would pitch for New York and Bedient for Boston.

GAME STARTED WITH BOTH PITCHERS STEADY.

Devore opened the first inning for New York and got a ball. The second pitch was a strike, the third a ball and the fourth was the second strike. The fifth ball was fouled and another pitch was called a ball. The tally standing 3 to 2, Devore sent a easy grounder to Wagner and was tossed out at first. With the first batter disposed of Bedient and his team mates gained confidence. Doyle also was three to two when he sent a lazy grounder to Wagner and went out at first. Snodgrass drew a base on balls and then attempted to steal second. Cady's throw was a good one, but Wagner muffed it and the New York center fielder was safe. He was left on second, however, when Murray grounded out, Gardner to Stahl.

Bedient had pitched a good inning and the Boston rooters cheered as the Red Sox came to bat. Hooper bunted the first ball Mathewson sent down and went out unassisted to Merkle. Yerkes was struck out and then Tris Speaker opened the hit account by slugging a single to right field. Reaching first, Speaker did not stop, but made a dash to second and Doyle made the bag when Doyle dropped Devore's good throw from right field. Lewis could not fathom Mathewson's fade-aways and struck at three pitched balls, ending the inning.

Merkle opened the second for New York by striking out and Herzog flied out to Speaker. Meyers shot a grounder to Gardner, who fumbled it, and the Indian was safe at first. Fletcher singled to center and Meyers rushed to the midway bag. Meyers played far off the base and Cady, by good throw, cut him off and forced him to run for third. Wagner, who had taken Cady's throw, sent the ball to Gardner, but Gardner dropped it and the "Chief" slid into third base safely. Bedient kept his head and Mathewson ended the inning by flying out to Speaker, leaving two New York runners on the base.

In the Red Sox second inning, Mathewson spoiled his perfect record for control by giving Gardner a base on balls. He had pitched twenty innings in the series without previously having issued a pass. Stahl forced Gardner at second, Doyle to Fletcher, Wagner ripped a single to left field and Stahl advanced to second. With two men on the bases and one out, all the New York pitchers began to warm up, but their work was unnecessary as Cady sent a high fly to Merkle and Bedient hit the first ball pitched and was out at first, Doyle to Merkle.

The Giants broke into the red column in the third inning. Devore waited and received a base on balls. Doyle went out, Gardner to Stahl and Devore sprinted to third. "Red" Murray smashed a terrific drive to left center field. The speedy Speaker was off immediately after the ball hit the bat, but after a hard sprint he was just able to touch the ball with his fingers. Devore had trotted home with the first run and Murray rested on second when the ball was returned to the infield. Merkle ended the inning by grounding out, Wagner to Stahl.

The American league champions went out in order in their half of the third. Hooper died on a weak grounder, Doyle to Merkle, Mathewson relayed Yerkes' grounder to first and Speaker struck out.

Herzog began the Giants' fourth auspiciously, sending a slashing drive to left field that rolled up the "alley" between two stands. He made a great slide into third base before the ball could be returned, but he was sent back to second on a ground rule which allowed but two bases. Herzog took third on Meyers' sacrifice, Gardner to Stahl. With Herzog on third, Fletcher tried to score his team mate, but the fast Fletcher could do, however, was to send up a high fly to Gardner, Mathewson then lined a long fly to Hooper, and the inning was over.

But three men faced Mathewson in the Red Sox fourth inning. Lewis was an easy out, Fletcher to Merkle, Gardner hit to deep center field and tried to stretch it into a three-base hit, but was thrown out on a quick return of the ball, Snodgrass to Doyle to Herzog.

"Hard luck," shouted Red Sox rooters, as Gardner walked to the bench. Stahl struck out.

The fifth inning brought no runs, Devore led off with an infield hit that was deflected when it hit Bedient on the leg. He was out a moment later, however, when Cady flagged him trying to steal second, Wagner taking the throw. The greatest outfield catch of the series was made by Hooper, who caught Doyle's long drive against the fence in deep right field. He made a desperate run for the ball and reached it just as it was going over the three-foot barrier into the crowd for a home run. Snodgrass lined a single to center but was left when Murray flied to Cady.

There was no cheating among the Red Sox rooters in Boston's half of the fifth, as only three batters faced Mathewson, the side going out on three pitched balls. Murray got Wagner's fly off the left field fence and a moment later took care of Cady's line drive. Bedient flied out to Devore.

For New York in the sixth, Merkle put up a fly to Hooper and Herzog grounded out, Wagner to Stahl. Meyers got a base on balls, but was out at first when Fletcher struck out. The game was more than half over and the Red Sox rooters shouted for him. Hooper top-flied to Merkle, but the drooping spirits of the Red Sox crowd were revived when Yerkes got a lucky single back of second base. He tried to pull away from the ball and in doing so the ball struck his bat. Apparently neither Snodgrass nor Doyle saw the ball, as neither started after it until too late. Becker was given a base on balls and was forced at second by Lewis. Fletcher making the out and Yerkes taking third.

Here a conference was held by Mathewson, Meyers, Doyle, Herzog, Merkle and the result of it was the old trick of the catcher shooting the ball to the pitcher on an attempted lousie steal. Mathewson pitched a side ball to Gardner and Lewis and Yerkes flied into the trap. Lewis made a dash for second and Yerkes, thinking Meyers was going to throw the ball to the middle bag, started to leave third. The Indian, however, shot the ball to Mathewson, who muffed it to Herzog, and Yerkes was caught trying to return to third. The New York players laughed as they walked off the field.

Mathewson, the Giant's first batter up in the seventh, sent up a high out and Stahl muffed it, costing him an error. Mathewson then singled to center, but was forced at second when Devore tried to sacrifice. Bedient to Wagner, Doyle flied to Wagner and Snodgrass grounded out, Gardner to Stahl.

The Red Sox opened the seventh, in which they tied the score by Gardner flying out to Snodgrass. Stahl then dropped a single to left, Murray, Snodgrass and Fletcher balking each other in trying to get the fly. The Red Sox manager moved down to second when Wagner was given a base on balls. Cady popped a fly into the waiting hands of Fletcher. Hendriksen batting for Bedient, let a couple of balls go by him, and then he connected on the next ball pitched and slammed the ball down the left field base line for two bases and Stahl came home with the tying run, amid great excitement, Wagner took third on the play. Hooper tried hard to bring Wagner home, but he flew out to Snodgrass.

"Smoking Joe" Wood was given a royal reception when he went in to be pitched for the Red Sox in the eighth. Murray rolled out to Stahl unassisted, and Merkle was out, Yerkes to Stahl. Herzog got the first hit off Wood when he shot a single to right, but Meyers ended the inning by grounding out, Yerkes to Stahl.

Boston's batters came up in the second half of the eighth, but were unable to bring home the old run. Yerkes dropped a grounder in front of Mathewson, which the New York pitcher deflected and Herzog scooped up the ball and got the Red Sox runner at first. Speaker was the second out, Doyle to Merkle.

When the ninth inning began, the came were now shoulder to shoulder. McGraw sent in his last pinch hitter, McCormick, to bat for Fletcher, but he flied out to Lewis on the first ball pitched. Mathewson struck out, Wagner and Stahl rushed out and gave encouragement to the unshakable Wood. Devore waited on the string and was rewarded with a base on balls. Wood kept Devore loose to first base and sent down his fast balls to Doyle. Doyle finally picked one out and grounded out, Yerkes to Stahl, ending the inning.

Excitement increased as Boston came to bat in the ninth. All they needed was to put one runner across the plate to win. Shafer went in to play for Fletcher, Gardner opened by flying to Snodgrass, Stahl ripped a ground ball to left field, Wagner flied out to Devore, and Stahl failed to make a try for third base on the out. He was left at second when Cady flied to Murray.

Then came the tenth and final inning.

Dr. Hartman's Plain Talk to Young Men

My plain talk to young men in my last article certainly brought out many responses from young men. I take this means of answering them briefly, for the benefit of other young men who did not write me. The writer says:

"I am greatly interested in your talk to young men. I wish I was strong and well as you describe your self to be. I am going to begin at once and follow your advice and take care of myself as I ought to. I will quit the use of all stimulants, tea and coffee, go to bed early. I will take the cold water bowl every morning. I want to live to be 40 and useful, like you. And I shall also keep Peruna at hand, in case of slight ailments as they may arise. I thank you in the name of thousands of other young men, like myself."

To this letter I replied:

My dear boy, I can not tell you how much good your letter has done me. To know that I am arousing the young men in matters of right living fills me with gratitude and enthusiasm. I want to help you. Write me any time you wish and I will consider your letter promptly. Follow the advice I gave in my article. Whenever you have occasion to consult me further do not hesitate. Let us be friends. If you will be obedient to me as a son ought to be I will be faithful and true to you as a father ought to be. Yours sincerely, S. R. Hartman, M. D., Columbus, Ohio.

JOURNAL FLASHES BARNES' CIRCUS IS RESULT OF BIG GAME FIRST WITHOUT A RIVAL IN ITS CLASS

With Its Own Associated Press Operator and Special Leased Wire, It Gives Fans Complete Story.

Marvelous Stunts by Trained Animals Furnishes Two Albuquerque Audiences Rare Entertainment.

The Morning Journal was the first paper in Albuquerque to flash the result of yesterday's deciding game in the world's championship series, played between Boston and New York yesterday afternoon at Fenway. With its own Associated Press operator, and over its special leased wire, working direct with Fenway park, the Journal was enabled to announce the result within a few seconds after the winning run had been scored, and by its special arrangements for announcing the progress of the game, the large crowd waiting outside the building heard it the instant it was clicked off by the telegraph instrument.

The Morning Journal could have supplied its patrons with the complete story of the games each day of the series, play by play, had it so desired, but because of the space occupied by the big fair week, the paper refrained from doing so because it did not want to stage a counter attraction to the big fair.

However, realizing that the deciding game would be a big story for the fans, and desiring to give them all to which they had been entitled during the series—each game, play by play, if it came over the wires—it made the arrangements so successfully carried out yesterday, when the story of one of the greatest games ever played in a world's series was given by the Journal exactly as it happened, and so vividly that the fans who heard the progress of the game, enjoyed every feature of it almost as much as though they had been viewing it inside Fenway park.

Operators also were kept busy moving hundreds of telephone calls, inquiries about the game, which came in throughout the afternoon.

The Journal's enterprise was thoroughly appreciated by the fans, for they got something yesterday which had been withheld from them throughout the series, or, until the Journal forced the evening paper to make a stopper at handling the deciding game.

GROIRON GROUNDS TO BE SURVEYED THIS MORNING

Corps of Engineers from University to Lay Out New Football and Baseball Park Which Will Soon Be Built.

The new football and baseball grounds on the lot at Tenth avenue and the railroad tracks, which the various schools of the city are promoting, will be surveyed today. A corps of engineers from the State university will come down and lay out the park early this morning, starting off so that when work is begun on the fencing, as is expected within a few days, all will be in readiness for the contractors to get to work.

The park is to be built by the State university, the Mohair school, the Albuquerque Indian school and the local high school. A committee from these four institutions has been working for some time on the location of the park and has met with enthusiastic support from everyone approached. The students at the different institutions are to furnish the labor necessary to erect the fence, working under the direction of several capable carpenters who will act as foremen, and the citizens of the city have been asked to put up the money necessary for the purchase of materials.

The park will be used jointly by all four of the schools for their football and baseball games and will also be open for the use of the city. Local teams, etc., whenever needed. A small rental will be charged, in order to provide for a caretaker and for keeping the place in repair. For the present, no standard will be attempted.

WYOMING CONVICTS BEING ROUNDED UP

Rawlins, Wyo., Oct. 18.—Quiet prevails today at Rawlins, the first time since the sensational jail break of Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Extra guards patrol the corridors of the penitentiary and the prisoners are confined to their cells. Fugitives are probably being rounded up at distances of from twenty-five to sixty miles.

Marshal Hayes today declared that the last of the escaping convicts would be in the penitentiary by tomorrow night or be dead.

A posse headed by the marshal is trailing Richardson, Burke and Backstrom, and an unnamed fugitive, southwest from the Standard ranch, twenty-five miles from Rawlins. He reports locating two more at the Vaca place twenty miles from here.

I had a faint notion that perhaps Denver people are averse to Sunday entertainments, but a saunter down Curtis street and a look-in at the several movies made me abandon that fond delusion; also witness the baseball crowds.

The concert score, good, better, naturally in some parts than in others, and naturally again, perhaps, more vigorously applauded where they were less good.

Wagner's "Walkyrie," with its dramatic appeal, its weird harmony, its heroic blare of horns and clash of cymbals, which to the final wall touches the elemental in us and fires the imagination until we feel impelled to some wild prehistoric act, and then are brought back to real life by a breath of cold air or the rattle of paper.

This number the Marine band gave splendidly, and the audience honored it with a generous nod of applause—but it was something quite different that went to the heart of the Sunday afternoon audience, and moved it to entirely forest itself and break out into overwhelming enthusiasm.

This was the "Grand Military Tattoo" of Mackenzie Boggs—or was it Sousa's march, "Semper Paratus." The official march of the United States military corps. At any rate, during one of these numbers the oboes, the flutes, the clarinets, horns and trombones marched with military precision to manner.

But if you cared not at all for her singing still would the first be well spent in studying the lines of the picture, but of black velvet adorned with only a bit of paradise which looked like a bit of heaven.

Mr. Otto Frey made his "emphatic" give out each hour, only from the complicated pipe organ, certainly never from an instrument which in my ignorance looked to me like a horn—a horn which had endured, perhaps, quite enough college adventures, but still a horn.

There is certainly something about a military band which lifts us by our own strings and makes us want to march for home and native land, and we are grateful to Mr. Slack for opening the season with this best of military bands—"the best band in the world." I heard it gladden school and see "President Taft's own" and conducted most ably and with ease by Lieutenant William H. Sackheim, himself a composer of its own ability, as evidenced by the "The Bachelor."

WEST END FREIGHT WRECK TIES UP MANY TRAINS LAST NIGHT

A freight wreck near Seligman Tuesday night caused a considerable delay to all east bound trains through here yesterday. No. 19, which should have arrived here early in the morning, did not arrive until 2 o'clock. No. 2 and No. 4, the eastbound California limited, were each forty-five minutes late, and No. 8 was over six hours late. A stub No. 8 was run north on this.

No. 1 from the north was double-headed last night because of heavy traffic and because of the need for engines at this end of the line. Three extra coaches were double-headed on it to prevent Albuquerque in case it is necessary to run a stub this morning, all the available cars but one having been used in the last two days to go north on stub sections.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

A pure, healthful, Cream
of Tartar Baking Powder

When buying an article of food you are entitled to know exactly what you are buying—its quality and ingredients.

If this information is refused don't buy it.

Some of the low grade baking powders are advertised, but the ingredients of the powders are scrupulously concealed.

A housekeeper would not use a baking powder containing alum if she knew it.

It is well when buying to examine the label on the can. Unless it shows the ingredient cream of tartar, don't buy it.

Dr. Price's baking powder is absolutely free from alum.

The Fair from a Visitor's Point of View

Where, except in the "Golden West," could one pass six long days amid the bustle and noise and confusion consequent upon the congress of such numbers of people from every walk in life—and be able to state, truthfully on the seventh that not once had they met or seen a person with a rough or old who had resolved anything but courtesy and kindness, from waiters or attendants? The grand stand was filled every day with a good natured, appreciative lot of onlookers—ready with applause for every meritorious stunt. The sidewalks were crowded with spectators from early morning till late evening—and the ready applause for any or all of the unendingly repeated stunts and stunts with smiling acceptance. Many private homes were opened to those falling to find accommodations at the hotels or boarding houses. Much praise was lavished upon the thoroughness and efficiency of the various committees who had the handling of the arrangements for the fair.

Old friends and acquaintances were greeted on the sidewalks and hotel lobbies, as well as "in line" at various social functions. Other faces that were glimpsed in the moving kaleidoscope were recognized, but distance or intervening numbers prevented acquaintance. What causes for doubt, noise or anything but when the wheel of time is reversed and one is grown younger every hour with the pleasure of such meetings.

At the O'Reilly reception—Well, the society editor has exhausted the adjectives—so will not reiterate but the added dignity of manner, and the grandeur of costume did not conceal the identity of many friends of long ago—and Col. J. H. O'Reilly, who has now a son and daughter in society, is the same big hearted, wholehearted fellow he used to be when we called him just Joe O'Reilly. At the Tuesday "banquet" at the Alameda hall, we had, at least, one of the times of our life. We did not ride on the Ferris wheel or the "merry-go-round," but we held out an incredible hand for the palmist—saw "the strong girl," though we had seen many strange girls in our lifetime—pitied the young man lacking ribs and lung as we had often pitied other young men lacking pluck and backbone. Saw the biggest snake and the biggest fake—and were pleased and interested with it all. Saw the "doggies"—from the tiny Chihuahua, to the big beauty in the first box. Got a "crick in my neck" watching Lincoln Beachey and Roy Francis—and a kink in my brain wondering what would be the nature of the next invention to thrill the curious members of humanity and incidentally kill a few of them. Cheered for the cowboys and girls—shouted for the basketball players—even hazarded a guess that a ball on the post; in short was having a "delicious" time of the twenty-four trying to see all three rings at once. And the ball? Old Montezuma would be as round eyed as some of the nephews I saw. If he could return to the knowledge of all the "doings" committed in his name. The ladies were as lovely, graceful and charming—their robes—gowns—or costumes, just as beautiful—grand—and becoming as the society editor said they were and more so.

HIGH SCHOOL WILL TRY TO CLEAN UP MENAUL TEAM

Football Season to be Opened with Snappy Game at Traction Park Saturday Between Local Elevens.

Saturday afternoon will witness the opening of the local football season in what promises to be a bright and snappy game between the Albuquerque High school and the Menaul school. Both teams are confident of their ability and both are in splendid shape for the opening game.

The Menaul school, until last year, never failed to take the first game away from the High school eleven, but last year the team boys cleaned up both their opponents with the minimum school team by small scores. The first game was won 11 to 6, while the other was harder fought and only won by a single touchdown. This year the Menauls are planning to get back to their old stride and hang a few on the High school team, but their opponents are working just as hard to reverse the hanging process. The result will likely be a fine game.

There is plenty of new material at the High school this year, and with enough of last year's team back to for a stiffening nucleus for the line, a good strong team may be expected. Another feature which will help this year is the enthusiasm with which the different team members and the students at large, have entered into the work. Athletics at the High school this year promise to be supported as they never were before.

A large crowd of students and teachers, including the girls, will be out to view the contest.

Opposed to this lighter and probably faster team, Menaul is supporting practically her last year's eleven. This is heavier than the High school team, and has been in training longer.

The game will be called at Traction park at 2:30 o'clock sharp. Preparations are already being made for the game with the Las Vegas Normal university, which is to take place while the Educational association is in session here. This game will be one of the big events of the local season and the High school boys are training hard and faithfully for it.

SEVERE GULF STORM RAGES ALONG COAST

Corpus Christi, Texas, Oct. 16.—Beyond washing out of railroad tracks and the wrecking of several small buildings, the gulf storm, which lashed along the northwestern coast of Texas last night and early today, has caused no damage so far as reports received tonight indicate. Rain has fallen continuously for forty-eight hours.

At Port Aransas one small building was blown away. At Brownsville, several buildings were damaged and one man was hurt. The storm is moving inland and the rain is increasing in velocity. Its path today was through a spirally settled section.

ROOSEVELT AND THE VOTERS.

The Bull Moose organ and managers in this state are claiming, with not quite decent haste, that the wound received by Colonel Roosevelt will make many votes for him. It may be so; but we fail to see for what reason since the would-be assassin was clearly insane and was instigated by his own insane opposition to the progressive candidate.

Quite a large number of people will feel that Colonel Roosevelt should have gone under a surgeon's care when he knew he had been wounded, rather than to have appeared on the platform, exposed his blood-soaked shirt and then made a speech of an hour, thereby inviting blood poison and death. No necessity existed for such foolhardiness. Had he been a soldier in battle sustaining a mortal wound, leading a charge, or defending a critical position, what he did would have been heroic. Under the circumstances it was merely spectacular and hardly indicative of the poise that people associate with the position of chief executive of the nation.

If, as the supporters of Colonel Roosevelt have hastily claimed, the incident will make millions of votes for the colonel, that fact would seriously reflect on the ability of the people of the United States to govern themselves. Whether voters favor Roosevelt or not, should have some basis other than the fact that an insane man shot him.

If the people of the country are so hysterical as these people seem to think, the tendency would be in the future to have candidates nominated for the presidency shot a few times during the campaign, the officer the better for his chances of election, so long as the wounds were not fatal.

The people of the United States, regardless of party, regret the fact that any public man should be made the object of an assassin's bullet. All hope for the speedy recovery of Colonel Roosevelt. No one should wish him to lose a single vote that would have been cast for him had the incident not occurred, and no one has any reason to vote for him because of the occurrence at Milwaukee, Monday night.

POVERTY AND WEALTH.

Most of us are poor. Poverty has its inconveniences, so has wealth. Neither of them can make happiness. In these days when people are having the unequal distribution of the property heralded abroad by so many speakers and writers, some of them honest and some of them demagogues, it may be well for the public to pause and consider a moment as to what poverty and wealth in themselves mean to the individual.

What would be the use to any one who "gained the whole world," if he lost thereby his own appreciation of its beauty and its bounty? There is no object in a big dinner if one cannot eat, and there is no object in life if one has lost his ability to live with rest and to appreciate its wonderful vistas and admire its abounding loveliness.

A man may have a great fortune and still remain alive to the life about him. Most of those who acquire great wealth become swallowed up by their possessions, and not infrequently they acquire such habits in acquiring those possessions that any other interest falls on them. They have gained the whole world, but they have lost their own souls. They usually go about, day in and day out, their eyes in the dirt looking for money, children in the mountains and the valleys, the purring brook and the rolling river, the blue sky and the songs of birds and the laughter of children.

For these reasons the poor man, falsely so-called, has an immense advantage over the rich man falsely so-called. The poor man as a rule, does not take his troubles home with him, nor to bed with him. The poor man does not have to work both night and day. He does not have to wonder whether his friends are really friends to him or whether they are merely friends to his money. He meets his fellow men on a level. He doesn't have to be waited on. He can dress himself. He does not have to be particular about his food. He is naturally hungry, and he eats not merely for nutrition, but because he enjoys it. Each Saturday night, the cares of the world drop from his shoulders like a garment, and he can take deep breaths and walk out in the world at peace.

Yet all are striving for more money, unless it is some idler, who numbers the earth, or some man who has work too important to measure it in dollars and cents. The tendency of legislation is to bring about a greater equilibrium between the rich and the poor—to curb the cupidity of those who seek wealth for wealth's sake, and to see to it that the men who labor for salaries, and wages are better paid.

In his address at Portland, Ore., Tuesday night, Secretary Knox admirably expressed the thought of today in this sentence:
"No honest man differs from another as to moral issues as honest in public life, rebuke of dishonesty, equality of opportunity, repression of corporate aggression, control of irresponsible and conscienceless wealth and corrupt alliances between business and politics."

There is no doubt that men's minds everywhere are becoming thoroughly awakened to the fact that for a thousand years, indeed from the dawn of history to the foundation of this republic, the rights of property have been over-emphasized in comparison with the rights of the individual man. We are rapidly changing all that throughout the world and nowhere more rapidly and radically than in this country. There are still many dark places and most countries, indeed, in comparison with our own, still manifest the old undiluted predilection in favor of privilege about which men will divide as long as human temperaments display the two great types of the radical and the conservative mind."

ABOUT MR. BRYAN.

A man writing from a local hotel, but failing to sign his name, sends the Journal a communication condemning the editorial of yesterday morning relative to the contributions of Thomas F. Ryan to the pre-convention expenses of certain democratic candidates for the presidency. The writer of the communication takes vigorous exception to our criticism of Bryan, who accused Champ Clark of being under obligation to the New York corruptionists and used that allegation as an excuse for breaking the instructions given at the Nebraska primaries to cast his vote for Clark.

The anonymous writer deals in such language as "cur," "fool," "scoundrel" and the like, all applied to the writer of the Journal's editorials. Also he praises Colonel Bryan as the greatest reformer that has appeared in American politics.

Colonel Bryan is not an issue in this campaign. Fortunately for the democratic party, Woodrow Wilson, rather than Bryan, is the standard bearer of that party. Governor Wilson made a fight on Murphy and succeeded in defeating the Tammany candidate for the democratic gubernatorial nomination in New York state.

How did Mr. Bryan act when he was the democratic nominee for the presidency? Remember his fight at Baltimore was against Murphy and "his wax figure." When Mr. Bryan was the democratic standard bearer, he went through New York City with Richard Croker, then boss of Tammany, a more corrupt boss than Murphy ever dated by, telling the people, "Great is Tammany and Croker is its prophet."

When Mr. Bryan was nominated in 1908, he not only sought the support of Boss Murphy at the Denver convention, but had Murphy stop at Lincoln and had himself and Murphy photographed together, as he had himself and Wilson shown in the same photograph a few days ago. He used the Murphy photo to help him get Tammany votes in New York City.

There is much more of Mr. Bryan's "peerless" record that the Journal might disclose if his defender will ask for it over his own signature.

A MATTER OF COURTESY.

Without appearing to be ungrateful to the Evening Herald, the Journal wishes to thank the Associated Press for the courtesy it extends to all morning newspapers in furnishing bulletin service during the day, of events of general interest. During the night, on all like matters, such as election returns and Titanic disasters, the Associated Press furnishes afternoon papers with such bulletins. Just as the Journal was instructed to and did call up and inform the evening paper when bulletins of the senate, of Colonel Roosevelt began to come in Monday night. So it was with the Journal's bulletins of the final game of the world's championship series yesterday. On the basis of the above facts, the Journal is pleased to tender to the Evening Herald any thanks to which it may feel itself entitled, but really we thought we were entitled to the bulletin service as per instructions from the Associated Press.

Lady Socialist Ousted from Ticket.
Seattle, Wash., Oct. 16.—The fight between the conservative and "radical" wings of the socialist party resulted today in the name of Kate Sadler, a noted socialist orator and a nominee for the legislature, being stricken from the ballot by order of Superior Judge Erikson.

TOTAL ASSESSMENT EIGHT MILLIONS TOO LOW

As Result, State Board of Equalization Considers Plan for Increases to Make Up Difference.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Santa Fe, Oct. 16.—The state board of equalization at its session this week, after going over the assessment returns for the various counties of New Mexico found that these totaled $72,000,000 in round numbers, or just $5,000,000 less than the required total assessment necessary to meet the expense of conducting the state government.

As a result of the discovery, the state board of equalization informally considered a plan by which it is hoped to make up the deficiency. This plan, it is said, will be to increase the tax on grazing lands, so as to average $1 an acre throughout the state, whereas grazing lands now are assessed at from twenty-five cents an acre on the Maxwell land grant to $5.37 an acre in Dona Ana county. The present average per acre on grazing lands in the state is about seventy-four cents an acre.

GOVERNOR SUFFERS FROM ATTACK OF GASTRITIS

Illness of State Executive, While Not Considered Serious, Confines Him Executive Mansion.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 16.—Governor W. F. McDonald, who was taken ill two weeks ago while on a visit to Russell, but who recovered sufficiently to attend the state fair at Albuquerque, has been confined to the executive mansion practically ever since he returned to the capital. He is suffering from an attack of gastritis. His condition is not regarded as serious.

Many Contribute to Cause of Good Roads in New Mexico

Deafness and Head Noises Positively Cured

A New Method That is Proving the Most Wonderful and Universally Successful That the World Has Ever Known

Those Awful "Head Noises" That Nearly Drive You Wild Relieved From the First Trial.

LETTERS OF REJOICING FROM THOSE WHO HAVE BEEN MADE TO HEAR.

A Few Extracts From Grateful Patients Whose Hearing Has Been Restored by This New Method.

"I have faithfully carried out your instructions for the past three months and am glad to say that your treatment has entirely cured me. The improvement in both ears is better than I ever heard of. My hearing is now as good as it ever was in my life. My general health is also very much improved and my friends as well as myself are all surprised at the results as I had had the most persistent deafness in the country since my childhood. Your treatment has entirely cured me. I cannot thank you much for relieving me of this terrible affliction."

"I am well satisfied with the results of your treatment for deafness. The ringing in my ears has ceased and I can hear much better. I am not doing the exercises all the time now. I expect I should, but I feel right. As I have mentioned, I would not part with it for thousands of dollars. I am grateful to you for your treatment."

"It is with great joy that I announce to you that my hearing has been perfectly restored. When I came to you I was nearly deaf and thought that I should lose my reason as the terrible head noises almost made me insane. Your treatment has entirely cured me. I cannot thank you much for relieving me of this terrible affliction."

"After two months of your wonderful treatment I am happy to say that I can hear again perfectly. I was almost entirely deaf in both ears. Could not hear the conversation of my wife and children and I was very lonely. I have heard a great deal of the treatment and I believe that I have been cured. I am now perfectly cured and I regard your treatment as marvelous in every way. I am now perfectly cured and I regard your treatment as marvelous in every way. I am now perfectly cured and I regard your treatment as marvelous in every way."

SPLESS AND COLER REQUEST IMMEDIATE PAYMENT OF BONDS

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal.) Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 16.—Charles A. Spless, of Las Vegas, republican national committeeman, and attorney for Fred S. Coler, of New York, who holds upwards of a million dollars of Santa Fe county railroad bonds, visited the capital this week to call on the members of the bond commission and request payment of the bonds. They consented to accept, in lieu of money, a certain acreage of land. It is said, just why the bond commission has not acted on the matter is not known, but since Messrs. Spless and Coler have made formal demand for a settlement, it is expected some action will be taken.

RANCHMAN SUCCUMBS TO BULLET WOUND RECEIVED IN FIGHT

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal.) Deming, N. M., Oct. 16.—Following several hours of intense suffering, Fred Ferdon died yesterday afternoon, from the effects of a bullet wound in the abdomen, received in a pistol duel with George P. Watkins. Ferdon was unmarried. He was buried here today.

Watkins, his alleged slayer, was held to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $2,000 bonds. It is said by eye-witnesses that he shot Ferdon in self-defense, the dead man having been the first to fire a shot.

Then There is
What We Call the
"English" Sack Suit

Do you know that the best clothes in the world
are made in America,
and that STEIN-BOCH
are making the English-
man's clothes for him?
And since the styles are English, we are very lucky in having ours served up to us by the one tailoring house in America that makes a specialty of English style.

The suit we started out to tell you about is one of their best efforts. Not quite so far advanced in Piccadillyness as say
the Saxon, but smacking
tartly of the smart clubs.

Suppose you ask us to show you this English suit? You've no call to buy, but just to see a really English suit.

CHAIRMAN BACA IS AFTER GOAT OF
H. B. HENING

Bernalillo County Republican
Manager Calls on Newspaper Man to Resign from Executive Committee.

It develops that the row between the Evening Herald, the standard organ of the republican party in New Mexico, and Eliego Baca, republican chairman of Bernalillo county, was not heated by the conference held in room 23 of the Alvarado hotel, between Herbert W. Clark, state chairman, and the representatives of the warring factions. It appears to be war to the knife and the knife to the hilt, with Mr. Baca occupying an advantageous position today, though he may be down and out tomorrow.

From the contents of the appended letter from Mr. Baca to H. B. Hen-ing, it appears that Mr. Hening is a member of the Bernalillo county executive committee, appointed to that position by Mr. Baca at Mr. Hening's request. When it was decided by the young men of the Evening Herald that Mr. Baca must be ousted, because of his connection with "room 44" of the palace hotel in Santa Fe, when Mr.
Baca, Judge Fall, Charles Springer,
Charles Spies, H. B. Holt and others, had four Spanish-American representatives from Rio Arriba and Taos counties arrested, charged with taking bribe money from the chairman of the Bernalillo republican central committee that had voted to make Mr. Baca chairman. That committee decided unanimously that it wanted Mr. Baca to remain in the chairmanship.

Mr. Baca then decided to do some ousting himself and demanded the resignation of Mr. Hening from the executive committee. It appears that Mr. Hening agreed at first to resign, but after a conference with Senator Carron, declined. Mr. Baca notified him yesterday that if he did not hand in his resignation, the county chairman would make public a letter demanding the resignation. But Mr.
Hening has been fighting blood up and notified Mr. Baca that he would have him (Baca) ousted from the chairmanship within twenty-four hours after the publication of the somewhat personal communication.

Chairman Baca has made the letter public and the next move on the political checkboard is up to Mr.
Hening and his newspaper.

The letter follows:

Albuquerque, Oct. 15, 1912.

Mr. H. B. Hening, City.

Mr. Dear Mr. Hening: I desire to have your resignation as member at large of the Bernalillo county republicans central committee. When I appointed you as such, I did so upon your own request, and from your declarations that you desired to be no other purpose than to create disturbances in the republican organization in this county. I want to hear from you immediately.

Very truly yours,

ELIEGO BACA.

Chairman Bernalillo County Republicans Central Committee.

One of the handsome new orna-avenue was smashed yesterday morning early by one of the wagons of the Al G. Barnes circus. The wagon was going west on Central avenue when it and the circus stopped at the

of the circus and the driver turned around. The driver turned, but some long and heavy tent poles which protruded from the rear end of the vehicle caught the lamp post and demolished it.

The circus management acted very handily about the matter, sending down a check to cover the cost of making a new standard and replan-

The post smashed was between Sec-

SPECIAL VENIRE IS CALLED FOR LYLE
MURDER CASE

But Three Jurors Accepted by Both State and Defense
When Regular Petit Jury
Panel is Exhausted.

After endeavoring all day to secure a jury, the district court yesterday afternoon took a recess until this morning that a special venire might be summoned. Three jurors were selected who were acceptable to both state and defense in the case of State vs. Samuel Lyle, when the panel was exhausted. There were eleven men in the jury box, but the other eight had been passed for cause only.

Lyle, who is colored, is charged with a particularly cold-blooded murder. He is said to have quarreled with another negro named Ira Carr, a quiet and inoffensive tailor, and to have shot him after going home and securing a weapon. The shooting took place in a pool hall on North Third street. It occurred last January, only a few days after Policeman
Alex Knapp had been shot.

Lyle has been in the state penitentiary since last May, when he is said to have aided Knapp's alleged assailant, Theodore Goulet, to escape from the county jail, in which they were both confined.

The jurors accepted yesterday were Lyle Arias, J. E. Scott and W. O.
Holtzhausen. In their selection, the defense had exhausted six of its twelve peremptory challenges and the state one of the six allowed to it.

The special venire included twenty-eight names. It is hoped a jury can be secured from it without waiting for the calling of a second special list.

The district court yesterday rendered a judgment by default for the plaintiff in the case of Mrs. A. N.
Daly vs. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company for $400000 damages for a justly court. $5.00 costs in that court and the costs
in the district court.

STEEL PILING NOW BEING PLACED AT BARELAS BRIDGE

Repair of Washed Out Structure at Last Commenced by Missouri Valley Bridge and Iron Company.

The steel piling for the section of the Barelas bridge which is to replace the three spans washed away
last May was being placed last night when the Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Company's force of men quit work. The men have been at work for several days setting up their steam pile driver and getting ready to drive the piles, and yesterday afternoon the first one of the long steel supports was sunk in the bed of the river.

The section to be built is 350 feet long, and will replace three entire spans washed away by the unprecedented floods last spring. The company which is doing the repair work is the same that originally built the bridge.

The new section will be supported on steel piles throughout and the floor will be carried on steel I-beams.

If you need a carpenter, telephone Hesselden, phone 377.
