DR. J. W. COLBERT BRINGS SUIT FOR LIBEL AGAINST D. A. MACPHERSON AND CORAL CLYCE OF JOURNAL

SURGEON OF SANTA FE HOSPITAL BASES ACTION ON ARTICLE IN SOCIETY COLUMNS

Warrant Served Last Night by Chief of Police Thomas McMillin at Request of Attorney Francis E. Wood, Retained as Counsel for Plaintiff to Prosecute Suit; Defendants Released on Own Recognizance to Appear for Hearing Before Justice of Peace George R. Craig Tomorrow Morning at 10 O'clock; Demand for Retraction Made by Complainant Not Being Complied with, He Takes Drastic Steps in Effort to Obtain Satisfaction for Alleged Injury Done Him.

Because of an article appearing a week ago in the society columns of the Morning Journal, D. A. Macpherson, publisher, and Mrs. George Patridge (Coral Clyce), society editor, were arrested last night by Chief of Police Thomas McMillin, on complaint of Dr. John W. Colbert, physician in charge of the Santa Fe coast lines hospital. The warrant alleges that the defendants "did commit the crime of criminal libel against the person of said John W. Colbert."

There are some very queer features connected with this action by Dr. Colbert. In the article alleged to contain the libelous statements, no names were mentioned, and it is said that Dr. Colbert was the first of a number of local men who had made threats, some of them even more severe than the doctor's actions, of the things they would do to people connected with the Morning Journal. But Dr. Colbert was the first one to take action.

The medical man called at the office of the Morning Journal yesterday afternoon and demanded an apology, or a retraction, or something of that sort. He was not exactly coherent in his demands, but it was evident to an unbiased onlooker that he wanted something done and wanted it rather badly, at that. He made it quite emphatic that he was to see and approve any statement relative to the matter that might appear in this paper.

The late physician was quite firmly advised that the Morning Journal was not in the habit of having its news columns censored by outside people. Thereupon he left, humiliated. Presumably he went to the attorney representing him, Francis E. Wood. At any rate the warrant and arrests followed and the hearing was set for 10 a. m. Monday, in Judge Craig's court.

Chief McMillin found Mrs. Patridge at the editorial office of the Morning Journal and after reading the formal document and citing her to appear before the justice of the peace, he telephoned Mr. Macpherson, the publisher, who had gone to his home, that he was "in book" or words to that effect. Both were released on their own recognizance until their preliminary hearing tomorrow.

The exact wording of the warrant is "Daniel A. Macpherson and Coral Clyce, otherwise known as Coral Clyce." The document recites that on November 17th, they did commit the crime of criminal libel against the person of John W. Colbert.

The warrant was handed Chief of Police McMillin last night at 10 o'clock by Attorney Wood. The chief served it forty-five minutes later.

The article made the basis of action by the doctor is as follows:

The Scandal Monger's Latest.
A certain benedict, who has not been constrained to the straight and narrow way, since his wife's departure early in the summer is furnishing real food for conversation, by his expressed and implied intention to divorce his wife and marry the charming little widow, with whom he has been seen so conspicuously of late.

The prolonged absence of the wife, and the recent removal of their baby from the mother's care to that of the widow, add color to the rumors, which are further substantiated by the widow herself, who is said to make no secret of existing conditions.

Very frankly, and none too subtly, she breaks it to her intimate friends, that the couple have never been happy, that the usual troubles of long standing will find their way to the august judgment-seat of the divorce court, and that after all is said and done, she intends to become the second wife of the would-be-divorced man.

Delightfully frank, but hardly refreshing. Certainly, highly interesting evidence of the danger of leaving a husband home to the tender mercies of one's best friend.

That this particular couple contemplates a deviation from the straight double harness jog troit, comes as a genuine surprise to their numerous friends in Albuquerque, who had always considered them a shining example of marital happiness. The man stands high in professional circles and his wife is prominent socially. The disarrangement of this supposedly happy scheme of existence is a downright shock to many and, unfortunately for all concerned, the thing seems to be proclaimed through Gossip's meaphone for the edification of the town at large.

It really looks as though we will wake up some time morning to learn that muffled wedding bells have chimed in the night, unless—well, fickleness has been known to turn upon itself, you know. Divorce proceedings take time, and time affords opportunity to a plenty for men of fickle nature and wayward fancies to change their minds. As says Owen Meredith:

"The not that I expect to find
A more devoted fond or true one;
Enough for me that she's a new one."

RAILROADS NAMED IN GRAND JURY INDICTMENTS

Denver & Rio Grande and Colorado & Southern Charged with Granting Rebates to Influence Interstate Shipments.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Pueblo, Colo., Nov. 23.—The Denver & Rio Grande railroad and the Colorado & southwestern railroad were indicted by the federal grand jury here this afternoon, charged with granting rebates and with issuing free transportation to influence interstate shipments.

The Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., Victor American Fuel Company, Great Western Sugar Company, Portland Cement Company, and United States Portland Cement Company, are also indicted for accepting rebates and free transportation.

"Not even the federal government escaped the criticism of its own jury today when the body which has been sitting in this city for the past week made its report. After handing in eighty-six indictments, the federal grand jury took occasion to state that there has been shown 'evidence of discourtesy on the part of public officials and of such a glaring nature as to attract our attention and disapproval.'"

While little could be learned as to what the jury actually meant by this discourtesy it is understood that it took exception to the attitude of some of the forestry agents called before it.

The indictments cover alleged white slave traffic, the sending of obscene letters through the mails, counterfeiting, the sale of liquor without a license, embezzlement of funds from national banks, violation of the pure food laws, the sale of drugs for the reduction of fat on human bodies and the impersonation of federal officials.

There were indictments returned against a large number of persons through out the state, the names of whom were not made public pending service. Some of those indicted are already in jail, the most of the latter being detained in Denver.

The Denver & Rio Grande railroad and the Colorado & Southern railroad are indicted with several counts against each, mostly on the grounds of granting favors, while shippers alleged to have benefited by those alleged favors are also indicted.

FERVENT APPEAL IS MADE TO JURY BY ACCUSED UNION MEN

Editor and Giovannitti, Salem Strike Leaders Accused of Murder, Ask Either Death Penalty or Acquittal.

SCENE PRESENTED REMARKABLE ONE

Judge Quinn, Following Addresses Made by Prisoners, Announces He Will Not Charge Jury Until Monday.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Salem, Mass., Nov. 23.—If you think us guilty of murdering our sister, give us death. History will record our end. We will go to a higher judgment seat and millions of workers will take up our flag of labor where we drop it in the ditch.

That, in substance, was the closing theme of two of the most remarkable pleas ever heard in a court room, when Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti, leaders in the textile strike at Lawrence last winter, rose in the prisoners' cage today in the Essex county court to speak for themselves and their comrades, Joseph Caruso, accused of the murder of Anna Lopizzo, who fell a victim of a bullet in a strike riot last January.

District Attorney Atwell had just denounced both men. He had spoken the last word for the commonwealth, charging that the utterances of Ettor and Giovannitti to the Lawrence strikers were treasonable, that such as they were not needed in the commonwealth of Massachusetts to aid in the solution of its problems; that instead of being philanthropists and apostles of peace and workers for the betterment of humanity, they were a menace to free government; agents of mob rule, destroyers of the sovereignty of the state.

The defendants' lawyers were forward to the bar and held a short conference with Judge Quinn, informing him of the desire of the prisoners to speak.

Ettor declared with emphasis that "his sister, Giovannitti's sister, Caruso's sister," Anna Lopizzo, had been killed, as he believed, as a result of a plot of the mill owners to break the strike.

Ettor protested innocence of murder or inciting to riot, not only for himself, but for his comrades. He urged that if the jury thought them guilty they should be given the death penalty, not shut up in prison where they could not continue their work for the betterment of the working class and ultimate attainment of their ideal—a condition where laborers would earn all the profit of their labor. He pictured the cross, the guillotine, the gallows and the electric chair as unable through all history to choke a righteous cause, and ended in a plea for "simple justice."

As Ettor sat down scores of women were weeping. Even men were in tears, among them leaders associated with the defendants in the Lawrence strike.

Then Giovannitti rose from his place beside his comrades. His face seemed swollen with emotion, his eyes welling with tears. He said he was about to make the first public speech he had ever uttered in "your beautiful language."

Leaning toward Mr. Atwell, Giovannitti said in a trembling voice: "So solemn is this moment, so full with clashing emotions am I now, that I do not know whether I ever will contrive."

Then he straightened up in the case and for twenty minutes spoke as one in the crisis of passion. He did not discuss the evidence, but what he called "the preposterousness of the idea" that such as he and his comrades could have been guilty of a murderous thought. Whirling around with a violent gesture he said: "If there is a man in this room who has murdered in his heart, he is not in this case."

There was a hush over the courtroom as Giovannitti sat down. Not a man nor woman moved for several tense moments. Then Judge Quinn, apologizing to the jurors, announced that he would be compelled to hold them further, as he would not deliver his charge in the case until Monday morning. The prisoner were driven back to jail through streets lined with their friends and followers, who cheered them loudly as they passed.

Ettor's statement to the jury, follows in part:

"I said on the stand that I believed the street cars were smashed by agents of the mill owners, just as the dynamite was planted, and I say that my sister, Anna Lopizzo and Giovannitti's sister and Caruso's sister, were murdered by agents of the mill owners."

"But if you believe we should die, we will carry the flag of labor to the grave."

"I shall offer no excuse, and accept your verdict, but do not come back here and say that we must be shut up. If I am guilty I want to pay the full penalty. My comrades have just whispered to say it for him too."

"I believe in the death chair. If I am found guilty I prefer to go there. So will Giovannitti. We will go with heads erect, singing the song of labor, with a smile on our lips and we will drop the flag of labor. I make no threats. But on the morning we drop the flag, hundreds of thousands of wage workers will pick up the flag and carry it along until the flag of the workers is unfurled over the work shops, and workers will enjoy the profit of their toil."

When Ettor sat down, Giovannitti rose to speak. He made a plea for socialism and like Ettor, asked for the full penalty, if thought guilty.

"If there is murder in the heart of any man in this room, he is not in this case," Giovannitti declared. "If it be that our hearts must be stilled in the same electric chair as wife murderers—if our hearts be that black, you think—then tomorrow we will pass into a greater judgment; into the presence of the Almighty, and history will give its last word to us. Whatever you decide, I leave it to your judgment."

EDITOR TARRIED; RIOT REIGNS IN TOWN

Regina, Sask., Nov. 23.—Keliber, a town on the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, about 100 miles north of here, is in a state of riot bordering on armed warfare tonight. Late last night, according to advices received here today, Charles Riddett, editor of a local paper, was waylaid, stripped of his clothing and a coat of tar and feathers applied to his body. Today friends and enemies of Riddett took sides. Riddett's friends, it is claimed, are quartered in a hardware store, being afraid to venture outside. A squad of mounted police left here for Keliber today armed with warrants for the arrest of several leading citizens.

The trouble is said to have started over the refusal of the Keliber banks to extend credit to some of the merchants and the agitation for the establishment of a new bank in a rival town, to which they declared they would transfer their business.

GIRL RECONCILED TO HUMBLE HUSBAND

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Almoe Givlar Boehm, who married Edward Boehm, a chauffeur employed by the wealthy Kirkman family, last Wednesday night, thinking she was marrying "Edward B. Kirkman," today declared she was reconciled to her chauffeur-husband, who disappeared shortly after the wedding.

"I did not tell her I was not Edward B. Kirkman, because I thought she knew I was only the chauffeur and she would not marry me," said Boehm today.

Mrs. Boehm, who had detectives seeking her husband, was angry, but after a private interview with Boehm announced she was happy and that they would be married again under Boehm's right name.

SOCIALIST LEADERS UNDER FEDERAL INDICTMENT

Eugene V. Debs, Fred D. Warren and J. I. Sheppard Are Charged with Obstruction of Justice; Two Arrests Made.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Fort Scott, Kan., Nov. 23.—On a federal indictment returned here against Eugene V. Debs, socialist candidate for president; Fred D. Warren, editor of the Appeal to Reason, a socialist newspaper published at Girard, Kan., and J. I. Sheppard, Warren's attorney, Warren and Sheppard were arrested here today by a deputy United States marshal. The indictment charged "obstruction of justice by inducing witnesses to leave the country."

Warren and Sheppard were released on $1,000 bond each.

The offense charged in the indictment is alleged to have been committed in connection with the case of J. A. Wayland, owner of the Appeal to Reason, City Editor of the Appeal to Reason, and Fred Warren, charged in a federal indictment issued last May, with misuse of the mails in posting obscene matter concerning the federal prison in Leavenworth, Kan.

Wayland committed suicide several weeks ago. Attorneys for the other two men filed a demurrer in the case in the federal court in Topeka, Kan., yesterday. Judge Pollock took the case under advisement.

Debs, Warren and Sheppard were cited for contempt by the federal court in Topeka three months ago on the same charge which led to today's arrests. They were discharged at that time by Judge Pollock.

Delayed reports from other towns and villages indicate that the loss of life is greater than at first reported.

WAR CLOUD LOWERS OVER AUSTRIAN AND RUSSIAN NATIONS

Czar's Power Backs Contentment of Servians for Port on Adriatic and Forces Are Mobilizing Rapidly.

BALKAN DEMANDS ON MOSLEMS MODIFIED

Turkish Soldiers May Leave Adrianople with Honors of War; Tchatalja Forts Not to Surrender to Allies.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
London, Nov. 23.—Interest in the war situation shifted today from the belligerents, whose delegates are preparing to meet with an apparently sincere desire to work out the terms for a truce, to the great neighboring powers, Austria and Russia. These rivals are strengthening their border forces at an hour when the statement of all the powers are spreading broadcast assurances that their only policy is to subordinate rivalries and interests to the common welfare of Europe in the cause of peace.

No threatening factor in the situation is known which has not existed since the beginning of the war, unless it is near approach of the Servian army to the Adriatic, and the steps towards mobilization may mean nothing more than mutual distrust.

When the crisis over Bosnia and Herzegovina arose, both Russia and Austria came nearer to a war footing than they seem to be now; yet the war cloud drifted away.

Reports of the Russian mobilization, published in the Vienna Reichspost, the organ of the heir to the throne, specifies that all the military districts on the frontier, Vilna, Warsaw, Kiev and Odessa, as well as Moscow, are to adopt war footings; the Don Cossacks are to be pushed to the border, and the preparations in Russian Poland include the dispatch of an enormous number of trains with troops and munitions toward the Austrian line.

Three Berlin papers purport to have information of the Austrian preparations, which include the mobilization of three army corps for the Russian frontier, and reinforcements for Bosnia, while France, an account is telegraphed of German military activity.

Mutual diplomacy on the part of the respective administrations at Constantinople and Sofia gives promise that the meeting of the plenipotentiaries, which is expected to take place outside the Tchatalja lines on Monday, will prove successful. Turkey has appointed three additional delegates, but has insisted that the Balkan states must modify their conditions as a ground work for the meeting.

Servia met this condition promptly. Inspired statements declare that Bulgaria is willing that the Turks should retain the Tchatalja lines, which should satisfy both parties, since it saves Turkish pride the ignominy of a march into the capital, while it shields Bulgaria from the Russian official displeasures which her entry into Constantinople would entail, and also waives the doubtful claim of sending an army through a cholera-infested belt.

The allies are willing to grant another concession, in the matter of Adrianople. Although insisting upon the surrender of the citadel, they will permit the garrison to retire with the honors of war. The crucial difficulties, it is believed, will come afterward when attempts to negotiate a treaty of peace are undertaken. Then, satisfaction of the interests of the powers and the division of spoils among the allies will be critical factors. The peoples of the Balkan states are not students of European diplomacy. They have gained immense confidence by the strength of their armies, and concessions to the greater nations, which their statesmen may think necessary, may kindle dangerous troubles at home. The claims of Bulgaria and Greece over Saloniki are already a bone of contention.

An historic feature of the war is the complete downfall of the Young Turk party, whose friends held its rise as a power which would lift Turkey to the plane of the European nations. Two hundred members of the committee of union and progress have already been arrested and many of them have been sentenced on charges of high treason.

BULGARIANS BOMBARD ADRIANOPLE FURIOUSLY.

Sofia, Nov. 23.—After the Turkish sortie at Adrianople yesterday, the Bulgarians began a bombardment of that fortress which lasted through the night. It is announced that two Turkish battalions who attacked the Bulgarians at Tchatalja this morning were repulsed with heavy losses.

GREEKS DESTROY TURK GUNBOAT AT AIVALA.

Athens, Nov. 23.—A Greek torpedo boat entered the harbor of Aivala today and attacked a Turkish gunboat there. On the appearance of the Greeks the Turkish sailors abandoned the gunboat, after opening the vessel's stockpiles. Greek marines went on board, but were unable to stop the launch of water. They then blew up the gunboat with a torpedo.

GIRL PLUNGES OVER PRECIPICE TO DEATH

Colorado Springs, Colo., Nov. 23.—Mildred Sheehan, aged 12, who, with a party of school children, was enjoying a picnic in the mountains, fell five hundred feet down the Devil's Slide in North Cheyenne canyon, near this city this afternoon and was instantly killed. The body was recovered at the bottom of the canyon three hours later.

The children were running along the steep mountainside endeavoring to reach a pass to the canyon below. Tripping over a boulder, the Sheehan girl lost her balance and tumbled over the precipice, bounding and tumbling over the rough jagged sides of the towering mass of stone, the body when picked up at the foot of the mountain, was an almost unrecognizable heap of broken bones and torn flesh.

MRS. POTTER PALMER SUED BY RELATIVE

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Potter Palmer, Judge Lockwood Honore of the circuit court, and other members of the Honore family were made defendants in a suit filed here today by Mrs. Harriet E. Honore, as widow of Harry H. Honore, Jr. Property valued at $1,500,000 is involved in the suit, in which Mrs. Honore charges that her share in her husband's estate is being withheld from her.

At the coroner's inquest over the body of Harry S. Weems, who shot himself after shooting Mrs. Baggot, the autopsy surgeon testified that the left side of his brain showed signs of hardening, indicating either insanity or its near approach.

BRITISH LINERS FOR AMERICAN TRADE

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Sturgis, S. D., Nov. 23.—According to word received here today, the entire town of White Owl, about sixty-five miles from Sturgis, was destroyed by fire yesterday during a high wind. The blaze started from a prairie fire.

MOST DISASTROUS PRAIRIE FIRE ON RECORD RAGES

Norfolk, Neb., Nov. 23.—Reports from many points in southern South Dakota and northern Nebraska tell of the most disastrous prairie fire ever known. One fire, starting in the Pine Ridge Indian reservation, swept through the Rosebud agency and south into Nebraska, the town of Crookston being in danger for a time. Another fire went into Tripp county, South Dakota, and the town of Winnebago was in peril.

Prosecutor of Dr. Hyde Is Dead.

Kansas City, Nov. 23.—Virgil Conklin, who as prosecutor of Jackson County, represented the state in the two trials of Dr. H. Clark Hyde, charged with the murder of Thomas scope, millionaire philanthropist, died here tonight after a long illness.

War Department Sustains Officer.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The war department has decided to sustain the post commander at Fort Clark, Texas, in refusing to grant the demand of the governor of Texas, made November 15th, for ten United States soldiers who engaged in a dance hall row at Brackettville, Tex., November 9th. The row resulted in the killing of a Mexican and the wounding of two other civilians. The local authorities were slow in attempting to arrest the men and the military commander began a court martial, which now will proceed.

Ambassador Calero May Not Resign.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Manuel Calero, the Mexican ambassador, who returned last night from an extended stay in the City of Mexico, today authorized a statement that he does not contemplate resigning his post in the near future.

HOCKIN MUST STAY IN JAIL OR GET BIG BOND FOR RELEASE

Judge Pronounces Magazine Article from Pen of Woman Gross Contempt; Author Excluded from Hearing.

DEFENDANT'S LAWYERS REPUDIATE UTTERANCES

Sensational Testimony Given by Man to Whom Conspiracy Divulged Hiding Place of Explosives Under House.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Indianapolis, Nov. 23.—The imprisonment of Herbert S. Hockin, one of the chief defendants, in default of an increased bond, which was required by the court "because he had deceived every one," the denouncing by the district attorney of a woman writer in the court room as an "anarchist," and a repudiation by attorneys for the defense of some of the acts of the defendants, were among sensational incidents at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today.

The developments of the day were: Herbert S. Hockin, secretary and treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was taken to jail in default of his being unable to increase the $10,000 bond to $20,000, ordered by the court after a witness had said he was in the employ of a detective, and had been since soon after the Los Angeles Times explosion, "and was not to be trusted day or night by any one."

Miss Mary Field, of New York, was branded as an anarchist "who ought to be excluded from the court room" for certain articles she published concerning the trial in the union magazine.

All of the officials of the union, now on trial, including Frank M. Ryan, the president, J. E. Butler, of Buffalo, vice president; M. J. Young, Boston, and P. A. Conley, New Orleans, were denounced for publishing what the court said was "an outrageous contempt of court."

Federal Judge Paul J. Anderson stated that as it was Saturday night, he would not be inclined to increase the bonds of the last named defendants, although he would not act on the motion at this time.

No sooner had the court spoken than Senator Kern and William N. Harding, among the attorneys for the defense, arose and said they had not been consulted about publishing the article criticizing the trial and that they disavowed the sentiment expressed in the article.

Concerning Miss Field, who has been present in the court room for several weeks, District Attorney Charles W. Miller said she had often been seen in the company of the defendant, Olaf A. Tietmoe, of San Francisco, who conducted the same sort of a publication as that which published Miss Field's article.

Lindsey J. Jewell, now an engineer on the Panama canal, had testified that in August, 1910, the month before the Los Angeles explosion, Hockin had been giving information about the dynamites, that soon after the explosion there, Hockin worked directly with William J. Burns, a detective to whom he described fully just who the dynamiters were, that Hockin, while still an official of the union, worked for pay in trailing the dynamiters about the country with Burns four months before the arrests were made, and that Hockin had said he overheard a conversation between J. J. McNamara and President Lynch of the International Typographical Union about a proposed explosion on the Pacific coast.

The court's action in increasing Hockin's bond and in denouncing the articles in criticism of the trial came after the jury had retired for the day. An extract from Miss Field's article, to which the district attorney referred as typical, was:

"On the sixth of October these forty-five defendants walked into court and pleaded 'not guilty' to the charges of the steel trust. Then began the farce of trial, a trial in which money, prestige, power, was the prosecutor of want and obscurity, a trial in which the steel trust masqueraded as the government."

The magazine had published this a few days ago and it was circulated in the court room.

Judge Anderson said: "I do not intend to take any notice of the articles read to the jury, but since they have been referred to, I will say I never heard of such an outrageous contempt of court. If any member of the bar here present has given his sanction to that publication he is in contempt. And if I find out that any attorney has given his sanction, the hand of the law will fall heavily on him. Certain men representing themselves to be attorneys are here and if I learn to be true certain things it is reported they have said, the hand of the law will deal heavily with them."

"I will increase Hockin's bond. The evidence has shown that he is a man who cannot be trusted by anybody at any time of the day. He has betrayed every person with whom he has had to deal. But as it is Saturday, I will not consider increasing the bonds of the others. Hockin will be taken into custody."

Hockin said he was unable to furnish the bond tonight, but he thought he would on Monday.

Mr. Jewell was one of the unexpected incidents of the day. He formerly was connected with a steel construction firm in Pittsburgh and in 1911, went to Panama as an engineer. He announced on the stand that he testified because he "had to" and District Attorney Miller stated it was necessary to take action through the state department to induce Mr. Jewell to appear.

Mr. Jewell testified that in the summer of 1910, before the Los Angeles explosion, Hockin came to his office in Pittsburgh and offered to give information about nitroglycerin hidden in an old cooper shop near Rochester, Pa.

"Go to an old house beside the river and in three places beneath the floor you will find fifty-two quarts of nitroglycerin," was the information Jewell said Hockin gave him.

"Hockin placed me under bonds of secrecy and I have never told any one or repeated it until now," said Jewell. "He said explosions involving wholesale murders were planned by union officials and he would not stand for it. I told him he might confide in me and I would never tell who told."

"He then said a plan was on foot to destroy the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie bridge near Beaver, Pa., under a loaded passenger train. He said if I would go to an old house along the river at Rochester, I would find beneath the floor at three points fifty-two quarts of nitroglycerin. The next day we went to Rochester on the same train, agreeing not to speak to each other. I followed Hockin along the river and into the house and pulling up the boards, found the nitroglycerin."

"I told Hockin our confidence was only as to his identity. So the next day I informed General Manager Yule, of the railroad company, about the plot and he immediately sent Edward G. Wacker, his engineer, to take away the explosive."

"About ten days after the Los Angeles Times explosion, I went to Detroit to see Hockin."

"You wanted to learn who the dynamiters were, did you?"

"Naturally. By agreement I registered at a hotel in Detroit as L. B. Stone, and Hockin called on me."

"We talked about the Times explosion. I told him he ought to make a clean breast of it and tell all he knew. He said the dynamite campaign was being handled by only one or two men. I said that was absurd. He replied he was willing to tell all he knew, but he said he never would testify at any trial and the information would have to come from outside sources. If put on the stand he would declare it was all a lie. Then he said James B. McNamara pulled off the Los Angeles Times explosion and was to stop at Kansas City on the way back and cause an explosion there. Hockin related a conversation he said he overheard between J. J. McNamara and President Lynch, of the International Typographical union.

"He said they met in the lobby of a hotel in Indianapolis and that McNamara asked Lynch, 'Lynch, why in Hell don't you fellows put something off on the coast?' And that Lynch made some reply that was inaudible and McNamara then said: 'Well, I can give you a man that has got the nerve if you can get the money,' and they walked away."

Attacks on District Attorney Charles W. Miller and on the government's prosecution of the "dynamite conspiracy" cases, as published in the Iron Workers' Union magazine since the trial began, were read by Mr. Miller before the jury today.

In an article as read to the jury the government's prosecution is referred to as follows:

On the 6th of October these forty-five defendants walked into court and pleaded 'not guilty' to the charges of the steel trust. Then began the farce trial, a trial in which money, prestige, power was the promoter of want and obscurity, a trial in which the trust masquerades as the government."

Reference to the McNamara brothers' plans of guilt at Los Angeles, as read in evidence from the magazine, was:

"The plans of 'guilt' quickly followed the arrests. In the hands of an all-powerful enemy, with courts and juries committed against them, with traitors as friends and friends as traitors, a trial was impossible. The two McNamaras stood bravely before the world and said: 'Yes, we are warriors. We fought for as seemed to us best. We fought for with force, power with power. Maybe we used the wrong weapon. History will tell; but we heard the cry, the anguishing cry of men and of women ground in the steel yards, above the voice of caution. We stand ready to take the consequences of our act without a whimper, without an appeal for sympathy.'

"But two victims were not enough for the steel trust. The organization itself must be disrupted. Goaded on by a desire for vengeance, they stretched forth cruel hands for more distinguished victims."

"Give us 'Gompers,' they cried. Give us 'Harnes.'"

The article quoted by Mr. Miller was signed by Miss Mary Field, of New York, a writer for labor union publications.

Ortie E. McManis' recital of his confession as a dynamiter was interrupted today to allow other witnesses to testify.

Cornelius L. Crowley, Monticello, Pa., told of the finding of nitroglycerin in an old cooper shop at Rochester, Pa., in August, 1910. It was this store of explosives which McNamara charged was pointed out to the authorities two months before the Los Angeles explosion by H. S. Hockin in secretly giving information to "double cross" the union.

George W. Harvey described an explosion caused by McNamara on March 27, 1909, in a new opera house at Boston. Watchmen corroborated McNamara's statements that bombs had been placed in the southwest side of the structure.

MISS FARLEY FREED FROM CHARGE OF MURDER

Great Cheer Breaks from the Spectators in Court Room When Verdict of Acquittal is Brought in by Jury.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—Miss Cecilia Farley, the pretty young stenographer, who for two weeks has been on trial for the shooting of Alvin E. Zollinger, an advertising solicitor, was acquitted today after the jury had been out for three and a half hours.

Immediately following the announcement of the verdict, Miss Farley said she and Jerome Quigley, the hotel clerk who figured prominently in the case, will be married at once and will go to Los Angeles, Calif., with Miss Farley's parents, to make their home.

As soon as the verdict was read, Miss Farley jumped from her seat and ran to the jury box, where she shook hands with each of the jurors. The large crowd in the court room greeted the verdict with a shout of approval which could be heard all over the court house. Scores of women spectators crowded about Miss Farley and insisted upon kissing her.

During the three hours the jury was out, Miss Farley remained with her mother and intimate friends in the witness room. She seemed hopeful the verdict would be favorable. The stenographer's mother was nervous and although smiling, tears showed in her eyes when the verdict of acquittal was announced.

Jerome Quigley was not in the court room to receive the news and was informed by his friends at his home.

SUFFRAGISTS MAY TAKE PART IN POLITICS

Miss Jane Addams Takes Spirited Exception to Criticism of Her Advocacy of Roosevelt's Cause.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—Officers of the National American Woman Suffrage association can take part in partisan politics in any state if they want to.

After a long and spirited debate at today's session of the organization's convention, an amendment prohibiting such participation was overwhelmingly defeated.

Up to the time Miss Jane Addams seconded the nomination of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in the progressive convention at Chicago, it had been the unwritten rule in the association that all officers should hold aloof from partisan politics except in states where women had the right to vote. The proposed amendment, it was declared, was aimed at Miss Addams and she accepted the challenge and fought the proposition with vigor.

"First of all," began Miss Addams, when she rose to speak on the subject, "I want to apologize if I have done anything wrong or if I have injured the association in any way. When I joined the association and when I was elected vice president, I did not know that I was pledged politically. I did not know that I must limit myself."

"I think that matters of this kind should be left to the judgment of the persons. In the middle of the campaign I received a letter from President Taft about some charitable association. I did not notice any difference in this letter from others because I had talked politics this summer. I did not go up and down the country abusing candidates. I told the men what I had to say and gave them something new to think about in the way of suffrage."

SAZAR EVACUATES PALOMAS AND MOVES MEN SOUTHEAST

Rebel Leader Sends Wounded Across Border and Furnishes $300 to be Used for Defraying Expenses.

JUAREZ PROBABLE OBJECTIVE POINT

General Tracy Aubert is Calling in Small Garrisons to Aid Defense of Port Opposite El Paso.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
El Paso, Nov. 23.—Rebel forces under General Inoz Salazar, which a few days ago took the port of Palomas, evacuated the town and moved south. Recaptured to about 500 strong, the rebels proceeded toward Guadalupe, on the Mexico Northwestern railway. Although General Salazar declared to United States army officers that he intended to move against Casas Grandes, it is believed he will come toward Juarez, the port of El Paso.

Before leaving, the rebels sent over the line their wounded, and those of the federalists thirty-one in number, including Colonel Francisco Cordella, who was the federal commander of the town. General E. Z. Steever, of Fort Bliss, tonight dispatched two army physicians and hospital corps attendants to Columbus, N. M., to care for the wounded. General Salazar sent $300 in currency to Mr. J. McDonald, of the Thirtieth cavalry, stationed at Palomas, with a polite explanation that he wished it to be used to defray the expenses of the medical attention to both federalists and rebels. Aside from fourteen federalists who have crossed the line and are held by United States troops, all of the one hundred men of the federal garrison are said to have joined the rebels.

Salazar's prompt action in leaving Palomas may prevent him from encountering a regiment of cavalry which left the city of Chihuahua this morning with orders to proceed at once to Juarez. General Tracy Aubert, the federal commander at Juarez, is making all preparations for an attack on Salazar's forces. He will send a small party to the south of the border. There are less than a hundred federalists in Juarez, with only two machine guns, but it is feared that Salazar will form a junction with General Marcelino Canaveses, who, with four hundred rebels, is operating south of Juarez.

IRISH STEW TAKES INVESTIGATORS' TIME

Los Angeles, Nov. 23.—Irish stew and the things put into it, or the things that should have been put in, but which were left out, according to witnesses, occupied today the attention of the senate soldiers' home investigating committee.

Several old soldiers testified that the meals were good "at inspection time," but at other times they were poor. Asked about the component parts of the Irish stew were, David Fisk, an old veteran, said he did not know. All of the vegetables known to man were enumerated by the committee in its endeavor to find out what the stew was made of but invariably Fisk would answer "no," when asked if they were used.

FISTIC ENCOUNTER MARKS CLOSE OF CONVENTION

Samuel Gompers Again Triumphs Over Enemies and is Re-Elected President of Federation of Labor.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 23.—A fistic encounter between William D. Haywood, a leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, and J. Mahlon Barnes, who was national campaign manager of the recent socialist campaign, took place tonight in the lobby of convention hall while the American Federation of Labor was holding its final session. Haywood and Barnes met just outside a door to the auditorium. The door was open and President Gompers, on the platform, saw Haywood strike Barnes.

"A delegate to this convention had been insulted by 'Big Bill' Haywood," shouted Gompers. "Delegate will keep their seats and the sergeant-at-arms will remove the disturber."

Haywood ran into the street, followed by several delegates. He took refuge in a laundry and someone barred the door. Policemen prevented further trouble. Haywood was taken to police headquarters, but Barnes declined to make a charge against him and he was not held.

Barnes said Haywood had revived an old dispute over the merits of the rival bodies to which they belonged. He said Haywood taunted him with the defeat of measures Barnes had championed in the convention. Barnes said he invited Haywood to the floor of the convention with the remark that he would "get his." Haywood retorted by calling Barnes a name and striking him.

Samuel Gompers was re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor this evening over Max Hayes of the International Typographical Union. The vote was: Gompers, 111-974; Hayes, 5,974.

It was the first time in ten years that there had been opposition to Gompers, who has been re-elected annually since 1895. All other officers were re-elected.

The convention defeated the United Mine Workers' resolution calling for future elections by a referendum vote of the federation members.

Seattle was chosen as the 1913 meeting place.

This Should Keep The Baby Healthy

When it is ill don't become alarmed but give this fine laxative.

It is often difficult to tell just what is the matter with a crying, peevish baby or child too young to express its feelings in words, but as a general rule the mother will find that there is a tendency to constipation, which has brought on a headache or nervousness. The little one has no pain, but feels "out of sorts."

The first thing to try is a family remedy containing good but mild laxative properties, and many mothers will say that their choice would be Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. "Thousands of mothers keep it in the house for such emergencies, among whom may be mentioned Mr. D. C. Head, Mgr., Head Drug Co., Ft. Worth, Tex., father of Clarence Carroll Head, and Mr. L. Sutton, 163 Alaska Place, Denver, Colo. They and others are glad to say that Syrup Pepsin saved them many an illness and many a large doctor bill, for by administering it promptly, when the first symptoms of illness were noticed, they prevented a serious ailment."

It is so pleasant-tasting that no child will refuse it, and as it does not gripe, the child is glad to take it again. A bottle can be obtained of any druggist for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter being the size bought by families already familiar with its merits.

Syrup Pepsin is for all the family from infancy to old age, and because of its mildness families should prefer it over all other remedies. It is absolutely safe and reliable. You will never again give cathartics, pills, salts or such harsh physics, for they are usually unnecessary, and in the case of children, women and elderly people are a great shock to the system, and hence should be avoided.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of its merits, try it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address to Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed to you. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

CLARENCE CARROLL HEAD or such harsh physics, for they are usually unnecessary, and in the case of children, women and elderly people are a great shock to the system, and hence should be avoided.

FAILURE TO REPAIR BARELAS BRIDGE INEXCUSABLE

Citizens Daily Growing More and More Incensed at Long Delay in Providing Adequate
Crossing of Rio Grande.

June 3, 1912—Barelas bridge rendered impassable by floods.
July 12—Commissioners advertised for bids for repair of Barelas bridge.
July 17—County Clerk A. E. Walker discovered that advertisement is faulty. It is discontinued.
July 18 to August 15—Advertisement again inserted in papers.
Bids received and opened.
August 22—Contract let to Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Co.
September 19—Work begun.
October 18—Contract limit for construction.
November 23—Sixteen of thirty-six piles driven, floor and framing one-third completed.

The above is a brief chronology of the repair of the Barelas bridge. The worst feature of it is that it is incomplete, like the repair work.

For nearly six months the bridge has been impassable. For the same length of time, the residents of the section across the river have been compelled to ford the stream, travel around by way of another bridge or rely upon an inefficient scow ferry for their means of getting across the treacherous Rio Grande. Crops have rotted upon the ground because they could not be brought to market. Property has depreciated because of lack of transportation and communication facilities. Albuquerque merchants have lost business. Farmers have lost about given up in disgust. And for the whole six months, there has been a steadily growing sentiment that something ought to be done to provide transportation means over this stream immediately. The failure of the county authorities to provide this means has subjected them to an endless amount of criticism, most of it severe, and some of it not altogether deserved. County Surveyor Pitt Ross has been made the butt of many unkind criticisms passed by people who are not engineers. But the bulk of the blame has been directed toward the governing board of the county, inasmuch as it was their duty to see that the bridge was repaired.

Until a few days ago, the crew which was at work on the bridge was composed of six men. Early this week, whether it was because of the demand for fuel, or for its own pecuniary loss due to the delays, the contracting company added three more men to the force. Since then, either because of this or because the work had passed beyond the most difficult stage, the rate of progress has been more rapid.

Last night there were sixteen piles driven or started down. This is just twenty less than are needed for the whole stretch of repair work. Four of them have been driven in the last three days, since the additional men were put to work. The bridge is now down, after three spans of it went down, the commissioners advertised for bids to repair the structure. That was on July 12th, just one month and seven days after the three west spans of the bridge had been washed away. After this advertisement had run for six days, it was discovered that it was technically incorrect, and a readvertisement was ordered. This was started July 18th and ran for four weeks. Then the bids, six in all, were opened and the contract awarded to the Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Co. The consideration was $5,500. A bond of $5,500 was executed to the county, guaranteeing it against pecuniary loss due to non-fulfillment of contract, but practically providing no other safeguard. The bond was from the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., and the contract specifically stated that work was to begin within fifteen days of signature and to be completed by October 15th.

It is now November 24th, and the work is but little more than one-third done.

The delay is ascribed to various causes. In the first place, the repair company sustained numerous difficulties with its engine and boiler, and with handling the material.

There was a lengthy discussion between County Surveyor Pitt Ross and State Engineer J. A. French as to the length of the piling. Mr. Ross wanted to use forty-foot piles. Mr. French wanted sixty-foot piles. They compromised on fifty feet, the work to be done with ten inch I beams.

Due to his practical knowledge of the river here, Mr. Ross wished to use piles which should rest upon the hard pan stratum forty feet down. Whether Mr. French thought this stratum a myth or something which steel piles would easily penetrate is unknown. But it is a fact that by far the larger portion of the difficulty experienced in driving the piling has come when the driver was hammering down the last ten feet. Progress through or into this hard pan stratum has been made at the rate of from twelve to two strokes of a 3,000-pound hammer to every inch of depth attained.

It was found impossible to drop the hammer over six feet in most cases, because the piles, drilled at the factory to receive the caps, buckled at the holes when the hammer was given eight or ten feet of drop. Because of the great resistance found in the hard pan stratum, the heads of many piles were bruised or bent. They thus had to be cut off below the bruised or buckled portion, as the case might be, and redrilled by hand for the caps. Out of the sixteen piles driven or started, but three have been sent down the full depth without cutting off the heads, a slow and laborious business. Had the piles been ten feet shorter, they need not have been bruised. Had they not been drilled at the factory, they might have been sent down the full depth without buckling. Piles have been cut off from three inches to four feet or more.

Other difficulties were experienced with the false-work erected to carry the pile driver. Still others will likely be experienced because of delays in receiving timber to replace portions of the material condemned. Bad delays have already been charged to waiting for freight shipments.

While fording the river, at least one horse has been drowned, and many others have been carried away only to be rescued with great difficulty. Vehicles have been damaged by the water and straining. People have been caught in the quicksand and had to labor with the frenzy of despair to extricate themselves and their animals. The inconvenience and delay due to the lack of a bridge can not be measured in dollars and cents.

BECKER WILL NOT

SAYS ROTHROCK

Head of Police System of Delaware and Hudson Lines Believes That Former Lieutenant Will Get New Trial.

That former Police Lieutenant Charles A. Becker, convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the New York mailer, will receive capital punishment, is the belief of Orville A. Rothrock, chief of police of the Delaware & Hudson lines, who spent yesterday in Albuquerque.

Mr. Rothrock and his wife had been visiting in California. They stopped here Friday night en route home, and continued their trip east last night.

Mr. Rothrock, whose headquarters are at Albion, N. Y., has followed the trial of the accused murderer of the New York gambler with interest. The four gamblers with more or less melodramatic names, will go to the chair, Mr. Rothrock believes, but Becker will not be executed. He said that the police lieutenant, charged with employing the gunmen, will get another trial.

A report that the four intimates in the Rosenthal case, Sam Schepke, "Bridge" Wehrer, Harry Vallen and Jack Bone on their way to Albuquerque, was picked up by Mr. Rothrock on the coast.

BRIDEGROOM ARRESTED
FOLLOWING ELOPEMENT

Rocky Ford, Colo., Nov. 23.—An elopement and its natural sequel, a wedding, followed by an arrest and a night in jail for the bridegroom, caused considerable excitement in one of the well known families here today.

The bride, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Sellers, went to La Junta in company with Charles Sparks, of Manhattan, Kan., and was married. She gave her age as 18. After the marriage the couple returned to Rocky Ford, where the bride introduced her new husband to her parents and asked for her clothes. The parents objected and called for a policeman.

The parents finally relented and said if Sparks could show recommendations as to character they would not further object. Telegrams were sent to friends in Manhattan and the bridegroom went to jail and the bride to her parents' home until the clean bill comes.

Winter's Stay in California,
Expected to Arrive in Albuquerque

With him are the members of his executive staff, so that for all intents the general headquarters of the Santa Fe will be removed to the Sunset state with him.

Whether Mr. Ripley will make the trip from here on a special train or on a private car attached to some one of the regular transcontinental passenger trains is unknown. It is not at all certain that he will even arrive today, although such is the expectation.

in Albuquerque.

The announcement was made last night by J. W. Noble, business manager of the St. Louis Motion Picture Company, which spent several weeks here not long ago, that he had purchased the film of the Luna funeral taken here not long ago and would display it in the city at an early date.

Mr. Noble declared that the picture would be shown at as early a date as satisfactory arrangements could be made. He did not then know at what house it would be featured.

The film is one of the finest photographs that has been shown anywhere. It was taken on a still camera, and with an instrument of great range, so that every detail stands out as clearly as though engraved. It is a little more than 1,000 feet in length and was made to embody all the best of the films taken rather than to fit any special length. The film is in English and Spanish, as it is expected the native population of one of the greatest cities of their race has produced in New Mexico.

A Thanksgiving

COME, let us deepest Thanksgiving give.
That we didn't chance to live
In the "good old days," now past,
When life was simple and far from fast.

It's pretty nice to have a bed with springs,
Telephones, motor cars and vacuum things,
Old fashioned cheer hasn't anything on
Pie a la mode, patisserie or filet mignon.

Can't imagine how they lived at all,
Without cards, auction bridge et al;
And there wasn't any suffrage or banded bags,
They didn't wear hobble skirts or buy glad rags.

No politics, no Roosevelt, no "home runs,"
No "touch-downs," no first-of-the-month duns;
Oh, it must have been a sorry scheme of things,
Without breach of promise suits, or diamond rings.

Wonder how in the world folks got along
Without scandal—of course, nobody did wrong;
Why, there wasn't even a society page,
No bold, bad society editor to make 'em rage.

Gee, life must have been very tame
In those days of yore olden time,
Living now is good enough, I guess
So let us give thanks with the best.

Thankful? Surely--

ISAAC HARTH is thankful that he has not a "lean, hungry look."
DR. D. H. CARNS that some of his patients have survived.
HERBERT BROOKS that he has escaped (matrimony) another year.
O. N. MARRON that the country went democratic.
JUDGE EDWARD A. MANN that he is able to bear up bravely.
BOB CREWS that he is honestly-to-goodness engaged.
A FLEISCHER that his faithful services to the democratic party bid fair to be rewarded on earth.
A. B. ROBERTSON that he has broken into theatrics.
SOCIETY that there is to be a big dancing party this week.
THE TOWN-AT-LARGE that the Elks are putting on another show.

Promise of Gayety Held Forth

Thank goodness, my research expenses are paid. That's about my only consolation when, by dint of search, I fail to discover any social news especially worth while. Now, last week—a perfect fizzle if socially considered, and that's what counts here. Anything but a social whirlwind, the Simms-Waha dance notwithstanding. That, of course, was a brilliant and sumptuous event and I intend to tell you all about it before I plunge very much deeper in the social vortex. So—cheer up—there's another week and it looks like a real live one.

Yes, Thanksgiving week promises much in the way of gayety. Does not the Mandell dance happen Tuesday night? It is sure to be an affair of charming detail, and will go with unswerving success, as the Mandells are among the most hospitable of our good townpeople. Everybody invited is on the tip-toe of expectancy for the time of their lives.

While dancing is to be the main attraction, a card room is to be luxuriously fitted up for those who prefer cards to dancing, so neither old nor young will be excluded from the fun.

The decorations are to be in white and silver and quite elaborate. Other than that—there is not much to say, until the dance is done. Then, I think, I will have abundant copy and plenty of inspiration for a "good story."

The Elks Minstrels promise to entertain things considerably and—but more of them anon.

Simms-Waha Dance Brilliant.

The Alvarado on Friday evening was the scene of one of the most brilliant gatherings of the season. The occasion was the Simms-Waha dance, and let me state right at the start, that neither expense nor effort were spared to make the event attractive and jolly.

Tasteful decorations and clever treatment of possibilities, with which the artistic interior of the Alvarado hotel abounds, went to make the setting a sumptuous one, and well in accord with the elegance of the affair.

Of course, it was a wild success, and graced by the presence of some of the handsomest matrons and maidens in society. Everything was in the best of style, and arranged so tentatively for pleasure, so that it was one of the gayest as well as one of the most magnificent social affairs ever given hereabouts.

From the parlors where Mr. and Mrs. Simms and Mr. and Mrs. Waha received their guests, to the supper room, the west annex, all was beauty adorned. Truly a thing of beauty if not a joy forever. The color scheme was distinctly autumnal. It was pretty emphasized with great clusters of chrysanthemums in the hall room, and with autumn foliage in the ball room. The chrysanthemums were also effectively used in the supper room and in every available space in the ball room. The orchestra was entirely shut out from view by palms, and these were used to excellent advantage throughout the rooms.

A smoking room was cleverly and artistically improvised from a small room opening off the ball room, and here the men congregated between dances, and at other odd moments.

when they could conveniently break away.

The supper served at midnight was an epicurean delight, with service unexcelled, and was certainly a credit to the management. All the guests were seated at once, and the supper hour brought about the climax of hilarity.

It was one of the few local balls which was not made a "sticky" affair, through the good nature of the hostess.

After a ball list is made out in due proportion to the femininity, an extra man should be asked for any additional fair one, so that "wall flowers" are eliminated.

A "mot" has been repeated me from a well known matron of considerable worldly experience in the dispensing of social frivolities. She was heard to remark that the sure recipe for a successful ball was "plenty of lively men for the girls, and plenty of dry champagne for the men." A worldly utterance and cynical, the wisdom of which may be worthy of some consideration.

They may not have had champagne at the Simms-Waha dance, but they had plenty of men, and the dance was good fun clear through.

It brought out a goodly showing of handsome evening frocks, I may add. Everybody was rigged out in her prettiest gown, and the sartorial showing was a feature of the event.

The hostesses, Mrs. Simms and her daughter, Mrs. Waha were exquisitely groomed. The former's gown was of black crepe de chene, draped in black Chantilly lace, and most becoming. Mrs. Waha, a decidedly pretty woman, whose chief assets of beauty are her eyes and clear skin, looked lovely in her wedding gown, a wonderfully pretty frock of old Spanish lace, draped over chamoise. Both carried American Beauty rose buds.

Somebody said that Mrs. Edith Lester wore one of the loveliest gowns seen that evening. Mrs. Lester to my mind, is fetching in anything she puts on, and I can imagine that she looked very charming in pale blue chiffon, Frenchly trimmed in pink.

Another gown which elicited much admiring comment was worn by Mrs. B. Koch. It was some sort of a filmy white frock, with a pink flowered brocade as the underdress.

Mrs. Joseph Brown wore a gown of handsome ecru lace, relieved by touches of emerald green, and Mrs. A. A. Keen was charmingly gowned in pink chamoise, draped in chiffon.

A Veritable Fashion Parade.

Mrs. Bert Skinner, a recent bride, wore her pretty wedding gown, a combination of silk marcellette and chamoise, very simply and effectively fashioned.

Stunning black gowns were worn by Mrs. G. L. Brooks and Mrs. Bernard Tiffed. Among the pretty frocks noted in the young set was an embroidered blue net over blue chamoise in the pastel shades, worn by Jean Hubbs, and a white brocade dress with American Beauty trimmings, worn by Grace Borradaile. And ever so many more, all beautiful and worth a paragraph of praise, but my memory fails me just at this particular moment.

Although relatively few of the near-dots were asked, those invited were permitted to come to their first really grown-up dance, on account of Betty Simms, who assisted her mother and sister in entertaining their guests. In this connection I should add that

Howard Waha was much in evidence and a big help. But, as I started to say, several of the not-outs were at the dance, and they had a right royal time of it.

There were the two Hope girls, Helen and Myrl; Dorothy McMillen, Kathryn Chaves and Betty Simms, all in the daintiest and sheerest of white fingerie frocks, and pictures of youthful prettiness and happiness.

So many remarked their beauty and their keen enjoyment in the dance. They were a perfect joy to those who did their dancing sitting, so to speak—the mothers and grandmothers who still enjoy the illusions of an Indian summer and like to mix with the young. Even the still young, but already blase, men and women delighted in their freshness and charm. And—don't you tell I told you—they come mightily near knocking the real debutantes noses out of joint. Not quite but anyhow they run the older girls a close second for masculine favors.

It was a glorious party and no two ways about it. As "big dogs" as I have been called upon to record, and I except none. The guest list follows:

Governor and Mrs. McDonald, of Santa Fe; Messrs. and Mrs. McDonald; Frank Ackerman, Rupert E. Asplund, of Santa Fe; W. H. Barney, G. L. Brooks, Joseph Brown, R. W. D. Bryan, Amado Chaves, Frank W. Chaney, of Santa Fe; John Lee Clarke, Walter Connell, E. Russell Edgar, W. L. Edgar, J. B. Farwell, H. B. Ferguson, Al Frost, Ivan Grunfeld, Berthold Spitz, Will Springer, F. S. Hall, Harold Moore, H. B. Henning, Jay Hubbs, Arno Huning, Charles White, J. England Smithers, W. W. Strong, Simon Stern, Roy Stamm, Raymond Stamm, Frank Wilson, D. A. Macpherson, A. J. Maloy, O. N. Marron, Don Sterling, O. A. Matson, Roy McDonald, D. F. McGowan, A. B. McFarrell, A. R. McMillen, J. T. McLaughlin, Ross Merrill, Max Nordhaus, J. H. O'Reilly, Allen S. Peck, Robert Putney, A. B. Recknagel, Joseph E. Saint, Bert Skinner, Bernard Tiffed, Louis Tiffed, Noah Tiffed, Dana Johnson, A. A. Keen, Fred Kent, George S. Klock, Felix Lester, I. B. Koch, J. F. Luthy, Dr. and Mrs. Frank de la Vergne, Dr. and Mrs. E. Elder, Dr. Staab, of New York City, Dr. and Mrs. James H. Wroth, Dr. and Mrs. B. E. Hedding, of Mountaintop; Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Hope, Dr. and Mrs. G. S. McLandress, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Pearce; Mesdames Edward Spitz, Bacon, of Macon, Ga.; Reed, Louis Huning, Franz Huning, M. S. Hime, Margaret Medler, Mabel Pich, Dorothy McMillen, Irene Saint, Estelle Luthy, Julia and Lou Lee, Margaret and Eugenia Kelerher; Messrs. Frank Pooler, Arthur Ringland, Sam Pickard, C. G. Mardoff, Harold Jamison, Kiercher, McKibben, Hugh Calkins, Ted Drake, Starkweather, of Chicago; Vidler, of Denver; Rogers, Hinderer, Herman Schweizer, Julius Staab.

Following the final performance, Thanksgiving night, the Elks will give a dance in honor of the participants in the show. This will take place in the Elks' lodge room and will be a right rollicking event. All Elksdom will attend, of course.

A Juvenile Birthday Party

On Tuesday afternoon, Danny Macpherson celebrated his fifth birthday, ably assisted by a number of young friends, and a few interested spectators of the grown-up variety.

The Macpherson home on that afternoon resembled a big play room, and the antics of the youngsters made it plain that the opportunity for a glorious time was not being overlooked. In their best bib and tucker, and with their party manners on parade, the kiddies seemed very Owen Marron, Harry Hunt, Howard Heyn, Verne Herndon, James Baker, Billy O'Reilly, Wilson Keim, Jack Clarke, Jastro Chadbourne, Bob Wilson and Bobby Macpherson.

After an hour or so of frolic came "the" party. Everybody knows that at children's parties, the "suits" are the sum and substance of proceedings, and this one was no exception.

The sun porch was an impromptu dining room and a long low table an effective setting for the merry spread.

The decorations were "Thanksgiving" and wonderfully pretty. The centerpiece was a huge pumpkin, hollowed out and filled with chrysanthemums, and the table was bowered with pumpkins, turkeys, and filled with candies. A big birthday cake, with its five burning candles and fantastic decorations, occupied a place of honor. And, of course, there were all sorts of good things to eat, all well calculated to please the youngsters, and the grown-ups grouped themselves about the table, enjoying the party as much as the children themselves.

The juvenile guests were Margaret White, Dorothy Schwenker, Louise Clarke, Edith Owen, Jane Huning, Ruth Frost, Margaret and Lucile Koch, Nellie Kirch, Bertie Arnold, Francis Ferguson, William Vaughney, Owen Marron, Harry Hunt, Howard Heyn, Verne Herndon, James Baker, Billy O'Reilly, Wilson Keim, Jack Clarke, Jastro Chadbourne, Bob Wilson and Bobby Macpherson.

Among those who watched the fun were Mrs. Frank Ackerman, Mrs. A. S. Bronson, Mrs. Alfred Frost, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Robert Putney, Mrs. Bert Baker, Mrs. Nancy Hewick, Mrs. A. F. Riffe, Mrs. Frank Schwenker and Mrs. Christine Ayer. To these Mrs. Macpherson served refreshments after the children's party had broken up.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Isaac Barth had three tables at auction bridge. She is planning a similar affair for the latter part of this week.

Mrs. E. Russell Edgar was hostess, Tuesday afternoon, to the members of the Highland Auction Bridge club. They will play this week with Mrs. C. E. Lower.

Elks' Minstrels This Week

Well, Joe Bren is on the job, and things are humming in preparation for the Elks' Minstrels, to be staged in Elks' theater Wednesday evening, with probably a Thanksgiving matinee.

Joe Bren, unlike Jeffries, can "come back," you see. With him, and lending very capable assistance, is Mrs. Joe and—let's not baby her.

Truth to tell, neither seem particularly impressed with their new duties as pater and materfamilias, though they display a very pardonable pride in Joseph Eugene. He's a rollicking youngster, not yet six months old, and will make his stage debut at the opening performance Wednesday evening, although, his specialty is kept secret. I heard it said that Joe, Jr., and the irrepressible "Landy" will pull off some sort of a stunt. That remains to be seen.

Anyhow, it's to be a great show. A minstrel show with end ladies as well as end men. The cast is well selected and Mr. Bren promises some really gorgeous costume effects, and special scenic equipment besides.

John Lee Clarke will be the interlocutor and the end ladies include Mrs. J. W. Colbert who came on from California especially to take part in the show, Mrs. Ross Merrill, Mrs. W. Y. Walton, Mrs. Hugh Collins, Miss Margaret Franklin, Miss Anita Baca and Mrs. Irene Starr. The end men are Sam Pickard, Hugo C. Meyer, L. C. Gumbiner, Ernest Landolf, Ross Merrill, Leslie Cullum, Ben J. Puryear, John Falkenberg.

The chorus, consisting of twelve men, includes the best talent available, and the music throughout is the catchy, melodious sort always a feature of the Bren shows. A good old minstrel show with brand new features is assured, and the theatergoing public is on the qui vive for something really good.

Following the final performance, Thanksgiving night, the Elks will give a dance in honor of the participants in the show. This will take place in the Elks' lodge room and will be a right rollicking event. All Elksdom will attend, of course.

Days We Celebrate

THE ghost of Thanksgiving Day and the ghost of Christmas met and shook hands in that debatable land where spirits wander at large. The Thanksgiving ghost was plerotic with turkey and of a comfortable rotundity. The Christmas ghost was built like a huge dollar sign, and had the sanctimonious air of one who has been spent in a good cause.

The ghost of Thanksgiving smiled broadly. "It's to be a good season," he said.

"Fine," agreed Christmas.

"Thousands of turkeys will lay down their lives at my shrine," said Thanksgiving complacently.

"Thousands of dollars at mine," said Christmas proudly.

"Preachers proclaim my goodness, and all the world gives thanks," said Thanksgiving, as he strutted about in a most superior way.

"Fortunately, thanks are not a competitive commodity, and they can be given in any quantity without disturbing my trade," said Christmas maliciously.

"That started the row."

"The president of the United States issues a proclamation announcing my arrival," said Thanksgiving.

"You are my herald and your chief reason for being is to announce my coming," said Christmas.

"I gorge myself to prove the world's prosperity," said Thanksgiving.

"The money is but accumulated to be spent on me," retorted Christmas.

"Big football games are played in my honor," said Thanksgiving.

"The world is decked with holly and mistletoe for me and I divide honors with none," said Christmas.

"I am a national holiday," said Thanksgiving.

"I am celebrated the world over," said Christmas.

"The most famous dance in the world, the turkey trot, is named for me," said Thanksgiving.

"I wouldn't tell it if I were you," said Christmas.

"You are a hypocrite," said Thanksgiving.

"You are a braggart," said Christmas.

Just then the ghost of the Fourth of July, badly staged and smelling of gunpowder, drew near.

"You had best stop quarreling and watch your cues. Bringing it right down to a fine point, neither of you are the most important national holiday. I am," said the Fourth of July.

"The impertinent thing," said Thanksgiving and Christmas in one breath.

"He is saying things derogatory to our dignity," said Christmas.

"We will not deign to answer him," said Thanksgiving.

Mesdames Earl Stann, W. Jenks, C. O. Clark, Margaret Jenks and Irene Saint will be in charge of the apron and fancy work table and Mrs. E. L. Bradford and Mrs. A. P. Morrisette will attend to the entertainment features.

German Club to Meet

The German club will meet Friday with Mrs. Saul Harris, a recent member. Here is an interesting organization, and one of so long standing as to be but seldom mentioned in these columns. Eleven years it has enjoyed existence, devoting itself to the study of literature, taking up the lives and works of Shilo, Lessing, Heine and Goethe.

This year the late popular novels are being discussed and current events with also the study of Ibsen and his plays. During the entire existence of the club, Mrs. Louis Huning has been its president—an excellent commentary on her charm of mind and manner. Mrs. Louis Huning is the secretary. Their meetings held every other week are most interesting and invariably end with a "Kaffee klatsch," just as they open with famous bon mots of various authors.

The members of the German club are as follows: Mesdames Bernard Tiffed, Louis Tiffed, Noah Tiffed, Otto Diekmann, A. Kempenich, L. Kempenich, Edward Spitz, Berthold Spitz, H. B. Ferguson, Franz Huning, Saul Harris, and Louis Huning.

The Ten Dons held their semi-monthly "love feast" at the home of Judge Edward A. Mann, Friday evening. A real old fashioned Thanksgiving dinner was first and foremost on the program, followed by a paper read by Mrs. W. Y. Walton, the subject of which I have forgotten. Anyhow it was a semi-highbrow subject of some sort and the discussion, no doubt, waxed most interesting. Senator Isaac Barth was the guest of the evening, and helped along the fun considerably, of course.

Thanksgiving Tea Tuesday

All roads lead to the W. W. McClellan home, Tuesday. Which is to remind you, that the Thanksgiving tea of St. John's Guild will happen there, and it is an event of sufficient importance to deserve your attention or better still—your attendance. Elaborate preparations are in progress, I hear, and it is to be the prettiest and most largely attended affair given by the Guild ladies. So the management assured me, with instructions to pass the good word along.

Well—they have many past successes to their credit and I think the old adage "nothing succeeds like success" is usually justified.

An especially pretty and thoroughly comprehensive display of fancy work is promised (doesn't that read like a Central avenue merchant's stuff one likes to have on hand for Christmas gifts (do your Christmas shopping early) and all sorts of Thanksgiving delicacies, so the affair is "seasonable" to say the least.

A number of the Guild members will assist Mrs. McClellan in receiving, including Mesdames George Klock, James Newhall, E. S. Kates, S. Vann, L. J. Rummel and W. Jenks. Mrs. G. L. Brooks and Mrs. W. Y. Walton will preside at the tea table, and will be assisted in serving by a bevy of young girls. At the home cooking table the presiding geniuses will be Mrs. E. Russell Edgar, Mrs. E. E. Tull, Mrs. J. A. Harlan and Mrs. A. O. Corson.

Some Birthday Celebrations.

Yesterday was Mrs. Louis Tiffed's birthday, and she kept "open house," as is the delightful German custom. A large number of Mrs. Tiffed's friends—and they are legion—dropped in for congratulations and a cup of tea, or for coffee, whichever it chanced to be. At any rate, it was a gala day at the Tiffed home and many enjoyed Mrs. Tiffed's charming hospitality.

Mrs. Otto Diekmann's birthday is the coming Tuesday, but—believe it is not "according to Hoyle" to announce these events, so will take refuge in silence.

Miss Lucy Decker, of Helen, will have a Thanksgiving house party, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Among those to go from here are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Skinner, Jean Hubbs, Sue Hobson, Charles Lemke and Lloyd Sturgis. They will return Thursday night for the Elks' minstrels.

Mrs. Harry Weiler has cards out for a card party, to be given at her home next Saturday afternoon, November 30th. About seventy-five are invited.

Mrs. Jacobo Yrisarri entertained the auction bridge club, of which she is a member, at her home, Monday afternoon. Her daughters, Eloisa and Lillian Yrisarri, served a two-course luncheon at conclusion of the card play. The players were Mesdames D. H. Carns, Mabel E. Higgins, A. O. Corson, R. A. Kistler, E. L. Bradford, George Stann, D. F. Gill, and the hostess. This bridge club will meet with Mrs. Bradford tomorrow.

Woman's Club Art Sale

The Woman's club art sale, held down town instead of at the club house as first planned, went with a vim and "entrain" that showed the enthusiasm of the participants.

In a laudable desire to make the thing popular, the bazaar was pulled off right in the heart of the downtown district, and the prices were made low enough to invite prospective, and even non-contemplating purchasers.

There was a great concourse of people, afternoon and evening, and if a full attendance means anything, the management must have realized a neat little sum—and then some—from the venture.

The tea table was one of the most attractive features. It was in charge of Mrs. Alfred Grunfeld, who was assisted by Mrs. George Klock, Miss Hilda Grunfeld and Florence Grunfeld. The other committees were as follows:

Home Cooking—Chairman, Mrs. W. W. Strong, assisted by Mesdames E. Russell Edgar, E. H. Dunbar, C. E. Lower, W. W. McClellan.

Fancy Work—Mrs. F. E. Mitchell, chairman, with Mesdames Bernard Tiffed and J. C. Baldrige as assistants.

Aprons—In charge of Mrs. Fred Canfield and Mrs. Felix Baca.

Art Work—Chairman, Mrs. Fred Kent, assisted by Mrs. Wooten and Mrs. H. B. Ray.

Candy—Chairman, Mrs. Harry Strong, assisted by Mesdames Cowper, C. E. Conner and Miss Gertrude Treffenberg.

THE ART OF ORGANIZING.

Even if the man at the head of an army, a great business or a nation is a Napoleonic genius, he must depend largely upon subordinates. If he chooses these well, the battle is half won. The choice of a cabinet by President Wilson will show, to a large extent, what kind of administration may be expected from him.

Von Moltke, who commanded the Germans in the Austrian and the Franco-Prussian wars, perhaps was the greatest organizer the world has ever seen. Some claim that distinction for Lord Kitchener. Von Moltke once said that nothing should be ordered that could be done by the proper officers without orders.

In the war with Austria, as in that with France, orders sent from his headquarters were few and terse. Passing to the lower units these orders became progressively more detailed as men in touch with events saw the immediate need. General Sheridan noted this quality in his memoirs.

The intention was that each individual upon whom responsibility for action fell should apply sound principles in emergencies, and not depend too much upon some superior, thus wasting his own initiative. The fear of making minor mistakes is nothing compared with the danger of crushing out the spirit of subordinates by suppressing initiative.

A recent writer in the Engineering Magazine points out that both Frederick the Great and Napoleon took all the detail upon themselves and discouraged initiative in the men under them. Despite his genius, this brought about the overthrow of Napoleon, as the magazine writer points out very clearly. No one mind can grasp and carry out these worlds of detail.

The true military or political genius shows his ability in the selection of men who have a grasp of principles. He gives the larger orders, and then lets subordinates alone so long as things go well.

It must be admitted that President Taft's judgment in selecting subordinates has not always been sound. President Wilson's first executive act will be the selection of a cabinet. His choice will be watched with the liveliest interest. The country has a pretty fair estimate of the qualifications of public men. Mr. Wilson may make mistakes, but the popular judgment is rarely ever far wrong.

It is to be hoped that a cabinet of practical politicians will be chosen. Mere theorists have no place in public affairs. It was Frederick the Great who said if he wished to punish one of his provinces he would appoint one of the philosophers that haunted his court as governor. Frederick was a wise man, though he suffered from fear of trusting details to other men to execute.

JUST A NEWS ITEM.

It was just a little news item carried by the Associated Press yesterday which told of the death from starvation in a little room in Halstead street, Chicago, of Mrs. Julia Miller and her six-months-old child. When found by a neighbor, the lifeless form of the little woman, deserted by her husband, was found clasping the lifeless form of her baby. They had died of starvation in a city of more than two million people. She held her rosary in her hand and was praying, as was her habit each night, for the return of the father of her child.

The little mother was a rag-picker. It was all that she could do that was honorable. She couldn't earn enough to pay rent and purchase food for the baby and herself. She did the best she could with her limited ability, and then died of starvation. Her room was only a short distance from more than a dozen churches, each of which cost up in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Not far away were theaters paying big dividends on millions of invested capital. But a twentieth century Christian civilization failed to protect this woman and her child from starvation.

tion failed to protect this woman and her child from starvation.

In the city of New York more than thirty thousand children are born each year without even the services of a midwife. In most of the wretched rooms there is no heat and insufficient food. In such conditions the death rate is enormous. Where starvation does not actually occur, disease results from undernourishment, unsanitary conditions and from exposure.

It has been shown that the criminal classes are recruited from this environment. Men and women, reared without a friendly hand to guide and assist, like wild animals hunting for sustenance where it may be found and securing it by any means that will give clothes and food to sustain life, become enemies of society. It is from similar environments that the gunmen and gangsters of New York and other cities are recruited.

Because of such conditions, the cadet, who lives by the "white slave" traffic, exists. It breeds thieves, robbers, murderers, barlows. It is an economic condition that may well have the attention of the good people who want to put evil out of sight rather than cure the cause. It is an indictment from which society can not escape.

CINCINNATI TO HIS PLOW.

James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, is going back to farming after March 4th. After sixteen long years in the cabinet he will till the soil of Iowa once more, and the globe of his adopted state (for Mr. Wilson is a canny Scot by birth) will yield a bumper crop to his touch. He knows how to touch it.

Mr. Wilson holds the cabinet record. He bridges the chasm between democratic administrations. He entered office the day following Grover Cleveland's retirement and he will quit the day Wilson enters the White House. All kinds of officials have come and gone. But Secretary Wilson has set an example to the hired men of staying by the farm. He has arisen at 4 o'clock cold winter mornings and milked the White House cow without protest and has whistled merrily at the job. Washington will miss the old man sadly.

Of those who entered the first McKinley cabinet with Mr. Wilson, John Sherman, Russell A. Alger and Cornelius N. Bliss are dead; Joseph McKenna is on the supreme court bench, while John D. Long, Lyman J. Gage and James A. Gary have dropped from public life. Who would have remembered all the names without consulting an encyclopedia and "Who's Who" for the details?

RELEASED FROM VOWS.

The old boy who vowed that he never would cut his hair or whiskers until another democrat was elected president has begun to crawl out of the sackcloth and visit the barber shops. Elmer Henderson, an Olivet, Mich., farmer, has just had sixteen years' growth of hair chopped off. It is said that the underbrush filled a basket and will refill all the sofa cushions in the Henderson family.

Peter Kreschner, of South Bend, Ind., vowed, when Cleveland left the White House, that he would not have his whiskers trimmed until another democrat was elected to the presidential chair. Kreschner's face has just yielded a bumper crop, red in color, and he is having a red watch-chain woven from it to send to President-elect Wilson. Before using it, doubtless Governor Wilson will call in Dr. Wiley and have it disinfected.

THE BARCELAS BRIDGE.

People who live across the river and have to ford where the Barcelas bridge was before the high water early last June are angry, and justly so. A little woman came in yesterday, wet almost to her waist, having had to wade through the mud and water from the boat to the bank. For this condition there is no excuse. There is no use for those responsible to attempt to offer an excuse. It is inexcusable. The bridge should have been repaired long ago. Work is now going on at a snail's pace, and instead of the bridge having been completed by the 15th of October, as promised, it now develops that it may be a year from that date.

It is time to have an end of such nonsense. Instead of allowing the brakes to be applied on the work, there should be a decided speeding up. It is precisely because of such things that many states have found it necessary to adopt the recall.

HE AIDED JUDGE FALL.

We are informed by the Las Vegas Optic that Mr. A. A. Sosa has just bought a fifty-horse-power Abbott-Detroit automobile, a costly car. Can it be possible that it is Ex-Policeman Sosa who assisted in killing the dead at "room 44" in the Palace hotel? It will be remembered that Mounted Policeman Sosa, whose salary was $1,200, soon after the "room 44" incident resigned. He had aided greatly in making it possible for Judge Fall to be elected to the United States senate.

The mayor of Schenectady was jailed in a neighboring town. He made such a row about the condition of the calaboose that a new one had been built. It might be a good idea to jail a mayor or two from out of town in the Albuquerque lockup.

The trusts can no longer hide behind the patent laws of the country. The supreme court has made a sweeping decision that will make bathing cheaper, but possibly the service to the country would have been greater had the bathtub been made more attractive on frosty mornings.

Before President Wilson gets through with applicants to office, he will wish there were more consuls in distant and deadly climates that he might fill without having to consult the civil service commission.

BANKS SHOW HEAVY GAINS FOR PAST FOUR YEARS

Comptroller of Currency Lawrence O. Murray Gives Interesting Summary of Their Financial Condition.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal.)
Washington, Nov. 23.—Comptroller of the Currency Lawrence O. Murray has made public a summary of the reports of condition as of June 14, 1912, compiled from statements received from state banks and trust companies, together with a consolidated statement of all reporting banks, state and national, as of that date.

This is the most satisfactory summary of banking reports ever compiled in the office of the controller of the currency, and, by comparison with similar data for past years, indicates an unprecedented growth in bank resources during the past four years. It is stated, for every bank under national supervision there are about three under state supervision. The average capital of national banks is $140,000, and of other banks about $55,000.

The aggregate capital of the 7,372 national banks is $1,032,000,000. The aggregate capital of the 17,804 reporting banks operating outside of the national system is $977,000,000, and including the $79,000,000 capital estimated for the 3,000 non-reporting banks it amounts to $1,047,000,000. It will be seen that the capital of the 7,372 national banks is about 17 per cent of the capital of all the other banks of the country.

The individual deposits in national banks are about one-half the amount of such deposits in other banks, being $5,825,000,000 against $11,158,000,000 held by all other reporting banks.

National banks hold 63 per cent of the aggregate amount of cash in all banks. The cash holdings of national banks average 17 per cent of individual deposits, while cash holdings of all other banks (including mutual savings banks) are only 5 per cent, and excluding mutual savings a little more than 7 per cent.

National banks have about 17 per cent of their resources invested in bonds, securities, etc., while all other banks have an average of 24 per cent so invested.

The percentage of loans to resources is about the same for each class of banks, being 55 per cent for national and 58 per cent for all other banks.

The surplus and undivided profits of national banks are 22 per cent of their aggregate capital, for all other banks, excluding mutual savings banks, the percentage of surplus and undivided profits to capital is the same.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

Work on Big Dam Under Way.
Maxwell, Nov. 23.—The contract for the big Hebron dam on the Red River system of the Maxwell Irrigated Land Company, was let last week to W. R. Winburn, the contractor who has already done much work for the Maxwell company. Mr. Winburn will keep a large force of teams and men at work all winter. The contract calls for the completion of the work by April 1, 1913.

The lake which will be formed by the dam will have a capacity of 15,000 acre feet, and can be filled several times in the season. The dam will have a maximum height of 65 feet, and will be a mile long. The lake at high water will extend about a mile and a half from the dam about three miles, and will cover several hundred acres with water deep enough to float a battleship.

Cattle Shooting Case Dismissed.
Moriarty, Nov. 23.—The case of Wimberly vs. Smith, for the alleged shooting of three head of cattle was held Thursday before Judge C. O. Smith. Smith was represented by E. P. Davies, of Santa Fe. Wimberly testified that Smith was the man who shot the cattle and that at the time of the shooting he was in the grass about twenty steps away. Six witnesses were called by the plaintiff, who testified the cattle were wounded, but only one state the wounds were bullet holes. Attorney Davies didn't think it necessary to place any witnesses on the stand. The defendant was discharged by the justice.

Rebuilding Telephone Exchange.
Portales, Nov. 23.—The Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph Co. has a large force of men here rebuilding the local exchange. The poles on the square will all be taken out and put in the alleys, new wire will be strung and, in fact, the whole system will be rebuilt. This is a much needed improvement and will greatly facilitate the work of the local, as well as the long distance service. Since acquiring this property the new company has made many additions and one of the best exchanges in the state.

Pushing Work on Road.
San Marcial, N. M., Nov. 23.—Engineer W. R. Smythe, who has charge of the convict camp at Elmore, is in the city Thursday. Mr. Smythe has twenty-nine convicts at work on the road between that point and San Marcial and is pushing the work as rapidly as possible under the circumstances. They are making a road twenty feet wide, removing the sand and putting in clay, making a sort of sub grade. Later on this will be covered with some harder substance which will make it one of the best roads in the state.

Big Land Sales at Columbus.
Columbus, Nov. 23.—If any one thinks real estate in the vicinity of Columbus has been moving some during the last few months they have another "think" coming. People from all over the United States are being attracted by the good reports which are coming from the lower Mimbres valley, and every day some of them are found coming here to verify them.

In conversation this week with E. R. Gesler, local manager of the Townsite Company, it was learned, that since May 20th, this year, his company alone had located and sold 14,085 acres of land, the bulk of this amount having been turned during the past two months. This land was located in five townships surrounding Columbus. It is also known that this company has unbounded faith in the future of this valley, having themselves purchased several choice quarter sections of land in the vicinity of Columbus.

Shipping Cattle to Market.
Deming, N. M., Nov. 23.—Steve Birchfield drove 500 head of steers from his ranch near Arena, which were shipped the first of the week to market. William Birchfield also shipped 100 head.

Rud Williams, William Wamel, Tom Baker and Hal Tyler drove a nice bunch of 200 head of cattle over from Hermans the fore part of the week which were inspected at this point and loaded for the market. Boyd & Booker last week imported 2,000 head of fine stock cattle from their Mexico ranch, which were loaded Monday and shipped to their recently purchased ranch south of Fort Hancock, Texas.

Large Checks for Taxes.
Silver City, N. M., Nov. 23.—County Collector and Treasurer M. F. Lowrey received this week several large checks for the semi-annual payment of county taxes. Among them was one for $13,810.35 for the Southern Pacific; one for $8,265.58 for the Arizona & New Mexico, and one for the Gino Copper Company. Owing to the recent raises made in railroad mileage by the state board of equalization, the taxes from the railroads this year are considerably larger than they were last year. A comparison is as follows: Southern Pacific, 1911, $19,536; 1912, $27,620.70; Santa Fe, 1911, $6,459.78; 1912, $8,872.18.

Improvements for Clayton.
Clayton, N. M., Nov. 23.—Plans are on foot here for a city lighting system, which, when completed will make this the best lighted town of its size in the west. All the main business streets, as well as a greater portion of the residence section, will be furnished with the latest improved electric lights.

A city park of two blocks will also be set in trees and grass. This will connect with the park already surveyed by the Colorado & Southern railroad. These will make some greatly needed improvements.

MAN'S CITIZENSHIP CANVASS STORE WITH RIGHTS RESTORED BY GOVERNOR METROPOLITAN FEELURES

Executive Order Puts Park Edmonson of Chaves County Again on Equal Footing; Other Capital News.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal.)
Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 23.—Park Edmonson, of Chaves county, was restored to his citizenship rights today by executive order of Governor W. C. McDonald.

The state loan commission will meet tomorrow to take up further the question of the Series C bonds, at least that part of the issue which will redeem the outstanding bonded indebtedness of Santa Fe county. Bids for these amounting to $1,125,000 will be opened by the loan commission tomorrow.

The supreme court today listened to arguments in the case of the State Corporation Commission vs. the Denver & Rio Grande, growing out of the order of the commission requiring the railroad to maintain agents and better passenger and freight facilities at Mesas, Pecos and Barrow.

YOUNG MAN TRIES TO EXTORT MONEY
Los Angeles, Nov. 23.—Earl Tryon, a young man who said he had been a newspaper solicitor, was arrested by the police and held for investigation today, after he had visited the offices of the Pacific electric railway and told A. J. McKinley, counsel for the company, that a dynamite bomb had been placed under the big station building ready to explode at 4 o'clock unless $7,000 was promptly paid over.

Tryon first maintained that a mysterious stranger had told him to inform the Pacific electric railway of the details of the bomb and that he would be paid $100 out of the $7,000 proceeds. Afterward, however, under the sweating process, he admitted that the story was a pure tale devised by himself in the hope that he might induce the railway company to pay him some money.

SHRINERS WILL BE HOUSED IN BIG MILITARY CAMP

Dallas Plans Unique Manner of Accommodations for Thousands Who Will Attend Imperial in May.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal.)
Dallas, Tex., Nov. 23.—Local Shriners of this city have been busy since the departure of Imperial Potentate William J. Cunningham, A. A. O. N. M. S., and his staff last week, starting the work of preparation for the thirty-ninth annual imperial council meeting to be held in Dallas next May. A big military camp at the grounds of the state fair of Texas for the members of patrols and bands is one of the many ways that Dallas is preparing to properly care for the visitors. Under the direction and supervision of the executive committee, twenty-six sub-committees, each with its own particular work to do, are rapidly completing plans for the entertainment of what promises to be the most successful meeting of the imperial council in history.

Past Potentate Sam P. Cochran, a representative to the imperial council, believes that the side trips over the state for Shriners, following the close of the imperial council meeting, will be a feature of great interest. Leaving Dallas at the same time it is planned to have four or five special trains of Pullmans make the swing around the principal cities, which would give an opportunity to the Nobles of El Mina temple at Galveston and Ben Hur temple at Austin to entertain the visitors, as well as giving the latter an opportunity of familiarizing themselves with the resources and opportunities of the Lone Star state, and with the splendid growth of its other great cities such as Houston, San Antonio and Fort Worth.

"We are convinced that these side trips will be taken advantage of by great many Shriners," said Past Potentate Cochran, "and on account of this it will be necessary to conduct these trips in four or five sections. The Shriners specials could arrive in San Antonio, Houston, Galveston and Austin on different days, doing away with any possibility of overcrowding at different points, and giving the local people an opportunity of properly caring for and entertaining the visitors. These side trips will be in the nature of educational excursions, and will appeal to those who are just awakening to the great commercial opportunities of Texas and the southwest."

The executive committee is considering now the matter of securing regulation army tents for the big encampment at fair park. Facilities will be provided there for taking care of three to five thousand members of patrols and bands. As there are now nearly sixty patrols in Shrinedom and each of these has an enrollment of forty officers and men, the executive committee is estimating on a minimum attendance of 3,000 band and patrol men. Fair park is amply provided with equipment to make this big encampment a success. A cafe and restaurant building, 500 feet in length, constructed of steel and concrete, and modern in equipment, will be an ideal messroom. Mr. Cochran assures every Shriner that good meals will be served there at very reasonable prices. "We realize the big task ahead of us in preparing to take care of the imperial council meeting," said Mr. Cochran, "and we are confident in this prediction that the visitors will be cared for as well or even better than any time in the past. The liberality of the Dallas business men in contributing $50,000 to the entertainment fund is a good illustration of the manner in which Dallas grasps a problem of this kind. The honor of this city will be thrown open for the entertainment of the visitors, their wives, daughters and friends, and we are confident that they will go away not only impressed with our hospitality, but with the activity and progressiveness of our citizenship."

J. E. Farnsworth, past potentate of Hells temple and a member of the executive committee, is gratified with the prospects for what promises to be the largest and most spectacular assemblage of patrols, bands and other big parade features in the annals of Shrinedom. He has already received assurances at this early date that practically every Shrine band and patrol in America will take part in the big parade, and is making preparations accordingly. Combined with the great decorative and illumination features as planned, Mr. Farnsworth believes that the parade will be the most gorgeous and most spectacular in history.

T. R. Woodrow Corporation Lawyer.
Denver, Nov. 23.—Thomas R. Woodrow, cousin of President-elect Wilson, and assistant city attorney of Denver for five years, will, on December 1st, become assistant general solicitor for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad and also for the Colorado & Southern railroad. Mr. Woodrow gave out the announcement here tonight. He will be located in Denver.

Democrats to Contest Election.
Gunnison, Colo., Nov. 23.—The election of County Commissioners W. A. Glaspey and E. H. McDowell, progressives, is contested in a suit filed in the Gunnison county court today. Elmer Wiley and J. H. Collins, democrats, who were candidates for the offices of commissioner, filed the suit.

Would Be Motorcycle Policewoman

Miss Little Williams, 211 North Broadway avenue, has applied to the chief of police for a position as motorcycle policewoman in Los Angeles.

She has told the police chief that she can perform the duties of a motorcycle policewoman successfully—and that she can prove it.

Should her request be granted she would be the first woman to hold such a position in the United States.

Miss Williams has seven championship medals given her for her skill and endurance in bicycle and motorcycle events. She is an all-round athlete and at one time claimed the world's championship as a woman fencer. She is an accomplished horsewoman and a strong swimmer.

"If they think that a woman cannot fill the position of a motorcycle police officer on the Los Angeles force," said Miss Williams, "just set a speeder out in front of me and give me a chance at him on my motorcycle. All I want is a chance to prove this."

"I ride every day and, were I a member of the police force, I would do much to stop speeding among automobilists and other motorists. I might as well be working for the city as paying for my own oil and gasoline. Los Angeles is one of the most progressive cities in the country and it should be the first to employ a woman as motorcycle officer."

Goings and Comings of Society

The T. A. Mellens, a millionaire family of Pittsburgh, Pa., who spent a few months in the city, occupying the Woolsey bungalow, left during the week past for Phoenix, Ariz.

Their young son, Thomas Mellens, for the benefit of whose health, the Mellens are making this stay in the southwest, did not improve as rapidly as was hoped, and the change was made on his account.

Mrs. Frank H. Moore left for her home in Kansas City, Thursday, after spending ten days here as the guest of Mrs. M. E. Hickey. A number of small informal dinner parties, luncheons, and other affairs were given in her honor, and her stay made particularly pleasant by many old-time friends. Among those who entertained informally for Mrs. Moore were Mrs. A. B. McMillen, Mrs. James Wroth, Mrs. Louis Hild, Mrs. A. B. Stroup and ex-Governor E. S. Stover.

Congressman and Mrs. H. B. Ferguson, accompanied by their young son, Francis, left last week for Washington, where Mr. Ferguson goes to resume his duties as congressman from New Mexico. They plan a delightful winter, and will be visited frequently by their daughters, Erna and Lena, who are in school in New York city.

Mrs. Louis Hild has as guest her brother, Dr. Edward Staab, a prominent physician of New York city.

Miss Aline Stern returned early the past week from Denver where she has been visiting for the past three months.

Mrs. Bernard Rodey returned home Wednesday from Santa Fe, where she spent several days visiting friends.

Mrs. John W. Colbert has returned from an extended stay in southern California. She is to take a prominent part in the forthcoming Elks' show.

Weddings Past and To Be

The engagement has been announced of Miss Helen Schmidt to W. M. Gribble, the wedding to occur in the early summer. Both have a wide circle of friends in this city who will be greatly interested in news of their approaching marriage.

A wedding of interest to many occurred Wednesday evening, at the Presbyterian parsonage, when Rev. Hugh A. Cooper united in marriage Miss Mabel E. Walk and Claude Miller Martin. The young couple will make their home in this city, where both are widely and favorably known.

In spite of the fact that I married them off hand a week or so ago, the marriage ceremony, which united the lives and destinies of Lloyd White and Janet Giegoldt, did not occur until Tuesday of the past week, November 19th. Mrs. John A. White of this city, mother of the groom witnessed the ceremony, which was performed in Richmond, Calif. The young couple have many local friends. They will make their home in California.

T. J. Armijo of this city was married last Wednesday, November 20th, to Josephine Ramos, of Winslow, Ariz. After the honeymoon trip through the southwest, Mr. Armijo will bring his bride here. He is connected with the H. B. Weiler Company and has a large circle of friends to extend him their warmest congratulations. Mrs. Armijo was a popular society girl of Winslow and is said to be pretty and talented.

ECZEMA

Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk-Crust, Weeping Skin, etc.

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I mean—CURED, and not merely relieved for awhile, to return worse than before. Remember I make this broad statement after putting ten years of my time and the sweat of a million cases of this dreadful disease. Now, I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TODAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild, soothing, guaranteed cure that will convince you more in a day than I or anyone else could in a month's time. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claim. By writing me today you will enjoy more rest comfort than you had ever thought this world holds for you. Just try it, and you will see I am telling you the truth.

ROUNDHOUSE WALL IS PUNCTURED BY BIG LOCOMOTIVE

In some unknown manner, supposed to have been due to a loose valve, engine 1255 Friday night started from its regular place in the local roundhouse and ran clear through the heavy stone wall of that structure. A space between twenty and twenty-five feet was opened by the runaway. The locomotive had just come in off its run from Las Vegas with No. 9, and was presumably stalled for the night. The engine was not greatly damaged.

YOUNGSTERS KICK IN ON PIGSKIN OVAL, TOO

The youngsters of the city yesterday got in good work on football fields in the absence of any big games to distract them. The old rivals of the Fourth Ward school, the Fifth and Sixth grades, settled old scores, at least temporarily, the boys of the Sixth winning by a score of 30 to 6.

Also the eleven of the Immaculate Conception school defeated the First Ward team, the score being 30 to 0. The boys from the sisters' school have yet to meet defeat this season, and they are claiming the interschool championship of the city.

CARLOAD OF COWS IS SHIPPED TO LA LANDE

E. E. Van Horn, Proprietor of Sunshine Creamery, Places Blooded Holsteins at Cream Supply Station.

A carload of registered Holstein cows, part of a herd recently purchased in California by E. E. Van Horn, proprietor of the Sunshine Creamery, last night were shipped to La Lande, on the Belen cutoff, where they will be distributed among farmers there under the direction of William Dye, a member of the La Lande Mercantile Company, and a prominent resident of that community.

These cows will reinforce a considerable number of milch animals now owned by farmers of the La Lande neighborhood and will increase the supply of cream which is daily shipped to Albuquerque from this station, which is one of the most important cream shipping points on the cutoff. The cows are sold to the farmers on time, they paying for them out of the money received from the Sunshine Creamery for their product.

The Holsteins which Mr. Van Horn bought in California are among the finest cows in the west. They are either fresh or just coming fresh. Before buying them, Mr. Van Horn subjected the animals to a federal tuberculosis test. These cows average $12 a month apiece, supplying from one to three pounds of butter for each daily.

Results obtained from the communities already supplied with cows by the Sunshine Creamery have exceeded the most sanguine expectations and the farmers and creamery people alike are profiting.

W. L. TRIMBLE HIGH GUN ON TRIP TO LAKES YESTERDAY

Hunters who spent yesterday at the lakes maintained by the Albuquerque Gun club, returned with the remarkable story that while on a trip to that place, W. L. Trimble was high gun. This is supposed to be the first time in several years that this has happened. In Mr. Trimble's bag was six ten quail and three ducks. Both the other hunters bagged good lots of game and all returned last night proud of their achievements. Mr. Trimble, however, was the most proud.

While they did not tell him, Schloss and Barnett declared last night that they believed Trimble had stalked out some of the quail.

INDEPENDENT MESSENGER SERVICE

A new messenger parcel delivery and light hauling service has opened up with an office at 213 South Third street, phone No. 244. This indicates that the public will not be required to wait unnecessarily long for good and prompt service. Since every leading city of growing and permanent business import has or is installing the messenger and parcel delivery service, because of its indispensable asset to the success of the merchants, it becomes Albuquerque to do no less. The persons who are operating under the name, The Independent Messenger Service, Parcel Delivery and Light Hauling, are well known in the city. Mrs. L. M. Martin runs a dairy on Mountain Road and North First street. Rev. J. W. Rodgers delivered for Rosenwald Bros. last summer and is pastor of the A. M. E. church on West Coal avenue. The public need not hesitate to place its orders with them. The service will open for business Monday morning.

Thieves Enter Through Rear Window and Carry Away Rugs and Jewelry Worth $300; Trail Well Covered.

Burglars early yesterday morning entered the Bennett curio store, 115 South Second street. Their haul is appraised at approximately $300 by George E. Ellis, manager, but only a complete inventory will give the exact amount of the loss.

The burglary was not discovered until yesterday morning, when Mr. Ellis went to the store and found the stock disordered. Twenty small Navajo rugs, sapphires, rubies, garnets, moss agates, two silver rings without sets and an old fashioned forty-one calibre Colt's revolver were taken. The fact that the intruders contented themselves with such bulky articles as the rugs when they could have taken gold jewelry mystifies the police. No gold was taken as far as Mr. Ellis was able to learn yesterday. The place was entered after midnight, the police believe. Lights were burning in the store until that hour, and the burglars easily could have been seen from the street if they were in the store before then.

Broken glass in a rear window gave evidence as to the mode of entrance. Two windows open on the alley, and only one is barred.

The rugs are so small that the burglars could carry them away without great risk of detection. They would make a bundle that might attract notice if there was only one man to carry them. This fact leads the police to believe that they were two and that they divided the plunder between them. A thorough search of the alley behind the store was made yesterday by the police in the hope that the thieves might have left the bulky part of their plunder in the alley. Last night, but nothing was found. A round of the second hand stores also failed to give any clue. Chief of Police Thomas McMillin notified officers of all railroad stations near here to keep a look out for the stolen goods.

OWES HER LIFE TO ECKMAN'S ALTERNATIVE

A Valuable Remedy for Throat and Lungs.

Eckman's Alternative is being used with success in the treatment of tuberculosis in all parts of the country. Persons who have taken it, improved, gained weight, exhausted night sweats stopped, fever diminished and many recovered. If you are interested in knowing more about it, we will put you in touch with some who are now well. You can investigate and judge for yourself. Read of Mrs. Govett's recovery. Griffith, Ind. "Gentlemen: Thinking that perhaps a short history of the remarkable recovery of my mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Govett, might benefit some other sufferers, I give the following testimonial. About September 2nd, she was taken sick with Catarrhal Pneumonia, and continued to grow worse, requiring a trained nurse. Night sweats were so bad that it was necessary to change her clothing once or twice every night. Her cough increased and got so bad that everybody expected that she would not live much longer. In January, when Rev. Wm. Berg, of St. Michael's Church, at Ellettsville, Ind., prepared for her death, he recommended that I get Eckman's Alternative, and see if it would not give her some relief. I then requested the attending physician to give her the medicine and he informed me she had consumed a bottle and was now doing all medical aid. When I asked if he thought it was useless to try more, he replied: "No, it is not. No physician could help her any and I could not quit myself about it." So I immediately had a bottle sent for a bottle. Practically without hope for recovery, I insisted that she try the Alternative, which she did. I am glad to say that she soon began to improve. Now she works as hard as ever, weighs twenty pounds heavier than she ever did before she took sick, and is in good health. She frankly says she owes her life and health to Eckman's Alternative." (Signed) ALFRED J. GRIMMER. Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles and in upholding the system. Does not contain opiate or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Alvarado drug store and Highland Pharmacy and other leading druggists. Ask for book, telling of recovery and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa. for all medical evidence.

Negro Train Porters Send Attorney to Phoenix and Prescott to Fight Their Discharge in Arizona.

Attorney J. C. Lewis, of the firm of Wilson & Lewis, of this city, left last night for Prescott and Phoenix to enter a suit which will likely take a prominent place among Arizona legal annals. The action is one brought by an association of the negro train porters running on the Albuquerque division of the Santa Fe coast lines, to test the constitutionality of the Arizona full crew bill, which acts in such a way as to abolish their positions with the road.

The full crew bill provides that there shall be a flagman and a brakeman on each passenger train, the flagman having had at least a year's experience as a brakeman before employment as a flagman. The porters complain that this act is directed at them in this particular, it having been the custom heretofore to have the porter act as a flagman whenever the front end of a train was to be protected. They claim that the bill was framed as it stands in order to prevent their employment on the trains because of prejudice against their race. This phase of the matter, however, will probably not be brought to light in court.

The plea on which the constitutionality of the law is being fought by the porters as well as by all the railroads in Arizona is that the proposition of a full crew law, passed by the first Arizona legislature, was referred to the people at the last election, early this month, on a referendum vote. The referendum vote carried, the law remaining in force. It is claimed that the matter was not referred to the people, the requisite ninety days before the election, it being said that it was placed before the public only fifty-five days before the election. If this contention is upheld, it will knock the law from the statute books so far as this particular act is concerned, but will not affect the constitutionality of the principle involved. The railroads are invoking the same plea in the action which they are bringing against the "headlight" law of the same state, which requires electric headlights on all engines.

Another ground which will be used in the suits is that the election early this month was not a general election. The action will be tried before Judge Morrow, of the United States circuit court, sitting in bank for a final hearing on the matters involved on December 2nd.

The Arizona full crew law is a fearful and wonderful thing. Its operation in some cases are beyond understanding. An instance is the case of a local man, who for twenty-eight years has acted as a conductor for the Santa Fe. When the law was sustained by the people of Arizona, this man was notified by the railroad company that it could no longer employ him. Investigation developed that the reason was that he had served only a year and a half as a brakeman, whereas the law prohibited the employment of conductors who had served less than three years as brakemen. Yet for twenty-eight years his service had been all that could be asked by his employers.

DELGADILLO GIVEN APPEAL TO COURT OF LAST RESORT

Attorney Files Motion for Carrying Case to Supreme State Tribunal, Which is Granted.

Demetrio Delgadillo, convicted at the last term of court of the murder of Solidad Zarragoza, for the supposed reason that she failed to requite his affections, and sentenced to the gallows November 29th, has been given another lease on life. J. R. Newell, attorney for the condemned man, yesterday filed a motion for an appeal to the supreme court of the state, which was granted by Judge Herbert F. Reynolds, of the district court.

Delgadillo's counsel now has 120 days in which to perfect his appeal, the motion acting as a stay of execution for that length of time. During friends hope that some time during that period the governor will see fit to grant a commutation from capital punishment to life imprisonment. He was petitioned to do this early last week by a number of fellow natives of Old Mexico and others.

Dr. Hartman Recalls Cures Made By Old-time Pe-ru-na

DR. S. B. HARTMAN.

I have been practicing medicine since 1855. Most of that time I have been using Pe-ru-na as my principal remedy. So many unexpected recoveries have been made by those for whom I have prescribed Pe-ru-na that it would take a large book to contain them all. They keep coming up to my mind one by one. Whether on my farm, or at home, whether playing with my grandchildren or conducting my large office business, these incidents of old-time Pe-ru-na cures steal in upon my memory unawares.

Take, for instance, a single case from the extensive list of similar cases in my diary of cases treated, as an example of the cures that Pe-ru-na used to make.

Mrs. T. S. Eberlein (then of Pittsburgh, Pa., afterwards of Keokuk, Iowa), during the year 1882 began to develop usual symptoms of catarrh of the lungs. Cough was one of the first symptoms, which gradually grew worse in spite of all treatment. The sputa, at first slight, became abundant and purulent, occasionally streaked with blood. A rapid loss of flesh and flapping appetite filled her relatives with forebodings. The hectic flush, night sweats, and suppression of the menses, left no doubt as to the nature of her disease.

From the first physicians had been employed. Cough medicines, tonics, cod liver oil and stimulants were resorted to by her physicians without avail.

The first physician employed was Dr. Williams, Penn. Ave., Pittsburgh.

Dr. Gilford, of Allegheny City, was next called; and then Dr. Riggs, of Pittsburgh.

During this history of conflict with this terrible disease frequent consultations were held, but nothing checked the steady progress of the malady. Not a doubt had existed in the minds of her physicians or friends as to the nature of her disease, or as to its fatal termination. Three repeated examinations of her lungs indicated the rapid strides with which she was nearing the end.

Her physicians were honored members of the medical fraternity, in whom Mrs. Eberlein's husband and family had perfect confidence. And the sorrow with which they stood by their decision that they had exhausted everything known to them in vain for the relief of the life and mother of the afflicted household can be better imagined than described. As is common to this so of patients, Mrs. Eberlein continued hopeful long after her attendants believed her to be beyond cure.

I was practicing at that time in Pittsburgh, and a fancy (at I would be able to relieve her waning illness, repeatedly expressed by Mrs. Eberlein, but it was regarded as a never-chance, and as I was employing the best medical talent the city afforded, no attention was paid to it. At last she became so weak and emaciated that attendants were constantly at hand to lift her during the terrible coughing spells to which she was subject, and which were frequently followed by alarming sinking spells, during which she was often thought to be dying. It was during one of these frightful paroxysms when her husband was supporting her tenderly and vainly trying to palliate her sufferings but she again expressed her belief that if Dr. Hartman were sent for he could relieve her.

Willful to independence in any wish as she was though to be dying by all, I was immediately sent for, but being very busy was not able to respond until late in the evening of the afternoon on which I was sent for. It was not expected that she would survive until I could reach her home, but hope kept me alive until I came.

It would be difficult to imagine a more discouraging case for a doctor to undertake to cure than Mrs. Eberlein's at the moment of my first visit. Let me describe her symptoms.

A drawn, pinched countenance, a deathly pallor, and livid lips. Sunken, fixed staring eyes, with a glassy brightness. Wasted in body to a mere shadow. Pulse wholly imperceptible at the wrist, but the heart feebly fluttering. Extremities cold and clammy, finger nails blue, breathing hurried and gasping, utterly exhausted and hopeless. It certainly seemed as if I had only arrived in time to see her die.

The first question of the distracted husband was, "Is my wife dying?"

But my undoubted faith in the efficacy of Pe-ru-na is such, even in this awful emergency, that I replied, "Sit, you and I are now in the vigor of life. It may happen that this lady will live to see us buried."

After a hasty examination of the case I prescribed Pe-ru-na to be taken every hour, and if she was not better in the morning to let me know.

It was two weeks before, as I have heard from the case, when the husband entered my office radiant with joy, and, not waiting for the usual salutation, exclaimed:

"Doctor, my wife is well!"

"Oh, no, you mean she is better," I replied. But the enthusiastic husband insisted that his wife was "well" and the heartiest eater at the table.

The fact was that, while she made astonishing improvement, she was obliged to continue the use of Pe-ru-na many months. In less than a year she was entirely well, and has remained so since, and her treatment from the beginning to the end was Pe-ru-na and nothing else. To have seen her at the time of the first visit it would have been impossible to believe that any medicine or earthly power could have saved her.

This case is no more unusual or astonishing than a great many others that my list contains, not only of diseases of the lungs, but of all mucous surfaces.

Cases of dyspepsia, diarrhea and dysentery which have withstood all other treatment, have yielded at once by the use of Pe-ru-na.

Numerous cases of Bright's disease of the kidneys, acute catarrh and rheumatism, female diseases that had been treated locally for years, were instantly relieved and finally recovered by Pe-ru-na. In short, every disease affecting any mucous membrane of the body that has not already gone beyond all earthly help, frequently makes astonishing recovery.

As a general tonic and appetizer Pe-ru-na has no superior. It is a certain remedy for worn-out or tired-out human nature. Cases of nervous prostration, loss of vitality and sleeplessness are all treated by Pe-ru-na with such unvarying success that wherever it is used it ranks as the greatest tonic known.

In future articles I will recite other cases of similar interest. In doing so I shall not allow the slightest exaggeration or fiction, to mar the reason which the simple facts alone give to any narrative of this kind. It must be borne in mind, however, that the Pe-ru-na referred to in the above article is the old Pe-ru-na, now sold under the name of Ka-tar-na. Should the druggist not happen to have it in stock he can obtain it of any wholesale druggist. If your druggist does not order it for you write the Ka-tar-na Company, Columbus, Ohio. It will be sent prepaid, $1.00 a bottle, six bottles for $5.00, twelve bottles for $10.00.

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL ENDORSE SCHOOL BONDS

Resolution Asking Support of Voters to be Presented at Meeting Tuesday; New Mexico Building at Exposition.

The Commercial club at its meeting Tuesday night probably will endorse the issuance of $400,000 bonds, the question before the voters December 15th, for the erection of a new school building.

A resolution is to be offered urging voters to ratify the bonds, and it probably will be adopted by the club. T. J. Naylor, while in Phoenix, Ariz., last week, investigated school conditions there and he will inform the club of his findings. Phoenix, which is recognized with but two hundred population than Albuquerque in the federal census, has three high school buildings and a corps of sixteen high school teachers. Mr. Naylor says, and the city recently bought more land for school sites.

A printed resolution, sent by the directors of the Panama exposition, also is to be presented to the club. The resolution urges the appropriation by the legislature of funds to erect a New Mexico state building on the exposition grounds.

The exposition management took the Commercial club, if it adopts this resolution, to send copies to every member of the state legislature.

The question of completing the platting of Bernalillo county will be taken up again G. A. Kasekamp, president, yesterday mailed letters to all members of the club asking them to push this project.

EL RITO PROBABLY WILL LOSE ITS NORMAL SCHOOL

Taos, Espanola and Santa Fe Active Bidders for Institution When It is Rebuilt; Board Meets Tomorrow.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal.) Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 23.—Francisco Delgado, president of the board of trustees of the El Rito Normal school, attempted to secure a meeting of the trustees today, but because two of them did not reach Santa Fe before Monday, the meeting was postponed until that date. While the action of the board cannot be repeated, and it is certain that nothing definite can be done until the legislative meets, conversation with members of the board leads to the belief that there is small chance of the school being rebuilt at El Rito. There will be efforts made to move the school to Taos, Espanola or Santa Fe.

WAR TALK HOLDS STOCK TRADING IN CHECK

Responding to Lower Level of American Securities in London Prices Eased Off on the New York Exchange.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) New York, Nov. 23.—Operations on the stock exchange today were held in check by war talk abroad and by the fact that at the opening of next week will be announced the award to the arbitration of the eastern locomotive engineers' demands. Such importance has been attached to the decision in this case that operators are disposed to act cautiously pending announcement of the award. Absence of a large number of traders tended to decrease activity.

Responding to the lower level of Americans in London, prices eased off at the opening, although only a few issues declined as much as a point. Stocks with international markets were the most prominent in the early trading, before the end of the first hour the list recovered, and toward the close pressure was renewed and prices fell to the lowest. The copper was heavy throughout and in the late selling Union Pacific and Reading lost a point.

The bank statement showed, in the actual table, a cash loss of $2,750,000, which was somewhat larger than had been indicated by known movements of currency.

GREEK MINER HURT WHEN HE TRIES TO BOARD CAR

Unknown Man, Injured at Cerillos Coal Mine, May Die at St. Joseph's Hospital Here from Fracture of Skull.

A Greek miner, whose name is unknown here, injured in a coal mine at Cerillos yesterday, last night was received at St. Joseph's hospital. The man has a fracture at the base of the skull, which may prove fatal, besides internal injuries. It was reported at the hospital, however, that he has a chance for recovery.

The man was brought here last night on a Santa Fe passenger train from Cerillos. He was not unconscious when he was taken to the hospital, but the physician and nurses did not question him on account of the seriousness of his condition.

He wanted to leave the mine early yesterday afternoon, it is reported, and asked the workman in charge of the cars to let him ride out. Yesterday was his day at the mine and this is thought to have been his reason for wishing to leave. When he was told he could not ride the cars he attempted to jump on them while they were in motion. He was thrown between two cars.

SCENE OF HOLIDAY GAME SHIFTS TO LAS VEGAS

Normal University Players Refuse to Come Here, So Indians Will Go Up-State for Thanksgiving Engagement.

The Las Vegas Normal University-Albuquerque Indian school game, scheduled for Thanksgiving day, is to be played at Las Vegas instead of on the Association park field here.

The would-be pedagogues yesterday refused to come here. They delayed so long about notifying the Indian school athletic management whether they would play that it was too late then for the Redskins to bring another team here, and there was nothing for them to do but accede to the Indians' terms if they expected to play Thanksgiving day. The Indians accepted.

No necessary motives influenced the Indians in making this decision, for Las Vegas merchants have subscribed enough money to pay the expenses of transporting the braves to Las Vegas and the Normal, it is understood, will receive practically all of the gate receipts. The Indians will get a free ride. That is about all, excepting the honor of mayhap defeat.

25 CENT "DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR AND DANDRUFF—GROWS HAIR

Don't pay 50 cents for worthless hair tonics—Use old, reliable, harmless "Danderine"—Get results.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is sure evidence of a neglected scalp, of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's feating a team that has won one game within the last two seasons. Notwithstanding the Normal's delay in answering the aborigines' challenge, Uncle Sam's wards have been training consistently. They will go to Las Vegas in tip-top condition, and with a solid line. The Indians right now are a shade better than they have been at any prior time this season.

The change of scene of the Normal-Indian game will leave Albuquerque without any entertainment in the football line on Thanksgiving day. The Albuquerque high school expects to play with the high school at Roswell Thanksgiving day, and Mennal, the other local mole skin representative, closed its season abruptly on the eve of its game with the University of New Mexico.

The high school boys, with two or three exceptions, have been training diligently; but the tardiness of the temperamental warriors has developed some dissatisfaction. The coach and high school faculty are said not to be highly pleased over the attitude shown by several members of the team toward training.

Several Changes Made in Cast of Big Elks Show; Chorus Singing Will be Exceptionally Good.

The big Elks' minstrel, which is to be presented here Wednesday and Thursday, is rapidly shaping up under the handling of Joe Bren, Kansas City coach. Rehearsals of principals and chorus were held at different hours yesterday, and Bren's time was well occupied with the special coaching given different members of the cast and the general rehearsal last night.

Slight changes have been made in the cast of principals, and the chorus has been completed. The complete cast is now as follows:

End ladies: Mrs. J. W. Colbert, Mrs. Hugh J. Collins, Miss Jane Walsh, Miss Irene Starr, Mrs. W. Y. Walton, Mrs. D. H. Burns, Miss Margaret Franklin, Miss Anita Haca.

End men: Louis Gumbiner, Ernest Landolf, Ben J. Puryear, Robert Sewell, Leslie Cullum, W. Kovechapple, H. P. Peterson, Hugo C. Meyers. Chorus men: Jack Franklin, C. L. Brislin, Clyde Kelly, H. Q. Berg, J. J. Tierney, Carl Simpson, C. E. Kelsey, T. M. Cartwright.

The chorus went through all of its numbers last night, repeating them until the effects were satisfactory. Although that was but the second rehearsal they had had, results were such as might reasonably be expected from the fourth or fifth rehearsal under any one but Bren.

After the general rehearsal, Bren spent an hour going over some with "Landy," "Hiner," Mrs. Colbert, and other members of the cast who will do solo numbers. Another rehearsal will be held today.

Tom Egan, acting secretary of the Commercial club last week in the absence of T. J. Nathan, will leave tomorrow for El Paso, Tex.

SANTA CLAUS' VISIT GOVERNOR TO GIVE TO TOYLAND AT LOCAL STORE

Realistic Spectacle of Kris Kringle's Trip from North Pole to Toyland at Rosenthal Store Yesterday.

A huge crowd of tickled children thronged the third floor of the Rosenthal store yesterday afternoon and evening to witness the first presentation of Decorator Rhinehart's Scene Spectacle, "The Trip of Santa Claus from the North Pole to Toyland."

It was impossible to estimate the number of children present in the afternoon, but it is safe to say that ninety per cent of the kid population of this city was there. Chairs were provided, but they were used only to stand on. Every available table, counter and shelf furnished standing room only to the crowd of happy children. Those who were too small to stand on the counters or chairs were held high by their elders, so that none missed the show, which was worked out successfully, to the intense amusement of the children as well as the older people who were there.

The exhibition was extremely clever and is entitled to be ranked among the best of scenic productions seen on the stage. A proscenium, showing the North pole and its icy surroundings at the extreme end, and then long mountain ranges, dotted with trees and covered with snow, occupied the main background of the scene. At the other end rise the roofs and chimneys of Toyland, the large chimneys in the foreground descending into the first place of a beautifully lighted living room, where are seen a row of stockings hung ready for Santa by the children of the house.

As the village clock strikes the midnight hour the stars are seen twinkling in the sky and the moon is settling in the west. Old Mother Goose first appears to sweep away the clouds, according to the story. As soon as the moon has disappeared behind the clouds the snow begins to fall. Then, on the most distant mountain top Old Santa himself appears, driving his fleet-foot reindeer. The sleigh bells are heard faintly at first and then louder and louder, until he at last appears on the roof top and one hears the prancing of the reindeer's hoofs.

Santa dismounts from the sleigh and begins his descent of the chimney. Out he comes below, while the eyes of the children are popping and they are ready to yell with excitement. He soon takes from his pack the bundles of toys and stuffs them quickly into the waiting stockings, for Santa has many calls to make before the dawn of Christmas day. Then he hurries up the chimney, climbs into the waiting sleigh and is off and out of sight in a jiffy.

Every detail of the production was worked out perfectly and it is easily the greatest holiday spectacle ever presented in this city. While it is intended especially for the amusement of the children, grown-ups will find a quarter of an hour well spent by going to the Rosenthal toy department on the third floor, for the next presentation will probably not be made until next Saturday afternoon, at 2, 3, 4, 5 and 8 o'clock. After December first it will be given daily until Christmas.

PROBATE COURT HOLDS RATHER BUSY SESSION

The probate court office was the scene of considerable business yesterday. Several petitions were filed, one will be entered for probate and two marriage licenses issued.

The will was that of Juan C. Armijo and was filed for probate. The document leaves everything to the mother of the testator, Mrs. S. T. Armijo. A petition for the appointment of Marie Hoch as administratrix of the estate of Herman Hoch was filed. A similar petition in the case of the estate of Alicia A. Phillips was filed by Frank B. Phillips, who wishes himself appointed.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to Francisco E. Sanchez and Encarnita Lucero of Albuquerque, and to Francisquillo L. Sedillo, of Albuquerque, and Ramon Ortega, of Escobedo.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial troubles," writes Mrs. L. H. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by all druggists.

Letter from Executive to Secretary E. L. Grose of Good Roads Local Declares That Road Will be Scene of Work.

A letter was yesterday received by Secretary E. L. Grose, of the Albuquerque local of the New Mexico Good Roads Association, from Governor W. C. McDonald. This letter is in response to a request from the local that the North Fourth street road be the scene of the first operation of the state highway commission in this county, under the new bond issue improvement work.

The governor asserts that he believes State Engineer J. A. French has in mind improvement work along this road, but that at any rate, he would present the matter to the attention of the state highway commission at its next meeting. This meeting was held yesterday, but no reports of action have as yet reached this office. The road is in abominable shape, and the local feels that this is the road where the state authorities are first to spend Hernandez's share of the good roads bond issue proceeds. It is needless to urge the expenditure of county moneys upon it.

GARDEN SAGE DARK- ENS FADED HAIR

If You Have Dandruff or If Your Hair Is Turning Gray Try Sage and Sulphur.

The old idea of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark, glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by the Wyeth Chemical Company of New York, who has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur, and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp, and thin, weak, falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich, even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh faded hair, when a simple, harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days; and don't be tormented with dandruff, itching scalp and loose, falling hairs. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color, strength and beauty to your hair.

Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today, and prove this to your own satisfaction. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Brief funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Weidinger, 1001 North Second street, after which the body will be sent east.

David J. Cartwright, 7-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Cartwright, 482 North Second street, died yesterday morning at the home of his parents. Burial is to be in Fairview cemetery.

Mrs. Andrew Fraser, for many years a resident of Albuquerque, died Wednesday of last week in Los Angeles, of pneumonia. Mrs. Fraser was a sister of J. S. MacTavish, of Magdalena. During her residence in Albuquerque she lived at 116 South High street.

Successful Badger Fight Staged for Eastern Salesman

J. H. Orr, a traveling salesman, arrived in Albuquerque yesterday. It was his first western trip, and he never had witnessed a badger fight, obliging citizens, clustered about the Surber bar, offered to stage the entertainment for him.

New Mexico A. C. gym across the alley. Sam Stevens collapsed his Boston terrier and held him ready to leap upon the badger, and Orr was invited to raise the box which concealed the animal.

Orr climbed upon a chair and pulled the string. Carlo didn't leap. He sniffed and slunk away. What Orr saw doesn't matter, but he also sniffed. "What shall I do?" he yelled. Orr was somewhat excited.

"Pity," several voices suggested. A short time later, A. P. Spencer, recently of South Dakota, head of the prowess of New Mexico badgers and volunteered to "pull the string."

He was accommodated, with the usual run that attends such events. Spencer also fought.

Janet Giegoldt is married at home in Point Richmond

Word has been received here of the marriage of Janet Giegoldt, formerly a resident of this city, to Lloyd T. White, at her home in Point Richmond, Cal.

Miss Giegoldt was a student at the local high school and has many friends here, especially among the younger set. Her father, George Giegoldt, was a member of the local board of education and a popular employee at the Santa Fe car shops.

Among those mentioned as attending the wedding were: Miss Lulu Benedict and Chester Otto, both former Albuquerque residents, who now make their homes in the California city.

Mr. White is an Albuquerque boy, a son of an attorney here. He was formerly employed at several local drug stores, and is a graduate of a school of pharmacy in St. Louis.

Rumor of Motion Picture Company is Again Revived

The often repeated rumor of a motion picture troupe to winter in this city was revived again yesterday by a letter received by a local motion picture theater. This letter asserts that the Selig troupe of forty-two people, now playing at Canon City, Colo., is to winter in this city.

Mr. Selig himself has several times promised that one of the troupes of his company should visit Albuquerque for a stay of several weeks or longer, and last winter an operator from that concern spent several days here gathering material for industrial films here and in this vicinity.

The advertising value to the city is of considerable amount, and as the companies are all high salaried, a stay in this city would be beneficial to local merchants.

TRAGEDY OCCURS AT SOCORRO COUNTY CELEBRATION

Juan Gallegos, Mail Carrier, Shot and Killed; Florencio Hill, Stockman, is the Alleged Slayer.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal.)

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 23.—At 9 o'clock tonight at a festa at Midway near here, Juan Gallegos, a mail carrier, was shot and killed. Florencio Hill, a prominent stockman and sheep raiser, is said to have fired the fatal shot. Sheriff Emil James is on his way here from Socorro in an automobile, at which time it is expected the alleged murderer will be taken into custody. The shooting caused considerable excitement and brought the celebration to an abrupt end.

The Doctor's Advice by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character. The symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Building Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but only initials of fictitious names will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesalers.

"Sarah" writes: "Will you please repeat the formula for the tonic which you gave me some time ago? I am nervous, sleepless, and have no appetite whatever."

Answer: I shall very gladly repeat the formula and I am sure that it will help you, as you have many other girls who suffer as you do. Get at any apothecary drug store the following ingredients: Scrup. of hypophosphites comp. 2 ozs., tincture codonopsis comp. 1 oz., cod. caradonopsis. Mix and shake well before using. This should be taken regularly and in few weeks you will have a good appetite and be well and strong.

"Myrtle" writes: "I have never tried anything to reduce my weight, but if I could find a safe, harmless remedy I would try it. I am so fat that I am uncomfortable."

Answer: To avoid substitution purchase separately these two medicines: Aromatic elixir 2 ozs. and glycol arbutin 1 oz. Mix by shaking thoroughly and take a teaspoonful after meals for the first three days and thereafter double the dose. Continue this treatment for several weeks or until you properly reduce your weight.

"Guendalina" writes: "Kindly tell me what to do. I suffer with liver, kidney and stomach trouble. Am constipated and have slight attacks of biliousness."

Answer: For your stomach, liver and kidneys take three grain sulphur tablets each sulphur tablet contains half a grain of sulphur and contain full directions for using. They will purify the blood and make the liver, the liver and kidneys, and if taken regularly will gradually effect a cure. I have found these to be the most reliable for all ailments that arise from chronic constipation.

"Wife" writes: "Incontinence or bedwetting in children is usually cured by using the following: In 15 drops dose in water one hour before meals. Tincture cubeba 1 dram, tincture thu aromatic 2 drams, comp. fluid balmwort 1 oz. Mix well."

"A. R. T." writes: "I am a constant sufferer of catarrh. It has affected my throat and nostrils to a great extent. It gives me headache and affects my eyes. What would you recommend?"

Answer: The antiseptic Vaseline powder according to the directions given and you will soon be cured of catarrh. I receive hundreds of letters daily from grateful people who have been cured. Purchase a two ounce package of Vaseline powder and take one-half teaspoonful of the powder and one pint of warm water, and add the powder from the palm of the hand into the nostrils several times daily. When the nostrils are thoroughly cleaned apply the following catarrh balm. Mix a teaspoonful of Vaseline powder with one ounce of vaseline or lard and apply to the nostrils as far as possible. Do this several times a day and your trouble will soon vanish. It is well to use it occasionally to prevent a recurrence.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all druggists.

New Laces, Ribbons And Trimmings

THIS section of our store has become one of the most popular and attractive since we have moved into our new home. Every week there is something new added to these lines, and then again we have three times as much room devoted to these little things that are so important to the dress or suit.

It's difficult to do justice to the interesting display of new Trimmings and Laces that embrace so many important helps in the planning of suits, dresses and gowns.

The new Shadow Laces so largely in demand are being shown in some very pretty patterns in both cotton and silk.

It is many years since Laces were in quite the demand they are at present and our assortment is such we know we can supply your wants.
