MINE DISASTER IN TENNESSEE CLAIMS OVER 200 VICTIMS

Explosion in the Great Mountain Coal Colliery at Briceville Results in Fearful Loss of Life.

DETONATION WRECKED UNDERGROUND WORKINGS

Fire Adds to Horror, Retarding Rescue and Destroying Chances of Victims to Be Taken Out Alive.

Briceville, Tenn., Dec. 10.—That every miner of the number who walked into the Great Mountain mine this morning is dead, is a foregone conclusion at this time.

The force of the explosion was terrific and the hope that any one could survive such a shock is beyond belief.

The bodies of the company are not available as to the exact number of men in the workings.

Shortly before midnight the working party had passed and bratticed up twenty of the twenty cross entries, leaving the shaft open to the surface, and the men were found, and unless the men are found alive in there few remaining cross entries there are none in the mine alive.

Briceville, Tenn., Dec. 9.—Two hundred and seven men, living or dead, are entombed here tonight, as they have been all day, in the Great Mountain coal mine of the Knoxville Iron company, according to the count made this afternoon by an official of the United Mine Workers of America.

They had entered to begin the day's work when a terrific explosion wrecked the workings. Three only have come out alive. They had entered a shaft of the mine, and were ascending in getting into the open before the flames and smoke caught them.

The body of Lee Polson, operator of the mine's fan plant, was found buried and mangled under the cave-in in the main shaft.

Rescue workers are making scarcely any headway. The government's rescue corps and force is here as are many rescuers and engineers from all over the district.

The shafts extend more than two miles into the bowels of the mountain. According to President Stephenson of the iron company, the men, if they had reached their posts, were in lateral when the explosion occurred. This encourages those on the surface to hope that many may yet be living.

There was little prospect of an early rescue. Workers have encountered dense and compact deposits of earth, rock and coal in the main shaft of the mine and also in an abandoned entry used for an air shaft.

About the mouth of a vertical vent, leading to the top of the mountain, fires have been built to create a circulation of air from within the mine, if possible.

It is not yet possible to determine whether the explosion was of the extensive. Wood posts and trusses in the shaft have been blown outward and this, miners state, is indicative of a serious explosion beyond. Brattices are now being constructed by means of which air is being forced into the mine and it is possible to remove the debris.

There are three theories as to the cause of the explosion. One is that powder or dust exploded, the second is that an electric wire came in contact with explosives, and the third is that the explosion was caused by poor lighting of a drill.

The mine was thoroughly inspected a week ago by J. F. Hatmaker, who has been inspector for eight years. He said there were no gasses in the mine. The mine was also recently inspected by an inspector under George E. St. Louis, state mine inspector, and representative of a casualty company, which carries insurance on the employees of the company and is said to have reported that it was in excellent condition.

Hunt Larue, a miner employed in the Great mine, owes his life to a dream his wife had last night. When he arose this morning and prepared to go to work, Mrs. Larue refused to prepare his lunch for him to carry to the mine. She did not want him to go.

She then recited a dream she had. In her dream she saw scores of miners with their heads blown off, being carried out of the mine entrance as she and her little children stood at the mine's mouth.

Larue had not missed a day from his work for many months, but he was prevailed upon today to remain out of the mine.

The large majority of the men employed in the mine were Tennessee or Kentuckians, not a single foreigner, so far as known, being on the company's books. The mine was an "open shop" having been such for twenty years past. Some of the men who died had been in the employ of the company for a quarter of a century, the Coal Creek and Tellico district mines being managed almost entirely by natives of that section.

HYDE'S TESTIMONY AT FIRST TRIAL READ TO JURY

Its Introduction By State Pleasing to Defense; Not Known Yet Whether Accused Will Again Take Stand.

Kansas City, Dec. 9.—The jury which holds in its hands the life of Dr. R. Clarke Hyde, indicted on a charge of having killed Colonel Thomas H. Swope, today heard read all of the direct testimony given by the accused physician at the first trial of his case. Only a little of his cross-examination had been read when court adjourned until Monday.

The most interesting part of the entire cross-examination—that relating to cyanide purchases—had just been entered into when adjournment time came. Prosecutor Conkling was eager to leave this feature of the testimony in the minds of the jury over Sunday and he read straight ahead for some ten minutes after adjournment time until he finally was halted by the court.

In keeping with the ruling of the supreme court, testimony regarding Thomas Hunt's death, the typhoid epidemic in the Swope home, and the giving of a capsule to Margaret Swope, was excluded from the reading.

Dr. Hyde's story was a general denial of all the charges against him. His introduction was pleasing to the defense. It is improbable now that Dr. Hyde will take the witness stand, his narrative already being in the jury's hands. On the other hand the state says if he does not testify he will create the impression that the tale he tells is a self-serving cross-examination.

RAILROAD DETECTIVE SHOT BY U. S. DEPUTY

Centerville, Ill., Dec. 9.—George Lewis, aged 34, an Illinois Central special agent, assisting in guarding railroad property here, was shot and killed early this evening by Edward Bacon, chief of the United States district court at Danville, and a special deputy United States marshal in charge of the federal force which has been guarding strikebreakers and railroad property here for several weeks.

Bacon, who immediately surrendered to the local police, claimed that he discharged a man at the Central shops and Lewis disputed his right to do so. Angry words were exchanged when Lewis, it is alleged, pulled his revolver and fired at Bacon. Bacon claims he acted in self defense.

PER CAPITA WEALTH OF U. S. $34.54

Washington, Dec. 9.—The per capita circulation of money in the United States is $34.54, according to a statement issued by the treasury department, basing the circulation on the census bureau's estimate that there were 34,679,000 persons in the United States December 1. The last census showed that the population April 15, 1910, was 91,972,266.

The total amount of money in circulation December 1 was $3,270,582,753; the assets of the United States government were $345,943,923. This makes the total stock of money in this country $3,616,526,745.

ARIZONA ELECTION TAKES PLACE ON TUESDAY

BOTH DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS CONFIDENT

Two United States Senators Will Be Named By Advisory Vote For First Time in History of Politics.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 9.—Arizona's first state election will be held next Tuesday. In addition to all state and county officers to be chosen, two United States senators will be named by advisory vote, and the one member of congress allowed by the enabling act will be elected. It will be the first election in any state where two United States senators will be selected by an advisory vote of the people and it is predicted in some quarters that one will be a democrat and the other a republican.

Most of the candidates for the legislature, which makes the actual selection are pledged to abide by the advisory vote. Owing to the fact that there has been no registration for more than a year, the vote will be largely that of the usual, many of those registered having been removed from the state, upon the comparatively small number of electors remaining, the republicans base their hope of winning, as they have had a large majority of those who have removed, would have voted the democratic ticket.

The campaign has been made largely along personal lines, both parties having adopted progressive platforms. However, the fact that the constitution framed by the progressive constitution and the republicans opposed it has been used as the chief campaign argument by the democrats. Former opposition to the constitution has to some degree been offset by the republicans' platform, which in some instances promises more in the way of progressive legislation than that of the democrats.

The democratic candidates for the United States senate are Marcus A. Smith, of Tucson, for twenty years past Arizona's delegate in congress, and Henry P. Ashurst, of Prescott.

On the other side are Ralph H. Cameron, of Flagstaff, present delegate and Hualai A. Smith, a mining man of Blaine. Smith conducted Cameron's winning campaign on the issue of statehood three years ago.

The contest for governor has been spirited. George W. P. Hunt of Globe, the democratic choice, was president of the constitutional convention. His opponent, Edward P. Wells, of Prescott, a pioneer resident and former supreme court judge, was also a member of the convention. Both men are independently wealthy. Wells being rated as one of the richest men in the state. Hunt declares he will carry ten of the fourteen counties.

The candidates for congress are Carl Hayden of Phoenix and John S. Williams of Tombstone, both young men and classed as progressives.

Sidney P. Osborne, democrat, and J. Fred Cleveland, republican, of Phoenix, are the candidates for secretary of state. Osborne is the youngest candidate on the state ticket, being 28 years old. Cleveland is expected to lead the republican ticket.

Other state officers to be elected are three supreme court judges; three corporation commissioners; state treasurer; superintendent of public instruction; attorney general and auditor.

The socialists have a full state ticket, but will poll only a light vote.

BURKHART LOSES IN LINCOLN COUNTY TABULATION

Changes in Vote of All Candidates For Supreme Court Judges is Shown By Official Canvass.

Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 9.—Changes in the vote of all candidates for justice of the supreme court in Lincoln county were the important developments of the official canvass here today.

A tabulation of the returns from Lincoln shows a gain of six votes for Judge Roberts and two for Judge Wright. Of the democratic candidates Richard H. Hanna made a gain of twenty and two votes were added to Mr. Dunn's total, while Summers Burkhardt is shown to have received forty-eight votes less than were credited to him in the unofficial figures. While his loss seriously jeopardizes Mr. Burkhardt's chances of election, there is a strong possibility that it may be overcome before the canvass is completed.

The board at today's session finished its work on the counties of Luna, McKinley and Mora. In these three counties it was found that the unofficial returns were correct and no changes were made.

In checking up the returns from Guadalupe county today it was discovered that in one precinct the election officials had neglected entirely to affix their signatures to the certificate. The books were ordered sent back for signature.

With the closing of today's session just eleven of the twenty-six counties had been canvassed and it now begins to appear that at least another two weeks will be necessary before the report of the board can be forwarded to Washington.

While the work is apparently proceeding smoothly and without dispute, the attorneys representing the different political parties are constantly making exceptions. These are noted by the board and cause no delay, but it is pointed out that all of these exceptions will have to be argued at the close of the canvass and when lawyers like Neil R. Field, Judge Pail, C. D. Cleveland, Thomas B. Catron and Colonel Prichard are to have their say it would be a brave man who would hazard a prediction as to just how long it will take them to say it.

BAND OF REVISTAS ANNIHILATES COMPANY OF FEDERALS

Less Than Dozen Mexican Soldiers Out of Detachment of 150 Escape in Battle Near Merida, Yucatan.

DEFEAT AMOUNTS TO DISASTROUS ROUT

Serious Outbreaks Occur in States of Puebla and Morelos and Troops Are Rushed There From Mexico City.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Merida, Yucatan, Mexico, Dec. 9.—Of a force of about 150 state guards, mostly Yaqui Indians, who engaged a band of Revistas estimated at between 100 and 500, near here today, less than a dozen escaped, according to meager information brought to this city by refugees late this evening.

The government troops were routed completely. The fight occurred on the hacienda Sonolote and Misolobal. A fresh force has taken the field to dislodge the rebels.

The stories told by the survivors, confirmed by the owners of the haciendas, indicate that the insurgents are far better equipped than generally supposed. They were well mounted, carried modern arms, used dynamite and were assisted by the operation of field telephones. It is declared.

The gunboat Braxo is reported to have disembarked four hundred federal troops at Minca de Oro. The troops are to be stationed along the coast to guard against the landing of contraband arms and munitions.

In a second fight this afternoon the rebels were defeated. The casualties are not given.

UPRISING SPREADS TO PUEBLA AND MORELOS

Mexico City, Dec. 9.—Official reports received today that attacks had taken place in the state of Puebla, causing the government to order the Third battalion from here into that state.

The various bands of insurgents have appropriated arms and munitions in a number of villages, but the largest of the insurgent forces appears to be that in the town of Zacatecas. The insurgents are believed to be Revistas.

In the last twenty-four hours insurgents in the state of Morelos have shown much more activity in the raiding of villages and haciendas.

The government of Vera Cruz says the matraquees are Vasquezistas.

TELEGRAM FROM REYES IS DATED NEW YORK

Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 9.—Alexander Reyes, son of General Bernardo Reyes, says he had received a telegram tonight from his father in New York in which the son was told the General would leave New York in the morning for Washington, where he will hold a conference with friends and associates.

FATHER LOSES LIFE IN VAIN EFFORT TO SAVE SON

Double Drowning in Waters of Upper Rio Grande; One of Victims Well Known in Politics.

[Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal.]
Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 9.—Word reached here today of a distressing drowning accident which occurred last Tuesday at Dixon, in Rio Arriba county.

According to the report brought to this city, Margaret Barro and his 13-year-old son were crossing the Rio Grande at Dixon, which is a short distance below Embudo. The river was running unusually high and the boy was swept from the wagon in which they were crossing the stream. The father at once plunged into the raging river and sought to save his son.

Both were swept to death before a hand could be extended to save them. The body of the elder man was recovered yesterday, several miles down the stream from where the tragedy occurred, but all efforts to recover the body of the unfortunate boy have proved unavailing.

Margaret Barro, who gave his life in a vain effort to save his son, was a prominent figure in republican politics in Rio Arriba county, and for the past three years had served as county commissioner.

LIVERYMAN LOSES LIFE IN SINK HOLE

Seattle, Dec. 9.—The body of a large boy, Traynor, manager of a horse boarding and sale stable, was found in a sink-hole on the tide flats today and the police are puzzled to account for his presence there. There were no marks of violence on the body and apparently Traynor had been suffocated in the mud. He was seen last alive Wednesday night when he left a saloon in the neighborhood.

The chief of police of Lexington, Ky., telegraphed today asking for information of Traynor.

GOVERNORS BANQUETED BY PHILADELPHIA CLUB

Philadelphia, Dec. 8.—Having been shown the principal points of interest about the country, the touring governors from the west who spent the greater part of the day in Philadelphia, were tonight the guests of honor at a dinner tendered by the Manufacturers' club.

Seth T. Folwell, president of the club, was toastmaster and bid the governors a hearty welcome. All the governors were called on for brief speeches.

The visitors put in a busy day after being received at city hall by Mayor Blankenburg. One of the most interesting places to them was the navy yard where eight battleships and other war vessels are lying. The governors will arrive in New York aboard their special train tomorrow morning.

HOLY GHOST IS CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Maine Jury Finds Rev. Frank W. Sanford Guilty of Causing Death of Six of His Followers.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Portland, Me., Dec. 9.—"I am all right. The work at Shiloh will continue as long as I am able to direct it."

This was the only comment made by the Rev. Frank W. Sanford, when found guilty tonight in the United States district court on charges of causing the death of six of the crew of the schooner yacht Coronet.

Sentence will be pronounced on the leader of the Holy Ghost and its movement December 18. He furnished $10,000 bond for his appearance.

The punishment may be a fine of not less than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than ten years, or both.

Sanford addressed the jury for more than an hour and a half, speaking with impassioned eloquence.

"I think I know what you are going to do with me, gentlemen," he said, near the close of his statement.

"I think God told me sixty days ago, on the water, please give me this assurance—that wherever I go you will say that Mr. Sanford went down with his colors flying and his guns reverberating."

WILL HOLD PEACE CONFERENCE AT WU CHUNG

Premier's Representative, Accompanied By Influential Officials, Hope to Effect Settlement.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Peking, Dec. 9.—Tang Shao Yi, Yuan Shi Kai's representative, accompanied by several influential officials, left today for Wu Chung to negotiate with General Li, the revolutionary commander and delegates from various provinces, for a peace settlement.

The government professed confidence that the revolutionists will accept a limited monarchy, but Tang Shao Yi possesses plenipotentiary powers and it is understood the government is prepared to accept a compromise proposition on any terms.

The imperialists have received the "four fu" in Shan Si province and dispersed the rebels who have retreated to Hai Yun Pu.

REBELS AND OUTLAWS PILLAGING PROVINCES.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Revolutionary soldiers and outlaws in China are causing much excitement and some damage by their pillaging in the southern part of Kwang Tung province, where Canton is the capital. American Consul General Burkholtz advises the state department by cable today.

Linchow, Kwang Tung province, has been pillaged and burned by revolutionary soldiers and outlaws, he reported. Pakhoi, twenty miles from Linchow also is threatened by outlaws and soldiers. Foreign trade is carried on through Pakhoi and number of foreigners reside there. Should the raiders enter the city much damage might be wrought.

TWO NEGROES KILLED IN GEORGIA RACE WAR

Pavo, Ga., Dec. 9.—Two negroes were killed when blacks and whites clashed together here tonight in a serious riot. The trouble started after Will Williams, a negro, was shot and killed by Marshal Frank Byrd, after he had attacked the marshal for arresting a brother.

The town was crowded and negroes and whites were lined up, both sides being heavily armed.

Frank Mobley, a negro, opened fire into a crowd of whites and he was shot and killed. The negroes then fled to cover but are organizing and another outbreak is feared.

Fatal Wreck on Milwaukee.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—One man was killed and a number of passengers shaken up tonight on the Chicago and St. Paul railway, near Corlies, Wis., when northbound passenger train No. 12 ran into an engine at a switch crossover.

The engine of the light engine, C. E. Forbach, was killed. None of the passengers were severely hurt.

SECRECY ATTENDS REMOVAL TO SAN QUENTIN OF M'NAMARAS

Confessed Dynamiters Started For Penitentiary By Sheriff Without Knowledge of General Public.

ANXIOUS TO BEGIN SERVING SENTENCES

"I'm a Union Man and I'm For Union Labor," Parting Comment to World of John J.; His Brother Silent.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]
Los Angeles, Dec. 9.—James B. McNamara, confessed dynamiter, and John J. McNamara, confessed dynamiter, and secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, started from here today for San Quentin penitentiary.

James B. McNamara, who blew up the Los Angeles Times building on October 1, 1910, causing a loss of twenty-one lives, will begin tomorrow a sentence of life imprisonment, while his brother faces a term of fifteen years for complicity in the dynamiting of the Llewellyn Iron Works here last Christmas.

"I'm a union man and I'm for union labor," was John J. McNamara's parting comment to the world, according to Clarence S. Barrow, his chief counsel, who was last with him. John J. also expressed the hope that the sentiment of union labor toward him would change, remarking that in time the case would be better understood.

The route to be taken by Sheriff William A. Hammill and his prisoners was kept a profound secret and even the time of departure was unknown to the general public.

Previous arrangement with Sheriff Hammill today, however, a coterie of newspaper men and photographers were concealed behind the jail and were notified of the exact moment of the departure of the McNamaras, so they collected about the entrance only long enough to see the brothers enter a waiting automobile.

James B. McNamara's right hand was manacled to John J.'s left wrist. Both men looked pale and cheerless and walked the few steps from the jail door with bowed heads.

Sheriff Hammill was accompanied by Deputies Robert Brain, Claude Mathewson and Martin Aguirre. As soon as the prisoners were seated in the machine canvas flaps on both sides of the hood were drawn and with a quick start the automobile dashed up the hill toward the jail and away to the northward. Whether the prisoners would be taken all the way to the state penitentiary by automobile was not known to the general public.

It was learned, however, that for three days Sheriff Hammill considered getting the prisoners into San Francisco by boat and from there by launch direct to the San Quentin gates.

The prisoners were carefully groomed and had prepared in no way for their departure except to order their belongings sent to eastern relatives. One of these had $125 and the other $162, which was turned over to the sheriff today.

"They'll be in stripes soon," commented one of the jailers.

So quickly was the get-away made that hardly twenty persons witnessed it.

George Gallagher, chief jailer, heaved a sigh of relief when his charges left.

"They have behaved fine," he declared, "but we always had to be watchful about people from the outside."

Gallagher said later that the McNamaras had told him they expected their mother to visit them soon at San Quentin.

The McNamaras arrived here on April 26, last, and except for their appearance in the court room for trial, have been in the county jail ever since.

Sheriff Hammill kept curiosity seekers puzzled today over the hour of the departure of the McNamaras.

"They are not here; they are gone," he said to those who asked to see them.

"Gone" demanded the visitors.

"Yes," said Hammill. "They're not in the jail."

He smiled at some newspaper men and afterwards told them that though not in the jail the prisoners were not freed, but independent of the jail walls, and if these were entirely destroyed the prisoners still would have been behind the bars.

Attorney Joseph Scott, of counsel for the defense, paid a final visit to the McNamaras shortly before their departure. He found them packing their clothing and chafing over the delay in getting away. As they talked Sheriff Hammill came in.

"There are some photographers outside and they want to take your pictures, boys," he said.

"Nothing doing," said John J. "We've been photographed enough. How soon do we start?"

"Within a few hours," said Hammill and then the men felt to asking questions about the location and climate of San Quentin.

They will arrive there just a little before the beginning of the rainy season and John J. was solicitous for his brother's health.

"I guess we won't be out in the rain enough to hurt us," he said when assured that the drainage was good.

He asked Mr. Scott if his associ-tion with the case had injured the latter's chances in the recent election, where the attorney was re-elected to the school board, of which he is president. He expressed relief to know that Scott had won easily.

"It worried me," said John J. James J. McNamara had little to say, listening to his older brother most of the time.

The federal grand jury was not in session today but will continue again next Tuesday to take more testimony in alleged dynamiting conspiracies. Oscar Lawlor occupied himself with several of the witnesses. He was for a time in conference with District Attorney Frederick.

Mr. Lawlor who is in charge of the government's probe, expressed irritation today that the newspaper men had yesterday identified one of the government's important witnesses, J. W. Kaiser of Muncie, Ind., who is alleged to have sold ultra-alloy steel to James B. McNamara, John J. McNamara and Otto McManis. When approached at first Kaiser had refused to give his name. Later they "shadowed" him and learned his identity.

"If there's any gunshooting to be done," declared Mr. Lawlor, "I'll do some of that myself."

He added that many of the witnesses were apprehensive of danger in coming here to testify.

"All the slingers are not done away with, you know," remarked Mr. Lawlor.

Every effort will be made to conceal the identity of those who are subpoenaed here but as many of the witnesses are known to newspaper men who have been working steadily on the case since the Times building was destroyed fourteen months ago, it is not believed that much secrecy can prevail.

Mr. Lawlor admitted today that so far as he knew Attorney General Wickham had not yet decided whether to make Indianapolis or Los Angeles the center of the government's probe, but that the matter probably would be determined before December 14, when the federal grand jury is to convene at Indianapolis.

TWO BROTHERS SPEEDING TOWARD PRISON ON TRAIN

Molave, Cal., Dec. 9. — The train bearing the McNamaras, who were placed aboard at Los Angeles, had not proceeded very far when it was stopped at a little way station and the two prisoners shackled to Sheriff Hamill and a deputy sheriff, were taken into the station room of the observation car at the rear end of the train.

Passengers on the train were allowed to pass to and fro in all cars but none surmised that they were riding with the McNamara brothers and the identity of the prisoners was not discovered.

Accompanying Sheriff Hamill was Martin Aguirre, former warden at San Quentin; Deputy Sheriff Claude Matteson, Chief of Police Sebastian of Los Angeles; three other deputies were already on the train when the party arrived from the county jail in Los Angeles, and several newspaper men.

The prisoners were taken to a station room where their shackles were removed. They sat down together and the door was locked.

Sheriff Hamill then announced that one newspaper man could enter and talk with the prisoners as a representative of all those on the car. When the reporter entered the station room he found John J. McNamara looking straight at him and although they had not met before the former labor leader called him by name, James B. McNamara did not look up and gave no sign of recognition. J. J. refused to talk.

"I have nothing to say," he said, "and you must excuse me."

"But you surely don't mind talking now about the case?" he was asked.

"I have nothing to say about this case or anything else," McNamara replied.

"Won't you tell us where you went to school, where you began work and where you joined the union?" he was then asked.

"Oh," replied the prisoner rather sharply, "I have told all of these things until I'm hoarse. I don't want to be half-headed, but I do not want to talk about anything. If he cares to, Jim can talk for himself."

"I'm looking toward the future," he slowly said. "This case is now a thing of the past."

That was all he would say and he refused even to answer questions put to him on subjects other than the trial, or his connection with the dynamiting cases.

A light supper for the two men was brought in from the dining car and after they had eaten sparingly their compartment was made up and both lay down, shackled together.

The door of their compartment, which adjoined that of Sheriff Hamill, was kept open and two deputies sat, one at each end of the berth. The curtains were not drawn.

ALL STENOGRAPHERS WILL TESTIFY BEFORE GRAND JURY

Indianapolis, Dec. 9. — All stenographers who have been employed at the headquarters of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers in this city since 1905, are to be subpoenaed as witnesses before the federal grand jury in its inquiry into the alleged nation-wide dynamiting conspiracy, it was said today.

The purpose of the investigators is understood to be to identify by the testimony of the stenographers copies of letters seized in the raid on the offices of the association and alleged to implicate groups of men in many cities in dynamiting depredations.

"We will not divulge the identity of any witnesses to be summoned before the grand jury," said United States District Attorney Miller tonight.

Mr. Miller denied a rumor that H. S. Hookin, secretary of the iron workers association, had made application to the government to supply certain information for the grand jury inquiry in return for immunity.

"I have had no conversation with Mr. Hookin," said Miller. "No official of the iron workers association has approached me with any offer to give evidence to the grand jury. We have a mass of correspondence and records of the association, but I have additional information aside from these documents."

"I wish to say as to further reports, as to a conflict between the authorities in this federal district and the Los Angeles federal district are not only false but malicious. The general investigation of the alleged dynamiting conspiracy is under the direction of the department of justice at Washington. It will proceed in two or more jurisdictions harmoniously as the authorities at Washington direct."

CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARY OF McNAMARA SUBPOENAED

Chicago, Dec. 9. — Miss Nora Hayes, private secretary and confidential agent of John J. McNamara, for more than two years, is in Chicago, under surveillance of officials of the department of justice, and will go to Indianapolis next week to testify before the federal grand jury, it was learned here tonight. Her whereabouts were made known to secret service men by net factor, Pullman Daniel Haley of Indianapolis, official of the department of justice here, who refused to discuss the fact that they had been seeking her for several months, but it was learned that she had been located here several days ago and that she would remain here until she is no longer required to appear before the federal grand jury.

Information from Indianapolis today was that all former office employees of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Association would be subpoenaed but Miss Hayes' testimony is regarded as the most important because of her intimate knowledge of all that transpired in the secretaries' office.

Her information, it is understood here, will be of more importance than that of Otto McManis and will be of assistance to the federal authorities in Indianapolis in learning just how closely the dynamiting charged to the McNamara brothers was connected with the union and its high officials.

The story of the failure of dynamite which exploded in Los Angeles today by her father and the federal authorities, it was reported here.

It related to visits by the scientists to the Riley home and their efforts to have the stenographer attend the latter parties and tell her work at the office. They were cut short, the police said, when her mother denied the visitors entrance to the Riley home.

Since shortly after that, when Miss Hayes left Indianapolis, a search for her was continued. A subpoena was served on her on Thursday at a hotel on the south side. She did not deny her identity.

The subpoenas were drawn at the direction of United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller of Indianapolis and were sent here by mail for service. They were returnable December 14.

FIREMEN'S MEETING IN ALBUQUERQUE MEANS BIGGEST KIND OF BOOST

Committee in Charge of Arrangements Starts This Week to Solicit Funds For Entertainment of Visitors.

BUSINESS MEN CAN WELL AFFORD TO CONTRIBUTE

Conservatively Estimated That Gathering Will Bring At Least Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars to City.

The proposition to bring the meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen to Albuquerque is being taken up in earnest by the Commercial club and the business men generally and there is now little doubt that the gathering will be secured for Albuquerque. That it will mean one of the biggest boosts ever given the city, goes without saying and the committee in charge urges that every citizen at once interest himself in the project. In order to secure the meeting it will be necessary to secure a fund of at least $25,000, a small sum indeed when compared with the enormous benefits that will accrue to the city in the event the meeting is brought here. For the purpose of raising the necessary amount to start the enterprise a committee representing the Commercial club and Highland lodge No. 467, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, will call on the business men this week to solicit contributions. For the sake of Albuquerque every citizen should see to it that the committee does not leave his establishment empty handed.

For the purpose of acquainting the people of Albuquerque with the nature and scope of the gathering, the officers of Highland lodge have prepared the following statement:

The grand meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen will be held in the city of Albuquerque, N. M., the latter part of May, 1912, is not a convention of the order, but a union meeting of the order, in which a number of the lodges of the order are supposed to unite in the meeting. These union meetings are held for the purpose of holding in their respective local union meetings will include a few lodges such as those in this state. While a national of grand union meeting will include all the lodges of the grand jurisdiction of the order.

The convention of the order is a delegated meeting, one delegate being elected from each lodge and sent to the convention. The convention is the law making function of the order and meets once in three years at such time and place as they may select by vote of the convention while in session. Any city desiring to entertain one of the triennial conventions of the brotherhood must obtain such privilege at the last regular meeting of the body while in session. The next regular session of the triennial convention will be held in Washington, D. C., the first Monday in June, 1913.

The purpose is to have in the city of Albuquerque, N. M., a grand union meeting of the order and not a convention.

Attendance at the union meetings of the order is voluntary on the part of the membership. The order has a membership of 80,000 members now enrolled might attend this meeting if they were in position to do so. Naturally the board of managers of a meeting would be anxious to have the largest attendance possible and will plan to so advertise as that this end will be obtained. Small local meetings are often held by cities or districts with small cost and small benefit either to the order or the community.

A grand or national union meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen is the object for which the members of Highland lodge No. 467 have been working for many months past.

Highland lodge could hold in this city a local union meeting and little could be known or heard about it, but it has been the opinion of the membership from the first that a grand union meeting, which should be national in its scope, would be encouraged and supported by the citizens of Albuquerque.

That this opinion has been encouraged is shown by the action of the Commercial club of this city, when, at its regular meeting, held on April 26, 1911, the secretary of the local lodge of the firemen was invited to be present and state the proposition to bring to Albuquerque a union meeting of the order. The club, by unanimous vote, endorsed the effort, and instructed the president of the club to appoint a committee of five to aid the members of Highland lodge in their work.

A further proof of encouragement was given when, at its meeting on August 3, a resolution was presented to the city council asking that the support of that body be given the enterprises. The result was that the council, by an unanimous vote, endorsed the effort and requested the mayor to name a committee of three of its members to aid in executing the plans.

A committee of the Locomotive Engineers and Firemen had been named in the early part of the year and with those who were present at the meeting of managers has been organized, with Mr. Jay A. Hubbs, of the Commercial club, as president; Mr. T. D. Bherwood, of the city council, as vice-president; Arthur C. Culver, of Highland lodge No. 467, B. of L. E., secretary, and Charles O. Cushman, treasurer.

An effort could scarcely have resulted more encouraging endorsement than has been given to hold in this city a grand union meeting of the Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

As to how large an attendance might reasonably be expected, there will be some uncertainty about that. The grand jurisdiction of the order includes Canada, the United States and Mexico. There are 808 lodges and nearly 80,000 members. It will be easily seen if but one in eight of the members of the Firemen

Creates Craving Which Nothing But More Drink Will Satisfy.

DRINKER MUST HAVE HELP

Neal Cure Destroys Craving and Leaves Distaste and Aversion to Liquor.

There may be successful men who are heavy drinkers, yet they are successful in spite of rather than by reason of it. The men who can drink and be successful are so rare in strength of character as to make them an unsafe precedent in considering the average man. To the average man habituated indulgence in intoxicants is practically certain to result in disaster. It breaks down his nerve system. It unfit him for business. He loses caste. He loses money. The habit brings sorrow to his friends and poverty, misery and deprivation to his family. The thing to do is stop it and stop it now. Every successive indulgence confirms the habit and makes it harder to break. A man finding himself on the down grade, however, is constantly beset with a craving for stimulants which he in time is no longer able to resist, for constant indulgence not only creates that morbid craving but also weakens the will power so that it is impossible to resist. He must have help. It is such help that the Neal three-day-cure for the drink habit extends to him. It takes away the craving—destroys it utterly—leaves in its place distaste for and an aversion to liquor. It brings about this miraculous change in three days. This is no rash statement for it has been demonstrated in thousands of cases. It matters not how long you have been drinking or how many other treatments have failed. The Neal treatment will cure in just three days. It is safe, harmless and positive. No hypodermic injections are given and no powerful or poisonous drugs are used. There are no bad after-effects. If you are afflicted with the drink habit and really want to be freed, or if you are interested in a friend or relative who needs help, get the Neal Institute Company for their free booklet giving full information. It will be mailed to you under a plain sealed envelope and everything will be strictly confidential. Address NEAL INSTITUTE, 212 North Second St., Albuquerque, N. M.

should attend the meeting in this city, there would be an attendance of one thousand men, besides their families and friends. There are in New Mexico alone, about 450 members, and within a radius of one thousand miles of this city, there are fully three thousand members of the order, not to speak of the other railway orders. If one-third of the members of the order within the radius above referred to should be present, there would be one thousand members in attendance, not to speak of those from abroad.

Nearly all the engine and train service men in the United States, at some time during the year, take a vacation and trip some where. They will come to Albuquerque if an event is planned and carried out, making it worth while. This, there should be no trouble in doing, as the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, one of the seven wonders of the world, is just at our door, not to refer to many other things that are new to those not having yet visited this part of the United States.

The average American is going to go some where this coming summer, and it is up to us to see that he comes to see our city.

If a thousand men of the Firemen's order should come to Albuquerque and spend on an average 25 cents apiece while here, there would be $25,000 extra money added to the business interests of this city. That they would spend twice that amount if they have the right kind of a chance, there can be little doubt.

That the members of the Firemen's order do intend to attend the meeting in large numbers is due to the fact that these meetings are of great service to the order when the meetings are of the class they should be. And they can attend their meetings with little or no additional cost to themselves, the transportation being a courtesy of the company with whom they are employed.

If the meeting is made of sufficient importance, the Santa Fe railway will no doubt issue special rates from distant points and those not entitled to passes will be induced to make the trip.

Though this is not a joint meeting of the four railway orders, a place will be made on the program for representative men in the Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The aggregate membership of the four orders being about 250,000 members.

The publicity feature of such a union meeting would of itself be sufficient to reimburse any city for the entire cost not to speak of the benefit of the meeting itself.

Programs of the meeting, printed matter and such other literature may seem to be for the best interests of Albuquerque and New Mexico, will be used in giving publicity to the city as well as the meeting to be held. Every month, by which the greater interests of Albuquerque can be pushed, will be brought into line as well as to make the meeting a great success.

The grand lodge officers have promised to be present in person and will, in the meantime, do all they can to make the meeting all that might be desired. The magazine of the order, with Brother John P. McNamara as its editor, will publish the four issues per month, give Albuquerque the kind of boosting that she has never enjoyed heretofore.

While the details are not complete nor the personnel of the speakers yet known, it is expected that an unusually strong program will be arranged in due time.

The event is expected to cover three full days, besides the opening day and the day for the excursion to the Grand Canyon.

The board of managers are now considering the matter of an aviation meet, if arrangements can be made for the event.

Everything that can possibly be done to make this proposed union meeting of the Locomotive Firemen and Engineers a howling success will be done.

"THE CLANSMAN" WILL BE HERE DECEMBER 16

After An Absence of Three Years Famous Drama of Thomas Dixon Will Be Presented at Elks Theater.

The Southern Amusement company will present the special revival of Thomas Dixon's well known drama, "The Clansman," at the Elks theater on Saturday, December 16.

It has been three years now since the famous play has been seen in this city and theater-goers will no doubt welcome its return. Everyone is familiar with the enormous success which this play has won throughout the entire United States as well as the future it created when originally staged six years ago. It enjoys the record of having played to capacity audiences all over the country. Today "The Clansman" is still the reigning dramatic sensation of the age.

Its story is only too well remembered throughout this section, depicting, as it does, the struggle which ensued after the emancipation of the negro during the so-called reconstruction period. Its historical accuracy has never been questioned. The actual order of the Ku Klux Klan figures largely in the play, the hero being the leader of the Klan. The love interest that is interwoven forms an attractive feature of the drama. The gallant Ben Cameron saves his sweetheart and the entire state of South Carolina from the clutches of the negro lieutenant governor.

For the present revival, the management has provided entire new sets of scenery, a specially selected company of players, and complete new assortments of costumes. The trained horses used on the stage by the Ku Klux Klan are of course still carried with the production. In a word, the spectacular performance will be better than ever.

The cast for the coming engagement of "The Clansman" includes Clyde M. Shropshire as Ben Cameron, Myron Paulson as Silas Lynch, the negro lieutenant governor, Vivian DeWolfe as Elsie Stoneman, Thomas W. Fisher as Dr. Cameron, J. D. Walsh as Austin Stoneman, Edith Mendoza as Nellie Graham, Isabelle Mendoza as Little Flora, Harry Bartlett as Nelson, Thomas J. Evans as Gus, S. W. McElroy as Alvin, J. F. Hill, James E. Duncan, Blanche Boyer, Gerald LaForest and others.

TO MARK AUTOMOBILE TRAIL TO THE PACIFIC

The American Automobile association official trail from Albuquerque to southern California is to be marked by permanent posts.

This route was first mapped by A. L. Westgard official pathfinder for the A. A. A., who has been chosen by the Southern California Automobile association to make the improvement in the trail.

The route between here and Los Angeles is one of the most interesting portions of the "Trail to the Sun" and the new method of marking that is to be carried out by Mr. Westgard will increase the number traveling along the trail. It is thought.

The exact date for the beginning of the survey has not been decided upon, but will be announced later.

Sensible Women Know Foundation of Health

As health talks to women become more general, both in the newspapers and on the stage, the mass of women are beginning to realize that the more cultivated have always known, that good health cannot be found in a powder box. The externals of health may be obtained in this way, but the basis of health lies deeper, and yet is just as easily obtained.

The most important thing that a woman can do for herself, and about which she is often most neglectful, is to watch the condition of her stomach and bowels. The weary eyes, the bad breath, the frequent headaches, the pimples, the general air of lassitude is more than offset by the result of constipation or indigestion, or both. Many simple remedies can be obtained, but the best in the estimation of sensible women is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is mild, pleasant to the taste and exactly suited to the needs. It is far superior to salts, cathartic pills, waters, etc., which are entirely too violent.

Women should see to it that they have at least one movement of the bowels each day, and when showing any tendency to constipation should take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the small dose prescribed. A brief use of it will so train the stomach and bowels muscles that all forms of medicine can be dispensed with. These opinions are voiced by thousands of women, after personal experience, among them Cora Baldwin, Moscow, Tex., and Esther Giddings, Wooten Wells, Tex.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle, may have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 465 Washington St., Monticello, N. Y. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

TALENTED CHILD REN OF THE STAGE.

LEON AND VIRGINIA CLIFFORD.

Diminutive pair who began their stage careers at a very early age.

This is a story, especially for the little ones of Albuquerque, but the older ones may find it equally interesting. It is about two children, nine and eleven years old, respectively. These clever little ones have lived very much different from the average child.

They are brother and sister, the boy being the elder. With their parents, they are "stage people" and have been entertaining the public all their lives. Leon, who is 11 years old, can't remember where he made his first appearance, as he was but 6 months old when he appeared on the stage of the Grand opera house, in Chicago, in "Big Harbor," with James A. Heine, one of the greatest of all American actors. Virginia is a doll-like child of 9 years, who brings whispers all over the house when she appears. "Don't she too cute for anything." Her first important appearance was at the age of 3 years, when she played the part of Gertrude, the wife, in "The Waifs of New York," and had to speak a half dozen pages of typewritten matter throughout a long play. She was the youngest little girl by three years that ever played this part; the next youngest being of the most important meetings of the entire year, and a large number of members and interested citizens is expected to attend.

There are a number of very important matters to be taken up, the chief of which are the present condition of the river dyke at Alameda; the report of the committee on the commission form of government for cities of a certain class in the new state; special legislation to be pushed at the first session of the New Mexico legislature, and the furtherance of the advertising campaign that is being carried on in behalf of a greater Albuquerque and a better New Mexico.

One of the best advertising propositions that has been suggested will probably be undertaken, and a contract entered into with the American Medical Journal, the official organ of the American Medical association, for advertising space setting forth the advantages of a residence in Albuquerque. This magazine goes into the offices of more than 50,000 physicians and surgeons in the United States, Mexico and Canada.

President Stern of the club is anxious for a large turnout at the meeting.

WHITNEY BROTHERS QUARTET.

FAMOUS WHITNEY BROTHERS COME NEXT WEEK

Friday Night Celebrated Quartet Will Present Opening Engagement of Popular Entertainment Course.

For the second time Albuquerque is to be favored with an enterprise by the famous Whitney Brothers. Next Friday night at Elks theater they will appear in an entirely new program and of course they will delight the audience as they did on their previous visit to the city.

An unusual large number of season tickets are already in the hands of patrons. The most successful course of season entertainments ever held in this city is assured.

Those who wish single tickets for the first attraction in the splendid course can obtain them at Matson's December 13th, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The Whitney Brothers quartet is so noted throughout the country that the Victor Talking Machine company has records of about twenty of their selections on sale everywhere. Their parents were both musicians and their lives have been filled with music from early infancy.

None of them can recall a time when they did not sing, and Alvin even sang solos in public at the age of four.

Edwin's tastes are divided. "Speaking Pigeons" had always a fascination for him and from the time he could talk he was always at it.

The first concert ever given by the Whitney Brothers was in August, 1901, at the Silver Lake, New York, Chautauque. Their father, then Pastor of the Warsaw church, had agreed to fill one night's entertainment with Warsaw talent. For one reason or another all those whom he had counted on went back on him. In despair he turned to his sons for help. They gladly gave and presented the chautauque with a full evening of quartets, solos and reading with success.

Next to Carrie Nation they drew the largest crowds of the season. The voices of the Whitney's blend perfectly. Their solo work is a feature of each program, while Edwin Whitney is sure to make one of the hits of the evening with his readings. On many of the largest courses in the country, this quartet has been brought back time and time again, in several instances as many as six times, which proves their ever-widening popularity.

Love, Politics and High Finance. In the play of "The Lion and the Mouse," which will be seen at the Elks theater in the very near future, is a strong love story and the battle between the players and the strong-willed old politician and high financier, the father of the boy. It's an intensely interesting story from start to finish.

HOW TO TREAT COUGHS

When the pure food law was passed, the fact came out that many cough syrups contain drugs which, while useful in their place, should not be used in a remedy for home use.

Really the most sensible way to treat a cough is not to take a mere coughing syrup, but to use a standard remedy like Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic that we sell every day. Cod liver oil has been used for centuries to cure coughs, and Vinol is better because it is free from grease and always agrees with the most delicate stomach. Vinol cures coughs by strengthening the whole body and making the blood rich, thus helping the system to throw off the cough quickly. We guarantee that Vinol will please you—if it does not we give back your money.

The Song of the Borrower.

I'll borrow all your forks and spoons, I'll borrow all your glasses;
Your butter plates—your salad set—your gilt-edged demi-tasses.
Please let me have a dozen chairs, likewise that polished table, Invite you to the party too? I would but I'm not able—

My dear, this is the most informal thing in the world—just a few friends in to play bridge, but you know how it is—if you have anything at all you must have everything just so and my house is so small.

I'll borrow all your table cloths, your coffee percolator
Your best embroidered center piece—oh, I'll return it later.
We're not a napkin in the house—please let me have a dozen
I'm giving a small dinner dance in honor of my cousin.

My dear, I want you to meet her. She's perfectly charming. I naturally want her to meet my sweetest friends first, but run over some afternoon while she's here, won't you? I would like to have her meet the neighbors, too.

I'll borrow all your candlesticks—your finger bowls as well,
It's just a little luncheon, but I want to have it swell.
The flowers are to be all pink—I'd like to have that vase,
Perhaps I'll send for you at noon to fill a vacant place.

And, oh, my dear, before I forget it—would you mind letting me have that solid silver toilet set of yours? It makes a dresser look so pretty. I had one once, or I think I did, but whatever became of it I don't know. Thank you so much. Now, I don't believe there's a chance of anyone disappointing me, but if they do, you just come on over.

gone long, returned silently and have evidently decided to hold their peace forever. The pity of it is that the lot of them escaped the spanking which they so richly deserved.

CONSIDER THE SPACE; AND NOT THE FILLING.

But, let's "cut the comedy," x-cuse us exploiting the latest acquisitions of the precious scandal mongers. Understand, please, no news is as dangerous as idleness, when it comes to gossip. While on the subject, get the newspaper idea in regard to scandal. Whatever you do don't let the society page infused with personality. Remember, vice is man are virtues in newspapers. To be considerate of others, fearful of treading on their toes, reluctant in disclosure, modest or shamelessly to find out what is going on, but the society page takes on these virtues, there is nothing left for you to do but—take the Evening Herald to get the news. Disregarding dire penalties, sometimes when it is impossible to find out what is going on, it is absolutely necessary to put it in the paper, anyhow. Space has to be filled by some hook or crook. I am up against it, right now, for something to talk about. Will exert the crook and try to ward off the hook.

Honestly, folks, it was an awfully dull week. Socially speaking, I mean. Talking of the real goods, that is, and society is society just as sure as "pigs is pigs."

Soonest-to-goodness society took a week off or else managed to evade my vigilance. Christmas is in the air—so are the buyers—and I guess that's the main reason. However, I don't take much stock in this early shopping. Theoretically it's a fine thing, but actually a farce. Just gives the women more time to worry the harassed clerk as few of us will decide when two or three weeks are left for decision.

So maybe its shopping, or more likely its counting the dimes that accounts for the dearth of parties. Yes, Christmas is pretty much a question of dollars and cents these times. But Christmas is coming and Sunday, December 10, is here.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

"Coming out of it," society took in the shows last week, I noticed. Had a good time, too, it would seem. How could it have been otherwise? Theatrically, we were metropolitan with two New York successes, and be it said to our credit, that we know good shows when we see them, and that we keep handy a reserve force of the hang brigade for just such events.

Thinking about the "Paradise of Mahomet," instinctively we whistle, "There's Something About You Don't That Appeals to Me." Heart Heart. The whole town's whistling it. Jolly melody and the original rendition, while it came near to the danger mark as a risqué proposition, didn't come across and all swell that we well. Grace Van Studdiford is a generous star, isn't she? Surrounding herself with an aristocratic and letting another girl get away with the song hit of the piece, why, its unheard of generosity in the realm of stardom. To be sure, she can afford to be generous, for Van Studdiford was in a class all by herself, but just the same, that isn't the way to get face powders and hats named after you. Most prima donnas you know, take the center of the stage and keep it and that's what makes Billie Burke puffs and Fritz Schaff hats. An interesting item in connection with the appearance of Mrs. Van Studdiford is, that she is from the home town of Mrs. Hay Bonuff, and an acquaintance of many years standing. Mr. and Mrs. Bonuff had a pleasant between-acts call on the charming prima donna, and could it have been so arranged, Mrs. Bonuff would have given a reception for the singer.

The Santa Fe, however, forbid that. As Miss Van Studdiford has in a marked degree the attribute known as chile caliente that is, there is nothing chilly about her on the stage or off, a reception in her honor would have been a delight. Almost equally pleased was society with "The Red Rose," last night, though it was the familiar, always welcome, musical comedy elaborately mounted and went the limit in brilliant detail.

DANCING PARTIES.

Dances, two, occupied the interest and activities of the young contingent, the week gone. On Wednesday night, the Thirty club had an exceptionally gay little hop, and it wasn't so small either, since almost the entire membership, reinforced each by one, was out for the affair. The Fuhrmeyer-Cavanaugh orchestra played and the other appointments were correct and conducive to an evening of good fun. The dance was complimentary to Frank Schneider, one of the members, who leaves within a few days for the Philippines.

The college girls and boys made merry at the semi-annual dance of the Tri Alpha fraternity Friday night. Gaily decorated was Elks' ball room for the event in the "flat" colors of red, black and gold with baccanals, willows and cog cogers prominently in the lavishly attractive get-up. Music was by the Fuhrmeyer-Cavanaugh orchestra and college good cheer made additional noise to speed the night along. Punch was served during the evening, with other "tests" to finish proceedings.

FIRST STATE INAUGURATION.

If the last frantic effort to save the G. O. P. fails, that is, if the count now in progress does not interfere, the inaugural ceremonies will come off with bells. New Years day, the festivities extending far into the night with the most brilliant ball known to the history of New Mexico.

Since McDonald's election is not regarded as a contested one, arrangements go on apace. And such arrangements! Mercy me, talk about your social pyrotechnics! It's to be "something like and worthy of the first state inauguration of New Mexico." And, of course, the swells and belles of the biggest town will add their presence to the big doings. Some are expecting to motor up to the capital city, and still others plan to go by train. Anyhow, the Albuquerque showing is expected to be good. Many more will be tempted by the lavish preparations under way. You know, it has finally been decided to hold the inaugural ball in the National Guard armory, instead of at the Palace hotel, as first proposed.

The fun starts in the morning when Governor-elect McDonald will be escorted to the capital by Governor Mills and staff in full uniform. The incoming governor and the retiring executive will occupy one automobile, and Mrs. Mills and Mrs. McDonald the one following. The staff mounted. Arriving at the hall of representatives, His Grace Archbishop Phelan will deliver the invocation, and then, the inauguration ode, will be sung by forty-eight voices. This ode, written for the occasion by Father Julius Hartman and set to a patriotic air, is said to be a magnificent thing, well worthy the occasion, and the rare talent of the priest-musician.

Then, after Governor Mills retiring address, Governor McDonald will take the oath of office, delivered at high noon by Chief Justice William H. Pope. After the inaugural address the ceremonies will conclude with the singing of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," by the entire audience.

It promises to be impressive, doesn't it? The afternoon is to be taken up with military maneuvers.

The reception and ball are to be magnificent and state. The one will be held in the old palace of the governors and the inaugural ball, as stated at the Armory. Both are to be lavishly decorated. Thousands of electric lights, flowers, flags, banners are to turn the historic buildings into veritable fairyland. Handsome costumes and state dignitaries in full uniform, and—well, wouldn't you like to be there? It's ten dollars a throw—excuse me—tickets are to be ten dollars, and that includes the "big feed." Let's see, ten dollars, plus railroad fare and hotel expenses—Whoa! But we don't care for expenses—we have plenty of them.

To be sure, the unfortunate, lacking the wherewithal, had better stay at home, but those with the dear, desirable "price," had better take the inauguration in. For it committees don't let—er—prevaricate, it's to be well worth while and the biggest social affair known to the history of New Mexico.

KENTS TO HAVE A BIG PARTY.

There is something to look forward to at any event. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kent have cards out for next Thursday night, December 14, at the Masonic Temple. It is to be a combination ball and card party as the young the near-young and the almost-old are all invited. Since over two hundred invitations have been issued, it may be expected as something especially brilliant and one of the big functions of the season.

Mrs. M. L. Stern had an afternoon for a few favored members of the young set, Friday afternoon. Cards and a handsomely appointed luncheon whiled the time delightfully.

CHRISTMAS ARITHMETIC

Another affair, which promises to enliven next week, is the "tea" for Wednesday afternoon at the Dave Weinman home when Mrs. Weinman and Mrs. Lewinson will entertain the smart set, en masse.

THEATER PARTY.

A gay little theater party for "The Red Rose" was made up, last night of Dr. and Mrs. Wylder, Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, Mr. and Mrs. J. England Smithers, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sloan and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hahn, (the always-together ten.) After the show, and all the pleasure, which it entailed, the bunch went to the Hahn home for the after-theater spread and of course the fun lasted until late.

SOCIAL BULLETINS.

Mrs. T. D. Baldwin of Greensburg, Pa., has returned home after a delightful visit of two months with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Durling.

Mrs. Bessie Jaffa, who has been sojourning some weeks in southern California, returned home during the week past.

Miss Sue Dehoun came home Wednesday from Helen, where she has spent several weeks as guest of Miss Lucy Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coss and Mr. C. A. Coss left during the week for New York City. The latter will return after spending Christmas in the nation's metropolis, but his son and wife will remain indefinitely in the east.

Miss Amelia McElle came down from her home in Santa Fe for the Tri Alpha dance and will remain a few days as guests of Lillian Hessel-den.

H. A. Jastro of Bakersfield, Cal., is in town visiting his daughter, Mrs. Chaudbourne and attending local business interests.

Mrs. J. S. Elder of Mayer, Ark., is visiting her son, Mayor Elder. Another son, J. M. Elder, is also a guest at the Elder home.

LOCAL TALENT AT IT AGAIN.

Home dramatics, quiet for a few weeks along the Rio Grande, will come to life Friday of Christmas week, December 22, with a rollicking comedy "The Butterflies," staged in Odd Fellow's hall, under direction of Elwood Albright. This will be the second of the series of entertainments for the benefit of the Anthony Cottage sanitarium. Mr. Albright, has quite a little experience and has been successful putting on home talent plays, and has a clever play and excellent talent to work with this time. Mrs. Edna Metzgar, who played the lead so successfully in the recent production of "The Man From Home" will be leading lady, and Charlotte Holohan, who proved herself a clever dancer at the St. John's Guild Statehood celebration, will play the ingenue role. Gladys Mandell will take the part of the haughty motor and Mrs. Don Sterling will be cast in the only other feminine role. The men cast, up are Raymond Gladding in the lead, Dave Lane as the haughty and dignified English butler, Charles Andrews as the English society chap, Chas. Lemboke, as the heavy, Don Sterling as the tailor, and Elwood Albright in the eccentric role.

The staging will be accurate and the Fuhrmeyer-Cavanaugh orchestra will render music during the action of the play and between the three acts.

ANNUAL BAZAAR.

The Woman's club annual bazaar, held in the club rooms Friday afternoon and evening, was the mecca of the Christmas shoppers and a joy to the spectators as well as a profit to the promoters. The affair in the handsome decorations and patronage of society folk took on real social airs, and snatched not at all of commercialism.

Of course, everything was for sale, and so entirely beautiful that it was a pleasure to buy. Artistic things, artistically displayed, tempted the on-lookers, satisfactorily, and when the day was finished, the management were in possession of a very neat sum of money, and were conscious of being "sold." Really, nothing of value was left. From the daintiest trifles to the most expensive water color and bits of hand-painting everything had been pounced upon and borne away by the Christmas shoppers.

Those who went found it a splendid opportunity to purchase things unique, artistic and pretty at exceptionally low prices and they took advantage of the situation without the usual to-do and flurry of Christmas buying.

Especially beautiful was the art display.

ALBUQUERQUE NEW MEXICO

TINKERING WITH BROKEN STATE MACHINE.

Next year, for the first time, the people of New Mexico will cast their votes for a president of the United States. They will also elect a member of the house of representatives. Whether this vote will be cast for the republican or the democratic candidates depends in large measure upon the attitude of the men who have heretofore assumed to be the leaders of the party.

Indications already point to a continued effort on the part of Messrs. Luna, Bursum, Andrews and others of that ilk, to control the political destinies of the republican party. Just now these men are trying to make it appear that they control the federal patronage in New Mexico by placing the seal of their endorsement upon men they know to be favored by the president. This effort will fail. The people of New Mexico know only too well that the candidates for federal judge and United States district attorney endorsed by Delegate Andrews and Mr. Luna have nothing in common with either the delegate or the national committee. They know that neither Judge Pope nor Mr. Stephen B. Davis, Jr., need any endorsement from such men as Andrews and Luna. They know that the endorsement of Messrs. Andrews and Luna is sufficient to damn any candidate who has not the good fortune to be personally known to and enjoy the high regard of the president. For these reasons it is extremely unlikely that either Mr. Andrews or Mr. Luna will add to their prestige by endorsing Mr. Taft with recommendations regarding appointments of other affairs in New Mexico.

Mr. Luna's record as manager of the late and, to the republican party, disastrous campaign in New Mexico, is not such as to endear him to the president or to the leaders of the party in the nation. Mr. Andrews unfortunately for himself, is well known in Washington, and discriminating office seekers have learned to cultivate his enmity rather than his friendship.

But, notwithstanding his record, Mr. Andrews is a candidate for the United States senate from New Mexico, and Mr. Luna, while not personally a candidate, is said to harbor an ambition to name at least one of the senators. Mr. Luna's candidate is Holm O. Bursum of Socorro. Defeated in his effort to force Mr. Bursum down the throats of the people of New Mexico as their governor, Mr. Luna is said to cherish an ambition to make the legislature elect his protégé to the high office of senator of the United States. It may be safely predicted that Mr. Luna will recover from this ambition and be content to retire gracefully to the oblivion to which the people of New Mexico have consigned his candidate for governor.

It is possible that Mr. Andrews has a few friends in both houses of the legislature, and it is known that there are a number of members who are indebted to the delegate for contributions toward their campaign expenses, but the constituents of these men should see to it that they do not pay their political debts by voting for the unspeakable one for United States senator.

The republicans of New Mexico, who wish for the success of their party, and who desire that the new state should take her proper place as one of the great commonwealths of the American union, should have no time in bringing pressure to bear on their senators and representatives elected to the first state legislature to the end that the old gang which has long ruled and finally ruined the party, may be eliminated. The people should see to it that two progressive and capable men are elected to the United States senate.

The election of Andrews is unthinkable. An effort to elect Bursum would be to fly in the face of an expressed public sentiment. There can be no compromise. The first duty of the republican party is to retire these two men permanently from public life. If the people know them and know their records. The line of cleavage is sharply drawn. The people have the power; they have the opportunity. They must recognize their responsibility for the course their representatives may take when the legislature meets at Santa Fe.

CHANGING THE WORLD'S MAPS.

The piteous appeal of Persia against being divided up by Great Britain and Russia; the struggle between Turkey and Italy for the possession of Tripoli; the civil war in China, and the faces being made at one another by England and Germany, with the intimation that the latter soon will give England a chance to show her good will with respect to some German ambition in Africa, bring into the limelight the industrious new map-making in which several of the nations are at present engaged.

Not since one hundred years or so ago, when the new world maps made by Napoleon had their outlines again changed, has mankind been so busy musing upon the geographies as at present. Just what will be the outcome in Persia no one can tell, but in the present delicate situation of affairs in Europe it would seem that Great Britain and Russia will be allowed to do pretty much as they like there. Turkey, it is true, has appealed to the powers in favor of Persian independence, but as Turkey's interest in the matter probably consists only in wanting a small slice of the Shah's dominions herself, her protest may be withdrawn if her desires are satisfied.

Should Persia disappear from the list of independent countries, a work of conquest will have been completed that, so far, has attracted little general attention. On the whole surface of the globe there will then remain unconquered by the powers which may be regarded as the offshoots of the ancient Roman empire only China, Japan and Turkey. All the rest will be under the shadow of the cross which in the early centuries followed the Roman eagles over Europe, and which since the Roman empire fell has been triumphantly carried to every region of the earth.

Tripoli is now practically Italian territory and will remain so unless the wild tribesmen of the interior are able to recapture it. With the improbability of re-enforcements being sent to Turkey, this seems unlikely. With Tripoli belonging to Italy, the entire line of the south border of the Mediterranean will come under the rule of white nations.

France, with her free hand in Morocco, has suddenly gained the strip of northeastern Africa from the Pillars of Hercules to the point where the Draha empties into the Atlantic. And the Paris press rejoices because, as one paper recently asserted, the "adjustment with Germany creates a great French empire in North Africa."

Another change in the world's maps also was made by the French-German agreement. Part of the French Congo, far to the southward of the Sahara, is handed over to Germany, while Germany cedes to France her "duck hills," stretching from the Chari river to the Legone. Thus the map of the Dark Continent, so far as it is represented by European possessions and protectorates, is changed at several points.

In the Orient what may result from the revolution in China has yet to be determined. Even if the Middle Kingdom is preserved intact, there is no telling what may happen to Manchuria—whether it will be Chinese, Russian or Japanese. That there will be need of some new maps there, as there is now in Europe and Africa, seems assured.

GENEALOGY.

It is not strange that to many persons, convinced of the fact that every individual is the summation of his ancestors, research into antecedent and collateral relationships proves a subject of absorbing interest amounting sometimes to a ruling passion. It is well for the student of heredity and eugenics in their application to his own family and his personal social status to bear in mind that greatness of soul or intellect in a remote ancestor does not argue similar qualifications in a descendant in our own time; today's scion of many a proud name represents a sad declension, and the world smiles as it regards the strutting peacock who plumes and preens himself in the borrowed plumage of a bygone reputation.

There are societies in America based on the principle of ancestor worship. If their motivation is nothing more than this, they do not deserve to exist. It is not to a man's credit to be born into the world; he has no volition in the matter. The fact of descent from such an one, who bore himself valorously in battle two centuries ago, or another who had the good sense to emigrate to America before there were customs and quarantine, does not in itself provide a warrant for social adhesion in an organization with ancestry as the prime qualification for membership. Such societies have their useful function when they inculcate patriotism, when they guard such historic shrines and institutions as we have from the pillage and sacrilege of malice domestic or foreign. They are of no particular use when they meet only to glorify themselves or to burn incense to the notion that their members are set apart from ordinary mortals by the mere fact of alleged superior descent.

A Philadelphia woman applying for alimony says that she requires $700 a year for face powder. While a mere man has no right to claim knowledge about feminine mysteries, it seems as if the lady must use a shovel.

Milwaukee under Socialist government has added $25,000 a year to the municipal payroll. Adjusting the theory to the practice has always been the difficulty.

LET'S SEE—THAT PARCELS POST.

After years of dilatory, dilly-dallying deliberation and debate the United States has the postal savings bank. We proceeded slowly and cautiously through an experimental period, acting as if the idea might contain nitroglycerin. Reassured after a few tests in a few out-of-the-way experimental postoffices over the country, the postal savings bank has been distributed more and more widely until the assurance is with us that the government at Washington still lives and that comparatively few banks have been blown inward from the effect of the law's operation.

However, the old companion-piece of this idea—the parcels post—long has been hanging face to the wall in congressional cooling rooms. Occasionally the people have been reminded that this piece of proposed legislation is in cold storage, well preserved and out of all danger from fire. In the meantime, however, the great express companies of the country have been paying rich dividends upon stocks that have grown enormously above par value. Representatives in congress have expressed themselves as concerned immediately over the magnitude of the express business in this country. Proposals have been made that the railroads be forced to take over the business of the express companies and so bring the business under the direction of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Now that congress again is in session and before it has had opportunity to act or not to act on the matter of a parcels post, Collier's weekly makes the following uncolored announcement, dropping the topic within a paragraph:

"The editor of the Illinois Farmer has received from President Taft's secretary a letter which closes with this sentence: 'The president is strongly in favor of the establishment of a general parcels post and will recommend the same without qualification in his next message.' The democratic leaders in the lower house also favor the parcels post and the new chairman of the senate committee on postoffices is ardently promoting it."

The parcels post is no longer an experiment. To the extent that the United States mails now carry parcels of limited size and weight, the system is proved. To the extent that the United States mails carry packages of larger dimensions and great weights which have originated outside our own territory in other countries in the international postal union, the system is accepted. Fears of the small merchant as to the working out of the system must prove as absurd as were the fears of the great banks of the country when the postal savings banks were inaugurated.

We await President Taft's message in unqualified endorsement of the parcels post measure. With much more concern, however, we shall have to wait for congress' action or inaction upon it.

"You are perfect in every way except one," said the novelist George Randolph Chester to the wife who divorced him. "This woman," he added, "surpasses you in beauty. I must have that. My nature demands it—my soul cries out for it." If Chester's soul had done its crying out before he got married, he would have had more general sympathy. A woman who is perfect in every way except in physical beauty is a jewel that ought not lightly to be thrown away.

The colonel announces that he "will not support any one for the nomination in 1912, neither Mr. Taft nor any one else." Of course he cannot be expected to support himself, and yet he once declared, "If they don't take Taft they will get me." Is he giving us the same choice now?

Governor Swanson, of Virginia, holds an enviable record—during his term not a lynching occurred in his state. Now let us hope some Southern governor will do even better by a showing during his term not a murderer evaded punishment without warrant of justice.

The Chinese emperor has issued another proclamation in which he admits having committed a lot of mistakes. For a kid of five years he is a wonder when it comes to proclamation writing.

The news that W. E. D. Stokes has been made ill by the trial in which he is the principal witness was not a bit surprising. A lot of people who have read Mr. Stokes' testimony have felt pretty sick.

We hope the baby emperor of China does not devote all his time to writing proclamations and caring for the safety of foreigners—he should be sleeping a bit and absorbing pap occasionally.

Now that Canada will not join us she might please some people by annexing Champ Clark who could hardly refuse an invitation to carry out his program with the terms reversed.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson says that four hours work a day is enough for anyone. A good many people who are supposed to work eight and nine hours seem to be of the same belief.

The Rev. Mr. Gates is described as the "almoner" of John D. Rockefeller. Maybe he is, but that doesn't sound like what the Merritt brothers called him.

Roosevelt might be enticed into coming to the rescue of his presidential boom if Mr. Barnes of New York could be persuaded to antagonize it.

It was the wife of one of the jurors who revealed the plot to bribe the McNamara jury. Woman's alleged inability to keep a secret sometimes serves the ends of public justice.

A quarter of a million is to be spent in the erection of a moving picture theater for the insane in Washington. The films are said to be a great help—towards insanity?

After a wicked trust has gotten through with competitors there is not enough left of them to permit restitution. It may be necessary to establish a conscience fund.

Wiley's idea that we need more stoves and less pianos is a bit obscure. He meant better cooks and more piano tuners, maybe.

At present Oyster Bay is producing neither indorsement for the administration nor significant smiles for the insurgents.

Mr. Roosevelt's T. C. and I. experiences indicate that he made a wise selection when he went into literature instead of finance.

We must bear in mind that Dr. Cook took two trips on the George Washington. He can try over and over again.

Now that confessions are in vogue why not a word or two from Hobson?

The Sherman law hasn't made oil any cheaper, come to think of it.

In Lighter Vein

Applied Mathematics.

J. M. Herrie relates an instance of the late Professor Chrystal's readiness in applied mathematics. One day when he was producing on the blackboard these "spiders' webs in chalk," which were the despair of the under-learned, a student near the top of the room dropped a marble, which bumped down step by step, to the level of the rostrum. Chrystal, unheeding the giggles of the class, went on with his work. When the marble came to rest he observed, "Will the student at the end of bench 41 kindly stand wide and eighty feet in length and made by the marble in its descent."—London Globe.

Poor Man.

Two suffragettes met together, and the one had a grievance against the other.

"I am told," she said severely, "that you allow your husband to carry a latchkey. Is it possible?"

"Yes," answered the other, with an indulgent smile, "I do let the poor boy carry a latchkey; I must admit. But it doesn't fit the door. I just let him carry it to humor him. He likes to show it to his friends, you know, and make them think he's independent."—St. Louis Times.

Misunderstood.

"How about this fare?" demanded the stranger in New York.

"I haven't overcharged you, sir," declared the cabman.

"I know you haven't, and why haven't you? What sort of a deep game are you up to? Answer me, now!"—Washington Herald.

What He Objected to.

The hunter who had been mistaken for a deer and shot, roused up and beckoned to the hospital nurse.

"Understand," he said, "I don't care so much about being killed, but it's this being made game of that hurts my feelings."—Denver Republican.

The Reason Why.

"Why do you try to work off this old quarter on me?" demanded the cigar man, tartly.

"Because the street-car conductor wouldn't take it," the customer replied loftily.—Buffalo Express.

ROSSELL OFFICERS ARREST ALLEGED BOOTLEGGERS

Negro and His Wife Taken Into Custody; Twenty Pints of Whisky Confiscated in Raid On House.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Roswell, N. M., Dec. 9.—Policemen Daniel Kirkpatrick and J. J. Brown last night made a haul and seized twenty pints of bottled-in-bond whiskey at the home of James McNeice, a negro chef, who lives in a little shack on East Alameda street along the railway, across the track from the city water works plant.

The officers arrested Mrs. McNeice, who is said to be a half-breed negro and Indian woman, and released her on her recognizance to appear before Police Judge W. M. Witt.

Later the officers apprehended McNeice up-town and arrested him and placed him in jail, but he was released later by putting up a cash bond and he will also answer the charge of violating ordinance No. 225 at the same time of his wife's hearing.

It appears that the officers noticed a Mexican man enter the house and drawing close to the same heard something rattle like bottles. When the officers entered the house they searched him and discovered a pint bottle of whiskey and then entered the place and asked the woman of the house to open a trunk, which she at first refused to do, saying that she would not open the trunk unless the officers were prepared to show a search warrant.

Policeman Kirkpatrick told her that as it was night he could not secure a search warrant, but that he would sit down on the trunk until morning and the woman then decided to open the trunk which held the twenty pints of whiskey above mentioned. There were also some silver dollars in the tray of the trunk.

TUCUMCARI ENJOYS LOWER RATE ON WATER

Despite Extensive Improvements in Municipal Plant and Mains City Is Enabled to Cut Price to Consumer.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Tucumcari, N. M., Dec. 8.—The improvements on the municipal waterworks system are about completed, over twenty thousand feet of additional mains having been laid with twenty-one new fire hydrants. A portion of the lines are of six inch pipes and the balance four inch. Practically all of the suburban district is now supplied with city water. Work on the steel water tower is being rushed and it is thought that this, too, will soon be completed. Several hundred feet of large steel main will be installed as a connection between the tower and the wells. A minimum rate of one dollar and fifty cents for three thousand feet of water has been made by the city. This is a reduction of fifty cents over former prices and it is believed that the result will be a larger proportion of lawns throughout the city. A. D. Pankey has been made superintendent of water works. His former post of inspector of wiring having been filled by W. E. Bowen, formerly with the electric light company of this city.

The light company has strung additional lines throughout the residential district of Tucumcari, thus adding another convenience to the city. A movement is now on foot to give the city a modern street lighting system in place of the dilapidated and antiquated system now being used. A great deal of satisfaction is felt over the many changes being made in the improvement of the city.

The frame store building on East Main street, formerly occupied by the H. G. Looney grocery, has been removed and ground is being broken for the erection of the two stone business blocks, the contract for which was let last week to S. E. Dugins by Clayton N. M. parties. The buildings will each be twenty-five feet wide and eighty feet in length and will be built entirely of native sandstone, which is very abundant in this neighborhood.

E. P. Rees, who has been employed in the local offices of the E. P. & S. W. for nearly two years, has been promoted to the office of chief clerk which office was made vacant by the appointment of A. M. McCorgie to the agency at Duran. Mr. Rees has made many friends in the time he has been a resident of Tucumcari.

Experiments have been made at the government experiment station at this place during the last week, in the use of dynamite as an agent for loosening the subsoil preparatory to dry farming. The experiments were carried on by a northern powder firm and were witnessed by a number of men from this city. The use of dynamite in tree planting was also shown and made quite an impression on those present. The cost of the work in subsoiling is estimated to be from $7.50 to $15 an acre and that of tree planting from ten to twenty cents each. An acre of land was prepared so as to demonstrate the practicability of the method in farming. The results will be compared next summer between this land and land not so prepared.

The question of a creamery and butter factory for Tucumcari is still being agitated. The farmers and residents of this place being in hearty accord with the movement. Dr. F. S. Groves, W. L. Batson, of Endee, and others are making efforts to get the proposition in working order. A great deal of information relative to the operation of such a plant has been collected and the matter of arranging for a sufficient number of milk cows to make the work a success is at present being attended to. It is thought that approximately four hundred cows can be secured in the beginning and others added as the plant proves to be a success. Suitable rooms for the factory can be secured in Tucumcari, it is said, and money has already been arranged for with which to begin operations. It will require about three thousand dollars to purchase the necessary machinery, it is said. Plans are being laid in the neighborhood of Endee and San Jon to first separate the cream before being hauled to Tucumcari thereby saving considerable expense.

The local chapter of the W. C. T. U. is arranging for a public unveiling of the Frances Willard memorial window at the Center street M. E. church in the near future.

DEMENTED PATIENT ESCAPES; SHERIFF OVERTAKES HIM

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Raton, N. M., Dec. 8.—The Italian miner who escaped from the Miners' hospital Sunday while being there confined for treatment, was discovered yesterday afternoon wandering in the hills in the vicinity of Fisher's peak. The man was in a thoroughly exhausted and almost frozen condition when found by the searchers who had been continually on the hunt under the direction of Sheriff Abe Hixenbaugh since Sunday afternoon. He left the hospital without hat or coat, and with but one shoe on, and had since been wandering about the hills in an aimless way.

The offices of the Home Lumber and Mill company, formerly the business of Crossdale and Love, now under the management of W. M. Donlon, was entered some time during last night and $30 stolen from the safe. The combination dial was chiseled off and the safe lock broken by the burglar who was evidently no novice at the business. Several checks, notes and other valuable papers were taken, but thrown away by the safe-breaker.

play in charge of Mrs. H. E. Hay, Mrs. Fred Kerner and Mrs. Wooten, and in big demand were the articles for sale in that department.

Mrs. E. E. Tull and C. E. Lower had charge of the home cooking table and netted good proceeds. The end booth was under the direction of Mrs. Tom Wilkerson and Mrs. A. E. Mann, and the apron and fancy work booth in charge of Mrs. Felix Inca and Mrs. A. J. Shortle, both departments, doing a rushing business.

Mrs. R. Rodey, Mrs. D. H. Carns, Mrs. J. T. McLaughlin and Mrs. Amado Chavez headed the refreshment committee.

ELKS TO PLAY
SANTA CLAUS.

It has been said, and it is a fact worthy of reputation that the Elks will play Santa Claus to the kiddies of the town, who do not live in surroundings conducive to lavish generosity from old Kris Kringle.

Though no unwonted activity on the part of the committee in charge has been visible to the casual observer, we are taking for granted that they are saying little, but doing a deal of thinking. That the plans are being kept secret does but add interest to the undertaking.

The essential thing is, that the Christmas tree will be on hand—excuse me—on the stage, in Elks theater, Christmas night, and that all the youngsters in town are invited to the celebration. Santa Claus will officiate and hand out the toys and candies indiscriminately and right generously.

There will probably be a program and music, of course, to add all the hilarity needed to properly set off such an occasion.

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS TREE PLANNED.

Speaking of Christmas trees for the children, the Salvation Army has all set on foot a like enterprise. Captain Wendell and his aides are hard at work in preparation, and solicit needed and deserved help from the public.

Clothing and cast-off toys are requested and will aid greatly in bringing Christmas into the lives of the children, whose parents are financially unable to give the gifts of Yuletide.

The Salvation Army is too well known in the world of philanthropy to need commendation, and an organization which devotes all available money to caring for the poor and needy. In this case, funds are lacking and help solicited.

CLUBBOM.

The Ten Dons had their usual dining at E. B. Crilly's Tuesday night. Assiduous discussion of the elaborate menu was followed by thoughtful digestion of a paper on "Municipal Government," by H. E. Fox. Dependent seventh, not whether Ten Dons solved the problems of local municipal government or not. Prof. John Milne was honor guest of the Nine Dons in place of the absent one, who is wandering in distant climes.

Mrs. Harry Kelly was hostess to the Monday Afternoon Card club the past week. The usual in cards and an unusually good result. Ethel Saint will be hostess next time.

COUNTRY HOME
JOLLIFICATION.

The hospitable Menaul home, north of town, was the scene of a big jollification Friday night, when the Menaul boys, assisted by their mothers, entertained the Kings Daughters of the Presbyterian church and their friends. The trip back and forth was a jolly hayride party as the Menauls sent in a big wagon, hay covered and for conveyance of their guests to and from the scene of merrymaking. Mrs. Easterday, the patroness of the Kings Daughters, had promised to chaperon them. When time for the party to leave the church where they had assembled, it was found that the supposed and expected Mrs. Easterday was Charles Andrews masquerading in some of her attire and carrying a work basket with needle-work conspicuously displayed. He was fined, but not expelled, for the perpetrated joke. Arriving at the Menaul home the merry crowd gathered around the immense, cheery fireplace when the frolic commenced. "Eats" were apples, nuts, cakes, sweet elder and all the good things of farm life. Those participating in the jolly ride and evening of good fun were Misses Alma Swaine, Janet Hill, Ada Vaughn, Edna McChesney, Pauline Postel, Pearl Wolking, Hulda Wolking, Lillian Gustafson, Irma Wolking, Edith Joyce, Henrietta Wolking, Zoe McKelrick, Josephine Mordy, Grace Mordy, Beryl Kenworthy, Helen Wardle, Adele Howell, Anna Odjard, Florence McCracken, Nettie Elbers, Margaret Anson, Hatlie Rachford, Evelyn Sturdevant, Messrs. William Roberts, Walter Jones, Phillip Jones, Howard Livingston, Dave Keller, Walter Rababe, Harry Wolking, Fred Saas, Ron Kenworthy, Charles Andrews, Paul William and John Menaul.

NOTED ITALIAN PIANIST TO APPEAR HERE.

The music lovers are anticipating the appearance of Giuseppe Fabbrini, the noted pianist, in concert during Christmas week under the auspices of the Athletic association of the University of New Mexico. Fabbrini, a graduate of the Royal Conservatory at Naples, where he was later a teacher, is considered the foremost pianist of Italy. He has appeared with great success in European countries and has recently come to America to become identified with the Music Conservatory at Minneapolis. It is through Joyce, William Roberts, Walter Jones, Phillip Jones, Howard Livingston, Dave Keller, Walter Rababe, Harry Wolking, Fred Saas, Ron Kenworthy, Charles Andrews, Paul William and John Menaul.

The concert, in itself, will be a rare treat as Mr. Fabbrini is considered one of the world's leading pianists.

CRADLE ROLL RECEPTION.

The first annual cradle roll reception of the Christian church was held at the church, Monday afternoon, and was entirely successful. Mothers and babies were out full force, though very naturally, babies predominated. Mrs. Len Leach, superintendent of the cradle roll department, and Mrs. Gentry, chairman of the home department, were hostesses, and saw to it that everybody had a good time. The wee tots, dressed in best bib and tucker, and adorned with smiles, seemed to be having the time of their young lives. Refreshments, especially calculated to please the youngsters, were served, and everything done to make the first cradle roll reception a memorable event. A feature of the afternoon was the musical program participated in by Mrs. C. H. Carnes, Mrs. Hardeman and Miss Sturdevant.

LIVE CONTEST.

A membership contest is on between the Fraternal Brotherhood members, who are divided into two sides, the wearers of red badges and gold tags. The contest is drawing to a close now and every effort is being put forth by each side to be acclaimed the winner.

Since the attendance of truant members and platform stunts is gathering in delinquents and showing off their star performers. Each meeting, therefore, is a merry one. At the recent election of officers the following were chosen: President, Mr. Albers; vice president, Mrs. Albers; treasurer, Mrs. Whitson; secretary, Mrs. Walling; chaplain, Mrs. Stewart; sergeant, Al Rowdick; mistress-at-arms, Mrs. Gilbert; sentinel, Mr. Roehl; and outer sentinel, Miss Beck.

HOT TEA FOR TIRED SHOPPERS.

You Christmas shoppers, and that's everybody, will no doubt be interested to know that the social committee of the Y. W. C. A., of which Erna Ferguson is chairman, with well known girls as assistant committee members, will serve tea in Toyland at Rosenwalds, the third floor, each day from 4 to 6 o'clock, beginning Saturday, December 16, until Christmas eve. That the place will prove a popular rendezvous for the tired shoppers goes without saying. Hot tea and wafers will be the refreshments served.

CHURCH SOCIETY ENTERTAINED.

Howard Livingston was host Monday evening to the Young Peoples' Mission society of the Lead Avenue Methodist church, when the routine business was followed by an evening of song and frolic. At the brief business meeting, preceding the social fricas, Miss Elizabeth Poe conducted the devotional exercises, and Miss Clara Wilson read a chapter from the book "Under Marching Orders," which the society is reading at this time. Other business transactions and the fun was on.

Fred Calkins and Tom Calkins, both clever in comedy impersonations, had readings, which took tremendously, with the crowd, and Clara Wilson was also heard to excellent advantage in a recitation.

Musical numbers interspersed the readings in the altogether impromptu program, and everybody that could, did a "stunt." After which games and refreshments prolonged and finished the thoroughly enjoyable evening.

WEEK-END
BAZAAR.

Another of the church auxiliaries to hold an ante-Christmas bazaar, was the Methodist Mission society of the Highland Methodist church, which held forth with home cooking and fancy work Friday and Saturday. The ideal shoe store stand on Second street. The articles for sale were temptingly displayed, and a big crowd was attracted to the bazaar each day. Lunch was served both days, the excellent spread being well patronized.

FINAL 1911
MEETING.

The final meeting of the year of the Christian Women's Board of Missions, was held Thursday afternoon, at the parsonage, when Mrs. Williams was hostess and conducted the meeting. Programs for the 1912 meetings were outlined and other business relative to the closing year was considered. An hour of social diversion followed in charge of Mrs. Gentry, chairman of the program committee. After the necessary meeting the ladies of the Aid society held a brief session to arrange for a social to be given in the near future.

SOCIAL TEA AND SALE.

The social tea and home cooking sale of the Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist church, held Thursday afternoon at the parsonage, was highly successful, both in a social and commercial way. Mrs. Beckman as hostess was assisted by Mrs. Byron King, Mrs. M. E. Hickey, Mrs. Charles Graywood, Mrs. G. P. Jones, Mrs. Moulton and Mrs. M. Matthews. Mrs. B. A. Baker was in charge of the home cooking table. A good crowd was out and thoroughly enjoyed the social afternoon and splendid refreshments.

RECEPTION FOR NATIONAL OFFICER.

Supreme President Frank F. Rose of the Fraternal Union of America, was guest of the local union last night, when a special meeting and elaborate reception was held in his honor at A. G. T. W. hall. Mr. Rose is a prominent fraternalist and has jurisdiction over 700 lodges, of which Albuquerque has one, which is, at the time, in a very flourishing condition. Mr. Rose, in a splendid talk, expressed himself as pleased over local conditions and gave out encouraging reports of the national work. Arrangements, perfected during the day, resulted in a handsomely appointed banquet and the members turned out full force to give a fitting welcome to the head of the union.

ODD FELLOWS TO GIVE DANCE.

Wednesday evening the Odd Fellows will give the third series of dances, which they have under way for benefit of the Odd Fellows home at Roswell. The dance will be given in their splendid ball room, with the best in music and all arrangements are being perfected for a good time for all who care to accept the hospitality of the Odd Fellows on that night. The committee in charge is composed of G. W. Dexter, J. H. Collier, J. Whiteside and T. Wells.

MEETINGS OF CHURCH SOCIETIES.

The Lutheran ladies had one of their delightful afternoon "coffee" Wednesdays at the church, which brought out the members of the congregation and friends of the society in goodly numbers. Mrs. Oberholzer and Mrs. Keeler were the hostesses, and acquitted themselves very creditably, as dispensers of hospitality and delicious viands.

The Ladies Aid society of the Central Baptist church, who are just now engaged in various enterprises, raising money toward a church building fund, met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Audick. Business of importance was transacted, after which a jolly social session occupied the attention of the members, who turned out in full force for the affair.

The Women's Missionary Circle of the First Baptist church held an important business meeting, Thursday, at the home of Mrs. L. O. Anderson, 200 North Edith. Following the business session was a delightful social hour.

St. John's Guild met in the vestry room of St. John's church Wednesday afternoon. It was solely a business gathering and many important matters relative to the parish work came up for discussion.

The Lutheran ladies had one of their delightful afternoon "coffee" Wednesdays at the church, which brought out the members of the congregation and friends of the society in goodly numbers. Mrs. Oberholzer and Mrs. Keeler were the hostesses, and acquitted themselves very creditably, as dispensers of hospitality and delicious viands.

The Ladies Aid society of the Central Baptist church, who are just now engaged in various enterprises, raising money toward a church building fund, met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Audick. Business of importance was transacted, after which a jolly social session occupied the attention of the members, who turned out in full force for the affair.

The Women's Missionary Circle of the First Baptist church held an important business meeting, Thursday, at the home of Mrs. L. O. Anderson, 200 North Edith. Following the business session was a delightful social hour.

St. John's Guild met in the vestry room of St. John's church Wednesday afternoon. It was solely a business gathering and many important matters relative to the parish work came up for discussion.

Mrs. Collier was hostess Friday afternoon to the Good Cheer club, which is especially busy just now, making Christmas gifts for the orphans of departed Odd Fellows.

Mrs. J. H. Wear entertained her Bible class, the Kings Daughters of the Gold and Broadway church of Christ, yesterday afternoon at a very enjoyable social affair. Games, music and a prettily appointed luncheon passed a merry afternoon for the young folks.

The ladies of the Central Baptist church had a home-cooking sale yesterday, at 207 East Central, which was largely patronized by members of the congregation and friends of the church. In addition to the sale of home cooking a lunch was served during the day at the stand, and a fine dinner last night from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m.

Consumption Often Develops
From Pneumonia

Consumption readily attacks those who have had Pneumonia. Many sufferers from Tuberculosis give a history of having had Pneumonia. The lungs thus weakened are more easily attacked by the germs that cause Consumption.

For all those with "weak lungs," especially those who have had Pneumonia,
Eckman's Alternative is the appropriate remedy. Cures of Consumption are accomplished by Eckman's Alternative. But take it in time. There is no wisdom in waiting until Tuberculosis is established.
Health is never fully valued until sickness comes. A remarkable recovery follows.

"Geschieden: I wish I had known of Eckman's Alternative two years ago.
Since taking it following a bad attack of Pneumonia, I have gained twenty-eight pounds, and I cannot but be very thankful to you and the Almighty God for the great blessing and change of health it has brought me."

Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung troubles, and in upbuilding the

GRIP LEFT HER WRECK PE-RU-NA RESTORED HER

MRS. LAURA BERBERICK.

Grip and Catarrh.
Mrs. Laura Berberick, No. 1111 Wilcox Ave., Hoboken, New Jersey, writes: "Four years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe, and was confined to bed, and when I came up after my sickness I was troubled with hoarseness and stime in head and throat, and was told I had catarrh. I took some medicine, but without much benefit."

"Every winter since, for four years, I had had la grippe (that winter three times), and the catarrh grew worse. I could not sleep at night. Was all day long in bed, and when I came up after my sickness I was troubled with hoarseness and stime in head and throat, and was told I had catarrh. I took some medicine, but without much benefit."

"HAD I could not be down or GRIP sleep at night. Was all day long in bed, and when I came up after my sickness I was troubled with hoarseness and stime in head and throat, and was told I had catarrh. I took some medicine, but without much benefit."

Singing Star and Army of Pretty Girls in Glad Gowns Provide Pleasing Show For the Gods.

The Red Rose is a remarkable for a star that could sing, dance, look pretty and really act. Think of that, please, for a musical comedy. And it was the "musical comedy" that that ever held the boards at Ebb's theater.

When the curtain had rung down on the first act, the audience swallowed its disappointment and introduced the band brigade gloriously. There had been no song that rang in your head, and nearly not past your lips that puckered with melody, there had been nothing startling in the way of recitatory and nothing to vividly remember except the gorgeous purple creation of which the leading lady gave us a brief glimpse just before the curtain descended and pearly as it was, it wasn't worth two dollars. But the second act. What an act!

Sartorial memory gone mad. The chorus girls changed often, and came out with less on, than the feeble time and changing scenes would permit. At least, the uninitiated would be led to so think. But they managed it beautifully and tripped out looking prettier each time. There has been a great benefit to my health. It has given me blood and strength. I can lie down and sleep without being troubled. I have no pain, headache, or noise in my head."

Catarrh of Head.
Mrs. A. L. Wetzel, 1023 Ohio St., Terre Haute, Indiana, writes: "When I began to take your medicine I could not smell nor hear a church bell ring. Now I can both smell and hear. When I began SMELLING your treatment my head AND AND was terrible. I had bad HEARING and could not hear noises RESTORED. In my head. I followed your advice faithfully and took Peruna as you told me. Now I might say I am well. Three months ago I went around like a chaff, now I feel brisk and active. I will always praise Peruna."

were no hobbled gowns. Goodness, no. Nothing as passe as that. But "musical" skirts and all so exceedingly graceful and pretty that the women in the audience wished they were not considered wicked."

And twas then we discovered Zoe Barnett and her particular brand of comedy prima donna. Her vivid beauty was the first thing that dawned upon the audience. She wore one, two three—and there may have been another lavishly stunning frock—and seemed to have studied setting off her eyes like beauty as well as other things.

Her singing abilities came forth surprisingly in two of the best song numbers of the evening. "The Queen of Vanity Fair" and the waltz duet, "The Days of the Merry Widow," there it was, duet to every musical comedy. This one was called "Love and Beauty." Why, one could not gather from the bantering little song which Miss Barnett sang from a swing, looking the while bewitchingly pretty. But that was as pretty a name as any, and the waltz served as an introduction of Miss Barnett's third talent, dancing, waiting and bending, that proved to the audience had surmised, that she wore a corsetless rock.

A really dramatic finale ended the scene and we found Miss Barnett could act. One fancied her histrionic abilities might carry her through a stage career if she had no voice.

The third and final act was also gorgeously gaily and rather tumult. At the opening, the star tried a little of the "four flush art," dancing with an English ballet, led the "Students' Glide," a bohemian dancing thing, and sang with a handsome men's chorus, another song. So much for the leading lady—and that's about all.

Except the chorus and the wonderful gowns, and they have been mentioned. Even the men's chorus was almost human. Actually good looking and not the usual stiff variety of the masculine chorus.

Of course there wasn't much plot, but whoever expected plot in a musical comedy? The play was distinctive, also for the elaborate scenic equipment and four, no, five new jokes. The comedy, though, of "The Red Rose" is not a remarkably strong exhibition of funny work. Ernest W. Looby, as the Englishman whose every mistake was "My error, my error" was the star comedian though Joseph W. Standish as the picture dealer, waiter and all-around funny man, ran him a close second in the audience's favor.

Grace Ellsworth, his actual and acting mate, had a tolerable voice and their song number "We'd Like To Be On a Horseback With You" was a taking proposition.

The two American millionaires, rival rubber kings with matrimonial ambitions for their offspring, were well acted by Maurice Derry and Edwin Burns, and Sidney Broughlin, as Dick Lorimer, the artist's model, proved himself a comedian of ability, carrying off his difficult part to perfection. Margaret de Von did the Bohemian girl sort of risquely and very successfully, and Olive Depp as the American heiress, looked nice and seemingly wasn't intended for any other purpose unless to marry the Englishman.

Other parts were well cast and the play good as musical comedies go nowadays.

STEEL INQUIRY IS TO BE CONTINUED DESPITE SUIT

House Committee Unanimously Decides That Object of Investigation is to Recommend Legislation.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Washington, Dec. 9.—All differences of opinion between members of the house committee of inquiry into the United States Steel corporation, were settled today and it was decided unanimously to continue the investigation in spite of the government suit against the steel corporation.

The object of the investigation will be to enable the committee to recommend legislation.

Further hearings will commence on Monday.

"The objection made by counsel for the steel corporation," the committee announced, "to the further continuance of the investigation, was based upon the ground that the government had filed a bill in the courts of New Jersey against the United States Steel corporation seeking its dissolution under the anti-trust law."

"As to this objection, it is our unanimous opinion that the committee should continue the investigation as if no proceeding upon the part of the United States government were now pending against said corporation; but not for the purpose of determining the questions involved in the action brought by the government against the United States Steel corporation and any inquiry into the subjects embraced in that action should be made for the purpose of enabling the committee to recommend such further legislation as in its opinion is desirable. Touching all other matters the committee will proceed as heretofore."

Members of the committee expressed themselves as pleased with the settlement of the question of procedure. It involves taking the question to the floor of the house and it is calculated, has asserted discord in the democratic ranks.

Italians Ordered Expelled.

Berlin, Dec. 9.—A dispatch from Smyrna today says a decree of general expulsion against all Italians has been issued there.

AGED WOMAN IS MURDERED BY BURGLAR

Following Robbery of His Victim, Slayer Set Fire to House to Conceal Evidence of His Crime.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Leavenworth, Kan., Dec. 9.—Neighbors found the body of Mrs. B. Gray, 79 years old, in the ruins of her house near Waldron, Missouri, nine miles southeast of here today, after fire had destroyed the building. Officers think a burglar murdered her and then set fire to the building.

Mrs. Gray was the widow of an old soldier and lived with her two sons, James and William Gray. Early today the sons drove in from the Gray farm which is two miles from Waldron.

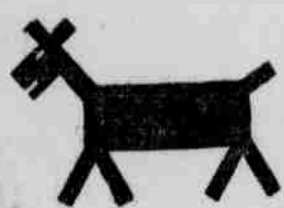

Before they departed the sons declared tonight, their mother had completed her task of cleaning the upstairs part of the house.

Harry Kimberlake, operator at the depot at Waldron, who saw the flames and ran to the Gray home, says that when he entered the house the second floor was afire. There was no fire on the first floor and as Kimberlake glanced about he saw the dinner cooking on the kitchen stove and the dining table set, as if a visitor were expected.

Kimberlake called loudly for Mrs. Gray but could not find her. He then tried to force his way up the stairway to the second floor but flames forced him back. Kimberlake says that when he was returning home from work at 2 o'clock this morning he noticed a man standing in the yard but supposed it was one of the family.

The police theory is that Mrs. Gray was struck down while preparing dinner; that the murderer then carried her body to the second floor and throwing it into a bed, set fire to the mattress. It has been neighborhood gossip that Mrs. Gray always kept from $200 to $300 about the house.

FARMERS OF ELIDA VALLEY RAISE COTTON

Experiments Conducted This Year Prove This Crop Can Be Grown Profitably in That Section.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Elida, N. M., Dec. 9.—It has been thoroughly demonstrated that the soil around Elida is especially adapted to the raising of cotton. A farmer living south of Elida passed through town the first of the week with three loads of seed cotton en route to the cotton gin at Portales. This farmer planted about twenty acres of a particular variety of seed this year that he thought would do well in this climate. His fondest hopes were realized as it would have yielded about half a bale to the acre had he been in a position to have picked it when it first opened. He seems to think that cotton can be raised here if the farmers will be careful in selecting their seed and get a variety that is adapted to high altitude. The cotton crop was better in this particular neighborhood than almost any other crop planted and it is safe to say that there will be quite an acreage of cotton planted next season. Several farmers around Elida planted cotton this year and up to the extreme dry weather, dry weather that cut the Texas and Oklahoma crop to almost nothing, these crops looked as if they would produce almost equal to the black land of Texas. However, the extreme dry weather during August was too much for it. Had it not been for this dry weather at this particular time of the year there is little doubt but that the country around Elida would have produced enough cotton to have satisfied all the farmers that Elida valley would grow this money crop.

Santa Fe Will Operate Agricultural Demonstration Train On New Mexico Lines

Agricultural College to Co-Operate With Great Railway System in Important Educational Enterprise Which Will Reach Farmers and Livestock Growers of Every Section of New State; Complete Equipment For Showing Dairying, Stock Raising and Other Industries Will Be Carried; Starts January 15; Prof. J. D. Tinsley to Be in Charge.

Starting on or about January 15, next, the Santa Fe railway system will operate to all points on its line in New Mexico the first Santa Fe Agricultural Demonstration Train.

Announcement of the completion of arrangements for the train was made here yesterday by J. D. Tinsley, agricultural demonstrator of the Santa Fe who with Mr. C. L. Seagraves, general colonization agent of the Santa Fe system, has been at work on the project for several weeks past in connection with the management of the New Mexico agricultural college which will furnish the exhibits and demonstration equipment of the train.

Agricultural demonstration trains have been operated by the Santa Fe and other railroads along their lines in other states with most beneficial results to farmers and stockgrowers. The completion of the plans for the New Mexico train is the most convincing evidence yet furnished that the new state is ready to enter upon the serious work of agricultural and industrial development.

The Santa Fe's first agricultural demonstration train in New Mexico will consist of six cars with complete equipment for lectures and agricultural demonstration work. With Mr. Tinsley who will be in charge of the train will be ten experienced lecturers who will be prepared to address farmers and stockgrowers and to advise with them upon all these matters in which they are most deeply interested. The majority of these lecturers will be from the New Mexico agricultural college, where they have had the special training most needed in meeting the problems confronting the farmers of this region.

The train itself will be an agricultural college on wheels with lectures, lecture room, exhibits of grain and other farm products, dairy products, livestock and farm machinery. In a word, everything needed to carry practical education to the farmers.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE TO EQUIP TRAVELING SCHOOL.

The New Mexico Agricultural College will furnish the demonstration equipment for the traveling school. This will include specimens of dairy and beef cattle, hogs, poultry, etc., a complete exhibit of farm products for demonstration work with the farm machinery necessary. The exhibit material carried will enable the lecturers to illustrate completely all work done in the college. The train will stop at Mesilla Park and will be selected to serve along most practical lines. The lecturers will include President W. E. Garrison, and Director Luther Foster of the agricultural college and experienced lecturers and men from the various departments who will lecture and advise on special subjects. For the first time the New Mexico agricultural college will be carried direct to the people; to the farmers and stockgrowers who are most in need of the information and experience gained by years of experiment at the college.

EQUIPMENT OF TRAIN TO BE ABSOLUTELY COMPLETE.

The equipment of the train will be complete to the last detail. In addition to the motive power the Santa Fe railroad will furnish first, one 40 ft. automobile car in which will be carried specimens of dairy and beef cattle.

The second car in the train will be a 40 ft. flat car to be used for exhibiting the live stock.

The third car will be a 48 ft. automobile car carrying hogs, poultry and dairy apparatus.

The fourth car will be a 50 ft. baggage car carrying a complete farming exhibit for use in illustrating the lecture and demonstration work.

The fifth car will be a coach with raised platform for use as a lecture room.

The sixth car will be a Santa Fe business car for the use of the manager of the train, lecturers and others.

The fitting out of the train will be done in the Albuquerque shops when the cars will be run to Mesilla Park where the college authorities will install the equipment.

TRAIN TO VISIT EVERY STATION ON SANTA FE.

Following the equipment to Mesilla Park the train will move south to La Tuna where actual work will begin. The final schedule will be announced in ample time to give every point notice of arrival of the train. At practically every station a stop of an hour will be made. Longer stops will be made at the larger towns and at several points night meetings will be held.

The first day the train will make points between Las Tuna and Rincon, including Las Cruces.

Second day, Rincon to Deming, thence to San Marcial.

Third day, Rincon to Albuquerque, night meeting at Albuquerque.

Fourth day, Albuquerque to Las Vegas, with a side trip to Santa Fe.

Fifth day, Las Vegas to Springer.

Sixth day, Springer to Raton.

Seventh day, Raton to Las Vegas, with night meeting at Las Vegas.

Eighth day, Las Vegas to Albuquerque.

Ninth day, Albuquerque to Vaughn.

Tenth day, Vaughn to Tolan.

Eleventh day, Tolan to Clovis, with night meeting at Clovis.

Twelfth day, Clovis to Roswell, with night meeting at Roswell.

Thirteenth day, Roswell to Carlsbad.

Fourteenth day, Carlsbad to Lovington.

The above schedule including stops between the points named, while practically complete, is subject to change and does not include stops over Sunday when the train will not be run.

Definite announcement of the arrival and time of stops in each town will be made in ample time so that the people of each district may have ample notice.

TRAIN OF INTEREST TO ALL NEW MEXICO.

The objects behind the running of this train are of interest to every one concerned in the development of New Mexico. One of the most important features in connection with it is the fact that the Santa Fe railroad recognizes that agriculture has now reached a point in New Mexico where it demands attention and the expenditure of large sums of money in educational work. The prime object in the running of the demonstration train is educational. But one of its most important results will be in the awakening of interest among the farmers, which is bound to result from the effort made by the railroad and the Agricultural College. The equipment of the train will be complete. Every lecture will be of the most practical nature, and during the time the train is stopping in any station, any farmer or stockgrower may have the advice of a trained and experienced man, upon any subject he may bring up.

In this connection especial attention will be given to the organization of girls' and boys' industrial clubs. It is not the purpose to make these strictly "corn growing clubs" as has been done in many of the older states; for many of the New Mexico districts demand other forms of contest. But it is the purpose to lay the foundation, during the tour of this demonstration train, for the organization of industrial clubs in which contests of various kinds may be inaugurated; and to make these clubs take the place of the industrial feature in our schools, until such time as the industrial department may be established in the common school system of the state.

This feature of the organization of the Children's industrial clubs is considered most important by the management of the train and the teachers are urged to make every effort to have every pupil who can be reached present when the train arrives. To this end special notice of the time of arrival of the train will be sent to every district which may be reached on the tour.

Definite dates covering the demonstration train's schedule with time at every station will be announced within the next ten days.

LAS CRUCES HAS FORGED AHEAD DURING 1911

Year Just Closing Has Seen City of Crosses Grow to One of Leading Towns in Southern New Mexico.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Las Cruces, N. M., Dec. 9. — It is summing up the advancement made by Las Cruces during the year of 1911, it has been found to be the greatest year in the history of "The Crosses."

More new buildings have been erected, more streets opened, more public enterprises launched, greater increase in population, more business fields opened and, in fact, the city of Las Cruces has taken on an air of advancement never before equalled.

Las Cruces has a population of 5,000. It is the largest city in southern New Mexico and fifth in size in the "Sunshine State." Situated as it is in the heart of the great Mesilla valley, it has a large population living close that depend on the merchants for supplies. Population is increasing rapidly, most of the newcomers being of the progressive type that bring money into the community and help develop it.

During the past year $300,000 have been spent on buildings. Instead of the few dark adobe huts of days gone by, the new buildings are modern and substantial. Some of the new buildings erected this year are: The First State Bank building, a bank occupying the ground floor and offices on the second floor. The new Masonic Temple, erected at a cost of $20,000, is another fine new building that would grace any street. The new Murphy building, the new Freeman building, the new Mitchell building, the handsome new Farah building, the new Kansas building, the new Way building, Las Cruces Drug Store building, $10,000 gymnasium at the college, and scores of modern residences. Many buildings have also been remodelled, making them more up-to-date.

There are many new enterprises in the field. Mr. Morley has opened a cigar factory. Freeman Brothers are manufacturing concrete blocks for building purposes. The Electric and Ice plant has doubled its capacity. A new lumber yard and contracting firm has entered the field. Several new dry goods stores, grocery stores, and other businesses. In fact, the number of business firms has nearly doubled the past year.

The engineers of the United States army ran the lines for the first streets in 1847. Two or three stories on Main street and a few adobe huts made up the struggling little village. A few natives plowed the fields and herded cattle and sheep on the neighboring hills, or worked at the mines in the Organ mountains. Upon the coming of the Santa Fe railroad, the little adobe village took on a new life and has been steadily advancing since that time. There are now many blocks of paved streets, several miles of concrete sidewalks, a city park covering an entire block, seven hotels, three school buildings, a fine depot, Loretta Academy, six church buildings, five banks, three lumber yards and many other substantial enterprises that help make a city.

The public schools of Las Cruces are second to none in the state. The main school building is modern and accommodates the 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th grades. The other buildings are used for the primary classes. Principal Wagner is assisted by a corps of 13 experts. The Loretta Academy is a girl's boarding school. Some 200 girls attend this institution. The New Mexico Agricultural college, located just south of Las Cruces, is the largest and best equipped institution of learning in New Mexico. This college has an income from the government and the state that amounts to over $100,000 annually. It has 100 acres for the experiment station and 10 buildings.

The equipment is valued at $100,000. Forty-five instructors are employed at this college.

The financial center of southern New Mexico is in Las Cruces. The oldest bank, the Bowman Bank and Trust company, was founded in 1884. This institution has a capital stock of $50,000. The First National bank, the second institution in point of age, has a capital of $50,000. The First State bank and The First Savings bank, both founded this year, have a combined capital of $50,000. More recently the United States government made the Las Cruces postoffice a Postal Savings bank.

The country surrounding Las Cruces is one that is as substantial as the soil. Forty thousand acres are under cultivation in the Mesilla valley. Alfalfa, wheat, fruit, vegetables, cotton, and many other crops are grown on these lands. The mesas on the east and west side of the Rio Grande afford grazing for thousands of head of stock. The Organ and San Andres mountains are rich in minerals and many people employed by the mines buy their supplies in Las Cruces. Three mines are now being developed and all are hailed to Las Cruces, a distance of 16 miles. When the Elephant Butte Dam is completed and the 40,000 acres under cultivation is increased to 113,000, the population of Las Cruces will number 10,000 or 15,000. New manufacturing, canneries, mills and other enterprises will induce capital to invest where an adequate water supply is assured.

In all, Las Cruces has had a very successful year. Should the next five years to come be as successful as the year of 1911, this city will be second only to Albuquerque in wealth and population.

NUMEROUS CASES STRICKEN FROM COURT DOCKET

Judge Abbott Takes Steps to Clear Record As Far As Possible Before Dissolution of Territorial Judiciary.

It is the first time in a number of years that the docket of the district court of Bernalillo county was called yesterday afternoon by Judge Ira A. Abbott, and 147 cases of long standing disposed of by striking them from the docket, will leave to reinstate on motion by the district attorney.

In the list of cases were twenty-two cases, including indictments pending against several persons, including one against a woman, for keeping open his saloon upon the day of the election of delegates to the New Mexico constitutional convention. By agreement with the district attorney, one of these cases will be selected and all parties will go to the supreme court with the case for final decision.

There are still remaining on the docket about one hundred cases which will be taken up as soon as possible. Since Judge Abbott is to remain in Albuquerque all this week, it is believed that he will re-convene the petit jury and proceed to try jury cases, in an effort to further clear the docket.

Husband Sued For Divorce.

A divorce suit was filed by A. A. Padilla as attorney for Mrs. Cecilia Garcia de Montoya, against Daniel Garcia, asking that the bonds of matrimony heretofore existing between them be severed because of the alleged mistreatment of the plaintiff by the defendant. It is alleged, among other things, that he continually insulted her, mistreated and abused her, without cause or provocation, and upon one occasion locked her out of the house, she asks for the division of the community property, which it is said, amounts to some $1,200 in value. Some of this is real estate located in Pleasanton, in Fresno, Cal.

CONGRESS MADE UP OF POLITICAL COWARDS

Representative Dies of Texas Enlivens Debate On Pension Bill By Attack On Notorious Legislation.

[The Morning Journal Special Licensed Wire.]

Washington, Dec. 9.—Characterizing his associates in congress as "political cowards" on the subject of pension legislation, and declaring that the Sherwood pension bill is a $50,000,000 contribution to the pockets of the pensioners, Representative STANLEY DIES, a Texas democrat, swung the pension debate in the house of representatives out of its routine channels for a half hour this afternoon.

Mr. Dies declared that members were not voting their convictions on the pension subject but were supporting an increase of pensions for fear of losing their seats.

"The democratic party abundance in the house is much cowardice on this question as does the republican party," said Mr. Dies. "Some of my friends say that if we do not give the soldiers this money we will not be returned to congress."

Representative Dies said he appreciated the fact that "four thousand or five thousand pension holders after a scared congressmen, leaves no room for argument."

"What will it be when we have a civil war?" he demanded. "There are one million employees of the government now demanding to be pensioned. The president has capitulated. I take it that our leaders on the democratic side will capitulate as readily as he."

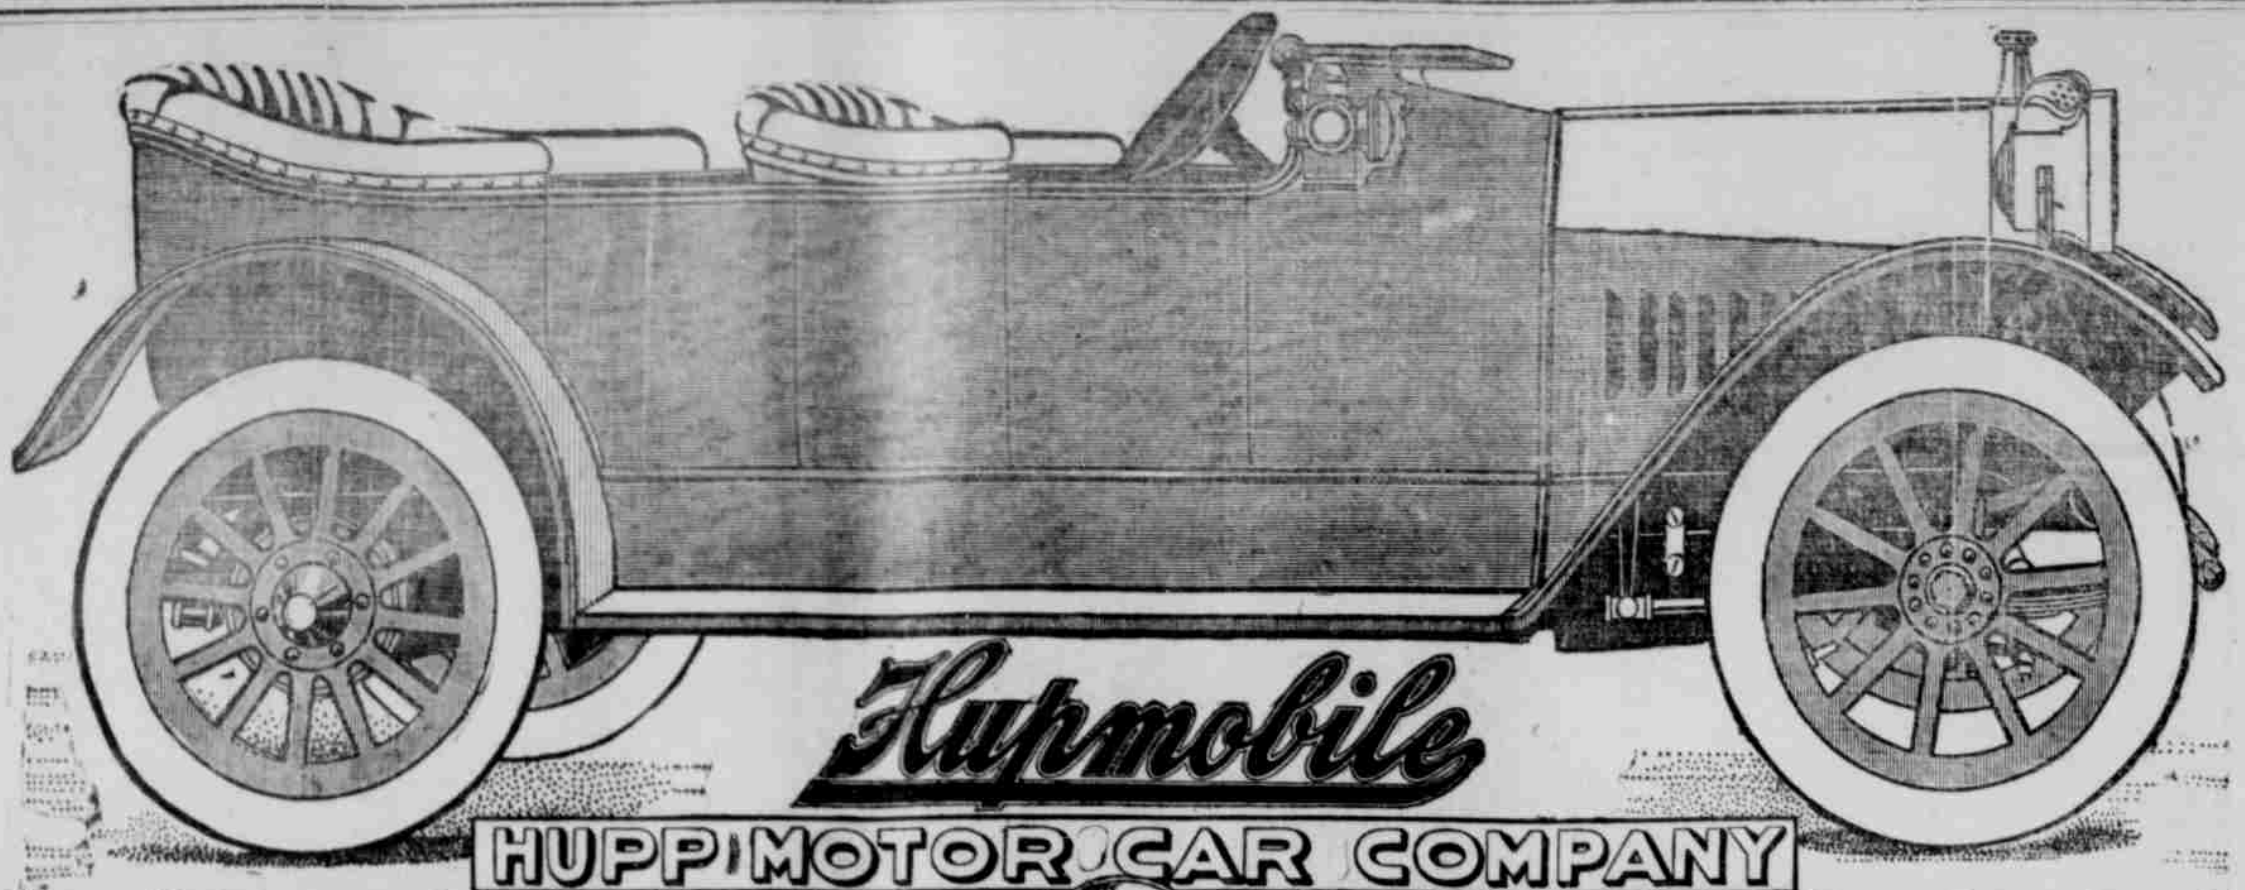

"It may be that to be honest upon these questions would cost us the presidency; it may be it would leave some of our democratic seats vacant. I have about come to the conclusion that there are great many made here on both sides of the chamber that ought to be vacant."

"I do not doubt the honesty and integrity of this body but I have lost my respect for its courage."

"Presently we are going to have a good deal of flame-mouthed activity on the tariff question," said Mr. Dies. "Some of our vainglorious leaders are going to talk about free wool and low taxes, and lower tariffs. Do they not know that in voting for this bill to increase pensions from $2,000 to $50,000,000 a year they will vote for higher tariffs? I have not much patience for our fellows who are going to talk about a 'sweet tariff' after having voted for this bill."

Mr. Dies added that he was a "political coward like the balance of you," but he expected somebody to rise some time "have enough to take his hide, and stop this pension legislation."

"It may be President Taft," he added. "He may veto this pension bill."

Hupmobile
HUPPIMOTOR CAR COMPANY

Hupmobile Long-Stroke "32" Five Passenger Touring Car—$900

P. O. B. Detroit, including equipment of windshield, gas lamps and generator, oil lamps, tools and horn. Three speeds forward and reverse, sliding gears. Four cylinder motor, 34-inch bore x 5 1/2-inch stroke. Bosch magneto, 100-inch wheelbase. 30 x 2 1/2-inch tires. Color—Standard Hupmobile blue.

The new touring car will be first exhibited at the Grand Central Palace, New York, January 10-17, and subsequently at the principal automobile shows throughout the country.

A car that gives you a totally new idea of what you ought to get for $900

A new and larger Hupmobile which immediately thrusts upon your attention a score of tangible superiorities which set it in a class apart from cars of its price. A five-passenger Touring Car for $900 which rejects every characteristic of commonplace construction; and makes clear its invasion of the field above that price; by points of difference and departure which no motorist can mistake.

Evolved out of the experience which has built thousands of the Hupmobile Runabout—the quality car today, as it always has been, of the runabout class. Designed by E. A. Nelson, Chief Engineer of the Hup Motor Car Company since its inception and designer of the original Hupmobile Runabout. To him and the skilled shop organization which he has continuously maintained, we owe the inimitable lines, the marked simplicity, the efficiency and the high quality of workmanship incorporated in the Runabout.

Impressed with the same strong individuality as the Runabout; and still further removed from comparison by:—

- First, the small-bore, long-stroke motor.
- Second, the body design and construction which attains the purpose of the "underslung" and avoids all of its disadvantages; and
- Third, the Americanization, after close study abroad, of invaluable engineering principles entirely new to this country.

Some of the points which make the price unprecedented

The three chief characteristics of the new Hupmobile are Durability, Efficiency, and Ability.

By durability we mean that we believe that there are more years of quiet, competent service, and a greater capacity for withstanding hard knocks in this car than have ever before been incorporated in a car at any figure near this price—because every part is made of good material and more than amply strong for a car of this size and weight.

By efficiency, we mean lower oil and gasoline consumption; a lesser tire cost; and a smaller outlay for repairs. By ability, we mean 60% more pulling power for mountain work and heavy roads; 4 to 50 miles of speed at any time and all times; and ability to throttle instantly to a walking gait or to pick up quickly without feeling the weight of the car.

These latter advantages are due in large measure, of course, to the motor, one of the first of the small-bore, long-stroke type peculiar to the finest foreign cars, ever manufactured in this country.

The cylinders are cast en bloc, a practice which, except in cars selling for $2500 and more, implies a two-bearing crankshaft.

The Hupmobile crankshaft has three large main bearings, bronze back, Babbitt lined—less wear—fewer adjustments—longer life.

Other bearings include high duty Hyatt roller and F. & S. annular; while the wheels are mounted on Bower bearings.

The valves—all on one side—are enclosed by a pressed steel cover, which keeps oil in and dirt out; and because dirt is kept out, the valves remain noiseless, show minimum wear and require minimum adjustment.

Many a car of 50 to 60 horsepower carries a clutch no larger than the clutch of the new Hupmobile. Multiple disc type, with 13-inch discs—gives positive action and starts the car smoothly and easily.

Transmission gears are amply large for a 40 horsepower car; run slowly and are quiet at all speeds.

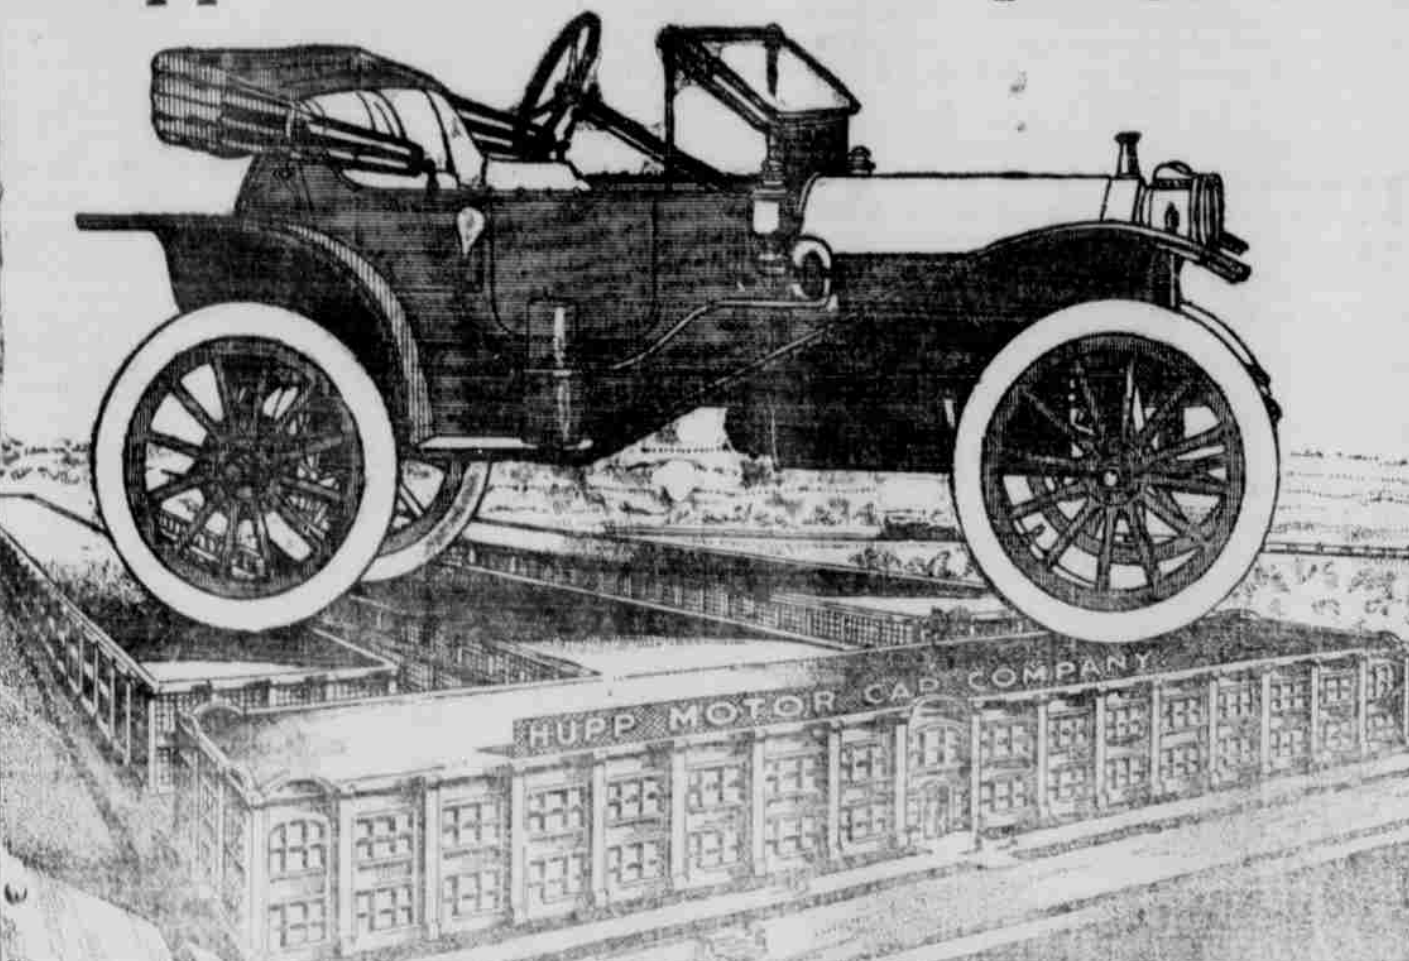

This excess strength extends also to the full-floating rear axle—large and strong enough for a seven-passenger car. The gears have an unusually large number of teeth—Another precaution against wear and the possibility of trouble.

Oil is fed to all parts and bearings of the unit power plant under pressure—the flywheel runs in oil and its centrifugal force takes the place of a pump. One kind of oil is used for engine, clutch and transmission instead of oil and grease, and it circulates and lubricates until it is literally worn out—a self-evident economy.

Body and chassis design embody a low center of gravity, and minimize skidding.

The springs are strong and unusually flexible; the rear spring is the patented Hupmobile cross type; the upholstery is deep and soft—all features that add to the comfort of those in the car.

"Presently we are going to have a good deal of flame-mouthed activity on the tariff question," said Mr. Dies. "Some of our vainglorious leaders are going to talk about free wool and low taxes, and lower tariffs. Do they not know that in voting for this bill to increase pensions from $2,000 to $50,000,000 a year they will vote for higher tariffs? I have not much patience for our fellows who are going to talk about a 'sweet tariff' after having voted for this bill."

Mr. Dies added that he was a "political coward like the balance of you," but he expected somebody to rise some time "have enough to take his hide, and stop this pension legislation."

"It may be President Taft," he added. "He may veto this pension bill."

A thorough investigation of the pension question by the house committee on expenditures in that department is proposed in a resolution presented in the house of representatives by Representative Tamm of Georgia, chairman of the committee.

The resolution would require the committee to report on the pension question.
