According to a US Trade Representative (USTR) report issued March 8, trade between the US and Mexico reached a record US$75.8 billion in 1992, an increase of nearly 17% from US$64.4 billion in 1991. Despite an increase in Mexican exports to the US, however, the US trade surplus with Mexico widened to US$5.4 billion, compared with US$2.1 billion in 1991. The data showed Mexican exports to the US totaled US$35.2 billion in 1992. In comparison, US exports to Mexico amounted to US $40.6 billion. According to the USTR, Mexico’s principal imports from the US in 1992 were capital goods, transportation equipment, auto parts, chemical products and plastics, wood and paper, and precision instruments. The major Mexican exports to the US in 1992 were appliances mainly television sets, refrigerators, and ovens. The report said Mexico consolidated its position as the third most important US trade partner after Canada and Japan. (Sources: Agence France-Presse, Notimex, 03/08/93)
