HEARST FURNISHES COMMITTEE WITH STANDARD OIL LETTERS

New York Editor Says Archbold Correspondence Was Secured from John Eddy, a Magazine Writer.

FORAKER TAKES STAND AS WITNESS TODAY

Attention Centers on Money Advanced Politicians by Magistrate and Penrose's Relation to Industrial Commission.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Washington, Dec. 17.—Photographic copies of all the John D. Archbold letters, made public through his speeches and publications, today were given by William R. Hearst to the senate committee investigating campaign contributions. In the list were six telegrams and letters which Mr. Hearst said were entirely new to the public or had received publicity only through his campaign speeches in 1908. One of these was a purported telegram from Mr. Penrose to Mr. Archbold proposing to make an appointment with Senator Aldrich for some unnamed person. Two others were letters from Mr. Archbold to Joseph B. Foraker, then senator from Ohio, one stating that a loan of $50,000 previously discussed could be made on a 5 per cent basis. Another stating that a certificate for the $50,000 was enclosed therewith.

Mr. Hearst told the committee he had been informed this loan had been returned to the Standard Oil company. Former Senator Foraker, who was also concerned in the Archbold-Standard Oil correspondence previously published by Mr. Hearst, asked today for an opportunity to appear before the committee and a meeting was called for tomorrow morning when Mr. Foraker will testify as to his relations with Standard Oil officials.

Mr. Hearst testified that he knew nothing as to the incidents related in the letters or the circumstances under which Mr. Archbold might have sent money to former Senator Foraker of Ohio and former Representative Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania, to whom some of the letters were addressed.

The publisher was the chief witness at the committee's short session today. Two of the letters he produced had been made public in 1908, he said, in a speech at Columbus, Ohio. They were from John D. Archbold and referred to a projected loan of $50,000 to Senator Foraker, to be repaid by installments.

Hearst appeared as the first witness at the opening of the campaign investigation, which had come to a halt before election. The New York publisher told the committee at the outset that he had some others that had not been made public. He first produced the photographic copies of the letters already published and identified them for the convenience of the committee.

Chairman Clapp asked Mr. Hearst if he ever saw the original of the letters published in his magazine. He said he was not certain but he believed he had only seen the photographic facsimile copies.

"Of whom did you get them?" asked Senator Clapp.

Hearst hesitated a moment.

"I am anxious," he began, "to testify fully to everything that I am personally concerned in and everything of interest to this inquiry. Do you feel that this is essential to the inquiry?"

Senator Clapp replied that the authenticity of some of the letters had been questioned. After members of the committee had insisted upon the information Mr. Hearst responded that he got the copies of John Eddy of London, author of four of the articles published in a magazine. He testified he did not know of whom Eddy procured the letters.

Mr. Hearst then produced the several letters and telegrams. The first was from Senator Penrose to John D. Archbold, dated Dec. 4, 1903, at Philadelphia, and read in part as follows:

"I have wired Senator Aldrich to make an appointment with him to discuss the matter referred to in your letter."

It added that Penrose himself could meet Archbold in New York at any time. A letter from John D. Archbold to J. B. Foraker, then senator from Ohio, expressed the willingness of Archbold to make a loan of $50,000. Hearst said he knew nothing of the facts to which any of the letters referred.

Another letter was from John D. Archbold, to former Representative Joseph C. Sibley, in which he referred to an enclosed certificate of deposit of $50,000 "sent you at the request of Mr. Griscom, the purpose of which you no doubt understand with him."

In New York any day if you have any suggestions to make. I think the matter is of considerable importance and I can show Senator Aldrich where such an appointment would be desired. If necessary, I can see you in New York, or I can talk to you over the telephone from the headquarters of the republican state committee, Locust street, Philadelphia, where I shall be during the present month."

Mr. Hearst suggested Mr. Eddy probably would be willing to appear to tell how the letters were taken from the Standard Oil company files. The letter from John D. Archbold to Senator J. B. Foraker, about the $50,000 loan, was dated Jan. 22, 1902, and read:

Referring to our further talk of today over the telephone, we are willing to make the loan $50,000, $25,000 to be returned within the year and the remaining $25,000 to be paid in annual installments thereafter. All to bear interest at 5 per cent. Trusting you will succeed in consummating the matter as you desire, I am, very truly yours,

JOHN D. ARCHBOLD.

A question about campaign contributions brought from Mr. Hearst the statement that he had contributed "about $10,000 or $12,000 to 1908, to the independent league committee for the national campaign."

Another letter dated Jan. 12, 1902, from John D. Archbold to J. B. Foraker transmitted a certificate of deposit for $50,000. This letter, Mr. Hearst said, he had made public in a speech in 1908 at Columbus, Ohio. Another letter from Mr. Archbold to Mr. Foraker, dated March 5, 1903, read:

"I beg to inclose you herewith letter from our counsel, Mr. Elliott, with copy of another very objectionable bill recently introduced at Columbus. Hope you can take care of it with the others."

A letter from Archbold to J. C. Sibley, representative from Pennsylvania, dated Feb. 15, 1901, said:

"I beg to enclose you herewith certificate of deposit to your favor for $5,000 sent you at the request of Mr. Griscom, the purpose of which you no doubt understand with him. Permit me to improve this opportunity also to express my high appreciation of your most courteous and efficient action in response to our request for the consideration of the subsidiary bill matter with Mr. Griscom."

Pressed further to tell about getting the letters, Hearst said that Eddy was in his employ as a magazine writer at the time he brought him the letters, but that Eddy was paid nothing to obtain possession of them. The second witness was J. L. Kennedy of Cleveland, Ohio, a former member of the old industrial commission, of which Senator Penrose was also a member. He declared in his statement that Senator Penrose did some work on the commission for which the Standard Oil company paid him $25,000 was "amusing."

No member of the commission, he said, took less part in the work than Senator Penrose. When the report was completed Mr. Kennedy testified, he was appointed a committee of one to get Senator Penrose's signature. At first the senator refused to sign; the report, Kennedy said, because he did not know what it contained, but finally consented to attach his signature when assured that it contained nothing to conflict with the republican platform.

SUFFRAGETTES ON MARCH TOWARD ALBANY

Women Quote from Xenophon's Anabasis and Make Speeches Lambasting the Men for Unfairness.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Lowering clouds, with a hint of snow in the air, did not daunt the spirit of the pilgrims and suffragettes when they completed here the second day of their two weeks journey to Albany to carry a message to Governor Sulzer on his inauguration day. "And thence they marched ten parades," laughingly quoted Miss Rosalie Jones, commander of the expedition when she halted in the public square here, her little band of suffragettes now reduced to six, after a leisurely tramp from Irvington.

"This is the suffragette parade. We were going to do at least ten miles a day and will not be daunted by a little snow," she said.

Mrs. Anna Ross Weeks of New York spoke to a crowd in the public square.

"You men will be ashamed of yourselves if you do not vote for women suffrage," she said. "We hear a lot of talk about the fair sex, but shouldn't you men be called the unfair sex?"

"How about women going to war?" interrupted a listener.

"When battleships can fire projectiles ten miles, being a soldier is not so brave a thing as it used to be," Mrs. Weeks retorted. "And I would be more afraid of a woman who dropped a bomb from an aeroplane than I would be of a man."

School children cheered and men and women waved from windows along the route of the day's march. Many had shown no favor to the cause, but confessed weariness, the pilgrims rested tonight at the home of a local sympathizer.

DETECTIVES SEARCH FOR LAST OFFENDER

Strong Evidence Said to Exist Against Joseph Dunn Who is Alleged to Have Demanded $5,000.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Newark, N. J., Dec. 17.—President-elect Wilson's life has again been threatened by a letter writer. The letter was mailed in New York, December 12th, received by the governor's secretary at Trenton the following day and turned over to the postal authorities. It is now in possession of United States Assistant Attorney Lindabury who declined to discuss it. The receipt of the second threatening letter became known today at the arraignment of Jacob and Warren Dunn and Seely Davenport of Wharton, the three so-called mountaineers, who were charged with having sent Governor Wilson, on November 11th, last, a letter, demanding $5,000 under threat of death.

The hearing was not concluded, but United States Commissioner Stockton dismissed the case against Warren Dunn and took under advisement a motion to make a similar ruling in the case of Davenport. Against Jacob Dunn, alleged author of the threatening letter, the government made out a strong case. Commissioner Stockton said. He held Dunn, pending the conclusion of the hearing tomorrow afternoon when Joseph P. Tumulty, Governor Wilson's private secretary, will be called to testify that he received the letter. Although Mr. Tumulty was under subpoena, he did not attend the hearing today, having arranged with Commissioner Stockton to be absent.

It was thought at that time that his testimony would not be needed. Governor Wilson, under subpoena, did not attend the hearing and it was said he would not be required to do so tomorrow, inasmuch as the letter never reached him, but was intercepted by Mr. Tumulty.

The second letter threatening the governor's life, was unsigned, and a dozen or more secret service men and detectives are seeking to learn the author. It is understood that the missile did not reach the governor, but was intercepted like the first one by Mr. Tumulty. Many of the secret service men and detectives working on this case were present at the hearing today. Whether the second letter was the outgrowth of the first, or was connected with it in any way, Mr. Lindabury declined to say.

Five witnesses testified at the hearing. They included the postmaster at Wharton, the mail carrier who took the letter from a rural free delivery box; the carrier who sold Joseph Dunn three envelopes, similar to the one containing the letter; Francis A. Butler, a postoffice inspector, and Louis G. Beckman, a United States deputy marshal, who made the arrests. Butler and Beckman both testified that Jacob Dunn admitted authorship of the letter at first, but denied having written it when told that what he said might be used against him.

Jacob Dunn's defense is that he made the alleged statement under duress and that he was not informed of his rights before doing so.

JUDGE'S REPUTATION EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD

Washington, Dec. 17.—From personal prominence in Pennsylvania affairs and in federal court circles of the east, the attorneys for Judge Robert W. Archbold, of the commerce court, on trial before the senate impeachment court, drew testimony today as to his good reputation. Among these were Judge George Gray and Judge J. B. McPherson, of the federal court; Chief Justice Fell, of the Pennsylvania supreme court; Presidenting Judge Rice, of the Pennsylvania superior court, and ex-Governor W. A. Stone, other witnesses called during the day testified as to disputed points in the evidence presented by the house managers.

Frank R. Shattuck, attorney for insurance companies in the suit with W. R. Rinsger at the time an attempt was made to discount the Rinsger-Archbold had shown no favoritism to Rinsger in the conduct of the case.

REBELS ROUTED AT AN AMERICAN RANCH

El Paso, Dec. 17.—Fifteen ranchmen defended the Dunbar ranch, an American property in Chihuahua state, for nearly two days against 150 bandits, who later were dispersed by federal troops, say advisers received here today. Troops sent from Parral, nearby, through appeal from American Consul J. L. Long, routed the bandits, killing thirty-two.

but to use the hand pump as hard as he could.

"It is a plausible theory that after flying to the north of Point Firmin the motor quit because of the defective pressure which Lawrence was probably unable to improve. The only thing to happen after that was an enforced floating on the water. The sea was rough and the plane probably was broken to pieces by the waves."

Glenn Martin, the aviator, identified the pontoon and the canvas as parts of Kearny's hydro-aeroplane and said he distinctly remembered that Lawrence had worn a suit of grey, similar to the vest found on the rocks.

"Lawrence asked me before they started what I thought their chances were," said Martin. "I told them they never would get anywhere."

From Point Firmin to Point Vicente there is a stretch of precipitous coast, eight miles in length. John McConno, a rancher, whose farm lies near the peak of Point Vicente, claims to have caught a glimpse of Kearny's flying machine as it came abreast of his place. He said today that the aviator was not more than a mile out, partially obscured by the haze, and was flying hardly more than fifty feet above the water. It is twelve miles from Vicente to Fisherman's cove, where the aeroplane fragments and tattered clothing were picked up. Confident that the bodies of Kearny and Lawrence are lying beneath the kelp beds, preparations were made at Redondo beach tonight to send men out tomorrow to attempt to recover them.

MEN CHARGED WITH GRAFT EXONERATED

Canon City, Colo., Dec. 17.—A verdict of not guilty as to the defendants, D. E. Gibson, W. M. Gibson and Herman Loeber, was returned by the jury in the so-called penitentiary graft cases, wherein a charge of conspiracy and procuring money under false pretenses was made. The jury censured ex-Warden Cleghorn and his chief clerk, A. L. Frisbie, for gross neglect in the management of the business of the penitentiary in their relations with the exonerated defendants during 1906-07. The case will not be reopened by the state.

ARIZONA CONVICTS SAW OUT OF JAIL

Nogales, Ariz., Dec. 17.—Andrew Yesbit, a United States cavalryman, sentenced to ten years for the murder of a Mexican woman, with three other men and a youth awaiting transportation to the penitentiary at Florence, broke out of the county jail last night and presumably fled into Mexico. The youth, convicted of burglary was recaptured by Mexican officers, but Yesbit and the three other men, G. Leora, Augustin Moncaride and Matilde Perez, sentenced to five years each, for shoplifting, are still at large. The five cut their way through the jail lock with a hack saw while the jailor was at his supper.

They locked four other prisoners, who refused to join in the break, in their cells.

WITNESS TELLS OF LOSING HOME TO PROMOTERS

Men Alleged to be Engaged in Fraudulent Oil Scheme Gets All Money and Property They Had.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) New York, Dec. 17.—C. N. Johnson, of Rockford, Ill., took the witness stand for the government today and told how he had lost his life savings and the house over his head by investing in stocks promoted by A. L. Wisner and Company, composed of A. L. Wisner and John J. Meyers, charged with using the mails to defraud. "I first read of A. L. Wisner and Company in the Mining Herald," said the witness. "It was said their stocks were big dividend payers. I went to San Francisco and saw John J. Meyers, their agent. He looked me straight in the eye and said I could not possibly lose."

Agents gave him $2,400 in cash for his home valued at $9,000 and the rest in stock. They got the $2,400 and induced him to invest the $2,400. After he had all his money in stocks the defendants persuaded him to exchange them for gold bonds. Only the first coupon was cashed. Meyers finally agreed to give him checks every week or so for $15 to $20.

"I received a number of these small checks," Johnson said, "when the company went into the receiver's hands."

The witness told of inspecting the California diamond oil well, the Warner Company property.

"I found out," the witness said, "that no oil had ever been taken from the well. I told Meyers he had paid a dividend on a well from which no oil had ever been taken and I wanted my money back. He would not give it to me and I started suit against the company. It became bankrupt before the suit was finished."

Alfalfa Millers Close Conference. Wichita, Dec. 17.—Alfalfa millers from Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado closed their semi-annual meeting here today with a prediction that $20,000,000 worth of alfalfa products will be the output of their mills this year. Uniform grading rules were adopted so that alfalfa millers can be protected.

WILSON THREATENS DISGRACE TO ANY MAN WHO SHALL DELIBERATELY START MONETARY PANIC

PRESIDENT-ELECT DECLARES HE WILL SEE CULPRIT FIGURATIVELY HUNG HIGH AS HUMAN

Taft's Successor Makes Notable Speech at Banquet When He Issues Warning That Machinery is Set and Certain Individuals Hint at Financial Crisis in Revenge for Charges in Economic Policy That May be Contemplated by Democratic Party; Such People Should be Strung Up on Gibbet of Public Disgrace to be Pointed at With Scorn So Long as Members of Their Families May Survive.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) New York, Dec. 17.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson held up a warning finger tonight to any man who might deliberately start a panic in the United States in order to show that intended legislative policies were wrong. In a speech at the banquet of the Southern Society of New York, he declared he had heard sinister predictions of what would follow if the democratic party put into effect changes in economic policy.

The president-elect first distinguished in his speech between "natural" and "unnatural" panics. He said that in many cases panic had come naturally because of a mental disturbance of people with reference to loans and money generally.

"But the machinery is in existence," he said, "by which the thing can be deliberately done. Frankly, I don't think there is any man living who dares use the machinery for that purpose. If he does, I promise him, not for myself, but for my fellow countrymen, a gibbet as high as Haman's." The governor added that he meant no literal gibbet, "for that is not painful," but he said it would be a gibbet of public disgrace, "which will live as long as the members of that man's family survive."

"America with her eyes open, isn't going to let a panic happen," the governor continued, "but I speak as if I expected—as if I feared it. I do not. I am afraid of nothing."

The president-elect's speech covered a variety of subjects. He treated first of sectionalism, declaring it ought not to exist. Mr. Wilson then referred briefly to provincialism and said that some people had an idea that all thinking for the country was done in New York City.

"I am happy to feel that there no longer is a serious consciousness of sectional differences in the United States. There can be no sectionalism about the thinking of America from this time on, because no hard headed man can prove that there are such things as sectional interests."

The governor here told his hearers of his strenuous day in New Jersey. "We thought we straightened things out in New Jersey," he said, "but they won't stay straight. There are some people in New Jersey who are happy that they can count the days when they can get rid of me. But they are not going to get rid of me. A man can live in Washington and know what goes on in New Jersey, and a man can stay in New Jersey and know what goes on in Washington. He can't do both. Now, New Jersey, and he can say it in the only most effective way—by mentioning names."

"This anonymous assertion of integrity ought to be stopped. Its all very well to make public who owns the journals of the country, but it also ought to be made public who owns the press or that idea. If it cannot be produced by law, it can be produced by conversation."

"I have gone through a campaign in which I endeavored to speak of things not of persons, but you speak of persons by implication when you speak of things, and the planter you make the implication, the more effective you make the mark. The only way to keep out of trouble in the future is to see that your name is connected with the right thing."

"Say this and he will be afraid to stand up and be counted and put their names down. I think reason as men see this is business, and not amusement, an enthusiasm will arise by which it will be revealed that honor and integrity of purpose breed more prosperity than any other thing in the world. God knows the poor suffer for enough. A man would hesitate to take a single step that would involve any further suffering. We must move to the emancipation of the poor."

"The task ahead of me, so far as it is making appointments to office, is wholly hateful, but the task, so far as it is leadership of the United States is full of everything that is bright and touched with confidence, because I know that all you have to do is to appeal to the people of the United States on the right ground and out those who are wrong out of business. I am not a brave man, because I don't have anything to be afraid of."

"Some people are making all sorts of sinister predictions as to the trouble we are going to get into at Washington. I don't think there should be any concern, because it is going to be public trouble and a great jury is always going to know what the evidence in the case is. I have been warned by some newspapers about keeping the open door because they have said so many people want to get into it.

"Perhaps I should have said that the door will be open only to people who come to transact business. I want to say that I may not be very popular by preferring business to etiquette, but after I take the oath I shall feel obliged to transact business and will feel obliged to cut out everything that does not touch that business. But business has to be supported and comprehensively presented to the people, so I will not feel it necessary to stay in Washington all the time, but to find out by conversation with my neighbors everywhere what they think, for it is a great deal more important to the country what you think than what I think."

The governor discussed vehemently on politics and said there was "too much mannerism in politics" and that "good taste often stands in the way of public morals."

"It is not thought good taste in politics," the governor said, "to say anything about a man unless it is complimentary, but it may be very scorable."

Mr. Wilson smilingly declared that since he had left "academic walks to get into the high road," he had found "an increased temptation to profanity."

"I think that the recording angel probably does not hear these things," he added, amid laughter, "for there is such a thing as righteous anger."

The speaker here made reference to possible changes in economic policy, though he mentioned no specific thing.

"Some people say," he asserted, "that business is going to be disturbed by the changes which are going to be undertaken by the democratic party. I mean changes in economic policy. Business cannot be disturbed unless the minds of those who conduct it are disturbed."

"A panic, according to the dictionary, is really a state of mind. There is just as much money in the country the day after the panic as the day before, but it is distributed differently as a result of the panic."

Here the speaker issued his warning against the deliberate starting of panics. As he concluded his speech, he remarked that perhaps he had rambled in his subjects, but that he had tried to steer away from polemic as much as possible. Throughout the speech there were frequent interruptions of applause and there was a storm of cheers when Mr. Wilson finished speaking.

Mrs. Wilson and her daughters sat in a box while the speechmaking was in progress. The ball room of the hotel where the banquet was held, was crowded with men and women, the list of guests including many persons in public life. The two men who were directly in charge of Governor Wilson's campaign for the presidency, National Chairman William McComb, and Vice Chairman William G. McAdoo, were among the number.

Mr. Wilson will remain in New York until late tomorrow, but will meet only a few close friends.

GIRL FALLS FROM 7TH STORY WINDOW

Los Angeles, Dec. 17.—Miss Frances A. Croft, a magazine writer and newspaper woman, was perhaps fatally injured today, when she either jumped or fell accidentally from the seventh story window of an office building, landing on the roof of an adjoining one-story building. Both arms and both legs were broken and her skull was fractured. Miss Croft is a daughter of Lewis A. Croft, a lawyer of this city and 25 years old. Her parents said that she had no reason for attempting suicide. During a convalescent spell tonight, Miss Croft said she did not know whether she had jumped from the window or lost her balance and fallen.

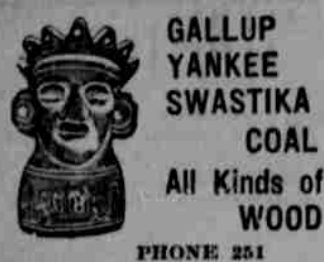

"I don't know why I should have tried to kill myself," she said.

J. P. MORGAN WILL TELL COMMITTEE ABOUT FINANCE

Wall Street King Arrives in Washington on Special Train Accompanied by Daughter and Friends.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Washington, Dec. 17.—J. P. Morgan arrived in Washington tonight to answer a subpoena to testify before the house committee on banking and currency investigating the so-called money trust. Mr. Morgan expected to testify before the committee tomorrow, but it is probable he will not be reached on the list of witnesses before Thursday. A party of nearly a score accompanied Mr. Morgan in a special train that brought him from New York, including his daughter, Miss Anne Morgan; his partner in the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., Thomas W. Lamont and J. P. Davison; Joseph H. Choate, John C. Spooner, and Richard S. Linabury, of counsel for Mr. Morgan; J. P. Morgan, Jr., and a staff of clerks and stenographers.

The committee will take up the main part of the "money trust" inquiry relating to the "contraction of money and credit," and it is on this point that Mr. Morgan will be examined.

Before he is questioned, however, a mass of statistical matter will be placed in the record. The committee today took up the attraction of money to New York by high rates of interest on call loans and showed that country banks loan on stock exchange securities vast sums of money at times when the demand for funds forces a high rate on the New York call money market.

The first witness of the day was Frederick Lewisohn, who consented to answer questions propounded by Mr. Undermyer which he declined to answer yesterday. The questions related to the profit of the syndicate that launched the stock of the California Petroleum Company on the stock market.

Mr. Lewisohn placed in the record the syndicate agreement under which the stock was sold and the participation letters which assigned the shares of the deal taken by Lewisohn Brothers, William Solomon & Co., and Hallgarten & Company. Mr. Lewisohn said he believed that a law which would result in the making public of statements of promoters, brokers and intermediaries profits on all stocks before the stocks were listed with the exchange, would be beneficial to the investing public.

STATE DEPARTMENT NOT FAVORABLE TO ACTING AS ARBITRATOR

Officials Believe Belligerents and European Diplomats Will Find Way to Peaceful Settlement.

HAGUE CONVENTION IMPOSES OBLIGATION

Should Hostile Powers Fail to Reach Agreement, America is Duty Bound to Exert Influence to Prevent War.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Washington, Dec. 17.—Without any disposition to evade the obligations imposed by treaty, and by the dictates of humanity, to do everything possible to prevent a renewal of the war in the Balkans, officials of the state department are reported to be of one mind in holding that the complex issues between the contending states should be adjusted entirely by the good offices of neutral European states which are thoroughly acquainted with the problem. There has been no intimation from any official source that America will be called upon to play the part of mediator and it is pointed out that the necessity for such mediation practically has disappeared, the present gathering of plenipotentiaries, all charged with instructions to bring about peace, being itself a mediating body.

Article VIII of The Hague convention provides that in case of a definite rupture of pacific relations the signatory powers are charged with the joint task of taking advantage of any opportunity to restore peace. This has been generally understood as imposing an obligation upon a friendly neutral state, not to lay down terms of peace but to bring the principals into friendly conference with that purpose.

Article IV defines the duty of a mediator to be the reconciling of opposing claims and appeasing the feelings of resentment which may arise between the states at variance. But it is felt here that, now that the hostile states have of their own volition entered into an armistice and begun the discussion of peace conditions, they may have anticipated the good offices of a mediator and that at this stage better progress towards peace can be made by direct dealing between the principals, free from the intervention of third parties. If the plenipotentiaries in London should reach an impasse and a return of hostilities be seriously threatened, it would be a matter of duty for the signatories to The Hague convention to consider what steps could be taken to prevent a resumption of the war.

But that the intervention of America in this matter will not be required, it is believed to be assured by the arrival in London simultaneously with the meeting of the peace negotiators, and of the ambassadors of the great European powers.

DENTIST IDENTIFIES SLAIN DESPERADO

Santa Ana, Cal., Dec. 17.—The young desperado who was killed at Temate Springs yesterday, after slaying and wounding three of the posse which battled with him, was identified today as Joe Matlock, formerly of Eugene, Ore. The identification was made by Dr. L. L. Whitson, a dentist, who formerly lived in the Oregon town. He said that Matlock had been arrested at Eugene three or four years ago for an attack on a woman and fled after his release on bail.

On a torn envelope in the dead man's pocket was written the name, "H. L. Bowen." Bowen was sheriff at Eugene when Matlock was arrested. Sheriff C. E. Hudlock, of Orange county, found a photograph of Matlock which had been sent out by the Eugene sheriff at the time of Matlock's flight, and it bears a strong resemblance to the dead man. Matlock was a son of J. H. Matlock, a former mayor of Eugene.

ARGUMENTS BEGIN IN DYNAMITE CONSPIRACY HEARING

Judge Anderson Denounces One Defendant for Committing Perjury and Orders Him in Confinement.

COURT DISCHARGES CLARENCE E. DOWD

Even Forty Labor Leaders Charged with Transporting Explosives on Trains, Must Know Fate on Jury's Decision

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Indianapolis, Dec. 17.—John T. Butler, of Buffalo, vice president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, tonight was locked in jail after his bond of $10,000 had been increased to $15,000, and after the court had said he committed perjury in testifying in his own behalf as a defendant in the "dynamite conspiracy" trial.

Butler is highest in office in a labor union of 12,000 members, and with Ryan he is charged as being one of four officials who conspired to promote dynamite explosions, including the wrecking of the Los Angeles Times building. At the conclusion of a day's session in which both the prosecution and the defense rested their case, with the prospect that the case will be in the hands of the jury in eight days, Federal Judge Anderson delivered from his seat a sharp arraignment of one of the defendants here known as "the dynamite jury." There are a few people in this country who must be told that the law is the law, and if there is any gentleman in this court room who feels that the shoe fits him, let him put it on. I have never seen a display such as has taken place here in the last two weeks, and I have been a lawyer and on the bench for the last thirty-four years.

Judge Anderson's remarks were made after the jury had been retired for the day and after Clarence E. Dowd, of Rochester, N. Y., formerly organizer for the International Association of Machinists in Detroit, had been discharged on the ground that sufficient evidence did not exist against him. Dowd was the only defendant to be discharged today, leaving forty men whose cases are to go to the jury. Butler early in the day declared a general denial that he knew of any dynamite plots. Particularly, he denied knowledge that the union appropriated $1,000 a month to John J. McNamara, which the government charges was used to defray the expenses of the dynamiters.

Check books in which the stubs recorded payment to McNamara, while Butler was a member of the executive board, were produced.

"Do you mean to say that $1,000 a month was paid out of the union's treasury and you never heard of it?" Butler was asked.

"I never knew of it being used for carrying on explosions," he replied.

"Were you interested enough in the union's welfare to investigate after the McNamara were taken to Los Angeles charged with the murder of twenty-one persons?"

"I made the investigation," Butler said. "The only $1,000 check he knew of was one made payable to Olaf A. Tveitmo, of San Francisco, as the iron workers' contribution to the Los Angeles strike fund. District Attorney Miller then charged that Butler had been on a drunk for two weeks and that since being in court he had expressed a wish to be in Canada."

"This man Butler has committed deliberate, willful and malicious perjury," said District Attorney Miller. "He knows he is guilty and has stated since he came to trial here that he wished he had remained in Quebec, Canada, as this was not an extradition offense. He was drunk for weeks before he came here, and since then his illness has been due to whiskey. In consideration of the fact that he has expressed a wish that he had remained in Canada, and because of his perjuring himself, I ask that his bond be increased."

"Has he stated he wished he had remained in Canada since coming here?" asked Judge Anderson.

"Yes, your honor, right in this court room."

"I will increase his bond to $15,000 and the marshal will take him in custody."

As he was unable to procure bond, Butler was taken to jail. Three other defendants, including Herbert S. Rockin, who resigned as secretary of the union while in jail, also are in jail. Two witnesses for the defense are under bonds and held to the federal grand jury on charges of perjury.

In discharging Dowd, Judge Anderson said:

"His action on the witness stand was so much better than some others and so much more to his credit, that I think I may believe him. He was asked questions and he answered them frankly. It was not necessary to use tongs, pinchers and hammer to compel him to obey the orders of the court.

"The letters Dowd wrote, which it has been charged brought him into the conspiracy, are all susceptible of an innocent interpretation."

Dowd formerly lived at Mansfield, Ohio, but as an organizer for the machinists' union, he went to Detroit and while in Detroit, the government charged, he joined with other union officials in plotting the destruction of property of non-union firms. Concerning motions for the dismissal of other defendants, Judge Anderson stated that before the defense began its case he felt inclined to discharge certain defendants, "but since that time, the attitude of the defense witnesses on the stand had made him change his mind."

Referring to Hiram K. Kline, of Muncie, Ind., an organizer for the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, accused of complicity in alleged plots in Detroit, the court overruled a motion for dismissal, but said "Kline's connection with the case is like the driven snow compared to that of some others."

Overruling a motion for the dismissal of Frank J. Murphy, of Detroit, the court said: "There has been no other defendant who has so stirred my sympathy, and I am sorry to overrule the motion."

The only motions made in behalf of Tveitmo and Eugene A. Clancy, of San Francisco, and J. E. Munsey, of Salt Lake, accused of being implicated in the Pacific coast explosions, were to instruct the jury to acquit. These motions were overruled. Chester H. Krum, of St. Louis, counsel for John H. Barry and Paul J. Morrin, of that city, asked that the government be required to elect whether the case should go to the jury on the charge of conspiracy to transport explosives illegally or on the charges of actually violating the law which prohibits carrying explosives on passenger trains. Mr. Krum argued that verdicts could not be returned for both conspiracy and actual violation. The court held its ruling in abeyance.

Of James J. Cooney, Chicago, the court said: "The only evidence against him is that given by Orrie E. McManigal, and the accused denies it. It is a question for the jury to decide. There is another man here who I think told a straight story, but I am not satisfied. I am not going to invade the province of the jury."

Four days on each side were fixed for the arguments to begin tomorrow. As soon as Senator J. W. Kern announced that the defense rested, the government said it had nothing to offer in rebuttal. The defendants who did not testify in their own behalf were:

Hockin, Tveitmo, E. A. Clancy, San Francisco; J. E. Munsey, Salt Lake City; P. A. Cooley, New Orleans; Frank C. Webb, New York; William J. McCall, Kansas City, Mo.; James E. Ray and Edward Smythe, Peoria, Ill.

Foreign Minister Lascruain Speaks at Banquet of Friendship Between His Country and United States.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) New York, Dec. 17.—The Pan-American Society of the United States and the Mexico Society of New York, joined in honoring Don Pedro Lascruain, Mexican minister of foreign affairs, at a luncheon today. The principle mission of the minister in the United States is to effect a settlement of American claims against Mexico growing out of the rebellion. Senior Lascruain assured his hearers that all thinking persons in Mexico were sure of the friendship of the United States and that all men of affairs and business in Mexico were friends of the United States. "We don't fear any new war," he said. "When the revolution has ended you will see Mexico as it was before, going along with prosperity."

FIVE BANDITS GET SMALL HAUL IN MISSOURI

Bank Building Wrecked by Dynamite While Robbers Terrorize Town with Pistol Shots; $3,000 Secured.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Modena, Mo., Dec. 14.—Five men robbed the bank of Modena of $3,000 at an early hour this morning, terrorized the town by shooting at every one whom they could see, and escaped, presumably in barges.

Modena is in Mercer county, about twelve miles southwest of Princeton, the county seat, and is off the railroad. The robbery occurred shortly after midnight. Two men entered the bank, a small frame building, and three remained on the outside. It required four charges of explosives and forty minutes to blow the safe. The building was wrecked.

Upon the first explosion, most of the two hundred inhabitants of the town were awakened. Persons who ventured out were ordered back into their homes. About fifty shots were fired by the three robbers on guard. Town Marshal Amos McNeely fired two or three shots at the men but they retaliated and drove him to cover. The robbers had cut the telephone wires before beginning their work.

WOMEN ENGAGE IN CONTEST AGAINST RETAILERS

When Prices of Eggs Are Reduced to 25 Cents a Dozen or Less, Butter is to Receive Same Sort of Attention.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Chicago, Dec. 17.—In order that Chicago housewives may know just what kind of eggs they will be able to buy for 24 cents a dozen at the sale of the Women's Clean Food League on Friday, an "egg luncheon" will be given tomorrow by the promoters of the crusade against the high priced produce. The luncheon will start off with a raw egg appetizer and thence through egg noodle soup, shirred eggs, lettuce and egg, spinach and egg, and will wind up with egg custard.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) New York, Dec. 17.—A movement to reduce the price of eggs in every city in the country to 25 cents or less was started today by the national executive committee of the Housewives League of America. The leaders were urged to begin their crusades by appealing to dealers in their immediate localities. The league announced today that three of the largest grocery firms in the city had cut the price to 25 cents a dozen.

The crusade in the greater city will be continued until every place where eggs are sold meets the reduction. The league leaders then propose to campaign for cheaper butter.

SPECULATOR PUTS ONE OVER ON WOMEN OF CHICAGO.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Ten car loads of eggs, which Chicago club women will place on sale tomorrow to break retail prices, could have been bought cheaper in the open market than from the unnamed commission man who supplied them, according to a statement today by Chas. J. Bowman, secretary of the Chicago Butter and Egg board.

"The women paid 20 1/2 cents a dozen for eggs which they can buy in the open market for 18 cents," said Mr. Bowman. "At 24 cents they might have profited 6 cents instead of 3 1/2 cents."

Executive officers of the women's club, and of other organizations, today discussed the contract which Mrs. J. C. Foley, leader of the crusade, made with a speculator whose name she withheld.

They will not sit quietly by, they asserted, while retailers make 20 to 50 per cent profit, even if the whole city does believe they are the dupes of a speculator.

WORK OF SMASHING EGG PRICES FINISHED.

Philadelphia, Dec. 17.—Declaring it had accomplished its purpose in breaking down the high price of eggs, Mrs. William B. Derr, president of the Housekeepers League, announced today that the organization had abandoned its crusade. Mrs. Derr said the organization would consider reducing butter and meat prices.

Woman Shoots Wolves.
Hudson, Colo., Dec. 17.—Miss Dora Shaffer, a markswoman of some note in this district, was attacked by three hungry wolves today while on her way to visit a neighboring ranch. She shot the trio with her rifle and has added the pelts to her collection.

Democrats to Caucus.

Washington, Dec. 17.—So great has become the pressure from republicans for an executive session of the senate to pass upon nominations, that the democrats today ordered a caucus tomorrow to determine whether action should be taken on any of the nominations before the holidays.

President Discusses Next Measure.

Washington, Dec. 17.—President Taft and his cabinet discussed his forthcoming message to congress today. The president hopes to send it in Thursday. It will review the departmental progress. The president will leave Thursday for Panama, returning December 31, spending Christmas on the isthmus. He is due at Colon on December 24, leaving at midnight December 25. SANTA CLAUS PAYS VISIT TO HUNGRY CHILDREN

Humane Officer Rescues Destitute Youngsters While They Are Listening to Story of Christmas Saint.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 17.—In a wood cutter's hut in a clearing of the forest seven miles east of Husted, State Humane Agent W. S. Reynolds discovered a girl of 13 and a boy of 8, listening to tales of Santa Claus told them by their elder sister, aged 15. The three were shivering with the cold. Ragged clothing barely covered their bodies and their feet were bare. Despite the cold they were listening with glowing eyes to the stories of the Christmas patron saint.

Settlers visiting Husted told the authorities there of the all but starving condition of the four children of John Juncie, a widower. His meagre earnings, they said, were not enough to supply his family with sufficient food. The case was reported to the humane society and Officer Reynolds was dispatched to investigate. William Juncie, a crippled boy of 19, was in town today and offered to lead the humane officer to his home.

When Reynolds reached the hut and opened the door, Charles, the youngest of the family, cried, "he's come to take care of us. He'll take us where Santa Claus will be able to find us." The four children were brought to this city tonight and they will be given homes and some idea of what the Christmas spirit means.

NEGLECTED BLIND MAN KILLS SELF

Oakland, Cal., Dec. 17.—That one inmate of the state industrial home for the adult blind in this city, had committed suicide because of neglect, and that another had died because of having been left unattended, were the assertions of James Cloutman today at an investigation conducted by a committee appointed by the governor. Cloutman said that George Johnson, an inmate, had begged pitifully for hours for medical aid without any response from the attendants. The next day it was found that he had taken his own life.

Cloutman described an injury to John Stromm, which he said was due to the neglect of attendants. "Stromm was of unsound mind," said Cloutman, "but he was allowed to wander about the place. Finally he fell down a flight of stairs and injured himself seriously. This was after he had been allowed to roam about with an injured arm from which he had torn the bandage."

PEACE CONFERENCE TO ALLOW TURKS INSTRUCTIONS FROM HOME

Objections Made to Greeks
Taking Part While Her Fleet
Is Attacking Ottoman Navy
Near Dardanelles.

AMBASSADORS BEGIN DELICATE DISCUSSION

Chief Interest Centers Around
Representatives of Austria and Russia Who Deny Extra Mobilizations.

(By Morning Journal Special Licensed Wire.)
London, Dec. 17.—The peace conference was launched yesterday only to be interrupted today by a complication resulting from the policy of Greece in waging war and negotiating peace simultaneously. The Turkish delegation announced today that it was empowered to confer only with the three Balkan kingdoms which signed the armistice at Techaia, and, as a consequence, adjournment was taken until Thursday to enable the Turks to obtain instructions. The prospects for a successful issue of the conference are enhanced by the declaration of the Turks that they have been given plenary powers to arrange and sign a treaty of peace. How far their improved military position, with the encouragement Austria is credited with giving them, may stiffen their backs against the allies' terms, remains in doubt. The first sitting of the ambassadorial court of appeals, as it is called, was held in the foreign office today. The ambassadors of five continental powers conferred with Sir Edward Grey, the British secretary for foreign affairs for more than three hours. The different nations advanced their views on the eastern problem. The contingency that mediation may offer the only solution of the war has been the subject of much discussion. The heads of the Bulgarian and Serbian delegations, in interviews, recognized that the United States might be in a position to act as peace-maker. The naval fight off the Dardanelles in which both Greece and Turkey claimed victory yesterday was resumed today. Athens announces that the Greek army is about to capture Janina.

The friction between Austria and Serbia appears not to have abated. The Serbians complain that Austrian gunboats in the Danube are indulging in provocative tactics, throwing their searchlights on Belgrade, which has caused a panic among the residents. The conference of the ambassadors either will be a complete failure or productive of results that may surpass in importance the achievements of all other diplomatic gatherings since the congress of Berlin in 1878. Not only will the ambassadorial conference exercise a powerful influence on the decisions of the peace conference, since Turkey, as well as the Balkan states desires to have the support of the powers, but if the Turkish-Balkan understanding is not satisfactory to the powers, the present ambassadorial conference will indicate how to correct the decisions arrived at, just as the Berlin congress modified the boundaries of the Balkans arranged five months before at the treaty of San Stefano between Russia and Turkey.

At the meeting today the greatest attention centered on Count Mensdorff, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador, and Count Beckendorff, the Russian ambassador. Their colleagues jokingly put to the former a question as to whether he had brought from Vienna peace or war. Count Mensdorff answered with a smile, but without losing his habitual gravity: "Peace, peace," adding in Latin, "sicut in quantum," ("up to a certain point.")

Both he and Count Beckendorff denied reports describing the armaments of their respective countries which they declare "do not have any alarming character and do not surpass prudential precautions rendered necessary by the closeness to the theater of war."

The ambassadorial conference may acquire a still greater importance if, as may happen Thursday, the peace conference is unable to continue at work, owing to the difficulties between the Turks and Greeks on the question of the armistice, as the Turks may not have received instructions from Constantinople on the subject. The general impression among the delegates is that this question will be amicably solved either by finding a formula allowing Greece to adhere to the armistice, or by Turkey consenting to treat with her, leaving the question of the armistice in abeyance. The Turkish delegation declared judicially that the Ottoman government could treat only with Bulgaria, Serbia and Montenegro, on the basis of the terms of the armistice; that they had no official knowledge that Greece intended to participate in the peace negotiations and that only at today's sitting did the intention of the Greeks become officially known.

Meanwhile the Turks proposed to treat with the states for which they had full powers and asked them to formulate their desiderata. An animated discussion ensued, and the Ottoman proposal was refused for the reason that the four states form one "bloc."

The Turkish delegation added that their instructions were to proceed without delay to the conclusion of an honorable peace. The result of the sitting was telegraphed to Constantinople and will be taken up for consideration by the council of ministers there Wednesday. Dr. Danoff, president of the Bulgarian chamber of deputies, in speaking on possible American mediation, said:

"If an understanding between the Balkan states and Turkey is impossible notwithstanding the friendly advice that certainly will come from the conference of ambassadors, I believe American intervention will be most opportune and will be received as justifiable on account of American interests in the Balkans and Turkey, which are not lacking, and have sufficient importance to entitle Washington to tender its good offices for an impartial settlement of the conflict."

"The United States has colleges, commercial firms, maritime lines and missionaries throughout the Balkan states and Turkey. Besides, she has with her having been educated in the United States and having brought from that land of liberty and independence that worship for freedom which has hastened the explosion and our national vindication."

"Our people have the same spirit of enterprise as the Americans and with a few years' of reconstruction, we will change the face of our country. Indeed, we aspire to become the Americans of Europe."

"I repeat, intervention by the United States coming in case of failure by the European powers, would be received with open arms. But I call it purposely intervention, not wishing to underline any other word, as mediation might then be too little, while arbitration being too much, could not be accepted or admitted."

General Danglis, aide to Crown Prince Constantine, of Greece, arrived in London tonight. He brought important documents for Premier Venizelos, who also has received a avalanche of telegrams concerning the situation in Greece and the Greek military and naval operations. Greece alone among the Balkan states, is fighting Turkey on four different fields—in the east at Saloniki, to the north, and on the Adriatic and Aegean seas. The whole Greek delegation is busy deciphering dispatches. The Greek premier, pointing to them tonight, exclaimed:

"Now, nobody will any more say that I was an exaggeration to have my delegation composed of thirty-two persons."

NAVAL FIGHT BETWEEN GREEKS AND TURKS.

Sedil Bahr, Dardanelles, Dec. 17.—Another naval battle was begun between the Turkish and Greek fleets this morning outside the entrance to the Dardanelles straits. The firing was very heavy. How many vessels are engaged is not known.

After the naval battle off the Dardanelles, the Turkish warships returned to their anchorage with flags flying and bands playing amid the enthusiastic applause of the crowds lining the shore. According to an eye witness, after a long range exchange of shots the smaller Greek vessels retired, leaving the pride of the Greek navy, the cruiser Georgio Averoff, to bear the brunt of the fighting. The cruiser seemed to be using only her small calibre guns and showed signs of having been struck by three or four shells.

Finally she retired. The Greek torpedo boats and submarines remained behind an island under cover during the fighting.

GREEKS CLAIM TO HAVE BENT TURKS IN FIGHT.

Athens, Dec. 17.—The ministry of marine has made public the details of a naval battle fought yesterday outside the Dardanelles as reported by the commander of the Greek destroyer squadron.

"Yesterday morning," the report says, "our fleet, consisting of two battleships, an armored cruiser and four scouts, cruised toward the northern side of the entrance of the Dardanelles. Acting under orders from the commander-in-chief, I joined the fleet with nine destroyers."

"The Turkish warships formed in line of battle under the guns of the forts at Sedil-Bahr, and opened fire. We replied at a distance of about five and one-half miles, advancing to three."

"Both the forts and the warships engaged in the firing, while the Messulish and the light flotilla of the enemy stationed under the forts of Kumkaleh, also began operations."

"After an hour's engagement the enemy retired in disorder, considerably damaged, according to private information."

New Mexico Farm Products

(Census Bureau Bulletin.)

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Washington, Dec. 14.—Statistics for farm products for New Mexico are presented in a bulletin soon to be issued by Director Dunbar, of the bureau of the census, department of commerce and labor. It was prepared under the direction of John Lee Coulter, expert special agent for agriculture.

The returns for livestock products obtained at the census of 1910, like those for crops, relate to the production of the calendar year 1909. It is impossible to give a total representing the annual production of livestock products for the reason that the net value of products from the business of raising domestic animals for use, sale, or slaughter can not be calculated from the census returns.

Dairy Products.

The number of farms in New Mexico reporting dairy cows on April 15, 1910, was 15,869, but only 10,206 reported dairy products in 1909. That there should be this difference is not surprising. Doubtless some farmers who had dairy cows in 1910 had none in 1909, while other farmers neglected to give information for the preceding year, or were unable to do so. Perhaps because the farm was then in other hands. Dairy products in general are somewhat less accurately reported than the principal crops. This is particularly the case as regards the quantity of milk produced. The number of farms which made any report of milk produced during 1909 was 9,915 (slightly less than the total number reporting dairy products), and the number of dairy cows on such farms on April 15, 1910, was 32,923. The amount of milk reported was 6,816,000 gallons; assuming that there were the same number of cows in 1909 as in 1910, this would represent an average of 213 gallons per cow. In considering this average, however, it should be borne in mind that the quantity of milk reported is probably deficient and that the distinction between dairy and other cows is not always strictly observed in the census returns.

By reason of the incompleteness of the returns for milk produced, the census bureau has made no attempt to determine the total value of dairy products for 1909. For convenience a partial total has been presented, comprising the reported value of milk and cream sold as such and sold as butter fat, and the reported value of cheese and other dairy products for home consumption or for sale. The total thus obtained for 1909 is $273,000, which may be defined as the total value of dairy products, exclusive of milk and cream used on the farm producing.

About one-sixth of the milk reported as produced by New Mexico farmers in 1909 was sold as such. The butter made on farms in 1909 was valued at $402,000.

Wool.

The total number of sheep of shearing age in New Mexico on April 15, 1910, was 2,895,000, representing a decrease of 13.2 per cent as compared with the number on June 1, 1909 (3,341,000). The approximate production of wool during 1909 was 3,993,000 fleeces, weighing 16,994,000 pounds and valued at $3,132,000. Of these totals about one-fourth represent estimates. The number of fleeces produced in 1909 was 15.5 per cent less than in 1908. The average weight per fleece in 1909 was 5.5 pounds as compared with 4.2 pounds in 1908, and the average value per pound was 18 cents, as compared with 13 cents in 1908.

Poultry Products.

The total number of fowls on New Mexico farms on April 15, 1910, was 532,000. Of the 19,540 farms reporting fowls, 5,588 did not report any eggs produced in 1909, and 7,082 did not report any poultry raised in 1909. The production of eggs actually reported for 1909 was 2,573,000 dozens, valued at $525,000. According to the twelfth census reports the production of eggs in 1909 was 840,000 dozens, the value being $157,000. The latter figures, however, are exact in the case of the actual returns at that census, because they include estimates made to cover these cases where the schedules reported fowls on hand without reporting the production of eggs in order to make the returns for 1909 comparable with those published for 1908, similar estimates have been made. The method of estimate and the justification therefor being substantially the same as in the case of wool. The total production of eggs in 1909, including these estimates was 2,976,000 dozens, valued at $683,000. The total production of poultry in 1909, including estimates made on the same basis as for eggs, was 932,000 fowls, valued at $368,000.

Animals Sold or Slaughtered.

The total value of domestic animals sold during 1909 was $19,099,000 and that of animals slaughtered on farms $842,000, making an aggregate of $19,941,000. This total, however, involves considerable duplication, resulting from the sale or slaughter of animals which had been purchased by the farmers during the same year. The value of the cattle (including calves) sold during 1909 represented nearly three-fifths of the total value of animals sold, and the value of sheep sold represented nearly one-third of the total. The census of 1909 called for the receipts from the sale of all domestic animals raised on the farms reporting and the total value of those slaughtered during 1909, which amounted, respectively, to $3,741,000 and $805,000. The item of sales is not closely comparable with that for 1909 when the inquiry covered all sales, whether of animals raised on the farms reporting or elsewhere. It is believed, however, that in many cases the returns for 1909 also included receipts from sales of animals not actually raised on the farms reporting.

General Crops.

The total value of crops in New Mexico in 1909 was $3,822,000. Of this amount 90.5 per cent was contributed by crops for which the acreage as well as the value was reported, the remainder consisting of the value of by-products (straw, garden and grass seeds, etc.), derived from the same land as other crops reported, or of orchard fruits, nuts, forest products, and the like. The combined acreage of crops for which acreage was reported was 632,769, representing 43.1 per cent of the total improved land in farms (1,467,191 acres). Most of the remaining improved land doubtless consisted of improved pasture land and being fallow, house and farm yards, and land occupied by orchards and vineyards, the acreage for which was not reported.

The general character of New Mexico agriculture is indicated by the fact that about one-fourth (26.7 per cent) of the total value of the crops in 1909 was contributed by cereals and about one-half (50.1 per cent) by hay and forage. The remainder, representing 23.2 per cent of the total, consisted mostly of potatoes and other vegetables and fruits and nuts.

The total value of crops in 1909 was 191.2 per cent greater than in 1899. There was an increase of 222.8 per cent in the total acreage of crops for which acreage was reported, increases being shown in the acreage of every important crop; the greatest increase was that in the acreage of hay and forage.

Small Fruits.

The total production of small fruits in New Mexico in 1909 was 16,532 quarts and in 1899, 59,690, and the value was $9,335 in 1909, as compared with $5,768 in 1899. The most important of the small fruits in 1909 were strawberries.

The strawberry crop was valued at $4,086.

Orchard Fruits, Grapes and Nuts.

The total production of orchard fruits produced in 1909 was 104,000 bushels, valued at $520,000. Apples contributed about four-fifths of this quantity. The production of grapes in 1909 was 425,000 pounds, valued at $16,191, while that of nuts was unimportant.

The production of all orchard fruits together in 1909 was 88.3 per cent more in quantity than that in 1899, while the production of grapes decreased decidedly. The value of orchard fruits increased from $197,000 in 1899 to $520,000 in 1909, while that of grapes declined from $33,717 in 1899 to $16,191 in 1909. It should be noted, moreover, that the values for 1899 include the value of more advanced products derived from fruits or grapes, such as cider, vinegar, dried fruits, and the like, and may therefore involve some duplication, while the values shown for 1909 relate only to the products in their original condition.

Vegetables.

In 1909 the total acreage of potatoes and other vegetables was 14,660 and their value $820,000. Excluding potatoes, sweet potatoes and yams, the acreage of vegetables was 8,219 and their value $587,000, both acreage and value being decidedly greater than in 1899. The census report distinguishes between farms which make the raising of vegetables a business of some importance (having produced vegetables valued at $500 or more in 1909) and other farms on most of which vegetables are raised mainly for home consumption. There were, in 1909, 113 farms in the first class, representing about one-ninth of the total acreage and about one-fourth of the total value, the average acreage of vegetables per farm for these farms being 5.2 and the average value of product per acre $146.81.

HARVESTER TRUST BOUGHT COMPETITOR

Chicago, Dec. 17.—George W. Perkins was said to have been the leading factor in the purchase of the Milwaukee Harvester Company by the International Harvester Company. In testimony given here today by H. L. Daniels, head of a department of the International Harvester Company, Mr. Daniels was called as a witness in the government's suit to dissolve the International Harvester Company. He said that Mr. Perkins told Cyrus McCormick, president of the International Harvester Company, to pay $100,000 for an option on the Milwaukee company. William H. Howe, a director of the Granite State Mower & Machine Co. of Hinsdale, N. H., testified concerning a decrease in the number of mowing machines made by his firm in the last ten years.

All you have to do is to ask for Schlitz in Brown Bottles.

Sunlight grows hops, but spoils the beer.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable, so-called 'light taste,' and also a repulsive, skunk-like odor," says no less an authority than the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, the scientific authorities on the subject. "Beer so affected," they say, "is offensive to the palate of most consumers."

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

Why don't you, too, drink Schlitz? More and more people every year are demanding it.

AMERICA AS ARBITRATOR.

London Associated Press reports indicate that the United States may finally be called upon to arbitrate the differences between the Balkan allies and the Turks. The statement is rather surprising, at first thought, but not so when it is considered that, if the belligerent powers cannot agree among themselves, there is no alternative except war or submitting the case to an impartial arbitrator.

As pointed out by the Associated Press, all of the great European powers are partisans, to some extent, Russia, Austria and Italy vitally so because of the nearness to their own territories, and England, France and Germany because they wish to maintain the balance of power.

Therefore, among the great nations of the world, only the United States can be regarded as able to look at the proposition through unbiased eyes, since Japan is the ally of both Great Britain and Russia and is involved in the problems of the far east which may be affected by the solution of the more acute problem of the near east.

But it is probable that the Balkans will solve their own problems in the conference now in progress. The Turks know that a further struggle would be hopeless and useless. The Bulgarians have had a grim lesson as to the terrible of war. Frederick Palmer, writing from Sofia, capital of the victorious Bulgarians, says that instead of cheering crowds in the streets and inspiring singing of the national anthem in the cafes, there is a sober quiet. The people are pondering the cost of the war in the lives of the valuable workers slain, in the destruction of property, in broken homes and maimed husbands and sons, in the drain on resources and national credit, in the famine, pestilence and poverty that stalk behind the conquering hosts, in the impaired vitality of the nation which it will require at least a generation to recover.

These are things that the war jingo does not consider. These are the things that those who love the "pomp and circumstance of glorious war" do not take into their childish thought. The Bulgarian people are wiser now. They have given the flower of their young manhood to death, they have poured out their blood and treasure like water. Perhaps it was necessary. But at best, war is frightful, hideous, barbarous, the crime of humanity, for it carries all other crimes in its wake. And as the years go by, it becomes more and more unnecessary. There may be cases in which it appears necessary to draw the sword, but they are growing fewer, year by year.

Instead of exciting, Mr. Palmer says the Bulgarians are soberly planning to perpetuate their achievements in just and lasting peace. As Bulgaria is the dominant force of the anti-Turkish alliance, her position is likely to curb the demands of the Serbians and Greeks to an extent that will insure peace. That will be the best news that can come from Europe.

AN OPTIMISTIC VIEW.

Notwithstanding the fact that the election was settled more than six weeks ago, the unrest, the dissatisfaction of the country continues. It is expressed particularly in regard to the constitution of the United States, the making and the execution of the laws, the conduct of the churches and the schools, the administration of our cities. With economic conditions, there has been dissatisfaction always. Dr. S. M. Crothers told the National social service conference in Boston the other day that the social unrest was the best symptom of the times. Popular dissatisfaction with the conditions has always existed, but the trouble has been that the dissatisfied have despaired of a remedy.

"It is marvelous," Dr. Crothers pointed out, "what a change can be wrought by merely viewing an achievement as possible rather than as impossible."

This is, after all, only the old quality of faith. We can often do a thing because we believe we can. And in this connection the serene faith of the socialists in the possibility of a scientific and perfect social order has been an inspiration, even such scientific social order never work out.

Dr. Crothers pointed out that the intellectual progress of mankind had outstripped the moral progress. The able individuals, by what they know, had been prevented from realizing the needs of others. The balance is now adjusting itself, and we are now beginning to get at those things. We are beginning to be convinced that the problems of today can be solved. Science shows that many of the evils of the day and most of the waste of production and distribution are unnecessary. Many of society's diseases are being cured or may be avoided by a little care.

Our constitution, of which there is so much complaint, has shown itself to be a very elastic document, and our supreme court finds it quite easy to adjust it to the actual demands of the people. Ambassador James Bryce, a few nights ago, expressed the opinion that the constitution of the United States is the most remarkable production of any people in any age. He is one of the closest students of American politics and society.

If we will take the brake off of evolution and develop naturally, we are not likely to suffer from the violent social revolution that so many fear. The thought by Dr. Crothers is a cheering one in these days of fault-finding on the one side and of despair on the other.

THE NEXT SESSION.

Within a short time the legislature of New Mexico will be in session again. At the end of sixty legislative days it will adjourn for two years. The last session was fruitless, a useless expense upon the taxpayers of the state. The next session has an opportunity to make a record if it will. The people do not expect much from it except the same sort of political game that was attempted last session.

If the members, when the assembly will undertake to make a record for efficient work, the people will forget the fiasco of last spring and early summer. Should the results of the last session have no lesson for our lawmakers, when the next election is held the voters will be more emphatic. New Mexico is entitled to decent legislation. No one will deny that the trouble last session was due to one man, not a member of either house, and to a half dozen senators who thought it wise to take orders from him.

The years pass swiftly, and if the provocation continues, it will not be unnatural for the voters to make their wrath felt within four years. There was a time when the railroads of the country thought it not unwise to run things with a high hand. Now they are glad to get justice, even. They were short sighted. They didn't realize that they presented an easy mark for punitive legislation.

The man who was responsible for the wrongs inflicted on the people of New Mexico at the last session of the legislature is also a shining mark for the people's vengeance. He should have sense enough to hedge when the lawmakers meet again. Should he pursue last year's tactics, he, and the interests he represents will be singled out for attack in the next campaign.

All the people ask is a square deal. They didn't get it from the last session. They mean to have it at the next one or make those responsible suffer.

AUSTRIA'S THREAT.

The reinstatement of Conrad von Hotzendorf as chief of staff of the Austro-Hungarian army is not without sinister significance, says the New York Herald. "The count was forced to retire a year ago because he advised war on Italy, when Italy surprised her own allies by a descent on Tripoli. Aehrenthal, then foreign minister, would agree to no such policy. Aehrenthal is dead, and Austria has recalled the man who represents the extreme military party to the head of the army. It is said that in case peace is not concluded at London, the policy of Austria and Germany is to fall on France and reduce her before slower Russia can get under way."

While peace is probable, there is no denying that Europe is resting on a volcano that is likely to erupt at any moment.

Skowhegan, Me., is a thriving little town that achieved fame some years ago when its Oriental rug factory burned. Now comes a still more startling piece of news. The milkmen of the place had been selling milk at 8 cents a quart. Now they have decided voluntarily to reduce the price to seven because the price of cow feed has been reduced.

It is said that a bad beginning makes a good ending. The first day of the peace conference resulted in a disagreement leading to an adjournment with nothing accomplished.

President Taft takes a friendly interest in Woodrow Wilson. Doubtless he feels that his own troubles are about over and that those of Mr. Wilson are about to begin.

The Balkan states have learned that they cannot conduct war in a manner entirely satisfactory to the rest of Europe.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

PARENTHOOD—One of the most gratifying results of the years of study and work that I have done for the Home Health club is the frequent reference to me by happy parents of photographs of "Home Health club babies. I am glad, inexpressibly glad, that but few appeals have come to me to prevent motherhood, but many hundreds have come from desperate homes that long with the divine and instinctive longing for the blessing of fatherhood and motherhood.

There are a few misguided creatures, I can hardly call them women, who will never forget the scolding shot letters they have received from me in reply to an offer to pay me large sums of money if I would only instruct them in a certain method of destruction or murdering an unborn child. Of course, they did not speak of it in that plain, honest fashion, but I did.

When pitiful appeals from broken-down mothers of many children and with brutal husbands, come for knowledge that would enable them to control in the future the conduct of their children, then I gladly give to the husband as well as the wife, the knowledge which all husbands and wives ought to have at the start and the result has been many overburdened homes made happy and husbands converted into lovers instead of brutes.

The real happiness, however, is found in those homes where the happy, healthy children have come even after hope seemed dead. I believe that one of the most heartless and cruel, as well as the boldest admissions of ignorance upon the part of a physician is to tell a young mother who, after suffering untold agonies and having lost the long-expected treasure, that she cannot again attempt to bear children. Never was a greater mistake made. I well remember the case of a devoted couple, who lived in a neighboring town. They were clean morally and physically, well suited for parenthood, but on account of failure to properly understand certain symptoms or carelessness, which is worse, the family doctor was not able to prevent a complete disappointment and loss of the little one, and the life of the wife was only saved by the timely arrival of another physician. The poor woman was told that she must never attempt to bear another child, as she could not survive another such an ordeal.

Several years passed and the disappointed pair became members of the Home Health club. They finally came to me for advice and I told them that I considered God and nature wiser than their doctor and that their wishes could be gratified without danger. I carefully advised them and received letters regularly and by correspondence only directed the case throughout.

Perfect health and a perfectly normal parenthood was the happy result and only a few months ago I received a most jubilant letter from the husband announcing the safe arrival of a strong sturdy boy. I could tell you of many such cases and I assure you that such letters give me inexpressible pleasure.

The often terrible suffering and danger of modern motherhood is easily avoided when the simple and natural methods of diet and care are followed.

ALLEGED FEUDISTS ENEMIES PLAN TO RELEASED FROM JAIL ON BAIL

Ike Cox, John Graves and Jesse Carmon Given Liberty at Durango on Bonds of $10,000 Each.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Aztec, N. M., Dec. 17.—The granting of bail to Ike Cox, John Graves and Jesse Carmon, by District Judge Pike, of Durango, Colo., was accomplished Monday. Each is out on $10,000, their sureties being old friends and members of the Sheep Growers' Association. The trial is set for January next, and therefore will come up after the new judge, W. N. Searcy, has taken up his duties. Owing to the prejudice said to be prevalent in La Plata county, Colorado, there is doubt that the defendants will ask for a change of venue, with good prospects of obtaining it.

Another New Ditch Planned. Indications at this time are that another new ditch will be started in San Juan county shortly after the first of the year. Ex-Governor J. R. Orman, of Pueblo, Colo., and A. Knowles, of Denver, both large contractors, have been here the past few days looking over the extension of the Hammond ditch with a view to bidding on its construction.

The Hammond ditch, as already constructed, covers some 4,600 acres of land, but the land owners have been unsuccessful in keeping a syphon across the Canon Largo. Three times have they put in this syphon and each time high flood waters coming down the canyon have broken and carried away the syphon.

It is now proposed by Engineer Rucker to put in this Largo syphon and then extend the ditch to cover an additional 4,000 acres lying further down the San Juan valley. The placing of this land under cultivation and production will add greatly to the production of the country.

A CHRISTMAS WREATH OF BITTER-SWEET

Over the vale and hill-side
A white snow drifted lay,
As down the road from the city
Came many a jingling sleigh.

And laughter, light
As a bird in flight,
Was wafted over the way.

A woman stood at a window
And gazed, with a voiceless woe,
Where the drifting snow formed a mantle

To cover a mound below,
Whom her lips had once joy
With her baby boy,
Lay buried 'neath the snow!

A Christmas tree stood lighted
With many a taper bright,
And a father seemed to his children
The faint of the night.

As he took his part
With a carefree heart,
In his home with love alight.

Another man, in the darkness,
Shrank from the warmth and light,
As he sat alone in his madness,
From the gloom of the night.

Of a brother slain!
For the brand of Cain
Was on his soul that night!

Oh glad-days of Yuletide,
Oh good-bad human heart!
On the border land of laughter
The river tears doth start!

The saint so prized
And the wretch despised
Are but a step apart!

To Christ, born in the manger,
God's soul in human clay,
Help us to feel thy spirit
Within our hearts, we pray;

To judge not, and
To lend a hand
This glad-sad Christmas day.

President-Elect Returns to His Duties as Executive with Fighting Spirit to Front; Issues Warning to Democrats.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Trenton, N. J., Dec. 17.—Woodrow Wilson came back to the capital today in a fighting spirit and issued a warning to the voters of the state, against politicians who have opposed his progressive policies and who, he said, would again seek to control the state government as soon as he stepped from the governorship. He urged that their plans be blocked at once.

"I have been surprised," says the president-elect's statement, "by the numerous inquiries as to whether I would continue to take interest in the political affairs of the state after assuming my duties as president, and yet I realize the significance of these inquiries. Last summer I warned the voters of the state very explicitly that the men who formerly controlled and discredited our policies were awaiting their opportunity to recover their control and were expecting to find it. What I then said has been handsomely verified by what has happened in the interval."

"I am keenly aware of the fact that those men have so little respect for the voters of New Jersey that they think all they have to do is to wait to come back into power. They will be sorely disappointed. They cannot again impose upon the voters of New Jersey. If they should in some evil moment recover control of the party machinery they will only ruin the party and put it permanently out of power. Every step they take, therefore, to re-establish their power should be at once exposed and stopped."

"The people of the state need not fear that I will become indifferent so long as their confidence encourages me to believe that they wish my aid and counsel. I shall in the future use every proper and legitimate power I have and every influence at my disposal to support and assist the new forces which have regenerated our life during the past two years. I shall not go slack on this business, for I understand my duty to be to stand back of the progressive forces in the democratic party everywhere and at every juncture, and I feel that in these matters I am under particular obligations of conscience and gratitude to the people of New Jersey."

"There are plenty of persons who used to own New Jersey and whose title is now questioned, who have an ardent desire to get rid of me," said the governor to the Georgia delegation.

"I believe some of them voted for me for that reason, because they saw a chance of having me for only two years instead of three. It is very important that the people should feel that I am still connected with New Jersey. The party has now arrived at a point where it must choose whether it shall be progressive or not, and I can not separate myself from the fight. My conscience forbids me to, I see no vacations ahead of me for some time to come, and I don't feel as if I wanted one while there is a fight on."

FINE GAME PRESERVE ON BARTLETT RANCH

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Trinidad, Colo., Dec. 17.—That the elk, deer and other animals in the game preserves both in Colorado and New Mexico are in fine condition to go through the winter, was the statement made yesterday by Trinidad C. De Baca, game warden of New Mexico, who passed through the city in an automobile on his way to the Bartlett ranch, to the owners of which he will issue licenses for the propogating of all kinds of wild animals.

The Bartlett ranch lies just over the line into New Mexico and is considered one of the best of its kind in the country.

The owners, who have been in the fish and game raising business for years, are the only fish hatchery in New Mexico, and have eight ponds, where the work is carried on. The ranch have twenty-seven head of elk which have increased from a herd of twelve bought two years ago. There are also several kinds of pheasants, quail, deer and other birds and animals in their preserves.

In talking about the government fish hatchery business, Mr. De Baca said:

"In former years we have always purchased our fish fry from Colorado to restock our streams. According to plans being made now, we will try hatching them ourselves this year. We have had very little success with trout, most of the streams of New Mexico not seeming to be as well adapted for this beautiful fish as the Colorado streams."

According to Mr. De Baca, a bill has already passed the senate, and is now before the house, creating a national game preserve in Mora, Mexico, lying in the counties of Mora, San Miguel, Santa Fe and Taos.

It is probable that there will also be a state preserve created soon in the foothills of the Black range.

LAS VEGAS MAN IS CHARGED WITH CRIME OF ARSON

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal.) Las Vegas, N. M., Dec. 17.—On a complaint sworn out by Mrs. Robert Speakman, Victim Chavez was arrested this morning charged with attempting to set fire to the Speakman house.

Mrs. Speakman alleges that Chavez yesterday morning ignited a gunny sack and threw it on the roof of her dwelling. Only prompt action, she says, prevented the structure being burned to the ground.

Chavez waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the grand jury. His bond was fixed by Justice D. B. Murray at $1,000, which he was unable to give.

Chavez has been in trouble before, having shot a man about two years ago during a quarrel. He escaped prosecution on that charge, the wounded man recovering and refusing to aid in prosecuting him.

FAITH IN OLD SANTA
STOPS A PANIC IN SCHOOL FIRETots, Thinking Christmas Saint is in Chimney, March Out of Barelas Building Quietly
When Flames Break Out.

Children at the Barelas school have been learning Santa Claus lore and yesterday afternoon, when the glare of flames in the attic showed through the metal ceiling of the intermediate room, they thought the old bore, saint-himself was blocking the chimney.

"Santa Claus," chorused several small voices. The teacher stood with her back to the chimney, but the joyful little cries and pointing fingers caused her to turn. She perceived the danger instantly, but kept cool. She marched her pupils out of the building. Children in the other rooms, not knowing why, followed. There was no excitement.

A defective room in the intermediate room led the fire from the stove reach the roof timbers. Only a small area had burned before the flames showed through the metal ceiling. The plates showed red and the room was filled with the pungent odor of burning paint almost before the last child had left the room.

The children in the intermediate room range in age from 7 to 10 years and their faith in the Christmas saint still is unshaken. They were practicing for exercises to be held Friday afternoon, when school is to be dismissed for the holidays, and this suggested to their childish minds, when they saw the smoke curling from the ceiling, that the old saint was to visit them a visit ahead of time. The teacher readily took advantage of their belief to march them from the room without disorder. Pandemonium probably would have broken loose in the room if they had realized their danger.

When her charges were safely outside, the teacher promptly notified the principal who taught the older children in the room across the hall, Miss Lola Graham, principal, quietly stepped into the hall and rang the dismissal bell. The intermediate teacher had whispered to her and the older pupils did not know why the signal was given.

The bell was the signal for the primary tots, in a room at the back of the building, to leave, and they marched out with the others, leaving their wraps hanging in the hall.

When the children were all out of the building Miss Graham ran across the street to a saloon and telephoned the alarm to the fire department. The alarm was received at 2:05 o'clock and four minutes later the fire engine came to a stop in front of the school. Many of the children did not guess even then that the building was afire, and they swarmed about the engine, in the firemen's way when they jumped off with the chemical tanks. A few blows of a truckman's axe ripped a hole in the ceiling and a fireman climbed into the attic with a small tank extinguisher. The fire was out in a few minutes.

Before the firemen came Miss Graham and the teachers had carried out the children's coats and hats. They were carrying out armfuls of books while the firemen were playing on the blaze.

As soon as the firemen left, Miss Graham rang the bell and called the children back to their class rooms. School was resumed as if nothing out of the ordinary had happened. None of the little tots showed any excitement even after they had learned the cause of their sudden expulsion, and recitations were just as merry as if marching out of a building were an every-day occurrence.

The attendance at the Barelas school yesterday was 125 children. All had marched out of the building in two minutes after the fire was discovered.

"It was nothing," said Miss Graham. "The children behaved splendidly. We have been somewhat informal this week on account of preparations for Christmas exercises and my ringing the bell at an unusual hour did not surprise them."

The Barelas school was completed less than a month ago. No entrance to the attic was left by the builder, and Fire Chief Jacob Klein recommended to Miss Graham that such an opening be made. If there had been a hole in the ceiling the firemen would not have been forced to cut their way through. The damage of their axes was nearly as great as that due to the fire, according to the chief.

A mass meeting held last night at the Commercial club to nominate a justice of the peace for Precinct No. 25, renominated Judge George R. Craig.

Robert L. Moore, who apparently made up the opposition, attempted to postpone the nomination. It was evident when Charles Chadwick called the meeting to order that the sense of the attendance was strongly Craig.

Mr. Chadwick was elected chairman without opposition. Frank A. Hubbard made the nomination. Moore was elected secretary.

Joseph Miller at once moved that the meeting proceed with the nomination of candidates for justice. Moore then made his first attempt to defer the nomination.

"This is a hotch-potch gathering," he said. "We might hear whether they want an independent candidate for justice, and meet later to make the nomination. We hardly know what we're here for." He suggested that Miller's motion be tabled. Several speakers, however, supported Miller.

Moore then amended his suggestion. He thought it would be well for the chairman to appoint a committee of three men from each political party to decide upon a nominee and report Saturday night. A chorus of "noes," greeted him.

"Let the committee report then in twenty minutes," said Moore. Another chorus of negatives followed.

"I do not favor that," declared Mr. Miller. "This crowd is not so large as to require a committee. It can act as a committee of the whole." Loud clapping indicated that the crowd thought so, too.

Moore arose, and the crowd called: "Question."

"Too," the decision of this meeting bind everyone here to vote for the nominee?" asked Mr. Moore.

"No," shouted several.

"I move we adjourn," yelled Moore. Mr. Chadwick was going to put the motion, but someone insisted it was out of order, so he asked for a vote on Moore's amendment. It was tabled.

Mr. Miller's motion then carried, only Mr. Moore voting against it.

Moore next wanted a recess for ten minutes. The crowd didn't. Mr. Moore cast the only vote for his motion for a recess. If the person who seconded it voted, his voice was drowned in the cries of "No."

George Arnot nominated Justice Craig. There were several seconds, and then nominations were closed. The nomination of Justice Craig was declared unanimous. The nominee was escorted into the room by a committee composed of Moore, Miller and Arnot.

"I thank you for the nomination," said Justice Craig. "I know that perhaps I have made enemies, but the Creator himself couldn't hold a justice court without making enemies."

"I cannot decide in favor of both sides, and some have held that against me. I will not say that I will give better service in the future, because I have given the best that's in me. I shall continue to give the same good service if I am re-elected."

Charles Schelke was nominated for constable of Precinct 26 by John A. Tandberg. His nomination was unanimous.

The crowd filled the meeting room at the Commercial club and overflowed into the reading room. The big doors between the two rooms were opened.

JUDICIAL OFFICERS

DISTRICTS THURSDAY

Judicial officers are at a premium in Albuquerque. There is an injunction suit coming up tomorrow, when the case of Stamm vs. Presbyterian sanitarium and City of Albuquerque will be heard. This action is one to prevent the sanitarium from maintaining its building in what was originally the street and wants the ground claimed by them which was formerly the west fifty feet of Mulberry street. This plot of ground was exchanged by the city for an equal width east of the old street.

Stamm claims that this put a jog in the street and damaged him and other property owners to a considerable degree. He prays an injunction to prevent the sanitarium from maintaining its building in what was originally the street and wants the ground claimed by them which was formerly the west fifty feet of Mulberry street. This plot of ground was exchanged by the city for an equal width east of the old street.

The matter will likely be postponed indefinitely, but it is a question whether the lack of a judge to hear the case will not affect the legal standing of the parties.

HIS FIGHT WITH TOMMY RYAN

Federal Grand Jury at Chicago Returns Additional Indictments Charging Violations of White Slave Act.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Three additional indictments under the federal white slave act were returned against Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, by the federal grand jury here today. The charges are similar to those contained in the previous indictments against the negro and concern the transportation of Belle Schneider between Chicago, Pittsburgh and Milwaukee.

DECLARES WOMAN HAS NO MARKET VALUE

Washington, Dec. 17.—On the ground that the white slave act was designed to prohibit trafficking in women, and not to forbid immoral acts, Benjamin C. Bachrach, attorney for Jack Johnson, today filed in the supreme court an argument to show that Johnson should be acquitted on the indictment of having violated that law. The attorney further argued that congress exceeded its powers in passing the act as a regulation of interstate commerce because "a woman has no market value" and therefore does not come under the jurisdiction of interstate commerce regulations.

RYAN HAD SHADE IF ANYTHING IN PRESCOTT FIGHT

In a telegram received yesterday from Billy Welsh, director of the Prescott Athletic club, before which the Tommy Ryan-Jack McMahon bout was staged Monday night, Welsh gives Ryan credit for putting up a great fight, and says that the San Francisco boxer had a shade, if anything, on McMahon. The telegram, which is interesting to local fans, follows:

After one of the best bouts ever staged in the southwest, Tommy Ryan and Jack McMahon boxed twenty fast rounds to a draw last night. Ryan put McMahon down for the count five in the eleventh round when bell rang. Referee said if there was any shade it was in Ryan's favor.

GEORGE EVANS AND HIS MINSTREL SHOW DE LUXE

New in Its Entirety and Adequately Staged, the Famous Honey Boy Production is Sensation of Season.

George Evans and his "Honey Boy" minstrels will appear at the Elks' theater on Friday night. New in its entirety, this year's production is described as being adequately staged and handsomely embellished in a costume and scenic way and presenting the diminutive comedian's conception of "idealized minstrelsy."

Seated in the usual semi-circle, with Vaughn Comfort presiding as interactor, the following minstrel favorites are presented when the curtain rises on the beautiful scenic opening part, "The Floral Bower." Comedians John King, Sam Lee, Jack Leary, Raymond Mason, and Tommy Hyde, singers James Meehan, Jim Roberts, Joseph Gillespie, Thomas Richards, Carl Bial, Jack Foley, Lew Weed and John Alexander. Heart-touching melodies of former days and popular songs of the present are rendered during this division, which is brought to a ship-bang finish with the rendition of the big hit of the Elks' Frolic, led by Tommy Hyde, "I Want to Hear an Irish Band Play on St. Patrick's Day."

As in former days the pretentious afterpiece is intended to be the piece de resistance of the production. This year it is called "De Go Lightly Guards Reception," and its book, lyrics and music are from the versatile "Honey Boy." Evans is in his favorite characterization of a roustabout, the character of the love is given the name of "De Go Lightly." The members of the company are presented in the roles of dusky belles and sportive beaux in this beautiful moonlight picture of a girls' seminary in the southland.

Evans' monologue, which shows him in his happiest vein, and a clever impersonation exhibition by Tommy Hyde, feature the olio.

NORMAL BASKETBALL TEAM WINS FROM THE DEMING HIGH SCHOOL

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Silver City, N. M., Dec. 17.—The New Mexico Normal school again showed its prowess in basketball by taking both games from the Deming high school team at the armory here on last Friday night.

In the first game, the small but appreciative crowd was treated to a real contest. From the time the game started until the final whistle blew it was anybody's game. Three times during the contest the score was tied and as many times the "sand-diggers" were in the lead. Three minutes before time was called the score stood 16 to 15 in favor of the visitors, but fast work on the part of the locals brought the final score up to 18 to 16 in favor of the Normal school.

The Deming team shows decided improvement over last season, especially in goal throwing. The Normal girls, though hardly as strong yet as last year's team, displayed a great deal of skill and played a strong, aggressive game against the four tactics of the Deming guards. The Normal girls have not lost a game in the last two seasons and had fair to make a record for their school by consistent winning which has come to be a second nature with them.

In the boys' game the Normal quintet played the Deming boys off their feet. From the outset it was clear that the locals would have an easy win. Williams of the Normal, scoring a goal less than a minute after the game started. What the Deming boys lacked in skill they seemed determined to make up for by fouling. A return game will be played at Deming some time in January at which time the high school players threaten to take the Normal school team's measure.

The Normal has a strong schedule in sight, including games with the A and M College and possibly a game with El Paso and a trip to Albuquerque and Las Vegas. The Normal school basketball team is on the "war path" and has developed into a state championship class where it means to stay.

Speculative Activity Fails to Appear Following Spectacular Trading in the Leading Stocks on Day Previous.

(By Morning Journal Special-Teased Wire) New York, Dec. 17.—There was a decided slowing down of speculative activity today and the stock market appeared listless by comparison with recent days of feverish trading and speculative fluctuations. Traders who bought stocks eagerly yesterday, after announcement of the supreme court's anthracite decision, showed little inclination to follow up the rise today. Speculation lagged and quotations fell back. The change was regarded as a natural reaction from yesterday's sharp rise, but served to illustrate the market's propensity to give more heed to bad news than to good news.

Movements were irregular and halting. Reading at one time sold 2½ below yesterday's close and later 1 point over. The general list veered back and forth and ended the day with moderate losses predominating. The change in the market may have been due to some extent to a revision of yesterday's first impressions as to the import of the anthracite decree. The comparative ease with which stocks sold off discouraged bullish operations and there were no indications that yesterday's developments had effected any positive change in the underlying market conditions. Call money rates were somewhat firmer and this reminder of monetary conditions which may prevail at the close of the year, helped to check speculative activity.

Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Wheat today advanced owing largely to disquiet concerning the European war situation. The market closed firm, ½ to ½ up. Unfounded reports that Turkey had rejected the peace terms offered at London, gave wheat bulls an advantage soon after the market opened. A big decrease in the European visible supply had a like effect. Accordingly traders paid little heed to the government crop report which was dismissed as only moderately bullish. Primary receipts, three times the size of the total a year ago, led to a reaction in wheat, but a bullish analysis of spring crop supplies apparently showing that the northwest crop had been put on a domestic basis, acted as a complete offset.

May wheat ranged from 89½ to 90½, with last sales at the top figures reached, a gain of ½ cent.

Improved export demand averted any material decline in corn. May closed steady, at 48½ to 48¾. Cash grades were easy.

Boying on the part of elevator and cash houses brought about firmness in oats. May closed at 32½.

Provisions weakened, but closed mostly unchanged.

Wheat—Dec., 85½ cents; May, 90½ cents; July, 87 cents.

LITTE E ACTIVITY ON THE NEW YORK EXCHANGE

Speculative Activity Fails to Appear Following Spectacular Trading in the Leading Stocks on Day Previous.

(By Morning Journal Special-Teased Wire) New York, Dec. 17.—There was a decided slowing down of speculative activity today and the stock market appeared listless by comparison with recent days of feverish trading and speculative fluctuations. Traders who bought stocks eagerly yesterday, after announcement of the supreme court's anthracite decision, showed little inclination to follow up the rise today. Speculation lagged and quotations fell back. The change was regarded as a natural reaction from yesterday's sharp rise, but served to illustrate the market's propensity to give more heed to bad news than to good news.

Movements were irregular and halting. Reading at one time sold 2½ below yesterday's close and later 1 point over. The general list veered back and forth and ended the day with moderate losses predominating. The change in the market may have been due to some extent to a revision of yesterday's first impressions as to the import of the anthracite decree. The comparative ease with which stocks sold off discouraged bullish operations and there were no indications that yesterday's developments had effected any positive change in the underlying market conditions. Call money rates were somewhat firmer and this reminder of monetary conditions which may prevail at the close of the year, helped to check speculative activity.

WOMAN WHO KILLED HUSBAND TO GO TO PUEBLO

Mrs. Mabel Bliss and Sister Expected in Albuquerque Today on Way to Colorado; Sister Gets Children.

Mrs. Mabel Bliss, who shot her husband last week, at Socorro, and her sister, Mrs. H. B. Wells, will be in Albuquerque, probably today, on their way to Pueblo, Colo.

Mrs. Wells was to have left Socorro Monday night, after the preliminary examination of her sister, for El Paso, Tex., to get the two Bliss children, according to A. J. McKee, a witness, who returned to Albuquerque yesterday. Mrs. Bliss was to wait at Socorro until her sister came back with the children and then they will go to Pueblo.

Socorro people have shown sympathy toward Mrs. Bliss since the reasons that led her to shoot her husband have become known. A family there asked her to stay with them until Mrs. Wells returned.

Stanley Seder, a former university student, whose skill in handling the pipe organ and piano has won him marked praise not only here but in other places where he has played, will render several organ selections, the splendid instrument at the Presbyterian church lending itself well to solo work.

MADAM SHERRY NOT UP TO STANDARD OF YEAR AGO

Last Night's Production Lacking in Both Company and Stage Settings; Price Only Was First-Class.

Despite the effort to perpetuate and enlarge upon former glories, the second local production of "Madame Sherry" lacked the spirit and dash which characterized the previous presentation. Comparisons are proverbially odious, but sometimes necessary. Something was lacking, both as to company and stage settings. The cast as a whole was noticeably short on actual ability and good looks, and long on nerve. Alas, nerve is not all that is requisite.

That "Madame Sherry" was popularly supposed to still hold her own in the stage world, was proven by the large number who cheerfully paid $2 to welcome the tuneless favorite on a second visit. That they departed wiser and less cheerful, may be surmised.

"Madame Sherry" is a really musical show, just enough above routine to invest the score with a strong tinge of originality, and yet well kept within the range of popular appreciation. It is unique in that it has a plot and provides situations, which strung on a continuous thread, might have made a consistent and amusing farce or comedy.

As a musical show it is charming, and it most certainly did not receive justice at the hands of the producing company last night.

The scenic equipment was travel stained and dilapidated, the last change of scene being entirely overlooked. Even the costumes looked frayed about the edges, and the leading lady only changed her dress twice—enough to condemn a play with the feminine part of the audience, at least.

Throughout there was an omission of accessories and a neglect of detail that stamped the production as second-rate. If the price of admission had not been so exceedingly first class, these things may have better have escaped notice.

The acting and singing was neither conspicuously good nor conspicuously bad, simply a praiseworthy effort with an agreeable, but unimpressive result.

To be perfectly fair, the company was not actually shy on voice and several were uncommonly nimble in graceful terpsichorean feats. These had plenty of opportunity to perform as "Madame Sherry" has a tendency to break into dance at the slightest suggestion of a tripping measure.

There was a perceptible falling off in chorus girls, quantity and quality.

The only members of the cast who deserve special mention were Miss Helen Moore, who played the part of "Catherine," wife of Edward Sherry, pro tem; Mr. Ben Grinnell as "Philip," Catherine's husband; and Mr. Morten, who displayed both voice and method as "Theophilus." Miss Moore has considerable dramatic ability and a voice of good quality and good range.

Miss Gypsy Dale, who undertook the part of "Yvonne," and who didn't live up to all of its possibilities, did her best work in the little champagne song, "I'm All Right." Lillian Smalley, as "Lula," were the only pretty frocks seen all evening, and danced with considerable expression and grace.

As a whole, however, "Madame Sherry" demonstrated forcibly that a past reputation and an indifferent company, used in combination on any play—no matter how good it may be—are apt to leave the kindest audience in a pondering humor on the cant-come-lackness of things theatrical.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

George M. Mackellar, a lawyer of Brooklyn, N. Y., who was a resident of Albuquerque more than thirty years ago, arrived in Albuquerque yesterday with his wife, for a visit. Mr. Mackellar was admitted to the bar in Bernalillo county, April 27, 1881. At that time Albuquerque consisted of a Harvey eating house, which was a small frame structure, resembling the railroad section house of today, and one saloon. Mr. Mackellar is exceedingly surprised at the change Albuquerque has undergone since that time.

Youth Decides Life is Not Worth Living and Ends It All, Leaving Homily on Evil of Existence.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) New York, Dec. 17.—After filling two sheets of foolscap with a defense of his suicidal intentions, 16-year-old Joseph Dobin committed suicide at his east side home tonight. Beside him were the writings of the Russian novelist, Turgeneff, on death, and his own views.

"I do not want any of you to be troubled with my voluntary death," he wrote. "It is necessary to terminate an odious and useless existence, and what is necessary, is just."

"There is a great deal of talk about cowardice of taking one's life. I believe it is even still more cowardly to submit weakly to social conditions, to allow one's individuality to be crushed in the grind of commercialism. I believe a serious blunder has been made in bringing me into this world, as it has been made in the millions of tolling, dragging human beings condemned to a life of misery and drudgery."

Alleging Combinations in Restraint of Trade Attorney General Would Collect Fines Aggregating $7,600,000.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Austin, Tex., Dec. 17.—Alleging combination in restraint of trade and the "fixing" of prices, State Attorney General Walthall, of Texas, today filed suit against the Texas Portland Cement Company, with headquarters in Dallas, the Southwestern States Portland Cement Company, Dallas; the Southwestern Portland Cement Company, El Paso, and the Alamo Cement Company, San Antonio, Penalties aggregating $7,600,000, are asked.

United States Judge Wilcox, before whom the suit was filed, granted a temporary injunction restraining the defendants from removing their property from Texas or concealing their books. Application for a receiver will be heard by Judge Wilcox on December 27th. The bill asks that the alleged trust be dissolved and its component parts ousted from the state; that a receiver be appointed and that penalties of $1,900,000 be collected from each concern.

With the exception of the Alamo Cement Company, the companies are chartered under the laws of Virginia. The Alamo Company was chartered in Texas.

INSURGENTS BLOCK IMMIGRATION BILL

Washington, Dec. 17.—Opposition by a majority composed of republicans and democrats, steered by Republican Leader Mann, tonight held up action in the house on the literacy test immigration bill after a second day of heated debate over the measure. Apparently every method of obstruction had been expressed and a final vote was about to be taken when

DOCTORS INDORSE NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE FOR THE HAIR

When a doctor endorses a preparation it means more than an ordinary testimonial. His opinion is always that of the professional man devoted to the welfare of the people.

Dr. J. J. Boyd, Covington, Tenn., says: "I feel it my duty to write this for the benefit of those suffering from dandruff. In the average case a few applications of Newbro's Herpicide will remove all dandruff. It is advisable to continue its use for several weeks."

The words of J. B. Thompson, M. D., No. 2 Burroughs Place, Cor. Hollis St., Boston, Mass., are not less enthusiastic: "I can only speak in praise of Newbro's Herpicide. It is all that is claimed and perhaps more. Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp but brightens the hair, gives it life and makes it soft."

Dr. T. A. Moore, Duncan, Ariz.,

writer of his experience: "My scalp was in places covered by patches of dry, scaly material and the itching was incessant. Since using Herpicide all these evils have disappeared and my hair is soft, smooth and growing. Hair has grown on spots before the thinly covered."

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy to kill the dandruff germ and stop falling hair. The terrible itching which goes with dandruff is allayed almost at once.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all druggists who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications may be obtained at the leading barber shops. Be sure you get genuine Herpicide. Send for in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich. J. H. O'Reilly Co., Special Agents.

APACHES TO MOVE FROM FT. SILL IN SPRING

Government Arranges to Place Most of Geronimo's Band on Mescalero Reservation in New Mexico.

(By Morning Journal Special Lensed Wire.) Washington, Dec. 17.—Of the Apache Indians held as prisoners of war at Fort Sill, Okla., 176 have been elected to remove to the Mescalero Indian reservation in southern New Mexico, while the remaining 88 will take up their residence among the Kiowa and Comanches in Oklahoma, says a report submitted today to Acting Indian Commissioner Abbott by the committee appointed to take up the matter. Chief Geronimo's widow has decided to go to the Mescalero reservation where a daughter of the famous chief lives. Only six members of the original band which followed Geronimo in his warpath days remain and they will go to Mescalero. They are: Christian Natche, aged 56; Heche, 75; Leon Ferico, 60; Calvin Zhonne, 47; Yar-No-Seha, 47, and Tus North-Tos, 47.

As the $200,000 appropriated at the last session will not be sufficient to provide for moving and securing lands for all the Apaches, congress will be asked to make an additional appropriation of about $100,000. It is planned to move as many next spring as the money available, will permit.

CASH REGISTER CASE CONTINUES TO DRAG

Cincinnati, Dec. 17.—A. P. Warman, of Trenton, N. J., former National Cash Register Company's agent, was the government's principal witness today in the trial of President J. H. Patterson and other officials of the National Cash Register Company, charged with violating the Sherman anti-trust law. Warman testified that before his employment by the National Cash Register Company, and on one occasion at Patterson, N. J., had seen a National store window displaying three Union machines draped with a mourning with a sign on them which read: "The Union Cash Register Company died today, buried tomorrow."

He said that he tried to obtain a photograph of the window, but the shades were drawn down just as the photographer was about to snap the shutter. He said he worked for the National company following the close of the Union company and was instructed to "knock" out all the Union machines he had played in Trenton. He claimed he did this in many cases.

HUNGARY NEGOTIATES LOAN IN AMERICA

London, Dec. 18.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph reports that the Hungarian government is negotiating with the American syndicate which arranged the Austrian loan, for the immediate issue of a loan of $50,000,000.

The Austrian loan of $25,000,000 was placed with an American syndicate which included Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the National City Bank of New York. This loan has from eighteen months to two years to run.

Rancher's Son Dragged to Death

Belle Fourche, S. D., Dec. 17.—Earl Cody, son of a well known ranchman near Elson, this county, was "roped" and dragged to his death by some unknown enemy and the body was thrown into a small creek, declare county officials. Several gashes were found on Cody's head and the throat was purple and swollen.

ESCAPED CONVICT KILLED BY DEPUTIES

Globe, Ariz., Dec. 17.—Lorenzo Gutierrez, a lifer who escaped from the convict "honor" camp in the Pinal mountains near here last Sunday, was shot and killed at Fort Thomas today while resisting capture by two deputy sheriffs. Posses of fellow convicts trailing Gutierrez arrived at Fort Thomas a few minutes after Gutierrez was killed. Gutierrez was serving a life term for murder. A Papago Indian who escaped from the camp at the same time, returned today. He said he had been deer hunted.

GOOD ROADS LOCAL GAINS HUNDRED AND QUARTER MEMBERS

Enthusiasm Raised to High Pitch Yesterday Afternoon, When Dozen Workers Bring in Ten Names Each.

CAMPAIGN SUCCEEDS DESPITE BAD WEATHER

Small Band of Energetic Solicitors Enlists Enough Recruits to Treble Number of Organized Boosters in City.

"Local day" justified the Albuquerque local of the New Mexico Good Roads Association yesterday afternoon by being a complete success. This is the first real accomplishment of the local, and considering the fact that the weather was very inclement and that only a dozen or so members worked at the canvassing, the result is remarkable. The entire list of new members was added within a single hour.

At 3:26 yesterday afternoon a little crowd of boosters assembled around E. L. Grose's automobile, in front of the Armijo building at Second and Central avenues, and five minutes afterward four or five little bands were at work. They stopped everybody, known or unknown, and the man who escaped without having a red good roads badge pinned to his coat front was a wonder at argument. There were some kickers, of course, who attempted to call the roads local to account for the sins of omission and commission which properly belong to the county commissioners, but the majority of those approached forked over their dollar membership fee with good grace. When the hour of work had been completed, the canvassers assembled again and checked up their notes. They found that 125 new members had been added to the list of fifty-seven which comprised the membership Monday evening. This, in view of the small crowd of canvassers which had turned out, and the bad weather, was considered very satisfactory for an hour's work.

Just an hour was devoted to the canvassing. No member of the local was asked to do more than work that hour. Some of them failed to turn out, but those who did work yesterday afternoon were too well satisfied with the results attained to be captious about others having done nothing.

Local day is the result of a plan submitted to the local three weeks ago by the program committee, which held that an increased membership was the first thing the local should work for. Now that the increase has been attained, other matters will be given the attention of the local.

Owing to the hurried accounting made last night, it is possible that some names may have been omitted in the figuring up. Any whose names are so omitted are requested to notify Secretary E. L. Grose of that fact today, that corrections may be made.

The new members are as follows:

Charles Mainz, H. B. Cornell, Dr. F. E. Toll, G. B. Roberts, J. C. Nichols, Leslie M. Harkness, Dr. M. K. Wylder, Dick Lewis, D. A. Macpherson, Thomas F. Keeler, Jr., Reuben Perry, William Kieck, Charles Granger, Ed Donohue, J. A. Harlan, George R. Craig, Dr. W. M. Sheridan, Nestor Montoya, F. A. Hubbard, George P. Leonard, Harry Leonard, A. F. Trotter, E. E. Finley, J. M. Gosh, Dr. H. L. Hunt, J. R. Sheehan, F. W. Schumacher, L. C. Bennett, H. O. Brooks, H. Benjamin, W. H. Springer, F. L. Schneider, P. T. Loneragan, Judge W. W. J. Maloy, Dr. W. E. Provines, C. E. Hodgins.

Two men who had already enrolled in the association paid again for their memberships yesterday, probably forgetting that they had already joined the association. Neither had attended a meeting to date. Their names are omitted from the list given above, which is strictly a list of new members.

The next function of the local is the lecture of D. E. Burrell, the government expert, who enters the state today to lecture at a number of places.

BE STRONG

The men and women who do big things are strong and full of vitality and rich red blood. It takes a great deal of strength to meet the demands of every day life, too, and everyone should watch his strength as closely as he watches his money.

If you are not as strong as you ought to be, but feel weak and tired after a little effort, if you are pale, thin and nervous, then you need Vinol, our splendid cod liver and iron tonic, which has done such a wonderful work in making the weak strong all over this country. We sell so much of it that we can judge of its remarkable strengthening and blood-making power. So we say: "Take Vinol on our say so, no matter if you are young or old, and if it does not please you we give back your money."

JUAREZ BOUND OVER ON CHARGE OF BURGLARY

Prisoner Says He Bought Sack of Flour from Man Whom He Met in Alley, But Was Too Drunk to Recognize Him.

Pablo Juarez, charged with breaking into the Otto Berger feed store, was yesterday bound over to the grand jury by Justice George R. Craig.

Juarez, carrying a sack of flour, was arrested early Sunday morning by Tony Guavara, merchant policeman, in the rear of the store. He said in the justice court that he bought the flour from a man whom he met in the alley. He was hurrying, he said, because he feared the police might see him and "think he stole the flour." He told the justice he was so drunk he did not know the man of whom he made the purchase.

Justice Craig fixed his bond at $800. Being unable to furnish that amount, Juarez was taken to the county jail last night to await the session of the grand jury.

WEIGH CLERK IN POSTOFFICE HELPS STAMP SELLERS

A weigh clerk was yesterday placed in the lobby of the postoffice, armed with a pair of scales and a blue pencil. To him persons having packages to send bring them to be weighed. He marks each package with the weight and tells the sender how many stamps to put on it. This helps the stamp clerks handle the crowds much more rapidly than is possible when they have to weigh each package before selling the stamps for it.

NEW MEXICO SEAL MAY BE PLACED ON MONUMENT

Governor McDonald Promises to Call to Attention of Legislature Invitation of Washington Memorial Association.

A previous invitation to New Mexico was submitted to the state legislature April 19th, but no action was taken. Governor McDonald, according to Mr. Harvey, promised to refer to the side-tracked invitation in his message to the legislature.

Mr. Harvey believes the legislature should adopt a joint resolution providing for the New Mexico stone. The state only has to furnish the stone, engraved with its seal, and the federal government will place it in the monument without charge, Mr. Harvey says.

He believes that if the resolution were adopted a public spirited citizen probably would furnish the stone. Quarry owners have done this in other states. The face of the state stone is two by four feet. They are only six inches thick. A hole six inches deep is cut in the walls of the monument for the slabs.

State memorials must be of native stone.

MAN WANTED BY SHERIFF OF BELEN JUMPS OFF TRAIN

J. Bradshaw, 56 years old, wanted by the sheriff's office at Belen, last night jumped from Santa Fe train No. 816, south of the viaduct. The train was going fast and the police, thinking he might have been injured, searched the railroad yards. They did not find him.

Deputy Sheriff Fred Becker, of Belen, told the police here that Bradshaw is charged with failure to pay a board bill. He boarded train No. 816 at Belen, evidently having walked from Belen, and Deputy Sheriff Becker was on the train.

He attempted to hold Bradshaw when he jumped, the deputy sheriff said, but he tore away from him. Bradshaw fell when he struck the ground and rolled. Becker did not see him get up.
