vitality, improve his digestion and make him feel like a new man. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at drug stores.

A Terrible Explosion

"Of a machine stove burned a lady here frightfully," writes N. E. Palmer of Kirkman, Iowa. "The best doctors could not heal the running sore that for weeks had been eating at her leg. I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Salve and entirely cured her. It healed her cuts, corns, sores, boils, bruises, skin diseases and piles. 25c at J. H. O'Reilly & Co."

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

An Educated Wallapai Indian Does a "Civilized" Deed.

Last Monday at noon a report was brought to Kingman from the Indian camp west of town that Wallapai Indian Tom McCormick had murdered his squaw and then committed suicide, says the Kingman Miner. The sheriff and coroner visited the camp and found that one of the most horrible crimes in the history of the county had been committed. The squaw had been crushed to a pulp with a rock and her body was partly consumed by fire. The Indian had evidently killed the squaw, poured cold water over the body and then set it on fire. After destroying all camp utensils he had loaded up a double-barrel shot gun, sat down by the dead wife, and after removing his right shoe, placed the muzzle of the gun to his forehead and pulled the trigger with his toe. The charge tore off the whole top of his head. His clothing caught fire from the burning body of his wife and the flesh on his lower limbs was partly burned. The gun lay upon the body, where it had fallen after accomplishing its deadly work. The stock being broken off by the recoil against the solid ground. The sight was one of the most horrible that can be imagined and the smell of the burning flesh was too much for some of those who went to the camp to stand.

[Note.—It is learned by The Citizen representative that McCormick was educated at the Carlisle and Albuquerque Indian schools, and when he returned to the Wallapai reservation, he became thoroughly "civilized" by
