CAMPAIGNERS PLEAS WITH OUTLOOK FOR VICTORY

Leaders Here Today Say Success of the Republican Ticket Is Already Assured.

REPUBLICAN DELEGATE WILL BE RE-ELECTED

Governor Curry and Chairman Who Have Been Campaigning In Interests of the Party Are Sure of Success.

"The campaign is progressing to our satisfaction. Everything is favorable to Mr. Andrews and the sentiment in his favor is growing every day. I believe that Mr. Andrews' election is assured and that the only question is how large we can make his majority."

This statement was made this morning by H. O. Bursum, chairman of the territorial committee, who has been conducting the campaign for Mr. Andrews in that capacity.

Mr. Bursum reached Albuquerque this morning from Socorro. He was accompanied by Governor Curry, who has placed himself at the command of the committee and is doing telling work for the Republican candidate and local tickets in various counties. The governor and chairman spent today here consulting with the Republican leaders and expressed satisfaction with the outlook in Bernalillo county.

Solomon Luna spent a few hours here last night, leaving this morning for Belen, Valencia county, where he and other prominent residents of the county welcomed the delegate and his party today. Mr. Luna came here from Los Lunas, where the Republicans yesterday nominated their local ticket. Mr. Luna said that the convention was harmonious, enthusiastic and well attended. He said that Valencia county would give a record breaking majority for the delegate.

"Reports which I have received from nearly all of the counties are very encouraging," said Governor Curry. "I feel confident that Mr. Andrews will have a very substantial majority when the votes are counted. I expect to go to Santa Fe this evening to attend to official duties there, but I will give all the time possible to the work of electing Mr. Andrews and in the interests of statehood. I believe that the people fully realize the urgent necessity of returning Mr. Andrews to Congress in the interests of statehood and that they are going to vote for a Republican delegate who will be in accord with the national administration and Republican Congress."

Chairman Gillenwater of the county committee spent some time with Governor Curry and Chairman Bursum this morning. Mr. Gillenwater stated that the Bernalillo county committee was preparing to hold several public meetings at which Mr. Andrews, the governor, Chairman Bursum and other Republican campaign workers would speak.

SPANISH PRINCE JOINS HIS FATHER'S REGIMENT

Madrid, Oct. 28.—With all the ceremony befitting such an event, the one-year-old son of the king of Spain, the Prince of Asturias, recently joined the first company of the first battalion of the King's Foot regiment. The order required was drawn up duly by the minister of war and King Alfonso signed it. The "baby-soldier" wore the uniform of the regiment of which his father is commander in chief and he was carried by Queen Victoria. The little uniform was complete in every detail but the youngest soldier in the Spanish army were also the famous Order of the Golden Fleece and the large crosses of the Order of Carlos III, and Isabella the Catholic.

The royal baby signed with a cross the notice of his enrollment, which says that the new soldier is "a bachelor and unable to read or write." The ceremony came to an end when the baby-soldier had succeeded in giving his superior officers the usual military salute, although his little chubby hands performed all kinds of evolutions in fun with.

PRINCE HAS FUN WITH HIS NEW AUTOMOBILE

Belgrade, Oct. 28.—Prince George of Serbia has got a good deal of excitement out of his new motor car. He drives people who have never been in a motor before, and treats them to a rapid jaunt. Recently the victim was the cabinet minister, Dr. Raditch, who was as upset by the crown prince's apparently reckless driving that, dead pale, he begged him to let him get out and return to Belgrade on foot. The prince hired a peasant's cart for him, the only conveyance available at the next village, and continued his own journey with breakneck speed to Obrenovats.

HILLQUIT MAY BE FIRST SOCIALIST MEMBER OF AMERICAN CONGRESS

MORRIS HILLQUIT.

New York, Oct. 28.—New York Socialists may accomplish, this election, the first great purpose for which their party has been laboring as a national organization. They claim to be able to send Morris Hillquit to Congress this year as the first representative of the party in the national lawmaking body.

The whole East side is stirred over the matter. Tammany is making unusual efforts to hold its votes. But even the conservative New York political writers say that the Socialists have a good chance to win this Ninth New York district.

Two years ago there were four parties in the Ninth congressional district: Democrat, Independence, Socialist and Republican. The first two combined on the nomination of Representative H. M. Goldfogle and polled 2,700 and the Socialists polled 2,700 and the Republicans 2,600. This election each party has its own candidate. That means that it will take about 4,500 votes to win. This means that Hillquit must increase his strength over last election by 800. He is putting up a great campaign and says he will surely make it this time.

WANTS RECEIVER NAMED FOR MUNICIPAL CO. AT CLEVELAND

Trustee for Bondholders of Old Company in Traciton War Takes Action.

AN INJUNCTION TIES UP ALL FUNDS

Cleveland, Oct. 28.—The Central Trust company of New York, trustee for the bondholders of the Cleveland Railway company, today filed suit in the federal court, praying that a receiver be appointed for the Municipal Traction company, which now operates the lines of the former corporation in this city. Judge Taylor of the federal court issued a temporary injunction tying up all the funds held by the Municipal company, except such as may be necessary for the payment of wages.

The present contest in Cleveland's street railway fight will be fought out in the courts while the lines are operated under a receivership, is the prospect at present. Upholders of Johnson claim that the vote by which the old Cleveland company acquired the lines while the Municipal company loses its fight for three-cent fares was no repudiation of Johnson or the principal of municipal ownership. They contend that the past service given by the Municipal company is alone responsible and that the referendum was a proof of the impatience of the public, which was unwilling to give Johnson time to fully organize the great undertaking.

PHOTOGRAPH HEART BEATS

Paris, Oct. 28.—Paris medical circles are much interested in the invention of the Dutch physiologist, M. Einthoven, who has constructed an apparatus which enables heart pulsations to be photographed. This delicate instrument, the sensibility of which is finer than that of the human ear, is an ingenious combination of the stethoscope, microphone, phonograph and galvanometer. When auscultation is performed by Dr. Einthoven's invention a photographic record of the oscillations of a sheet of aluminum shows the nature of the heart-beats. Photographs of normal heart-beats are very different from those of diseased organs. An experienced operator would be able to tell by examining the photograph the tracings not only whether the heart was unsound, but what was the specific affection.

YAQUI INDIAN CHIEF KILLED IN BATTLE WITH TROOPS

Hostile Indians Surrender and Peace Treaty Will be Signed in Sonora.

GOVERNOR TO RES RETURNS FROM EUROPE

Bisbee, Oct. 28.—It is believed that permanent peace has been established in the state of Sonora, Mexico, and other states in the northern part of the country, as a result of the killing of Eulio, chief of the hostile Yaqui Indians. He met death in a fierce fight between the Yaquis and government troops southeast of Hermosillo a few days ago and as a result of his death it is believed that the Indians will lay down their arms and consent to peace.

Thirty-four hostile Indians came into Hermosillo and surrendered after the fight. It is reported that other members of the band will come in and agree to peace and that a treaty favorable to the Yaquis will be signed this week. Governor Torres returned yesterday from a trip to Europe and negotiations with the Yaqui will be taken up at once.

PRESIDENT TO ASK FOR GREATER NAVY

Forthcoming Message Will Continue His Demands for More Ships.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—The president will ask Congress in his annual message, it is said, to grant four battleships annually. He adheres to his belief that this is necessary. The president will also urge additional appropriations for completion of the naval base at Pearl harbor and of the Hawaiian coast defenses and he will probably ask for increased facilities at Mare Island for handling naval vessels. The navy department is not yet ready formally to announce its decision regarding Mare Island.

REMARKABLE CAMPAIGN FOR NEW YORK VOTES CONTINUES

Presidential Candidates Are Hammering Away in the City and State Today.

BRYAN CONFIDENT HE WILL WIN OUT

Nebraskan Discovers That He Can Do With Less Sleep and Is Putting in Every Minute With the Voters—Taff Has Busy Day.

New York, Oct. 28.—Midweek of the last week of this remarkable presidential campaign finds the political battle at its height and the "heavy artillery" of the two leading parties at work chiefly in New York city and state. That New York is regarded by both as of vital importance is evidenced in the presence of both presidential candidates and the Republican vice presidential candidate in or near the city.

Kern continued today his tour of Indiana. Hilgen, the candidate of the Independence party for president, is in Connecticut today. Chaun and Watkins of the Prohibitionists are scheduled to speak at Atlantic City and Baltimore, and Debs is preaching socialism in Illinois. Of the members of the cabinet, Root is to speak in Cincinnati tonight and Wright at Richmond, Va.

At the same time in every nook and corner of the country speakers of lesser note, members of both houses of Congress, candidates for all manner of offices both state and local, and just plain "spellbinders" in halls, from cart-tails and barrel-heads, are pounding away, each at what he regards as his "anomaly," prophesying unlimited prosperity, if by the verdict of the people in their wisdom his ticket wins, and dire calamity if the people in their ignorance elect the candidates of the other party.

This is Taff's big day in Greater New York. After a day's series of speeches in cities and towns along the Hudson, between New York and Troy, Taff returned to New York today to be the central figure in the biggest Republican day in the present campaign in the metropolis. Taff's train is due to reach here a half hour before noon, and from that time until midnight, or later, almost every moment of the candidate's time is assigned to various parts of the city. At noon he had an engagement to speak before a big and busy crowd at West Street "F. A. M." and the day will close with a mass meeting at Madison Square Garden. The interim will be divided between many meetings on Manhattan Island and in Bronx. Governor Hughes will accompany Taff on part of his flying trip today and will be one of the principal speakers at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Two hours before Taff reached New York, Bryan was away on another swing up the state through Tarrytown, Ossining and half a dozen other towns and cities to Albany and Schenectady, before he reaches a Troy, where he will address a big meeting late tonight.

Bryan was in excellent spirits when he started on his trip up state today. "I have had a delightful and busy time during my stay in New York," said he, "and I have learned something. I have learned that we waste a great deal of time in sleep. Always before I supposed that a man must have eight hours sleep, but I find that you New Yorkers thrive on five."

"What do you think of the signs?" he was asked. "I think the signs are improving all the time."

"Do you expect to carry New York state?" "I certainly do, and I expect to carry the entire middle west as well as some of the eastern states. We will have enough and more. Nebraska is sure, and so, I think, is Ohio."

GERMANY TO TAX BACHELORS

Berlin, Oct. 28.—The German emperor's reference made in a speech delivered some time ago to the desirability of imposing a tax on bachelors, turns out to have been something more than a joke. During the forthcoming session of the Prussian Diet the government will propose a modification of income tax in favor of married men with children which will differentiate taxation in such a way as to impose a greater burden on bachelors and also on married men without children than on the heads of families.

BULGARIA BACKS DOWN AND AGREES TO PAY TURKEY

Disbands Troops and Will Send Delegates to Talk Financial Matters.

NOTES FROM POWERS BROUGHT SETTLEMENT

Paris, Oct. 28.—It was learned authoritatively today that the Bulgarian government with a view of the cessation of military preparations for a war with Turkey and acting on the advice of the powers, has decided to disband tomorrow the 75,000 reservists, who have been held in readiness for an attack. It is hoped that this will reduce the tension between Sofia and Constantinople.

Was an Ultimatum.

Sofia, Oct. 28.—The decision of Bulgaria to disband the reserves and to make financial compensation to Turkey was brought about by the presentation of what was practically an ultimatum by Great Britain, France, and Russia, who were supported by Germany and Italy. Identical notes from the first named three powers were presented to Bulgaria.

They demanded the disbandment of the Bulgarian reserves within three days and the promise to send delegations to Constantinople to negotiate the question of financial compensation for Turkey. In reply the Bulgarian government signified its willingness to conform to the demands set forth.

Was Roughly Handled.

Belgrade, Oct. 28.—M. Serguiff, the Russian minister to Serbia, is much irritated over an incident which happened to him last night on the frontier between Serbia and Hungary. The minister crossed the Danube to Semlin, directly opposite Belgrade, to meet his wife and when returning was roughly handled by the Austro-Hungarian police, who ransacked his baggage.

WOULD TAX FOREIGNERS.

Paris, Oct. 28.—M. de Selves, the prefect of the Seine, in order to make both ends of the Paris Budget meet, proposes a residential tax on foreigners and people from the provinces staying temporarily in Paris. The rate would be 2 per cent on the rent of hotel rooms and furnished apartments, and would be paid on every rent above $12 a month. M. de Selves reckons that this would bring in about $500,000 a year.

ROOSEVELT SENT FLEET TO SCARE JAPANESE PATRIOTS

American Battleships Circled the Globe at Request of Japan's Emperor.

SENATOR DIXON TELLS OF REASON FOR CRUISE

Anaconda, Mont., Oct. 28.—A dispatch from Kailash, Mont., today says: "That the Atlantic fleet was sent to Japan at the request of the emperor to overawe the Mutsuhitos subjects was the statement made by United States Senator Joseph M. Dixon in an address here last night. Senator Dixon said it was well known at Washington long before the fleet started on the voyage around the world that the sentiment of many Japanese was likely to cause war."

"This sentiment was not shared by the emperor and his counselors, but was so great that they could not make headway against it. Then it was that the emperor decided to ask Roosevelt to assist in clearing the situation by sending a large and imposing fleet to strike terror to the hearts of the Japanese who insisted on war with a power of whose resources they knew nothing."

"It was an object lesson, Roosevelt was communicated with and later the plan was approved and the great fleet prepared for the trip around the world."

TEMPERANCE WORKERS WILL OPPOSE CANNON

Denver, Colo., Oct. 28.—The National Women's Christian Temperance union in convention here today adopted resolutions, with practical unanimity, commending the efforts of churches to defeat the reelection of Joseph G. Cannon to Congress. Resolutions were also adopted pledging efforts to suppress every form of cruelty and to work for legislation prescribing humane education in the public schools in the states where it does not already exist. The convention comes to an end with tonight's session.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Las Vegas, N. M., Oct. 28.—Justice of the Peace H. P. Brown, aged 63 years, and for twenty years a resident of this city, was found dead in bed this morning. Apoplexy was the cause of death. Judge Brown was a prominent Democratic politician and well known throughout San Miguel county.

ENTHUSIASTIC CROWDS GREET W. H. ANDREWS IN SOCORRO

Whirlwind Trip Through That County Results in Tremendous Mass Meeting.

FINISH BUSY DAY AT COUNTY SEAT

San Marcel, San Antonio, Magdalena, Melrose and Socorro Turn Out to Cheer for Andrews and Statehood.

Socorro, N. M., Oct. 28.—Delegate W. H. Andrews and party made a whirlwind campaign through Socorro county yesterday and were given one of the most enthusiastic receptions they have received on any trip. Early in the morning the party was joined by Governor Curry, T. B. Catron, G. W. Pritchard and H. O. Bursum, who came to San Marcel to meet the delegate.

At San Marcel the crowd began to assemble at 8 o'clock and practically the whole town turned out at 10 o'clock when a mass meeting was held in the opera house. Speeches were made by Governor Curry, Delegate Andrews, G. W. Pritchard, T. B. Catron and others. Reference to "Andrews and statehood" by the speakers brought cheers. San Marcel is an enthusiastic unit for statehood and the Republican majority here will be large.

At 11:30 the whole party, accompanied by many residents of San Marcel, left on a special train for San Antonio, arriving there at 12:30. Two hundred people and a band met at the depot and on the arrival of the party every business house in town was closed for the rest of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Allaire entertained the delegate and party at dinner and a 2 o'clock a big meeting was held at the school house. Speeches were made by members of the party and after the meeting the crowd escorted the party to the train. At Socorro the train stopped only long enough for one hundred enthusiastic statehooders to get aboard. The Socorro band was taken along and on arrival at Magdalena it headed a long procession from the train to a hall where a big meeting was held. Three hundred people met the party at the train and the attendance at the mass meeting was so large that the hall was insufficient to hold all who wanted to hear the speeches.

Following the meeting the entire party was entertained at a big dinner given by the people of Magdalena and then the party left for Socorro, where an evening meeting was scheduled.

Socorro was one blaze of red fire and enthusiasm when the party arrived and the meeting here was a fitting end to a busy day, one of the busiest the party has had since the start of the campaign.

Socorro turned out en masse and it was the biggest meeting ever held in this town. Speeches were made by Delegate Andrews, Governor Curry, H. O. Bursum and others, and the crowd cheered for Andrews and statehood. Mayor Bursum was given an ovation when he arose to speak.

The Republican majority in Socorro county this year will be unprecedented.

Meeting at Melrose.

Melrose, N. M., Oct. 28.—Ex-Governor Otero and Ralph C. Ely, of Deming, last night addressed the largest political meeting of the year here. The governor was in fine voice and happily presented the attitude of prominent men on the selection of a delegate and the situation as regards statehood. He strongly endorsed Governor Curry's administration and urged the election of Mr. Andrews as the quickest and surest way to secure statehood.

Mr. Ely has been in the locality for several days and was cordially received. He presented the view that statehood is highly desirable but exceedingly difficult to attain. He depicted the objections urged by congressmen and pictured the type of man to overcome those objections, concluding with a happy presentation of the name of Andrews and an earnest appeal to set aside partisanship and vote for the end to be attained.

Both speakers were frequently interrupted by applause and the audience plainly indicated a kindly feeling for Andrews as the man to get statehood.

TRIAL SET FOR NOV. 13.

Rowell, N. M., Oct. 28.—The trial of former Governor M. A. Otero, who was indicted here for buying liquor for students of the New Mexico Military Institute, is set for November 13. Former Attorney General George W. Pritchard will represent Otero. It is said that Mr. Otero's son will be a witness against his father.

STATEHOOD FOR NEW MEXICO

We favor the immediate admission of the territories of New Mexico and Arizona as separate states in the Union.—Republican National Platform.

In Bernalillo County

As reports come in from one county after another that W. H. Andrews will carry them by good state majorities, his election becomes assured. It is now only a question of how large his total majority will be, as stated by this paper some days ago.

There are only a few more days until election and the time is short in which to do much more effective campaigning. It is, therefore, very important that the Republicans of Bernalillo county should put their shoulders to the wheel and work for their county and legislative ticket and for Andrews and statehood.

This county will undoubtedly give Mr. Andrews a big majority. Bernalillo county can do great work for statehood by adding between one and two thousand votes to the Republican candidate's total.

That this will be the case seems assured. The local county and legislative ticket is one which no Republican can consistently oppose. It is a strong ticket made up of good, representative men and will be elected easily.

The Democratic ticket is weak; its candidates are unwilling sacrifices to the party bosses and some of them do not care whether they remain on the ticket or not. In fact, the ticket is a joke and will carry little weight in this county this fall.

The Democratic nominee for delegate to Congress is not the sort of a man to inspire confidence in the voters of this county, where Mr. Andrews has shown them that he has earned the title of the "man who does things."

The people of Bernalillo county are in the statehood fight heart and soul. They want statehood and they want it from the next session of Congress. They have every confidence in the ability and influence of Mr. Andrews to secure the enabling act and they know that Mr. Larrazolo could not accomplish anything were he sent to Washington.

The people of Bernalillo county have seen Mr. Andrews secure for this county alone $160,000 in appropriations from one session of Congress and they consider that as very strong evidence that he can make good his promise to secure statehood.

But every Republican in this county owes it to the territory and to himself as a good citizen to work for the election of the Republican ticket from top to bottom and especially for Andrews and statehood.

The Democratic party, particularly in Bernalillo county, is badly disorganized and greatly discouraged. The Republicans have never had a better chance to roll up a record breaking majority all down the line and it is to be hoped that they will make use of the opportunity.

"Andrews and statehood" is the only issue. A vote for one is a vote for the other.

Just Worry

A rather remarkable illustration of what worry, accompanied by a vivid imagination, will do is instanced by the case of a young girl who is in a hysterical condition in one of the New York hospitals and who is expected to die from sheer fright, and nothing else. She is suffering from pseudo, or imaginary hydrophobia and at times she develops symptoms approaching those with which persons afflicted with rabies are wont to suffer.

Not long ago this girl was helping to care for a woman who had been suddenly stricken insane and while she was handing this patient a glass of water the woman bit her on the cheek. Some one told the girl that this woman had previously been bitten by a mad dog and, although this was not so, the girl began to worry and actually fretted herself into a state where she has some of the symptoms of the awful disease. This girl was never in the slightest of danger from the trifling wound that the mad woman inflicted on her cheek but she is now in grave peril, entirely because of her imagination.

It is not unusual for persons who have been bitten by dogs to worry themselves into a condition where they show symptoms of rabies to a greater or less degree, even though the dogs were known not to be mad. But in the case of the girl in question, she was neither bitten by a dog nor was the woman who bit her, and so her terrible condition is purely the result of imagination. Here is a most remarkable case and is attracting great attention among the medical fraternity in New York City, who are using most heroic efforts to save the girl's life although there is little hope of so doing. And surely from this case there is a lesson to be learned by everyone and especially the people who are prone to nervousness. It is never well to let the imagination have full sway nor is it well to jump at conclusion and worry accordingly. Probably many cases of real rabies have been developed more through fright than because of dog bites, as there are a number of dogs which are not afflicted with rabies but which will bite persons at any and every opportunity and whose bites are not harmful in the least.

In Oklahoma the permanent capital location is a live issue. At the coming election there will be submitted a proposition to erect the capitol on some central site, which is now a vast prairie. The plan, which is utopian and not without alluring features, is for the state to buy several sections of land now vacant, or used wholly for farm purposes, take such territory as is needed for a capitol and then sell the rest as city lots where a large city is expected to form about the capitol. The attractive feature of the scheme lies in the profit to the state. A capitol costing a million dollars—or five million dollars—could easily be built from the proceeds of city lot sales. Then there are sundry other schemes such as consolidation of all state institutions at this one center. The university now at Norman, the Agricultural college at Stillwater, the penitentiary not yet fully established, the insane asylums and other institutions could all be erected and maintained from the price of town lots. Oklahoma has tried several new schemes of government in her constitution, and it is not impossible that the great townsite deal may go through. There are thousands of individuals in Oklahoma who have been made rich by townsite schemes, and why not the state itself?—Wichita Beacon.

The Atchison Globe tells a homely truth as follows: A very tired woman realized that she was about to die. The fruit was not all put up, there was the fall house-cleaning to do, and the children's clothes to be made for school and so many other things needing attention that she felt it was nothing short of selfishness for her to lie down and die, and leave so much undone. But the doctors told her she was going; there was no help for it, and was there a last word she wanted to say. "Well then," she said, thinking of the sewing, cooking, cleaning etc. "to put on my tombstone just these words: 'Mother Has Gone on Her First Vacation.'"

Several suffragettes in England are evidently making their plans to develop into martyrs of some sort. They prefer the humiliation of serving terms in jail, which have been pronounced against them for divers bits of disorderly conduct, rather than give bonds for their good behavior in the future. It has ever been a generally accepted theory that real out and out ladies are always on their good behavior. But probably the English suffragettes are of another brand. From their actions, it would seem so.

DAILY SHORT STORIES

THE EYES OF THE STATUE

By Harold Carter.

Fayant was a good fellow after all, thought King, as he sat with him in his studio, slowly sipping his whiskey and smoking one of his cigars. All the more so because Fayant had been desperately in love with Caroline Hadley. Yet he had been the first to congratulate him on their engagement and was to be best man at the ceremony.

And a genius, there was no doubt of it. One of those odd, erratic fellows who are likely to stir the world some day, and always pass through periods of probationary misfortune, and are invariably crossed in love.

Odd, that Caroline should have accepted him and thrown Fayant over—Fayant, whose modeled "Pan" had won such extravagant praise at the exhibition of fine arts, and whose "Baseball Pitcher" was to be unveiled in the studio that evening, when Caroline came.

It was drowsy, that hot summer evening.

"Where is the 'Baseball Pitcher'?" he asked Fayant, trying to shake off the sleep that oppressed him.

"I'll show you soon," Fayant laughed. "Yes, it's here in this room, though you can't see it. What time will Miss Hadley be here? At 8? She shall see it when she arrives. Come, take another drink and I'll put the bottle away."

King drank again, while Fayant watched him through narrowing eyelids. The sculptor's words seemed now nothing but a jumble of sound; he strove to wake—and then—

He could not recollect what had happened. He could not stir hand or foot, cry out or open his eyes. He felt as if enclosed in a coffin and the air that he drew, through a small tube in his mouth, was almost stifling. Only he was conscious that he stood half upright, his right arm thrown over his head.

Presently as if from a long distance he heard the voice of Fayant.

"My dear King," said the sculptor, "I perceive from a slight movement of the left hand, which I must prevent by another coating, that you are conscious. Perhaps you wonder where you are. You have no doubt heard of curare, a drug used by vivisectionists, which deprives its victims of all power of speech and generally of movement, while permitting them the full use of their reasoning faculties. You asked for the 'Baseball Pitcher.' My dear friend you are the baseball pitcher, cast in plaster—of-paris and now rapidly hardening, and next week, when a bronze cast has been taken from you, you will electrify New York by your fidelity to life.

"You curl!" he shouted, his anger overpowering him. "Do you know what I have suffered seeing you and Caroline making sheep's eyes at one another in my presence? Now you shall suffer, too; you shall see her come here tonight and admire you and you shall be to her nothing but a statue. My dear King," he added, "you are remarkably life-like. Allow me to fix that straw so that you can breathe a little longer."

Fayant had balanced the body of his victim with such fiendish skill that, placed in position against a prop, it exactly resembled that of a thrower in the act of pitching the ball. As the plaster hardened the imprisoned man suffered intolerable agony. He strained with all his power to open his eyes, but the plaster weighed them down. His only sense was that of hearing, supplied, as he calculated, through the medium of minute openings in the plaster ears.

It was eons and eons after when he heard voices again.

"Where is Mr. King?" he heard a woman's voice exclaim. "Well, if he isn't here I oughtn't to stay."

"One moment, Miss Hadley," said Fayant. "This is the statue." And he drew the cloth from over the pitcher.

"Why, it looks like Mr. King!" cried the girl. "Mr. Fayant, was he your model? And you did this for me?"

The voices became inaudible. She was going away! Wildly King struggled within his torture prison. The effect of the drug still held him, but he felt his eyelashes quiver. One mighty effort—and he had thrust back the thin film which covered his eyes and opened them.

Suddenly he heard Caroline scream. She was looking at him directly, her eyes turned full upon his own. And, all thought of the sculptor forgotten, she stretched out her arms, just as a groan burst from King's throat and he fainted away.

"My dear boy, wake up!" cried Fayant, shaking him by the arm. "You'll get a stiff neck sleeping with your head over the arm of the chair. Wake up, wake up; here comes Miss Hadley."

S.S.S. BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

The entire inner portion of our bodies is covered with a soft, delicate lining called mucous membrane; this is kept in healthy condition by the nourishment and vital vigor it receives from the blood. So long as the circulation remains pure this membrane will be healthy, but when the blood becomes infected with catarrhal impurities and poisons this inner lining of the body becomes irritated and diseased, and the unpleasant and serious symptoms of Catarrh commence. There is a tight, stuffy feeling in the nose, watery eyes, buzzing noises in the ears, often slight deafness, difficult breathing, etc. The disease cannot be reached by external treatment, though such measures afford temporary relief in some instances. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impurities and poisons. Then as rich, pure blood circulates through the body, the inflamed, irritated membranes heal, the discharges cease, headaches are relieved and every symptom disappears. Catarrh, being a disease in which the entire blood circulation is affected, can only be cured by a remedy that goes to the very bottom and removes every particle of the impurity from the blood, and this is just what S. S. S. does. Look on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who write.

Some Reasons Why The C

Because The Citizen is a home paper. It is either delivered by carrier at the house or is carried home by the business man when his day's work is done and it STAYS THERE. A morning paper is usually carried down town by the head of the family and hurriedly read.

The Citizen is not read hurriedly, but thoroughly, so that all advertisements receive their share of attention. It presents the store news a little ahead, giving the prospective purchaser time to plan a shopping tour for the next morning.

Wise advertisers patronize The Citizen because they know their advertisements are seen and read at the homes in the evening, and if they are offering something worthy of attention, their ad has accomplished its mission.

The Citizen has never given premiums to subscribers, but is subscribed to and paid for on the newsstands, showing that its subscribers have money with which to buy what they want from legitimate merchants. These are the people The Citizen invites to your store.

The Citizen employs a man whose business it is to look after your advertising wants. He will write your copy if you wish. If not, he will see that your ads are "set up" to look their best and he will attend to them from day to day.

Are you advertising in The Citizen? Your competitors are, and are profiting by it. Do you think conservative business men are spending money where they are not getting results? Get in the swim and watch your business grow.

LONDON ELECTS A NEW LORD MAYOR

His Election Was the Usual Form, But He Has to Spend $100,000 in Feasting.

London, Oct. 23.—London has another lord mayor. This time it is Sir George Wyatt Truscott, who has been inaugurated with all the pomp and ceremony which attends this perennial function that has remained practically unaltered for about 500 years.

One of the chief recommendations of the honored and honorable gentleman is his extreme youthfulness—for London—just fifty-one years. Another recommendation for which highest praises have been sounded throughout the British press, consists in the fact that during the year that he was sheriff he "attended 186 public dinners without in the least endangering his digestion, and," says the glowing account of his gastronomic achievements, "Sir George is quite prepared to undergo the ordeal cheerfully again." When it is remembered that the city companies of London are compelled—whether they want to or not, of course—to spend $100,000 a year in feasting, the task before the new lord mayor will not be regarded as an easy one. It goes without saying that Sir George is neither a vegetarian nor a nut-eater, neither teetotaler nor tea fiend. He likes the "cup that cheers" and the dinner that satisfies. Therefore, he is considered by everyone to be one of the most promising incumbents who has ever had the honor of sitting in the chair once occupied by Dick Whittington and his cat.

All the London papers recently gave columns of space to details of how the lord mayor was elected by a show of hands of the aldermen and how the latter went to the voting place after it had been sprinkled with "sweet smelling herbs"—in memory of the plague which occurred in London back somewhere in the dark ages. Though the farce of electing a man whom everybody knew a year before was sure to be "it" was duly gone through with. Sir George responded by a rousing speech, expressing his "surprise and gratitude," etc., etc. "for the honor which had been conferred upon him," etc., etc.

Despite the fact that Sir George Wyatt Truscott has been compelled to go through the perennial puppet-show and in spite of his mastery of the prandial art, he is a good man, with the best of records. His grandfather was a "corporator," which indicates his connection with the ancient city companies in an honorable way; while his late father, Sir Francis Wyatt Truscott, was alderman in 1871 and became lord mayor in 1879. So, Sir George, in occupying his present post, is literally "following in the footsteps of his father."

The new lord mayor has not only been "something in the city" for many years, but has really been nearly everything it is possible to be in the city throughout his life, from member of the court of common council to sheriff, magistrate and other dignified things. He is a member of various city companies, including the haberdashers', stationers', muscians', and vintners'. He is also a distinguished Mason.

As a business man, he has long been known as a hustler, with a capital "H." He has interests in no end of successful firms and is the principal of James Truscott & Sons, printers and manufacturing stationers. He is a director of the City of London Brewery company, Chubb's Safe and Lock company, a big life insurance company and other commercial enterprises. Naturally enough he is a millionaire and the $50,000 he will be expected to spend while in office will not give him neuralgia of the pocket nerve.

Personally he is a handsome man—lord mayors always are—and speaks French fluently, for which, by the way, he was decorated by Louiset in 1903. He also possesses an order conferred upon him by King Leopold. The lord mayor has two sons and two daughters.

FAMILY TIED UP IN MARRIAGE TANGLE

Woman Weds Husband's Son, Who Leaves Her For Her Daughter, Ignoring Divorce Laws.

New York, Oct. 23.—A most amazing story of matrimonial complications, including four frankly admitted by women in one family, has come to light through the attempt of Mrs. David Seidel of 356 Grand street, Brooklyn, to bring a divorce action against her husband a few days ago.

Among some of the things which Mrs. Seidel did and confesses are these:

Married George Longell, Sr., knowing he had two wives living.

Married George Longell, Jr., her husband's son by a previous marriage, without being divorced.

Allowed George Longell, Jr., while he was still her husband, to marry her daughter Ada, who was his own half-sister and daughter of his own father.

Married, without divorcing George Longell, Jr., David Seidel, her present husband.

Added to all these complications is another. David Seidel, according to the woman, tired of her and won the affections of the young wife of her son, William Longell. He left Mrs. Seidel, she says, and went to live with young Mrs. Longell.

Mrs. Seidel, when she went to Attorney Andrew J. Smith to ask him to get her a divorce, told him nothing about her previous matrimonial ventures. She merely narrated Seidel's alleged misconduct and named young Mrs. Longell. The attorney went ahead, served papers upon Seidel and brought suit in the Brooklyn supreme court.

When Seidel received the papers he called upon the lawyer and told him what he knew about his wife's previous marriages and her family history. Mr. Smith summoned his client and she admitted that she had had a very much checkered career. The attorney thereupon threw up his hands in astonishment and abandoned the case.

According to Mrs. Seidel's own admissions, this is the story of her career.

Thirty years ago, when she was 18 years old, she married George Longell, Sr., who was then considerably older than she and had five children. "Yes, I knew he had been married twice before and that both wives were living," she said. "But he wasn't living with them, so I thought it was all right."

Ten years later, when George, Jr., a son of one of the former wives, was in his early twenties, he fell in love with her and proposed marriage. She married him, the ceremony taking place in Jersey City.

"That seemed all right, too," the woman commented. "Old George made no objection and I liked young George, so why shouldn't I have married him? No, we didn't think about any divorce."

By this time the woman had four children by "Old George"—William, Ada, Theodore and Sarah. Ada at the time was 18 years old.

The tangle of relationships is hard to figure out. Mrs. Longell (senior) and junior at the same time) was not only wife, but stepmother to her young husband. To her own children she was both mother and step-mother-in-law. To the other children "Old George" brought to her when he married her, she was stepmother and sister-in-law.

To "Young George" the woman bore three children. She was both mother and step-grandmother to them. Her husband was both father and step-brother to the little ones.

After the birth of the last of these three, "Young George" fell in love with Ada, his stepmother-in-law's daughter. Despite the fact that she was of his father's own blood, and his wife's own blood, he went to his wife and asked permission to marry Ada.

"I couldn't refuse," the woman explained. "They loved each other, so I bought Ada a new dress and George a new pair of trousers and stood up with them when they were married. With 'Young George' and Ada, however, did not leave the house where they had lived as stepfather and daughter, now that they were man and wife. 'Young George' even divided his affections between the old and the younger Ada. His wife had two children.

To these George was both father and step-uncle. The elder Ada was both grandmother and step-aunt. The relationships of the two Adas were those of co-wives and mother and daughter.

When things were in this mixed-up state—the time was three years ago—Mrs. Longell (Jr.) only by now, as old George had died, fell in love with David Seidel.

Just before this time William Longell, the woman's son by "Old George," married a French Canadian girl and set up a home for himself in Staten Island. After his mother's marriage to Seidel, he moved with his wife to Brooklyn.

Seidel, according to his wife, first met William's wife there and fell in love with her. There he won her away from her husband and set up another home for her, after he had deserted his wife. That is the act in which Mrs. Longell-Seidel is trying to get a divorce.

At present she has no lawyer and probably will have a hard time in

BEAUTIFUL SPANISH GIRL CAPTIVATES ALL EUROPE

SENORITA LEONORA.

London, Oct. 23.—Ballet in England, when well done, is just as popular as it was a century ago. The home of ballet here is the magnificent Alhambra theater. For some time Mlle. Genée has been the rage, but as she will not dance this year the public has turned to Senorita Leonora, a beautiful Spanish dancer, who has created a furore on the continent. Not only is she a great dancer, but also a noted beauty.

Everybody concerned in the remarkable mix-up is a regular attendant at one or another of several Brooklyn churches. The children all go to school and are bright and clean. The elders are all fairly prosperous. They discuss the case and the complicated relationships with the utmost freedom.

A BOY OF SEVEN CONTROLS SPIRITS

St. Louis Woman Says Her Son Has Wonderful Powers.

New York, Oct. 23.—Declarations that her 7-year-old son, Junior, has been a clairvoyant from his birth accompany a description of astonishing power manifested in her own household which Mrs. Jordan W. Lambert, wife of a wealthy chemical manufacturer of St. Louis, has submitted to Prof. James H. Hyslop of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert are widely known in New York. They were here within the last few days and had a consultation with Prof. Hyslop, who is the executive secretary of the American Society of Psychical Research, of which both are members.

The account which Mrs. Lambert gives of the manifestations fills seventy pages of the current number of the journal of the society. The high social standing of the writer of the observations has caused the publication to be widely discussed, and the incidents set forth are being commented upon by students of psychics.

Connected with the demonstrations is William Hannegan, employed by the Lamberts as an attendant and nurse for their son. He is described by Prof. Hyslop as being an interesting subject as he was ever called upon to investigate.

Hannegan comes of a respectable family and in his boyhood he was well instructed in the school of hard work and adversity. He himself until only seven months ago was not aware of his own strange gifts. He was graduated last April from the St. John hospital training school for nurses in his native city and then was engaged as an attendant for Junior Lambert, who was far from strong.

He, while engaged in his studies, had been employed in Mr. Lambert's private office and it was a few days after he had been transferred to the home of his employer that the first manifestations are reported to have happened. A large table, as if suddenly bewitched, according to Mrs. Lambert, followed him about the room. Since that time demonstrations have become continuous. It seemed as though all the spirits were ready to bow to the bidding of this unwitting medium.

CATTLE MARKET TAKES LOWER TURN

Falling Off in Receipts Did Not Bring Higher Prices Expected.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Oct. 23.—Although there was a reduction of twenty thousand head in cattle receipts here last week as compared with recent weeks, the market shaded downward, all but the best fed steers closing 10 to 20 cents lower for the week. Fleecy feeders were another exception, offerings in this class finding a ready sale. The run is 10,000 head, less than half the normal supply, the shortage account of storms and washouts last few days in Kansas and Oklahoma.

The market is 10 to 15 cents higher today, including all kinds, calves 25 to 50 cents higher, and a greater advance would have been secured had not buyers known that heavier receipts will arrive later in the week. Cattle direct from the range are scarce today, but more were received last week than any week before this season. Colorado beef steers sell at $2.75 to $4.25, stockers $3.25 to $4.25, a few show steers last week at $4.25 to $4.75; cows and heifers $2.75 to $3.65, bulls $2.70.

Panhandle and New Mexico beef steers are selling at $3.35 to $4.25, including a big string of Old Mexico steers last week at $3.40, stockers and feeders $3.00 to $4.25, with a few common steers below $3.00, cows $2.75 to $3.20, bulls $2.25 to $2.65, calves $3.50 to $5.50.

Sheep and lambs sold slowly and at 10 to 25 cents lower prices last week, but the market is sharply higher today. Receipts were 43,000 head last week, 8,000 here today top lambs today $5.75, 25 cents higher than anything last week, fair to good lambs $4.00 to $5.50, yearlings $4.00 to $4.50, wethers $3.75 to $4.20, ewes $3.50 to $4.10, stock and feeding stuff $3.25 to $4.00, breeding ewes up to $4.25, feeding lambs $4.25 to $4.75. A larger percentage of receipts are stock grades than formerly, as the end of the range season is approaching and packers complain of poorer killing qualities of their purchases.

SOLVES THE PUZZLE OF ROTARY ENGINE

Boston Engineer Invents Marvel Over Which Inventors Have Worked for Years.

Boston, Oct. 23.—J. Emory Harriman Jr., a civil and consulting engineer of Boston, declares he has succeeded in actually solving that puzzle of generations—a genuine rotary engine! What this means in importance may be realized from the fact that a rotary, which is essentially an engine in which the steam or compressed air is made to drive a wheel in the same general direction in which the steam, gas or air flows, is at once an engine cheaper and simpler in build, and lighter than either the reciprocating turbine or other styles of motive machines. The vital problem of airship construction, for instance, is to secure the lightest engine with the greatest power.

The Harriman invention may go far toward a solution of this phase of the airship's difficulties. For several years Harriman has been in communication with and watching the progress of the Wrights and others in effort to successfully fly.

His theories and plans being followed by notable engineering authorities, among them professors at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Harriman had a shipbuilding firm in South Boston construct what was to be a five-horsepower rotary. Although this firm had at various times built four or five models for other hopeful solvers of the rotary puzzle and which were utter failures, their surprise may be imagined when this one worked!

The problem of constructing a rotary engine was tried as far back as the day of Sir James Watt and by that genius himself, but he failed. Since then scores of inventors have essayed the task. The problem which to the uninitiated might seem almost absurdly simple has been almost insurmountable. The tormenting phase of the puzzle was essentially this: Friction and leakage. To tighten the packing so as to reduce the leakage of the steam or compressed air was to increase the friction. To loosen the packing to reduce friction was to increase the leakage.

The working part of the Harriman rotary depends upon the general fact that upon the shaft running through the engine compartments are attached a series of power wheels the shaft piercing them at a point a fraction of an inch from their exact center. Each of these pistons is circular in shape. Above the piston on another common shaft running through all the compartments, Harriman hangs by means of a pivot a carefully adjusted metallic flap with a projection reaching to the other wall of the steam chamber. This flap is situated between the points of ingress and egress of the steam or air.

Had a Close Call.

Mrs. Ada L. Croom, the widely known proprietor of the Croom Hotel, Yonkers, N. Y., says: "For several months I suffered with a severe cough, and consumption seemed to have its grip on me when a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery. I began taking it, and three bottles affected a complete cure." The fame of this life saving cough and cold remedy, and lung and throat healer is world wide. Sold at all dealers 50c and $1.00. PLAYS WITH MRS. FISKEMiss Constance Abbott Takes Up Theatrical Life After Study in New York.Friends of Miss Constance Abbott, daughter of Judge Ira A. Abbott, have received word that the Albuquerque girl is making a success as a member of Mrs. Fiske's company, now on tour.
Miss Abbott has been studying in New York for some time, preparing for a theatrical career and was recently engaged as a member of Mrs. Fiske's company, taking a principal part in "Salvation Nell," the play with which Mrs. Fiske will tour the west later in the season.
Miss Abbott has written several plays herself and some of them have been staged. She is known as a clever writer and her friends in this city believe she will have a promising career, her ability to play a part with a high class company, such as that headed by Mrs. Fiske, giving good basis for such belief. As Mrs. Fiske expects to appear in the west later in the season Albuquerqueans will look forward to the opportunity of seeing Miss Abbott on the stage.PRISONER MAY BE FEIGNING INSANITYStrange Actions of Samuel Fites Since His Arrest Worry Officers.The ravings of John McCullough were nothing to those of Samuel Fites, the artist-photographer, who is in the county jail awaiting trial on the charge of having in his possession stolen property. Fites first showed symptoms of madness when confined in the city jail awaiting preliminary hearing. He yelled at the top of his voice and saw things. He said that a man was after him with a club. County Physician Pearce was called in to examine the man for insanity. The doctor said that he did not believe that the man was demented. Yesterday at the county jail, when Deputy Sheriff Heyn attempted to unlock the cage in which Fites was confined, the lock stuck for a moment. Fites, who had been watching through the bars, jumped back and yelled in thrilling tones: "Ah, you can't unlock it; you can't unlock it. I have put the spirits in it. It's fast for good. You will never unlock it again, for evermore."
The lock yielded, however, to the key and Fites fled into a corner of the cell.
Deputy Sheriff Heyn said today that he thought the man was feigning insanity.ENGLAND FACES DEFICIT.
London, Oct. 28.—A return issued last night shows the remarkable decrease of $4,415,682 in the revenue of the United Kingdom during the financial half year ending yesterday.
The problem which confronts the government is an extremely grave
one. Mr. Asquith estimated a total decrease of $2,187,690 in revenue for the year. Should present conditions prevail for the remainder of the year, however, the actual decrease will be $8,837,364. The matter is especially serious in view of the increased expenditure to which the government is pledged. The money with which it was intended to pay old age pensions has vanished.
In addition the government has admitted that a large sum, not accounted for in the estimates must be spent on naval construction, and this will add to the difficulty of the problem.TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY.

ASSAULT CASE
HEARD AT ALAMEDAMartin, Charged With Assaulting Little Girl, Is Bound Over and Comes to Jail Here.A telephone message from Alameda this afternoon said that Santos Martin, charged with criminally assaulting Leina, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brown, respectable ranch people there, was bound over to the grand jury this afternoon by Justice of the Peace Ru-maldo Montoya under $2,000. Martin left there at 3 o'clock this afternoon in custody of Constable Camello Lucero for Albuquerque to be placed in the county jail. It is not believed that he will be able to furnish bond.
The alleged victim of Martin's uncontrollable passion took the stand and between tears told of the dreadful experience which she had at the hands of the brute. She was on her way home from the store at Alameda when the man approached her. It was about 7 o'clock and quite dark. She thought it was Martin. The man grabbed her and dragged her some distance from the road, where he violently assaulted her. The little girl was brought here yesterday by her father for medical attention and is in a rather serious condition. Martin maintains that he did not see the girl last night.RUMORED CHANGE IN eye was swollen shut and the other was in bad condition.At the hospital Hurley revived

HEIRS TO CONTEST ALL ROSEBUD CLAIMS

Children of Nebraska Outlaw Will Bring Suit for Possession of Land.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The missing daughter of "Jack" Sully, the South Dakota outlaw, who occupied Rosebud reservation for more than half a century before he was killed by the federal officers six years ago, has been located in Chicago. She is declared to be Trixie Sing, the wife of Louis Sing, a millionaire Chinese. Captain Martin Peterson of the First regiment Illinois National guard, who was sent to Rosebud during the land registration in an effort to locate Sully's missing daughter for a Chicago real estate firm, has returned with information that leads him to believe that Mrs. Sing is the one who, as a child, was stolen from that reservation twenty-two years ago. The result may be a contest of all the claims in Rosebud. It is expected that the heirs of Sully will claim title to the reservation on the ground that it was occupied by the notorious cattle rustler for longer than twenty years.

Four of Sully's five children are now living in South Dakota. The third daughter was stolen by a white man when she was two years old.

ANOTHER RACE AT SKATING RINK

Participants in Former Races Want the Speed Question Definitely Settled.

Since the recent racing contest at the rink between Harry Nelsonger, of Denver, and Cortez Quickle, of Albuquerque, which was won by the latter, considerable discussion has arisen among the friends of each, as to which has greater speed. Nelsonger's friends claim the short turns in the rink here were responsible for his defeat, while Quickle's friends claim Quickle had no advantage on this account. In order to settle the question definitely, another series of three races, beginning tonight will be skated, each race to be the same distance, one mile, as before. Nelsonger is anxious to regain lost laurels, and Quickle is equally anxious to retain the championship which he has so successfully defended, so the coming races promise to be unusually fast and interesting.

A very attractive bill of moving pictures will be shown before each race, and tonight between pictures Prof. O'Brien will make some high class violin solos.

OFFERS TWENTY ACRE TRACT FOR PARK TO CITY

Pasture to be Cut Up Into Lots and Put on the Market by Robinson Heirs.

Albuquerque will have a twenty-acre park, with driveways and flower gardens and a lake in it, if the wishes of J. G. Darden, the well known capitalist, are carried out. Mr. Darden, Joshua S. Reynolds of the First National bank, and the heirs of the D. B. Robinson estate own 125 acres of land lying between the western boundary of the city and the Rio Grande, and south of a line running west from Gold avenue. The owners of the property contemplate platting the property and throwing it upon the market in residence lots, and to give the lots increased value they are considering giving the city twenty acres for a park, providing the city will accept the same and make it into a park.

Mr. Darden, the father of the scheme, is willing to make the concession to the city at once. Mr. Reynolds, who is expected in the city within the next few days, has had the matter under consideration for some time and is expected to make his wishes known at once. The heirs of the Robinson estate, it is understood, have agreed to the proposition.

Mr. Darden, when asked this morning if it was true that he and Mr. Reynolds proposed making the city a present of twenty acres for a park, said that it was. He said that they had been considering it for some time, and was ready to sign over his part of the tract at once if the other owners would do likewise.

"We propose to make that strip of valley land as desirable for residences as that part of the city lying directly north of it, which is the most fashionable residence district of the city," continued Mr. Darden. "The river will be diked to prevent the floods and all the low places will be filled up to the level of the city. We will give the twenty acres for the park anywhere in the tract the city may desire, either next to the river or along Barajas road. While the land now brings in a large revenue as a pasture, we believe that it would be more valuable both to the city and to us as city lots. We offer the park site because we believe that it will ultimately make the remainder of the property more valuable. The parking of the ground could be done at a very small cost to the city. The ground is very rich and water is to be had at a very few feet depth. Grass grows there and so do trees without irrigation. It would not require very much excavation to make a very beautiful little lake, which, surrounded with trees planted right away, would in a few years give the city a park well worthy of the name. The ground would be platted to the river's edge and a fine drive along the water's edge could be made with very little work. It would necessitate the expenditure of a large amount of money by us but I am willing to do my part whenever the others are."

The proposed park would lie west of where Lead and Coal avenues intersect Barajas road. If a new bridge is ever built across the river in the place of Barajas bridge, an effort will be made to have it built a few hundred yards up the river from the old one. This will greatly improve that part of the city which lies between Coal and Central avenue and about as strongly for the placing of the Darden-Reynolds-Robinson tract of land on the market as residence property. The close proximity of the land to the central part of the city makes it doubly valuable both as residence property and as a park site.

SLUGGAR OF BARNETT HELD TO GRAND JURY

He Was Arrested Last Night by Officer Cooper and Waived Preliminary Hearing.

Jacob Fisher, the self-confessed assailant of Joseph Barnett, who was struck and severely injured in the stairway of his home in the postoffice building at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, waived preliminary hearing in Judge Craig's court this morning, and failing to give bond was transferred to the county jail to await the action of the next term of court, which will occur next March.

Fisher was arrested at 7 o'clock last night in a room at the Los Angeles house, 215 South Third street, by Assistant Marshal Harry Cooper. The officers learned early Monday evening that Fisher was still in the city. After failing in his attempt to rob Barnett he ran through Silver avenue to the railroad yards, then south to a point below the viaduct, where he turned west and came back into the city. Within an hour after the attempted robbery he was knocking at the door of a friend living at the Damiana residence on North Fourth street, asking to be admitted. He was not admitted, however, and slept in the stable in the rear, where children saw his legs sticking out from under some hay. He was asked into the house and given his breakfast and a hat. He said that he must have lost his hat in the hay.

Fisher slept in some trash in the rear of a Central avenue store Monday night and early Tuesday morning went to the Los Angeles house. While the police were aware of his whereabouts most of the day Monday and Monday night Fisher gave them the slip Tuesday morning when he went to the Los Angeles house. He was again located in the evening and Officer Cooper called there about 6 o'clock, but found his man had gone.

ALBUQUERQUE CITIZEN.

The officer learned that Fisher had been in his room all day and believed that he had gone out to get something to eat and that he would go to a friend who was working in the Home bakery.

Officer Cooper went to the Home bakery but Fisher was not there. Returning to the Los Angeles house at 7 o'clock he found Fisher in his room and placed him under arrest without difficulty. Fisher admitted the crime at once and made a full confession. He said that he had no ill feeling against Barnett but had assaulted him for the purpose of robbery. He said that he was without funds and was desperate.

Barnett went to the station to see Fisher, but could not identify him with any great assurance. He said that the stairway where he grappled with the man was very dark and that when the man ran he ran with his head down and he could not tell whether it was a white man or a negro.

With a brought from the steel cage in the city jail this morning before Judge Craig, Fisher wore a tailor-made, striped gray suit of fashionable cut, but soiled, a pair of patent leather buttoned shoes, turn-down collar and black tie. His linen was soiled and his hair and features showed lack of care but there was about him the evidence of good breeding. While he says that he is only 18 years old, his appearance is that of a man or 23 or even more. He is light complexioned, of tall, athletic build, slightly stooped at the shoulders, the stoop probably coming from his trade as a baker. He said that his father was the postmaster at Hastings, Neb., and well-to-do. The father was telegraphed last night of the son's difficulty and a return telegram was to the effect that the father knew the error of the son's ways and would not help his offspring in his present trouble.

On the advice of Chief of Police McMillin Fisher waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to a grand jury. His bond was fixed at $1,000.

Before leaving last night for Mexico Joseph Barnett swore out a complaint against Fisher, charging him with "armed with a deadly weapon, assault with intent to rob." The penalty for this crime is not more than five years nor less than one year in the penitentiary.

REPUBLICAN RALLY BROUGHT BIG CROWD

Speeches Were Made and Music Furnished by Band and Quartet.

A rousing meeting of the Republicans of this city was held at the headquarters of the Young Men's Republican club last evening, at which over three hundred voters packed the hall to listen to addresses by Attorney Frank Ackerman, Prof. J. A. Miller, principal of the Central high school, Attorney E. C. White and John W. Brown, a native of this territory but now of San Bernardino, Calif. The political situation in the territory as well as national issues were topics of the addresses and the mention of Taft and Andrews was greeted by tremendous applause from the listeners.

Music during the evening was furnished by the Leonard & Lindemann Boys' band and the colored quartet, the selections of both adding much to the evening's entertainment. Glasses were passed around and the meeting was one of the most successful ever held by the Republicans in this city. The meeting was presided over by the vice president of the club, D. M. Ferguson.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST OPIUM.
Paris, Oct. 28.—The new decree regulating the sale of opium in France is evidence that the government intends to carry on an active campaign against opium smoking. The drug and its extracts must be kept under lock and key by the wholesale dealers and chemists, etc., who must enter upon a register specially kept for the purpose the details of every transaction immediately it takes place, and there must be no blank spaces, erasures or additions.

Raw opium is only to be sold for medical purposes. It is prohibited to let premises for opium smoking or storing. Offenders can be sentenced to from six days to one month's imprisonment and fined from $20 to $500.

SEVEN MILLION UNEMPLOYED.
London, Oct. 28.—The management of the General Federation of Trade unions has issued a manifesto on unemployment. In which it is asserted that something like 7,500,000 human beings in this country are suffering because the bread winners are workless.

It bases its totals on the following calculation: There are 5,000,000 skilled workers in Great Britain, of whom 10 per cent are totally or partially unemployed.

For every skilled workman out of employment two unskilled men are workless. Each worker represents a family of five. With these facts in mind it is easy to produce the following little sum: Skilled workers unemployed, 500,000; unskilled workers unemployed, 1,000,000; their families, 4,000,000. Total, 7,500,000.

MISSING MAN'S BODY PRESERVED BY CHEMICALS.
Chicago, Oct. 28.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Kenosha, Wis., says: "The body of John Gillett, a son of the late Judge Gardin Gillett, who disappeared here Jan. 14, 1907, has been found in the Kenosha river yesterday. It is evident Gillett walked into the river on the night of his disappearance and was caught in the refuse at the bottom of the stream and held there."

"The river is filled with tar from the gas works and with acids from a large tannery, and these served as a preserving fluid to such an extent that notwithstanding the fact that the body had been in the water for nearly two years it was still possible to recognize the features."

VARSITY AND ARIZONA PLAY HERE THANKSGIVING

Big Game Is Scheduled and Albuquerque People Are Expected To Turn Out.

It was learned today that there would be no game this year between the football eleven of the Military Institute and the Agricultural college. The reasons for calling the game off could not be learned. One reason, it is believed, was because the two teams could not agree either on a day nor a place.

The football calendar for the territorial institutions now carries two games for Thanksgiving day. The farmers are going to play at El Paso and the university is going to play the Varsity of Arizona here. This latter game probably has more interest for this part of the territory than any other athletic event for the remainder of the year. This is the first time in many years that a New Mexico institution has ventured to bring Arizona college sports here for either baseball or football. It is a big undertaking and the boys from the hill should receive the hearty support of the city.

The University of Arizona is located at Prescott and the cost of bringing a football team here from there will be considerable. The effort, however, is worthy of commendation and the Varsity boys should not be permitted to come out loser. The game will be played on the Tractor park gridiron Thanksgiving day afternoon.

COMMERCIAL CLUB DANCE ELECTION NIGHT

Returns Will be Received at the Building for Benefit of Dancers.

One of the best club dances of the season will take place in the spacious dance hall of the Commercial club building next Tuesday evening instead of Wednesday evening as has been the custom in the past. The dance will be on election night and for the benefit of those interested in the outcome of the political situation, returns will be received at the club rooms, enabling the dancers to learn the results without leaving the building. The music for the occasion, as in the past, will be furnished by the Cavanaugh orchestra while refreshments will be served during the evening. Nothing is being spared in order that the event be made one of the best of the kind given this season and a record breaking crowd is looked for by the committee having the dance in charge.

OUTLAWS WORK IN STAGNANT OLD VIRGINIA

An Organized Gang Terrorizes Citizens in Buckingham County.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 25.—Outlaws, such as is credited with great exaggeration to the far west, is a reality in stagnant old Virginia. The people of Buckingham county, only a few hours ride from the national capital, are being terrorized by as bold and cold-blooded a gang as ever defied the law.

Murder, robbery, arson and brutal assaults have been committed by the desperados, an organized gang, openly and without fear of punishment. They have defied not only the local authorities but the power of the state.

Now they have sent out a threat that they will burn and sack the town of Arvonia and kill the inhabitants.

Women and children are being sent to places of safety. Men have armed and organized to defend their property and the region is in a state of war.

The disturbers are the Zimmerman-Thompson gang of outlaws and their hangers-on, in the morasses between the James and State rivers.

The Zimmerman-Thompson clan have ruled the county of Buckingham with an iron hand for three long years. The leaders, Benj. and Arthur Zimmerman and Wm. and Chas. Thompson, stand accused of every conceivable crime, from criminal assault to petty larceny.

The trouble between the outlaws and the people had its inception in the illegal manufacture and sale of whisky after such traffic had been forced out of the county by popular vote. The desperate character of the men protected them from interference until they finally became so bold that they distributed their contraband goods under the very eyes of the county authorities. They even went to the extent of levying tribute upon the country people. They gathered about them men of their own ilk until they were nearly a hundred strong. They defied the authority of the state itself.

The people were driven to retaliation against the outlaws a week ago. Following the attempted assassination of Matt Gregory, a well-known merchant and farmer, who was shot and dangerously wounded as he was returning to his home in the night. Two women whom he met in the woods gave the signal which resulted in the attack. A few nights later Chas. Newton, who had married a sister of Benj. Zimmerman, was shot and killed at his home at Paynes station. Newton a year ago has caused a warrant to be issued for the arrest of Zimmerman upon a charge of attempted criminal assault upon his wife. The warrant was never served, but Zimmerman promised to kill Newton upon sight. He kept his word.

The feud against Gregory was engendered by the activity of the latter in the arrest and conviction of the four leaders upon a minor larceny charge. They broke jail after a week of imprisonment, left a note for the sheriff, saying they would not again be taken alive, gathered their friends about them, and issued their challenge to the world.

A posse of citizens scoured the woods and hills for two days and nights without coming upon the outlaws, whose superior knowledge of the roads and paths enabled them to slip away in the darkness. It was believed that they had been driven beyond the borders of the county and the gang dispersed, but in less than a week they reappeared in their old haunts and resumed their old tricks of harassing the people.

WOMEN'S WOES.

Albuquerque Women Are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with aching pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. Ida Johnson, living at 414 North Fourth street, Albuquerque, N. M., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills quickly and effectively relieved me of pain in the back, which had troubled me at intervals for some time. Any preparation which acts as fully up to the claims made for them as Doan's Kidney Pills deserves unqualified praise. As a genuine kidney medicine I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

RICH MAN'S SON IN A MURDER MYSTERY

He Is Charged With Having Choked "The Diamond Girl" to Secure Her Jewels.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Embrued in a maze of circumstantial evidence, apparently wonderfully complete, Luman C. Mann, aged 23, indicted by the Cook county grand jury for first degree murder, is either the victim of perverse fate or one of the greatest scoundrels ever apprehended.

The indictment of young Mann has shaken Chicago in all directions, from exclusive Oak Park circles to the under world, where the young man was as well known as in the pretty suburb where his parents are prominent.

On June 30 Mrs. Frances Gilmore Thompson, known as the "diamond girl," from her passion for the gems, of which she owned many, although she sometimes sought employment as a domestic, was murdered in a rooming house.

The night of the crime the woman went to the house, accompanied by a man who registered as J. H. Raymond. Two days later, hands and feet bound with a cloth, the woman's body was discovered. She had been strangled.

The case promised to be one of the city's unsolved mysteries, for it was not until October 9 that an arrest was made. Then Mann, located in Phillipsburg, Pa., was identified by Mrs. Alice Hamilton, housekeeper at the rooming house where Mrs. Thompson was murdered, as J. H. Raymond, was apprehended. The son of a wealthy merchant, his arrest created a big stir and the action of the authorities was ridiculed by friends of the family.

The investigation by the police shows Mann in the role of black sheep. Young as he is, he has been twice married, a fact his parents did not know. Divorced from his first wife, he married Maud Shanks and deserted her within five months. She is the Nemesis who started the bloodhounds of the law after Mann.

"Never mind, little girl, this woman I am with will make me rich. She has promised me half her jewelry of diamonds, but I mean to get the whole of them if I have to choke her," is the statement Mrs. Mann credits her husband with making on June 30, when she upbraided him for deserting her.

It was on this day, the night of which Mrs. Thompson met her death, that Mann quit work and disappeared. Other evidence is given by Fred Bushcup, a storekeeper, who identified Mann as the person he sold a clothesline to about the time of the murder. A jeweler at Hammond, Ind., told the police that a day or so after the murder a man answering the description of the prisoner tried to sell him diamonds and jewelry that may have been Mrs. Thompson's.

Despite the denial by Mann that he ever knew Mrs. Thompson, the woman was employed at his home as domestic. This he explains in a long alibi statement, showing that he was away from home during the period she was employed.

The defense has built a strong alibi tending to prove that the prisoner could not have murdered Mrs. Thompson, as he was in another place at the time of the murder.

"Not only will we prove that Mann is innocent, but we will show that the real murderer was a Hindu, a man with whom the dead woman lived for at least two years, and who was insanely jealous of her," said Mann's attorney.

Working with Mann's family to prove his innocence are a number of Oak Park girls who went to school with the young man. Chief of his advocates is Miss Carrie Durr, who entertains a wonderfully tender spot in her heart for the prisoner.

FRENCH PLAYS MUST STAY IN NEW YORK

Old Tried and True Melodramas Will Be Sent West This Season.

New York, Oct. 25.—The theatrical trust has received a jolt, one involving the loss of real money, that may result in more or less elevation of the stage.

For years the trust has gone more and more out of bounds in serving plays for the New York public. There has been a steady progression from the drama of a social intrigue to a doleful and near-naked Salome in an apparent effort to achieve the Parisian standard. If that was the aim it was attended with a good degree of success artistically and with satisfactory financial results.

New York stood for it. The thousands of visitors who come here and contribute so much to the fatness of the treasury of the trust seemed to regard these stage attractions as a good substitute for gambling and paid their dollars cheerfully enough.

Having done so well in the big town, they proceeded, with bright anticipations, to cover the country with smut. And therefrom came the jolt. It was discovered that outside of New York there was a wholesome sentiment that did not welcome the Parisian drama. The first companies sent out met with a painful lack of patronage, even in those towns where police raids forced the trust to tone down or eliminate attractions.

that tender to bring suggestions of the tenderloin into a respectable environment. They were withdrawn.

As a result of this demonstration of disgust the west is to be favored with plays that may be a little less modern, but carry a better influence.

The latest edition of a routing guide shows 240 of these decent shows. These are known as dramatic companies. If the repertoire companies were added there would be 100 more. In contrast with this there are about 175 musical, stock, burlesque and minstrel shows going on the road. With the exception of about twelve, the 240 dramas deal with the vital emotions, such as love or justice or liberty.

Denman Thompson, 70 years young, playing the "Old Homestead," is as popular as he was years ago. In the southwest Thomas Jefferson is bringing people's emotions with "Rip Van Winkle," sixty years old, grand-daddy of all plays. Phoebe Davis, too, is out again with "Way Down East," for the fourteenth season. "Ben Hur," chiefly known for its chariot race, is on its tenth season, and its performances number over 3,000.

And there are a lot of other old favorites which the west will probably see, such as "In Old Kentucky" and "Monte Cristo" with James O'Neill. With the younger generation of plays there's Blanche Chapman with "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and the droll William Hodge with "The Man From Home." And also "The Witching Hour," Henry Miller with "The Great Divide," and Dustin Farnum with "The Squaw Man." Robert Maude is again playing Shakespeare, William Fickert will have "The Battle," and your friend, Blanche Walsh, will have "The Test."

Yes, there are a few new ones: Lillian Russell with "Wildfire," Eleanor Robson has been rehearsing "Vera, the Medium," for some time. Margaret Livingston is playing "The Thief," which has a little smattering of social intrigue, but is still fairly wholesome.

Douglas Fairbanks may win renown this season with his "Gentleman From Mississippi." Mrs. Fiske, the trust defier, will certainly make the lumps rise in your throat with the sweet, sad story of "Salvation Nell."

OPEN NEW BRIDGE WITH A CELEBRATION

Philadelphia, Oct. 25.—In a few weeks the great concrete bridge over Wissahickon creek will be dedicated open to the public. When this bridge is opened two suburbs formerly many miles apart will be brought close together. It is planned at the formal opening of the bridge to have the leading citizens of both suburbs march from opposite directions and meet in the center of the span.

The bridge is the largest in the world of pure concrete without reinforcement and is unique in many other ways. It has attracted attention among engineers all over the world. The chief engineer of London, Sir Maurice Fitzmaurice, who inspected it recently, declared it was worth a trip across the ocean to view the bridge.

The length of the bridge is 525 feet and its height from the bed of the Wissahickon 147 feet. The sweep of the main arch is 233 feet in length, while the approaching spans measure 53 feet each.

Nearly 300 men were employed more than two years to build the bridge, and 19,000 yards of concrete, weighing more than 40,000 tons, were used. Before the concrete work was begun an entire bridge of wood, called the false work, was erected. This false work was no small affair. It used up 350,000 feet of timber, 130 tons of structural steel, 20 tons of three-quarter-inch bolts and two tons of washers for the bolts.

The cost of the construction was $259,000.

PRINCE MAY WED DIVORCED AMERICAN

Newport, R. I., Oct. 25.—Newport's cottage settlement members are interested in the reported matrimonial intentions of Prince Vincent Zu Wintisch-Gratz of the Austria-Hungarian legation in Washington, and Mrs. Nathalie Schenck Collins, whose marriage to Captain Glen Collins of the British army in California six years ago startled her many friends in the Newport-New York set.

Glen Collins fell in love at first sight with the beautiful young woman in California and a special car was used in their short honeymoon about that state with her mother, Mrs. Spottswood Schenck, who was not in favor of the marriage.

Before Captain and Mrs. Collins went abroad they visited Newport, where they were received with open arms. While here Captain Collins, being short of ready funds, endeavored to borrow funds from Mrs. Collins' friends, who were willing and anxious to do anything for her, but not for him.

The couple then went abroad. Soon came the news of their separation and only last month came the divorce decree from Mrs. Collins in New York. Recently her father died, leaving mother and daughter a moderate fortune.

The prince came to Newport last month, occupying a handsome suite at the Metchingy King cottage, which was close to the Redwood cottage, where Mrs. Collins and her son Sunny, her mother and her uncle, George Morgan, are staying.

As the family was in mourning they did not attend the social functions in the cottage settlement. Mrs. Collins, who is still a beautiful woman, was seen with the prince considerably, showing him about Newport and presenting him to her friends.

The prince is very wealthy and is an attaché of the Austria-Hungarian legation. In the inner circles of fashion there is the full expectation that Mrs. Collins and the prince may announce their engagement at almost any time.

ADVANCE AFTER ELECTION OF MR. TAFT

Business Outlook Improves With Certainty of Republican Success.

New York, Oct. 28.—Events from day to day have generally been favorable to the stock market. As election day draws near the impression grows that Mr. Taft will be the successful candidate, and this appears to stiffen the confidence of those who hold investment securities. In fact, belief in this result has become so widened that its effect upon security values has been strikingly discounted, although a further advance will probably follow. Mr. Taft's election, what would happen if the reverse occurred cannot be foretold. There is no question but that the election exercises a powerful sentimental effect upon business. But this is only temporary and in the long run it can have little effect upon the entire volume of business. While uncertainty lasts a certain amount of business may be held up, sometimes for political effect and sometimes for the purpose of operating under the most advantageous circumstances; but over a lengthy period of lesser importance than the selection of the legislative branch of the government; since the former simply executes laws which the latter enacts. For another week or so, however, the election will be an influential factor in stock market fluctuations.

It is now a year since the panic was at its height. To those who fully appreciated the wide ramifications of that disaster and understood the tremendous amount of liquidation that must follow, the recovery since then has been simply astonishing. In no previous panic, if anything like such severity, has recuperation been so rapid or so complete. Already security values are back upon practically the same level as before the panic; some of course being lower, but not a few actually higher; and this after large losses in earnings and frequent reduction in dividends. Much of this recovery in securities from past panic prices was of course due to the glut of the money market, which made good stocks and bonds look exceedingly cheap. In consequence, unwise investors bought cheaply, and the big speculators with their easy control of the money market were enabled to manipulate prices freely and secure large profits on the securities they bought to stay the panic. For the courage displayed in the time of distress the rich men who took the brunt of the shock in October last have reaped handsome rewards, which no one who thoroughly appreciated the crisis begrudges. Yet the fact remains that one of the most important elements in the rapid recovery of 1908 was the extraordinary abundance of cheap money, which not only stimulated a speculative recovery but saved many good concerns from going under that otherwise would have been obliged to liquidate. At the same time cheap money was only one factor. There has been another of still greater consequence, and that is the unbounded prosperity of the American farmer. Without repeating familiar facts it is sufficient to remark that here is the real foundation of the remarkable recovery in the United States, which has had no parallel in other countries, even where the depression was less acute. Last year our agricultural products were valued at less than $7,000,000,000. This year they will more than reach fully $8,000,000,000, or more than $800,000,000 in excess of last year. This explains the optimism which one begins to encounter as soon as he passes the Alleghenies, and which seems to know no bounds when the rich prairie states of the west are reached. Our western bankers and merchants are enthusiastic concerning their future, especially after the election; and only notes of pessimism to be heard come from the great cities where the depression of industry has most been felt. This is particularly true among the eastern cities, and the volume of business steadily growing up to that of a year ago. This is emphatically shown by the latest railroad earnings, 37 roads reporting a loss of 4 per cent during the first 10 months of the year. In the first week of October, in the first week of September, 40 roads reported a loss of 10 per cent, and in the first week of August 41 roads reported a loss of 15 per cent. In previous weeks these had run up as high as 20 per cent; all of which shows a steady restoration of business, exceedingly gratifying considering the severity of the slide.

As for the future, it is somewhat perplexing and confused; and it is quite possible that stocks and trade may move along together. The stock market seems to have fully discounted improvement in the business situation both present and prospective. In fact, not a few stocks are selling too high, considering that prices a year ago were much above present value. But the floating supply of securities is held in strong hands, asked by an unlimited amount of cheap money. These big holders appear united in their purpose to hold prices to a higher level, and as long as they hold together it will be difficult to bring about any great reaction. The bear side of the market is weak in both talent and resources; consequently the bulls may ever yet secure additions; yet it is certain that on all advances the big holders will attempt to lighten their load and turn their present big paper profits into cash. The shrewd buyer, therefore, will take these facts into account and continue to exercise much caution. When Congress assembles one of the first subjects that will be taken up will be tariff revision. There is no doubt that many of our highly protected industries are suddenly able to stand a reasonable tariff reduction, but agitation and doubt must tend to delay and unsettle business, which will hardly be helpful to the stock market. In all probability no very radical changes will be made; for while both parties are pledged to revision, each on its own line, still with a Democratic House and a Republican Senate, agreement on the tariff will be exceedingly difficult and may be consummated in the middle of next year. At the same time, there is little prospect of injury to business from the revision, except what will come from delay and uncertainty.

Why Colds are Dangerous.
Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind, do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous. Every known disease that pneumonia and chronic cough have their origin in a common cold. Consumption is not caused by cold but the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs that would not otherwise have found lodgment. It is the same with all infectious diseases. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough are much more likely to be contracted when the child has had a cold. You will see from this that a cold is a danger lurks in a cold than in any other of the common ailments. The easiest and quickest way to a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The many remarkable cures effected by this preparation have made it a staple article of the over a large part of the world, and by all druggists.

HILEE, HILO, IN AMSTRDAM

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—To the happier inhabitants of lands where cholera is either unknown or kept well in hand, the origin of death which that terrible epidemic is holding in some of the smaller Russian towns would be incredible. Because of lack of organization and grossly unhealthy conditions, cholera is lying in wait in the streets, neglected in the hospitals and unburied in the cemeteries.

There are reports of morgues so overcrowded that the corpses are stacked up from floor to ceiling. Those coming to claim relatives who died of other diseases have been obliged in some cases to spend hours in the pestiferous air, till they could find the bodies they sought and could pull them from amongst the cholera-stricken.

When the cholera was first declared in other provinces a commission was appointed in St. Petersburg by M. Rescow, the president of the town. But the chairman, M. Oppenheimer, left for Chirabad before any arrangements were made to combat the epidemic. Officially nothing was done. There is no drainage in Petersburg worthy of the name. All the sewage is thrown into the canals, which are never cleaned more than once a year, and send up a most terrible stench as soon as the ice thaws in the spring.

The first victims of the epidemic were workmen, cab drivers, porters, who drink the water of the canals, which is poison. Cholera is about. Now the Army has put up placards at their a threat to forbid them to drink this of paying $5 penalty. They have made water, and the map tea to be disarrangements for the streets. The sale of fruit has been forbidden.

Considering these things, it is therefore, not surprising to find that 300 or 400 per cent have been killed. At least, who can afford to go so far from the city. The dreaded has been now found its way into the college-to-do houses and in the college. The hospital and town authorities are unable to cope with the work, for people fall ill who feel perfectly well a few minutes before.

When taken to the hospital the patient cannot receive proper care because there are not half enough doctors. One doctor often has 400 patients. Nurses are almost unknown. There is nobody to give the patients medicine. As one harassed, worked-to-death doctor said, "If they see well they do—and if they don't it's not my fault, for I've only one pair of hands and legs." Patients suffering from other complaints have as bad a time of it as anybody—not only do they get no attention—now, but many of them have been sent away because they must make room for cholera cases. Several large barracks are also full of them—but what is that when hundreds fall ill daily? There is in St. Petersburg a hospital regulation to the effect that every patient who dies within 24 hours of admittance must be dissected. It is characteristic of Russian red tape that this regulation was adhered to for several days after the cholera broke out, so that the operating theaters were piled high with dead bodies which nobody had any time to dissect.

The victims are buried outside the town, so that the coffins must go by train. Thirty or forty trucks are filled with coffins of those who have died the day before or the day before, and two or three passenger saloons are put on for the dead people's friends and relatives. Such a train started the other day by the Mikolajewski railway, carrying 150 coffins. On arriving at the cemetery it was found that 34 coffins, brought the day before, were still waiting burial. The grave diggers had found it impossible to bury all. The result is that terrible scenes of despair and protestation occur at the cemeteries, whilst the walls of women and children fill the air.

In the provinces things are no better, and disinfection is almost unheard of in small towns. In one village called Karaki, in the government of Tver, 471 out of the 500 died. It was decided to burn everything, corpses, house and barns, together. The police came and, giving the 20 survivors time to get away, threw firebrands into the place.

A COMMUNICATION.

The Isleta Habeas Corpus.
To The Daily Citizen:

The article on the last page of this day's Morning Journal might lead one to infer that the writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Abbott yesterday, was granted upon my sworn declaration as United States commissioner. The declaration was made by me personally not officially, to right what I believed to be a wrong inflicted upon a woman of the Isleta pueblo, and whom I had known from her infancy, and whose father and mother had been my steadfast friends from the summer of 1868, until their deaths. After this case is adjusted I shall ask for space enough in your columns to publish something of what I know regarding the arbitrary methods of past and present governors of the pueblos of New Mexico.

THE TIMMIS CASE COMES TO TRIAL

Son of Deceased Hermit Appeals From Settlement of Estate in Probate Court.

The case of the heirs of George H. Timmis versus A. Borders, the administrator of the deceased George H. Timmis, appealed from the probate court, was taken up in the district court at 3 o'clock, while the jury in the case of R. L. Thompson labored with the evidence given in that action. The latter had not reached a verdict at 4 o'clock.

The complaining witness in the Timmis case is a son of the deceased hermit who lives in Kansas. Timmis was found dead in a hotel in which he lived on North Second street a year ago last summer. He had been dead for several days and the body was badly decomposed when discovered. The burial of it was one of the most difficult cases ever attempted by an Albuquerque undertaker. Some gold coins were found in the room with the body, and altogether the estate had a value of about $300. Undertaker Borders was appointed administrator of the estate and his final report as such was approved by Probate Judge Romero. A son living in Kansas appealed the case to the district court. Borders is represented in the case by Attorney Hickey and Moore and the plaintiff by Klock and Owen.
