CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.
WASHINGTON, June 19.—In the senate the finance committee reported back the tariff bill, saying that it was not expected to be considered earlier than a week from Monday next, as calendared.

The committee on commerce reported back the river and harbor appropriation bill, which was placed on the calendar.

The senate then proceeded to the consideration of executive business.

The doors were reopened at 1:30 p. m., and the conference report on the anti-trust bill was presented and agreed to. Both houses recede from their respective amendments, and the bill remains exactly as it passed the senate.

The senate then proceeded to the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

The senate then passed the silver bill, much changed in details, by yeas 42, nays 25.

HOUSE.

The house committee on the election of president and vice president and representatives to congress, decided yesterday by a party vote to report, with some amendments, the federal election bill agreed upon in the Republican caucus Monday night. There will be a minority report.

SILVER.

The house went into committee of the whole on the Indian appropriation bill. The committee, in a few moments, rose informally to allow the house to receive a message from the senate. As the secretary announced the passage of the silver bill with amendments the Democratic side of the house broke out in loud applause which continued for a minute. The committee having resumed its session, Bland, of Missouri, moved that the committee rise, his purpose being to have action taken on the silver bill. The motion was defeated by a vote of 94 to 105. Nanthier and Vaux, of Pennsylvania, voted with the Republicans in the negative.

THE TARIFF FIXED.

Principal Changes which the Senate Has Made in the House Measure.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The following are the principal changes made by the senate committee on the tariff bill: Glassware classifications are changed, and a large general reduction is made. Steel rails are reduced from $13.44 to $11.20 per ton. No bounty is to be given for less than 500 pounds of sugar annually, and sugars between 13 and 16 Dutch standard pay a duty of three-tenths. Tobacco is unchanged. Slight reductions are made in many items in the agricultural schedule, and exporters of meat are not allowed a rebate on salt used in curing meats. Natural ice-freezing, mineral waters are free.

The duty on cotton manufactures is reduced all through the schedule. There are only slight changes in wool, the principal one being to correct the typographical error the house refused to correct. The bounty for silk and silk cocoons raised and reek in the United States is stricken out. Books are taken from the list and made dutiable at 30 per cent ad valorem. The limitation of $500 as the value of wearing apparel that a person may bring into the United States is stricken out.

The committee struck out all the changes made by the house bill in the internal revenue regulations, respecting the tax on tobacco; the manufacture of vinegar from alcohol vapor, and the fermentation of wines, leaving the law as it stands at present. The internal revenue tax on opium, prepared for smoking, was increased from $5 to $10 per pound.

CANTEENS AT ARMY POSTS.

How Certain Experiments Must be Carried on—There Must be Music.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Six posts will be effected by the provision in the army appropriation bill which has just become a law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in army canteens located in states having prohibition laws. Two of these—Fort Leavenworth and Fort Riley, Kas.—are the most important posts of the army and the canteens there have been most successful. The others are Fort Meade, Bennett, Sully, and Randall, in South Dakota.

There is no intention at present of abolishing the canteens at these posts, notwithstanding the general impression that they can not exist with the beer privilege taken away. On the contrary, the war department intends to offer every encouragement for their continuance. The army bands will not be dispensed with. The extinction of the post's trader deprives the residents of the tax hitherto levied upon that individual for the support of the bands, and congress has been tardy in providing the necessary funds to make good the loss, but the secretary of war says there must be music "to soothe the savage breast," and has been looking around for some means to meet the necessity. Appreciating the many disadvantages that would result from the discontinuance of music, and acting upon the recommendations of a number of post comrades, the department has decided to issue general orders setting apart a small percentage of the profits from canteens for the benefit of bands serving at the posts where such profits shall accrue.

HISTORIC VALVERDE.

Hon. J. Frank Chavez Reviews the Record of that Battle as Published by Prof. Ladd.

A Straightforward Defense of the New Mexico Volunteers by One Who Was on the Ground.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

LOS ALAMOS, June 17.—In your issue of the 14th instant, a sketch by Prof. H. O. Ladd on New Mexico appears as an account of the battle of Valverde. It is humorous to read an account written by a man more than twenty-eight years after the occurrence of the battle, especially when the style in which it is written reminds one of the celebrated preface of Bernal Diaz del Castillo, in his history of the conquest of Mexico, when he positively states that everything in his history is true, that he was one of the expedition; that he knew them all personally, the color of their hair and eyes and requested the publishers of his history not to make the slightest change, not even as much as the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t."

But Prof. Ladd's history of the battle of Valverde is about as correct in its details of the encounter as is the description of the surrounding country about Valverde and Fort Craig in placing there the groves of pine which were a benefit to the confederate troops, for the concealment which these pine groves afforded them from the view of the union troops. Everybody knows, who knows anything about that portion of New Mexico, that there is not a single pine tree growing within thirty miles of

THE BATTLE GROUND OF VALVERDE or of Fort Craig, in any direction of the compass. Gen. Sibley did cross the river on the 20th of February, 1862, with his confederate forces, about six miles south of Fort Craig, and in full view of every union soldier at the fort who cared about witnessing the crossing, and no one attempted to prevent them. Why this was so, no one, either a regular or a volunteer, could discover.

On that same day and immediately after the confederates had crossed the Rio Grande, and about three miles east, Gen. Canby ordered troops composed of regular infantry and cavalry and the 1st and 2nd regiments of New Mexico volunteers to cross the Rio Grande at Fort Craig, and march to meet and intercept the enemy. When our troops were within range of the enemy's guns they began firing upon us, and line of battle, until about 11 o'clock a. m. at which time Col. B. S. Roberts said that he wanted the battery crossed to the east bank, and asked me for volunteers to assist the crossing at the ford. I called for volunteers for that purpose to step three paces to the front, and when the command was given the whole regiment marched to the front with a cheer. I then detailed about 100 men, being about ten men from each company respectively, which immediately took hold of ropes and aided in crossing the battery to its station on the east bank. About 1 o'clock p. m. a battery consisting of two 24-pounder howitzers under the command of Lieut. K. M. Hall, came on to the field from Fort Craig, and the 1st New Mexico volunteers were ordered to take it across the river to its station, and was further ordered to its support. This was done. Subsequently the trail of one of the 24-pounders was broken, and the disabled gun was recrossed to the west bank of the river by men of my regiment. We proceeded in line of battle at the north foot of the Mesita del Contadero, and successfully repulsed ten distinct cavalry charges of the confederate left, which were made to capture Capt. Hall's battery. We captured one mountain howitzer, which was disabled.

AND OCCUPIED THE ENEMY'S GROUND, when late in the afternoon, to our infinite surprise and chagrin, believing that we were victorious, Lieut. W. W. Mills, aide de camp to Col. B. S. Roberts, came to me with orders to abandon the field without delay, and that McKee's battery on the right had been captured and our troops in flight across the Rio Grande. I could not believe such a report, and did not heed it. I ordered Lieut. Eben Everett, regimental adjutant, to look for Col. Carson, and I informed Capt. A. H. Pfeiffer of the order to withdraw. That brave old warrior was dumfounded and as incredulous as myself. Soon thereafter Lieut. McDermott, of the 3d cavalry, repeated the order, and I marched the regiment, left in front, to the Rio Grande, crossed it by wading and saved Capt. R. M. Hall's remaining 24-pound howitzer. We marched off the field.

AS IF ON DRESS PARADE, and we crossed the river in regular formation except the detail to assist the crossing of the battery, and when we reached the west bank we formed in regular column and marched south to Fort Craig, about three miles, without breaking ranks. The confederates fired their round shot at our regiment from their captured battery, which fortunately did not strike us, otherwise many of our soldiers would have been killed or wounded. The great majority of our men knew nothing of the loss of the battle and of our retreat until after they were taking their supper. This is the true history of the part that the 1st N. M. volunteers took in the battle of Valverde. I was there and saw it all with my eyes.

Up to the time of the capture of McKee's battery the union loss did not exceed fifteen killed and wounded. The loss was after the capture of the battery and the flight of the troops across the river—the most of whom were shot in the back.

ON STATEHOOD.

Views of Col. Jewett and Judge Axtell—The Course to be Pursued by Friends of Progress.

Admission Not a Party Question—No Ticket in the Field—Reconsideration of Apportionment.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

SANTA FE, June 18.—As you have invited discussion as to the expediency of putting a "state ticket" in the field in November next, I wish to say that I have been of the opinion that to do so is unwise, and expressed that opinion freely at the late meeting of the Republican committee. Discussion and correspondence since the date of that meeting has tended strongly to confirm my previous opinions on the subject. The nomination of

is not unlikely to excite animosities and produce divisions where we can least afford to have them. Thousands of Democrats are prepared to vote for the adoption of the constitution for the same reason which led Mr. Joseph to avow that he had rather live in a Republican state than in a Democratic territory. The greater part of these will regard the coupling of a Republican state ticket with the constitution, as an effort to drag them to the support of both, in which case they will support neither. The ticket, if "elected," means nothing. No one supposes that an "election" in November will confer a title to office in the state after admission, as in the case of the Dakotas and other states recently admitted. An election for state officers and a state legislature will be provided for us by the enabling act of congress, and only the officers then elected will derive any benefit from the popular suffrages. A ticket elected "for fun" in November next would be by the candidates thereon and their friends, regarded as binding the party to the nomination and election of the same, even at the election

PROVIDED BY ACT OF CONGRESS.

Those not so interested would dispute this and vigorously demand a new deal. Right there would come a renewal of the inter-partisan strife among Republicans which we have but just succeeded in putting an end to.

The presentation of a state ticket in November commits us to two elections, state and territorial, on the same day with very favorable chances for getting them mixed up.

Expediency and good policy demand that we should offer to the people a single election, and the ordinary territorial and county tickets and no more, except that every voter will have the opportunity to record his vote upon the same ballot for, or against the adoption of the constitution.

Any display of childishness or buncombe at this time will cost us the support of support won for us with infinite difficulty, and absolutely essential to our success. I speak from knowledge when I say that an attempt in any way to anticipate the action of congress, beyond the submission of the constitution, will be received very ill. And I think an attempt to elect state officers in advance of an enabling act, will be regarded in congress as an attempt to force the hands of our friends there, and will be disadvantageous accordingly. D. J. M. A. JEWETT.

Judge Axtell's Position.

To the Editor of the New Mexican.

SANTA FE, July 19.—For fear that some person might be honestly misled as to what I believe about statehood, I will reiterate what I said in my interview heretofore published in the New Mexican. I said if the constitution had been voted upon and carried there would have been no doubt but that we would have been admitted at this session. I said statehood ought not to be made a party question. I also said if submitted as a Republican measure, I was afraid it would be beaten. All the leading Democrats from New Mexico whom we saw in Washington, including Delegate Joseph, expressed themselves strongly in favor of statehood. There was no objection made by any of them to the constitution, except as to the apportionment. Now I understand that the constitution must receive a majority of all the votes cast at the November election, or it will be defeated. If no one voted against it, it still would not be carried, unless it received a majority of all the votes cast. To make this absolutely sure, I hope, that if the census shows any injustice in the apportionment that the convention, when it reassembles in August, will so adjust it that it shall be absolutely fair. I hope all objections which any fair minded Democrat will be removed, and that when the tickets are put in the field in November that both the Republican and Democratic parties will be for the constitution; in other words, for statehood. I said that without statehood, we were a cypher at Washington. I reaffirm that in my opinion statehood is the one important thing for us to work for. I believe our constitution is a good one. I have never heard any objection urged to it, except the single one of apportionment. I do not know that that is valid, but it should prove to be in the light of the census returns. I feel sure the convention will correct it. I shall certainly work for it, and my name can not be justly used as ever having said a word against it. S. B. AXTELL.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

W. H. LaCount, well known in Santa Fe, has been appointed superintendent of the tie, piling and square timber department of the Rio Grande Southern road between Durango and Rico, and has got out posters advertising for 150 men, to commence work at once.

Thousands of acres of coal lands, gold and copper districts and mammoth forests of timber will be opened by the construction of the Algodones-Durango line.

Allen Maavel, president of the Santa Fe system, has been in Denver for the past few days, and Monday he gave his check for $500 to the committee soliciting finances for the Independence day celebration.

Geo. M. Logan, soliciting laborers for the Dallas, Rio and Durango road, left this morning for the north, taking about thirty men with him.

League Club Meeting.

A meeting of the Republican League club of this county is hereby called to be held at the county court house to-morrow at 8 p. m. Republicans are invited.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

Delicious home grown cherries are plentiful in the market.

Tickets are selling well for the Little-hales' musicale on Tuesday night next.

An all-around clever old timer prophesies a fine rain before Monday next. Letrain!

At Lamy yesterday twenty-one cars of cattle belonging to the Bowman ranch, and just sold at a handsome figure, were loaded for Kansas feed pens.

At 4 p. m. to-morrow all 4th of July committeemen will meet at Capt. Gray's office for the purpose of preparing the program to be carried out on Independence day.

W. M. Capple, Daniel Day, Elijah Capple, of Hope, Kas., arrived last night in prairie schooners and are looking for a location. They will probably invade the beautiful Manzano valley.

A forfeit of $100 was yesterday put up for a race on July 4 between Judge Hilario Ortiz' horse and the Baca runner, Revenge, from Albuquerque. The contest is for a purse of $200.

Upward of 350 people went out this morning to the dedication of the San Juan rock church. The party was accompanied by the San Michael's college band. Besides the regular Santa Fe Southern train it took a special train of six coaches to carry the crowd.

Prof. Landrum opened his dancing academy at Gray's opera house yesterday, starting in with twenty pupils. There is nothing that lends so much grace to children as a thorough training in such schools. This is an opportunity for the little ones of Santa Fe that every parent should take advantage of.

M. T. Case, of the Union Pacific road, was in town yesterday trying to convince merchants that shipments over the narrow gauge could be brought in as cheaply as over the Santa Fe, but it wouldn't work. You can't catch an old Santa Fe bird with that kind of Denver chaff, Mr. Case.

As a result of telegraphic correspondence between Major Summerhayes and the quartermaster general an additional sum of $500 was to-day ordered to be expended in completing the Fort Marcy granary now in progress of construction. The building is a capacious and substantial one and when finished will cost about $3,000.

The iron settees for the plaza arrived last night over the narrow gauge, and a big freight bill has now to be met. Why the shipment was made over the narrow gauge is a mystery, as the freight charges by that route on first-class matter are from 29 to 33 cents higher than over the Santa Fe line, while on second class matter, such as is these settees, it is from 23 to 25 cents higher per hundred pounds. Besides, the Santa Fe company had agreed to make a very material reduction in the freight charges for these settees.

Sheriff J. L. Perea, of Bernalillo county, arrived to-day and placed the following prisoners in the penitentiary: Gabriel Gallegos, murder, three years; Pablo Perea, murder, twenty-one years; Jose Aralos, assault with a deadly weapon, three years; Bert Curtis, larceny, one year; Sosteno Baca, larceny, one year; Nicolas Lucero, larceny, one year; James Fenton, larceny, one year; George Wadham, alias Warslouse, larceny, one year.

Judge Waldo and Mr. F. W. Clancy were present at the meeting of the board of regents of the territorial university held last evening at Albuquerque. In accordance with certain sketches submitted to it, the board passed a resolution calling for plans for a university building, the cost of which shall not exceed $30,000, and if the plans so prepared call for a building that can not be built within $30,000, the board will not accept the plans, nor will it allow any remuneration for preparing them.

Hon. J. R. McFie, judge of the 3d judicial district, and Hon. S. B. Newcomb, the well known Las Cruces attorney, arrived here to-day from Mesilla valley en route to Washington. Judge McFie is taking his first vacation, and visits Washington to urge the passage of the bill providing a fifth judicial district for New Mexico. After using his best endeavors for this measure among congressional friends he will visit his former home in Randolph county, Illinois, expecting to return in thirty days. Judge Newcomb's stay will be prolonged in Washington, as he will not only urge upon members of congress the passage of the fifth associate justice bill, but will use his influence to secure the land court measure and say a good word as to the justice of admitting New Mexico as a state. May the best of good results attend the mission of these truly representative New Mexicans.

Roswell Register: Word has been received from Mr. Sparks at St. Louis, that the reservoir is a sure go. We have not a full report of the meeting of the stockholders, but we don't care so long as one fact being true. We may expect work to begin in thirty days. Three cheers and a tiger.

R. Studebaker, who arrived in town from the old Hooper ranch, sixty miles beyond Liberty, yesterday, states that it has been found necessary to stop the round-up on account of the alarming scarcity of grass. Cattle can not be held together and it is useless to go ahead with the work of rounding them up.—Las Vegas Optic.

There is no use to deny the fact that the majority of the ranges of this section are short of both feed and water, and a good many cattle are dying. It rains come during this month the loss will not be great, but if it is delayed till the middle of July or August it will be pretty heavy.—Silver City Enterprise.

Socorro Chieftain: The White Mosaic of Alexandra grape does the best of all grapes planted in this part of New Mexico. Judge Hubbard has been putting out on his ranch near the city different varieties for trial and awards the "palm" to this variety. When one comes to remember that this is the raisin grape we can but wonder what is in store for central New Mexico.

A one-eighth interest in the Beck grant, belonging to N. B. and C. W. Stonerod, and consisting of about 40,000 acres, has been purchased by R. L. Brown, of Austin, Texas, and Thomas Carson, of Arizona, for $35,000 and cattle to the number of 2,500, by A. A. Jones, for $10,000. The land was sold under a deed of trust and the cattle under a chattel mortgage. An attempt was made to void the sale by the attorney of subsequent mortgagees, but Judge O'Brien refused to grant the injunction.

According to the terms of a mortgage held by the Scottish mortgage Co., the interest of the Stonerod Brothers in the Beck grant and all of the cattle in their brand was sold at public sale last week in Las Vegas. The mortgage company bid the property in for the amount of the mortgage and accrued interest, about $30,000. Protests were made against the sale of any cattle not branded exactly as specified in the mortgage, and before the final settlement of the case there is likely to be some interesting litigation, requiring decisions on several new questions on the subject of mortgaged cattle.

Edwady, of the Las Vegas Democrat has Porfirio Trujillo camping on his trail. While Edwady was being soothed the door opened and in walked the redoubtable Porfirio with a 45 Colt's revolver thrust partially into the front of his pantaloons, and held in his right hand, ready to fire. Mr. Edwady saw him as he started to come in the door, and he had no sooner crossed the threshold than he had him covered with a revolver. He demanded his business, and Trujillo, seeing that he had run against the wrong man, collapsed and dropping his hands from his weapon replied that he wanted a paper. He was given his paper and departed, presumably to await a more convenient season to carry out his threats. Mr. Edwady has been advised by his friends to do so, and says he feels abundantly able to take care of himself.

Taos Valley Canal.

A letter from Cerro, Taos county, says the affairs of the Taos valley irrigation canal are assuming encouraging shape. "The company," says the letter, "which has delayed its work on the ditch and reservoirs here so long, sent Hon. William Atchison out here to look over the ground preparatory to going on with construction work on thirty miles of ditch southward into New Mexico. Mr. Atchison returned to St. Louis last week to report to the company and bondholders regarding the matter, and is expected to arrive here this week ready to proceed with the work. The company intends to pursue its former liberal policy and sustain the well merited reputation which it has acquired of paying all debts promptly in cash.
