GAS BLAST WRECKED TIMES IS THEORY OF THE DEFENSE

JURORS WHO BELIEVE OTHERWISE DISQUALIFIED

Clash Comes in Examination of Talesmen Summoned For Service in Panel Which Will Try McNamara For Murder.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.] Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—Three talesmen were examined and one was excused in the murder trial of James H. McNamara today.

What is considered one of the big issues of the trial—whether a man who believes in the dynamite theory of the Times building explosion is qualified to serve as a juror—was tested tonight in the hands of Judge Walter Goodell, who presides over the trial.

The defense held that the Times building explosion was caused by gas and that McNamara could not have brought it about for this reason, argued today in court that a true belief in the dynamite theory precluded the rights of the client, and that the talesman who held it would not be a fair juror.

District Attorney John D. Fredericks, for the state, compared the situation to the case of the burned barn which is of record.

"A man believing that the barn was burned, yet having no opinion as to whether the defendant burned it, is allowed to serve as a juror," he said. "Similarly a talesman may believe that the Times building destroyed by dynamite and still have an open mind regarding the defendant in this case, as these men say they have."

"Is this your idea of a fair juror," asked Attorney Darrow of Fredericks, after Otto A. Jensen had testified that he believed the Times was dynamited by members of officers of trades unions, and that he "thought he had prejudice against unions, but had no prejudice toward McNamara himself."

"It certainly is," replied Fredericks.

"Well, like your idea of fairness," said Darrow, in a low voice.

Judge Goodell promptly intervened and ordered the examination to proceed.

Charles D. Chaffee, the man who had been excused, was challenged for cause, because his name was not on the Los Angeles county assessment roll.

George W. McKee, the other man challenged, held the dynamite explosion theory, but expressed no animus toward union labor.

A new line of inquiry was developed by the defense in the examination of Edward F. Decker, a landscape painter.

Decker said he had never worked for General Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of the Times, nor Harry Chandler, General Otis' son-in-law. He said he had once belonged to the Electric Workers union, but was called out on strike and left electrical work for less dangerous employment. He said he had no prejudice against the prisoner.

Asked Attorney Darrow, "You wouldn't be afraid of any disavowal of the public?"

"No."

"Or loss of money?"

"No."

"Or loss of business?"

"No."

"Any of your family hold office?"

"My brother-in-law is a game warden."

"Is that office appointive or elective?"

"Appointive."

Decker was passed for the time being.

Edward Robinson, the talesman under examination, when court adjourned tonight, said he was prejudiced against the way labor unions "are conducted in California," because of strikes. He said he did not know whether he considered strikes legal or illegal, but his prejudice was well fixed.

Talesman Charles D. Chaffee was challenged by the defense and excused on the ground that he is not on the assessment roll. He is the fifth man challenged and excused.

The defense began today's work by challenging for cause George W. McKee, a contractor, who said he had a fixed opinion that the Los Angeles Times was blown up by dynamite. The state rested challenge and assistant district attorney, G. Ray Horton immediately took up the questioning.

The challenge against McKee is in the line of the accused policy of the defense under Attorney C. S. Darrow to try to show that the Times building was blown up by gas and that James H. McNamara, on trial for the death of Charles J. Haggerty, who was killed in the Times disaster, could not have been responsible either for the explosion or for Haggerty's death.

The state holds that an opinion as to the cause of the explosion need not necessarily prejudice a juror to such an extent that he cannot give a fair trial.

Judge Goodell said he would pass upon McKee's challenge later.

Talesman Otto A. Jensen, a farmer, who said he had a strong prejudice against labor unions and "a firm belief as to the cause of the Times explosion," was challenged for cause by Attorney Darrow. He declared his belief that the explosion was caused by dynamite and that labor union leaders were responsible for it. There was a spirited colloquy between court and he who was admonished by the court not to be so much heated.

On the defense side, challenging Jensen for cause, district Attorney Fredericks reiterated his opinion that Jensen was a fair juror. Jensen declared his belief was due to newspaper and magazine comment.

Judge Goodell also withheld judgment.

Will It Bite His Tongue?

Reducing the Rate in Terrific Final Spurt to Get Few Hubbell Candidates; Last Call Today

In the last, final, desperate, forlorn, terrific and heart-breaking effort to line up a ticket before it is too late, Don Francisco Hubbell began cutting the rate yesterday. He cut it and slashed it and besought the selected victims on his knees to come across; but there was nothing doing. Instead, he began yesterday to rapidly lose some of the men he believed he already had secured for the sacrifice, and his convention comes off today.

The assessment clinch boss, who has so far personally financed his campaign, had resolved to get even by working the assessment clinch on the various candidates on his ticket. He had placed the price of the nomination for sheriff at $5,000. The price for assessor, clerk and treasurer was to be $2,000 from each candidate, with a gradually decreasing scale for school superintendent, county commissioners and members of the senate and house.

But, alas, the bright dream of reimbursement was soon shattered. Prospective candidates, upon being approached, not only declined to contribute, but in most instances refused to accept places on the ticket as a gift.

Yesterday Don Francisco weepingly sought Marshal McMullin and begged him to accept the nomination. The marshal could have it at half price. If he would only contribute $2,500. But the marshal couldn't see it. The price was again cut. The marshal could have the nomination if he would cough up $1,000 to the slush fund. Nothing doing. Mr. McMullin, while admitting that the office of sheriff was a desirable one and that the man who wanted it could well afford to make a substantial contribution to the legitimate expenses of the campaign, was firm in the opinion that the present was not the psychological moment to announce his candidacy. He also gave Don Francisco to understand that, in his judgment, a nomination on the Hubbell ticket was far from being the shortest road to office in Bernalillo county.

As the hour for the convention draws near the situation of the fallen boss grows more desperate and it is far from improbable that this morning will find him offering to pay all expenses and a bonus besides, to men who will accept places on his ticket.

Yesterday R. R. Pollock and Herman Blucher, on whom the boss relied to add a needed touch of respectability to his ticket, both gently, but firmly declined to accept the proffered honor. Don Francisco had counted on running these two gentlemen for places on the board of county commissioners.

J. Ross McCollum, wanted for school superintendent, is still keeping Francisco on the anxious seat and will probably drop the hot potato today.

It is a shocking state of affairs. No decent man in Albuquerque or the county will take the bait. There isn't a respectable citizen who is willing to identify himself with the outfit that stands for school looting and county bankruptcy and the assessment clinch.

And the convention is held today!

It looks as if Don Francisco, hugging his official vindication to his breast would be left ignominiously hanging in midair in the middle of the campaign.

Small wonder that he is frantic.

Things will certainly reach a crisis today; it is the last call.

Wanted—Decent Citizens to Renounce their Principles and Join Francisco in the fight against good government and official honesty in Bernalillo county.

Who'll be the first?

Don't all speak at once.

The boss must have a ticket even if he has to hire candidates to make the race.

TERRIFIC STORM ON WEST COAST OF MEXICO

Serious Damage to Property But No Loss of Life Reported From Mazatlan.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.] Tucson, Ariz., Oct. 18.—Another terrific storm has swept the west coast of Mexico. Eight schooners are reported ashore at Mazatlan, and the "Prisco" wharf has been severely damaged.

The Southern Pacific railroad of Mexico lost all wires at midnight. Up to that time the gale had been blowing for twelve hours.

There is no report of any loss of life.

Reports received late today at the offices of the Southern Pacific in this city were that only one schooner went ashore, instead of eight, as was flashed just before the wires went down.

Several washouts are reported on the Southern Pacific line south of Mazatlan. The storm, it seems, extended as far south as Tepic.

Wires are working direct into Culiacan, capital of Sinaloa, and no damage is reported there.

The reports received here confirm the first statement of damage to the wharf pier. There was no loss of life.

Guyana was not affected by the storm.

FIGHT OPENS FOR STATE CONTROL OF RAIL RATES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—The fight of the states for unrestricted rights to regulate rates on railroads was opened today in the supreme court when Edmund S. Durnont filed the first brief in the cases involving state rates. These cases have been set for oral argument on January 8.

Mr. Durnont was counsel for the state of Minnesota when the United States Circuit Court for Minnesota held its state rates unreasonable.

CHAMP CLARK PREDICTS DEMOCRATIC TRIUMPH

Lake Charles, Iowa, Oct. 18.—That the next president of the United States would be a democrat, that Taft would be the nominee of the regular republicans, with La Follette the nominee of the insurgent faction, were the views expressed here tonight by Speaker Champ Clark following his address before a Chautauqua audience here.

BOLD BANK ROBBER SEIZED BY VICTIMS

Bartlesville, Okla., Oct. 18.—A man giving his name as Adrian Lockhard, held up the cashier of the State Bank at Vero, Okla., late today, securing $1,000. He compelled the cashier and a depositor to accompany him half a mile in the country, where his horse was tied. When the robber turned to mount, the two men seized him.

PRESIDENT LIKES RATON TURNS OUT IN LIFE ON THE ROAD

DECIDES TO EXTEND ITINERARY TWO WEEKS

Will Not Reach Washington Until Middle of November; Special Train Reaches Butte Today.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.] Ogden, Utah, Oct. 18.—President Taft broke his long journey from Los Angeles to Butte, Mont., with a twenty-five minute stop in this city late today. After leaving he made additional stops at Brigham City and Logan.

The presidential schedule went to smash today for the first time since the washouts encountered in Kansas and Nebraska two weeks ago and it will be 10 o'clock tomorrow instead of 7 when the president reaches Butte. Unexpected stops in southern California yesterday afternoon first threw the schedule off. Then followed a mishap to one of the engines pulling the train through the deserts last night, causing a delay which could not be made up despite some very fast traveling through the hills and the sagelush of southwestern Utah.

Governor Spry and Senator Smoot of Utah accompanied by Colonel D. C. Jackling of Salt Lake City, met the president at the Utah line this morning and went as far as Logan with him tonight. With no scheduled stops up to 1:30 this afternoon, the day was one of the most uneventful of the trip. Its most interesting development was the announcement that the president had decided to extend his travels by two weeks or more, and would not be back in Washington until after November 15.

It was also announced today that Senator Works of California, an insurgent, had pledged President Taft his support of the arbitration treaties between this country, Great Britain and France.

While engines were being changed at Salt Lake City Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas, who is in Salt Lake on his honeymoon, boarded the presidential car and presented his bride to Mr. Taft. The president congratulated him heartily.

FIRST SNOWSTORM OF SEASON HITS DENVER

Denver, Oct. 18.—The first snow fall of the season commenced here tonight and by midnight the air was full of flying flakes, which, however, melted as they reached the earth. Reports from various points in the northern part of the state indicate that the snowfall is general in that region. At midnight it was snowing as far south as Colorado Springs, with indications that a cold, drizzling rain at Pueblo would turn to snow before morning.

Southern Pacific Washed Out

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 18.—Three miles of the Southern Pacific and Texas and Pacific railways were washed out by the Rio Grande near Washburn, 40 miles east of this city tonight. Arrangements are being made to transfer passengers at the washout tomorrow. Several days will be required to repair the tracks.

IMPERIAL TROOPS CLAIM VICTORY AT HANKOW

BELIEVED RESULT WILL DISCOURAGE REVOLT

First Encounter Between Government and Forces of New Formed Republic Develops Weakness of Rebel Leaders.

The Imperial Chinese troops and the revolution have come to grips at Hankow. The battle as yet is indecisive. The government at Peking claims a greater victory and the government troops hold the trenches at Hankow as well as the station where reinforcements are hourly arriving.

The rebels have fallen back on Wu Chang, which it is said, they have succeeded in strongly fortifying in the last few days. The casualties on both sides in the engagement are reported to be large. For the fighting at times was at the bayonet point.

During the battle between the hand forces the Chinese warships shelled the rebel position, but dispatches from Hankow indicate that the return fire from the forts was much more effective and that at least two of the imperial gunboats were badly damaged.

American warships have been ordered to Nan King, Shanghai and Tien Tsin. The Aberdeen, which is proceeding to Tien Tsin is carrying a detachment to reinforce the American legation at Peking. The capital is strongly guarded and there seems little danger of disorder there.

The Prince Regent has yielded to the demands of Yuan Shi Kai, who is said will raise his own division of troops, numbering 15,000 for the purpose of controlling the situation in the provinces of Hu Pei and Hunan. In addition, the new victory has been permitted to cash a personal grant of $2,000,000.

After an eventful career in international relations under Li Hung Chang covering years, Yuan Shi Kai on January 2, 1909, was dismissed, ordered to vacate all his offices and return home. He sent his family to the foreign quarters in Tien Tsin and fled to the same place immediately after.

The Prince Regent, deprecating the effect on the world of this event and appreciating Yuan Shi Kai's alarm, sent a special message to Tien Tsin to reassure him. He returned to his family home at Wu Tai Pu in Hunan and until now has lived there a country gentleman's life.

Yuan Shi Kai was dismissed following the death of his sovereign protector, the late emperor dowager, because he was an obstacle to the re-appointment of imperial patronage and power for the benefit of the numerous inept members of the ruling regime and that of the new emperor.

It is known that his paramount idea upon the death of the former emperor dowager and emperor was the reform of court practices, abolition of European custom and female influence in the government, removal of the emperor and his education on western lines.

His dismissal was called the unadvised joint act of a hysterical widow, Kuangshu's empress, and of an irresponsible regent, Prince Chun.

The latter thing the edict of dismissal on the council table. It appeared without chance of debate. The sweeping aside of the grand council showed Yuan Shi Kai's danger.

A majority of the foreign ministers in Peking regarded his dismissal as an event inviting revolution and Sir John Jordan, British minister, together with N. W. Trutchill, then American minister on January 15, 1909, jointly made formal representations to China necessitating a declaration of policy by the regency. Yuan Shi Kai was given asylum by the British and the American authorities, who feared for his life and who since that time have not failed to let China know they hoped for his recall. Because of this China on the occasion of his acceptance of the appointment in Wu Chang sent a special messenger to Secretary Knox to announce the event.

Yuan Shi Kai's consent to return to office comes after refusal of at least two government overtures. The most important effort to coax him back occurred in 1910, when the government appointed Tang Shao Yi president of the council in Peking as a conciliatory measure and sent him to ask Yuan to join in arranging railway and currency loans and pacification of the opponents of the government's policy of industrial development by use of foreign loans.

Peking, Oct. 18.—The Chinese government claims to have won a great victory at Hankow and announces that the troops have arrived rapidly. Although this report appears to be exaggerated the feeling prevails here that the government has really achieved an important moral victory.

The belief has been held here that if the first encounter between the revolutionaries and loyal troops proved decisive, the supremacy would be settled there and then. Only a few important towns outside of Hankow, Wu Chang and Han Yang, have taken part in the rising. Nan King, Chang Sha, Canton, and other cities of known revolutionary tendencies, have not responded to the call of the insurgents, so far as can be learned. They are seemingly awaiting the result of the first encounter.

Had the rebels overwhelmingly won today's battle, it was expected the province below the Yang Tze Kiang would be theirs.

With other important cities in rebellion, the government would have been unable to concentrate its strength against the three in Hu Pei province. The rebel leaders showed the usual characteristic weakness in not following up their early victories.

No news was received from Szechuen province. The American legation failed to receive reports, except that from Consul General Greene at Hankow, announcing that the battle had begun. Acceptance of the officers

Will This Kind of a Man Enforce the Laws?

Section 3569, of the Compiled Laws of New Mexico, 1897, reads as follows:

"Should any member of the board of penitentiary commissioners, officer or other employee of the penitentiary become interested in any manner in any contract for providing provisions, clothing or other necessities for the use of the said penitentiary, or become in any way interested in any contract for buildings or the construction of any buildings of any kind connected with said penitentiary, or for furnishing materials for any such buildings, or in any contract for the labor of the convicts, such member of said board, officer, or employee so interested, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be removed from office, and shall forfeit any interest he may have in such contract, and shall be fined not more than two thousand dollars, nor less than five hundred dollars."

According to the report on the penitentiary by the Colorado experts, the following transactions appear to conflict with the above:

V. No. 479, Warrant No. 2749, December 1, 1904, H. O. Bursum, 350 head of sheep $ 787.50

V. No. 14, Warrant No. 2459, January 14, 1904, Bursum and McMullan, 250 head of sheep 402.50

We find no accounting on the books for the pelts.

V. No. 16, Warrant No. 1283, February 12, 1901, R. C. Garrett, constructing brick plant 360.00

Mr. Garrett was assistant superintendent.

Instead of paying the fine imposed by law for such violation, Mr. Bursum was paid by the territory over four thousand dollars.

Among the duties of the governor of the state of New Mexico is to "SEE THAT THE LAWS BE FAITHFULLY EXECUTED."

Will a man who does not observe the laws himself, force others to faithfully execute them?

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 18.—"There is absolutely no ground for any report that I intend purchasing an interest in the Lincoln club in the Western league so far as I am concerned," said Daniel Shay, manager of the Kansas City American league team today.

"My ultimatum issued some time ago that I am through with baseball, still stands," Mr. Shay said. "I have been approached by nobody from Lincoln and have had no correspondence regarding the Lincoln club."

Brown, who opposed Walsh in the first game of the series, started the contest, but was relieved by Cheney, after allowing eleven safeties, two of which were doubles, in five innings. "Don't Lie To Your Wife," the second force in which Rowland and Clifford will present Dave Lewis, at the Elks' theater on Friday night, is one of the few examples of a play written for a play-writing contest, that won success. Under the title of "Nerveless" Campbell B. Casad, its author, submitted it to a contest at the New Theater, in Chicago several years ago. The play received unusual attention from the judges in the contest, for it contained the merit to draw this attention. So loudly praised was the piece by the judges that the author submitted it to Dave Lewis, who immediately saw its worth, and it was not many days before Mr. Lewis was using it as his starring vehicle at the Whitney opera house in Chicago, where it enjoyed a long run.

OUTLOOK DARK FOR VARSITY FOOTBALL ELEVEN GOES TO EL PASO

Squad of Sixteen Men Under Care of Coach Hutchison Will Play El Paso Military Institute Team This Afternoon.

The University of New Mexico football team left last night in a special car for El Paso, where they will open the football season of 1911, by a game with the El Paso Military team of that city.

The game will be played this afternoon at Washington park as a part of the attractions of the big steeplechase jubilee that is now being held in that city.

The varsity team this year will not average in weight more than 140 pounds, but the men are quick and well coached and will give as good an account of themselves as any team that has represented the university in the south.

Under the guidance of Coach Hutchison the men have been in careful training for this game for some six weeks, with the result that they have in a measure mastered the science of football and now go to get a little insight into the practical end of the game.

The game this afternoon will be the first test of the year and will enable Coach Hutchison to see how the men work under fire. There are sixteen men in the squad that left for El Paso last night. The players and their positions are as follows: Center, Allen, right guard, Hunter; left guard, Strome, right tackle, Mudgett; left tackle, Hamilton; right end, Woodbridge; left end, Carls; full back, Gladding; right half, Ringling; left half, Leake; quarterback, Hill; full back, Pense; holder, Locky; Desvoile and Little will go as subs.

Whatever may be the outcome of the game, it will be worth while to the boys as a matter of experience. Should they be defeated, the experience will stand them in good stead and enable them to win their more important games. It will be remembered that when the varsity went to El Paso two years ago they were badly defeated by the E. P. M. eleven under the coaching of Van Surdivan, the present superintendent of the military institute. However, when the El Paso cadets came to Albuquerque a short time after that they, in their turn, were defeated even worse than the varsity boys had been.

At El Paso, the defeat did not disrupt a team under the management, and with Coach Hutchison in charge of the Cherry and silver athletes great things can be looked for before the season is over.

There will also be plenty of opportunity for Albuquerqueans to see the varsity work this year, as the biggest game will be played here. The annual game against the Rowell Military Institute will take place on November 3, and the annual game with Arizona on Thanksgiving day.

It was in 1910 this morning when the national commission officially declared off today's game between the Giants and the Athletics on account of the rain.

To none more than to the world's champions of 1911 was the postponement disappointing. Flushed with yesterday's victory at New York, the fighting American leaguers expected to go in today's game and make it three out of four. Bender was expected to ascend the hurling mound for another try at victory. Now the Plank and Combs each have a winning game to their credit, the Indians are extremely anxious to hang a scalp on his own belt.

The Nationals, who came over from New York last night, were also disappointed over the prospect of Hennes. Some of the players who would talk, however, felt that the day before might help the team.

ORVILLE WRIGHT BREAKS TWO RECORDS

Birdman Risks Life in Series of Experiments to Ascertain Ability of Machine to Stay in Air.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Dayton, N. C., Oct. 18.—Orville Wright today broke the world's glider record today, remaining aloft at each occasion for one minute and fifteen seconds. On the first of his five flights in the teeth of a thirty-five mile wind he fell fourteen feet but was unhurt. The machine was smashed.

Mr. Wright, despite the damage to the machine, was delighted. He felt that today's experiments demonstrated his ability to remain in the air without the aid of a motor just as soon as certain alterations are made in the construction of the supporting agency.

The final flight was spectacular. Wright lost control of the aeroplane, with the result that the tail completely wrecked both wings on the right side. When the machine struck the ground it turned turtle and the aviator was hurled a considerable distance.

In the second flight, the glider for the first time since the trials began, stood horizontal and stationary for five seconds at an elevation of sixty feet. Finally it moved forward and downward and came to the ground 500 feet to the north. This was the best flight of the day.

PLAYERS OF BOTH TEAMS CHAFE UNDER IDLENESS

Weather Forecaster Holds Out Hope For Contest Today But Drizzling Rain Sets in Late at Night.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 18.—Notwithstanding that Forecaster Bliss tonight stated that rain would probably not interfere with the fourth game of the world's series scheduled to take place tomorrow at Shibe park between the New York Giants and the Athletics, a quiz set in the night before 10 o'clock and the storm had shifted from east to west early in the afternoon, veered to the north.

Almost an inch of rain fell during the day, but if the sun comes out tomorrow the grounds can be put in condition.

Tonight's forecast locally holds out encouragement for a game. Forecaster Bliss says while the day may not be ideal, he does not believe there will be any rainfall.

Both teams spent today at the theaters and tonight several of the players attended the bout between Lee Houck and Frank Knaus at the American Athletic club.

The players are in good condition, with the possible exception of Baker, who was spiked by Snodgrass.

Neither Manager Mack nor Manager McGraw would announce definitely their selections for mound duty tomorrow. Manager Mack's selections will depend entirely upon whom Manager McGraw puts his faith in. If the latter, as it is rumored to night, should choose Walter to the twirling tomorrow, Mack, it is thought, will send either Morgan or Klusks to the slab, and save Bender for the fifth game to be played in New York Friday. Mack does not believe that Mathegon will be called upon to pitch a third game and he figures it out that Marquard will be sent in on Friday on the home grounds, where he would be less liable to become nervous than in facing a partisan crowd on the local grounds.

Manager Mack refused to discuss the unfortunate Snodgrass incident. He simply said it was one of the "fortunes of war."

It was in 1910 this morning when the national commission officially declared off today's game between the Giants and the Athletics on account of the rain.

To none more than to the world's champions of 1911 was the postponement disappointing. Flushed with yesterday's victory at New York, the fighting American leaguers expected to go in today's game and make it three out of four. Bender was expected to ascend the hurling mound for another try at victory. Now the Plank and Combs each have a winning game to their credit, the Indians are extremely anxious to hang a scalp on his own belt.

REVOLT IN MEXICO SURE TO SPRED SAYS REYES

Uprising in State of Tabasco Result of Discontent Over Lack of Liberty in the Recent Elections.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 18.—The revolt in the state of Tabasco, Mexico, will spread, according to General Bernardo Reyes. He says he has heard to hand in the outbreak.

"The outbreak in Tabasco," said Reyes, "is the result of discontent created by lack of liberty in the recent elections in which the candidacy of Madero was involved upon the people by the authorities. I believe disturbances will occur elsewhere in the republic."

General Reyes says his friends in Mexico advise him that conditions in the republic are growing more serious.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN LORIMER INVESTIGATION

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 18.—Robert J. Shields, of Superior, Wis., and Du-luth, Minn., testifying before the committee of United States senators, investigating the Lorimer case, today denied a charge that he had been active as a legislative lobbyist in the Wisconsin or any other legislature.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa, brought forth this denial from Shields, who also has been subpoenaed to appear as a witness in the Senator Stephenson inquiry at Milwaukee in addition to appearing in the Lorimer case.

"Is it not true?" asked Senator Kenyon, "that you were in the habit of acting for the Hines Lumber company and other corporations before committees of the Wisconsin legislature and other legislatures?"

"No," replied Shields, "that is not true. I have gone to Madison at times during sessions of the legislature to get copies of bills pending there, but that is all. I did not appear before any of the legislative committees or have anything else to do in legislative matters."

FRED McPHERSON TELLS OF CITY OF ALBUQUERQUE

Graphic and Interesting Article On Southwest in October Number of Santa Fe Employees' Magazine.

Fred McPherson, of the staff of the Santa Fe Employees' magazine, recently here on a trip over the route, has an interesting article in the October number on "The Great Western Country From Albuquerque to San Bernardino." Regarding this section he says in part:

The two greatest shops of the Santa Fe system west of Topeka, are located at Albuquerque, N. M., and San Bernardino, Cal. Both places have grown to be the important cities we now find them largely through the expenditures of the railroad in making possible the employment of several thousands of men at each place.

But nature also has been good to both these cities, and the prospective settler from the east has but to satisfy any preference he may have for the central southwestern section or for the far west. He will not be disappointed in either place. He may choose the blue, cloudless sky of Albuquerque, from which a considerable sun diffuses its temperate rays, or he may choose the warmer, yet temperate, atmosphere of San Bernardino, located in a valley of fruits and flowers, where the climate is pleasant yet healthful, and where the refreshing constant breeze from the cool Pacific blows almost imperceptibly across the valley, to be lost among the mountains which rise to the east of San Bernardino and assure the valley of that name perpetual fertility.

Between Albuquerque and San Bernardino lies the greatest health-giving section of the United States, New Mexico, Arizona and California have it in their power to give man health and wealth during the same period of his life. The opportunities for the homemaker are almost limitless, and coupled with the knowledge that his industry will be well rewarded, is the assurance that for himself and his family he will have but slight necessity for the medicine chest or medical assistance.

A trip over the Santa Fe through this section shows the glorious development of American manhood—free and fearless, strong and strenuous, clear headed and clean hearted. In this western country its greatest product is that of men and women and sturdy families. Even its wealth in the products of the soil and its storehouses of minerals are as nothing compared with the glorious products of its climate.

And this territory is rich in romantic history and prolific in geological interest.

Not far east of Albuquerque is the venerable city of Santa Fe, the oldest city in the United States. It was founded by the Spaniards in 1581. After the Santa Fe made of Albuquerque an important center, the business activities of Santa Fe declined, but it still retains its charms for the tourist and the healthseeker and is one of the most quaintly interesting cities of the old new world.

As we have from time to time set forth the various attractions of Albuquerque for the homemaker, the healthseeker and the tourist, we shall not dwell at length upon them now.

We all are familiar with the name of the famous Alvarado, the entrancingly attractive Harvey house at Albuquerque, where, within its mission walls, we find the most modern comforts of the large eastern cities and meals—well served and well cooked—which even mother could not have spread before us. To stroll about the promenades and patios of the combined hotel and depot, with staid Indians here and there and an occasional cowboy to give the real settling to western life, forms a memory which clings to most tourists very vividly long after they have returned to office or to workshop.

Albuquerque is a thoroughly active western city, with earnest, progressive business men in charge of its destiny. These men constantly are making toward the goal of an ideal city, well governed, healthful and attractive. In their efforts they have been assisted materially by the advanced policy of the Morning Journal.

Recently there appeared in Town Development, a quite lengthy article lauding the aggressive work of the Albuquerque Commercial club and the actual benefits which had accrued to the city and to its members as a result of its energy and businesslike operation.

Prior to 1888 but one train a day left Albuquerque for California, carrying an average of but ten passengers, each of whom was obliged to furnish his own mattress and to look after himself generally—quite a contrast to the almost hourly schedule at present existing over the same line and to the comforts of present-day traveling—to say nothing of the luxuries shortly to be afforded by the inauguration of the palatial extra Santa Fe de Luxe. It is almost inconceivable that such strides have been made in the art of transportation within less than a quarter of a century.

Westward from Albuquerque the railroad slowly climbs the Continental Divide until, at an altitude of 7,000 feet, it reaches, just west of the Continental Divide and near the Arizona state line, Gallup, one of the most important little places of New Mexico and located in a thriving section of the state.

Passing over the state line into Arizona we note a gradual descent as we approach the petrified forests, which may be reached by travelers leaving the train at either Adamantina or Holbrook and driving south a few miles. To the fallen plants of other days lying prone and turned to adamant out there on a barren waste of sand is something to cause even the most unimaginative mind to melt out a little. A short distance further west is Winslow, one of the best known cities of Arizona, where the Santa Fe has quite a number of men employed and where a solid little city gradually is being built.

Crossing picturesque Canon Diablo we reach Flagstaff a short time later and here we get a good view of those well known landmarks, the San Francisco peaks, whose snowy summits appear thirteen thousand feet above sea level. At Flagstaff is located the Lowell observatory. The surprisingly pure atmosphere of Arizona was the factor which made the erection of the observatory at Flagstaff desirable.

The train stops next at Williams, where connection is made with the Grand Canyon branch. Few travelers, either westward or eastward bound, fail to avail themselves of their proximity to nature's greatest point of interest and to "do" the canyon, unless they previously have made the trip. And the Grand Canyon also has its steady—travelers who contemplate its vastness and its mysteries whenever opportunity offers.

To take care of its Grand Canyon guests the Santa Fe not only has provided the commodious and distinctive El Tovar hotel, but has erected at Williams the beautiful Fray Marcos. Santa Fe activities at Williams have made it a quite important town and the Fray Marcos is an hostelry which would make even little old New York envious.

Within the territory subsidiary to Flagstaff and Williams is to be found abundant evidence of its having been peopled by the prehistoric cliff dwellers. The canyons and the mountains alike bear silent testimony to a people about whom we know but little and about whose entry and exit our data is wholly conjectural.

EVANS SEES DANGER OF WORLD WAR

Veteran Admiral Believes Conflict in China is Fought With Grave Possibilities of International Strife.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—The revolution in China, whether successful or not, is liable to involve the powers of the world in a conflict, proposed peace treaties notwithstanding, is the opinion of Rear Admiral R. D. Evans, who is now in Los Angeles. Admiral Evans will leave for Washington tomorrow night.

"It is probable," said the admiral, "that this revolution will prove to be the beginning of the end of the Chinese empire, just as the taking of Tripoli by Italy is, in all probability, the beginning of the end of the Ottoman empire. It is difficult at this stage to forecast just what trend affairs will take.

"I think, however, that England will soon resent the interference with her trade in China and tell the Chinese authorities to stop making trouble in her markets."

"The United States does not want to fight China, or anyone else for that matter, but if Uncle Sam's boys are shown disrespect, the celestials may be called upon to change their tactics and change them quickly.

"Then there is Germany, Japan and Russia, with interests in the Orient."

"The Japanese, unlike the Chinese, understand the meaning of patriotism. The Chinese in Hankow have absolutely no feeling of relationship for their brothers in Pekin. There is little or no national spirit in China."

"I believe the revolution will fail for this very reason. Still the Chinese will fight if they have backing and if the fire of revolution spreads as it did recently in Mexico under the leadership of Carranza, there is a possibility that the world may soon see a new China. But what effect China as a republic would have upon other nations is hard to prophesy."

NEW MEXICAN ADDRESSES LAKE MAHONK CONGRESS

Lake Mahonk, N. Y., Oct. 18.—The twenty-ninth annual conference of friends of the Indians and other defense peoples opened here today. Vice-President Sherman stated the objects of the society. He was followed by Francis C. Wilson, who described the exceptional position of the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico.

Sicroni J. Niri, a Carlisle graduate, defended that institution from criticism and E. B. Morrell, a law officer of the Indian Bureau urged that the allotment of lands be expedited.

The feature of the evening session was the delivery of an address in which John G. Brady, former governor of Alaska, discussed the present status of the Alaskan natives.

KIND OF MEN WHO MAKE FRIENDS FOR THE ROAD

Public Spirit of Superintendent of Santa Fe Shops Leading Factor in Making the Fair a Success.

There are a good many men who worked hard and enthusiastically for the success of the first State Fair and credit has been given them for their arduous labors; but there is one gentleman in particular who deserves special thanks from the people of the city for his public spirited efforts in behalf of the carnival. This is Superintendent of Santa Fe Shops W. A. George. It was largely through his contagious enthusiasm and boosting spirit that the Santa Fe railroad men had in the Montezuma parade the magnificent display which won the first prize and which certainly deserved it. It was largely through the effort of Mr. George that the Santa Fe people spent more money this year than ever before to help along the big annual show, and this spirit has been manifest whenever anything has come up affecting the interests of Albuquerque. It is officials such as Mr. George who make friends for the Santa Fe railroad and who help to advance the progress of the country which it traverses.

MULTITUDE LEAVES OMAHA TO REGISTER FOR CLAIMS.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 18.—It required the presence of ten extra policemen to restrain a crowd of over a thousand and homeseekers who sought to board a special train this evening for Dallas and Gregory to register for claims on the Rosebud reservation. A special train had been scheduled to leave at 8 o'clock, but station officials were unprepared for the rush. An emergency call brought a squad of policemen to the station. When railroad officials learned that the special train could not accommodate the crowds a second section was brought into service and relieved the congestion.

INCIPENT REVOLT IN MEXICO SUPPRESSED

Mexico City, Oct. 18.—Terror, reported yesterday in the hands of the insurgents was abandoned by the rebels whose uprising was made in the name of General Bernardo Reyes. They and their supporters from Tapachula have retreated into the hills. In San Juan Bautista, capital of Tabasco, papers were found on a man arrested, which indicated that October 14 was the date set for the revolt. The government continues to regard the uprising of little importance, but troops are being hurried into the affected regions.

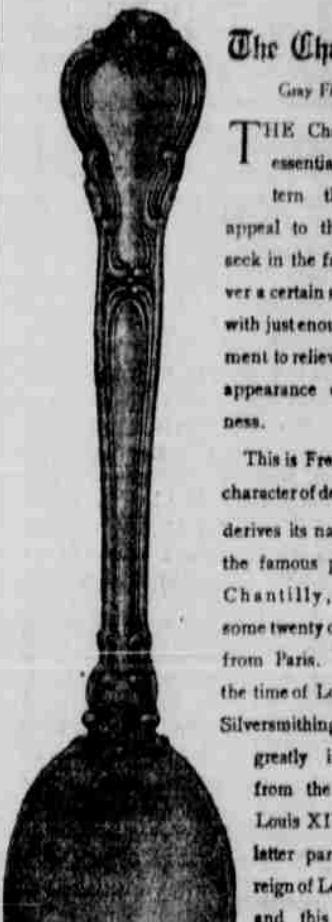

SHOE MACHINERY TRUST SUED FOR MILLIONS

Boston, Mass., Oct. 18.—Suit for two million dollars was filed in the federal court here today against the United Shoe Machinery company and its officers, because of an alleged violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act. Gay Finish

THE Chantilly is essentially a pattern that will appeal to those who seek in the family silver a certain simplicity with just enough ornament to relieve it of the appearance of plainness.

This is French in character of design and derives its name from the famous palace of Chantilly, situated some twenty odd miles from Paris. It is of the time of Louis XV. Silversmithing had greatly improved from the time of Louis XIV to the latter part of the reign of Louis XV. and this was a period of great refinement of taste in designs for silverware, furniture, and decoration.

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS ON TOUR

Robert G. Valentine Arrives Arrives From Washington Today and Will Be Guest of Reuben Perry.

Robert G. Valentine, commissioner of Indian affairs, will arrive in Albuquerque this morning and while here will be the guest of Reuben Perry, superintendent of the United States Indian Industrial school. Commissioner Valentine's visit here at this time is said to be purely an official one, he being on an inspection trip of the various schools. Indian agencies and irrigation projects in the Southwest.

However, it has been rumored that the trip here at this time of Mr. Valentine is for the purpose of holding an important conference with Clinton J. Randall, superintendent of the Indian school, at Santa Fe, and ranking official in charge of the Pueblo Indians in New Mexico, relative to the recent sensational charges made against him and Mr. Randall by W. E. Johnson, a former special officer in the Indian service.

It will be remembered that as a result of these charges which also involved the name of Chief Disbursing Officer Adama of the Indian affairs bureau, a suit for criminal libel has been filed against Johnson by Mr. Randall, in which the latter asks damages in the sum of $50,000.

day and his leg was crushed. He was attended to by the local Santa Fe surgeon at San Marcial, who, seeing the patient's condition, suggested that he be brought to Albuquerque for treatment because of the better facilities here.

He was accordingly brought up and was met at the train by Attorney Francis E. Wood and French and Lowber's ambulance in which he was taken to the hospital.

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN OF IMPROVEMENT OF WATERWAYS NEEDED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—"The obligation of the national government to the waterways of the United States, is a national, rather than a state or syndicate proposition," was the terse way in which Congressman L. C. Dyer, of St. Louis, characterized the widespread movement for improving the water courses of the country.

"The control of the navigable waterways of this country was vested in the federal government in 1790. From 1790 to 1810 the improvements to the rivers and harbors were made by the states with the consent of congress. From 1810 to 1852 these improvements were provided for by congress with the stipulation that the work should be done under the direction of the president. By act of congress approved in 1852 it was distinctly specified that the money appropriated for waterway betterments should be expended under the supervision of the secretary of war, and since the time all acts relating to the expenditure of money on our rivers and harbors have contained that provision. And so it came about that the Engineer corps of the army was charged with the work of improving our great natural highways.

"To those who live on navigable rivers the importance of some definite and concrete plan for bringing these rivers into the highest possible state of efficiency is paramount. But to those who live in the interior of the country, back from the waters, the needs of improved waterways are somewhat hazy, and yet I feel sure that there had been a general awakening throughout the country to the manifold benefits that would accrue if all our navigable rivers were made to bear their due proportion of transportation and thereby assist materially in the solution of freight rates. The urgent need for improved waterways is obvious. To understand this thoroughly we must consider that the factitious carrying power on land and sea has been more than met by the increase of the commodities to be moved. The freight carried on the ocean today is thirty times greater than that of a century ago, while our entire system of railroad transportation has been erected within the memory of men now living. By reason of improved transportation facilities, freight rates have been greatly reduced and yet further reductions are needed in many classes which probably can only be brought about by a systematic development of the waterways.

"Coming as I do, from the great Mississippi valley, I am convinced that it is only through a broad, intelligent and comprehensive plan of development of the Mississippi, the Missouri and the Ohio rivers, and their tributaries can we of the middle west ever attain to the measure of usefulness desired. "I stand with the National rivers and harbors congress in its effort to eliminate the 'pork barrel' from river and harbor legislation and for one, I would like to see the great economic question of transportation lifted completely out of politics and put on a plane where sanity and honesty will prevail in its solution. As a world power we have a right to enjoy the world's markets and every handicap as represented by our unimproved rivers be eliminated so that improved economic conditions may become an actuality rather than the dream of students of political economy."
