P.a.n. Will Not Field Candidate In Quintana Roo Gubernatorial Race

On Nov. 11, Luis Manuel Romero, an official with the National Action Party (PAN) in Quintana Roo state, said gubernatorial candidate Antonio Alan Nah withdrew from the race earlier this month because of the party's tight finances. According to Romero, the PAN budget for elections in the state this year is only 500 million pesos (about US$158,000), which is not enough to run an effective gubernatorial campaign against the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI) in the February elections. The PAN plans to use some of its funds to field candidates in six of the seven Quintana Roo mayoral elections. (Source: Notimex, 11/11/92)
