To Debate Railways.

Lewistown, Me., March 11.—Problems connected with the "physical valuation of all railroads engaged in interstate business" will be definitely decided tonight by a debate between the orators of Bates College and the College of the City of New York.

Wants Money for Son.

Washington, March 11.—It is reported that a local attorney is seeking testimony to be used at the trial of the suit brought in Utah by Mrs. Anna Bradley, who killed former United States Senator Arthur L. Brown in this city in December, 1906. After a sensational trial Mrs. Bradley was acquitted. The woman alleges that Brown was the father of her two children, and she is now attempting to have her offspring declared legal and equal heirs in the division of Brown's estate, valued at about $100,000. It is said that affidavits have been sought from several of Brown's associates in the Senate.

May Start Rough House.

Wichita, Kan., Mich. 11.—Uneasy is the head that wears a helmet in Wichita today. The peerless princess of the prairies has been invaded by hundreds of loud-voiced rah rah boys from the nine leading colleges of the Sunflower State, and before the visiting youth are tucked in their little beds tonight, or tomorrow morning, it is likely that the Wichita police will be called upon many times to decide the difference, if any between mere boyish enthusiasm and common assault and battery.

The annual talkfest of the Kansas State Oratorical Association is the occasion of the gathering. Each team of windjammers is accompanied by a large contingent of rooters, who have announced the intention of splitting all the welkins in town. Students from Topeka—last village being a rival of the peerless princess by the Arkansas—have promised to add zest to the occasion by building a white fence around Wichita, that addition only being needed, they allege, to transform the town into a first class cemetery.

The last time the oratorical association assembled in Wichita the meeting was all but broken up by a free-for-all row, and much furniture and scenery in the Auditorium was demolished. Precautions have been taken by the police to prevent a repetition of such innocent pranks. Nevertheless, many peace-loving citizens have left town for the day.

BASKING IN SUNSHINE WHILE FRIENDS SHOVEL.

To the Editor of the Argus-Leader. The Argus-Leader arrives daily, and I am delighted to keep posted regarding home news, but I have had to change my date for leaving for home several times, as I am enjoying a great contract to your wintry weather up there. This New Mexico climate is wonderful and the gentle, soft air is so refreshing every day. We have had great rides over these delightful roads, and you would enjoy an auto spin 30 or 40 miles among the numerous orchards and alfalfa fields.

The sun rises are something wonderful, with great array of beautiful clouds, and the moonlight nights are ahead of anything I ever saw, for the light is so white.

This altitude of 3,600 feet together with the latitude of 25 degrees makes a great combination and while it is not a tropical climate, no pineapples, bananas or oranges, yet there is an absence of snow, sleet and frost, that makes one enjoy the cutting out of winter, and we sit out on the lawn daily, with the spray from the hose sprinkler furnished from the big artesian well, making the grass look quite like spring.

We have been enjoying the thermometer around 30 in the morning, sometime down to 20, but during the day it is around 60 frequently up to 75, and these great changes have no ill effect for the air is so pure and beautiful. There is a large mountain 65 miles to the west called El Capitan, and about 55 miles away the Sierra Blanco, range is a very beautiful sight all covered with snow.

Roswell is a beautiful city of about 10,000 people, quite up-to-date, with miles and miles of cement sidewalk and great numbers of shade trees, which with the splendid lawns are kept in fine style by the abundance of water from the flowing artesian wells. The people are mostly from Texas, Missouri and Arkansas but for the past three years, with the semi-monthly excursion trains the northern people are flocking in, and I have met a large number from Iowa and South Dakota also.

I wish you could see Colonel Baker's fruit ranch and enjoy some of the rides on his saddle horses, with me. The alfalfa fields are beginning to turn green, the irrigation season soon will open, the buds are appearing on the fruit trees, and I am enjoying all this, while I read of your snow banks and railroad blockades, and while I learn from letters from my friends how the "beautiful" is still keeping sidewalk shoveling quite fashionable.

We had a family picnic the other day, out about six miles, by the side of the Berrendo river, took our luncheon and the delightful air was quite like summer and I don't feel like hastening back home yet. Remember me kindly to any inquiring friends and tell them a trip away to New Mexico is just the thing.

Always yours,
WM. PANTTON.
