IT'S WORK DONE.

Fifty-Fifth Congress Adjourned at Noon To-Day.

Both Houses in Session All Night to Complete Legislation.

Conference Reports on Nearly All Important Measures Adopted.

BILLS SIGNED BY PRESIDENT.

Washington, March 4.—All night the senators labored under a terrific nervous strain to complete the necessary legislation in order that congress might adjourn at noon to-day with the decks comparatively clear.

A determined effort was made from 8 o'clock last night until morning by several western senators, headed by Warren (Rep., Wyo.), for the consideration of the conference report on the river and harbor bill, because of the refusal of the eastern conferees to consent that the senate amendment, making an appropriation for the construction of reservoirs at the headwaters of the Missouri river, should remain. Frye, of Maine, in charge of the conference report, steadily refused to permit the report to be reconsidered. He was sustained by a majority of the senate. Warren occupied the floor in the discussion of the reservoir proposition for five hours, occasionally being interrupted by other senators. Finally, at 2 o'clock, Frye consented to make one more effort to induce the house conferees to accept the senate reservoir amendment. The report was reconsidered to the extent of the Missouri river reservoirs. Warren reported that the senate conferees were unable to induce the house conferees to open the agreement already made and the measure must stand or fall according to the report made. Then Warren yielded rather than defeat some appropriation bills. Without more debate the river and harbor report was agreed to.

Following quickly upon this agreement another hour of contention was caused into the senate in the form of the partial report of the river bill conferees. Hale, of Maine, in charge of the report, said the conferees were unable to agree on the senate amendment reducing the price of armor plate to $35 per ton, and that authorizing the construction of a government armor factory in the event of a refusal by the armor companies to accept the price fixed by the senate. Hale moved that the senate conferees recede from the amendment. This motion created a lively debate. Hale, Tillman, Chandler and Butler being the leading participants. The senate voted down Hale's amendment and sent the bill back to the conferees.

At 5:30 Allison, of Iowa, presented a partial report on the sundry civil bill. The conferees still disagreed upon several items, the principal among which were the public building project and that providing for the construction of the Hawaiian cable. The partial report was adopted.

On motion of Allison the senate recessed, after considerable discussion, from the senate amendment inserting the building project bills for which have not passed both branches of congress. Allison then moved that the senate recede from the consideration of the amendments in controversy, including the Pacific cable project. This motion was vigorously discussed by Pettigrew, Chandler and Butler. The last named denounced the action of the house in delivering "ultimatums" to senate as "check book legislation," and "an insult to the senate." Allison's motion to recede from the amendments in dispute was carried. That disposed of the sundry civil bill. The final conference report on the District of Columbia appropriation bill was agreed to without division.

Hale presented the conference report on the general revenue bill, which was agreed to without division. At 5:30 Hale presented the conference report on the naval bill. He announced that the house refused absolutely to authorize the construction of an armor plate plant. The number of new ships will remain as fixed in the house bill.

Hale asked, "Will we conclude any contracts for new war vessels under the pending bill if it becomes law?" Hale: "No, I think not. I believe we shall do more than get out plans and specifications. Of course, the senate conferees had to yield something."

Tillman: "But we seem to have spent everything and have nothing left." Hale: "The senate conferees cannot settle this controversy alone." The final conference report was finally agreed to without division. Fairbanks moved the consideration of the bill extending the immigration laws to the Hawaiian Islands. The bill was taken up. Pettigrew asserted that since the annexation of the islands 10,000 Asiatic laborers have been imported. Perkins also urged action at the present session, declaring that the contract laborers of Hawaii were secured at a third of the cost of labor to the sugar makers of California or Louisiana. Without taking action a motion by Morgan to go into executive session was carried.

At 11:45 o'clock the senate began its last legislative session. The senate voted thanks to Vice President Hobart, who made a speech congratulating the senate and country on the history-making session just closed.

In the house, the proceedings dragged after midnight while the house waited for the report on the appropriation bills that remained in the conference. At 4:30, the river and harbor conference agreement was reported by chairman Burton, who moved their adoption. Hepburn, of Iowa, raised a point of order against the Near-agua canal amendment on the ground that it was not primary and was now legislation, not in dispute by the senate and house. Mr. Hepburn was ruled out by the speaker.

The conference report was then agreed to without division. This was the last legislative stage of the bill and it was ready for the president. At 5 a. m. McMele presented a partial conference report on the sundry civil bill, covering everything save the three big items—new ships, the price of armor and government armor factory. Boutwell moved that the house recede from the report, particularly on the reduction of ships and he thought the house would agree to it. The house receded from the report as to ships and the price of armor.

The District of Columbia bill report was adopted. At 5:30 a. m. the final conference report on the naval bill was presented by Boutwell. He explained that the senate yielded to the house as to the number of ships to be authorized, twelve, and the house confirmed the armor plate provision as to the price of armor to $30, but secured the elimination of the provision for an armor plate factory. The house reluctantly yielded upon the item as to the price of armor. Boutwell said, in the hope that a future congress would remedy the situation. The report was adopted.

General Wheeler, of Alabama, made a strong effort to gain recognition for a three minute speech just before congress closed, but the speaker deliberately ignored him as Wheeler's status is a matter of some question.

The house unanimously voted thanks to the speaker, who made a suitable reply to the cheers of the most dramatic ever known in congress. The house closed by singing, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," cheers for Dewey, and the singing of the national anthem.

The appropriation bills. Both the senate and house have agreed to all the appropriation bills. The Pacific cable amendment failed. In the final appropriation bill the house won all the amendments for the increase of the navy, and the senate amendment reducing the price of armor plate to $35 per ton prevailed. The senate amendment for an armor plate factory was eliminated.

WINTER LOSS OF STOCK.

Estimated to Have Been About 25 Per Cent. in New Mexico. Denver, March 4.—The Denver National Live Stock association's bulletin issued to-day, puts the loss of cattle in the past winter on the western ranges as a whole at an average of 1 per cent, with a probability of an additional loss of 2 per cent before summer. The heaviest losses were owing to cattle being moved north from the south, these running in some sections as high as 30 per cent. Reports indicate a general winter loss of 25 per cent, a little above the average, in New Mexico. In Utah, Wyoming and some parts of Oregon heavy sheep losses are reported, running up to 30 per cent in some sections.

HELD AN ACTIVITY.

Suspicions in Regard to Death of Mrs. Aveyta Prove to Be Unfounded. Owing to certain rumors alleged in Arizona in regard to the death of Mrs. Rosita M. de Aveyta, who died there on Wednesday of last week, the remains were exhumed yesterday and an autopsy held by Drs. Osuna and Phillips. The deceased was a step-daughter of Nestor Montoya, the reading clerk of the territorial council, and as soon as she was notified that there were suspicious death, he came down from Santa Fe and made arrangements for an autopsy, which was held at the residence of the deceased on Friday afternoon. Drs. Osuna and Phillips found after examination that the deceased had died from aneurism of the heart and that there were no evidences of violence. This was a great relief to Mr. Montoya and other relatives as they were loath to believe that anyone had taken the young woman's life. The body was re-buried in Santa Barbara cemetery.

HE IS INSANE.

Man Who Robbed E. J. Post &amp; Co. to Be Taken to an Asylum in Oregon. Dr. Welch, of Portland, Oregon, was in Santa Fe yesterday and brought before the territorial court proceedings before Judge McMele in the case of the Territorial v. Robert Williams, the man in the county jail in this city charged with robbing E. J. Post &amp; Co. a few months ago of a large number of revolvers. At the hearing in Santa Fe yesterday, Dr. Welch testified that Williams is his son, and that his right name is Reuben Welch. He also testified that the latter is insane and that he escaped from an insane asylum in Oregon. He therefore asked for a writ of habeas corpus ordering the boy turned over to him, and he promised to take him back to the insane asylum.

The writ was issued and Dr. Welch arrived in this city last night. He settled with E. J. Post &amp; Co. for the loss they sustained and will leave with his boy for Oregon to-night.

Dr. Welch was also the father of Dr. Welch, Jr., who died in this city something over one year ago.

Presbyterian Church Social. The Presbyterian church social given by the young people's society of the church at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. Luthy was largely attended, and was a most pleasant gathering in every respect. The early part of the evening was informally spent in giving the authors of the quotations which were pinned up around the room. The most excellent program which had been arranged for the evening was then carried out. Prof. Coghill played a concert solo to an accompaniment on the piano by Miss Mariel Anderson. A vocal solo by Miss Maude Summers was well received and evoked much applause. Mrs. T. J. Curran sang the assembly by reading "Cicero's Speeches" in perfect imitation of the Irish dialect. Mrs. R. H. Davenport received great praise for the pleasing manner in which she sang "Leave Me Not," and in response to an encore she sang "My Old Kentucky Home" in a way that touched all hearts.

At the conclusion of the program delicious refreshments were served. When the time for the company to adjourn all agreed that the evening had been most enjoyably spent.

TUESDAY NIGHT. At the reduced rate, sixteen photographs, four positions, for 25 cents, at "White's tent," corner Railroad avenue and Fourth street. Will be open all day tomorrow; now is your time to get photographs and of course the only place is "White's tent."

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

Fred, To Hunt Has a Hair Breadth Escape From Death in Alaska. Mrs. W. K. Talbot has received a letter from her son, Fred, Talbot, who is now in Seattle, which gives an account of a hair breadth escape from death which he had at Caribou crossing, in Alaska, a few weeks ago. Readers of THE CITIZEN will remember that Fred came down to Seattle to buy a supply of goods last January, returning to Alaska on January 25. When he reached Skagway, he decided to make an effort to win the prize of $1,000, which had been offered to the man who made the trip from Skagway to Dawson in the shortest time. He started out on a bicycle with a sack attachment and reached Caribou crossing without mishap. He left the road house at the latter place early in the morning and rode him when he was alone. He broke through the ice on the Yukon river and fell in, with bicycle, supplies and all. Twice he rose to the surface of the water and, when caught at the top of his voice for help. After that he became unconscious and can remember nothing until he regained consciousness and found himself at the road house at Caribou, and receiving the tenderest care of the occupants.

As good fortune would have it, two of the men at the road house stood watch for him when he was alone. He was taken up by a boat and carried to the shore, where he was given every care and attention possible, but, in the absence of medical skill, there was danger of his losing his right hand, as he started out on his return to Seattle at once. It was at first feared that the hand would have to be amputated but his letter Fred says that he is now only in danger of losing the little finger and fingers are being made to save that.

Fred, had about $800 worth of supplies with him at the time of his accident and he did not save a dollar's worth. His misfortune has not daunted the young man in the least and he is just as lively as ever. He wrote his mother that it was his intention to remain in Seattle until late in the spring and then return to Alaska. His mother has written him, urging him to come home and it is possible that he will conclude to following her good advice in the matter.

B. Ruppe to-day turned the office of chief of the fire department over to assistant chief, A. G. Stockert, who will be acting chief until the election in May. The acting chief, together with Alderman Tierney, as chairman of the fire committee, were around to-day putting up the new key marks on the fire alarm boxes. The new attachment is on the front of the alarm box and to send in an alarm of fire by means of the key turned, unlocking the door to the alarm box proper. The hook is then to be pulled as per instructions inside.

Notwithstanding the sandstorm that raged, there was a good attendance of the reading circle of the Methodist Episcopal Woman's Home Missionary society. The ladies discussed the chapter of Joseph with a great deal of animation and interest, and the thoughts advanced on immigration showed a clear and deep insight into the subject.

Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. J. H. Fenner and Mrs. Zink entertained the Kilo Kilo club at their residence, No. 1616 South Broadway. The twenty-five members were served, and the twenty-five members were present prepared to their respective homes with praise for Messrs. Fenner and Zink as royal entertainers.
