AMBASSADOR REID DIES FOLLOWING BRIEF VISIT TO ENGLAND

American Representative at Court of St. James Since
1905 Succumbs to Attack
of Pulmonary Oedema.

REMAINS MAY REST IN SLEEPY HOLLOW

It is Expected That British Government Will Send Body
to United States on Warship
After Funeral Service.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
London, Dec. 15.—The American ambassador to Great Britain since 1905, died at his London residence, Dorchester house, shortly after noon today from pulmonary oedema. The end was quiet and peaceful. Mrs. Reid and their daughter, Mrs. John Hubert Ward, were at the bedside.

The ambassador had been unwell since 9 o'clock in the morning, and at intervals during the previous twenty-four hours he had been slightly delirious as the result of the drugs administered to induce sleep. Sir Thomas Barclay, physician to the king, who was called in last week when Mr. Reid's illness became acute, and his regular physician, Dr. William Hale White, issued the following bulletin as to the cause of death:

"A fortnight ago the American ambassador had a slight bronchial attack similar to others from which he had suffered at considerable intervals. On Wednesday last asthma supervened and the asthmatic paroxysm became very severe, leading to extreme exhaustion."

"It was hoped that he might rally, as no pneumonia symptoms had appeared. With the asthmatic paroxysms were got under control, but this morning the exhaustion became extreme and he died from pulmonary oedema at 12:10 o'clock this afternoon."

The Honorable John Hubert Ward, who, with his wife, had been at Dorchester house continually since the ambassador's condition became serious, notified the staff of the embassy when the patient began to sink, and when death came he sent word to the king and queen at Buckingham palace, the queen mother, Alexandra, at Sandringham, and the officials at the embassy.

Almost immediately the king sent his query, Sir Harry Legge, to express the condolences of himself and the queen. During the afternoon messages conveying the warm sympathy were received from the queen mother, Alexandra, and from other members of the royal family, from court officials, members of the government, and the various embassies and legations, while many called at the embassy.

A wireless message was sent to Ogden Reid, son of the ambassador, who is now in New York yesterday in the hope of reaching his father's bedside before death.

The body will be taken home and probably will be interred in Sleepy Hollow, but the details will not be decided until the necessary permission is received from Ogden Reid and it is learned what action the British government may desire to take. Mrs. Reid was to sail on Saturday next, should her son reach the United States to accompany her, but in all probability the government will place a warship at the disposal of the family for the transport of the body of the ambassador to the United States.

Doubtless there will be no memorial service in one of the cathedrals in London in addition to service in some chapel for the members of the family and the staff of the embassy. This being Sunday, nothing could be done, but if Mrs. Reid has her way she will start for home at the earliest possible moment. While Mr. Reid's condition had been serious only since Thursday and he had been confined to the house but a fortnight, his illness really dates back from his return to New York last February.

His visit there for the purpose of entertaining the visiting countess of Connaught, on the voyage he contracted a cold and found great difficulty in shaking it off. When he did he was, for a time, quite feeble. His friends noticed a change in him, he insisted upon going to the embassy every day and carrying on his heavy correspondence both there and at home.

However, Mr. Reid made a considerable recovery, and during the London season, May, June and July, was active, and with Mrs. Reid gave many entertainments for which they had made Dorchester house famous. While these were minor ailments which proved a strain on his strength, when August came the ambassador went to Harrow Gate to take the cure. In September he made a hurried trip to the United States and presided at the dedication of the new education building at Albany. He returned to England, and from that time suffered from colds. Although he had not complained of throat trouble, from which he had suffered at intervals for years, there were minor ailments which depressed him. Having invited a shooting party to Wrest park, where there had been many distinguished gatherings since Mr. Reid became ambassador, he called in Sir William Osler, who examined him and declared there was nothing wrong. The ambassador was, however, in this report and, with his wife, joined his guests at his country house, in Dorchester house on December 20, and his final illness began the next day.

Mr. Reid continued to carry on his correspondence and signed official documents as late as last Wednesday. His family and household did not realize that he was in any danger and although at times he showed much depression, it was attributed to the gloomy weather. The doctors, too, were optimistic, but advised him to remain within doors, and he did not leave his room until he had been invited to meet the Prince and Princess of Teck last week-end.

Even in the last week several small luncheons, which the ambassador and Mrs. Reid were accustomed to give to American visitors, had been arranged just before his condition became serious. These were cancelled when he was attacked with asthma Wednesday. On Thursday the attacks became more severe and Sir Thomas Barclay was summoned in consultation and Dr. R. P. Rowland was installed in the house to be in constant attendance. The attack became worse Friday, and for a time it was believed the ambassador could not survive the night. He was greatly exhausted, but the physicians got the paroxysms under control, and later held out hope for his recovery. Mr. Reid, however, did not regain his strength, and at Sunday morning it was seen that he was sinking.

Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Ward, who had been in constant attendance since his condition became serious, were summoned. He soon lapsed into unconsciousness and lay quietly until the end came.

Whiteley Reid, who came to England in 1905, was born in London. The diplomatic duties are not so heavy in London as at other posts, but socially the American ambassador is much in demand and more frequently called upon to deliver speeches and addresses than the other ambassadors.

Mr. Reid gave much time to his addresses, particularly those delivered at the university, and was at his work with a determination which would be ascribed to him. He dictated to his secretary or wrote for several hours before going to the embassy, where he was regular in attendance until 11:30 p.m. and there spent another three hours, receiving visitors and attending to official correspondence.

There were invariably engagements, official and unofficial, for the afternoon and evening. On Wednesday, for example, which made his day full. He was a member of several big clubs. These he seldom visited, although a regular attendant at the meetings of the Royal Society, a club of book-lovers, and the Titmarsh, a Thackeray club.

Until the last he was active in literary pursuits. One of the reasons he desired to give to the ambassadorship and return home was that he might be enabled to write his memoirs, for which he had a mass of material and to which his friends continually asked him to give his time.

One of the ambassador's last letters was written December 6th to Robert Donald, editor of the Daily Chronicle and a member of the committee of the Anglo-American peace centenary. It began:

"I am finding once more this week that there is never a convenient moment for being ill, but nothing has done so much since the breakdown three or four weeks ago, and that followed by overwork in the autumn and early winter, as to learn that the physicians will not consent to my attending the public meeting at the Mansion house to help inaugurate your movement for celebrating the one hundred anniversary of peace between our two countries. I especially wish to be present, because I regard this as an event of enormous importance and I think that failure to give it such a celebration as should challenge the attention of the whole world would be a crime."

After congratulating Mr. Donald on his work and writings in behalf of the celebration, the letter continued:

"If I dared to promise to be present at the lord mayor's meeting, I would, and I am sure that the ambassadorship is so far from the threshold of the physicians, I surely shall be."

"In the meantime I hope that the work is in as forward and promising a state as you can manage. As here I am sure that the centenary could not have come at a more momentous time, and that the world would be helped by the peace of the world."

Whiteley Reid, diplomat, was born October 27, 1874, in Kent, England. He was graduated from Miami university in 1896, and began his journalistic career as editor of the Xenia News, which paper he was connected with from 1896 to 1904. In 1904 he became a reporter for the Cincinnati Gazette, and in 1905 and 1906 was war correspondent and later the Washington correspondent for the same paper. ## PEACE CONFERENCE BEGINS BETWEEN TURKS AND ALLIES

Balkan State Diplomats Believe
Austria is Bluffing by Mobilization of Army on the Frontier.

BULGARIANS WANT TO BEGIN HOSTILITIES

Delegates Point Out That Russia is Ready to Back Demand of Serbia for Port on Adriatic Coast.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
London, Dec. 15.—The peace conference between the Balkan plenipotentiaries, returned to London from Paris tonight, and the peace conference is expected to open tomorrow noon. Sir Edward Grey, the British secretary for foreign affairs, will make a brief speech of welcome and after expressing the hope of a fruitful end of their labors, he will retire and leave the conference to deliberate in private. The delegates spent a quiet day Sunday. Nothing has transpired yet to show whether any serious difficulty is likely to arise over the attendance of the Greek delegates. Concerning the Austro-Serbian controversy, the Balkan delegates think the result of Austrian bluff. They say: "Vienna having seen completely wrecked, her traditional prestige of grandeur extending through the Balkan states to Salonika, has tried to counterbalance the bad effect it has had at home by claiming that Albania must be autonomous, according to the Austro-Serbian agreement concluded in 1907. Therefore, neither Greece nor Serbia can occupy the Albanian-Adriatic coast, much less Serbia, as Serbia means Russia."

"Vienna does not mean to represent" asked one of the delegates, "with its ports at Antivari and Dublino, to which Serbia soon will be added, it being no mystery to anybody that the small kingdom of Albania, which is now in the hands of the Greeks, is a Russian province and the Montenegrin army as a contingent of the Muscovite forces."

According to the Balkan delegates, Austria's increased armaments and the practical mobilization of her army are due less to the probability of declaring war against Serbia than to the grave internal situation in the monarchy, the unrest in Hungary and the agitation among Serbians, especially in Bosnia and Herzegovina, where those holding positions under the Austro-Serbian government openly have proclaimed their hostility to the empire.

In addition to the concern in the threatening attitude of the Slavs throughout Austria territory, this resulted in the dissolution of the municipality of Zibonik, Spalato and Sara on the charge of being anti-Austrian.

"Vienna," the Balkan delegates continue, "has two many troubles. First, she is not financially prepared, a fact proven by the loss recently contracted in the United States at a rate of interest higher than any other great power has paid in late years."

"Besides Germany, notwithstanding her alliance, has exercised an influence tending to moderate Austrian ardor."

Admitting a coup d'etat on the part of Austria, we know that neither Serbia nor any other Balkan state would be left alone, as Russia would come to their assistance, Russia being today the master of the Balkans. The Balkan states are indeed anxious to show what she can do in Europe. At the time of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Russian emperor, the policy of sending an ultimatum to Austria, which would have led to war, but he was prevented from so doing through the friendly intervention of King Edward of Germany, who was then emperor.

No further development in the international situation is expected, according to a Vienna dispatch, nothing is known of the statement circulated in Paris that Serbia has protested to Austria against the Austrian military demonstration.

The Vienna Reichspost, in an article dealing with the crisis, refers to the financial strain on Austria-Hungary. It estimates the expenditure of military preparation at $192,000,000 and the total losses to the dual monarchy in the last few years as a result of the recurrent Russian crises at nearly $625,000,000. The latter figure is intended to be a warning to the Balkan states in view of government securities.

A Belgrade dispatch represents the Serbian government as ready, if necessary, to send delegates to Vienna for friendly negotiations with Austria on the basis of Albanian autonomy and a Serbian port on the Adriatic, which Serbia would engage not to transform into a military port, while Austria would enjoy the right of preference in the matter of loans and public works and the most favored nation treatment.

The Belgrade newspapers said that, according to advice from the general staff, the Serbian government has created two new army divisions to be stationed in the newly occupied territories.

The Bulgarian government organ, Sofia, the Mir, professes to be skeptical of a favorable settlement. It declares a majority of the members of the Sobranie which reassesses the situation at Constantinople at the arrest of the Bulgarian army almost at the gates of Constantinople. They want the government to interpret the negotiations, continue the war and dictate peace in the Turkish capital. In accordance with the terms of the armistice provision training for the Bulgarian army are passing through the Adrianople station with the permission of the Turks.

There appears some doubt whether the Greek premier, M. Venizelos, will sit in the conference as a delegate. No other state has a premier as a delegate and if Greece were represented by her premier she would be at a disadvantage, because his decisions would be binding on his country, while the decisions of the others would be subject to revision by the respective governments. It is understood the Turkish delegates have attended some informal preliminary gatherings of the delegates during the week-end.

A Constantinople dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company reports that the military party is becoming so strong as to threaten the overthrow of the Kiamli ministry in favor of a triumvirate composed of Nazim Pasha, the minister of war, Ismet Pasha, chief of the general staff, and Mahmoud Scherhet Pasha, former commander of the revolutionary army.

BULGARIAN ENVOY TALKS WITH ENGLISH PREMIER.

Paris, Dec. 15.—The conference today between Dr. Danef, the Bulgarian plenipotentiary, and Premier Poincaré, is believed to be the most important of the conference. Dr. Danef had lunch with the French premier and later had an extended interview with the Russian ambassador M. Tsvetkovsky. Asked whether he desired to see this afternoon, Dr. Danef said he was exceedingly happy to have a conversation with Premier Poincaré before the opening of the negotiations. We examined together, he said, all the questions at issue and on none of them are our views in disagreement.

The Bulgarian representative emphasized the unity of the Balkan states. He outlined the points on which they would treat with Turkey and declared they would not give way with reference to the cession of Adrianople. In conclusion, he said: "The Balkan states have never received at any time advice or prompting from any great power. They believed they were acting in the interests of general European peace by preparing by their means for the settlement of the Balkan problem."

"All the Balkan governments are unshakably attached to their alliance, because it assures their military security and because it is necessary to their diplomatic autonomy."

GREKS AND TURKS
CONTINUE TO FIGHT.

Athens, Dec. 15.—Fighting continues in the vicinity of Jannina. After a battle which lasted three days, the Greeks occupied Schila and Paranythia, in Epirus, with considerable losses.

AVIATION ACCIDENT CLAIMS LIVES OF TWO BROTHERS

English Naval Officer and Manager of Aeroplane Company
Plunge to Death When Their Machine Turns Turtle.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
London, Dec. 15.—The fall of an aeroplane today added two to the list of fatalities of aviation. Lieutenant W. Parke, of the Royal Navy, and Mr. J. H. Huffer, of Grand Junction, Colo., when he dealt severely with a "bachelor" machine, in a serious, clearing spinners should be held.

Miss Gould was quoted as replying that he had a great injustice to the bachelor mads, particularly to those who were devoting themselves to ideals for the advancement of civilization. As to her own case, she said: "I had found a suitable helpmate. I might have spent my money in a different way and which might not have done as much good as it has."

Since the death of her parents, Miss Gould has been the intimate friend of Mrs. Russell Sage, who has been one of her advisers in business and philanthropy.

Helen Miller Gould was born at New York, June 29, 1885, being the daughter of Jay Gould. She was named after her mother, who was Helen Miller. Miss Gould is the sister of George Jay, Edwin Howard and Frank Gould. She has become widely known as a philanthropist, devoting vast sums of her share of the Gould millions to philanthropic and charitable work. Within the past several years she has become heavily interested in the Gould railroad properties, being one of the largest holders.

French Consul Quits San Francisco.
San Francisco, Dec. 15.—Henry Mercou, consul general of France in San Francisco more than 35 years, said today that he had tendered his resignation to the French government. He will leave soon for Europe, where he has accepted a post with an international railroad company. Mercou succeeded Etienne Lantier here in 1877. He had been in the service of the French government since attaining his majority, and several years ago was made a member of the Legion of Honor. Twenty years ago he was sent to Galveston, Tex., and then to Chicago. His successor has not yet been appointed.

Meeting of Good Roads Local Tonight is of Vital Importance

THE meeting of the Albuquerque local of the New Mexico Good Roads association which will be held tonight is of vital importance. It should be attended by every man in Albuquerque and the vicinity who has the interest of better roads at heart, whether he be a member of the local, the state association, or just the electorate of the county. Its object will be to perfect plans for "Local Day," which will be held tomorrow.

"Local Day" is a device arranged by the local to secure more members. It consists of sending canvassing squads into every portion of the business district of the city to get as many members as possible within one hour. The entire arrangement of "Local Day" is under the direction of the membership committee, composed of Colonel D. K. L. Sellers, R. W. D. Bryan and M. Mandell.

The good roads local is already at work and doubtless will be able to accomplish much for the betterment of the roads of Bernalillo county. But what its sixty-two members can accomplish is as nothing compared to what the organization might do if it had the 1,000 members it desires. It is therefore going after the thousand.

Remember, the meeting begins at 8 o'clock. It will be held in the rooms of the Commercial club. It is up to you to be there.

HELEN GOULD WILL FORSAKE RANKS OF SPINSTERS AND MARRY

Formal Announcement Made of Her Engagement to Finley
J. Shepard, Official of Missouri Pacific.

TIME AND PLACE OF WEDDING IS WITHHELD

News of Philanthropist's Intention to Wed Comes as Surprise, It Not Being Known
She Contemplated Marriage.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Lakewood, N. J., Dec. 15.—An announcement of the engagement of Miss Helen Miller Gould, of New York, to Finley J. Shepard, a prominent railroad man of St. Louis, was made this afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould here.

It was said the announcement of the time and place of the wedding would be withheld for the present, and this statement was confirmed upon inquiry at the residence of Miss Gould in New York.

Mr. Gould made known his sister's engagement in a formal statement which read:

"Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Helen Miller Gould, to Mr. Finley J. Shepard, of St. Louis."

She began her beneficent work during the Spanish-American war when she gave time and several hundred thousands of dollars to the relief of sick and wounded soldiers, for which she received the thanks of congress.

In 1899 she led a woman's movement for the unseating of Brigham H. Roberts, congressman from Utah, as a demonstration against polygamy, for which she became devoted to the interests of railroad employees, and toward the establishment of a railroad Young Men's Christian Association she gave personal attention and upwards of $100,000.

Several railroad Young Men's Christian Association buildings, others for the navy and several for the Young Men's Christian Association have been erected in other through her generosity. One of the unique forms of her charity has been the personal reception she has given to hundreds of city waifs and self-supporting women at her estate near Tarrytown, N. Y., which she has called "The House of the Good Roads."

Only last July, Miss Gould figured in a controversy with the Rev. and Hon. F. Huffer, of Grand Junction, Colo., when he dealt severely with a "bachelor" machine, in a serious, clearing spinners should be held.

Miss Gould was quoted as replying that he had a great injustice to the bachelor mads, particularly to those who were devoting themselves to ideals for the advancement of civilization. FINLEY J. SHEPARD HAS
RAILROAD EXPERIENCE

St. Louis, Dec. 15.—Finley J. Shepard met Miss Gould soon after entering the operating department of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain lines in June 1911. He accompanied Miss Gould and her party last March over the Denver & Rio Grande when she made a tour of inspection of the railroad Young Men's Christian Association buildings. A close friendship sprang up from that trip. Mr. Shepard is 45 years old and the son of a Connecticut minister, who died recently.

He has been in railroad work since 1888. Before entering the service of the Gould lines, he was with the Northern Pacific and the Santa Fe. When B. F. Bush, president of the Missouri Pacific-Iron Mountain lines, was chosen president of the Denver & Rio Grande in January, 1912, Mr. Shepard was selected as his assistant with jurisdiction over all departments. Since coming to St. Louis eighteen months ago, Mr. Shepard has been active socially and is known as a man of broad, municipal and critical taste and an all around athlete.

CAPTIVE BALLOON GETS DOWN AND GOES TO SEA

Vessels Race to Rescue and Arrive Just in Time to Save
Two Men and Child When Bag Drops Into Ocean.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Los Angeles, Dec. 15.—Two men and a boy who were in the basket of a captive balloon that drifted from the cable at Venice, a seashore resort, by a 20 mile gale, were rescued today four miles at sea.

One of the men, Sidney Neal Hampton, the balloon pilot, was unconscious when his body was disengaged from the mass of cordage enveloping it in the big gas bag. John Wagoner, the other man, was picked up as he was struggling with the heavy sea for the life of the lad, Charles Jordan, aged 9. The boy was uninjured.

The rescue was effected within ten minutes after the balloon had drifted from the cable. Captain George Childs of the motor boat, Maud, dragged Hampton aboard while the crew of the racing schooner Mischief, picked up Wagoner and the boy, Jordan, from the water some distance from where the sandbagged balloon basket had sunk. The gas bag, with its vents pulled wide open, was fast being deflated and threatening immediately to envelop the two men and the boy and crowd them beneath the surface, when the Maud and the Mischief sped alongside. Although the wind was blowing a dangerous velocity, the Maud took Wagoner and young Jordan in the balloon basket for an occasion.

They intended to catch a glimpse of the captive of the fleet of small boats which had been searching for the lost aviator. Keary, an instant after the cable had been payed out to its full length, the steel rope parted under the strain and the balloon was blown away. The Maud was placed under a strain by the rescue. The Maud took Wagoner and young Jordan in the balloon basket for an occasion.

Uncle Sam Proposes to Use Gasoline Bicycles in Collections in Five of the Larger Cities.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Washington, Dec. 15.—The fact that the United States government is convinced of the economy, utility and reliability of the motorcycle—to the extent that Uncle Sam is going to try motorcycles in collecting mail in at least five cities—is substantial recognition of the record being made by motorcycles every day and in every field of activity.

With an eye to the postal deficit, Uncle Sam is trying to cut expenses, and the motorcycle's performance has led him to believe that there is economy as well as efficiency in the modern "two-wheeler."

Experiences such as that of William Hetherington, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., are common, every-day occurrences, yet they throw much light on the causes which have brought the motorcycle clear to the front.

Hetherington operates a twin "Scout" motorcycle and he gives some interesting figures on operating costs for the first nine months of 1912.

During that period he rode some 5,000 miles. His total expense for gasoline was $15.40. For oil he spent $2.60. His total for oil and fuel was, therefore, $18.00, which makes an average of $0.047 per mile.

His repairs for the same period and the same mileage amounted only to $2.10, making the total cost of oil, fuel and repairs $20.10. Thus the total cost per mile was $0.0413—or less than one-half cent per mile.

Even a better showing on the point of fuel and oil is made by M. W. Belque, a contractor at Colorado Springs, Belque used his motorcycle in his work, going from job to job, supervising and directing his men. He has ridden a motorcycle for three seasons and reports the cost of his gasoline and oil to have been about one-fifth of a cent per mile. Hetherington's cost was a little above two-fifths.

During the 1912 season, Dr. S. W. Clark, of Sterling, Ill., has ridden his motorcycle about 7,000 miles without spending a single cent for repairs.

Charles A. Langitt, of Shirley, Va., has ridden his motorcycle 10,000 miles this year and his repair bill is 15 cents.

INDIAN TEAM WINS
THE SKATING RINK

In the last relay of the mile and a half chariot race on skates at the Elks hall rink, skated last night, the Indian team, composed of Ralph Whitaker, Louis Keppard and Bill Metzinger, with Miss Mary Metzinger as driver, won over the Harley-Davidson team, composed of Harry Trescott, Harry Abbott and Robert Kern, with Miss Irene Starr as driver. The last half mile was exciting. The Harley-Davidson team was leading in the next to the last lap, when one of its members tripped and fell. Another of the team also went down during the mix-up. The Indian team came up from behind and passed the Harley-Davidsons, winning by a narrow margin, amid much excitement. A large crowd which filled the rink enjoyed the race.

Rides Because 'Brother Did'

Mary Becklebe, of Wichita, Kan., is one of the hundreds of young women who have taken up motorcycling because "brother did."

She had watched other men skimming through the roads and streets and had wanted to "skim" some herself. So, when her brother bought a machine and brought it home, her chance came.

"It took me just fifteen minutes to learn to ride it," says Miss Becklebe. "I have ridden hundreds of miles and it certainly is fun. It is even better sport than I thought it would be."

"And, not only is it fun. It is a healthy exercise for girls. Girls do not get out into the open air often enough. They have no idea of the pleasure and the exhilaration of motorcycling until they have tried it. Whenever I have a few spare minutes I get into my saddle and ride as long as possible. I have never experienced the slightest difficulty in operating my machine and there has never been a single thing to mar the pleasure of these motorcycle outings."

"At first I rode a single cylinder machine. It was great fun. But now I have a twin cylinder and I enjoy it even more. I believe in motorcycling for girls for I know it has been of great benefit to me."

"My very first trip on a motorcycle was one of nine miles. Of course I made very much longer trips since then, and I have never had an accident."

Walter Mumm Victim of Fury of Consort Whom He Had Decided to Cast Aside After Short Love Affair.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Paris, Dec. 15.—The efforts of the police to locate either "Mrs. Mary Barnes" or her servant, the only actual witnesses of the shooting Thursday night of Walter Mumm, a well-known sportsman, have been fruitless and the affair is more or less a mystery. Mumm was shot while in the woman's home. Mumm, in the interrogation today by Magistrate Beauchard at the hospital, strongly protested against that version of the shooting which said he struck "Mrs. Barnes" before she fired.

"I was fond of Mrs. Barnes," said M. Mumm to the magistrate. "But I think she was fonder of me. My family, however, made me understand the situation between us could not continue. Mrs. Barnes was separated from her husband, not divorced, and accordingly could not be my wife."

"In view of our possible separation, I tried to prepare my friend, Wednesday we took supper at a restaurant in Rue Royale. The evening passed merrily. Champagne flowed, perhaps a little too freely, and when we returned, fired and separated. Mrs. Barnes' home in the Rue Jules Ferry was down was breaking."

"Then we began a dispute. I repeated to her our love could not last forever. Mrs. Barnes, who up to this time had not been much moved over the prospect of our parting, then had a crying fit, which was followed by an outburst of fury."

"Ah, it won't last forever, we will see about that," she screamed, and before I could interfere she snatched up a little revolver and fired at me."

TRINIDAD CLUB IS TRYING TO MATCH CHAVEZ AND KIRK

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Trinidad, Colo., Dec. 15.—If plans now being made by the Santa Fe Athletic club mature, two fights instead of one will be pulled off in this city Christmas day.

A wire was received yesterday from Ollie Kirk of St. Louis partially accepting the terms made to him a few days ago, but saying that he could only come down to 125 pounds weight. Chavez is anxious to fight and will accept the weight if the other terms can be arranged, thus giving Kirk two pounds the advantage.

Chavez will fight at 125 pounds. The other event will be the match between Frankie White of Chicago and E. Winters of Raton. Both of these men are clever with the mitts and are anxious to go 10 rounds.

They have met before at Raton, N. M., but were only allowed to go 10 rounds, which they fought to a draw.

Mills Unable to Supply Demand for Railroad Equipment; Working Under Unprecedented Pressure.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) New York, Dec. 15.—The steel mills continued to do business under great pressure from consumers last week. Rolling schedules are complete for four months and new business is heavy from both domestic and foreign sources. Railroads continue to place orders for equipment with the hope of obtaining shipments before next summer is over, but the rail mills as a rule, cannot promise delivery inside of eight months with the exception of one eastern mill that can take some business for May delivery. The largest mills are sold into October.

The rail contracts last week included 50,000 tons for the Union Pacific, 60,000 tons for the Chicago & Northwestern, miscellaneous orders aggregating about 65,000 tons. The Harriman lines are negotiating for 200,000 tons. Export business pending, including 7,000 tons for Argentine railroads, 100,000 tons for the Southern railroad of Brazil and 50,000 tons for the Canadian Pacific, aggregated 1,200,000 tons.

The largest locomotive order was fifty-five for the Illinois Central. The market for additional The subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation in November secured orders for 1,335,000 tons, shipped 1,080,000 tons and produced 1,170,000 tons of finished steel products. Steel building orders aggregated nearly 20,000 tons. The American Steel and Wire company has advanced the prices of wire products $1 a ton.

New Experiment Creates Big Market for Farmers' Feed; Ten Thousand to be Handled During Winter.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Clovis, N. M., Dec. 15.—What is construed in Clovis to mean a movement that will bring a market for every grain and straw of stuff the Curry county farmers desire to sell, is the deal consummated early this week through the First National bank of Clovis, by which there is to be brought to the Oldham ranch, two miles east of Clovis, altogether something like ten thousand sheep to be wintered and fattened on the abundant feed crop raised by the Curry county farmers this year.

B. D. Oldham, cashier of the First National bank of Clovis, who has been instrumental in putting many hundred head of fine dairy cattle in the hands of farmers of the county, in the past few months, and who has been carrying on something of an experimental dairy and stock farm, made a deal with a man of the name of Acra who will bring with the first drove of sheep next week 6,000 head. A place is provided at the Oldham farm for feeding and sheltering, and the feed chopper and grinder, which Mr. Oldham has had in operation for some months utilizes every straw of fodder and particle of grain in the process which prepares the food for feeding. A slight charge is made the sheep man for the use of the grinder and the shelter of the barns.

"I believe that we are on the road now that is to mean a market for every grain of stuff the farmers of our country raise and do not use themselves, and for all the roughness as well," said Mr. Oldham. "Once we can convince these men that we can raise enough feed to supply them and to provide their winter feeding, we will get sheep from all parts of eastern New Mexico and the Curry county farmer will have found a ready market for all the stuff he can raise," he continued.

RESPONSIBLE FOR DEPRESSION

Recent Flurry on Stock Exchange Result of Effort to Clear Up Commitments Made Long Time Ago.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) New York, Dec. 15.—The further violent collapse in stocks last week showed the unsuspected speculative commitments in the stock market. Long continued dullness in trading had given no hint of the extent of the involvement. It was current supposition that there was forced liquidation of important individual accounts which were of such long standing as to have become stale. Recent unfavorable factors were recognized as causes in the collapse, but the movement was interpreted also as a readjustment from an unwarranted speculative basis of prices which has paralyzed healthy absorptive demands. Reports of investment buying on the decline, both by individuals and by financial institutions, showed the benefit of the corrective process.

Interior bankers who were sounded by the secretary of the treasury to the need of relief by deposit of treasury funds gave negative replies. The request of the interior demand for funds is now passed and money is expected to return to reserve centers in liberal volume.

New York bankers, in announcing their participation in the purchase of $25,000,000 Austrian treasury notes, said they had assurances there was no reason for apprehending warlike developments. The fall in Union Pacific shares was clear evidence of the alarm felt by shareholders over the effects of the dissolution decree of the supreme court. Speculative predation could be discerned over the proceedings of the Pilsa committee in its delving into the affairs of the stock exchange.

Attention was given to reports of the increase in copper stocks.

TWO DUCK HUNTERS "BAG" A FLOCK OF DECOYS

J. M. Gooch and Dr. Pettit laboriously stalk dead birds on Rio Grande Gun Club Preserve and Riddle Them.

New developments in the recent hunting trip of J. M. Gooch and Dr. Fred Pettit, dentist, located yesterday.

They fired upon a small flock of slaughtered ducks set for decoys on the Rio Grande Gun club preserve. There is nothing unusual about that, experienced hunters say, but their trouble in stalking the dead birds, furnishes a tale.

H. T. Johnson, R. M. Merritt, Raymond Starnin, and Antonio Ortiz are early risers when duck shooting is good. They head Gooch and the dentist to the ponds and bagged several canvas backs. These they set out, propping up their heads with forked twigs, for decoys.

Gooch and Dr. Pettit, driving to the club in a wagon, espied the demised birds. They stopped the team, but there was no foot to hit the horses. They tied them to the wheels, stealthily slipped on their boots, mounted their trusty shotguns, and began creeping. Their dogs darted ahead, Gooch caught them and tied them to the wagon.

They started again, but the canines began to yelp and Gooch had to go back to whip them. The ducks still sat, and the wary hunters were off again, crawling on hands and knees, when one of the dogs broke loose. Gooch had to tie him again.

The next morning, Gooch and Dr. Pettit were out with their dogs and traps, twenty yards of their prey without a mishap. Ortiz, who with the others was watching from their blind, jumped up and shouted:

"Don't shoot. Come closer. They won't fly."

Rattled, Gooch and Pettit sprang erect, ran to the edge of the pond and cut loose with four barrels. The decoys sailed, but the birds were off again, getting the same, that Ortiz warning apparently only confused the doctor and Gooch.

Poker.
"We want one more man to make up our poker party."

"I know one! Finest player I ever saw! He always takes home the pot. Say, you don't know much about poker parties if you think any poker party is ever looking for that kind of a man. Do you know any man with money who doesn't know how to play very well?" Houston Post.

SICKLY CHILDREN

If a child can be kept well and strong up to the fifteenth year, it will probably have a long and healthy life. Much ill health in grown persons can be traced back to neglected childhood and to the foolish belief that a child can "outgrow" a sickly, run-down, nervous condition without treatment.

How much more sensible it is to give pale, nervous, fretful children a harmless remedy like our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol, which they enjoy taking and which does them so much good. We could tell you of many puny, sickly children here that have been made well, rosy, strong and full of fun as a child should be, by taking Vinol. It is a wonderful remedy for all who are broken in health, from grandparents to infants, and we guarantee it absolutely to give satisfaction or you get your money back.

ROADS WEST AGAIN PASSABLE, SAYS E. C. BUTLER

President of Albuquerque Local Returns with Car Which Was Stranded at Magdalena by Heavy Snows.

According to statements made last night by E. C. Butler and Colonel D. K. R. Sellers on their return from Magdalena, where they were snow-bound last week in Mr. Butler's car, the roads west from Albuquerque are again passable. The road west from Albuquerque for the first fifty miles is splendid, they said, then a little muddy. Into Carthage, from Carthage to Socorro it is good, and from Socorro to Magdalena it is still muddy from the recent phenomenal snows, but passable. The mud, of course, will all be gone within a few days.

While on this trip the two gentlemen, both of whom are connected with the Albuquerque good roads local, arranged for a joint meeting of the road boards of Valencia, Socorro and Bernalillo counties here at an early date. At first this meeting was scheduled for tomorrow, but owing to the fact that two members of the Socorro board found they would be unable to attend at that time it was postponed.

The meeting is for the purpose of urging the state road board to begin work on the stretch between Albuquerque and Socorro as soon as possible, as this is now the worst stretch of road, except the small section north of Albuquerque on which work has already commenced, on the whole route of the ocean-to-ocean highway.

Sixteen cars left Socorro Saturday morning, bound west, after being snowbound there by the same snow which caused Mr. Butler and Colonel Sellers to abandon their car at Magdalena and come in by train. They came all the way from Socorro yesterday, arriving last night. The trip from Magdalena to Socorro was made Saturday afternoon.

LOOT HAULED AWAY IN A WAGON BY BURGLARS

Michael Brothers Lose Heavily When Store is Entered; Stolen Goods Packed in Trunks to Avoid Suspicion.

Burglars early yesterday morning entered the Michael Brothers' general merchandise store, 923-925 South Second street. The size of the haul indicates that they probably carried it away in a wagon.

The loot is varied. It includes watches, earrings, silk remnants, dress linings, men's underwear, stockings, socks, hats, bed spreads, four sets of eggs. Two trunks also are missed. The burglars probably packed the stuff in the trunks, loaded them into a wagon and drove off.

Only an inventory of the stock would show how much was taken. A case of eggs is gone and also from 100 to 200 pounds of flour. Not a large quantity of the other articles was taken, or far as the proprietors are able to determine. The assortment might indicate that the burglars took only what they needed for their families. They evidently showed some care as to the selection of sizes in underwear and hose. This furnishes a possible clue, but the police probably will not attempt to unravel it except as a last resort.

Some choice was manifested also in the picking of silk remnants and dress lining. The fact that remnants were taken makes the burglary more difficult to trace through the disposal of the goods. The dress lining is of several colors.

The boldness of the theft is puzzling. The burglars were in no apparent hurry. They leisurely took what sizes they wanted and carefully packed the stuff in trunks. Then they probably signalled for their wagon or went to the place they had left it and drove back themselves. They could not have left the wagon in the alley while they were in the store. Policemen passed through the alley before midnight and again about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The burglary probably was committed between these hours, although it was not discovered until morning.

between these hours, although it was not discovered until morning. The mode of entry was through the rear door. It was pried open with an iron bar. The lock was broken, but the door was closed carefully by the perpetrators to conceal their work until they had time to hide the goods. The crowbar used to open the door was found in the alley. It bore the stamp of the Santa Fe Railroad Company. No Santa Fe tool house was broken into, as far as railroad men knew yesterday.

A series of bold burglaries have been committed at the Michael Brothers' store within a year.

EDUCATORS WANTED BY CIVIL SERVICE FOR PHILIPPINES

The civil service is advertising a number of examinations for educators in the Philippine branch. On December 27 and 28 examinations will be held for assistant (male), teacher (male or female), and industrial teacher (male). The entrance salary for male appointees is $1,200 a year, with opportunity of promotion to the salary of $2,000 a year as teacher, though salaries of over $1,000 a year are uncommon. Eligibility for the assistant examination is necessary for appointment as division superintendent, at a salary of $1,800 to $2,000. Female teachers will receive entrance salaries ranging from $1,000 to $1,200.

The age limits in all cases are from 20 to 40 years. An examination for chiefs of field service in rural education, open to males only, will be held January 15th. This examination is not for the Philippine service. The age limit is less than 50 years. The salary is $4,000 a year.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT FOR NORMAL SCHOOL

Special Correspondence to Morning Journal.
LAS VEGAS, N. M., Dec. 15.—A new department has been created in the Normal university, the board of regents of the institution, the regents, authorizing Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts, president of the school, to engage a competent teacher to conduct classes in stenography, typewriting, and bookkeeping. Under Miss Martha B. Smith and Miss Susie Whitaker classes in these subjects have been conducted during the past three years. However, the school has no regular business department, the teacher in charge being also secretary to the president, and the school not being able to give a diploma to those students who complete the course.

Under the regents' ruling the department of business will be a recognized part of the school course. Its teacher will devote his entire attention to the instruction of students. It will be possible, too, for the student completing the course to receive a certificate or diploma. Miss Whitaker will continue her connection with the Normal as secretary to the president. An effort will be made to secure a head for the business department before the opening of the school in the Christmas holidays. The bookkeeping will continue to be held under the new system.

RESERVED SEATS ON SALE AT MATSON'S ON WEDNESDAY

Advance Reservations for Woman's Club Show to Precede Actual Event by Single Day Only.

Because of the crowded condition of the schedule of plays at the Elks theater this month, the Woman's club Saturday decided to open the advance sale of reserved seats for their play, "David Garrick," which is to be presented at that playhouse December 19th, only one day ahead of the actual event.

The play will be staged Thursday evening. The seat sale will open at Matson's Tuesday morning. Tickets for the play were yesterday sent to all members of the club that they might be sold among as wide a circle as possible and that everyone who wished might have ample opportunity of securing the pastebards which can be exchanged for reserved seat checks.

The rehearsals for the play are going ahead with regularity and are developing a really strong play, particularly in the light of the exclusively local talent which is to participate.

Daily rehearsals from now until the date of the play are the rule and will add that finishing touch which makes a play either good or indifferent, according as it is given or withheld. Photographs of the cast were taken yesterday both in groups and of single individuals. These pictures will be mounted on handsome card signs and displayed about the city today. A high mass is to be said with these to accelerate it, a string of prospective spectators will purchase pastebards at Matson's Wednesday.

MASONIC OFFICERS TO BE INSTALLED THIS EVENING

The officers of the commandery are as follows: P. L. Williamson, eminent commander; C. E. Lebeck, general; M. H. Sabin, captain general; Paul Teutsch, treasurer; Harry Braun, recorder; John W. Wilson, prelate; S. Busch, senior warden; A. B. McMillan, junior warden; Charles Potter, standard bearer; C. M. Blair, sword bearer; E. E. Lemke, warder.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

Miss Amelia C. Gilbert. At the family home, 709 West Roma avenue, occurred the death yesterday morning at 2 o'clock of Miss Amelia C. Gilbert. Death was due to an attack of bronchial pneumonia, following an illness of about ten days. Miss Gilbert came to Albuquerque from New York City about ten years ago. She is survived by four sisters, Mary Gilbert, Katherine Gilbert and Emma Gilbert and Mrs. L. K. Stevens. She was a member of the Lead Avenue Methodist church. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from the residence, Rev. C. O. Beckman officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Miss Gladys Lake.
Miss Gladys Lake died yesterday morning at her rooms in the Highlands, after a brief residence in this city. Her mother was with her at the time, but although her father was telegraphed as soon as her condition became serious, four days ago, it was unable to reach her bedside before the end came.

Miss Lake came here from Coopersville, Mich., only a short time ago. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lake, are well-to-do people of that city. Miss Lake was 19 years of age and had endeavored herself to all who came in contact with her during her short stay in this city. Pending the arrival of her father, the body is at French & Lowber's undertaking establishment. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Funeral of C. G. Scherer.
Funeral services for Charles G. Scherer, who died Saturday, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Strong Brothers' chapel. The body is to be sent this afternoon on train No. 2 to Topeka, Kan. Mrs. Scherer and one son will accompany the body.

Funeral of E. J. Morris.
The Knights of Columbus yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock held services over the body of Edward J. Morris at Fred Crockett's chapel. Mr. Morris died Saturday night. The Knights escorted the body to the Santa Fe station. The body was sent to Chicago for burial.

Funeral of M. L. Otero.
The funeral of Manuel Lucero y Otero, who died Saturday at his home, 219 East Mountain road, is to be held at 9 o'clock this morning from the Church of San Felipe de Neri. A high mass is to be said. Burial will be in the Santa Barbara cemetery.

ARRESTED ON WAY TO SEE HIS SICK WIFE IN KANSAS

Joe Tyson, a passenger on Santa Fe train No. 8, last night was arrested by Captain Pat O'Grady and Officer Ed. Donohue.

The arrest was made upon a telegram from C. M. Bledsoe, marshal at Window, Ariz. Bledsoe did not say why he wanted the man. He simply furnished a description and asked the Albuquerque police to hold Tyson. A telegram informing him of the arrest was sent to Bledsoe last night.

Tyson has been working for a construction company near Window. He was on his way to Kansas City, Kan., where his wife is ill.

COCHRANE RESIGNS FROM SAWTELLE HOME

Los Angeles, Dec. 15.—Col. E. J. Cochrane, governor of the Sawtelle soldiers' home, has forwarded his resignation to the board of managers of the National Soldiers' home, Colonel Cochrane's management of the home was the subject of a recent senatorial investigation. He said today he had intended resigning before the investigation because of ill health, but he had been in the inquiry, he pronounced his resignation until the completion of the investigation.

INTERNAL REVENUE SUFFERS FROM MOONSHINERS

Commissioner Cabbell Reports That Government Loses Big Sums from Operation of Illicit Distilleries.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Washington, Dec. 15.—"Moonshining" and "bootlegging" continue without sign of abatement, says Roy E. Cabbell, commissioner of internal revenue, in his annual report, made public today. During the fiscal year 1912, 2,495 illicit distilling plants were seized, about the same number as the previous year, and the commissioner admits that the government had lost all violations of the law. A great number of "moonshiners" still are operating, resulting in a large loss of revenue to the government.

The total number of corporations in the United States during 1911, as shown by returns under the corporation tax law, was 288,252, with capitalization of $69,067,128,225, bonded indebtedness of $32,163,557,961, and aggregate net income of $3,213,767,247. Capital stock increased over 1910 by more than $2,180,708,000 and bond and other indebtedness by $1,448,201,000, while the net income decreased by $42,542,000.

Incorporated financial institutions and insurance companies reported an aggregate net income of 15.84 per cent on capital; public service corporations, 4.37 per cent; industrial and manufacturing concerns, 4.80 per cent and mercantile corporations, 10.13 per cent.

The corporation tax, which yielded $28,883,225 on the 1911 returns, is expected by Mr. Cabbell, to become a constantly increasing source of revenue to the government. By its close watch on the records and books of corporations, the bureau of internal revenue, the commissioner says, is assisting in deterring and punishing the promoters of "get rich quick" and other fraudulent and stock-jobbers' concerns.

A considerable revenue is lost to the government, says the commissioner, because of an insufficient revenue field force. He estimates that internal revenue receipts during the current fiscal year will reach $325,000,000 and during the fiscal year 1914, probably $225,000,000, breaking all previous records.

SUBPOENA M'KEW TO TESTIFY IN BLISS CASE

Former Policeman to be Witness at Preliminary Examination of Woman Who Shot Husband Last Thursday.

A. J. McKew, Santa Fe station master here, yesterday was summoned as a witness for the defense at the preliminary examination of Mrs. Mabel Bliss, who killed her husband Thursday night in a Socorro brothel. The examination is to be held today at Socorro.

McKew left for Socorro last night. He probably will return tonight.

The testimony of the former Albuquerque officer will be valuable to the defense. While a member of the police force, McKew learned about the Bliss family troubles when he was detailed by Chief McMillin to investigate the apparent abandonment of two children by their parents. Mrs. Bliss told McKew that her husband forced her to leave.

Mrs. J. A. Wells, a sister of Mrs. Bliss, who is in Pueblo, Colo., stopped here Saturday night on her way to Socorro. She interviewed McKew at the station.

WOMEN SUGGEST REDUCING PRICE OF EGGS

Crusade Against High Cost of Living Only Begun Say Aggressive Housekeepers of Philadelphia.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)
Philadelphia, Dec. 15.—With expressions of satisfaction over the results of their campaign for cheaper eggs, officers of the housewives' league today spoke enthusiastically of plans to reduce the price of other food products and predicted that "with a short time Philadelphia will be the living cheaper and better than for years."

During the four days' crusade nearly 10,000,000 eggs have been sold at 24 cents a dozen, with a saving to the consumer of about $100,000. B. Derr, president of the league, of $82,650.

"And we are not yet through with the trusts," continued Mrs. Derr. "When we have broken the corner in eggs other items will be taken up." Mrs. Derr has hundreds of letters from farmers in all sections of the east offering to sell their products to the league for distribution to consumers far below their present cost. A conference between officers of the league and women from other cities probably will be held within the next week to map out a definite plan on the future of the campaign.

JAIL BOY FOR FEAR HE WILL ATTEMPT SUICIDE

Police Take Steps to Prevent Cyrus Earl Waugh Trying Second Time to Kill Himself; Drank Carbolic Acid.

Fearing he might make a second suicidal attempt, the police last night jailed Cyrus Earl ("Happy") Waugh, 24 years old.

Waugh, who is a fireman at the Savoy hotel, swallowed carbolic acid last Thursday morning, but timely medical attention saved his life. He told the police last night that he believed he was in everybody's way. He did not believe in suicide, he said, and he did not know why he took the poison. Last Wednesday Waugh carried two girls to the Santa Fe station and earned twenty-five cents which he spent for the acid.

His actions last night led employees of the Savoy hotel to suspect that he might make another attempt, so they informed the police.

Waugh attended the Roosevelt Military Institute. He told the police, his father lives there. It was he who delivered the Santa Fe limited here some time ago, the police say, by boarding the train three times in an attempt to "bump" his way.

Abraham Lincoln Advocate of Better Roads Many Years Ago

DELIVERED SPEECH TO HOUSE JUNE
20, 1848

Internal Improvements Favored by Great Emancipator
While He Was Representative in Congress from Illinois.

Copies of the great speech on internal improvements delivered by Abraham Lincoln in the house of representatives on June 20, 1848, are being circulated by the National Old Trails Association, thus bringing to the public mind the fact that Lincoln was not only an active member of the lower house, but was an ardent advocate of good roads.

Congress has appropriated since this speech was made:

To railroads (in public lands), $1,000,000,000; to rivers and harbors (since 1855), $292,395,000; to public buildings, $213,375,000; to Panama canal, $400,000,000; to Mississippi levees, $16,882,000; to roads in the Philippines, etc., $8,200,000.

Yet it has given not one dollar to public highways.

No express authority for any of these objects is granted by the constitution, except in the sentence which says, "The Congress shall have power to establish postoffices and postroads." And yet they have established everything except roads and roads everywhere except in the United States.

The speech is as follows:

"At an early day of this session the president sent us what may properly be called an internal improvement veto message. The late democratic convention, which sat at Baltimore, and which nominated General Cass for the presidency, adopted a set of resolutions, now called the democratic platform, among which is one in these words:

"That the constitution does not confer upon the general government the power to commence and carry on a general system of internal improvements."

"General Cass, in his letter accepting the nomination, holds this language:

"I have carefully read the resolutions of the democratic national convention, laying down the platform of our political faith, and I adhere to them as firmly as I approve them cordially."

"These things, taken together, show that the question of internal improvements is now more distinctly made—has become more intense—than at any former period. The veto message and the Baltimore resolution I understand to be, in substance, the same thing; the latter being the more general statement, of which the former is the amplification—the bill of particulars. While I know there are many democrats on this floor and elsewhere, who disapprove that message, I understand that all who shall vote for General Cass will thereafter be counted as having approved it as having endorsed all its doctrines. I suppose all, or nearly all, the democrats will vote for him. Many of them will do so not because they like his position on this question, but because they prefer him, being wrong on this, to another whom they consider farther wrong on other questions. In this way the internal improvement democrats are to be, by a sort of forced consent, carried over and arrayed against themselves on this measure of policy. General Cass, once elected, will not trouble himself to make a constitutional argument, or perhaps any argument at all, when he shall veto a river or harbor bill; he will consider it a sufficient answer to Mr. Polk's message, and to the democratic platform. This being the case, the question of improvements is verging to a final crisis; and the friends of this policy must now battle, and battle manfully, or surrender all. In this view, humble as I am, I wish to review, and contest as well as I may, the general positions of this veto message. When I say general positions, I mean to exclude from consideration so much as relates to the present embarrassed state of the treasury, in consequence of the Mexican war.

Possible Objections Cited.

"Those general positions are that internal improvements ought not to be made by the general government. First—because they would overwhelm the treasury. Second—because, while their benefits would be general, their burdens would be local and partial, involving an obnoxious inequality. Third—because they would be unconstitutional. Fourth—because the states may do enough by the levy and collection of tonnage duties; or if not, Fifth—that the constitution may be amended. 'Do nothing at all, lest you do something wrong,' is the sum of these positions—is the sum of this message. And this, with the exception of what is said about constitutionality, applying as forcibly to what is said about making improvements by state authority as by the national authority; so that we must abandon the improvements of the country altogether, or we must resist and repudiate the doctrines of this message. Let us attempt the latter.

"The first position is, that a system of internal improvements would overwhelm the treasury. That in such a system there is a tendency to undue expansion, is not to be denied. Such tendency is founded in the nature of the subject. A member of congress will prefer voting for a bill which contains an appropriation for his district, to voting for one which does not; and when a bill shall be expanded till every district shall be provided for, that it will be too greatly expanded is obvious. But is this any more true in congress than in a state legislature? If a member of congress must have an appropriation for his district, so a member of a legislature must have one for his county. And if one will overwhelm the national treasury, so the other will overwhelm the state treasury. Go where we will, the difficulty is the same. Allow it to drive us from the halls of congress, and it will just as easily drive us from the state legislatures. Let us, then, grapple with it, and test its strength. Let us, judging of the future by the past, ascertain whether there may not be, in the discretion of congress, a sufficient power to limit and restrain this expansive tendency within reasonable and proper bounds. The president himself, values the evidence of the past. He tells us that at a certain point of our history more than two hundred millions of dollars had been applied for to make improvements; and this he does to prove that the treasury would be overwhelmed by such a system. Why did he not tell us how much was granted? Would not that have been better? Let us turn to it, and see what it proves. In the message the president tells us that 'during the four succeeding years embraced by the administration of President Adams, the power not only to appropriate money, but to apply it, under the direction and authority of the general government, as well to the construction of roads as to the improvement of harbors and rivers, was fully asserted and exercised.'"

"This, then, was the period of greatest enormity. These, if any, must have been the days of the two hundred millions. And how much do you suppose was really expended for improvements during that four years? Two hundred millions? One hundred? Fifty? Ten? Five? No, sir; less than two millions. As shown by authentic documents the expenditures on improvements during 1825, 1826, 1827, and 1828, amounted to one million eight hundred and seventy-nine thousand six hundred and twenty-seven dollars one cent. These four years were the period of Mr. Adams' administration, nearly and substantially. This fact shows that when the power to make improvements was fully asserted and exercised, the congress did keep within reasonable limits; and what has been done, it seems to me, can be done again.

(Note. Adams was elected on a platform pledging aid to the Cumberland road, and had it surveyed to the capital of Missouri.)

Benefits of Good Roads Are General.

"Now, for the second portion of this message—namely, that the burdens of improvements would be local and partial, involving an obnoxious inequality. That there is some degree of truth in this position, I shall not deny. No commercial object of government patronage can be so exclusively general as to not be of some peculiar local advantage. The navy, as I understand it, was established and is maintained at a great annual expense, partly to be ready for war when war shall come, and partly also, and perhaps chiefly for the protection of our commerce on the high seas. This latter object is, for all I can see, in principle the same as internal improvements. The driving a pirate from the track of commerce on the broad ocean, and the removing a snag from its more narrow path in the Mississippi river, cannot, I think, be distinguished in principle. Each is done to save life and property, and for nothing else.

"The navy, then, is the most general in its benefits of all this class of objects; and yet even the navy is of some peculiar advantage to Charleston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, and Boston, beyond what it is to the interior towns of Illinois. The next most general object I can think of would be improvements on the Mississippi river and its tributaries. This touches thirteen of our states—Pennsylvania, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin and Iowa. Now I think it will not be denied that these thirteen states are a little more interested in improvements on that great river than are the remaining seventeen. These instances of the navy and the Mississippi river show clearly that there is something of local advantage in the most general objects. But the converse is also true. Nothing is so local as to not be of some general benefit. Take, for instance, the Illinois and Michigan canal. Considered apart from its effects, it is perfectly local. Every inch of it is within the state of Illinois. That canal was first opened for business last April. In a very few days we were all gratified to learn, among other things, that sugar had been carried from New Orleans through this canal to Buffalo in New York. This sugar took this route, doubtless, because it was cheaper than the old route. Supposing benefit of the reduction in the cost of carriage to be shared between seller and buyer, the result is that the New Orleans merchant sold his sugar at a little less than the price he would have received had he shipped it to Buffalo by the old route, and the people of Buffalo sweetened their coffee a little cheaper than before—a benefit resulting from the canal, not to Illinois, where the canal is, but to Louisiana and New York, where it is not. In other transactions Illinois will, of course, have her share, and perhaps the larger share, too, of the benefits of the canal; but this instance of the sugar clearly shows that the benefits of an improvement are by no means confined to the particular locality of the improvement itself.

Local Improvement Logical.

"The just conclusion from all this is that if the nation refuse to make improvements of the more general kind because their benefits may be somewhat local, a state may for the same reason refuse to make an improvement of a local kind because its benefits may be somewhat general. A state may well say to the nation, 'if you will do nothing for me, I will do nothing for you.' This is I think that if this argument of 'inequality' is sufficient anywhere, it is sufficient everywhere, and puts an end to improvements altogether. I hope and believe that if both the nation and the states would, in good faith, in their respective spheres, do what they could in the way of improvements, what of inequality might be produced in one place might be compensated in another might not be very unequal.

"But suppose after all, there should be some degree of inequality. Inequality is certainly never to be embraced for its own sake; but is every good thing to be discarded which may be inseparably connected with some degree of it? If so, we must discard all government. This capital is built at the public expense, for the public benefit; but does anyone doubt that it is of some peculiar local advantage to the property-holders and business people of Washington? Shall we remove it for this reason? And if so, where shall we set it down, and be free from the difficulty? To make sure of our object, shall we locate it nowhere, and have congress hereafter to hold its sessions as the lauffer lodged, 'in spots about it.' I make no allusion to the present location of congress in this world of 'burden to the many and benefit to the few,' of 'inequality,' than the presidency itself is by some thought to be. Although laborer dig coal at about seventy cents a day, while the president digs abstractions at about seventy dollars a day. The coal is clearly worth more than the abstractions, and yet what a monstrous inequality in the price! Does the president, for this reason, propose to abolish the presidency? He does not, and he ought not. The true rule in determining to embrace or reject anything, is not whether it have any evil in it, but whether it have more of evil than of good. There are few things wholly evil or wholly good. Almost everything, especially of government policy, is an inseparable compound of the two; so that our best judgment of the preponderance between them is continually demanded. On this principle the president, his friends, and the world generally act on most subjects. Why not apply it, then, upon this question. Why, as to improvements, magnify the evil, and stoutly refuse to see any good in them?

"Mr. Chairman, on the third position of the message—the constitutional question—I have not much to say. Being the man I am, and speaking where I do, I feel that in any attempt at an original constitutional argument, I should not be, and ought not to be, listened to patiently. The ablest and the best of men have gone over the whole ground long ago. In 1826 Chancellor Kent first published his 'Commentaries on American Law.' He devoted a portion of one of the lectures to the question of the authority of congress to appropriate public moneys for internal improvements. He mentions that the subject had never been brought under judicial consideration, and proceeds to give a brief summary of the discussion it had undergone between the legislative and executive branches of the government. He shows that the legislative branch had usually been for, and the executive against, the power, till the period of J. Q. Adams' administration, at which point he considers the executive influence as withdrawn from opposition, and added to the support of the constitutional question. In 1844 the chancellor published a new edition of his 'Commentaries,' in which he adds some notes of what had transpired on the question since 1826. I have not time to read the original text on the notes; but the whole may be found on page 267, and the two or three following pages, of the first volume of the edition of 1844. As to what Chancellor Kent seems to consider the sum of the whole, I read from one of the notes:

Congress Has Full Power.

"Mr. Justice Story, in his commentaries on the constitution of the United States, Vol. II, pp. 425-446, and again pp. 519-528, has stated at large the arguments for and against the proposition that congress have a constitutional authority to lay taxes, and to apply the power to regulate commerce as a means directly to encourage and protect domestic manufactures; and without giving any opinion of his own on the contested doctrine, he has left the reader to draw his own conclusions. I should think, however, from the arguments stated, that every mind which has taken part in the discussion, and felt no prejudice or territorial bias on either side of the question, would deem the arguments in favor of the congressional power vastly superior."

(Note.—Judge Cooley affirms the power. So has the supreme court of the United States.)

"It will be seen that in this extract the power to make improvements is not directly mentioned, but by examining the context, both of Kent and Story, it will be seen that the power mentioned in the extract, and the power to make improvements, are regarded as identical. It is not to be denied that quite as many, as great and as good, have been for it; and it is shown that, on a full survey of the whole, Chancellor Kent was of the opinion that the arguments of the latter were vastly superior. This is but the opinion of a man; but who was that man? He was one of the ablest and most learned lawyers of his age. It is no disparagement to Mr. Polk, nor indeed to anyone who devotes much time to politics, to be placed far behind Chancellor Kent as a lawyer. His attitude was most favorable to correct conclusions. He wrote coolly, and in retirement. He was struggling to rear a durable monument of fame; and he well knew that truth and thoroughly sound reasoning were the only sure foundations.

"Can the party opinion of a party president on a law question as this purely is, be at all compared or set in opposition to that of such a man, in such an attitude, and Chancellor Kent? This constitutional question will probably never be better settled than it is, until it shall pass under judicial consideration; but I do think no man who is clear on the questions of expediency need feel his conscience much pricked upon this."

SUFFRAGETTES TO BEGIN MARCH ON ALBANY

Militant New York Women Plan Demonstration at Inauguration of Governor-Elect Sulzer to Aid Cause.

(By Morning Journal Special, Leased Wire.)

New York, Dec. 15.—"Votes for women, votes for women, votes for women! Albany, Albany, Sulzer!" This is the slogan adopted today by the suffragettes who tomorrow will begin a two weeks' walk to the state capital to deliver to Governor Sulzer on his inauguration day a message for the cause of woman suffrage.

About twenty-five women answered the call of the suffragette leaders to rally to the headquarters of the New York State Women Suffrage Association this afternoon and gave final answer as to whether they would undertake the 140-mile pilgrimage. Extractions will be used for carrying suffrage literature to be distributed on the way, for in every town enroute a vigorous demonstration in favor of votes for women is planned.

Miss Rosalie Gardner Jones, a wealthy Long Island woman, will act as commander in chief of the expedition and with six other women will march the entire distance. The message, which is a long and stirring appeal, will be signed by suffrage leaders in the various towns visited.

The journey will be divided into easy stages, averaging ten miles a day.

ANAESTHETIC GIVEN BY NEW METHOD

Denver, Dec. 15.—A comparatively new method of administering nitrous acid, or laughing gas, as an anesthetic is believed by surgeons to have saved the life of a patient at Governor-elect E. P. Montgomery, now recovering from an operation at a local hospital. Mr. Montgomery is more than 60 years old, and physicians say an anesthetic is not to be fatal to men of his years. Two tanks, one containing oxygen and the other nitrous acid gas, were used before the incision was made.

Mr. Montgomery's chances of recovery are hourly growing brighter.

RIVAL COUNTY SEAT FACTIONS FIGHT BATTLE

Oklahoma, City, Dec. 15.—According to a dispatch received here tonight, hostilities between Sheriff "Bud" Thomson and his force of thirty men and residents of the town of Old Jay, who have taken possession of the court house at that place in an effort to prevent the removal of county records to the rival town of New Jay, began last night. Thomson and his men, according to the courier who brought the information to the town of drive, marched into Old Jay last night and opened fire on the court house, but were forced to retire under fire of the besieged partisans. So far as can be learned the first brush was bloodless. The sheriff, it is said, has established a position a quarter of a mile from the town.

FREIGHT HANDLERS WANT THEIR JOBS

New Orleans, Dec. 15.—Action taken here today by officials of the International Freight Handlers' union indicates that an early break is possible in the federation of Harrison line employees, several thousand of whom went on a strike more than a year ago on the Illinois Central and Southern Pacific. The freight handlers were the first to go out in sympathy with striking clerks of the Illinois Central, and today they discussed plans for treating with the railroad for reinstatement.

International President Fannery told the freight handlers he would try to secure the reinstatement of the members of his union, about 750 men.

OFFICER GUAYARA CATCHES BURGLAR RED HANDED

Pablo Juarez is Arrested Just as He Steps from Otto Berger's Store with Sack of Flour.

Merchants' Policeman Antonio Guayara captured a burglar red-handed last night shortly before midnight under somewhat unusual circumstances. Guayara had just completed a round of his beat and was attracted by the suspicious actions of a man in the alley between First and Second streets, near Copper and Main. He hid behind some poles across Copper avenue and used his eyes and ears.

Presently he was rewarded with the sound of tinkling glass and ran across the street, only to hide again, this time close to the back door of the Otto Berger feed store. Within a few minutes a man emerged, carrying a sack of flour. Guayara promptly annexed man and sack and took them both to the police station.

Upon being called up Mr. Berger came down and investigated. He found that there were not only one, but three or four sacks missing. Mr. Berger and the policeman, assisted by Captain P. O'Grady, then questioned the prisoner, who gave his name as Pablo Juarez and his age as nineteen. Pablo was badly scared but stuck to the story that he had bought the flour from a dishwasher at a saloon. He was unable to say of that he, another man and Estevan Guayara had had a lunch together in a North First street place about 8:30. Pablo claimed that he had left the place about that time, bought the flour from some one, Germino was the only name he could give him, and then been arrested. He declared that Guayara, who is a pressman at the Evening Herald, had paid him $1.50 for helping him Saturday and that this money had been spent for the flour. Further investigation brought out the fact that Guayara had not paid him this money, and that there was another man with Juarez at the time of the theft or shortly before. The police are looking for this man, but up to 3 o'clock this morning had not found him.

Juarez claimed that he had come to this city from Old Mexico when he was three months old, and that he had attended the Second ward school and the Indian school, but in spite of all this had never learned English. He said his father was dead and that he lived with his mother on the road near the American Lumber Company's switch.

Search for the rest of the flour, which is believed to be hidden some where near the store, was unavailing. The police believe that Juarez' capture will be of value in running down the burglar who entered the Michael store Saturday night.

COMMISSIONER CLARK FACES RETIREMENT

Washington, Dec. 15.—Failure of the senate to confirm before the holiday adjournment of congress December 19, Edward E. Clark, as interstate commerce commissioner to succeed himself, will create an embarrassing situation in the opinion of members of the commission. Commissioner Clark's term will expire January 1 by limitation of law, commissioners holding office for a term of seven years and not until their successors qualify. Mr. Clark was re-nominated and his nomination is pending in the senate, held up in accordance with the policy adopted at a caucus of democratic senators to await a report of the democratic committee on appointments. This may not be submitted for several weeks.

The commissioners point out that Commissioner Clark will have retired from office before congress reconvenes January 4, leaving the commission with only six members, with several important investigations pending with which Mr. Clark has had much to do. He is the commissioner directly in charge of railroad tariffs.

TURKS THREATEN TO ATTACK EMBASSY

London, Dec. 16.—A Constanza dispatch to the Post reports an incident which occurred outside the American embassy at Constantinople Thursday night. Near midnight 4,000 Turkish troops were being marched to the barracks. One of them noticed a Montenegrin porter employed at the embassy wearing the national dress in his lodge. Shouting that the Christians were harboring the enemy, 400 men gathered around the embassy and tried to climb the railings to attack the Montenegrin. The situation looked serious. Fortunately, the troops were not armed, and after imprecations and threats, the Montenegrin in the meantime disappearing into the embassy, the soldiers drew off.

HIGHWAYMEN ATTACK VICTIMS WHO RESIST

Lima, O., Dec. 15.—One man is believed to be dying and seven others are in a critical condition as a result of being beaten up by highwaymen in South Lima, early today. Frank Holly, of Graham, Va., the most seriously injured is said to be fatally hurt. Fifty men members of a construction crew were lined up in their camp by five negro desperadoes. With drawn revolvers, the negroes forced the laborers to give what money they had in their pockets, a total of more than $400. Holly and seven others who resisted, were beaten by the highwaymen, some who escaped from the camp on horseback.

GROUCH AGAINST KNOX.

The Central Americans have a decided grouch, with Secretary of State Philander C. Knox as the chief object of their displeasure. While Juan Lesca, writing from New Orleans, claims that the main grievance is due to the alleged fact that the state department has interfered regarding certain loans contemplated by the Central American governments, it is more than suspected that the real reason for dissatisfaction lies in the fact that this government has placed a curb on the heretofore almost constant revolutions fomented by unscrupulous politicians.

In a circular addressed to the United States senate, Mr. Lesca says: "In this memorial we have striven to present in detail a true picture of the interference of the state department in Central American affairs and the result of the Knox policy. Summarized briefly, we attempt to show: 1. Under the pretext of giving aid to the small Central American republics, the state department has used what it is pleased to term 'Dollar Diplomacy' to force upon these peoples loan contracts which would give to a coterie of Wall street bankers not only millions of dollars tainted with illegitimacy, opportunity for immense graft, but an absolute license to exploit the vast resources of the countries and even administer their governmental affairs.

2. The terms of the loan contracts which Secretary Knox has so assiduously sought to fasten upon Nicaragua and Honduras are vicious, and when truthfully revealed to the American public, will produce expressions of abhorrence and indignation. 3. The Knox policy of dealing with Central America has instilled a pronounced anti-American feeling, where before naught but feelings of friendship toward the people of this great republic existed; turmoil and strife, revolution and poverty have been the baneful results.

4. In one instance Mr. Knox has given active support to a revolution in Nicaragua, in another instance he has opposed a revolution and sacrificed the lives of American soldiers that he might keep in power a usurper and traitor, the poor tool of the secretary in his scheme to deliver the country over to New York bankers. 5. Mr. Knox adjudged Zelaya a dictator in Nicaragua and drove him from power, setting up a government which has brought poverty in the stead of prosperity; discordance in the stead of harmony; despotism in the stead of liberty; on the other hand, Mr. Knox has insistently supported the worst tyrant and dictator that Latin America ever knew in President Estrada Cabrera, of Guatemala.

6. With the full knowledge of the state department filibustering expeditions have been permitted to leave Gulf ports for Central America, and in one instance the knowledge of the departure of such an expedition was used as a bludgeon in a desperate effort to force the president of Honduras to approve a Morazan loan contract, which it was well known, was distasteful alike to the president, the congress and the people of Honduras.

7. Designing American financiers desired American intervention in the recent Nicaraguan insurrection, on the other hand, they were wont to have the United States government adhere to a policy of non-intervention in Mexico. In Nicaragua, except for the killing of two American members of the Nicaraguan army, in actual battle, American life was never endangered, nor was American property destroyed; in Mexico a number of Americans have been wantonly killed, scores of others have been wounded, some have been held for ransom, and millions of dollars of American property have been destroyed. In Nicaragua Mr. Knox intervened; in Mexico he has adhered to the policy of non-intervention. These are facts; the inference is of something un-American.

8. Facts concerning acts of the state department in its relations with Central America frequently have been concealed from the American public, or else distorted or exaggerated. Sometimes semi-official statements given the press in Washington for American consumption have been totally at variance with the true facts and not infrequently there has been apparent a desire to prejudice public opinion in favor of the attitude of Mr. Knox and his co-workers through such distortion. Mr. Lesca refers several times, in closing his protest, to Senator A. B. Fall of New Mexico. For some reason Senator Fall has succeeded in banishing himself up in the affairs of the department of state with the Latin-American peoples, though the New Mexico senator is on no general committee guaranteeing such activities.

A JURY OF WOMEN.

The first jury of women to sit at Emporia, Kan., made the request that the spittoon be removed from the jury box. When they entered the jury room for deliberation after hearing the evidence and arguments in a case, their first act was to offer prayer for guidance in their deliberations.

"Then," says a pagan reporter, "all fifteen of the twelve women began looking at once." "We were terribly in earnest," one of the jurymen confessed. "We had inspected the judge's instructions, and for three days we had not spoken a word about the case, so naturally there was a good deal to be said. We paid a great deal of attention to the court's instructions regarding the evidence. Some of the women read these voluminous instructions two or three times."

The jury was organized by electing as its forewoman its oldest member, a gray-haired, kindly appearing lady. The case went to the jury at eight o'clock and within three hours the jury had reached a verdict awarding damages to the plaintiff. A year ago the same case was tried before a jury of men, who failed to agree.

The court reporter is authority for the statement that the women followed the evidence with more interest and gave closer attention than is usual with men. When a point was not clear, the witness was questioned closely by the jurors.

The case has aroused great interest in Kansas, and it is generally agreed that justice was done. The experience seems to have had a reflex action on the women themselves. Mrs. Foulke, one of the jurors, says: "There is a valuable lesson in jury service. It should be a cure for formulating hasty opinions and 'snap judgments.' I believe any woman who has felt the tremendous responsibility of the jury box will afterwards in other matters be inclined to withhold judgment until all the evidence is in. And isn't that important?"

There would seem to be no reason why a woman's intuition should not find scope in the jury box. It has been said that women are more influenced by their prejudices than men. But it has been shown that twelve men can often collect a wonderful amount of prejudice when gathered in a jury box, also it is doubtful if their consciences are quite so sensitive as those of the women. The charge of prejudice by women can be fairly put down as "not proven." The jury of women in one of the most interesting experiments of the decade.

Cole Blaine, governor of South Carolina, starts on his second administration in January. Two years from then he means to go to the United States senate. From there he would send his way to the White House were it not for the fact that forty-seven other states have a voice in the selection of the occupant of the presidential chair, and each of those states would register an almost unanimous protest against Mr. Blaine.

"The literary output" in swelled considerably just now by the reports made by the department heads at Washington. This mass of reading is "meaty," if not "vital" and "compelling." Also it hardly "strips" one of from the first to the last line of a "really thrilling story."

The women of Philadelphia have shown that the price of eggs can be reduced by the simple process of eliminating the middleman's profit. When the parcels post gets in its work, the ultimate consumer can get in his work by ordering his eggs and butter direct from the producer.

The Louisville Times wants Bryan sent to the court of St. James. It is likely that Champ Clark believes the court of Dehomery would be better for the merits of Mr. Bryan, and it is likely that Mr. Bryan himself prefers the court of Washington.

McLEATHENS BACK PROPOSE 1-CENT LETTER POSTAGE FROM TRIP TO EUROPE GAINING FAVOR

Prominent Business Man and Wife of Carlisbad Visited Various Countries on Continent During Stay Abroad.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Carlisbad, N. M., Dec. 15.—C. H. McLeathens and wife are back from nearly a year's vacation spent abroad. Mr. McLeathens has been a busy man for a score of years and has taken an active part in everything that stood for the development of Carlisbad and the Pecos valley. Last January he had business cares and to take a real rest, leaving younger men to carry the burden of the various lines of business from the National bank of Carlisbad to the big orchard and the Esperanza farm. The McLeathens first saw the spending much of the summer in Switzerland. On their way home they visited a few weeks in New York and Brooklyn.

Frederick G. Hodell is back to Carlisbad after an absence of fourteen years. He came to the valley in 1895 and lived for a time at Seven Rivers and Roswell. Later he took up a claim near Black River and farmed this successfully for a number of years. He was one of the leaders in getting the sugar beet factory located here and grew beets successfully. For diversion, Mr. Hodell did our door photograph work and became very efficient, the old Irrigation Company employing him to take views for publicity purposes. Fourteen years ago Mr. Hodell went back to England for a visit. His skill in out door photography attracted attention and the London Graphic made him a flatterer. He returned to the valley in 1911 and has since then been a resident here. He has been a resident here since. But visitors of the Pecos valley sunshine broke through the London fog and Mr. Hodell is back to live in the sunny valley.

Dr. Maurice Friedman and family returned yesterday from Europe. They left here in June and went to Vienna where the doctor spent three months in studying the latest in eye and ear treatment. Afterwards he spent some time in Italy, then a trip to London, where he was a guest of his health. The climate has benefited him much. Doctor Friedman is one of the best informed medical men in the state, but has not attempted to do any extensive practice here. He has given special attention to the eye and the ear.

Sheep Shipped to Kansas City. Jaffa-Prager Company, of Roswell, loaded out a lot of lambs and muttons from the Carlisbad stock ranch. The stuff was purchased from E. H. Etcheberry, who recently moved his herd to the hills west of town from the plains. The stuff is in extra fine shape and the ranch is doing well. The Merchants Livestock Company will ship seven loads of fat cow tomorrow to Kansas City. It is unusual to ship much at this time, but range conditions are very good, and fat stuff is plentiful in consequence.

GAS WELL BROUGHT IN NEAR MAXWELL TO SUPPLY FARM

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Maxwell, N. M., Dec. 15.—The flow of gas in the experimental well which was sunk on the Maxwell farm to a depth of 1,700 feet has developed into a good, strong flow. The water which has been flowing from the well for the past two weeks is without value for irrigation purposes, on account of the mineral it contains. Moreover, water from wells is not a factor with the land company, for it already has several thousand more acre feet of water than it needs.

Believing the gas can profitably be used, the well was plugged at a depth of 1,100 feet, which is below the point where the gas was struck, and as soon as the water flow is stopped the well will be capped and the gas will be piped to the farm buildings, where it will be used for heat and light.

There is a great deal more gas flowing than the farm can use, and other houses in the vicinity may also be connected. If the flow continues to grow in volume, a company may be formed to tap the gas, and in any event, as much of the gas as can be used will be saved, and within a short time the work of building coal and oil to the farm for heat and light will be discontinued. Gas heaters, gas ranges and gas lights will be used.

COPPER DEPOSIT DISCOVERED IN MANZANO RANGE

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Estancia, N. M., Dec. 15.—W. W. Buchanan, N. M. Dec. 15.—W. W. Buchanan and others working together have discovered a mineral deposit in the Manzano mountains which from present indications is likely to prove a big thing. They have sent away specimens from the surface workings and had them assayed, and the assayer's report gives the following values for the deposit: 42 cents silver, $192 copper, $11.25. The mineral apparently runs very even in the rock. There are three veins outcropping said to be true free veins, and these can be traced on the surface for a distance of three-fourths of a mile. The veins are about four feet in width, run from southeast to northwest and dip to the southwest. The outcrop is easily worked, and Mr. Buchanan feels sure that a discovery that is worth while has been made. It is also known that there is good coal in the Manzano mountains.

COMMISSIONERS OF VALUABLE MINING CLAIMS LEASED BY OWNERS

Steeprock Development Company Gives Option for Two Years on Eight Claims Near Lordsburg.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Lordsburg, N. M., Dec. 15.—The newly organized Steeprock Development Company has given to A. Easton an option and lease for two years on the Jim Crow Imperial group of eight claims at Steeprock. The option runs for two years. He is to work the claims, paying a royalty to the company, which is to be deducted from the final purchase price. Mr. Easton probably will erect a cyanide mill to work the ore, and expects to sink a new shaft on the Jim Crow.

The deal was made through Sanford Robinson, of Los Angeles, who still retains his old connection with the company. W. H. Newcomb, of Silver City, is interested in the lease with Mr. Easton. The Jim Crow is a good property, and before it was shut down in 1897 much high grade ore was shipped from it. It is opened to a depth of 200 feet. There are eight claims in the group, which lies about three miles south of Steeprock on the road to Lordsburg. The last one shipped from it in 1897, by Mr. Robinson, to El Paso, and netted $170 per ton, with little or no sorting before shipment. There is a large body of this ore on the second level. The last oreman of the mine, the late Malcolm McGregor, of Silver City, made many attempts to lease it after the company closed down. Mr. Robinson has other groups belonging to the Steeprock company for sale or lease, the company having adopted a new policy. Heretofore it would only sell the property as a whole, and was never able to do so, but has concluded to dispose of it piecemeal. This policy will probably lead to the reopening of the Steeprock property, and the establishment of business and prosperity in the western section of Grant county.

MEXICAN LABORERS THREATEN TO STRIKE

Nogales, Ariz., Dec. 15.—Arms furnished by the United States government for the protection of Americans at Cananea, are in the hands of some 1,000 Mexicans who threaten a strike based on an anti-American movement. The main complaint is against the employment of American foremen by the Cananea Consolidated Copper Company. There are about 1,200 Americans in the camp and vicinity. A display of 300 federal troops prevented a demonstration scheduled for today. A large shipment of rifles was sent by order from Washington to Cananea some time ago, when the town was threatened by rebels and Mexican employees of the company were armed to resist the threatened attack. These same men now threaten to strike against their American foremen for higher wages and shorter hours. Fred Simplich, American consul at Nogales, Ariz., is in Cananea investigating the condition.

Learn to Regulate the Heat of Your Oven
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hall, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine
There is just one way to make your cakes rise high and keep an even surface. Have your oven moderate at first, until the cake is fully risen; then increase the heat, so as to brown it over quickly. Extreme heat stiffens the dough. If you stiffen the outside of the cake before the rising is complete, you stop the rising process. Then the leavening gas, forming inside, will bulge up the center, where the dough is still soft, and spoil the shape of the cake.

NOTE—Biscuits or other pastries made from stiff dough, that are cut into shapes for the oven, bake in a hot oven. This is because the cut surfaces of the dough do not seal over, but rather leave the pores open, allowing the leavening gas to escape and the heat to penetrate readily. Small ovens cool quickly; therefore they should be made several degrees hotter than a larger oven, and the less the door is opened the better. Do not attempt to bake bread and pastry together. Bread requires prolonged, moderate baking—pastry the reverse.

Have a strong underheat for baking powder preparations, especially pastry. These are only a few of the many baking helps found in the K C Cook's Book—a copy of which may be secured by sending the colored certificate taken from a 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the Jagers Mfg. Co., Chicago.

The old Carlisle mine was in its days a famous producer, and sent many dollars to its English owners. What was low grade and base ore in the days it was producing, is now a high grade ore, owing to the later discovery in metallurgy. Jose Padilla, who has for some time been in charge of the property will remain in that position. It has not been announced when work will commence in the camp, but it will not be before early in the year.

If You Value Your Eyesight You will equip your reading table with a Rayo Lamp

Authorities agree that a good kerosene oil lamp is the best for reading. The Rayo is the best oil lamp made, the result of years of scientific study. It gives a steady white light, clear, mellow. Made of solid brass, nickel plated. Can be lighted without removing chimney or shade. Easy to clean and rewick.

GOVERNOR OSBORNE
BEING BOOSTED
FOR CABINET

Movement to Have Western Man Selected for Secretary of Interior Starts Boom for Wyoming Executive.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 15.—Wyoming and the other western states are watching with a great deal of interest the dispatches appearing from time to time relative to the probable make-up of President Wilson's cabinet. Their interest is mainly centered in the possibility of a western man being selected to occupy the chair of secretary of the interior.

Inasmuch as the secretary of the interior is largely occupied with the administration of the public lands and the other national resources, practically all of which are located in the states west of the Mississippi, westerners argue that a man familiar with the development of that section of the country should be selected to fill the place. Only once since 1882 has a president chosen west of the Mississippi for his secretary of the interior.

A number of aspirants have sprung up for the place prominent among whom are Judge W. R. King, of Oregon; Senator Newlands, of Nevada; Governor Burke, of North Dakota; Theodore Bell, of California, and ex-Governor Alva Adams, of Colorado.

Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and a number of other states are getting behind a movement to place the port folio in the hands of ex-Governor John E. Osborne, of Wyoming. They feel that in making such a choice President Wilson would be adding to his cabinet a man who would be a power in administering the office according to the policy as laid down in the national platform.

That there is much ground for the presentation of Mr. Osborne's name by the state of Wyoming is recognized by every one. He has been one of the most tireless democratic workers in the nation, and numbers his friends only by the realm of his acquaintanceship. He was governor of Wyoming at twenty-nine and congressman at thirty-three. He is serving his fourth term as national committeeman from Wyoming and will probably continue in that place at will.

The realm of Governor Osborne's business operations covers banking, stock raising, sugar manufacturing, mining and land, giving him a wide knowledge of all western and central western conditions. It is said by those who know him that there is not a man in the west more thoroughly fitted to undertake the administration of the interior department than Wyoming's candidate.

Furthermore the appointment of Governor Osborne would be a recognition of the south at the same time it would be giving Wyoming a place, as Mrs. Osborne's people are influential democrats of Kentucky.

Wyoming is going about presenting Governor Osborne's name to President Wilson in a quiet, dignified manner, without a fanfare of red fire and trumpets, but Wyoming people have a way of getting what persons whom they go out after and they confidently expect to gather in this harvest.

Last Will and Testament of Juan C. Armijo, deceased.

To Mrs. N. T. Armijo, executrix, and to all whom it may concern:—
You are hereby notified that the alleged last will and testament of Juan C. Armijo, deceased, late of the County of Bernalillo and State of New Mexico, has been produced and read in the Probate Court of the County of Bernalillo, State of New Mexico, on the 23rd day of November, 1912, and the day of the proving of said alleged last will and testament was thereupon fixed for Monday, the 6th day of January, A. D. 1913, term of said court, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day.

Given under my hand and the seal of this court, this 23rd day of November, A. D. 1912.
(Seal) A. E. WALKER, Probate Clerk

Unprofitable Reformation.
In a restaurant that strives to inculcate good manners, a man who admitted that he was rather slow on his feet, but was trying to learn, he sought the waiter to assist in the reformation.

"My chief trouble," said he, "is splashing. I used to splash like anything. But by degrees I am curing myself. Know how? Well, sir, I have made it a rule to cover all the spots on the tablecloth with silver money—nickels, dimes, quarters, halves—whatever it takes to cover them, and then give the money away. As I am not a rich man, that nearly broke me and I began to reform."

The waiter nodded encouragingly and said he was glad to hear it. The man ate a substantial meal. When he had finished, the cloth was laid out with only one small coffee stain which a dime easily covered. He handed the dime to the waiter.

"My fines," he said, "constitute my tip."

Magnificently the waiter watched him depart.

"How I wish," he sighed, "that I had known him in his sloppy days."

Criticisms.
A certain critic, removed for his litter tongue, found that on occasion even an artist will turn. The occasion was a reception at which the artist was exhibiting his latest work. "I should like to have your opinion of my picture," he said to the critic. "It's absolutely worthless," the other replied shortly.

"Oh, I know that," pursued the artist, "but it would really interest me very much indeed."—Pathfinder.

TRAIN OF RECRUITS TO STRENGTHEN BORDER PATROL

Rookies to Fill Vacancies in Commands Caused by Discharge of Soldiers Who Have Served Terms of Enlistment.

A special troop train, enroute to Deming passed through Albuquerque yesterday afternoon. The train arrived at 3:30 o'clock and stopped here only twenty minutes.

Six cars made up the train. They carried 175 recruits, unassigned. The "rookies" are to be assigned to companies and troops now on duty, patrolling the Mexican border, to fill the vacancies due to the discharge of soldiers at the expiration of their terms of enlistment.

The soldiers were delivered to the Santa Fe railroad at Kansas City. The greater part of the recruits were enlisted at Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo., for service on the Mexican frontier.

The recruits probably will go to Fort Huachuca in the morning, and from there they will join their commands.
