ROBBED KICKAPOOS OF THEIR LAND-AND FORTUNES

Testimony Shows Forgery in Indian Sale Their Valuable Allotments.

SENATE COMMITTEE IS PROBING HARD

One Interpreter Signed Twenty-three Checks and Others in Employ of Alleged Gang Were Almost as Handy With Pen.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 16.—Senator Curtis of Kansas and Senator Teller of Colorado, appointed as a senate sub-committee to investigate the alleged Kickapoo Indian land frauds and immigration of the Indians from the Oklahoma reservation to New Mexico, passed through here today on their way to Shawnee, where they will begin an investigation to last ten days. The committee has just concluded hearings in Eagle Pass, Texas, and Douglas, Arizona. A member of the party, who declined to permit his name to be used, said today that an outrageous plot to rob the Indians of their lands had been discovered. Charges of crookedness and fraud in the transfer of Kickapoo Indian lands lying in the reservation around Shawnee were brought before the subcommittee on Indian affairs of the senate at the hearing.

Deeds Were Forged.
It was brought out at the hearing in Eagle Pass that a man, who appeared as a Spanish interpreter to the Indians, who had been sent there two years ago, signed checks aggregating more than $23,000 as a witness and that an Indian interpreter, and himself witnessed the signatures of some forty odd deeds by other persons than the real owners of the Indian land. It was testified at the hearing that the Indians were first made drunk and that they were then taken before a magistrate in Eagle Pass and there signed the deeds to their lands in Oklahoma.

Signed Many Checks.
Before the senate subcommittee an interpreter swore that he was instrumental in having signed $23,000 worth of forged checks. He drew money from the Eagle Pass bank payable to Indians, who still were residents of Oklahoma. For land that is valued at $300,000 Oklahoma has paid about $40,000. Of this $40,000, $25,000, it is said, was withdrawn from the bank by forged checks and the remainder is still in the banks in Eagle Pass for the Indians. The subcommittee in Eagle Pass it was brought out that some of the Indians are unaware that the money is in the bank at Eagle Pass.

Many Persons Involved.
Most of the persons alleged to be involved in this affair are residents of Shawnee, Oklahoma City and other points in Oklahoma, some of them being prominent capitalists, who were after the Indian lands as an investment.

In some cases the prominence of these men, who were well known to the Indians, caused the red men to sign the deeds in their presence without question, as they believed their "white friends" could mean no harm, according to evidence which was adduced before the commission.

Blamed Bentley.
Martin J. Bentley, at one time an agent to the Kickapoo and a man who exerted unbounded influence over them, was instrumental in moving them to Mexico and the alleged plotters after their lands claimed that Bentley was guilty of attempted fraud, but the members of the commission deny this.

ANOTHER DOSE OF SUNDAY LAW

Said Warrants Will be Issued for Morning Paper, Street Car Company and Telegraphers—The Shoe Pinches.

Believing that if the Blue Sunday law of New Mexico is to be enforced at all it should be enforced all around, complaint was made against the morning paper, the Albuquerque Tribune, and the telegraph companies by citizens late today, charging them with violating the Sunday closing statute. The complaints were made before Judge Craig and it is understood that he will issue warrants although they had not been issued at a late hour. The complaining witnesses are: Henry Westfield, cigar dealer and Schmitt & Schmitt, confectioner. It is understood the cigar dealer and saloon men are anxious to see that they are not the only ones who obey the law and desire it tested.

In the meantime the affair will prove a good advertisement for all concerned. The report of the complaints on the streets this afternoon caused considerable amusement, since it is hardly likely that the law will be interpreted in such a strict sense. Evidently this latter day reign of good government has proved embarrassing in several sources.

"A FAKE" SAYS FATHER TOM OF GRANT STORY

Distinguished Son of General Sherman Says he Does Not Believe Derossett's Allegations.

HIS FATHER OFFERED CONFEDERATE PLACE

His Reply Was "On No Earthly Account Would I Think Any Thought Against the Old Government."

"It is a fake—purely sensational, and will be refuted by the G. A. R. and the descendants of Grant, Thomas and Farragut," said Father Tom Sherman, son of General W. T. Sherman, when asked his opinion of the sensational statement made by Capt. A. L. Derossett, of Wilmington, N. C., that these three distinguished officers applied to President Davis of the Confederacy in 1861 for commissions in the Confederate army according to original copies of letters in the museum of the Louisiana Historical Society. "About General Thomas," continued Father Sherman, "he came from Virginia and if he had been inclined toward the Confederacy it would have been known from the start. But it's all a sensational fake. 'My father was offered the position of major general in the Confederate army, but his reply on that occasion was, 'On no earthly account would I think any thought or do any act against the old government.'"

"That statement is carved on his statue back of the treasury building in Washington. The words were picked out by my brother, Tecumseh Sherman, now commissioner of labor in New York, as characteristic of father."

"At the unveiling of the statue President Roosevelt read the words and made them the text of his address. Father's words were always with the nation and not with the state." The statement of Capt. Derossett created a sensation in grand army and confederate circles and was generally disbelieved by confederate and union veterans. The publisher of the Confederate Veteran in which Capt. Derossett's article was published says he will make a statement in his next issue disproving the communication from Capt. Derossett.

"This work is being carried on all over the country by the church. There is no excitement about it. It is not emotional or sensational. We are appealing to all classes and all denominations. My addresses the first few nights will deal with general religious topics, which all believe, but later I will put forth my own denominational views. "My, but Albuquerque has grown since I was last here ten years ago. I conducted a mission here twelve years ago and I have often heard father speak of Albuquerque as he was here many times."

SCHMITT IS AWARDED VERDICT FOR $7,500

Attorneys For Defense Immediately Give Notice of an Appeal.

DEFENDANT PLEASSED WITH DECISION

Joseph Schmitt was awarded a verdict for a little over $6,500 by the jury in the Bernalillo county district court in his $25,000 damage suit against the Southwestern Brewery & Ice company for injuries received while operating a mash cooker in the brewery a year ago. After the reading of the verdict, the attorneys for the defense served notice of a motion for a new trial. "We will fight the case to the last ditch," said Attorney Marron for the defense.

Schmitt was well pleased with the verdict according to his attorney, Neil B. Field. The jury returned a verdict for $7,500 in favor of the plaintiff, less the expenses of Schmitt's illness and his salary during the time he was laid up. The expenses totalled $191.30, thus giving the plaintiff $6,588.70. It was 11:30 last night when the jury returned the verdict sealed, which was opened and read at the opening of court this morning at 9 o'clock. It is understood that the manner of securing the alleged release from Schmitt by the brewery was distasteful to the jury and that the willingness of the brewery to pay his salary and all his expenses during his long illness had considerable to do with the verdict returned.

NAVAJOS SENTENCED FOR DEER KILLING

Socorro, N. M., Nov. 16.—(Special).—Ten Navajo Indians, arrested in the Dault mountains for the unlawful killing of deer, were tried before Justice Green here this morning and sentenced to thirty days each in the county jail and the payment of the costs of the arrest and trial. The Indians had the hides of 131 deer and several carcasses in their possession, when apprehended. They had been camped on the upper Gila river several weeks hunting and were about ready to break camp and return to the Navajo reservation, when discovered by rangers in the service of the national forest department. The foresters called to their assistance Sergeant Lewis, of the mounted police. The arrest was made without incident, the Indians complying with the summons served on them. The hides were confiscated by the authorities. There was one woman and a child with the party, but only the men were sentenced to jail.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 16.—Policeman Robert J. Mackeney was found shot to death early today at Sixty-third street and Wentworth avenue, only a half block from the Englewood police headquarters. His revolver was in his hip pocket and apparently he had no chance to defend himself. A man was seen running away just after the shot was heard. The police are searching for Freeman Coniff, who in 1886 was arrested by Mackeney after robbing a house and killing Alexander Buchet. Coniff, who had threatened vengeance upon Mackeney was released last spring after serving a term of twenty years in prison.

FIRE DESTROYS FAMOUS OLD CATHOLIC BUILDINGS

Bay St. Louis Convent, Church and Other Structures Are Burned

BLAZE PRACTICALLY RUINED ENTIRE TOWN

Bay St. Louis, Miss., Nov. 16.—A fire, which started early this morning was fanned by a high wind through the town, destroying everything in its path, causing damage of about two hundred thousand dollars. St. Joseph's convent, one of the most famous institutions of its kind in this part of the south, was totally destroyed, also the Catholic church and parsonage. Other buildings destroyed were the Osane theatre, Hotel Clifton, Cumberland building and Butler building.

Had Narrow Escapes.
The fire started at daybreak and within an hour had swept a path straight through the town several blocks wide. On account of its excellent location this has been a famous educational point in the south and there were a number of fine buildings surrounding the convent used for educational purposes. All of these were burned. There were a number of narrow escapes in the convent and hotel, a number of people being carried out as the flames entered their rooms. No one was badly hurt but a number received severe burns.

ATTORNEYS PRESENTING ALIBI IN ADAMS TRIAL

Hope to Prove That Steve Was Not There When Alleged Murder Was Committed.

HIS PARTNER, MASON BEFORE THE JURY

Says He Had Nothing to Do With Killing of Tyler and That Defendant Could Not Have Been Near the Place.

Rathdrum, Idaho, Nov. 16.—Steve Adams' alibi is being unfolded to the jury in his trial for murder here today. His attorneys gave notice that they would ask Judge Wood to alter instructions given in the former case at Wallace and he said he would hear their arguments on such a proposition some evening after court was over. In his opening statement Mr. Darrow outlined the life of Adams how he had been a farmer and then a teamster; how his sympathy with the union led him further in the union ways, and that after he removed to Cripple Creek, Colo., he joined the Western Federation of Miners. He spoke of the labor troubles at Independence in 1903 and 1904, but did not mention the blowing up of the Independence depot until after he had said that because of some part the defendant took in the labor troubles he was imprisoned for 90 days without a charge being entered against him, and that he was released afterward without having been tried. Mr. Darrow then gave Adams' version of his advent in the Marble Creek country and the subsequent murders by members of anti-claim. He evoked Adams' alleged movements between Marble Creek and Spokane, with the apparent purpose of proving an alibi when the murders were committed.

Refers to Orchard Case.
Mr. Darrow then went into the Steunberger murder and intimated alleged connection with it, saying Adams was arrested on his claim in Oregon, where he was trying to force the Federation of Miners, or any labor troubles in the Colorado mining district. He said: "Adams was thrown into the Idaho penitentiary, where Harry Orchard was set to work on him to get him to confess. That's Idaho. He told Steven that his sins had been forgiven, and later Detective McFarland was given charge of Steven."

Adams' Partner.
The first witness was Alvah Mason, one of the men whom Adams said in his confession was with him when he killed Tyler. Mr. Helman conducted the direct examination. Mr. Darrow resting, Mason said he lived at Remington, Idaho, where he had taken up a homestead in 1901. The homestead is in the Marble Creek district, about sixteen miles from the St. Joe river. Witness said he lived on his homestead in 1904. Witness described the condition of the country and the trail from his place on the river to the Marble Creek country in 1904. He said he found Edward Boule, Mr. Griffiths, his son and Mr. Lindsay, four jumpers on the trail, when he went on the claim in 1904. They had already built cabins. Simpkins' cabin was about three quarters of a mile from the place where the murders occurred. He was going in the direction of Simpkins' cabin. Steve Adams was then going under the name of Steve Dixon. Adams came out of the Marble Creek country that summer, about the last of July or the first of August. The killing of Tyler is supposed to have occurred August 14. Witness saw Adams nearly every day while he was there. Witness, in reply to a question, said he had nothing whatever to do with the killing of Tyler.

Evil Days Now For the Stage People
New York, Nov. 16.—These are evil days for the stage people and the actors and actresses are out of work here. They may be seen daily on Broadway making the rounds of the agencies. The financial stringency, dearth of satisfactory plays, and the construction of too many theaters have combined, it appears, to bring about this condition.

Daniel Frohman says until money conditions improve there can be no change.

OKLAHOMA FORMALLY ADMITTED TO THE UNION

President Signed Proclamation Declaring Two Territories One State at 10:16 This Morning.

NOISY CELEBRATION MARKS THE EVENT

Officials Sworn In at Guthrie and a Big Indian Barbecue Followed —Gov. Haskell Delivered His Inaugural Address to Large Audience.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—A new star was added to the American flag today by the admission formally into the union of the state of Oklahoma. At 10:16 this morning President Roosevelt signed a proclamation adding the territory of Oklahoma and Indian Territory jointly as one of the American states. Little formally attended the ceremony which means so much to the people of the two territories. The president used a quill plucked from the wing of an American eagle. This pen will be deposited with the Oklahoma Historical society.

OFFICIALS TAKE OATHS AT GUTHRIE

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 16.—With impressive ceremonies befitting the birth of the new state the official oaths were administered to Governor Charles N. Haskell and the other state officials shortly before noon today. The ceremonies took place on the steps of the Carnegie library. The proclamation of President Roosevelt was read by Charles E. Pilon, secretary of Oklahoma territory, and the executive oath was given by Leslie G. Niblack, a newspaper man. Governor Haskell then delivered his inaugural address.

Haskell's Address.
Gov. Haskell said in part: "In its course through the day, the sun will have bathed the path of a million and half people emerging from the disorder and discontent of bureaucratic government, restricted to the point of helplessness and needing to the limit of oppression, into a condition of liberty and self government. We are not assembled here to worship the public officer who ultimately conceded us our rights, especially when we reflect that long ago, from every standpoint of population, wealth and intelligence this territory was entitled to all the blessings and privileges of statehood, and now to be used when public officers in overgracious terms, who have finally performed a long and unjustly deferred duty, would be in the nature of hanging the feet of a dilatory debtor who finally pays his just indebtedness."

Federal and State Relations.
Gov. Haskell discussed the relations between the federal and state government and deplored the disposition on the part of some high in authority "to look upon the constitution of the United States itself as even a little thing to be used when it pleased the executor and to be construed and bent when at variance with his will."

Financial Remedies.
Gov. Haskell dwelt upon what he termed the oppression of the country by the trusts, and then discussed the financial situation. "The situation of our financial affairs," he said, "is to close the New York stock exchange and to free the currency that it dominates and turn it into the channels of legitimate commerce."

The governor promised fair treatment to the railroads.

An Indian Barbecue.
After the inaugural ceremonies a parade was formed and marched to the outskirts of the city where an immense crowd participated in an Indian barbecue, a feature suggested by Gov. Haskell.

It had been the intention that Gov. Frantz, the retiring governor of Oklahoma, should ride in a carriage with Gov. Haskell, but Frantz positively refused to ride with Haskell or have anything to do with the inauguration.

At the barbecue grounds portions of meat were served on semi-circular tables from a huge pit where thirty beehives had been cooked. It was a picturesque multitude of whites and Indians mingling in good fellowship.

ALL WHISTLES BLEW AND BELLS RANG OUT
Shawnee, Okla., Nov. 16.—Every whistle in the two territories blew and every bell rang, while fireworks and other explosives barked out in welcome to the new state at 9:14 this morning. A general holiday was observed here and the same at South McAlester, Tulsa, Muskogee, Enid and all other cities in the new state.

NOISY CELEBRATION AT OKLAHOMA CITY.
Oklahoma City, Nov. 16.—The signing of the statehood proclamation was signaled at 9:14 this morning by the ringing of bells, blowing of whistles and a general celebration.

Secretary of State William Cross is critically ill with heart trouble in this city and was unable to attend the inaugural ceremonies at Guthrie. The oath of office was administered to him by a notary here. It is thought he can live but a few days at the most.

Stole $5,000.
Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16.—Charles Hess stole $5,000 from the Penn brewery today.

RAILROAD DEPARTMENT

HARVEY SYSTEM
OWNS 69 BIG HOTELS

Makes Its Own Mattresses to Supply Host of Beds.

Including the Alvarado, the best of them all, there are 69 hotels in the system of Harvey houses on the lines of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and St. Louis & San Francisco railroads. These are the only lines where Fred Harvey has hotels at present. But it is the belief of many people that this famous concern will soon open a hotel in New York City and will have a line of hotels along some line of railroad, possibly the New York Central, from that city to Chicago. A line of diners would be equipped with a Harvey service. It is known that the New York Central lines have for years tried to arrange for the dining service for the entire Four Track system. It is probable that this may be done and that one of the finest of the fine hotels in New York City may be under the management of the Harvey system.

Certain it is, though, that the houses along these two roads at the present time are doing a big business. The Santa Fe has a list of Harvey houses now at a distance of about 100 miles apart all the way from Kansas City to California. There is no chance to miss a meal. A train cannot be far away from some of the houses at all times. Besides dining cars are run on two of the through trains.

It is found that these houses are so highly patronized that new additions are being built to many of them.

Maintains a Factory.
The Harvey system economizes as much as possible by having its own dairy and poultry farms wherever convenient, and also in many other kindred ways. One of its methods of saving is by its mattress factory, which is located at Hutchinson, Kan. F. F. Stiekel has charge of this factory which turns out practically all of the mattresses used in the great hotels along the two roads controlled by the Harvey system. They are made up with wooden and bamboo frames, with coil springs underneath. The mattress proper is of South American horse hair. The quality is of the finest and it is said they cost about $30 to manufacture. Recently this factory sent a large order of mattresses to Needles, Cal., and some are being made now for two new houses in California, and two new ones down on the line of the Pecos Valley division in New Mexico.

CLOVIS WILL BE A NEW DIVISION POINT.

Clovis, N. M., is the first station west of Texico on the Eastern Railway of New Mexico and will be the first division point on that road. The eighteen stall roundhouse at that point is now practically finished. The 40x50 frame car shop is about two-thirds completed. A 750-ton coal chute, with sand and cinder plants, is one-fourth completed. The contract for this building was let to the Roberts & Schaefer company, Old Colony building, Chicago. There will be a 24x135 two-story concrete depot built, also a two-story concrete Harvey eating house, the contract price of the latter building being over $51,000. The contracts for these two buildings have been let to Nelson & McLeod of Chicago. A 50x150 storeroom, with a 60x150 platform, has been proposed for Clovis, also a 90x180 machine shop. Work on these buildings has not been commenced as yet. All grading, steam shovel and iron bridge work on the Eastern Railway of New Mexico proper, has been completed. The grading of the Clovis-Cameo branch, which is nine miles long, is nearly finished, and it is expected the steel over this line will be laid within the next thirty days. Clovis has a population of nearly 3000 people, and has some first class brick and frame buildings under construction. It has two national banks, both doing business; waterworks and electric light plants, both in operation. There was not a house on the town site at Clovis prior to May 1, 1907.

ALBUQUERQUE DIVISION TO BE SHORTENED

It is reported that the Albuquerque division of the Santa Fe, which now extends from this city to Seligman, a distance of 428.5 miles, is to be shortened early next year by 50.8 miles, in order that no employee need be kept on duty more than 16 hours consecutively. A new division will be created between Williams and Kingman, Ariz., and the division will be removed from Seligman, which will be a hard blow to that town.

It was reported here last night that about 7 o'clock in the evening a robber with his face hidden by a white mask, entered the private car of Superintendent Frank Myers, of the Rio Grande division, while the car stood on the siding at San Marcial, and compelled the negro cook to furnish him with a meal, after which he ransacked the car, but got nothing. The cook says the fellow had a sixshooter and fired two shots at him before he left.

S. E. Buser, superintendent of reading rooms, has arranged with P. Farrell to go to San Marcial, N. M., to purchase a new convertible bed and stool table, also for some work at Albuquerque, Raton, La Junta and Newton.

E. O. Faulkner, superintendent of the tie and timber department, has signed a contract with the Hawaiian Mahogany Lumber company of Honolulu for the purchase of 2,500,000

"GRASS WIDOW"
NOT A REAL
"WIDOW"

Arizona Judge Says Husband
Must Be Certainly and Surely Dead.

Tombstone, Ariz., Nov. 16.—A recent case in the district court has served to elucidate that the ambiguous term "widow" has its meaning in the eye of the law. The circumstances including the discussion of the legal acceptance of the term came in the course of a suit for the collection of county taxes claimed by Tax Attorney W. G. Gilmore, and in whose contention the defendant who claimed exemption by reason of widowhood.

"As the result of the definition of 'widow' ably put forth by Mr. Gilmore, and in whose contention the court concurred, a precedent has been established in Cochise county and none but a bona fide widow—she who has been made so by the demise of a former lawful husband—shall enjoy exemption from payment of taxes as the law provides.

Henceforth, the widow of 'grass' proportions and she of the marital ties disrupted and rent asunder by his majesty, the law, must punge their just proportion toward the bearing of the county's expenses.

Tax Attorney Gilmore's flat has gone forth and the court has given full accord to his views.

He Must Be Dead.
It will matter not whether or not the aforesaid divorcee shall have severed herself so completely from the ties of matrimony as to have gone even the saving balm of alimony; if she has an ex-life partner anywhere extant on the mundane sphere, her coesisters must fall duly and regularly into the coffs of the treasurer.

In the world of widows there is to be none but she who travels life's path alone; the 'grass' widow, the widow by divorce and the 'near' widow are all in the 'lame and halt' class so far as his honor will be able to perceive.

And Gilmore did it. With his little dictionary and rhetorical flourish, he has weeded out of the field of exemption all but those who are justly entitled by statutory provisions to its benefit.

In summing up his arguments, Mr. Gilmore quoted Webster and Worcester and pointed out forcefully that there can be but one widow—the woman made so by the death of her husband.

"The courts of the land can have no cognizance of a 'season' for widows when they may go afire and with legal shotgun blow down a bevy of fair and lonely creatures upon whom the stamp of widowhood may be put," was a passing shot of Gilmore's which earned a mild rebuff from the court.

The Companion as a Christmas Gift.
Nobody is too young, nobody too old, to enjoy reading The Youth's Companion. For that reason it makes one of the most appropriate of Christmas gifts—one of the few whose actual worth far outweighs the cost. Welcome as the paper may be to the casual reader on the train, at the office, in the public library, it is, after all, the paper of the home. The regularity and frequency of its visits, the cordial sincerity of its tone, make for it soon the place of a familiar friend in the house. Like a good friend, too, it stands always for those traits and qualities which are treasured in the ideal home, and are the sources of a nation's health and true prosperity. Is there another Christmas present costing so little that equals it?

On receipt of $1.75, the yearly subscription price, the publishers send to the new subscriber all the remaining issues of The Companion for 1907 and the Four-Leaf Hanging Calendar for 1908 in full color.

TAOS COUNTY'S IRRIGATION PROJECT

Red River Reservoir System
Will Reclaim 16,000 Acres of Fine Land.

John H. Young, one of the pioneer farmers of Questa, Taos county, who for four days served as a republican member of the New Mexico legislature some years ago, being unseated by the democratic majority, a fact which, however, he has long since almost forgotten, says that his county is one of the finest in the territory.

"While northern Taos county is not receiving as yet many new immigrants, the people have been and are doing mighty well," said Mr. Young. "Land values are constantly on the increase and while we are forty-four miles from the railroad town of Antonito, we sell everything that we raise at very good rates.

"While our fruit crop was of no consequence this year, alfalfa, wheat, oats, barley and potato crops and vegetables were abundant, and brought very good prices. I have eighty acres of fine land under ditch and cultivation, and am certainly well satisfied with the results.

Small Farms.
"There are about 13,000 acres owned by the people there in small lots under small holdings title. A good deal of this land is already irrigated and the remainder will be irrigated next season and brought under cultivation. The water will come from the Cabresto lake. The reservoir and the dam are completed and the water supply will be abundant. The ditches will be in readiness for the spring's work.

"This reservoir and ditch system is a community affair. The people who own the lands settled there in 1842. This was the third settlement one was made in the latter part of the eighteenth century but the Utes and Apaches were too troublesome and the settlement was abandoned; the second settlement was made in 1811 with the same results; the third settlement in 1842 became permanent. Questa is improving and quite a number of new residences are being built. Our farmers are also putting up better houses and making improvement generally.

Red River Project.
"Another irrigation project which will be of much consequence to our section will be the Red River reservoir and dam system. Denver capitalists will furnish the money and George B. Paxton, mining engineer, who has been working for several years in the Red River mining district, will be the manager. The water will be brought from the Red River either by a pipe line two and one-half miles long around the Red River mountain or through a tunnel which would be about three-fourths of a mile in length to irrigate about 16,000 acres of fine agricultural land which land is now the property of the territory and for which application for purchase has been made by the promoters of the company, to Territorial Engineer A. L. Sullivan, which is now pending. The reservoir and ditch system proposed will be rather expensive but the land will be worth it after water has been conducted to it.

There Want a Railroad.
"There are two saw mills now in operation in Lama canyon about four miles south of Questa. These cut about 25,000 feet per day. The lumber is sold in the local market. About thirty men are employed. The saw timber is purchased from the bureau of forestry at $2.50 per thousand broad feet and is located on the Taos national forest. The outlook for the next year for our section is very promising.

"Whenever we get a railroad down from old Fort Garland, which we ought to have and which the Denver and Rio Grande railroad ought to build, northern Taos county will be one of the best agricultural fruit raising and mineral sections of the southwest."

DINNER AND DUTCH LUNCH.
The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church will give a dinner at noon, and a church lunch in the evening, from 5 to 8 o'clock, Friday, Nov. 22, in the parlors of the Presbyterian church. Everybody invited.

"WE GET THE NEWS FIRST."
"STATEHOOD FOR NEW MEXICO"

Another Star

New Mexico today looks with envy upon Oklahoma—a new state—another star in the flag.

Oklahoma was formally admitted to the union of states this morning and when the news reached the new state shortly after nine o'clock it was received with a burst of enthusiasm.

Whistles were blown, bells rang, guns, cannon and anvils were fired and for hours the people gave themselves over to celebrating their advent into the union of states.

It is indeed sad that New Mexico can not today join Oklahoma in rejoicing. This territory, the oldest in civilization and colonization in the United States is today still a territory.

While New Mexico and her people wish the new state of Oklahoma God speed, yet it is with a feeling of regret that we too can not join in the celebration over the advent of the state of New Mexico. We people of the southwest are entitled to statehood, many, many times more than Oklahoma.

We have made progress treble to that of Oklahoma in recent years and we have done so in the face of difficulties Oklahoma has never known. This is a great day—the greatest day—in Oklahoma's history. It should with equal right, have been the greatest in New Mexico. Our governor is today in the national capital with our delegate to congress seeking for that which was given to Oklahoma. Will he get it?

The Citizen believes that without question, he will. In fact, this paper as stated yesterday, has received assurances from reliable sources in Washington that New Mexico now has the best chance she ever had, for statehood.

But there is one thing certain. It will be a sorry day for congress if this territory is refused admission to the union. Not that the people of New Mexico are filled with resentment. They are too good citizens and too law abiding. But every man, regardless of party, knows that this territory has long been entitled to statehood and every man is equally determined that New Mexico shall be admitted or that some plausible reason shall be given.

We are united for statehood; we would have taken statehood a year ago joined to Arizona and have surrendered the historic name of this territory to have done so.

Arizona defeated the cause by a vote of her people. Now we want what is justly ours—single statehood under our own name and for our own people.

Oklahoma is today celebrating statehood and The Citizen hopes that this territory will hold a similar celebration a year hence. Statehood is our due and Governor Curry has the backing of every vote in New Mexico in a fight for our just right.

Therefore let us rejoice with Oklahoma today, but on one condition—single statehood for New Mexico.

The Cause of Labor

Government statisticians have collected figures which show that during the twenty-five years from 1881 to 1905 there were 36,587 strikes and 1546 lockouts in the United States.

These labor disturbances involved 199,945 establishments and 7,444,279 wage earners. In consequence of them there was a direct financial loss of $500,000,000.

These are the figures. Figures are figures and while they speak truthfully so far as figures go they do not tell the whole story. What did labor secure? Is the question that may rightfully be asked. Labor lost and labor won, but all in all, labor elevated itself from working for a pittance to a wage scale in keeping with the advance of the day.

No one attempts to deny that had it not been for organization, labor would have been crushed in the natural order of things, to working for a mere existence.

But by that the Citizen does not mean to say that every strike called was a just strike nor that every strike defeated was an unjust one.

Labor made some severe mistakes and in most cases labor paid the bill. Capital, against which labor organized, also made grave mistakes and likewise paid the bill.

But the real effects of the strikes were to place labor on a more equal footing with the balance of humanity and to give it more of its just dues.

Labor was entitled to more; labor fought for its rights and labor made the world respect its rights.

Many labor organizations have been over-bearing in their demands; many failed to understand the rights involved in a labor-capital dispute while others forced an issue at the wrong time. These were merely results of labor's ignorance of the eternal fitness of things.

Capital on the other hand did exactly the same thing in a negative manner.

Eventually, however, labor and capital learned to better understand each other and the result has been more justice on both sides and co-operation along most lines.

Therefore it is not well to read the figures as compiled by the government too closely.

They are no doubt facts, but they are not all the facts. Neither labor nor capital lost all the figures show, when all is considered. It is to be hoped, however, that the figures will operate to prevent further friction except as a last resort.

Emporia Gazette: When a newspaper has a genuine sensation to spring, it should use some judgment, and not take the chance of prostrating its readers by being too abrupt. Thus, when the Burlington Republican announces in so many words that it knows of two girls who want work, the shock is rather too much for ordinary nerves to withstand. In these days when the demand for girls is so strong that an able-bodied damsel stands a good chance of being abducted if she appears in public, when hotel and restaurant men are advertising and sending private detectives after girls, when girls for general house work, and girls for every branch of industry are being screamed for, and implored for, and fought for, the Burlington paper calmly announces that it knows two virgins who want work! Ods bods! The editor should endeavor to break the news gently.

The report from Washington to the effect that bids would be advertised at once for the erection of the new federal building sounds good to the people of Albuquerque. Delegate Andrews will complete the good work and keep after the proper officials until the big building is completed. Another big improvement for the metropolis of the southwest.

When Rev. Shaw yesterday told the Baptists that the average Sunday school was a fake, he neglected to take into consideration the small boy who has to comb his hair, wash his face and go to church instead of hunting rabbits. No, the Sunday school is a reality all right. Ask Johnny.

Pope Plus calls it "Modernism," but the opinion of the average man is that it is more "cussedness" than anything else. However it won't matter much what its called if we can find a good remedy.

The Roswell Record, strange to say, is wonderfully silent about that big republican vote in Kentucky. Maybe the Record hasn't yet heard the news?

Albuquerque will owe the Elks a vote of thanks if they really will start something doing in the social line next Wednesday night.

The Root-Grant wedding is to be a quiet affair. That suits us, too.

LOOKING FOR A GOOD TIME?

There are about as many conceptions as to what constitutes a "good time" as there are individuals, but there is one place in New Mexico, not very far from Albuquerque, where 36 out of every 100 people find what they are looking for. That place is the Valley Ranch, at Pecos, New Mexico.

CHAS. CONROY OPENS NEW GROCERY STORE

Building and Stock Would be Compliment to Any City.

"Mr. Conroy, I think that you have the nicest store in the city." This is what a reporter from The Citizen heard a woman tell Chas. Conroy, proprietor of a grocery and delicatessen store at 501 South Arno street, on the Highlands, yesterday.

Mr. Conroy had just moved into his new building and was receiving many of his customers yesterday for the first time since moving from his former quarters. Many were their expressions like the one above. One woman said that place was a dream, but Mr. Conroy told her that it was no dream—it was the real thing.

The new home of Mr. Conroy's store is built of pressed brick and is 50x50 feet, the front facing on Arno street. Immense deep plate glass windows reach across the entire front, and one window twelve feet wide reaches along the Coal Avenue side, throwing a flood of light the extent of the store.

The ceiling is fifteen feet above the hardwood floor, lending light and cheer. Every fixture is new. The couplets are maple and maple shelves laden with freshly labeled goods cover the three walls. A large portable goods rack much higher than one's head, occupies a conspicuous place in the center of the room. This also is filled with blue label catsup, imported canned goods, great big green olives, preserves, jams and jellies. A can of spinach, with a french seal on it, was the first can the reporter examined. "That's only a sample," said Mr. Conroy. "We have the best canned goods canned at home or abroad, and we have a market for them. You people down in the bottoms don't think there is any call for such goods on the Highlands. Just stick around a bit and see the people on the Highlands buy nothing but the best and they know what to ask for."

"We carried the best in the old store and we are carrying the best in the new one and we are buying in larger quantity."

"That is the reason why I built. The old building wasn't large enough. I started it with a building 16x16 and kept adding onto it from time to time, as the business grew, until it was sixty-five feet deep. Then there came a time last spring when I realized that only a new building would fill the needs of the growing business, so we moved the old building on a back lot and started the new one. We didn't stop doing business, nor for a minute. We did business in the old building up till yesterday, then we moved."

"I have a basement beneath 25x50 choked full of goods. We handle a lot of different brands of coffee, the best and the poorest, and we are getting in new goods every day. Fresh codfish, mackerel and clams."

The windows of Mr. Conroy's new store are very inviting. They are set with portable racks and these racks are loaded with goods, olives in glass jars, all kinds of fancy goods and crackers and biscuits, all neatly and tastefully arranged. In fact, there is an air of cleanliness and a sparkle about the whole store that strikes one's fancy.

In fact, the whole store, outside and in, gives one the impression, at a glance, that the "man behind" understands his business thoroughly.

Mr. Conroy, the proprietor, came to Albuquerque the year 1882, and has been engaged in the grocery business almost continuously ever since. The older residents of Albuquerque will remember when Mr. Conroy conducted a store at 902 South Second street. That was in the year 1890.

It was in 1900 that Mr. Conroy started in business in the Highlands in a very inviting way. As he stated, the building that held the first stock of goods he hauled to the Highlands was only sixteen feet square.

The handsome new store that he is lord and master over now tells better than words his success.

The New Butcher Shop.

In connection with the Conroy grocery is a meat market, that causes the good housewife to take notice. Mr. Herman Swickert, formerly head meat cutter for the San Jose Market, is the proprietor of it. Mr. Swickert, like Mr. Conroy, has begun business in a new building with new fixtures. He has an ice box that would make any butcher envious. It is a handsome piece of furniture fourteen feet high, has walls six inches thick and standing room on the inside for a man seven feet tall.

But most interesting is the meat that Mr. Swickert carries. He has everything from a fancy cut of the Chicago fat stock down. The black stamp of a government inspector on some is tell tale of its coming from Kansas City. Mr. Swickert will undoubtedly get the business. As a sample of enterprise he announces that he has purchased the entire turkey crop of the Jacobson ranch, north of the city, for his Thanksgiving trade.

SOLOMON GOES BACK TO LOS ANGELES

Sam Solomon, the self-confessed diamond thief, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law by his former employer, A. Lubeck, pawnbroker, of Los Angeles, whom he robbed, according to Officer Hawley, of the Los Angeles police department, who left today noon with Solomon in custody for the coast city where he will face a charge of felony.

Solomon had been employed at Lubeck's pawn shop only three weeks, said Officer Hawley, and Lubeck had placed so much confidence in him that he entrusted him with the key to the store, the two diamonds which he understood Solomon was about to dispose of to customers and $50 in cash for change to use in the store in the morning before Lubeck arrived.

"One night Solomon disappeared with the two diamonds, valued at $500 and the $50 in cash and also Lubeck's overcoat. He was traced to the Santa Fe ticket office and there it was learned that a man answering the description had bought a ticket to Kansas City. We then wired Chief McMillin to arrest him and we are indebted to the Albuquerque police for the arrest."

"Solomon has no record as a criminal on the coast. Lubeck is paying the expenses of the case and he told me it was his intention to prosecute Solomon to the full extent of the law."

BAPTISTS ELECT OFFICERS FOR ENSUING YEAR

The principal business of the Baptist convention, in session in the First Baptist church in this city, elected officers yesterday as follows:

President, B. T. Link, of Silver City; first vice president, S. B. Caloway, of Alamogordo; second vice president, R. P. Pope, of Glencoe; recording secretary, O. J. Heath, of Las Vegas; treasurer, R. H. Kemp, of Roswell.

In addition to the election of officers, a carefully prepared constitution, the work of Rev. H. F. Vermilion, of Roswell, and a committee, was presented at the afternoon session and after a careful reading, was adopted without amendment. An article was added providing for the election of members of the governing board of the Baptist college at Alamogordo.

The closing session of the convention will be held tomorrow.

NEWS OF THE WEEK FROM THE VARSITY

Last night at the Woman's club house the university students held a social dance. About twenty-five couples were out and a most enjoyable evening was had.

Interest in football, after it had apparently died out, seems to have been revived again. It is probable that the game which was to have been played with the Agricultural college at Las Cruces today, will be pulled off three weeks from today. A sufficient number of students have pledged themselves to do faithful practice work and the manager has signified his willingness to extend the season.

Professor Hodgins has announced his intention of starting next week on a trip to the City of Mexico. The object of the trip is to visit the public schools in the principal cities of the republic. Prof. Hodgins intends to return by way of Galveston and to visit the schools of Texas on his return trip.

At the assembly on Thursday the following program was presented: "The Development of the English Language," Lucy Edie; "The Japanese-American War Situation," Fred Forbes; "Washington's Trying," John Emmons; declamation, "An Unappreciable Cow," by Bill Nye, Gillette Cornish.

The Dramatic club held a meeting on Friday and appointed a committee to arrange for a play in the near future.

The second tennis court was completed last week. This game has been growing in popularity at the Varsity and both of the courts are in constant use out of school hours.

Regular practice games by the girls' basketball team have been held every afternoon this week in the Colombo hall. The team is composed of the following students:

Center, Bell Franklin; guards, Mae McMillin and Alice McMillin; forwards, Lucie Edie and Nettie Durling.

CONFIRMATION CLASSES AT ALL CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Bishop Pitaval Administers Sacrament Tonight and Sunday.

Three masses were celebrated this morning, beginning at seven o'clock in the church of the Immaculate Conception.

Bishop J. B. Pitaval said low mass at the high altar while Father "Tom" Sherman, a noted Evangelist, the son of General Sherman of the union army during the Civil War, said mass at the left side altar.

The services this morning were for the large class of children and converts who tonight will receive the sacrament of confirmation.

During the mass, the members of the class and those who will attend them tonight, received holy communion.

Following the mass the class was instructed by Father A. Mandiari for the services of this evening.

The confirmation will be administered by the bishop tonight at 7 o'clock. The customary confirmation services will be held.

Bishop Pitaval will administer the sacrament of confirmation to three classes while in the city.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock he will administer the same sacrament to another large class in the church of the Sacred Heart in Barrios.

The services at the Immaculate Conception church tomorrow will be interesting from the fact that at high mass at 9:30 o'clock, Father Tom Sherman will preach. This mass will be celebrated by one of the local priests.

Bishop Pitaval will say low mass at 7 o'clock because it will be necessary for him to be present in Old Albuquerque a few hours later.

Bishop Pitaval, who came here from Santa Fe Saturday, will return to that city probably Monday.

He came to Albuquerque for the purpose of confirming the large classes at all the Catholic churches in the city.

Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock Father Tom Sherman will open his lecture course instead of on Monday night as planned. The subject of his opening address will be "The Soul's Bridgework."

"ARIZONA" WAS

What the press agent said about "Arizona," the attraction at the Elks' opera house last night, was all true as far as Albuquerque theater goers are concerned. The lines of the players were so local, that at moments, the scenes seemed to be scenes in real life. It is a play of many morals, with intervals of mirth and pathos, the extremes coming with lightning rapidity. People cried and their tears were dried with laughter, though withal it was a very serious story that was told. The sacrifice made by a young soldier for a woman and the fallacy of an older soldier marrying a young woman, with the tragic death of a man who had wronged a woman, was the tale that was told. The characters were strong. The house was well filled.

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

CRYSTAL SECURES SCOTT

The Crystal Theatre has closed a contract with Mr. Joe Scott, the popular and well known young Albuquerque singer and pianist, to play and sing illustrated songs for them commencing with next Monday afternoon. Mr. Rogers going to Trinidad, Colo. Mr. Scott is an accomplished pianist and a good singer and his services may be considered a valuable addition to the local Crystal roster. In addition to Mr. Scott an entire new array of faces upon the stage will greet the patrons Monday.

Billy Behan and wife go to El Paso and will be succeeded here by Harry Devoe and Company of clever comedians.

Polk and Martello, a new team of knock-about comedians, will be another pleasing feature.

A very amusing reel of moving pictures is promised.

Mesquiteville Happenings

(From the Weekly Sixshooter.)

Tom and Mrs. Grady are the proud parents of twins born Monday night. All concerned doing well. Tom says they're both demerits. Nuff said.

The little barn ought to be painted. It is unsightly in its present state and would shock one of them Nebraska farmers who comes here to homestead from a land where they have real barns.

The merry cackle of the Plymouth rock hen is now heard in our midst. Will Hunker's uncle sent him a rooster and six hens from Old Missouri and Bill is eating fresh eggs faster than the hens can lay them.

Ell Cummins is seriously sick. He went down to the county seat last week and when he came home he was still wearing a white face "bled" shirt. Ell went out to milk the cow and not being used to a white faced shirt she took exception with both hind feet. Moral—boys white faced shirts are good for social affairs only.

If you don't think it rains in New Mexico, you ought to have been out hayrack riding with the crowd of young people last Tuesday night. It was moonlight when they started out but it began to rain a half hour later and kept it up until midnight. They stopped at the Helly Jones ranch and tried to borrow a boat but they didn't have one.

Lemuel Sampson, who has a homestead ten miles south of here brought in a load of potatoes Saturday and sold the whole works for more money than most men see in a year. One big one is in our window. It weighs three pounds and would have gone to four if Lem hadn't picked it before it was ripe. What we all ought to do is to go to farming and live easy.

Mesquiteville is going to have a church. This has long been a crying need of the town. When the subscription list comes around don't be afraid to know how much you can give. When we get a church, we'll corral a good preacher some where and then there'll be something else doing Sunday besides the poker game in the back of Al Moore's barber shop.

One of the "Lonely B" boys was fined fifty dollars by Judge Hicks Saturday for packing a gun. He would have been alright if he had kept sober and also kept quiet. The practice of shooting in the air as you ride out of town is getting so common and the truth is the "Lonely B" boys do the most of it. Hereafter keep your gun under your coat tail where it belongs and act like a real gent. If you do you will save money and Judge Hicks won't be a candidate for justice of the peace next year. He's a democrat anyhow.

The dance at dobe Smith's last Wednesday was the most enjoyable social affair of the season. The boys from the XYL outfit came over and made things quite lively. They are telling a joke on Sandy Robbins of the XYL. When he climbed on his pony to go home, all the girls were watching him in admiration and he would sure have done things to a lot of hearts only some low down rival of Sandy's had loosed his saddle cinches and put a handful of cactus under the saddle blanket. Sandy hasn't found his pony yet, nor the fellow who done it.

The Women's Literary society met Friday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Kate Landy. No quorum present but a short session was held anyhow as Mrs. Landy had prepared delicate refreshments. The following papers were read: Mrs. Ed Pierce—Shakespeare as compared with modern writers. Mrs. S. Macgrunder—What a woman ought to read and what a woman ought to read. Mrs. Macgrunder had another paper on "What a man ought to read" which she will read at the next meeting. The literary, coffee, cake and nut sandwiches closed the program.

Marshal Jim Francis has give notice to every one residing in the town limits to quit throwing tomato and other cans into the street in front of your residences. Throw them in the back yard or in your neighbor's back yard or take them out east of the cemetery where they won't be in the way. Marshal Francis is right. It is not the duty of the marshal to go around picking up tin cans. He is not hired to do and he ought to arrest the next one he catches. Last year the little son of Fred Sparks stepped on an old can and almost cut his foot off and Alf Lemkin's fine two year old bay mare is lame yet from stepping on an oyster can in front of the post-office and feed store so it is plain the practice has got to stop. Marshal Francis says he'll bet any man in town he has picked up five hundred old cans on the street of this town in the last two months. Tin cans may be the source for which this place is noted and are dangerous to pedestrians and other animals and we hope there won't be any more of this which would cause Marshal Francis to make good his bluff. Stop it.

THE FLOATER AND HOW HE FLOATS

Interesting Life Led by Railroad Construction Men, who Live in Box Car Homes and Travel All Over the Country With Their Families.

She was a blue eyed, light haired little girl, skipping about over a vacant stretch of track between two strings of box car homes in the Santa Fe yards, now dividing her attention between a rag doll and the home she was scooping out of the dirt for it and now busily conveying the dirt in an empty tomato can to another part of her playground.

She was a light hearted, happy little creature, humming a bit of some nursery rhyme and taking a switch engine whizzed by, making as much noise as switch engines can. She looked up and with a smile on her face waved at the brakeman, clinging on the rear of the tender, who very promptly waved back.

Unconsciously she played while a passerby slipped up and stood watching her. She looked at him with surprise written on her face. "Who are you? I never saw you before," she said.

Unmindful of the child's question the stranger said, "Don't you think you could find a safer place to play. You might get hurt here with all these trains passing over the tracks every few minutes."

She was at home. "Why I live here and mamma says I ought to play around close to home."

"You live here," he interjected with much surprise. "Yes, right here," she said, pointing to the nearest box car. "Don't you go to school?" "No. I move about all over the country," and she swept her little arm about to convey the vastness of her travels. "I don't go to school, mamma and papa teach me."

"You all live in the box car?" "Sure, papa, mamma and me and papa's brother."

"What do you all do?" "Oh, mamma she cooks for a lot of men and papa and Fred work."

She was a daughter of the "floaters," a new class of labor employed on the western railroads. The nickname given them indicates the kind of work they do, something here one week then a job at the other end of the division the next week. Thus they float over the division and from one division to another and on over the whole road.

Where They Originated. The "floaters" appeared simultaneously on the western roads several years ago. They were needed to do work which was too much for the average section gang and which did not justify sending out a gang of laborers and establishing a camp. The "floaters" are at home any time and ready to work, all the company has to do is to hustle them to the scene of action.

Then railroad companies found it to their advantage to keep some bridge carpenters housed in box cars and moving over the different divisions making what repairs were needed on the bridges. The little blue-eyed girl belonged to a bridge carpenter's family and her mother conducted a boarding house for the gang of carpenters.

Home Life in a Box Car. Her home in the box car was as cheerful as a busy mother could make it. It was small of course, and everything that went into it had to be in harmony with the size of it. One end of the car was curtained off. It contained the bed. A heating stove stood near the head of the table was pushed back against one side, four chairs were arranged about in the available space. Fred's bunk was at the other end, curtained off. On a shelf were some books and an old phonograph.

The walls were papered with old newspapers and pictures from the magazines and some old family photos. Old lace curtains hung from the windows. The trunks and grips were stowed away under the bed. Such is a white "floater's" home.

In another car is the dining room. There is a long table taking up the full length of the car, except the small space for the stove and cooking utensils. Benches were on each side and at each end of the table. Usually the wife of one of the bridge carpenters cooks for the gang or part of the number if it is a big gang.

All Space is in Use. On top of the cars the men carry the odds and ends of their trade. There is a bag for tools and when it is filled the tops of the box car homes are utilized for old beams, sheets of tin, etc.

At the end of each box car home you are pretty sure to find a wash tub, and when the home stops, on a siding for a week or two a clothes line is strung up from the car to a convenient telegraph pole and the family washing is done.

Then there is the water barrel, usually at the end of the dining car and the supply of fuel for the floaters in the tool car or distributed in the coal boxes in the different car homes.

It is a nomadic life. Probably here repairing a bridge one week, now working on another fifty miles away the next week. Perhaps they have the switch yards of a big city for their home for a month and are then hustled off up in the mountains, miles from any habitation with a dreary waste of sage brush and dead hills confronting the eye in every direction. Such is the life of the floater.

Duties of a Floater. Say an innocent looking arroyo suddenly becomes a roaring torrent because of a deluge of rain up in the mountains and in its fury it washes out a railroad bridge. A wire is sent from the man in authority to division headquarters. "Send two engines and 200 floaters."

A short time after the washout the men are looking on where the bridge once stood and it immediately becomes a scene of activity. If it is in a timber country a gang of men is set to work cutting down trees and another is laying a spur of track here; the engines are puffing about placing the timbers where they are most needed. Piers are built up in the bed of the stream where the old bridge once stood and in twenty-four or forty-eight hours traffic is resumed, the temporary bridge is in use and will remain so until a more stable structure can be erected.

A great many of the floaters, those that compose the common labor class, come from Old Mexico; that is, they are Spanish speaking. The Southern Pacific and Rock Island. In the north they are Japanese and so on over the country.

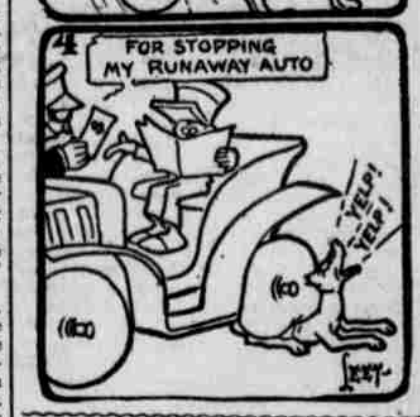

One Hundred in Local Yards. Last week there were probably one hundred floaters quartered in the Santa Fe yards in Albuquerque. Three-fourths of them were from Old Mexico and the rest, the skilled laborers, were Americans, bridge carpenters mostly.

The laborers from Old Mexico get from 60 cents to over a dollar a day. They have their families with them and board themselves in their box car homes. In camp out on the road they usually build up a big campfire in front of the cars and sit around it in the evening playing cards and listening to the music, for there are always some musicians in the gangs.

The bridge carpenters are paid $2.50 a day. The railroads have found the "floaters" useful and will continue to keep them indefinitely. The "floaters" seem pleased with their life, as changeable as it is, and the fascination of it keeps them in the service.

PERCY AND BILL

Percy Jones at nine years old. Wore Sunday clothes to school. He always had his hair combed right.

And never broke a rule. Percy was his mama's boy. His hands were nice and clean, And Percy shunned the bad, bad boys.

Who treated him so mean. Percy never had a dog. A sling shot nor a sled. He'd rather sit and read good books.

When he should be in bed. But Percy was a model youth. A regular "teacher's pride." Much better than the other kids. Who weren't when they tried.

There was another ragged lad. Whose hair stood straight on end. His trousers seats got holes in them. As fast as he could mend.

The kids all called the ragged lad. The simple name of Bill. His other name they did not know. Perhaps they never will.

Ragged Bill could fight his fights. Played marbles too, for keeps. He picked on little Percy. Until Percy got the weeps.

But Percy was a martyr true. And scorned to use his bully. The kids kept up their teasing. 'Till he almost had the fits. Percy's eyes were big and sad. Bill's usually blue and blue.

And while Percy grew more slender, Bill gained a pound or two. Percy grew to manhood. And became a banker's clerk.

While Bill grew and got married. And did anything but work. But Percy's cheeks grew paler. And he got a hacking cough. And ever many days his spirit. Was wasted up aloft in prayer.

They bore him to the graveyard. A sad and solemn ride. Bill drove the hearse in silence And poor Percy was inside.

The years went round as ever. Till poor Percy was forgot. Bill sat in the game of poker. And by luck he raked the pot. Then suddenly he was his bully. With his strong and robust frame. He opened up "an office."

And he quickly made a name. His house was of the finest. And he owned an auto to boot. While the whole town came to see him.

And asked him what to do. Cut in the little grave yard. Mided a lot of finer stones. Stood a modest shaft of granite. Bearing simply "Percy Jones."

Bill lives and has his being. And he likewise has the dough. While where poor Percy Jones is. No one seems to care or know. When Bill dies he may be worse off. There are those who say he will. But at the present writing. It don't seem to worry Bill. He could not take his money. Which might make his dying hard. But he knows that if he wants to. He can own the whole grave yard.

"Paw's got a demijohn, ain't he?" "Hush, Edwin." "Can I have a bun?" "Yes, Edwin, there are some in the bread box." "I mean like paw gets." "Go and play, Edwin." "I wanna go on the cars." "You can't, you haven't a ticket." "Yes I have. I've got a milk ticket." "A milk ticket isn't good on a train." "Isn't it good even on a milk train?" "Edwin, leave the room." "Does a milk train stop at water tanks?" "Yes. Hold your tongue." "Silence for about two minutes." "Maw?" "I had to let go. It's slippery."

ACT ONCE. "Ah, ha, muttered the villain (They all say it.) It's in the business. I wonder where the gal is with the missing papers. She promised to meet me here at the old mill at nine. It's now 8:30 and she hasn't come."

"Well, gal, did you bring the papers?" "Here they are kind sir. And now please tell the squire not to mortgage the mortgage on the old homestead, because mam's too strong to work and can't be turned out in the street."

"Nonsense, little gal; I'll protect you. With these papers in my possession it's impossible for the squire to make a cigarette. Ha, ha, ha!" With a wild laugh he flung open the door and they went out into the night.

The finest Coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. You don't have to boil it twenty or thirty minutes. It's made in a minute. The doctor, "Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Health Coffee Imitation is made from pure cereals or grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—were he to unknowingly drink it for Coffee. Sold by all dealers.

Letting Them Down Easy. A group of men were standing on a Central Avenue corner Saturday night discussing the recent financial stringency.

"Now, look at me," said one, "I keep laying up something every day, but I never get ahead any." He was a bricklayer. "I'm worse off yet," spoke up an excavating contractor, "I'm in the hole all the time."

"Never mind, boys," said a prosperous looking individual who had overhauled their remarks, "you'll all get let down easy in the end." "How's that?" asked the bricklayer. The prosperous individual extended his card. He was the undertaker.

Stories—That Might Have Happened. The other day I wrote a little paragraph like this: "Jim Jones leaves tonight for Magdalena, where he expects to reside on a ranch. That is a great country for cattle."

I don't see anything wrong with that, but Jim did, and he came around to see the editor about it before he left town.

That's the trouble with being the Cuban Now. If they would let me write up something really worth while a fellow could have some show. Just to show you, here's some stories written up right—the way they do it in New York:

Shocked by the disclosure of a bit of paper found in her husband's trousers pocket, Mrs. Julia Spendum, the beautiful young wife of John Spendum, a plumber residing at 4597 Arno Street, fell in a swoon early today, seriously fracturing her right celluloid side comb, and upsetting a large bowl of pancake batter on the family cat, which ran wildly up the street alarming the neighbors who immediately rushed to the scene.

Mrs. Spendum, who will be remembered as the beautiful debutante of two seasons ago, was sufficiently recovered this afternoon to join a tailyho party to Isleta, though still very nervous. She had never seen today, stated that the unfortunate occurrence was due to an oversight on his part in leaving a twenty dollar bill in his trousers pocket this morning—she never having found more than fifteen cents on her previous morning inspections.

After blasting the fond hopes of his beautiful young fiancé, by telephoning her that he could not be married to her tonight as announced George Itchy, a plate polisher employed at Stockert's restaurant, rushed wildly into the street and dashed headlong into a drug store next door and asked for five cents worth of oil of pennyroyal. Miss Goleff, who will be remembered as the beautiful young debutante of last season, was prostrated for several hours, until her fiancé reached her side with an explanation. It appears that while industriously plying his trade this morning Itchy was badly stung by an infuriated hornet in such a manner as to render it impossible for him to stand still. The ceremony which was to have been a swell affair, has been postponed a week.

A. Ezymarsky, a Russian laborer, 73 years of age, was found in a serious condition at his humble home near Alameda Sunday. Anticipating the rigid enforcement of the Sunday law, Ezymarsky came to the city Saturday evening and after making the preliminary preparations for a quiet Sunday, discovered he had only twenty cents left, with which he purchased ten cents worth of coal and two loaves of bread. Becoming hungry on his way home and being unable to distinguish the packages in the darkness, he swallowed the coal. The doctors say the amount was hardly large enough to result in permanent injury.

A Reliable Remedy for Croup.

With the dry, cold weather of the early winter months, parents of croupy children should be on the alert for ominous symptoms. There is no cause for anxiety, however, when

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is kept in the home. If this medicine is given as soon as child becomes hoarse or even after the croupy cough has appeared, the attack may be ward off. Mrs. S. Rosenthal, of Turner, Michigan, says: "We have used Chamberlain's Cough medicine for ourselves and children for several years and like it very much. I think it is the only remedy for croup and can highly recommend it." For sale by all druggists.

A DRESSING TO MANY PEOPLE HERE

This Simple Home Made Mixture Recommended for Elderly Folks.

This is a message that will bring happiness again into many families and sunshine into the lives of hundreds of disheartened and discouraged men and women here. It requires just a little inconvenience, for it can't be bought already prepared. It is a simple home recipe now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble which have made so many cripples and invalids and weakenings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists here have been notified to supply themselves with ingredients, and the sufferer will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce, and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Recent experiments, even in severe hospital cases, prove this simple mixture the remedy for rheumatism, because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities, and uric acid which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful, scalding and discolored urine. It acts as a powerful stimulant to the entire kidney and bladder structure, puts new life into them, and invigorates the entire tract. It makes the kidneys clean the blood. The Dandelion will take care of liver trouble and constipation, and is fine for the stomach.

All the ingredients, states a well-known local druggist, are of vegetable extraction, making it a safe and harmless prescription at any time.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of patent medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making up this prescription. Wherever this becomes generally known, it ruins the sale of the patent medicines and so-called rheumatism and kidney cures, which is its best endorsement of virtue.

They Are Stylish and Single
You Out as Being Up-to-Date

THEY ARE AS COMFORTABLE as old shoes, and yet look at ways like new ones.
The secret is in the fit, snug, clinging and roomy in the proper places, they support and ease the feet. They look good and feel as good as they look.
And moreover they do not strain the pocketbook; the price is as attractive as the other superior features of these shoes. If you are skeptical, try them and be converted.

MORTUARY

Mrs. A. J. McBride.

Mrs. A. J. McBride, sister-in-law of L. J. Mize, of the Highland Market, passed away this morning after a lingering illness at the residence, 1117 South Arno street. Deceased came here from Caldwell, Kansas two months ago with her husband and six children in the hope of regaining her strength. In this, however, she was disappointed, her decline since her arrival being constant. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the residence. Rev. Mr. Childs, of the will be made at Fairview cem-ROUP.

This is a wasting fever with a thick, offensive discharge from the nostrils. The eyelids swell, and many times the eyes are swollen shut.
Sometimes the side of the head is swollen. It is contagious, very fatal, and will spread rapidly. The diseased fowls should be killed at once, or the well ones should be removed to a separate pen. Put the well ones in a new locality and as far from the sick as possible. Sprinkle the nostrils of the sick fowls with "International Pheno-Chloro," diluted and also disinfect everything with this sure disinfectant and germicide. Give one teaspoonful of "International Poultry Food" four or five times per day. If necessary, this can be made into pills by using molasses. It is poor policy to try to save fowls which are very sick with roup. It is better to kill and burn at once and stamp the disease out without delay.
In all cases remove your well fowls to a new pen as far away as possible and disinfect not only the old pen but the new one with "International Pheno-Chloro." If you want to save your chickens you must take quick action and give them very careful treatment. E. W. Fee, 602-604 South First street.
