WOMEN MAKING GREAT FINISH IN NEW JERSEY

Campaign for Ballot Not to End Until Polls Close; Feminine Oratory to Flow for 24 Consecutive Hours.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Newark, N. J., Oct. 18.—The women of the state are making a great finish in the campaign for the ballot. The women of the state are making a great finish in the campaign for the ballot.

All day the yellow banners of the suffrage associations and the green, white and purple of the woman's political union fluttered from hundreds of automobiles from Cape May to the New York line and tonight there were few communities in the state, even of the smallest, where the voices of feminine orators were not lifted in the streets for the cause.

President Wilson's vote for suffrage will be cast in Princeton. Any man's guess—or any woman's—was long ago made at the time of the election. The campaign has been entirely non-partisan and both sides declare they are equally confident of a victory at the polls.

Everywhere in the big cities of the state, groups of women, workers are speaking in the streets, hundreds of them, utilizing the waiting hours of the long campaign for what they believe to be a smashing drive against their despotic foe. Far and away, the last hours of this fight have been a new record for political activity in New Jersey.

COUNTY SHOULD HAVE VOICE IN ROAD MONEY EXPENDITURE—BEAVER

The state highway commission's plan for the expenditure of the $500,000 to be raised on the sale of road bonds will be discussed at the meeting of the association of highway officials, which began yesterday at Santa Fe, according to a letter to John S. Beaver, chairman of the Republican county road board.

Mr. Beaver believes Bernadillo county should have something to say as to where its share in the state highway fund is expended. He believes the county should have a voice in the distribution of the money within the county, in his opinion. The money spent where they think it should be.

However, Mr. Beaver believes the money would be spent to the best advantage on the road leading to Chilli and San Pedro in building a new main road on the university hill and in improving the road near Las Glencoe. Putting the road near Las Glencoe in better traveling condition, he indicated, would bring much more trade into Albuquerque than the road near Las Glencoe.

Mr. Beaver will not be able to attend the Santa Fe meeting on account of pressing business interests. E. L. Gross, secretary of the board, will be in his place. Mr. Gross was unable to leave yesterday, but will depart this afternoon.

The special bridge fund now contains more than $3,000, Mr. Beaver said. The road board is anxious to spend this in building two bridges in the canyon, on the road to the Estancia valley, and work will be started soon, he said.

BERLIN EDITORS DISCUSS POLICIES OF WASHINGTON

Fear Expressed That Ambassador Bernstorff May Be Having Hard Time of It;
Naval Program Significant.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Berlin, Oct. 18.—(Via London, 11 p. m.)—George Bernhard, editor of the Vossische Zeitung, continues today his weekly discussion of matters relating to Germany and the United States. He reviews the case of Dr. Bernstorff, the German ambassador at Washington, who was recalled by his government. The latter's letter to Secretary of State Lansing having been published here and drawn the conclusion that Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador at Washington, also is having difficulty in communicating with his government because his official report on his Arabic negotiations has not yet been made public.

After declaring that Dr. Bernstorff's letter "belongs to the most sensational written revelations in this all sensational affair," Herr Bernhard said:

"These reports of the ambassador throw a new and most suspicious light on the neutrality of the United States."

After lengthy speculation as to whether Count von Bernstorff's messages are being held up, as Dr. Bernstorff is alleged to have been, the writer declares:

"It appears to be urgently necessary to secure an explanation as to how America is fulfilling toward the German ambassador the obligations prescribed by international law."

Count von Bernstorff, who is a column in the Tages Zeitung for the coming five years, says:

"It is significant that the United States is carefully watching the present war, and notwithstanding the submarine successes, has decided on the construction of sixteen huge bat-

STILL SEEKING VOLUNTEERS FOR REVOLT IN TEXAS

American Who Visits Matamoros Finds Mexican Soldiers Are Importuned to Invade Lone Star State.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Brownsville, Tex., Oct. 18.—That recruiting agents for the so-called "Texas revolution" are still working among the soldiers of General Escobedo in the state of Coahuila, was declared today by an American who visited Matamoros and talked to a sergeant in the army.

The American is a hide dealer who made his report to Capt. John S. Chambers, U. S. A., deputy quartermaster, for Fort Brown. The report will be laid before Col. A. P. Blockson, commander at Fort Brown, tomorrow.

This sergeant is said to have declared that early today a Mexican who claimed to be an agent for the revolution, offered him ten dollars in gold, a uniform, and a commission as a day and a division of spoils whenever there was a raid.

The American said he also was told by the sergeant that the latter knew of eight men who had accepted such an offer and had gone to the American who was recalled by his government. The latter's letter to Secretary of State Lansing having been published here and drawn the conclusion that Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador at Washington, also is having difficulty in communicating with his government because his official report on his Arabic negotiations has not yet been made public.

CENSORSHIP IS SCORED IN TWO FOREIGN LANDS

Partiality and Inconsistency of British Censorship Officer and Foolish French Law Are Condemned.

(Associated Press Correspondence.)
London, Oct. 18.—The inconsistency and partiality of the British censorship is again the subject of bitter complaint. Sir Frederick Milner in a letter to the Times writes:

"I have always supposed that the business of the press censor was to prevent the circulation of any news likely to be of service to the enemy. It appears, however, that he also deems it his duty to shield officials at home, who do not correctly carry out their duties."

"Last week I wrote a letter, which was to have appeared in the principal London papers, pointing out some cases of injustice to soldiers, un-expectedly and discharged, giving the actual facts."

"Unfortunately, as I wished the letter to be widely circulated in the local press, I sent a copy of the letter to the press association. The manager deemed it his duty to submit the letter to the censor, and at the same time informed him that the letter would appear in Monday's issue of the London papers."

"A hurried message was issued to these papers forbidding them to publish the letter, or any letter dealing with the subject. I am sure that the manager, who is a leading London newspaper, and also in a leading paper in the north of England, so that the fact will be well known in the north."

"I hope to get this abuse of the censor's power taken up in parliament. In any case, I can assure him that, though he may succeed in muzzling the press, he will succeed in making me, and so long as this rank injustice continues so long will I go on exposing it. I am sure that the public will have the whole British public at my back."

"The law of 1911," Mr. Milner wrote, "punished only the publication of false reports spread by faith. While the law of 1914 prohibits the divulging of military or diplomatic secrets, it is a law of a nature to exercise a harmful influence on the state of mind of the army or the navy. Only the government may tell the truth, even in politics, which means that we have arrived at the present ministry what the Viscount of Beaumont would not have conceded to the king, what Louis XIV. would have denied to the pope, and what Napoleon III. would not have permitted to the rising republic."

The court martial appears to uphold the censor, for in spite of Mr. Milner's regrets they fined him fifty francs.

ENGLISH TARIFF DEVELOPS GREAT CONSERVATISM

Changes Free Traders Did Not Foresee When They Allowed
Bill Cause Opposition to Further Increases.

(Associated Press Correspondence.)
London, Oct. 18.—The new budget with its tariff innovations, which the free traders anticipated quite fully at first, has developed a strong conservatism in further tariff changes, and even to some already decided on.

If any protective tariff survives the war, it will probably be aimed only at certain luxuries and more products which Germany has succeeded in monopolizing before the war.

The new tobacco and tea tax is held up by the liberalists as an object lesson in the effects of protection. There has always been a duty tax on these articles, simply as a means of raising revenue. Tea and tobacco are both controlled by trusts.

In anticipation of tariff changes, the tea and tobacco importers, who always keep an immense stock on hand, had been importing more for last few years. With the first steps of the new budget, they began to take their goods out of hand. This was prevented to some extent by the arbitrary action of the chancellor of the exchequer in the few days preceding the announcement of the new budget.

Under the new budget, the duty on tea was increased eight cents a pound and tobacco a bit under three cents an ounce. But the day following the passing of the new budget in parliament, the tobacco trust announced a new scale for retailers, advancing the price of pipe tobacco four cents an ounce, while cigarettes were put up about twenty-five cents a pack, which will be about half of all cost.

A three-penny packet now costs four pence. Most firms charge four pence extra on a packet of ten cigarettes, which run twelve in the half ounce.

The new budget, the free traders point out, simply gave the trusts a chance to shove up the price of stocks already held in the limit of the new tariff wall. They will pocket millions of dollars that should have gone to the government. Perhaps it is not surprising in some cases, before the schooler begins to pay duty.

Tea is controlled by a few big firms who act in harmony. These firms control a system of tea shops—cheap restaurants corresponding to the coffee houses in America—where they sell all over England. One firm has tea counters in every railway station in England and tea shops in every town of importance, with a string in London composed of hundreds of small tea shops. The day after the new budget, the price of tea was raised from four pence to five pence. As there are a hundred cups of tea to a pound—perhaps much more in the restaurants—the increased profits amount to a dollar a pound on the cost of an eight pence tariff.

Tea and tobacco are, of course, imported products. But the action of the tariff on articles not hitherto taxed, as one paper asserts, would be the same. A protective tariff on food and wearing apparel would merely give the producers and handlers a chance to raise their profits. It may, without wages so that Great Britain could not meet foreign competition as she did in the days of cheap living.

By an irony, the very tobacco trust which is arousing so much indignation among the people, even to the extent of causing some to swear off smoking, met public support when first established. The American tobacco trust some years ago threatened to invade the kingdom. Thereupon the British public rallied to the defense of the British smokers, who established a defensive organization. This defensive league is now an active league against the British public.

It is pointed out that Mr. McKenna made a grave mistake in not putting a stamp tax on tobacco, instead of raising the duties on food and clothing. The duty on tobacco is now charged the extra amount which the stamp is affixed. The duties on food and clothing are given a certain time in which to comply with the new law.
