A NEW NAVAJO AGENT.
David L. Shipley, of Iowa, to Succeed Vandever—Judge Freeman Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The senate in executive session, just before adjournment, confirmed the following nominations: Smith A. Whitefield, Ohio, first assistant postmaster general; James Lowrie Bell, Pennsylvania, second assistant postmaster general; Alfred A. Freeman, Tennessee, associate justice supreme court of New Mexico; James M. Irwin, Iowa, governor of Arizona; David L. Shipley, Iowa, agent of the Indians at the Navajo agency, N. M.

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN STATE.
The New State of Idaho Sends up a Safe Majority for the Party of Progress.

BOISE CITY, Idaho, Oct. 3.—The general outlook so far indicates a clear Republican victory. The leading Republicans express themselves with much confidence while the Democrats are despondent and make no claims. The returns now in the office of the state committee from various precincts show that the Republicans have a majority of nearly 2,000 in the state. Shipley's majority will reach 2,500. The Republicans have an extremely conservative estimate of thirty members of the legislature, the Democrats nineteen, with five doubtful.

WONT TAKE A FREE RIDE.
The Democratic Scheme to Send a Smelling Committee to New Mexico Fails.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The scheme for a sub-committee of the house committee on territories to make a tour through Arizona, New Mexico and Utah during recess of congress for the purpose of securing information bearing upon the admission of these territories to statehood, seems to have fallen by the wayside. Congressman Mansur, of Missouri, was the originator of the proposition, which found much favor with the other members of the territories committee, who were perfectly willing to make a trip at government expense through the western country after the November elections. There were, indeed, so many members of the committee who wanted to make the trip that the sub-committee was increased from three members to seven before the resolution was reported to the house. The speaker agreed to recognize Mr. Mansur to make a motion to adopt the resolution, and did fulfill his promise, but when it was called up there were several objections, and the resolution requiring unanimous consent was laid aside. Mr. Mansur found that it was altogether improbable that the resolution could be put through without a great deal of objection, and ten days ago he left Washington to look after his canvass and has been away ever since. Congress has now adjourned and the scheme is dead.

The Grand Junction Indian School.
DENVER, Oct. 3.—A special from Washington says:

Indian Comr. Morgan, who is on a general tour of the west, has written a letter to Senator Teller from Hot Springs, Utah, speaking in the highest terms of praise of the Indian school at Grand Junction, Colo., and predicting a fine future for the institution. He says he was much gratified with what he saw of the school. He says it seems to him admirably located, and when properly equipped he thinks it will render invaluable service to the Indians, especially by teaching them the great secret of successful farming and fruit raising by irrigation.

A TALK WITH MR. MOFFAT.
He Says the Interests of Denver are Being Carefully Guarded.

DENVER, Oct. 3.—President D. H. Moffat, of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, was called upon by a reporter this morning. "How about this rumored sale of the Rio Grande Western to the Santa Fe?" "There's nothing in it. All the officials of that road laugh at the report. I know that the only man who could make the sale is in Europe and has been for months."

"But he may make the deal while abroad," suggested the reporter. "Such a thing is possible," replied the Denver & Rio Grande president, "but even if it should be true it does not affect our road."

"If the Santa Fe should buy the Rio Grande Western would they be willing to treat us as well as the old management of that line has done?" "Now, I'll tell you something," said Mr. Moffat, "we are prepared for just that emergency. When we reorganized there was a fund set aside to extend our line to Salt Lake and Ogden should it become necessary, and we have the money all ready with which to do it. If we are treated unfairly we will parallel the Rio Grande Western the entire distance. The Denver & Rio Grande is now something of a road itself. It has more than eighty millions of money invested, and I guess if it should need any more, which is not at all probable, it could get it. You can say that the management is not at all alarmed over the situation, and that the interests of Denver and Colorado are being carefully guarded."

Geo. Augustus Sala.
Geo. Augustus Sala, the well known English writer, on his Australian trip, wrote as follows to The London Daily Telegraph:

"I especially have a pleasant remembrance of the ship's doctor—a very experienced maritime medico indeed, who tended me most kindly during a horrible spell of bronchitis and spasmodic asthma, provoked by the sea fog which had swooped down on us just after we left San Francisco. But the doctor's prescriptions and the increasing warmth of the temperature as we neared the Tropics, and in particular, a couple of Alcock's Porous Plasters clapped on—one on the chest and another between the shoulder blades—soon set me right."

IN A SORRY PLIGHT.
The Denver & Rio Grande in a Hot Box—It's First Great Mistake.

"Up a stump" is indeed about the size of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad's predicament. After the expenditure of millions of money it now finds itself hemmed in on all sides, confined exclusively to the mountains of Colorado, with no outlet whatever and compelled to pay tribute to other great corporations just as was its condition five years ago. All the other railway lines in the west and southwest have wisely extended their territory during these years, and while the D. & R. G. has probably expended quite as much money as any other line, such expenditures has not, as may now plainly be seen, served to bring it any sort of independence. Its first fatal mistake was its failure to build south through New Mexico twelve years ago. Had that been done it would now have no Union Pacific spur leading into Texas and to the Gulf, nor would it have the Santa Fe completely keeping out its passage to the south at this time. The recent changes in western railway circles have unquestionably crippled the D. & R. G., and after all its boasts of "building a line of its own" its officers now practically admit their dilemma by saying they may build if their opponents refuse to make terms with them that will permit them to continue playing second fiddle to all other great lines in the west.

We want every mother to know that croup can be prevented. True croup never appears without a warning. The first symptom is hoarseness; then the child appears to have taken cold or a cold may have accompanied the hoarseness from the start. After that a peculiar rough cough is developed, which is followed by the croup. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse; a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will prevent the attack. Even after a rough cough has appeared, the disease may be prevented by using this remedy as directed. For sale by C. M. Creamer, druggist.
