SLOT MACHINES THE WORST OF ALL

Attorney General Hands Down Opinion on Scope of Anti-Gambling Art.

In rendering an opinion on the real scope of the anti-gambling as passed by the late legislature, Attorney General Hervey says:

"The legislature said that it should be unlawful to run or operate any banking games of chance, such as faro, monte, etc. The question now is whether or not a slot machine is a banking game of chance such as the games mentioned in section 1 of said act.

"In order for any particular game or gambling device to come within the denunciation of this statute, it must have one of three requirements; first, it must be a banking game; second, it must be such a game as those specifically mentioned in the statute; or third, it must be a game of chance played with dice or cards. But it does not necessarily have to be played with dice or cards, because any game mentioned in said section, whether played with dice or not, and any other game of like character, would come within the inhibition of the statute.

Patterned After Other Games.

"A slot machine is usually a gambling device patterned after some well known game, and I presume that there are slot machines patterned after every known game that is played with cards, dice or dominoes, or any other apparatus. The most common are two kinds, so far as I have been able to ascertain: (1) a machine in which a coin is dropped in one of a number of slots and the player turns a crank and start a cylinder divided into five parts, containing ordinary playing cards, to revolving, and he draws two, three, four or five times as much as he deposited, according to the hand the cylinder exhibits when it stops, or he loses what he deposited. The hand upon which he expects to win is nothing more nor less than a poker hand. Now, if the legislature has prohibited the playing of poker, which it has, it would not make any difference whether the poker is played by machinery or by hand, it is prohibited just the same. And (2) another character of machine is a device by which a coin is deposited in slots labeled with different colors and the machine contains a disk composed of colors corresponding to the slots; the player deposits a coin in one of the slots and the disk revolves; it is provided with an indicator and if he plays the red and the indicator stops at the red, he wins so much, according to the amount indicated on the slot where the money was deposited, being usually from one to five times as much as he deposited. If it does not stop at the color where deposited, he loses. In my judgment this would be held to be a roulette game, or a game such as roulette, and the fact that it is played by an automatic machine would make no difference.

Slot Machines Worst Form of Gambling.

It would not seem that it could be properly contended that the games mentioned, or games of like character, or any other banking games could be prohibited and the legislature intended to allow to run open, the worst form of gambling that is known, and the most dangerous form. My opinion is that these machines are deliberately constructed so that the player loses as often as the owner of the machine desires him to lose. In other words, the machine is a fraud and worse than any other gambling there is; and, furthermore, it is the gambling on the small scale which takes the nickels and dimes from the people who would not be able to play at more respectable games. If there is any distinction between different games, my judgment is that there can be obtained a slot machine which will represent every game there is, and if the authorities would allow these games to run undisturbed, and the law permitted it, the people of New Mexico would be considerably worse off for this act denouncing gambling. Every saloon in the territory would have a dozen different kinds of slot machines and it would only cost five cents to play the game.

Under the Ban.

"Aside from all of the above, I am further of the opinion that these machines cannot run or be operated in New Mexico after January 1st, 1908, because under section 5 of the act denouncing gambling, and parts of laws authorizing the licensing of gambling in the Territory of New Mexico are repealed and section 1306 of the compiled laws of 1897 makes it a crime for any unlicensed person to keep or maintain a gaming apparatus of any kind whatever" so there could be no authority in any of these laws to issue a license to run a slot machine, as they have heretofore done under section 4152 of the compiled laws of 1907."

Had two tickets and wanted more

La Junta, Colo., Dec. 17.—Calico Howland was found to be acting in a strange manner around the depot this morning. He wanted to purchase a ticket to Los Angeles, Cal., and offered $100 for it. Although he had a ticket in his pocket, the agent called a physician to examine him and the physician declared the man was mentally unbalanced. The matter was reported to the sheriff and Howland was taken to the county jail.

Eleven $100 bills were found on his person besides $5 in change, a ticket from Boston to Los Angeles, a return ticket from San Diego to Chicago and a 1,000-mile ticket on the New York Central railroad which had not been used. Papers found on him showed that he had served in the Civil war as a private in a Massachusetts regiment of 100-day volunteers.

Howland gave the firm name of his attorney, Thomas Anthony & Tyson of Boston, and the sheriff has sent a message to this firm stating that the old man is here in a deplorable condition.

REQUEST FOR RECEIVER FOR GALLUP COAL COMPANY

Stockholder Says Effort Being Made to Sell Property for Less Than Value.

John Kennedy, of Gallup, has applied to Judge Ira A. Abbott, of the second judicial district court, for an injunction to restrain the Union Coal company or Gallup Fuel company, so called, from transferring or selling any of its property until the court can appoint a receiver for the same.

Kennedy is a stockholder in the Union Coal company, which he says assumed the name of the Gallup Fuel company shortly after its incorporation. He says in his complaint that the Union Coal company traded under the name of the Gallup Fuel company, the two being one and the same.

Charges of mismanagement of the company's affairs are brought against the directors by Mr. Kennedy. He says that without authority the company leased its mine to T. A. Fabro at a very small return, which was totally insufficient to pay its stockholders any dividends or even the interest on the indebtedness.

He charges the directors with having endeavored to sell the property of the company at a grossly inadequate price. He says the company is substantially insolvent, and that it suspended business Jan. 1, 1907.

Kennedy said in his complaint that he owns 2,700 shares in the defendant company and holds notes against it for $3,411.95.

Action was brought by him on the notes, he says, and he also instituted suit for the foreclosure of a trust deed, but the defendant delayed court action by dilatory pleas.

James M. Carmen is president and R. F. Zahm is secretary and treasurer of the Union Coal company.

BORN--AN IDEA

ABOUT THE RAREST THING THAT EVER HAPPENS IN THIS OLD WORLD OF OURS, IS THE BIRTH OF A NEW IDEA. AND THE FORTUNATE POSSESSOR OF A FINE LARGE ONE IS WORTH MORE TO HIMSELF AND MORE TO THE WORLD THAN THE SANTA FE RAILROAD.

PSYCHOLOGISTS, WHO MAKE A BUSINESS OF SORTING OUT IDEAS AND SPYING INTO THE WAYS THEY ARE BORN, SAY THAT AFTER YOU PASS THE AGE OF ABOUT TWENTY, YOUR IDEA-BEARING DAYS ARE ETERNALLY OVER. IF YOU ARE STILL ON THE TENDER SIDE OF THIS AGE—AND ARE WISE—YOU MAY WISH TO READ THIS STATEMENT AGAIN.

NOW THE ALBUQUERQUE CITIZEN CARRIES IDEAS IN STOCK, WHERE THEY CAME FROM AND WHO THEIR PARENTS ARE, IS NEITHER HERE NOR THERE. SOME OF THEM RUN ALONG THE LINES OF BUSINESS, BUILDING AND TRADE GETTING. THESE IDEAS WILL BE SOLD, LEASED OR RENTED TO THE PUBLIC, FOR CASH OR ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN.

THEY KEEP A YOUNG FELLOW AROUND THE OFFICE, PAY HIM EVERY WEEK, TO DO NOTHING BUT LOOK AFTER THE ADVERTISING. THERE IS NOTHING HE LIKES BETTER THAN TO HAVE SOME ONE COME IN AND SAY: "HERE I WANT TO SPEND $50.00 EVERY MONTH IN ADVERTISING. I WISH YOU WOULD TAKE THE WHOLE THING OFF MY HANDS, AND RUN IT AS YOU THINK BEST. HAVE OTHER MATTERS TO CARE FOR, AND YOU PROBABLY KNOW MORE ABOUT IT THAN I, ANYWAY."

A NUMBER OF ALBUQUERQUE BUSINESS MEN HAVE ALREADY MADE SUCH ARRANGEMENTS. MORE ARE DOING IT EVERY DAY. ONE WISE MERCHANT, WHO ATTEMPTS TO DRAW A LINE DIVIDING THE PATRONAGE HE RECEIVES FROM ADVERTISING, FROM THAT COMING THROUGH OTHER CHANNELS, INFORMED US ONLY YESTERDAY THAT HIS ADVERTISEMENT IN THE ALBUQUERQUE CITIZEN DURING THE TWO MONTHS IT HAS RUN, HAS NETTED HIM SUFFICIENT TO PAY FOR THE ADVERTISEMENT FOR SIX MONTHS. ANY ADVERTISEMENT THAT PAYS FOR ITSELF IN DIRECT, IMMEDIATE RETURNS, IS A GOOD INVESTMENT, BECAUSE YOU GET YOUR MONEY BACK, AND THE EXTENDED PUBLICITY TO BOOT. BUT WHEN RESULTS ARE SUCH AS THIS MAN EXPERIENCED YOU ARE GETTING LITTLE LESS THAN A GOLD MINE.

THE FIRST MAN IN THE ADVERTISING FIELD REAPS THE FINEST OF THE WHEAT. THE LATE-COMERS GLEAN THE STUBBLES. DUKE, THE TOBACCO KING, IN CONVERSATION WITH THE WRITER ONCE SAID: "I BEGAN LIFE ON A STONE PATCH, WITH A WIFE, A BLIND MULE AND TEN DOLLARS. I AM NOW WORTH THIRTY TWO MILLION DOLLARS. BUT I HAVE SPENT FORTY MILLION IN ADVERTISING." PROBABLY NO MAN IN ALBUQUERQUE HAS HAD A MORE MODEST BEGINNING THAN MR. DUKE, AND THERE IS NO REASON WHY ANY MAN WITH EQUAL BUSINESS ABILITY, AND POSSESSED OF THE SAME BUSINESS FORESIGHT, SHOULD NOT SUCCEED AS WELL. IF THERE IS, STATE IT TO YOURSELF, AND BE CONSOLED. IT IS AN OLD SAW, BUT A KEEN CUTTER, THAT SAYS: "IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE."

Exclusive photograph for this newspaper by H. H. MacDonald showing quiet, interested crowd watching the arrival of federal troops at Goldfield, Nev. It is remarkable that neither before nor since the arrival of Uncle Sam's soldiers has there been any violence or the slightest disorder. The sheriff himself has said that if there was any dynamite placed around the mines it was the guilty act of persons wishing to bring discredit on the Miners' Union.

THERE MUST BE NO POOLING OF TOBACCO

So Rules a Kentucky Tribunal In Case Attracting Wide Attention.

Paris, Ky., Dec. 17.—"I would rather an injustice would be done one man than one hundred thousand men suffer everlasting ruin," was the significant statement of Judge John L. Stout in sustaining the injunction restraining F. T. Halden, of Franklin county, from shipping his pooled tobacco to Louisville for the purpose of disposing of it.

The injunction was granted by the clerk of the Franklin circuit court in response to proceedings instituted by the Franklin county board of control, a branch of the American Society of Equity, upon information that the defendant had delivered to the Kentucky River Towboat company his crop of eighteen hogheads of tobacco of the 1906 crop for the purpose of shipping and selling it on the Louisville market. Mr. Halden having pooled his tobacco with the Society of Equity previously.

The defendant through his attorneys, John Lindsey and John Rodman, of Frankfort, sought to show that the plaintiff was not, according to law, an incorporated company, and objected to the filing of an amended petition by the plaintiff, which Judge Stout admitted as of record. In sustaining the injunction, Judge Stout said he had never shirked a duty and in a previous case from the county of Woodford had upheld the constitutionality of the pooling of tobacco, and in the case before the bar, in his judgment, the contract between the defendant and the Society of Equity was a valid one.

Judge Stout directed that an order be entered sustaining the injunction and requiring that the bond be renewed and that the defendant place his crop in a place of safety. The plaintiff was represented by President W. E. Thompson and Secretary W. T. Lee, of the Franklin county board of control, and by Col. John R. Allen, L. A. Nichols, of Versailles, Judge John H. Polsgrove, of Frankfort, and C. M. Thomas, of Paris. The case caused great interest and many farmers, including the officers of the Bourbon county board of control, were in the audience. The case will at once be taken to the court of appeals and will be watched with intense interest by the tobacco growers all over Kentucky.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY CHAOTIC DECLARES HOKE SMITH

No Candidate From South Is Expected to Seek Candidacy Aserts the Governor.

New York, Dec. 17.—Gov. Hoke Smith of Georgia was in town today to attend a meeting of the trustees of the Peabody fund, of which he is a member. Regarding conditions in the democratic party, he said:

"I never saw such a chaotic condition. The more you look at it, the more chaotic it seems. The southern democrats do not mean to be longer treated as if that section of the country was still in secession."

"We regard a southern democrat as just as good as any other democrat. The southern democrat should be considered by the gray matter he has in his head and not by the section in which he lives."

"Will the south have a candidate for the nomination for president next year?"

"No, I do not think so. No one seems to want it. But the present southern sentiment will manifest itself in the convention and everywhere else from now on."

NEW THEORY SUCCESSFUL IN INDIANAPOLIS

L. T. Cooper Makes Many Converts During Stay in That City.

The new theory (backed up by his preparation) advanced by L. T. Cooper with regard to the cause of most ill health of the present generation is being soon broadcast by this young man.

Cooper believes that the human stomach has become degenerate in civilized races and claims that good health is impossible unless the stomach is re-vitalized. This he claims to do with his preparation.

An article from the Indianapolis Star during Cooper's stay in that city has this to say of Cooper and his preparation: "Residents of this city are being astounded by L. T. Cooper and his new preparation."

"Reports that preceded Mr. Cooper's visit here told of his success in other localities, but the immense success of his medicine and the general belief in his theory was wholly unprecedented."

"So great is the rush of the public to this young man that people stand in line waiting their turn for hours in an effort to see him. The most interesting feature of this is statements made by reliable citizens as to the actual accomplishments of Cooper's medicine. Among recent statements of this character the following is a fair example:

RAILROAD DEPARTMENT

NEW RUNS ARE MUCH SOUGHT AFTER

Appointments Will be Made This Evening—One Conductor Decided Upon.

Who will get the new jobs made by the inauguration of train service on the Santa Fe cut-off?

This is a most momentous question with local trainmen just now. Three promotions for conductors are on the tapis and there are a dozen or more applicants. That some of them will be disappointed will naturally follow. The new run from Albuquerque to Texico, ten hours, and then ten hours back a layover of a night at Texico and another layover here, is considered by the railroad men a good run.

Superintendent F. L. Myers, of the Rio Grande, who has the selection of the new crews, said last night that he had decided upon but one man, Conductor Chas. Watlington, of Silver City.

Conductor Watlington is on the Rincon-Silver City passenger run now, but will give it up for the cut-off run.

"The other appointments will go to the oldest freight men who want the jobs," said Mr. Myers last night. "There are several who are in line, but there will be no discrimination in the making of the selection. The oldest men making application will be given preference. The crews will be made up Tuesday evening."

STEEL SWITCH ROPES

ON S. P. CABOCHES. All of the Southern Pacific cabochoes have been equipped with 30 feet of steel cable for use as switch ropes. These ropes are used when the crew has to replace a derailed car and are superior to the old style ropes that have been in use on the road. They are very expensive and the train crews are instructed to take the best possible care of them.

SANTA FE HAS DIRECT LINE INTO GOLDFIELD.

The Santa Fe railroad has just acquired the lease of several small lines in Nevada over which are given a direct route to the Tonopah and Goldfield territories. The new line leaves the Santa Fe at Ludlow, Cal., and runs to Beatty, Nev., where connection is made for Goldfield over the Bullfrog & Goldfield railroad. At Goldfield connection is made to Tonopah over the Tonopah & Goldfield. These new lines give the Santa Fe the most direct service into the new Nevada gold fields. Through trains with sleeper for the Tonopah and Goldfield regions run from Los Angeles to Tonopah. All the overland through trains of the Santa Fe to California make close connections at Ludlow, with trains to Beatty, Blythe, Bullfrog, Goldfield and Tonopah.

GOLDEN STATE TO BE LIMITED TUESDAY.

The announced change in the character of the Golden State trains went into effect Sunday at Chicago and after Tuesday, all equipment on these trains through El Paso will be first class, no more chair cars being carried.

The last time that chair car passengers can ride on the two limited trains will be tonight, when the west-bound train leaves for Los Angeles. Commencing with Tuesday it will be impossible for any but holders of Pullman or tourist car tickets to ride on these trains, and passes will not be honored by the conductors.

SERIES OF SIGNALS ON S. P. WHEN DOUBLING.

A series of signals has been announced for use on the Tucson division of the Southern Pacific when it is necessary for the trainmen to double over grades with their loads. When the view is not clear sufficiently, and always at night, a torpedo is to be placed on the rail four telegraph poles from the hind car of the rear cut. At night when the weather conditions require, a red light is to be affixed to the hind end of the rear cut, where it can be plainly seen from the approaching train.

LINGERING COLD.

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zephyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One small bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

"I was skeptical, of course, after spending so much money and taking such a large quantity of medicine, but like the drowning man, I was greatly discouraged, and was about ready to give up, when Mr. Cooper came to this city to introduce his preparation."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of dyspepsia, heartburn, and indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerve, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. With out that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and yellow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.

"STATEHOOD FOR NEW MEXICO"

The Presidency

Not having run for the presidency, the average Mr. Citizen don't understand exactly just what a job it is. The average man who has run for alderman from his ward, for city marshal, dog catcher or some other local office of him recompense and most prestige, has a slight knowledge of the strain and nervous tension it occasions. He knows what it is to put a box of particularly bad cigars under his arm and hand them out where they will do the most good—to dig up five or six dollars for the campaign fund or more if needed. He knows what it is to be the political opponent by the hand and then say mean things behind his back, to settle up the row he has with his next door neighbor over emptying ashes and old tin cans in the alley and otherwise to add to his political prestige wherever possible.

Even that is hard work but if he is elected his troubles are generally done and he can gain such satisfaction as the office affords so long as the city council don't get too active and ask him what he's doing for the good of the community.

But running for president is different. In the first place a man has to say he don't want the job but that he would take it if it was offered, and his duty to the party and the country demanded that he accept, which appearances indicated, was the case.

Then he has to hire a manager; it would be unseemly for him to do anything towards boosting his own chances. The manager does that. The manager takes a little trip here and he takes a little trip there and he puts a few figures down in a little book and he takes another little trip to get a few more figures to put down in the little book.

Then an unfriendly paper says the president has been handing out a whole lot of undue encouragement to another candidate and that six or seven more favorite sons have sprung up in six or seven different places. Then the president's aspirant sends his manager out to look into the stock of the few favorite sons, and the manager takes a few figures off the little book.

Then some newspaper correspondent sends out a dispatch that the presidential aspirant isn't in the race at all but is working for some one else who is trying just as hard to land the job and the presidential aspirant buys a newspaper of his own and says it's all bosh.

Then the campaign manager sets down a whole list of names of presidential aspirants and after each a lot of figures, and the one presidential aspirant who doesn't want the job but would take it, finds that he lacks a few figures after his name.

Then he goes out himself and gets a few figures and his campaign manager goes out and gets a few figures and things look brighter.

About this time a report goes out that when the presidential aspirant was clerk of the school board back home, he was suspected of having misappropriated six or seven dollars, and he has to spend four months in proving that at the time it happened, he wasn't clerk of the school board at all, but was reading law and doing the janitor work in a law office. But this makes the figures look bad again. Then some one finds out that he is a deadly enemy of organized labor and the presidential aspirant wears tailor-made overalls and carries an empty dinner pail until the excitement quiets down.

Some one says he stands in with the trusts and he makes fourteen speeches before the figures look right again.

Then some whippers—just whippers—that he likes cocktails or apple brandy or a little soda on the side, and he has to wear a white ribbon for a month, and drink root beer until he gets dyspepsia. The presidential aspirant gets up early and he never goes to bed. He stays in Washington as long as the president will let him inside the white house door; he goes out west and sympathizes with the cattle and sheep men; he goes back east and says combination and honest capital are needed to move the business of the world; he makes a speech before the United Order of Workmen and says that labor is the backbone of the country; he takes a whirl on the Chautauque platform and says the farmer is the country's only savior; he speaks at a banquet of Chicago business men and says what a beautiful city it is, when it's raining cats and dogs; he rides all night to get to Podunk to deliver a Fourth of July oration and has his press agent say he was met at the train by thousands of people, when there isn't ever five hundred in the whole county; he gets into the president's cabinet only to get out and when he gets out he wishes he was in. His campaign manager juggles the figures until sometimes it looks like he was already elected, and other times it doesn't look like he had a single vote.

Then the convention is called, and when the delegates get together they pick out a man who has been so busy he didn't know there was an election on and he is generally elected.

Every true American boy expects to be president some day. But it's a lot easier to be town marshal or member of the city council. After all is taken into consideration, it's better to be a big duck in a small pond than to be a small duck in a big pond, and unless some one mixes a guess, there will be a lot of little ducks in a great big mudhole after the next set of national conventions. There are too many favorite sons and too many true exponents of real Jeffersonian Democracy on the political horizon.

El Paso Joins

An editorial in yesterday's El Paso Herald is full of the right spirit and if the people of El Paso are as public spirited as their leading paper, that city will send a big delegation to the National Irrigation Congress. The Herald deserves commendation for its stand on this matter, not only because it is published in another state but because it has the good sense to aid the people who are constantly aiding it. It is a wise paper that knows who spreads the butter on its bread and the entire city of El Paso receives more support from this territory than it does from its own state. The Herald truthfully says:

"El Paso will take an active part in the National Irrigation Congress meeting at Albuquerque next fall and meanwhile she will aid in spreading the news about the meeting and in arousing interest in the work of the congress. The first thing for El Paso to do is to make plans for a fine exhibit at the fair which will be held in connection with the congress."

"At Albuquerque, products of this lower valley and of Mexico will come into competition with the wonderful products of northern and eastern New Mexico, Oklahoma, and the irrigated valleys of Arizona. Certainly we do not want to see other sections walk off with all the prizes; but equally certain it is that we shall have to get an early start and exercise rigid selection if we would make an impressive showing among the competitors."

"At Las Cruces, the Mesilla valley people pledged themselves to raise $3,500 in cash toward the congress, in addition to making an elaborate exhibit of irrigation products. This is the spirit that will make New Mexico leap forward in the next few years as never before. The Mesilla valley will use probably 5,000 square feet of floor space at the fair, and work is already under way toward collecting and preparing the multitude of exhibits."

"El Paso is expected to take the lead in working up interest in Mexico. It is hoped that the Mormon settlements of the Casa Grande country will participate in the congress and in the exhibits. Mexico will be urged to send a large and representative delegation to the congress. The Juarez agricultural school will be expected to make an exhibit of its work, and it is the intention of President Hopewell and other active workers for the congress, to make the gathering one of international importance and helpfulness. In this phase of the work El Paso will be best situated to take the lead by reason of her close connections with Mexico and the co-operative irrigation enterprise that is now under way in this valley."

"El Paso and the Mesilla valley are not out of the woods yet in regard to the Rio Grande reclamation project. There is a chance of years of delay. It is of immense importance to us at this time to have the National Irrigation congress meet so near home. At that meeting there will be present not only the reclamation service officials, but also some members of the cabinet and a number of senators and congressmen. In conjunction with the irrigation congress there will be held a congress on the conservation of the national resources, and this will probably bring together a large and distinguished assembly of public men."

"This is El Paso's opportunity no less than the opportunity of New Mexico, and we should be prompt and hearty in responding to the invitation extended by Governor Curry and President Hopewell. New Mexico is doing much for us right now. New Mexico people have been active in Washington this fall advancing the Rio Grande reclamation work, and next month 100 New Mexico statehood boosters, who will be in Washington, will be ready at all times to render any aid in their power for advancing the irrigation interests of the El Paso valley. This city cannot afford to withhold her support from the Albuquerque event, or to offer to participate in anything less than a generous, whole-hearted, effective way."

LOOKING FOR A GOOD TIME?

There are about as many conceptions as to what constitutes a "good time" as there are individuals, but there is one place in New Mexico, not very far from Albuquerque, where 99 out of every 100 people find what they are looking for. That place is the Valley Ranch, at Pecos, New Mexico. Fresh country produce in abundance, horses to ride or drive, dogs, guns, traps, tackle, all at your disposal. The finest hunting and fishing in the territory. You can live in a house, a cabin or a tent, and come and go as you please.

You'll find plenty of company there, agreeable and refined, if you are sociably inclined, a favorite resort for ladies. Conditions ideal for recuperating, reading, hunting or loafing.

You CAN'T SPEND MORE THAN NINE DOLLARS A WEEK ANY WAY YOU FIX IT.

Inquire at The Citizen Office for further particulars, or address The Valley Ranch.

No other food deteriorates so rapidly as the Oyster. Its habitat is the ocean. It requires coolness and absolute freedom from exposure to the air in order to retain its delicate flavor and its wholesomeness. SEALSHIP OYSTERS are brought direct to us from the choicest beds of America. They are shucked into porcelain cases, sealed and packed in ice, which never comes in contact with the oysters. The use of the Sealship carrier is the secret of their superiority.

FOUNTAIN IS STILL
WITHOUT A SITE

No Market Place as Yet—Telephone Company Must Use New Street Names.

The city's new granite drinking fountain for horses and dogs is still without a site. The action of the Santa Fe in backing out of its agreement to furnish a place for the gift has left the councilmen at sea about the matter.

Alderman Learned, chairman of the committee having charge of the fountain, was instructed to have it moved from the Santa Fe freight depot to city property until a site could be secured for it.

The purchase of a pumping plant
as an aid to the old sewer system was recommended by Alderman Harrison, chairman of the sewer committee. The plan will cost $1,500 to $2,000, and was asked for by City Engineer Gladding in his report. The matter was referred to the sewer committee.

Acting Mayor Wilkerson spoke of the need of a breach of the peace ordinance which would fully cover the grounds Judge Ira A. Abbott in the district court having recently dismissed a case on the ground that there was no city ordinance covering it.

City Attorney Hickey was instructed to draw up an ordinance making assault and similar offenses against the peace punishable, whether committed on a street or public place or on private premises.

The council passed the ordinance creating the office of city weigher and inspector of scales and measures which will be held by the chief of the fire department.

The committee having in charge
the petition for a market place on the Santa Fe ground between North First street and the railroad tracks reported that Division Superintendent Myers, of the Santa Fe, had reported unfavorably on the matter.

The committee was discharged.
D. A. Porterfield, a real estate man, asked the council why a water main had not been laid on South Water street between Iron and Lewis avenues, as he had been assured two years ago that the council had ordered the water main laid.

Acting Mayor Wilkerson said the matter would be investigated at once.
Alderman Harrison was appointed a committee of one to notify the Colorado Telephone company that it is using old street names in its directory.

entertainment an opportunity to hear the girls sing. Instrumental music, readings and a farce will be other features of the program. The price of admission on Saturday will be 15

tainments will be used to defray the Estimated that City's Revenue

Will Be Increased to $30,- 000 Annually.

What the New High License
Ordinance Will Do:
Reduce the number of saloons in Albuquerque approximately by half.
Increase city's revenue therefrom to approximately $30,000.
Effectively dispose of beer saloons in residence districts.
Prohibit sale of liquor in less quantities than quart by druggists.
Cause springing up of saloons outside the city limits.

There are now forty-one licensed saloons in Albuquerque and it is believed that the new high license ordinance passed by the city council last night will cause at least half of them to go out of business, principally the beer saloons in the residence districts.

The forty-one saloons, at the present rate of the license at $250 a year, pay annually $10,250 into the city's coffers, but under the new ordinance, figuring that twenty saloons will continue in business, the city's revenue from license will amount to $5,000 a year.

City officials believe that the new ordinance will effectively dispose of the beer saloon in the residence districts, but fear that the small saloon keepers will move just outside the city limits and do business there.
It is said that practically all the saloons in the business district will take out the new licenses, and that probably a majority of the saloons in the city will, begin dropping off when they see that they cannot afford it.

Many of the downtown saloon keepers refused to sign the petition protesting against the high license, which was presented to the council last night, saying that they wanted an increased tax.

Ten of the forty-one saloons in Albuquerque are backed by breweries. Nine by the Southwestern breweries & ice company and one by the Consolidated Liquor company, agents for Lempi's Brewery, of St.
Louis. Under the new condition of affairs both breweries will remain backers of some saloons in the city.

The saloons are distributed throughout the city as follows: Central avenue, 9; Third street, 5; Ten-terion houses, 5; Second street, 5;
First street, 11; Dog Town, 2; Tijeras road, 1; Fourth street, 1; South Broadway, 1; Gold avenue, 1.

The new ordinance prohibits the sale of liquor in less quantities than a quart by the retail liquor dealers' license.

It was said today that the saloon keepers would raise the price of beer to ten cents on the first of the year when the ordinance goes into effect,
but the report could not be verified.
Some of the owners of large saloons positively denied it.

Saloon keepers will have to pay $1,925 in licenses now when they enter into business in Albuquerque. The city license will be $1,500, county license, $400, and territorial license $25.

SAVING VERSUS

WASTING MONEY

There should be reason in all things, even in the spending of your money. Christmas shoppers, in going the rounds of the town, are struck with the great disparity in the prices which different dealers ask for substantially the same article. He goes into some hardware store and asks the price of, we will say, carving sets. Then he prices them somewhere else, and finds that the second man asks twice as much as the first.
He is astonished, and entirely unable to account for the difference.
It may not occur to him that carving sets belong legitimately to the hardware business, that they will be sold upon as close a margin as an ax or a stove, whereas the second man he asked is engaged in another branch of business, upon which he bases his hope of future patronage, and is carrying carvers only as a side line for what he can make out of it, and the more the better—of him. Take this tip: If you are out to buy jewelry, go to a jewelry store. If you want hardware, go to a hardware store. In other words, purchase your goods of the dealer who makes that particular line of goods his main line, or his specialty. A keen discernment of such points as this,
and the government of your actions accordingly, is just what makes the difference between the thrifty and the thriftless man.

For example, The Wagner Hardware company embraces in its regular, legitimate business, hardware of all kinds, and a full line of queensware, including fine Haviland china, hand painted china, cut glass, silver table service, chafin dishes, tea sets, and the like, all in just as fine quality as can be had anywhere in town. Now if any one can give a good reason for paying some other dealer two dollars for identically the same article that Mr. Wagner sells for one, why he has hit upon a hitherto undiscovered principle of logic.

GOVERNMENT'S ANTI-TRUST FIGHT

"Are the Lawyers Responsible For Trickery of Business Men?" Asks Purdy.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—Special correspondence to the Globe-Democrat.—Should lawyers be punished for helping tricky and avaricious business men to extort unreasonable prices from the public?

Would it be practicable to penalize them for the very important part they take in the organization of trusts and monopolies?

Is the person who tells another, either for a fee in hand or a percentage of the enterprise, how to get a certain safe and apply the explosive gully of burglary?

The purpose was to lay all three questions before Milton Dwight Purdy, assistant to the attorney general of the United States, and the very particular man who has found an actual way to terrify rich and arrogant breakers of the law, but Mr. Purdy is himself a lawyer and an engaged, no doubt, in the office which often restrains the ready voice of his profession. Therefore I only asked the second.

Manifestly, the inquiry was unexpected. We were alone in his office and Mr. Purdy had been nervously and vigorously smoking a pipe. Penalties the lawyers? Who are they? Not shysters, surely. Nor even middlemen. Punish them—the very fruit, root and branches among his brethren? Mr. Purdy spilled the ashes from his pipe, doing it methodically, and then looked solemnly at me.

"The law," and he was very earnest as he said it, "recognizes certain confidential relations, such as attorney and client, physician and patient, and on. What name is between them is private, and for ages has received the protection of the law against public inquisition. It would be difficult, therefore, to obtain sufficient facts on which to base prosecution. Persons having knowledge, you know, would be silenced."

"But the names of lawyers are attached to the papers which go on record, and a working monopoly can't be formed without papers." "Under the laws we already have all persons, attorneys included, having knowledge of acts and doings in furtherance of a combination or conspiracy in restraint of trade are guilty of participation therein and may be prosecuted."

Refuses Full Credit. "You touched into life and dormant Elkins law," I said, leaving pleasant speculation and taking a sure footing on fact, "and $600,000 in honest fines were assessed against railroads, their officers and customers. Why wasn't that judgment of usefulness employed earlier?"

"At the start, let me say, I do not claim the credit you give me. The effectiveness of the Elkins law came during the gradual development of the business in the office of the attorney general. At first the government was busy with cases against the trusts. Again, there was delay because we lacked proof. Railway men say they abandoned the custom of giving rebates and would be glad to quit it, but they would help us to no information. Nor would any shipper admit that he had demanded and received rebates. He was unwilling to confess that he had gone to the Burlington railroad, for illustration, and obtained concessions under the threat of favoring another line with his business. Consequently, we had a tedious and protracted task to build up our cases. When we finally got at the truth, however, suits were begun all over the country."

"It is likewise known that you discovered new prosecuting possibilities in the ancient and much ridiculed Sherman anti-trust law."

"Neither have you put your last statement in just the right way. The attorney general, in contemplation of law, is responsible for all that occurs in this department. We do not try cases; but policies are discussed and decided here and word is sent to the United States district attorneys throughout the country to proceed along certain lines. We get information, for instance, from the interstate commerce commission, that some law is being violated. Our attorney in that particular region is asked to make an investigation and undertake such action as may be necessary. Now what may be done by us in any matter, large or small, is not the wisdom of one man, but of the department. Answering your question impersonally, I do not hesitate to say that the Sherman law can be successfully employed against the trusts."

His Definition of a Trust. "My definition of a trust, of course, would be somewhat technical. The popular meaning of the word, however, has grown so comprehensive as to include nearly all large business enterprises which have the power to fix and maintain prices. The monopolistic idea first took concrete form in what was called the 'gentlemen's agreement.' Five or six manufacturers or a small number of railway officers would come together and promise to keep prices or freight rates at a certain level. They were gentlemen, and hence, probably arose the expression 'gentlemen's agreement,' but they frequently broke their word as soon as they left their meetings and resumed their independent methods of doing business. It is true they would stand together occasionally, but at best their informal and intangible organization was weak and unenforceable, and they were never sure of one another."

"Some effectual binding had to be substituted if monopoly were to be scientifically developed in a large business. Four or five men might control the refining of oil and honorably carry out their promise, but when seventy persons and firms, representing all the grades of human nature, were brought into union under a secret and verbal understanding of their conspiracy against trade and the people became too unmanageable and resented the practical and skeptical minds which had organized it. So the oil business was put into a trust. That is to say, the shares in all the oil companies in the combination were deposited with seven trustees and trust certificates were given in exchange to the original stockholders."

"Thus it occurred that seven men controlled the oil industry of the United States. They operated all of the refineries and pipe lines, paid out and received every cent of money, and declared such dividends as they thought were justified. But monopoly, in this second stage of its evolution, had gone into writing, into signed documents, and had made itself a visible and reachable institution."

"After the courts had declared trusts to be illegal, monopoly worked out the ingenious scheme of a central holding corporation, as in the case of the Northern Securities company, into whose possession was given a majority of the shares of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways, competing lines which could not be openly and directly owned by the same interests. The holding company received the profits of the two constituent companies and disbursed them in the form of dividends. When the case was taken to the Supreme court, this new kind of monopoly was also declared to be unlawful. The court decreed, among other things, that the holding company could not receive dividends from the constituent companies. If it could not receive dividends it was useless in carrying out the functions intended, and, consequently, was without purpose or value."

Monopoly Defeated Three Times. "Up to this point, you see, monopoly had been defeated three times: First, it could not compel gentlemen to keep their promises. Second, the government had outlawed the trusts by court decisions. Third, the holding company, in a suit brought by the government, was made wholly inoperative. What remained? Hush corporations, living in the open, doing business in the sight of everybody, and owning sources of supply, means of distribution and other facilities for giving them command of their lines of trade throughout the country."

"It was your suggestion that receivers be appointed for law-breaking corporations. What would result from such a proceeding?"

"I am coming to that, the suggestion, however, was hardly mine, but rather the outcome of a discussion I had with another law officer of the government. We were talking about economic conditions in the United States and it was said that a single individual or a company of immensely wealthy men might eventually get control of nearly every sort of business unless means were taken to check and regulate the monopolistic tendency of the time. What could be done, we asked, if it were shown in court that a certain corporation by its ownership of raw materials, machinery, etc., absolutely governed domestic markets in the way of prices and the supply of its particular product? Its operations would be in restraint of trade and unmistakably illegal. What action, then, should the court take? Would it do to shut all the mills or factories of the monopoly? Perhaps a court would have power to do a monopoly existing, but if the offending corporation owned packing houses the people would suffer for want of meat. If it owned mills and elevators the people would be deprived of meat or flour, and even the monopoly would be punished by being prohibited from doing business, but the public would be greatly inconvenienced and distressed and general business much disturbed."

Says Monopoly Can Be Prevented. "Obviously, some other course would be better. Why not, we argued, appoint a receiver? Nothing then need be closed. The monopoly would be operated as usual, but under the temporary direction of an officer of the United States court until the business could be adjusted in harmony with law. The people would not be deprived of meat or flour, and confusion would not result of other kinds of business. In the meantime, monopoly, as a whole, could be gradually broken up. The mills of New England, in the south, and on the Pacific coast could be sold to separate independent companies. Those in the central west could be finally handed back to the better monopolists, along with the money received from the sale of the constituent establishments. Competition would

"Political economists declare that the price is invariably charged by a monopoly which will return the largest possible profit to the shareholders, and that the buyers of the service or produce are given scant consideration. A street railway having exclusive rights will fix its fare at 5 cents, because at that rate it can pay a dividend of 8 per cent. At 15 cents few persons would ride, and the dividend would be reduced to 4 per cent. More would ride at 10, but the dividend then would be only 6 per cent. At 5 cents there would be crowded cars, but only a dividend of 7 per cent could be earned at that rate. The charge for service, therefore, is based entirely upon dividends. Monopoly is skillfully able and selfish, whether in street railroads or any other business."

Notwithstanding his disclaimer, Mr. Purdy has originated more trouble for railroads and trusts than any man in Washington, except the president. He sits in his office, smoking like an Apache, brush head and thinking with cool energy and deadliness. And he looks like a lawyer—a lawyer of the old school dressed in modern clothing, expert in modern methods, and profoundly concerned in modern conditions. It is easy for the imagination to project him twenty years into the future and see a large, round, keen-eyed, and smooth-faced judge, wonderfully able, sincerely honest and ferociously unafraid. The pleasing note is lacking in his masculine voice and the pleasing expression is lacking in his masculine face. Sometimes his discourse has a chopping-block sound, but withal there is an atmosphere of leisure in his presence, where nothing is hurried and where his fatherly and emotion are chained to rings of iron in the wall.

"You are muscled," I said, "like a football player. Where were you trained?"

"In my father's pot shop. He had a pottery at Mogadore, in Ohio, and one at Whitehall, in Illinois."

"And you learned the potter's trade?"

"Yes. We moved to Akron, not far from Mogadore, where my father started a match factory. He sold it, I believe, to O. C. Barber, now president of the match trust, and then went to Illinois, and there I was employed on Saturdays and during vacations as a ball maker. In those days each potter had a boy to weigh his clay and to work out the air bubbles by cutting it to pieces with a wire and then kneading it into a compact mass. I picked up the trade in that fashion and my father gave me a wheel and a journeyman's wages. If I had jugs or crocks, I would make about $2 a day. One Saturday I earned $5 with tops for snuff jars. That was an exceptional day, however, that I have never forgotten it."

"You went to school?"

"Always at the Foot of His Class. 'Surely, but study was distasteful to me, and I was always the last of the class. When I grew up I tried to lessen the regret of memory and soften neighborhood tradition by attributing my indolence and backwardness to poor vision. I did have bad eyes, and didn't begin to wear spectacles until I was 17 years old, but the plain truth is I was not studious, and school was a hateful place to me. Indeed, I decided to go into the pottery for good. My father gave his consent because he thought I should never succeed at anything else. But my mother—she was a wise and determined woman and the real head of our family—said, 'You shall go through the high school, no matter what happens or how long it takes.' I was then a junior, and about 16 years of age. Well, that was the first turn in my life. But for my mother I should be a potter this very minute."

"I continued at school under her orders and loathed as usual. One day we had a lesson in physical geography on the tides. I took up my book, as a matter of routine and handed back to the teacher a reason I came interested. At the recitation a girl and myself were the only pupils who understood the subject. We were praised by name and permitted to go home. All of the others in the class were kept after hours. Now, this little incident is worth mentioning only because of its possible bearing on the lives of those boys who are seemingly as hopeless as I was. For the first time I had received honorable mention from a teacher. And for once, at least, I had thoroughly known my lesson. I could know it again."

MA SNOWDRIFT'S ACTIONS BOTHER THE CHILDREN

NICK NITTY N-I-C-K-E

THE HOME OF THE SNOWDRIFT FAMILY

abounds in secrets. Mother tiptoes noiselessly from room to room, suspicious little bundles under her arm and one of those wise old looks of hers—that crafty kind of look in her eye that seems to say: "Better be good. Santa is watching."

The bargain columns in the papers are eagerly scanned. Mother's room and the big hall closet at the head of the stairs have been locked for the past week.

The children have gathered round the fire and confidentially whispered in papa Snowdrift's ear the long list of presents they expect "Dear Santa" to bring. There are questions like these:

"Where does Santa go in summer?"

"Why doesn't he get an automobile instead of a reindeer? His wife must have the rheumatism; she never comes with him. Doesn't she get lonely 'way up there at the north pole, when he's so far away?"

"A girl in our room says there is no Santa Claus. I wouldn't want to be her, because Santa Claus hears her, and she won't get any presents. He only brings presents to nice little boys and girls. Doesn't he, papa?"

"Poor old Papa Snowdrift. He just sighs and admits he's up against it. He is glad the holidays only come once a year. He turns in, goes to bed and forgets it."

A NEW INDUSTRY FOR NEW MEXICO

New York Men Propose to Raise Cantaloupes in Rio Grande Valley.

The year 1908 will in all probability develop a new era of cultivation for New Mexico.

Lyons & Coggins of New York City and Pittsburg, Pa., who practically control the entire cantaloupe crops of the Imperial Valley, California, and Rocky Ford, Colorado, have already contracted for about one thousand acres of cantaloupes to be grown in the Mesilla valley, near Las Cruces, N. M., and in order to have the melons uniform in variety and size and properly cultivated and packed, have agreed to furnish experienced laborers under their own foreman to grow and pack the year's crop.

This firm has spared no expense in establishing a market reputation for the Imperial valley and Rocky Ford melons, and purpose to do the same for the Mesilla valley product.

By actual figures the Imperial valley cantaloupes growers received the following returns by Lyons and Coggins for their 1907 crop:

Acres	Per acre	Total
Morley and Amago	22.00	$488.71
D. Welchman	23.00	419.55
Stahl Bros	45.00	374.16
John A. Fiedler	35.00	333.20
Morley and Roth	35.00	333.20
J. J. Miller	40.00	305.99

While the Rocky Ford growers last year realized from $300 to $600 per acre on cantaloupes contracted to this firm, the land on which these melons are grown commanding a price of from $600 to $1,200 per acre.

The cantaloupes grown last year in the Mesilla valley, were really only and experiment however, it is a fact that they brought about ten per cent better price in Denver than Rocky Ford melons, and computed by average would net the Mesilla valley grower about $585 per acre.

A large tract of extra choice land in the Mesilla valley, particularly adapted to the growing of cantaloupes, and under the new Leasburg dam, about one mile from Las Cruces, has recently been purchased by the Mesilla Valley Development company, and been subdivided into 2 1/2, 5 and 10-acre tracts, and now offered on the market with an agreement to cultivate and grow the lands to cantaloupes, under the direction of Messrs. Lyons and Coggins.

H. H. McCord, the head of the company, has opened an office with Colonel D. K. B. Seider, room 9 Cronwell building, opposite First National bank, where he can be found during business hours for the next week for ten days, to give such information that may be solicited. With the upper Rio Grande valley now open to sugar beets, and a lower portion to cantaloupes, millions of dollars will soon come to New Mexico, that are now distributed elsewhere, and will quickly add thousands in population to our territory which will go farther than anything else towards securing the long sought statehood.

PRESIDENT IS SLIGHTLY ANGRY

Frank Hitchcock's Conduct Is the Cause of His Displeasure.

President Roosevelt, says a Washington special to the Brooklyn Times, is showing decided impatience with Frank H. Hitchcock and other federal officeholders who are alleged to be conveying the impression that the administration is winking one eye at the Cortelyou candidacy for the republican presidential nomination.

The president realizes, from information he has received, that he is fast being placed in the position of disloyalty to Secretary Taft and disloyalty at the Cortelyou campaign. He is daily determined that this shall not continue, and in the last few days he has spoken unmistakably. Federal officeholders who are supporting Cortelyou and talking against Taft now understand that they can not any longer do this at the expense of the president's strong regard for and loyalty to Taft.

The information taken to the president is that Mr. Hitchcock, who is the acknowledged leader of the Cortelyou campaign, has been telling various republicans, especially those from the south, that the bottom has been knocked out of the Taft boom and that the president is perfectly willing that southern republicans shall give their backing to Mr. Cortelyou. The straight facts are that the president is by no means satisfied that Secretary Taft has lost any strength; has no idea of deserting him for Mr. Cortelyou or anyone else, believes that he will be nominated and elected, and will stand by him to the last.

That he has now passed down the line his determination that his appointees shall not go out of their way to influence the president by misrepresenting his own position, is expected to create something of a sensation politically. To many minds it further foreshadows possible unfriendly relations between the president and his secretary of the treasury, who is cognizant of the latest stand taken by the chief executive.

LIFE TERMS URGED FOR CRIMINALS OVER THIRTY

Physicians' Club of Chicago Discusses Treatment of Social Parasites.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 17.—A symposium on the treatment of the criminal and other social parasites, held at the joint meeting of the Physicians' club of Chicago and the Law club last night. These two theories were advanced:

Elimination of criminal children by sterilization.

Treatment of criminals over 30 years old as habitual, and either sending them to penal institutions for life or putting them away in some other manner, possibly by the cemetery route.

Dr. William T. Belfield was the advocate of the sterilization idea. He took up the biological aspect of the criminal, and after tracing the development of the individual to the point where he became a danger to society, made a plea for race suicide. "Morality is the arrest of the instincts by intellect," he said. "A child is a savage. If he continues to improve slowly he has a chance to outgrow his tendencies before he is put in the penitentiary. He should be given all the care possible. But when a man commits a crime after 30 he may be set down as a rule to be morally bad with no hope of improvement. For the mere criminal I would advocate permanent segregation, either by the penal colony or the cemetery. The indeterminate sentence with the parole is a radical error for the man over 30."

"The one hope of the material reduction of the social parasite is in prevention. We must prevent the criminals from breeding. Criminals. The great bulk of criminals inherit arrested development. The state has let them breed and impoverished itself to take care of their children."

Dr. J. N. Hurst, secretary of the Indiana State Board of Health, told of "the Indiana movement," which is the education of the prisoners in the Indiana reformatory to allow themselves to be sterilized. More than 300 of them have submitted to this operation so far.

AUCTION!

Closing Out Sale
$3,000.00

Worth of groceries consisting of the best products of American and foreign countries, will positively be sold at auction for cash. This is an opportunity that should appeal to all, because we all have to eat or give. Mr. C. N. Brigham, the well known grocer, located at 118 South Second street, opposite the First National Bank, having other large business interests to look after has determined to dispose of his stock of groceries, horses, delivery wagons, fixtures, etc., at auction. They will go to the highest bidder for cash. If you have any doubts about the above statement be present at the time below mentioned and watch me hand out goods at whatever price you may choose to bid. Sale begins Wednesday afternoon, December 18th, at 2 o'clock p. m. and will continue afternoons and evenings until this mammoth stock is disposed of. This is a rare chance for the merchant and house wife to stock up. Nothing will be sold at private sale after sale opens. Store will be closed Monday and Tuesday in order to arrange goods.

'RAFFLES, THE AMATEUR
CRACKSMAN,' CHRISTMAS

Nothing but good reports have reached this city about the intensely sensational Hornung-Presbrey drama "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," and now at last Joseph M. Gates' splendid company, with the talented young romantic actor, S. Miller Kent as Raffles will present the play at the Elks' opera house, Dec. 25. Mr. Kent has made a genuine and tremendous success in this best of all detective stories wherever he has played it in the United States, and this city will probably give the same verdict. "Raffles" is decidedly one of the most interesting dramas of its kind, and the title role that of the debonair, polished man of the world, who becomes a criminal because he cannot help it, fits Mr. Kent precisely, even better, perhaps, than did some of the romantic characters in which he has been seen before.

There will be a matinee on Wednesday afternoon at which the curtain will be rung up at 3:15 o'clock for the benefit of the late diners.
