LABOR LEADERS SAY THAT WAGES MUST NOT BE REDUCED

Gompers Tells Civic Federation That the Workingman Is Not Tractable as Heretofore.

MITCHELL USES MORE ELEGANT LANGUAGE

President Roosevelt's Name Is Cheered—Harvard Man Spoken of as First Citizen in the Country—Favors Government Centralized Power.

New York, Dec. 20.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, served notice upon employers that attempts to reduce wages at this time will be fought to the utmost. He delivered the ultimatum in an address at a dinner of the civic federation, attended by 200 persons at the Hotel Astor. John Mitchell also included in his speech a similar warning to employers, although clothed in more temperate language.

"Since I have been in New York this time," said Mr. Gompers, "I have been approached a dozen times by bankers, financiers, capitalists, in open conversation, in written communications and in whispers to the effect that wages must come down, that the laboring man must make up his mind to bear his share of the hard times."

"And I turned to these men and I asked them whether the soil of our country is less fertile, the treasures beneath the soil less valuable, men's minds less active, the laboring man less industrious. Therefore, I asked them, is there reason or necessity to thus attack the American standard of our workingmen?"

"The history of industry demonstrates that every such reduction of wages, intended to meet such conditions as now exist, has only accentuated the situation, made matters worse. When you reduce the laboring man's earning capacity you reduce his power to consume, and thereby intensify what was already bad enough."

Sounds Alarming.

"So I say to the employers—to the lawyers, the manufacturers, the mine operators to all employers—that if they now attempt to reduce wages they are not going to have the easy sailing they had a few years ago, for the American workingman has come to the conclusion that if for any reason the financial situation is as it is—and I shall not suggest any reason now—it was not, at any rate, due to any fault on the part of the working people. They have made up their minds that they are not going to be the chief sufferers because of an artificial panic, or of one caused by the blunders of those in charge of the finances of the country."

Speaking along the same line, Mr. Mitchell said: "It is not going to make matters any better to reduce wages. Such reductions have never failed to make matters worse instead of better."

August Belmont, president of the civic federation, whose presence was unexpected at the dinner, as it was supposed he was in Chicago, sounded a somewhat similar note of warning when he said in his introductory remarks, as temporary toastmaster, that the time may soon come when capital and labor will have to understand each other or face a great crisis.

A lighter tone was given to one of the largest public dinners ever held in New York by Melville E. Ingalls' introduction of Gen. Frederick B. Grant, as "a man who knows nothing but the army," a remark which he later elaborately explained. Gen. Grant spoke of the army campaign, and although he said he would probably not be in the army if possible, he declared that the campaign is the lesser of two evils and ought to be restored.

Few Cheers for Roosevelt.

Gen. Grant made the only even indirect reference to the president when he said that the subject had been suggested for the address by Mr. Roosevelt. The mention of the president's name brought forth a ripple of applause, which was strengthened as it went along and finally ended in a few cheers.

President Eliot, of Harvard, was introduced as "the first citizen of our country." He delivered a vigorous plea for greater centralization of power in the national government, and especially for a national incorporation law.

"We shall look for an increase in the powers of the federal government in all directions," he said. "It goes against our cherished fetish of local government, but we desperately need a revision of our views of local representation. Local interests have changed utterly in fifty years. We must give up our fear of increasing the government's power. Every question that is brought up tomorrow arose half a century after the constitution was made."

"The federal government is trying to get new powers. How? By stretching process. Some of our experiments have done pretty well, considering our limitations, but we have much further to go."

He said that Canada has a long lead on us because there power is already centralized in the government.

George W. Perkins explained the profit sharing plan of the steel trust. He said that $10,000,000 had been distributed in various forms to the employees for loyalty and efficiency in the industrial world. He called the steel trust "the highest form of socialism."

LIGHTS BURNED IN EVERY HOUSE IN JACOB'S CREEK

Hundreds of Widows and Orphans Mourned the Loss of Loved Ones.

FAINT HOPE FOR ENTOMBED MINERS

Jacob's Creek, Pa., Dec. 20.—Last night was a terrible night for hundreds of women and children and relatives, who lost husbands, fathers and brothers in the Darr mine explosion of yesterday. Not a house was darkened and all night long the moans and cries of the grief-stricken could be heard.

The work of rescue was continued all night and this morning but all hope is lost for the rescue of any of the entombed miners alive. A number of torn and mangled and charred bodies have been taken from the debris, which block the main passage but even this work was hampered by the presence of fire in the mine. Smoke and hot air continues to rush from the opening.

A meeting of the officers of the Pittsburgh Coal company last night discussed the advisability of sealing up the mine with hopes of smothering the fire, but the presence of close to 100 miners dead or alive prevented the action.

As was the case at Monongah, a week ago, the explosion followed a brief shutdown, the Darr mine having been closed Tuesday afternoon. It was 11:30 o'clock when the tenth trip of loaded cars had been brought out to the tipple, and there came an awful rumbling sound, followed by a succession of loud reports and a concussion that shook nearby buildings and was felt within a radius of a mile. At the same time there came to the mouth of the mine an immense volume of smoke and dust that floated across the Youghiogheny river.

Intuitively every one in the vicinity knew what had happened, and also started for the one place, the mouth of the mine. The river separates the mine and the homes of many of the miners, so that only a portion of those who started for the scene were able to reach it, there being scant facilities for crossing the stream. To those who could not cross the water the smoke and dust pouring from the mine's mouth told a story of seething flames from the source came reports that were persistent until late in the day that the mine was burning.

The ventilating fans were kept in operation almost without interruption, the power plant having withstood the force of the explosion, and up to this time rescuers have found no fire at any place in the mine. As far as known only one man who went to work this morning escaped. Joseph Mapleton, a pumper, emerged from one of the side entries shortly after the explosion. He had left the part of the mine where most of the men were working, and was on the way to the engine room oiling. "I was in entry 21," he said, "when I heard an awful rumbling. I started toward the entry, but the next instant I was blinded, and for a little time I didn't know anything. Then I got to the side entry and worked by way out."

Mapleton was somewhat cut and bruised, but after going home and having his injuries dressed he returned to the mine and joined the rescuers.

William Kelvington, superintendent of the mine, was not in the mine when the explosion occurred, and he quickly organized rescuing parties, starting one force of twenty-five men with reliefs at short intervals, in the hope of gas or lack of air by the rescuers. While the officials and the rescuers have only the faintest hope that any of the men may be living, all work is being carried on upon the theory that some may have found places of

SECRETARY TAFT LANDS AFTER AN EVENTFUL WORLD TOUR

Refused to Discuss President Roosevelt's Latest Declaration on Candidacy.

HAS REPORT ON TRIP PREPARED

New York, Dec. 20.—Secretary of War Taft arrived here today on the steamer President Grant after a journey around the world, accompanied by his wife and son, Charles. Taft said he was not prepared to talk on any public questions. "I expect to have my nose close to the grindstone for some time to come," he said.

Secretary of War Taft smiled when asked his opinion of President Roosevelt's newest declaration that he will not be a candidate again for the presidency.

"You must excuse me from making any comment," he continued. "Everybody is already familiar with President Roosevelt's position on the subject by his renomination. He now merely reaffirms his position, which he has maintained consistently since the presidential election of 1904."

In reply to another question Mr. Taft said:

"I have received no political information during my trip. So far as I know the political situation in the United States has not changed since September."

He has finished a voluminous report on the Philippines which he will make to congress.

All in the Taft party are well except young Charley Taft, who has been ill and feverish, but is better. The voyage has been rough throughout and the weather cold.

safety, and every point of the workings will be explored at the earliest possible moment.

The main office of the company is in Pittsburgh, and immediately on receipt of news of the disaster the officers hurried to the mine and are leading and directing the rescue work. Among the officers on the scene are J. M. Armstrong, manager of the Pittsburgh company; John R. Byers, live stock manager; H. O. Randolph, assistant to the general manager; Benj. Faraday, inspector.

FIRE EXTINGUISHED PANS RUNNING.

Jacobs Creek, Pa., Dec. 20.—Of 200 or more miners, who were made prisoners in the Darr mine by a terrible explosion yesterday, the bodies of thirty he in the main entry where they have been laid by the rescuers until they can be brought to the surface.

The faint hope that some of the men may still be alive in the mine has caused the rescuers to press forward to explore each passage instead of bringing the bodies to the surface immediately. The fire is now out and the fans are working so it is believed that it will be only a matter of a few hours when the entire mine can be explored, although the rescuers report the interior of the mine badly wrecked in places and find it necessary to constantly stop to rebuild brackings, which were blown out of place.

The exact number of men in the mine still is uncertain, but the most reliable estimate places the number at 200. The cause of the explosion is still unknown. No explanation other than that it was due to gas has been advanced.

KILLED SWEETHEART AND THEN SHOT HIMSELF

A Colorado Man Commits a Double Crime at Town of Olathe, Kansas.

NOTE BLAMES MOTHER FOR THE CRIME

Olathe, Kan., Dec. 20.—Olive Bartlett, 30 years of age, and the daughter of J. Bartlett, a retired farmer, was shot and killed at her home here last night by J. Frederick Kastendiek, 26 years of age, a former sweetheart, who then killed himself.

Both had been married since their courtship, which was broken off. Miss Bartlett had secured a divorce and Kastendiek had left his wife in Colorado to come here to renew his attentions to Miss Bartlett.

In a note he blamed Miss Bartlett for the tragedy.

DRUCE'S MYSTERIOUS GRAVE WILL BE OPENED.

Authorities Continue to Seek Caldwell—The Fugitive Is Fleeing to America.

London, Dec. 20.—The home office has consented to the opening of the grave of T. C. Druce, in Highgate cemetery, and consequently shortly after Christmas the question of whether the coffin contains a body or a roll of lead, should be definitely answered.

The quest for Robert C. Caldwell by the authorities continues. Caldwell is charged with perjury.

Caldwell's disappearance revived interest in the case, and when the hearing was resumed today the court room was crowded.

Replying to Magistrate Flounden, Mr. Atherton-Jones said he regarded Caldwell's testimony as discredited on certain points and therefore all his evidence should be obliterated. Without admitting that the whole story of the mock funeral was false, Mr. Atherton-Jones said Caldwell's account of this occurrence could not be accepted. He also intimated that Horace Avery, counsel for the defendant, has established a suspicion that Caldwell and his alleged brother are one and the same person.

In opening for the defendant Mr. Avery denounced Caldwell as the "most noxious perjurer who ever has polluted the fountain of justice." He scouted the idea that Charles Dickens would have lent himself to the intrigue of keeping up the delusion of the dual personality of the Duke of Portland, and he declared that Miss Mary Robinson, who testified that she knew T. C. Druce as the Duke of Portland, is a suspicious witness, promising to prove that part of her testimony is false.

Mr. Avery announced that if necessary in the interest of justice Herbert Druce will consent to the reopening of the grave of his father, T. C. Druce.

The only witness for the defendant called today was a nurse named Bailey, who testified that she held T. C. Druce's hand when he died Dec. 28, 1864, that she saw the body put in its coffin and attended the funeral.

Evidence given at previous trials by two doctors, since dead, was read. Both had sworn that they attended T. C. Druce in his last illness.

Mikado Promises Canadian Minister to Limit Emigration, That's All.

ASSURANCE IS IDENTICAL WITH THAT GIVEN U. S.

Tokio, Dec. 20.—Negotiations between the Canadian minister of labor, Lemieux and the Japanese government will be concluded within a few days.

It is understood that Lemieux has finally agreed to accept Japan's assurance that she will undertake the self imposed task of limiting emigration to Canada. Japan declined, however, to give any promise in writing, which would entail any sacrifices of treaty rights.

Canada will receive only a verbal assurance identical with that given the United States.

The Japanese government has determined to subsidize the Oriental Colonization company to promote immigration to Korea, where it is estimated, there is room for three million immigrants.

'ROUND TABLE' SCANDAL OVERWHELMS ALL CONCERNED

Editor Harden Reported too Ill to Appear in Court—Von Moltke Is Aging Fast.

EMPEROR WILLIAM IS ILL FROM WORRY

Case Is Again Postponed—Names of Many Royal Families Are In Question—Zu Eulenburg Is Shamed and Tottering From Load of Disgrace.

Berlin, Dec. 20.—The strain of the frightful revelations in the "Knights of the Round Table" scandal has broken down everybody who has part or vital interest in the affair.

Not only the accused and their accuser, Maximilian Harden, editor of the Zukunft, are suffering from bodily collapse, or nervous exhaustion. The rumor will not let down that Emperor William himself, before his visit to England, was almost overcome by the knowledge that men on whom he had showered honors were deeply implicated in the disgraceful expose and that he remained in England to rest and refresh himself in a different atmosphere.

The criminal libel suit on which the Emperor insisted was postponed because the defendant, Harden, was too ill to appear in court. This is no such semi-private case as that when Count Kuno Von Moltke, once commandant of Berlin, sued Harden for libel and was beaten. The emperor ordered that the prince-protector give Von Moltke, Prince Philip Zu Eulenburg and the others, another opportunity to clear their names or to lose themselves forever. So the case was called before a criminal bench of five judges.

Count Von Moltke, Prince Philip Zu Eulenburg, formerly German ambassador at Vienna, many other titled witnesses, and a substantial audience gathered in court.

Moltke and Eulenburg.

Count Von Moltke appeared shockingly changed. Instead of his military erectness his shoulders are bent and his head protrudes, giving the appearance of extreme weakness. His cheek bones are prominent, his eyes sunken. He sat heavily in his armchair, leaning forward, staring at the floor as if unwilling to meet the curious glances of the crowded courtroom.

Prince Philip Zu Eulenburg, once the most brilliant, most powerful person at court, is in pitiable condition. He has lost more than 100 pounds, taking steps six or seven inches long. His fine, regular features were set like a stone mask. As it had been expected that court would sit several weeks, the prince's carriage was not waiting when the case was adjourned. So Eulenburg walked to a retiring room. His steps were feeble and mincing. He sat with his elbows on a table and his head resting on his hands while the court attendants and the policemen stared at him. When the carriage came, two servants wrapped him in a fur coat and assisted him to it.

Dr. Marx, medical inspector for the district in which Harden lives, stated to the court that Harden's brother had asked him as an official to examine the prince. Dr. Marx found that one day recently Harden felt insensible while sitting at his study table; that he had violent pains in the head and is exhausted nervously. The judges sent Dr. Hoffman to examine Harden, and in the presence of the editor's counsel, Herr Bernstein, the physician questioned the editor. Returning, Dr. Hoffman reported to the court that it was impossible for Harden to attend.

Thereupon Herr Bernstein asked the court to adjourn the trial until after Jan. 1.

Chancellor Excused.

Justice Lehmann granted a request from Prince Von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, that he be excused from testifying. The president also ordered noted the foreign ministry's official statement that Dr. de Clapartede, the Swiss minister to Germany, and his wife, who are wanted as witnesses for the defense, are outside the court's jurisdiction.

Dr. Isenbich, Count Von Moltke's counsel, in a brief speech declared that he shall "hurry the case to conviction." Just as the court adjourned, Von Moltke arose and repudiated Dr. George Merzbach, who has published a pamphlet in his defense.

"RAFFLES."

Odd in title, and fully as unique in character and as intense in interest, is "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman."

No play in New York last season attracted as much attention as this one. It was given at the Princess and Savoy theaters 200 times and was the only drama of the year to pass the double century mark in the metropolis.

"Raffles" is as generally known, is a fascinating study in criminology, based upon E. V. Hornung's exciting series of sketches published in two volumes under the titles of "Raffles" and "The Amateur Cracksman."

It is a play that strongly brings out the old saying, that "All the world loves a rogue." It is a production that pleases, and as somebody said it tends to bring you back and you hear the call of the wild. It will be at the Elks' opera house Christmas, afternoon and evening.

"BUSTER BROWN."

The salient features of Buster Brown are humor and melody. Of both there is an abundance as will be seen by those who attend the performance of this record-making musical comedy when it is presented at the Elks' opera house December 30.

"THE RED FEATHER."

In the DeKoven, Klein and Cook opera, "Red Feather," which comes to the Elks' opera house on New Year's night, the theatre-goers of this city will find that in both book and music the attraction is considerably superior to recent musical offerings. In composing the score, Reginald De Koven reverted to his "Robin Hood" style, which has endeared him to the cultured musicians of this generation and they are competent judges, who have been afforded the opportunity of comparing the two, who have discovered passages in the "Red Feather," that excel in value the best efforts of the composer's first notable achievement. One great beauty of the score is, that it is not merely a series of notes placed together in haphazard fashion to make a song, but is very expressive, containing nerve and spirit, as if the writer were inspired, and not merely a song making automaton. In Charles Klein, Mr. De Koven secured an able co-worker, one well fitted to turn out a dignified libretto, yet having a convincing vein of humor that adds just the proper mixture of sparkle to the narrative. Charles Emerson Cook has displayed his dexterity as a writer of lyrics and has supplied "Red Feather" with some verses that are eminently suited to the brilliant character of the music.

"A ROYAL SLAVE."

"In Mexico" is only one of the numerous song hits in "A Royal Slave," which will be seen at the Elks' opera house January 4th. Perhaps no better idea of the rich, pulsing nature of Mexican life could be had than by hearing those splendid melodies, characteristic of the people and the time. Sung by sweet voiced singers, they carry their hearers back to the days of Maximilian, in the land of sunshine and of flowers.

"THE BURGOMASTER."

Wm. P. Cullen's big production of Pinley & Luder's musical triumph, "The Burgomaster," will be the strong attraction at the Elks' opera house, February 14, with Gus Weinburg and Ruth White as the featured members of a large company. The costumes are of especial beauty this season, and the production is a handsome one. Several interpolations have been made.

COPPER PALACE EXPOSITION IS OFF

El Paso Wouldn't Raise the Necessary Money, and Promoter, Ditto.

El Paso, Dec. 20.—There will be no copper palace exposition, not for El Paso, not even a copper carnival, which name was tabooed from the very first as too small and ordinary for the great event that was to be pulled off in February. There will be no queens to crown and no floral parade to delight and dazzle the eyes. There will be no military band concerts nor dazzling arrays of aerial aggregations to amuse the inhabitants of the sister cities in the copper belt and make life one round of worry and work for El Pasoans by keeping them busy taking in the shenkels from the visitors attracted. All have vanished in the thin air and the promoter will put forth his further efforts in some other city that can better appreciate great exhibitions.

El Pasoans had no doubt of the benefit of such an exhibition as Mr. Johnson proposed for El Paso if there was the proper time in which to work it up, but with the cost attached to such a proposition and the close date on which it was proposed to hold the event, it was the belief that it would not be possible to make it the success which El Paso likes to make of everything she undertakes. The proposition was, therefore, flattened out and abandoned this morning at a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce, at which the reports of the executive and finance committees appointed to solicit the $3,000 were received and accepted.

Z. T. White, chairman of the executive committee appointed to oversee arrangements, read the report, which contained the following items: After a pretty thorough canvass of the city. The committees were able to raise $1,450 with pledges enough to raise that amount to $2,000 if the exposition is given. The committee suggested that if Mr. Johnson would supply the remaining $1,000, the committee would allow him the same percentage of profits—50 per cent—as the remainder of the subscribers, otherwise they recommended that the exposition be not given.

Mr. Johnson reported that he could not supply the $1,000, and the proposed exposition was then definitely called off and the money subscribed will be returned.

The members of the committee reported that about 50 per cent of the persons seen had given, but that almost everyone thought it was a bad time to give. In other words, the sentiment of the citizens regarding the exposition was very discouraging. It was the sentiment of the directors that it would not be wise to fly in the face of this sentiment.

DEVICE TO SIPHON WATER FROM WELL

This is said to be Startling Invention of Alamogordo Man.

According to the Alamogordo News, the device is successful and is raising water seventy-two feet, at no cost. It says:

"The device is owned and controlled by W. J. Wallace of Alamogordo, who put it in operation in the Dennis well, and the system is very simple and effective. The Dennis well is a six-inch pipe with a bored hole seventy-two feet deep, the bored hole being 12 inches in diameter, thus leaving a space of three inches between the 6-inch pipe and the sides of the bored hole. Mr. Wallace attaches to the bottom of the pipe before sinking, a surrounding jacket material which contains chemicals the nature and properties of which are secret; this jacking material closing the space at the bottom of the pipe which existed between the pipe and the walls of the well. When the water comes in contact with the chemicals at the bottom of the pipe the resultant action is an upward force that gradually forces or lifts the water in the pipe to the surface, and once the water has begun an over-flow at the upper pipe outlet, a siphon has been established and the flow is continuous from this time on without any additional assistance."

The chemical action ceases almost immediately after the water flows over the top of the well, as it is only used for the purpose of getting the flow started by the reports of the chemists, and is substantiated by actual tests under working conditions, the future of New Mexico is assured, and the Mesilla Valley will be one continuous garden from mountain top on the east to mountain top on the west.

Doan's Kidney Pills relieve back-ache.

Cure every kidney ill.

Albuquerque citizens endorse them. Mrs. J. L. Curd, living at 410 South Third street, Albuquerque, N. M., says: "I suffered more or less from pains in my back for a long time, and at times when I would over-exert myself or take cold, I suffered severely. That this trouble was due to kidney disease I had no doubt; in fact, I believe it was hereditary in my case, as my father died with Bright's disease. About a year ago Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, and taking them for a short time I was absolutely relieved of the pain in my back and felt better in every way. The merits of Doan's Kidney Pills were so plainly demonstrated to me that I can with pleasure and confidence recommend them to others."

WATER GLASSES SHOULD BE COVERED

The El Paso & Southwestern Adopts Screen Plan—Brass Is Sometimes Used.

El Paso, Texas, Dec. 20.—Because Harry Loeven, the El Paso & Southwestern engineer, so well known in this city, had his face badly cut and narrowly escaped the loss of one eye when the water gauge on his engine exploded a short time ago, T. Paxton, superintendent of motive power of the road, with headquarters in El Paso, has adopted a protective guard, the suggestion of a Douglas man which will be put over all the water glasses on the company's engines as soon as possible.

The breaking of one of the glass gauges is said to be a very frequent accident on every locomotive, and while it is seldom that an engineer or fireman is injured, it is realized that very serious results may come, and most engines over the country are equipped with guards.

When Superintendent Paxton of the E. P. & S. W. motive power called for suggestions from the men as to the best means of guarding against pieces of flying glass, there were a number of suggestions turned in, but it was a plan of a Douglas man that was adopted. A wire screen guard, submitted by Master Mechanic Snyder of the Douglas yards, has been adopted by the company, and will be put on all engines. Mr. Snyder does not claim to be the inventor. He said that while with the Santa Fe road several years ago he had occasion to get up a guard and found one design that could be made very cheaply. He didn't have it patented, but simply sent the design to the head office in Topeka. He says he did not hear anything more from it but noticed that before he left a great many of the engines were equipped with it. This is the design which won the approval of Mr. Paxton.

Another practical scheme is said to have been suggested by W. D. George, the Douglas electrician. His plan consisted of a brass frame, one side of which held a three-eighths inch piece of plate glass through which the water in the tube can be seen. This scheme is also said to have met with approval in considering the various suggestions.

Albuquerque and San Bernardino, take notice. Le Junta has moved up from fifth to second place in the output of the locomotive department during the month of November in heavy and general repairs, which consisted of 18 generators and eight heavies, a total of 24 engines, this not including 35 lights gotten out on the side. Also the total locomotive payroll has decreased over previous months on account of going on nine hours. Perhaps this will interest Topeka also.

WOMAN DIES OF DIET OF NEEDLES

Attempt at Suicide Made a Year Ago Finally Ends in Death.

New York, Dec. 20.—Word went to half a hundred famous medical scientists and surgeons today who are deeply interested in the strange and baffling case of Mrs. Mollie Desmond, a dressmaker, 28 years old, who the woman is dying in Fordham hospital.

She swallowed 144 needles a year ago in an attempt at suicide. Mrs. Desmond's husband left their home, and in her desperation she swallowed the contents of what is known as a combination needlebook. The needles varied in length from half an inch to large darning needles.

Through most of the year the woman has suffered from the effects of her act, and has undergone no less than 24 operations for the removal of the needles from her body.

She was operated upon in Bellevue and in Fordham hospital repeatedly and the needles, particularly those which appeared at the surface, were removed with a large magnet. In her limbs, hands, feet and other portions of her body the needles showed at the surface.

Only about 12 of the needles, according to the surgeons, are not accounted for.

Last week Mrs. Desmond began to feel very severe pains about the region of the heart, and on Saturday last she was operated upon again in Fordham hospital. No needles were removed, but Mrs. Desmond felt better and it was thought she would recover.

Late on Monday night, however, she was seized with a violent fit of coughing and her wounds were reopened to such a degree that before her condition was discovered she had been weakened to an extreme degree by hemorrhage.

Since then she has steadily failed and today it was said her condition was so critical that she might die before night.

Mrs. Desmond's case has attracted physicians and scientists who have marveled at the wonderfully tenacious hold upon life she possessed.

A Reliable Remedy for Croup. With the dry, cold weather of the early winter months, parents of croupy children should be on the alert for ominous symptoms. There is no cause for anxiety, however, when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is kept in the home. If this medicine is given as soon as child becomes hoarse or even after the croupy cough has appeared, the attack may be ward off. Mrs. S. Rosenthal, of Turner, Michigan, says: "We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for ourselves and children for several years and like it very much. I think it is the only remedy for croup and can highly recommend it." For sale by all druggists.

A Misfit

The square peg in the round hole is an old figure. Ever since we were children we have heard of it, instancing plumbers who should have been stock brokers and doctors who should have been politicians and preachers who should have been drug clerks. It is an old and familiar way of saying that a man doesn't fit.

But almost always we apply this figure only to professions and callings and we have illustrated by the story of how they wanted to make a physician of Agassiz, and of how so many of the world's great men were great men only because they succeeded in getting away from some profession or calling which did not suit them.

Suppose we go beyond professions and callings? Don't you know men and women who are not only teachers, perhaps, when they should be students, but who are lonely when they ought to be companionable, who are sour when they ought to be smiling, who are old maids and old bachelors when they ought to be husbands and wives? Don't you know men and women who are miserable when they ought to be happy? They are the worst misfits of all.

A man who would make a good carpenter may be making a very poor lawyer, but of how little importance that is compared with the man who is only "one of the boys." Instead of being the father of his own boy, it is a pity to see a woman who would make a good nurse waste her life as an incompetent stenographer, but what is that compared with the good mother who was spoiled in the making of a tolerable hand at bridge?

These are the real tragedies! They are all square men and square women. They were put here for fine things and big things, but they have got mistaken what life had in waiting for them. They have slipped into the first place they could find, without ever thinking whether it was the place they were intended to fill. There was fashionable society; they have tried to fill that. There was the selfish life, they have tried to fill that. There was the existence that worshipped only the god of a good time; they have tried to fill that. They sneered at the poor instead of helping them. They loved money instead of morality. They cared for show instead of genuineness. All the time they were choosing the imitation instead of the real.

And there isn't any happiness in that. The square peg will never fit in the round hole! Will it?

A Crown That Hurt

It is not always pleasant to wear a crown. They have just published a volume of Queen Victoria's letters. As queens' reigns go, hers was a singularly tranquil one; but if you read these letters, you will be struck by what she wrote, when yet a young girl, about her coronation.

"The Crown," she wrote, "hurt me a good deal. And it hurt her a great deal more before she folded her hands at the last."

Crowns always hurt. A crown is not only a sign of glory, but it is also a badge of responsibility.

The president of this nation wears the crown of the people's favor; but when he accepted it, he assumed a heavy obligation. Our money-kings wear crowns of gold, even though they do not always recognize what these crowns impose upon them. When a man is crowned with the ability to speak well or write convincingly, he is responsible immediately for all the good he might have done as well as all the bad he did.

There will always be times when crowns hurt, if people wear them worthily.

And you have your crown. It may not be much of a crown from the world's standpoint. It may be just the crown of taking care of an old mother; it may be a child whom you are bringing up; it may be an invalid wife; it may be a trust imposed in business; it may be a weak and self-indulgent friend whom you can help. Whatever is right for you to do, that is your crown.

But don't forget, even if the crown does hurt, it is still a crown. And the end of it all is—man, woman, child, take your crown, with all its pain and all its obligation and all its splendor; too, and be glad that you can wear it.

The Benefit of Walking

Physicians recommend walking as the best all-around exercise known to them. Why? In the first place, when you walk you raise the temperature of your body. It is like stuffing more coal in the furnace and opening the draught. There's something doing in your body. Everything gets into working order. Your muscles and nerves are getting up by perspiration and more waste is being carried off.

Then you breathe more deeply. And that puts more oxygen in your blood, and oxygen is more necessary to you than your meals.

And there's your skin. The millions of pores are opened up by perspiration and more waste is being carried off.

And your digestion. Walking helps that process. And it puts an edge on your appetite. And appetite is one of the things necessary to good digestion. But that is not all.

The doctors will tell you about your diaphragm. The diaphragm is a sort of stage floor between the chest and the abdomen. It is raised or lowered by the contraction or the swelling of the lungs. When the lungs are deeply filled the diaphragm goes down and presses upon the liver, stomach and spleen. It is like a massage on those organs. And this massage helps to keep them in good order—especially the liver. The man who regularly practices walking will never have liver trouble.

These are some of the benefits derived from walking.

Nothing is here said about the mental benefits, the exhilaration that comes from being in the open air, the joy that comes from knowing that one's organism is in good working order.

The Creator did not intend that you should ride in a street car or other conveyance to the exclusion of your two good legs.

Renovating Liberty

Preparations are under way in New York harbor to give our famous Statue of Liberty a good scrubbing. Inside and out she is to be thoroughly cleaned, painted and varnished, and the architects on the job say that when they have finished with her she will be the fairest lady in the land.

Black, grimy and weatherbeaten by the storms and winds of a quarter of a century, she is not the pretty lady that La Belle France gave us. She has become a trifle shabby, too, and it will be found necessary to remove some of the rotten parts and insert firmer ones.

That our famous Statue of Liberty needs to be renovated and repaired means something. It reflects with not an unkindly insinuation on the liberty of which that great iron woman is a symbol, given us by the Liberty Boys of 1776.

What about the liberty that George Washington and his countrymen gave us? Has it withstood the ravages of time better than Bartholdi's great iron woman? Does our liberty need renovating? Is it as firm and strong and beautiful as it was a hundred years ago?

Secretary Cortelyou says: "If in the future I shall decide to be a candidate for any office I shall be prepared to say so frankly." From which it appears that Mr. Cortelyou's recent experience has not been without beneficial results.

The Populist National Convention will be held April 2. Why do populist delegates wait until the next day?

"Buffalo Bill" Cody is having more thrills than he did in Deadwood stage coach days.

too, and we should be prompt and hearty in responding to the invitation extended by Governor Curry and President Hopewell. New Mexico is doing much for us right now. New Mexico people have been active in Washington this fall advancing the Rio Grande reclamation work, and next month 100 New Mexico statehood boosters, who will be in Washington, will be ready at all times to render any aid in their power for advancing the irrigation interests of the El Paso valley. This city cannot afford to withhold her support from the Albuquerque event, or to offer to participate in anything less than a generous, whole-hearted, effective way."

LOOKING FOR A GOOD TIME?

There are about as many conceptions as to what constitutes a "good time" as there are individuals, but there is one place in New Mexico, not very far from Albuquerque, where 99 out of every 100 people find what they are looking for. That place is the Valley Ranch, at Pecos, New Mexico.

Fresh country produce in abundance, horses to ride, or drive, dogs, guns, traps, tackle, all at your disposal. The finest hunting and fishing in the territory. You can live in a house, a cabin or a tent, and come and go as you please.

You'll find plenty of company there, agreeable and refined, if you are sociably inclined, a favorite resort for ladies. Conditions ideal for recuperating, reading, hunting or loafing.

You CAN'T SPEND MORE THAN NINE DOLLARS A WEEK ANY WAY YOU FIX IT.

Inquire at The Citizen Office for further particulars, or address The Valley Ranch.

Frank Collins, aged 36, of Needles, Calif., died at the Santa Fe coast lines hospital yesterday noon. He is survived by a wife and child, who are at Needles. Friends will arrive from California tomorrow night and accompany the remains to Needles, where the funeral will be held.

A fine carving set, a beautiful chafing dish, a five o'clock tea kettle, or a nickel plated tea or coffee pot, would make an acceptable Christmas present. The Whitney Co., 113 South First, are closing these goods out regardless of cost. It will pay you to call and see them.

Deputy Marshal Ed. Newcomer left last night for El Paso, where he will take charge of a party of twenty-five Chinese caught by New Mexico immigration inspectors who are awaiting deportation. The Chinese were caught in Las Cruces, Deming and Alamogordo. Newcomer will leave tomorrow morning with the Chinese for San Francisco, where on December 24 they will sail on the Siberia for Hong Kong, China.

A wedding of important social interest in Santa Fe, took place Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Evelyn Bell Dougherty, of that city, and Charles Leonard Castle, of Mountainair, were united in marriage. The wedding took place in the First Presbyterian church and was solemnized in the presence of an audience which completely filled the spacious auditorium. After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the bride's home, after which Mr. and Mrs. Castle left for Mountainair, where they will reside.

THE LAST CALL

Before you finish up your Christmas purchasing, don't neglect to see "Hawley on the Corner." You'll find him right there with the goods and the prices. As we have said before, there is nothing that would make a better gift than an Eastman kodak. It is a little out of the cut-and-dry-line, and would be appreciated by any one of taste.

Also don't forget that we are closing out our line of toys, for keeps, and in order to do so, will sell for just what we can get. Largest and hand-somest line in town. Right along with toys goes candy for the stockings. We've got it from ten cents a pound up, and you'll find it cheaper, quality for quality, than most dealers ask.

If you have a friend who is a reader, try him on one of our fine new copyright books. Half a thousand just in, and they will be sold for just sixty cents while they last. Or give him a box of our Christmas stationery. It's mighty nice.

Hoping to see you before Christmas, we remain,

Very truly yours,

MAN WHO DID DONA
ANA STABBING
ARRESTED

Sheriff Lucero Made Capture
After Long Chase Into Arizona.

Deputy Sheriff Felipe Lucero of Dona Ana county having in custody of Nicolas, a native known in Albuquerque and wanted for a stabbing affray in Mesilla, whom he trailed three weeks before capturing, arrived in Las Cruces this morning. Nicolas was wanted for stabbing Pedro Salido at a dance in Mesilla three weeks ago. He laid open his right lung and the man is not expected to live. Nicolas disappeared immediately after the dance. Deputy Sheriff Lucero trailed him to Isleta, Texas. He went back to Las Cruces for his horse and got back on Nicolas' trail at Lanark following him to Lordeburg. There he learned that Nicolas had sold his horse and saddle for $15 and had gone by train to Wilcox, Ariz. Lucero followed him to Wilcox and took the train from there to Globe, passing his man at Solomonville. He returned to Solomonville and followed him to Hachita, N. M., where he got word from the Arizona rangers that Nicolas was headed for Patagonia, Ariz. He followed his man to Patagonia and there arrested him without difficulty.

Nicolas is alleged to have killed a policeman in Juarez, Mex., several years ago, but successfully evaded the officers and escaped to Arizona where he was arrested for larceny and served two years in the penitentiary at Yuma.

The sheriff of El Paso and the chief of police at Juarez were at the penitentiary when Nicolas was released and the El Paso sheriff arrested him and escorted him to the banks of the Rio Grande at El Paso where he turned him over to the Juarez chief of police. Nicolas was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary at Chihuahua, Mex., for the murder of the policeman at Juarez. He served four years of his sentence and then escaped. Texas authorities are now after him for a murder he is alleged to have committed in Austin.

"Lauro Alvililar, I understand, gave Nicolas a horse and saddle on the night of the stabbing affray at Mesilla," said B. C. Martin of Rincon, who met Sheriff Lucero and his prisoner at Rincon last night, "and Alvililar is said to have remarked that he would give Lucero his weight in gold if he ever captured Nicolas."

"Now it's up to Lucero to go and claim his gold."

Deputy Sheriff Lucero brought his prisoner back by the way of El Paso to avoid going through Texas as he understood the Texas officers wanted his prisoner for a murder committed at Austin.

MRS. VAIO ASKS
FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Perfecta Salas de Vaio in her suit for divorce from James Vaio charges the defendant with having compelled her to turn over to him valuable property which she acquired from her first husband, Salome Apodaca.

At the time of her marriage to Vaio in Barcelona in 1906 the plaintiff says she owned property valued at $11,000. Mrs. Vaio asks the court to return the property acquired by the defendant and that the defendant be compelled to return $6,400, the estimated value of property he sold; also that he pay $500 attorney's fees and $250 for her support pending the trial.

TALLMADGE BROS. WANT

Roswell, N. M., Dec. 20.—A decided sensation was sprung here yesterday when the Tallmadge brothers, who are on trial for alleged land frauds, entered suits for $20,000 damages each against T. M. Monzingo and J. M. Naylor, of Loveland, Col., alleged slanders. Both Monzingo and Naylor are witnesses for the government in the present trial of the Tallmadge brothers. Another sensation, it is said, is booked for tomorrow and it is rumored there will be an important arrest made.

CITY SCHOOLS CLOSED FOR CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

Vacation to Last Two Weeks.
Teachers Are Going to Santa Fe.

The city schools, after appropriate Christmas exercises, closed this afternoon for the usual holiday vacation and as a result the small boy is in his usual exuberant spirit for Christmas and his two weeks of freedom.

Christmas exercises were held in all the grade schools at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The programs consisted of songs, recitations and essays and were well received by the children. The high school closed at noon giving the students a half holiday. The city schools will resume work on January 6th.

Tonight in the assembly room of the Central school building the high school girls' glee club will give a concert to raise funds to pay the club's expenses to the educational meeting in Santa Fe next week.

All the seats in the assembly room have been sold for the concert and the club has decided to call off the concert announced for Saturday night for those who could not secure tickets for tonight's entertainment. Forty teachers from the city schools will attend the educational meeting in Santa Fe next week. The high school girls' glee club will go to Santa Fe Friday and sing at the meeting that day and will return to Albuquerque Saturday.

Miss Alice Schreiber, a student in the high school, will represent the city in the oratorical contest at the educational meeting.

The holiday vacation begins today in most of the Bernalillo county schools. Some of the schools, however, will continue in session until next Tuesday, when they will dismiss until January 6.

A number of the parents of the students attended the exercises given by the eighth grade in the Central building. Recitations and musical numbers composed the program which was well rendered. The programs were the product of the students, hand painted, and each contained the motto of the class "High School or Bust."

YOUNG NEVILLE ON STAND IN PETITBONE CASE

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 20.—The cross examination of young Charles Neville was continued by Attorney Willson in the Pettibone trial today. The witness told of his trip to Choyenne and to Casper and Thermopolis, where his father was arrested and taken back to Cripple Creek.

He was not cross examined in regard to his conversation with Pettibone at Denver. The state introduced an article from the "Miners" magazine to show enmity on the part of the Federation against Bradley, after which noon recess was taken.

COL. TWITCHELL SAYS
PROSPECT IS ALL RIGHT

Writes Letter to Col. Sellers, Telling of Visit to the Land.

Col. D. K. B. Sellers, local agent for the Mesilla Valley Development company, is in receipt of a letter from Col. R. E. Twitchell, of Las Vegas, giving an opinion upon the project of H. B. McFord, who is promoting the cultivation of several thousand acres of land in the lower Rio Grande valley and the Mesilla valley.

Col. Twitchell's letter is as follows: "E. Las Vegas, New Mexico, December 16th, 1935.

"Dear Col. Sellers: In answer to your favor of the 12th relative to my opinion of the 'Ward & Shropshire' ranch subdivision, I have this to say: In company with Col. Hopewell and Dr. G. W. Harrison of your city, I drove over and through this property last week, Wednesday, on my visit to Las Cruces in matter of the holding of the 16th National Irrigation congress at Albuquerque next year. I have been familiar with this particular piece of property for upwards of twenty years and I consider it an extremely well located subdivision, lying as it does, about one mile due north of Las Cruces on the main county road to Dona Ana. So far as the soil and water rights to this property are concerned, I wish to add that there is no finer soil in the Mesilla valley or in New Mexico for that matter. Every portion of the land is susceptible of irrigation, possessing paid up water rights under the Dona Ana irrigation ditch and being signed up and under the United States government diverting dam in the Rio Grande.

"As to the prices asked by the company owning the property, I consider them very reasonable, taking into consideration the location of the land, its qualities and its proximity to the city of Las Cruces.

"Yours truly,
"R. E. TWITCHELL."

BILL REFERRING TO INDIAN LANDS

Pueblos Should be Cut Up and Allotted to Members of Tribe.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 20.—The Indian land bill introduced in congress on December 9th with reference to the lands of the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico is as follows:

"A bill to authorize the secretary of the interior to accept conveyance to the United States of lands from the Pueblo Indians in New Mexico, and for other purposes.

"Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, that the secretary of the interior be, and he is hereby, authorized to accept a conveyance to the United States of the lands belonging to any of the Pueblo Indians in New Mexico, to be held in trust for the Indians belonging thereon, and when any such pueblo has been so conveyed, the lands shall be allotted to the members of the said pueblo in severalty, in accordance with the provisions of the allotment act of February 8th, 1887, and the amendments thereto, whenever the secretary of the interior shall find it to be for the best interests of said Indians to make such allotments."

Secretary's Letters.

When the measure was sent to congress, Secretary Garfield sent a letter to the president and senate with it.

This letter follows:

"Sir: The Pueblo Indians of New Mexico have been the subject of much consideration by those conversant with Indian affairs. They now hold their lands in common by an indefeasible title. So long as this exists it seems likely that their present communal life, which experience has shown to be detrimental, both to themselves and to the surrounding people, will continue.

"The Pueblo titles are not of record, and as, under the statutes of New Mexico, seven years' occupancy gives title by prescription, a great deal of trouble is constantly arising because of the uncertainty of the title to lands which the Indians own. A resident of a given pueblo will convey to an Indian or a white man, and the latter will go on the land and occupy it for a time and then set up a claim against the community title of the Pueblo. Generally he succeeds in establishing his claim, although it seems likely that in the majority of these cases the claimant does not have the better cause, but his claim is the better prosecuted. I think, if authorized by legislation, that these people could be induced to convey their lands to the United States, and afterwards, if the law is framed to authorize it, the lands could be reconveyed to the individual. Of course this could not be done at once, but in a reasonable time, I think, much progress could be made in breaking up the conditions that now prevail."

S. MILLER KENT IN "RAFFLES," JAN. 25

Hide your valuables! Take your diamond necklace to the safety deposit vault! "Raffles," the Amateur Cracksmen, the most plausible and most fascinating villain in literature or drama, will soon visit this city. The second hero comes in the person of handsome S. Miller Kent, but he promises to filch nothing but good will and to plunder our people of nothing but smiles and applause.

The coming of the distinguished romantic actor in such a fascinating role is indeed an event of interest. Mr. Kent will have a supporting company of metropolitan favorites. At the Elks' opera house Christmas afternoon and evening.

Richest Mine in the World Once Owned by Faro Dealer

Geo. Wingfield and the Mohawk Mine, Which Produced Many Millions Before the Strike Tied It Up.

Goldfield, Nev., Dec. 20.—The Mohawk mine, at Goldfield, probably is the richest mine in the world today.

This mine is owned by a corporation called the Goldfield Consolidated company, but originally was owned by George Wingfield, who was at one time a faro dealer, and his associates.

The mine is 1,500 feet long and 600 feet wide and the Mohawk No. 2 is of the same dimensions. The owners subdivided it into squares 200 by 200 feet, and leased them to miners who had the means with which to sink shafts and run drifts.

Before the miners quit, the Mohawk mine produced $10,000,000. The ore was encountered at depth and is so rich that a man can carry off in one pocket enough to keep him a month. It was this practice of the miners, called "high grading," that first caused the trouble in Goldfield.

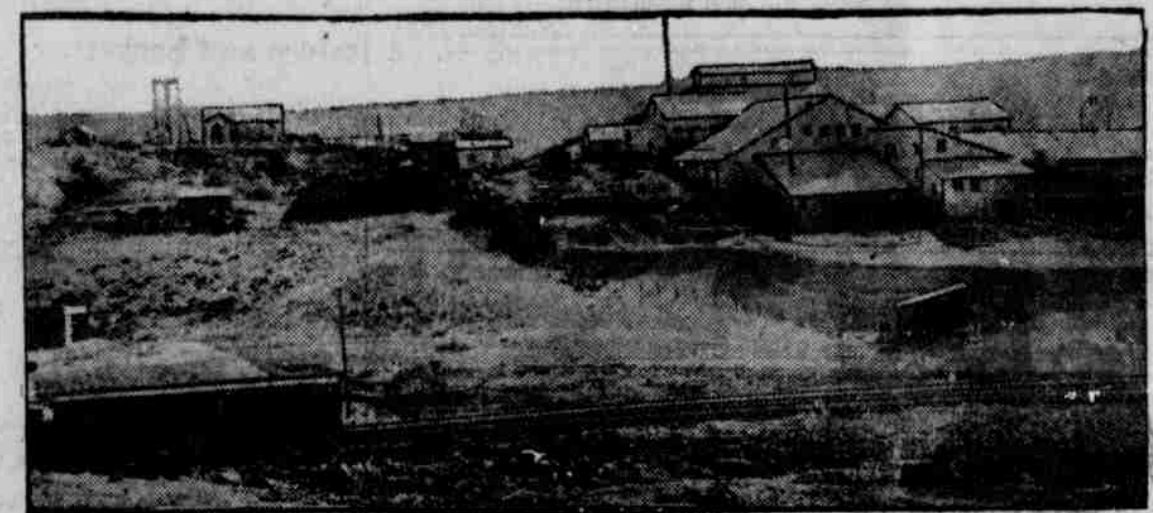

The Mohawk's owners assert today, and they can prove it, that the miners at work in the leases in this mine, looted it of a million dollars.

One surreptitious shipment valued at $300,000 was confiscated, and others of smaller amounts have been found. It used to be a common sight to see a miner come up from below with so much "high grade" in his clothing that he could scarcely walk.

The mine has been practically untouched, say its owners, who continued to ship fabulous amounts from it until the present strike tied it up.

First quality ore from this mine is worth between $40 and $50 a pound and the gold can be melted out of it over a candle.

DISCOVERER OF THIS MINE HAD $3.50; HE SOLD THE PROPERTY FOR $1,500,000.

This is the Combination mine and mill at Goldfield, the first to reopen after the arrival of federal troops at the camp. It is one of the richest in the Goldfield district. The discoverer of the mine had $3.50 in his pocket when he found it. He sold it for $1,500,000.

OKLAHOMA BACHELOR CLUB IN TROUBLE

Charged That Their Members Have Been Using Mails to Lure Women to Them.

Tempe, Ok., Dec. 20.—Complaints have been preferred against the Randlett Bachelor Club of Randlett on the charge of using the mails unlawfully in that hundreds of letters have been written to Eastern girls under names of fictitious persons attempting to induce and induce them to come to the "oil pasture" town for the purpose of marrying.

Since the organization of this club several months ago, and following many publications in Eastern papers, hundreds and even thousands of letters have been sent through the mails to the secretary of the club from Eastern girls in search of husbands.

Thus for several days young women of every description have poured in to the "Big Pasture," passing through this city en route to Randlett. Almost every train bears additional numbers of these husband seekers, but the large majority are, of course, unable to find the man who has promised to meet them.

One 15-year-old girl from Chicago, having spent the last cent in her possession, arrived in Tempe this morning, after an unsuccessful search of three days for the husband who had written for her to come to him. Being thus placed upon the charity of the people, money had to be subscribed to pay her return trip home. Many others have come in practically the same condition.

In view of these conditions, Temple Citizens are enraged with the operations of the Randlett Old Bachelor Club and have instituted proceedings against them through the officers of the law. Deputy Sheriff Hefley has secured the names of all members of the club and will submit them to the federal authorities for investigation upon the charge of using the mails to deceive.

The matter of investigation has been submitted to United States Commissioner Hugh R. Elandson of Lawton, and he has taken the matter up with United States Attorney John Embury of Guthrie.

THE UNION MINERS LIKE THIS SOLDIER

Goldfield, Nev., Dec. 20.—Colonel Reynolds, U. S. A., commander of the troops at Goldfield, is having troubles of his own.

When he arrived on the scene the mine owners insisted that martial law be declared at once. Col. Reynolds saw no evidence of violence and refused. The mine owners burned up a lot of money sending messages to Washington in an effort to depose Col. Reynolds. As a result, Gen. Funston himself was sent to investigate the situation. He found matters as Reynolds had represented.

The union miners consider Reynolds one of their friends, because he has been fair in his attitude. The colonel is tall, good-natured and business-like. He made some warm enemies among the mine owners. Some of these men say he was "absolutely brutal" in his lack of consideration to them.

FACTS ABOUT NEWLY SECURED BY DR. COOPER'S BELIEF

People Tell the Reason for Their Faith in Cooper's Belief.

An article from the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, published during Dr. T. Cooper's visit to that city, throws some light on the remarkable success of the young man's theories and medicines in various cities visited by him during the past year. The article is as follows:

"In view of the enormous sale of Cooper's preparations now going on in this city and the intense interest which Mr. Cooper has aroused since his arrival, a representative of the Banner spent Thursday afternoon at the young man's headquarters watching the swarm of humanity come and go.

"During the afternoon the reporter interviewed many of the callers and obtained statements from all who cared to give them as to their experience with Cooper and his preparations.

"The following are selected from those statements as being typical of the general expression of the people seen:

"Mr. B. B. Lasater, living at 1224 North Fourth avenue, when interviewed, said: 'I have been troubled with my stomach for the past two years, and have had rheumatism for more than five years. Sometimes I could not walk, and there were times when I could not even move in bed. Hard knots would form on my muscles, which caused me intense pain. Gas formed on my stomach after eating, which gave me much pain and distress, and often I was restless and tossed all night, losing much sleep and rest.

"Hearing of Mr. Cooper and the great work his medicine was accomplishing for others, I decided to try it. I have taken it about two weeks,

TILLING LAND BY IRRIGATION AN ART

Bulletin Showing Results of Experiments Made at A. & M. College.

Mesilla Park, N. M., Dec. 20.—The following bulletin has just been issued from the government experiment station established in connection with the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, showing results of irrigation experiments made at the station.

As the years and seasons pass it becomes increasingly evident that irrigation practice like other features of agricultural work is taking on more and more of the characteristics of an art based on an exact science. Irrigation farmers everywhere are arriving at the conclusion, or age being forced by circumstances to accept the idea that reasonable economy and considerable care in the distribution and use of water is not only sound business common sense but from the agricultural standpoint, is a practice least likely to injure the soil and most likely to secure a profitable crop. It is but rarely nowadays that we find men applying five and six acre feet of water to their crops yearly in order to produce only an average yield, and the farmer now who boasts of doing his irrigation on horseback is generally regarded as a probably early cause for foreclosure proceedings on the part of his mortgagee. This change of practice is undoubtedly due very largely to the increasing scarcity and value of water resulting from a large increase in the number of irrigators and to a wide extension of the irrigated area. It is also to a not inconsiderable extent due to the increase on the part of the farmer of correct or more profitable irrigation practice. Much, however, remains to be learned, even by the best informed. When a man installs a pumping plant for instance, whether it be a windmill or a steam or gasoline engine plant, he is very desirous of knowing how much land he should attempt to irrigate. In other words he asks "How frequently shall I irrigate my crop and win how much water to make the biggest and best use of my pumping plant but the same time feel assured that the crop will not suffer from too sparing a use of water?"

In their trips throughout the agricultural sections of the territory, the Farmers' Institute workers at the station are very often confronted by this question but it is one to which they are at present but little prepared to give a definite or satisfactory answer.

The importance of the problem suggested by such a question cannot be over estimated when it is considered that there is a vast amount of excellent land in both the Grand and Pecos valleys which lie above the present irrigation systems, but which it should be possible to irrigate from underground water sources if the supply available could be made to cover an area sufficient to justify, from a business standpoint the more or less expensive means necessary to secure the water. For many years the New Mexico experiment station has been carrying on investigations having as their end the determination of the most favorable amount of water to apply under the climatic and soil conditions prevailing in the Rio Grande valley particularly upon the adobe soils adjacent to the river. Much has been learned concerning the behavior of crops and the amount of water required under such conditions and it is now proposed to extend the work so as to make it applicable to soils other than those heretofore used. With this end in view investigations have been started upon those mesa soils lying above the present irrigation systems, because of their location probably will not be covered by the proposed extension of these systems. Such soils are better adapted for irrigation and for the growing of various special crops than those lying along the river bottom. They are loose in texture and uniform in quality, being exactly opposite in these respects to the soils of the river bottom. It is proposed to attack the question, known generally as "The Duty of Water" from the soil and soil moisture standpoint, carrying along with the comparison of yields under various irrigation schemes a parallel study of the distribution and movement of soil moisture to determine how effective is the particular method of irrigation used. Such an investigation will yield results independent upon the local conditions than work of a similar nature previously carried on to which the criticism can be justly applied, that the results are only applicable to a certain special climatic and soil conditions existing in the locality. It is proposed therefore that the work now being carried on be extended so that it can be applied to a variety of soil and climatic conditions so that the work will be of value not only to the Rio Grande valley but to other sections of the territory.

In order to irrigate the mesa land upon which the experiments are to be carried out an expensive pumping plant is being constructed. This consists of an open concrete lined pit seventy-one feet deep, in the bottom of which driven wells are sunk to a further depth of thirty feet into water bearing quicksand. A two stop centrifugal pump of the high efficiency type will be placed at the bottom of the pit and will be driven through vertical shafting by a steam engine at the surface. The water is conducted to the tract to be irrigated by piping and is there distributed by a system of fluming and sewer tile patterned after the systems used by individuals very largely throughout the Riverside district of California. Everything is being laid out with a view of making results, when secured, absolutely reliable, so that all possible doubts as to the accuracy of the mechanical side of the work will be eliminated. Experimental irrigation work will be commenced at the beginning of the next irrigation season and meanwhile soil and soil moisture investigations upon the tract are being carried forward so that when the water is actually applied some knowledge will be had of the character and condition of the soil previous to the application of water. The whole investigation forms one of absorbing interest to those engaged upon the work and it is their hope to secure results not only generally applicable to the conditions of the territory but distinctly better from a scientific standpoint than similar work carried on at the New Mexico station or elsewhere in previous years.

IMPERIAL LAUNDRY CO.

A Methodist Minister recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for seven years, and it has always proved to be a reliable remedy. We have found that it would do more than the manufacturers claim for it. It is especially good for croup and whooping cough.

Rev. James A. Lewis, Pastor Milaca, Minn., M. C. Church. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is sold by all druggists.
