PROUD AND GLAD THAT HE VETOED RECALL OF JUDICIARY

Denies It Required Any Courtesy to Voice Disapproval of Clause Which He Vigorously Opposed.

ACTED SOLELY AS A JUDGE AND LAWYER

President Declares That to Have Done Otherwise Would Have Made Him Unworthy of Respect as Jurist.

[The Morning Journal Special Local Wire.]
Chicago, Oct. 28.—President Taft was in a quandary tonight. The President does not know whether he is a qualified voter any more. He does not know whether the election board in Cincinnati, his home city, intend to let him cast a ballot in the city election next Tuesday.

More than two weeks ago Mr. Taft made out his registration papers, mailed them from the Pacific coast and thought no more about the matter. A few days later he was notified by the Cincinnati election board that he had failed to have the proper affidavit made out to accompany the papers.

At Newcastle, Wyo., the president made out new papers and the necessary affidavit, which were mailed to Cincinnati. Today Secretary Hillier was notified that the president had failed to register properly, in time.

Later in the day word came from Cincinnati. Today Secretary Hillier sent up to Secretary of State Graves, of Ohio, and that it was not definitely settled as to whether Mr. Taft had a right to cast a ballot. Mr. Taft is going to Cincinnati, anyhow, to vote, if possible.

President Taft spent a busy day in Chicago. He spoke to the American Mining Congress in the morning, endorsing the speech made by Secretary of the Interior Fisher here last night; told the members of the Chicago Bar association that he was, and expects always to be, opposed to the recall of the judiciary; rode sixty miles by train to dedicate the new naval training station at North Chicago and tonight addressed the Chicago Association of Commerce on peace and arbitration.

Tonight he was the guest of the city at a local hotel and tomorrow and Monday he will try to keep up with a fairly strenuous program of the day.

With the president most of the day were Secretary of the Navy Meyer, Secretary of the Interior Fisher, members of the Illinois congressional delegation and army and naval officers.

The president came near discussing politics once when he spoke to the Chicago Bar association. Without referring to the recall of the judiciary, he referred to the remarks of United States Senator Clapp of Minnesota, in this city recently, in which the president's veto of the Arizona-New Mexico statehood bill was called "the blackest act of tyranny ever committed on a free people."

"I knew I was guilty of a good deal," said the president, "but I never knew I was guilty of conduct that could be described by such lurid terms. I was determined that when a new state entered the union it should start with a proper appreciation of the independence of the judiciary. The people of that state may not be convinced yet, but at least they know what I think. Congress has approved my action for once, and has gone further, it has passed a law directing—and this is really like an act of the blackest tyranny—the people to take back their ideas about the judiciary."

"When the territory is a state it may change its constitution to conform with its own ideas about judges, but when it obtains the results its people can't say we did not give them warning."

"My friends are trying to gain credit for me for my act. They have said it must have taken rare courage to veto the statehood bill. I deprecate this kind of talk. I am a lawyer and a judge, and if I had acted differently from the way I did I would have been worthy of neither title. I could not have done anything else but what I did."

"I wrote my veto out of my heart and I am proud and glad I wrote it. Mr. Taft dedicated the naval training station after Secretary of the Navy Meyer, Congressman Foss of Illinois and others, had spoken."

"We are the banks of the Great Lakes with this training school for the purpose of fitting our sailors for war," said Mr. Taft, "but I am glad to know that though this is the border, so to speak, and within war distance of our northern neighbor, Canada, it is still for war purposes entirely in the interior. We have no fear of forces, no danger, because we know there is no danger in that direction and we offer that undefended border on both sides to illustrate the possibility of neighbors living in permanent amity and peace."

To Serve Subpoenas Tomorrow.
Washington, Oct. 28.—The subpoenas for the defendants in the government's dissolution suit against the steel corporation will be filed on Monday, if it is possible for deputy marshals to do the work in one day. Attorney General Wickham wanted to have each one of the subpoenas accompanied by a copy of the government's allegations. It was impossible for the private printing office, which printed the bill, to furnish the required number of copies until today. They have been sent to Trenton.

WHITE RIBBONERS HAVE INVADDED MILWAUKEE

[The Morning Journal Special Local Wire.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 28.—Praise for Captain R. P. Hobart for his address to the temperance cause and also for Dr. H. W. Wiley, and censure for Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, from the lips of Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens of Maine, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, tonight was heard at the opening meeting of the National Temperance Workers' convention in the auditorium today.

Opening of National Temperance Workers' Convention Opened By Mrs. Lillian Stevens, the President.

To ensure the temperance women of this state from suffering from thirst in Milwaukee, a generous and enterprising man from Maine sent one hundred bottles of Maine water to their headquarters at a local hotel. Portland, Ore., has the distinction of priority in the effort to land the next convention.

JURY ACQUITS WOMAN OF POISONING HUSBAND

Ontonagon, Mich., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Laura Stannard tonight was found "not guilty" of murdering her husband, Charles S. Stannard, of Greenville, last March by strychnine poisoning. The jury was out one hour and ten minutes.

Do You Want More Bursum Methods in the Penitentiary?

Do the people of New Mexico want another Bursum regime in the New Mexico penitentiary?

Do they want a repetition of the disgraceful episode which resulted in the removal of Mr. Bursum and the discovery that his accounts failed to show properly the disposition of large sums of money?

It is now openly stated that Mr. Bursum, if elected governor, will install his protegee, Honorable William E. Martin, as superintendent of the New Mexico prison.

When the Honorable William E. Martin was clerk of the district court at Socorro, the clever Mr. Charles V. Safford found it necessary to investigate Mr. Martin's books. He reported that they were in good shape;—as he reported the books of Superintendent Bursum to be in good shape.

An investigator from the Department of Justice, it is said, then appeared on the scene, and after an inquiry, he demanded the removal of the Honorable W. E. Martin. The latter was allowed by Judge Parker to resign. He was indicted at Las Cruces for some irregularities, went into court with a plea of guilty and was fined $100, the fine being remitted.

The legislature of 1907, controlled by Mr. H. O. Bursum, passed a law appropriating the sum of $3,480 to reimburse the Honorable W. E. Martin, clerk of the Third district, for "expenditures made by him in the employment of deputy clerks in said district."

It is rumored that this bill for the relief of the Honorable W. E. Martin came just in time to make him change his mind about a prospective trip to the interior of Mexico on important business.

Those facts give some faint idea of the character and achievements of the Honorable W. E. Martin. They come far from giving his complete record. Some of it may be found in the public archives.

This man has been for years the close friend, the protegee and the associate of H. O. Bursum.

Mr. Bursum is reliably reported to have promised the Honorable W. E. Martin the superintendency of the penitentiary.

Under the circumstances, do you think it advisable to elect Mr. H. O. Bursum, friend and protector of Honorable W. E. Martin, to the office of governor?

ENGINEER KILLED IN DISASTROUS WRECK NEAR GALLUP

Alfred Mallinger Met Death When Double-Header Freight East Bound Meets Head-On Freight Going West.

FIVE OTHER ENGINEMEN INJURED IN THE CRASH

Those Hurt Were C. A. Stoll, Harry Braun, George Ellenwood, Joseph King and Joseph Lucien, Albuquerque Men.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal]
Gallup, N. M., Oct. 28.—In a head-on collision between an eastbound freight train drawn by engines Nos. 849 and 860 and a westbound freight pulled by engine No. 846 at Perea, seventeen miles east of here shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, Engineer Alfred Mallinger of the first engine of the eastbound double-header, was killed, and his fireman, Harry Braun, painfully but not seriously injured. Engineer C. A. Stoll, of the second double-header engine, was badly scalded and suffered a crushed hand. Joseph King, Stoll's fireman, was injured, but not seriously. Engineer Joseph Lupien, of the westbound train, and his fireman, George Ellenwood, escaped with a severe shaking up.

The cause of the wreck is not positively known, but it is said that one of the engines which was running as a double-header got beyond control and ran away, crashing into the westbound train, which was scheduled to pass the eastbound train at Perea.

The collision occurred during a blinding snowstorm, making it difficult, if not impossible, for the crews of the east and westbound engines to see any great distance ahead.

Mallinger, the dead engineer, lived in Gallup. All the injured live in Albuquerque, and after having received emergency treatment here they were taken to that city to the Coast Lines hospital tonight on train No. 2. The body of Engineer Mallinger was brought here soon after the wreck, where his wife lives, and he will probably be buried in Gallup. The dead engineer was promoted but a few months ago from a position as fireman. "Big Al" was what his fellow engineers called him and he was one of the most popular Santa Fe employees on the division. He was married about a year ago to a daughter of James Cavanaugh, one of Gallup's best known residents. His wife is prostrated as a result of her husband's tragic death.

The engine which Mallinger was driving was reduced to a mass of scrap iron by the terrific impact as the trains came together. The other engines, while thrown from the rails, were not badly damaged. Fireman Braun, who was on Mallinger's engine, had a miraculous escape from death. A wrecking crew which was sent to the scene of the accident when news of it was received here, worked all day and by this evening had sufficiently cleared the track to enable east and westbound passenger trains to pass.

A Word to Socialists From Mr. Metcalf

The Willard convention made no nominations for supreme court judges nor for district judges. Probably the reason why they refrained is to be found in the lack of judicial timber in the Socialist party. The question arises whether socialists ought to vote for ANY judicial candidate. All socialists will remember the Milwaukee incident when the socialists made no judicial nominations at a bye election and Victor L. Berger mildly suggested that they had better pick out the better man of the two. It was not incumbent upon them to vote and in fact strict party discipline forbade it, when there were no socialist candidates to vote for. He was attacked on all sides for this suggestion and there was quite a rumpus in the party over the incident. Nevertheless, I think Berger was quite right and that such a matter may safely be left to each party member. His suggestion was interpreted to be an indirect admonition to vote for the candidate whom he named as being the more progressive of the two, and the more likely to consider the working class as human beings. The omission of the judicial nominations by the convention and the absence of any recommendations as to the course to be pursued by reason thereof has placed many party members in a quandary. It seems to me that each man must decide this question for himself and the lesson will not be lost to him whatever may be the results.

GOVERNMENT GIVES TRUST FURTHER TIME

Washington, Oct. 28.—No further action in the government's anti-trust suit against the International Harvester company will be taken for a few weeks.

Attorneys for the harvester company have asked for an extension of the time which Attorney General Wickham first specified for the harvester company to propose a readjustment of its reorganization to conform with the Sherman law. This extension has been granted.

A plan of re-organization already is under way and eventually will be proposed to the department of Justice. The government's action in pressing the suit against the steel corporation is expected to be a factor in hastening negotiations with the Harvester company, which was named as one of the United States Steel corporation's most powerful allies.

Confessed Counterfeiter Held.
Kallispell, Mont., Oct. 28.—W. P. Borst, arrested here last Thursday, and who confessed to having manufactured and circulated spurious dollars, was arraigned in the circuit court, bound over to the grand jury and his bond fixed at $1,500. Borst is 72 years of age. He told the officers that his counterfeiting outfit was located near Lewiston, Idaho. It was an easy matter, he said to manufacture the dies.

DELEGATE ANDREWS ARRIVES FROM NEW YORK

New Mexico's Representative in Congress Comes Back Confident That His Party Will Win Control of State.

Delegate in Congress W. H. Andrews arrived in Albuquerque yesterday morning on the California limited from an extended trip to New York and other eastern cities.

Asked for his opinion concerning the result of the present election campaign in New Mexico, Mr. Andrews said he could see no reason why the new state should not remain in the republican column. "I have been away for some time," said the delegate, "and have not been able to keep very closely in touch with the situation, but from all I can learn, I believe the chances of republican success are excellent."

Mr. Andrews is an avowed candidate for the senate in the event of the election of a republican legislature, but declined last night to discuss this phase of the situation.

This Ought to Hold the Honorable H. O. Bursum For a While

In view of the fact that the Honorable H. O. Bursum, through the Santa Fe press bureau, has been sending out matter accusing W. C. McDonald of "lying about his leasing of public lands," Mr. McDonald has made an affidavit which brands the statement of the Honorable H. O. Bursum as absolutely false. The affidavit is as follows:

Territory of New Mexico,
County of San Miguel—ss.

Wm. C. McDonald, being first duly sworn upon his oath states, that the press report of a speech which he made at Albuquerque, on October 14th, 1911, is incorrect and that affiant has been misquoted in reference to what he said in that speech about leased lands.

Affiant further states that he did not at that meeting state and never has, during the campaign, stated anywhere, that he had no land leased from the Territory of New Mexico, for himself nor for any company.

That what affiant did state in the meeting at Albuquerque, on October 14, 1911, in regard to leased lands was that the foreign corporation which he managed and represented had not an acre of leased land in New Mexico at that time; that said company formerly had a lease for some land, but that such lease expired on October 1st, (not April 1st.) 1911, and had not been renewed and affiant did not intend to renew it, though he could have done so if he so desired, and could also have leased fifty thousand acres in the same locality, but that he did not want it.

W. C. McDONALD.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 26th day of October, 1911.

My commission expires June 9th, 1912.

ESTABLISH CLAIM TO FORTUNE OF MILLIONS

San Jose, Cal., Oct. 28.—The family of Dr. Thomas A. Perrin, a physician of this city, according to advice just received from Bradford, Ontario, Canada, has established claim to $4,500,000 in the Bank of England, which has been lying idle for over two hundred years. The fortune will be divided among nine heirs, including Dr. Perrin, and two brothers, in this city. A sister, Mrs. A. Craig, of North Dakota, gets a fifth share, and two nephews and three cousins, if found, will get a half million each.

The struggle for the fortune began thirty years ago in Bradford, the claimant's ancestry being traced back three hundred years to the Earl of Pembroke.

INSURRECTIONISTS ARE REPULSED BY FEDERALS

Mexico City, Oct. 28.—Fifty of Zapata's insurrectionary army were killed yesterday in one encounter at Yecapitlan, near Cuautla, according to a special received by the Herald tonight. The Zapatistas were repulsed. The federal losses are not reported.

Important History.

When appointed governor of the territory, I soon became aware that the penitentiary was not being well administered. I secured the opinion of a prison expert from another part of the country and in his judgment the physical and moral conditions were bad.

Mr. Bursum's friends said he had not the time to give personal attention to the management and had left the direction of the penitentiary affairs to subordinates.

When I insisted that he should retire if he could not give proper attention to the duties, his friends insisted that he should remain there for the purpose of furthering the political interests of the republican party.

Mr. Bursum did not retire for several months after I requested his resignation, and during the interval, according to a statement by Mr. Newcomb, the clerk of the penitentiary, Mr. Bursum instructed Mr. Newcomb to rewrite the journal and check book and the budget, two of which books had been in use since 1889, and Mr. Bursum, according to his own statement, then had the old ledger destroyed. As to the other books, Mr. Newcomb says they were put away and he never saw them again.

Books Could Not Be Found.
When Mr. Bursum's successor went into office and an expert was secured to audit the accounts of the penitentiary, the books could not be found. They could not find the rewritten journal, which Mr. Bursum said, in a subsequent letter, was the only book of original entry. Mr. Bursum had taken it with him to his home in Socorro where he kept it until its return was demanded.

I ask you in all candor, I ask Mr. Bursum himself to answer, if any man who had nothing to conceal, would, when he knew he was going to be removed, go to work and have all the books of an institution rewritten and destroy at least one of the original books, have two others concealed as

HAGERMAN SCORES GANG CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

SAFFORD VINDICATION CAREFULLY DISSECTED

Report of Friendly Referee Quoted to Prove Conclusively That Important Records of Prison Were Destroyed.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal]
Denning, N. M., Oct. 28.—Former Governor Hagerman here tonight reviewed the entire history of the investigation of the Bursum regime in the state penitentiary and mercilessly tore to pieces the alleged vindication of the Las Vegas candidate for governor, Governor Hagerman's address was intended to be a big audience and his remarks were cheered to the echo. Taking up the Safford report on which the alleged vindication was made, the speaker dissected the real history of the investigation which resulted in Mr. Bursum turning back to the territorial treasury some $1,700, a large portion of which had been in his possession for as much as seven years, and which Mr. Bursum claimed had been retained by him through error. Governor Hagerman vented the opinion that the penitentiary superintendent would have never discovered the error at all had his books not been under investigation. Governor Hagerman said in part:

The progressive republicans are working for good government in the state of New Mexico. We have tried to reform the republican party from within. The mass of the voters is honest and wish only for the best interest of the new state, but the machinery of the party has fallen into the hands of a band of political pirates who use public patronage and official positions for private gain.

We wish to see the grand old party rescued from this gang rule, as to accomplish that end, no abuse, no amount of vilification, no degree of falsehood, weapons employed by the opposition so lavishly and without scruple, shall deter us from continuing the fight until the polls close on the seventh day of November, because we know we are right. We know they are wrong, and we know that they know they are wrong.

Bursum's Challenge.

I took occasion in Las Vegas to accept the challenge made there by Mr. Holden C. Hagerman, then candidate for governor, to show that there had been irregularities in his administration of the territorial penitentiary; that records of that institution had been destroyed, and that he, as superintendent, had been guilty of extravagance and mismanagement, and, to use stronger terms,

The next day the gang papers, instead of printing what I said in answer to that challenge, confined themselves to vituperation and abuse directed toward me personally. They knew they could not win the issue, said they knew I had told the truth, and, like people caught with the goods, tried to beg the issue.

Regarding the Books.

Mr. Bursum says none of the books were destroyed, and refers for his vindication to the records of Judge Parker's court. Those very records, a copy of which I took in my hand, state unequivocally that one of the most important books of original entry was destroyed. True, the report of the referee says the book could be reproduced from other sources, but to do so would require six months work.

Mr. Bursum himself wrote a letter in which he said he had that book destroyed. Still he comes before the people and says none of the books were destroyed. He also says his record as superintendent of the penitentiary is not an issue in this campaign. I say his record is an issue. If he was incompetent or dishonest in that position of trust, how do we know that he will not be incompetent or dishonest if elected to a higher and more responsible position? By his fruits ye shall know them; by his acts ye shall judge him.

When appointed governor of the territory, I soon became aware that the penitentiary was not being well administered. I secured the opinion of a prison expert from another part of the country and in his judgment the physical and moral conditions were bad.

BETTER FOOTBALL THIS YEAR
Strategy and Hard Fighting Not Eliminated By New Rules and Chances for Spectacular Game Much Brighter.

Football this year is nearer football than anything we have seen in many years—that is, there has been and probably will be more kicking under the new rules than under the old. And this is a good thing for the game.

It is thought, it has not eliminated the strategy and hard fighting which have made of college football the prince of games, but it has introduced a spectacular feature which cannot fail to add to the interest of the spectator. And, besides, it will much improve the chances of the smaller colleges to make a good showing.

Both of these make for the betterment of the game. In the games so far played, though high-class kicking was common and long runs plentiful, forward passes and other extremely modern plays were productive of comparatively small gains.

For the most part, the leading eleven contented themselves with straight and line running, with occasional shifts to relieve the monotony. It has been the marked feature of the play, however.

Coaches and players alike have so far familiarized themselves with the modern game that they know just what is permissible and what is not. The period of experimentation is passed. It will take weeks to drill the players into perfect execution of the plays made possible by the revision of the code, but the theory of the thing has been mastered, and, that done, it is only a question of time before it will be put into practice.

Though outside kicks and forward passes have not been as common as advocates of the game might desire, there is a general tendency to vary the play, to mix things up. Even the big fellows, while strong enough to have vanquished their opponents by straightforward football, showed a willingness to depart from the plain hammering tactics that usually feature their opening games.

Except for a slight tendency to fumble, Yale games left little to be desired. The team played a far more consistent game than a year ago. Plenty of strength and a few weaknesses are shown in both line and backfield.

Harvard does not shine so brightly, individually, but there is evident a system of team play that none of the other eleven shows. While the regulars are on the field the defense was invulnerable. The attack was also powerful and aggressive enough for all purposes.

The Tiger's backfield is exceptionally light, even for Princeton, where heavy backs are the exception, but it flashed a lot of speed and a varied attack. They picked their holes well and got off to a number of long runs, in which they are aided more by their own great dodging than by good interference or protection from the line.

GIRL OFFERS HERSELF AS SACRIFICE TO BEARS
Lima, O., Oct. 28.—In an attempt to end her life while suffering from dependency, Miss Anna Hartor, 32 years old, today leaped into a pit at the city park in which were confined two large bears.

The bears, however, refused to harm her, and she was rescued by a park attendant. Miss Anna Hartor, 32 years old, today leaped into a pit at the city park in which were confined two large bears.

Automobile Roads Out of This City to Be Routed For First Time

Pathfinder Harry Drumm and President Sellers of New Mexico Auto Association to Spend Several Weeks Compiling Detailed Data On Highways of Central New Mexico; Will Be Incorporated in Automobile Blue Book or Special Publication By New Mexico Motorists.

For the first time since the entry of the gasoline wagon into New Mexico, the roads in this section of the state are to be accurately routed and completely listed as to every turn of the road will be published to give every motorist authentic and official information as to routes.

Harry Drumm, planning the Sunset Trail from Chicago to the coast under the auspices of the Transcontinental Touring Club of America, has decided to spend several weeks in New Mexico before completing his trip to the Pacific. In the meantime, he and President D. K. H. Sellers of the New Mexico Automobile association, in Drumm's Staver roadster, will cover all the roads radiating out from Albuquerque, gathering accurate and complete directions for tourists. This information will likely be published in a special section of the Automobile Blue Book to be issued this year, especially devoted to roads west of the Mississippi and transcontinental lines, a new departure for the Blue Book publishers. In case the data is not ready in time for the Blue Book it will be published in a special book by the New Mexico Automobile association.

Drumm and Sellers will make their first trip to El Paso in order to get the "dope" on the road south through the valley and west from Socorro.

The routing of the roads for automobiles," said Mr. Drumm, yesterday, "always conduces to a lively good roads and automobile boom. The more people know the roads, the more people will travel over them. The routing and mapping of highways through the state has been coincident with increased traffic, increased business, and increased development of the intermediate territory. In the past year since my last trip over the southwest route there has been tremendous progress. South of Las Junta and in northern New Mexico in many places where a year ago we found a wilderness and no semblance of a road, this year you can see everywhere that roads have been built and improved; and the improvement in the roads has been accompanied by a corresponding increase in business and tourism, and a general awakening. At Trinidad and Raton and Las Vegas and all down the line the difference in a year's time is really startling; not to mention the wonderful progress made on the road between here and Santa Fe in Garden City and other places. This year you can show the figures in actual dollars and cents, of the increase in business and the boom to properly resulting from the work on the roads and the increasing number of automobile travelers."

SUNSET TRAIL ONLY ROUTE FOR FALL AND WINTER

The Raymond-Whitcomb Tour, Headed By Pilot Westgard, Now Neating Half Way Point on Trip.

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal]

New York, Oct. 28.—Officials of the Touring Club of America, with headquarters in New York city, advise that during the past several weeks there has been an average of a party a day starting from New York, with Los Angeles and San Francisco as the destination. The Raymond-Whitcomb caravan of five cars, in which seats were sold to all who cared to make the long trip, is the most pretentious touring party since the caravan of twelve Premiers with owners of the wheels placed the way across the continent in August. The Whitcomb tourists are now nearing the half way point.

The transcontinental touring season has not yet ended, the time being several weeks away, or until after the eastern roads become impassable. However, practically all the tourists yet to make the trip this year will follow the old Santa Fe trail, going southwest from Kansas City through Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Phoenix and San Diego to Los Angeles. This is the first trail now being followed by the Raymond-Whitcomb tourists.

This southern route, first laid out a year will follow the old Santa Fe trail, going southwest from Kansas City through Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Phoenix and San Diego to Los Angeles. This is the first trail now being followed by the Raymond-Whitcomb tourists.

Miss West has numerous friends and is spent the time since her arrival Thursday night in a round of visits. They have been entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. It is a matter of interest noted by Mrs. West, that she feels that her stay is not to be further prolonged to make time for other entertainment in her honor.

"She Knows How to Dress"

That's what is said of the woman who has learned that the Bon Ton corset is THE corset which suits her best.

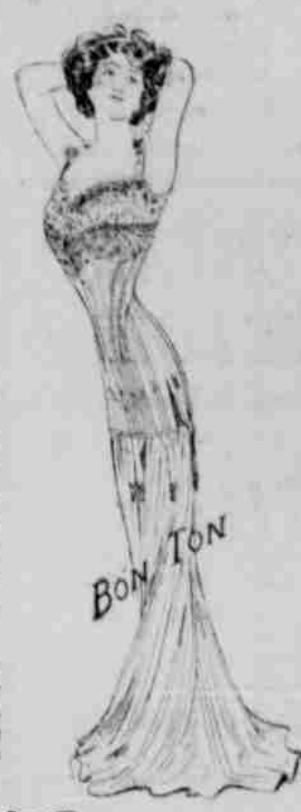

Does she wear a shirtwaist? The Bon Ton corset keeps it from looking "sloppy."

Does she wear a tailor-made gown? Her Bon Ton corset makes it possible for it to fit without a wrinkle.

Does she wear an evening gown? The fine, slender lines which make her the envy of other women are due to the wonderful shaping and boning of the Bon Ton.

There's a Bon Ton model for every figure and every pocketbook. Let us demonstrate both these statements to you tomorrow.

$3.50 and Up.

The New Neckwear

A dainty piece of Neckwear adds much to the effect of the new Autumn Suit; in fact the tailored suit does not seem to be complete without it. Side neckties are immensely popular and the styles are so varied that one may pay little or much, according to taste or purse. At present Plauen Lacey Neckties are very much in vogue and a coat color of this material lends just the desired finishing touch to the suit.

Ideal Irish Lace Neckwear is always a leading favorite and our importation includes about everything that one may need for the neck dressing.

Great interest is shown in the dainty hand-embroidered French neckties of which we are exhibiting a most fascinating variety. We beg the privilege of showing you the beauty of these lines.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

The semi-annual meeting of the Protestant missionary societies was held Friday afternoon in the Gold and Broadway church of Christ.

Preceding a delightful social hour, the following interesting program was rendered:

Hymn. Congregation. Responsive Reading. Prayer. Hymn.

"The Legend Beautiful" (Longfellow). Mrs. Woodford of the Congregational church.

"The Stranger Within Our Gates." Mrs. Kapple of the First Baptist church.

Paper—Mrs. McKee of the South Methodist church.

"The Lord's Work Demands Hasten." Mrs. Beckman of the Lead Avenue Methodist church.

"An Outlet for Patriotism"—Miss Little of the Presbyterian church.

Vocal Solo. Miss Sturdevant.

The Royal Daughters of the Congregational church, the Sunday school class taught by Mrs. Himee, held a successful bazaar last night at 214 South Second street which interested and enticed the passersby.

Good things to eat, all home made and very delicious, dressed dolls and other dainties of the Yuletide found ready sale.

The Woman's Bible class under direction of Mrs. Jesse Runyan will resume their weekly sessions in the Y. W. C. A. library tomorrow afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. Meetings will be held each Monday. This instruction is open and free to every woman in the city who cares to join the class.

A laudably enterprise and one well patronized was the concert given by "The Searchers," a youthful Sunday school class of the Gold and Broadway church, last Thursday evening.

The youngsters directed by Mrs. Mize and assisted as accompanist by Mrs. Canine, acquitted themselves creditably in the literary and musical program and succeeding in netting a little sum with which to buy "Christmas" for orphans and those less fortunate than themselves.

Plans are under way for a Thanksgiving eve ball in Elks' hall room under direction of the Catholic Foresters. There is usually a Thanksgiving dance" pulled off in the big ball room and that the annual affair in this year in charge of the Lady Foresters does but predict an unusually good time and liberal patronage.

St. John's Guild had one of their enjoyable teas at the home of Mrs. Sabina Thursday afternoon. Quite largely attended, the affair turned out to be one of the jolliest social events of the budding season.

The ladies of the Lead Avenue Methodist church were entertained by Mrs. W. W. McDonald Thursday. Rather, it was the first of a series of teas to be given by the Aid society at the homes of the members.

A fine musical program interspersed the other features of enjoyment with which the afternoon was plentifully endowed.

LODGE DANCE.

The Royal Neighbors had a gala evening in Odd Fellows' hall Thursday, proving themselves true to their name as entertainers. The musical program consisting of piano solos by Pauline Borradaile and Miss Gladys Mandell, a violin selection by Ernest Fuhrmeyer, preceded by an overture by the Fuhrmeyer-Cavanaugh orchestra, was thoroughly delightful and interspersed the dancing as intermission numbers.

Refreshments were served and the evening altogether one of good fun and frolic. Dr. Ada Chevallier was chairman of the entertainment committee and much of the splendid success of the affair was due to her efforts.

A SUGGESTION.

If you are thinking of Christmas photographs, we would suggest a visit to the Walton Photographic Studio, where the correct mountings and Gishings will be shown. Attendance at the St. Paul National Convention this summer, where the best photographers of the world met and exchanged ideas, enables us to keep abreast of the times and our patrons are assured of satisfaction in every detail.

We do not make cheap photographs but we do claim to make photographs of the better sort at reasonable prices.

CAMPAIGNERS OF BOTH PARTIES BUSY IN THE PECOS VALLEY COUNTIES

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Roswell, N. M., Oct. 27.—The political parties are reaching the climax of the first state campaign in New Mexico and in the Pecos valley the fight is now on. The valley is two to one democratic, normally, and the democrats are carrying forward the fight as though they had odds to beat. Ex-Congressman Zack Cobb, of El Paso, spoke here last night. He is on a trip through the Pecos valley, speaking at every town of any size. Hon. Harvey B. Ferguson, candidate for congress, and Alvan N. White, candidate for state school superintendent, speak here Monday night. Hon. W. C. McDonald, candidate for governor, arrives with a party of prominent democrats Sunday and goes through the valley Monday on a campaign trip. Meanwhile the republicans are continuing themselves to county candidate work and the mailing out of literature. The addresses of H. C. Ferguson, candidate for governor, and Charles Springer, candidate for state school superintendent, have been mailed to every voter in the Pecos valley from county committee headquarters.

An important change is announced in the passenger train service of the Pecos valley lines of the Santa Fe. Heavy rail and big engines are to take the place of the lighter materials. The morning train will leave Roswell two and a half hours earlier and the evening train from the east will arrive two hours and ten minutes earlier. The change was announced last night when Superintendent G. W. Starkweather arrived. It goes into effect early in November. The exact date will be announced later.

Practical Styles Are Winning Their Way

The woman who dresses for practical comfort—who wears a simple waist and skirt when occasion requires—is the woman whose good judgment is commended. She is considered a "good dresser." The best designers the world over are recognizing and catering to her influence.

Here's the Wooltex Utility Skirt

It supplies a long-felt want as a walking skirt and loses none of its beauty through being thoroughly practical. It has graceful lines, comfortable stride-width and is equipped with two useful pockets. This Wooltex skirt is best liked when made up in Scotch mixtures and fancy skirtings, though a bit dressier, of course, in the French serges or chevrons. Try the effect of it with your favorite waist.

We'll be glad to show you the details of designing and tailoring which have given Wooltex skirts their rank as "highest class."

We would also call your attention to the latest arrivals in Wooltex Suits and Coats.Ready-to-Wear Department

MARTIN'S FATHER WAR VETERAN

Candidate For Sheriff in Socorro County Son of Man Who Answered Lincoln's Call For Volunteers.

The following circular is being sent out among the voters of Socorro county.

Mogadale, N. M., Oct. 23, 1911. To the Voters: John Martin, nominee for the office of sheriff on the Voters' ticket, is a son of John Martin, the first lieutenant of Company D, California Volunteers, who walked from San Francisco, Calif., to New Mexico, in 1861, under the call for volunteers, issued by Abraham Lincoln.

He is well known, not only in Socorro county, but throughout New Mexico. He has held the office of cattle inspector of this district for the last three years, and his record as such and his business dealings with men of business, has been such that his honesty cannot be doubted or his veracity impeached.

He enters into the campaign as a candidate absolutely unpledged as to the division of office, without any promise of deputies or the division of the judgeship, and with the sole pledge that if he is elected, he will do his duty in the office for which he has been nominated.

At a convention called by the voters of Socorro county, in Mogadale, on Tuesday, October 24, for the purpose of organizing the "Voters' party," following among other proceedings were had:

H. L. Thrane, of Mogadale, elected chairman.
C. R. Pennington, elected secretary.

Our Platform: Irrespective of political faith and party affiliations, and feeling that the time has come when the voters should organize a party of the people, by the people and for the people, we have nominated John Martin for the office of sheriff of Socorro county, New Mexico.

The name of the ticket shall be the "Voters' ticket."

The emblem adopted shall be the Lady of Magdalena's face, and it is hereby ordered by said convention that said ticket, together with its emblem, be filed in the office of the probate clerk of the county of Socorro, in accordance with the law. The emblem with the Mary Magdalena face and a significant kneeling at each side is hereby adopted.

A gentleman is expected at that time with a large collection of magnificent works of art, photographic reproductions of famous paintings and other gems which will afford an afternoon and evening of the rarest enjoyment to lovers of art, to students of history and readers of romance. There will be reproductions of the old masters so true to the original, from which they have been directly taken as to furnish almost the pleasure which would come from an inspection of the paintings themselves. Mr. and Mrs. Newcomer, whose "Art Shop" is a favorite resort for artists and persons interested in decoration make the invitation urgent to all Albuquerque people interested to call in the afternoon and evening and enjoy the opportunity to see these pictures—an opportunity which they give assurance is a rare one. The exhibition will be educational in a high degree and no one should miss it.

THE HERPICIDE GIRL

Advises Gentlemen.

At Mrs. Blank's reception I met a gentleman who fulfilled my ideal of a man in all but one particular. He had a good head, fine physique, perfect manners, was a most interesting personality, and wore himself with the distinguished air of a gentleman. His dress was immaculate and his clothes were as to cut and material. But all the pleasant first impression was ruined when I discovered the collar and shoulders of his dresscoat covered with loose hair and flakes of dandruff.

To me this was an indication of personal carelessness, not to say uncleanliness. I wanted to tell him to get a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide. This remarkable remedy would, in a short time remove every trace of dandruff from his head, stop his hair from falling and prevent him from becoming bald. I don't like bald-headed men; they look old whether they are or not.

Dandruff is caused by a germ and Newbro's Herpicide kills that germ. The itching, which is so frightful with dandruff, stops almost instantly. Herpicide is the original remedy, that destroys dandruff. There is nothing in the world just like it, nothing that is "just as good."

One dollar size bottles are guaranteed by all druggists to give satisfaction.

PRESIDENT RIPLEY AND PARTY IN ALBUQUERQUE

SANTA FE OFFICIALS ON WAY TO COAST

Following Attendance Upon Annual Meeting of Directors in Topeka, Brass Collars Begin Trip Over System.

Edward Payson Ripley, president of the great Santa Fe system, and one of the railroad kings of the world, accompanied by his assistant, E. J. Engle and his personal physician, Dr. Sterl of Chicago, was in Albuquerque yesterday afternoon and last night. They were accompanied to Albuquerque by Ford Harvey of the Fred Harvey system, General Superintendent J. M. Kurn of La Junta, Superintendent John Stein of Las Vegas of the Fred Harvey system. Early this morning they were met here by General Manager A. C. A. and General Superintendent H. A. Hibbard of the Coast lines who accompanied them to Los Angeles.

E. P. RIPLEY, President of the Santa Fe System Since 1896.

The party comprised a portion of the officials of the company who have been attending a meeting of the board of directors held in Topeka on last Thursday at which time a new bond issue of $100,000,000 was authorized and the capital stock also increased to $100,000,000.

As is the custom on the Santa Fe the directors immediately after the adjournment of the annual meeting begin their annual swing around the circle.

The party proceeded in two special trains to Denver, over the main line of the Santa Fe, but upon reaching there the weather was so inclement that President Ripley, who has been having considerable trouble with his throat decided to come to New Mexico and enjoy the sunshine, while the other members of the big party were inspecting the plant of the system in Colorado.

Mr. Ripley was, however, greatly disappointed, as ever since entering New Mexico the party has encountered the most unusual spell of bad weather. The severity of the weather has been such as to cause Dr. Sterl to forbid his famous patient talking to anybody. The condition of President Ripley's throat is such that it is almost impossible for him to talk above a whisper, which to one who has always been as gregarious as the president of the Santa Fe is a great hardship. All interviews with the party were, therefore, turned over to Mr. Engle, for whom the town of Engle, N. M., is named.

Mr. Engle denied that the Santa Fe had any intention at this time of buying any railroad property in northern New Mexico, in fact they had no designs on that section.

The distinguished party arrived in Albuquerque yesterday afternoon in a special train composed of the private cars of President Ripley and General Superintendent Kurn. The second special train of the party will arrive early this morning containing Mr. D. Hinds, chairman of the executive committee; Vice President W. E. Hodges, W. B. Stoly and George T. Nicholson, Controller; D. L. Gallup, F. B. Houghton, freight traffic manager, and Howell Jones and C. S. Gled, directors.

Leaving here early this morning the two parties will proceed west to Los Angeles over the coast lines, back to Phoenix over the Prescott and Phoenix line, thence over the Southern Pacific to Denning. After an inspection of the Silver City branch line the party will return to Topeka by way of the Rio Grande division and the coast. At Topeka the party will be joined by General Manager F. C. Fox.

The Way Don Solomon Works It in Valencia

Honorable Solomon Luna, supreme dictator in Valencia county, through the local remedy, is expressing some dissatisfaction with the way the sheriff's department is conducted in this county.

Tuesday last, a brutal crime was committed in the precinct of San Rafael, Valencia county, about 100 miles from this city. Tarble Griego, arrested for the crime, was not given a hearing in the precinct where he was arrested. He was brought by two of King Solomon's deputy sheriffs to the Bernalillo county jail, 100 miles.

He was then taken down to Los Lunas, 20 miles.

He was then brought back here, 20 miles.

He was then taken back to San Rafael for hearing—100 miles.

After his hearing he will be brought back here for safe keeping in the Bernalillo county jail—100 miles.

Total, 240 miles.

The taxpayers of Valencia will pay for the mileage of two deputy sheriffs for 240 miles.

Meanwhile—with it he said, the sum of $30,000 of Valencia county funds "working" in a bank outside the county, Valencia county can afford no jail for the incarceration of its prisoners.

How long is Bernalillo county going to be asked to supply a jail for the safe-keeping of Don Solomon's prisoners in order that this $30,000 may continue to "work" unimpaired in a bank out Valencia county?

CURES DYSPEPSIA, STOMACH GAS OR INDIGESTION

Just a Little Diapepsin Will Make Your Out-of-Order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapepsin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't sit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping.

This will all go, and besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with noxious odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

Next week he expects to ask the court for permission to file it, on behalf of these states, when the Oregon case, involving the constitutionality of the method, comes up for oral argument before the court.

Y. W. C. A. Subscription Completed; Splendid Association Home Secured

Conditions of Generous Offer of Judge Abbott Complied With After Vigorous Campaign. Cordially Responded to By Public; Will Move Into New Quarters November First.

The Young Women's Christian association is now a permanent civic enterprise of Albuquerque. The board of directors, the business girls and the secretaries are to be congratulated.

The conditions of the Honorable Judge Ira A. Abbott's gift have been met and within a few days the organization will be in the new home at 215 South Third street.

The total amount raised in pledges and contributions is $5,220.50, or the amount the business girls under the able chairmanship of Miss Olive Landacre, raised one thousand dollars.

Friends from the east and west have sent sums ranging from one dollar to fifty. Detroit, Mich., Los Angeles, Cal., Indianapolis, Ind., Topeka, Kan., Pasadena, and St. Johnsbury, Vt., Dayton and Cincinnati, Ohio, Providence, R. I., Morgan Park, Ill., Washington, D. C., El Paso, Texas, and Bloomfield, N. J., all are on the list. In New Mexico Roswell, Raton, Las Vegas and Las Cruces are represented.

Three hundred and thirty-four individuals and firms and twenty-seven organizations, including the most prominent orders, societies and all Protestant churches have shown their interest in this great work by contributing to the fund.

About a year ago the work of the Young Women's Christian association, and its financial struggle was brought to the attention of Judge Ira A. Abbott. After acquainting himself with the definite needs of the organization, Judge Abbott looked about for property which might be adapted to the work of the association.

This property must be located so as to be easy of access to the railroad station, to the downtown offices and stores; it must also be in a residence district so as to serve the needs of a home as well as an administrative office. After weighing carefully all the advantages and disadvantages of several pieces of property, it was decided that the home on 215 South Third street, with a few alterations and repairs, would best adapt itself to the many requirements of a Y. W. C. A. Negotiations with a view of securing the property followed.

On July 9th, the Albuquerque Morning Journal announced the generous offer of Judge Abbott to the Young Women's Christian association. This offer was that, on condition the association raise $5,000 in good pledges and contributions, on or before October 15th, 1911, Judge Abbott would give the association the home on 215 South Third street, costing him $4,500 and would also present the organization with five hundred dollars in cash to aid in making the necessary repairs and alterations.

On the evening of Oct. 16th, the 15th occurring on Sunday, the executive board met Judge Abbott in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. The fact was then announced that $5,985 had been raised, a number of promised pledges have since brought the amount up to $5,220.50.

The association is now making preparations to move into the home about November first. The alterations and repairs which will make the home both attractive and comfortable will go forward at once. The new home committee appointed to do this special work consists of Mrs. Roy McDonald, chairman, Mrs. G. L.

Brooks, Mrs. A. B. McGaffrey, Dr. Margaret G. Cartwright, Mrs. Felix Lester and Miss Saxe.

The committee has been authorized to place a good, solid foundation under the house, build two-story south and west porches, enclosing half the building, pebble-dash the whole structure and add a number of conveniences to the interior which will make the home sanitary, comfortable and adapted to the needs of the association.

The Young Women's Christian associations take this opportunity to express their sincere appreciation of the interest and generosity manifested by the citizens, the business girls, the churches and societies during the campaign. The association wishes to thank the press for its assistance as both local papers have always been most courteous in extending to the association generous space and hearty co-operation. The association would also thank Messrs. French & Lawler, D. A. Porterfield, A. B. Stroup, E. A. Field and E. J. Strong for the use of vehicles.

To the loyal little women who more than redeemed the pledge of their Sunday school, the association is grateful; and to all those who participated in making "The Man From Home" such a brilliant success.

The public will be interested to know that the receipts of this play netted $461.50 to the association.

Special mention should be made of the small group who sacrificed rest and recreation during the hottest season of the year in order that they might canvass, write friends, address meetings, etc., that the business girl might swell the fund one thousand dollars. Mrs. L. J. Mizer presented the work to all the church organizations; Miss Henrietta Watkins and Miss Louise Hopper presented Santa Fe territory; Miss Landacre and Miss Saxe approached lodges, societies and fraternities; Miss Mildred Sturdevant visited pastors and a number of others; Miss Marquette, Miss McCannan, Mrs. Reed, Miss Cutcher, Miss Bertha Little and Mrs. Statback turned out the stenographic work; the Albuquerque Business College printed five hundred letters; Mrs. A. L. Stowell campaigned amongst the business girls themselves and not one was willing to be omitted from the list.

Mr. W. P. Metcalf, Mr. Edward E. Criss and Mr. Hies have all shown much good-will and definite interest by contributing valuable services.

There has been such hearty co-operation, such generous support and such kindly response to the appeal of the organization that it is impossible to cover, in a single article, all the items of interest that have entered into the campaign—or to be confident that each and every name has been mentioned. If any name or mention of service has been omitted it is a clerical and not an intentional error, for the association is deeply grateful to all who have in any way made possible this great blessing to the city.

BUSINESS COLLEGE ITEMS

Several new students entered the first of the week. The out-of-town enrollment is double that of a year ago and prospects are bright for a further increase.

The basketball team has been organized and practice begun. Eighteen candidates were out for the beginning practice and a good team will soon be gotten in shape. C. E. Ellis, one of the best basketball ball authorities in the southwest, will coach the team.

Miss Florence Gustafson, who has been employed, temporarily, by the C. N. Cotton Co., of Gallup for several months, has been given the position permanently. The C. N. cotton company is one of the leading firms of the southwest, and the fact that Miss Gustafson has been selected for a responsible position with them is a compliment to her ability as a stenographer.

Mr. Frank Myers, a well known young man who graduated a year and a half ago, was visiting relatives and friends here last week and made the school a pleasant call. Frank is now in the government service in Idaho.

Several of the Pecos valley papers are running announcements of the opening of a Commercial department in the Western office, Arroyo. It will be the only school in that section.

to offer full courses in both stenography and bookkeeping. Miss Zella Roberts, who recently graduated from the Albuquerque Business college, has charge of the department. Before taking up a business course, Miss Roberts was assistant principal of the Estancia schools.

Robert Hedges has begun work as office assistant with J. Korber & Co. Bob has just completed a combined course.

The advanced dictation class is preparing for the "fifty test" which will be given next week. The average class is one of the largest of the year.

PROMINENT ODD FELLOW SAVED FROM CATARRH---BY PE-RU-NA

Mr. George Parrott.
Member of the Noble Grand Lodge, No. 135, Independent Order Odd Fellows, Glencoe, Ontario.

A NEGLECTED COUGH---DANGEROUS CATARRH FOLLOWED.

"I have been using Peru-NA for some time for a cough and catarrh of the throat with very satisfactory results."

"Having neglected the cough, catarrh developed, and my physicians said I was threatened with catarrh of the stomach. My breath was very offensive, and I was troubled with nausea."

"Less than two bottles of Peru-NA cured me."---Mr. Geo. Parrott.

Dispelena Twenty Years.

Mr. Sidney Weasels, Merritt, Ont., Canada, writes:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion for twenty years, during which time I tried different doctors, but did not get the desired results. I have been compelled for weeks at a time to give up work, being completely prostrated. I had to confine myself to a milk diet, as nothing would remain on my stomach."

"I had almost given up, thinking my case incurable, when I heard of Peru-NA and decided to try it. One bottle made a great change, and after medicines, I had complete freedom from pain, my appetite was restored, and I could again enjoy my meals."

"I believe Peru-NA is the greatest medicine under the sun. To-day I weigh over 225 pounds. Is it any wonder that I praise Peru-NA?"

Pneumonia Followed La Grippe.

Mr. T. Burnett, Almer, West Ontario, Can., writes: "Last winter I was ill with pneumonia, after having la grippe. I took Peru-NA, when I came quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time at little expense."

FARLEY AND O'CONNELL WILL GET RED HATS

Formal Announcement Made of Forthcoming Action of Consistory to Be Held in Rome Next Month.

[The Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Rome, Oct. 28.—The pope will create a large number of cardinals at the consistory to be held November 27. The most prominent names are: Archbishop John M. Farley, archbishop of New York, and the Most Reverend William H. O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, are among those who will receive the red hat.

Mr. Damiano Paleone, apostolic delegate at Washington, also will be elevated, according to the announcement made today. The prelates whose elevation to the cardinalate is officially announced are:

Mr. S. M. Cozzani, archbishop of Valladolid.

Mr. Damiano Paleone, apostolic delegate at Washington.

Mr. A. Vico, apostolic nuncio at Madrid.

Mr. Granillo Di Belmonte, apostolic nuncio at Vienna.

Mr. Lumar, assessor of the holy of the.

Mr. Pompei, secretary of the consistory council.

Mr. Dillet, of the Jesuit order.

Mr. Van Rossum, Redemptorist.

The last consistory was held in December, 1907, four cardinals being appointed at that time. Since then many vacancies have occurred in the Sacred College by death and now there are twenty-two seats of the total of seventy members.

The question of the appointment of another American cardinal has been under discussion a number of times. Archbishop Farley, Archbishop O'Connell and Archbishop Quay of Chicago being mentioned. But on one occasion it was stated that the pope adhered to his opinion that the United States should not have more than one cardinal during the time of Cardinal Gibbons.

The proposed consistory in November will be the fifth held by Pope Pius X. On the death of Leo XIII there were sixty-four cardinals, leaving the last eight years Pius X. has created seventeen new cardinals, of whom two have died.

The selection of the new cardinals is in subject of interesting comment, owing chiefly to the recognition that the United States has received that country has been granted three red hats, who gradually will become a kind of acquired right for the American Episcopate. Mr. Paleone is an American citizen and with Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Farley and O'Connell will bring the number of American prelates up to four.

It is stated that soon the American cardinals will be further increased so as to give the west a representation in the senate of the church.

It is remarked that only five Italian cardinals have been created, but it is likely that before the consistory is held two or three more will be added to the list.

It is also stated that the pope will create a large number of cardinals at the consistory to be held November 27. The most prominent names are: Archbishop John M. Farley, archbishop of New York, and the Most Reverend William H. O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, are among those who will receive the red hat.

CHAVES HAILED AS MOTHER AND SON HELD FOR MURDER OF YOUNG WIFE

DETAILS OF SHOCKING TRAGEDY AT SAN RAFAEL

Woman Strangled to Death; Jealous Husband Arrested On Charge of Murder; Old Woman Likewise Suspect.

[The Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Socorro, N. M., Oct. 28.—Through the counties of Valencia and Socorro, that straggled of political rights, where Solomon Luna plays the under and profitable role of the underboss, and H. O. Henson, candidate on the Las Vegas gang ticket for governor drives the hearse, E. V. Chaves, the Albuquerque attorney, has been carrying the rallying cry of political resurrection with all the fervor and noise that the success of the movement of the day.

Chaves, fresh from a campaign in some of Luna's most oppressed precincts, carried the fight into Socorro county today. Mr. Chaves is the first man who ever dared to tell the people of Valencia that the rule of the corruption of the ring that runs their county, today entered Socorro county to speak the plain truth about H. O. Henson in audiences that filled four halls.

Luna, in his own stamping ground, was today landed with a goodly crowd of decent politicians and clean government.

Socorro is also the home county of Mr. Chaves; he was born in the city of Socorro, and knew nearly every man, woman and child in the precincts through which he campaigned today. The knowledge that he was to speak in the various precincts brought out almost every voter to his meetings, and others stood by the roadside to greet their old friend returning to his home country after an absence of two years made necessary by the illness of his good wife.

They swung his hand as they questioned him for news of the political revolt that is shaking New Mexico from the level of plain ordinary citizens, and they cheered him as he drove on.

At San Acacia the voters turned out in great numbers, and the speaker, preceded over by Don Tomas Cordova, L. At Polvadera, a school house was packed and men stood in the rain outside the doors and windows to listen to Mr. Chaves. Don Eduardo was chairman of the meeting here.

Then came Lander with the quipson social hall of Don Salvador Gonzalez jammed to the doors. Don Lorenzo Rivera was chairman and the women of the household had decorated the speaker's table with flags and flowers.

Tonight at his native town of Socorro Mr. Chaves was treated to a reception at the Windsor hotel, and after addressed a great meeting presided over by Attorney James E. Finch, one of the greatest of the democratic leaders of New Mexico. Mr. Chaves was recorded a magnificent speech and he was greeted by the audience with enthusiastic applause, which left no doubt as to the sentiment of his hearers. The speaker pleaded with his hearers to join with the rest of New Mexico in the fight for the election of W. C. McDonald to the United States senate, even including Valencia and Socorro counties, and have good government, which he pointed out would be impossible under the boss-made republican racket, which had been repudiated by thousands of republicans.

Mr. Chaves will remain in Socorro county tomorrow and Monday spreading the doctrine of equal rights.

It is remarked that only five Italian cardinals have been created, but it is likely that before the consistory is held two or three more will be added to the list.

It is also stated that the pope will create a large number of cardinals at the consistory to be held November 27. The most prominent names are: Archbishop John M. Santa Fe train No. 1, en route to Arizona. The car was in charge of Captain W. E. Smith of Creede, Colo., where the government fish hatchery which supplies Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, is located. With Mr. Smith was a crew of four men, besides a cook.

Captain Smith, who has been making trips to the southwest for several years, showed a Morning Journal reporter through the car and explained its mission. He said that the car had delivered thousands of minnows to parties at El Paso, Las Vegas, Glorieta and Santa Fe for restocking the Vermejo, Red, Gila, Santa Fe and Upper Pecos rivers in northern New Mexico. Yesterday cars containing many thousands of minnows were emptied into the Rio Grande at Domingo. On arrival here last night Captain Smith delivered ten cars containing 2,000 minnows each to Frank Hughes of Silver City, who will distribute them in the Gila and its tributaries in Grant county; and fifteen cars containing 30,000 minnows to H. C. Van Etta of Clovis, who will place them in the Pecos and its tributaries in the section adjacent to Fort Sumner.

From this city the fish car goes to northern Arizona, stopping on the way at Gallup today, where fish will be delivered for distribution in streams in that region. Flagstaff is its ultimate destination and from there fish will be turned over to natives who will carry them as far south as Phoenix.

In the course of his conversation, Captain Smith paid a high tribute to the efficiency of the administration of Game and Fish Warden Thomas P. Gable of Santa Fe, who he said was doing an excellent work in propagating fish and game in New Mexico. He inquired about political conditions and evinced considerable interest in the probable outcome of the election on November 7 in the new state. Captain Smith also asked about H. H. Henson, secretary of the Bureau of Immigration, whom, he said, he had known for many years, the two having been schoolmates when boys.

[The Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 28.—James J. Hill tonight commended President Taft for whatever influence the president might have exercised in the government's suit to dissolve the United States steel corporation. Mr. Hill said he endorsed the action even though other so-called captains of industry had been reported as offering criticism.

"I am not worried about the ore lands or the cancellation of the steel corporation contract. Iron ore does not go out of style the fashions do not change and it will not run away. If there is to be ground for twenty-five years and the country grows and the demand for iron and steel increases, it will not be worth any less than it is now worth."

Mr. Hill said he endorsed the action even though other so-called captains of industry had been reported as offering criticism.

STRIKERS PREPARE TO GIVE BATTLE TO MILITIA

Bloodshed Feared at Fulton, Ky., This Morning When Troops Reach There On Special Train.

[The Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Paducah, Ky., Oct. 29.—A telephone message from Fulton early this morning says Illinois Central strikers and sympathizers are gathering prepared to meet the company of state militia ordered here to quell the strike trouble. Excitement prevails and the whole town is aware awaiting the arrival of the soldiers. It is not believed the Hopkinsville troops will get here before daylight under the best of train conditions.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS ARE QUICKLY MOBILIZED
Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 29.—Mobilized under secret orders when members of company "D," Third Kentucky state guards could be found, were assembled at the Illinois Central station here at 12:30 this morning waiting for a special train. The company with between thirty and forty men in uniform under command of Captain E. W. Clark, had been assembled with knowledge of more than a dozen persons in Hopkinsville.

The local company of militia received a call to proceed to Fulton, Ky., to quell Illinois Central strike disturbances.

LOCAL POLICE AT FULTON UNABLE TO KEEP ORDER
Fulton, Ky., Oct. 28.—Unable to cope with the disturbances attributed to the strike of Illinois Central employees, local authorities have asked for state troops which are expected by morning.

No very serious disorders have occurred here in the last two days, though minor disturbances have become so numerous that the local police could not handle the offenders. It has resulted in Illinois Central strike-breakers being frequently beaten and in one or two instances shot.

GREAT DISPLAY OF FIGHTING SHIPS

Review at New York of Largest Aggregation of War Vessels Ever Seen in Western Hemisphere.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

New York, Oct. 27.—Not since Admiral Dewey's victorious fleet steamed up the Hudson on its return from the Philippines has there been such interest in any naval event as is manifested in the review of the great array of Uncle Sam's sea fighters which is to assemble here soon. This fleet, however, will be a far greater aggregation of fighting power than the one that humbled Spain on that memorable occasion in Manila Bay. It will be the greatest collection of war craft ever assembled in the western hemisphere and the greatest, with one or two exceptions, in the world. The entire fleet will comprise 125 vessels and will include twenty-four battleships and thirty-two armored cruisers with other divisions consisting of torpedo boats, destroyers, torpedo boats, submarines and auxiliaries. The mobilization is being conducted by naval authorities exactly as it would be in case of a sudden outbreak of war requiring the fleet to be rushed to the protection of New York harbor. The work of repair and outfitting is going on at a record pace and the ships will steam here from their various stations under emergency orders exactly as though a state of war prevailed. Between 25,000 and 30,000 bluejackets will man the fleet, and the greatest assemblage of jack tarts ever brought together in this country and when they are granted shore leave after the review the flowery will have a temporary renewal of its old time gaiety. It is estimated that half a million people from other parts of the country will gather here to witness the review.

The man who is probably the country's most confirmed jail dweller has just completed here his thirty-fifth year of continuous imprisonment, made up of one hundred separate commitments varying from one year to a few weeks. In every case Michael Murphy as this strange character is named, appeared against himself, and in spite of his name and his long residence in this country he can speak only German. Having spent so long a time in jail Murphy considers it his home. He doesn't want to be locked out overnight and whenever his term expires he loses no time in appearing before the nearest magistrate and making a complaint of vagrancy against himself and asking the committing magistrate to make the term as long as the law permits. His latest sentence expired this week and after getting his breakfast in the jail he went to the police court and made the usual complaint of vagrancy against himself. It was a busy day in court and he asked the interpreter to hurry his case as he wanted to get back in jail for his dinner. He was sentenced to six months. With the commitment papers in his hand he hurried back to the jail and after having his usual pedicure taken he got busy on his customary round.

Leading financiers returning from Europe express admiration for the strength of Germany's banking system as shown in the recent European war scare. They say that had the conditions faced by German financial institutions arisen here it would have meant another panic like 1907. The war scare caused an enormous withdrawal of French money from Berlin. In two weeks the Imperial Bank had to increase its loans by more than $200,000,000. This would have caused panic had not the bank had ready facilities for increasing its bank note circulation by an almost equal amount. As financial experts have pointed out, it was the fact that the American banks could not do this that caused the most serious trouble in 1907. When the scare is over and conditions have returned to the normal basis this emergency currency will then be retired automatically. American travelers who have observed the way in which the German system is able to meet sudden waves of foreign demand are asking why our own system should not be made more responsive to the demands of legitimate business.

Plans have just been completed here to provide New York at a cost of nearly $2,000,000, with the greatest motorcade or automobile race course in the world. At present there are only four of these motorcades in America and Europe, and the new structure will far exceed any now existing. Since the abandonment of the Vanderbilt cup races because of lack of proper military patrol this section has been without real motor contests and the sportsmen behind the new enterprise naturally believe that automobile racing on a large scale will be well supported. As more than 2,000,000 people, or about one-tenth of the population of the United States, live within a radius of fifty miles of the new motorcade, their belief seems to have good foundation. The track itself will be two miles in length and will have only three turns, two of them distinct and one very slight. The whole thoroughfare will be enormous as is evidenced by the fact that parking space will be provided at advantageous points for 10,000 automobiles, while there will be grand stands for 200,000 persons. Work on this giant motorcade is to be started within a short while and it is expected that by next fall the greatest race course in the world will be opened.

The news that the Columbia, the yacht which speed queen of the sea, successfully defended the American cup years ago, is now to become a mere family conveyance, will doubtless recall many half-forgotten memories, not only in this city so close to the scene of her victories, but throughout the whole country as well, for at the height of her fame the Columbia was probably the most generally known boat in the United States. It is forty years since the Columbia was built and defended the cup against the English boat Luanda. Yet her name is still familiar not only to persons who never saw a yacht but also to thousands who were born years after the memorable series of races. It was in this year when five races were held, that the English won from the Columbia the only race with which they are credited in the sixty years' history of the cup. Columbia won the first and third races while Luanda captured the second. The Sapho was then substituted for the Columbia and defeated the English boat in the two remaining contests. After years of rest, the Columbia, in the shape of a hull without rigging, has been towed to Baltimore, where she will be fitted up for cruising in southern waters. Her present owner has made her hull home for the past three years.

FARMING BECOMES REAL SCIENCE SAYS EXPERT

Dr. W. E. Taylor Urges Strong State Financial Support For Agricultural Work—Addresses Big Meeting at Las Cruces.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Las Cruces, N. M., Oct. 27.—On Monday the members of the Mesilla Valley Chamber of Commerce met at Elks' hall for a business meeting and to hear an address delivered by Dr. W. E. Taylor, an agricultural expert. About seventy-five of the most energetic and progressive business men and farmers were present.

Dr. R. E. McBride, president of the Mesilla Valley chamber of commerce, presided as toastmaster. As soon as the luncheon was over, Dr. McBride introduced Dr. Taylor who began his remarks thus: "I know of no better place on earth where you can make a better showing in the next decade than can be done in the Mesilla Valley. It is truly the garden spot of the southwest and its soil is as rich and productive as that of the Nile." He complimented the agricultural college and United States experiment station very highly and stated that he did not mean to advance the real agricultural interests in this new state at any other one thing. He suggested that the farmers urge their candidates to the state legislature, if elected, to pass a bill giving the department of agriculture plenty of money and plenty of power to carry on its work.

In speaking of farming generally, Dr. Taylor stated that in years gone by it was considered an occupation for the men with a strong back and weak mind; but today the world looks upon it as a science equal to law, medicine or the other great professions. Years ago farmers had no machinery and their machinery was the farm labor and in some cases it takes a machine to operate it. Yet with all of these modern improvements, farming has not kept pace with other lines of industry.

Dr. Taylor declared that wealth and prosperity depends absolutely on the soil. He called the farmer and other great financiers of industry—the truth is, the man behind the plow is the fellow who piles up the capitalists' millions.

When capital helps the farmer and the farmer has good crops, business is good and all live in plenty. When the farmer is neglected, when crops fail, then the masses live on soup and liver and business men go to the wall. In fact, each is interdependent on the other.

All great cities, so stated Dr. Taylor, are built in an agricultural plan. He stated that Las Cruces may not make a great city, but that it will stand by a substantial one where business is done and its citizens live in plenty. This on account of the wonderful Mesilla Valley.

Dr. Taylor urged that farming and stock raising must go hand in hand if the farmer makes the largest returns. He stated that once he raised corn which had a market price of 70 cents per bushel, he was feeding corn and alfalfa to his stock. The corn produced pork at the rate of $3.47 per bushel. Same results with dairy cows, horses, etc. Select good stock, house and feed well and the result is sure to pay. Alfalfa shipped east at a high freight is fed to stock there and the butter and cheese shipped back here at another high rate.

He urged rotation of crops; said alfalfa should be in seven years, stated that land properly rotated will yield 100 per cent more.

Other speakers were Dr. Garrison, Prof. Foster, F. E. Lester and others. Dr. Garrison is president of the agricultural college and stated that the new state of New Mexico could use a dozen men like Dr. Taylor and that they should go to every farm in New Mexico and assist the farmers in producing the most on their land.

Prof. Foster, director of the United States experiment station, stated that Dr. Taylor had hit the nail on the head and that the farmers in New Mexico, by properly working their soil, should realize bigger profits from their land.

The Mesilla Valley Farmers' institute was organized and a meeting announced for next Saturday when officers for the coming season will be elected.

F. E. Lester, chairman of the publicity committee of the chamber, made a very forceful talk about advertising. He gave a short outline of the plan now being adopted by the chamber. He also urged closer cooperation between farmers and business men.

4 BILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF CROPS HARVESTED

Country Now Working on the World's Biggest Job, That of Marketing Immense Production.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Gathering wealth at the rate of $20,000,000 a day in the pursuit of an income, which makes that of Rockefeller, Morgan and Carnegie seem a pittance, is the task, the greatest of its kind, which any nation is called upon to perform, in which Uncle Sam is now engaged. Having nearly completed the harvesting of the crops the country is now at work on the titanic labor of moving them into other forms of wealth so that they may feed and clothe, not only America, but a great part of Europe as well, and bring to the pockets of our farmers a golden reward amounting to over ten billion dollars. There has been much talk of the short crops of 1911, and the total yield of the leading cereals is approximately half a billion bushels below that of 1910. But, measured in terms of money, the crops of 1911 are likely to be as valuable as any in the history of the country, perhaps more valuable than any before gathered.

The country's three great agricultural crops are cotton, grain and cattle. Cattle are shipped to the packing centers at all seasons of the year, but the greater part of the country's grain and cotton is moved during the three final months of the year and its handling requires an enormous amount of money, labor and transportation.

Unlike the floods that sometimes spread destruction along the great courses of the country, the wealth-bringing flood of grain begins in the south and rolls steadily northward. The winter wheat harvest commences in Texas and Oklahoma in June and calls to the wheat fields the most handsomely paid army of labor that can be found anywhere. From the end of jobs in the cities, college boys earning money to continue their education, even hoboes, relapsing for the time being from their ordinary scorn of work, are all to be found in its ranks. It moves steadily northward, following the line of ripening grain crops across Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, and over the Canadian border to the far northern fields of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

In the wake of this army the grain deluge gathers. It trickles in rivulets from the farms to the local shipping points where it is gathered into small streams. From there the growing tributaries of the main streams flow to the primary markets, such cities as Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Duluth and Kansas City, which rank in the order named in receipts of grain last year 250,000, 100,000, 100,000 and 100,000 bushels of wheat were received at the four largest primary markets in the country and the total receipts of the leading cereal crops were $40,000,000 bushels.

Most of this vast treasure is now safely garnered. In the south the work of picking the precious cotton that clove hissing upon the autumnal way. In the western fields some corn is still standing, but it is beyond the point where weather conditions have power to affect it. In a few places the whirr of the threshing still makes golden music, but most of the wheat, oats, rye and barley are in the farmers' bins or in the storerooms of local elevator men. With the exception of a part of the cotton crop the agricultural products of the country are not beyond the influence of rain, drought, frost or flood, and the country is now entering upon the task of moving this enormous store to market. Physically and financially it is the biggest job that any nation is called upon to undertake regularly year after year.

What the moving of this vast amount of grain means in railroad transportation may be easily suggested by the fact that a solid train of freight cars extending across the continent and doubling back from New York to Chicago would be required to hold the grain shipped into these ten cities last year. When the bulk of the crop that is gathered from the grain countries to such centers as Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth is something to drive the operating force of the railways to insanity. Every imaginable device is resorted to by the effort to obtain cars. The railroads haul them from one another ruthlessly; they are hauled off rusty sidings where they have been left to decay or are patched hastily together in repair shops. A few seasons ago it was reported that every siding from Duluth to New Orleans was blocked with grain freights waiting to be unloaded. If all the cotton were to move to market at one time it would require a line of steamboats extending from Memphis to New Orleans to carry it.

At the primary markets most of the grain goes into huge elevators, many of them with a capacity of a million bushels or more. The storage room in the fourteen cities of the country from which the largest grain shipments are made is a quarter billion bushels, or something less than the amount of wheat received at the primary markets in 1907.

From the central shipping points the grain still rolls eastward to the Atlantic and southward to the Gulf. In huge vessels packed down in Great Lakes, and by every line of rail it travels to the Atlantic and Gulf ports, where the portion demanded by Europe is transferred to ocean steamers for the final stage of its journey and that required for domestic consumption is distributed through mills and warehouses. Cotton moves more largely by water, much of it going direct to New York or to Europe from the various ports of the Gulf and the South Atlantic to which it is gathered from all over the twelve cotton-growing states of the country.

To move the vast yield of America's acres on which the country's prosperity chiefly depends a corresponding of currency takes place. When the local dealer buys the farmer's wheat or cotton he is called upon to pay for it in full or in part. To make his payments he must have money. He goes to the local bank and the bank makes a loan to a certain proportion of the value of his holdings. There may be a score of dealers, all of whom want loans at the same time. At other seasons the bank cannot find one for its funds locally, so it sends a part of them to eastern cities to be put out at interest there. When harvest time comes around these eastern funds are recalled. Banks all over the grain and cotton country are calling for money. In their distress in the financial centers are not sufficient for their needs they in turn become borrowers, putting up as security the paper of their customers. This is the demand that calls for the use of two hundred million dollars in the south and west every fall. Its effect is not confined to this territory, however, for the eastern business man who goes to his bank for a loan at this season finds that he must pay higher rates for it than in the spring and summer. This is the financial side of the great crop movement. Every year it subjects the currency system of the United States to a serious strain and causes money to be "tight." It is one of the chief influences that inspires the demand for a more elastic currency, a policy which will permit the issues of bank notes to expand as the demand for them increases.

Many business men, merchants in the cities and farmers in the rural districts, have turned their attention to this phase of our financial system, realizing that it is of genuine practical importance to them. That all classes of business men should be compelled to pay excessively high rates for money because wealth-bringing products are on their way to market strikes them as a serious defect in the country's monetary system. They are all agreed that the volume of business men should be compelled to pay excessively high rates for money because wealth-bringing products are on their way to market strikes them as a serious defect in the country's monetary system. They are all agreed that the volume of business men should be compelled to pay excessively high rates for money because wealth-bringing products are on their way to market strikes them as a serious defect in the country's monetary system.

In the wake of the golden flood of wheat and corn and cotton follows a flood of golden wealth. Here a billion dollars in cash and credits and receipts bills from Europe for our food stuffs, enough to pay for one-third of everything we buy abroad. Four billion dollars to the farmers of the country for their work in production. Five billion dollars in freight earnings to the railroads from wheat shipments to the primary markets alone. Nearly twenty million dollars in wages for harvesting the wheat and picking the cotton of the country. Millions of dollars for the farmers of the country for their work in production. Five billion dollars in freight earnings to the railroads from wheat shipments to the primary markets alone. Nearly twenty million dollars in wages for harvesting the wheat and picking the cotton of the country. Millions of dollars for the farmers of the country for their work in production.

OTERO COUNTY FAST BECOMING BIG APPLE CENTER

50,000 Trees in One District; Fruit Will Be Shipped by Solid Train Load in Few Years Time.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Alamogordo, N. M., Oct. 27.—Orchard and farm products from the High Rolls, Mountain Park and Cloudcroft districts are being harvested and marketed as rapidly as possible. The bulk of the crop that is being marketed consists of cabbage, turnips and apples. A car load of apple boxes has been bought for the Mountain Park and High Rolls district. Wooten and High Rolls each shipped a solid car of apples yesterday. The bulk of the Cloudcroft crop are shipping a car today. There are 50,000 apple trees in the Mountain Park and High Rolls district, but not a great many are bearing yet. Within less than five years apples will be shipped from that district by the solid train load.

W. J. Davis, first trick operator and roadmaster's clerk at Alamogordo, has been installed as agent at Cloudcroft, relieving J. A. Kramm, who returns to main line service.

A. H. Cox, formerly director of athletics at the New Mexico Institute for the Blind, has been elected president of the National Association of Schools for the Blind. Under Mr. Cox's direction and training the New Mexico teams won five first honors out of a possible six in national contests. He is now director of athletics of the Western Pennsylvania Institute at Pittsburgh.

The union revival, which has been in progress for several weeks, closed with the service Sunday night. It was in many respects the biggest and most interesting revival that Alamogordo ever had. Rev. Abe Miller, the evangelist, led yesterday for New Orleans.

The progressive republicans, through the local democratic organization, are arranging for a rally to be held at the court house in Alamogordo on Friday night. R. H. Hanger, candidate for the supreme court, and R. J. Hangerman, will both speak.

GREATEST VARIETY OF RESOURCES IN THE UNION

Mineral Wealth of State of New Mexico Assures Magnificent Future When Developed.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—New Mexico can boast of almost the greatest variety of mineral resources of any state in the union. Some of the products are not in the greatest quantities, but taken as a whole this state will possess vast wealth that when developed will reach unimaginable value.

Within the boundaries of New Mexico are found coal, iron and lime in such proximity as to make their value very great. The bituminous coal and lignite are found at Pecos river and the Trinidad fields are producing and shipping a great quantity of a fairly good grade of bituminous coal. The beds in the Raton-Trinidad fields are as continuous as those in the eastern parts of the country. Valuable deposits of coals are found at Vermingo, Cameron Caliente creek, Crow creek and Willow canyon, where the deposits vary from three to eight feet in thickness. Coal is also found near Albuquerque, San Mateo, La Jota, Fort Wingate, Ojo del Pueblo, and at Nacimiento. The anthracite deposits are found in Gascon and in the Placer mountains and also near Silver City. If the mining industries of New Mexico should prove as valuable as they now seem to be, this coal will be of the greatest economical value to the new state.

The iron ore of New Mexico is also of enormous value. Great quantities of iron ore are found along the Trinidad road that can be mined at the small cost of what is known as striping. The Canadian area, Raton plateau, Larami Bluffs, Ojo mesa all possess large quantities of iron ore. The area of the Arkansas contains a peculiar but valuable deposit. The iron ore of the Canadian area, Raton plateau, Larami Bluffs, Ojo mesa all possess large quantities of iron ore. The area of the Arkansas contains a peculiar but valuable deposit.

Great quantities of limestone are found throughout the new state. At Silver City, Ojo Calientes, Santa Fe, La Jota, Mimbres, Magdalena, Culebra, Zandia, Salt, Placer and Snowy mountains and at Gallateo creek, Navajo creek, Rio Puerco and numerous other localities there are valuable deposits. All the way from Las Vegas to Santa Fe excellent qualities abound. This limestone yields a superior quality of lime that is of the highest value in producing iron and steel. The fact that the coal, iron ore and lime appear in the same vicinity and aid the production of iron greatly.

Seventy miles south of Gallateo there are extensive salt marshes that produce a very fair grade of salt. Gypsum is found abundantly in the Rio Grande area and there are beds on the mesa of the Pecos valley, in the bottom of Gallateo creek, and in the Arroyo San Cristobal. Gold is found in medium quantities at Old Baldy, Chiricahua and Placer mountains. Lack of water seems to have delayed the production of gold but the specimens from some of the mines rank very high. One of these recent finds was a piece of native gold, 2.5 per cent silver and 4 per cent iron and silica showing that there is gold of a high grade within the state.

The silver mines of New Mexico are already noted. The Silver City deposits are found mostly in state, while those in the Sierra de los Luneros and Placer mountains are in quartz. There is silver near Fort Bayard, in the Magdalena range, at Culebra Peak, Mimbres creek and at Los Cerillos, where the deposits are said to be very rich.

New Mexico does not abound in copper. However, this rich state possesses small deposits of this metal in the Aztec district. There are also deposits of covellite (blue copper) in the Burro mountains and chalcocite (copper glance) at Ojos Calientes.

At Santa Rita mines, the Socorro mines and in the Burro mountains copper glance is also found.

New Mexico is justly noted for her turquoise mines the best of which are found at Los Cerillos where the deposits are seldom less than an inch thick. While this is not exactly the same as the European turquoise its beauty is as great that from the precious times it has been highly valued.

While the foregoing are some of the most talked of minerals and metals within the borders of New Mexico, she also has in small or large quantities deposits of numerous other minerals. The following are some of these:

Graphite found in the Burro mountains, in the Placer mountains and at Pecos and Cooks Peak; zinc-blend at La Jota, Magdalena mountains, Silver City and the Placer mountains; Spangite at Fort Bayard; Glimmer in the Mimbres and Burro mountains; massive quartzite in the Burro, Magdalena and La Jota mountains; mica in the Santa Fe range; primitive clay slate in the Santa Fe range; Sandstone at Ojos Calientes; Jasper and other places; Hyalite in the Sierra mountains, the Magdalena and San Mateo ranges; Trachyte at Silver City and several other localities; Basalt at Taylor Park, Rio de los Palomas, Puerto Basin, Cerro de Caberos and San Idelfonso.

There is some Argentine or silver glance near Silver City. Iron and silver sulphide is found in the Spring Hills district. Hematite abounds in the Placer mountains and the Burro mountains and near Silver City. Limestone is found in the Magdalena range and at Nacimiento. Silicified wood is found at Bacon Springs and Rio Puerco. Sulphate of copper and iron at Copper Gulch and Neutral sulphate of alumina at Bacon Springs. Cooks Peak and in Alum cave.

Among the semi-precious stones found in New Mexico are the following: Agate, at Nacimiento and San Mateo; Jasper, at James Willow Springs, Flint, at San Idelfonso and Fort Wingate; opal, at Rio Puerco; Malachite, in the Burro mountains and the Socorro and Raton districts; chrysolite, at Fort Defiance; garnet, at Fort Defiance; tourmaline, near Santa Fe; muscovite, in the Placer mountains; and azurite, in the Burro mountains.

Among the other things found in the state are orthoclase, albite, sanidine, pumice, obsidian, biotite, nepheline, calcamine, talc, kaolinite, wheelite, mineral charcoal, pyrophyllite, massive, melonite, cuprite (red oxide of copper) and barite.

Sulphate of soda and sulphate of magnesia are found in Sacral. The lead at Ft. Pierre and Los Cerillos is small but there is a carbonate of lead found at Santa Rita, Socorro and Silver City. Carbonate of soda is found at Ojo de Tio.

There are many fine building rocks here too. Granite is found in almost all the mountains. Its grade is generally good. The other stones have already been mentioned.

With this mineral wealth as a start New Mexico ought to reach any position in the commercial world.

FIRST AMERICAN ROAD CONGRESS

Association For Highway Improvement and Affiliated Organizations to Meet in Richmond.

The first American Road congress of the American Association For Highway Improvement and affiliated organizations meets in Richmond, Va., November 29-30.

It will bring together the foremost engineers, road officials, traffic experts, legislators, railway officials, manufacturers, contractors and agriculturists, who will devote their serious attention to the various and important problems of road construction, maintenance, and administration. In the field of road construction intricate problems have arisen in connection with the adaptation of methods of construction to meet the destructive effects of modern traffic. Road maintenance has been almost entirely neglected in the United States, with the result that deterioration of some of our best constructed roads represents a preventable loss aggregating millions of dollars annually. Just now there is a tendency toward remedial action looking to the betterment of continuous and systematic maintenance. In the field of road administration much complex, inadequate and inappropriate legislation and practice are in force. Although many wise and equitable reforms have been introduced in late years, the bulk of existing legislation embodies the same systems which were in vogue in the days of Queen Elizabeth and have long since been abandoned by the foremost nations of Europe. There are so many considerations of public welfare demanding the improvement of our country roads, that concerted energetic action should no longer be delayed. The purpose for which the American Association for Highway Improvement was formed and which may be said to represent the aims and purposes of the coming road congress are as follows:

1. To correlate and harmonize the efforts of all existing organizations working for road improvement.

2. To arouse and stimulate sentiment for road improvement.

3. To strive for wise, equitable and uniform road legislation in every state.

4. To aid in bringing about efficient road administration in the states and their subdivisions, involving the introduction of skilled supervision and the elimination of politics from the management of the public roads.

5. To seek continuous and systematic maintenance of all roads according to traffic requirements, payment of road taxes in cash, and adoption of the principle of state aid and state supervision.

6. To advocate the correlation of all road construction so that the important roads of each county shall connect with those of the adjoining counties and the important roads of each state shall connect with those of the adjoining states.

A Question of Men.

Should men be nominated, whom we, for a good reason, believe unfit to hold the office, we will not hesitate to fight them, a fight that will put them out of business, too, we can promise you. We stand on the side of RIGHT and SQUARE DEALING, politically and in every other way. We will stand by the republican party as long as it is RIGHT; we will stand by no party and no man who is not RIGHT and worthy. This is not a threat; it will not be resented by any honest man and will not be feared by any man who stands with us for the right, first, last, and always.—Las Cruces Citizen.

The first American Road congress of the American Association For Highway Improvement and affiliated organizations meets in Richmond, Va., November 29-30.

It will bring together the foremost engineers, road officials, traffic experts, legislators, railway officials, manufacturers, contractors and agriculturists, who will devote their serious attention to the various and important problems of road construction, maintenance, and administration. In the field of road construction intricate problems have arisen in connection with the adaptation of methods of construction to meet the destructive effects of modern traffic. Road maintenance has been almost entirely neglected in the United States, with the result that deterioration of some of our best constructed roads represents a preventable loss aggregating millions of dollars annually. Just now there is a tendency toward remedial action looking to the betterment of continuous and systematic maintenance. In the field of road administration much complex, inadequate and inappropriate legislation and practice are in force. Although many wise and equitable reforms have been introduced in late years, the bulk of existing legislation embodies the same systems which were in vogue in the days of Queen Elizabeth and have long since been abandoned by the foremost nations of Europe. There are so many considerations of public welfare demanding the improvement of our country roads, that concerted energetic action should no longer be delayed. The purpose for which the American Association for Highway Improvement was formed and which may be said to represent the aims and purposes of the coming road congress are as follows:

1. To correlate and harmonize the efforts of all existing organizations working for road improvement.

2. To arouse and stimulate sentiment for road improvement.

3. To strive for wise, equitable and uniform road legislation in every state.

4. To aid in bringing about efficient road administration in the states and their subdivisions, involving the introduction of skilled supervision and the elimination of politics from the management of the public roads.

5. To seek continuous and systematic maintenance of all roads according to traffic requirements, payment of road taxes in cash, and adoption of the principle of state aid and state supervision.

6. To advocate the correlation of all road construction so that the important roads of each county shall connect with those of the adjoining counties and the important roads of each state shall connect with those of the adjoining states.
