SCORE ANOTHER ONE.

New Mexicans with Senator Edmunds
And He's All Right.

Correspondence New Mexican.

NEW MEXICO HEADQUARTERS,
Washington, D. C., May 15.

The New Mexico delegation scored a big triumph to-day. It was received at the room of the senate committee on judiciary by Senator Edmunds, and for more than an hour New Mexico's claims were set forth, various members of the delegation speaking. The chief topic was, of course, the land court measure. Senator Edmunds listened attentively and from time to time interrupted the spokesmen with questions. These were readily answered and as a result, Senator Edmunds agreed to urge certain amendments to the land court bill now pending before congress. The success of the call upon the senator has filled all the delegates with fresh enthusiasm.

Tariff Debate Postponed.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—In the house the senate bill was passed authorizing the registration of census mail matter.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill. A number of verbal amendments were on motion of McKinley made to the bill.

McKinley offered an amendment specifically including glass chimneys in the clause in relative to thin blown glass at a duty of 10 cents per dozen and 40 per cent ad valorem.

In response to a question by Henderson, of Iowa, McKinley stated that the present duty on lamp chimneys is 45 per cent, and the proposed duty is but 50 and 60 per cent.

Henderson inquired how many lamp chimneys were imported.

McKinley replied that he had no exact data.

Henderson inquired how if the gentleman had no exact data he knew the duty should be increased. [Applause and laughter on the Democratic side.]

McKinley replied that the committee knew it to be impossible for our own people to manufacture chimneys under the present rate of duty and continue to pay the present rates in wages.

Henderson.—For myself, I am not going to vote for an increase of any duty when I have no information to justify that vote. [Democratic applause.]

McKinley said the committee had no personal pride in the bill or any part of it. It had simply done its best.

Henderson did not want any Democrats on the floor to howl over what he was saying, [laughter] but he did not intend to vote for an increase of duty on lamp chimneys unless he knew why.

Chandler, of Massachusetts, said he was not a Republican, but a protectionist. It could not be expected that any committee could perfect a bill that would meet the wants of every part of the United States. The bill could be perfected only by taking it up by sections.

Springer, of Illinois, then read from a Pittsburg newspaper the statement that Butterworth had created consternation among protectionists, and that the tin plate association had urged its members to hasten to Washington.

Henderson, of Iowa, offered as a substitute for the pending amendment a provision that lamp chimneys should continue to pay the present duty of 40 per cent.

McKinley's amendment, increasing the duty was adopted.

To Surpass Effort.

CHICAGO, May 17.—A design for a tower, which is intended to be useful as well as ornamental, was submitted yesterday to a committee of the world's fair directors. The tower is to be not less than 1,200 feet high, considerably loftier than its prototype at Paris. At this atmospheric level the air even over Chicago is absolutely pure, and it is proposed by means of machinery specially devised for the purpose that a supply of fresh air shall be drawn to the street level and thence distributed to houses and buildings as water and gas now are.

Presbyterians in Session.

SARATOGA, N. Y., May 17.—At the session of the Presbyterian general assembly yesterday the standing committee appointed as a committee on the liquor traffic in the Congo state reported that they tried to get congress to use its influence against the traffic, but as the United States was not a party to the Berlin treaty action could not be secured at present.

It was voted that the action by presbyteries on the question of revision be referred to a special committee. One hundred and thirty-two presbyteries had favored the proposed revision, 66 opposed it and seven declined to vote. Eight were not reported. The committee on publication made two reports. The majority favor the establishment of a Presbyterian publishing house as the most economical measure. Referred. The committee on increasing the supply of efficient ministers reported that for every three churches organized one had died. This is mostly for lack of efficient men and means to pay them. The total number of these dissolutions was 1,000 since 1871. It was recommended that schools for bible readers and other lay workers be organized and fit laymen be licensed to preach, and theological seminaries be advised to consider the expediency of providing special licenses for promising men who had not had a classical training. This was made the special order for next Sunday.

The following committee on canvassing the votes of the Presbyteries on reunion was appointed: President, Potter, of Princeton college; Dr. H. M. McCracken, New York; Rev. Dr. Edwards and Elders Bradley and Thornton.

The NEW MEXICAN is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every Post Office in the Territory and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the southwest.

SATURDAY, MAY 17.

The Albuquerque Blackmailer-Democrat has started on another blackmailing cruise.

Organization and unity in the ranks should be the counterpoint and parole of the Republicans in the coming campaign.

There is no chairman and no secretary of the Republican territorial central committee. The committee should get together and organize.

At last the senate has received a favorable report upon and calendared a bill for the settlement of Indian depredation claims. It is growing pretty late in the season, but there is some prospect yet of a measure of this sort being adopted by the present congress.

A vast amount of splendid advertising has come to New Mexico by the sending of that delegation to Washington. It is a class of advertising, too, that money alone could not have secured, and an impression has thereby been created in the minds of the eastern people that can not be reduced to the material good of all New Mexico's interests. Another feature about it is that it has not cost the taxpayers of the territory a cent.

There is not the slightest prospect of a political uprising in Mexico, despite the sensational dispatches at hand from Coahuila. The fact that the Mexican congress has removed the limitation on the term of the national presidency is probably at the bottom of it, the military arm of the government seeing its last hope for despotism vanishing by this move; but Diaz is too strong with the masses to warrant the belief that any enemy of civil government will ever again gain foothold in Mexico. He is very near the people, and his administration of affairs is bringing on now the most wonderful development of that republic's native resources.

A minority of the senate's select committee on irrigation has at last got down to business and presented its report. It is a very carefully prepared document, showing the vast import of the irrigation problem, but it bristles all over with Major Powell's ideas. It insists that the national government alone can undertake to solve the intricate questions involved. It proposes that existing water rights shall be torn up, and even state and territorial lines shall be disregarded in establishing districts and locating catchment basins. This is theory, but in practice it will never be accomplished, for whatever the government does in the way of aiding the reclamation of arid lands must be done by the western states and territories themselves, the national government fostering such effort by grants of public lands, and having a very limited supervisory jurisdiction through the medium of a national irrigation commission or something of that sort.

TIME TO STOP THE HUMBUG. Congressman Townsend has introduced in the house of representatives the following resolution, which was referred to the committee on private land claims:

Whereas, It is alleged that the so-called Maxwell and Sanguero de Cristo grants, located in Colorado and New Mexico, in territory ceded by the state of Texas on September 9, 1850, and have no legal status as Mexican private land claims.

Whereas, It is further alleged that the private and vested rights of homestead and pre-emption settlers on the so-called grants are now in jeopardy solely because of official misfeasance and corruption; therefore be it

Resolved, That the committee on private land claims is instructed to inquire into the matters herein set forth with a view to the protection of the private and vested rights of said homestead and pre-emption settlers and report by bill or otherwise. That the said committee is empowered to subpoena and examine witnesses and send for books, records and papers, the expense to be paid out of the contingent fund.

Now Congressman Townsend can have the Sanguero de Cristo Grant investigated to his heart's content. The tract of land is within his bailiwick.

But when it comes to commencing another racket in the interest of the good Lord alone knows whom, in order to injure the Maxwell land grant, this territory has just a little too much at stake and a halt ought to be called.

The grant has been confirmed by congress and declared valid by the supreme court of the United States, after protracted litigation. The owners of the property are doing much and valuable work in the matter of developing their property. They are building railroads, wagon roads and telegraph lines; they are investigating and developing the mineral and coal on the grant; they are utilizing and protecting the timber there; they are constructing vast irrigation ditches on the property; laying out and establishing towns; selling lands at reasonable and fair rates to settlers and are bringing settlers to New Mexico. They are doing as much or more than any other agency for the prosperity and advancement of New Mexico, and they ought to be left alone and permitted to pursue their good work in peace.

This is the view the sensible and good citizens not only of Colfax county, but of the entire territory, take of the situation concerning the Maxwell land grant. The best interests of the people of New Mexico will be served by leaving the Maxwell land grant alone, and this course is respectfully recommended to the committee on private land claims of the house of representatives.

THE STORMING

OF THE ROCK AND PUEBLO OF ACOMA, BY VICENTE DE ZALDIVAR, 23d and 24th of January, 1599.

It is a well established fact that Juan de Onate, when he entered New Mexico in the spring and summer of the year 1598, met with no resistance whatever from its inhabitants. The Apaches failed to show themselves at the outset; the numbers of the Spaniards (400 persons, of whom 200 were men-at-arms) were too formidable, and even smaller parties the savages did not venture to molest. Onate proceeded very cautiously in his intercourse with the Pueblos. All he insisted upon was, if they felt inclined to submit to the rule of Spain, that they should make public declarations to that effect in order to enable him to have official acts of allegiance and homage executed that would establish the position of the Pueblo Indians as vassals of the crown for all times to come. For that purpose he gathered a number of representative Indians at the village of Guipuy (the ruins of which are visible one and one-half miles east of Wallace, on the A., T. & S. F. railroad) which had been christened Santo Domingo, and held a parley with them. The result was that the Queres, the Tiguas and the Jemez submitted formally to Spanish rule. On the 9th of September a similar council was held at the pueblo of San Juan, and the Tanos, Tehuacans, Picuries and Taos followed the example set by their southern kindred. Encouraged by these results and by the peaceful attitude of the Pueblos in general, Onate determined upon visiting all the sedentary Indians of the new domain, and to obtain at least from the principal villages acts of submission in due form.

Onate left at his headquarters, which were on the site of the present hamlet of Chautau, in a pueblo, the ruins of which are seen within a few feet from the railroad station, a small number of armed men, the women and children, and several priests. Previous to his departure he had sent the "Maestro de Campo," Juan de Zaldivar, with fifty men to explore the eastern plains, with orders to return to San Gabriel (as the new settlement had been christened) and, if Onate had left already, to follow him at once with a sufficient force. The governor departed from San Gabriel on the 6th of October; six days later he was near the Manzano, on the 17th among the Jumanos, whence he returned to the Rio Grande at Puaray, opposite the present town of Bernalillo. On the 27th of October he camped at the foot of the celebrated Rock of Acoma, and received the pledge of allegiance from the principal men of the tribe in behalf of their people. Everywhere his reception had been cordial, not the slightest opposition had been offered. The Acomas were as friendly as any of the others, they invited Onate to visit their village on the top of the formidable rock, and he complied with their wishes. It is not necessary to dwell on the exceptional and picturesque situation of the village of Acoma, and we may well imagine the astonishment of the Spaniards at the gigantic cliffs, the frightful precipices, the tortuous path leading up to the nude summit where the pueblo is constructed. Onate himself confessed that he felt great relief when he had returned to the foot of the natural fortress.

And well he might, for, unconsciously, he escaped from a trap which the people of Acoma had laid for him. At the time when he was celebrating the council and treaty with the Indians at San Juan, some of the leading men of Acoma were present also, but took no part in the proceedings. Unbeknown to the Spaniards they came, as spies, to observe the foreigners, count their numbers and study their arms and equipment. As result of their observations they reported upon their return to Acoma that the Spaniards might be overcome, provided they could be separated from their horses; that the most powerful, therefore the most dangerous, man among them was the commander, Onate himself. If he could be put out of the way it would be easy to vanquish the rest.

Therefore, while Onate was marching upon Acoma, its inhabitants, after long and bitter discussions, determined upon a plan to destroy him and his force. He was to be allured into the village and there, under pretext of showing him some sacred spot, induced to enter one of their estufas, where armed men were lying in wait for him. The death of the commander was to be the signal for a general onslaught upon his followers in the pueblo. The Acomas entertained no doubt of their ability to overpower these, and thus reduce the Spanish force in such a degree that it would be easy afterward to exterminate the remainder, or at least compel them to evacuate New Mexico.

Onate suffered himself to be led to the trap-door forming the entrance of the estufa, but no further. Looking down, he noticed that the place was perfectly dark, and he found it prudent not to descend the ladder alone. Seeing his reluctance to enter the estufa, the Acomas did not insist, lest their designs might be suspected. They allowed the Spaniards to withdraw from the rock unmolested, and to leave their encampment on the same day in the firm belief that Acoma was henceforth loyal to the Spanish cause. Onate resumed his march in perfect security, promising to visit Acoma again upon his return from Zuni and Moqui.

On the 18th of November Juan de Zaldivar set out from San Gabriel to rejoin his commander in chief. He had with him thirty armed men. Reaching the basin at the foot of Acoma on the 4th of December, he camped there in proximity of water, and the Acomas forthwith came to welcome his arrival and to invite him to share the hospitality of their village. Zaldivar was a good soldier, and had had long experience with Indians, but on this occasion he suffered himself to be completely deceived. The conduct of the Pueblos had been so friendly until then, they had not given the least sign of evil disposition, that the thought of treachery on their part never for a moment entered his mind. Leaving one-half of his troops in camp he ascended the Rock with only fifteen subordinates, among whom were several officers. The reception at the village showed the utmost cordiality. So well did the Indians disguise their plans that Zaldivar committed the grave imprudence of suffering his men to scatter in the houses, only a few remaining about his person.

This was what the Acomas were looking for. As soon as the Spaniards were well apart from each other, the whole population, men and women, children even, beset them with every weapon at their command. The most desperate resistance could be of no avail under such circumstances. One by one they fell, selling their lives dearly to be sure, but overpowered by numbers, victims to their own imprudence. The Maestro de Campo Juan de Zaldivar, two officers, six soldiers and two servants lost their lives in the village of the Rock. The Alguacil Mayor Tabaro and four soldiers, all of them covered with bruises and wounds, succeeded in reaching the brink of the precipices that surround Acoma on nearly every side, and seeing no other way to escape; the Indians threw them headlong into the chasm. The rocks on which Acoma stands are nowhere less than 150 feet high. They are not only vertical, but mostly overhanging. It would be utterly incredible, were it not well proven by reliable testimony, that a single one of the five could have made the frightful leap without being shattered to pieces. It is, however, placed beyond a doubt that only one of these five Spaniards was killed, the other four reached the bottom more or less bruised, but without mortal injuries.

The men in camp were not a little terrified at the occurrence, but the Acomas did not attack. Had the Spaniards been without horses, the Indians would have beset them at once. So great was the fear which the unknown animals inspired however, that the warriors of Acoma remained above, showering insults upon the disconnected stragglers below and hurling an occasional rock at them without effect. For several days the Spanish troops remained under shelter of the overhanging cliffs, keeping good watch day and night. At last they agreed upon dividing into little squads in order to give warning everywhere where Spaniards might be stationed. They dreaded lest the massacre of Acoma be the prelude of a general uprising, a signal for an insurrection of the pueblos. Such, fortunately, was not the case; the Acomas had acted independently of the others, relying upon the invulnerability of their rocky castle, rather than upon assistance from the outside.

Aside from headquarters at San Gabriel, there was but one considerable body of Spaniards in the country; the force commanded by Onate himself, who was then on his return from a peaceable journey to the Moquis. Onate received the news of the Acoma tragedy, Zuni and the fatal rock. It saved him and saved the Spanish cause; for had he carried out his designs of spending a short time at Acoma, there is no doubt but that the fate which befell his lieutenant, would have befallen him and the greatest number of his soldiers.

Aside from this main body, very few Spaniards were outside of San Gabriel; there was greater danger for some of the missionaries who had gone to their respective missions without escort. These were speedily recalled, and in the last days of the year 1598, all the Spanish inhabitants of New Mexico were safely gathered within the walls of Yunque or San Gabriel, opposite the present site of San Juan. The pueblo, as its ruins show, was quadrangular and had four entrances, one at each corner. The few pieces of small artillery were so placed as to command each of these entrances. At night, the men stood guard on the upper terraces of the two and three-story houses, and the women relieved them partly of this duty in the day time. Everything was in readiness to receive the enemy should the action of the Acomas be followed by a general outbreak of the Pueblos.

But the other Pueblos stirred not. They waited to see how the Spaniards would take the insult offered to them, the blow inflicted upon their prestige. Onate saw that and recognized that the success of his occupation of New Mexico depended upon his action in the matter. If he left the death of Zaldivar and his men unavenged, it could not fail to encourage the Pueblos to general rebellion. If he moved against Acoma and failed, everything was lost. Yet he could not, with due regard to prudence, detach any considerable portion of his little force against the formidable rock. The situation was extremely delicate. His duty as governor and commander in chief demanded he should attempt to punish the rebels. For rebels the Acomas were, since they had voluntarily become vassals of Spain and had thrice, ere their pledge was accepted, been warned that they should well consider and ponder what they did, since if they ever broke the pledge they were now offering, they would be punished as rebels to their legitimate sovereign and liege "Lord." On the other hand, Acoma was so strongly situated that no artillery could (at that time) offend it, and if during the time he sent any considerable portion of his soldiers against the treacherous tribe, the other Pueblos rose in arms, the little post of San Gabriel might be destroyed and nothing left but those who were out on an almost hopeless expedition.

While the Spanish commander was thus in no slight perplexity, his foes were strengthening themselves after the rude methods of Indian defensive warfare, by barricading the already dangerous trails leading up to their village. They were also increasing their numbers by auxiliaries, not from their Pueblo kindred, but from their hereditary enemies and neighbors, the Navajos. It appears certain that men from several Navajo rancherias joined the Acomas, the latter having called upon them for assistance. The whole force which the village could muster did not exceed 300 men, but these might hold their own against a superior force even, and as to a siege, nothing could be dreamed from it, since the rock has natural tanks with permanent water, and the crops gathered in summer were recently stored. Acoma seemed impregnable, and more than one Spaniard secretly harbored that conviction. A comparatively small force of picked men, well commanded, was all Onate could spare for the attack of the formidable natural citadel. He was ready to command that forlorn hope in person, but another man presented himself, and one who had, in a certain sense, higher claims. This was the brother of the murdered maestro de campo, Vicente de Zaldivar, then sergeant mayor. When, after mature deliberation, the campaign was determined upon, Vicente de Zaldivar begged permission to command it, and his request was granted. (To be continued.)

HISTORICAL.
Santa Fe, the city of the Holy Faith of St. Francis, is the capital of New Mexico, trade center, sanitary, archiepiscopal see, and also the military headquarters. It is the oldest seat of civil and religious government on American soil. When Cabeza de Baca penetrated the valley of the Rio Grande in 1538 he found Santa Fe a flourishing Pueblo village. The history of the first European settlement was lost, with the most of the early records of the territory, by the destruction of all the archives in 1680; but the earliest mention of it shows it then to have been the capital and the center of commerce, authority and influence. In 1594 came the first venturesome American trader, the forerunner of the great line of merchants who have made traffic over the Santa Fe world-wide in its celebrity.

WOMEN AND MICE.

The reason why a woman is afraid of mice is a profound mystery. Indeed, it has never been very clearly proven that she is. But some women are constantly in such a thingy-moosy condition that the slightest nervous irritability starts them. The cause of this unfortunate state of affairs is usually some functional derangement, some distressing or painful irregularity, some derangement of the digestive system, some derangement of the reproductive system, or some derangement of the nervous system. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive remedy, so certain in its curative results that its manufacturers set money paid for it will be promptly refunded. As a soothing and strengthening agent, it is invaluable in allaying and relieving nervous excitability, irritability, exasperation, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and depression.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was once with a cough of lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable consumptive. I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and now on the third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of lung troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health. Try it. Sample bottles free at C. M. Creamer's drug store."

Sleepless Nights

Made miserable by that terrible cough, Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. C. M. Creamer.

Landlord—Low rent, splendid locality and all the modern improvements.

Flat-Hunter—Very good. Let me see, are there any children in the house?

Landlord (irritably)—I said, madame, that we had nothing but modern improvements!

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gum, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best and most reliable remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

A western inconvenience.—Eastern Farmer (contemptuously).—Catch me west, where you have neither coal going nor wood. Mighty inconvenient burning corn for fuel, isn't it?

Western Farmer.—Waal, yes, it is, rather. The ears is so big we can't git 'em in the stoves.

We Can and Do

Guarantee Acker's Blood Elixir, for it has been fully demonstrated to the people of this country that it is superior to all other preparations for blood diseases. ### Will You Suffer

With dyspepsia and liver complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. C. M. Creamer.

I would like to ask a question, sir, said a student to the professor.

Well, sir.

Are the Kaw Indians related to the Crows?

Pimples on the Face

Denote an impure state of the blood and are looked upon by many with suspicion. Aker's Blood Elixir will remove all impurities and leave the complexion smooth and clear. There is nothing that will so thoroughly build up the constitution, purify and strengthen the whole system. Sold and guaranteed by A. C. Ireland, Jr., druggist.

Shiloh's Vitalizer

Is what you need for constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of dyspepsia. Price ten and seventy-five cents per bottle. C. M. Creamer.

People were absolutely turned away from the doors last night.

So I heard. They were your creditors, chiefly, I'm told.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise. A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the liver and kidneys, will remove pimples, boils, salt rheum and other affections caused by impure blood. Will drive malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all malarial fevers. For cure of headache, constipation and indigestion try Electric Bitters. ### Job Printing.

Merchants and others are hereby reminded that the NEW MEXICAN is prepared to do their printing on short notice and at reasonable rates. Much of the job printing now going out of town should come to the NEW MEXICAN office. There is no better excuse for sending out of town for printing than there is for sending away for groceries or clothing. Our merchants should consider these things. The NEW MEXICAN is acknowledged the leading paper of this section. The patronage of the people will enable us to keep it so.

A bank is an institution into which you put confidence and money and draw out your confidence.

French Tansy Wafers, the Ladies' Friend.

For female irregularities of all kinds, no matter what the cause, and for the suffering such as so many women endure at certain periods there is nothing equal. The wafers are made from pure drugs especially imported by us, and the recipe is used by one of the most celebrated physicians of France, who in twenty years never had a single case they failed to relieve. Sent by mail securely sealed on receipt of $2. To be had only of the Livingston Chemical Co., Portland, Oregon.

Is there anything that will bring youth to a woman? asks a writer. Well, a leading smile from her might bring him to her feet.

Let us consider the thing soberly.

All right. I'll wait until you are ready—to-morrow, say!

A Duty to Yourself.

It is surprising that people will use a common, ordinary pill when they can secure a valuable English one for the same money. Dr. Acker's English pills are a positive cure for sick headache and all liver troubles. They are small, sweet, easily taken and do not grip. Sold by A. C. Ireland, Jr., druggist.

THE CLIMATE

of New Mexico is considered the finest on the continent. The high altitude insures dryness and purity (especially adapted to the permanent cure of pulmonary complaints, as hundreds will be witness), and by avoiding from point to point almost any desired temperature may be enjoyed. The altitude of some of the principal points in the territory is as follows: Santa Fe, 7,047; Costilla, 7,774; Tierra Amarilla, 7,455; Glorieta, 7,987; Taos, 6,950; Las Vegas, 6,452; Cimarron, 6,489; Bernadillo, 5,704; Albuquerque, 4,918; Socorro, 4,659; Las Cruces, 3,844; Silver City, 5,946; Ft. Stanton, 5,800. The mean temperature at the government station at Santa Fe, for the years named was as follows: 1874, 48.9 degrees; 1875, 48.6 degrees; 1876, 48.1; 1877, 48.3; 1878, 47.6; 1879, 50.6; 1880, 46.6; which shows an extraordinary uniformity. For tubercular diseases the death rate in New Mexico is the lowest in the union, the ratio being as follows: New England, 25; Minnesota, 14; Southern States, 6; and New Mexico, 3.

DISTANCES.

Santa Fe is distant from Kansas City 869 miles; from Denver, 338 miles; from Trinidad, 216 miles; from Albuquerque, 85 miles; from Deming, 316 miles; from El Paso, 340 miles; from Los Angeles, 1,032 miles; from San Francisco, 1,281 miles.

ELEVATIONS.

The base of the monument in the grand plaza is, according to latest corrected measurements, 7,019.5 feet above the level of the sea; Bald Mountain, toward the northwest and at the extreme northern end of the Santa Fe mountains, 12,061 feet above sea level; Lake Peak, to the right (where the Santa Fe creek has its source), is 12,045 feet high; the divide (Tuesque road), 7,171; Agua Fria, 6,480; Cieneguilla (west), 6,025; La Bapata, 5,514; north of Santa Fe creek (north of Pena Blanca), 5,225; Sandia mountains (highest point), 10,608; Old Placers, 6,801; Los Cerrillos mountains (south), 5,584 feet in height.

POINTS OF INTEREST.

There are some forty various points of more or less historic interest in and about the ancient city.

The Adobe Palace, north side of the plaza, has been occupied as an executive mansion since 1880, the first governor and captain general (so far as the data at hand reveals) being Juan de Otermun.

The Plaza—Onate and De Vargas made triumphant marches over this beautiful oasis, the one in 1591, the other in 1683.

Church of San Miguel—Erected in the 16th century; destroyed during the Pueblo revolution of 1680; rebuilt by order of "The Marques de la Penuela," in the year 1710.

The oldest dwelling house in the United States is located near San Miguel church. It was built near the Spanish conquest.

The ancient cathedral's walls are gradually crumbling and instead a grand modern stone structure is building. The old cathedral was erected in 1761.

Old Fort Marcy was first recognized and used as a strategic military point by the Pueblo Indians when they revolted against Spanish rule in 1680 and drove out the enemy after besieging the city for nine days. The American army under Kearney constructed old Fort Marcy in 1846.

Fort Marcy of the present day is garrisoned by three companies of the 10th U. S. Infantry, under command of Captains Gregory Barret, J. F. Stretchand—Duggan, and here at 9 a. m. daily occurs guard mounting, a feature of military maneuvering ever of interest to the tourist.

Other points of interest to the tourist are: The Historical Society's rooms; the "Garita," the military quarter; chapel and cemetery of Our Lady of the Rosary; the church museum at the new cathedral, the archbishop's gardens; church of Our Lady of Guadalupe with its rare old works of art; the soldiers' monument, monument to the Pioneer Path-Finder, Kit Carson, erected by the G. A. R. of New Mexico; St. Vincent hospital, conducted by Sisters of Charity; and the Orphans' industrial school; the Indian training school; Loreto Academy and the chapel of Our Lady of Light.

The sight-seer here may also take a vehicle and enjoy a day's outing with both pleasure and profit. The various spots of interest to be visited are Tesuque pueblo, asking in the divide en route; Monument rock, up in picturesque Santa Fe canon; the Aztec mineral springs; Satcho pueblo; Agua Fria village; the turquoise mines; place of the assassination of Governor Perez; San Ildefonso pueblo, or the ancient cliff dwellers, beyond the Rio Grande.

THE CITY OF SANTA FE

is making a steady modern growth; has now a population of 8,000, and has every assurance of becoming a beautiful modern city. Her people are liberal and enterprising, and stand ready to foster and encourage any legitimate undertaking having for its object the building up and improvement of the place. Among the present needs of Santa Fe, and for which liberal bonuses in cash or lands could be undoubtedly be secured, may be mentioned a cannery factory; a wool scouring plant and a tannery. Skilled labor of all kinds is in demand at good wages. The cost of living is reasonable, and real property, both inside and suburban, is steadily advancing in value.
