CHECK GIVEN FOR MILLION TO MAN WITHOUT CENT IN WORLD

J. Pierpont Morgan Continues
Testimony Before Pujo Committee Investigating the So-Called Money Trust.

FINANCIER'S ANSWERS SHORT AND SNAPPY

Believes in Co-Operation and Competition; Sees No Menace in Interlocking Directorates, He Asserts.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)

Washington, Dec. 19.—J. P. Morgan today told the money trust investigating committee of the house that "all the money in Christendom" could not form a monopoly that would control money. For nearly five hours the chief witness called by the committee in its investigation of the intricacies of modern finance stood a running fire of questions that covered every phase of financial operation. In some respects it was one of the most remarkable hearings about the halls of congress in years, with Mr. Morgan as the physical embodiment of operations on a colossal scale and the committee's counsel, Samuel Untermyer, the representative of the element that seeks to probe to the innermost recesses the conditions under which vast financial operations are conducted.

Mr. Morgan gave his views on competition, combination, co-operation and control in industry and finance, particularly the latter. He declared he did not mind competition, but that he preferred "combination" in his operations.

There was not a moment when interest lagged. Short, sharp questions and answers came with striking rapidity. The question of competition and combination brought about a lively exchange between the financier and Mr. Untermyer, the latter opening the tilt with the suggestion that Mr. Morgan was opposed to competition. The witness denied this, but said he favored "co-operation," adding that he "liked a little competition."

He disagreed with the views of Mr. Untermyer on the question of interlocking directorates.

Without actual control, Mr. Morgan claimed, there is no control, although some directors may be common to several corporations.

"You and Mr. Baker (George F. Baker) dominate the anthracite coal road situation, do you not?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"I do not think we do," said Mr. Morgan. "At least, if we do, I do not know it."

"You do not think you have any power in any department of industry in this country, do you?"

"Not the slightest."

"And you are not looking for any?"

"I am not seeking it, either."

"This consolidation and amalgamation of systems and industries and banks does not look to you any concentration, does it?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"No, sir," answered the witness.

"It is for the purpose of concentrating the interests that you do amalgamate, is it not?"

"If it is good business for the interests of the country to do it."

"But, Mr. Morgan, is not a man likely, quite subconsciously, to imagine that things are for the interests of the country when they are good business?"

"No, sir."

"You think that you are able to justly and impartially differentiate whether your own interests are concerned just as clearly as though you had no interest at stake, do you?"

"Exactly, sir," replied the witness.

"Of course, there is a possibility of your judgment being mistaken, is there not? Does it not go somewhat on the theory that the wish may be father to the thought?"

"What is your question?"

"That the wish is to bring these interests together may lead you to believe the country is not injured by that sort of concentration?"

"I do not think so."

Later Mr. Untermyer touched upon the basis of money control.

"The control of credit involves the control of money, does it not?" he asked.

"No, sir," said Mr. Morgan. "What I call money is the basis of banking."

"But the basis of banking is credit, is it not?"

"Not always," said the witness.

"That is an evidence of banking, but it is not the money itself. The money is gold, and nothing else."

Out of the discussion that followed Mr. Untermyer drew the fact that comparatively little money exists for the vast superstructure of credit which it supports.

"If you had the control of all that represents the assets in the banks of New York, you would have the control of money, of all that money," he suggested.

"No, you would not," answered Mr. Morgan.

"If a man controlled the credit of a country he would control all its affairs," said Mr. Untermyer.

"He might have that view," retorted

ed the financier, "but he would not have the money. If he had the credit and I had the money his customer would be badly off."

He added that many men had great credit who had no money.

"Because people believe in the man," he said. "I have given a man a check for $1,000,000 when I knew he had not one cent in the world."

Mr. Morgan was led at some length into a statement of his views on combination and concentration of financial affairs. He reiterated he was an advocate of combination and co-operation.

"Without you have control," he said, "you can not do anything."

"Is that the reason you want to control everything?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"I want to control nothing," retorted the financier.

"There is no way one man can get a monopoly of money?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"Or control of it," replied Mr. Morgan.

"He can make a try at it?"

"No, sir, he can not. He may have all the money in Christendom but he can not do it."

"If you owned all the banks of New York, with all their resources, would you not come pretty nearly having control of credit?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"No, sir, not at all."

"Suppose you owned all the banks and trust companies or controlled them and somebody wanted to start up in the steel business against the United States Steel Corporation and wanted a vast amount of capital and it was a good business, New York would be in the natural market for money, would it not?"

"Yes."

"I want to know whether, if you controlled all those banks and a competitor came along or a potential competitor who wanted to compete whether he would get the money from those banks you control?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"Yes, he would," replied the financier.

"Some other men who might control might not take the view you have?" suggested the lawyer.

"He would not have the control," replied Mr. Morgan.

"That is your idea, is it; your idea is that when a man has got a vast power such as you have, you admit you have, do you not?"

"I do not know it, sir."

"You admit you have, do you not?"

"I do not think I have," said Mr. Morgan.

"You do not feel it at all?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"No, I do not feel it at all," replied the banker.

Well, assuming that you had it, your idea is that when a man abuses it he loses it?"

"Yes, and he never gets it back (Continued on Page Six.)

DYNAMITING CRIME OF CONVICTED MEN ALONE

Defense for Alleged Conspirators Asserts That Government Has Not Shown That Accused Violated Law.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)

Indianapolis, Dec. 19.—Upon the McNamara brothers and Orrie E. McNamara, the confessed dynamiters who, in the name of labor unions, committed crimes against which civilization revolts, but in which labor unions took no part.

Charles H. Krum, arguing to the jury in the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today, rested the responsibility for the series of explosions which the forty defendants are charged with having caused.

The defense's counsel attacked the confession of McNamara, "because this same McNamara is an admitted thief who testified in court that he stole twelve hundred pounds of dynamite and hid it in the shed of his unsuspecting father at Tiffin, Ohio."

"It is not within the power of the federal government to prosecute for acts of intimidation committed against employers of non-union labor," said Mr. Krum. "These defendants are charged with conspiring to carry prohibited explosives against the federal law, and it has not been shown that they did so conspire or that they met to do so specifically with a view of violating that law."

"The government has characterized James R. McNamara, the destroyer of human life at Los Angeles, as a degenerate. What in the name of God shall we call John J. McNamara? If he is not a paranoiac, there never was one."

When Mr. Krum told the jury that the statute of limitation had run against some of the acts charged, Federal Judge A. B. Anderson interrupted him, saying:

"You tell that to the jury and I shall instruct the jury it is not the law."

D. Fredericks, district attorney of Los Angeles county, left for Los Angeles tonight to prepare for the second trial of Clarence Darrow, on a jury bribing charge, set for January 6th.

Orrie McNamara, a prisoner of Los Angeles county, will be kept in Indianapolis until after the trials and about ten days hence, when he will be returned to Los Angeles. When McNamara pleaded guilty there, he was brought to Indianapolis on a writ and it is understood he has never been relinquished from the custody of the Los Angeles county officers.

WILSON PROPOSES TO CURB TRUSTS IN STATE OF NEW JERSEY

President-Elect Begins Study of Corporation Laws and Will Draft Measure to Prevent Evil.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS FOR HITCHCOCK'S PLACE

Senator Overman of North Carolina Presents Formal Request for Appointment of Tarheel Editor.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 19.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson pored today over the corporation laws of New Jersey with a view to recommending radical changes in them to the legislature. After he had worked most of the day in his capacity as governor, he listened to a formal appeal by United States Senator Overman, of North Carolina, that Josephus Daniels, national committeeman from that state for nearly twenty years, be appointed postmaster general in the Wilson cabinet.

The president-elect made no comment. He announced also that he would meet William J. Bryan, for the first time since the election, on Saturday morning.

The governor's day was concentrated for the most part on the corporation questions. Repeated charges were made during the national campaign by Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Hiram Johnson, that Mr. Wilson had failed to put into effect any legislation curbing trusts that were chartered as New Jersey corporations. Though his opponents devoted many speeches to this argument, Mr. Wilson never made a speech of reply.

Once he telegraphed briefly to Senator Overman, of New York, which was made public, in which he declared that as the state legislature always had been republican in one or both branches, he had been unable to put forth his promised program of reform. He added also that evils complained of in connection with the trusts mostly concerned federal jurisdiction. The governor took no further cognizance of the question during the campaign, telling his friends, however, that he always had intended reform and would begin it if he could get a legislature that was democratic in both branches. His wish being fulfilled, the governor started to work in earnest today, calling to his aid Edwin Walker, chancellor of the state, and Judge Bennett van Syckel formerly of the state supreme court. These men, with Governor Wilson, will draft the new legislation. On national politics, the president-elect was reticent. He had nothing to say about his approaching visit with Mr. Bryan, and in recounting the events of the day, passed quickly over the mention of cabinet appointments.

"Senator Overman came with a generous lot of recommendations in support of Mr. Daniels for the postmaster generalship," said the governor, and added rapidly, "then Sam Gordon cut me hair."

Gordon is the governor's messenger at the state house, who has acted as a bar to New Jersey's governors for a score of years. The name of Mr. Daniels, urged for the postmaster generalship, is the first that is definitely known as having been considered by Mr. Wilson for any cabinet office. Though Mr. Daniels was close to the governor throughout the campaign, having been chairman of the campaign committee on publicity, he has not seen the governor since.

BODIES OF KEARNY AND LAWRENCE RECOVERED

Corpses of Ill-Fated Aviator and His Newspaper Companion Found Floating in Pacific Near Redondo Beach.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)

Redondo Beach, Cal., Dec. 19.—The bodies of Chester Lawrence and Aviator Horace Kearny, who essayed the over-ocean flight to San Francisco last Saturday, were found near here today. The body of Lawrence was found on the rocks of an inlet several miles south of here, and that of Kearny was floating one mile off the inlet.

Lawrence's red sweater and his shirt, coat and vest were drawn over his head, showing that he had striven frantically to free himself of his clothing. The hydro-aeroplane dropped into the sea.

The bodies of Kearny and Lawrence lie side by side tonight in a little undertaking shop at Redondo Beach. Ten hours after the body of the young reporter, battered almost beyond recognition by waves and rocks, was found on the precipitous coast near Rocky Point, that of his aviator companion was picked up a mile away at sea by a searching party in charge of George B. Harrison, a skilled aviator and close friend of the unfortunate pair.

Kearny's body was found entangled in kelp and partially attached to a life preserver the white cloth of which glistening in the sunlight, attracted the searchers to the spot. There was no indication that Kearny had not died soon after his hydro-aeroplane struck the water. The life preserver had not been buckled about him and he still wore the leather suit he had borrowed from Aviator Charles F. Willard for the long flight.

His hands were gloved and clenched, and on one sparkled the diamond ring which, in his will, made the day before the ill-fated trip was begun, he had bequeathed to his sweetheart, Miss Louise McPherson, of Madisonville, Ky. Little doubt remains that the "Shoekums" and his passengers made the fatal drop fifteen minutes after it was last sighted last Saturday by watchers at San Pedro, disappearing into the haze beyond Point Fermin, which marks the entrance to Los Angeles harbor. Kearny and Lawrence could not have been more than five miles from shore when a treacherous air current or a defective engine dropped them to the water.

BALKAN DELEGATES DISGUSTED WITH SLOW PROGRESS BEING MADE

Delay with Which Peace Terms Are Being Worked Out at London Arouses Vigorous Protest from Allies.

NEW INSTRUCTIONS ARE FORWARDED BY TURKEY

Special Courier on Way to London from Constantinople; Intervention by Powers is Feared.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)

London, Dec. 19.—The peace conference held a brief session today. The Turkish delegates announced that fresh instructions had been dispatched from Constantinople by special courier, therefore adjournment until Saturday was taken, by which time the instructions should reach London.

News comes from the ottoman capital that the government is empowered the delegates to proceed with the negotiations with the Greeks, as well as the Balkan plenipotentiaries. The conference is now exactly in the same position as the Portsmouth conference after the first week's work. The different parties are daily feeling the way. After the sitting today, some of the Balkan delegates expressed disgust at the way affairs were dragging, while five armies and three besieged towns were enduring all the sufferings of war and the respective countries were the prey of desolation, misery and death.

The prevailing opinion is that the various postponements are aiming at intervention by the powers. Turkey hopes to obtain better terms through the powers and would consider it less humiliating to cede territory on pressure from them than at the command of the Balkan states, which were depicted to the Musselman world as negligible quantities.

The Balkan delegates, especially the Servians and Montenegrins, express dissatisfaction with a statement Wednesday by Marquis di Sanjust, the Italian foreign minister, concerning the aims of the renewed triple alliance, and the remark that Italy has a unique position towards the Balkan states, having herself risen from nothing to a nationality upon the union of kingdoms. They had expected her support. These delegates point out that the Italian government has followed a policy strongly favorable to Austria by renewing the triple alliance seven months before its expiration.

The Greek proposals will be more complicated than those of the other allies because they include the question of capitulations, which Greece alone among the Balkan states enjoys in Turkey with the great powers.

The capitulations originally imposed on Turkey by the republic of Genoa in 1553, include exemption from taxation for foreign subjects, special courts and other privileges. Greece is ready to accept a clause in the treaty with Turkey, promising to renounce the right to capitulations when the other powers do the same. Another Greek delegate arrived today. He brought important papers to Premier Venizelos. He is Elio Rangabe, whose father, a writer and poet, was called "the Victor Hugo of Greece."

JAPANESE CABINET FULLY REORGANIZED

Tokio, Dec. 19.—The new Japanese cabinet has been organized as follows: Premier and minister of foreign affairs, Baron Taro Katsura; minister of interior, Baron Kato; finance, Reijiro Wakatsuki, formerly vice minister; communications and president of the railroad board, M. Goto; agriculture and commerce, Baron Nakamura; justice, Baron Matsuda; education, Baron Shibusawa; formerly chief secretary to the cabinet, Baron Lieutenant General Yasutsuna Kikuchi.

Count Kato will be appointed foreign minister on his return from London.

Literary Test Bill Goes to Conference.

Washington, Dec. 19.—The "literary test" immigration bill, which passed the house yesterday and was brought back to the senate last night for its concurrence, was sent to conference today. Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, moved that the senate agree to the house amendments. A conference was asked for and Senator Gallinger appointed Senators Dillingham, Lodge and Smith, of South Carolina, as conferees in the senate.

ANCIENT CITY OF INCAS LAID BARE

New York, Dec. 19.—Practically the entire ancient Inca city of Machu Picchu was uncovered by the Yale Peruvian expedition, according to its leader, Professor Hiram Bingham.

With other members, returned today from Cuzco. Professor Bingham said the exploration was conducted chiefly at Machu Picchu, which was discovered on the previous expedition. The city stands on a plateau surrounded by precipitous 2,000 feet in height. One hundred burial caves and ruins of baths, houses and palaces were laid bare. Professor Bingham added that the jungle will soon cover them again unless steps are taken by the Peruvian government to keep them open.

PRIESTS MAKE WAR ON LATEST DANCES

Denver, Dec. 19.—A relentless war on new fashioned dances was launched by Catholic priests in Denver, after a conference yesterday. The priests denounce the "rag" dance as being a "degenerate animal dance" and a barbaric contention. Many of the latest dances, however, defend the dance as being "perfectly proper" and "lots of fun."

The occasion for the strenuous efforts to abolish "ragging" on the part of the Catholic priests was brought about after it became known that members of "Sacred Heart Aid Society, Queen's Daughters and Good Shepherd Aid Society," indulged in "ragging" at a recent prominent social event given by those societies.

HAWTHORNE CLAIMS PROVE VALUELESS

New York, Dec. 19.—"Valueless" is the way Benedict Crowell, a Cleveland mining engineer, described today a certain tract of Canadian mining property promoted by Julian Hawthorne, Josiah Quincy and others, on trial in the federal court here for alleged fraudulent use of the mails. The tract about which Crowell was questioned was one which, according to alleged Hawthorne literature, contained 300,000 tons of iron ore at one place and 200,000 at another. The witness said there were 20,000 tons at the first place, his examination showed, and nothing but water a foot or ore at another.

Of several thousand tons described by the literature as in sight at other spots, he said he saw none.

Stay of Execution For Four Gunmen.

New York, Dec. 19.—Notice of appeal in the case of "Gyp the Blood," "Dago Frank," "Whitely Lewis" and "Lefty Louie," condemned to death for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was filed by their counsel today. This acts as a stay of execution, pending a decision by the higher courts. They originally were sentenced to die during the week of January 6th.

Bryan Turned Down.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 19.—Governor Mann, a democrat, declined to assist in welcoming William Jennings Bryan to a luncheon at a business men's club, because the governor said etiquette "first required Mr. Bryan to go to Norfolk tomorrow to attend a dinner in honor of Governor-elect Sulzer, of New York."

ORDER IN MEXICO'S DEPENDANT BY UNCLE SAM

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)

Washington, Dec. 19.—The unsatisfactory conditions existing in Mexico as a result of the continuance of the rebellion absorbed much of the time of President Taft today. He had interviews with Secretary Knox and Henry Wilson, the American ambassador to Mexico and tonight the subject was further discussed at a dinner in the president's honor at Secretary Knox's home.

REMARKABLE RECORD
MADE BY MARKSMAN

European papers are aglow with the achievement of J. Pepe, an amateur marksman who, on October 19th, shooting Remington-UMC .22 Leemore metallic cartridges, made the best group ever recorded. The feat was accomplished in a competition at the Southfields (England) Rifle Club.

Shooting at 100 yards, Mr. Pepe placed his ten shots in the bull's eye that all of them may be touched by an American quarter laid over the group.

All good groups look to the naked eye, very much alike and mathematical measurement is the only means by which the true relative size of groups can be determined. Mr. Pepe's ten shots average within .25-100th of an inch of the exact center of the target and constitute what is acknowledged to be not only the best but most centrally placed 10-shot group at 100 yards ever made with any ammunition.

The prime factor in a winning score is the use of ammunition which has demonstrated its capability of making a smaller group than the smallest counting ring of the target. The wise target shooter selects the ammunition capable of the smallest group because it affords the best medium for exploiting his skill.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Pepe had previously fired nearly 9,000 Remington-UMC cartridges from the R. S. A. rifle with which he made his record-breaking group. British authorities refer to this fact as "eloquent testimony not only to the excellence of the rifle, but to the non-destructive and non-leading qualities of the ammunition."

Yamada Defends Morningstar.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 19.—Kod Yamada defeated O. Morningstar at 13.2 ball line billiards, 400 to 207. This is the second time this week, the Japanese player has defeated Morningstar, who is the world's champion at 13.1 billiards. Morningstar, Yamada and George Slosson are playing for a purse of $1,000. The tournament closes Saturday night. Yamada's average tonight was 26.23; Morningstar's, 14.11-14. The game went fifteen innings.

Cincinnati After Mordecai Brown.
Chicago, Dec. 19.—If waivers can be obtained on players, Grover Lauzer and Harry Chapman of the Cincinnati Nationals, they will be traded to Louisville for Mordecai Brown, according to a rumor in sporting circles tonight. Brown has been offered a position on the underling staff of the American League, it is said.

Dundee Outpoints Morgan.
New York, Dec. 19.—Johnny Dundee, the local featherweight, who is matched to meet Johnny Kilbane, the champion, for the title in Los Angeles in April, outpointed Eddie Morgan, of England, in a ten round bout here tonight. Morgan surprised his followers in the six rounds, but Dundee outlasted him.

OVERHEATED FURNACE
DAMAGES RESIDENCE AT INDIAN SCHOOL

An overheated furnace in the residence of Superintendent Reuben Perry, at the United States Indian school, called out the auto fire truck last night at 10:25.

The truck made a record-breaking run over the almost impassable Fourth street road, arriving on the scene in exactly eleven minutes, after traveling a distance of three miles.

The fire was out when the city department arrived. The Indian school firemen having extinguished the blaze.

Harry Fredericks, one of the firemen, was knocked insensible on the truck when it hit a rough place in the road. He had to be held onto the speeding apparatus by his fellow firemen. The damage caused by the fire was inconsequential.

ROAD MAPS SOUGHT
BY FEDERATION OF MOTORCYCLISTS

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Indianapolis, Dec. 19.—Having now at its disposal road maps of twenty-three states, the touring bureau of the Federation of American Motorcyclists is closing negotiations which will complete the list of state maps. Three map-making concerns will probably be selected to furnish the remaining maps and thus put at the disposal of the federation's 20,000 members accurate and detailed information upon which to base their 1913 riding.

The touring bureau was only recently established by the F. A. M. and it is calling upon its members, or any motorcyclist or other person having road information to send it to the bureau at 51 Chambers street, New York City.

The state maps now at the bureau's disposal are Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Delaware, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The bureau also has sectional maps of several states, including the transcontinental routes. There are also some three hundred tours, mapped in various parts of the country, available.

A special effort is now being made to obtain detailed road information in California. The Automobile Club of southern California has recently completed 30 new road maps and the bureau hopes to obtain them from the club.

All road and touring information gathered by the bureau is being systematically carded and filed so that it will be readily available for the use of motorcyclists. The gathering of this information is a slow and tedious process, but by the time the 1913 touring season begins motorcyclists will for the first time have definite touring information at their command within their own organization.

CHOICE PRESENTS
AT WILLIAMS
DRUG STORE

Dainty Perfumes, Brass Work,
Writing Paper, Safety Razors and Vacuum Bottles Only Few of the Many.

Speaking of the best places to buy Christmas gifts—you want to stick a tack on the Williams Drug Company's new store. If you don't believe it, just one visit to the white, spick-and-span new quarters will convince you. The new address is 307 West Central, you know.

The window display of Florentine brass will attract your attention before you get inside. Massive and graceful, artistic and useful—there is nothing more attractive in arts and crafts products in the city.

Then the dainty Williams perfumes, put up in fancy boxes, present an excellent opportunity for well directed Christmas buying. You may feel assured of the quality of the perfume and you do not pay an exorbitant price on account of the box. The price ranges from 50 cents to $1.00—a very fair figure, considering.

Writing paper to suit every taste is another of the Williams features. Writing material is always a very acceptable present. The line is complete and is put up in special artistic boxes with a range in price from 15 cents up to $2.50 a box.

Janus vacuum bottles undoubtedly are useful, and useful things always make ideal gifts. Non-conductors of heat, they keep hot things hot forty hours and cold things cold eighty hours.

Safety razors of every make at every price from a dollar up are also on the Williams list—and after all it is said when it comes right down to a close shave what is more practical than a good reliable safety razor?

Think it over. Again—the new address is 307 West Central avenue.

SOLDIER JAILED AS DRUNK SAID TO BE PARALYZED

Station Master Ed Sinclair yesterday arrested Private Robert Lee, Troop D of the Ninth cavalry, at the Santa Fe station. Sinclair says the soldier was drunk, but Sergeant Charles A. Thompson, hospital corps, who was with him, says he is a paralytic.

Lee was taken to the city jail by the station master. Sergeant Thompson put up $5 bond for him, and they left yesterday evening on train No. 2. Thompson said he wired Secretary of War Stimson of the arrest.

Thompson and Lee are on their way from Douglas, Ariz., to Ft. Logan, Colo.

A Fizzle.
We freely own this little skill. Could not be any worse. But we are merely starting it. To see who'll add a verse.

EMPTY HAUL MADE
BY BANDITS NEAR MOGOLLON

Sensational Hold-Up of Stage
Nets Robbers Pouch Containing Phony Package of Money; Suspects Arrested.

(Special Dispatch to the Morning Journal)
Silver City, N. M., Dec. 19.—A sensational hold-up of the Mogollon stage near Glenwood late yesterday afternoon resulted in an empty haul for the three bandits who participated in the robbery, since all they secured was a pouch containing a phony package, supposed to represent a large sum being sent to Mogollon to pay off the miners at that camp today.

The failure of the bandits to make a rich haul was due to the driver of the stage "peaching" on Deputy Sheriff James Harris, of Mogollon. Charles White, a blacksmith of Glenwood, and Charles John Higgins, a saloonkeeper, also of Glenwood, all of whom are under arrest, charged with having committed the robbery.

According to the story told by the stage driver, White several weeks ago approached him on the subject of being a party to the hold-up of the Mogollon stage, which was to carry the money for the payroll at the Mogollon mines. White promising, the driver agreed to pay him handsomely for his part in the affair.

The driver did not let on to the would-be robber that he did not enter into the scheme with perfect willingness, and thus threw him off his guard. He lost no time, however, in informing the officers of the proposed hold-up.

Plans were then laid for the capture of the robbers. The hold-up was composed of Sheriff H. J. McGrath, Deputy, Tom Moore, J. K. Blair and Tom McCourt, Fred Forrester, captain of the mounted police, and Postoffice Inspectors Ralph Smith, of Denver, and P. J. Moran, of Albuquerque, was organized and laid its plans to capture the robbers, after they had executed the hold-up.

Taking up their position at the spot scheduled for the robbery, the officers lay in wait for some hours during which they suffered severely from the cold. They had installed a telephone at their place of hiding in some large buildings near the stage road. After a long wait they were advised by telephone that the robbery had occurred at a distance about nine miles from where they were. The posse immediately took up the trail and in a short time had taken White, Harris and Higgins into custody. All the men are reported to have been heavily armed, but each stoutly denies any participation in the crime. The stolen mail pouch, with the phony money in a fake registered package, was not found.

The three suspects were brought here and lodged in the county jail. They will have a hearing tomorrow before the United States commissioner. White is charged with robbing the United States mails, while Higgins and Harris are accused of conspiracy for their alleged participation in the hold-up.

Yesterday's robbery was one of numerous hold-ups of the Mogollon stage, during several of which large hauls have been made. Less than a year ago the robbers held up the stage, shot and killed the driver, who resisted, and got away with a sum said to have been $20,000.

DEPUTY MARSHAL GOES TO SERVE PROCESSES.
United States Marshal Secundino Romero yesterday received a telegram from Leroy O. Moore, assistant United States attorney at Denning, asking that he send a deputy to Silver City to serve federal warrants on the men implicated. He last night sent Deputy Marshal Jose L. Perea to Silver City to serve the processes.

Mr. Moore was in Denning to attend the preliminary hearing of the Leroy O. Moore with illicitly having United States property in his possession.

CEREAL FOOD KING IS A VISITOR IN ALBUQUERQUE

W. K. Kellogg, of Corn Flake
Fame, Spends Several Hours
Here Last Night on His Way
East.

Those who scanned the register at the Alvarado hotel last night were proper care were rewarded with a glimpse of the signature that has been made famous by Corn Flakes. The signature was that of W. K. Kellogg. It was in the ink of the beauty with which red ink adorns each package of the genuine corn flakes, but Mr. Kellogg was nowhere to be found.

He came in on No. 4, the east-bound California limited. He registered at the Alvarado. He dined. Then he disappeared. Poring for him was of no avail, as was watching him on his way out. Somewhere he went and that somewhere, apparently, is known to none but him. However, the signature remains, a reminder of the fact that kings, even if they are only breakfast food kings, sometimes stop in Albuquerque.

MINSTRELS WILL BE SEASON'S TREAT
TONIGHT

George Evans and His Honey
Boy Show Without Peer in Theatrical World; Free Band
Concerts Today a Feature.

Patrons of the show put on by the "Honey Boy" minstrels, who, headed by the peerless George Evans, himself, comes to the Elks theater tonight, may rest assured that the production they will witness is absolutely new in its entirety, not a vestige of last year's successful and delectable offering, albeit it was replete with a galaxy of splendid and highly entertaining features that would still transcend those programmed by the majority of minstrel shows, remaining.

Other impressions may be content to simply refresh their memories, but not the inimitable "Honey Boy." This matter of creating annually a brand-new show amounts to almost an obsession with this talented little leader of minstrelsy. Cognizant of the fact that the road to continued success is by the pathway of popularity, which is now his enviable portion, he steers clear of the shoal on which so many ventures have been wrecked—the forcing of a frayed and worn production on audiences.

Even at the present time, when the season is still in the embryonic state, he is already laying his plans for a brand-new "A-1" show for next season. He experiences great difficulty in securing the talent sufficiently strong for the putting on of the "Evans brand" of a minstrel show, and to do so he is compelled to make heavy inroads on vaudeville and musical comedy. At all times he has out his dragnet to ensnare the meshes of his company of high-class and versatile comedians, songsters and dancers, regardless of expense and other countless barriers that hamper him in the consummation of his laudable aim—the giving of its money's worth to his theatrical clientele—and a great deal more. This costs a pretty penny, and as a result, the salary roll of his company is one of the highest of any production on Broadway en tour.

Easily one of the big features of the minstrels is the high class band concert on the streets, both noon and evening. The band is one of the best now touring the company and it renders specially prepared programs.

The concert for today follows:

NOON, DOWN TOWN.
(E. V. Cupero, Director.)
March—"Revelation," Chambers.
Overture—"Morning, Noon, and Night," Suppe.
Baritone Solo—"Margaret Polka," Cupero—Mr. Leonard D'Anna.
Medley—"Hunting Melody," Geo. M. Cohen.
Patrol—"American," Macnam.
Rag—"Nigerdum," Switzer.
EVENING CONCERT.
(In Front of Elks Theater.)
March—"Entrance of the Gladiators," Fucik.
Overture—"Pique Dame," Suppe.
Cornet Duet—"Two Pals," Cupero.
Messrs. Lee and Cupero.
Humorous—"The Girl I Left Behind," Bellstedt.
Short Dress Rag—Gilbert.

IMPROVEMENT IN STOCK MARKET IS SHOWN

Some Apprehension Felt on Account of Failure to Agree on Settlement of the Pacific Railroad.

(By Morning Journal Special-Leased Wire.)
New York, Dec. 19.—There was an unmistakable improvement today in the stock market. After a brief period of unsettlement early in the day, prices moved upward and during the remainder of the session showed increased stability and underlying firmness. Stocks were in small supply and holders apparently were reluctant to dispose of them at current prices. Bear traders in consequence were able to make little headway.

Announcement after the close yesterday that the Union Pacific management had been unable to agree with the attorney general upon a plan of dissolution aroused some apprehension as to the effect upon the Harriman stocks. Both Union Pacific and Southern Pacific were weak at the opening. Union Pacific sold at 154, a loss of 2 points and Southern Pacific at 144, the low point of the recent decline and a loss over night of 14.

Other stocks gave way at the same time, but opening prices were generally the lowest and the upward swing soon set in.

Bear covering assisted in the rise which resulted in 4 points among a number of important issues. Union Pacific rose nearly 4 points from its early low quotation and the Copper shares, Steel and American Tobacco, developed marked strength. Reading was advanced sharply but did not touch the high mark reached after the announcement yesterday of the dividend increase.

Although there was little change in the local money market bankers are unwilling to release funds in view of the requirements of the year-end period.

Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—The grain market today failed to maintain yesterday's gains, wheat closing 1/2¢ lower. Disappointing cables depressed opening prices, but at the close, however, shorts covered under the influence of reported briskness in the demand for spot. The reaction which followed brought out some long wheat and final figures were close to the day's lowest quotations. May ranged between 91 1/2¢ and 92 1/2¢ closing 1/2¢ under yesterday, at 90 1/2¢.

At the decline the tone was fairly steady. The corn market managed to escape some of yesterday's advances, although the covering operations of the previous session had pretty well cleaned out the short interest, leaving the market with little support from that quarter. May closed at 43 1/2¢.

Cash demand was rather slow. Price fluctuations in the oats market were narrow. May closed at 33 1/2¢. The general tone in provisions was firm. The close was from 5 to 7 1/2¢ up.

IMMIGRATION WILL BE SUBJECT OF ANNUAL DEBATE

University Oratorical and Debating Society Receives Notice from Agricultural College of Selection of Topic.

The restriction of immigration into the United States will be the question of the annual intercollegiate debate to be held at Las Cruces this year, according to a letter received yesterday by the University of New Mexico debaters from the Agricultural college.

The Oratorical and Debating Society has charge of the debating work at the university and will furnish the material from which the team of three speakers will be picked.

The colleges alternate in choosing the subject and in selecting the side whose merits they will defend. This year the Agricultural college men select the question and the university chooses which side it shall defend.

The exact question, as submitted to the faculty orators, is as follows:

"Resolved, that immigration to the United States be still further restricted."

Two teams have been formed at the university, consisting of Messrs. W. C. Cook, J. C. Nichols and W. J. Higgins, John G. Pease, Fred M. Calhoun and L. M. Harkness. These teams will each choose a side and the preliminary debate to decide who shall represent the university at Las Cruces this year, will be held early in January.

EPISCOPAL PRIESTS EXCITE CURIOSITY AMONG PASSENGERS

Father Huntington and Father O'Neil, two priests of the order of the Holy Cross, an Episcopalian order, yesterday afternoon were passengers on Santa Fe train No. 4. The flat clerical hats and garb of the priests excited the curiosity of other passengers, some mistaking them for cardinals.

Father O'Neil is on his way to the mother colony of the order at West Park, N. Y., and Father Huntington is going to St. Andrew's school at Sewanee, Tenn., an institution maintained by the fathers for mountain youths. They have been engaged in missionary work in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

THOUGHT PRISONER WAS CITY EMPLOYEE

Because he thought E. C. Kenniston, who is doing a few days' on the city roads gang, was a city employee, John Herboth yesterday appealed to the police to collect $10 which he had loaned Kenniston on a thirty-day note. Herboth was informed that Kenniston was not getting paid for his labors and that a garnishment was consequently impossible.

TRAIN PLUNGES INTO FREIGHT; CAUSES DELAY

Santa Fe train No. 10, due at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, did not arrive here until 1:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A wreck near Needles, Cal., Wednesday night, was the cause. Train No. 10, rained a freight train head-on. Several passengers were injured, but none seriously.

A "stall" No. 10 was sent out from Albuquerque at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. No. 2 also was late, but the wreck was not the cause. No. 4 arrived on time.

MOTHER SAVES BOY WHEN CLOTHES CATCH FIRE

Mrs. R. Vaughn Tears Dress from Infant Who Played Near Stove; Her Presence of Mind Recently Saved Her Own Life

Mrs. Roscoe Vaughn, residing at the corner of Broadway and Tijeras road, yesterday saved her baby's life when the child's clothes caught fire. The child, Ernest, 1 year old, is seriously burned, but he will recover.

This was the second time within three weeks that Mrs. Vaughn's coolness in an emergency has saved a life. About three weeks ago, a sudden attack paralyzed her throat. She was alone in the house and unable to call help so she fired a revolver to summon neighbors. If assistance had not come when it did the attack might have been fatal.

The baby and his sister, Daisy Lee, 3 years old, were playing near the stove in the front room of their home yesterday morning. Mrs. Vaughn was in another room when the little girl ran to her, and grabbing her skirt, screamed:

"Baby's afire."

Mrs. Vaughn ran into the front room. The baby had not made an outcry until his mother came. He was lying on the floor writhing with pain and crying softly. Mrs. Vaughn, at the risk of catching fire herself, tore off the child's dresses. His back and arms were blistered, but his mother's quickness saved him from probably fatal burns.

Mrs. Vaughn believes he was playing too close to the stove and that his dress touched the hot iron. The little girl did not know how her brother caught fire, but as soon as she saw his dresses in flames, she ran to her mother.

Mrs. Vaughn is the wife of "Doc" Vaughn, waiter at the Sturges restaurant. Mrs. Vaughn telephoned him after the accident. He was at work previously when his wife suffered the paralytic attack. She has entirely recovered.

MURDER AT ALAMO SALOON DEFIES SOLUTION

Police Unable to Learn Name of Victim; Believed Slayer Cherished Grudge Against Man Whom He Killed.

The murder of an unknown Mexican early yesterday morning in the Alamo saloon by a fellow countryman probably will be added to Albuquerque's list of unsolved crimes. The police last night were apparently no nearer to clearing up the mystery than they were yesterday morning, immediately after the tragedy.

That the murderer who killed the man in the sight of witnesses should escape and that no one who was in the room should be able to describe him is the strangest feature of the killing. If the murderer had lured his man into a dark alley and killed him out of sight of every one he would not be more safe than he is now, after slaying his man in the presence of others.

The police believe that the killing was carefully planned and that the slayer depended upon his boldness to aid his escape. There was no quarrel between the men in the room. The cause probably dates back days or months, the police believe, and that the murderer, watching his chance, perceived a favorable opportunity yesterday morning. The motive probably was revenge.

The murdered man came to Albuquerque Wednesday night on Santa Fe train No. 7, with a gang of railroad laborers from Alma, Kan. They were going to leave here yesterday morning on train No. 815 for El Paso. The man's suitcase was found on the train by Officer Pablo Lujan. There was nothing in it to identify him. A long butcher knife, filed to a thin point, was in the suitcase. It probably was just such a weapon with which he was killed.

Dr. W. W. Spargo and Dr. Charles A. Frank, who held a post-mortem yesterday at Strong Brothers' undertaking rooms, decided that the wound was inflicted with a long bladed knife or dirk. The wound was four inches deep. It severed the jugular vein and slit the windpipe causing almost instantaneous death.

The wound is an inch long, and as the slayer used a thrust, this indicates he had a wide bladed weapon. The nature of the wound also shows that the blade was sharp only on one edge. The knife entered over the right collar bone.

The man apparently was about 30 years old, according to Doctor Frank. He was five-foot-ten inches tall, and weighed about 160 pounds. The physicians examined his body closely but could find no marks. The man had black hair and brown eyes. His complexion was rather light. His teeth were perfect.

The witnesses held yesterday morning by the police were released later. Three of them came with the murdered man from Alma. They had left the Alamo saloon just a few minutes before he was killed. The other, Felipe Jaramillo, lives at Borelas. He was in the room when the man was stabbed, but had his back turned. When he turned around the men who had been with the murdered man fled.

The police yesterday picked up a report that the slain man had lived here at 725 South Broadway. This was before Officer Lujan found his suitcase in the Santa Fe car. Mr. and Mrs. Avalos, who lives at that number, said they had no roomers and when they saw the body they declared they had never before seen the man. Justice George H. Craig will hold the inquest today. A coroner's jury is to be empaneled this morning.

FIRE CHIEF KLEIN'S ENGINE HEATER IS TESTED

Coil Boils Water and Circulates It, Keeping the Motor Warm; Means Time Saved in Responding to Alarms.

Fire Chief Jacob Klein's gasoline engine heater yesterday was tested. It was successful.

The electric coil heated the water almost to the boiling point. The heat generated was sufficient to force the water through the pipes. This elated Chief Klein. The only question as to the success of his invention was whether the coil would propel the water through the tube to the carburetor and over the cylinders.

The test was not complete, however. The cylinder in which the coil is enclosed leaked and the chief had to remove it. It was repaired yesterday afternoon and reattached to the engine last night.

The success of the chief's invention means that the firemen will be able to cut winter records. In answering fire alarms. Since the advent of the cold weather they have been delayed several minutes in starting the engine. The cylinders were cold, of course, and had to become heated before the engine would drive the heavy truck.

Dr. Wm. Sudler, author of "The Cause and Cure of Colds," says that common colds should be taken seriously, especially when they "hang on." Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a reliable household medicine for coughs and colds, equally effective for children and for grown persons. Take it when you feel a cold coming on. It will avert danger of serious results and cure quickly. No harmful drugs. J. H. O'Reilly Drug Co.

SERIES OF ORGAN RECITALS BY E. STANLEY SEDER

Three Numbers to be Given During Christmas Season at Congregational Church by Well Known Local Musician.

What promises to be a feature of the holiday season in Albuquerque will be a series of Christmas organ recitals, three in number, to be given at the Congregational church, by the well known Albuquerque organist, Stanley Seder. In addition to the organ numbers, he will be assisted in vocal solos by several local singers. The recitals, each thirty minutes in length, will commence at 7:30 on the three coming Sunday evenings, December 22d and 29th and January 5th. Following these recitals, the regular Sunday evening service will be held.

The program for these recitals will be varied, but at the same time appropriate to the Christmas season. The program on December 22d and 29th will be selected from different composers, while the program of January 5th will comprise a number of works of the famous French organist and composer, Alexander Guilmant, whose death occurred only last year.

Those who will assist Mr. Seder in this enterprise are Miss Charlotte

Baking Helps

Valuable Suggestions By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, Expert of the Art of Baking, as taught by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Baking Cake Making

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter the cake. Remember that! To cream butter and sugar quickly, warm the sugar slightly. Beat yolks of eggs with rotary beater. Whip whites of eggs with flat spoon whip. Water makes lighter cakes; milk makes richer cakes.

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then alternately add moisture and flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

Always use K C Baking Powder. Biscuit Helps

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times.

Have shortening cold and firm. Mix dough as soft as it can be handled. The softer dough goes into the oven, the lighter the biscuit when it comes out. It is easier for K C Baking Powder to do its work in soft than in stiff dough. Mix biscuits very little. Do not knead. Stir up with spoon or knife and press in shape to roll on floured board.

With K C Baking Powder results are sure and certain. Ask your grocer for K C.

Pratt, Miss Rose Harsch and John D. Falkenberg. It is hoped that the people of Albuquerque will avail themselves of this opportunity of enjoying the Christmas spirit as interpreted by organ and voice.

INSTITUTES SUIT TO HAVE TAX SALE SET ASIDE

A. Simpler yesterday filed an action against the board of county commissioners and one Virgil S. Kipp, a resident of California, to have a tax sale set aside on the ground that he had paid the taxes on the property sold, but there had been a double assessment.

Judge Edward L. Medler spent yesterday here and will be here today to hear cases which may come up. Because of the death of Felix H. Lester, the action of M. P. Stamm against the Presbyterian sanitarium and the city of Albuquerque, which was to have come up for a hearing yesterday, was indefinitely postponed.

MANY MESSAGES OF CONDOLENCE TO MRS. LESTER

Widow of Attorney Receives Sympathetic Wires from All Over State; Council Adopts Resolutions; Funeral Sunday.

Numerous messages of condolence from residents of Albuquerque and from all parts of New Mexico yesterday were received by Mrs. Felix H. Lester, wife of City Attorney Lester, who died early yesterday morning at his home, 1116 West Central avenue. The announcement of the death of Mr. Lester occasioned general sadness among his friends, many of whom did not realize even that he was seriously ill.

Among the messages received by Mrs. Lester yesterday was a resolution of condolence from the city council. The aldermen, summoned to a special meeting yesterday afternoon by Mayor D. K. B. Sellers, adopted the resolution at his office. Their sympathy was conveyed to Mrs. Lester, Councilmen Reidy, Thomas, Grunfeld, Cohn, Scheer, Skinner and Clarke were present. Alderman Isherwood was not in the city.

The resolution follows:

Be it resolved by the mayor and the city council of Albuquerque, N. M., that we learn with profound regret of the sudden death of our associate, Mr. Felix H. Lester. Mr. Lester was a young man of more than ordinary ability, well prepared for life's work, earnest and zealous in all his undertakings, exceptionally public spirited and rich in the promise of future usefulness as a man and a citizen; we record our appreciation of him as a man and a lawyer, in our intimate contact with him as city attorney he brought to his duties not only a rare knowledge of the law, but admirable judgment in administrative questions. Mr. Lester's record as the mayor of this city is also one of which he had reason to be proud and we feel that all our citizens owe him a debt of gratitude for the unselfish, painstaking and intelligent service he rendered this community. We extend our sincere sympathies to the grief-stricken family and to the host of his friends who are today stunned by attempting to realize that death has deprived them of the companionship of a bright, well balanced mind, of a warm hearted, sympathetic nature and of a most gracious personality.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the proceedings of the council and that a copy be sent to his family and also published in the daily papers of this city.

D. K. B. SELLERS, Mayor.

H. CHAS. ROEHE, Clerk.

The city councilmen, the fire department and police department will send wreaths to the Lester home tomorrow. The councilmen and members of the fire department will attend the funeral.

The state, county and city democratic central committees, of which Mr. Lester was a member, also will send flowers and attend the funeral.

The Bernalillo County Bar Association, of which Mr. Lester was a member, yesterday appointed committees to draft a resolution, extending the sympathy of the attorneys to Mrs. Lester, and to make arrangements for their attendance at the funeral. The first committee is composed of Summers Burkhardt, O. N. Marron and George S. Klock; and the second of H. B. Jamison, E. W. Dobson and Judge George R. Craig. The bar association meeting was held in the office of A. B. McMillen, the president.

Funeral arrangements will not be made until Nell H. Field, brother-in-law of Mr. Lester, is heard from. When it becomes apparent Wednesday night that Mr. Lester's condition was critical, Mr. Field left for the east to meet his wife, sister of Mr. Lester, who has been in New York. Her health has been poor and Mr. Field will meet her in Kansas City. They are expected to arrive tomorrow night. The funeral arrangements will be completed then.

The funeral probably will be held Sunday afternoon, Archdeacon W. E. Warren, of St. John's Episcopal church, will officiate. The Elks will hold their services at the graves in Fairview cemetery. These arrangements, however, are merely tentative.

Mr. Lester was born at Palaski, Tenn., September 25, 1871. He graduated from Princeton university with the class of 1893, and came to Albuquerque in 1894. He was admitted to the bar of New Mexico a year later and began the practice of law with Neil B. Field. He was associated with Mr. Field two years.

In 1908 he was elected mayor of Albuquerque. He held office for three years. Mr. Lester took an active interest in politics. He was a member of the state, county and city democratic central committees. Mayor D. K. B. Sellers appointed him city attorney last spring and he held this position and the chairmanship of the Bernalillo county road board at the time of his death. He was appointed to the road board only recently.

Mr. Lester was a past exalted ruler of Lodge No. 461, B. P. O. Elks.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY, FADED HAIR

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is the old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. Then gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly young people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

CLIMATE FAILED; MEDICINE EFFECTIVE

It has been absolutely shown that rest, fresh air and good food do help many persons suffering from Tuberculosis. But it must be admitted that the disease is seldom met with "rested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alternative is a medicine made for the treatment of Tuberculosis. It has conquered this disease again and again. Often these benefits have been effected where the surrounding were not ideal—yet recoveries resulted. Now we argue that Eckman's Alternative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis. In addition to good, nourishing food and fresh air, which we all need. A remarkable case follows: Weldon, Ill.

Thorough Eckman's Alternative. I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia. My lungs became very much affected; my sputum was examined and Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. On February 21, 1905, I was advised to go to Fort Worth, Texas. While there an abscess in my right lung broke and discharged. I grew worse, and became very much emaciated. My physician informed me that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas, June 1, and arrived at Canon City, June 3, very feeble. After using two bottles of Eckman's Alternative, I have not an ache or pain in my lungs, eat well, sleep well, and never felt better.

(Sworn affidavit) ARTHUR WEBB. Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in rebuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates, habit-forming drugs. For sale by Alvarado drug store and Highland Pharmacy, and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recovery, and write to Eckman Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

DAVID GARRICK IS ABLY PRESENTED BY LOCAL CAST

Excellence of Production Surprises Good-Sized Audience Which Attends; Acting Fine and Costumes Regal.

"David Garrick," presented at Elks theater last night under the auspices of the Woman's Club, drew a good crowd, but not as large a one as the general excellence of the production warranted. Conflicting attractions this week, and the attendant Christmas rush, conspired to lessen somewhat the importance of the event and to rob it of well-deserved patronage. Not that the delightful little play was wasted on empty seats—by no means. The house was well filled—and especially with enthusiasm. A representative audience, too, as people prominent in business, professional and social circles lent their presence and their plaudits. Briefly, a good sized and well-dressed audience who made up any small lack of numbers by added and audible appreciation.

The show was really worth while—for an amateur play a pleasant surprise. The story was ably told and interpreted so well by the producing company that there was no break in the sustained interest. The constant agreeable activity captured prompt and unconsidered applause, not the usual home-talent brand of polite and perfunctory praise.

The story of the play is familiar to many, and is founded on an apocryphal anecdote of the great English actor, Simon Ingot, a merchant prince, discovers much to his displeasure that his daughter, Ada, is in love with a "play actor." David Garrick, Ingot, being a clever man, does not mount a high horse of indignation and use the whip of futile reprimand. Instead he calls on Garrick, at which time the actor promises to cure the daughter of her infatuation. An invitation to dinner at the Ingot mansion is accepted by the actor who, in a superb bit of acting, portrays the drunkard, badly and gamster so perfectly as to be ordered from the house by Ada. The plot thickens when Chivy, another suitor for Ada's hand whom she does not favor, inadvertently reveals the fact that Garrick was acting. A duel is threatened and thrilling situations accrue, all of which adjust themselves happily at the finish.

It is a play which requires sumptuous settings and the elegant finery of the eighteenth century. The costumes were abundantly provided by Chicago theatrical house, and were appropriate to the period and magnificent. This and the pretty scenes added an unexpected touch of professional polish to the production.

Some scene in particular brought forth prolonged applause. The stage was in gold furniture and crimson hangings and other accessories made the setting well in accord with the action of the play.

Throughout, the play was extravagantly staged and prettily continued. The title role was ably portrayed by A. B. Robertson, who perfectly emphasized every point in the delineation of the play actor. He entered into the drunken scene with due abandon and excellent results, gaining considerable applause for his efforts.

Equally good in a different and a smaller way was Hugo C. Meyer as "Chivy," and Charles W. Andrews succeeding in making the merchant prince a very creditable and understanding character.

Mrs. R. V. Winchester as "Ada," was satisfactorily adequate and wore her regal clothes with quite an accustomed air. Mrs. Fred Metzger did "Araminta Brown" with professional finish and made the rather quaint character fit well into the picture.

Mrs. D. H. Carnas as "Mrs. Smith" was great. She and Mr. E. Goodell as man and wife, formed a happy combination and did some laugh provoking team work.

The rest of the cast was entirely competent, especially Fred Metzger, who played "Mr. Brown," Leslie Briggs as "Mr. Jones," Will Arnot, as the butler, and Mr. Rowecheppel, as the valet.

Proceeding the presentation of "David Garrick," a twenty-minute curtain raiser was put on, in which Mrs. David M. White appeared, assisted by Mrs. L. G. Rice. "The Other Woman," it was called, and it was an interesting little sketch which introduced well the clever abilities of Mrs. White. She was ably assisted by Mrs. Rice.

Mrs. White directed the staging of "David Garrick," and to her talent as a producer, and her untiring efforts, the big dramatic success of the play was due. In a great measure to Mrs. White's direction, the play was a success. The financial success was the play in a great measure to Mrs. White's direction, the play was a success. The financial success was the play in a great measure to Mrs. White's direction, the play was a success.

The Rosewald store carried quite a bit of comment by a clever advertising scheme, labeled by card, "A look of Rosewald beauties." Seeing an opportunity to display to advantage the season's latest styles in gowns, the Rosewalds purchased tickets for an entire box and fitted it up with several wax figures dressed in evening attire to represent a theater party. So cleverly was the scheme carried out by Decorator Reinhardt that, had it not been for the display card, it would have passed the notice of the majority of the audience.

OLD CONDUCTOR BARRED BY FREAK STATE LAWS

W. H. Barney, 801 Park avenue, for nearly thirty years a conductor in the employ of the Santa Fe railroad, has been thrown out of service by Arizona freak legislation. He is the oldest conductor in point of service and in actual years on the coast lines.

Mr. Barney served only two years and a half as a freight conductor before he was promoted to the "varnished" cars and the Arizona law requires that passenger conductors must have three years' service as freight conductors. He had to quit temporarily several months ago, but later was reinstated, only to be compelled to leave the service again.

CITY FATHERS ASK RIGHT TO TRAVEL ON LIMITEDS

Council Unanimously Adopts Resolution Calling on Santa Fe to Allow Local People to Board California Train.

At a special meeting of the city council held at the office of Mayor D. K. B. Sellers yesterday afternoon, beginning at 1:30, the city fathers asked the Santa Fe railroad to allow local people to board the California limited, both east and west bound, when they held tickets for points on the Pacific coast or east of Kansas City. They also requested that tickets to Albuquerque be honored on these trains from the east and west.

The council attended to a considerable amount of routine business, this session being the one adjourned Monday night because of the lack of a quorum.

A resolution setting forth the regret of the council at the death of City Attorney Felix H. Lester was also adopted.

The resolution addressed to the Santa Fe will have a wide circulation among Santa Fe travelers, and every thing that the council can do to get its requests granted will be done. It is as follows:

"At a meeting of the city council of the city of Albuquerque, held Friday evening, December 13th, the following resolution was offered, read and unanimously adopted by a vote of the council:

"Resolved, Whereas, the Santa Fe Railroad Company has issued a rule whereby passenger train No. 4 will not take on any through passengers at Albuquerque for Kansas City or Chicago, nor sell any reservations at Kansas City or Chicago on train No. 2 west to Albuquerque, and

"Whereas, we claim the citizens of the city of Albuquerque and the Santa Fe Railroad Company have mutual interests, and

"Whereas, many of our citizens and visitors desire to travel on these elegantly equipped trains, with dining car service, and

"Whereas, we recognize the inconvenience and discomfort to through passengers in being annoyed by local travelers on these trains between station and station, and do not ask for this privilege, and

"Whereas, Albuquerque has now taken its place among the leading cities of the southwest and much of the travel in the character which desires and is willing to pay for the best service, and

"Whereas, the through accommodation on trains Nos. 2 and 4 are not available to such travel that it will result in much injury to the progress and growth of this city,

"Now, Therefore, We earnestly request the Santa Fe Railroad Company to modify this rule to take effect January 1st, and thereafter sell reservations on these trains from Chicago, Kansas City and Los Angeles through to Albuquerque, and if there are any vacant spaces, either upper or lower berths, or compartments, upon arrival of either of these trains at Albuquerque, that such spaces be available to through travelers from Albuquerque to Kansas City, Chicago, or Los Angeles.

"That a copy of these resolutions be mailed to W. J. Black, Chicago; J. M. Connell, Toledo; F. C. Fox, Amarillo, Tex.; A. G. Wells, Los Angeles; E. E. Summers, San Marcel; J. M. Kuhn, La Junta; and W. H. Brown, El Paso.

(Signed) "D. K. B. SELLERS, Mayor."

SLANDERING PUBLIC MEN.

Speaker Champ Clark is the latest victim of the too common practice of slandering public men. Such attacks, often made by persons who do not intend to do an injustice, are frequently almost impossible of refutation, and there seems little chance for defense.

In the latest regarding Champ Clark, F. A. Barbour, teacher of English in the Ypsilanti, Mich., normal school, in an address at the Franklin county, Pennsylvania, teachers' institute, last month, stated that Mr. Clark, scheduled to speak at Ann Arbor, "became so intoxicated" that students took him to a chapter house to "sleep it off."

Mr. Clark, when this was reported, stated that he had never taken a drink in Ann Arbor in his life, and furthermore that he had "not tasted intoxicating liquors in any shape, form or fashion since July 5, 1904."

Mr. Barbour then admitted that he had made the statement, "not from personal knowledge of the facts, but based merely on rumors." The retraction, when demanded was "cheerfully forthcoming." But, in the meantime, the slander had gone far and wide, and will be read by thousands who never will see the retraction or the denial.

During the pre-convention campaign, stories of Champ Clark's alleged drunkenness were persistently circulated. He was held up as a horrible example, even here in New Mexico. The fact that personal friends, men who had known him for more than twenty years, stated that he had never been a drunkard and that he was never spoken of among those who knew him as a man who drank too much, had no effect. There were stories that he had been drunk about the time he was elected to congress, nearly twenty years ago.

When the Baltimore convention was in session and Clark had received a majority of the votes, Colonel William Jennings Bryan went to the platform and delivered his famous attack, charging that Clark was receiving the support of Wall street interests. Although Mr. Bryan was instructed for Clark by the overwhelming vote of his precinct, of his county, of his congressional district and of his state, he made the attack and defeated Clark's nomination.

Of course, when the Clark committee had developed the facts, and it was shown that Clark's campaign fund was the smallest of all the candidates, that he had used less than one-fourth of the money spent by the Wilson committee, about one-third of the amount spent for Harmon, and considerably less than the amount spent for Oscar Underwood, it was too late to undo the injustice that had been done by Mr. Bryan. The slander had done its work.

People are far too ready to spread reports "about the neighbors." It is much safer neither to spread these reports nor to believe them till they are proved. There are always more pleasant things to talk about than other people's faults.

MORAL PERCEPTION LACKING.

Some months ago a colored man, a Pullman car porter, unused to the ways of courts, attempted to "tip" the judge by leaving five dollars in his chair after the judge had made a decision in his favor. Probably no criminal act was intended. It was the method of securing good service to which the porter was accustomed.

Some years ago a clergyman desired to see out a poor living by means of a small postoffice. He wrote, offering his congressman a hundred dollars for it. He supposed that all offices were secured in that way. He was much astonished at the answer he received.

During the pre-convention campaign, a man from Tennessee wrote to Mayor Gaynor telling him that he would have charge of the Tennessee delegation to the state convention, as sergeant at arms, and suggesting that the mayor send a modest sum to assist in defraying expenses. He intimated very broadly that such favor would aid in securing votes for Mr. Gaynor when the contest began. Doubtless the Tennesseean was astonished when he received the following reply: "Your moral perception is too inconspicuous. You will not be in charge long."

Now comes a story in the Washington papers that a man who wants a job under the new administration has offered Congressman Palmer five sition. The offer seems to show no conception of the moral and legal offense involved, nor understanding of the corrupting use of money in politics.

In fact, very few people seem to appreciate the moral aspect of the whole "tipping" system. They do not see that the person who is able to buy favors is doing a corrupt and corrupting thing. To rise to this great height may take time, but it is sure to come.

CHRISTMAS GIVING.

The organization of a society in New York City for the prevention of useless giving, goes no further than to protest against some of the excesses of Christmas. It can go no further than to reduce the Fourth of July to a safe and sane basis. No one assumes that the Fourth of July celebrations should be abolished. The purpose is to give it direction, to make it more truly patriotic, to discard it of unnecessary trappings.

Similarly, the assault on Christmas giving is useful only insofar as it gives direction to the spirit of the holiday. Giving is a personal matter and cannot be regulated by a society, but a society may show how to make the holiday pleasant.

DEATH OF FELIX LESTER.

The death of Felix Lester is a shock to Albuquerque and a distinct loss to the state. He was a young man devoted to the interests of everything worthy of support. He was one of the really public spirited citizens of New Mexico. Without ostentation, he put his hand to everything that should be pushed forward.

Mr. Lester was a good lawyer. His ethical conceptions of the relations of his profession to the public were exceptionally high. In politics, while a pronounced partisan, he was always fair and made his fights on principles and without bitterness. He was a man of culture, of polished manners, of good address—a gentleman always.

Mary Garden, the actress, rather lightly referred to Andrew Carnegie recently as an "old dodo." This was clearly impolite, yet it must be confessed there is something in what she says.

Senator Holt, of Dona Ana county, is out in a letter in which he intimates that he made a good record in the late legislature. All of which shows the hopelessness of Holt.

VALENCIA COUNTY ROAD BOARD IS ORGANIZED

John B. Raff, of Los Lunas, Elected Chairman; John Becker, Jr., Secretary and Treasurer.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
Dec. 19.—The road board of Valencia county has been organized by electing John B. Raff, of Los Lunas, chairman, and John Becker, Jr., of Hohen, secretary and treasurer. The other members of the board is Edmondo C. de Baca.

The county road board has already named a number of road supervisors in the valley section and at an early date will make a tour of the western part of the county to select supervisors in that section.

Plans are being made for the early prosecution of an active good roads campaign in Valencia county. Especial attention will be given to putting in shape that portion of the Camino Real, connecting up with the sections at either end of the county, one leading to Socorro and the other to Albuquerque.

The road board is composed of men with the interests of the county at heart and all are known as enthusiastic road boosters. Much is expected by the people of the county of the members of the new board.

COMMITTEE FINDS FAULT WITH VALENTINE

Former Commissioner of Indian Affairs Severely Censured for Violating Civil Service and Other Laws.

(By Morning Journal Special Lensed Wire.)
Washington, Dec. 19.—Robert G. Valentine, who recently resigned as commissioner of Indian affairs, was censured in a report today by the committee on expenditures in the interior department, after an investigation of charges against Mr. Valentine.

The committee's report said that he deliberately violated the civil service laws. The committee found that Mr. Valentine had caused improper expenditure of public funds, precipitated the removal of the general superintendent of logging in the Indian service on false rumors, and was guilty of criminal violation of the law by introducing and disposing of liquor on an Indian reservation.

The report will be submitted to the house immediately after the holiday recess. The department of justice, after an investigation of some of the charges against a former commissioner, dismissed them.

The report characterized as "vicious impropriety" letters sent by Valentine as commissioner, to the superintendent of the La Pointe agency in Washington, suggesting the collection and submission to him of material which might be used against J. R. Farr, a timber expert who had saved millions of dollars to the Indians.

"Damn him, I want to get him out of the service," is a remark attributed to Valentine regarding Farr after Farr left him, following an introduction in complimentary and commendatory words to Fred H. Abbott, now acting commissioner.

STEP IS TAKEN TO MAKE AIR CRAFT LESS DEADLY

President Appoints Commission of Experts to Investigate the Scientific Construction of Aeroplanes.

(By Morning Journal Special Lensed Wire.)
Washington, Dec. 19.—A long step in the direction of securing more scientific information for use in the construction of air craft was taken today when President Taft appointed a commission on an aero-dynamical laboratory, of which Dr. R. S. Woodward, president of the Carnegie institute of Washington, is named as chairman. The object of the commission, which was created upon the recommendation of Secretary Meyer, will be to report on the necessity or desirability for the establishment of a national aero-dynamical laboratory, its scope, organization, the most suitable location for it, and the cost of its installation.

In his letter to the president recommending the appointment of the commission, Secretary Meyer said: "The construction of air craft among the powers of Europe is now based largely on scientific information obtained at their aero-dynamical laboratories and the installation of such a plant in this country is regarded as a necessity to our commercial interests and the production of safety and efficiency in our air craft."

In his annual report Rear Admiral Andrews, chief of the bureau of navigation of the navy department, pointed out that through the delay in establishing laboratories in the United States, there had resulted a waste of money with a decline of prestige and unnecessary sacrifice of life among aviators.

WHOLESALE BACKS WOMEN'S EGG SALE

Chicago, Dec. 19.—The man behind the 25-cent storage egg sale, which will be conducted here tomorrow by members of the Woman's Clean Goods League, is a Chicago wholesale egg dealer.

He made public his connection with the crusade tonight. He said he became associated with the women in the fight against high priced eggs in the hope that "certain dishonest wholesalers and dishonest retailers" might find it impossible longer to boost produce prices when conditions did not warrant it. If there be any loss as a result of the sale, he said, he alone would stand it, as the clubwomen have not contracted to sell any certain amount of eggs.

Stranded.
In the days when the Clyde was navigable to Glasgow, for only very small vessels a steamer stuck in the mud near Redbank and the skipper was not sparing in strong language. While waiting for the rising tide he saw a little girl approaching the river with a bucket to fetch water. This was too much for the poor captain, and, leaning over the side, he thus addressed her: "If you tak' as drap o' water out here till I get afloat I'll warn yer ear for't."—Scottish-American.

WOMEN WEND WAY THROUGH SNOW TO FISHKILL

Heroic Suffragettes Drag Themselves on Foot Over Twenty-Two Miles of Muddy Roads Enroute to Albany.

(By Morning Journal Special Lensed Wire.)
New York, Dec. 19.—It was two hours after dark and snowing when the suffragette "army," which started from New York on Monday, limped in here at 7 o'clock tonight, scarcely able to drag their feet another step. It was the first day of actual hardship that the marchers have experienced, an up and down hill journey over muddy roads in rain and snow.

The last six miles were made in pitch darkness ankle deep in mud and in the face of a bitter northeaster. The footsore, weary women refused offers of "lifts" from passing automobiles, they have vowed to travel the entire distance to Albany afoot.

Miss Rosalie G. Jones, leader of the expedition, who for two days has walked with painfully blistered feet, almost collapsed when she led her followers into the hotel where they stayed for the night.

"Will you go on tomorrow?" she was asked.

"We will march until we drop," replied the suffragette leader.

Miss Jones immediately went to bed. Tonight Mrs. Jessie Hardy Stiggs addressed a meeting of veteran firemen, while Lavinia Docks, the fourth marcher, talked at a gathering of local suffragettes.

CHECK FOR MILLION TO MAN WITHOUT CENT IN THE WORLD

again, either. I know from experience," said Mr. Morgan. "I am not an expert of your own."

"No, what I mean to say is this: The question of control in this country at least, is personal, that is in money."

"You admit that men may get control of enterprises and monopolize them and so abuse their privileges?"

"And you say that so far as the control of the credit is concerned, they can not do the same thing?"

"Or money; no, they can not control it," said Mr. Morgan.

"Do you think that a competitive condition in the banks and trust companies of New York is more or less preferable than a concentrated control over those banks?"

"I would rather have competition," said Mr. Morgan.

After ascertaining that a number of voting trusts in various railroad and industrial corporations were held by members of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., Mr. Morgan asked:

"Assuming you were the voting trusts for all of the great systems of railroads in the United States, it would concentrate control in you, would it not?"

"It would be a concentration in my hands but the board of directors are the ones, and you do not put the same board in every company," said Mr. Morgan.

"Some of them they come pretty near it," said Mr. Morgan.

"No, sir, never," said Mr. Morgan. "Take the banks of New York. Do you realize the quantity of directors in the banks?"

"I do, but the number of directors is very small in proportion to them all."

"Do you think that competitive institutions that ought to be competitive, should have the same boards?"

"Do you think they ought to have a preponderating influence in each board?"

"I do not," said Mr. Morgan. "Do you see nothing improper in having the same men looking into one another's business in competing institutions?"

"They are not looking into each other's business," answered the witness.

"A general director does not know. He doesn't see the books."

Mr. Morgan insisted that without actual control of directorates interlocked directors held no power.

"You take three banks," he said, "and then take three men and then put them in each of these banks. In one bank they are three out of the twenty-five; in another they are three out of twenty; in another they are three out of ten, if you like."

"But supposing you have named all the other directors?" said Mr. Morgan. "Suppose you have a voting trust and you have under the power given by that voting trust named, the whole board as in the two cases of the Guaranty Trust and the Bankers' Trust?"

"I am not talking about voting trusts now. I am passing now upon the question of three directors who go into three or four or ten banks. I defy any man to go into any one of those boards, even myself. I will say, that for the sake of comment, I do not believe I could carry any one question through any one board that I was director of, against the views of the directors. There is no question of control, unless you have a majority of the directors in all banks."

Early in the testimony, Mr. Morgan was led by Mr. Undermyer into a discussion of the various banks in which members of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. appear as directors.

management that came up with respect to these banks with which you are identified in your firm?" asked Mr. Undermyer, "any one of the firm who happens to know about that particular business?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Morgan. "You are doing everything you can to protect the prosperity of these institutions in which the members of your firm are directors?"

"They look after themselves."

"Why do they, in some instances—two members of your firm and, in some instances, three members of your firm—go on the board?"

"Because we have large interests to protect."

"In the protection of that large interest do you not look after the banks at all?" asked Mr. Undermyer.

"Not to any extent."

"It takes the time of your partners, does it not?"

"Yes, it takes too much time."

"And when they are there I suppose they do their utmost to add to the prosperity of the institution?"

"They always do that I hope. That is what they are there for," said Mr. Morgan.

The general subject of the power and privileges of "voting trusts" holding the stock of corporations elicited a long discussion. In the course of which Mr. Undermyer got into the record statements regarding a series of trusts held by members of the firm of Morgan & Company for years.

J. Pierpont Morgan resumed the witness stand today before the money trust investigating committee. Samuel Undermyer, counsel for the committee, began the examination.

"Can't you give the committee a statement of the deposits of your banking firm in New York as of November 1st?" asked Mr. Undermyer.

Mr. Morgan approximated it at about $100,000,000.

Mr. Morgan said he and his partners were directors in some of the interstate corporations that have accounts with J. P. Morgan & Co. His counsel agreed to furnish a list of these directorships. Mr. Morgan produced, in response to a question, copies of the fiscal agreements between J. P. Morgan & Co. and the New York Central and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co.

Mr. Morgan said there were no other such agreements made by his house. He said the firm acted as fiscal agents for other companies "by tacit agreement."

"You are acting for a number of other corporations, are you not, including the United States Steel Corporation?" suggested Mr. Undermyer.

"Yes, but that is by a resolution of the board of directors of the Steel Corporation," said Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Undermyer read part of the New York Central fiscal agreement by which Morgan & Co. were made sole bankers for the railroad. Mr. Morgan said the firm had handled several hundred million dollars' worth of New York Central securities and he thought that in the last ten years these securities had all been handled on a commission basis.

Mr. Undermyer read from the papers furnished by Morgan the proposal from the Morgan house accepted by the New Haven, Morgan & Co. proposed, in return for being made sole fiscal agents for the New Haven lines to loan the New Haven road 90 per cent of the agreed sale price of the securities "at a reasonable rate of interest," and to give the road "the benefits of counsel and advice."

This proposal was accepted January 11, 1911, by the Maine Central; December 28, 1910, by the Boston & Maine; and December 19, 1910, by the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the acceptance in each case being signed by Charles S. Mellen.

"Can you give us from memory a list of other interstate corporations for which you are fiscal agents?" asked Mr. Undermyer.

Mr. Morgan said his firm acted for the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the Northern Pacific and the Southern railroad, although they had not agreements with them. Mr. Undermyer took up the Northern Pacific reorganization.

"Was that property reorganized under a voting trust?"

Mr. Morgan said it was and that he was a member of the voting trust.

"In that connection," he added, "I'd like to present these reports of the voting trusts for the Northern Pacific and Southern railroad."

Mr. Undermyer looked at the reports Mr. Morgan presented and asked if they were not "arguments by the voting trustees in behalf of their good management."

Mr. Morgan replied that they were the reports of the trustees.

"Don't you think that interstate corporations should be entirely free to sell their securities in the open market, and not be tied up to one firm, no matter how just the methods?" asked Mr. Undermyer.

"No not necessarily," replied Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Undermyer asked if Mr. Morgan did not think securities of interstate corporations should be sold in open competition as were United States bonds.

"I do not," said Mr. Morgan. He said there was plenty of competition for railroad securities. Mr. Undermyer asked where there could be competition between the New York, New Haven & Hartford road and Morgan & Co. in the sale of New Haven securities.

"They want a great deal more for them than we think they are worth."

"Do you think it would be better for the railroad to be able to offer its securities to another banking house?"

"No, I do not," retorted Mr. Morgan. He added that the position of the banking house often had much to do with the stability and success of corporations.

Mr. Undermyer turned to the fiscal arrangement with the United States Steel Corporation.

"Didn't you name the entire board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation?" asked Mr. Undermyer.

"I think I passed on it."

Mr. Undermyer asked if Mr. Morgan had not named Judge E. H. Gary for chairman of the Steel Corporation finance committee when George W. Perkins resigned.

"I think so. It's very probable; I don't remember now."

Also it is without an equal as adding, "Just try it on that old barn which you have found isn't weather proof. Your stock will be far healthier."

BERNALILLO LEADS STATE IN SCHOOL POPULATION

Educational Census of New Mexico is Completed Preparatory to Apportionment of Funds for Various Counties.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal) Santa Fe, N. M., Dec. 19.—The school census of New Mexico on which to apportion the school moneys for the ensuing year has just been completed by the different counties, and State Superintendent Alvan N. White has just finished tabulating them and making the apportionment to each county.

The school population of the state is 101,648, as compared with 100,445 in 1911, a gain of 1,203 in a year.

Although there is a gain of over 1,000 children in the state, the fact remains that eleven out of the sixteen counties show a decrease in school population. In some counties this decrease is accounted for by the moving out of homesteaders who have obtained title to their land and have left the state to obtain work in other localities. In other counties the difference can hardly be accounted for in this way, notably Mora, where a loss of 551 is reported. The state department of education believes this difference is due to the manner of taking the census, although every effort is made to have it correctly done.

San Miguel, for years the leading county in school population, gives way to Bernalillo this year with 8,203 children of school age, although San Miguel is a close second, with 7,764.

The sum of $35,542.34 will be distributed in this apportionment, which is made quarterly. In all about $32,000 have been distributed in this way this year. This money for the most part is derived from the leasing fees on school lands.

The 1911-12 school census and the amount of money apportioned to each county under the present distribution is given in the appended table:

County	Census	Each Co.
Bernalillo	8203	$2,706.99
Chaves	5580	1872.40
Colfax	4398	1451.34
Curry	2791	929.80
Dona Ana	5180	1709.40

Gundlup	3476	1147.08
Hidalgo	2224	747.12

HABITUAL PRISONER TOLD TO "BEAT IT"

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Fortune's wheel turned today for Thomas Ryan, "the luckiest man in Chicago," when in Judge Sabath's municipal court he was given money to get a shave, bath and supper and a chance to achieve his life's ambition, to get out of the city. Twenty years, according to Ryan's story, he has been spending his time chiefly in the Bridewell. Every time he leaves the Bridewell he is arrested before he can leave town.

"I was only half a block from the city limits today when I was brought back," he declared. He had been arraigned in another court the day before and warned to get out of the city.

DEFECTIVE BRACE CAUSES GARAGE ROOF TO FALL

New Butler Structure Scene of Accident Which Injures Five and Causes Loss of $1,000 or More.

Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the roof of a new garage being constructed at Copper avenue and Fifth street by E. C. Butler, suddenly collapsed. Five workmen were injured, three seriously. At the time of the accident, Mr. Butler was at the Barajas bridge, attending to his duties as a member of the county road board.

The injured are: Will Clifford, bricklayer, broken foot and bruises, possible internal injuries.

Severo Sanchez, laborer, lives at Barajas, broken leg.

H. H. Van Kirk, carpenter, 1008 North Second street, broken arm, bruised and cut about head.

Ed. Steiner, carpenter, North Fourth street, strained shoulder.

Abel Duran, laborer, Old Albuquerque, bruises.

The collapse of the roof is believed to have been due to a single defective brace. The roof had a span of seventy-five feet, being carried on long built up stringers with iron tension rods beneath. The last of these was in place and the workmen were waiting to place the truss rod when the accident occurred. Carrying the trusses were iron posts, some of these being already in place, but under the last truss there were only two braces, the same wooden stuff that had been used to brace all the others as they were placed. One of these braces had a knot in it. It broke at the knot.

The last of the trusses, at the rear of the building, cracked. F. J. Dye, foreman for Mr. Butler, who is doing the carpenter work by day labor and not by contract, was standing under the girder at the time. When he heard it crack he shouted a warning and started to run. An instant later the girder broke. Something struck Dye on the head and he fell unconscious. A Mexican lad, who was inside was also struck, but not knocked down. He managed to get outside.

Following the collapse of the rear girder, the next one and the three following ones, all of which were tied to the last one by the roof structure, collapsed successively, a series of crashes heralding their fall. Up on top of the roof there were a number of men at work, including several bricklayers. These were all except E. E. Lemke, who has the brick contract, thrown to the ground, a distance of nearly twenty feet. Lemke heard the crash of the first girder and ran for the wall, which he straddled. Will Clifford, another bricklayer, also heard the crash and ran for the wall. Whether he fell from the wall or whether he sat on that portion of it which crumpled away, is not known. At any rate, he was precipitated to the ground. He sustained a broken foot and possible internal injuries.

Ed. Steiner, a carpenter, living on North Fourth street, fell on top of the collapsing roof structure, going down with it, sustaining a badly strained shoulder. Abel Duran, another laborer who was on top of the roof, was thrown to the ground, sustaining bruises. He lives in Old Albuquerque.

Severo Sanchez, a native laborer, sustained a broken leg.

Herbert H. Van Kirk, a carpenter, sustained a broken arm and a badly bruised and cut head. He lives at 1008 North Second street.

The foreman, Dye, was dug out from under the ruins by the crowd which crumpled away, and which went to the aid of the injured men at once. He was unconscious, but revived quickly, none the worse for his experience.

The entire roof, except the front truss, came down in a succession of crashes and the lumber used in it was largely splintered and broken. Parts of the wall, newly laid and not frozen, as were the other sections, added to the confusion by falling on top of the wrecked roof timbers. The only thing that saved the most of the wall from the wreck was the fact that the mortar in it had frozen, binding the entire mass together. Two long trusses bulged parts of the wall outward toward Fifth street and the sidewalk at that section was roped off by the police to prevent people from walking into danger there.

Duran, Sanchez and Clifford were taken to St. Joseph's hospital. Steiner and Van Kirk went to their homes. When seen last night Mr. Butler estimated the money loss to him at slightly over $1,000, aside from the loss of time and the trouble of taking all the wreckage out of the building and sorting it for broken pieces. In view of the number of men working at the building, it is remarkable that the list of injuries is so short.

POLICE CATCH MAN WHO JUMPED FROM TRAIN

Officer Donohue Arrests J. A. Brasher, Wanted at Belen; Says He Wanted Money to Buy Christmas Presents.

J. A. Brasher, who Monday night jumped from a Santa Fe passenger train, when arrested by Deputy Sheriff Fred Becker, of Belen, was arrested yesterday in South Albuquerque by Officer Donohue.

Brasher admitted his identity to Chief of Police Thomas McMillin. He told the chief, however, that he paid his board bills at Belen. He said he neglected to pay other bills, as he wanted the money to buy Christmas presents for his children.

The man also told the chief that he did not see Becker on the train. This conflicts with the report of the deputy sheriff made to the police on Monday night. He said he wanted to attend to some business in Barajas and did not want to walk back that far from the Santa Fe train.

Becker told the police Monday night that Brasher walked from Belen to Isleta and happened to get on the train on which he was coming to Albuquerque. The officer thought Brasher was injured when he leaped as he is about 50 years old. He was not hurt.

The police here have been looking for Brasher since Monday. Donohue met him yesterday afternoon as he was leaving a saloon and asked him to go to the police headquarters. Brasher at first denied that he was the man.

The sheriff's office at Belen was notified of the arrest last night and a deputy sheriff came here to take Brasher to Belen this morning.
