CHINA COMPELLED TO SUSPEND PAYMENT OF DEBTS

Government Officially Notifies
United States of Financial Embarrassment Incident to Revolution.

STATE DEPARTMENT CONSIDERS SITUATION

No Decision Yet Reached as to Probable Dispatch of Troops to Empire to Protect American Subjects.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Washington, Nov. 22.—The official notification of the purpose of the Chinese government to pass up its foreign obligations, came to the state department today from the Chinese legation which reported it to the state department. It read:

"On account of the disturbances throughout China, the postponement of the date for the November payment of the Boxer indemnities, has become necessary. Immediately upon the formation of the new cabinet by the premier, Yuan Shi Kai, he gave special attention to the indemnity matters.

"The inspector general of the imperial maritime customs of China, who is an Englishman, has been directed by the Chinese government to issue instructions to the commissioners at the various treaty ports to deposit all the receipts from the maritime customs with the foreign banks located in those ports, the moneys so received to be used for the service of China's foreign debts, including the 1901 Boxer indemnities."

Personal conferences today between the secretaries of state, war and navy, gave rise to the surmise that China was under discussion, but no statement was vouchsafed. The military authorities are ready to meet any reasonable demand for troops to be used in China and whether the organization selected shall be the Fir-teenth Infantry, now on route from Guam to Manila, or the Seventh or the Twentieth Infantry, will depend entirely upon the time the order is received from the president for the despatch of troops.

If these are wanted immediately, then some of the regiments now at Manila will go forward; if there is no emergency and there is reasonable certainty that the formation of early ice in the Chinese ports will not prevent the landing of troops for a for-night, then the choice will probably fall upon the Fifteenth Infantry, due in Manila about December 1. It is intimated at the state department that it will be for the council of foreign ministers in Peking to determine whether troops are needed at all, and if so, when and what proportion there shall be furnished by the powers interested in China.

It is understood, as to this latter point, that some such agreement—removing one threatened cause of friction—has been reached, as the result of the state department's inquiry to the various foreign offices about three weeks ago.

The Chinese government and revolutionary leaders are desperately alarmed at the possibility of foreign intervention. Probably it is owing to the appeals reaching the ministers from these sources, to keep foreign troops out of China to avoid precipitating a possible massacre of all foreigners at unprotected points, that the foreign ministers are hesitating to give the word for the landing of troops.

Advances of the rebel forces, both naval and land, toward Nanking, where it is expected a decisive battle will be fought, were reported to the navy department today Rear Admiral Murdock, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet.

Several rebel gunboats that have been lying at Chinkiang, he reported, sailed today toward Nanking, doubtless to assist in the operations against the imperial forces there. About 20, 000 rebel troops are now marching toward the scene of the expected battle. The majority of these troops are declared to be well drilled. The reports state that the city probably will be desperately defended.

Great Britain, Germany and Japan each have a warship at Nanking and these, together with the American vessels there, are deemed sufficient to give adequate protection to foreign interests. The United States torpedo boat destroyer Barry, and the cruiser Albany, has reached Nanking and relieved the New Orleans, which went to Shanghai. The collier Nam-shan is also at Nanking. The gun-boat Helena, today left Wu Hu for Hankow, making stops at river ports on the way.

At Che Foo the loyal forces and the rebels have joined in establishing order.

CONGRESS MAY BE ASKED TO REVISE OLD TREATY

President Taft Expected to Touch Upon Important Matter Effecting Relations With Russia at Coming Session.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.] Washington, Nov. 22.—There was a well defined report today that President Taft in his message to congress might have something to say on the subject of negotiations between the United States and Russia, looking to a revision of the treaty of 1825, principally to remove the present restrictions upon the rights of travel and commerce of American Jews in Russia.

The rumor was coincident with the beginning of the official calls of George Bakmeteff, the new Russian ambassador.

Mr. Bakmeteff had a long talk with Secretary Knox and soon will present his credentials to the president.

President Taft already has received many insistent demands that the treaty with Russia be abrogated. On the other hand some of the president's advisors, it is said, have counseled against such drastic action. They take the ground that to cut off all treaty relations in Russia would leave the situation in worse shape than at present and that in the abrogation of the treaty the United States has everything to lose in the way of tariff concessions and other considerations, while Russia would lose practically nothing.

The total severance of treaty relations, it is pointed out, would make the problem of obtaining wider privileges for American Jews in Russia extremely difficult.

It is said that both at the state department and White House the hope exists that material modifications of the existing treaty may be negotiated.

$15,000,000 CORPORATION IS DECLARED BANKRUPT

New York, Nov. 22.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed today against the Nevada-Utah Mines and Smelters company, which has a capital of $15,000,000, and its principal offices here, by the Merchants Bank of Salt Lake City, which has a claim for $125,000.

This claim, which is said to be secured by collateral, is disputed by the Nevada-Utah corporation. The latter corporation consented to the filing of the creditors' petition and admitted that it is unable at present to meet its debts. On the joint application of counsel for the petitioners and the corporation, United States Judge Hough appointed Harry Melville receiver.

The putting of the corporation in the hands of the federal court, it is stated, is expected to facilitate the completion of the readjustment plans, protect the interests of the subsidiary companies and also settle the dispute concerning the claim of the Merchants bank.

Predicts Victory For Women.

London, Nov. 22.—The chancellor of the exchequer, David Lloyd George, has addressed a message to the National Union of Women's Suffrage societies in which he says:

"The premier's pronouncement of the attitude which the government is adopting towards liquor, seems to me to make the carrying of a woman's suffrage amendment on broad democratic lines to the next year's franchise bill a certainty. I am willing to do all in my power to help those laboring to reach a successful issue, in the coming session next year, which provides a supreme opportunity and nothing but unwise handling of that chance can compass failure."

TRUST COMPANY ORGANIZED

Joshua S. Reynolds, President of First National Bank Here, at Head of Big El Paso Banking Institution.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal.]
El Paso, Tex., Nov. 22.—The First Mortgage and Trust company was organized here today with a capital of one million dollars.

Joshua S. Reynolds, president of the First National bank of Albuquerque and one of the big bankers of New Mexico and El Paso, is to be the president of the new company and will direct the policy of the new institution which is to be affiliated with the First National bank of this city of which Mr. Reynolds is also president.

The vice-president of the company is to be James G. McNary, a well-known banker of this city and formerly editor of the Daily Optic at Las Vegas, N. M. A number of other wealthy New Mexicans, among them Felix Martinez, are identified with the new company.

The trust company, which undoubtedly will be the largest and strongest in the southwest, is the outgrowth of the First Mortgage and Guaranty company, which has long been identified with the First National bank here.

FEDERAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR GOOD ROADS URGED

Richmond, Va., Nov. 22.—The advocates of federal appropriations for highway improvement carried the Good Roads congress today when the resolution came to a final vote. The yells of the southern delegates who have led the fight for government help, filled the auditorium when the report of the resolutions committee was adopted.

The platform calls for federal aid to states that will contribute equally with the government. The use of convict labor was unanimously endorsed.

A movement to form an amalgamation of good roads associations pledged to work for national aid, was organized with the American Automobile club association for Highway Improvement and some associations of manufacturers of road building machinery and materials the last named it is claimed representing $200,000-000 of capital.

The American Automobile association has called a federal aid convention to meet in Washington, D. C., January 16, 1912, all states represented here being asked to send delegates.

New Marine Warning.

Washington, Nov. 22.—The weather bureau today adopted an additional marine warning to be known as the "Small craft warning," to notify owners of fishing, towing, motor and yatching craft of the approach of a storm or strong wind that might interfere with the safe operation of small vessels.

This will go into effect December 1, and will consist of a red pennant flown from the flagstaffs on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts and the Great Lakes and will signify high winds which would not justify the issue of a regular storm warning.

Strike Will Be Called Today.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—It was reported tonight on high authority that the conference today among labor leaders of the Rock Island system had resulted in an agreement that a strike should be called, but that action should be deferred pending a final conference with the railroad officials tomorrow. The labor leaders continued in conference tonight, but declined to make any statement in regard to the outcome.

COUNSEL FOR HYDE MAKES OPENING STATEMENT

Frank P. Walsh Declares That Only Evidence State Has is Testimony of Chemist Hired to Find Poison.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Kansas City, Nov. 22.—Frank P.
Walsh, attorney for the defense, finished his opening statement to the jury this afternoon in the case of Dr.
B. Clark Hyde, charged with the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope and Judge Porterfield announced that the hearing of evidence would begin tomorrow morning.

Walsh consumed the entire afternoon session in making his statement.

Almost his last words to the jury were that they were to be asked to take the life of a man upon the findings of an infinitesimal amount of expense in the stomach of the dead millionaire and the testimony of a chemist who had been hired at $200 a day to find a deadly quantity of strychnine in Colonel Swope's viscera.

Walsh said he would attack the integrity and ability of the experts who conducted the autopsy upon the Swope body and who made search for the alleged poisons.

The efforts of Walsh to include in his statement that Dr. Hyde's representatives had made demands for portions of the viscera and that the demands had been refused, were successfully combated by the state.

When Walsh referred to the estrangement that had existed between
Dr. and Mrs. Hyde and Mrs. Logan
O. Swope, Mrs. Hyde's mother, Senator Reed for the state was heard to tell the jury that if such reference were allowed the state would go into the causes of such estrangement.

That it is believed will be one cause of an attack upon the personal character of Dr. Hyde by the prosecution.

GROCER WHO FOUGHT ROBBERS MURDERED

Garfield, Utah, Nov. 22.—Sixty cents just enough to pay for the ammunition they used, was the sum for which robbers took the life of William A. Sandcock, whose body was found on the floor of the Sampson Grocery company's store early this morning. Sandcock, who was manager of the grocery company and who lived in the rear of the store, made a desperate resistance before he was overpowered.

It was evident that the robbers who had forced an entrance without awakening him, struck him on the head with a spike maul while he slept.

In spite of his wound Sandcock fought his way into the main store, and reached his revolver, which was kept near the cash register, but before he could use the weapon he was shot through the head and killed.

The cash, which was kept by the company to cash pay checks of the employees of the Garfield smelter, was hidden among the goods in the store, and was not discovered by the robbers.

Sheriff Sharp left tonight for Lyndale, where two suspects were arrested today.

COUNSEL AND PACKERS GO TO WASHINGTON

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Counsel for the nine Chicago packers indicted under the criminal clause of the Sherman anti-trust act, left today for Washington, where it is expected they will submit an appeal to Chief Justice White of the supreme court tomorrow.

Attorneys John S. Miller and Levy Mayer were the legal representatives of the packers who took the appeal briefs to Washington.

PATTERSON KILLED IN COLD BLOOD ASSERTION OF STATE

Only Eye-Witness to Sensational Denver Tragedy Gives Damaging Evidence Against Fair Defendant.

BOTH BULLETS HIT VICTIM IN THE BACK

Prosecution Introduces Much Evidence Tending to Prove Murder Was Premeditated; Revolver is Identified.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Denver, Nov. 22.—The only known eye-witness to the shooting of Charles A. Patterson, for whose murder his wife, Gertrude Gibson Patterson is on trial before Judge G. W. Allen in the district court, was placed on the stand today. He is A. B. Shugart, a carpenter, whose home is near the spot where Patterson was killed.

On the morning of September 25, last, he testified, he was stepping from a tool shed in the rear of his home when he heard two shots fired in rapid succession. Looking in the direction from which the sound came he saw, some three hundred feet away, a man upon his hands and knees, and a woman, revolver in hand, standing over him.

"I shouted to her to stop," said Shugart, "and after I called to her she shot again. The man lurched forward on his face and stiffened out."

"Then," Shugart continued, "I started on a run towards them. I had to go around my house and when next I came in view the woman was stooping over the prostrate form. As I approached she ran into the house in front of which the shooting had occurred."

"When I reached the man he was still gasping. I turned him over and asked who he was and what had happened, but he was beyond the power of speech."

"When you turned the man over, did you find anything?" asked Special Prosecutor Horace C. Benson.

"I found a revolver," Shugart replied, and went on to say that he placed the weapon in his pocket.

Here the revolver with which Patterson was killed, was handed to the witness and he immediately identified it.

Shugart then went on to describe how he had entered the house to which the woman had fled, found her in a chair in the sitting room, apparently in a faint, but how, when he unbuttoned her jacket to search her for a weapon, she opened her eyes and looked at him.

"I asked her who the man outside was," declared the witness, "and she answered, 'He is my husband and he wronged me.'"

When he asked her who she was and where she lived, Shugart declared, she refused to talk.

Throughout Shugart's examination
Mrs. Patterson preserved the immovability that has characterized her during the trial so far. If she felt any emotion when she heard from the lips of another the story of how she had killed her husband, there was no visible sign.

Cross-examination by Attorney C.
N. Hilton for the defense failed to shake Shugart's testimony. The cross-examination, however, seemingly disclosed the fact that the sympathies of the witness were decidedly with the prosecution, there being a marked change in his attitude when Attorney Hilton took him in hand.

Previous to the examination of Shugart the state introduced witnesses to substantiate its claim that the killing of Patterson was premeditated.

George W. Strain, a young illustrator of Denver, told the jury of events at Mrs. Patterson's bungalow on Saturday night preceding the shooting at Mrs. Patterson's home, he said, and had come for a kodak he had left there. He admitted he came armed upon this occasion because Mrs. Patterson had warned him of her husband's violent temper. Patterson and a friend appeared at the house unexpectedly, he said, and Mrs. Patterson hurriedly went into the house. Patterson ordered him from the premises in a threatening manner, the witness said, and he marched Patterson and his friend off at the point of a revolver. Strain told how Mrs. Patterson ran away her husband and they went after together and how, after her return she upbraided him for jeopardiz-ing the chances of success in her divorce action. As he was leaving Strain said, Mrs. Patterson told him of the fear she entertained of her husband and asked him to leave his revolver, which he did. He identified the venue with which Patterson was killed as the one he had left with Mrs. Patterson.

Witnesses were introduced to show that Mrs. Patterson had called her husband on the telephone at the sanitarium on the morning that the killing took place and that he had answered, "I don't ever want to see you again," and to show that she had waited at a spot near where the shooting occurred for a considerable length of time and that when Patterson arrived at the place where she was and saw her, he started to run away, but that she called to him and caught him by the arm and that when the two walked off together in the direction of the place where Patterson met death a short time after.

Physicians who conducted the autopsy on Patterson's body, testified that he had been shot twice in the back. The second bullet which passed through his heart, caused his death, they said.

In the cross-examination of these witnesses the prosecution was able to get the benefit of a description of Patterson's physical condition. One lung was entirely gone, the witnesses declared, and the other was seriously affected.

BEATTIE RESIGNED TO HIS FATE AWAITS END

"If it Has to Be, the Sooner it is Over the Better," Condemned Man Declares 'to His Guard."

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Richmond, Va., Nov. 22.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., the young wife mur-derer today received the sacrament of the Lord's supper. He professed religion and told his spiritual advisers that he faced the unknown with equanimity. Although Beattie is subdued in demeanor, the wonderful nerve that has thus far sustained the condemned man has not deserted him.

That Beattie now is resigned to his fate is proved by a remark to his guard today when the suggestion was made that Governor Mann might grant a reprieve at the eleventh hour.

"If it has to be, the sooner it is over the better,"

The elder Beattie late today paid a secret visit to Governor Mann in a final effort to gain the governor's interference. It was unavailing.

Invitations have been sent to the twelve witnesses who will compose the jury in the death chamber Friday morning. Under the law the witnesses must present themselves at the prison before 7 o'clock on that morning.

CONFESSES HE SHOT MRS. LOUISE BEATTIE

Cleveland, O., Nov. 22.—Full confession of the murder of Mrs. Louise Beattie, was made today in a letter to the Szabadkai, a Hungarian daily here. The letter was signed simply "Rudolph," and was dated and postmarked Cleveland. The writer declares he shot Mrs. Beattie by mistake.

Beattie had spoken to him roughly when previously he had asked for work at the Beattie home. He was on the road when Beattie's automobile passed, recognized Beattie, and fired at him. The charge, however, hit Mrs. Beattie.

SCHOOL GIRL TELLS PITIFUL STORY OF RUIN

Witness Takes Stand Against Dentist Who for Sixteen Months Held Her a Prisoner in His Office.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
San Bernardino, Nov. 22.—Miss Jos-sie McDonald, the school girl alleged to be the victim of Dr. Arthur W. Mc-David, a dentist, took the witness stand today in the trial of McDavid, accused of her abduction, and told the jury of her life in his prison, adjoining McDavid's office for sixteen months.

Miss McDonald spoke almost in whispers. McDavid, sitting directly in front of her, gazed steadily at the girl, never once removing his eyes.

Miss McDonald's story covered a period of five years, when she first met McDavid as a patient, and came to a dramatic close as she described the days following the advent of her child.

"I cared for my child and myself," she testified. "I washed clothes, Dr.
McDavid brought the water necessary for this, from his office."

She then told of the visits of a man to her room, whom Dr. McDavid called
"Bill."

"I was ordered to get meals for them," she testified. "This man Bill called me 'The Chick.' I once asked Bill to 'phone to my sister and tell her where I was. This was a short time before my father rescued me. I don't know what the man's name was."

"Is this man 'Bill' in the courtroom?" asked Judge Oster, of Miss McDonald.

Miss McDonald scanned face after face and was shaking her head, when the court ordered: "Bill stand up."

Silently a figure arose in the center of the court room. Standing erect for a moment, the man resumed his seat.
Miss McDonald instantly recognized him as the man to whom she had referred.

"Bill's identity, however, was not made known."

It was announced by counsel connected with the prosecution that "Bill" would likely be called as a witness, but not until then would his identity be made public.

MEN WHO ATTACKED GIRL TEACHER DENOUNCED AS BRUTES

State's Attorney Declares Tar-ring of Miss Chamberlain Has Never Been Equalled in Enormity of Cowardice.

REGRETS LAW PROVIDES NO ADEQUATE PUNISHMENT

Indignity Heaped Upon Helpless Victim Relic of Barbaric Times But Never Practiced on a Woman.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.] Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 22.—With but two more closing arguments to be delivered it looks tonight as though the "far party" case will be in the jury's hands by tomorrow noon.

All the testimony was completed shortly after the afternoon session of court started. A recess of two hours was then taken while the judge prepared his instructions, and Prosecutor McCanless completed his address before adjournment.

At the night session J. J. McCurdy and Z. C. Milliken spoke for the defense. This leaves David Ritchie and A. N. Hawkes representing the defense to speak tomorrow.

Prosecutor McCanless says he is satisfied with the judge's instructions.
The instructions were that the defendants might be found guilty of aiding and abetting the crime and then if they were not present, and it could be proven, said the court, that the attack was a direct result of counsel or advice given by the defendants then they should be found guilty.
But the mere fact that the defendants had talked with the assailants of Miss Chamberlain regarding the contemplated attack, was not of itself sufficient ground upon which to base a conviction. This, however, might be taken into consideration in reaching a verdict, the court instructed.

That the jury were seen walking toward the "tarring" might also be considered.

The court room, which was less than half filled this afternoon, was again crowded when Prosecutor Mc-Canless began to speak.

Many persons brought their dinners with them and remained in their seats during the recess preceding the night session.

Miss Chamberlain occupied a seat near the jury box, where she had a full view of all the jurors. Her mother was with her. The three defendants, A. N. Simms, Sherrill Clark and John Schmidt, also switched their chairs about so they faced the jury.
Simms' wife sat by his side. The other two men were unaccompanied.

Another auditor of the speakers, was Ed Ricord, who is confined in the little one-story jail, under the north eaves of the courthouse.

When County Attorney McCanless began speaking Ricord, who roams at random in the interior of the jail because he is the only occupant, chuck-ed a shovelful of coal in the stove and went over to the front door to listen.
As the prosecutor's voice became louder Ricord said:

"I'll bet he's giving it to us. I'm sorry I can't hear those speeches."

Two of the defendants, John Schmitt and Sherrill Clark were the chief witnesses today. Both corroborated the statement of Simms that the three defendants never intended to be parties to the "tarring," but admitted they made an attempt to reach the scene of the crime. Clark explained he was at the mill from which the party started because business called him there and Schmitt said he just dropped down to the mill to see the boys, as was his nightly custom. Schmitt recalled having heard Simms warn the "tarrers" against painting the school teacher.

A dozen other witnesses, among them E. G. Clark and Chester Anderson, were called in rebuttal evidence.
None of their testimony affected the case materially.

Addressing the jury Prosecutor Mc-Canless said in part:

"I have sent men to the penitentiary for felonies, but I have never had a case that could equal the one at bar in enormity of cowardice and brutality."

"I regret indeed that our laws are so lame, our legislatures so lax, that we find it necessary after an offense of this nature has been perpetrated in our midst, that we must be content to send the offenders to jail or heap upon them an insignificant fine. Certainly an offense of this nature will never be committed again, and be subjected to a similar punishment, and yet our legislature, our people,
our students of political economy, doubtless never dreamed that a law of this nature would be found necessary to be put into effect."

BEN SELIG HERE ON RETURN EAST

Ben Selig, president of the Selig Moving Picture company, passed through the city yesterday in return to New York from California, where he has been for some weeks. He is still carrying his right arm in a sling as a result of being shot by a fanatic near Los Angeles about six weeks ago.

"We expect to be able to come to Albuquerque in the course of the winter to take pictures, as I stated on my trip through here some time ago, but just what the status of the matter is, I cannot give at this time," said Mr. Selig. "You see I have been laid up for a much longer time than I could readily afford to lose, and as a result I have to hurry back to make up for it."

RETIRED GEORGIA PLANTER'S ADVICE TO KIDNEY SUFFERERS

Regarding the wonderful curative merits of one Swamp-Root, I cannot say too much. After suffering severely for three years or more with severe pains caused by weak kidneys, I was finally induced to try Swamp-Root through a testimonial I read in one of the newspapers. I was in such a condition that I was obliged to arise from my bed at or eight times every night. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and before it was used I felt so much better that I purchased a one-dollar bottle and by the time this was taken the old pains left my back and I could sleep the whole night through. I am a retired planter, 78 years of age, and owing to Dr. Kline's Swamp-Root, I am in the best of health and feel like a boy. I can always sleep to restful sound sleep to those who are in need of it.

SEND PROGRESSIVE TO THE SENATE ADVISES WORKS

Junior Senator From California Favors Either a Republican or Democrat of These Tendencies to a Standpat.

I am very gratified that New Mexico has gone on record for clean government and I hope that the new state will send progressive senators to the national congress, even if they have to be Democrats. Of course I favor progressive Republicans, but rather than see two senators elected by the Republicans, I would be willing that the new senators be Democrats of progressive tendencies. A democratic reactionary is almost as bad as a regular Republican. I firmly believe that New Mexico's prosperity will increase from now on and that the new state will be one of the greatest in the union.

Thus spoke Senator John Downes Works of California, in a Morning Journal representative last evening, when interviewed during the stop here of the Chicago Limited. Senator Works, accompanied by Mrs. Works, was on his way to the national capital for the opening of the coming session of congress.

In the opinion of Mr. Works congress is going to have plenty to do this winter. He believes that among the important measures it will be called upon to consider will be a federal incorporation act, a pet measure of President Taft; an examination into the manner of filling on government land other than that under irrigation enterprises, additional tariff legislation and supplementary measures dealing with deep waterways.

Senator Works was especially talkative on the public land question, in discussing the manner of filling on land under certain irrigation enterprises, he said:

There seems to be a disposition to make a disposal of more water for irrigation purposes than a stream can supply and to induce farmers to take up land under those enterprises, regardless as to whether it will ever be possible to get water on that particular land. This is done to induce settlement of irrigated lands under the guise of conferring a blessing on the settler.

"One of the most glaring examples of this seems to be on the Colorado river. On this river the irrigation enterprises being constructed by the government at Yuma and the Colorado river project, proper, together with the Grand Valley project in Colorado, will take all the water that is available for irrigation from this river, and any other proposition tending to use this water is going to find itself without water when the summer up time comes."

"Yet in spite of the scientific demonstration of the fact that all the water the stream can supply is already appropriated, enterprises are, I understand, being launched by private capital at other places along the river. This condition must undoubtedly be looked into and in my opinion will be investigated at the session of congress about to convene."

"Tariff legislation is always loitering up and I look for more of it this winter. Just what lines it will take of course cannot be said. It is well known that President Taft is not anxious to legislate on tariff matters until the tariff board is ready to give out expert information."

"Further deep waterways legislation will also likely be undertaken as well as the matter of the federal incorporation of companies engaged in interstate business. This largely refers to the trust problem which is agitating the business world. Just what the outcome of it will be is largely speculative."

Senator Works is the first progressive senator from the Sunset state, having succeeded Senator Flint on March 4, of this year. Before going to the senate he was a prominent man in California, having been a justice of the supreme court of that state. An Indian by birth, he served during the Civil war, and afterwards studied law, being admitted to the bar at Vevay, Indiana. He moved to California in 1885, where he has since lived. For more than twenty years he has been a leading member of the American Bar association.

In the senate he has taken front rank, receiving a number of important committee assignments. He is a member of the committee on irrigation and reclamation of arid lands, industrial exhibitions, patents, public health and national quarantine, public lands, coast defenses and coast and harbor survey. He is chairman of the committee on expenditures in the war department and also a member of a similar committee of the treasury department.

ASSAULT CASE OCCUPIED LOCAL COURT YESTERDAY

The district court was occupied yesterday with the case against Antonio, an old Mexican, who is charged with committing an assault with a deadly weapon. For this reason no action was taken on the Wilson indictment yesterday.

A suit for absolute divorce against the grounds of desertion, abandonment, drunkenness and cruel and inhuman treatment was filed against Arnold Anderson by his wife, Mrs. Annie Anderson, yesterday. The couple were married according to the petition, in Dallas, Tex., December 22, 1909, and lived together as man and wife until September 2, 1910. Shortly after the two were married, it is alleged the defendant began his cruel and inhuman treatment, coupled with an alleged habit of getting drunk, and that on September 2, 1910, he left the plaintiff and has since lived apart from her.

GENERAL MANAGER FIRST MEETING OF FOX OF SANTA FE IN CITY TUBERCULOSIS STUDY SOCIETY

Occupied Past Several Days in Caring for Injured and Clearing Up Wreck on Cut-Off Near Scholle.

General Manager Fred C. Fox of the Santa Fe's New Mexico lines with headquarters at Amarillo, Texas, arrived in Albuquerque from the south yesterday, where he has been on a trip of inspection to El Paso. Returning from that city he was informed of the wreck at the Red Cut, near Scholle on Monday night. He immediately proceeded to the scene and has since been occupied with the details of assisting the injured, looking after the three unfortunate men who were killed as a result of the wreck and the clearing away of the wreckage so that traffic could be resumed.

"An examination into the causes of the wreck will not be made officially," said Mr. Fox, "until the injured men now in the hospital get well. They have plenty to think about now without bothering and worrying them about an investigation of the cause of the wreck. The causes are pretty well known but at present I am not at liberty to say what they are."

The injured men are resting quietly at St. Joseph's hospital and at last report yesterday they were getting along satisfactorily. Engineer Peterson, who was the last injured of the victims of the wreck, has been sitting up and expects to be out in a few days.

The body of Freeman N. Keith was shipped to Phoenix last night for burial, while the remains of Freeman A. J. Daugherty were sent to Texas for interment, accompanied by his brother, Joseph Daugherty, who came here to superintend the arrangements.

The remains of Freeman Frank A. Reid, which were to have been shipped to Poshing, Okla., last night, were held pending the arrival of another brother from Washington state. The father of the dead man is in the city and will remain until the arrival of the other brother.

NEW STATE SPECIAL NEEDS THIRTY MORE NAMES

SUCCESS OF PROJECT
NOW SEEMS ASSURED

New Mexicans to Travel to National Irrigation Congress in Solid Train of Modern Pullman Cars.

The New State special, a solid train of Pullman cars, carrying one hundred New Mexico boosters to the National Irrigation congress in Chicago, leaves Albuquerque Saturday, December 2. The only thing that stands in the way of the success of the special which will be one of the greatest advertisements for New Mexico ever devised, is the securing of a few more passengers for the train.

In order to secure the special train and the special rate it is necessary that the railroad should be guaranteed one hundred passengers. Up to last night just seventy men had announced their intention of making the trip and Secretary Henning of the Bureau of Immigration, who had charge of the arrangements, urges that those intending to join the party should notify him without delay.

An extremely attractive rate had been made by the Santa Fe railroad covering the round trip, the charge from Albuquerque and El Paso and intermediate points being $56.30, while from Las Vegas and Raton and points between the rate will be $50.40, providing the full one hundred passengers are secured. At Kansas City, the special train which leaves here on Saturday, December 2, will lay over for one day allowing the passengers ample time to visit and transact business in that city.

From Chicago the members of the party may make the return trip at their own convenience, the stay being limited to thirty days.

Yesterday Secretary Henning sent an invitation to Governor-elect McDonald and it is believed, if his business engagements permit, the first governor of New Mexico will head the party.

Colonel W. S. Hopewell, who is one of the originators of the idea of sending the train left yesterday morning for El Paso and southern New Mexico in the interest of the project.

This year's session of the irrigation congress promises to be one of the most important, if not the most important in the history of the organization, and no state in the union has more to gain by being properly represented in its councils than has New Mexico. The congress opens in Chicago on December 3 and the concluding session will be held on December 5.

If you intend making the trip notify Secretary J. L. Henning at the headquarters of the bureau of immigration in this city without delay.

NATIONAL GRANGE TO MEET IN WASHINGTON

Columbus, O., Nov. 22.—Spokane, Wash., was chosen for the next annual meeting of the National Grange following a contest at the session tonight between the regular and insurgent factions.

Opposition was inspired by the fact that the Washington state grange has been largely controlled by insurgents and because B. C. Kegley, Washington state master, leader of the insurgent faction in the National Grange, extended the invitation to the national body today.

In a statement tonight Oliver Wilson of Illinois, national master-elect, said: "I do not know that there exists a Jones-Bachelder ring dominating the affairs of the National Grange. If there is such a faction, I am not a member of it, nor have I been advised of any of its policies or methods. My first association with the so-called insurgency came tonight when I met with members of this faction for the purpose, announced before I accepted their invitation to ascertain their motives and desires in the hope of bringing about complete harmony in the organization."

Texas Bitulithic Company to Establish General Offices in New Mexico Metropolis; Also to Issue Illustrated Booklet.

In adding the contract for the paving of Central avenue and Second streets to the Texas Bitulithic company, the city council has builded better than it knew. At the time the matter was under discussion no word was said by either of the Warren Brothers, the real owners of the Texas Bitulithic company, as to their intentions should they obtain the contract, other than they proposed to pave.

The same night the contract was let, Frank V. Lanham, general New Mexico agent of the company, issued a statement that the company would shortly open headquarters in Albuquerque for the entire state.

Yesterday word was received from Fred Warren in Boston that as soon as the paving was completed he would personally come to Albuquerque and superintend the getting out of an illustrated booklet, portraying the advantages of New Mexico and Arizona, and especially of Albuquerque and Phoenix, the two cities named being those where bitulithic contracts have been obtained.

These illustrated booklets are perfect examples of the printers' art and will be a source of beneficial advertising for Albuquerque.

In addition to the pictures they contain historical sketches of the cities and information about the climate and general business advantages.

MUCH ROAD WORK IN SOUTHERN NEW MEXICO

Territorial Engineer Returns From Extended Inspection Trip; Convicts Soon to Be Moved to Albuquerque.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 22.—Territorial Engineer Charles D. Miller has returned from a most interesting trip through the southern part of the territory where he made an examination of road work.

Mr. Miller visited Deming, in Luna county, and he started road work on the seventeen-mile road south of Deming. He also inspected the road north of Deming which he found in good shape. This road is 35 miles from Deming and was built a year ago. The Encino-Magdalena road he found has thirty miles finished, and it saves six miles in distance and reduces the time to go over it from three hours to one hour. Mr. Miller himself rode over it, right after the road was opened (when it was soft) in an hour and 20 minutes. This road cost $7,000 to which $5,000 was paid from the forest reservation receipts of Socorro. Considerable rock work was encountered in the time Canon.

Mr. Miller stated today that the convicts will likely be moved from Camino Real to Albuquerque in the near future.

Of the Roswell road, the territorial engineer stated that it is being located. The Mineral Hill road is in the hands of the convicts are pushing up Gallinas canon. Changes tending to lessen the width of this road are being made. The grade will be changed slightly in order to shorten the distance between Santa Fe and Las Vegas.

Work on the road between Santa Fe to La Jada Hill via Agua Fria will be started in a few days. Since the completion of this road some two years ago, practically no work has been done on it and it has stood up pretty well. The crossing over the Santa Fe river is to be improved, however, to make transit for autos easier.

The Algodones road (one is doing road work and considerable improvement has already been made.

IRRIGATION CANAL CHANGED MEXICAN BOUNDARY LINE

International Litigation Result of Effort to Secure Water From Rio Grande to Irrigate Texas Farms.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 19.—When a Texas irrigation company sought to secure a flow of water from the Rio Grande by cutting an eighteen foot channel to supply its Texas farms, it unwittingly changed the boundary of the United States and of Mexico, which today is the subject of international litigation.

In the litigation several Mexican landowners have combined with the United States government in filing the suit at Brownsville. The defendant company admits that the course of the Rio Grande has been diverted from its natural flow by cutting the channel through one of the large bends. This cut was made about forty miles upstream from Brownsville.

As a result several wealthy Mexican landowners and their former Mexican ranches part of Texas in the United States. Although faithful to Mexico and the Mexican flag, yet they are subject to the laws of the United States and the taxes of Texas, because the government survey says the Rio Grande shall be considered the lawful boundary line between the United States and Mexico.

In the suit the government prays that the original course of the Rio Grande be restored, while the irrigation company favors expansion for the United States and would indemnify the Mexicans, who, in a night, found their ranches moved into the United States.

CONSTITUTION AND ENABLING ACT OF NEW MEXICO

Santa Fe Man Prepares Annotated Volume Which Will Be of Vast Usefulness to Lawyers and Business Men.

Arthur G. Whittier of Santa Fe has just issued The Annotated Constitution and Enabling Act of New Mexico, a neatly printed and bound 187-page volume which will prove of vast usefulness to the lawyers and public men of New Mexico. The constitution has been carefully compared with the original document on file with the secretary of state and the citations have been selected with a view to presenting the trend of court decisions on fundamental principles. It has been the aim of the compiler to make the work absolutely flawless so far as technical errors are concerned and the completed volume shows evidence of a vast amount of the most painstaking and thorough research.

Every article and section of the constitution is taken up in detail and court decisions applicable thereto cited in compact form below. A complete index enables the student to instantly find any subject treated in the work.

A feature of the volume is a large insert containing the facsimile signatures of all the members of the constitutional convention who signed the instrument on its completion one year ago in Santa Fe.

The work is from the press of the Santa Fe New Mexican and the printing and binding of an unusually high character.

SPEER URGES SESSION TO ELECT SENATOR

Denver, Nov. 22.—In a letter made public tonight written by Mayor Speer to State Senator B. C. Napier, Mr. Speer urges that a special session of the legislature be called to elect a United States senator. He expresses his readiness to step aside himself so that some one not hitherto a candidate may be elected. Mr. Speer suggests that the expense of the extra session be borne by the democratic party organization.

PRETTY ROSWELL SCHOOL TEACHER WEDS SECRETLY

Miss Lela Willey Runs Off With Santa Fe Freight Agent and is Married at Portales.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Roswell, N. M., Nov. 21.—Surprise was created here today by the announcement that Miss Lela Willey, a pretty Roswell school teacher, and Mr. Charles McConnell, freight agent for the Santa Fe railroad in this city, were married October 1, in Portales. The couple took advantage of the absence of the bride's mother from the city, ran off and were married at Portales. The planned to keep the wedding secret until Christmas, but the bride's mother, returning from her trip, suspected the truth and wrung a confession from her daughter. Miss Willey was graduated from the Roswell High school last June and won second honors a year ago in the New Mexico High school oratorical contest at Las Vegas.

Negroes Charged With Robbery With Gun.

Caleb and Ira Taylor, negroes, were arrested today on the charge of robbery and "flourishing a gun." Robbery has appeared but few times on the courts docket in Roswell in the past twenty years. The arrest was made upon complaint of Juan Brady, who claims that when he took a $10 bill out of his pocket to pay for a game at the Green Front pool hall, one of the negroes snatched the money and the other jabbed him in the ribs with a six shooter and told him to "keep his mouth shut." The negroes will be arraigned tomorrow.

Sheep Breeder Sued for Subscription.

On trial in the district court here today is a peculiar suit of widespread interest. J. W. Turknett, a wealthy sheep breeder at Artesia, is defending his refusal to pay his subscription of $500 to the Western college, a Methodist school at Artesia. His subscription is in the form of a note and the suit seeks collection. Turknett says he gave the note with the understanding that the college was to be endowed with $200,000, then he was willing to give $500 to such an institution, but that the endowment did not come. He claims he is justified in his refusal to pay. Others at Artesia share Turknett's belief and this case is regarded as a test. Thirty prominent Artesia men are here for the trial.

Chinaman Fined for Insulting Girl.

"Fry," a small chink working in a local Chinese restaurant, learned a lesson in American respect today when fined $25 and costs in police court for improper conduct in the presence of a 12-year-old white girl. The Chinaman pleaded guilty and seemed to think he had done nothing wrong, since the prosecuting witness was "only a joman," as he told the court.

Lieutenant Dow Resigns From Battery.

H. M. Dow last night resigned as second lieutenant of Battery "A" and the resignation was accepted. His successor has not been selected. An election will be held soon.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Resolutions were telegraphed to Postmaster General Hitchcock, suggesting a definition of second-class mail matter, at the closing session today of the Illinois Daily Press association.

The resolutions ask that subscriptions to newspapers be defined by congress and the postoffice department as only those paid for in advance and that all papers be denied mailing rights as second class matter not complying with this rule.

This definition, it was thought, would end all financial difficulties of the postoffice department regarding second-class mail and would shut out many advertising or serial story publications.

ROCKEFELLER AND GATES MAY TELL THEIR STORY

House Committee So Decides After Hearing Evidence Given By Merritt Brothers Who Allege Being Swindled.

(City Morning Journal Special Lensed Wire)

Washington, Nov. 22.—John D. Rockefeller and his almoner, Rev. F. D. Gates of Mont Clair, N. J., will be invited by the house committee investigating the United States Steel corporation, to reply to testimony given yesterday and today by Albert and Leonidas Merritt of Duluth, Minnesota, charging that Rockefeller through Gates, as his agent, took from them in 1894, $10,000,000 in Mississippi iron mines and Duluth, Minnesota and Northern railroad securities, to satisfy a call loan of $420,000.

These securities were afterward sold to the United States Steel corporation and they today are a part of that corporation's vast holdings.

After Leonidas Merritt had testified today that he had gone to New York with $10,000,000 in securities, had met Mr. Rockefeller and two months later had nothing except a chance to walk from New York to Duluth "on the ties" the steel committee had an executive session.

Previously Chairman Stanley had announced that Mr. Rockefeller would be subpoenaed. The committee decided, however, merely to ask Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Gates if they wished to appear and to give them an opportunity to be heard.

"If Mr. Rockefeller does not wish to come before the committee," Chairman Stanley announced, "the committee will issue a subpoena for him. The same applies to Mr. Gates."

When Leonidas Merritt had completed his testimony in which he dramatically described how Mr. Rockefeller first had captured him with his proposal to form a consolidation of interests in the Lake Superior region, had loaned him money and later foreclosed on him, leaving him and his brother without any equity in properties they had financed, Representative Danforth of New York, moved that the testimony of both brothers be stricken from the record on the ground that it was irrelevant to the investigation. This motion was lost. In the discussion on the motion Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, who voted with Danforth in favor of it, said he could see little of relevance to the question of holding values and freight rates of the steel corporation.

"It seems to me that this testimony is of little value to the committee," said Mr. Gardner. "In getting values or freight rates, even though it does—perhaps just so—cast obliquely on Mr. Rockefeller, I cannot see where it is of any value in the case."

The committee adjourned tonight probably not to meet again until after congress convenes, when the objection of the steel corporation to a continuance of the hearings because of the government suit against the steel trust will be taken up by the full committee.

DEPICTS ROMANCE OF LIFE ON ROAD

Traveling Salesman at Elks' Theater on Saturday, December 2 Said to Be Comedy Success of Season.

"The Traveling Salesman," the James Forbes drama, will be the attraction at the Elks' theater on Saturday, December 2.

The play depicts the romance of a "knight of the road." It is built on novel lines and gives an insight into the character of the man who sells goods on the road. The other characters in the comedy will be instantly recognized by anyone who has ever visited a small town. "The Great American Drummer," as a comedy study, is rich in humor, and Don Mar-Milian as Bob Blake, the traveling salesman, takes full advantage of this. He causes a laugh with nearly every line. The poker game shown in the second act, is a real exposition of the popular indoor sport of the traveling man. The heroine is played by Dorothy Grey.

Grace Van Studdiford Coming.

The re-appearance of Grace Van Studdiford in this city at the Elks' theater on December 7, in the "Paradise of Mahomet," is being looked forward to by all lovers of good singing as the big musical and society event of the present theatrical season. Apparently, the lapse of several years since Miss Van Studdiford thrilled our theater-goers by her splendid singing in "Red Feather," has only tended to endear her the more to them. No other American singer possesses a more attractive personality or a greater vocal accomplishment than Miss Van Studdiford. It is said that her voice has gained marvellously in strength during the past few years, but not as the loss of its purity and beauty as is so often the case when prima donnas strive for greater power. "The Paradise of Mahomet" will be produced here just as it was at the Herald Square theater in New York last season.

Hani Lewis After Senatorship.

Streator, Ill., Nov. 22.—James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago tonight opened here his campaign for United States senator to succeed Senator Cullom. Mr. Lewis predicted democratic victory on the basis of a joint legislative majority in the state legislature.

CURRENCY REFORM CRYING NEED OF COUNTRY

PROSPERITY DEPENDS ON SOUND BANKING

President Cornell University Gives His Unqualified Endorsement of National Reserve Association Plan.

(By Morning Journal Special Lensed Wire)

New Orleans, Nov. 22.—Proposed changes in the tariff and trust laws of the United States, vital as they may be, fade into the background in importance beside the necessity for a sound banking and currency system. In the opinion of President Schurman of Cornell university, in addressing the American Bankers' association today, President Schurman so declared, adding his endorsement of the national reserve association plan and offering his co-operation to the association, if it should be desired or needed, in securing its enactment into law.

"The general public has no idea of the importance of urgency of the reformatory and constructive legislation which we now desire for the improvement of our banking and currency system and the protection of the financial interests which they represent," he said. "Questions of partisan politics, especially if embittered by personal feuds, easily gain possession of the public mind. But the promotion of the public welfare without appeals to passion and to fury is a much more difficult undertaking. The advocates of banking and currency reform have behind them as their support the inexorable nature of things, the laws of the physical universe and the industrial life of mankind; and in spite of indifference and even of opposition they are bound in the long run to prevail."

"Nevertheless, I believe a thorough and extensive campaign of education will be necessary. The benefits of reform inure to the public generally. It is not the bankers but the public who suffer. And the first lesson to be emphasized in our campaign of education is this: That banking and currency reform is the concern, not of bankers, not even of financiers, but of the American public in general."

"When panics come and wage-earners are thrown out of employment and farmers with good property cannot borrow money at a moderate rate of interest, and no one can get the cash necessary for the transaction of routine business and checks are not accepted at face value, the public must be made to understand that these evils in which all alike are participating are due to a cumbersome, antiquated and unsatisfactory system of banking and currency and that they could be eliminated with the reform of that system."

"Whoever can improve the American system of banking and currency improves American business and confers a benefit, not only on business men, but on every one who is engaged in and of the tasks of production or distribution, on the farmer and the laborer, as well as on the trader and the capitalist. If Senator Aldrich has, after conference with bankers and business men and economists and other groups of intelligent citizens, worked out on sound business principles a plan for the reformation of our currency and banking system which can be lifted into existing conditions without involving abrupt or revolutionary changes his name will be ranked among the foremost financial statesmen of modern times, and he will have laid before our people a program of practical reform which, in view of the magnitude of the interests involved and the terribly severity of the evils to be remedied, should take precedence of every other question of contemporary public policy."

"In comparison with a sound banking and currency system proposed changes in our tariff and trust laws are important and urgent as they may be in themselves, fall into the background. You will not misunderstand me. I recognize the propriety of bringing our tariff laws into a closer harmony with the conditions of modern industry and commerce and the demands both of the consuming and the producing public. And though I am a firmly convinced that business on a large scale is absolutely essential to efficiency in the modern world and should be protected and encouraged by all proper and legitimate means, I hold out less emphatically that the public have a right to be protected from oppressive monopolies. But whatever the losses, inconveniences and sufferings which may be attributed to our tariff and trust laws, they are far less than the losses, inconveniences and sufferings which are due to the imperfections of our banking and currency system. To the supreme importance of this issue, therefore, it is indispensable that the public should be aroused."

"The business of the country has undergone consolidation, co-ordination and centralization at a tremendous rate. But our banking system is paralyzed by decentralization and lack of co-ordination. To realize how antiquated that system is one has only to imagine trade and commerce conducted today as it was fifty or one hundred years ago. Yet that is the decentralized condition in which under the present system our banks are actually left. The evils of decentralization and lack of co-ordination are felt especially in times of threatened panic. There are bank reserves enough in the country to protect all the banks. But they are widely scattered and each jealously guards its own. That, however, is the very time when reserves should be centralized, subject to single control and ready for application at any point in the country where danger especially threatened. It is as though a town were to be protected against fire when each citizen possessed a private reservoir of water and would not allow his neighbor to use it."

"The second fundamental evil from which our banking system suffers is the lack of elasticity in the credit it furnishes to the country. The losses to the country thus ensuing cannot be calculated."

"Senator Aldrich's plan furnishes a method of unifying our present banking system into one comprehensive system; and while it thus secures co-ordination and centralization, at the same time it provides for that elasticity which is so notoriously lacking at the present time."

"On the dangers of Wall street speculation and control the public will be sensitive and suspicious in the extreme. Yet the Aldrich plan seems to reduce to the lowest possible degree the opportunity of exploitation by Wall street. So far as appears, it might be said that this possibility is wholly eliminated. But in view of the subtle machinations with which the recent history of American finance has made us familiar one may hesitate to make such a positive assertion. One may, however, venture to declare that it would be difficult to lay down greater precautions than those embodied in this plan."

"The Aldrich scheme is now before the country. If a better scheme can be produced, let it be forthcoming. Either this scheme or a better scheme is indispensable. And until I can hear

Nervous Prostration Long Endured Before Remedy Was Found.

Miss Minerva Reminger, Upper Merion, Pa., writes: "For several years I had nervous prostration, and was utterly wretched. I lived on bread and beef tea because my stomach would not retain anything else. I took many remedies, but obtained no relief until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, when I began to gain at once. Am now cured. Pure, rich blood makes good, strong nerves, and this is why Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and enriches the blood, cures so many nervous diseases. of a better scheme—of which, indeed, I have no expectation—and until I can see serious defects in the Aldrich scheme—which are not now visible to me—I heartily join this association in commending this plan to the American public and will gladly do everything in my power to secure its enactment into law. IDEAL LABORERS MENACE PEACE OF ARIZONA TOWN

Bisbee, Ariz., Nov. 22.—According to reports from Benson, Ariz., tonight, trouble is feared from a number of idle laborers who were shipped to that point by Denver employment agencies under promise of work. When the men arrived they found there was no work for them.

A shipment of twenty-three arrived last night and swelled the number of idle men to sixty. They are now in an ugly mood.

The contractors of the El Paso & Southwestern extension disclaim responsibility for the acts of the Denver employment agencies, and declare they are not in need of laborers.

The men now here say they paid a Denver employment agency $12 each for a job in the camp near Benson.

ALBUQUERQUE NEW MEXICO

FOR CLEANER POLITICAL METHODS.

The Springfield Republican decides that despite the wholesale corruption shown in the Ohio and New York legislatures by recent investigations and the use of great sums of money to win decisions in primary elections, the trend of our politics is distinctly toward better conditions and a more efficient action of public opinion on the processes of government. Most gladly would we accept the optimism of our Massachusetts contemporary which it justifies by the direct appeals to the people made by Governor Wilson, of New Jersey, and Governor Hughes of New York. But if we take even these two cases as typical, what are the results? The force of these appeals has departed—the next session of the legislature in his state will be antagonistic to Governor Wilson and all he represents; the Hughes leadership which Hughes sought to drive from power by exposing corruption and maladministration to the people has remained power in New York and promises to become as dictatorial as ever. Is there warrant for optimism here? But our contemporary takes heart because offenses once common are now punishable under statutes enacted to cure these evils. Can we be confident that these enactments will do more than change the forms of evil without changing the effects? To spend $107,000 to secure a primary nomination is now unlawful, but will Stephen have no imitator? The primary itself was advocated as a cure for corruption but we found it necessary to guard the primary against the evil that made the convention corruptible. The candidate before the primary is not allowed to spend extravagantly and must make oath as to his expenditures, but what will prevent his friends from spending money? The corporations may not make up a great campaign fund for the war-chest of any party, but what is to prevent the corporation that subscribes a huge fund and spends it through a trusted agent for a preferred candidate? If a presidential candidate may pat with the truth why may not another? If public sentiment condones the offense of one candidate why condemn any?

Is it not true that as long as we have one set of men willing to offer money for political results and another willing to take it, methods will be found whereby the exchange can be made beyond the reach of any statute? The Puritans held the idea that a perfect law must produce a good people; does not experience deny this? Can any law enforce morality and decency on any community without effective support from public opinion? For all these years the buying of votes constituted a punishable offense; for a generation voters have been bought by ballot in blocks of five as well as in the wholesale lots which means a change of $5,000 in New York alone. If law could stop corruption at the ballot box why did the evil continue? Because public opinion did not condemn the methods of Wainwright and Hanna and Roosevelt and even condoned the demands of what all knew to be practically the truth. If the old laws had no curative effect, why should we expect more from new laws or a multiplication of them even to infinity?

While money can be used to secure power which gives the influence to secure wealth and position, money will be used and means will be found to evade the letter of the law. When the voter refuses to sell himself, or when a majority of the voters refuses to condone the offense of buying office, then the evil will be cured and not before. When a man who was not elected can not be ejected from the White House, when a man who has bought the election finds that he has secured such odium as will make his office a shame instead of an honor, then he will begin to see clearer politics. The trend towards something better is not to be accepted because we have better laws or more laws but because the people are beginning to demand better men and cleaner methods.

Parties are not corrupt because they constitute smaller bodies than the whole electorate but because they are subject to the same influences which control all the people; a government is always as good as the governed deserve and the best school for the voter is experience. When we realize that we are punishing ourselves by tolerating corruption in the government then we shall begin to improve and the education needed is found in the teaching that none of us can thrive on the loss of all while all must lose by the oppression of any part, or by injustice inflicted upon any one.

AND THE DESERT SHALL BLOSSOM.

If all the wonderful plants discovered by the agricultural explorer in charge of the bureau of foreign seed and plant introduction for the department of agriculture come up to the expectations of that portion of the west and southwest where the water question is still a serious one. Some of the plants come from districts in Russian and Chinese Turkestan and even from the oasis of Merv and others are noted for thriving where there is only from 15 to 20 inches of annual rainfall.

Mr. Frank N. Meyer the explorer, in this new but prolific field has returned to this country with 141 specimens of seeds especially adapted to the semi-arid districts and to irrigated lands. From these seeds trees, vines, fruits, vegetables and ornamental shrubs will be developed with a hardy drought resistant strain inherited from their desert grown forebears. Thus will the agricultural department develop strains of fruits and other trees that will be successful where there is notable lack of rainfall and where the trees of the more watered sections demand too much moisture to be greatly successful. Among these plants are varieties of almond, plum cherry and apricot trees that it is thought when crossed with the fine lines of American fruits will produce stocks of those fruits for growing where there is small rainfall and hot sun and heavy drying winds for they come from countries of Turkestan, where the conditions are arid and the altitudes high. These characteristics making them the right hardiness to succeed in the southwest and the American strain adding whatever is lacking in sweetness.

Several varieties may be used as sand binders that will be of great value in their natural drought resistant state. A pear tree that was remarkably drought resistant and proof against the drying effects of hot winds is among this wonderful collection, and a peach from Turkestan promises to benefit the strain of that fruit now grown in the semi-arid sections.

There are fourteen varieties of muskmelon and watermelon all noted for fine growth under irrigation and each being exceptionally sweet or lacking in seeds or otherwise of good drought resistant strains that will be of benefit to the melons that are developed from them for the southwestern farmers' use.

There are drought resistant roses and poppies, honeysuckle that thrives in high altitudes with remarkably little water or soil and beautiful varieties of iris that can endure through the severest droughts and stand some degrees of cold.

Such valuable trees for timber purposes as pine, poplar, oleaster, Chinese willow, maple and junipers have all been imported and are expected to develop a variety of small drought proof timber trees that will produce some lumber and firewood besides being of use as windbreaks.

Many of these trees are natives of localities where there is an annual rainfall of from 15 to 20 inches, therefore they are expected to take very kindly to the question of the southwestern climate.

New drought resistant alfalfa seed, clover, a fine grazing quality of said lucern, peanuts that are quite drought resistant, durra, millet, barley and seven varieties of wheat, native to semi-arid countries and a wild wheat from Palestine that is expected to become ideal southwestern winter wheat are in this remarkable forty-one varieties for the development of irrigated and dry land farms. And last, but not least, are clever cucumber and cabbage seeds, that are from real drought resistant stock and should be tried on the dry farms as they are thought to be of the right hardiness to become useful naturalized citizens at once.

If all of these seeds develop according to expectations the question of vegetation for the semi-arid west will be solved and California will have a new rival in the flower and fruit markets and one nearer to the markets of the east at that.

Senator Lodge wishes his friends to understand that he "kept out of the late campaign in Massachusetts." How was that possible after he inquired whether his people desired to punish him for voting consistently to "put money in their pockets"? However, if he kept out then he will most probably be left out next time.

THE CENTER OF POPULATION.

A fat man is no heavier than a slim one in the minds of the census bureau officials, yet, paradoxical as it may seem, avoidance of weight of individuals is the theoretical basis upon which the Washington officials definitely fix the center of population every ten years.

The average man would divide the population north and south and east and west with imaginary lines and put the center of population where the lines intersected. Not so the census bureau, according to the latest bulletin of Director E. Dana Durand.

The statistical minds of the census sharp let imagination riot. They shut their sapient eyes and see the U. S. A. as a great flat plane upon which the people of the United States live. Each person is considered to be of the same weight, and the point at which the plane balances is designated the center of population as well as being the metaphysical center of gravity.

In this way the census men determine that a shift of population from Utah to California has much greater weight than a shift from New York to Indiana because California is much farther from the pivotal center than is New York. The center of population for the 1910 census is at Bloomington, Ind.

In the imaginative realm of the census men a shift of 500 persons from a point 25 feet north of Bloomington to a point 25 feet south would only give the great mental plane a slight tip, but the movement of a similar number from New York to California might upset the whole shabang.

The bureau is careful to specify that the method for ascertaining the center of population does not include the peoples of Alaska, Hawaii and other noncontiguous territory. Possibly these are used as a safeguard against a sudden shift that might entirely wipe out the center of population.

The bureau explains the technical difference between the avoidpoint center of population and the center established by medium lines as follows:

"If all the people of the United States were to be assembled at one place the center of population would be the point which they all could reach with the minimum of aggregate travel, assuming that they all traveled in direct lines from their residence to the meeting place. No such statement holds true of the median point."

The bulletin contains maps and data concerning the shifts of the center of population every ten years since 1790.

THE ALL-STEEL TRAIN.

The goal of safety in railway travel is not very far off. Thousands of lives have been sacrificed to the long standing habit of transporting passengers in wooden cars, which in case of a collision would telescope, split up and quickly take fire. Inertia and false ideas of economy still keep wooden cars in use on many railroads. In spite of the fact that the practicality of using only metal cars, uncollapsible and unburnable, has been fully demonstrated. But the annual roll of avoidable killings and maimings is getting shorter; for there is no longer a good excuse for a railroad's taking chances with the old style construction when the immense superiority of the new is established to the satisfaction of the traveling public.

An all-steel and concrete car train on the Pennsylvania railroad jumped the track last week, while running at the rate of fifty miles an hour, and, instead of the familiar spectacle of wreckage and suffering, not a single passenger was even badly shaken up. The cars stood every test perfectly, the rails yielding first to the enormous pressure and being twisted apart, while the coaches stood firm.

Steel cars cost more than wooden ones, but when the great crises in railroading come they will repay the extra cost. It is better economy to have all-steel equipment than to pay out hundreds of thousands of dollars in damages for loss of life and injuries to travelers. Safety is the highest ideal in railroad transportation. It is also the most profitable policy.

LORIMER INVESTIGATION SHIFTS TO WASHINGTON

Chicago, Nov. 22.—With the shifting from Chicago to Washington of the scene of the senatorial investigation of United States Senator Lorimer's election, it was learned today that the federal grand jury in session here contemplates a rigid inquiry into charges that perjury has been committed in testimony given before the committee.

The senators on the committee, headed by Chairman Dillingham, however, let it be known that they were averse to any grand jury action until all the evidence is in. Further it was given out that the evidence in possession of the committee would not be available to a grand jury until the hearings are closed. With this understanding all grand jury action temporarily was suspended.

Adjournment was taken until December 5, when the hearing will be resumed in Washington. It was said the hearing in the east will run at least two weeks and may last a month.

ROYAL ELEPHANT IS BIG SUM IS NEEDED NEW SOCIAL ORDER RIVERS AND HARBORS

Reclamation Service Men at Engle Dam Site Organize for Purpose of Providing Entertainment.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Elephant Butte, Nov. 21.—A meeting of the order of the Royal Elephant was held in a room in the official quarters on Monday night and the following officers were elected for a term of six months: Chairman, Dr. J. Dale Graham; secretary, Harry Stanton; Swan T. Olsen was re-elected treasurer. The retiring officers were Chairman Thomas Matson and Secretary Howard Leslie. This is a local social order and to it is credited many of the late social functions enjoyed by the camp. New members are being initiated from time to time and branded with the star and crescent.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Reed, of El Paso, arrived in camp on Monday afternoon and will remain here until Thursday. This is Mrs. Reed's first visit here since she moved to El Paso in August, and her many friends are much pleased to receive a visit from her.

Mrs. L. J. Charles, was "at home" to a number of her friends on Monday afternoon and a pleasant time was enjoyed by all. Cards were the means of entertainment.

The Saturday Afternoon Card club held its late meeting at the home of Mrs. Chester Wells. Dainty refreshments were served.

The card club will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. James Deering Fauntleroy, on Wednesday afternoon.

Swan T. Olsen, special fiscal agent, and Lester M. Monteth, returned on Sunday night from a visit at the home of Robert Martin at Cuchillo. Their families who had also been visiting there returned on Monday.

A pool and billiard table has recently been purchased and set up in the official quarters. This cost $225. The money was raised by subscription and an association similar to a stock company formed. Those who have subscribed to the fund can play by paying at the rate of 2 1/2 cents per cue, while those who have not subscribed pay five cents per cue. The subscription ranged in price from five to twenty-five dollars. After maintenance charges have been paid dividends will be paid in accordance to the amount subscribed. It is expected that the amount subscribed will be refunded in dividends before the work is completed.

Several hunters from here tried their luck on Sunday. Some met with fair success, but some did not see anything.

A day and night shift are now at work putting in concrete on the flume. The last step in the construction of this unit of the work has begun. The flume will carry 2,000 cubic feet of water in one second and as far as the writer can learn will be the greatest flume in America.

Work on the grading for the double track from the sand stone quarry near the Ahu Canyon bridge to the cable ways near the end to the railroad, is now being conducted at two places. Near the quarry the spolia from the grading being done to secure a suitable, on the north side of the track and the rock excavated is used in making a fill near by.

Lee Olds has recently completed the sand bin, which has been erected to facilitate the handling of the sand from the sand bank on the east side of the river to the concrete work for the flume.

Jasper Ferguson, coral law, has several teams busy hauling lumber from the end of the railroad track to the towers on the north and west sides of the river. Most of the lumber is in the form of heavy timbers. The towers will support enormous weights when the cables are stretched.

A platform is being built near the coal chute and upon this platform will be stored a supply of eight cars of coal, should the company ever get enough coal ahead to fill the orders at this place. The coal received here is shipped from the Gallup field.

Engineers Charles and Stanton have lately been working on the design of concrete making plant to be used in making the concrete for the dam. The final plans will soon be decided upon so that plenty of time will remain for installing the plant before it is needed, which will be some time next summer.

TO EXHIBIT IMPROVED BREED OF RANGE SHEEP

Twelve yearling sheep from the experimental station at Laramie, Wyo., will be on exhibition at the International live stock exposition, December 2 to 9, and at the National mid-winter sheep show in connection with the National Wool Growers association convention at Omaha, December 12 to 16. This will be the first opportunity the sheepmen have had to observe the progress of the work in experimental breeding of range sheep which has been carried on by the department of agriculture. The foundation stock experimented with was partly Delaine but largely Rambouillet. The aim has been to develop a good range sheep of larger size—at least 150 pounds at maturity—shearing a heavy fleece of combining wool and with enough constitution to thrive under range conditions. The sheep to be exhibited are owned and exhibited by the department of agriculture.

War Department Asks Congress to Appropriate $29,628,698 for Improvements Recommended by Engineers.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Washington, Nov. 22.—Estimates for continuing the work of river and harbor improvement throughout the country, made public at the war department today and covering the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, show a strict adherence to the new administration policy of asking congress to appropriate only for those improvements which have received the approval of the army corps of engineers after the most thorough investigation. No new projects of any great importance are provided for in the estimates and unless congress takes the bit in its teeth and disregards the recommendations of General W. H. Hixson, chief of engineers, the "pork barrel" method of river and harbor work will have been eliminated for a second year.

The appropriations asked for aggregate $29,628,698, as against $29,656,698 for the current year. The estimates will be sent to congress by the secretary of the treasury and President Taft in his message will urge that they be strictly adhered to. They are divided as follows:

Under continuing contracts $12,114,988
Rivers and harbors (general) including Mississippi and pi River Commission, surveys and contingencies 17,845,450
Under California Debris Commission (expenses) 15,000
Prevention of deposits in New York harbor 153,250
These estimates, it is explained, are intended to cover all the minimum requirements for the prosecution and maintenance of the various improvements. They were made up from estimates prepared on the same basis by the various district engineers, this being done to keep within the limited total estimates deemed advisable for the fiscal year of 1912 and on the supposition that river and harbor work will be provided for here after by annual appropriation. The estimates are to be divided between the river and harbor and sundry civil bills and are to be applied to 242 works.

In connection with the estimates General Hixson, chief of engineers, says in part: "Liberal appropriations are considered proper and desirable for snaggings and other work necessary to make natural channels available wherever water-borne commerce exists or is reasonably prospective. It is believed that expenditures for such improvements are almost always useful and advantageous to the general public, especially since the increased growth and development of small goods boats for combined freight and passenger transportation. In many cases it is apparent that the failure to use a waterway is due not so much to lack of channel depth as to the presence of snags and other obstructions which can be removed at comparatively small cost, thus making the natural channel depths fully available throughout the year. When the boat commerce develops or its requirements are met, the existing clear channel will be in its best condition for further and more expansive improvements.

"Improvements adopted by congress, and not provided for in the estimates, have been omitted either on account of insufficiency of funds now available, on account of lack of urgency or of relative importance, on account of defective projects which were adopted many years ago and are in need of re-examination, or in cases in which recommendations for appropriations for new projects have recently been submitted to congress in special reports.

"Under existing law re-examinations of existing projects are made by the board of engineers for rivers and harbors in compliance with resolutions of the senate or the committee on rivers and harbors of the house of representatives, but these re-examinations are subject to the limitation that no enlargement of the scope of the project can be considered, so that desirable extensions of projects can not be recommended. It is believed that a similar provision of law authorizing the chief of engineers to cause a re-examination of projects, at least those heretofore passed upon by the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, would be in the public interest. the river and harbor act of March 3, 1899, as unworthy of further improvement by the United States or considered by the chief of engineers as in need of revision could in this way be fully investigated, local interests could be heard, and formal report thereon made for the consideration of congress. It would seem advisable in connection with any such re-examination to grant authority to consider and report upon any modifications in the nature of enlargements in scope of projects believed to be desirable, when such modifications are recommended by district officers or otherwise brought to the attention of the department. "If desired by congress for its consideration in providing for new works, reports could be submitted by the board of engineers for rivers and harbors and the chief of engineers upon the relative importance of the various improvements recommended as worthy of being undertaken or the United States, the order in which the works should be taken up, and the rapidity with which they should be completed, upon methods of standardization by which the waterways of the country could be improved uniformly in proportion to their capacities and to the extent of probable demands of general commerce, or even report upon a systematic scheme of such improvement embracing all waterways, whether heretofore examined and reported upon or not."

ers are accepting bids which show no advance from day to day, but assure a reasonable profit. On the wools now selling prompt shipment is asked and insisted upon, indicating that most of the mills are running on nearly full time and on short stocks of the raw material. The volume of trade in low-grade wools reflects the excellent demand for goods made from such wool, while consumption of other grades is steadily increasing. Current consumption is estimated at between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 pounds weekly. Comparing this with the average of sales of wool, it can readily be seen that a shortage is likely to result if higher prices when the belated demand is felt.

"Where Quality Meets Price."ALVARADO SCENE OF MOST BRILLIANT WEDDING

Rothgerber-Grunfeld Nuptials Probably Most Notable Event in Society History of Albuquerque.

Albuquerque social history was in the making yesterday, and the date, November 22, 1911, will go down in red letters and dotted all around with brilliant memories.

It was the wedding day of Miss Reina Grunfeld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Grunfeld of this city, and Mr. Ira Rothgerber, a prominent young attorney of Denver, Colo.

The Alvarado, where so often the social drama is enacted, was the scene of the nuptials, which might well be called the most beautiful in the history of local weddings.

Seldom, it ever, have local society folk, attended an event so gorgeously pretty and brilliantly gay as the Grunfeld-Rothgerber wedding. Carriages and automobiles, bringing their cargoes of handsomely gowned women and their escorts, attracted a large crowd to the verandas and the scene without was as noisy and gay as it was beautiful within. And it was beautiful. Undeniably and exquisitely so.

Chrysanthemums, great, shaggy glorious ones, all white and literally hundreds of them, might perhaps be called the decorative keynote though roses were extravagantly used. These flowers of the season were attractively placed in the parlors and lobby, contrasting effectively with palms and carnations. But it was in the west annex that the most striking effect was sought and superbly obtained. Autumn leaves, in all their glorious tinting, covered the walls, made an effective background for the great clusters of regal chrysanthemums. At the south end of the long rooms, a bower of the white chrysanthemums and smilax formed the place of ceremony, and it was the prettiest thing that decorative art or ingenuity could devise. The smilax hung in trailing streamers, unattached and the flowers were caught in the greenery, leaving no view of the stems or seeming means of attachment. The effect was airy and fairy-like in the extreme and made a nuptial bower of indescribable loveliness.

All was silent loveliness, as a concerted orchestra started the familiar strains of Lohengrin. The elegantly gowned women and the men in the more sombre full dress, stopped the gay chatter and stood silently expectant. As the strains of music grew more sweetly penetrating, the heavy portieres at the far end of the west annex parted, and the bridal party stood disclosed.

Miss Grunfeld, leaning on her father's arm, was in rich bridal attire, and a happy and charming bride. Her gown was of lustrous white satin, trimmed in point lace and worn with a court train. The veil fell full length framing the magnificent costume effectively and making a picture which fascinated the beholders.

Attending the bride was her sister, Miss Hilda Grunfeld, an exceptionally pretty girl, who looked more than usually pretty in a handsome blue gown of satin and chiffon with gold trimmings.

Mr. Rothgerber's best man was Justice of the Supreme Court-Elect Richard H. Hanna, formerly a schoolmate of the groom.

The flower girls, Helen and Marion Grunfeld, looked daintily in sheer white lace gowns and preceding the bride party to the altar scattering roses. The ring bearer, Leonard Rothgerber, Jr., of Denver, a nephew of the groom, was also dressed in pure white.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Mendel Silber, and was a most impressive one.

Immediately thereafter a reception was held in the annex and Mr. and Mrs. Rothgerber were congratulated and toasted the whole evening through. The dance commenced after the reception and was held in the dining room with the Fuehrer-Cavanaugh orchestra furnishing the music. While the fun progressed the annex was converted into a supper room. The tables were flower decked and set with everything good to eat and drink. The bridal table with its monogrammed place cards was a dream of beauty. While roses were here the only flowers used and the table was a mass of them, charmingly arranged with smilax. Gold shaded lights lent a delicate glow and enhanced the beauty of the appointments.

The supper hour, with its toasting and jollity, was a merry one, and the scene during its progress one of brilliant and splendor.

Some lavishly handsome gowns were seen at the wedding those of the Chicago and Denver women attending the wedding being notably so. The mother of the groom, Mrs. Samuel Baretts of Denver, wore a magnificent lace gown over cloth of gold, and Mrs. Alfred Grunfeld, the bride's mother, had an exquisitely pretty gown of pink satin veiled in black chiffon and embroidered in steel.

Chief among the noted guests were Mr. and Mrs. Julius Rosenwald of Chicago. Mrs. Rosenwald wore a magnificently beautiful gown with a diamond necklace. Mr. Rosenwald is a millionaire merchant of Chicago, and is well known in that city and over the country as a philanthropist of note. He recently came into notice over a munificent gift of many thousands for a Y. M. C. A. for negroes. Mr. Rosenwald gave a substantial check to the bride, who is his niece.

Other out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rothgerber of Denver, Dr. Cohen of Denver, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Eisenman of Boston, Mrs. Casmore of Denver,

BAR ASSOCIATION TO ADOPT CODE OF ETHICS

Owing to alleged unprofessional conduct on the part of certain members of the Bernalillo county bar, the association is seriously considering the adoption of a code of ethics which will govern the members. The matter was up for serious discussion last night at the bar meeting, but no actual steps were taken.

The feature of the evening's meeting, which was well attended, was the paper by H. G. Cornell on "The Elimination of the Judiciary From Politics." In the after discussion the political side was taken by F. E. Wood, and the non-political by J. W. Wilson, while W. C. Hancock asked a series of questions that sought to
