More Sex Cases Among Rich Than Poor, Says Lindsey

DENVER, May 19.—Speaking before the psychology open forum association here last night, Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver's juvenile court declared "more sex cases come before the juvenile court from the schools of the Capital Hill district than from the lower town sections."

More girls go wrong now than when Denver had an open segregated district, Judge Lindsey declared.

That is not due to the closing of the district, but to abnormal prevailing conditions, by riding, the delayed age of marriage and young girls in the business world.

FACES TRIAL FOR KILLING FORMER BUSINESS PARTNER

Dallas Hotel Manager Has Kept His Reasons a Secret

DALLAS, Tex., May 19.—The trial of D. E. Soderman, charged with the murder of J. Clay Powers, member of a prominent Kentucky family, and brother of Tom Powers, well known on the New York stage, is set for May 22, in the Dallas county district court No. 2. Soderman and Powers at one time were connected in a business way, having been interested in a hotel at Fort Worth. According to attorneys for the defense the Soderman and Powers families were close friends.

Powers was the manager of the Waldorf hotel in Dallas. On April 15, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon he was in the lobby talking to a friend. A city detective stood nearby. According to the witnesses Soderman walked up, and without preliminary words, or at the most only a few which were not overheard, began shooting. Powers dropped, exclaiming "It couldn't be helped. Call my wife." Soderman was disarmed and placed under arrest by the detective. Powers was rushed to a hospital, where he died in about an hour. His assailant refused to make any statements to newspapermen.

Exact lines of the defense have not been announced, but well known criminal lawyers have been retained. They have intimated the defense will be based in part at least, on statements contained in a letter which it is alleged Mrs. Soderman wrote to her husband, and mentioning Powers. According to the defense lawyers this letter indicates the motive in the case. When the shooting occurred Mrs. Soderman was in El Paso, it was said. She came to Dallas in a few days, but is reported to have refused to answer any questions.

Immediately after Soderman's arrest plans were made to hold a preliminary hearing. The grand jury quickly summoned witnesses and Soderman was indicted before the date of the preliminary hearing. A habeas corpus petition was planned by the defense to have

7 POSTAL CLERKS ARE ARRESTED IN $1,500,000 THEFT

Man Sentenced for Stealing Bonds Implicates Others

NEW YORK, May 19.—Seven post office clerks were arrested early today charged with acting in concert in the theft of $1,500,000 worth of bonds from the United States mails here last July. The arrests resulted from a confession made according to post office inspectors, by Mark Von Eschen, who was arrested in the Bronx with $29,700 of the stolen bonds in his possession January 15, and sentenced to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., for five years, March 23.

The theft became known last July after the arrest of Mrs. Ale Arifeff, divorced wife of the former pugilist, charged with attempting to dispose of part of the bonds which disappeared while en route from the federal reserve bank to the treasury department in Washington.

The prisoners are Gustav Feldman, Morris Steinberg, Edward Fogel, Abraham Goldsmith, Harry Shapiro, Gustave Galles and Irving Weinstein.

Arifeff fixed for the defendant, but was abandoned. Hearings in such cases usually require that both sides reveal their evidence to a more or less extent.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers both were known in amateur theatrical circles in Dallas taking prominent parts in the Little Theater. Powers had written several plays.

Powers was the son of Joshua Powers, a former president of the American Banking association, and president of the Commonwealth Insurance company of Kentucky. He was born in Owensboro, Ky., and married there. Before coming to Dallas he practiced law in California, and also served in the army overseas, being a major when brothers were Col. Robert Powers, retired.

The case has attracted much attention because of Powers' standing and the intimations of what the defense may be.

INDICTMENTS OF CHICAGO LABOR CHIEFS ASKER

Police Continue to Question Suspects On Crime Wave

CHICAGO, May 19.—Indictment of John Miller, alleged driver of the "death car" from which shots were fired May 3, killing two policemen in disorders, attributed by police to labor troubles, will be asked today by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney.

Police today continued the questioning of suspects arrested yesterday, in an effort to locate Charles Daudauskas and "Floater" Stanley, named by Miller as the other occupants of the car. In a confession police claim to have obtained from him, Mr. Crowe intimated.

Through Tony Schultz arrested yesterday in a saloon owned by Charles Daudauskas, who also is held, police say, they believe they can locate Daudauskas.

"Big Tim" Murphy, head of the gas house workers and street sweepers unions, "Con" Shea of the Theatrical Janitors' union, and Fred Mader, president of the Chicago Building Trades Council, were questioned by police until early today, but made no disclosures.

Kirkham Scanlon, chief justice of the criminal court, before whom an application for immediate trial, filed by attorneys for Murphy, Mader and Shea is now pending, denounced "big business men" who refused to serve on juries, in an address last night.

"Such crime would be wiped out if business men would accept the responsibility of jury service," he said.

"There have been 15 bombs thrown in Chicago in the last sixty days and the recent killing of two policemen brought matters to a head. If Mayor Thompson had brought Murphy and Mader into his office and ordered them to stop any disorders in their organizations, this trouble would have been done away with," he said.

"The union situation is most critical. Many leaders are defying justice and leaders must be bribed before a building can be erected," he said.

Steel Magnates Approve Abolition Of 12-Hour Day

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Steel manufacturers in conference at the White House last night with President Harding approved in principle the president's suggestion for the abolition of the 12-hour work day. The 41 representative leaders of the industry who were present unanimously adopted a resolution authorizing the president of the American Steel and Iron Institute to name a committee of five men from the steel industry to make a scientific and careful investigation of the matter and to report their conclusions to the industry.

Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Commerce department and president of the Institute, will name the committee.

Arbuckle Turns To Scenario Writing

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—Tommy C. Arbuckle has turned scenario writing.

Furthermore, he is selling his scenarios, it is said. At least, he is reported to have sold one—his first effort—"Buster" Keaton. It is now called "The Vision", but its name will be changed before it appears in public.

Arbuckle, who recently at his third trial in San Francisco, was acquitted of a charge of manslaughter growing out of the death of Virginia Rappe, screen actress, and whose motion pictures have been barred—temporarily, at least—from the American screen, is said to be hopeful of his scenario efforts and to be busy upon a second one, it is said.

WILLIAMS TELLS
WHY HE CHANGED
STYLE AT PLATE

Has Helped Him in Home Run Hitting,
He Says

By KEN WILLIAMS

One of the things that has helped considerably in my homerun hitting is the fact that I have altered my style at the plate...

Yet I seriously doubt if it would be possible to get four more scientific hitters than the quartet I have mentioned...

Not A Home-Run Style.
Until the season of 1921 I tried to follow along the lines I have mentioned, hitting to all fields...

That style of hitting, however,
does not make for home runs.
Hitting home runs is not a scientific feat...

Quaker Relief Worker Gives
Truth About Russian Famine

So many rumors come out of Russia that it is difficult to tell exactly what is happening
there. A glimpse of conditions...

By WILBUR K. THOMAS
(Executive Secretary, American Friends Service Committee)
PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—The striving and often contradictory statements regarding famine conditions in Russia, have prompted...

First, has the famine situation
been adequately met?
By no means. There are still hundreds of thousands to be fed...

Belief should have been extended to about 25,000,000 victims of the famine but the very fact that all organizations combined do not...

Reports have also been published to the effect that transportation facilities in Russia have been broken down, it would be possible to ship only a limited quantity of supplies.

CROP CONDITIONS IN STATE FAVORABLE

Snow and Rain Over a Large Section Within the Past Week

SANTA FE, N. M., May 18.—The weather and crop conditions in New Mexico, for the week ending May 18, follow: Snow fell along the western border at the beginning of the week and rain over the east half at its ending, but more moisture is greatly needed in many south, central and west districts. Much of the week was cold, and rather severe frosts occurred Thursday and Friday mornings in northern counties, doing considerable damage to fruit, early gardens and some alfalfa. Ranges were dazed by the showers, but high driving winds were unfavorable, especially in western border district. Stock is generally fair to good, although thin in many districts. Some loss of lambs occurred from the cold.

A THOUGHT
 The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger and plenteous in mercy. —Psalm 103:8.
 Fear the vengeance of God as much as thou mayest; and this shall keep thee from sin; and when thou thinkest of His mercy, remember also His righteousness. —Pythagoras.

The coming campaign, as the democratic national chairman said he found in the Beveridge victory in Indiana.

There is nothing to it. Republican Pennsylvania, like republican Indiana, has held a contest within the party to determine leadership. The primary having determined it, the republicans in both states will get together, forget their differences and go in to roll up the normal party majorities in those states in the November election.

There are points of similarity in the contests in Indiana and Pennsylvania. Pinchot, like Beveridge, was an ardent supporter of Theodore Roosevelt in the latter's historic departure from the republican party ranks. Like many another adherent of the intrepid Roosevelt, Pinchot was not only willing but eager to go with his leader wherever he might lead. He went even further than Mr. Beveridge in the direction of rampant progressivism. Like Beveridge he has been on his way back ever since. He has now arrived back in the republican party ranks whence he started on his tour.

Like Beveridge, Pinchot is a publicist of parts. He learned in a good school how to reach the people. A man with a hobby in a stringent national conservation policy, he has ridden it hard and purposefully, keeping himself constantly before the public. Probably there was never much doubt of his success in the Pennsylvania primary against an opponent closely identified with the old Pennsylvania organization that had but recently been deprived of its leader and was, no doubt, considerably disorganized as a result.

The advent of Pinchot as a leader in republican politics in Pennsylvania probably means the end of the old party regime that has ruled in that state for so long. It was not without its good points. It had plenty of bad ones. Whether the new party organization that will form around Pinchot will be more useful to the republican party and to the state only time will reveal.

In the meantime there is nothing in the Pennsylvania result, as there is nothing in the Indiana result to cause republican congressional leaders any uneasiness as to what will happen in those states in the congressional elections next November.

THE REFEREE
 By Albert Apple

DAN
 Dan O'Leary, champion runner, arrives in Boston, having walked 275,000 miles since 1874. Dan is 81 years old, but shows his strength by walking 44 miles in 3 hours 25 minutes. He expects to continue devoting his life to walking until he passes the century mark. Recently he made an appointment to meet President Harding in Washington in 1942. This roving champion's tip to the rest of us is that his excellent health is due to exercising his legs. Words of wisdom. The body gets rusty, functions imperfectly, unless kept active. Long walks beat medicine.

STYLES
 Frances Dolly, teacher of scientific housekeeping at Western Reserve University, comments that most styles live only four years. The first year, the style is shown by exclusive houses. The second, it is worn by the best-dressed group. In the third year, it is worn by everyone. And in the fourth, it continues popular with some. That is also true of thought. By the time progress gets their ideas broadcasted to all, the ideas have become obsolete new styles of "reform" crowding them out. The last to see the light are the conservatives, "old fogies." They are necessary, like the big chunk of iron at the end of a hitching strap, to keep the prancing reformers from running away.

INDIAN
 Big Bill, Caddo Indian weighing 624 pounds, walks into a store at Okemah, Oklahoma, and orders his summer clothes. For the many who would pay 25 cents to see Bill's huge body in a side-show: The trousers will measure eight feet around the waist and Bill's new shirt takes 10 yards of cloth. Fortunate for Big Bill, that he lives in modern times. Our ancestors would have measured him for wooden kimonos. We are more tolerant, in 1922, having stolen nearly everything the Indians had that was worth taking. When the stealing takes place in Europe, Asia, or Africa, we scutter pliously.

INSURANCE
 How much insurance do you carry? Life policies, held by all Americans combined, total more than $4,000,000,000 for every person in the country, or $2,000 for a family of five. That wouldn't last the widow and orphan long. The average man is about six weeks from the headline, and his family about six months, in event of his death.

MILITARY
 Belgium and France sign a military alliance. They will act together, regardless of circumstances— "cold hell or high water," as the Old Cattleman would have put it. Diplomats call such an arrangement "an outright pact." The surface intention is to give the bill-collector a gun if Germany doesn't pay. In the background is some fear of a German come-back, possibly allied with Russia. Diplomats start very few things that eventually are not settled on the battlefield. They unsettle more than they settle.

GOED
 Russian money gets so worthless that the soviet has decided to discard "the gold system." As soon as plans are worked out, it announces it will issue its money on a day's work, or "so much goods," instead of gold. That will be the system in the future, when men will be more fair in their dealings, each with a thorough knowledge of economics. It is idealistic, but it will not work now, under the profit system by which an equivalent exchange of labor or commodities is impossible. You cannot trade dollar for dollar when every one is trying to get two-for-one.

WANDERLUST
 If chained to a dull job, you envy Dan O'Leary, who has walked 275,000 miles in his roving since 1874. Dan is a moving monument to the wanderlust or vagabond instinct that stirs in all of us. Without it, we'd still be living near the gates of the Garden of Eden.

PINCHOT'S VICTORY
 No doubt democratic partisans will seek to find in the victory of Gifford Pinchot in the Pennsylvania primary some hopeful signs of republican party differences against

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
 Poor Are Rich and Rich Are Poor—On Moon
 BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
 Story Number 764

"People who have nothing to eat but roasts and cukes and fruit and fine sauces live in those cities."

Nancy and Nick and the Magical Mushroom listened in amazement at the Moon-Man's story. "You see, my dears," said Mr. Peersabout, the Man-in-the-Moon, as he leaned back comfortably in his rickety old chair and stroked his beard, "the moon is different from the earth. The things you value on earth we moon-people don't care about at all, and the things you throw away down there we prize highly. Take our cities, for instance, that you think are so wonderful, one built of carved ice-blocks, one of white marble inlaid with jewels, and one of ivory and pearl. They might be called handsome on the earth, but up here they are shams where the poorest people live. People who have nothing to eat but roasts and cukes and fruit and fine sauces, and nothing to wear but velvets and satins and embroideries and laces and handkerchiefs, they are the rich here. It is very sad about them, but we can do nothing about it. The poorer they get, the more servants and automobiles they have, and the more gold rolls into their counting rooms. It's hard to tell when it will stop."

Dr. Bishop's Advice

ATHLETE'S HEART

ANY A GREAT athlete, that of college, or even of mature life, becomes morbid and morose, simply because he does not get through strain, that organic defect called athlete's heart. It is a firmness comes when the valve leading from the heart to the largest artery fails to close properly. Thus part of the blood, with each heart beat, fails to get out, and returns to clog up the heart chamber. Violent muscular efforts, such as lifting, running, bicycling, ski-jumping, boxing, wrestling, weight throwing and tug-of-war, rupture the valves. In most such cases, however, the valve has been weakened through some previous ailment, such as rheumatism, malaria, typhoid fever or alcoholism. When the returning blood clogs up the heart, its tendency is to expand and dilate. Then come acute pain, flashes of light, ringing in the ears and faintness on rising suddenly. The slightest exertion causes palpitation and shortness of breath. The vessels in the neck throb and sleep is constantly, disturbed by dreams of suffocation. Men thus afflicted will get along well enough if they are content to lead a quiet life, never allowing themselves to get excited or fatigued, nor taking chances with alcohol, late hours and bright lights. This is by no means a preaching against athletic training, for such training is admirable within bounds, but may be harmful when the heart muscle has been damaged by a previous infection, or drink, or serious general disease.

Tom Sims Says:

The clothes that make the women are the clothes that break the men. There's a place for everything—except your knees at a movie. Two Indiana men stole 110 electric fans and were sent to the cooler.

THE GAMBLER

By BERTON BRALEY
 The boys who play the ponies. The lads who buck the wheel. The men who rig the market. In railroad, mines or steel. May seem like reckless gamblers. And set their ways are tame. Compared to all the chances of The Farmer's daring game!
 He gambles with the sunshine. He bets upon the rain. He shows his stack across the board. With all to lose or gain; Against bull, frost and tempest. While from the daylight to the dark He plows and tills the clods.
 He bets his time and labor. His everlasting toil. Against the heat and the warm That make his crops their spoil; Each year he risks his fortune. His strength and thought as well. Upon a shifting market. Which no man may foretell!
 Through all his life he plunges! A gambler, quaffing. His bet with nature and with man Upon the board are laid; Upon the very wheel of fate. His wagers hold are buried— The greatest gambler of them all Who feeds a hungry world!

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 After five years of married life, LUCINDA DRUCE, New York society matron, concluded that wealth, youth, beauty, social position and success were not sufficient to hold the affection of her husband. BELLA MY DRUCE, weak-willed and selfish, had been guilty of a series of escapades in which promiscuous flirtation and drunkenness had combined to humiliate his wife. A broker wanted to reform Lucinda to leave him, and she followed her to Chicago and is prevented from forcibly restraining her from going to Reno by the intervention of an unidentified possessor man. On the train, Lucinda meets her old friend, PANNY LONTAINE, who with her husband is going to Hollywood, where HARRY LONTAINE is thinking of forming a motion picture company. She learns that the young man who assisted her in escaping from Bel is also on the train and that he is LYNN SUMMERLAD, a prominent screen star. GO ON WITH THE STORY
 Seated in Section 18, waiting for the porter to bring back his personal impediments from the drawing-room, Harry Lontaine turned a handsome face to the window, frowning absently, the nervous frown of a man whose cleverness has never proved quite equal to the task of satisfying appetites at once strong and fastidious. From this delectable realm the dreamer was recalled by consciousness of somebody standing in the aisle and staring intently at Lucinda. Lontaine was too diligent a student of motion-pictures not to know at sight the features of Lynn Summerlaid, by long odds the most popular male star of the American screen. A percentage worth knowing. Misreading his expression, Mr. Summerlaid felt called upon to apologize. "Your pardon, but I was expecting to find a lady in this section. I may say a friend: a Mrs. Druce. Do you by any chance?" Lynn Summerlaid made a fourth at the bridge table set up that afternoon in the Lontaine drawing-room; invited by Lontaine as an acquaintance of Lucinda's, and grateful addition to the party because he played something better than merely a good game. Not only fearfully easy to look at, as Panny confided to Lucinda, but fair spoken and well, if at times a shade carefully mannered, he was intelligent and ready of wit. By midnight of the second day, it was possible for Lucinda to make up her mind that she liked Lynn Summerlaid decidedly. True that he was not of her world, nor did she care to share his, any longer, in this anomalous stage of the apostate wife, neither wife nor widow, nor even honest divorcee. If Summerlaid's character as a player had been flawed by his finish, these things were held to be condonable in view of his youth. He seemed ridiculously young, in Lucinda's eyes, but she was sure to take on polish from rubbing up against him. Especially if he were so fortunate as to find the right woman to watch over and advise him. An interesting job, for the right woman. Not (she assured herself hastily) that it would be a job to interest her. An absurd tinge of thought, anyway, and fairly she at once dismissed it. Unless, of course, his incentive had lain in consciousness of Summerlaid's naive captivation. "You couldn't possibly walk overboard that. He was so ardent about it, boyish, and well—nice. It was most interesting. I've got a great favor to beg of you, Mr. Summerlaid," said Lucinda as they sat alone on the observation platform one evening. "Can't make it too great?" "Panny and I were discussing it this morning. Bel, Mr. Druce—is sure to follow me to Los Angeles and make more money. Help me choose a good, safe non de guerre, please." "Let's see," Mrs. Lontaine calls you Cindy. "Short for Lucinda?" "How about Lee?" "Lucinda Lee?" "I like that. But it does sound like the movies, doesn't it?" "What do you expect of a movie actor, Mrs. Druce?" "Mrs. Lee, please." "Bel pardon, Mrs. Lee." "And it was as Lucinda Lee that she registered the next morning at the Hotel Alexandria in Los Angeles. On the afternoon of their arrival, Lucinda, accompanied by Summerlaid and the Lontaines, drove to the Zinn studios, where the famous Summerlaid pictures were taken. The working premises lay behind the administration building. But here Lucinda noted few points of close resemblance to the Culp studios. It had several acres in extent, about half in turf, was surrounded by a stable village of glass-roofed stages and structures

ALL CLEAR NOW

(SANTA FE NEW MEXICAN)
 Mr. Carl Magee, editor of the Morning Journal, at last it perfectly clear why he is unable to deliver the bonds to the persons who bought the Morning Journal bonds, this time having apparently caused a great confusion and misunderstanding in the ranks of the bond buyers who bought bonds to Mr. Magee free and independent to nominate Magee for U. S. senator and Bob Putney for governor. The situation is like this: Mr. Magee offered to exchange an issue of old bonds, as called for in the news for the new bonds to be issued for the old. The latter are perfectly good security for the bonds, owing to the fact that some of the holders of the old bonds refused to turn them in for exchange as requested, thus allowing the new bonds to go out as the old bonds came in. As we go there is only a little matter of $10,000, more or less, between Magee and the clear, this of course notwithstanding the fact Mr. Magee announced that he was in the clear after the old bonds which are to be exchanged for new bonds, cannot be thus changed owing to the fact that bondholders refuse to exchange them; the statement that Mr. Magee, with the exception of small matter of $10,000 has more new bonds sold than old to exchange being a malicious lie. It is clearly shown anyone who wishes to exchange his new bonds for his old may do so at any time by merely subscribing to $10,000 worth of new bonds which may then be exchanged for old bonds, which held as collateral for the new bonds. After this $10,000 has been subscribed, it is understood that Magee, upon selling an additional $50,000 worth of additional new bonds to exchange for old bonds to be issued later, will be able to meet all his obligations if holders persist in asking for their bonds, free publicity, as in case of Judge McElhann and Walter Council, being assured who wish their bonds. Live on bonds until he can deliver all bonds, as that will make trouble for the state. Nor should Mr. Magee be blamed because so many of the bondholders are of the low class of citizenship indicated by the free publicity given those who have far sold, including the notoriously tobacco-chewing Judge Cholan and Walter Council, an angry person who Magee had to understand presents attacks on the Politico-Financial line. All bondholders might well be admonished that to be quiet is proof of decency and good citizenship, while to insist about the bonds or indicate impatience at the delivery delay, bring suit, is prima facie evidence of low political character and unbecomingly selfishness. Mr. Magee will discuss it after he gets through rolling up his sleeves. Mr. Magee makes it quite graphic that he can sell the $10,000 at an immense profit and retire and live on the interest of money, unless the people rally at once with $10,000 more, to him from the danger of such property and enable him to pay the debt for Magee for writing and Putney for going to Mr. Magee's sole trouble now, be succinctly explains, is a enough of old bonds in one hand at one time without doing any to make the exchange of the old bonds for the new with $10,000 in the other hand subscribed for new bonds to change for the old, as stated. Those who inquire when they get their bonds for their money are professional scoundrels effort to destroy Mr. Magee by forcing him to sell at a profit and live in affluence. Those who are engaged damnable conspiracy to force this unspeakable fate upon him. This is the way we understand the situation. If wrong, we shall be glad to be corrected. We feel that the buyers have great opportunities for usefulness. We wish them no had luck, in their private affairs, but they choke if they bring suit. While the Journal, by reading Magee's temporarily embarrassed, as he stated a year or so ago. Those who believe in leaving him independent to nominate Zinn and Putney can easily reflect this embarrassment. Mr. Magee believes also that there is a way to place this $10,000 few days without another bond sale. It all depends on whether Bob can see it that way. We trust this will be clear to everyone. If not we are confident Mr. Magee will make further explanations.
