WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Boers Making it Interesting for the British Troops.

British Force Repulsed at Highlands Station by the Boers.

Derivatives of Upper Egypt Utterly Defeated by General Kitchener.

BRITISH WOUNDED REACH CAPE COLONY.

Calro, Nov. 25.—Lord Cromar, British minister, has received the following dispatch from General Kitchener: "Wingate's force caught up with the Khalifa's force seven miles southeast of Odi and attacked it. After a sharp fight, he took his position. The Khalifa, surrounded by his body guard of emirs, was killed. All the principal emirs were killed or captured except Osman Digna, who escaped. The derivatives were utterly defeated. Thousands surrendered. A large number of women and children and cattle also fell into the hands of the Anglo-Egyptian force."

Orange River, Cape Colony, Nov. 25.—One hundred and seven wounded, including several Boers, have arrived from Belmont. On the Boer side twenty men were selected from each Boer section to pick off the British officers, but it is impossible to distinguish the officers who wear the same equipment as the men.

MOOI RIVER, NATAL, Nov. 25.—A reconnaissance in force in the direction of Highlands station, discovered a big force of Boers with guns. The Boers shelled the British guns, which replied. Scouts reported another strong Boer force northwest of the camp. The British guns returned to camp. The infantry is still out.

London, Nov. 25.—The gravest news from Cape Town to-day comes from the northern part of the colony, where the Dutch farmers have joined the invading Free State forces. A general movement in favor of the Boers is feared.

Advances from Belmont confirming the treacherous use of the white flag by the Boers is arousing indignation. Lieut. Blundell, of the grenadier guards, was shot by a wounded Boer whom he was tending. General Methuen sent a message to the Boer commander, saying: "I must ask you to warn your wounded not to shoot our officers. I must warn you not to use dum-dum bullets, or use the flag of truce treacherously. Such action is cowardly in the extreme. I cannot countenance it."

PROTERIA, NOV. 25.—An official dispatch from the Boer headquarters outside of Ladysmith, says: "The garrison at Ladysmith was severely quiet yesterday. The cannons to-day have evoked response. The balloon no longer soars. The third big cannon, which the Boers have baptised 'sufficiency,' was placed in position to-day. German officers arrived last night. The Boer generals think they can encompass the fall of Ladysmith at the end of this week."

Princeton Wins.
New Haven, Nov. 25.—Princeton defeated Yale, 11 to 10, in the football game to-day. At the end of the first half the score was Yale, 10; Princeton, 6. Near the end of the second half, Poe kicked a goal from the field, winning for Princeton.

Bridge Location all Right.
James D. May, one of the original mine operators of the Cochiti mining district, is in the city to-day, coming in from a visit to Santa Fe last night. He was met this afternoon by THE CITIZEN representative and asked regarding the location of the proposed new bridge the commissioners have ordered constructed over the Rio Grande near Pena Blanca. Mr. May stated emphatically that the location selected by the county surveyor for the bridge, and which has not in the least been changed, is the very best selection that could possibly be made over the Rio Grande in that immediate vicinity, and will be convenient for travel to Bland. "However," continued Mr. May, "if the bridge was intended solely for the convenience of Albuquerque the commissioners ought to have located it at the Indian village of San Felipe."

FLAUGHTAFF FLASHES.
The "skitlight town" dished up in Small Town by the Boers.
Fireman's ball New Year's night.
Miss Garvin will open a confectionery and bakery in the room south of Ray-law's barber shop.
Mrs. E. R. Kilmwood and children who have been visiting relatives at Book Creek, Ohio, for the past two months have returned.

Father Dilly who accompanied the remains and relatives of Mrs. David Babbitt to Cincinnati, Ohio, has returned. John Verkamp brother of the deceased returned the same day.
Prof. J. C. Wason, formerly principal of the Flagaft public school, but late of Wisconsin and lately married, passed through with his wife on his way to Phoenix to spend the winter.

A new boy of the average avoirdupois arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Treat last Thursday. He readily received board and lodging, and the best of care. All parties are getting along nicely.
If Flagaft means to keep up with her sister towns she must have a first class opera house. If this long felt want is not supplied by our enterprising citizens it will be the first one that they have permitted to slumber for several months.

The Feast of Days.
The month of December with all of its beautiful festivities, its giving and receiving of presents, its glances of heart and brightness of smile is nearly here. Chief among these charming and soul-de-lighting entertainments will be the "Feast of Days," prepared by the ladies of St. John's Guild for the 6th and 7th of next month at Armory hall.
The trouble and anxiety that usually accompany the selection of a Christmas present is here minimized to the lowest degree, and everything to suit the individual or general taste will be seen, and at prices to suit each and every purse. The lover can find dainty and attractive tokens for his sweetheart, the parent for his eager and happy children, and householders for beautiful things to brighten and adorn the home.

The refreshment tables will grow be-neath a load of substantial and delicious viands, and those who eat thereof will not "growl" from indigestion, for the dishes will be prepared from receipts taken from the "Ladies Own Albuquerque Cook Book."

All are invited to come and enjoy two delightful evenings, as well as lend valuable aid to an excellent cause.

O. A. Matson & Co.
"Matson's Book Store" is the answer where inquiry is made as to where the latest and best books and periodicals can be found.
Mr. Matson possesses the art of displaying to advantage all the goods to be found in places of his kind and when anything is wanted which he has not in stock he will exert himself to obtain it at the earliest possible moment.

He receives almost daily fresh candies, making a specialty of Lowrey's celebrated sweets.
Amateur photographers revel in the assortment of goods carried by Mr. Matson; they can find anything they want in that line. His stock of eastern kodaks is especially noticeable.

A recent invoice of Crane's & Hurd's fine stationery contains anything anyone could desire of the kind.

The store of O. A. Matson is located at 206 Railroad avenue, and a visit there is well worth the while.

Hot roast turkey with oyster dressing for free lunch at Melina & Eakin's to-night.

New York, Nov. 25.—Money on call, easier, 6 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 5 1/2 to 6 per cent.

Hon. G. A. Richardson, of Roswell, came in this morning from Las Cruces, where he had been in attendance at a meeting of the board of regents of the Agricultural college, of which board he is a member. Mr. Richardson is also president of the Territorial Irrigation commission and had called a meeting of said commission in Albuquerque for to-day. His conferees did not arrive, however, much to Mr. Richardson's inconvenience as he is obliged to leave again to-night.

Owing to the fact that the First Regiment band will give a concert and dance at the Armory hall to-night, the usual Saturday night concert at Orchestra hall has been "declared off." Instead however, there will be a concert at the Orchestra to-morrow afternoon.

Pennsylvania Railroad Wins Damage Suit Against City of Chicago.

REPUBLICANS WINNING IN KENTUCKY.

Manila, Nov. 25.—Buenosmundo, the brains of the Philippine insurrection, is locked up here in charge of Brig. Gen. Williston, provost marshal. When Tlaxiac fell, Buenosmundo fled northward with Aguinaldo's three-year-old son, an old lady and a hundred soldiers. Reaching the coast on November 13, Buenosmundo found escape impossible, so he sought refuge in a little hut. The natives betrayed his presence to Col. Hare, commanding the Thirty-third infantry. General Cronin's battalion surrounded the village and Buenosmundo surrendered. Gen. Wheaton kept the woman and child and sent Buenosmundo to Manila. He seemed glad that his troubles had culminated. The prisoner told General Otis that he desired peace. Aguinaldo, he added, was retreating north with 2,000 men.

SKIRMISH AT INUS.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The following cablegram was received at the war department from General Otis: "The insurgents made a feat on Inus last night. Three enlisted men were wounded; their loss two killed, one captured. The enemy quickly withdrew. Additional troops were sent from Manila to-day. The insurgents will be driven south."

BATTLE AT PANYA.

Manila, Nov. 25.—The movement against the insurgents of the islands of Panya resulted in driving them to the mountains, twenty miles inland. The troops engaged were two battalions of the Sixteenth regiment, a battalion of the Twenty-sixth regiment, Gordon's mounted scouts, Bridgman's battery of the Sixth artillery. The Americans lost five men killed, and thirty-eight wounded. Gen. Hughes, General Carpenter and Col. Kinnard Rice commanded. Thirty-two insurgents were killed. The natives reported that nineteen cart loads of wounded were taken away.

Storm on Texas Gulf Coast.

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 25.—Alarming reports come from lower gulf coast of Texas, where a severe storm has been raging. The storm was in the vicinity of Rockport, and a number of small vessels were lost, and hundreds of cattle drowned, having been driven into the gulf by the wind blowing from the mainland. Many houses were destroyed. It is feared that some lives were lost. Much uneasiness is felt for hunting and yachting parties from Dallas, among whom are Mr. Mayor Holland and E. H. R. Green, son of Hettie Green of New York.

Kentucky Election.
Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 25.—The court of appeals to-day clinched Taylor's right to 1179 Nelson county votes. The votes in controversy were certified for W. P. instead of W. S. Taylor. Judge Jones of Nelson county, ordered them counted for W. S. Taylor. This order is affirmed.

Railroad Won Suit.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—A verdict of $2,500 was rendered to-day in the United States circuit court in favor of the Pennsylvania Railroad company against the city for damages done during the big strike of 1894. The railroad asked for $25,000.

Pleasant Party.

The ladies of the Wooden Circle gave a very pleasant surprise party to their past worthy guardian, Mrs. M. A. Shopp, last evening. It was a complete surprise, and the evening was very pleasantly spent. While the ladies were partaking of some very delicious refreshments, the worthy advisor of the circle completely overwhelmed the past worthy guardian by presenting her with a handsome past worthy guardian's badge, which was designed and made for her especially.

she is pleasing.

The London Advertiser, Jan. 28, 1898, thus speaks of Miss Oliver, whom Albuquerque people will hear next Thursday night:

"The charming personality of Miss Oliver won the sympathy of the audience from the first. Her pleasing, highly-cultured voice, her unaffected earnestness, unforced vivacity, and easy, graceful movements created at the outset a favorable impression, which quickly deepened into a feeling of the greatest admiration as the reader's conception of Scotch characteristics and her ability to portray them so delightfully were more and more unfolded."

Tickets will be on sale at Newcomer's next Monday, at 10 a. m. General admission tickets can be exchanged for reserved seat tickets at 25 cents extra.

Dumas Great Play.

Paul Gilmore will play D'Artagnan in his magnificent production of the "Musketeers" at Orchestra hall next Monday. Judging by the reports of the New York and eastern press we are to have the best production of this Dumas romance now on the boards. The wonderful success of Boerholm Tree's production in London last season led young Gilmore to make a similar effort on this side of the water. It cost him a fortune and has placed him at the very head of romantic in America. The success thus far this season has been phenomenal. Albuquerque is to have the same elegant scenery, gorgeous costumes, the same strong company that created such a stir in New York City last spring. Seats at Matson's.

Branching Out Big.

A. B. McJaffrey & Co., who recently purchased "The Fair" on Railroad avenue, have to-day bought the large stock of quonware and crockery belonging to the Whitney company and Heliwig & Co. This enterprising firm are arranging for a fine showing of their large stock of goods which will begin to arrive in a few days in carload lots. Their beautiful holiday wares will excel any that Albuquerque has ever seen.

Prof. J. R. Ribera, the public school teacher at Las Padillas, this county, is in the city to-day. He reports sixty-five scholars regularly in attendance at his school, and says that he expects to have that number increased to seventy-five scholars.

WEEKLY BANK STATEMENT.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 25.—The earthly remains of Vice-President Garret A. Hobart were consigned to a temporary resting place in a relieving vanit at Cedar Lawn cemetery to-day. Brief funeral service was held at the late residence of the deceased, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Dr. Magie. President McKinley, the cabinet officers and over sixty members of the senate and many congressmen attended the services at the house.

After the house services, the body was enclosed in an oaken casket with silver ornaments almost hidden with flowers, and was taken to the Church of the Redeemer, two blocks from Carroll hall. An immense crowd was in the vicinity of the church.

The casket was carried by eight members of the capital police in uniform. The church was beautifully decorated. President McKinley, the secretary of state, secretary of the treasury, Mrs. Hobart and son sat in the front pews. The service lasted an hour and was conducted by Rev. Dr. Magie. Charles P. Shaw, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, read the scriptures. "Nearer My God, to Thee," was sung by the Orpheus club. Dr. Magie preached the funeral sermon. The anthem, "Weary Hands," was sung by the Orpheus club. The benediction was pronounced by Dr. Magie.

THE Baton school house bonds, voted by the people of that enterprising town some time ago, have been sold, the purchaser being Duke M. Farson, of Chicago. The price obtained was $10,775, $775 more than the issue. Mr. Farson pays the expenses for the printing of the bonds. This shows that Baton has a competent board of education.

COMPLETE election returns from Ohio show that the total vote in the recent election was 908,159, compared with 779,070 in the election of secretary of state a year ago, and 1,009,225 in the presidential election of 1896. The plurality of the republican candidate for governor was 49,023, compared with 61,139 republican plurality a year ago, and 47,157 plurality for McKinley in 1896.

DEMAND FOR STATEHOOD.
New Mexico has a population of about 265,000. Of the thirty-one territories admitted into the Union as states since 1790, four had less than 50,000 population at the date of admission, eight less than 75,000, nine less than 100,000, six less than 200,000, one less than 300,000.

and only three in excess of 300,000. The New Mexican says that there may be men in the territory who are willing to be denied the privilege extended to citizens of the rest of the country, but if so the fact only proves they need to have an opportunity to realize the benefits of American statehood, and can realize these only by actual experience. But there are enough progressive people of the 265,000 in New Mexico who desire the privilege of self government by the territory in its full sense, and of participation in national affairs to justify their wish and right being granted.

AN intimation that the Pullman Palace Car company is planning to buy and remodel the old Union Pacific shops in Denver is fully confirmed by Union Pacific officials. President Hunt, being questioned upon the subject, admits the fact and says it will be a big plant when fully installed.

MILL MORE Counterfeiting.
The secret service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters, and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected by counterfeiters for imitation, notably the celebrated Hamilton's State Bank, which has many imitators but no equals for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness, and general debility. The counterfeiters are in the stomach, and when the stomach is in good order it makes good blood and plenty of it. In this manner the counterfeiters resist to the work and debility. Beware of counterfeiters when buying. See that a private Revenue Stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

To make it apparent to thousands, who think the medicine is ill, that they are not afflicted with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts, as a positive condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs. Spworth League at Bland.
One of the most important movements in the history of the Bland Methodist church has been successfully inaugurated and carried through. Last Sunday evening at a meeting of young people an Epworth League was instituted with a large number of active and associate members.

The following is the list of officers who were one and all elected to their respective positions by acclamation:
President—H. W. Hilt.
First Vice President—Milo Hill.
Second Vice President—Mrs. G. Madden.

Fourth Vice President—Mrs. Huggles.
Fifth Vice President—J. C. Creager.
It is the purpose of the society to create a better understanding of the Bible in the minds of young people, and also to enlarge the social side of life in Bland. The meeting will take place at 6:30 every Sunday evening—Bland Herald.

A LIVING WITNESS.

Mrs. Hoffman Describes How She Wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for Advice, and Is Now Well.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before using your Vegetable Compound I was a great sufferer. I have been sick for months, was troubled with severe pain in both sides of abdomen, more feeling in lower part of bowels, also suffered with dizziness, headache, and could not sleep. I wrote you a letter describing my case and asking your advice. You replied telling me just what to do. I followed your directions, and cannot praise your medicine enough for what it has done for me.

Many thanks to you for your advice. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me, and I will recommend it to my friends—Mrs. FLORENCE E. HOFFMAN, 513 Roland St., Canton, O.

The condition described by Mrs. Hoffman will appeal to many women, yet lots of sick women struggle on with their daily tasks disregarding the urgent warnings until overtaxed by actual collapse.

The present Mrs. Pinkham's experience in treating female ills is unparalleled, for years she worked side by side with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, and sometimes paid with her own blood.

Wool Statistics From Grants—Looking For Remains of Dead Soldiers.

OTHER INTERESTING NOTES.

Special Correspondence.
Grants, N. M., Nov. 23.—Grants, about one hundred miles west of Albuquerque, is an important station on the Santa Fe Pacific railroad, being the supply point for numerous ranches and sheep camps for miles around. Two large meat-curing establishments here carry large stocks of well assorted goods, and both proprietors, Messrs. Sol. Block and Simon Bito, give every inducement in quality and price for the trader to patronize home enterprise, and not pass further on. Large quantities of wool are shipped from here annually. The writer is indebted to the courtesy of T. M. Sloan, the railroad agent here, for the following figures: 350,000 pounds of wool during last spring, and 250,000 pounds this fall, besides considerable in pelts and hides.

About two weeks ago two soldiers from Fort Apache arrived here to remove the bodies of several soldiers, Capt. Henry and others, that were buried in old Fort Wingate, now a part of San Rafael, three miles back from here; but the searchers for the remains of these forgotten heroes were unable to find any signs of their graves. The winds and storms of the years past, since the '90s, when they were buried, laid in their forgotten and neglected graves, had obliterated all trace of them, and there, in part of the sandy plains of New Mexico, they will rest until the Gabriel blows the last roll call. Another instance that "republicans are ungrateful!"

Dr. J. S. Kasterday of Albuquerque, was here a few days ago, and went out to San Marcial, to attend Miss Mary E. Sherwin, who is a missionary at that mountain hamlet. The lady is reported much improved in health.

Fred Cotton was here from the city a few days ago, looking after the prospects of game, but they are provokingly scarce this year.

Simon Bito, of the mercantile company of that name, is in San Francisco, Cal., in attendance at the wedding ceremony of his daughter and Charles Nensdahl, a brother of the well-known Los Lunas merchant of that name.

The people of San Rafael are all bustle and busy preparing for their annual fair, the last of this week. There will be a large attendance from the neighboring towns. Numerous balls and games will give the people amusement, and fair senoritas and gay caballeros may be expected to make the occasion a happy one.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from a reliable physician. You cannot tell the damage they will do to the body as you can possibly derive from them.

Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Chas. Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure, be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Chas. & Co.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.

WOOL QUOTATIONS.
The Wool Market Tremendous at Boston this Week.

The wool market continues active. Prices are steadily advancing toward a higher level, and as quotations rise more and more the buyers are anxious to buy. A tremendous business has been transacted, which has been pretty well distributed among consumers, speculators and members of the trade, many of whom were compelled to buy in the open market in order to attend the needs of their customers. The markets abroad continue to display a hardening tendency, and late advice state that in Melbourne some of the best stock has been disposed of at prices which cover $1 a pound, and landed in Boston.

The active demand for wool has depleted stocks so that it is estimated they will report a shortage of from 75,000 to 100,000 pounds in next May, in which case it is quite probable that importations will result. During the past week carpet wools have again begun to show in the activity noted in other grades. Carpets have opened at advanced prices, and large purchases have been made. Quotations:

Not a Surprise.
It will not be a surprise to any who are at all familiar with the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, to know that people everywhere take pleasure in relating their experience in the use of that splendid medicine and in telling of the benefit they have received from it, of bad colds it has cured, of throat- and attacks of pneumonia it has averted, and of the children it has saved from all tacks of croup and whooping cough. It is a grand, good medicine. For sale by all druggists.

Slop Coughing

Every cough makes your throat more raw and irritable. Every cough congests the lining membrane of your lungs. Coughing tears your throat and lungs in this way. Put the parts at rest and give them a chance to heal. You will need some help to do this, and you will find it in

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

From the first dose the quiet and rest begin; the tickling in the throat ceases; the spasm weakens; the cough disappears. Do not wait for pneumonia and consumption but cut short your cold without delay.

Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral should be over the lungs of every person troubled with a cough.

Write to the Doctor.

Personal opportunities and long experience enable us to give you the best advice in your case. We will send you a copy of our book, "The Cherry Pectoral," free of charge, if you will send a stamped reply, without cost.

TO PROTECT ELECTRICIANS.

Employees Must Work with One Hand
In Their Pockets to Prevent Accidents.

In power houses and big dynamos are running and heavy cables carrying powerful currents of electricity are all around great care has to be exercised to prevent the workmen from killing themselves through carelessness. Familiarity with danger sooner or later results in lack of caution, and experienced electricians are not infrequently badly shocked, if not killed, by carelessly touching an object they well know should be avoided. To correct this, says the Philadelphia Record, a plan has been adopted in several large power houses. It is neither arduous nor complicated, but it has worked well. It is simply to compel every employee to work with one hand in his pocket except when his duties absolutely require the use of both. Keeping one hand in the pocket not only keeps it out of danger, but also maintains the impression in the mind that danger exists when both hands are free. It has the same effect as the string tied around a man's finger who has been told to do something he must not forget. One hand always in the pocket is a valuable reminder not to place it anywhere else unless a particular duty requires it.

THEIR OPINION OF HIM.

A Blow-Hard Government Clerk Who Tried to Make an Impression Upon Indians.

Last winter a delegation of Indians from a far western state, on a tour of inspection through the interior department, visited the land office, where they were introduced to the clerk who had special charge of their section of the country, a bumptious little individual with a big head. The official proceeded to overpower the gentlemen with his importance, says a Washington correspondent in the New York Tribune. Grasping each one of them cordially by the hand, he patted them patronizingly on their backs and then delivered a long speech, explaining in detail the work of the office, their interest in it, laying particular stress on the fact that he was the motive power of it all. As soon as their entertainer paused for breath the visiting Indians began to groan and talk among themselves. "What are they saying?" asked the egotistical clerk, expecting to hear high praise of himself. "Tell me what they are saying." "I cannot tell you," replied the interpreter. "It was not for you to hear." But the little man insisted, and with great reluctance the interpreter finally yielded. "They said," he translated, "little man, big head, heap talk, say nothing, much fool."

Carnival Queen Mauled.
The mauling into which the contest for queen of the Phoenix carnival had become submerged was cleared away yesterday by the formal withdrawal of Miss Clara Mills, who did not like to see her many hours' exertions expended vainly to secure her votes. The announcement was accordingly made at the various polling place without delay and the contest was quickly closed, as there was no longer any doubt about the choice of Miss Lena Purdy to the position.

Says the Republican: The choice of Miss Purdy to be queen is a most happy one. She is a handsome young lady, graceful and accomplished, and moves in the best society circles. Her rule during carnival week will undoubtedly be very successful, as she will sway her subjects by her smiles and obedience will be yielded to her slightest wish.

COUSIN GEORGE'S DECISION.

He Thought His New Found Relative
Was a Very Shoddy
Lot.

"Now, my dear, I want you to be very kind to your cousin George when he comes," said the girl's mother, according to the Detroit Free Press. "Oh, mamma! I simply can't tote him all over town, and I don't think you ought to expect me to." "But you must entertain him nicely while he's here. He probably will not stay long." "How do you know? We've never seen him—we don't know anything about him. Dear me! I think it's horrible. I don't see what he's coming for. Just suppose he's dreadfully awkward and doesn't know how to act. Why, it would be too embarrassing for anything! And the girls have been studying genealogy at the library for the last two weeks, and they're awfully critical about one's relations."

Artificial Leg That Is Inflamed.

An English inventor has devised a very ingenious artificial leg and foot intended for use in cases of amputation below the knee joint. It is mainly composed of a hollow rubber chamber, which is inflated in exactly the same way as a bicycle tire. The skeleton of the foot is of wood and contains within it a rubber-faced point which permits of movements like those that take place at the ankle. A pair of rubber pneumatic pads surround the end of the amputated limb, so that no undue pressure is exerted on the tissue.

The Malarial Mosquito.

Nature states that Maj. Ronald Ross, the leader of the expedition to Sierra Leone, found that in India the malarial parasite is borne by the spotted-winged mosquitoes and not by the common head-and-thorax or gray mosquitoes, and his recent cable message announced that malaria on the west coast of Africa is produced under the same conditions as in India. There is evidence that the malarial-bearing species only breeds in small isolated collections of water which can be easily dispensed, but the expedition has not yet had time to verify this point. —Chicago Tribune.

LIMESTONE WOOL.

One of the Wonders of the Century and Its Accidental Discovery.

The conversion of the flintiest, roughest limestone into soft, white wool is one of the wonders of the century which will shortly appear in a practical way to the manufacturer, says the New York Telegraph. Wonderful and almost impossible as it may seem, this process is being carried on successfully by a man who expects his discovery to revolutionize the wool and cloth manufacturing industries. The discoverer was making some tests of stone and was using heat and chemicals to analyze them. He happened upon a limestone which, when subjected to the tests, acted unexpectedly. The usual course of stone under the conditions he was submitting it to is to become quicklime, but in this instance it ran into a lava. To all outward appearance the stone was common building stone. It had been used in many buildings, but it had a chemical quality that was very different. The molten mass was very pliable, like glass when it is in the same state. Glass may be strung out like silk, and it has been converted into dress goods. The man conceived the idea of carrying his experiment still further. This white lava was subjected to chemical baths and then to a drawing-out process, by which it was converted into the finest and most pliable white wool.

BOYHOOD OF DREYFUS.

A One-Time Playmate of the Captain
Tells of His School Days
in His Native Town.

Louis Perrot, a Pittsburgh florist, is probably more interested in the progress of the Dreyfus trial than any other Pittsburgh citizen. His interest arises from the fact that he was a playmate of Dreyfus in the town of Mulhouse, Alsace, says the Philadelphia Times. He, of course, hopes for the acquittal of his former comrade in boyish sports. Of Dreyfus he says: "He was very popular. His father was a dry goods merchant, rich and prominent in the town. Dreyfus and I attended the same school. Then the studies were all in French. After the war between France and Germany both French and German were taught for a time, and then only German. I think it was during the war, or shortly after, that Dreyfus was sent away to college. I did not see him any more until he was a young man, and then not to talk to him. He came home for a time, and I remember seeing him about the town in his college cap and gown. That was the last I knew of him until I began to read about his trial."

"While we were in school as boys we played such games as schoolboys usually do, and it was only during play that I saw anything of Dreyfus. While the war was in progress we all wore the red, white and blue and were enthusiastic for France. I do not recall that Dreyfus was more or less enthusiastic than the rest of us in this matter, but that he was thoroughly French is shown by his having become a French soldier after Alsace became German territory."

IT IMPLIED TOO MUCH.

The Young Man Was Aroused at the Suggestion of Previous Engagements.

He told the shop assistant that he wanted to purchase something that would be a suitable present for a young lady, says Tit-Bits. The clerk brought out albums, books, gold pens and pencils and card cases, but nothing seemed to suit. As the last resort he showed the young man an engagement calendar—a beautiful little tablet on which to record the engagements for each day of the week. "Quite the fad now," he explained, as he displayed the calendar. "All the young ladies feel the need of them, especially during the season." "What is it?" asked the young man. "An engagement calendar," replied the shop assistant. "She'll find it invaluable." "You think she would like one?" asked the young man, with forced calmness. "I'm sure she would, if she hasn't one already," said the assistant. "Well, I want to say to you that she wouldn't," exclaimed the young man, losing control of his temper. "I know her and you don't, and I want you to understand, sir, that she has no use for any such calendar. She doesn't have to keep any record of her engagements. This is the only time that she has ever been engaged, and any man who says that she will ever be engaged to anyone else or that she has to put it down on a tablet to remember has got to fight. That's all there is to that." He had left the shop before the assistant had sufficiently recovered from his surprise to explain.

HOW TO HAVE A PICNIC.

Those Who Follow This Advice Will Be Sure to Enjoy the Season.

Before many weeks we will wake up some fine morning to find out that the leaves on the trees have begun to blush with pride just before their fall and that summer has gone. Then we will hear from all sides: "Oh, why didn't I do this or that? I intended to all summer—but didn't get around to it, and now it is too late!" says the Detroit Free Press.

One of the things to be deplored will be that more time was not spent in the open air—at the parks, on the river and at nearby country places. It is so easy to set out the summer doing nothing. But it is a bad habit, for when winter comes again it seems like an old story and isn't half so welcome as if the summer had been spent in complete change. This is genuine old-fashioned picnic season, and the picnic ought not to be despised. Nothing is so delightfully unconventional; and relaxation, of course, is the basis of rest. But it is a great mistake to think that a picnic is not a success unless the entire party is roused out of bed at sunrise and the lunch big enough to feed a regiment. Quantity there must be, of course, for everybody expects to eat too much, but more than anything else, have the lunch a dainty one. One doesn't mind a grasshopper or two in the lemonade or a family reunion of ants on the cake—but if the sandwiches are thick and the cake is dry and other things are in the same black list not even a picnic appetite will be satisfied.

POOR PAY OF MODELS.

A Calling That Is Full of Hardship and Makes But Small Return.

The amount of stuff that is written, and presumably read, about models nowadays leads one to suppose that the life of these men and women is very pleasant and delectable. Like most figures of "realistic" fiction, says the Philadelphia Press, this one is not quite real. One of the few good models of Philadelphia said the other day: "For class work I get four dollars a week and work as many hours a day, going on the stand at 8:45 and posing until 12:45, with a rest of ten minutes in every 60. The 'head' model has to do just as much posing of the body as any other, and gets less money. However, it's one of the few lines of business where women do better than men. The latter don't seem to have the required bodily endurance. Put yourself in the most comfortable position and try to remain so, unmoved, for five minutes, and you'll understand something of what I have to go through for ten times that long without a break. For that reason most models prefer to pose for male classes. Men always have more consideration. A woman painter will make you stand till her own hand is tired with the brush. Yet in the studio of the most considerate one must undergo torture. There is a lot of posing in every girl's, of which a little might be extended to us, for the fact is that there is no business in which a woman can engage where she will suffer so much fatigue and get so little remuneration as that of an artist's model."

Defective Hearing on Railroads.

Attention is called in medical journals to the desirability of testing railroad employees for defective hearing as well as for color-blindness. A recent examination in Europe developed the fact that out of 82 firemen and engineers only three possessed perfectly normal hearing. It is suggested that there should be a standard of hearing power for the examination of employees who have to depend upon sound signals.

Volcanic Islands.

Since the beginning of this century no fewer than 52 volcanic islands have arisen out of the sea. Nineteen have disappeared and ten are now inhabited.

American Diamonds.

Occasionally small diamonds have been found among the ridges of gravel brought down from the north in the age of the glaciers and scattered over the states bordering on the great lakes. Prof. Hobbs, of the University of Wisconsin, thinks that these diamonds came from some place in Canada, and that by tracing back the lines of advance of the glaciers the original location of the gems may be discovered. An effort to carry out Prof. Hobbs' suggestion is to be made, and Prof. H. L. Fairchild, of the University of Rochester, Prof. L. C. Russell, of the University of Michigan, Prof. J. P. Iddings, of the University of Chicago, and Prof. O. C. Farrington, of the Field Columbian museum, will cooperate by examining, without charge, suspected gems found by persons living near the glacial moraines.—Youth's Companion.

The Appetite of a Goat.

Is envied by all poor digestions whose stomach and liver are out of order. All such should know that Dr. King's New Life Pills, the wonderful stomach and liver remedy, gives a splendid appetite, sound digestion and a regular body habit that insures perfect health and great energy. SECOND LETTER SOLDIER SIMPSON.

PARAY, PHILIPPINE ISLANDS,
October 17, 1899.

Editors:

Not having been here long enough to get on the "ropes" for getting official reports of engagements that are taking place upon the island some of the news I send you comes from along the lines in our front, and some of it is gleaned from newspapers and the natives. The fighting is confined to guerrilla warfare. The insurgents are kept continually on the retreat, gradually dropping back as the troops advance. But when troops withdraw from ground gained—owing to the fact that there is not force enough to garrison the town taken—they fall back in their old position to court another thrusting. This is the dry season and it is presumed that active operations will soon be begun. A resume of the skirmishing for the past ten days will foot up about as follows: The Macabebes (native soldiers) on the 7th surprised and captured an insurgent outpost at Hogenoy. At Imus on the 8th, the insurgents attacked the town but were repulsed with severe loss. On the 9th a skirmish took place at Los Bano, which involved four companies of the Thirty-seventh and one battery of light artillery. It was of short duration, the insurgents retreating and leaving several wounded upon the field. There was a pretty good "serap" at Arayat, to the south on Thursday, which fell before General Young's troops, with but little loss to the Americans. The insurgents were about 300 strong, but had to give before the undoubted valor of a battalion of the Twenty-fourth infantry, which charged the works and drove them out of town. As the American forces neared the objective point the enemy opened up a heavy fire from ambush, which was returned with telling effect. As the advance consisted of flooded rice fields it was impossible to use cavalry, so they were dismounted and joined in the advance. A mountain battery under Captain Scott played into the works as volley after volley of the Krug variety were sent in by the infantry. A hail of lead was kept up for a half an hour, and the colored troops under Bachelier were ordered to charge. They say it was San Juan over again. With a yell that drove terror into the very heart of the enemy, the colored boys charged and soon with remained of the insurgents in the town of Arayat were fleeing into the brush in the direction of Magalang. A commissary station of considerable importance was captured, as was some 800 prisoners and sympathizers, among whom was a captain and a lieutenant.

The troops under General Schwan, who have been operating around Santa Cruz and San Francisco de Malabon, have been very successful, and it is felt by some that the blows dealt the insurgents there will be followed up by more until they are completely cornered. In this fight Captain Woodbridge Geary of the Thirtieth infantry was mortally wounded. The insurgents also lost their leader, Comandante Solerio, who fell in the first fire. The insurgents are said to feel the loss of Solerio more than any other commander since the insurrection began, not even excepting General Luna who was assassinated. He was universally loved in their ranks and had the supreme confidence of Aguinaldo. This fight, coupled with several lesser ones on the north, seems to indicate a very disastrous week for the insurgents, and whatever their position they spirit for cover upon the approach of the Americans. A leading general has been killed, many prisoners taken, large numbers wounded and killed. All in all, the work of the week has been replete with success and the temper of the boys in brown is at the proper pitch for victory whichever way the old tag leads. All want to end the trouble and teach the rebelling subjects that it doesn't pay to brook the displeasure of your Uncle Samuel. I can not prognosticate the work of the week ahead, but from the way orders are flying around and orders going in every direction, I take it there will be a "hot time" around here before many moons have come. In my next I will probably have to chronicle that the Thirty-fourth has been "under fire."

On Sunday night Manila was visited by an earthquake which was felt very perceptibly. The reverberations seemed from east to west, and many of the boys crawled from their "shacks," thinking that Aguinaldo's tread was reported as having been broken in some portions of the city the damage was not material.

Of the natives here, they are in many respects similar to the Mexicans of New Mexico and Arizona; their language is somewhat different, but the boys who talk the tongue of the Aztecs have little trouble in making themselves understood. Their mode of dress, however, differs somewhat, inasmuch that it is very meagre and fashioned more after the Yuma Indians. They appear to be clean as their scanty dress is always scrupulously neat. Those who live around here, seem to be perfectly contented that the Americans should come and govern for them, still they are a treacherous lot and are capable of "conning" one to a finish. They are allowed to go back and forth by passes, and are limited to the amount of merchandise or subsistence to be carried through. They are often turned back because of too much of such and such an article. They have a place to leave it, however, and unload to the maximum amount, leaving the surplus until next day. In my opinion the insurgents are getting all the supplies they need through the lines, for all day long the road leading to Manila, both going and coming, is lined with natives carrying baskets of rice—five pounds being their allowance—other articles. Well I'll get back to where we landed in the bay of Manila.

After our arrival on the 11th inst, our stay on the transport was prolonged to the 13th, when we were put aboard a government lighter about 9 a. m., and towed up the Pasig river to the California barracks, opposite New Manila, and about two miles from our anchorage. The companies were debarked, formed into line of march, and, at the command, were off. We were soon halted, ranks opened, and knapsacks unslung; blanket rolls were detached, and it began to dawn upon us that we were in for a "hike." Once, relieved of our greatest burden—the load of clothing we were carrying—knapsacks were piled in a heap for storage in the commissary department. Why the soldier is ever issued such an amount of superfluous clothing as we had to contend with, is something beyond ordinary comprehension, especially so, when it is taken into consideration the necessities for dress in this climate, unless it is that the government has a job lot on its hands and is disposing of it at a forced sale. Ten to sixteen dollars worth of clothing at the figures at which they were issued would have been a monumental sufficiency, yet the clothing accounts will exceed these sums by from sixty to seventy per cent. Of all the paraphernalia issued us we have the knapsack suit, two pairs of socks, a dannel shirt and a woolen undershirt. That which we left behind, in all probability would never be seen again, as we have been informed by some who have had the same experience. Possibly they will do duty again in the same manner. The numerous crafts afloat upon, and those anchored at the wharves of the Pasig river give that waterway a very formidable appearance. To the stranger the scene is one of interest, for here may be seen boats of all descriptions, modeled after fashions of olden times—such as we have seen in the picture books—and some of them have the appearance of having done service during the days of Columbus.

From our landing place we are marched out upon a broad boulevard, and halted, where we receive rations for three days. This part of the program convinces us that the "stuff is all off," and that we are in for a fight or a "hike." The boulevard is along the waterway of Manila Bay, in front being a fine beach. Here is situated the fort which the shots from Dewey's guns played such havoc with. Our road leads us through old Manila—or the walled city. New Manila being on the north side of the river, through, and to our back. Viewing these ruins from the bay we fancy we see a resemblance to Pompeii as it has been pictured to us. There is every indication of many generations having passed since it was built. We pass many massive structures of ancient architecture, which seem to invite exploration, but as our time, under the circumstances, is rather limited we do not stop but keep "pecking" away 125 steps to the minute, while a beaming sun is bringing great drops of perspiration to our brow, and we feel that Yuma, Ariz., would be a cool place in comparison.

While the populace are out in numbers, they do not seem awe-inspired, but view us with an indifference that bespeaks their becoming accustomed to the sight of armed bodies of men passing through their streets. We pass many quaint structures and frequent truck patches in the "front yard" with a pickaninny or a half grown Philippine man or woman peeping out from under a thatched roof, or resting their arms indolently upon a bamboo fence gazing at us with unconcern. Now we are out upon a dusty road and the sun is chasing the mercury from the bottom of the bulb to near the top. After a "rest" of a few moments we are on the move again and soon arrive at our destination, Pasay, five miles from Manila, and the first line of infantry outposts guarding the city on the south. We are at once thrown into position relative to the dismounted troops of the Third cavalry, who had in turn relieved the Thirtieth infantry. All "grandstand" drilling and inspection has been done away with, and we are lying in the trenches—practically speaking. The line of trenches were built by the Spanish in their defense of the city against the insurgents, the last trench east to west. Company K has the right, which rests upon Manila bay, the left wing is held by Company M, five miles distant at the town of San Pedro Macarty. The battalion formation is the second on the right, the first in the center and the third on the left. At San Pedro Macarty is brigade headquarters in command of Col. Kernon. Regimental headquarters are at Pasay, in command of Lieut.-Col. Howe. We are about nine miles from the firing line, and comprise the reserve forces, the Fourteenth infantry being in our front about five miles away. A mile in our rear is stationed a battery of the Fourth artillery with six pieces, guarding the coast line. Thus we are stationed, and our quarters are very good; numerous bamboo "shacks" at intervals along the trenches affording us shelter from the occasional showers of rain and the sun's hot rays. There was considerable rain last night but of no import.

The remainder of the regiment arrived on the 15th and were thrown into position on the 16th; shortened the distance of company fronts. They report having a fine trip over, and no accidents or sickness.

As to the health of the New Mexico boys of my acquaintance in the Thirty-fourth, it is good with one or two exceptions, that being Walter P. Galbraith, who enlisted at Albuquerque, on whom an operation was performed for a rising of the left breast; and Karl L. Tyler, who enlisted at Las Vegas, whom we left at Freddie. He has not yet joined the company. Otis E. Gleason, of Albuquerque, and Joseph J. Keith, of White Oaks, of Company E, have been put in the sharpshooter class, and will probably be put to the front in a day or two. Lieut. Max Luna, has been detached from the regiment to serve upon the staff of General Lawton, who is operating in the north. Samuel R. Dial, who enlisted at Albuquerque, absented himself from the company on the eve of our departure from Freddie, and did not put in an appearance upon the arrival of the remainder of the regiment, and will be put down as a deserter. Johnny Lane, Rob. Armstrong, Ed. Barrett and Pat Murphy, all boys well-known in Albuquerque, are looking well, and enjoying good health. Company K now has its full quota of officers—Captain William K. Dame, of Corralville, whom the boys have begun to appreciate as a capable leader, and while exacting and strict as regards the line of duty, is ever ready to help when necessary and in his power; First Lieutenant Edwin J. Bracken, of Salina, Texas, a man who knows how to dispense with the business under his care, and seems to be that Company "K" never "gets the worst of it." Our quarter master sergeant, Robert K. Moore, of Hillsboro, Texas, is a ruster, and our leader is always full if there is anything to be had at the commissary. With all this to be thankful for, we are more proud of the fact that our company has been assigned to the most important point on this line of outposts—the capability of the officers and the promptness and willingness with which the men assume and dispatch their duties being relative merits that has gained for us the confidence of our commanders, and placed us in such an important position. W. C. SIMPSON.

Committee in Topeka.
The grievance committee of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen for the Santa Fe road were in Topeka Monday. The first meetings were held Monday afternoon.

The committee will meet separately for several days, but before adjournment joint meetings will be held. The men are here to ask a revision of the schedule governing trainmen on the Santa Fe, or rather the arrangement of a new schedule. The present schedule was made up in 1892, and it is claimed that the road has outgrown its regulations. As a part of the new schedule the committee will ask an advance in the rate of pay of conductors and brakemen. Whether a horizontal increase will be asked, or various increases subject to different conditions, will be decided later.

It is announced that Grand Masters Clark and Morrissey of the O. R. C., and B. of R. T., respectively, will come to Topeka to assist in the arrangement of a new schedule. The Santa Fe officials will undoubtedly agree to a new set of rules and regulations for the government of trainmen, but it is a question whether an advance in pay will be allowed.

Under the act of Congress of June 21st, 1893, all lands in the territory of New Mexico have been donated to the university of New Mexico, located in Albuquerque. The United States land commission is now engaged in securing such information as will aid them in determining the location of all saline lands or salt springs, and have asked that a report be made upon Kady county. The master has been referred to K. M. Skeels, who is thoroughly familiar with the geology of the country, and will communicate to the commission the information desired.—Carlsbad Argus.

CENSUS RULES.
Employment of Assessors and Deputies as Enumerators Prohibited.
Hon. Pedro Sanchez, census supervisor for New Mexico, now has his office in the federal building, arranged conveniently for expediting work, says the New Mexican. He is receiving many applications for employment as enumerators. In the selection of employees the census bureau allows a wide range, but it prefers men of voting age as being more responsible than women or minors, although the employment of either of the latter classes is not prohibited. As a matter of fact, no citizen who is intelligent and can write readily is ineligible to appointment, except persons who are or have recently been connected with the office of the city or county assessor. It might seem that assessors and their deputies would be better equipped to find people and property than anybody else, but long experience has demonstrated to the census officials that their employment is not satisfactory.

Ignorant people always confuse the census enumerator with the assessor. When they are asked about their children, men have been known to lie about the number, supposing that they were to be taxed for their offspring at so much per head. The coming of the census taker has often been the signal for hiding everything in sight and causing people to plead poverty most grievously. The very first thing the department wishes people to understand is that it is in no way connected with or interested in the assessment and collection of taxes. The next is that people must give information, and every family must be found. It is desirable that the head of the family should give the information, and the enumerators are instructed to find the head of the family if necessary.

The work of census enumerators will be much more simple this time than usual. The instructions to enumerators contain this clause: "Under the provisions of section 7 of the census act the enumeration of June, 1900, is restricted to inquiries relating to the population, to mortality and to the products of agriculture and of manufacturing and mechanical establishments, and, by the same section, the schedules of mortality and of manufacturing and mechanical establishments may be withheld from the enumerators, in the discretion of the director of the census." Part of these schedules will be sent to the large manufacturing establishments. The small ones will be visited by the regular enumerators.

In giving instructions to the census supervisors, Director Merriam says county physicians, school teachers and postmasters at small offices will make good census enumerators, because they are likely to be fairly well posted already, but he makes short work of the assessors by saying: "No person who is directly or indirectly concerned either in the assessment of property for taxation or in the actual levying of taxation, should be designated for appointment as a census enumerator. It is not to be expected that every person will render a true account of his property or its products to a census enumerator who has official knowledge, either directly or indirectly, of statements made by such person for taxation purposes at a recent date; nor yet to an enumerator to whom he may be called upon in the near future to render statements for such purpose, or who by virtue of some official position, will have knowledge of, or access to such statements. No local officer to whom the foregoing would apply is, therefore, eligible for appointment."

The instructions also contain a statement that nearly 450 women were employed ten years ago as enumerators, and 300 as special enumerators in the institutions.

MAY PRESERVE THE RUINS.

Special Agent to Report on Proposed Reservation.
Special Agent Max Pracht, of the general land office, has been assigned the duty of examining the cliff dwellers and Aztec ruins in southwestern Colorado, with a view of reporting upon the advisability of setting aside that part of Colorado as a national park or reservation, says the New Mexican. The most interesting ruins are situated in the Mancos canyon and on the Mesa Verde, which are to be reached over the Denver & Rio Grande. They are being despoiled by relic hunters, who carry off relics by the car load. The government has been petitioned repeatedly to preserve the ruins, as they are probably the most interesting within the boundaries of the United States. Mr. Pracht will leave for Colorado in a few weeks.

This week a car load of relics were shipped from the ruins to New York, destined for the museum of natural history, and comprise many of the most striking objects, gathered from the ruins near Mancos, that have ever been discovered in Colorado or the southwest. These were gathered by Professor Pepper, of the department of anthropology, for the museum. He has spent the past few summers in the southwest, and has dug into hundreds of burial mounds of extinct races and visited thousands of stone houses, far up the sides of the cliffs.

He does not believe that an Aztec temple has been discovered in northwestern New Mexico. Neither does he believe that the life of the cliff dwellers extends back only 500 years. "Many points for which anthropologists have been looking, have not yet been established," said he, "and it may be centuries before the mile stones have been discovered. We do know, however, that the Mesa Koonatsa was inhabited 1,500 years ago, and that at least four stone cities, one upon another, have existed on the site of Acoma. How long ago the stone houses at Mancos were inhabited, no man can tell. It is as easy to say 5,000 years as 500 years, but progress is being made and we should not decide that the history of the rise, progress and decline of the cliff dwellers will never be written."

In an area of twenty square miles over which I have worked during the last four years is a field ample enough to operate for the next 100 years. The field has scarcely been scratched, as they say in mining phrase. Long after the twentieth century has passed the silent ruins will furnish food for study and investigation."

Professor Pepper says that Professor J. L. Wortman, who has been visiting the west for many years in the interest of science, and who is known by many people of Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico, has severed his connection with the natural history museum and is now organizing a great museum in Pittsburgh, founded by Andrew Carnegie, who has given $2,000,000 to the institution as a start.

THE COAL FAMINE.
The Santa Fe Pacific Railway the Only One Well Stocked.
The coal famine is a source of anxiety to the railway companies, on account of expected snow storms and a probable strike by miners. From the coal mines at Madrid from twenty-five to thirty cars per day go out with coal, from Carlsbad, but this amount is insufficient for demand along the Santa Fe railway alone. The Santa Fe road is commonly credited with being the only one of the large western railroads that is well prepared with fuel for the winter. Years ago the Santa Fe suffered heavy losses one winter on account of lack of coal, and it has ever since been the custom to fill every coal bin on the railroad in the summer. The deterioration of the coal on account of exposure to the weather and air is quite a loss each year, but the loss is small compared to what it might be if the hand-to-mouth plan were in vogue.

"The Denver & Rio Grande hasn't got enough coal on its line for its own use for a single day. The condition is not the fault of any one individual or company. It is partly the fault of the smelters, partly the fault of the railroads, and partly the fault of the mine owners. We are doing the best we can to relieve the situation, but the outlook is by no means encouraging," said President R. T. Jeffrey, after going to the coal camps to investigate the shortage.

"There never was anything like it before on the system of the Denver & Rio Grande," said C. M. Hobbs, who has charge of the coal supply of the road. "We the broad gauge portion of the road, we are barely well provided with coal, but the narrow gauge is in a different condition."

The mines are all running, and most of them are running with a fair number of men on full time. The coal is snapped up as soon as it comes out of the mine, and railroads are helping themselves to coal passing over their lines in a way which shows the roads are without any coal reserves. They take it wherever they can find it. Of course, the roads pay for the coal thus appropriated, but it sometimes puts a shipper to serious inconvenience when he is notified by telegram that a shipment of several cars short on arriving at destination.

G. W. Valley, of the Burlington road, gives as his opinion that the shortage is occasioned by the unprecedented rush of business in all classes. "Nobody could foresee the prosperity which has come over the country," said he. "Every line of business is rushed almost to its limit, and the heavy business of the railroads, the activity in manufacturing, the larger demand from private consumers who have more money to buy coal with than in the past, all combined to bring on the existing conditions. The railroads have more equipment than they ever had before, for all of them have been buying equipment, but the new cars cannot carry all the business presented. We will all have to do the best we can."

The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.

RICHARD A. McCURDY, President.

The general public attention which has been concentrated upon the new policy of The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, has demonstrated the fact that as a liberal and attractive contract its equal has never been offered to the public; it is possible that some of its advantages may have been overlooked by you, and it is to this end that we desire to call your attention to the following comparisons with the guarantees of other companies, which will prove conclusively that this policy is not equalled by that of any other company.

For comparison we will use a $10,000 Limited 20-Payment Life Policy, 20 Year Distribution, at age 35, which is the kind of policy usually illustrated by different companies:

MUTUAL LIFE.

All of the above figures are taken at the end of a 20-year period, although the guarantees given by this Company all through the different years are larger than those of other companies. It should be remembered that the surplus results are not taken into consideration in these comparisons, which, with the fact that the Mutual Life dividends on distribution policies are very large proves conclusively that there is no policy like this new contract.

SECTIONAL FEELING.

The Old Man Wouldn't Ride in the Same Car with Such a Fellow's Funeral Wreath.

The other day an east-bound car was just turning on to Erie street when a huffy young fellow climbed aboard, bearing proudly before him a wreath of red and white roses. It was a beautiful thing and huge in its dimensions, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He laid it tenderly down across the front seats and sat beside it, facing the other people in the car. An old gentleman sitting one seat back, who had been watching the performance with much interest, suddenly leaned forward.

"That wreath from Blank's?" he questioned.

"Umph."

"Thought so. Funeral?"

"Umph."

"You're mighty proud of it, ain't ye?"

The colored man looked a trifle surprised, but admitted that it was.

Which admission seemed to rouse the old gentleman to wrath.

"I know where that wreath's got to," he announced to the other passengers; "it's got up to John Dab's, and he ought to be ashamed of himself, too, getting flowers from a down-trodden fellow."

With which remark the protector of East end merchants actually climbed laboriously out of the car, leaving the other passengers in a high state of gloe, and the colored boy astonished he couldn't get his mouth properly shut for four whole blocks.

ENGLAND'S SPINSTER.

Many of Our Lady Cousins Across the Pond Live in Single Blessedness.

The number of single women in England constantly increases. Many thousands of women have to pass their lives in place of spending and husbanding the earnings of men. They pass their time in an incomplete and separate existence of their own, instead of completing and embellishing the existence of others. From the excess in the number of women, thousands take service in factories, while others overwork the ill-paid ranks of needlewomen and seamstresses.

Even in the richer classes, says a Londoner, there is the same inequality of numbers, and those who are relieved from the necessity of working for their daily bread have yet to seek some occupation, some interest in life, to relieve the tedium of an objectless existence. Some pursue pleasure merely, though this soon falls upon the appetite; others take to charitable pursuits, doing, perchance, an equal amount of good and mischief. Those whose tastes lead them to literary or artistic pursuits are perhaps the least unhappy.

That a redundancy of unmarried women exists is evident, but it must not be regarded as caused wholly or mainly by a disparity in the number of the sexes. This difference does not, at the most, amount to six per cent; whereas, the number of unmarried women in England amounts not to six, but actually to 30 per cent—that is to say, only two out of every three women are ever married.

NO CAUCUS NECESSARY.

Kansas Politician's Characteristic Proposal Accepted in Short Order.

A prominent politician of the Sunflower state, who, according to a local exchange, has been happily married for over a year sent the following unique proposal to the object of his adoration:

"My Dear Miss — I hereby announce myself as a candidate for your hand, and I shall use all fair and honorable means to secure the nomination. I know there are many candidates in the field and I hesitated long before entering the race, but now I'm in it. To stay. My views on love and matrimony have often been expressed in your hearing in an emphatic way. If you decide to confer upon me the honor I speak of please fix a date for a caucus with your mother. I have no objection to her acting as temporary chairman, provided it is clearly understood that I am to be chairman of the permanent organization. Should the results of the caucuses prove satisfactory we can select the primaries and select the date and place of convention. I never believed in long campaigns, so if you decide to honor me I will ask you to make the convention date as early as possible. Respectfully, yours."

The following telegram answered:

"Caucus unnecessary; nomination unanimous; come at once and fix the date of ratification."

A GIFT CAUSED GRIEF.

The Girl for Whom the Queen's Presence Was Intended Never Got Sight of It.

Perhaps no queen has been the recipient of more amusing letters than Margherita of Italy, nor can any member of royalty better appreciate a joke than her majesty. A little note which found its way into the royal correspondence recently has gone the rounds of the court. It appears that while taking a promenade the queen's attention was attracted by a chubby little girl. She called her to her side and inquired what she could do in the way of needlework, says the Pittsburgh News.

"I can knit stockings, signora," came the confident reply.

"Do you know who I am?"

"Yes, signora; you are the queen."

"Well, then, make me a pair of stockings and send them to the palace."

The stockings arrived, and the queen sent the girl by way of reward a pair of rose-colored stockings, one containing bonbons, the other money. The next evening brought this letter from the little knitter:

"Signora: Your gift has caused me tears. My father collared the money, my elder brother the sweets, and my mother put the stockings on herself."

Specialty Designed Engine.

The new engine, No. 104, just received by the White Oaks for the Alamogordo and Sacramento mountain division, is being put in order in the local round house preparatory to being taken out for service, says the Las Vegas Optic.

His engine has been especially constructed for the heavy grades and sharp curves of the mountain, and is the result of Superintendent Grigg of the White Oaks and the designers of the Baldwin locomotive works in Philadelphia. It has four distinct features which adapt it to mountain climbing. It has a short wheel base of only twelve feet three inches. The blind drivers are eight inches in width as contrasted with the six inch width of the dangle drivers, and 5 1/2 inch width of ordinary engine drivers.

This great width insures the keeping of the blind drivers on the rail on a sharp curve. The front truck is a Bissell pony wide swing truck and has plenty of freewheel. An emergency feature is the hand driver brake, in addition to the air brake and steam driver brake. This is for use on steep grades at critical times, should the other brakes fail to work. The weight of the engine is 166,000, on the drivers 128,000. The tank has a capacity of 3,500 gallons.

MADE HEIR TO A THRONE.

Son of Queen Victoria's Fourth Son is in Line, Through Several Renunciations.

Queen Victoria's sons have inherited from their father, the prince consort, a petty principality and throne in Germany. This is Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, a duchy with a territory of about 750 square miles—three-fourths of the area of Rhode Island—and a population exceeding 200,000. It is not a stronghold of power and influence, but a good deal of money goes with it, and makes it worth while to keep it in the family.

The prince of Wales renounced his rights to the duchy because he was heir to the English throne. The duke of Edinburgh accepted the inheritance, but he has no son to succeed him. The duke of Connaught was the next in line, but he and his son have renounced their rights. The heir to the throne is the son of the late duke of Albany, the queen's fourth son.

He is a schoolboy, in his fifteenth year, and has no prospects in England. He will now go to Germany to finish his education, and will come to be an English prince. He will owe allegiance to the German emperor, and will probably serve his time in the army.

The inheritance has been arranged by Queen Victoria, whose will is law in the English royal family. She has provided for one of her favorite grandsons a snug and comfortable little throne on the continent, where he will have little to do, and where his income will be large.—Youth's Companion.

HAYTIAN CONSERVATISM.

Discard Innovations and Stick to the Old Laborious Method of Doing Things.

The Haytian is a wonderful example of conservatism. What was, must be right. A few years ago the town of Port de Paix, owing to an unexpected progressive spirit on the part of the government, constructed some fine waterworks. The town was well piped, with hydrants at short distances on all the streets. Decorative fountains were placed in the squares, drinking places for man and beast everywhere. The natives, as usual, took not the slightest interest in this important and necessary undertaking. At last, when completed, in accordance with the custom of the country, the water system was opened with a series of fetes. The whole section of the country had a hilarious holiday—balls, processions, cock-fights, etc. When these were all over, says Harper's Magazine, the natives came to the conclusion that the waterworks must have been built to give an excuse for them, and the waterworks were no longer of any service, so they promptly smashed the whole system up and returned to carting the city's waste from the distant river by ox teams. Now they take their animals to the hydrants, fall over the fragments of the pipes scattered round the streets, and are happy.

SMART WOODPECKERS.

They Drop Bad-Smelling Berries Into Hollow Trees to Drive Grubs Out.

Prof. Eastman J. Clarke, with a party of students from Connecticut, has just returned from a long trip after natural history specimens in the Maine woods. Some weeks ago, while on the headwaters of the Allagash, he says he found a family of downy woodpeckers which seemed to be endowed with more intelligence than falls to the lot of the average bird. Woodpeckers feed upon worms that burrow into trees. As an active borer makes a gallery three or four feet long in a single season, the woodpecker is often obliged to make many punctures in order to get at his prey. The family of birds which came under Prof. Clarke's eye had adopted a clever device which has proved of great service. The rancid plant that grows in the Maine woods is the Indian poke, the berries of which are charged with an alkaline juice that is very effective to all animal life. According to Prof. Clarke, the Allagash woodpeckers, having opened up a gallery made by a borer, drop pokeberries in the orifice. The berries give out such an odor that the grubs are forced to come outside for fresh air, and the woodpecker does the rest.

CORDIALLY AGREED WITH TEDDY.

Gov. Roosevelt attended the recent commencement at Cornell, and while there was entertained at one of the college fraternity-houses. When he was about to leave one of his staff said to him: "Governor, the boys have an excellent library in the house and I think they would appreciate it. Enclosed is a copy of your 'Rough Riders.'"

"Teddy," in an outburst of good-fellowship, exclaimed: "All right, boys, I'll be glad to send you a copy with my compliments; the book would be a very small return, indeed, for your hospitality." Whereupon one of the boys replied, excitedly: "That's so, governor; I've read it."

THE STORMS OF CAPE HATTERAS.

Another popular belief has been disposed of. "Stormy Hatteras" has long been a terror to ocean voyagers. But William E. Curtis, who has just made a trip past it, writes: "The voyage from New York is delightful. People always expect a little weather off Cape Hatteras, but the captain of our ship says that is a popular delusion. He declares that Hatteras has no more storms than any other point on the earth's surface. The land projects into the Atlantic and makes the sailing along that coast in bad weather, and there have been terrible disasters from time to time; therefore, Capt. Sukerforth says that Cape Hatteras has unjustly got a bad name. He has been sailing this course for a number of years—I have forgotten how many—and declares that he has never met with a gale in the latitude of Hatteras."

LILY OF THE VALLEY POISON.

That delightfully fragrant and graceful flower, the lily of the valley, is denoted by the German papers, as under its simple beauty veiling a deadly poison. It is stated that both the stalks and the flowers of this lovely plant contain prussic acid.

Remarkable value in baskets, comforters and pillows at Albert Faber's, Grant building.

WANTED TO TRADE WIVES.

An Esquimaux Chief Who Became Enamored of an American Woman.

A plucky little western woman, Mrs. Laura McGregor, has recently returned to the United States after a trip of more than seven months in the Arctic seas, north of Bering strait. It is said to be the first time that a white woman has spent an entire season in this region of the great frozen north.

Mrs. McGregor is the wife of the captain of a steam whaler, and the trip was made upon her husband's ship. Her trip was full of curious adventures. Once, while they were trading with the Esquimaux, a celebrated chief of that region actually proposed to trade wives with Capt. McGregor, and finally became so insistent upon making the exchange that he had to be forcibly ejected from the ship. The wife whom he proposed to exchange for Mrs. McGregor was a hideously ugly squaw with swarthy features, who could not speak a word of English.

Mrs. McGregor kept her eyes open during the voyage and brings back many interesting stories of the life of the native Esquimaux which she met. With a woman's quickness for such details she observed much of the life of the natives of that region, which would scarcely be observed by a man. She found the Esquimaux women quite as vain and proud of their primitive surroundings as the women of civilized countries. The squaws begged for every article of dress she had, and if the chance came they would have no hesitation in stealing it. As fast, she says, as she could make a wrapper or some other simple article they would beseege her for it, offering to exchange almost anything they owned.

The hats Mrs. McGregor wore were objects of special admiration. They delight in bright colors, and the more gaudy the trimmings the more it pleased them. Mrs. McGregor trimmed a number of hats for them with the wings of the native birds of the north to their great delight.—N. Y. World.

CRIME IN ENGLAND.

Sir James Vaughan, for 35 years a police magistrate of London, notes a wonderful decrease in crimes of brutality and violence, and an increase, less marked, in the crimes which require brains and ingenuity. General education doubtless favors morality and reduces the number of crimes of the street and of their wretched homes, the more quickening of the intellect only gives new power for mischief.

CAT ADOPTS FOUR RABBITS.

A cat on the farm of Andrew Harris, near McKeesport, Pa., has adopted four baby rabbits in place of the litter of kittens which she recently brought into this world and which Mr. Harris thought the world could get along without. The day after the kittens disappeared the cat was observed carrying something to the barn in her mouth. Three times she was seen making the same journey, and then Mr. Harris made an investigation. He found, hidden in the hay, three baby rabbits. While he was looking at them puss appeared for the fourth time, carrying another little rabbit in her mouth. It was repaired with the others, and she lay down with them, purring with the greatest of pride and satisfaction. The young rabbits are getting along finely. They hop all about their foster mother. Mr. Harris is proud of his cat and is permitting her to raise her queer family undisturbed except for the visitors who are constantly calling to witness this queer freak.—N. Y. Sun.

Used by British Soldiers in Africa.

Capt. C. G. Dennison is well known all over Africa as commander of the forces that captured the famous rebel Galla. Under date of November 4, 1907, from Vryburg, Bechuanaland, he writes: "Before starting on the last campaign I bought a quantity of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used myself when troubled with bowel complaint, and had given to my men, and it proved case it proved most beneficial." Sold by all druggists.

A RAILROAD MOVE.

The Santa Fe people have just completed an arrangement by which their business with points in Texas and other Gulf states can be handled with much greater expedition. Heretofore this business has been done through New Orleans, the Gulf being reached from there by the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe lines. From New Orleans to Galveston the route is almost dead north and south.

The new route will be to Trinidad, Colo., a point far west of New Orleans, and thence in a southeasterly direction by the Denver, Texas & Fort Worth road to Fort Worth, and thence to any point in the Gulf states. From Trinidad to New Orleans, New Orleans to Fort Worth and Fort Worth back to Trinidad is almost an enormous equilateral triangle. The old route crosses two legs of this triangle, and the new route will cross only one. The distance saved is roughly estimated to be 800 miles.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

Pretty Gowns and Waists for the Fall Season—Materials Now in Favor.

Some of the new Eton jackets are rounding on the fronts, showing a vest of another color and material beneath; others are made with scalloped edges and high, flaring collars.

Very stylish is a suit of dark blue broadcloth made with a tunic drapery and trimmed with heavy black braid. The jacket is one of the Eton styles with rounding fronts and a vest of red broadcloth with three rows of machine-stitching all around the edge, black, and small black buttons down the front.

Some of the new Eton and waists are made with Eton fronts and large lapels and collars.

Exceedingly pretty hose gowns are made of cashmere, Henrietta, chailles and nun's veils. All these materials are soft and pretty and are well adapted for dressy gowns.

A dress that would be pretty for the house is made of red chail, with a satin stripe of red and small polka dots in black. The skirt is made with three narrow ruffles and a tunic drapery which also has a narrow ruffle of the goods. All these ruffles are trimmed with black chiffon plaiting. The waist is made with a black yoke, vest and girdle of fancy black silk, and a ruffle of the goods edged with the black chiffon plaiting comes down on either side of the vest in front and around the yoke in the back and over the shoulders. The collar is of the black silk with a chiffon plaiting around the top, and the girdle is edged with this chiffon top and bottom. The sleeves are close-fitting, with small pointed cuffs trimmed with the chiffon.

It is well to look around in the stores at this season for remnants of silk, satin, lace, ribbons and embroideries. There are many remnants of silk and satin that can be bought at a great reduction. In fact, some are marked down almost half price, and good qualities and lovely patterns are often found. These small remnants are nice for waists and coat linings. For instance, a beautiful quality of duchess satin that had been selling at $1.50 a yard; three yards of this was bought for $1.50, the price of one yard. It would not have been pretty for a waist, as it was a dark plum color, but there was just enough in this piece to line a coat, and for that purpose it was used. Oftentimes remnants can be picked up in this way, not only in silks, but dress goods, laces, etc. Scotch flannels come in pretty stripes of pink and white, blue and white, and gray and white, and this goods makes up nicely into very pretty shirt waists, especially some of the gray and white stripes which are a distance from the most like silk. This goods sells from 25 cents a yard and up, and it is also nice for dressing gowns, wrappers and bath robes.—Ladies' World.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Some Short Suggestions Upon Various Matters in the Domestic Department.

An excellent every-day pudding may be made with a cupful of fruit juice as a foundation. Bring to the boiling point one cupful of water and one cupful of fruit juice. Dissolve three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch in a little cold water, stir into the boiling syrup and cook ten minutes. Add one-half salt-spoon of salt and sugar to make of the sweetness required. The quantity, of course, depends upon the tartness of the fruit juice used. Beat the whites of three eggs until foamy, but not too stiff, and stir into the pudding. Turn into a mold and set in a cool place to harden. Serve cold with a boiled custard made from the yolks of the eggs.

In preparing the little cucumbers for pickling do not forget to add a little horseradish root to the vinegar. The cucumbers are put in and lay some of the leaves over the top of the jar. The horseradish helps to retain the strength of the vinegar and prevents mold coming over the top of the pickle.

Berry and peach-stained fingers are apt to be the order of the day now, but ordinary fruit stains can be readily removed with a little lemon juice, followed by a vigorous rub with a nail brush. If they prove too obstinate, however, a more radical method is to rub them with diluted oxalic acid, rinsing them with clear water afterward.

An English arrangement in berries and cranberries is quite as effective and delicious substituting nice sliced peaches for the berries. Take a pretty china dish, put a layer of peaches slightly crushed and sugared, then some cream, more peaches and cream, until the top is reached. Set the whole on ice until quite frozen. Cut with a silver knife.

Lace, white satins and silks keep a much better color if put away in blue tissue paper. The Turkish embroideries in gold or silver should be wrapped in several layers of black tissue paper, which prevents tarnishing.

The test of a canteloupe, says a Catal kill grower of the luscious fruit, is in its fragrance. Break a little piece from the stem end with the thumb nail. If the canteloupe smells spicy it is quite sure to be good.

Calf's liver may be sliced, dipped in fat, laid on a gridiron and broiled just as well as chops or steak. Season, send to the table on a hot platter, and serve on hot plates.—Washington Star.

John Cloudman, a ranchman near Ojo Caliente, recently set a trap and a shot gun to catch bears that had killed a steer a day or two before. Going to the place next day Mr. Cloudman was rewarded by finding one dead bear with two loads of buckshot in his carcass and another with the trap attached to one front foot. Mr. Cloudman shot this bear with a small caliber Winchester, which only had the effect of arousing the bear's anger. The bear made a vicious attack upon Mr. Cloudman, who only escaped through the fleetness of his horse, the bear chasing him fully 200 yards with the heavy trap with a pole attached hanging to his foreleg. MINES AND MILLS.

The Rich Hillside District of Sierra County.

From the Advocate.

New and rich gold and copper ground is being opened up at our mines every day, and about a hundred more leases could be set to work in the district. Dead broke miners, however, should keep away from here and only those come who have the financial means to sustain themselves for a month or so until they can realize on their ores.

The starting up of the Bobtail and Opportunity mines will eventually add $175,000 per year to the Hillside camp.

This week the Richmond made a twenty-seven-ton shipment of $100 gold and copper ore to the Colorado smelters.

The Chance mine, of the Sinomahoning company group, is now hoisting ore at $345 per ton, gold and copper. Manager Brooks will probably have all four mines of this productive group shipping by March 1st next. Gravity ore bins are to be put in at all of them.

By the consolidation of the K. K. and Butler Mining companies, which occurred this week, the product of these properties is now being mined for $4 per ton instead of $7, as formerly.

A True Friend.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. That is exactly what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is. It is the mother's help when she is suddenly awakened in the night by the continuous husk cough, and labored breathing of her babe. It is the safe resort of the youth or adult when he has "caught cold" and there is coughing and irritation of the throat, the membrane of the throat. It allays the irritation and cures the cold. For sale by all druggists.

A WAR ON CONSUMPTION.

Congress May be Asked to Enact Necessary Legislation.

There is a strong probability that congress will be called upon this winter to enact suitable legislation for the prevention of the spread of consumption. It is said that a bill will be introduced in the house for the erection of a national sanitarium, to be under the immediate supervision of the marine hospital service, and in view of the contagious character of the disease, it is not improbable that some action will be taken looking towards the stamping out of the plague—for it is fast becoming a plague, as the statistics of all the large cities show.

The fact that the United States government is deeply interested in the matter is shown by the instructions recently sent our consuls abroad, ordering them to obtain data on the subject. In accordance with instructions, Consul Corvet, at Lyons, France, has transmitted the following from the league for the prevention of tuberculosis:

"For every six persons in this country at least one dies of consumption. Of the 50,000 deaths that occur every year in France, over 140,000 are caused by pulmonary tuberculosis or phthisis, and this great number, instead of decreasing, goes on augmenting every year. Hardly a family in the nation but pays toll to their sad tribute. No disease, no scourge can be compared to tuberculosis, so far as the number of victims are concerned. All epidemics and contagious diseases combined—typhoid, varioloid, scarletina, measles, diphtheria, cholera, etc.—do not cause half so many deaths."

"The parasite of this disease may also be found in beef, especially cow-beef, poultry, rabbits and milk. The latter should always be boiled, or better still, sterilized, before using. Milk is sterilized by placing the vessel containing it in a tin-pail full of water and letting it boil for forty-five minutes. The habit of drinking fluid at slaughter-houses is dangerous and without any salutary results."

"Some persons have a tendency to consumption, and should be especially careful; for instance, those whose relatives have died from consumption or who are feeble from privations. The abuse of alcoholic liquors is particularly favorable to phthisis. Over 2,000 infants under two years of age die annually in Paris from consumption."

"This disease is curable where it has not advanced too far, for those who are willing to submit to long months—and sometimes years of treatment and repose in special sanitariums."

"The time is fast approaching when states will quarantine against consumption. California, it is said, has already inaugurated such a movement."

Glorious News.

Comes from Dr. D. B. Gargile, of Washburn, T. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters have cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which has caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what Electric Bitters is the blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates the liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by J. H. O'Reilly, druggist, guaranteed.
