IMPERIAL VICTORY IN NORTH MAY CURB CHINESE REVOLUTION

Frightful Carnage Attends Engagement Between Government Troops and Rebels at Han Yang.

ESTIMATE CASUALTIES AT TWO THOUSAND

Final Bombardment of Nanking is Delayed 24 Hours to Give General Chang Chance to Surrender.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Shanghai, Nov. 27.—A wireless dispatch from Hankow says Han Yang is completely in the hands of the imperialists. There has been frightful slaughter and the revolutionists are fleeing in all directions. Many of them have crossed the river to Wu Chang. It is believed that Wu Chang is certain to fall.

General Li, commander of the revolutionists, is reported to be preparing to flee to Shanghai. The defeat of the insurgents is said to have been due to a disagreement between the revolutionary leaders of the troops from Hunan and Hu Pei. Other dispatches from Hankow say there has been severe fighting for four days in that territory. The imperialists have been strongly reinforced with guns and men. The river Han was crossed by pontoons and the imperial troops met determined opposition. The casualties on both sides are conservatively estimated at two thousand.

FINAL DEMAND MADE FOR NANKING'S SURRENDER

Nanking, Nov. 28 (A. P.).—Except for an occasional exchange of shots between Lion and Tiger hills, occupied respectively by the imperialist and revolutionary forces and skirmishes between the advance posts of revolutionary troops and the rear guard of the imperialists, the night of Nov. 27 was a day of confusion and confusion. The imperialists are unopposed.

A strong effort is being made to induce General Chang, commander of the imperialists, to surrender. The commander of foreign warships have united in a protest against the bombardment proceeding for at least twenty-four hours, and to this the eight revolutionary gunboats and the forts on the purple mountains now in possession of the revolutionists, have agreed.

The landing boats have been removed six miles up the river. The consular flag has been transferred to a large houseboat.

PEKIN ELATED OVER VICTORY BY IMPERIALISTS

Peking, Nov. 27.—Consular dispatches from Kankow of current date say that the imperialists captured Han Yang after protracted and desperate fighting. The rebels suffered severely and fled in confusion. The imperialists' losses are also heavy. The government is elated over the victory. It believes that this places the premier, Yuan Shi Kai, in position to negotiate with the rebels and to restore peace in the north.

JAPAN HAS NOT VIOLATED TREATY RIGHTS

Washington, Nov. 27.—The action of the Japanese government in ordering 700 Japanese troops to Tien Tsin and Peking is explained by a statement issued by the state department today showing that the order is strictly in conformity with power conferred by treaty and is taken with the full knowledge and consent of the council of representatives at Peking.

Under the protocol of 1901 and subsidiary arrangements terminating the Boxer trouble, an understanding was reached that the strength of the legation guards at Peking should be 2,000 men furnished by the United States, Germany, France, Great Britain, Japan, Italy, Austria, Hungary, Russia and Belgium in equal numbers. The total number of guards of all nationalities now at Peking is only 1,200.

At the same time it was arranged that permanent garrisons for the protection of the railway should be maintained at Tien Tsin and Shanghai-Kwan (Chang Wang Kow), the former fixed at 2,000 men and the latter at 1,500 and also that eight other stations along the railway should be occupied by a force of 500 men each or a total of 5,900 men of all arms, as railway guards.

The number now stationed along the line is approximately 3,200, of which 2,100 are at Tien Tsin and about 1,100 at Shanghai-Kwan. This is in conformity with the agreement and the railway guards are at present considerably below their full quota.

The American and French legation guards at Peking are already at the maximum of 250 or 240 men, those of the other nationalities with two or three exceptions being about half strength.

FOREIGN MISSIONARIES OUT OF DANGER ZONE

New York, Nov. 27.—A dispatch received here today at the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, from Shanghai, says all the missionary women at Nan Chang in Kiang Si province, have gone up the river to Kin Kiang. This is part of the general movement by the missionaries at interior points to come down to the coast cities and is a result of specific instructions sent out by the legation at Peking.

Germany Unduly Offended.

Washington, Nov. 27.—State department officials today expressed astonishment that the impression should obtain at Berlin, as reported in a London newspaper, that America has interfered adversely to Germany in that country's negotiations with Great Britain regarding Morocco.

Jews Not Merchants by Choice.
New York, Nov. 27.—"The Jew is not a money lender or even a merchant by choice," said Jacob H. Schiff, the banker tonight at a mass meeting of Jews that closed the first day of the convention here of the Jewish farmers of America. Mr. Schiff was urging the Jews in the cities to "get back to the farm."

Plead Not Guilty to Bribery.

New York, Nov. 27.—Joseph Cassidy, democratic leader of Queens county, Louis F. Walter, his lieutenant, and William Willett, Jr., pleaded not guilty today to indictments charging that they conspired to buy Willett's re-election to the Queens county seat. Cassidy was admitted to $5,000 bail and the case was adjourned until December 5.

Girl Sues For $50,000.

Pittsburg, Nov. 27.—Suit for $50,000 for breach of promise to marry was filed here today by Miss Helen Reeves of New York, against Thomas A. Coleman of Wilkesburg, a suburb.

Refused to Convict for Betting.

Norfolk, Nov. 27.—The third attempt to stop betting at the Jamestown race track came to naught tonight when the jury trying the case against the Jamestown Jockey club failed to find a verdict and was discharged.

White Man Hung; Killed Negro.

Brunswick, Ga., Nov. 27.—For the first time in this state a white man has paid the death penalty for killing a negro. A. J. Oberly was hanged today for the murder of a negro woman and her daughter, the motive being robbery.

FIERCE BLIZZARD HAS SOUTHWEST IN ITS GRIP

Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma at Mercy of Wind Velocity of Which is Sixty Miles An Hour.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Kansas City, Nov. 27.—A severe snow storm, driven by a wind that at times blew sixty miles an hour, raged over Kansas, Oklahoma and a great part of Missouri today and tonight. Reports from the affected districts show rapidly falling temperatures.

In Kansas snow fell in every county, ranging in depth from one to three inches. At Hutchinson windows in the high school were broken by the wind and three pupils were seriously injured by flying glass, while a number of others were slightly injured.

Snow fell all along the line of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad in Oklahoma. At Hobart a 65-mile wind drove a blinding snow before it. A number of small buildings were blown down and many plate glass windows in business houses were broken. Shawnee, Oklahoma City and Muskogee experienced similar conditions.

Southern Missouri and northern Arkansas are getting snow tonight following a day of rain and sleet. At Springfield, Texas, reported four inches of snow.

In Kansas City the storm began shortly after noon and continued until 5 o'clock tonight. During that time three and one-half inches had been measured by the local weather bureau.

ROSWELL REPORTS HIGH WIND AND LIGHT SNOW

Roswell, N. M., Nov. 27.—A high wind and light snow prevailed throughout last night in this section and was followed today by snow flurries. There has been a big drop in the temperature and the weather is unusually windy for Roswell. Snow which fell last night melted today.

ANCIENT CITY BURIED UNDER HEAVY SNOWFALL

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 27.—The heaviest snow storm that Santa Fe has experienced in years began last night and continued until noon today, drifting high at some places although the wind was not violent. The temperature last night dropped to thirteen degrees above and raindrops are hampered while damage to stock on the ranges is inevitable.

COLDEST DAY OF THE YEAR IN ALBUQUERQUE.

Yesterday was the coldest day of the year in Albuquerque, and strange as it may seem the warmest part of the day came just before sundown when the mercury crawled up to 25 degrees. All day yesterday and last night the snow clouds hung low over the mountains, and the brisk east wind swooped down into the valley, chilling the noses and ears of the pedestrians until they fairly squeaked. "Oh you ear muffs." Just a few minutes before sundown the bank of clouds that had laid all day long between Albuquerqueans and their customary view of the San Juans, lifted a little and gave a sight of snow that if possible chilled the exuberant spirits more than the wind of all day had done.

The thermometer continued to fall all night until it had gone away below twenty degrees, the report being that the town was experiencing the coldest night of the year. Withal the day was dry and cold, a very unusual day for New Mexico.

All trains arriving from the east brought with them loads of snow on the front of the engine and in the tops of the cars. The trainmen who were forced to get out occasionally were wet with the sleet and many of them carried the evidences of the storm through which they had passed in the shape of white crusts on their shoulders.

A few miles out of Albuquerque to the north and east snow was encountered thus accounting for the rapid fall in the temperature before the high winds which prevailed in the city.

SIR EDWARD GRAY POURS OIL ON TURBULENT WATERS

Declares World Has Been Indulging in a Fit of Political Alcoholism But Must Now Get Sober.

GREAT BRITAIN HAS NO SECRET TREATIES

Secretary of Foreign Affairs Makes Plain, However, That England Will Never Submit to Insult.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
London, Nov. 27.—Sir Edward Grey, secretary of foreign affairs, today cleared the political atmosphere and poured oil on the turbulent waters of Anglo-German relations in a speech in the house of commons.

The foreign secretary reviewed the whole Moroccan episode from the sudden appearance of the German gunboat Panther in the port of Agadir up to the signing of the Franco-German treaty. He unflinchingly upheld the attitude taken by the British government, but at the same time declared that its action was never antagonistic to Germany or to any settlement she was able to arrange with France which did not threaten the rights of Great Britain.

Sir Edward made no secret of the fact that the situation had at one time been very tense, but thought his statements today would prove a sedative to a world which had been indulging in a fit of political alcoholism and that the time had arrived for it to get sober and to keep cool. Great Britain had no secret treaties and both France and Russia knew perfectly well that British public opinion would not support any provocative or aggressive action against Germany.

German strength was in itself a guarantee that no other country would seek a quarrel with her, but if a nation had the biggest army in the world and a very big navy, navy, going to build a still bigger navy, then that nation must do all in its power to prevent the natural apprehensions of others lest that power should have aggressive intentions to ward them.

"I do not believe that Germany has aggressive designs and all we or other neighbors of Germany desire is to live with her on equal terms," said the earl.

At the outset he told the house that Herr Von Kiderlin Waechter's disclosure of the conversations which had taken place between the German ambassador and himself had taken him by surprise.

In diplomatic procedure it was most unusual to make public any such conversation without consulting the other party and he knew nothing whatever of Herr Von Kiderlin Waechter's intention until he read the published account.

He did not make any complaint, however, as he understood that the exigencies of the situation in Germany precluded any such consultation.

The communication made to the British foreign office by the German ambassador Count Paul Wolff-Metternich on July 1, in regard to the dispatch of the German gunboat Panther to Agadir, in southern Morocco and the ambassador's explanation in regard to that matter, continued Sir Edward, made it clear that Germany regarded a return to the status quo in Morocco as impossible and that Germany's real objective was a definite solution of the whole Moroccan question.

On July 1, Sir Edward Grey informed the German ambassador that the situation created by the dispatch of the Panther to Agadir was so serious and important that it must be discussed at a cabinet council and on July 4, he told Count Wolff-Metternich that Great Britain was not able to take up a disinterested attitude concerning Morocco nor to recognize any new arrangement without her consent.

A long silence followed and the next conversation between Sir Edward and Count Wolff-Metternich took place on July 21, when the British foreign secretary told the German ambassador that the British government adhered to his statement made on July 4.

Sir Edward Grey also told Count Wolff-Metternich that that occasion that a rectification of the Congo frontier was proposed as a basis of a settlement between Germany and France and said he thought the matter might be arranged on such a basis without affecting British interests. Sir Edward pointed out to Count Wolff-Metternich that in the event of the negotiations with France failing Great Britain would be obliged to take some step in order to protect British interests.

The German ambassador was not in a position to impart any information to the British foreign office but he deprecated the assumption of possible damage to British interests and he said he was sure that his government had no intention of acquiring commercial monopolies.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-

George's speech, which roused such anger in Germany, was delivered the same night after consultation with Sir Edward Grey and Premier Asquith.

"Its purport was that where British interests are affected we must not be treated as if we are of no account. If the time ever comes when this cannot be said, we shall have ceased to exist—at any rate as a great power," was Sir Edward's comment.

Four days after Count Wolff-Metternich presented to Sir Edward a communication complaining of Mr. Lloyd-George's speech.

"It was exceedingly stiff in tone," said Sir Edward, "and I felt it necessary to say that the fact that it created surprise in Germany was in itself a justification of the speech. I felt the tone of the communication made it inconsistent without dignity to give any explanations of the speech."

On July 27 came a break in the clouds, Count Wolff-Metternich presented a note full of good will, hoping that Sir Edward Grey would find an opportunity of reassuring the public in regard to Germany's intentions, acknowledging the British foreign secretary's desire for a Franco-German agreement, reiterating that British interests would not be touched and pointing out how Great Britain could forward a settlement by calming the public opinion of France.

Thereafter there were no difficulties.

"A good deal of misunderstanding could have been avoided," remarked Sir Edward, "if Germany had made it more clear about July 4, that she had no intention of taking any part of Morocco."

Alluding to the advocacy of the policy of isolation, Sir Edward thought it would be disastrous for Great Britain to allow it to be understood that she would be in no circumstances to give her friends assistance if attacked.

That would deprive her of all her friends in Europe and she would soon be building warships against the rest of the navies.

"Let us make new friendships, by all means, but not at the expense of those we have."

"For years the question of Morocco has been a discomfort to diplomats. It has been settled without breaking the peace of Europe and the part his majesty's government has taken has contributed largely to that result."

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Unionists, in a speech strongly supporting Sir Edward Grey, said that the foreign secretary's statement had convinced him that every step taken was with sole regard for British interests.

American Ambassador Whitelaw Reid was present in the diplomatic gallery.

STRIKERS MENACE COAL CAMPS IN COLORADO

Situation at Louisville Critical and Federal Troops May Be Asked to Protect Non-Union Men and Property.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Denver, Nov. 27.—Labor troubles in the coal camps of northern Colorado, where a strike has been in progress for some time, have reached a stage where the advisability of calling for troops is being considered, according to news received here today.

At Louisville, Colo., the situation is regarded as particularly critical. The mines there are owned by the Rocky Mountain Fuel company which is a Wyoming corporation. President Brown of the coal company declared today that unless conditions improved within the next two days he would ask Governor Shafroth to call for the protection of federal troops to which he says the company as a non-resident property-holder is entitled.

Since Saturday it is reported that the Union and non-union miners have been practically open warfare. Bands of strikers and women sympathizers have paraded the streets, flourishing revolvers and other weapons making threats against the non-union workers. Armed guards were stationed at all entrances to the camp and every station of the Denver and Interurban Electric line was guarded, every man looking like a minor being compelled to give a strict account of himself.

Three Italian women, members of a special committee of the strikers, are alleged to have set upon Mrs. T. D. Tetterton, mother-in-law of John Childs, a non-union engineer, and beaten her severely. Her home is at Fort Worth, Texas, but she has been visiting her daughter at Louisville.

MRS. VERMILYA HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Louise Vermilya was held to the grand jury by a coroner's jury which today investigated the death of Policeman Arthur Blouinette. She is under arrest, charged with having poisoned him.

Little new testimony was added to that brought out previously in the published results of the police investigation. Witnesses told of Blouinette's living at the Vermilya home, of his illness, of his death and the subsequent examination of his viscera for poison which was found in quantities. Police told of Mrs. Vermilya's sudden illness while under surveillance, after she had sprinkled poison from a pepper box on some food served to her.

MRS. PATTERSON'S STORY OF MURDER CONFIRMED BY EYE-WITNESS

Francis J. Easton, of Minneapolis, Corroborates Woman's Plea That She Shot Husband in Self-Defense.

PROSECUTION FAILS TO SHAKE TESTIMONY

Both Sides Finish Introduction of Direct Evidence; Case Will Go to Jury By Tomorrow Night.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Denver, Nov. 27.—The defense in the Patterson murder case today placed on the stand the mysterious eye-witness to the shooting of Charles A. Patterson by his wife, Gertrude Gibson Patterson, announcement of whose existence by Attorney O. N. Hilton in his opening statement created something of a sensation.

He was Francis J. Easton, 52 years old, who testified that he had come from Minneapolis to appear in Mrs. Patterson's behalf. He came to Denver the day before the shooting, he testified, from Laramie, Wyoming, where he had been employed by a harness and saddlery concern, and left Denver two days after the affair, for Tacoma, Washington, where he said he visited his son.

Easton corroborated the story told by Mrs. Patterson that she had shot her husband after he had struck her twice and knocked her down and was standing over her with his arm upraised to strike again.

On the morning of the shooting, he said, he had gone out to the sanitarium at which Patterson was one of the patients, and after an inspection of the grounds had set out for a walk in the neighborhood. Some distance from the sanitarium he observed a man and woman walking ahead of him. They seemed to be quarreling, he declared. They turned at a street corner, he said, and he proceeded straight along. When he was some three hundred feet or so away from the couple, he looked back, he told the jury and saw the woman, apparently reading a newspaper clipping. She handed the clipping to the man and as she did so he struck her in the face, following it with a second blow that felled her. She struggled to one knee, he said, and fired twice in rapid succession, following with two more shots after a short pause. The man fell and the woman entered the grounds of the house in front of which the shooting had occurred, through a driveway nearby.

On cross-examination, Easton said he had seen A. B. Shugart, the eye-witness placed on the stand by the state, running to the spot but had not gone over to the body, himself, having turned down a street and taken a street car back to the city, because, as he told the jury, he did not want to get mixed up in the affair.

Special Prosecutor Horace G. Benson cross-examined the witness closely in regard to his life history but failed to shake the witness' composure. His father and his mother were both dead, the witness declared.

Mr. Benson drew from the witness the statement that he had worked in Denver in 1885, when he had been employed by a manufacturing company, now out of existence, and again about a year and a half ago, when he was employed in the store room of a local hotel. He could not name any persons or business firms with whom he was acquainted during his first residence in Denver, nor did he know the name of the man by whom he was employed at the hotel on his second stay here, nor the names of any one connected with the hotel.

"Do you know Emil W. Strouss?" the prosecutor suddenly shot at him. "I do not."

In his story of the shooting Mrs. Patterson had declared that a short time before Patterson struck her the blows that led her to shoot he had sprung at her and bitten her on the shoulder and she had screamed.

The witness denied having seen this occurrence although he admitted he must have been seventy-five feet behind the couple at the time Mrs. Patterson alleged that it had occurred and would have seen it if it had taken place.

On the fact that Easton made no effort to go to Patterson's assistance after the shooting and had made no report of what he had seen, the prosecutor dwelt with emphasis.

Easton was the last witness for the defense, and after his cross-examination the state commenced its testimony in rebuttal, its most important witness being Mrs. Mary K. Patterson, the mother of the dead man, who throughout the day sat opposite her daughter-in-law at the counsel table. When the older woman took the stand the prisoner covered her eyes with her hand and did not look up while the examination of the witness was in progress.

The older Mrs. Patterson, the purpose of whose testimony was to impeach the defendant's testimony on a number of points, told of a family conference just prior to her daughter-in-law's trip abroad with Emil Strouss, regarding the advisability of investing $1,500 in a printing establishment in Chicago for young Patterson. The prisoner had denied that such a conference took place.

The witness also declared that when the son was ill at her home, at a time when the younger Mrs. Patterson had declared Patterson made an assault upon her, the boy was so weak that he had to be lifted up in bed to be fed and that he had been taken to the sanitarium on a stretcher.

Whenever the witness referred to her daughter-in-law she called her "the defendant." She contradicted the prisoner on a number of other less important points.

When court adjourned today there was a prospect of the case going to the jury by tomorrow night with practically a certainty that this would take place by Wednesday in any event.

The state has finished its testimony in rebuttal with the privilege of further examining one of the defense's witnesses tomorrow and it was declared by Attorney Hilton that the testimony in rebuttal would be brief. The jury may be taken to the scene of the shooting to discern whether State Witness Shugart could have seen the shooting from where he was standing, as testified on the stand.

District Attorney Willis V. Ennett, who withdrew from the prosecution because he had acted for Mrs. Patterson in a divorce suit filed by her prior to the shooting, was a witness for the defense today. He testified to the bruised and raw condition of Mrs. Patterson's face and neck when she came to his office to consult about the divorce and said she had told him that her husband had beaten her.

A witness of value to both prosecution and defense was Charles H. Pugh who was principal of the Sandoval school when Gertrude Patterson, then Gertrude Gibson, was a pupil and who was called by the defense to refute the contention of the state that she had been expelled from school for immoral conduct. Pugh, who is now a bookseller here, declared that in all his experience as a principal he had never expelled a pupil. Under cross-examination he said that to his best recollection Mrs. Patterson was twelve or thirteen years old at the time she attended his school. This was sixteen or seventeen years ago, and strengthened the state's contention that the defendant is more than twenty-five years old as she testified and that she was not a young and unsophisticated girl when she met Strouss.

After failing this morning to introduce as evidence Patterson's bank book, showing deposits of amounts corresponding to those Mrs. Patterson had declared he had forced her to get for him, and on dates that bore out that portion of her story, the defense this afternoon succeeded in having introduced a certified copy of Patterson's account with the Chicago bank he patronized. This copy serves the same purpose as the bank book.

The defense also introduced letters written by Patterson to his wife in which a phase of their married life was dwelt upon and which contained references to things of an unspeakable and unprintable nature. The defense sought to have these letters introduced as evidence and testified by the jury but the state insisted that they be read in open court. When Judge George W. Allen upheld the state's right to this procedure, Mrs. Patterson buried her face in her arms and rested her head on the table beside her. She did not look up until fully half an hour after the subject had been dropped.

The composure which marked her attitude in the first days of the trial has deserted her entirely. Apparently her spirit was broken by the ordeal of cross-examination. She has been a different woman since that ended last Saturday.

In rebuttal this afternoon, the state put on the stand newspaper photographers who took Mrs. Patterson's photograph in the city jail the day of the shooting. They testified that they saw no marks on her face. The proprietor of a drug store in the vicinity of Mrs. Patterson's home testified that on the morning of the shooting she had him call up her husband for her at the sanitarium and that he overheard her plead with him to meet her at a doctor's drug store.

W. C. Douglas, former town marshal of Sandoval, now a member of a plumbing supply company here, testified that in 1905, he had gone to Breese, Illinois, a neighboring town and brought back to Sandoval Mrs. Patterson and her older sister, Myrtle, who, he said, had been arrested in company with two men. He had made the trip at the request of James Gibson, the girl's father, he said. Douglas was not cross-examined.

NURSE'S TESTIMONY SUCCESSFULLY ATTACKED

Kansas City, Nov. 27.—Again today Miss Pearl Kellar, a nurse, was the sole witness at the Hyde murder trial, her cross-examination and brief redirect examination developed nothing of importance.

During the morning session the defense attempted to show that Miss Kellar, who accuses Dr. Hyde of asking her to help him in his crime, was an administrator of the Swope estate before Colonel Swope's death, was practically a stranger to the accused man at that time. Miss Kellar had during June 1905, Attorney Walsh for the defense made it known he would attempt to show Dr. Hyde was not in the city at that time. When Miss Kellar took the stand in the afternoon she corrected her previous statement by saying it was in 1906 she met the doctor.

Telling of the attacks Colonel Swope suffered on the date of his death, the nurse said one of these was precipitated by his becoming wrought up over what he considered an extravagant use of linen by her. She testified he cursed loudly and made violent gestures.

OFFICIAL CANVASS WILL PROVE LONG AND EXTREMELY TEDIOUS TASK

State Board Meets at Santa Fe to Go Over Result of First State Election Held On November 7.

TO TAKE FROM TEN DAYS TO TWO WEEKS

Certified Returns From San Miguel County Delivered to the Territorial Secretary Yesterday at Noon.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal.]
Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 27.—In accordance with law the state canvassing board, consisting of Governor William J. Mills, Secretary of the Territory Nathan Jaffa and Chief Justice William H. Pope, met in the capitol today for the purpose of checking the returns of the election held on November 7, when state, judicial and county officers were elected, as well as members of the legislature and congressmen.

The board officially convened at 10 o'clock. Governor Mills announced that the political parties would appoint attorneys to represent them before the board in any dispute that might arise in the course of the canvass. This was accordingly done. For the republicans, T. B. Carron of Santa Fe and Judge A. B. Paul of Three Rivers, were named; for the democrats, Neill B. Field of Albuquerque and C. D. Cleveland of East Las Vegas; for the progressive republicans, Colonel George W. Prichard of Santa Fe.

The democrats appointed John B. McManus of Albuquerque, Walter Harry P. Owen of Albuquerque, and Mrs. A. M. Leeson, of Santa Fe, stenographers. Albert Clancy of Santa Fe was selected by the board as its official stenographer.

Herbert W. Clark announced on behalf of the republicans that this party would appoint no watchers or stenographers. After this formality, the canvassing board entered upon its onerous task. The rest of the day was devoted to going over the poll books to ascertain whether or not all were accounted for and when the board adjourned for the day at 5 p. m., they had accounted for the poll books of about half of a total of 600 precincts. So far as the board has gone thirty-one precincts have been found from which no return of poll books has been made. One of the missing precincts is Escobedo in Bernalillo county; several of the others are in Santa Fe county and the remaining are scattered.

The official returns were received at noon today from San Miguel county and turned over to the territorial secretary, and delivered by him to the canvassing board of which he is a member.

It is believed that by noon tomorrow the board will have finished the checking of the poll books and learned definitely what precincts are missing. The board is expected to immediately thereafter dispatch messengers to the delinquent precincts to secure the poll books and deliver them to the canvassers.

It is estimated that ten days to two weeks will be required to complete the task of canvassing the returns. The job is going to prove a tedious one, as the canvass is to proceed alphabetically by counties, beginning with Bernalillo and ending with Valencia. Each state, judicial, legislative, congressional and county officer's vote will be checked.

The canvassing is to be done in the council chamber which was filled to capacity today by interested candidates. Practically every aspirant for state office, with the exception of Governor-elect McDonald and H. O. Hursum, defeated for that office on the face of the unofficial returns, is present at the canvass.

GOVERNOR'S SPECIAL BEGINS LONG TOUR

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 27.—The "governor's special" train of eleven cars, carrying seventeen western governors, left St. Paul shortly after 10 o'clock tonight on a three week tour of the east, covering more than 4,000 miles. Ten states are represented on the train—California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota, Colorado and Wyoming. Governor Oddie of Nevada is expected to join the special in Chicago.

The object of the tour is a "campaign of education." The products of the field, the mine, the opportunities of the vast empire of the northwest will be talked over and shown the people of various states through which the special is scheduled to pass.

The governors today made a preliminary trip to Minneapolis, where they were guests of the commercial club. Tonight the governors and entire party were guests of the St. Paul association of commerce at a farewell banquet.

The special is due to arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning.

AGGIES TO DEPART TOMORROW FOR ROSWELL

Giant Eleven Representing Agricultural College Expect a Hard Game With Cadets On Thanksgiving Day.

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal] Las Cruces, N. M., Nov. 27.—All arrangements have been made by Coach Badenoch for the Farmer football team to leave in a special Pullman tomorrow for Roswell, where the champion football game of the southwest will be played Thanksgiving day. Coach Badenoch will take several men along with him as substitutes in case of any accidents.

The Farmers have brought their institution into the limelight this year by their football team. The first day college opened the old players took their places on the gridiron and practicing began. All the new, husky fellows were rounded up and put in training. A good second team was organized that kept the first team busy to keep first place. In this manner many hard games were fought on the gridiron, thus putting the first team in excellent condition.

The first game of the season was played with the El Paso Y. M. C. A. the result being 27 to 0 in favor of the Farmers. The next game was with the El Paso Military Institute the result being 3 to 0 in favor of the Farmers. The University of Arizona then matched a game on the El Paso Gridiron and lost to the Farmers by a score of 2 to 0. The El Paso High school boys became anxious to win some fame but lost out by a score of 15 to 0. The University of New Mexico sent down a team from Albuquerque and put up a hard fight. The result was 19 to 6 in favor of the Farmers. The University team is the only team up to date that has made a score against the giant Farmers.

In the meantime the soldiers at Roswell played a game with the University, the result being 0 to 0. They also cleaned up the Roswell High school.

All are agreed that the result on Thanksgiving day is doubtful. Both teams have won honors and both want the championship. Considering the honors won by the Farmers, they will not doubt carry the day. If their past record can be used as a criterion, both teams will be very hard to beat. Both teams will be fought every moment by the players on each team.

The college record this year is the best in five years. In 1906 the farmers lost a three years' championship and have not been able to regain it. This year seems to be in their favor.

GOTCH CONSENTS TO MEET ALEC MONRO, ENGLISH CHAMPION

Kansas City, Nov. 27.—Frank Gotch has offered to meet Alec Monro, the English wrestler in Convention hall, Kansas City, and the officials of the Missouri Athletic club this afternoon called the English champion an offer for a match on December 28, winner to receive 75 percent of the purse.

Gotch in a letter today offered to meet Monro at any time before January 5, when he starts on his trip to Europe.

"I expect to leave America January 16," Gotch wrote. "I won't meet Monro in England. If he wants his match he must come to America. If this match is arranged it will be my last championship bout for a year and perhaps forever. I will engage only in exhibition matches while abroad."

In a recent letter Monro stated that he would pay his own expenses to come to America for a match with Gotch and that the latter might name the terms.

RALPH K. MULFORD WINS VANDERBILT CUP RACE

American Entrant, Driving Lozier Car, Breaks All Previous Records in Capturing Coveted Trophy.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire] Grand Prize Race Course, Savannah, Ga., Nov. 27.—When a white streak flashed by the judges stand today at the finish of the seventh Vanderbilt cup race, the American automobile world hailed Ralph K. Mulford, driver of a Lozier car, as a new champion.

Not only had Mulford lowered all previous Vanderbilt records, but he also had surpassed the Santa Monica performance of Harvey Herrick, who covered 242 miles at an average of 74.63 miles an hour.

At that he was pushed to win the nerve-racking 250-mile contest by Ralph DePalma, the brilliant driver of a French Mercedes. DePalma finished just a little more than two minutes behind the winner and eight minutes in advance of the other Mercedes entrant—Spencer Wishart, who finished third.

Only six of the fourteen cars that started finished. Bob Burman and David Bruce-Brown, winner of last year's grand prize race, were among those forced to drop out through defects of their machines.

The race was run without the excitement of the usual toll of life. Among numerous accidents which befell contestants in the detritment of their chances to possess the coveted trophy, only one imperiled life and limb. A rear wheel on Bruce-Brown's Fiat car flew off after a turn had been taken at slow speed. Bruce-Brown and his mechanic escaped unhurt.

Bob Burman was the victim of hard luck. He had just driven his Marmon around the seventh lap in record time, one minute and a half behind Mulford, the leader, when a loose stone struck the gasoline tank connection and broke it. Burman abandoned the race.

Joe Patchke, driver of the other Marmon entry, also was running a good race when an air pump gave way on the ninth lap and forced him out of the contest. Joe Matson took his Fiat back to camp when a leaky radiator threatened the destruction of his engine by fire.

Mulford said tonight he owed his victory largely to good luck with tires. He made but one change. DePalma was less fortunate, being compelled to stop four times for new tires and at the finish he was running practically on the rim of one wheel.

DePalma took the lead at the beginning of the race and held it for four laps. Then Mulford passed him and was never headed. The former's tire began to wobble immediately after he had made two relayed rounds of the second and third laps, which he made in 13:14 and 13:16 respectively.

He was leading Mulford by forty-three seconds at the end of the fourth lap. On the next round Mulford was one minute and forty seconds ahead of him. Then Mulford gradually pulled away while DePalma was working with his tires until he was almost six minutes ahead in the eighth.

At the beginning of the seventeenth and last lap Mulford was but a scant two minutes ahead and the spectators arose and cheered him as he dashed by for the finish. Like an angry wolf on his trail DePalma's beautiful blue-gray Mercedes swerved around the curve at a 75-mile clip and literally flew down the straight-away in a vain pursuit.

"No 8 (Mulford) in the stretch," cried the announcer. The crowd rose as one and strained eager eyes toward the spot, half a mile away, where the victory shot into sight. The elapsed time of the six cars that finished the race was as follows:

Lozier (Ralph Mulford) 2:36:06
Mercedes (Ralph DePalma) 2:38:11.35
Mercedes (Spencer Wishart) 2:40:30.37
Lozier (Harry Grant) 2:40:35.57
Fiat (R. H. Barker) 2:41:25.15
Pope-Hummer (Louis Dismore) 2:49:02.65

The average speed of the winner was 74.67 miles an hour. His time for the 252 miles against Herrick's record, was 74.9. Herrick's record was 74.63.

The record for former Vanderbilt cup races was 65.68 miles, held by Harry Grant, winner of the 1909 and 1910 races, who finished fourth today. No new world record was being up today except that for 252 miles, as Nazario averaged 71.5 miles for 528 kilometers in the race for the Florida cup in France in 1908.

Hugh Hughes, driving a Mercer, broke the former Vanderbilt record today in winning the Savannah challenge trophy light car race, traveling 222.53 miles at an average speed of 68.4 miles per mile.

Seven cars participated in this race, which was run simultaneously with the Tideman trophy contest light cars, previous to the Vanderbilt race.

Frank Whitcomb, E. M. F. to victory in the Tideman at an average speed of 57.34, for the 71.40 miles. E. M. F. cars also won the second and third places in this race. Mortimer Roberts was leading by ten minutes in an Abbott-Detroit, when a broken crankshaft broke his race after he had gone 100 miles.

Trotters Bring Small Prices.
New York, Nov. 27.—Small prices ruled for trotters and pacers at the opening today of the annual Old Glory horse sale. The highest figure of the day $1,575, was paid by J. B. Lawrence of Plainfield, N. J., for Star Patch, a bay gelding by Bourbon Patchen-Lady.

During the week 140 horses will be sold, many of them animals of high quality.

ARIZONA TEAM IS DUE TO ARRIVE TOMORROW

Train From El Paso Will Bring Football Heroes of Cactus State; Bryan Silver Cup On Display Today.

The University of Arizona football squad under command of old Coach Ship will leave Tucson this evening over the Southern Pacific and will arrive in El Paso tomorrow morning. They will immediately take train for Albuquerque arriving in this city on the north bound El Paso train tomorrow night. The Cactus athletes are said to be in prime condition for the Thanksgiving contest, and ready to put up a better game than they have played yet this year. The same can be said of New Mexico's team, as no team has played the locals when they have been in prime condition during the whole season. If they had a different tale would have been told about the El Paso, Las Cruces and Roswell games.

The famous Bryan silver cup for which the gridiron warriors of the two universities of the two new states will contest at Traction park Thursday afternoon arrived in the city yesterday and after being prepared for exhibition will today be placed so that all can see it in one of the great Rosenwald windows on Central avenue.

It is now two years since this cup resided in Albuquerque, and if the intentions of the variety football players count for anything it will never leave again.

In spite of the cold weather the ticket buyers were out again yesterday, day selling the leather colored, football shaped tickets to the big game. Further than this other arrangements were also made for the reception of the University of Arizona men. Manager Lemke was out on the Traction park field early yesterday afternoon measuring off the ground, that the goal posts can be moved, the field placed in a better position and the grand stand so situated that all there in may obtain a first-class view of the famous football battle.

As soon as the goal posts are in place, the field will be wired. The wiring will be placed so as to clear the side lines five feet, thus giving plenty of room for the line men to work without being bothered by the crowd, and at the same time giving room for a player to stop if he sees that he is running out of bounds. Games heretofore played on the Traction park field have been largely handicapped by the fact that when a player attempted to make a wide end run he failed, simply because of the crowd along the side lines.

In the High school-Mercer game last Saturday this was especially noticeable. Grimmer, in making an attempt at a run around right end, had to turn more quickly than he otherwise would because of the crowd.

As a result he failed to get away and only made fifteen yards where had the crowd been back into its proper place, he could have easily outen away for a touchdown.

The New Mexico cheering section composed of the variety students and the Albuquerque High school, well supplied with pennants and megaphones, will be banded in and around the west end of the bleachers on the south side of the field. This section will be in charge of John Wychette Miller of the U. N. M., who will lead the cheering.

The automobile section will be placed on the north side of the playing field and a competent cheer leader will be picked in charge of this section. The best place for spectators to see the contest will be from the sides. There will be plenty of room, and a number of line men will be placed in charge of the side lines to keep the crowd back of the wires so all can see.

In the cracking, blistering cold wind that came down from the mountains to the east and swept across the football field at old U. N. M., the picture horses under the canvas and watchful eye of Coach Hutchinson went through some marvellously executed plays yesterday afternoon. The snapping was good, the kicking broadside to the wind was better than was expected. All in all, the practice was most satisfactory. Hunter was out yesterday, and with Collins, Woodbridge, Strome and Carls showed splendid class on the practice field.

PITCHER CASHION IS BIGGEST PLAYER IN BASEBALL

Washington Club Confident It Has Secured a "Find" in Giant Twirler; Yet to Be Developed.

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal] Washington, Nov. 26.—In Carl Cashion the Washington club has the biggest man playing baseball. Though not yet twenty-one years old, Cashion stands 6 feet 2 inches in his stocking feet and the beam at 207 striped. Nor is there anything lumbering about this giant. He is fast on his feet, graceful in his movements and yet strong as an ox.

If ever a young man had all the physical requirements to make a great pitcher Cashion seems to be the one. When he reported here last fall he had pitched probably twenty-five games, the first pitching he had ever indulged in, yet his debut here was a victory over the great Ed Walsh. In this game Cashion showed his prowess as a hitter, driving out three clean singles, every one of which cut a figure in the score. True, Cashion was far from a finished twirler. He was wild and did not get all he should out of those long arms, but for all that he had the speed of a Johnson and created the impression that he would in time become a famous pitcher.

Mike Kahoe, who picked up the youngster for a song, believes that the day will come when Cashion will be the class of pitchers known as unbeatable, and it would not surprise the Nationals' scout if that all came about before the next season is over.

Kahoe looks for Cashion to show a lot of improvement next season. He believes that when Griffith takes him in hand and teaches him the art of pitching he will come to the front rapidly.

"Why shouldn't he make the greatest of pitchers?" inquired Kahoe. "Where do you find a fellow with so much natural ability and no experience? Johnson was sincere in his statement last year in which he said Cashion had more speed than he, and if that is true he will have a whole lot more when he learns to handle himself properly. I have been in base ball twenty years, more or less, and in that time I have never seen a better prospect than Cashion. He seems to me to be a pitcher in the making. If an artist wanted to paint a picture of an ideal physique for a pitcher Cashion would be the finest model in the country."

The only fault just now in lack of control. He was hit hard on several occasions last season because he had to let up to get the ball over. But he will get over this falling when he has had a little more experience. The fact should not be forgotten that last year was the first Cashion ever tried to make himself a pitcher.

Rube Marquard, the Giants' left-handed pitcher, is the owner of a big yellow automobile. It is driven by a chauffeur in yellow liveries with a footman to match. Marquard is said to have purchased the car with his share of the world's series money. He has given up the plan to become an actor and intends to take life easy all winter.

Here's the way the eagle-eyed base ball scouts got fooled:

"Back in 1909 I was trying to pick up some promising young talent in the Southern League for the St. Louis Browns," said Jack O'Connor. "One afternoon I saw a shortstop named Ellum in action with the Birmingham club. He looked another Wallace that day, accepted a dozen chances in flawless fashion, coming in and going out on a ball perfectly and grabbing them on the right and left sides in flawless style. He also batted like a fella. I thought he was a grand base and stole R. L. Hedges that night that I had discovered a real 18-carat ball player. Before buying Ellum I decided to watch him work in a series. Ellum never played another good game while I was keeping tabs on him. He must have played all the ball he had in his system in that one game. A week later Tommy McCarthy, scouting for Cincinnati, came south to look over Ellum. I told him that I thought the kid didn't cover enough ground for the big league. But Tommy had the 'dope' on Ellum's one great game and bought him. Ellum joined the Reds in the spring of 1910, but failed to make the team."

"Babe" Adams of Pittsburgh and Grover Cleveland Alexander of Philadelphia were the kidnapping kids in the National League last season, each twirling seven shut-out victories. Southpaw Ed Plank of the Athletics set the pace in the American League with the same number of shut-outs to his credit.

Adams, who is a Missouri boy, blanked Cincinnati in the first game of the season, April 23, he applied another lovely coat of whitewash to Griffith's Reds and May 30, Decoration day, he whitewashed Chicago. Adams smeared whitewash all over Brooklyn June 10, and exactly one month later he slipped Bill Dahlen's Brooklyn Superbas another package of zeros. Boston failed to score a run off Adams August 28, and October 7 the Pittsburgh right-hander twirled his second shut-out victory against Chance's Chicago Cubs.

Unlike Adams, who was more successful as a whitewash artist in the early part of the campaign, Alexander of the Phillies did his heavy smutts with the whitewash brush toward the close of the campaign. "Alek" is one of the greatest twirlers that ever curved a ball over the plate. One year ago he was an unknown minor leaguer. Philadelphia drafted him in the New York State League. Now he is probably the most valuable pitcher in base ball. Alexander pitched his initial shut-out victory in the big league against Brooklyn, May 6. June 26 he let Boston down without a run. From August 22 to September 21 "Alek" twirled five shut-out victories for the Philadelphia club. During that period Alexander pitched the most sensational ball of the year. August 22 he knocked Pittsburgh over by a 2-0 score; September 7 Boston took the count by a 1-0 tally; September 13 Brooklyn fell before Alexander's Great, score 2-0; September 17 "Alek" smothered Cincinnati, score 6-0 and September 21 Grover trimmed Chicago, —0.

CONGRESSMAN BAKER OF CALIFORNIA PASSES THROUGH ALBUQUERQUE

Congressman John E. Baker, of the first congressional district of California, passed through the city last night en route to Washington to attend the next session of congress. He arrived on the Chicago limited, which was late, and immediately transferred to the southbound El Paso train, being desired to take the southern route to Washington through New Orleans.

Mr. Baker enjoys the distinction of being the only democratic representative from the state of California in the nation house of representatives. He hails from Alturas, Modoc county, in the northwestern corner of the state. He is a lawyer by profession and has long been prominent in democratic circles in California. In congress although he has only been a member one session, having been elected in 1910, he is a member of the important committees on public lands, irrigation of arid lands and revision of the laws.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT PRINCE RUPERT, B. C.

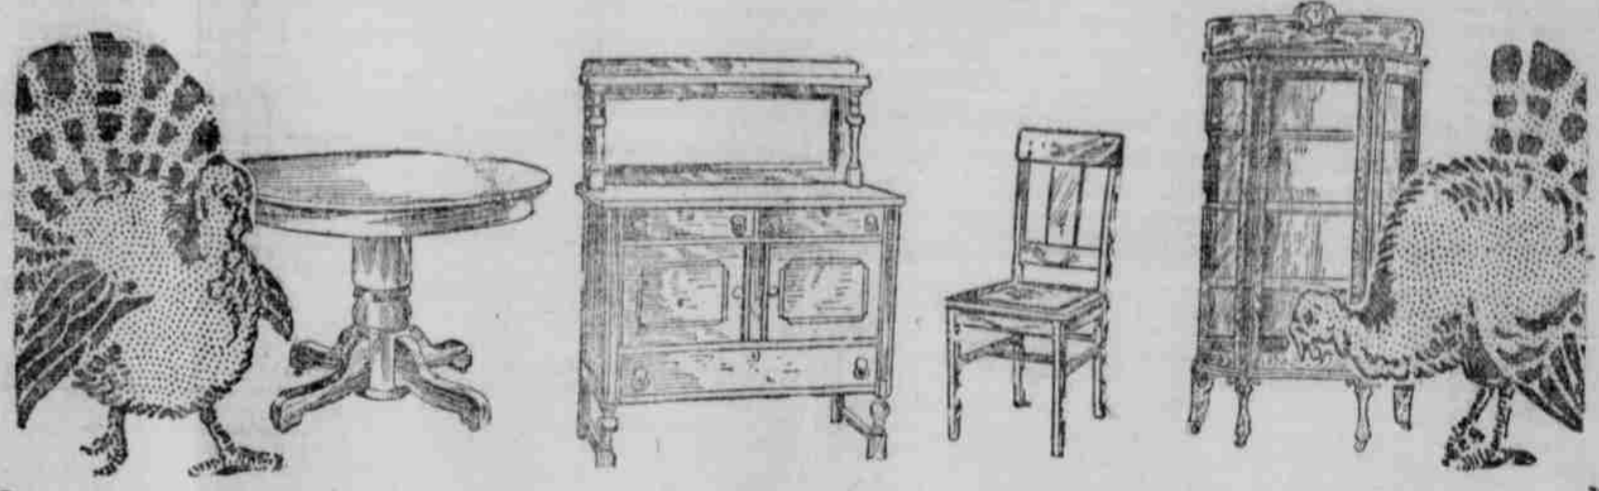

Prince Rupert, B. C., Nov. 27.—The government buildings at Prince Rupert were completely destroyed by fire this afternoon. The registry office is now ablaze and is certainly doomed. All papers were destroyed. The land office also burned but the registrar said most of the papers were in the vault and he believes they are safe. Many old tax records were destroyed.

MYSTERIOUS MESSAGE RECALLS BATTLESHIP

San Francisco, Nov. 27.—Before the battleship Oregon which left this harbor late today for the Bremerton navy yard on Puget Sound, had proceeded far beyond the Golden Gate, she was recalled by wireless on orders from Washington. The Oregon put back into the harbor at dusk tonight.

As the Oregon carries only a skeleton crew and would not be available for immediate service on the Asiatic station it is believed that she is intended for some new line of duty in home waters.

THANKSGIVING SALE

Thoughts on the practical side of Thanksgiving Day will be uppermost in the minds of our readers this morning. Planning and preparation for the dinner begin today. The turkey is to be selected, the pies, the puddings and the other trimmings for the feast must be prepared, and the house must be put in order for the expected guests.

The turkey will not last long, but the dining room furniture will be with you for many years. That's why furniture should possess not only beauty, but QUALITY, so that it may retain both its beauty and utility and be a source of pleasure and service for many years.

Our Furniture is QUALITY FURNITURE. Our uppermost thought in the selection of this large new stock of Furniture has been always Quality, Beauty and Utility.

BROTHER OF JUROR DIES; M'NAMARA TRIAL HALTS

Judge Bordwell Announces Adjournment of Court Over Today, That Bereaved Member May Attend Funeral.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Los Angeles, Nov. 27.—The M'Namara murder trial began its eighth week today with high noon adjournment and adjournment accepted as a case. Tonight it stood in exactly the same position. The day was taken up with the examination of nine witnesses who were accused for one cause or another, and a tenth, who was under examination when court adjourned, but probably will be examined tomorrow.

Opposing counsel stipulated today that all jurors desiring to do so might attend the services. Juror Sexton's resignation from the board of trustees of the city of Alhambra, offered because of his prospective inability to give any attention to business for some months was accepted today by his fellow trustees and another man was named in his stead.

Add to momentary excitement today when a burning fence near the hall of records brought fire companies with bells ringing underneath the very windows of the court room, and scared some of the spectators in the fire-proof structure, the day was marked mainly by the rapid disposition of untried witnesses. These examined, and the reasons therefor, were:

H. V. Houser, 31 years; C. D. Collins, Martin Edmonds and Christian Zellins, actual bias; George W. Cameron, Gus A. Cherry, Frederick L. Brown and H. L. Asher, conscientious scruples against death penalty. Guy D. Rimes, not on assessment rolls.

In getting Zellins off the jury the defense scored by obtaining a reversal of Judge Bordwell that he was qualified to try M'Namara. After opposing counsel and the judge had questioned the man Attorney Clarence A. Burrow, chief of counsel for the defense, in one or two questions established to the satisfaction of the court his contention that the defendant's expressed belief in the cause of the Times explosion was founded on what he saw at the scene of the disaster and as such an opinion disqualifies him under the law. Zellins was excused without the necessity of using a peremptory challenge on him.

HEALTH SEEKERS SHOULD ATTEND MEETING

Tonight's Session of Society For Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis to Be of Especial Value.

Every healthseeker in Albuquerque besides others interested in the study and prevention of tuberculosis, should attend the meeting of the Albuquerque Society for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which is to be held in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Tonight's meeting will be addressed by Dr. Robert Smith, and the Rev. Dr. Tolbert and both these experts on the treatment of this disease have prepared papers for delivery.

It is proposed to hold these meet-

Pure Food or Poor Food?

When so eminent a food expert as Dr. Wiley not only approves, but actually advocates the use of a product, you may be absolutely assured of its purity and healthfulness. In a recent speech Dr. Wiley commended in strongest terms the use of Cotton Oil as one of our most valuable food constituents, stating that undoubtedly better health would follow its general use. Cottonseed—the perfect shortening—has been the leading product in Cotton Oil cooking fats for over a quarter of a century. You will find the doctors all with you when you use Cottonseed in place of hog fat.

Ladies are especially invited to attend tonight's meeting. The auditorium furnishes ample accommodations for a large audience.

ALLEGED PERSECUTION AT HANDS OF MADERO

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 27.—To protest against alleged persecutions in the City of Mexico by President Madero's supporters, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest T. Simondetti left here Sunday for Washington, where they will place their complaints in the hands of the state department. Mr. Simondetti is owner of El Diario, a journal published in the Mexican capital.

Football Conference December 2.
Chicago, Nov. 28.—The western conference in "big eight" football teams will be held in Chicago December 2. Tentative dates for next year's games, the possibility of bringing the University of Michigan into the conference, summer baseball and the relations of Wisconsin and Minnesota will be the question to be settled.

FIVE HUNDRED ATTEND DEVELOP ALASKA DINNER

Seattle, Nov. 27.—Five hundred persons tonight sat down at the "Develop Alaska Dinner," of the chamber of commerce, which was given in the Arctic club, the purpose of the gathering being to further the movement to obtain legislation from congress for the opening of Alaska to settlement and of its resources to development.

In this movement controversial subjects, including coal, timber and form of government have been avoided. The speakers confined themselves to constructive matters, avoiding the unhappy fact on the ground that Alaska's sufferings have been sufficiently exploited and that a better day is dawning.

The principal speakers were former United States Senator John L. Wilson, Episcopal Bishop Peter T. Rowe of Alaska, Dr. Alfred Thompson, member of parliament of Yukon territory, Canada, E. C. Hawkins, chief engineer during the construction of the Copper River railroad and George Baldwin of Valdez, Alaska.

Churches Back Up Mayor.
Chicago, Nov. 27.—Hearty approval of Mayor Harrison's attitude toward the police graft investigation was sounded today by two churches represented in the Chicago church federation. Resolutions declaring for co-operation with the civil service commission were adopted.

BOUNTERIES DINNER FOR GOTHAMITES THANKSGIVING

Over Five Million Dollars Will Be Spent For Good Things to Eat; Half Million For Poor's Dinner.

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal.]
New York, Nov. 28.—Pyramids of blood-red cranberries and piles of pumpkins are blanketing millions of plump turkeys about the markets all over town, as New Yorkers are today making their last preparations for what promises to be the most bounteous Thanksgiving feast in recent years. Orders for food, footing up to over five millions of dollars, have already been placed for this festive meal, while hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of wine, cigars and table luxuries are also being set apart for Thanksgiving day delivery.

Fully half a million dollars is this year to be devoted to providing the poor with a free feast at messes of charitable headquarters about the tenement quarters. Seldom have the people of Gotham prepared for this fall celebration with as lavish a hand and as hopeful a spirit for the future.

Roosevelt's Return to Politics.
Turning an empty editorial sanctum into something very like a crowded political headquarters, hundreds of followers of the fortunes of Theodore Roosevelt are today flocking to his headquarters about the coming campaign for president. Seldom in the history of public life here has any man jumped into general action and reckoning as suddenly as has the ex-president in the short space since his utterance on the trust problem. Though the majority of Roosevelt's fellow citizens believed only a fortnight ago that he was forever politically retired, few men can be found today who do not feel strongly that he is again actively out in the field of politics. Whatever the intentions of the Outlook's editor may be, his office now looks like as busy a party headquarters as ever opened in this city.

Strikes Scarce in Metropolis.
With the floor of all Manhattan Island swept again into a sweet smelling state, New Yorkers are today being reminded of the strike of the street cleaners only by the frantic attempts of the strikers to get back jobs. With the exception of the taxi and express drivers' walk-out, this metropolis has been practically free from hold-up for more than a decade, according to the authorities who are now reviewing the strike situation. Hundreds of thousands of city servants, as well as the thirty thousand men who make the city streets, are today at work, having found on the job regularly for years and years, the records show. The people of this town are beginning to realize, as the garbage flies from its menagerie position on the streets, that fair treatment and wages have in almost every case met a loyal response in steady service by the men whose work is essential to everyone in town.

Crocker's Counsel on the Wane.
Of his grizzled old head over the grave of John F. Carroll, Rich and Crocker has now come to realize that, in his present visit to the town of Tammany, he is the last of the tribe of chiefs that formerly ruled the great political wigwag. With the death of Carroll, to whom he abdicated, Crocker has seen the passing of the last of his former lieutenants. As sole survivor of a dead regime in the democratic stronghold here, the aged chief now can only counsel the younger braves to return from the up-state warpath upon which he almost lost his scalp in his early days.

Trees Topple in Public Parks.
With their roots rotting in a metropolitan subsoil of pipes, sewages and electric conduits, the few surviving trees of Gotham's parks are threatening to tumble to decay, as the great political wigwag. Every effort is being made to check the fatal dissolution of these old soldiers of the broken timber ranks, but the experts now declare that eventually all green growth must be cut out and replaced by new extensions necessary to the life of a great city.

SPECIAL OFFICERS FIGHT; ONE SHOT

Laramie, Wyo., Nov. 27.—Colonel E. Horton, chief of Union Pacific special police here, this afternoon shot and fatally wounded Herbert Baker, chief of the New York force, as the result of a quarrel over room rent. Horton fired four shots, one striking Baker in the chest and another coming through his right hand. Baker has admitted to the authorities that he was in the wrong, saying that he struck Horton on the side of the head with his revolver. Surgeons say Baker cannot live.

YOUTHFUL MURDERER GIVEN LONG SENTENCE

Glenwood Springs, Colo., Nov. 27.—Burdette Smith, 14 years old, was today sentenced by District Judge George C. Hays to serve life in the state penitentiary for the murder of his father last August. The boy had been upbraided by his father for laziness on the farm. An altercation ensued and when the father went to punish his son he fired a shot at him and he was killed. The boy was admitted to the authorities that he was in the wrong, saying that he struck Horton on the side of the head with his revolver. Surgeons say Baker cannot live.

FT. BLISS CONVERTED INTO CAVALRY POST

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 27.—Orders were received at Fort Bliss this morning from the war department at Washington, converting the post from an infantry to a cavalry post. The infantry and cavalry units of the Twenty-third infantry now at the post. The orders from Washington provide for the occupation of the post by headquarters, band, messengers, platoon and company of cavalry. The Twenty-third infantry will probably be sent to Fort Benjamin Harrison at Indianapolis.

PRICELESS COLLECTION OF JEWELS AUCTIONED

Paris, Nov. 27.—What is announced to be the largest sale of jewels on record opened here this afternoon when the priceless collection of Abdul Hamid, ex-sultan of Turkey came under the hammer. Although only a small fraction of the treasures displayed was disposed of today, the receipts reached a total of 2,500,000 francs ($400,000).

The best price paid was for a necklace composed of three rows of 154 pearls and a clasp formed of three rows of brilliant-cut diamonds, valued at 500,000 francs ($81,000). A string of ninety-nine pearls with pendant composed of imperial opal in gold, three large rubies and a pearl shaped drop pearl bracelet, $124,700.

Among other objects two gold coffee cups and saucers, encrusted with diamonds, brought $5,940; a gold alarm clock, set with diamonds, $7,720; a walking stick with a gold and diamond head, $1,000.

The sale, which was attended by all the notable jewellers of Europe, will continue for a fortnight.

SHAFROTH REFUSES TO ENDANGER HIS CHANCES

Denver, Nov. 27.—Fearing that in his absence from the state as well as that of Lieutenant Governor Fitzgerald, Hiram E. Hills, president of the state senate, would call a special session of the legislature to elect a successor to the late senator Charles J. Hughes, Jr., thereby endangering the governor's own chances, Governor Shafer today suddenly reappeared at the state capitol this afternoon, announcing that he had given up his projected trip on the governor's special.

In an interview Hills said that if fifty-one members of the senate asked him to call a special session in Denver, Shafer's absence, at the time stating that they had unanimously agreed upon a senatorial candidate he would call a special session.

Lackawanna Road Indicted

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 27.—A grand jury today indicted Lackawanna and Western railroad for alleged violations of the interstate commerce law as contained in the commodities of the Hepburn act, was returned by a federal jury here today. The indictment alleges that the railroad carried hay which it owned over its line between Buffalo and Scranton, Pa., free for use in its coal mines.

Slayer to Plead Unwritten Law.
Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 27.—Pasquale Marchese, self-confessed murderer of his wife and her cousin, Pasquale Marchese, who is in the county jail here today, avowed with a determination to fight for his liberty. Attorneys have been engaged and it is said his defense will be the "unwritten law."

Trust's Fine Reduced to $25,000.
Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 27.—The supreme court of Missouri today reduced the fine against the International Harvester company from $50,000 to $25,000. Judge Graves and Woodson dissented.

More Kindergarten Urgent Need.
New York, Nov. 27.—The contrast between gifts of $50,000,000 to the city of New York and the fact that there are four million children in the country without the privileges of kindergarten training, was brought out in the report of Miss Bessie Locke, corresponding secretary of the National Kindergarten association, at its annual meeting here today.

GRANTS REQUISITIONS FOR OKLAHOMA BANKERS

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 27.—Governor Sloan honored today the requisition of the governor of Oklahoma for the return to that state of Frank S. Westfall and J. B. Westfall, charged with violation of the banking laws of Oklahoma, by issuing a writ of habeas corpus for the release of the two men.

The requisition of the condition of the Creek bank and trust company of Saltpine, in which they were interested at the time of the alleged offense. Frank S. Westfall and his wife were in Phoenix until last Friday since which time they have not been seen and their whereabouts are unknown to the officials. The sheriff of Saltpine left for Oklahoma tonight with J. B. Westfall in charge.

It was estimated that the Oklahoma charge is the result of political persecution.

Taft's Message Ready FOR CABINET'S O. K.

Washington, Nov. 27.—President Taft's annual message to congress was typed out in record time at the government printing office here today. Corrections made by the president and Secretary Tamm early today allowed the message to go to the printers shortly before 1 o'clock.

SCHEFFELS DECEIVED PURCHASERS OF STOCK

New York, Nov. 27.—Moritz Scheffels, president of the Scheffels Banking and Trust company of Reno, Nevada, which acted as depository for the stock of the Rawhide Coalition company, testified today in the trial of George Graham Rice and B. H. Scheffels and others, who are charged with maintaining a bucket shop, that he had been taken up by Nat C. Goodwin and company at twenty cents a share and said that when Goodwin withdrew from the firm, B. H. Scheffels and company continued to take up the stock in the same manner.

Corpus of the Mining and Financial News, edited by Rice, which spoke of the superior quality of Rawhide Coalition stock was placed in evidence.

The prosecutor said as a result of these articles hundreds of persons had bought the stock all the way from thirty cents to $1.50 a share.

A check market letter received by the Scheffels, urging people to buy Rawhide Coalition and stating that Scheffels had no interest in the stock, also was placed in evidence.

LOBSTERS CREATE NEAR PANIC IN CENTRAL OREGON

Arrival of the Deep Water Favorites of the Great White Way Paralyzes Curiosity of Natives.

[Special Correspondence to Morning Journal.]
Portland, Ore., Nov. 27.—Lobsters have at last come to central Oregon. They followed the advent of the railroads and caused almost equal excitement. A cafe in the Mid-Oregon city of Bend has just offered lobsters and crabs for the first time and the town was thrown into a lull.

In the old days, when all communication with the outside world was by stage, such succulent delicacies were unknown to the interior. The long stage ride was too unhealthy for the sea denizens for the ice would have melted within a short distance of the Columbia river.

So the actual advent of the shellfish nonplussed the oldest residents, who had never seen such things before. Only a few weeks ago many residents of Bend had never seen a locomotive and were awestricken when the first one puffed into town. They knew what to expect, though, for they had read of engines and trains, but the sight of such weird things as lobsters and crabs, that looked like huge, overgrown insects, was too much for the comprehension of the populace at first. It took time to get over the shock.

Cowpunchers, sheepherders, ranchers and local townspeople were stumped by the novel sight. A steady procession of people oozed through the cafe doors to gather information as to the origin of the strange crustaceans. The assistant to the chef was as stumped as the natives. He knew the lobsters were lobsters, because the chef told him so, but he suspected they were caught in Portland and so informed the sightseers.

The crabs, he thought, had been speared at Celilo Falls, although he was not sure.

The strange objects were a nine-day wonder, and it was not until after considerable urging that the local sports were induced to eat them.

Greek Fugitive's Victims Die.
San Francisco, Nov. 27.—Patrolman Thomas Finnely shot yesterday by Paulus Prandengos, died late today. Charles F. Castor, also a patrolman, who was shot in the same fight, died last night. Prandengos was arrested for the murder of a man in Volos, Greece, two years ago.

Denver, Nov. 27.—At a meeting of the Denver convention league today it was decided to send a delegation of six to Washington to make a fight before the Republican National Executive committee to get the next republican national convention for Denver. The delegation will pledge $75,000 to pay the convention's expenses.

Denver Has Food Trust.
Denver, Nov. 27.—A federal grand jury here is investigating the existence of an alleged food trust in this city. A large number of witnesses have been subpoenaed and their testimony, it is said, deals largely with the alleged ring among wholesale produce dealers.

Bride Refused to Obey.
Elgin, Ill., Nov. 27.—"I would not promise to obey any man," Mrs. Mabel Walter Hough of Portland, Ore., told her fiancée, Henry Rousseau, when he proposed to her several weeks ago. So the fiancée bought two tickets for Elgin, Illinois, where Police Magistrate George R. Thompson has revived a wedding ritual, in which the clause "cherish and protect" is substituted for "obey." They were married here late today.

SECRET EXPERIMENTS BY WRIGHTS

So many extravagant stories have been printed concerning the interesting experiments with a new glider, which the Wright brothers have been making of late at Kill Devil Hill, N. C., that Popular Mechanics Magazine recently sent an authority on aviation to North Carolina to write an accurate and complete description of the machine and of results secured, together with an expert analysis of the technical significance of the work. The expert reported on the experiments as follows:

"To those who were so fortunate as to see the flights with the new glider, even to the technical experts who have some idea how they are accomplished, it was nevertheless little short of miraculous to observe the Wright structure of wood, wire and canvas, apparently under the absolute control of the operator, with no visible source of power, perform its amazing feats. To see it poised itself for seconds, even minutes, at a time, apparently in defiance of the laws of gravitation, then advance steadily into the teeth of a driving gale, which by all that seemed reasonable, should have driven it backward again, finally, to see it come down, back up, and settle with hardly a tremor, at the starting point, had all the seeming of something miraculous."

"At other times in the course of the trials, a most pretty sight was the extreme manipulation of the wing warping to balance the frail craft as it hung suspended in the invisible medium that so securely supported it. And again, there were graceful, swooping maneuvers and hair-raising dives, by which the younger Wright brother exhibited his seemingly complete mastery over the element that from the beginning of time has been regarded as the particular realm of the creatures of the air, with whose dominion of the atmosphere ocean it was so long supposed mankind could not hope to dispute.

"The glider has been tested by releasing it from a hilltop into winds ranging up to 50 miles an hour, every condition being especially selected to secure the utmost possible advantage from the strongly-rising wind, as it is deflected upward by the slope of the hill. It is a well-understood effect of sloping ground that it upwards deflects wind flowing over it.

"The results secured were quite what would be expected. At times, when the balance between the normal gliding speed of the machine and the velocity of the wind happened to be just right, the airplane would poise itself in a maintained position over the ground, without advancing or receding. On one occasion it thus hovered for about ten minutes. At other times it would rise or fall without horizontal displacement, and then again it would drift back or glide ahead, as fluctuations in the wind facilitated these maneuvers. At all times it exhibited the positiveness and certainty of control, for steering, balancing, and landing, which is a feature of the Wright power machines—and, indeed, of many others. Yet, that the performance was not as wholly new as it has been heralded, except in the degree of its accomplishment, is attested in the Wrights' own reports of their first gliding experiments, communicated to the Smithsonian Institute and to the Western Society of Engineers, in which there is mention of brief hovering and gain of height in winds blowing up sloping ground."

A LITTLE LAY SERMON.

A murderer the other day, in the shadow of death, confessed his crime for the "purpose of standing right with God and man." That is a splendid reason for doing anything, for nobody inspired by that sentiment does deeds which ought not to be done, comments the Kansas City Journal, editorially. Of course, the real time to "stand right with God and man" is at the very beginning, long before evil deeds have brought the evidence to the bar of justice. But the condemned murderer, shrinking on the brink of death from going out into the great silence with falsehood in his soul, is not by any means the only one to whom the truth applies. He has received his full heed of denunciation—perhaps more. He has paid the dread, utter penalty and perhaps it would be well to turn from his grave to face the thronging millions of those upon whom the obligation rests quite as strongly and who are possibly doing very little more than he to fulfill it.

One might begin at the beginning and say that the best way to "stand right" is to stand straight up. The more one thinks of it, the more he is impressed with the reflection that people do not walk into evil with their heads erect and their eyes looking upward. They creep and sink and skulk and crawl into evil, with their eyes on the ground and not on the stars. Sometimes people have fallen into snares they might have escaped if they had kept their eyes open a little wider and had them turned in the proper direction. But this discussion concerns itself with deliberate evil. Standing straight up, therefore, is at least the right preliminary attitude toward standing right.

Standing right with God and man is much more easily said than done. It represents the sum of all human effort and aspiration. The two cannot be wholly dissociated, though superficially the connection may not always be apparent. People who stand right with God are often "wrong" with men, and the converse is certainly true. Motives are often misconstrued and even facts are distorted by men. On general principles it may be asserted that the one who stands right with God can well afford to disregard human judgments, though complete accord is desirable.

The best way to "stand right" with God or man is just to stand right, by doing right, which instantly and automatically receives the reward of divine approval and ultimately, even if tardily, receives the sanction of the consensus of all the best human approbation. Standing right with God and man is not a matter of idle speculation and dilettante philosophizing. Sometimes it comes home with startling emphasis.

ORIGIN OF GAME LAWS.

Game legislation in this country has had an interesting history. Deer were the first game animals to be protected. As early as 1769 a law was passed in South Carolina forbidding their destruction during the months from January to July, while Vermont prescribed the same closed season for deer in 1797.

Massachusetts in 1817 protected deer during a similar season, followed by Virginia in 1820. Little other legislation, except in New Jersey in 1846, is found until after 1850, when Missouri, Ohio, Alabama and California prescribed closed seasons, and Delaware in 1852 prohibited the killing of deer at any time.

In the '60s came Kentucky with protection for females only, and later Illinois, Kansas, Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Minnesota followed, the last state including elk in its protective measures.

The earliest instance which has been found in the United States of an enactment to protect fur-bearing animals is that prescribing the closed season for the muskrat, in Vermont in 1812. It was a prohibition which covered practically the entire year, it being lawful to take the muskrat from March 15 to May 25.

Ohio protected the muskrat in 1850, and New Hampshire in 1843, promptly and evidently by a desire to be rid of certain undesirable animals, passed a law providing for the "destruction of noxious animals and the preservation of game," the game referred to being the muskrat, beaver, mink and otter.

During the '70s and '80s a number of states incorporated into their statutes sections forbidding the use of any gun other than such as is commonly raised from the shoulder and fired at arm's length, such legislation having become necessary because of the use by pot hunters and even so-called sportsmen of the aerial gun in shooting wild fowl.

Today New Mexico ranks in at the head of those states having adequate state laws for the protection of wild game, and he is said the game laws are being enforced.

"ELKS' CHRISTMAS TREE."

It is pleasant to think that the delightful custom of having an "Elks' Christmas tree" is not to be abandoned, at least not this year. Out of the noise and bustle comes word that the Elks have remembered the season, and the opportunities presented by it for giving the children of Albuquerque a big treat at Elks' theater. The Elks are making preliminary arrangements and may modify custom insofar as the sending of baskets of provisions and wearing apparel to the homes of the needy is concerned. This would seem very wise in the light of experience. The primary object of the "Elks' Christmas tree" is not that of charity but of remembrance. It is to see that the boys and girls of the city enjoy the real spirit of the holiday season and that every youngster in this big community shall have something for which to thank Santa Claus.

From the very nature of things, the Elks are not equipped to engage in relieving the distress of the needy. There are other associations that assume to do this exclusively, and if there are any funds to spare after providing for the children these funds should be turned over to special charity organizations. It would detract from the real spirit of the celebration in Elks' theater if the stigma of charity were put upon it. The children are the first objects of solicitude on the part of the Elks' Christmas tree and if they are properly taken care of it will be a full day's work.

Let the regular charity organizations see to it that there is no real physical distress in the city on Christmas and let the Elks' Christmas tree committee see that the hearts of the youngsters in this big and prosperous community are made light by the actual presence of Santa Claus in Elks' theater.

PERPETUAL PUMP WILL BE GIVEN TRY-OUT

B. B. Bonner, Wealthy Sheep Man, to Thoroughly Test Invention of Roswell Genius; Other Pecos Valley Notes.

(Special Correspondence in Morning Journal)

Roswell, N. M., Nov. 26.—The perpetual pump for irrigation purposes, invented by J. T. Skinner, of this city, has at last been adopted by a man of means and will be given a thorough test. B. B. Bonner, a sheep breeder living up the Pecos, has bought one of the machines from the inventor and will set it up on his ranch to irrigate his alfalfa and water his sheep. The pump is a wheel that once started pumps a stream that flows into a tank above and then runs out over the land, making the operation of the pump endless and without future cost of operation. The result of the test is being watched with great interest by all farmers and stockmen.

"Hillie" Devin, Old-Timer, Dead.
H. Devin, better known as "Hillie" Devin, died yesterday at Colfax, Ia., where he went last summer for treatment for cancer. "Hillie" Devin has been a resident of Roswell for twenty years and of the southwest for forty years. He was an old Indian fighter and as such received a pension from Uncle Sam. He was owner at the time of his death of considerable business property in Roswell and Clovis, N. M., and is known all over the southwest among the old-timers.

Returns to Old Burro Train.
Wade Corn, owner of 3,500 sheep in the north end of this county, is returning from the use of wagons to the old time, native burro in handling his flocks. He says that the burro train is easier and more cheaply handled than a wagon and horses or mules and that the old time natives knew their business in following this plan. Seven burros with 400 pounds in the pack of each, will take care of a big outfit as a four-horse team. The burros will pick their own living as they go. He was here today buying pack saddles and burro outfits to return to the habit of his father of thirty years ago.

Good Bottom for New Road.
Prospect holes have been dug from one end to the other of the new street road across the Mesquero sands and Engineer J. V. Lewis says that he can find good material for a dirt road within two feet of the surface at almost any point on the proposed route. The survey was completed yesterday. The actual construction will start this week.

District Court in Recess.
Judge Wm. H. Pope is at Santa Fe, acting as a member of the board of canvassers in the recent state election, the other members being Governor Mills and Secretary Jaffa. Court will be re-opened upon his return.

New Factory for Roswell.
A bridge, bit and spur factory may be located in Roswell. Wallace Brown, of Carlsbad, is here seeking a location for such an institution and has already decided that Roswell fills all the requirements. A suitable building is all that is yet needed to land the factory.

Change in Auto Time Table.
Beginning today the auto from Roswell to Vaughn, with daily mail and passenger service, will leave Roswell at 10:15 a. m. instead of 12:30 p. m. In order to catch the train into El Paso and Albuquerque, going west, and to Amarillo and all Texas points, going east. The Roswell bound car will continue to leave Vaughn at the same time as heretofore.

Plumber Sells Out for $16,000.
J. E. Mitchell today sold his plumbing establishment, including the two-story building in which it is located, to F. M. Ayte of Phoenix, Ariz., for $16,000.

SEVEN DOLLARS PER TON PAID FOR BEAR GRASS

Farmers in Eastern New Mexico Making Good Wages Cutting and Marketing Natural Hay Crop.

(Portales Times)

H. A. Shonkwiler, of the American Manufacturing company, of St. Louis, was here last week offering to buy bear grass for his company. He has made arrangements with Joyce-Pruitt company to buy this product and ship it to St. Louis, so there is a market here now for all the bear grass the farmers want to bring in. The American Manufacturing company has been buying this product at points in New Mexico for the past year and they must find it profitable to market this natural product of the plains as they are keeping at work shipping the product. A firm in Tucuman and another in Logan are each shipping several car loads a week and another firm at Fort Sumner is getting a big lot ready to ship. The price offered is seven dollars a ton delivered at the railway station baled. Mr. Shonkwiler has been in this work some time and says that fairly good wages can be made by the farmers gathering and baling this product. A new bear grass device has been developed which handles the grass successfully

This Girl Recovered from Consumption

The success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which is doing so much good for Consumption, is continually in receipt of really wonderful reports of cures brought about surely through the use of this medicine. These reports are always at the command of anyone interested, and many of the cures in these columns have suggested that like sufferers write direct and learn what it did for them. Here is one specimen:

"Gentlemen: Pardon me for not writing sooner, but I wanted to see if I would stay cured. I never have any pain, no cough, no night sweats, no hay-fever. Since a child of two years I have been ailing with lung trouble, which grew worse as I grew older. At the age of fourteen the doctor said if I could not be sent South, I would surely die of Consumption. Every winter I would be sure to have either Bronchitis, Pleurisy, or Pneumonia. I had Typhoid Pneumonia one time, I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels and had Hay Fever for the last few years; but have had nothing of the kind this year. I will answer all letters sent to me, asking a history of my case, from any one suffering from lung trouble. I am sure that many thanks to you, your grateful friend, ETTA PLATH.

(Signed) ETTA PLATH.

Eight years later reports that well-known Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poison, opium or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet of cures and write to E. C. Knapp, Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists and Highland Pharmacy and Alvarado Pharmacy in Albuquerque.

and he says arrangement has been made to have some of these bales here in a short time. From experience it has been found that two men can bale three tons a day with this baler, so figuring wages at the customary rate it will not cost over a dollar a ton for baling, including the cost of wire and a reasonable service for the baler. From experience it has been proven that it can be cut on the prairie for about a dollar a ton. The outfit is done with an ax. First it is split and then cut off just at the base of the leaves. It must then lay flat. It is dried which will take about sixty days. Then the baler can be set at a convenient place and the grass baled. If it is put in bales of 250 pounds each, it can be cut for a dollar a ton and baled for a dollar a ton, the other five dollars a ton should pay good wages for hauling the stuff to the baler and hauling the bales to market. We believe that farmers who have this baler grass on their farms or can gather it near by their homes can make as good wages as they could go away from home to work. Then if they go away to work they should consider the inconvenience of being away from home, the expense of going and coming and the extra living expense while gone. We understand that several farmers are now cutting and more expect to commence work soon. The baler can be built for twenty dollars and our baler would probably serve the purpose for several farmers.

Mr. Shonkwiler says that the proposition made nearly a year ago of building a third ton for the baler grass was made on a basis that the leaves be all cut from the root crown. In their work trying out the best method of getting this stuff in shape for shipping they find this is not a practical way of handling it. It takes so much work to cut the leaves loose from the root and then it is so hard to handle and bale after the leaves are all loose that it is impractical to try to market the stuff in this way. When the leaves are fast to the root it is easier to bale and to easier for the company to handle after they have it at the mill. The part of the root that goes with the leaves makes additional weight, and this state they only pay seven dollars a ton. As to the use it is put to at the mill, Mr. Shonkwiler says they make fiber out of it and that is all he will say. However, he says it is not for the manufacture of paper by his company. His company makes all kinds of cordage and bagging.

JOHN H. CANNING LEAVES NEW MEXICO FOR CALIFORNIA

(Carrizozo News.)

John H. Canning and wife left Wednesday morning for their new home in Peris, Cal. Their many friends regret keenly to see them leave Carrizozo. Mr. Canning has been one of the first citizens of the county, prominent as merchant in White Oaks, Nogal and Carrizozo. At the latter place he has managed the Carrizozo Trading company store until a recent date. Mr. Canning has been prominent also in the political affairs of the county, was a delegate from here to the constitutional convention and has held several county offices in the many years he has been a resident of the county. He has been especially active in the upbuilding of the town of Carrizozo and a loyal citizen on every occasion. They don't make better citizens than "John," Peris, Cal., where Mr. Canning will engage in the mercantile business, again what Lincoln county loses in his going. A mighty fine man.

NEXT ATTRACTION AT ELKS HIT OF SEASON

Traveling Salesman, Which Comes Here Saturday Night, is Scoring Triumph at Every Successive Appearance.

The next attraction at the Elks' theater will be "The Traveling Salesman," by James Forbes, author of "The Chorus Lady." "The Traveling Salesman" comes on Saturday night. The play is a comedy written around the life and characteristics of the American "drummer," and so truly has the author drawn his characters that the United Traveling Men's association have endorsed the play, it is said. The action begins at Grand Crossing, a western city, on Christmas day. "Bob Blake," a drummer, is disgusted with the town and he goes to the depot to find out when the next train leaves. He meets "Beth Elliott," the agent and operator. She asks where he wants to go and he says "back;" then he tries to get friendly and Beth reminds him that he is a stranger. "I can remedy that," he replies, but Beth turns to receive a message and Blake realizes that she is not one to be trifled with. The message is for Blake, making an appointment, and Blake instructs Beth to answer the sender and say that he will wait for him at Grand Crossing.

Blake members he is hungry; that it is Christmas and makes inquiries as to the nearest restaurant. Something about him appeals to Beth, and after awhile they get a little better acquainted. She extends an invitation to eat dinner with her. She brings on a basket and they sit down on a bench to a "buffet lunch" as he calls it. Beth hands him a turkey sandwich which is almost invisible. "Aren't they wearing the bread thin in sandwiches this year?" he remarks as they settle down to a jolly feast, and it isn't long before Beth learns that he is a "drummer" traveling for a firm that is represented in Grand Crossing by Franklin Royce, an admirer of Beth's. He hears from her why she is working and that a piece of land that she owns known as "Elk's Stone Pit" is to be sold for unpaid taxes. Beth places a sentimental value on the land as it is all her father left her, and Blake determines to buy in the land for her at the sale. He does not learn until later that the railroad company while Beth's land for contemplated improvements, when he also learns that Franklin Royce and Martin Drury intend purchasing the land and selling it to the railroad company. His efforts to frustrate the plans of Royce and Drury furnish the dramatic thread of the story, and his successful wooing of Beth provides a delightful love interest. One of the amusing comedy incidents is the introduction of a poker game that is sold to be highly amusing. Don MacMillan, an actor of much experience, will be seen as "Bob Blake," and "Beth Elliott" will be played by Dorothy Grey.

NEW YORK'S WEALTHY SAILORS' SNUG HARBOR

On the ground that they are hampered by the terms of the 110-year-old will of Captain Robert Richard Randall, founder of Sailors' Snug Harbor on Staten Island, the trustees of that institution are preparing to bring suit against the Attorney General of New York state to get a decision permitting them to break the will and sell part of the enormous estate.

The value of the holdings of Sailors' Snug Harbor in Manhattan is estimated to be $21,499,406. The land and buildings on Staten Island are valued at $1,688,500, and the Manhattan property, which is between Eighth and Tenth streets, between Fifth avenue and the Bowery, is estimated to be worth $12,810,500. The annual income from the estate is only $550,823, or a return of 2 1/2 per cent. The trustees think that by being permitted to sell part of the estate they will be able to improve the remainder so that the income can be brought up to a respectable figure, representing a fair return on the property involved. It is hoped that the case will be brought into the courts and decided by next June.

FOWLER IS OPPOSED TO ABSORPTION OF CONGRESS

President of National Irrigation Organization Fighting Proposed Merger With Swamp Land Reclamation Movement

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 26.—Benjamin A. Fowler, of Phoenix, president of the Nineteenth National Irrigation congress, is unalterably opposed to merging that organization with the swamp land reclamation movement, supported by railroads and other powerful interests in the south, and is lining up the forces in the western country to present a strong front at the annual meeting in Chicago, December 5 to 9. Mr. Fowler says in an authorized statement:

"The National Irrigation congress is a western institution, peculiarly and particularly interested in the Pacific slope and inter-mountain states, yet broad enough in its scope and purpose to cover the continent in the policy of bringing the landless man in touch with the landless land. To devote itself entirely to the reclamation of swamp lands, as has been suggested, would be suicidal, and to make that its chief work would not be in keeping with its aims.

"Far better would it be, if the south is in earnest about making its swamp lands habitable, to organize a separate association for the reclamation of lands by drainage. The western states would welcome such a movement and would gladly join hands with the south and give financial assistance as well as moral support and co-operation.

"I do not hold a brief for the west, so I do not speak officially for the numerous interests; but from what I know of the people and from conversations I have had with leaders in irrigation and actual irrigation farmers, I should say that the merger movement will arouse strong opposition at the Chicago meeting.

"Irrigation has been, now is and always will be the greatest factor in the upbuilding of the western country; in fact, I may say without fear of successful contradiction that there is no other agency associated with the development of agriculture in the west, and the geographical term in its broad sense, which comprises or ever will comprise with the practice of intelligent irrigation.

"The chief function of the National Irrigation congress is the reclamation of waste lands by irrigation. It cannot be converted into a drainage association by a mere sweep of the pen or a rising vote. Moreover, the two movements can never be satisfactorily merged.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

Wall Street.

New York, Nov. 27.—Buying orders which accumulated over the week and stimulated the stock market for a time today. But the day's movement was a whole lot back steadily until late in the afternoon. The action of the market seemed to indicate that it was still of a transitory character. Union Pacific was the most conspicuous stock on the advance and was pushed by that of St. Paul and was one of the active issues including American Can pfd., which rose to 52 1/4, the highest price at which this stock ever sold. On the recession pressure was most severe against coal and both Reading and Lehigh Valley lost more than a point on the day's movements.

The strength of the London market exercised a sustaining influence. Buying in London was especially pronounced in the copper shares. Operations in this market for the London account were chiefly on the buying side with transactions in United States Steel making up the bulk of the business.

The strength of the American Tobacco issues brought these stocks into prominence again. The preferred stock rose 3 1/4 cents and on the curb the common stock increased its record large advance by 21 points, reaching at 51 1/2, the highest price reached since the final decree of dissolution was entered against the company and within nine points of the record figure for that issue. Third Avenue fell one point to 23 1/4, a low record. This stock once sold at 24 1/2.

Cull money hardened today and some loans were made at 3 1/2 per cent, the highest rate since the opening of the year. The rise was attributed to withdrawals made by the city in connection with the payment of some $4,000,000 due to foreign banks. A further influence in that direction was the exportation of gold in Canada, the movement of the last two weeks being resumed with the shipment of $1,000,000. The money market also was affected by preparations for the heavy interest and dividend payments to be made with the opening of December. Bankers said that there was a fairly steady demand for money for commercial purposes both in New York and in the interior and that the chief reason why rates had been lowered was the light requirements of Wall Street.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Big receipts northwest and fine weather in the Argentine helped force down today the price of wheat. The close was heavy 5-8 to 3-4 lower than Saturday night. Corn finished a net decline of 1-4 to 3-8. The end of the day left hog products varying from 5c off to an advance of 2 1/2 c. Car lot arrivals of wheat at points northwest of Chicago were on a huge scale. Minneapolis and Winnipeg each had a total of more than a thousand loads. The receipts in the former city were alone equal to those of a year ago at all of the western primary markets combined. Depression due to this fact received greater emphasis owing to the United States visible supply showing an increase that carried the amount available nearly to 70,000,000 bushels. Traders found themselves confronted also with fine harvesting conditions in the Argentine, a disagreeable surprise to the bulls, who had been looking for more damage from rain and black rust. World shipments too, were greatly in excess of the estimates. Nothing encouraging for higher prices developed but on the contrary the hardest selling pressure of the day was felt just as the close when a determined effort was made to force the May option up a dollar. During the session, as a whole May ranged from $1.00 to 1.09 5/8 with last rates 3-4 c. net lower at $1.00 1/8 to 1-8.

Increasing consignments of corn acted as an offset for a forecast of rain and snow. The weakness of wheat, too, aided in turning the market to the bear side. May fluctuated 64 and 64 5/8, closing weak at 64 1/4, a net loss of 1-4 to 3-8. Cash grades were in poor demand. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 74c.

A few of the larger long unloaded oats and brought about weakness in the market for that cereal. Sympathy with their action of other grain formed the main reason. Top and bottom figures touched by May were 49 1/2 and 49 1-4, with the close 1-4 c. off at 49 1-4 to 3-8.

In the provisions crowd the principal owners apparently satisfied to hold values reasonably steady to firm. The values seemed to be to avoid a level that might provoke selling. Largest exports than a year ago were against the bear side. In the final trading the market compared with 48 hours before, had not altered to exceed 5c either way.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR OIL STRIKE AT ALGODONES

Outfits Now Drilling in That Field Continue Operations; Southwestern Company Taps Flow of Artesian Water.

Whether or not the Southwestern Oil and Development company ever strikes oil in the prospects now being worked by it in the Algodones field, they have at least discovered an almost inexhaustible supply of artesian water. This was struck at the 560-foot level on Saturday, and the flow was so great that before the drillers could get the casing down to stop it, the water came bubbling up through the eight and a half inch casing, running over the edge of the well and on down the side of the hill.

The flow to all appearances is of sufficient size and volume to be of great service. R. G. Walcott, manager of the drilling for the company, however, is firm in the belief that oil exists at a greater depth in paying quantities and so has kept right on through the water strata to the rock formation below. The indications for oil at the 560-foot level, which has just been reached are better than ever before. In speaking of the matter yesterday Mr. Walcott said:

"We had already struck two other strata of water in our progress downward and scarcely expected to run into so great a flow as we did. The water, however, contained traces of oil, and I am strong in the belief that if we continue down we will strike oil in the course of a few weeks."

The Texas company, which is at work on that section, after considering the trouble on account of losing their tools in the well, began drilling again yesterday, having succeeded in grasping the tools and pulling them out. This outfit is located about two and a half miles from the scene of the Southwestern company's operations. According to last reports they are perfectly satisfied with the progress made, and expect to strike oil in the course of the next month.

Four years ago the writer was urged to buy some lots on North 12th street at $200 each.

Lots in this vicinity have since sold at $200 each, thereby showing a profit of 150 per cent.

John B. Bug's lots on 13th, 14th and 15th streets are today cheaper by comparison, than the 12th street lots were four years ago, and the advance should be more rapid.

BEAUTY CHORUS BIG HIT AT ORPHEUM

An enthusiastic audience greeted the new chorus at the Orpheum last night and compelled them to respond to several encores. The chorus presented a fine appearance in their new and natty costumes. Their strong singing and clever dancing shows that Albuquerque has just as talented girls as can be found anywhere. Rhynata with his clairvoyant readings and guess case-trunk act again held the audience in wonder. Tonight the same strong bill will again be presented with new pictures. A Thanksgiving turkey given away at the end of the first show. Admission always ten cents.

Division Officials Pay Albuquerque Brief Visit and Make Announcement of Contemplated Improvements.

Division Superintendent S. E. Leonard of the Western Union Telegraph company, with offices at Denver, accompanied by District Superintendent E. F. McClintock, who has charge of Colorado and New Mexico, comprised in Mr. Leonard's division, arrived in the city last night from an inspection trip to El Paso. After spending a few hours in the city they continued north to Santa Fe.

In speaking of the trip Mr. Leonard said: "The Western Union fully appreciates the importance of Albuquerque as the metropolis of New Mexico and one of the chief cities on the main line of the company from the east to the Pacific coast. We are therefore considering the advisability of improving our plant here and of spending a good sum of money in improving the service from Albuquerque to all points in New Mexico."

"We are glad that you are about to leave the city as that will assist in its growth, and with the contemplated improvements along other lines, I am sure that Albuquerque will shortly take rank with any city of its size in the country. New Mexico, I believe, is entering upon an era of great prosperity, and is destined to become a wonderfully rich state."

HERMAN SCHWEITZER DEPARTS ON TOUR OF MEXICAN REPUBLIC

Herman Schweitzer, manager of the Curio department of the Fred Harvey system, left this morning early for an extended trip through Mexico. While gone he will investigate business conditions in the southern republic.

Mr. Schweitzer is recognized as one of the highest authorities on Indian curios in the country and during his trips to Mexico he often takes occasion to pick up valuable curios of great age. His trip this time will, however, be devoted to looking into the condition of the opal and drawn work market, and the prospect for a good supply for the coming year of the famous Mexican turquoise work which is now so popular with tourists.

During his trip through Mexico he will visit Juarez, Chihuahua, Zacatecas, Mexico City, Puebla, Oaxaca, and possibly Tlaxcala. He expects to be gone several weeks.

The Latest Books

"That book in many's eyes doth share the glory. That in gold clasps doth lock the golden story."

Americans are the greatest readers in the world, and the greatest writers furnish them their literature. This year's crop of fiction is the greatest yet.

Such a book as "The Winning of Barbara Worth" is destined to take its place among the masterpieces.

"The Harvester," by Gene Stratton Porter.

"The Long Roll," by Mary Johnson.

"The Never Do Well," by Rex Beach, and "The Following of the Star," by Florence Barclay, are some of the big ones.

Also—"The Common Law," by Robert W. Chambers.

"The Iron Woman," by Margaret DeLande.

"The Fruitful Vine," Robert Dickens.

"The Last Galley," Conan Doyle.

All popular, but this isn't a quarter of the year's list. Come in and look them over.

SPLENDID RECORD BY BERNALILLO COUNTY COURT

Term Just Closed One of Business in Years; Many Cases Disposed of, Including Murder Trial.

The record of the district court of Bernalillo county for the term which recessed on Saturday afternoon to allow Judge Abbott to attend the sessions of the supreme court at Santa Fe this week, shows much was accomplished.

Convening on September 25, the petit jury was in session thirty-eight days, exclusive of recesses. During this time it tried thirty-eight criminal and civil cases, returning six verdicts in civil matters, nineteen convictions in criminal cases, four acquittals on its accord and two by instruction of the court.

In addition to these there were nine cases dismissed by order of court, and one man fined $10 for contempt. For a term of court to dispose of as many cases as this in the time it was in session shows that every energy was pressed to clear the docket before the end of the territorial regime.

Clerk Thomas K. D. Maddison spent nearly the entire day yesterday in finishing his records of the term of court. It is likely this is the last time he will have such service to perform as he goes out of office on the issuance of the statewide proclamation.

The Masonic Social club will give a dance in the Masonic Temple Wednesday, Nov. 29, evening at 8 o'clock. All Masons are invited and have the privilege of inviting their friends. Admission will be $1.00, ladies free.

Deputy Sheriff Dick Lewis and Carlos Armijo, in charge of a batch of four prisoners, the results of the last term of court in Bernalillo county, left yesterday for Santa Fe, to take their charges to the penitentiary. In the party were Thomas A. Insley, convicted of murder in the second degree, and sentenced to serve a term of ten months to twenty-five years; Paul Ross, convicted of a criminal assault upon a fifteen-year-old girl, sentenced to a term of from six to eight years; Juan Muniz, convicted of criminal assault upon Mrs. Socorro Chavez at Padillas, sentenced to a term of from five to seven years, and James Mendez, who will serve six months for larceny of a shop. Mendez stole some $75 worth of goods from the New Mexico Cigar store.
