ROCKEFELLER TO TELL THINGS CONCEALED IN STANDARD OIL

Oil Magnate May Take the Witness Stand in Government Suit at New York.

PROMISES TO BE A GOOD WITNESS

Head of the Gigantic Corporation Desires to Clear Up Matters in Connection With the Past and Will Take Time to do It Now.

New York, Nov. 14.—In order that he may clear up certain matters in connection with the Standard Oil company, concerning which there have been many rumors, it is expected that John D. Rockefeller will go on the witness stand next week when the hearing of the government's suit to dissolve Standard Oil is resumed in the courts here.

It is believed that Rockefeller will tell the story of the gigantic corporation as it has never been told before, that many things at which the public now guesses will be revealed. It is said that he is to be a willing witness because he has been desirous for some time of clearing up certain matters concerning the company, and that he will take advantage of the opportunity offered now to do this.

FORMER NEW MEXICO MISSIONARY IS DEAD

Judge Ira A. Abbott, of the second district court, pays the following tribute to the late Dr. Kingsbury, scholar and missionary, who died a few days ago at Haverhill, Mass.: "I knew Dr. Kingsbury as pastor of the First Congregational church at Bradford, Mass., for forty years. He was a man of force and eloquence and one of the leading educators of Massachusetts. He was a graduate of Dartmouth, I think, and a trustee of the Bradford Academy for women, one of the oldest educational institutions of the kind in America."

Dr. Kingsbury spent several years in New Mexico and Arizona doing missionary work. He was close to 80 years old.

Philadelphia, Nov. 14.—Close on the heels of the announced electrification of the Pennsylvania railroad from Harrison, Newark suburb, to Long Island City, comes the official statement that the system from Manhattan and Jersey City to Philadelphia will soon be electrified and that the running time between New York and Philadelphia, ninety miles, will be reduced to one hour. The fastest time now between the two points is two hours.

The Westinghouse company is already at work on the new engines which are capable of a speed of 120 miles an hour. It is also said that the next step in the general electrification scheme will be started between Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

Fueblo, Nov. 14.—Andrew McDonald, superintendent of the Madonna mine at Montebello, about twenty-five miles from Salida, was severely beaten yesterday afternoon by John Gilroy and Harry Barnes, employees of the mine. Revolvers were used as clubs and but for the interference of bystanders McDonald would have been killed. Barnes and Gilroy were arrested this morning.

HENEY WILL RECOVER FROM ASSASSIN'S BULLET

Local District Attorney Who Prosecuted Ruff Is Seriously Wounded by Convict.

CITIZENS' MEETING DEMANDS JUSTICE

Mass Meeting of California Will be Held Tonight to Consider Plans for Prosecuting Ruff and Heney's Would be Assassin.

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, who was shot down in the superior court room yesterday while conducting the prosecution of Abraham Ruff, will recover from the effects of his wound unless the predictions of his physicians fail. He slept long and well and there has been no recurrence of the nausea that followed the shock and pain last night.

Morris Haas, the ex-convict and former liquor dealer who fired the bullet into Heney's head, spent a sleepless night in the cell which was guarded against possible mob violence by thirty police officers, armed with rifles. In a statement to the police Haas said: "Heney pronounced his own death sentence the moment he denounced me."

Abraham Ruff also spent the night in jail, having been incarcerated immediately after the shooting by order of Judge Lawlor, as a precaution against further violence. No violence was attempted during the night.

After a meeting of prominent citizens and attorneys last night a call was issued for a mass meeting to-night asking the citizens of San Francisco to "lend their aid to the cause of justice." Arrangements have been made to continue the prosecution of Ruff without interruption.

Frequently since the disaster of 1906 have the people of San Francisco been startled and aroused by revelations and developments in the tangled maze of the prosecution for bribery and corruption that followed the sudden overthrow of Abraham Ruff and the budding supervisors of the Mayor Schmitz regime, but never has the city been more profoundly stirred than it was by the attempted assassination of Francis J. Heney, special assistant district attorney. Heney was shot down in the court room during a short recess in the Ruff case yesterday afternoon by Morris Haas, an ex-convict, whose record Heney exposed a few weeks ago after Haas had qualified as a juror in the Ruff third trial for bribery.

Attorneys for Ruff had just finished a long cross examination of James J. Gallagher, self confessed "go-between" for Ruff and the board of supervisors, and who turned state's evidence. At the conclusion of the cross examination Judge Lawlor announced a recess and part of the crowd in the court room left.

Heney was sitting at a table with two officers, his special body guard, only a few feet away. Haas approached from the right and before his intention could be surmised, pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired, the bullet striking Heney just in front of the right ear. Heney fell back into his chair and before Haas could fire again the two special officers overpowered him.

Attracted by the snarl the crowd outside rushed into the room. Heney rose from his chair, stood for a moment and was caught as he fell. A doctor in the crowd attended him and quickly an ambulance could be secured. He was taken to the emergency hospital where an examination was made of his wound. Later he was removed to Lane hospital, where he is now resting and the latest statement from his physicians says: "He has a good chance to recover."

The gravest danger appears to be from blood poisoning and today an effort will be made to locate the bullet and the exact course of the wound. Heney was shot in the right side of the head as he leaned forward over the table. The bullet entered a half inch in front of the right ear and lodged in the left side of the neck.

Immediately after Heney had been removed, Judge Lawlor conveyed court and granted a continuance of the case. He ordered that Ruff be locked up in order that there be no danger of violence.

Haas was placed in jail and spent the night walking the floor of his cell. Immediately after the shooting he made a statement in which he said that he shot Heney because the latter denounced him as an ex-convict and that in so doing Heney had ruined his life.

District Attorney Langdon, who arrived this morning from Fresno, announced today that he would accept the services of Matt I. Sullivan, Hiram Johnson and J. J. Dwyer, preferred by them in the prosecution of the

FARMERS' UPLIFT WON'T GET HERE

Commission Named by Roosevelt Will Visit El Paso and Go From There to the Coast.

The commission named by President Roosevelt to investigate conditions surrounding the American farmer, with a view to improvement of farm life, will reach the southwest next week, but will not visit Albuquerque as expected. The board is due at El Paso next Saturday and after a few hours there will continue westward.

The commission is composed of Professor L. H. Bailey, of Ithaca, N. Y.; Henry Wallace, of Iowa; Kenyon L. Butterfield, of Massachusetts; Walter H. Page, of New York, and Gifford Pinchot. These men are to secure information concerning the sanitary, social and economic conditions existing on the farms of the country and their report will probably be incorporated in the president's next message to Congress.

ITS EARNINGS INCREASE

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Much attention is being devoted to the September statement of the Milwaukee & St. Paul road's earnings. It is shown the largest gain in gross of any road that has yet had made public the result of operations for that month. Some other roads make a better showing in net, but none has been able to produce such striking evidence of the improvement in general business.

The road's gross earnings for the month amounted to $5,165,873, an increase of $572,881, as compared with September of last year. To grasp the full significance of this statement it must be remembered that in September last year the period of depression had not set in, and it was three months later before its results had begun to be perceptible in the railroad earnings.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO GOODLANDER

Major R. Ruppe, the druggist, this morning received a personal letter from Theo. F. Meyer Drug company, for which the late Joe Goodlander was traveling salesman. Mr. Meyer paid Mr. Goodlander the following brief but glowing tribute: "Joe died this afternoon. If you can lend any assistance, we will appreciate it. Thus ends the life of a man beloved by all who knew him, a faithful and loyal man to the house he represented, a true and reliable man to the buyer and the number of his friends are legion."

WILL SOON BUILD SANTA FE ARMORY

Handsome Structure to be Erected at Capital for the National Guards.

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 14.—G. A. Daighren, contractor, of La Junta, Colo., will be awarded the contract for the new armory building, for Company F, New Mexico national guard, having made the lowest bid. Upon the awarding of the contract work will begin at once. Mr. Daighren agrees to have the construction complete in every detail in three months.

The armory will be constructed of brick, will be two stories in height, and will resemble in architecture the old English castle. It will have a total depth of 161 feet, and a total width of 53 feet.

The ground floor, measuring 59 by 80 feet, will be devoted to the drill hall. No pillars or posts will obstruct the floor, but the roof will be supported by steel trusses. A hanging gallery at one end will have a seating capacity of 200. The hall will make an ideal ball room. The roof just above the main entrance will be made into a landing room for the use of the National Guard.

There will be a billiard pool and other conveniences. There will be a roomy basement under the whole structure.

LABOR CONVENTION ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS

Support Postal Clerks in Demand for Better Wages, Denounce Child Labor and Urge Closer Immigration Ships.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 14.—The American Federation of Labor at its convention today began the adoption of resolutions. Among them were resolutions supporting the demand of postal clerks for better hours and pay; favoring better sanitary conditions of immigration ships and protesting against the employment of young children in hands and orchestras.

The report of the special committee on the application of special ve plasterers for a charter, developed a spirited discussion led by the tile layers and cement workers who feared an infringement of their jurisdiction in some respects. The convention, however, adopted the report and adjourned until Monday.

GRAND DUKE ALEXIS DEAD

Park, Nov. 14.—Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, uncle of Emperor Nicholas, died in this city today of pneumonia. The grand duke had lived almost continuously in Paris since his retirement from the position of Russian minister of marine.

PRESIDENT TO HAVE THE BIGGEST TURKEY

Rhode Island is Being Searched For a Thanksgiving Bird Equal To the Occasion.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 14.—On Thanksgiving as usual a mammoth Rhode Island turkey is to grace the holiday table at the White House. And as usual the turkey in all probability will come from Connecticut. Most of the Rhode Island turkeys now come from the Natick State, just as most of the Vermont turkeys for the Rhode Island bird, now come from Kentucky.

Horse Vose, of Westerly, this state, known all over the country as to Roosevelt—is on the alert for the president—who has furnished the turkey to every president from Grant to Roosevelt—is on the alert for the best bird reared in this section of New England for the Thanksgiving dinner of the Roosevelt family. As this is to be Mr. Roosevelt's last Thanksgiving in the White House, Mr. Vose says he hopes to be able to send him a bird that will be a record-breaker both as regards size and fine flavor. Mr. Vose has been looking over the flocks, but as yet is undecided as to what particular turkey will be sent to the president.

GOVERNOR ATTENDS ARMORY DEDICATION

He and His Staff Will Take Part in Ceremonies—Good Time Is Promised to All.

The dedication of the new armory and convention hall, which will take place November 19, will be a big social affair as well as an event of history. After the dedication services, which will last probably two hours, the lower floor of the hall will be cleared for dancing. While the affair will not be conventional, the presence of a large number of prominent out-of-town military men should give a high social tenor. The best people of the city are going to take advantage of the occasion to have a good dance and a good time. This will be the first time in the history of the city that those who like dancing will have an opportunity of dancing on so large a floor. It is expected that the crowd will be large. The armory board will charge fifty cents admission fee for each person for the purpose of raising money to pay the dedication expenses. Governor Curry and several members of his staff will be present.

CLEARING HOUSE BANKS.

New York, Nov. 14.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week shows they had $39,511,556 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule, a decrease of $67,625 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week.

THE CHINESE EMPEROR REFUSED MEDICINE TO THE LAST

Although Reported Dead Yesterday He Did Not Succumb Until Late Today.

JAPAN TO AWAIT ON OTHER NATIONS

Death of Dowager Empress, Who is Critically Ill, Would Not Cause Neighboring Nations to Make a Hasty Move for Conquest.

Peking, Nov. 14.—(8 p. m.)—An official report says that the emperor of China died at 5 o'clock this evening. At 3 o'clock this afternoon it was reported that the emperor was so low that his death was expected any minute. He continued to sink, refusing medical assistance until the last.

The report yesterday that the dowager empress was mortally ill was confirmed today by the foreign board of the government.

Japan Not Hostile.
Tokyo, Nov. 14.—In this city the report of the death of the emperor of China is generally accepted as true. The news is accompanied by a rumor that the dowager empress is also dead, but this is not given general credence.

The Associated Press has excellent grounds for believing that the situation in China in the event of the death of the dowager empress will not be made the occasion for any summary move on the part of Japan, but that the Japanese government will await an agreement of all the powers.

SAYS HE BOUGHT CAMERA

Samuel Pites, who is charged with the larceny of a camera from M. E. Porter, took the stand in his own defense this afternoon and was on the stand at 3 o'clock. He testified that he purchased the camera alleged to have been stolen, from a concern selling second-hand cameras in Chicago.

Judge Abbott heard the testimony of Warren Graham and P. F. McCann yesterday afternoon on behalf of Jack Donahue, who seeks release on bond. No action had been taken in the matter, however, at a late hour this afternoon.

PRISON SHIP MARTYRS HONORED TODAY AT BROOKLYN

Monument Erected by the City Is Dedicated With Great Ceremony by Thousands.

TAFT AND HUGHES BOTH MAKE SPEECHES

Military and Civil Parade and Lengthy Program by Prominent People Pays Tribute to the Country's Heroes.

New York, Nov. 14.—After more than a century of agitation by individuals and organizations, bones representing approximately 15,000 "martyrs" of the Revolutionary war, who died on the prison ship "Jersey" and other lesser vessels in Wallabout Bay, Brooklyn, lie at last in a fittingly marked burial place, for which the government, New York state and hundreds of individuals made contributions. An imposing Doric column of granite, 270 feet high, surmounted by a funeral urn and flag staff, rises above the tomb at Fort Greene park, Brooklyn, and its dedication today is marked by a remarkable military parade of nearly 20,000 soldiers and marines, and memorable addresses by President-elect William H. Taft and Governor Charles E. Hughes.

The procession of naval and military organizations, said to be one of the largest in the history of Brooklyn, the tremendous outpouring of people from all over greater New York, crowding across the line of march, and at Fort Greene park, tens of thousands, presented an inspiring spectacle. Major General Charles F. Roe, commanding the national guard of the state, was grand marshal of the parade, which comprised four divisions—troops attached to division headquarters, first and second brigade headquarters and the naval militia. In these were included two squadrons of cavalry, three batteries of field artillery, two organizations of the state signal corps, one field hospital corps, three coast artillery regiments, headed by General David E. Austin; the 7th, 12th, 16th, 23rd, 47th, 61st and 72nd infantry regiments of the national guard; fourth division of the G. A. R., veterans associations and patriotic societies, squadrons of mounted police and many military and other bands.

The vicissitudes of the remains of the sailors and soldiers who died of fever and starvation, and rotted in the foul hulks of the British prison ships long anchored in Wallabout bay, which they polluted, have been many, and have caused more than one outbreak of public indignation. It was in 1792, at a Brooklyn town meeting, that definite steps were first urged to properly bury the remains. Nothing was done, however, until 1808, when the Tammany society secured funds for a temporary wooden tomb, which was constructed on Hudson street. To this the bodies, dug from the trenches along the Wallabout banks where they had been hastily interred, were removed.

With passing years the structure fell into decay, the bones became exposed and children played with them. Public feeling became aroused, and in 1875 the city of Brooklyn removed all that could be collected, several loads of them, to a tomb at Fort Green park under the stairs of the entrance, where they had been until work was begun on the present handsome memorial which the late Stanford White designed, and which represents about $200,000. To these bones were added, four years ago, after a public service at Plymouth church, many more, filling about eight coffins, which had been unearthed in construction of warehouses at the Brooklyn navy yard. All the remains are now encased in metallic coffins in the spacious tomb which is approached by a stately flight of several hundred steps.

The experiences of the prison ship "martyrs" constitute one of the most frightful chapters in American history. Eleven thousand sailors and soldiers died in the "Jersey" alone, a ship constructed to accommodate only 400 men, into which more than a thousand prisoners were usually crammed. Many were kept there for years. A survivor, Captain Thomas Dwyer vividly depicted the scenes of the horrible incarceration: "Registered and sent below new comers suffered terribly from the intolerable heat and foul air, and when they sought the narrow air-holes they found them blocked by others, who fought with all their strength for even the faintest breath of the precious air."

"Utter derangement was a common symptom of the fever that caused many deaths on board, and to increase the horror of the darkness that enshrouded us; for we were allowed no light but wax tapers, the

The Intolerants

Hardly a week passes without the death of some aged person calling attention to the fact that longevity is not always the reward of the strict abstemiousness that the health crank would have everyone believe is a guarantee against illness or early death, says the Louisville Courier-Journal.

In Philadelphia the other day Mrs. Julia O'Brien, formerly of County Tipperary, but for seventy-five years an American, died rather suddenly of infirmities of age. She had passed her 103d birthday in excellent health and spirits, and was approaching the 104th. She is described as being "a spry, bright-eyed little woman, who took a keen interest in affairs, and who enjoyed her pipe almost up to the day of her death."

The intolerants who make tobacco a bugbear would have you believe that there is death in the after-dinner cigar and the intolerants who see in alcoholic beverages the root of all evil would have you believe that the path of total abstinence is the only path that does not, like the path of glory, lead but to the grave. And there are intolerants who insist that what they call a "vegetable turkey" is as satisfying as a real gobbler on Thanksgiving day, and that all meat is abominable and all meat-eaters not merely carnivorous but almost cannibalistic. And there are other intolerants who believe that the filbert rather than the fillet of beef builds up the brain and muscles because our remote ancestor the anthropoid ape, was a husky fellow, who was as healthy as a mast-fed shoat on a diet of nuts and berries.

But if the statisticians should tabulate the mortality statistics of the intolerants—those who spend their nervous energy denouncing tobacco, those who behold in their mind's eye the early and inglorious demise of the man who differs from them as to the homicidal tendency of a glass of beer, those who lament the blindness of the misguided millions who prefer pork chops to peacocks for the midday or evening meal, who can say that it would not be learned that the crank dies young, while the comfortable person who jogs along without worrying about the fads of the fanatics, but exercises common sense while indulging natural appetites lives to a good old age? And he gets more out of life than the fellow whose laws for the achievement of longevity are more numerous than the laws of the Medes and the Persians.

The Cuban Election

The island of Cuba which has been under a provisional government, is today holding an election by which it will choose its officials and again take up the task of self government.

It is believed that good order will be maintained by the Cubans throughout the island today because it is realized that if the troops of the United States are to be withdrawn and Cuba turned over to the Cubans, the citizens of the little island must show themselves capable of law enforcement.

Which ever party is successful at the polls today, will have the task of maintaining a government of which the people will approve until the next election. As shown by the past experience of Cuban governments, this is no small task. Disaffection with the government in Cuba generally results in insurrection and warfare which on the last occasion was followed by the intervention of the United States and a provisional government.

The people of Cuba, however, it is believed, have profited by their last experiment in rebelling against their elected officers and there is every hopeful sign that the Cuban Republic has finally dawned with the closing of the polls today.

In the event that the Cuban people demonstrate their fitness for it, the troops of the United States will be withdrawn about the first of next year.

Celebrated the Election

Over in Italy at a little town not far from Naples, the news of the election of Mr. Taft was received in due course of time and it resulted in a celebration which would have done credit to most any small town in this country.

It seems that a majority of the residents of the place had lived in the United States and intended returning to this country as soon as business conditions warranted the belief that they would have plenty of steady employment. Others had heard from returning immigrants of the political situation in America.

From the election of Mr. Taft these residents of a far distant country, held a big mass meeting, made eulogistic speeches, exploded fireworks and celebrated the occasion in regular American style.

The demonstration indicated the faith even these foreign people had in the ability of the Republican party to maintain prosperity and it also showed their affection for the land of the free, of which many of them will doubtless yet become citizens.

Our Poor English

The Chicago English club comes bravely forward with the statement that English, as spoken in the west is slovenly, slangy and incorrect. The east, declares the club, is far superior to the west, in its methods of speaking the English language.

This will not come as any great surprise to the average westerner. It is very true that the people of the west do not and never could, reproduce the wonderful Boston accent nor the blase tones of New York. But it is equally true that English, as it is spoken in the west, is entirely adequate for all the needs of this period of our times. English as it is spoken in the west can be readily understood by most anyone having the least fluency in the language. Also, it is true that English as it is spoken in the west, seldom leaves grounds for misunderstanding and it is unquestionably a fact, that in order to secure a word adequate to express the importance of the opinion handed down by the Chicago club, it would be absolutely necessary to consult the western vocabulary.

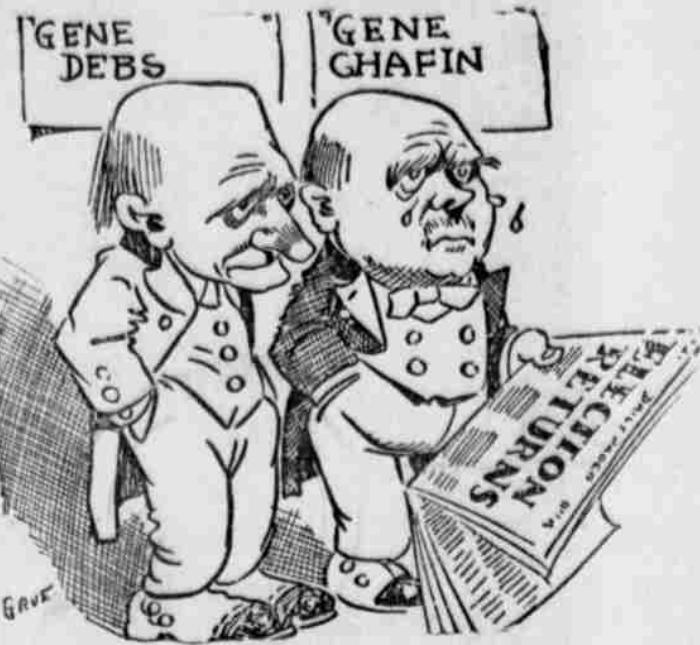

As an aftermath of the election, the following editorial from the Deming Graphic is certainly entitled to first prize. While the editor of the Graphic was rejecting over the great Republican victory (which he was no doubt a large instrument in bringing about) he received the depressing news from his old home in Arkansas that his father-in-law, Mr. L. L. Kuntz, a prominent fruit grower of that country, had been suddenly taken seriously ill. About the time we were figuring on beseeching our delinquent subscribers to "cough up" so we might reach the bedside of our stricken relative, we received the glad tidings that his sickness had been caused by the awful defeat of William Jennings Bryan. Now maybe you don't think we didn't feel relieved. We remember distinctly how our esteemed father-in-law had two doctors working him over for several days after Bryan's defeat in '06, but he recovered nicely and the very next season graciously accepted from the hands of the Republican party the biggest apple crop he had had in years.

The "old timers" in New Mexico will read with regret of the shooting of F. J. Heney, prosecuting attorney in San Francisco, which occurred yesterday. It is to be hoped that the wound will not prove fatal. Mr. Heney was at one time a member of the bar in this territory and later in Arizona. He made a reputation as a fearless prosecutor of graft cases in San Francisco.

Some Reasons Why

The C

Because The Citizen is a home paper. It is either delivered by carrier at the house or is carried home by the business man when his day's work is done and it STAYS THERE. A morning paper is usually carried down town by the head of the family and hurriedly read.

The Citizen is not read hurriedly, but thoroughly, so that all advertisements receive their share of attention. It presents the store news a little ahead, giving the prospective purchaser time to plan a shopping tour for the next morning.

Wise advertisers patronize The Citizen because they know their advertisements are seen and read at the homes in the evening, and if they are offering something worthy of attention, their ad has accomplished its mission.

The Citizen has never given premiums to subscribers, but is subscribed to and paid for on its news merits, showing that its subscribers have money with which to buy what they want from legitimate merchants. These are the people The Citizen invites to your store.

The Citizen employs a man whose business it is to look after your advertising wants. He will write your copy if you wish. If not, he will see that your ads are "set up" to look their best and he will attend to them from day to day.

Are you advertising in The Citizen? Your competitors are, and are profiting by it. Do you think conservative business men are spending money where they are not getting results? Get in the swim and watch your business grow.

STORK IS BUSY EVERY DAY IN NEW YORK

All Previous Records Broken For Singles, Twins and Triplets and Few Die.

New York, Nov. 14.—The busiest agent in New York at present is the stork, for the birth rate here has risen to a point at which it has broken all previous records. Various of the boroughs which constitute the greater city have held the record for high birth rate from time to time, but that of Manhattan has just set a new figure which must even make old Mr. Stork weary. In the district which comprises the lower or southern part of the greater city a new arrival puts in an appearance every five minutes, or at the rate of 283 trips every day for the stork. In other parts the rate is almost as high, so that figured altogether every sixty ticks of the clock sees an addition of one to the city's inhabitants. Once every five hours and a half some family is made happy with twins; four times a month the stork brings triplets, and five times a year quadruplets. Vital statistics further show that while the birth rate has been increasing to an extent which gives every other family a baby once a year, the death rate has been steadily decreasing. Last week a new low record was made in this respect, with only thirteen deaths in each 1,000 inhabitants. This figure is considerably lower than the normal rate, which is between fifteen and sixteen per 1,000. While the highest birth rate is in Manhattan the lowest death rate is normally in Brooklyn. Marriages have decreased about one-third in Greater New York, while suicides have greatly increased, both of which facts are attracting the attention of investigators to last year's panic.

Old Racing Days Gone.
With the smoke of election cleared away, one thing seems pretty certain—that is, that horse racing in New York has seen its best days. Only 350 persons attended the last meeting at a local race track which six months ago saw 60,000. The old days at Saratoga when racing was a sport and not a business, and when wealthy southerners and Cubans vied in their hospitality and entertainment, are apparently gone forever. But those extremists who have seen in the governor's attitude in this matter what they chose to believe the ruin of the blooded horse have had their eyes opened this week by the horse show, which just preceding the opening of the grand opera marks the beginning of the winter season. Two weeks ago the Hotel Astor, Governor Hughes' personal headquarters, was thronged with persons upholding him in his declaration that race track gambling must cease. Cited then as the stronghold of the enemies of the horse show, the same place this week has been thronged with admirers of this animal attending the horse show. Never before indeed has New York had such a show and the millions of dollars worth of racers which have been shipped abroad since the passage of the anti-race track gambling bill nowhere offset the increased value of horses exhibited at the show this year. Thus the great fear of persons who love horses for their own sake has been removed by this assurance that the thoroughbred is here to stay. One particular feature of this, New York's greatest horse show, was the great number of entries of women's saddie horses, showing that society is riding more than ever. In comparison to the carriages of the present day much interest was taken in the exhibition of early vehicles, including the coaches of Washington, Lafayette and Lincoln.

The Servant Problem.
A new and interesting solution of the servant problem is just being tried here. This problem, by the way, is one of the most serious of all those which perplex the city, since 37 per cent of the persons desiring them are unable to obtain competent servants, and the average time which the household helper remains in one place is less than two months. It is estimated by employment agencies that the average servant takes at least seven different positions every year, and that 25 per cent of their time is spent in looking for new places with resultant changes of more than 3,000 daily. This, of course, does not mean that there are 1,000,000 servants seeking places in New York, since a large number change ofteners than once a week. The Housewives' society, which has been organized to cope with this servant problem, will attempt to counteract the tendency among servants to change situations constantly by offering a series of awards for continuous service for terms ranging from two to twelve years. For the latter term of continuous service rings and cash prizes are given. Prizes for shorter periods include bracelets, orders for clothes and the like. For two years' continuous service solid gold bees in the form of pins are given. As an indication of the condition in this city the fact that only thirty-one bees, four bracelets and one ring were awarded at the first presentation of prizes is significant. In other words, the society, which found positions for 900 servants last year, has been able to discover only thirty-one who have occupied the same position for two years, and only one who has done so for twelve years.

JAP STATESMAN SEES GREAT CONFLICT

Viscount Predicts That Japan and America Will War a Hundred Years.

New York, Nov. 14.—"War between Japan and the United States is inevitable," is the startling declaration made by General Viscount Torio, Japanese elder statesman and one of the closest counselors to the Mikado. Not only is it inevitable but, on the same prophetic authority, it will last not three, nor thirty, but perhaps a hundred years and will be the greatest war in the history of mankind. General Torio makes this bold prophecy in an interview secured by Richard Barry, the well-known war correspondent, in the December Hampton's Broadway Magazine. It is a remarkable utterance coming, as it does, from a man of such great prominence. General Torio is the first authoritative voice of Japan to predict war with America. As to the length of the predicted conflict, the Secer of Atami, as the magazine article entitled him, said:

"Come and see me when you return from the first stage of it. Your hair will be as gray as mine."

"What! a thirty years' war?"
"Perhaps a hundred," he answered. "You have a great nation, and we have—well—we have a nation, too."

"But is it possible for nations to fight so continuously in these modern days?"
"In the life of a nation like Japan a century is but a day. We have existed since the growing of the first anemone; we will continue to exist after the reaping of the last sunflower. And we have existed so long for one thing—to preserve our national unity."

"As a nation we are only one member of a family. That family covers the whole continent of Asia and all the islands that lie nearby. It has many members, from the old grandfather, China, to the little boy in the Philippines. It is a big family, a wonderful family, and we revere it. Behind the family we remember—nothing; beyond that family we see—nothing. There is nothing but the family. All our ideas of life are based upon the family; thereto our civilization is built. We are born, we live, we die for the family; the family gives us our colossal strength, our perpetuity. And it also gives us that easy reliance in ourself which lets us drift, sometimes for centuries, secure always in the faith that if some members of the family may be weak or foolish there will always be a strong member to fight, to maintain, to shield."

"Over two thousand years ago our boy, Alexander, strayed into our backyard. He was a bright boy and venturesome, expert with both swords, and we sent against him one who at that time was our elder brother, the good Xerxes. Our elder brother fell and your younger brother pushed on; for how long? For a breath, a laugh, a shy, exulting shout; then he slipped, he fell, he died, and his people scattered, and his nation perished, and we lived on, the family triumphant! We opened, we absorbed them, we passed them on and did not know that they had come. And therein we always win. If overwhelmed, if startled, if outwitted, we yield, we gracefully submit—and for a time—and then the family gathers its loyal members together, loosely enfolds its entwining and terrible arms, hospitably, about our triumphant victor."

"You have a family, just as we have one, your family of the Occident, and four times in the last two thousand years has some members of your family strayed over to impose upon the rights of our family. Four times have we cast you out and your marks have hardly remained."

"Do you think, then, that the fifth time you come upon us you are to stay to keep our lands, keep our men, remove our money? The hundred and fifty years you have been in India for a day and a half in our slow family pride, your decade in the Philippines but the interval between the smoking of cigarettes."

"To be exact then," asked Barry, "you mean that Japan is today the strong nation of Asia, and that she will right the wrongs of all the Orient, that you will drive the American from the Philippines, the British from India, the Russians from Manchuria, the French from Indo-China, and the Germans from Kiaoo-Chow?"

"O! You Americans!" exclaimed the old man, showing his first impatience, and that only by the quick movement of his eyelashes. "To be exact we have driven the Russians from lower Manchuria."

"Why did Japan choose Russia first among the white people?"
"Why does the wounded buffalo turn on the dogs?" he replied almost savagely.

"And yet, now that you have Korea the natives complain more bitterly than they did of the Russians. Is this like a loyal member of the family?"

The old man smiled slyly. "The had young one never likes to be spanked."

Now we had reached the question which had long been imminent. I hoped it might have some adequate answer, different from those diplomatic courtesies with which Tokio reeked. Here was a man who could talk, who was worth listening to, and who would talk.

"Do you, then regard so confidently a conflict with America?"

"I regard it as inevitable. You are encroaching on the rights of our family."

"And you feel certain of the outcome?"

"Remember this," and as he spoke the old man rose. The whole difference between you and us hinges on a thought, what your philosophers call a mental attitude. That thought is the attitude we bear toward one another. Among you the purpose of life is mixed; sometimes you are a family, sometimes you are not a family. With us the purpose of life is absolute. We have but one purpose—duty; the highest duty is the family."

"Even in these casual observations was shown clearly, more clearly than in the innate contempt that the Japanese bears for the American. This is the attitude from which respect is a not spring from want of respect as we understand the word. The Japanese usually acknowledges the American to be his superior, not only in physical power, but in many of the departments of life which require thought. He seldom tries to rival him as a mechanician and has on'y doubts of his comparative capacity as an engineer. Nevertheless he regards the American as a barbarian, wanting in the essentials of civilization and inferior to himself from sheer deficiency of brain-power.

"In a word, the seer would testify that it is one of the permanent conditions of history that the white man shall not occupy Asia or any considerable part of it for any length of time. Victorious Japan has developed great ambitions. Never will she be content until she controls that great system of islands that stretches down from Nagasaki to Australia. She cannot like, though she may imitate the shippers which, while professing friendship for her still refuse to admit Japanese into their possessions on terms of equality, on the ground that they are inferior or, at all events, an uncivilized people."

Fifteen years ago General Torio wrote for the Mikado and his immediate advisors a report on the conditions in Korea. In this report he foretold the necessity of war with Russia; then and ever since he urged Japan to prepare. He was the youngest officer in the war of the rebellion, after which he was made a viscount. Born a samurai in the famous Satsuma province, a place and rank which have produced the majority of the great Japanese leaders of today, he is, like his conferees, self-made. He won a lieutenant's generalship in the China war and since then has been one of the Privy Council, members of which are known familiarly as The Elder Statesmen, a body which has not its elsewhere in the world.

"ROYAL CHEF" COMPANY DEPICTS FAMOUS PAINTING

The One and Only Organization of Its Kind Comes Next Tuesday.

Celebrated pictures are often used for models by scene painters who desire particularly striking effects in the setting they produce. Nearly every theatrical artist has his study well stocked with photographs of familiar masterpieces, and often of actual localities. In fact, a firm of New York artists but recently received a commission from the government to visit the Grand Canyon of Arizona in order that they might be able to depict faithfully and truthfully this great and wonderful scene of nature. The artists who built the second act of "The Royal Chef," which is to be seen at the Elks' theater, used a very famous painting for their model. When the curtain goes up at the Elks' theater on November 17 there in front will see an exact reproduction of that famous old picture, "The Spirit of '76." This musical pastime was the vogue at the Lyric theater, N.Y. York, for four months and the production has never been cheapened by a surfeit of companies. There is only one "Royal Chef" organization and patrons can rely on seeing the only and original when it appears in this city.

HOW "FIGHTING BOB" SAVED COAL

Once across the line the question of coal supply became a very serious one. Theoretically the supply in the bunkers should take us safely to Rio with several hundred tons to spare, but what about the equatorial current and how could we best avoid it? After a careful study of all charts and sailing directions by the chief of staff and myself it was decided to stand well on to the eastward to avoid the strength of this current, but when this had been done we found a knot and a half and sometimes two knots per hour against us.

The Maine was rating up coal at an alarming rate if I could rely absolutely on her noon report each day, and one of the new ships had the same undesirable tendency, remarks Admiral Robley D. Evans in his intensely interesting naval series in the December issue of Hampton's Broadway Magazine. I have seen considerable service in battleships and I know that their engine-room forces were like those of other ships, given to coming out ahead on the coal question, and I had never been caught at a completely out of coal, so I did not allow the situation to trouble me much. When the new ship mentioned above, seemed to be approaching the danger line in coal consumption I made signal to her that when her

You Cannot Depend Absolutely UPON YOUR MEMORY

The chances are that four or five months after you pay a bill, you forget about it. Suppose that same bill should be presented to you—possibly you could remember about paying it; but nine out of every dozen bills you pay, you forget about in six months. Some you could not recall after six weeks. Pay all bills by check—file your checks. Six years afterward you can turn to the checks, if necessary, and produce indisputable evidence for every bill paid. We will be pleased to explain other advantages of the checking account to you.

SCHOOL CHILDREN WELL,

Inspection of City Schools Shows Little Sickness and no Contagious Diseases.

A meeting of the school inspecting physicians was held last evening in the offices of Dr. R. L. Rust in the Armijo building. The meeting was presided over by Dr. W. W. McCormick while Dr. B. W. McLean acted as secretary.

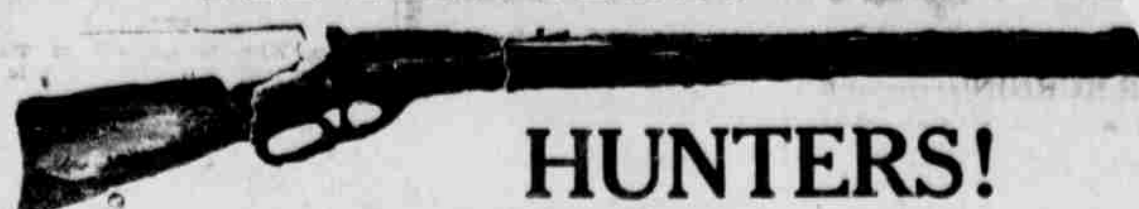

This committee of physicians was appointed by the new medical society recently formed in this city, and it is their duty to inspect the schools in order that any child suffering with any contagious disease be removed and properly cared for.

The inspection, recently made by the committee, of the various schools revealed the fact that no children were returned to their homes on account of illness. This would indicate that the health of the children of the city schools is excellent and the fear of an epidemic has been allayed.

The meeting last evening was a pleasant one during which time the physicians interchanged experiences and ideas as to the prevention and checking of various diseases.

voice of warning would be heard: "Take heed to yourselves; there is a madman stalking through the ship with a knife in his hand." I sometimes found the man a corpse in the morning by whose side I had myself down at night."

Of the bread furnished the prisoners the Rev. Thomas Andrus wrote in his account: "I do not recollect seeing any which was not full of living vermin, but eat it, worms and all, we must or starve."

The condition of the great copper in which the prisoners' meat was boiled is thus described in the memoirs of Ebenezer Fox, also a prisoner aboard the Jersey:

"The inside of the copper had become corroded to such a degree that it was lined with a coat of veridigas. The Jersey, from her size and lying near the shore, was imbedded in the mud; and I do not recollect seeing her afloat during the whole time I was a prisoner. All the filth which accumulated among upward of a thousand men was daily thrown overboard and would remain there until carried away by the tide. The impurity of the water may be easily conceived, and in this water our meat was boiled. Not less revolting than these scenes of cruelty and distress was the manner in which the inmates of these martyred prisoners were hastily and indecorously consigned to the earth, in some cases almost before they had become cold."

The program prepared for the day to begin at 3 p. m. included:

Music by Twenty-third Regiment band, T. F. Shannon leader, closing with the "Star Spangled Banner," all standing.

Prayer, the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

TRAIN PORTER HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY

Rogers, Who is Accused of Theft From a Santa Fe Passenger, Is Given Preliminary Hearing.

Joshua Rogers, the train porter alleged to have stolen $272 from a Santa Fe passenger, will have to await the action of the Bernalillo county grand jury at the March term of court. Judge Craig yesterday afternoon bound him over under $500 bond after a preliminary hearing lasting the greater part of two afternoons.

The most damaging testimony against Rogers was given by another train porter, Brown by name, and a negro living at Winslow, Watkins by name. Brown saw Rogers in a toilet room on the train shortly after the alleged robbery, counting a roll of bills. Watkins testified that he saw Rogers in a saloon at Winslow shortly after the robbery, playing "seven-eleven" with some gamblers. He said that he spoke to Rogers and told him that he "ought not to play with those fellows, as they would skin him." Rogers then displayed a roll of bills and insisted that Watkins count them. He did and found that there was $254 in the roll. Rogers testified that he had a roll of bills that his wife had given him.

The prosecuting witness in no way connected Rogers with the loss of the money, any more than that he was on the train. She said that she was riding in the chair car with her three small children. When she left the local station she put her purse in the chair and sat down on it. Near Laleta she took her ticket from the purse and gave it to the conductor. Shortly after leaving Laleta she discovered that her money was gone. Whether the robbery was committed in this county or in Valencia county is a question of jurisdiction involved in the case which is very much in favor of Rogers. Rogers was sent to the county jail yesterday afternoon but Judge Hancock said last night that he would secure bond for his client.

DEEP, DARK MYSTERY FOR THE POLICE FORCE

Someone Shot Holes Through a Calendar in Police Court Last Night.

A mysterious shooting took place in the police headquarters some time previous to 9 o'clock this morning, when police court opened. Two unaccounted for bullet holes are the only evidence the police have as to the shooting, but the fact that they are there is evidence enough. Both holes are in a 1908 calendar hanging behind and above where Judge Craig's head is when court is in session, and but a few feet to the left of the desk of Chief McMillin. The calendar is a large one, having numbers about two inches in height. The balls must have been .22-caliber, and judging from their position on the calendar may have been fired at the red "28" of Thanksgiving day or some object that may have been near that position on the calendar. One ball punctured the inside of the "9" of the 19th, and the other punctured the line between "26" and "27." Both made small excavations in the brick wall behind the calendar. The police force are in a quandary as to how the bullet holes came there.

REDUCE THE FEE FOR BOXING LESSONS

New Athletic Club Has Promising Future and Membership Will Be Large.

The armory board has reduced the fee for boxing lessons in the new gymnasium under instruction from Prof. Kennedy to $2, the general membership of the club. This will give each member of the club boxing and wrestling lessons without extra charge.

Major Rupper said this morning that the outlook of the club was most flattering. Fifty people have already joined by putting their names on the membership list, but not enough have paid the membership fee to meet current expenses, and the quicker they do pay up the sooner and the better the gymnasium will be completed. Four pairs of boxing gloves, two punching bags, two trapezes, one double and one single, a basketball court, traveling rings, three horizontal bars and one parallel bar have been installed and other paraphernalia will be added as soon as funds are at hand. One-half of the building will be set aside for a basketball court and the indications are that some good indoor sport will be witnessed in the gym during the winter. The two shower baths in the gym are in working order.

"FISHERMAN'S RIVAL" AT COLOMBO THEATER

A film which depicts the romance of a fisher village and in which the daughter of a fisherman, her city sweetheart and a village rival are the central figures, will be shown at the Colombo theater, starting this evening.

The parents of the girl naturally favor the "home boy" but the city chap wins the girl's favor, leaving the village rival to console himself as best he may. The latter decides to settle the matter with a personal encounter but is badly beaten. With the aid of a companion he attacks the girl and her lover, takes the girl to a deserted warehouse, and puts her lover adrift in an open boat. Favorable winds blow the boat back to land and the girl escapes while her drunkard guardian sleeps. The villain gets his just dues and the girl and her lover have a happy ending to their romantic adventure.

FOUR BOLD HUNTERS RETURN WITH DEER

Party From Albuquerque Has Good Sport in Dattl Mountains.

A hunting party composed of Geo. Nohr, Frank McKee, Harry Lee and Mose Stern returned to the city yesterday evening after a week spent at the Morley ranch in the Dattl mountains. They brought back four deer and countless stories of their trip.

The party was joined by Ray Morley and spent one day without result. The second day out they found five deer and got three out of the five, though it took twenty-one shots to do it, according to an eye witness. The members of the party are so elated over the success of their trip that they are planning another one in the near future.

Miss Ida Sallan, of St. Joseph, Mo., is a guest of her sister, Mrs. L. G. Rosenfield, of 1918 West Central avenue. Miss Sallan arrived Wednesday and will spend the winter with Mrs. Rosenfield.

Mrs. and Mrs. W. W. Strong, of 810 Park avenue, left Monday evening for an extended pleasure trip through the republic of Mexico. They will later go to California and spend several weeks touring the south.

Mrs. P. M. Zickert entertained the ladies of the Lutheran church at a "bazaar" at her home in Old Albuquerque Wednesday afternoon. The affair was largely attended and proved the most successful social event given this season.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church entertained Thursday afternoon at an old-fashioned quilting bee, in the church parlors. A large number of neighbors and guests were present. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. and Mrs. J. A. Weinman of 809 West Copper avenue expect to leave this evening for a visit in California. They will spend several weeks on a pleasure trip through the state, and later sail for Honolulu. They will be gone several months.

Mrs. Margaret Cartwright of 410 Gold avenue entertained the members of the Woman's Christian Temperance union at an interesting meeting Tuesday afternoon. The feature of the meeting was the report of Mrs. Nutter of the Denver W. C. T. U. convention.

Chasing Dish Party—Mrs. Arno Huning was the attractive hostess at a chasing dish party at her beautiful home in Huning Castle last Tuesday evening. The affair was given in honor of her tenth wedding anniversary. The occasion also marked the tenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Edgar, who were honorary guests.

Mrs. Huning's guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Felix Lester, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Macpherson, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Owen, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Matson, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Strong and Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Matson.

Thursday, November 12, promised to be one of the busiest along social lines of the coming week. Three delightful little affairs are already scheduled—dedication exercises at the convention hall, followed by a social dance; the presentation of "Julius Caesar" by the pupils of the Immaculate Conception school, and the entertainment at which the ladies of the Presbyterian church will entertain. The feature of the entertainment will be an imaginary trip around the world. Six different homes will be devoted to the representation of some particular country. The rooms will be beautifully decorated and entertainment and refreshments will be furnished. The countries represented will be as follows: America at the home of Mrs. Walter G. Hope, 315 West Copper avenue; Japan at the home of Mrs. R. W. D. Bryan, 800 Park avenue; Ireland at Mrs. H. Barney's, 803 Park avenue; Germany at Mrs. W. H. Hahn's, 114 West Central avenue; Scotland at the home of Mrs. George Arnot, 1012 West Central avenue; and Africa at Mrs. Frank Ackerman's, 1110 West Central avenue.

Excellent musical talent will assist in the entertainment. Among the singers are Mrs. Charles A. Frank, Mrs. Roy McDonald, Mrs. Hugh Collins, Miss Lillian Elwood, Miss Ione Reynolds, and others.

Woman's Club—An especially interesting program was given yesterday at the regular meeting of the Albuquerque Woman's club. The program was in charge of the literary department, led by Mrs. Albright. Parliamentary practice, preceding the program, was led by Mrs. Abbie Jones. The program was as follows: Roll call, "Reminiscences of Previous Programs."

Music by Mrs. Thomas Hughes. Paper, "The Rebellion and Native Independence, 1680-1692," by Mrs. Cannon.

Talk, "History of San Miguel Church," Mrs. Margaret Medler. Talk of the church of San Felipe and Albuquerque Missions, by Mrs. Burke.

Music by the club quartet.

Card Party—The prettiest and most elaborately appointed social feature of the week was the delightful series of card parties at which Mrs. Daniel A. Macpherson of 1114 West Central avenue entertained Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of this week.

Nearly fifty guests were entertained Wednesday afternoon at six handed euchre, in which first honors were awarded to Mrs. A. A. Keen, while consolation honors were won by Mrs. W. H. Hahn.

About forty-five guests enjoyed Mrs. Macpherson's hospitality Thursday afternoon. In the contest at six handed euchre honors for high and low score were won by Mrs. B. S. Rodey and Mrs. F. H. Lester.

The rooms were prettily arranged with attractive decorations, and delicious refreshments were served.

The wedding will take place at 5 o'clock this evening at the pleasant home of Miss Bearup's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bearup, 801 North Third street. While simplicity was the keynote the arrangements as to details are perfect. Rev. Wilson J. Marsh, pastor of the Congregational church will officiate, using the pretty and effective ring ceremony. Little Miss Burdette and Miss Niles Strumquist will act as ring bearers.

The ceremony will take place in the parlor of the Bearup home, which will be handsomely decorated. URGES NEED OF CARING FOR CHILDREN

The South Has Neglected Its Duty, Says Speaker, Before Prison Association.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 14.—A. J. McKelway, secretary of the National Child Labor committee for the south, scored the south in a paper before the American Prison association for its lack of provision for young criminals. He said in part: "It is time that our southern states awoke to the crying need for the humane and merciful treatment of the children who go astray; it has only to avail itself of the experience of other states to meet the need. If it be said that our poverty is yet too great to undertake the additional expense, be it said in reply that we are too poor not to save to the state the criminal expenses that inevitably follow the lack of such reformatory institutions and that the restoration of one child to a useful life, from a life of crime and shame, is well worth the attention of any civilized state. And when we learn to treat the young criminal properly, to consider the unfortunate environment which breeds crime, we should be led to the consideration of the larger problems involved and the reformation of the adult criminal, that he also may be wherever possible transformed into a man, instead of being hardened in iniquity."

"In the state of Georgia, during the investigation of the convict lease system, a pitiful case was presented to the attention of the legislative committee of investigations. A white boy 16 years of age was sentenced to the chain gang for stealing a pot of ham. While at work on the chain gang he resisted the too near approach of one of the warden's hogs and threw upon the hog some of the hot coffee with which he was supplied. For this crime the boy was beaten until even in the judgment of the camp physician he was fit only for the hospital, and he entered the hospital to be removed in a few weeks a corpse. There are many such instances of cruelty to young convicts, white and black, for which the state has provided no better reformatory than the chain gang, and yet people of the south are a humane people, abhorring cruelty."

"The final argument for the extension and complete adjustment of the juvenile court system in the south, and for the building and proper maintenance of model reformatories, is the development of the factory villages of the south with their system of family labor, including the labor of the child. There are now some seven or eight hundred of these communities in the south, either entirely separate from other communities, or forming a separate section of our municipalities. It has been amply proved that the ranks of our criminal population are not being recruited from the schools but from the army of neglected children, especially the army of the tolling children. It is a matter of common complaint of the managers of our factories where children are employed, that both the boys and the girls, especially the boys, so soon become unmanageable. Their arguments in opposition to child labor laws really amount to the plea that these children of the factory villages must be sentenced to labor in the mills, either by day or night, in order that they be kept out of mischief. I hold that the child labor system or the family labor system—in the one case the mother being kept at work and away from the duties of the home, in the other case the children early developing as breadwinners, first the spirit of independence, then of irreverence, disobedience and finally hoodlumism—are responsible for this state of affairs. We are making progress in the south in the correction of this abuse. At the same time there is a great need for the proper handling of these children of the factory districts under authority of the law, when they manifest their disposition to recruit the criminal classes."

A UNIQUE CRAFT OF EARTH AND AIR

NO. 1, E. JONES AND HIS GLIDER. NO. 2, C. W. WILLIAMS' MONOPLANE. NO. 3, LESH AND HIS AEROPLANE. NO. 4, A PEGULAR KITE MODEL.

New York, Nov. 14.—"For the fun there is in sailing them, I think gliders will some day be as popular as autos."

This is the way Laurence Jerome Lesh of Montreal, replied to questions about his freak air-craft, which was exhibited among the other curious things shown by the Aeronautic society at Morris park recently.

Lesh was the sensation of the show, just before he made his flight it became known that he was trying to make arrangements to glide off the top of the Flatiron building into Madison park. He contented himself at the race track, however, with sliding off the roof of the grandstand, and with being towed into the air about 100 feet by a galloping horse.

Lesh holds the record of having sailed six miles over the St. Lawrence in his craft before it touched the water. A fast motor boat started him flying.

Lesh is long and lean. He is 16, and has been experimenting with air-craft for several years. He creates frequent sensations among the Canadians by trying from the tops of buildings and hills.

At the Morris park contest there were several other odd-looking air-craft, but none like the Thomas wing wagon, do not assume to get off the earth. The wind wagons are propelled by rapidly revolving fans.

C. W. Williams made several attempts with his monoplane at the show. C. B. Melott, with his revolving kite gave an exhibit which the spectators present said was of great value and E. Jones exhibited a glider which operated much on the same principle as Lesh's.

SEN. ALDRICH TO LEAVE THE SENATE
Leader Announces He Will Quit and Leave the Place Open to Younger Man.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—The announcement by former Governor George H. Utter of Rhode Island that Nelson W. Aldrich would not be a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate was one of the most interesting of the campaign. That Senator Aldrich had made up his mind to retire at the end of his present term was reported at the time of his last election, but lacked authoritative confirmation. Through Governor Utter's announcement of the other day was made, he says, without previous consultation with Senator Aldrich, there is no reason to doubt his reliability. Indeed, Governor Utter says it was with difficulty that Senator Aldrich was persuaded from publicly making the announcement three years ago, when the Rhode Island legislature for the ninth consecutive time elected him to the Senate.
There is no other member of the Senate whose impending retirement could be of such large significance as that of Senator Aldrich, for his leadership in the upper house of Congress has for many years been undisputed. Associated with him in that leadership have been such men as Allison of Iowa, Platt of Connecticut, Hale of Maine and Spooner of Wisconsin. They were the "big five" of the Senate, but always Aldrich was first. Allison and Platt are dead and Spooner has retired to private life, leaving only Hale and Aldrich of the once all-powerful "inner circle." As Senator Hale is now 72 years of age, he cannot be expected to long survive after Aldrich retires in 1911. Then the Senate leadership must pass into new hands.

The question as to who will succeed Aldrich as Republican Senate leader is an interesting one. The first guess of the average man would be Senator Knox of Pennsylvania. All men admit that Knox's surpassing ability, and it cannot be denied that he possesses many of the most valuable attributes of leadership, but he lacks a lot of being a legitimate odds on favorite for the place. Under conditions that would make possible the leadership to Knox, Winthrop Murray Crane of Massachusetts would have to be reckoned with.
Crane possesses nearly every attribute that gave Aldrich his ascendancy. Both are business men, pure and simple. Neither is a lawyer and neither is showy in debate; both know how to "get next" to men and to mold their minds. And it will have to be admitted that senators are much more apt to be convinced by personal appeal than by debate on the floor. Crane was elected to succeed the late Senator Hoar and is now serving his first full term. Despite his comparatively brief service, he already has attained a position well up toward the head of senators of "second rank" and is closer to the first rank than many men of more years in the Senate.
But if the present tendency of the states to send "radical" or "progressive" men to the Senate continues, it is doubtful if any man of the Knox and Crane school of thought can succeed Aldrich in the leadership. It must be remembered that this majority party has neither election nor title nor official acknowledgment of any kind. It is an affair of growth, something that is acquired a little at a time, without any visible effort at acquisition. The man who announced his purpose to become Senate leader or who publicly posed as the leader would lead not at all. The leader of the minority in the Senate is regularly selected in caucus, but the leader of the majority becomes such by reason of his personal influence with senators of the majority and the confidence they have in him. It is true that Aldrich is chairman of the finance committee, corresponding with the ways and means chairmanship of the House, which gives Representative George D. Payne the titular leadership of the lower body, but it by no means follows that Aldrich's successor in the finance chairmanship will be the leader.

The rule of seniority applies strictly in the matter of chairmanships. Since the death of Senator Allison, Senator Burrows of Michigan ranks next to Aldrich on the finance committee and may reasonably be expected to become its chairman when Aldrich retires. No one would pick Burrows as the next Senate leader. The other Republican members of the committee are Platt of New York, Hansbrough of North Dakota, Penrose of Pennsylvania, Hale of Maine and Hopkins of Illinois. The only one of these to be seriously considered in connection with the leadership is Hale, and he will be 75 years old when Aldrich retires.
If the next Senate leader is to be of the new instead of the old school, it is still more difficult to pick him. Senator Beveridge of Indiana has the ability and ambition to be leader, but he lacks the tact and diplomacy that made Aldrich's leadership possible. The Senate is becoming more radical all the time, but it will take many years to make it radical enough to follow the leadership of Beveridge. There is promising material among some of the younger senators like Burkett of Nebraska, but their capacities are yet to be developed.
Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the most brilliant of them all, is supposed to be in sympathy with Roosevelt progressiveness, but he never could be leader. The president himself once said of him: "Lodge is a wonderful scholar, but a mighty poor politician." The man who leads the Senate majority has got to be a politician. The place is probably the most important under our system of government, ranking just below the presidency and the House speakership.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW

WELL WORTH KNOWING
Any Lump in Woman's Breast is Always Cancer.

The papers made mention some time ago of several marvelous cures of large cancers in women's breasts by Dr. Chamley, the world renowned cancer specialist, of 747 S. Main St., Los Angeles, Cal. This Doctor makes the bold assertion that he has in over 34 years cured more cancers than any other Doctor living and offers $1,000 if he fails to cure any single cancer he treats. Strictly reliable; no X-ray or other swindle. The fact that not a dollar need be paid until cured should convince the most skeptical of the Doctor's honesty and fair dealing. He has, probably the best book ever printed on cancers and tumors cured without knife or pain, wherein he teaches and proves that any lump in woman's breast is cancer. This book of testimonials of thousands of wonderful cures everywhere is sent free to all who write Dr. and Mrs. Dr. Chamley & Co., describing their cancer. The reader may save a life by sending this to some one with cancer.

Colds and Croup in Children.
"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. H. Serle, No. 41, Fifth St., Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough but I cured her with Chamley's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup. As soon as he shows any signs of croup I give him Chamley's Cough Remedy for three or four days which prevents the attack." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

DRUGGISTS ARE FORSAKES GIRL WHO BEGGED FOR HIM

KEPT VERY BUSY
Many Persons Here Relieved of Suffering With Simple Recipe.

That the readers of this paper appreciate advice when given in good faith is plainly demonstrated by the fact that one well-known local pharmacy supplied the ingredients for the "vegetable prescription" many times within the past two weeks. The announcement of this simple, harmless mixture has certainly accomplished much in reducing the great many cases of kidney complaint and rheumatism here, relieving pain and misery, especially among the older population, who are always suffering more or less with bladder and urinary troubles, backache and particularly rheumatism.
Another well-known druggist asks us to continue the announcement of the prescription. It is doing so much real good here, he continues, that it would be a crime not to do so. It can not be repeated too often; and further states many cases of remarkable cures wrought.

The following is the prescription of simple ingredients, making a harmless, inexpensive compound, which any person can prepare by shaking well in a bottle: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Any first-class druggist will sell this small amount of each ingredient, and the dose for adults is one teaspoonful to be taken after each meal and again at bedtime. There is enough here to last for one week, if taken according to directions. Good results will be apparent from the first few doses.

Finally she followed him to Chicago, after telling her parents she was going to Elgin, to stay at an entertainment. They lived together as man and wife at the Randolph hotel, the girl supporting them with money she brought while he hunted for work.
"I begged $2 from a man at the Sherman house, I also appealed to the police, showing them a bank book I had found on the street and telling them I had lost my purse."
The detective who heard this plea was impressed, gave Miss Livingston 50 cents and got a room for her at the Friggs house. Then next day she had disappeared. A day later he saw her on the street, followed her, saw her beg from several men, then he trailed her to the Randolph hotel, where he arrested her and Cain Friday.

In their room at the hotel the police found several stolen hand bags, the purses and a music roll.
Miss Livingston confessed when confronted with the evidence against her. She took all the blame and begged the police to release Cain.
Then when the officers turned to question Cain, who is a college-bred man he tried to put all the blame on the girl. She was foolish he said, and caused their trouble.
When the girl heard what he had said, she broke into tears and her mother who had been summoned from Milwaukee, became hysterical.
"Elmer Cain is a heart-breaker and a man who pulls at the heart-strings of women," said Miss Livingston.

She gave up my home and came to Chicago to save him. My mother thought we were married, but we were not, as long as he has turned against me after I have tried to save him, I will tell something about his career. I am not the first woman who has suffered at his hands.
"There was a woman two years ago, a servant employed in his mother's home, who had him arrested on a serious charge. A child was born and while the case was pending Cain, released on bail, left town. His mother signed his bond for $500 and she is a poor woman.
"Katherine was never a wayward girl," said her mother. "Her life has been a clean, white page, until she became entangled with Cain. My heart would break if I let it, but I cannot. I have work to do, I must get my daughter out of jail, and force that man to marry her. I must do it all alone, for I have no relatives or friends to help me.
"My husband and I always tried to bring our daughter up well. How many times have I warned her of just such traps as that into which she fell. She had been a model daughter all her life. It was a month ago that it happened. She is a singer and my husband and I have given her a musical education, all that we could afford.
"She told me that she had an engagement to sing at Elgin at some home, she gave me the name and address, which I have at home, and said that she would have to be gone over night, but that she would stay with a friend in Elgin. I let her go that was a month ago, and this is the first I have seen of her since. What fit punishment can there be for such a man? He has taken as fine a young girl as ever lived innocent, ignorant of herself and of the world, unable to protect herself, and dragged down to his level. I am more concerned with forcing him to marry her than finding punishment for him. That will come later."

Wisconsin Man Arrested at Chicago, Throws Blame for Misdeeds on Pretty Singer.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Elmer E. Cain, former member of work than his friends, legislature has brought upon himself the anger of two women, mother and daughter, by calling the daughter a foolish girl after she had left her home in Milwaukee for him, begged and stolen to keep him from want and when arrested for begging pleaded with the police that it was all her fault and that he should be allowed to go free.

Cain is a young man who came to Chicago in search of greater opportunities to work than his friends in Wisconsin politics. The young woman in the case is Miss Katherine Livingston, a musician of good family,
