FUSION IN NEBRASKA

This Forenoon the Populist and the Democratic Conventions at Grand Island Were Still in Deadlock.

COLONEL BRYAN DECLINES

He Was Offered the Nomination for Governor But Said He Could Not Accept the Honor—The Democrats Nominated W. H. Thompson and the Populists General P. H. Barry.

Grand Island, Neb., June 25.—At 7 o'clock this morning the fusion conventions adjourned for breakfast without having secured a nomination for governor. Each of the conventions had selected a nominee for governor during the night, the Populists naming M. F. Harrington, of Holt county, and the Democrats selected C. J. Smyth, of Omaha. Both the conventions began to ballot for these names and entered into a deadlock, which lasted until 5 o'clock this morning. At that hour, Wm. J. Bryan was nominated by the Populists by acclamation, and the Democratic convention was notified of it. Smyth offered to withdraw and Harrington announced his withdrawal. Bryan thanked the convention for the honor, but said he could not accept the nomination for reasons already familiar to the public. He made a plea for harmony and fusion. After discussing the mode of procedure a new ballot was ordered. Five out of the six counties called cast their vote for Harrington, the Populist choice, when Harrington withdrew, and asked the convention to nominate W. H. Thompson. The suggestion was acted upon with unanimous consent and Thompson was borne to the platform on the shoulders of the delegates. The Democratic convention then adjourned for breakfast.

This action was made known to the Populist convention which then took the seventh ballot, Thompson leading with 24 votes. A recess until 9 o'clock was then taken. The Populists reconvened at 9 o'clock and the first ballot taken resulted in the nomination of General P. H. Barry. The Democratic convention was notified of this action and the two bodies were soon in a deadlock, balloting for Thompson and Barry.

FUSION ACCOMPLISHED.

Grand Island, Neb., June 25.—Fusion was accomplished by the Democratic and Populist state conventions today, when both bodies unanimously nominated W. H. Thompson for governor. The nomination of Thompson by the Populists came on the tenth ballot, when he received two-thirds of the votes cast. Ex-Governor Pointer moved to make the nomination unanimous and the motion prevailed. Thompson already had been nominated by the Democrats and the action of the Populist convention completed the nomination. A conference committee at once got to work on the rest of the ticket. The Populists were given their first choice of the remainder of the candidates.

W. H. THOMPSON THE NOMINEE.
Grand Island, Neb., June 25.—At 11 o'clock both conventions nominated W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, for governor.

For superintendent of public instruction, Claude Smith, Populist; treasurer, Dr. J. P. Lyman, Populist. For auditor of public accounts, Charles Q. DeFrance, Populist, of Lincoln.

Little has been said about the platform, but it is known that a feature will be the planks against corporations and against the present state administration. On the national issues, Cuba and the Philippines and the trusts will receive attention, but the question of indorsing the Kansas City platform is not being discussed.

THE NOMINEES.

Grand Island, Neb., June 25.—Lieutenant governor, E. A. Gilbert, Populist of York. Secretary of state, J. H. Powers, Populist, of Hitchcock. Attorney general, J. H. Broody, Democrat, of Lincoln. Commissioner of public lands and buildings, James C. Brennan, Democrat, of Omaha.

FOREST FIRES IN COLORADO.

The town of Durango is surrounded and is threatened with destruction. Salda, Colo., June 25.—The forest fires entirely surround the town of Garfield today, threatening to destroy the place. The fires were checked yesterday, but started again last night, and are being carried toward the town by the wind. It is believed that incendiaries were at work during the night.

MINING CAMP IN FLAMES.

Salt Lake, Utah, June 25.—A telephone message from Mercur, the second largest mining camp in the state, says that eighty per cent of the town was destroyed by fire.

BRECKENRIDGE ALSO THREATENED.

Breckenridge, Colo., June 25.—The forest fires nearly surround Breckenridge, the nearest distant being one mile. Eight fires are visible and cinders are falling at the edge of town.

TWO SHIPS MISSING.

Port Townsend, Wn., June 25.—The steamship Ohio reached port this morning from Cape Nome, Alaska. The Ohio reports no trace of the steamer Portland which was blown into Bering Sea among the icebergs. The steamer schooner Jennie, which sailed for Nome early in the season, has not been heard from and it is feared she is lost.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AT BOSTON

He Went to Attend the Commencement Exercises of His Alma Mater, Harvard University, and Will Have a Degree Conferred Upon Him.

HE WILL ALSO ATTEND A BANQUET
OF THE SPANISH WAR VETERANS

Boston, Mass., June 25.—President Roosevelt, who comes to Boston to attend the commencement exercises of his alma mater at Harvard University arrived here this morning. The president has a varied program before him, including the attendance at the Harvard commencement, where a degree will be conferred on him, his appearance as a guest at the Harvard alumni dinner, a banquet of the Spanish war veterans at the Algonquin club early in the evening and the banquet of the international association of press clubs later.

Upon arriving at Cambridge the president was conducted to the Sanders theatre, where the commencement exercises were held. The honorary degree of L. L. D. was conferred upon President Roosevelt and also upon Secretary of State John Hay.

MISSOURI REPUBLICANS.

They Adopted the Right Kind of Platform and Entitled Over It.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 25.—When the Republican state convention was called to order at 9:30 this morning for the second day's session, the delegates looked worn out after last night's session. The credentials committee succeeded by daylight in reaching an agreement and presented a report which was adopted after a stormy session of half an hour.

The reading of the platform, containing an unequivocal indorsement for Roosevelt for president in 1904, was greeted with wild applause, the delegates shouting the cheers and cheering enthusiastically. Hats and handkerchiefs were tossed into the air and for about five minutes the ovation was overwhelming. At the urgent request of many delegates the paragraph approving of Roosevelt and the administration was read.

The platform was adopted. It unreservedly endorses the administration, and President Roosevelt and declares him an ideal and logical candidate for president in 1904. J. U. White of Brookfield, was nominated as state superintendent of public instruction.

TROUBLE IN HAYTI.

Several Men Were Killed in a Riot at Cape Haytien—A Reign of Terror Prevails.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 25.—Mail advices from Hayti say that the situation has become more serious in that republic. Party feeling is extremely high. The adherents of the presidential candidates are guarding the latter's houses nightly. Several men were killed in a riot at Cape Haytien, a few days ago. The provisional government of Hayti is incapable of coping with the situation and an extensive outbreak is imminent.

General Fouchard and Pierre reported that joining hands was the only hope of defeating M. Firmin, whose position is strong.

THE STATEHOOD
MEASURE

It Was Made Unfinished Business for the Tenth Day of the Short Session of Congress.

QUAY WITHDRAWS MOTION

The Democrats Have Agreed to This Arrangement—They Practically Assure Statehood to New Mexico by the Next Fourth of July—Paul A. F. Walter Appointed Postmaster at Santa Fe.

A dispatch to the Denver Rocky Mountain News gives the following account of the fight in the senate that was made for statehood on Monday:

A motion was entered formally in the senate on Monday by Quay, of Pennsylvania, to discharge the committee on territories to further consideration of what is known as the omnibus territorial bill—a measure to admit as territories the territories of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. Mr. Quay spoke briefly, but forcibly, in support of his motion, maintaining that both political parties in national conventions had pledged themselves to the admission to statehood of the territories. Mr. Beveridge, of Indiana, chairman of the committee, said the measure had been put over until next session by the committee because it was not believed there would be time now to consider it properly. No action was taken on the motion.

Senator Quay, a patient listener to the dry debate over the ratification of the agreement between the United States and the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian nations, which went on all this afternoon. He listened patiently in the hopes of being on hand at its finish and rise to resume his fight for the statehood measure for Arizona, Oklahoma and New Mexico, from which he was compelled to desert at 2 o'clock, when the Indian bill took right of way. The measure was disposed of yesterday. It is very evident that Senator Quay will be on hand on Wednesday to resume his statehood discussion.

Delegate Rodey said that statehood for the three territories will be pushed to the end of this session. The necessary votes are on hand, and the slightest kind of an effort will be made to put it into the senate. He says two important conversions have been recently made among the senators.

It is now believed that Senator Quay's intention on Thursday last that he might withdraw his motion to take the bill away from the territories committee, was a ruse to ascertain the genuineness of the support promised him by the Democrats. When Senator Bailey promptly asserted that the Democratic members of the committee would push the motion if Senator Quay didn't, the latter saw at once that his motion was going to receive support, and went ahead with it.

Delegate Rodey of New Mexico who has been working energetically with Quay, said: "If the motion had come to a vote, it would have carried by two-thirds of the senate. He says two important conversions have been recently made among the senators."

Receiver Asked For.

Beaumont, Texas, June 25.—A petition was filed in the Jefferson county district court today asking that a receiver be appointed for all the oil companies having wells or owning property in the Pelham-Humphreys survey. Fetally Injured at Albuquerque.

Isaac Rucker, a porter on the Santa Fe, residing at Albuquerque, was fatally injured at the stock yards in that city. Owing to a blinding sand storm, the engineer of a shifting freight train did not see the passenger train pulling out of the depot and smashed into the vestibule of a chair car, in which Rucker was standing. He was caught in the debris and had his skull fractured. He was taken to the Santa Fe Pacific hospital but is not expected to live.

Gold in the Black Hills.

The Burlington Route has recently issued a 48 page booklet bearing the title "Mining and the Black Hills." The book is one which should be read by every mining man in Colorado. It gives more information about the mines of the Black Hills than has ever before been placed between two covers. A copy will be mailed free on application to the undersigned.

The Black Hills need Colorado men and money. Several of the shrewdest men in this state have already invested heavily in the hills. The results so far have been more than satisfactory. The completion of the Burlington's new line to the Northwest brings the Black Hills within a night's ride of Denver. You can leave Denver tonight and be in Deadwood or Lead City tomorrow afternoon.

THE BRONCHO.

Something Entirely New in College Publication in New Mexico.

The New Mexican is in receipt of "The Broncho" an annual published by the Cadets of the New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell. This is volume 1, and is the first college publication of that kind ever issued in New Mexico.

It contains eighty pages neatly printed on coated paper and profusely illustrated with half tone cuts from photographs and line engravings from original drawings of the three artists on the editorial staff. J. Ross Thomas, Earl Patterson and R. C. McAllister. The contents give a glimpse of life at the New Mexico Military Institute from the cadet's point of view and abound in witty anecdotes and concise anecdotes as well as the class histories of the 1901-1902.

The volume is dedicated to Captain Joseph C. Lea, the Father of the Institution who originated the idea of a military school in Roswell. The volume is certainly a credit to the school and its editorial staff consisting of George W. Rees, Jr., editor-in-chief, R. C. Thomas, assistant editor; E. Patterson, business manager; E. R. Bowie, assistant business manager; F. Brueggeman, B. Totzke, Harry H. Howell, James W. Chaves, Charles E. Kunz and Robert H. Crews, associate editors.

KING EDWARD'S ILLNESS

Special Ambassador Reid is Packing His Trunks and Will Spend the Summer on the Continent.

A DAY OF INTERCESSION

Tomorrow Prayers for the King Will Be Offered in Every Parish Church in Great Britain—Special Courtesy of the British to Ambassador Reid—All Social Engagements Are Cancelled.

London, June 25.—The following bulletin was issued at 2 p. m.: "The king passed a comfortable morning and his condition so far is satisfactory."

ALL ENGAGEMENTS CANCELLED.
London, June 25.—Joseph H. Choate, the United States ambassador, has withdrawn his invitations to a dinner, which he was to give on June 29, and Whitehall Reid, the United States special ambassador, is busy today cancelling all his engagements. The government conveyed to Reid the courteous intimation that the royal carriages would be at the disposal of the Americans as long as they remain in London, but Reid determined to close up the special embassy as quickly as compatible with decorum. He will go to the continent for a short stay and may possibly visit Scotland, returning to America early in autumn. Tomorrow has been officially appointed as the day for intercession for the king and in every parish church in the United Kingdom special intercessory services will be held.

NO SYMPTOMS CAUSING ANXIETY.

London, June 25.—The following was issued at 6:10 p. m.: "His majesty passed a fairly comfortable day; his general strength was well maintained and there are no symptoms causing any special anxiety."

The following statement was made this afternoon to a representative of the Associated Press on the highest medical authority: "Until the tubes now draining the cavity of the abscess have been withdrawn, it will be impossible to feel certain that the king will pull through. What his physicians have now to fear is peritonitis or a hemorrhage may supervene. There must always be this danger in such cases. Again it is a fact that any abscess due to perityphilitis, may have a fatal issue without any warning symptoms. All these indications are often masked until the post mortem, and there are many cases on record where the disease was only discovered after death from some extraneous cause, such as an accident. At any rate, the king's grave illness must invalid him for a long time."

IMPROVING.

London, June 25.—The private secretary to King Edward said at 7:15 p. m.: "His majesty continues to improve and everything is going on satisfactorily."

A PANIC RUMOR DENIED.

London, June 15, 6 p. m.—The reports circulated in New York of King Edward's desperate condition are untrue. Sir Thomas Lipton spent an hour at Buckingham palace this afternoon and the Associated Press has the authority for making the announcement. The king's mind is entirely clear and while Sir Thomas was at the palace he received word that his Majesty's wish is that the arrangements for a dinner to about 500,000 of the poor of London on July 5 should be proceeded with.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 25.

New Mexico Demands Statehood of the 57th Congress.

Of Right and in Justice New Mexico Should Be a State.

The administration's pole still knocks the pessimists.

The S. B. Elkins presidential boom has not yet reached the expansion stage. It is still confined to its original dimensions.

Colonel William Jennings Bryan informs this country "All is not lost." Very glad to know this, colonel, and the people are much obliged to you.

The sensible voters of this territory cannot be fooled by the alleged reform howls of political bores, sneering reformers or tax dodgers. That sort of business is played out in this Sunshine territory.

The debate on the Philippine government bill is helping the Democrats to discover where they are at and it is rather humiliating to them that they are finding themselves in a slough of contradictions rather than on the heights of wisdom and freedom.

Great in war and great in peace is this country. The farms and stock ranches of the South African Boers in the Transvaal and Orange River colonies are to be restocked with American cattle. No matter what you want, you must come to the United States to get it.

The ambitious politicians who attempted to stir up strife and opposition to Senator Hanna in his home city, Cleveland, recently have met with ignominious failure. This was to be expected, the senator carried a bigger shillalah and wielded it with more skill and force than they did.

Like Old John Brown, the statehood movement still goes marching on. No question can be considered settled until it is settled right and the statehood movement, despite the knocks it receives every once in a while, is not settled and will not be settled until it is settled on the lines of justice.

The capital city of New Mexico is afflicted with the presence of some formidable knockers and wretched prevailers. It is a pity it is so, but it is so nevertheless, the only consolation being that other cities and towns are afflicted in the same manner and that it is possible to live down the harm done by such individuals.

The temperature yesterday at Denver, Albuquerque, El Paso and other points dallied playfully very near to the hundreds while at Santa Fe it is still rustling in the eighties and will certainly not pass above the nineties all summer. Santa Fe should be the summer resort of those who delight in a cool, bracing spot during the dog days.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland declares that he is in favor of the Democrats nominating Richard Olney for president and is opposed to the nomination of David Bennett Hill. It is amusing to see the sage of Wolcott's Roost playing at politics again and even the Democrats themselves cannot suppress a smile. As the national campaign of 1904 approaches, more than one voice is being heard from the political graveyard.

The Republican territorial convention for the nomination of a candidate for delegate to the 58th congress, should be held in a town that will do best for the entertainment of delegates. In the presence of the fact that this method was used in making the selection of the convention town. This thing of jumping from pillar to post because someone who is supposed to have political influence when such a convention is held in the town where he lives for his own personal benefit, is wrong and does the Republican party no good.

The people of Des Moines have discovered that the telephone has become necessary to human enjoyment and happiness. Ever since the telephone girls went on a strike there has been lamentations and gnashing of teeth among the businessmen and at the homes where the telephone service had become almost indispensable. It is not often appreciated that the conveniences of modern days help to make life much more agreeable than was life in the good old days of the fathers for the return of which Colonel Bryan and some others so often express a desire. The removal of a modern convenience like the telephone or the electric light or the electric street car or any other of the scores of conveniences which are the growth of the past few decades however bring forcibly to the attention how necessary these things have become to life in modern days.

The postponement of the coronation means bankruptcy to hundreds of British tradesmen and speculators. It was one of the most unlooked for events that has happened in modern history.

The all important thing to the United States is to unite the oceans. If the present congress were to accomplish nothing else but to inaugurate the building of the isthmian canal it will have secured an important place in history.

THE TWO CANALS.

The following is a brief but comprehensive review of the claims made for the rival isthmian canal routes. The engineering difficulties of the Nicaragua route are more within the domain of demonstrated works than those necessary at Panama. The Chagre river at Panama is an admitted danger, and the enormous earth dam to control that river and to furnish water to the canal locks is claimed to have no parallel in engineering and to be of uncertain permanency in resisting the floods in that river. Nicaragua is claimed to be healthier than Panama. The Nicaragua canal while itself longer than that at Panama, saves three days at sea between the American and Pacific ports. The Nicaragua canal is available for sailing ships, whereas that at Panama is in the region of calms, which creates a practical prohibition of sailing ships. Nicaragua must construct artificial harbors. Nicaragua is free from complications with the French Canal Company, and there is no large bonus to pay to that company or to the state.

The Panama route has considerable preliminary work done on it. The canal is much shorter and has fewer locks and assures quicker transit. It has now safe harbors, though the shoal water at Panama will require considerable and costly work to create a practical canal approach. The Panama canal advocates claim that, bonuses included, this canal will cost less to complete than the Nicaragua canal, and will certainly cost less to maintain and can offer cheaper tolls than the Nicaragua route. It is further claimed that the longer sea distance is offset by the shorter canal transit. The Panama canal people have recently set up the danger from volcanoes and seismic disturbances in Nicaragua. It is also said that the Nicaragua route once selected, bonuses will be claimed by the old Nicaragua Maritime Company.

The rivalry between the advocates of the two routes has given a good excuse to the opponents of an isthmian canal to delay action on this important matter. Now, however, that the senate has selected the Panama route, swift action should be had and work be commenced at once. Who knows, but that the United States will find the building of the Panama canal so agreeable and profitable a task that it will after the completion of the Panama canal also decide to build a canal across Nicaragua. That would mean two isthmian canals and many advantages to the shipping not only of this nation but of the world. Rather than have not any canal at all, let the United States have two canals. The nation is rich enough to afford it and the work would give employment to thousands for years and would put large amounts of money in circulation that would materially help to increase the prosperity of the United States.

THE ANTHRACITE COAL STRIKE.

Those who have lived in the anthracite coal regions or who are acquainted with conditions as they exist in that part of Pennsylvania, know that the great coal miners' strike that is on at present, is not for living wages despite the fact that in the circular letter sent out from the Wilkesbarre headquarters of the United Mine Workers, it says: "The mine workers of the anthracite region of Pennsylvania went on strike on May 12, 1902, after months of futile negotiations in an honorable endeavor to reach an amicable settlement with the millionaire coal barons, and only after every possible means of adjustment by conciliation had been exhausted did they resort to suspension of work to secure a living wage and conditions of employment that, as human beings and American citizens, they believe they are entitled to."

This is a false statement. The miners did not go on a strike to secure "a living wage" but for some other purpose, not set forth in the circular. The fact is that in the anthracite regions there have been employed substantially twice the number of miners required to mine all the coal there produced from week to week, an oversupply of labor so great that each miner has worked, on an average, only of half the days in the year, and only from three to six hours a day.

The oversupply of labor in the anthracite region is due to the great attractiveness of the wages and the conditions of work. It can be due to no other cause, that is a universal, natural law. Men do not flock in excessive numbers to places where wages are low, the work hard, and the conditions of employment oppressive. In New Mexico, where wages are not at all low, nor the work excessively hard, or conditions oppressive, it is almost impossible to secure sufficient miners for the coal mines in operation. In the east however, the moment it becomes known that at a given place or in a given employment, wages are high, a glut of labor is one of the results.

This is what has happened in the anthracite region. Foreign and native miners have gone there and found employment in such numbers that there is not work enough to keep them busy more than one half of the time. Yet they must earn a living wage, because they stay there. They would have to migrate if they could not make a living.

The operators for purposes of their own, may have encouraged the coming of a double supply of miners. It is a bad and false condition, a strike breeding condition, that should be terminated as soon as possible after the resumption of anthracite mining. But it effectively exposes the falsity of the pretense that this strike is for living wages. The miners probably have a just cause for a strike and there is no denying it that the vast majority of the working people in the United States are in sympathy with them, but it is wrong and hurts the nation to have it go abroad that the workers in the anthracite coal mine regions are underpaid, while the fact remains that the coal miners of Pennsylvania are among the best paid workmen in the world.

THE LARGER HALF.

The same in Santa Fe as elsewhere. The bigger half of worldly trouble. The greater part of mankind's suffering.

Can safely be laid to the kidneys. Kidneys filter the blood. Keep the human system healthy. But they can't do this when they're sick.

Easy to tell sick kidneys. Look at the back for the note of warning. Most backache pains are kidney ills. Twinges, twinges, pains and aches of a bad back.

Should be treated promptly. Every day's delay means future trouble. Urinary complications set in, diabetes, Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills are kidney specialists.

Cure every form of kidney ills.

Here is proof of this:

Mrs. M. Meyers, midwife, living at 112 South 14th street, St. Louis, says: "Perhaps in following my calling, from lifting, or from some other cause, I may have overstrained the muscles of my back. Be that as it may, I have had attacks of backache for two years and lately almost constant. It hurt more in the morning than in any other period of the day and has on more than one occasion been so severe that I could scarcely turn in bed. I know from the condition of the kidney secretions that my kidneys were at fault but what to do was a mystery. I was continually trying sure-cure medicines to cure kidney complaint, but I met with very little if any success until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. From the benefits I received from the treatment I have not the slightest hesitation in very emphatically endorsing the preparation. I have studied medicine and understand the symptoms of kidney complaint. No one in St. Louis if they try Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney complaint will be disappointed in the results."

Just such emphatic endorsement can be had right here in Santa Fe. Drop into Ireland's Pharmacy and ask what his customers report.

Missouri Code Pleading

By Mr. Everett W. Patterson,
(Author of Patterson's Complete Digest,
Nearly 600 Pages. Price, $6. Delivered
This Book is a Very Important One for all Lawyers.

The New Mexico Code is largely modeled on the Missouri Code so that this book and the Form book, are the most practical for use thereunder. It sets forth, as succinctly as is consistent with clearness, the present condition of the law governing pleading as interpreted by the courts of last resort in Missouri. The decisions are mostly those of the Missouri courts; though in some instances illustrations have been drawn from the decisions of other code states.

The Author Thoroughly Believes in the Advantages of the Code System of Pleading.

He further believes that precision and exactness are even of more importance in code pleading than in pleading at common law. For, while it is true that the common law requires the utmost strictness in adherence to forms, yet, if its forms are followed, the practitioner need have little fear of attack upon his pleading, even though that pleading should totally fail to inform his opponent as to the real points in issue. In the other hand, the very object of the Code is to compel parties to make clear the grounds upon which their right to recover, or their defense, is based. The lawyer who is well grounded in the rules of pleading will surely have the advantage in litigation. The constant study of this valuable work, familiarity with the rules set forth in it, and with the decisions enforcing and interpreting those rules, cannot fail to make one a good pleader.

SPECIAL OFFER—To those who buy both books at once, we will, for Patterson's Pleading Form Book (Price, $5.00) if ordered within the next 30 days for $4.00 additional, thus offering the two works, giving all there is to be said about Pleading in Missouri.

Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Mountville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." HIS NEIGHBOR.
They tell me to "love my neighbor"—she's as sweet as sugar in her mouth. Why don't my neighbor love me? I send her the sweetest flowers—though they're not so sweet as her. But never in summer hours does she send me a "Thank you, sir!"
They tell me to "love my neighbor," and I love her right along.
But what does she care for the grief I bear, and what for the love I bestow?
I dunno what songs or flowers my neighbor does prefer.
For never in summer hours does she send me a "Thank you, sir!"
Tell me to "love my neighbor?" I've loved her until I seem.
In the lonely way of the world to-day, like one that walks in a dream,
What's the comfort that it brings to me? My heart an' my pulses stir;
But never in summer hours does she send me a "Thank you, sir!"
—F. L. Stanton, in Atlanta Constitution.

The Death of a Coward

The boy leant wearily against the bulwark rails, watching the lights as they came up one by one on the coast. The plunging of the ship still made his head reel, and he was weak from want of food. He seemed altogether apart from the stir and life of that 300 emigrants on board created. His whole soul ached with a dumb and importunate protest against his fate, and the life before him. Old Capt. Malcolm had shown little wisdom when he sent his only son to sea to have some pluck knocked into him.
In the father's defense it may be said that he was utterly unable to realize the timidity and sensitiveness of the boy. All his ancestors had been rough seamen who had faced storm and danger on every sea, and courage and nerve were hereditary qualities. And now the last of the Malcolms seemed more of a girl than any of his five sisters.
All the exhortations to manliness, all the covert reproaches that came from his father, were so many thorns that rankled and festered in his soul, but failed to compel his nature to be other than it was. The boy was made for peace, for the quiet and uneventful life that an office in his native town could have offered under his mother's watchful care. Instead, he was here, an apprentice on the steamship Pride of Asia, a big cargo boat just off the slips on the Tyne, and carrying emigrants to the Cape.

The ship's doctor came out of the saloon in the poop to go his evening round below. With him was his wife, a slight, girlish figure, wrapped in a heavy cloak. She turned at the ladder which led to the lower deck, and was about to go back when her eyes fell on the boy. She had noticed him once or twice before, and his white face and lonely air roused the womanly sympathy in her. She touched him lightly on the shoulder and said: "You are leaving home, like me?"
The boy started. A slight color sprang to his cheeks, and tears to his eyes. He smiled faintly, showing a gap where two teeth had been knocked out by a smaller boy in the only fight he had ever had at school.

"Yes, ma'am," he replied.
"You must feel lonely," she said; "but you will soon be back, and then everyone will think so much of you."
Her voice had something caressing and inviting about it; and so his confidence, overcoming his shyness and reserve, broke bounds. He told her everything—how he had not liked this life, how all filled him with fear and disgust, the cold and darkness, the chaff and horseplay of his fellow-apprentices, the indifference of everyone around him. He told how impossible it was to come up to his father's standard, how he felt he was a born coward, and that he would always be one, shrinking instinctively from the danger and excitement that bolder natures took pleasure in.

She listened sympathetically. Her hand had patted him once or twice, and encouraged him to go on. When he ended, she said: "You must not be too hard on yourself. It is not always those who fear the least that are bravest in the end. When the time comes, I am sure you will do your duty."
The boy heard her listlessly. He had little heart to respond to any appeal to his manliness. There seemed no time when he would not shrink from hardship or danger. He almost felt as if his confidence had been misplaced, and that she had understood nothing after all.
She saw the change, and her interest in him somewhat waned. Courage to a woman is the primary quality in the other sex, and nothing will compensate for the lack of it. She bade him good night and turned away back to the poop.

In a few minutes the second mate passed along the deck and told the boy to go below. Then all was quiet. A few hours later the Pride of Asia was steaming at "slow," with her whistle going every few minutes. The Channel fog girt the ship like a shroud. The captain walked the bridge uneasily. No tempest or rock-bound shore gives the anxiety that a fog on this waterway of the nations does. Danger is imminent everywhere, and the most careful seamanship is no guarantee of safety. So it was now. A hoarse shout came from the man on the lookout. The captain sprang to the telegraph, and as "Full speed astern" rang out a large sailing ship took form in the fog, and in a few seconds crashed into the steamer in front of the bridge.
The Pride of Asia shook from stem to stern, heeled over to starboard, and then began to forge ahead, while the other went pounding along her side, wrenching the port boats from her davits and staving them in with her bowsprit. Then she passed away as a ghost in the fog.

The Pride of Asia had met her death wound. At once all was noise and confusion. The emigrants came pouring up on deck, screaming and shouting with terror. Some of the sailors rushed to clear the boats, but a sharp order from the captain stopped them.
In a few seconds the captain had decided on his course. The remaining boats would not carry a hundred and fifty people. There were more than twice that number on board. On the other hand, the land was about three miles off, and a sandy and protected beach meant safety. But could it be done with that hole in her side? He would try. He changed her course, rang "Full speed ahead," and shouted to the mate: "Go down and shut the forward bulkheads, Mr. Jones."

The mate ran forward, and with the help of the carpenter tore off part of the hatch covering and sprang to the ladder. As he climbed down young Malcolm peered aimlessly over the hatch.
"Bring down a lantern," cried the mate, and Malcolm, galvanized into activity by fear, seized a lantern from the alleyways and clambered down into the hold.
The mate ran toward the iron door in the bulkhead, which had been left open, and pushed it to.
"The light here—quick!"
And the boy brought it.
"Blast them!—blast them!" roared the mate. "They've put the bolts on the wrong side. In five minutes we'll all be in kingdom come."

He stumbled for the ladder, wild with terror. Yes, every one would be drowned, and he, too, with the cruel, cold water sucking him down. He dropped the lantern and began to pull himself up the ladder.
Suddenly he stopped. An idea had been born in his brain; a hideous, unthinkable thought—the door could be closed from the other side. He hung limply on the ladder, and in his mind raged a tornado of conflict.
Oh, to be out of this awful ship, safe once again at home! But the mate had said that all were lost. That meant him, too. And if only that door were shut, all could be saved. Great beads of sweat broke out on his forehead. He groaned and writhed about like one on the rack. Then he began to descend slowly. He stopped again on the last rung. He clung to the ladder as a drowning man to a rope. He could never let go. Why was he not going up the ladder? There were boats left. He had seen that. He could fight for a place, and be saved. He was so young; not old, like the mate and captain. They must give him a place.

All at once he loosened his hold and ran blindly for the door. On the way he tripped and fell heavily on his hands and face, cutting and bruising them. He lay half stunned for a minute, moaning from the pain, then raised himself and crawled the rest of the way. He passed through the door, and with feverish haste shot the great iron bolts. The boy was alone in his tomb. He leaned against the bulkhead, sick, sick to death. Why had he done this? He did not know. They would be saved now, but he—Oh God, no more light or life for him! His poor dry lips moved convulsively, and his hands beat aimlessly on the iron wall. He would go back. Hope returned with a rush. He would die in the open—with others around him. It would be good to die thus, not in this hell of darkness and desolation. He unsnatched one bolt and fumbled for the other. Then with a low moan, he cast himself from it, driving his teeth into his lips in his agony.

It was not to be. He was too great a coward to live. He could only die. He would pray. But he could think of nothing—nothing but the "This night when I lie down to sleep" he had learned at his mother's knee.
To sleep—oh, he would sleep long! There was to be no waking this time. Long shuddering fits shook his frame as he felt the icy fingers of death rising inch by inch. He screamed and raved, dashing his head against the iron, that death might come quickly. He plunged beneath the water, only to come up again, fighting madly for life. Then there was a long drawn sob, and then silence.

The captain stood on the bridge, a figure of stony despair. The land could never be reached with water pouring like a torrent into the forward hold. He cursed his negligence in overlooking such a frightful blunder. It was going to cost 200 lives, and he must not be among the saved. The Pride of Asia was getting low in the water, but he could not understand why she was not sinking more by the bow. She was vibrating from the engines, pushed to their highest pressure, for the firemen stuck gallantly to their posts. Five minutes went, and ten, and then, with a sudden shock, she took ground, and all were safe.

Next morning, young Malcolm was missing, and the sorrowful news was sent to his father. It was thought he had fallen overboard when the ship grounded, and he could not swim.
A week afterward, the divers entered the forward hold, and found, to their astonishment, that the bulkhead door, which they had expected to find open, was closed.
They forced it open, and against it was floating the body of a boy.
Old Capt. Malcolm comes often to the little graveyard by the sea. In it stands a cross, on which are inscribed the words: "HERE LIES A HERO,"—Pall Mall Magazine.

FILTY TEMPLES IN INDIA.
Sacred cows often defile Indian temples, but worse yet is a body that's polluted by constipation. Don't permit it. Cleanse your system with Dr. King's New Life Pills and avoid untold misery. They give lively livers, active bowels, good digestion, fine appetite. Only 25c, at Fischer Drug Company.

The Office Supply Company keeps in stock and has for sale at the very lowest figures the celebrated pen carbonyl letter and bill copy books. Send for price list and particulars.

PIMPLES

And other eruptions which mar the skin are more than a disfigurement and annoyance; they are a positive detriment to the business interests and social success of the man they mark. Other things being equal, the man with a smooth skin and clear complexion will find it easier to get a good position or a good wife than the man whose face shows the impurity of his blood. That's the real point. The blood is bad. And for that very reason any treatment which is designed to cleanse the skin must cleanse the blood.
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cleanses the blood from the clogging impurities which breed and feed disease, and so cures pimples, boils, eczema, and other diseases which have their cause in impure blood.
The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains. You lose. Therefore, accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."
"I have used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' in a case of scrofula, and cured it," writes Mr. Wm. D. Spaulding of Kenosha, Wis., "and I would turn them off and they would come right back, and they were on me when I commenced using 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which took them away, and I haven't been bothered anymore."
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

Gold in the Black Hills.
The Burlington Route has recently issued a 48 page booklet bearing the title "Mineral Resources of the Black Hills." The book is one which should be read by every mining man in Colorado. It gives more information about the mines of the Black Hills than has ever before been placed between two covers. A copy will be mailed free on application to the undersigned.
The Black Hills need Colorado men and money. Several of the shrewdest men in this state have already invested heavily in the Hills. The results so far have been more than satisfactory. The completion of the Burlington's new line to the Northwest brings the Black Hills within a night's ride of Denver. You can leave Denver tonight and be in Deadwood or Lead City tomorrow afternoon.
