Andrews' majority, 1206.
 *Counties where returns are estimated.

With unofficial returns from all but three counties and with the estimates in these three counties so conservative that not much change will be made, W. H. Andrews, the Republican candidate, has a majority over Larrazolo, Democrat, today of 1,206. It is not believed that the official canvass of the ballots will materially affect these figures.

The only counties not heard from completely today are Rio Arriba, Sandoval and Torrance. Sandoval already has a majority for Mr. Andrews of about 700 votes. There are three precincts yet to be heard from and it is only a question as to how much they will raise the majority, as they are strong Andrews precincts.

Torrance county is given to the Democrats at 290 votes; Rio Arriba is also placed in the Democratic column today with a Larrazolo majority of 190. This will probably be slightly larger.

Mr. Andrews today expressed himself as well pleased at the result and said that he had already begun writing letters to various members of Congress, making appointments for conferences on statehood.

The Democratic handbill, which was sold for the price of a real newspaper, collapsed suddenly yesterday upon ascertaining that Larrazolo and most of Democracy were snowed under. His demise in the newspaper field will not materially affect conditions from what they were before it began.

Delegate Andrews received a large number of congratulatory telegrams, which poured into his office all day today and yesterday. One of the first to wire him was "Uncle Joe" Cannon, speaker of the last House in Congress, and who has only recently promised his support to a New Mexico statehood bill. Some of the telegrams received by Senator Andrews are as follows:

From Speaker Cannon.
 Danville, Ill., Nov. 6.—Accept my congratulations on your re-election.—J. G. Cannon.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 6.—Accept my most hearty congratulations, old man. It shows the people of New Mexico appreciate a good Republican servant. Leave tonight for Hot Springs, West Virginia. Best wishes.—Jonathan Bourne, Jr.

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Congratulations upon result, which is as pleasing to us as it must be to you.—Paul A. F. Walter.

Las Vegas, Nov. 6.—Congratulations. Old San Miguel gives you 756.—P. O. Hood.

Texas, Nov. 6.—Congratulations upon your election. To our people it means statehood and prosperity.—J. M. Kindred.

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Heartiest congratulations. Rio Arriba gives Larrazolo 183 with nine Republican precincts lacking. Our precinct gave a gain of 69 over last election.—L. B. Prince.

Cleveland, Nov. 6.—Have just seen news bulletin. Congratulations.—Myer Reinhold.

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Congratulations upon your well earned victory.—A. J. Fischer.

ONLY GROWN UP PEOPLE IN LIFE OF MARGARET CARNEGIE, HEIRESS

New York, Nov. 6.—The accompanying snapshot, taken since the return of the Carnegies from Europe, is the latest picture of Mrs. Carnegie and Margaret, heiress of the steel-master's millions. She is 11 years old. Until she was 8 years old she had a "full, round, smiling face, but she has since grown taller, thin, and has a white, delicate face.

Her life is a lonely one, and she shows it in her sad, rather dignified air.

Other children go to school. Margaret is deprived of the pleasure of school life and school companionship by being educated at home and having the society of grown persons almost exclusively. Almost her only recreation is a daily carriage ride in Central park, opposite the Carnegie mansion. She goes out occasionally with her mother, and the snapshot is the result of one of those trips.

ROOSEVELT FOR SENATE TO TAKE THE PLACE OF PLATT

Washington Friends are Urging President to Enter the Race in New York.

HIS AFRICAN TRIP WOULD NOT INTERFERE

Washington, Nov. 6.—With the election over and national politics disposed of for the present, interest in Washington centers about the probable career of President Roosevelt after he leaves the White House next March. While his proposed hunting trip in Africa will take up some months of the next year and his work for a magazine with which he recently signed a contract will keep him busy part of the time, the president's well known capacity for work is an assurance that he will have time to spare.

That he may be the successor of Senator Platt in the United States senate is considered by many in Washington as not improbable. It is said that his hunting trip in Africa would not interfere with his election if his friends see fit to urge him for the position, and it is known that at one time at least President Roosevelt was not averse to accepting a position as senator from New York.

Whether he still inclines to that attitude is not known, but in Washington circles it is believed that he would accept, as he would, by entering the senate, be able to urge legislation along the lines he has drawn during his administration.

ESCAPED IN NIGHTCLOTHES

Washington, Nov. 6.—About 150 students, clad only in their nightclothes, fled through smoke and flames from the Bliss electrical school which burned to the ground early today. All escaped uninjured but they lost most of their effects. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

MORSE GOES TO PRISON WHILE CURTIS MAY GO FREE

Ice King and Banker Who Was Worth $22,000,000 a Few Years Ago, Found Guilty.

MAY BE CONFINED IN ATLANTA PRISON

New York, Nov. 6.—Charles W. Morse, at one time "ice king," "steamship king," and the controlling force in a long string of banks in this city and whose personal fortune, a little more than a year ago, was estimated at $22,000,000, spent last night in Tombs prison, together with Alfred H. Curtis, former president of the National Bank of North America. The two men, who have been on trial for a week past on the charge of violating national banking laws, were found guilty in court yesterday. Morse was also an officer of the National Bank of North America, and the two men were tried on charges in connection with their conduct of the bank's business.

This morning Morse was sentenced to fifteen years in prison. Judge Hough, who passed sentence on Morse, suspended sentence on Curtis. The latter turned state's evidence and it may be that he will not go to prison.

The sentence of Morse is based on the verdict of guilty for the misapplication of funds of the bank and making false entries in the bank books. It is understood that if he goes to prison he will be confined in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga.

Ten days' stay of execution of the sentence upon Morse was granted by Judge Hough. It is understood that notice of an appeal will be filed immediately. Morse was paroled in custody of Marshal Hough, pending any action that might be taken during the ten days' stay.

Suspension in the case of Curtis was granted on account of the recommendation for clemency by the jury. The scene in the court room at the

New York, Nov. 6.—With returns practically complete, except in Maryland and a few precincts in Missouri, it is apparent that William H. Taft has more than 320 of the electoral votes, falling only slightly behind the vote for Roosevelt four years ago. Missouri is conceded to the Republican ticket and the electoral vote of Maryland will probably be split, the official canvass made so far indicating that the Republicans will have one and possibly two of the eight electoral votes of that state.

In Maryland nothing had been heard up to 1 o'clock today from the four counties outside of Baltimore whose returns have been delayed. It is difficult to forecast the vote in those counties but it is apparent from the canvass of the returns received so far that the Republicans will have at least one electoral vote and may possibly get two.

Reports from Missouri show that supplementary returns fail to disturb materially Taft's lead of 4,235 votes. The legislature seems fixed at a Democratic majority of six on the joint ballot, though this is subject to change.

In California returns from 2,559 precincts out of 2,854 give Taft 295, 215 and Bryan 121,547.

In Washington complete returns, excepting a few interior precincts, give Taft 102,399 and Bryan 47,024. Debs got 6,685, Chafin 2,138 and Higen 160.

Bryan carried his home state, Nebraska, by 4,500, according to unofficial returns from all counties. Shellenberger, Democrat, was elected governor by 7,500.

Time sentence was passed was dramatic. Morse sat like a stoic when he heard the sentence. There was scarcely a tremor of the eye. Curtis, too, accepted the news which came to him with the same lack of emotion. But the strain was too great for the veteran of the two bankers. Mrs. Morse collapsed, burying her face in her hands, and sobbing convulsively. Still weeping, she was led from the court room. Mrs. Curtis, who has been ill several times during the trial, fainted and would have fallen had not kindly hands caught her.

ASHORE IN A SNOW STORM

Portland, Me., Nov. 6.—The German coasting steamer Argemones went ashore in a snow storm yesterday and ten members of the crew were drowned. Three survivors were taken from the wreck this morning.

HENRY CRAEMER. SERVING LIFE SENTENCE FOR MURDER.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 6.—Like a voice from the grave has come the report that John Quincy Hackett has been found near Fairbanks, Alaska. He is the missing alibi witness who, it is thought, can prove the innocence of Henry Craemer, now serving a life sentence in the Walla Walla penitentiary on a charge of having brutally murdered Mrs. Philip Mueller and her girl baby in their little home on an evening in August, 1894.

The woman and child were beaten to death with a heavy hammer in the hands of the assassin, who disappeared with $300 from the family purse after setting fire to the house. Later the purse and $200 was found in the woodshed of Craemer's home in South Seattle, also two pieces of broken hammer handle that fitted the weapon with which the murder had been committed.

Craemer was arrested and pleaded that at the time of the murder he was in Tacoma with his friend Hackett, and that the latter had given him the money.

Hackett could not be located and Craemer was convicted of murder five separate times and sentenced to hang each time. Sixteen hours before the moment for his execution after the last conviction his death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

All this time Otto F. Wegner, a wealthy German friend of Craemer's, had been hunting for the missing witness Hackett. He spent $20,000 in the search before he finally located the man in Alaska. Hackett had gone there immediately after the murder and knew nothing of the charges that had been made against his companion. He swears that Craemer was with him on the night of the killing.

The proposition which was submitted to the voters Tuesday provides for the issue of $20,000,000 in bonds to complete this enormous undertaking, and the proposition carried by a large majority. The United States government has promised to complete the channel beyond the Illinois state line and thus a ship waterway from Chicago to the Mississippi is assured.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS TERRIFY GERMAN PEOPLE

Houses are Shaken, Walls Cracked and Considerable Damage Done at Plauen.

WATER IN SPRINGS IS FIFTEEN DEGREES HOTTER

Plauen, Germany, Nov. 6.—The most violent earthquake ever experienced in this vicinity terrified the inhabitants of this city at 5:40 o'clock this morning. Houses were shaken, walls overturned, and the people fled in stricken into the streets.

The shock, which lasted several minutes, was accompanied by sharp explosions and thunderous rumblings in the earth. So far as known, no loss of life occurred but considerable damage was done to buildings. Sixty or seventy shocks have been felt daily for the past week. They are now becoming less frequent but more violent. The temperature of the water in the medicinal springs in this vicinity has increased fifteen degrees.

GERMANY BACKS DOWN WHEN FRANCE CALLS BIG BLUFF

Kaiser Agrees to Express Regret and to Accede to Proposal for Arbitration.

GERMANS CHANGE TONE

Yesterday They Wanted Ology and Release of From the Fore But Today are With Much

Paris, Nov. 6.—T Germany and France aroused over the deserters from the legion by the President Casa Blanca, was over night.

It is now apparent ready to abandon the release of these men causes the action of the dlers who are alleged to have ed the German consulate at Blanca. Both Herr Von Schoen, German foreign secretary, and Prince Von Radolin, German ambassador in Paris, have changed the tone of their utterances and today are manifesting a readiness to accept the proposal made by France.

France's proposal which was yesterday refused by Germany but which will apparently now be accepted provides that with mutual expressions of regret, the entire incident may be referred to arbitration. It is understood that both Austria-Hungary and Italy advised Berlin to follow the course of prudence.

DEFENSE BEGINS IN DONAHUE CASE

Prosecution Concludes With Testimony of Sheriff Today.

In a statement before the jury this afternoon, when the prosecution had rested on the Donahue case, Judge W. C. Heacock said that the defense would show by three witnesses that Jack Donahue was sitting at a card table in the Summer Garden saloon when Justiano Chaves was shot and killed, 102 feet away. He said that the defense would also show that Donahue had no run from 3 o'clock the afternoon of June 16 until 2 o'clock the morning of June 17, an hour after Chaves was killed, when he was arrested by Sheriff Armijo, and that he would further show that Donahue could not have shot Chaves in the left side of the body; that the defense would prove further who the man was that Judge Romero saw near the body and who Romero followed but did not overtake; also that there was a row in the saloon previous to the killing and that he would show who started the row; Judge Heacock said that the defense would also show who the man was who struck Ed Haines. He closed his statement to the jury by saying that he expected the jury to find for Donahue a verdict of not guilty.

The prosecution finished its case about 2 o'clock with the testimony of Sheriff Armijo, who was called from his bed shortly after the killing and later arrested Donahue. The witness said that Chas. Webb, the proprietor of the Summer garden, and Donahue came to his house and told him that a man had been shot in front of the Summer Garden; and that they were afraid to go back there. Armijo accompanied them to the place and found Justiano Chaves in the road dead. Ambrosio Perez, and Martin Garcia came up and one of them said that Donahue had killed Chaves. Donahue denied the allegation, but was arrested and taken in a hack to jail. When asked as to the condition of the men at the time, Armijo said that they were all drunk.

When asked what he meant by saying "all" he said that he meant Webb, Donahue, Garcia and Perez.

When the prosecution had finished its case, the defense had Garcia and Haines returned to the stand. They attempted to show by Garcia that Chaves had money on his person the evening he was killed, but were unable to get their questions in. The defense attempted to have Haines indicate by a pencil mark on a map where Chaves was killed, with reference to the summer garden and the house of Justice of the Peace Romero, but an objection on the part of District Attorney Clinch was sustained by the court.

At the close of the case of the prosecution the defense asked for and was given a recess of five minutes.

It is barely possible that the case will go to the jury tomorrow afternoon.

DEEP SHIP WATERWAY FROM CHICAGO TO MISSISSIPPI

Illinois Voters Favor Issue of $20,000,000 in Bonds to Complete the Work.

THE GOVERNMENT DOES ITS SHARE

Chicago, Nov. 6.—A waterway which will afford passage for good sized ships between Chicago and the Mississippi is assured, the voters of Illinois having voted overwhelmingly to issue bonds for the construction of a channel from Lockport to Utica, Illinois on the Illinois river.

The proposition which was submitted to the voters Tuesday provides for the issue of $20,000,000 in bonds to complete this enormous undertaking, and the proposition carried by a large majority. The United States government has promised to complete the channel beyond the Illinois state line and thus a ship waterway from Chicago to the Mississippi is assured.

A KANSAS BANK CLOSED

Arkansas City, Nov. 6.—The Citizens and Farmers' State bank closed its doors this morning, the first indication of its suspension being a notice posted on the door, signed by all the officers, which read:

"This bank closed pending an investigation of its affairs. The bank commissioner has been notified and is in full charge. Full particulars will be given out as soon as possible after his arrival."

William A. Wilson, president of the bank, resides in Kansas City and the closing of the bank followed the return of Cashier Sanders from a trip to that city.

Manila, Nov. 6.—The news of the election of William H. Taft to the presidency of the United States was received with the greatest enthusiasm by all classes throughout the Philippines. The progress of the count as bulletined throughout the day was sent to many points in the islands, and was followed with close attention.

BOARDING SCHOL GIRL BECOMES LEADING LADY IN TWO MONTHS

MISS ANNE MURDOCK, WHO IS A LEADING LADY AT 17.

The chronicles of the stage record no more rapid rise to fame than the case of Anne Murdock, leading woman with Robert Edison, now touring the country in "The Call of the North."

Miss Murdock, who has just celebrated her seventeenth birthday, was, until eight weeks ago, a pupil at a New York boarding school for girls.

One day, just for the fun of it, she called on Henry B. Harris at his offices, in the Hudson Theater building, and asked for an engagement with one of his companies. So impressed was Mr. Harris with her appearance, which resembles very much that of Billie Burke, that he gave her an engagement subject to the consent of her mother. The next day Miss Murdock called with a letter from her mother, giving consent to her daughter taking up the stage as her life's career.

Four weeks ago Miss Murdock made her debut on the stage, playing a small part with Mr. Edison at the Hudson theater, New York. Her natural talent as an actress was so manifest that Mr. Harris gave her the understudy part of the leading woman. Four weeks later to the day Miss Murdock's opportunity came, when the leading woman, by reason of pre-existing contracts, was compelled to leave the company, and the young debutante played the part for the first time and scored a hit. So pleased was Mr. Edison with her work that she was given the part, and at the same time her salary was raised to a figure in keeping with the responsibilities of the part.

DAILY SHORT STORIES

THE PEARL OF EL-SAFI.

By Harold Carter.

He started. Sleep eluded heavily to his eyes and weighed them down, but fear clutched at his heart. Through the tent of black felt the moon shone with an intense light. Instinctively his hand went out, to clasp the broken end of a giraffe. Her giraffe!

And she was gone, without a sound, so swiftly had she been stolen, even as she slept peacefully at the tent door; his treasure, the pearl of El-Safi and all the Sahara westward, the star of the Kabyles, known and sung by all the tribes south to the black countries.

Then, listening, he heard the shouts of Khifer's men, the thud of hoofs over the sand, the crackle of their defiant musketry. Khifer, who had once come to woo her with fifty dromedaries, and had gone weeping back for love of her, swearing to gain her!

It was stifling inside the tent. He sprang to his feet, buckled on his sword, seized his matchlock, and rushed out to meet the men of his tribe, guns in hand, hot-footed and breathless, questioning, shouting, pointing hopelessly to the northeast, where Khifer rode with his men, mere specks of black against a waning moon.

Presently five had saddled their horses, accoutered themselves and drawn near; Ain Yar, the silver-smith; Beth-el-Mookitan, the poet, who had been crowned in Medina; Abdul the Pilgrim, with green turban awry; Mulad and Rasmedar. They rode away silently.

When the edge of the huge sun rose Ain Yar halted.

"By noon," he said, "Khifer will be in Foula. To follow is madness." And he rode back.

When the sun was yet gathering strength Abdul drew rein.

"There is no well before Foula," he said. "We shall all die." And he followed Ain Yar.

"My stallion would eat no dates last night," said Mulad presently. Then he and Rasmedar also departed. Afterward Beth-el-Mookitan began to sing.

"Friendship is sweeter than clear water," he quoted. "But, my friend, what can we two men do?"

"Go, then," replied the heretic one, snuffing his stallion. He left Mookitan weakly protesting and rode on alone.

The hot sun scorched him; grains of sand penetrated his veil and entered his nostrils, an agonizing thirst tormented him. Mirages haunted him so that in fancy he could see Foula, with her stately groves of female palm trees, and the grunting camels beside wells from which Bedouin mounds carried clear water in earthen jars. His horse fell under him and he dismounted, standing a lone figure on the vast plain, the bridge linked round his sword arm, the first hot matchlock clinking upon his thigh. Now a great weariness came over him.

"Let me die, then, since it is Thy will," he murmured, prostrating himself eastward. And he sank down on the sand. On the horizon Foula still danced and quivered. Now he saw bustle and confusion there as horsemen came galloping in. Women and girls rushed from the black tents to acclaim them. And there was the thief Khifer, swearing among his men, and there his Pearl, her broken giraffe dangling at her heels as she walked, defiant and stately, among them. They crowded round, fingering and appraising her. Then they brought ropes and fastened her to a tree, thrust food in front of her and left her. Bu-Hamara started up, examining the picture with fierce natural exclamations. His heart beat in his breast madly; unconquerable hate possessed him. In the west sank the sun, a fiery, molten ball.

He leaped upon his stallion and rode on. Foula hung, quivering; then slowly settled down upon the verge of the world—and stayed. The blood leaped through his veins. For now he knew that this was Foula in very truth, no image of El-Safi sent to torment travelers. He rode, now lighting her, now losing her; and even as he ascended the last sand ridge the sun sank suddenly and darkness came sweeping over the land.

He turned his stallion loose and bade him go homeward, then, silent as panther, he crept on and on till flickering campfires flamed out of the darkness, lighting up the line of tents and the dark figures of the sleepers. He heard the Bedouins shouting and quarreling as they drank—accursed of God—their date wine. With a light laugh because he knew that she was near, that soon his arms would fold her, come what might afterward, Bu-Hamara slipped like a thief beyond the grunting camels, into the protecting pines of date palms, their leaves rustling ceaselessly, like rain, worming his way, he bled against the sand, toward where she stood helpless and bound. Now he had seen him and looked up with incredulous eyes. Softly he slipped a knife from his belt and severed her bonds, while she stretched out her face to him, with a soft crooning murmur. Already the edge of the rising moon had cleft the sand dunes. Somebody stirred; somebody cried; and in an instant it seemed, the air was alive with his bullets. But for one instant he had kissed her and the next he was galloping away, clearing the grunting dromedaries with a single stroke, laughing as her hoofs spurred up the sand behind her. For he knew that no steel which had been bred could catch his pearl, the star of the Kabyles and all the Sahara westward!

A WITNESS SAYS CHANLER FIGHTS MRS. GUNNESS TO PROVE HIS IS ALIVE SANITY

Farmer Will Testify in Lamphere Case He Saw Woman After House Burned.

La Porte, Ind., Nov. 5.—The trial of Ray Lamphere for the murder of Mrs. Belle Gunness, the La Porte murderess, who buried her many victims in her dooryard, which is to be called on Nov. 9, has been complicated during the last week by the discovery of three witnesses who will swear for the defense that Mrs. Gunness is not dead; that they saw her visit the scene of her ghastly crimes and flee with a man who accompanied her on July 9 last.

Charles Hudson, a farmer, and his two daughters, nine and twelve years old, are the additions to the army of witnesses in this case of circumstantial evidence already involved in so much uncertainty that it is hazardous to predict that any jury could agree. Hudson tells the following story:

"On July 9 I was driving to my home, which is near the Gunness farm, and noticed a man and a woman walking about the place. I was close enough to see to distinguish the woman's features, and although she wore a heavy veil I was positive she could be no one else than Mrs. Gunness. I approached within fifty feet of the couple and could see that the man's hair was streaked with gray above his ears. The woman hurried to a wagon on my approach, the man jumped in beside her and the two drove away as fast as they could make their horses run. I drove after them as fast as I could, but they distanced me and I gave up the chase when I arrived at my house."

"I would not have been so certain had not my daughter, Clara, aged nine called out to me in great excitement as I drove up: 'Papa, I just saw Mrs. Gunness drive past here ahead of you.' An hour later my other daughter, Mabel, who is twelve, came home and told me the same story, that she had seen Mrs. Gunness drive past the farm."

"I went immediately and told Sheriff Smutser but he only laughed at me. I then informed Darrow and Worcester attorneys for Lamphere. I am ready to swear that I could not have been mistaken."

This news has fallen upon the prosecution as a great surprise, although persons from one end of the country to the other have made "positive" identifications of women they imagined were the La Porte murderess since the controversy following the burning of her home, as to whether Mrs. Gunness was the woman who died in the ruins with her three children.

On the theory that the woman was alive, numerous women who bore some resemblance to the murderess were detained, one being arrested and taken from a sleeping car passing through Utica. Another sensational feature of the case was the attempt to indicate other persons. Notable among these was the fake "confession" of Julius G. Truelson, Jr., of New York, son of a well-to-do piano manufacturer, who swore in the jail in Vernon, Tex., that he was an accomplice of Mrs. Gunness and that Ray Lamphere assisted him to dispose of several bodies after Mrs. Gunness had murdered them. Truelson is still in the Texas jail, held for forgery, his "confession" thoroughly disproved.

Since the case dropped partly from public attention the chemical analysis of the stomachs of the woman and two of the children had been completed and has changed several respects of the prosecution of Lamphere. Arsenic and strychnine were found in quantities sufficient to have caused death, leading to the supposition that the woman may have poisoned herself and her three children and then set fire to the house. On this theory the defense of Lamphere would have rested with good chances of acquittal had not Hudson, the neighboring farmer, come forward with the statement that he and his daughters have seen Mrs. Gunness alive.

The trial may last two weeks though one week is counted on by the defense to gain Lamphere's liberty. The state has elected to go to trial on the indictment for the murder of Mrs. Gunness. It is on that charge Lamphere is acquitted. It may place him on trial on the indictment charging complicity in the murder of Andrew Heiglein, the last victim, who was lured to the farm last Christmas, robbed of nearly $3,000, poisoned, his body dissected and buried in the dooryard. In this case the state will attempt to prove, if it goes to trial, that Lamphere on the night of Heiglein's murder, returned with a friend from Michigan City, where Mrs. Gunness had sent him on an errand, and that he got off the interurban car, saying he guessed he would "drop in on the old lady and see what she's doing" and that then he caught her in the act of murder and by his silence, if not by his assistance, became her accomplice.

Colds and Croup in Children.
"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. H. Serig, No. 41, Fifth St. Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup. As soon as he shows any signs of croup I give him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, for three or four days which prevents the attack." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Fugitive From Lunatic's Cell, This New Yorker Tries to Save His Fortune.

New York, Nov. 5.—The amazing case of John Armstrong Chaloner, millionaire member of the Astor family, brother of Lewis Stuyvesant Chaloner, Democratic candidate for governor of New York, who for eleven years has been a fugitive in the south from the Bloomingdale insane asylum, will soon occupy the spotlight of interest in the metropolis, and may prove to be a cause celebre from which all future parallel cases may date.

Legally a lunatic in New York, Chaloner whose name was changed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina, is sane in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and other states in which he has resided since his sensational escape from the Bloomingdale house of torture.

Through a unique legal procedure Chaloner is to be brought back to New York in charge of a deputy United States marshal, the federal court of New York having issued a writ of immunity from arrest, good for five days prior to and subsequent to the hearing of the case. Chaloner is suing T. T. Sherman, his legal guardian, to recover $1,000,000 worth of property and prove his sanity from the testimony of expert alienists.

The hearing will be a dramatic climax in Chaloner's long and desperate fight to prove his sanity in his home state.

Years ago when he was a student at Columbia university, where he acquired the degree of bachelor of arts, Chaloner, in the pursuit of occult mysteries, in the pursuit of a study he retained all his rich and society-tired friends by exhibiting himself at their homes as a medium. He sometimes would show himself in a table state, his face resembling the death mask of Napoleon. The impression was so deep that he was remarkably realistic.

On one occasion Chaloner exhibited himself at the studio of Stanetti White, in the tower of Madison Square Garden. It was under this tower that White met death at the hands of Harry Thaw, and now, on the very week that a jury will be listening to the Chaloner tragedy in the federal court Madison Square Garden will be the scene of the annual horse show, and hundreds of Chaloner's old friends will be in attendance.

Stanford White was so impressed by Chaloner's trance exhibition that he is said to have expressed his belief that Chaloner was insane. Within a month the young man was examined by alienists and taken to Bloomingdale. Though he stoutly declared his sanity, members of his family refused to listen to his plea and finally by an ingenious method he succeeded in escaping from the asylum and took up his residence in Philadelphia.

There he voluntarily placed himself under the inspection of alienists, living with them, and though they decided that he was sane, his family still refused to intercede in his behalf in New York. Later Chaloner bought an estate in Virginia and has since resided there, living an apparently rational life. He is much beloved by his neighbors and friends. He has written a book entitled "Four Years Behind the Bars," in which he describes in graphic style his life at Bloomingdale.

Several years ago he established a bottling mill at town of R. P. L. N. Y., and last summer he journeyed there to deliver a Fourth of July address to the school children. He now declares that his single aim in life is to establish his own sanity in New York, and to devote his time to propaganda of the evils of the prevailing lunacy laws. He believes that thousands of persons who are perfectly sane are today confined in lunatic asylums. Should he win his present case, the precedent will be established to which all doubtful lunatics may appeal and have trial by jury.

Twenty years ago Chaloner married Miss Amelia Rives, who became famous as the author of the novel entitled "The Quick or the Dead." She was the daughter of Col. Rives, former minister to France. Less than eight years after their marriage Chaloner's wife obtained a divorce in South Dakota, alleging incompatibility of temper. A curious phase of this chapter in the life of the unhappy millionaire was the fact that his brother, Astor Chaloner, seriously objected to the book Amelia Rives had written and forwarded a copy of the same to his brother with marginal criticisms. Chaloner, being deeply in love with his wife, resented these criticisms, and since then the brothers have been enemies. It is even said that this event caused a gradual alienation of Chaloner and his wife.

After her divorce, Mrs. Chaloner married Prince Troubetzkoy. Chaloner's ancestry dates back to Charlotte Corday, and he frequently asserts his pride of descendancy from the beautiful and history-loved assassin of Gen. Marat.

RAILROADS BUY N. O. H. EQUIPMENT

Several Lines Are Asking Bids for Steel and New Cars.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Notwithstanding the withholding of a considerable amount of business until after the election, the month of October continues to show a substantial increase in the volume of business in the railway industry. The heavy tonnage is largely from the railroads. As already reported at New York, the Chicago and Northwestern railroad has sent out its inquiry asking for bids on October 26 on the 24,000 tons of steel for elevating its tracks into the new terminal. Deliveries are to extend through the year, beginning in February. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has added another order for 2,500 cars and has placed the contract for the steel underframes with the Bettendorf Axle company. This will mean the ordering of another 10,000 tons of structural steel. Within a year the St. Paul road has authorized the building of 10,000 cars and has now ordered fifty Prairie locomotives, to be built at the Baldwin and American locomotive shops. The Ann Arbor railroad has placed a contract with the Lackawanna Steel company for forty miles of rail joints. Prices are being asked on 1,000 tons of steel for a viaduct in Denver by four railroads, who will use it in common. The consulting engineer is Herbert S. Crocker of Denver.

The Chicago & Alton railroad will soon be in the market for thirty locomotives, twenty of which are to be consolidation type, and the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific is buying sixty locomotives. The Chicago & North Western has ordered from the American Locomotive company fifteen Atlantic type engines, and of other makers fifteen six-wheel and twenty-five ten-wheel engines.

The balance of the rail tonnage, amounting to 3,000 tons for the Illinois Steel company and 15,000 tons for the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, was released for prompt shipment from western yards, and guarantees the operation of the South works of the Illinois Steel company through the balance of the year. The "Soo" line is out with a small inquiry requiring 200 tons of bridge steel for nine spans.

BUILD A VILLAGE OF CLAY HOUSES

Novel Project Started in New Jersey—Fire Danger is Averted.

Orange, N. J., Nov. 6.—An unusual undertaking, the building of a fireproof village, is in progress at Mountain Station, on the border line between Orange and South Orange, N. J. Six houses are well on the way to completion already and they are all made of burned clay in the form of hollow blocks. The roofs are of either asbestos shingles or slate. Nowhere else in the country, it is said, are there so many fireproof dwelling houses in one group. The scheme is the result of the study of improved methods of construction within the last few years.

The heirs of the Henry A. Page estate are carrying through the undertaking. One of the Page heirs who has been interested for several years in developing the properties of the estate, formerly put up houses of reinforced concrete. Recently he retained an engineer to make a special investigation of fireproof materials and building methods, for the purpose of comparison. The consequence of the investigation was that terra cotta blocks instead of concrete, were chosen for the Jersey dwellings.

Each of the houses now being built at Mountain Station has eight or ten rooms. All partitions, as well as the floors and outside walls, are of terra cotta, so that a fire could not be spread from one room to another. In one of the houses is a floor with a set of eighteen feet, the longest span ever made with this type of construction.

adopted plans by which they hope to make the hall self supporting.Col. Stern was appointed a commit-

The board already has about 300 chairs for the first floor but this number is far short of what is needed. According to plans, as soon as funds are to be had, the balcony will be set with orchestra chairs of the most modern style. The seats for the first floor will be portable so that they can be moved should the hall

Ruppe said this morning that the gymnasium which would be installed would make the place attractive to any young men of the city taking interest in fencing, boxing, calisthenics and physical culture. It was the purpose of the board to employ a capable trainer and to charge members a reasonable fee for membership cards. For this membership fee, paid monthly in advance, they will receive the benefits of the gymnasium and the teaching of the trainer.Once a month or so boxing contests will be held in the hall to which only members will be admitted. This will give the sportive element of the city an opportunity of seeing first class boxing contests without violating the law. The plan seems feasible and looks like a good one. Company G, New Mexico National Guard, which will occupy the armory, already has considerable gymnastic paraphernalia and more will be added. Tuesday and Friday nights will be reserved for the guard. On other nights the hall will be let. It is an excellent place for balls and fairs and will doubtless be the scene of many festivals in time to come. The board has decided that $25 a night for single nights would not be too great a rent for the use of the hall. The first big dance will be given there in the near future by the Woodmen of the World.A stove has been installed in the building and Sergeant Flammang, of Company G, has been appointed custodian at a salary of $60 a month.
This expense as well as the expense of keeping the house warm and incidental the board hopes to raise by renting the hall and by the returns from the athletic club.
Within a few weeks, the board hopes to be able to formally dedicate the building. The dedication will be purely of a military character equal in splendor to the importance of the occasion. Governor Curry and other notables will most likely be here for the dedication ceremony.SAYS GAMBLERS MADE ARIZONA DEMOCRATICOld Timer Here Gives Anti-Gambling Law as Reason for Change in Election.An old timer in Albuquerque, who has known of conditions politically in Arizona and New Mexico for many years, advances a novel solution of the fact that Arizona went Republican this year. While admitting that the desire for statehood had something to do with it, he inclines to the idea that the anti-gambling law is responsible more than any one thing.
"Before the anti-gambling law went into effect in Arizona," he says, "the territory was overwhelmingly Democratic because the gambling colony in the territory was Democratic. There were between 4,000 and 4,500 gamblers in Arizona and fully ninety per cent of them were Democrats. When gambling was forbidden they had to leave or starve to death and the most of them left the territory. That is why Arizona went Republican this time."Our $5.00 coal bins them all.

SEND A WIRELESS TO YOUR FRIENDS

Postal Announces That Messages Will Be Transmitted to Vessels at Sea.

"Wireless messages accepted here for transmission to ships at sea."

This placard, which recently made its appearance in a conspicuous place in the office of the Postal Telegraph company of this city, announces the throwing open of another innovation which has come as suddenly and as unheralded as did the telephone a few years ago. With the announcement that wireless messages are now open to everyone of moderate means, is coupled a long list of steamships which are fitted to receive and send wireless communications.

The local office of the Postal Telegraph company has already sent several messages which were transmitted by wireless to incoming ships, and each message reached its destination without undue delay. The local office forwards the telegram for transmission to New York, from where it is dispatched by wireless to the ship several hundred miles away on the ocean.

"We have not been swamped with wireless messages," said an employee of the local Postal office, "but we have sent two or three messages and they reached their destination all right. I think that the wireless has come to stay and it will be only a few years when it will be as commonly used as the Morse system and the telephone is used now. The Postal Telegraph company throughout the country shows that the people are using the wireless to communicate with friends aboard outgoing and incoming ships, more and more every day. If you have any wireless messages, we are prepared to handle them for you."

TIE AND POLE CO. COMPLETES ROAD

Last Spike in Branch Line at Domingo Will Be Driven Today.

A. B. The new road will be completed today and the rail will be hauled out over it by next week. A Navajo Indian drove the first spike, but Mr. McGaffey proposes to drive the last one.

The company has 200,000 ties on the bank of the river which will be brought to the local treating plant for treatment.

FREAK ANIMALS ARE ON EXHIBITION

Many Curious Sightings Are Presented at 312 West Central.

One of the most curious as well as interesting shows that has ever visited this city is now open to the public at 312 West Central avenue. The collection is one of the most wonderful of its kind ever exhibited here and judging from the crowds which have been viewing the freak collection of animals and birds, the show is certainly meeting with the approval of the public. While some of the specimens are stuffed there are many that still breathe the air of life and are well deserving of the time spent viewing them.

Large canvass banners, painted in colors cover the front of the show building and plainly show the nature of the animals to be seen on the interior. This exhibit of freak animals has been shown from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts and large crowds have attended wherever they were shown. Everything is just as represented and the management offers to return the price of admission which has been reduced to ten cents while in this city, if animals are found to be misrepresented.

Among the many curious animal freaks which are to be seen at this show are a calf, whose head resembles that of a bull dog; a bull with six legs and six feet; a duck with three wings, one of which is a turkey wing; pig with a human face and head; pig with one head, three bodies, eight legs and eight feet; dog with a double nose; calf with two heads and two faces; a sea serpent over twenty feet long; Shanow, half human and half monkey; and many other sights which will long be remembered by those witnessing their exhibit. This performance is for ladies as well as gentlemen.

CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY TO EXTEND STREET RAILWAY

System to Serve Highlands, University, Shops, Old Town and Downtown District.

It was learned this morning on good authority, that a co-operative company is now being formed for the purpose of building a complete street car system in Albuquerque which will cover the Highlands, the university, the Santa Fe shops, the downtown district and Old Albuquerque.

While those behind the movement said that the project was not a secret by any means, they declined to fully discuss the project at this time, except to say that from the assurances they had received from the people affected and those who would furnish the capital they believed the line would be built promptly and it would pay expenses within a year. It is said that the new car line, as at present outlined, would necessitate the building of some six miles of track and that when completed it would answer every demand of the growing city for the next twenty years.

It is proposed to build the line with the aid of some capital and the co-operation of all property owners who would benefit by the new line. The plan as proposed would seem to be a feasible one. It is said that each property owner, would be assessed $25 for each lot on the adjoining streets, this sum to be paid in during a year's time in small payments. The payments would be placed so low that scarcely any property owner would feel the assessment but the amount of capital which could be raised in this manner, together with the sum which the company would incorporate with, would be ample to build, equip and operate the line for a year, after which time it would undoubtedly pay expenses or better.

The building of the new line would give employment to a large force of men and would increase Highland property values probably twenty-five or fifty per cent.

With an intersecting line north and south on the Highlands residents some distance from the business center would be enabled to reach their places of employment in a few minutes.

Property owners in the Highlands are said to be enthusiastic over the project.

SEVERELY INJURED HELPS ON SPEAKING

Elfigo Baca, Suffering From Broken Ribs, Refuses to Quit Campaign Until After Election.

Despite the fact that he was suffering severe pain and realized that he was severely injured, Elfigo Baca, who was thrown from his buggy after being run down by the Highland fire company last Wednesday, continued active campaign work until the day of the election. He reached Albuquerque yesterday from San Marcial, where he made his last campaign speech, and was at once placed under the care of physicians. Dr. Pearce and Dr. Wylder made an examination of Mr. Baca's injuries with an X-ray. They found that two of his ribs were broken near where they joined the vertebrae and that he had a number of very painful contusions.

The broken ribs were set and held in place with plaster casts and it will be several weeks before Mr. Baca can give much attention to business.

Last Wednesday Mr. Baca was run down by the Highland fire company, which was responding to a downtown alarm. His buggy was wrecked and he was thrown forcibly to the ground. While severely bruised, he did not realize that any bones had been broken and continued to take an active part in the campaign. The day before election he responded to a call from Chairman H. O. Bursum to speak in San Marcial. While suffering severely, he visited San Marcial and delivered several speeches.

BLOODY RULE OF REELFOOT LAKE NIGHT RIDERS WANES

Cruel Clan That Tennessee's Military Power is Now Rounding Up Swore Its Oaths in Dripping Blood, Enforced Its Orders With Torture and Wanton Murder and Kept Its Motto, "Dead Men Tell No Tales."

A typical Tennessee night rider, "Tid" Burton, who turned state's evidence. Smaller picture that of Capt. Quintin Rankin, lawyer who was strung up and riddled with bullets.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 6.—Dead men tell no tales.

Neither do the oath-bound members of the dread Night Rider clan, men who took their obligation in the wild forests around Reelfoot lake and signed their names in dripping blood, while about them the stillness of a night as dark as Erebus was broken only by the weird scream of the heron or the loud hoot of the swamp owl.

But the terrible secrets of this fierce clan are being given up—and by the living. Lips that have been sealed through fear of death, through fear of the silent riding band of masked men and horses with mud-of the gallows.

"Thank God, I can talk at last, and I will," was the cry of a mother in the Reelfoot lake country when she beheld the soldiers and realized that law was to supersede the rule of murder.

She was the mother of a lad who had been forced to join in a raid to Hickman, Ky., where a family of negroes was wiped out by the night riders. This boy who went unwillingly, never returned, and after the soldiers arrived a story leaked out of a newly made grave in the woods. A sweet-faced girl, wearing black in mourning, came to camp and the secret of the raid was revealed.

"Tid" Burton, who was induced to turn state's evidence, is a hunter and fisherman. For hours he was ailed and defiant, but the temptation of the promised reward of $10,000 and a feeling of safety inspired by the presence of the soldiers won him over to the side of the state. He revealed the secrets of the night riding clan, and this and other information gained by the authorities has resulted in the arrest of 100 men. Gov. M. R. Patterson, who is personally directing the work, believes that the night riders are among the prisoners and that the blood of Capt. Rankin will be avenged.

Tom Johnson, who is said to be the captain of the night riders, is one of those taken into custody. He has maintained a dogged silence. His time is spent in pacing the narrow cell, while he gazes furtively and longingly toward the recesses of the forest.

While the grand jury investigation is held secretly as possible, it is said that the constitution and bylaws of the Night Rider clan have been of- ficially exposed. The penalty for betrayal of the obligations imposed by the ritual is death. The names of members are signed in their own blood. The clan decreed that members should not employ negroes after June 1905, that banks should not exact over 6 per cent interest on loans that merchants should not make over 10 per cent profit, and that cotton and other commodities should not bring less than a certain figure.

Many of the men who have settled on the lake are said to have left for other regions between two wars. In fact, at Reelfoot, as in the Panhandle of Texas, it is said to be "bad form" to ask some people where they came from, a breach of etiquette that will be promptly retorted. Crack shots are men who know not the sense of fear, men convinced that others of means were depriving them of their just right to make a living—of such are the night riders of Reelfoot.

It is believed that prompt and efficient action by Tennessee will tend

NAMES PLAYERS FOR ALL STAR TEAM

New York Fans Pick Out the Men for the Representative Team.

New York, Nov. 6.—Numerous players have been suggested for positions on the all star baseball team as a result of the season just closed and the records of all players have been scanned with great care in taking up this team. One of the teams selected which meets general approval, is that chosen by a New York fan, who places the following players and gives the following reasons.

Catchers, Kling and Sullivan.
Pitchers, Brown, Joss, Mathewson, Walsh.
First base, Stovall.
Second base, Evers.
Third base, Leach.
Shortstop, Wallace.
Left field, Platter Jones.
Center field, Doolin.
Right field, Cobb.
Kling and Sullivan are the reinforcements of Kelly and Ewing. Brown is regarded as absolutely the premier pitcher of the age. This was demonstrated in the great game that decided the outcome of the race in the National league this year. Hostile crowds and misplays behind him have no effect upon his marvelous nerve.

Stovall is a player of infinite pluck. He hasn't an equal in either league in keeping his fellow players on edge.

Evers' playing in the world's series entitles him to the second base position on the all star team.

Leach should have a clear title to third base when his great batting is reckoned along with his grand fielding.

Wallace may rank slightly below other great shortstops in hitting, but his marvelous fielding should give him the place. He is the nearest perfect infielder the game has ever known.

Platter Jones will save more games by his wizard catches than he will lose by his failure to hit in pinches.

Doolin is great in every way—a terrific hitter, a beautiful fielder, and a lightning fast base runner.

Cobb looms far and away above all the other right fielders in the land.

You Never Know the Moment When This Information May Prove of Infinite Value.

It is worth considerable to any citizen of Albuquerque to know how to be cured of painful, annoying and itching piles. Know then that Doan's Ointment is a positive remedy for all thickness of the skin, for piles, eczema, etc. One application relieves and soothes. Read this testimony of its merit:

A. M. Whitcomb, living at 325 North Eighth St., Albuquerque, N. M., says: "I have nothing to retract from the statement I gave for Doan's Ointment some five years ago. What I then stated was to the effect that 'his preparation had cured me of a breaking out, which, if not eczema, closely resembled this trouble and was confined to a spot about the size of a silver dollar just below one of my knees. Off and on for ten years it had annoyed me, always being worse when I was in bed or if I would sit near a fire. I consulted two of our leading physicians but what they gave me proved of no more avail than all the different kinds of salves and ointments that I tried. I had no faith in Doan's Ointment, expecting that it would act similarly to the other remedies I had used, but I was surprised to find that the first application stopped the itching and a continuous use of its use healed the place affected. The fact that I can say after this long interval that there has been no return of the trouble is a pretty good reason for my willingness to confirm my original statement. I recommend this preparation at all times as one that can be relied upon to act as represented."

REVEALS SECRETS OF MORMON CHURCH

St. Louis Man Says He Has Ordained An Elder But Quit the Religion.

St. Louis, Nov. 6.—What purports to be a description of the secret signs and grips of the Mormons and the secret religious ceremonies of the Mormon Temple is given in a book called "Mormonism Exposed," written by Thomas Phillip Marshall, of St. Louis, who says he was ordained as a Mormon elder.

Marshall says he was converted to Mormonism in Memphis in 1892 and that he was ordained an elder within a year after his arrival at Salt Lake City. He says that after his initiation at the Temple he was convinced of the iniquity of Mormonism and that he has written the pamphlet against Mormonism to satisfy his conscience.

Of the secret signs and grips, he says: "The signs of the Aaronic and Melchisedec priesthood are as follows: Upon shaking hands, place the thumb over the knuckle of the index finger, press it in the middle and middle fingers. The Melchisedec priest extends the fore or index finger along the wrist, over the pulse of the friend with whom he shakes hands."

"There is one more sign by which you may make yourself known to a crowd or even a single person. Raise the right hand as high as the head, palm downward and say 'Can,' then lower it as slow as the shoulder, arm close to the body, and say 'Can,' then drop it to the side at the same time say 'Can.' For instance, 'Can you inform me where I can find...'

Marshall's revelations of the endowment house ceremonies is very similar to those made at the Reed Smoot trial. He describes exhaustively and in great detail the religious plays which are a part of the ceremonies including a dramatization of the life of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, including the appearance of Lucifer and the eating of the apple. He says that he says himself liable to death by revealing these things as any one who takes the initiation ceremonies has to make a solemn vow that he will accept the penalty of having his throat cut if he reveals anything done in the secret work.

To Hear From Cooper

1. We wish to call the attention of the public to a series of "short talks" by L. T. Cooper that are to be published in this paper.

2. The Cooper medicines have made a remarkable record in the leading cities of the United States during the past two years and young Mr. Cooper has been the subject of much newspaper comment.

3. Mr. Cooper has met and talked with thousands of sick people in his visits to almost every large city in the country.

4. He is noted as a man of very few words and tells briefly in these articles what his preparations are doing for sick people and why they have been successful wherever introduced.

5. Mr. Cooper's theory is that one half of all human ills is caused by stomach trouble, and the wonderful success of his preparations in the treatment of stomach disorders, kidney and liver complaints, rheumatism, etc., seems to have proven this claim.

6. Some time ago we secured the agency for these celebrated medicines. We have been gratified by the extreme satisfaction of those who have purchased them from us and advise every one to read these "short talks" as they are full of terse, common sense.

Notice is hereby given that the lands described below, embracing approximately 100 acres, within the Manzano National Forest, New Mexico, will be subject to settlement and entry under the provisions of the homestead laws of the United States and the act of June 11, 1906 (34 Stat. 223), at the United States land office at Santa Fe, New Mexico, on Jan. 11, 1909. There are hundreds of Albuquerque People Similarly Situated.

Can there be any stronger proof of the value of the evidence of Albuquerque residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Mrs. E. Adair, of 817 South Edith St., Albuquerque, N. M., says: "When ever any symptoms indicated kidney trouble or not, I was not certain but nevertheless from reading about Doan's Kidney Pills I was given a desire to try them. I suffered severely from pain between and just below the shoulder blades. While on my feet or stirring around I did not feel the slightest inconvenience, but when I would sit down the pain would assert itself and at times was very severe. The use of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills brought a relief and that warrants my having a high appreciation of this medicine."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PHILADELPHIA MAN CULTIVATES WILD HERBS AND PRODUCES BIG CROP OF SURE DEATH.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Wild growing drug plants are becoming rare and the time is about at hand when they must be cultivated. Lewis E. Hellerman, a pioneer in this line, has a drug farm at Fox Chase, near this city. It is a queer little farm with row after row of strange plants to be found on no other reservation.

"There," says Hellerman, pointing to a long row of innocent looking green plants, "is a bed of the most deadly poison known to the druggist. The popular name is hemlock. It is the most violent manner, producing death, from paralysis in a particularly ugly form. In the proper hands and administered in minute doses it is a valuable remedy."

"The length of time it takes some of the plants to mature makes the business of drug farming risky and requires much patience on the part of the farmer. Here, for instance, is a bed of carduus marianus, a remedy for ringworm. It takes four years to mature and so has just four times the chance to come to an untimely end than an ordinary farm plant has."

"I am cultivating a plant I call augusta folia to take the place of acetic. It also requires four years to mature. It takes eight years to bring glomox to maturity."

"As a result of the scarcity of drug plants in the wild state prices are on the increase. Hydratic has advanced from 25 cents to the enormous sum of $2.50 a pound."

"Most of the plants you see growing here sell for 10 cents a pound, and I find the price well repays the trouble for cultivation. Some are for more satisfactory prices. For instance, there is that bed of puauilla, a remedy that is used to alleviate catarrhal troubles. It sells for 50 cents a pound, and there is an ever widening market for it as the natural supply gets scarce. Over there is some bell mass, a drug used for tapeworm. It is practically extinct in a wild state in this country, and should be raised profitably in all the states. Also the apigella marilandica, a most valuable drug, which we are trying to cultivate here. It has ceased to exist in a wild state. The botanists who hunt drugs for the market have rooted out about the last plant, and it's worth no one's while to search for it any more."

"Drug plants seem to be peculiarly attractive to bugs, and I have much trouble with them. Possibly they are sick bugs drawing on nature's remedies for relief."

"About two acres is sufficient for a drug farm. Some of the plants require shade and some thrive best in the sun. There is no guide book to the drug farming that I know of. The prospective drug farmer must learn which plants like shade and which like sun by practical experience, as I did."

"In a few years I suppose drug farmers will be common all over the country, for the plants must be cultivated, and the demand will soon bring the supply. It should always be a profitable as well as a most interesting industry."

This is one of the largest shipments recorded in this section of the country for some time past and the lambs will occupy two trains of thirty cars each, or sixty cars in all.

The most novel race of the season will be run at the rink tonight between Freddie Letarte on roller skates and George Doyle on a bicycle. This promises to be a more interesting race than the ones of last week, when only skates were used. Freddie Letarte, the lad who has won much fame in baseball circles the past season, has recently been giving his attention to roller skating, and is confident no lad of his age can pass him on any wheel or wheels, while George Doyle, who has trained for speed in the messenger boy service, claims he can take his trusty bicycle and pass any roller skater like a wireless message.

Freddie Letarte, the lad who has won much fame in baseball circles the past season, has recently been giving his attention to roller skating, and is confident no lad of his age can pass him on any wheel or wheels, while George Doyle, who has trained for speed in the messenger boy service, claims he can take his trusty bicycle and pass any roller skater like a wireless message passes an anchored boat, so this argument will be settled tonight. There will also be an entire change of moving pictures and illustrated songs tonight.
