New York, Nov. 4.—William Howard Taft of Ohio, Republican candidate, has been elected the twenty-seventh president of the United States, and James Schooner Sherman of New York has been chosen vice president. This is the outcome of one of the most remarkable campaigns in the history of the country. William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, Democratic candidate for the presidency, went down to the third defeat of his life ambition to occupy the White House.

Returns today indicate that Taft will have 298 electoral votes and possibly more. One result, which surpassed the most sanguine hopes of the Republicans, was Taft's carrying the city of Greater New York by a plurality of 15,645. His plurality in New York state will exceed Roosevelt's big plurality in 1904.

Governor Hughes was re-elected by a plurality estimated today at above 75,000 over the vote cast for his Democratic opponent, Lieutenant Governor Chandler. While Greater New York gave Taft more than 15,000 it gave Chandler a margin of 58,843. With thirty-one United States senators to be elected by state legislatures chosen yesterday or earlier in the fall, the Republicans will retain control of both houses of Congress. The precise figures are subject to change, however.

New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania rallied to Taft with notable majorities. Maryland returns early today divided Taft's plurality as claimed last night until today Bryan appears to have narrowly carried the state.

West Virginia is also in doubt. If Maryland and West Virginia are Bryan states Taft will still have 291 electoral votes. Of the states which at the outset of the day were generally placed in the Bryan column, Colorado and Montana are still in the doubtful column and subject to counter claims. Nebraska, however, is decisively credited to Bryan by 19,000. Among the more significant results of the election were the re-election to Congress of Speaker Cannon and Chairman Payne of the house committee on ways and means, and the probable election of Governor Johnson, Democratic, in Minnesota, which state gave Taft 75,000 majority.

The vote for Hise of the Independence party was meagre and did not materially affect the result. Little is yet known of the magnitude of the Socialist and Prohibition party vote.

West Virginia.

Wheeling, Nov. 4.—West Virginia is doubtful the vote indicating an almost even break between Taft and Bryan, with the Democratic candidate having less than a score the better of it. For governor there seems lit-

William Howard Taft, of Ohio, Elected Twenty-Seventh President of the United States in One of the Most Remarkable Campaigns in History of Republic.

REPUBLICAN TICKET "BUSINESS MEN ELECTED ME" CARRIED COUNTY YESTERDAY SAYS TAFT IN INTERVIEW

Substantial Majorities for all Candidates From Delegate Down to Surveyor.

A FEW PRECINCTS ARE YET MISSING

Cincinnati, Nov. 4.—"I believe I was elected by the business men of the country, Democrats as well as Republicans. I feel that I received my share of the labor vote and the farmers stood by me. I am very much gratified." So said William H. Taft this morning, while sitting in the library of his brother's home.

Bryan Is Cheerful.

Fairview, Nov. 4.—Although it was after midnight when he actually went to bed, Bryan was up early this morning. So far as appearances went there was nothing to indicate the disappointment which he must have felt as the result of the election. He greeted all callers with a smile and scanned the morning papers for the late news.

"Before making any statement," he said, "I want to get the actual results in Ohio, Indiana and Kansas."

ker, Republican, 2,889; W. C. Oestrich, Democrat, 1,069; G. L. Meln, Socialist, 120.

Sheriff—Jesus Romero, Republican, 2,372; Francisco Lucero y Montoya, Democrat, 1,561; Louis P. Beckham, Socialist, 261.

Assessor—M. R. Summers, Republican, 2,401; Emil Kleinwort, Democrat, 1,471; G. Gustafson, Socialist, 116.

Treasurer and Collector—E. Piney, Republican, 2,638; G. A. Campbell, Democrat, 1,180; C. F. Allen, Socialist, 167.

Superintendent of Schools—A. B. Stroup, Republican, 2,715; J. D. Emmons, Democrat, 1,231; Joseph Bowditch, Socialist, 128.

County Surveyor—A. D. Ogil, Republican, 2,081; Pitt Ross, Democrat, 1,329; John Schroeder, Socialist, 118.

The precincts of Escobedo, San Antonio and Chilli were yet to be heard from at a late hour this afternoon, but as these precincts are normally Republican the returns from them will only swell the Republican vote in the county. The vote in those three precincts could not materially change the general result.

WOMEN KEPT THEIR HATS ON.

Boston, Nov. 4.—Mrs. John L. Gardner refused last night to comply with the request of the management at the symphony concert that those who attend the concert remove their hats. There were several other society women who joined with Mrs. Gardner in defying the new rule.

W. H. Andrews, the Republican nominee for delegate to Congress was re-elected at yesterday's election by a majority very conservatively estimated at about 2,000 but which will probably be larger.

This estimate is based upon the returns, official and unofficial, which were received here today.

Enough official returns were received from the eastern counties, where the Democrats hoped for big majorities, to show that the majorities were not nearly so great as estimated by the Democratic leaders.

On the other hand, Mr. Andrews received good majorities in the Republican counties.

It is believed that when the returns are all in the estimate of today will be materially increased.

For instance, Mr. Andrews carried San Miguel county by a majority conceded to be 600 at noon today and which continues to grow as the returns come in. This is the home county of Larrazolo.

Allowing the Democratic candidate plenty of latitude, and making the Republican majorities more than conservative, Mr. Andrews stands elected by some 1,900 votes or more, as shown by the table above. Bernalillo county, in two precincts yet to be heard from, will undoubtedly raise the majority above 2,000 votes.

A special to The Citizen this afternoon from reliable correspondents in both Taos and Rio Arriba counties indicate that the majorities in those counties will be larger than those tabulated. However, the majorities in each of these two counties, are only estimated at 200 and these figures are conceded to be more than conservative.

A special to The Citizen from McKinley county today, conceded that county to Mr. Andrews by 150 votes on unofficial returns from all precincts.

In the eastern counties, where the Democrats had anticipated a big Larrazolo vote, there was considerable apathy on the part of the Democratic voters and enthusiasm and hard work on the part of the Republicans.

A scattered but growing Socialist vote, estimated today at 2,000 or better, for the entire territory, also figured in the election. The Socialist votes went into the ballot box straight and took strength from Larrazolo.

The strong Republican counties added up the usual majorities for the delegate. Socorro county returns are not all in, but the majority for Andrews there is larger than the estimate in the above table. Valencia county is estimated at 1,300 votes and enough returns are in to indicate that the estimate is very near correct. At 3 o'clock this afternoon The

By the overturning of a light mountain wagon in Tijeras Canyon this afternoon about 4 o'clock in which were seated Harry Vogt, of the firm of Taber-Vogt of Glorieta, Edwin Bruce, Jr., of Kansas City, and another man, Mr. Vogt sustained injuries which necessitated his being removed to the St. Joseph's hospital, where he now lies with a broken arm and a dislocated shoulder. The party was picked up and brought to town in an auto of R. N. Van Sant and though none of the victims are seriously injured, it is thought that Mr. Vogt will be confined to the sanitarium for several days.

NAVY LIKES PRUNES

IN THE NEW FORM

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—The navy department is taking kindly to the new method of preparing prunes in compressed form with thick syrup. The tests made have been satisfactory. A final series of tests in tropical zones will be made to determine its value under the influence of climatic changes. Reports are expected in December, and there is little doubt of the change in the ration in this respect. Several large requisitions for the old ration now in use have been cut down to the actual needs, and only enough allowed to carry over the period yet remaining for the completion of the official tests.

It Was Big Bill

With the election of William Howard Taft as president by an estimated majority little short of the one given Theodore Roosevelt four years ago, it must certainly be apparent to the Democratic leaders and partisans, that William Jennings Bryan and the theories of William Jennings Bryan, do not possess the confidence of the bulk of the American people, particularly the business men and the skilled workmen in all lines.

The candidates in the election which ended yesterday, have been so much before the public that it is not necessary to discuss them. Mr. Taft is conservative without being narrow in his views; he is a man of cool judgment, fearless determination and great executive ability. As the next president of the United States he will undoubtedly do more to restore confidence, right legislative and business wrongs and maintain the dignity of his high position, than any man who could have been selected.

That the election of Mr. Bryan was viewed as a public calamity, is apparent, since it has been said that the Democratic party never had a better opportunity of electing its presidential candidate, had a man been nominated in whom the people had confidence.

The outcome of the election is no surprise to those who have followed the trend of public sentiment during the past few months.

The nation and the Republican party are to be felicitated over the results of yesterday's balloting.

Will He Quit?

Now that the election of William Howard Taft is assured, the question which is uppermost in the minds of most Democrats, is will Bryan quit? Will the great Commoner, the friend of the people, the inventor of "shall the people rule," the hero of sixteen to one and other freak ideas, retire from the political field and give some one else a chance?

The average Democrat believes that whether he will or not, Mr. Bryan is due for retirement and that he will never again be tendered the Democratic nomination for the high office which on three different occasions the people have shown him that he could not fill.

It now looks as though Bryan's defeat at the hands of Mr. Taft was but little less than the one Parker received at the hands of Mr. Roosevelt four years ago, and that is saying a great deal for Mr. Roosevelt was admittedly the most popular candidate ever brought forth by his party since the Civil war.

Such a defeat indicates that despite his continuous touring of the country, his widening publicity and advertising, Mr. Bryan has grown weaker instead of stronger.

But there is one thing certain that if Mr. Bryan is not to be the Democratic candidate four years hence, the party must undergo some startling changes in its policies and preachings. Mr. Bryan has so injected his personal views into the party that it is in danger of losing its identity.

If Johnson of Minnesota, Watterson of the south or some other man now prominent in the party, is to assume the leadership four years hence, he will have a herculean task, in escaping from the radical issues which Mr. Bryan has made the bulwark of Democratic principles at this time.

But in all the gloom of Democracy, there is one bright ray. Mr. Bryan can again take up his work on the lecture platform, which, after all, pays better than the presidency and is not so difficult a job.

Either Bryan is quite a remarkable man in his way of playing party politics, or the Democratic party has been mightily hard pushed for candidates.

Will the same conditions prevail four years hence? Who can say?

Lo, the Poor Indian

The old saying of the frontiersmen who had to battle for their lives that "the only good Indian was a dead Indian," seemed to threaten to become axiomatic, and yet with the years there has come a change, says the Washington Herald. It has come about so subtly and perhaps so naturally that it has hardly been noticed, but it is here just the same, and Lo, the poor Indian, has gone to work.

The change in the manner and habits of the Indian has been investigated by the Rev. William J. Harsha, who sets forth some interesting facts on the matter in the current issue of the Southern Workman. Much progress has been made in the industrial education of the Indian, so that he is able to indulge in profitable work, and the government gives him the employment.

According to the government reports, which Dr. Harsha has verified by personal investigation, the Indian is now being profitably employed on the farms, ranches, and irrigation projects of the country, and during the summer over 8,000 Indians have been engaged in various lines of work in the west and southwest. In the Colorado beet fields 500 of them have found employment. In New Mexico the Santa Fe railroad is using 400 Indians in construction work. To protect the railroad from flood of the Colorado river, 1,100 Indians were employed, who drew in wages over $100,000 in a few months. In Colorado, Arizona, in the cantaloupe fields, most of the work is being performed by Indians, and the ranchmen of the west prefer the Indian herders to all others. Then, in various sections of the country, the Indian is taking up and working successfully farming land, and in the White Earth reservation in Minnesota over 2,000 allotments have been taken up by Indians.

Irrigation work in the west seems to be particularly inviting to the Indian, and this is, perhaps, because hit by hit they have been forced farther backward, until now many of them are located in those arid regions that without water are quite hopeless. Dr. Harsha says that the power of water and justice is doing what all the attempts of the lawmakers, law executors, soldiers, and educators have failed to do, and with the care that the government is taking over irrigation he looks for the suppression of the blatant and thieving white man and the encouragement of the Indian to lift his head in something more than rebellious pride. Irrigation, in short, is the real wonder worker that has changed the temper and the hopes of the Indian. All of them are being affected for the better—the Blackfeet and the Crows of Montana, the Pimas of Arizona, the Fort Hall Indians of Idaho, the Shoshones of Wyoming, and the Mission Indians of California—the change is stealing over all of them.

Nor can this change be attributed to the paternal care of the government, on the contrary, it results from precisely the opposite cause. It was when the government decided to cease issuing rations to the Indians except in extreme cases, when it gave them their allotments and threw them on their own responsibility, that the change began. Thus it was the Indian learned responsibility the value of labor, and the inexorable law that a man must work out his own salvation, be his skin white, black, or red. This lesson the Indian is now learning rapidly, and the country at large will benefit by the change.

The Atlanta Constitution says that Bryan passed through a lane of people seven miles long. Either the Constitution is stretching the truth or the people in an awful manner.

When Roosevelt edits a magazine, Bryan returns to the Commoner and Groves again writes Hearst editorials, the public will surely get all it has coming to it.

DAILY SHORT STORIES

THE WAY OF THESE THINGS.

By Stuart B. Stone.

The girl wrote "The End" on the sheet of snow white paper, then leaned her head of fluffy gold upon the table. She had just separated two loving souls and the heart within her ached at the odious task. They had been two blithesome lovers—the man and the woman in "The Pathway of Passion"—and, till the writing of Chapter XXVIII, they had found the pathway very smooth and lined with red roses and Jessamine. And then the fair Author had penned the fateful chapter of separation, sending the stricken man to the forefront of a riddled regiment and the poor, dear maid to the lingering torture of the fever ward. For this was art and this was life, said the Author—her young heart pained just the same.

"It's an imperfect old world," she groaned, "and I have tried to show it as it is."
The wooden cuckoo in the clock on the mantel came out and hooted at her, so that she started. It was not the cuckoo's way of life, at any rate. The girl took up the scattered pages and glanced through them. At the earlier incidents her heart stirred—at the awakening of love in the garden—at love's declaration by the old swinging gate—at love's first kiss behind the palms while the fiddles wailed. These had been the chapters of her dearest fancy. The girl-author sighed again.

There was a quick step on the porch and a ring at the bell. It was the idler from the city, the dark, tall man who rode and read and hunted, doing nothing else. It was not his first coming.

"Your eyes are red," said the idler, who had a wonderful sympathy; he was much like the hero fellow in "The Pathway of Passion."
The Authoress shook her fine head. "It is nothing," she said. But she did not fool the idler.

When they entered the little parlor she tried to hide the tragic sheets but the idler was too quick. "Ah!" he said, "the cause of your sorrow. Let me read."

Somewhat she could not tell him, and the idler skipped through the immaculate pages. At the first tender pledges along the pathway of passion, he nodded approval, though smiling a little tolerantly. Then he jumped to the page of "The End" and frowned.

"Mausier bullets for the knight and microbes for the lady. This is no fit ending for your pretty story," he criticized.

She smiled sadly. "It is what always happens," she remarked.

most write the truth of the way of life.

The idler regarded the girl with eyes that she thought would never turn away. Finally her own gray eyes dropped and a vivid blush came into her cheeks. "It is the truth of life," she repeated, very simply.

The idler laughed triumphantly, as one who loves life and its red, rich ways. "It is not the truth of life," he declared. "I have lived here and there in the corners of the earth—and I say it is not the true way. You must ring your horn chap back from the firing line with a yawning wound and let the little nurse lady pull him back from the shadows to life and love and happiness."

The Authoress allowed her gray eyes to light up with pleasure, but she shook her head. "I have never seen such a thing," she objected.

The idler came nearer and looked at her with his great dark eyes. "It's not your own way of life," he said, simply.

She waved her hands in deprecation. "I have never—" she began.

"Would you send me out to face Gatlings and sabers?" he asked. "Is that your way of life?"

She shook her head. "God forbid. But you are not—"

"I love you," he said. "Come write your answer on the page of 'The End.'"

The idler led her to the fatal page of hearts torn apart; and for five fearful, tremulous minutes she wrote, quivering, disconnectedly. Then the idler read of the peddling of vows in the quiet old love garden of the first dear promising; and the hero did not go to the wars at all and the heroine never entered the jails of white misery.

"This is the true way of life," said the idler. Then he kissed the Authoress again and again. Her eyes were very red.

FEDERAL STEAMSHIP LINE.

Los Angeles, Nov. 4.—At the meeting of the counties committee of the California promotion committee in Los Angeles November 14 the proposition of a government steamship line between Pacific coast ports, especially Los Angeles and San Francisco, and the Panama canal, will be urged. The passage of a resolution condemning the service of the Pacific Mail Steamship company will be asked and a resolution on the subject has been prepared which says in part:

"Resolved, that in the absence of any assurance of improvement by the Pacific Mail company of its service between California ports and Central America and Panama, we urge the senators and congressmen from this state to work for the establishment by the United States government of an adequate line in the Pacific waters in connection with the Panama railroad to touch at important California and Central American ports."

S.S.S. A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, which is carried through the circulation to all portions of the system. Every muscle, nerve, bone and joint absorbs the acid, pain-producing poison, causing aches, inflammation, stiffness and other well known symptoms of the disease. Permanent relief from the pains and discomfort of Rheumatism cannot be expected from the use of liniments, plasters, and other external treatment which does not reach the blood, where the cause is located. Such measures give temporary relief, but in order to cure Rheumatism the uric acid and inflammatory poison must be expelled from the blood. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism because it is a perfect blood purifier. It goes down into the circulation, neutralizes the uric acid and drives it from the blood. S. S. S. expels the irritating, inflammatory matter which is causing the pain, swelling and other discomfort, enriches the weak, sour blood, and permanently cures Rheumatism. In all forms of Rheumatism, whether acute or chronic, S. S. S. will be found a safe, vegetable remedy, possessing the properties needed to cure, and at the same time a medicine that builds up the entire system by its tonic effects. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

Some Reasons Why

The C

Because The Citizen is a home paper. It is either delivered by carrier at the house or is carried home by the business man when his day's work is done and it STAYS THERE. A morning paper is usually carried down town by the head of the family and hurriedly read.

I

The Citizen is not read hurriedly, but thoroughly, so that all advertisements receive their share of attention. It presents the store news a little ahead, giving the prospective purchaser time to plan a shopping tour for the next morning.

Wise advertisers patronize The Citizen because they know their advertisements are seen and read at the homes in the evening, and if they are offering something worthy of attention, their ad has accomplished its mission.

I

The Citizen has never given premiums to subscribers, but is subscribed to and paid for on the news merits, showing that its subscribers have money with which to buy what they want from legitimate merchants. These are the people The Citizen invites to your store.

Z

The Citizen employs a man whose business it is to look after your advertising wants. He will write your copy if you wish. If not, he will see that your ads are "set up" to look their best and he will attend to them from day to day.

Are you advertising in The Citizen? Your competitors are, and are profiting by it. Do you think conservative business men are spending money where they are not getting results? Get in the swim and watch your business grow.

GRAND DUKES RUIN ARMY AND NAVY

Russian Fighting Force Is Demoralized by Graft Which Causes Inefficiency.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 4.—That the czar's recent sensational dismissal of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaevitch from his exalted position of president of the council of national defense was anything more than a sop thrown to the impatient public no one who knows the real conditions that govern the Russian army and the true strength of the grand duke believes. That it can possibly forebode reform in the service even the most optimistic cannot bring themselves to hope.

There is a very general opinion abroad, based on nothing tangible, that the inevitable result of the Russo-Japanese war would be the institution of widespread reforms in both the army and navy of Russia. The glaring defects have been shown to exist in both departments, the deplorable state of rottenness and stagnation due to incompetency and dishonesty, would arouse the country and the bureaucracy, it was thought, to a universal housecleaning. But far from such being the case both branches of the service are in a far worse condition today than they have ever been at any previous date. The enormous losses of the war with Japan have not been made good and it is a fact that aside from its immense natural resources the land of the czar is absolutely at the mercy of even the smaller of its neighboring nations of Europe.

Great Cost of the Army.

Despite the fact that the average Russian soldier gets only 4 cents a day, the czar's immense peace army of about 2,000,000 men costs $15,000,000 a year to maintain; and when it is taken into account that this sum is supposed to be spent entirely upon maintenance and that it does not include the building of new barracks or fortifications, the purchase of ammunition, the upkeep of hospitals or the supplying of the modern soldier's equipment, which form so heavy an item in the army budget of other countries, it will be realized to what an extent the Russian people are being swindled by those entrusted with the expenditure of this immense amount.

To what extent this national robbery has been going on can also be judged from the fact that in the opinion of one of the leading military authorities in Russia no less a sum than $150,000,000 is immediately needed to provide absolute necessities for the sick, barracks for the well, guns for the proficient, ammunition for the rifles and clothing and food, to make the soldier fit to stand the rigors of Russian service.

Ruling Spirit of War Office.

And all this deplorable state of affairs is due to the rule of the grand dukes, the chief culprit being Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaevitch, commander in chief of the guards and of the St. Petersburg military district, president of the council of national defense and the ruling spirit of the war office, who has successfully blocked every reform, curtailed every expenditure and has mysteriously juggled the immense amounts of money that passed through his hands for his own advantage.

With a powerful party behind him, the incompetent relative of the czar has given the most important posts in the army to his nephews and cousins, so that Grand Duke George Nicolaevitch presides over the artillery, Peter Nicolaevitch runs the engineering corps and Constantine Nicolaevitch is the autocrat of the military academies. None of these profusely decorated gentlemen have the slightest idea of their duties. They learn nothing, see nothing and do nothing. The only two passes of their duties in which they take the slightest interest are in appearing on horseback from time to time at reviews and drawing bloated salaries. Their practical inexperience is only equalled by their theoretical ignorance.

Good Jobs for Favorites.

These officials in turn give all the best places to their favorites, men whose sole interest in life is the constant pursuit of pleasure and who squander the funds intended for the army on themselves. This system of dishonesty runs all through the army and the two reasons for such a deplorable state of affairs given by the officers themselves are, first, their very small pay, and second, the system of supplying the army with food, horses, fodder, etc., by means of contractors. A Russian officer cannot possibly live on his pay. At the same time he is usually the son of a nobleman belonging to a class of officials and small landowners who have no money to spare for their sons. His life is spent in some more or less provincial town where he has nothing to do but drink and gamble. It is a notorious fact that officers of the line and artillery all draw their salaries in advance and generally to such an extent that by the first of the month, when pay day comes, they sit not doing but waiting for money—a ready-made, their only resort is to bribe and favor.

Sources of Bribes.

Bribes are of two sorts and come from the sons of well-to-do people who have to serve in the ranks, or from those who wish to supply the regiment with necessities. The consequence of the first kind of bribe is that the soldier who is able to supply money to the inspectors of his regiment never appears on parade, attend drill or get up early in the morning to attend the riding school. He can come in when he pleases and go out when he likes. His uniform is better made and his boots more comfortable than those of his poorer comrades. He eats different food brought from a good restaurant, because he can pay for it, and is permitted to do so by his superior officers. When his time is up he either says on as an officer—having had no training whatever—or goes into the reserve, a ushers adjunct of the army, only called upon in case of war, and made up of men who, although they may have seen service, have learned nothing but the color of their uniform or the length of their swords.

The second source of bribes to officers comes from the factors who are ready at hand to the unscrupulous officer in search of money. The factors know their business well. They supply the regiment with everything—food, clothing, fodder and even ammunition. Their contracts depend chiefly upon the colonels of the regiments, and are renewed annually. The result of this system is that the colonels are each in receipt of yearly bribes ranging from $100 to $1,000 from each of some half dozen factors—amounting in the aggregate to a very fat purse.

Cutting Down Meat Ration.

The factor who supplies the regiment with meat should, as a matter of fact, send enough to allow every soldier to have one pound of meat, boiled up with his soup. That is the regulation ration and the Russian soldier gets it on paper. As a matter of fact, he gets less than three ounces. Why? Because the factor arranges with the colonel that, instead of sending 400 pounds of meat a day for a regiment of that number of men he will send just half that amount, though the accounts will show that the regiment has been served with the regulation pound per head. The pruned down does not stop there. The other officers take their part in it and after the colonel each officer gets one ounce from every man's piece of meat. In some regiments, more honest or more cautious, the officers are satisfied with half an ounce, but neither soldier nor officer would think the colonel fit for any place but a madhouse if he gave the regimental cooks one pound per head a day.

In some regiments this system of stealing has reached such a pitch that only nut-sized pieces of meat and a few bones are thrown into the soup on Sundays and holidays and on other days its place is taken by cabbage or dried peas. No other form of meat is given, so that, with a particularly unscrupulous colonel, the men are half starved, weak and unable to do their duties properly.

Inefficient Schools.

The schools in which officers are trained are almost beneath criticism. Discipline is quite unknown. In the large Russian towns, where cadet schools are located, these young gentlemen—aged from 10 to 16—can be seen rolling home drunk at 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning. The system of teaching is antiquated and inefficient, and they leave the schools without a notion of the duties that await them in the army. Professors and pupils are equally frank about their inefficiency. One professor of military history told a military visitor from Germany that his pupils knew nothing of the subject except what appeared in a book published thirty years previous, because he himself knew that book by heart and could recite pages from it at the lessons without giving himself or the pupils any trouble. The same visitor asked one of the older cadets in the college at St. Petersburg what they learned and how many classes they were divided into.

"We have three classes," was the reply. "In one the boys only drink, in the second they make love and in the third they do both. I am in the third."

Unhappily, this is not merely a bit of boyish brag, but a fact, as the number of morally and physically ruined boys who yearly leave the cadet colleges for the army and navy show.

Corruption in the Navy.

Bad as the army is, the navy is in an even worse condition. The battleships are herds of officers because these pleasure-loving incompetents stay on land. Indeed, most of the sailors remain in barracks, whence they embark only once a year for a short voyage. Strange as it may seem, it is a fact that only one-third of the Russian navy—officers, men and ships—ever go to sea. Truth to tell, there are not enough ships for them, though over $150,000,000 has been spent on the Russian fleet in the last ten years. But this enormous sum recently was gobbled up with the battleships and guns and ammunition, has found its way into the pockets of Grand Duke Alexis, who has covered his favorite ballet girls with jewels. One of the grand duke's favorites who appeared on the stage at a St. Petersburg theater in a glitter of diamonds recently was greeted with the cry from the audience, "Take off those jewels! You know they cost us three battleships."

Alexis was in a private box and had the offenders arrested. But everybody present knew that they had spoken the truth and "Mademoiselle Fifi" was obliged to leave Petersburg—without her jewels—till the affair, which threatened to become serious, blew over.

KING LEOPOLD HAS NEW LEASE ON LIFE

Belgian King Climbs on the Water Wagon and Quits Smoking Black Cigars.

Brussels, Nov. 4.—King Leopold has got a new lease of life from his doctors and he is determined to do all that man can do to retain it. He has set his house in order, and all the world can see that his is the well-regulated life of a tranquil citizen. The king declines to live in private. At this moment his is the central figure of the crowded pageant of Ostend. Subject and foreigner alike may gaze at the chalet royal and see the king seated on its veranda, surrounded by his household, calmly examining dispatches and discharging the business of the state.

Nothing can be more grotesquely false than most of the stories told of King Leopold. His life is neither simple nor fat; nevertheless it is the life of an abstemious and hard-working man. Every Belgian works hard, but all admit the king is the hardest worker in Belgium. Quick in thought and act, King Leopold gets through more work in one day than an average man could do in three, and he does his work himself. From morning to night he works with hardly a break, and secretaries and aides-de-camp have to strain their wits and stretch their legs to keep pace with him and dispatch the orders he heaps on them.

King Leopold was all his life a mighty pedestrian. Lately a growing stiffness in his right leg made it difficult for him to walk, and it was the fear of a cripple's life which led him to place himself in the doctor's hands. They have cured the king completely. All disquieting symptoms have disappeared. His health is robust, and the stiffness has gone from his leg. He has flung off years from his age, and is full of the joy of life. The doctors have interfered with his smoking of the strong cigars he loved—and his staff detested—but that is a small matter in his eyes, compared with the fact that he is able to stride out on his daily walks once again, and even to mount on horseback, a thing his stiff knee prevented him from doing for many years.

King Leopold is proud of the life he leads. "I am very old," he said (King Leopold is 73 years of age), "but I am strong and able to work because I lead a regular life. I get up early. I take a great deal of exercise out of doors—and I don't get drunk."

The king laughed as he said these last words; but if anything, he understated the truth, for King Leopold is now a water drinker in a land where from infancy men quench their thirst in beer.

The king rises at 5 o'clock and begins his day by drinking a pint of cold water. After a long walk he begins his regular day's work.

NEW CAR WHEEL IN USE.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—A new style of car wheel appears to be coming into general use. It is being manufactured by the Standard Steel Works company, which has been at work for a month making specimen wheels for certain railroads. Those furnished by it are said to have been subjected to severe tests, both chemical and practical, and are said to have proved their superiority in every way over the old-style wheel.

It is claimed that by the use of these new wheels railroads will get rid of the breaking of flanges and consequent wrecks. All that is known of the method of manufacture is that the wheels are pressed steel, but the process of turning them out is guarded jealously.

INSURE AGAINST MOBSRecent Riots in Various Parts of the Empire Cause Uneasy Feeling.London, Nov. 4.—Terrorized by the recent riots in London and the fact that millions of skilled and unskilled workmen are out of employment and facing starvation, merchants throughout the British empire began insuring heavily against losses at the hands of mobs.As winter draws nearer the great army of unemployed is growing more desperate and the shopkeepers fear that desperate outbreaks are likely to happen at any moment. The present premium is from $1.25 to $2.50 on every $500 of insurance, which high rate indicates that the insurance companies also are alive to the grave danger that threatens.England is confronted by a sociological crisis which is unprecedentedand the recent riot in the streets of London when 100,000 ill-clad and hungry men and women stormed the houses of parliament and demanded relief, is believed to be but the forerunner of further and more serious disturbances if the government does not take immediate steps to provide for the unemployed.The relief measures adopted by Parliament during the past two weeks are said to be ridiculously insufficient, as only a small portion of the great army of idle poor will benefit and these only in a small way.Conservative estimates place the number of skilled workmen out of employment at a half million, with one million common laborers out of work and 6,000,000 women and children dependent upon them for support. Seven and a half millions are already on the verge of starvation and facing a winter which offers no hope. As a result these people are growing more desperate each day as they see no ray of sunshine and thousands of hungry and scantily attired men and women parade the streets imploping the government to relieve their suffering.Bitterness toward the king as a result of the inadequate measures adopted by Parliament is growing and the police are treating a representation of the riots of the past few weeks. It required 4,000 officers to beat back the great mob that assaulted Parliament a few days ago, and then the rioters were dispersed only after a terrific struggle during which hundreds of women were trampled upon and injured in the desperate fight they made to resist the police.It is said that prominent leaders among the unemployed are planning a final appeal to the government and that this may be presented by fully a million unemployed men and women.
In which case the authorities probably would be unable to cope with the mob without adopting the most drastic measures. In the event that Parliament fails to heed this last demand for help it is said that the mat-

STUDENTS INVADDED

A SORORITY PARTY

Reno, Nev., Nov.—After invading a sorority party, at which only women were admitted five male students of the Nevada University—W. E. Tilliston, J. A. Houlahan, Ralph Dig-nowity, C. G. Schrapps and Lyle Selby —were captured by the police after an exciting chase. At the party the annual "mask" given by the Theta Epsilon Sorority, some of the young women were dressed in male attire, others in fantastic costumes, all of them in costumes that were not meant for male gaze. Just when the fun was at its height intruders were discovered. In the pandemonium that followed Dignowity was scolded with a pot of boiling water, and others had their clothes ruined with milk and punch thrown by the members.
Police who were guarding the entrance to the hall were called and took after the intruders, who, after a wild flight, reached the gallery and climbed into the rafters. When the police secured ladders the students broke through the skylight and slid down the roof and dropped some fifteen feet to the ground, only to be captured by extra police who were summoned. One man alone escaped.
The five captured were taken to the police station and their names registered. Punishment will be left to the university faculty. It is expected that five suspensions will follow.

ELECTION RETURNS BROUGHT OUT A CROWD

Many Stayed Up in Albuquerque Last Night to Hear Reports.

From the time of H. B. Ferguson's speech on Saturday night, roasting Governor George Curry, the best governor the territory has ever known, and the late Matthew Quay, the best friend New Mexico ever had in Congress, the Democrats practiced every possible means, fair or unfair, to bolster up the vote of their party in the city precincts.

The circulation of bogus telegrams announcing the success of Bryan in New York and Ohio were two of the biggest fakes. Col. Sellers, with a few followers, ran automobiles about the city with a banner endeavoring to deceive the public. A few of these hardies circulated a report that United States Marshal Foraker had received a telegram from Senator Foraker in Ohio telling of Bryan's victories. Marshal Foraker said that he received no such telegram and the story was a fake. It was a good joke on those who were misled. It was the last call for votes for Larrazolo. The terrified had to have a shout and it had to be done before the returns began to arrive.

Election returns were received at a large number of places about the city last night and attracted large crowds until late at night. The largest crowd ever attending the skating rink heard the returns there. Nearly all of the downtown saloons received the returns. A large crowd heard the returns at the Commercial club. The bulletin board at The Citizen office attracted a large crowd until a late hour.

An election night party was held in the office of C. H. Conner. About forty were present. D. A. Bittner, who with Mrs. Bittner was a member of the party, made arrangements for the returns.

Many of Albuquerque's citizens who foresaw the approaching election of William H. Taft to the office of president of the United States, are today wearing brand new hats while others are jingling the gold cash in their jeans. Local merchants report the sale of a extra large number of hats which were bet between Taft and Bryan advocates. The salesmen of the various hat stores, however, are enjoying selling these hats.

MURDER TRIAL BEGINS TODAY

Jack Donahue is on Trial for Murder of Justiano Chaves.

District Attorney Clancy this morning began the work of selecting a jury to sit in the trial of Jack Donahue, who is charged with the murder of Justiano Chaves, who was killed last summer at the Summer Garden in the northwestern outskirts of the city. Chaves with two other native boys were at the garden drinking when they became involved in a quarrel with a number of young men from the city. The fight began in the saloon, and according to testimony given at the preliminary hearing the native boys were being worsted and fled into the road, where Chaves was shot. Two witnesses testified at the preliminary hearing that the defendant was seen with a pistol in his hand immediately after Chaves was killed. Donahue was arrested within half an hour after the shooting by Sheriff Armijo. The gun from which the shot was fired was not produced at the preliminary hearing, at which Donahue pleaded not guilty.

The selecting of a jury progressed very slowly during the forenoon and it is believed that the present panel will be exhausted before it will be completed and a special venire will have to be ordered. Donahue is represented by W. C. Hancock, Wilkerson and Medler.

TWO BOLD ROBBERS WERE CAPTURED

They Held Up a Store and Resisted Arrest When Police Trained Them.

Gallup, N. M., Nov. 4.—The two robbers, Willie Stewart and a man giving the name of Edward Cornwell, who entered and robbed the trading store of L. C. Smith about two weeks ago, have been captured. The store is located about eight miles below Thoreau.

The robbers entered the store in the evening and after binding Mr. Smith, rifled the money drawer and secured such clothing, ammunition, etc., as they needed. Upon leaving they informed the proprietor that any attempt at their capture would result in a fight.

The authorities were notified and a party of nine formed to track the robbers. On Friday the bandits were discovered living in a deserted stone cabin, located about twelve miles from the scene of the robbery. The pursuing party surrounded the cabin and when one of the men started for a nearby spring for water the officers opened fire. The robber gained entrance to his cabin, and the two put up a fight. Over fifty shots were exchanged when Cornwell received a shot in the hand, which weakened his nerve. The robbers left the cabin with their hands up and were brought to Gallup and lodged in jail.

Stewart, who is well known here, and Cornwell, admit the deed, and state also that it was their intention to rob the store of Mr. Brown at Chaves, and also McDaniel's store, Friday night, and then leave the country.

PROFANITY HURT MORE THAN BEATING

Woman Has Husband Arrested for Injuring Her Feelings by Swearing at Her.

Mrs. J. B. Barreaga telephoned the police last night that she wanted her husband arrested for abusing her and her children. The offender was arrested but when brought into court this morning she was willing to have the case dismissed if the costs were paid.

Chief of Police McMillin was made the moderator in the case, listening to the troubles of the unhappy family. "I didn't beat her," Barreaga told the police. "No, but he swore at me," chimed in the offended better half, "and that hurts me more than a thumping. And my little children he don't love."

The differences were patched up and Barreaga is back in the bosom of his family again.

COLOMBO THEATER

Clever and funny describe the pictures shown nightly at this popular theater, which is now under the sole management of "Spot" Moore. "Spot" says of the pictures he is now running: "They are the best there are anywhere, but if it hurts you to laugh, don't come."

"The Lover's Guide" is the name of the headliner starting tonight, and describes the troubles of a beautiful young man who has learned how to make love out of a book, as follows: Cholly has arrived at the age when every girl looks good to him. He is the only male invited to a picnic given by a bunch of jolly girls, acts as property man, attempts to carry a wagonload of traps, has had luck. They arrive at the picnic ground. Cholly is allowed to make the fire, set the table, carry water, wash the dishes. He is happy, tired and dirty. After dinner he starts out to practice what the book has taught him. Proposes to every girl in succession and has many mishaps. Cholly packs up. Girls are impatient, drive off and leave him. He makes a mad rush to catch up and arrives in time to see the girls leave on the train with a handsome drummer. Declares love-making by book not a success.

Colds and Croup in Children.
"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. H. Serig, No. 41, Fifth St., Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup. As soon as he shows any signs of croup I give him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for three or four days which prevents the attack." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

WOULD SAVE TROUT IN GALLINAS RIVER

Hundreds of Fish Are Wantonly Killed Every Year in Streams of San Miguel County.

Las Vegas, Nov. 4.—Efforts are being made for the preservation of the trout which abundantly stock the streams of San Miguel county. The fish are found in large quantities, particularly in the Gallinas river. The trout are being rapidly exterminated and one of the main causes is that no runways whatever are constructed over any of the dams in Gallinas canyon. The fish go down stream and either run into irrigation ditches or are poisoned by the sewer water from the city. They have no way of getting back up stream. Runways could be constructed at little cost and the trout would climb them with ease. When the irrigation ditches dry up the trout are left to die in the mud. The irrigation ditches are not screened.

A suggestion that the county have several fish wardens has been made. In the mountain streams hundreds of trout are dynamited and a large number were caught during the past season in Gallinas canyon with nose-har snares. At the present rate there will be practically no trout at all in the streams at the end of four years.

CHICKEN RAISERS HAVE HARD LUCK

Important Remedy. Hens Sicken and Few Laying—An

During the past month or so chicken raisers in Albuquerque report that hens are ill and that many of them are dying from some unexplained reason. Few of the hens in this vicinity are laying, even where they are in good condition.

A veteran chicken man today informed a Citizen reporter that he had discovered a simple and cheap remedy for the poultry ailment which had been tried by a number of chicken raisers with considerable success.

The poultry man said to feed the chickens plenty of green food. He further stated that one of the best green foods for chickens was well chopped alfalfa.

E. W. Fee, who conducts the largest and best feed store in the southwest at 602-604 South First street, sells the best machine chopped green alfalfa in the city and poultry raisers can be sure of securing the right sort of feed at the most reasonable prices if they buy of him. Chopped alfalfa is the natural food and the natural regulator for poultry. It is not expensive, even when chopped from the most carefully selected stock. See Fee or telephone No. 16.

W. W. POLLOCK DEAD.

After suffering about nine days with pneumonia, W. W. Pollock died at his home, 511 South Third street, death occurring about 6:20 this morning. He was 54 years of age and is survived by a wife, two daughters and three sons, all of whom are residents of this city.

Mr. Pollock has for the past five years been a resident of this city, having been an employee of the Santa Fe Railroad company for that length of time. Five years ago Mr. Pollock, accompanied by his wife and family, came to Albuquerque from Monmouth, Ill., where they had lived for twenty-five years. Being a railroad man for about that many years, he had no difficulty in procuring employment with the Santa Fe, for which company he has been working ever since his arrival. During his five years' residence in Albuquerque Mr. Pollock has gained the friendship of many hundreds of people, all of whom deeply mourn his death.

The body will be shipped to Monmouth, Ill., where interment will be made. Funeral announcement will be made later.

Mineral Production the Greatest Last Year in the History of the United States.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—The value of the mineral products of the United States in 1907 reached the enormous total of $2,993,289,488, surpassing the value of the same products in 1906 by $165,282,162, or 5.65 per cent, that of 1905 by 27.32 per cent, and of 1904 by 58.31 per cent. Both metallic and nonmetallic products contributed to the gain.

Rank of the Minerals.
Two minerals—coal and iron—are credited with approximately 55 per cent of the total for the country, and three more—copper, clay products, and petroleum—furnish about 22 per cent of the total. The minerals whose output in 1907 was valued at more than $5,000,000 are listed in the following table:

Coal	$614,798,898
Iron	$259,958,000
Copper	$178,799,200

The total value of the metallic products in 1907 was $903,024,005; of the nonmetallic products, $1,166,165,193; $1,000,000, estimated as the value of such mineral products as molybdenum, nickel, titanium, not reported in detail, brings the total to the amount stated.

Rank of the States.
Pennsylvania, producing mineral products valued at $657,783,345 has no close rival for first place among the states for Ohio, which is second, reports products valued at $207,667,339, while the mineral products of Illinois, the state ranking third, valued in 1907 at $145,768,464. Fourth on the list is West Virginia, with mineral products including coal, natural gas, and petroleum, valued at $248,487,960. Colorado is fifth, with products valued at $171,105,128, gold and coal furnishing more than 50 per cent of the value. The ninth is Arizona, with products valued at $55,763,650 more than 90 per cent of which is for copper. California, with a long list of mineral products, among which gold and petroleum were produced to the greatest value, is the tenth state, the mineral output for the year being valued at $56,679,436.

Missouri, with products valued at $53,129,421, and Alabama, whose products were valued at $52,136,749, more than 80 per cent being for coal and iron, hold, respectively, eleventh and twelfth places. What Arizona University Football Players Are Doing

(From Arizona University Life)

At last, at the University of Arizona is a living, breathing entity. The new gridiron back of the gymnasium is a lively. And this new we want to complement the football management and the football supporters on the quality of a field they produced on a little money. It is simply good for practice, and because the for a first class athletic field later on.

The squads from the North Hall and South Hall are both down to hard practice for the opening this afternoon. More than ordinary interest attaches to the Saturday game, as it will afford the first real try-out of the football candidates. The squad will be selected after the game to make up the first and second variety elevens. The candidates for the squad are in dead earnest and you may expect to see some good individual football playing.

North Hall has a little the best of it as far as weight and experience goes, according to the dope of the Life man. However, South Hall has some lightning strikers behind the line and a line that can hold their own so the contest will be a long way from one-sided.

Ernie Behr, captain of the North Hall aggregation, describes his material as follows:

Ends—Edmott, a swift one from Clinton high school and U. of A. prep; Carpenter, known in '02 as the "fastest end on the Texas gridiron"; Harrison, a star from Michigan, who played under Curtis, the All-Western fullback. Tackles—Blades, a husky from the Roosevelt can team, and Williamson, for three years tackle on the Troop Polytechnic. Tackle pair will be hard to stop. Guards—Mitten, the heavyweight from Worthington, Ind., high school; Strong, the most famous guard of the Arapahoe canyon team last summer, a d-caller, the 150-pound center fielder. Farish played football on the Roosevelt team.

At center will be found Captain Behr himself. Enough said.

For quarter North Hall will have the redoubtable Little Hatcher, old varsity quarter; Rusty Adams, of the Oakland high school team and later a Berkeley star, will probably play fullback.

The North Hall halfbacks are strong. Robertson is one of the best backs southern California ever had and Maynard, with his experience, weight and speed, ought to make a good mate for Robertson.

Being strictly a dormitory team, Burnham and Ruthrauff will both be excluded. Ruthrauff is an old varsity tackle and Burnham is famous all over the coast as the captain of the victorious Berkeley freshman team in '07. Wilkey, an end and back from Phoenix high, is slightly disabled, but he will be on the sidelines, ready for an emergency call.

The South Hall team will be under the leadership of Tom Rice, the star fullback for three years of the Douglas high school team. Captain Rice is not talking much, but did consent to give the Life man a line on his material.

Ends—Rolph, an old-time half and tackle on Tucson high school; Simmons, from the Harvard, prep., of California, and Panagan, a Rugby artist from the Los Angeles city team.

Tackles—Firth, the old reliable U. of A. prep. center; Durley, star tackle of the Elsie high school team; Harriman, an experienced tackle, from the University of Southern California team.

Guards—Calloway, the old varsity crack guard, and Rose, the best center the university has had in the recollection of any of the present students.

The South Hall center will be a new man to the game, but he is certain to be made. Ming from Cuba, Johnson from Morenci and Disney from the plains of Kansas are candidates.

Quarterback will be Barnes of half-mile fame. Barnes was half-back and quarter on the Prescott high school team and comes with a fine reputation.

A surprise may be sprung in the line-up of the halfbacks. Newning from St. Edwards college, Texas, will play left half, and Firth or Durley on the other side, but a list has been dropped that Kieberger may play at the last minute and if he does, watch out. Somebody will get run away from.

Provisional Line-Up.
North Hall—Edmott, Hatcher, Mitten; Behr, captain; Strong.

Outlook for Games.

The schedule for football is still very much unsettled. That Tucson will have a city team is an assured fact, and from reports reaching the university it will be an aggregation of notable players. One report that made the varsity faces grow long was to the effect that Dr. Huffman, a 200-pounder, and a veteran, from the line of Drake university, would play quarterback and would be the lightest man on the team. That rumor was not substantiated, however, but the university bunch expected the doctor to fill a man's place at center.

Among the material for the city team are: Ned Bernard, star half on Belmont last year; H. Corbett, also a California player; Frank Sutherland, one of the university standbys; Tom Herndon, who trained the Indians the year they took the university into camp, will probably be an end. Monte Mainfield is the most probable man for quarter while St. Claire, Shinde and N. D. Bernard will complete the back field. Manager Harry Smith has ordered an equipment and as soon as it arrives the squad will be out.

The first game between the Tucson Athletics and Varsity will probably take place early in November, and bids fair to be a hummer.

Correspondence with the University of New Mexico is passing, but Manager Behr has given out no definite information as to the prospects of a game. It is understood that New Mexico has a strong team, one that they have been developing for three years, and are now ready to make a "killing." Arizona would like to be in the game all right, but $400 expense looks like an ocean to wade.

If a series of games can be arranged between Albuquerque and several Arizona teams it is quite possible Albuquerque can make the trip. It would be a game worth watching to see New Mexico and Arizona meet on the gridiron, and we are anxious to have the opportunity.

It is to be regretted that arrangements are so delayed, but levers of the sport are planning on a few good games. Of course the game of the season will be Thanksgiving and the management of football is determined to have it a memorable contest. The varsity's adversary will be announced soon.

BETTER MARKET FOR WESTERN CATTLE

Receipts at Kansas City Are Less Because Kansas Stock Has All Been Sold or Is in Feed Lots.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Nov. 4.—Cattle receipts last week were 60,000 head, quite a reduction from the previous week, and a third smaller than a normal week's supply a short time ago. The reason for the decrease is that cattle from Kansas pastures are now about all marketed, or have been put in feed lots. This relieves beef cattle from the southwest and west from a strong competition, and should help the market on them. The run from quarantine territory is also small, which practically leaves the market for grass cattle to be supplied entirely from the panhandle and from the mountain ranges. The supply today is 9,000 head, reduced somewhat by the proximity of the election yesterday, market 5 to 15 cents higher. Colorado beef steers bring $2.80 to $4.30, cows and heifers $2.75 to $3.65, stockers and feeders $2.25 to $4.10. Utah stockers today at $4.00, Arizona heifers today at $3.25, New Mexico cows and heifers $2.40 to $3.25, stockers and feeders $2.00 to $4.00, bulls $2.15 to $2.70, calves $2.50 to $6.75. The situation will likely be more settled after election, with a better demand both from killers and from country buyers, and if receipts are moderate, we should have a good market.

Sheep and lambs are coming freely, but a smaller proportion are fat enough for the killers than heretofore, which naturally strengthens the market on killing stuff. Prices advanced to 25 cents last week on sheep and yearlings, and 20 to 35 cents on lambs. The run today is 14,000 head, market steady. Colorado lambs at $5.65, 65 pound Utah lambs at $5.60, yearlings $4.50, wethers $4.25, ewes $4.10, medium class stuff 15 to 40 cents below these prices. Demand from the country is sufficient to absorb the offerings at firm prices, feeding lambs mostly around $4.60, wethers and yearlings $2.40 to $2.90, ewes $2.25 to $4.25.

Successful advertising means a prosperous business. The Citizen reaches all classes.

MINOR LEAGUE DISPUTES TO BE SETTLED

Association to Settle All Disputes—November 10 Set for Meeting.

Boston, Nov. 4.—For the next two weeks the National Association of Minor Leagues will hold the center of the stage. The annual meeting has been called for November 10 at the Auditorium Annex, Chicago, with an important meeting of the national board the day previous.

While the baseball public of the big league cities takes little interest in the work of the minor leagues, the fact remains that the minors have a much greater and more loyal following than the two major leagues located in ten of the largest cities.

The season just closed found thirty leagues in good standing, with 225 cities reserving their players for the coming campaign, thereby holding a legitimate claim to over 4,500 professional ball players. Over 200 of these have seen service in the major leagues. The American association alone names about seventy men who have smelt the smoke of battle on the fields of the big leagues. Last season found about fifty players farmed out by the major league clubs to the American association, and the games furnished by this thriving western organization was little short of the article given by the pick of the ball players located in the major league cities.

The Eastern league came next in order in the number of players taken from the major leagues, both as players farmed out and in the way of players disposed of outright. The Southern league came next, with N. W. Orleans leading all minor league clubs for showing the largest string of ex-major league players.

Names familiar to the followers of the big leagues for nearly twenty years back can be found among the minor league clubs scattered from New Orleans to Winnipeg, and to these pioneers of the game can be attributed a great deal of the up-to-date playing we find among the thirty leagues of the minor associations.

With the veterans imparting all the knowledge gathered while playing in fast company, and taking advantage of the best ideas of a new generation of players, the minor leagues furnish an article of ball perhaps more interesting than the great teams of the major leagues. The latter gradually become machines, and while playing more perfect ball, often lack the picturesque qualities and more interesting situations than one can find among the leading exponents of the great game scattered far from the real centers of ball playing.

As a financial proposition less than one-third of the clubs working under the banner of the national association come out ahead. While a winning team in most any league will draw big crowds, there is always a chance that salary limits will be ignored until a losing year will soon wipe out the profits, and once the team starts losing the crowds fall off and the game is passed up.

For the very men who will show a disposition to back a ball club with a chance to make money will be the first one to pull off when the cards are breaking poorly. It's then that the real old Romans of the game come to the front and back the sport out of pure love of the game, and the country is full of just such people with a small army connected with the minor league organization.

The minor leagues are divided into four classes—A, B, C and D. The major leagues can take but one player from a club in class A each season, thus giving this privileged class the opportunity of building up to the major league standard. This great advantage is seldom taken seriously by the class A clubs. They market their star players, often disrupting a grand ball team and taking long chances of rounding up a strong team the next season by dickering for the men not fast enough for the major leagues.

Take the case, for example, of the Indianapolis club this season. After winning the championship of the American association and said to have cleared over $50,000, three of the star players were sold to major league clubs. By waiting for the draft, but one man would have been taken. Now the Indianapolis club will have to depend on deals with the major leagues to strengthen up the ranks, and in the long run will be no better off than if they stood their ground and took the chances of losing even their best man.

The seven class B leagues do well to break even on the season, and usually depend on the draft money for players to continue in the business. There is no limit to the number that can be drafted from this class. The more the better, especially when the draft comes from the major leagues, who have the first call, at $750 a man, while class A, coming later, having the second choice, get the men for $500. The class A leagues, however, would be perfectly willing to take their chances with the big leagues and pay the same price for the men if they were allowed to draft at the same time.

The major leagues will always hold the edge on the minors when it comes to paying the price for players and salaries, although at the present time there are a number of minor league clubs paying fully as high salaries as several clubs tied up to major league organizations.

The great inducement a ball player is always confronted with is the chance to rise in his profession. The major leagues insist on this phase of the game, helping along the young player through a selfish impulse. Working under a ten-year agreement, this great baseball organization has yet three years to run. The officers have been elected for the full term of the association, consisting of P. T. Powers of New York, president; John H. Farrell of Auburn, secretary and treasurer, with the national board made up of Cal Ewing of San Francisco, Joseph O'Brien of Milwaukee, M. H. Sexton of Rock Island, D. M. Schively of Kansas City, William M. Kavanaugh of Little Rock, James H. O'Rourke of Bridgeport, Conn., and T. H. Murnane of Boston.

All disputes between clubs and players must be settled by the national board, which has complete control of all matters pertaining to the organization, with the exception of cases where major league clubs are directly interested. Then the national commission has the power to settle the cases. These two important governing bodies work in perfect harmony, with John H. Farrell in charge of the minor league headquarters at Auburn, N. Y., and August H. Hermann in charge of the national commission headquarters at Cincinnati.

The national commission found the magnates in no mood to be interfered with in the early history of the new controlling force, but by having close to the club mark and working for the best interests of all, the magnates have slowly come into line, strong in their support of the governing power created by the national agreement, a document nearly as strong as the Constitution of the United States.

Having practically framed all the laws that now so well govern the professional end of baseball, it would be a most difficult task, indeed, to find men connected with the game who could take the place of the three men now on the national commission—Messrs. Hermann, Johnson and Pulliam.

Special mention should be made of the great work in the past for the minor leagues by Judge Kavanaugh of Little Rock, president of the Southern league; Michael Sexton of Rock Island, president of the "Three Eye" league; John H. Farrell of the New York State league and James H. O'Rourke of the Connecticut league. Many others have done good work for the organization, such as "Doc" Schively of the Western association, the famous leader of the brush leagues; Dr. Carson of the Central league; Charlie Morton of the Pennsylvania-Ohio league; President Lucas of the Northwestern league; Joseph O'Brien of the American association; O. Mike Sexton, Judge Kavanaugh and John Farrell belong to the largest amount of credit for placing the National association where it is today.

A COMMON ERROR.

The Same Mistake Is Made by Many Albuquerque People.

It's a common error To plaster the aching back, To rub with liniments rheumatic joints.

When the trouble comes from the kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

And are endorsed by Albuquerque citizens. E. A. Reilly, living at 513 W. Fruit avenue, Albuquerque, N. M., says: "For pain in the back or any troubles which arise from irregularity of the kidneys there is, in my opinion, no medicine equal to Doan's Kidney Pills. The value of this remedy was first proven to me about a year ago when they so quickly relieved me of an attack of pain across my loins. Since then I have scarcely been without them and they have never failed to give the desired results. My advice to all complaining of backache or fault with the kidneys is to take Doan's Kidney Pills. They are what they are recommended to be and a trial is all that is needed to prove this."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

TWO "DUSTYS"—TWO NO-HIT GAMES

For a Baseball Coincidence, Can You Beat This?

Pitching for the Omaha team of the Western league, "Dusty" Rhodes, on Saturday, Sept. 12, defeated the Sioux City team without allowing a hit. Omaha won the game, 4 to 1, making nine hits off Alderman, the Sioux City pitcher. Sioux City's one run was scored on a base on balls, an error by Second Baseman King, and two more bases on balls.

Rhodes belongs to the St. Louis National league team, which turned him over to Omaha last spring, with privilege of recall. His correct name is Chas. Rhodes.

Pitching for the Cleveland team of the American league, "Dusty" Rhoades, on Friday, Sept. 15, defeated the Boston team, without allowing a hit. Cleveland won the game 5 to 1, making five hits off Ardennes, the Boston pitcher. Boston's one run was scored on a base on balls, a sacrifice, an error by Second Baseman Lajoie, and a wild pitch.

SAYS BACKACHE MEANS WEAK KIDNEYS

This Simple Mixture Is Said to Prevent Serious Kidney Disease.

More people succumb each year to some form of kidney trouble than any other cause. The slightest form of kidney derangement often develops into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases are suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good, first-class physician.

There are many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home as stated by a well-known authority. For some of these, such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency (especially at night), painful urination and other urinary troubles, try the following simple home remedy: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple ingredients are harmless and can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is no more effective remedy known to relieve all forms of rheumatism, because it acts directly upon the kidneys and blood. It cleans the clogged up pores in the kidneys so they can filter and strain from the blood the poisonous uric acid and waste matter which is not eliminated remain in the blood, decompose and settle about the joints and muscular tissues causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

Backache is nature's signal notifying the sufferer that the kidneys are not acting properly. "Take care of your kidneys," is now the physician's advice to his patients.

JAPANESE HAVE SAVED FORESTS

Problem of Conservation Successfully Solved by People of Nippon.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—Just at the time when this country is beginning to struggle with the problem of husbanding its forest resources, of protecting its mountain slopes, and of improving the waterways, it is interesting to know that the Japanese have successfully attacked the same problem, before the land suffered severely from the evil effects following deforestation. The far-sighted people of Nippon have foreseen the results of the destruction of their extensive mountain forests, and have safeguarded themselves by placing all of these under government control.

The practice of forestry has been carried on in Japan for a longer time than in any other country. For 1200 years the people of Japan have been planting and growing forests, with a success that has been a little short of marvelous. Under careful management, the Japanese forests yield very high financial returns. This high yield is only made possible by the close utilization of every bit of the tree so that scarcely a twig is wasted, and by the improvement of the growth of their forests by carefully conducted thinning and tending. The woods are first thinned at the age of thirteen years, and then every five years after that up to the time of the final harvest at 120 years.

It was with the opening up of the hitherto inaccessible mountain forests that the Japanese government became most intensely interested in forestry. The mountains were still government land, so all that was necessary to protect them was to place proper restrictions on the sale and cutting of timber. This was effected by declaring the forests on the steep slopes as reserved forests in which the only cutting should be done under government direction. The forests on agricultural land, not needed for protection, are classed as available forests, and here the cutting is not so carefully restricted.

Thus Japan has effectually prevented the stripping of her mountain slopes before any great damage has been done. In some districts, where the mountains are near the towns, the steep slopes have already been cleared and this has resulted in floods and the washing down of the soil from the slopes on to the farm lands. But these cases have been exceptional, and have more served as a warning, which Japan has heeded before it was too late to prevent widespread destruction.

The sad news of the death of Mrs. H. E. Ziesler was received in this city this morning. Mrs. Ziesler was formerly a resident of this city, residing at 403 South Walter street. Mr. Ziesler is an employee of the Santa Fe Railroad company and the death of his wife will be the cause of much regret by her many friends who were intimately acquainted with her.

The omission of the word "buzzard" in last evening's Citizen made the article relating to the hunting expedition of Walle Harsch, R. N. Van Sant, Hugh Dutter and Jim Riker, all of whom spent a week in the Manzano mountains, read that two turkeys were killed and brought home. Examination of the game bag revealed that two turkey buzzards, two Jack rabbits and a hawk, which they distributed among friends in this city. The party made the trip in an automobile without any mishap of any consequence and returned yesterday afternoon in tip-top shape, going straight toward a restaurant as their first stopping place. However, the boys report an excellent time and are planning another such trip which they intend making in the near future.

While east Mr. Chambers, who is a great baseball enthusiast, having formerly played with the Browns of this city, witnessed several of the championship ball games between Chicago and Detroit, and is much enthused over the way the players performed. In Mr. Chambers' estimation it was brains that counted in the winning games. The Detroit did some wonderful playing and at times things looked quite doubtful for the winners but the brain forces of the Chicago boys were put to work at the critical moments and won the final battle. According to Mr. Chambers the Chicago aggregation represents the finest team in the country and their work was nothing short of marvelous.

There he failed rapidly and this morning death came to his relief. The young man's sister is in the city and will accompany the remains back to Ashland, Ky., where interment will be made. Shipment of the body will be made this evening.

SURGERY CURED A DISHONEST MAN

By an Operation He Was Made a Model Citizen, Respected by Employers.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—Surgery as a cure for moral degeneracy has had a remarkable demonstration in this city through an operation performed by Dr. Herbert L. Northrop, dean of Hahnemann college. By a simple operation on the skull, pending pressure on the brain caused by an injury, Dr. Northrop changed a man 48 years of age from a drunkard and a thief to an honest, industrious citizen, respected by his employers. The patient declares his desire to drink and steal has disappeared. For twenty-two months he has lived up-rightly, and in that time has been promoted twice by the company employing him.

Previous to the operation he drank a quart of whisky a day, stole money from his employers, and was unable to keep work because of his bad habits.

The man's bad habits began after he was struck on the head by a falling timber in May, 1891. His mind remained clear, but he lost his sense of moral responsibility. He held a position of trust with a company and kept it for twenty years after the accident, when he had to be discharged, as he had become a confirmed inebriate and stolen thousands of dollars on several occasions. The patient is now devoted to his family, whom he had neglected during his years of dissipation, and says the thought of taking a drink never enters his mind. The

POOL BONUS TO GO.

San Bernardino, Calif., Nov. 4.—There is considerable stir among the engine workers at the Santa Fe shops owing to a rumor that is going the rounds to the effect that, beginning with the first of the coming month, the old system of pool bonus for the engine workers will be abandoned and instead individual bonus will prevail. As it is at present, the enginemen get a bonus on all engines turned out over a certain number, and the money derived as bonus is divided among the various mechanics, such as pipemen, fitters, etc., but if the change is made each man will be placed on a schedule and given bonus money according to the work he does. At first glance this would seem to be a more satisfactory plan than the one now in use, but the men claim that owing to the fact that there are not sufficient engines to work upon their bonus money will be cut down considerably. However, there will of course be no direct objection to this change, as the bonus money is just what the word signifies, a gift absolutely clear of the actual wage paid, and therefore the workmen have no voice in the matter.
