TWO HUNDRED PEOPLE HONOR THE MEMORY OF PHIL SHERIDAN DIE WHEN STEAMER IS BURNED

Crew and Passengers Jump From Boat as Flames Sweep Decks

FIFTY BODIES ARE BROUGHT ASHORE

Flames Broke out Shortly After Boat Left Port and Spread so Quickly that Rescue was Impossible.

Valetta Island, Malta, Nov. 25.—Nearly two hundred persons passengers and the crew of the Ellerman Steamer line's steamer Sardinia, are believed to have perished today when the steamer was destroyed by fire just after she sailed for Alexandria, Egypt.

The Sardinia was scarcely a mile off Grand Harbor when the first sign of fire appeared, but with a strong wind fanning the flames the whole ship was soon ablaze. There was a wild panic on board as the rapidly spreading flames drove the passengers to the rail and many excited ones, not even waiting for the boats to be lowered, plunged into the sea. Scores are believed to have drowned, while others, trapped by the fire, were roasted to death or smothered.

Several tugs and other small, swift vessels rushed to the assistance of the imperiled liner. The high sea and heavy gale made it impossible for them to approach closely and they could render but little aid. The Sardinia left Liverpool November 14 with a crew numbering forty-four. Twenty first class and six second class passengers embarked at Liverpool. Most of the passengers undoubtedly were Levantines, Maltese and Egyptians, crossing from Malta to Alexandria.

Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon fifty bodies had been brought ashore. The names originated in the forehold. A quantity of naphtha was stored there and it fed the flames to such an extent that it soon became impossible to save the vessel. The captain and crew stuck nobly to their posts, served out life belts and did everything possible to help the panic stricken passengers, most of whom were Arab pilgrims. There were only eleven Europeans aboard the Sardinia.

CLEVER INDIAN PASSED THE CHECK

He Marked It on the Back and a Storekeeper Cashed It for Him.

Indicating that he could not write, an Indian, believed to be named Francisco Chima, got E. F. Scheele, the North Fourth street merchant, to cash a check for him for $54.96, accepting a mark on the back as an endorsement. The man had bought a pair of shoes and a hat, and Mr. Scheele gave him the balance, forty odd dollars, in cash in change. This was last September. When Mr. Scheele took the check to the bank, he was told that payment on it had been stopped by Max Paul Kempnich, a merchant of Peralta, who had lost it.

Mr. Scheele had never seen the man before the time he cashed the check and had only a vague description to give the authorities. However, it was sufficient. Last night at Valetta Deputy Sheriff Fred Heyn arrested the man on a warrant sworn out in Judge McClellan's court. He will be given a preliminary hearing. It is believed that he is an educated Indian and can write well, but evading endorsing the check by indicating that he could not write, which, if it were true, would be a very clever ruse.

HARRY LEHR WEARS BEADS.

Paris, Nov. 25.—The volatile and variegated Harry Lehr has the honor of introducing a new fad in social circles here. He now carries a string of beads. If he finds himself in the company of a man whose conversation annoys him Mr. Lehr counts his beads over and over again. This is to be taken as a mild rebuke, like a tap on the wrist.

Besides, anyone who suffers from lack of thought can pass the time counting his beads while driving to keep an engagement, while awaiting a visitor or waiting for a train or even between the courses of a dinner if the woman at the table remains silent. Several New Yorkers have taken up the fad and have their strings of beads. Among them are Henry Clews Jr., Charles Sands, Joseph Harriman and Valentin Blacque. French leaders of fashion who manifest their enervated thus are Count Poni de Castellane and Count Robert de Montisquel.

WASHINGTON

President and Many High Officials Join Citizens in Tribute to the General.

WIDOW UNVEILS HIS MONUMENT

Big Parade of Soldiers, Sailors and Veterans Marches in Review in the National Capital Today.

Washington, Nov. 25.—With military pomp and splendor an heroic statue of General Philip Henry Sheridan was unveiled in this city today. The president of the United States and members of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps, justices of the supreme court of the United States, senators, representatives in Congress, veterans of the Civil war and many others prominent in official life as well as a large concourse of citizens were present. Thousand of soldiers of the regular army and of the national guard and United States marines and bluejackets from the navy, were assembled as a tribute to the dashing soldier of the Civil war, whose effigy was displayed to the public gaze for the first time in this city today.

The statue, the work of Gustum Borglum, was admired by everyone who saw it. It represents General Sheridan on horseback, his steed being shown in a position of action rather than standing placidly as is the case with so many of the equestrian statues of this city.

The statue is one and three quarters times larger than life and depicts General Sheridan at the age at which he performed his greatest deeds. The pose is taken from the occasion when he returned to the field at the battle of Cedar creek. He had been defeated by General Early and as he reins in his horse he turns to his men waving hat in hand and shouts to them to turn back. He is mounted on his celebrated horse Reimel. The sum of $50,000 was appropriated by Congress for the statue, which is said to contain more molten brass than ever before cast in this country. The piece is 12 feet long, 8 feet wide and as completed the entire bronze piece is 14 feet in height.

Special interest was given the occasion by the presence of the widow of the dashing soldier and her son, Lieutenant Phil Sheridan of the army. The statue was unveiled by Mrs. Sheridan herself pulling the cord that held the drapery in place. The statue is located in the most fashionable residential section of the city, in what is known as Sheridan Square at the intersection of Massachusetts avenue, Twenty-third and R streets. It is surrounded by many splendid mansions and is on the line of one of the most popular drives of the city.

The military parade was headed by General J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the army, with General W. L. Lamb P. Duval, as his chief aide. The 13th cavalry, the 4th battery of field artillery, the 12th, 44th, 45th, and 104th coast artillery, companies E and H of the United States engineers, batteries D and E of the 3rd field artillery, the 15th cavalry, companies of marines, two companies of bluejackets, from the president's yacht Mayflower and the Dolphin were in line, the United States Marine band rendering appropriate music. The second division consisted of the District of Columbia militia, composed of the first and second regiments of infantry, the first separate battalion, the signal corps, the first battery field artillery, the naval battalion, the high school cadets, headed by the engineers band.

The third division of the parade was composed of veteran societies of the army of the Potomac, of the Cumberland, the Tennessee and the Ohio, whose members served under the famous soldier in whose honor they were assembled. President Roosevelt addressed the assemblage and pronounced a splendid tribute to the valor and the military genius of Sheridan. Horace Porter, formerly ambassador to France, also spoke in honor of the soldier and patriot and told of his daring deeds on the field of battle. President Roosevelt's address was as follows: It is eminently fitting that the nation's illustrious men, the men who loom as heroes before the eyes of our people, should be fittingly commemorated here at the national capital, and I am glad indeed to take part in the unveiling of this statue to General Sheridan. His name will always stand high on the list of American worthies. Not only was he a great general, but he showed his greatness with that touch of originality which we call genius. Indeed, his quality of brilliance has been in one sense

THE GIL MONSTERS ARRIVE FOR THE GAME

Arizona University Team Comes From Tucson to Play Local University.

A dozen husky looking individuals unloaded themselves from the Santa Fe train when it pulled in from the west this morning and were at once taken in charge by Manager Lee of the University football team. They came all the way from Tucson to play against the University of New Mexico for the football championship of the Southwest and the appearance of the team collectively and individually indicates that the game tomorrow will be the hardest the New Mexico team has played this season.

The Arizona team comes with the expectation of winning and has some good claims to the belief that it will win. Most of the players are old-timers at the game and they have been put through a course of training during the past few weeks that put them in fine shape for the game. Man for man, they outweigh the local team and they have a big supply of confidence.

The local team also has a good supply of it and the superior weight of the Arizona men hasn't shaken the confidence Manager Lee and the members of New Mexico U. team feel over the outcome of the game. The Gil Monsters have impressed but they haven't yet conquered, and if they do it will be only after some mighty efficient work on the gridiron.

Realizing that the Arizona came a long distance to be beaten and wishing to soften the blow as much as possible, the University students took the members of the team in charge and today are showing them the sights of the city. Tomorrow night the visitors will be guests of the students at a dance.

Here is what Coach Gilbreath says: We are here with sixteen players besides myself and all are in excellent shape, having a few minor bruises received in our game with the Tucson Athletic club last Saturday afternoon, when we defeated them by the score of 25 to 0. I am confident that we will win and we will do our best towards that end. We average about 155 pounds stripped and we would not care to see New Mexico get the best of us. We wish to thank the Commercial club for their courteous gift of a ten days' membership card for each of our members as well as the students of the University who are doing all they can to show us a pleasant time. We leave Friday night.

H. B. GILBREATH, Coach, Arizona.

He Will Not Tell Ways and Means Committee About Metals.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Answering the invitation of Chairman Payne, of the ways and means committee, Andrew Carnegie has asked to be excused from appearing at the hearing on the tariff as relates to metals. Referring to his article in the Century Magazine, Carnegie says: "When you read it you will discover that my faith in protection, wherever it is proved to be necessary, is as strong as ever and that I continue also to believe that the way to secure protection is to reduce the protective duties from time to time and finally abolish them whenever no longer needed."

Perth Amboy, N. J., Nov. 25.—A crowd of strikers from among the 200 employees of the National Fireproofing company at Kearney, who went out on strike for higher wages last week, was fired upon by a squad of fifty special deputy sheriffs in that village today and several were wounded, two seriously.

MADDEN FUNERAL WAS HELD TODAY

Body of Mining Man Who Died at El Paso, Taken to Cerrillos for Burial.

The body of Thomas R. Madden, the mining man who died suddenly Saturday night at El Paso, leaving a fortune in excess of $25,000, to Mrs. Madden, a widow of Cerrillos, this territory, passed through the city this morning on train No. 10, accompanied by a delegation of Masons, to which lodge Mr. Madden belonged. The funeral took place at Cerrillos this afternoon, the body being interred with Masonic ceremony in the little cemetery on the hill above the mining camp.

The latest developments indicate that Madden left an estate of close to $50,000. The Masonic lodge of Cerrillos is the recipient by the terms of his will of $2,000. The Elks' lodge of Durango, Colo., is to get $1,000, and the remainder is left to Mrs. Ruth Green and daughter, of Cerrillos.

Mrs. Green is a widow and has conducted a hotel known as the Green house, at Los Cerrillos for years. During the rainy days of the place, when the smelter was belching forth molten metal and slag, Madden made his home there, and his home with Mrs. Green. He referred to her frequently as "Mother." It is believed that he was nursed from a serious illness by Mrs. Green and having no near relatives, felt obligated to her to the extent of leaving her his entire fortune. Madden left Cerrillos when the crash came and the camp went down, and went to Mexico. He made his money as a mining expert. The will was made in March of this year. Papers found in the bottom of a trunk in the man's room revealed the fact that he had a deposit in the State National bank of El Paso and various banks of Mexico. An unfinished manuscript—"A Story of the Southwest"—which Madden was writing unknown to his friends, was found among his papers.

HENRY FEELS BETTER.

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—Francis J. Heney passed a comfortable night. His temperature is reported as about normal and he is feeling somewhat improved today.

STATE SCORES TWICE IN THE LAMPHERE TRIAL

Judge's Instructions to Jury Leave Little Chance for the Farm Hand

CASE TO THE JURY TOMORROW MORNING

After Reading of the Instructions the Attorneys Began Arguments Which Will Be Finished Sometime today.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 25.—The state scored a victory today in the Lamphere trial when Judge Richter, after an exhaustive argument by both sides, announced that he would instruct the jury that if the evidence showed that Lamphere set fire to the sunniss house, even if the fire did not cause the death of the persons herein, the jury must find him guilty of arson.

The state scored another victory when it secured the incorporation in the instructions of the paragraph by which, if the jury finds any one of the four persons in the house lost her life as a result of the fire and that Lamphere set the fire, then it must find Lamphere guilty of murder or manslaughter.

The case will probably go to the jury late this evening or tomorrow morning. After reading the judge's instructions, the attorneys began their arguments which will consume the rest of today's session and will probably be concluded by this evening.

A CROSSEYED COUNTERFEIT.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The chief of the secret service, Mr. Wilkie announced today that a new counterfeit silver certificate (Indian head) has been detected in circulation. The counterfeit note purports to be one of those authorized by the act of August 4, 1888, series of 1899, check for $5, face plate No. 2, back plate No. 666, with portrait of George Washington. The official assay it is a dangerous photo-mechanical production printed on one piece of heavy bond paper, but a defect in the plate gives the Indian chief a cross-eyed expression. The blue seal closely approximates the genuine in color, but is badly printed. It is coarse and rough, with many broken lines. The back of the note is a very deceptive piece of work and except for being lighter in color, appears much like the genuine.

THEY MUST STAY DEAD.

Paris, Nov. 25.—Andre Messager and Louis Brasseur, new managers of the Paris opera, who have already suppressed the clique or hired applause, have taken another step in the direction of pure art by forbidding artists to acknowledge applause except at the end of each act. A singer who has just expired in melody will no longer be allowed to rise from death and bow her acknowledgment of plaudits.

Several of the leading singers, who have apparently lent themselves cheerfully to this custom, now come out in interviews and say they are delighted at its abolition.

HEAVY SNOW FALLS THROUGHOUT UTAH

The State Is Covered Nineteen Inches Deep and Storm Is Not Ended.

Salt Lake, Nov. 25.—The snowstorm which began Monday evening still continues, but the weather bureau predicts clear weather this afternoon. Nearly nineteen inches of snow have fallen, the greatest precipitation ever recorded by the weather bureau. The storm is general over the inter-mountain region. Railroad traffic is almost normal again.

HOSPITAL SHIP WAS DAMAGED IN STORM

Fears for Safety of Government Boat Dispersed by Message.

Berkeley, Cal., Nov. 25.—Mrs. Charles Francis Stokes, the wife of Dr. Stokes, who commands the hospital ship Relief, for the safety of which grave fears have been entertained, last night received the following cablegram from her husband, directed from Sorsogon, a town in the Luzon-Philippine group: "Ship injured by storm, arrived here. All well. Can't say how long we will remain. Awaiting further instructions from Manila."

The ship was evidently driven far out of her course by a storm, and made the Luzon coast for shelter.

HAYTIAN MINISTER KILLED BY ANGRY MOB

He Executed two Prominent Citizens who Protested at his Methods

THE REVOLUTION STILL PROGRESSES

General Le Compte, Sought Recruits to Fight the Rebels, but was Executed by Citizens who Didn't Like the Iron Hand.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Nov. 25.—The report that General Le Compte, Haytian minister of the interior, had been killed at Jeremie, was confirmed today.

Finding the government gunboat Croissant ashore at Jeremie, Le Compte had its commander, Captain Ostena, executed on a charge of treason. Le Compte then sought recruits in Jeremie to fight the rebels. Some of the people protested, whereupon Le Compte executed two prominent citizens. These outrages aroused the people who armed and advanced against Le Compte's forces.

Le Compte was taken prisoner and executed upon the same wharf where he had caused the killing of Ostena and the two other men. General Tanarede Auguste has been named minister of the interior in succession to Le Compte. The revolution is progressing.

RACING BALLOON LANDED IN ARIZONA.

Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—A dispatch from Ehrenberg Ariz., brought word that the balloon "United States," with Captain A. E. Mueller, pilot, landed there at 4:10 Monday afternoon, having traveled 300 miles in less than six hours. Mueller successfully avoided San Jacinto peak and showed that a trans-continental trip by balloon is possible.

ITALIAN CAR WINS FIRST LIGHT CAR RACE

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 25.—William A. Hilliard, of Boston, driving the Italian entry, Lancia, today won the first international light car race ever run in this country. He maintained an average of approximately 13 miles an hour for the entire distance of 136 miles. The time of the winner was 233 minutes, 33 seconds. The Buick car finished second. The Chalmers third.

BIG STEEL MILLS SOON TO REOPEN

They Will Be Running Full Force by December 1, Employing 13,000 Men.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—All is joy in South Chicago. The army of workers in the big works of the Illinois Steel company is to have a real Christmas this year. Eager and untrammelled glad and thankfulness were caused by the announcement by officials of the company, which employs a large majority of the inhabitants of the town, that the shops would be running in full force by December 1. By that time it is expected 13,000 men will be working in the many departments of the immense plant.

About half of the workers in the mills have been unemployed for more than a year, when many of the departments shut down on account of the scarcity of orders for steel rails and other products of the company. Many of the others, employed since the partial reopening last summer, have been working on night shifts, the re-employment of thousands of men means much also to the merchants of the suburb.

CHICAGO FAMILY DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE

Forty Residences Destroyed and Occupants Forced Into the Rain.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Forty families were driven from their homes today into a chilling rain when fire destroyed three four-story buildings in North Winchester avenue and caused a loss of $75,000. Three firemen were killed by falling walls while seeking to rescue the occupants of the buildings. Three old women were carried through the smoke-filled corridors by firemen while the flames were spreading.

A PLANTER MURDERED.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 25.—R. W. Drake, a prominent planter, was murdered at his home near Laneville, Hale county, last night. His house was burned. Neighbors recovered the body from the burned home.

STATEHOOD FOR NEW MEXICO

We favor the immediate admission of the territories of New Mexico and Arizona as separate states in the Union—Republican National Platform.

Should Have Statehood

It is interesting to note that the papers of the west are beginning to line up strongly for statehood. This is particularly the case now, in the state of Colorado, where the small dailies are devoting considerable editorial space to the question.

The Trinidad Advertiser has taken a strong stand for statehood and has pledged its support to the cause. Under the heading "New Mexico should have statehood at once," the Advertiser says:

Whatever political differences may exist among the people of New Mexico, there is, or should be room for only one sentiment in regard to statehood. That sentiment should be unanimous in its favor, for, by all the laws of equity and honor, our neighbor territory is entitled to the inestimable boon of membership in the sisterhood of states. Political exigency in the past has interfered with this consummation, but the time has come when the conveniences of politicians should be permitted to interfere with the manifest justice of the cause of statehood.

From all that we have been able to gather from a close observance of the attitude of the New Mexico press on the question, there is no serious lack of harmony. This is exactly as it should be. The chief function of the New Mexico newspapers, as well as of all papers, for that matter, is to accurately represent the opinions of the people, and when those opinions are properly interpreted the Advertiser is certain that they will be well nigh unanimous.

The chief objection we apprehend comes from the carpet bagger element of the territory. This outfit should not be considered for a moment. They have no permanent interest in New Mexico. Their chief and only desire is to be glued to the payroll. Of sentiment in common save that of political profit, they have none with the people among whom they live. Direct or remote, they are of no consequence, and when they assume to thwart or render nugatory the overwhelming sentiment of the people, they should be brushed aside as so much ballast, only fit for the junk pile.

The Advertiser has a simple and unalterable conviction that statehood should be given to New Mexico. On all grounds it is desired. Population, resources, an intelligent and progressive people, taxable values that grow and prosper year by year through the practice of thrift and industry and enterprise, higher educational facilities, a strong and well maintained influx of population and a press that is the peer of any in the Union—these are the factors that the territory presents, and which make unanswerable argument in favor of immediate admission to statehood.

THE ADVERTISER SENDS THIS MESSAGE TO THE PEOPLE OF NEW MEXICO, THROUGH THEIR NEWSPAPERS: COLORADO WILL HAVE THREE DEMOCRATIC REPRESENTATIVES IN THE NEXT NATIONAL CONGRESS. WHATEVER INFLUENCE WE HAVE WITH THEM, AND WE PRESUME TO HAVE SOME, BY REASON OF PAST PERSONAL AND POLITICAL FRIENDSHIPS, WILL BE CHEERFULLY AND GENEROUSLY INTERESTED TO THE END THAT IT MAY BE CAST FOR STATEHOOD. AND WE ARE MORE THAN HOPEFUL THAT THIS HELP WILL BE AS CHEERFULLY AND AS LIBERALLY GIVEN WHEN THE REQUEST IS SUBMITTED TO OUR SENATOR AND CONGRESSMAN.

The Advertiser is first, last and always for statehood for New Mexico, because New Mexico deserves it and should have it. The territory can count that every ounce of influence we have will be thrown in the scale in its favor. And we will prove this through results.

There is a discussion in progress in New York respecting the drawbacks of attempting to enjoy a dinner in a restaurant which maintains a band powerful enough to drown ordinary conversation. Meantime, however, the crowds who frequent the places maintaining such bands continue to increase, a fact which suggests that the average American has not reached the stage of cultivation that demands concealed music. Incidentally, it may be remarked that most of the people who go to such places are not epicures who are ready to subordinate everything to secure gastronomic delight; they are more interested and find more enjoyment in the crowd, glitter and noise than they would in eating a meal in peace and quiet. When they wish to do that they stay at home.

A London letter to the New York Herald says: London is about to enter on a big roller skating boom. The craze for roller skating has been running through the provinces like a prairie fire, and rinks are appearing in all sorts and sizes of halls in the smaller cities and towns as they did in New York a couple of years ago. It is twenty-five years since roller skating was fashionable in England, and the revival of the pastime is probably due to the improvement which has taken place in recent years in rink floors and roller skates. An enterprising speculator started a rink in Liverpool a year ago which has been an enormous success. The best people in the city drive up in their automobiles to the rink.

There is considerable agitation in Chicago as to whether the milkman should come at four a. m. or at eight a. m. Probably it would be better if the agitation were in favor of the milkman coming at any hour to some Chicago homes.

In France the women have demanded that they be allowed to enlist in the army. Judging from the fatalities in French duels, there appears no reason to doubt that they would make as good soldiers as the men.

Governor Cummins of Iowa finally landed the senatorial toga but in New Mexico there have been more governors gone down to deep and dark seclusion trying that stunt than anywhere else in the world.

Naval officers are to undergo physical tests ashore. In other words, it is up to them to demonstrate that they can walk in an ordinary street without staggering up against the buildings.

From the service furnished by the Wells-Fargo Express company, it seems that an investigation by a legislative committee in New Mexico would do considerable good.

NEW MEXICO TORNADO? NOT ON YOUR LIFE

Weather Bureau Brings Report of Union County Storm as a Wild and Malicious Misstatement.

Tornadoes in New Mexico? No. Not. Never. Again has the territory's claim to the best climate on earth been established and the haze which temporarily hid the splendor of its achievements in that line has been dispelled by the United States weather bureau, which can always be depended on to step to the front with the right explanation when weather is concerned.

In October a destructive storm struck eastern New Mexico and the court house at Clayton and a number of residences there were badly damaged by what was supposed to be a tornado. Several people were killed in the country near Clayton. The weather bureau, however, in the report for October says it was not a tornado and gives the following explanation:

The storm has been spoken of as a tornado. The center of the area of low atmosphere pressure that dominated the weather of a great part of the southwest on the 18th and 19th passed very near to Clayton, to the north, causing the destructively high winds. The appearance of the sky cannot be taken into account, for it was dark two hours before the wind was high, but all the reports at hand indicate that every characteristic of a tornado was missing.

Some Reasons Why

Because The Citizen is a home paper. It is either delivered by carrier at the house or is carried home by the business man when his day's work is done and it STAYS THERE. A morning paper is usually carried down town by the head of the family and hurriedly read.

I

The Citizen is not read hurriedly, but thoroughly, so that all advertisements receive their share of attention. It presents the news as a whole, giving the prospective purchaser time to plan a shopping tour for the next morning.

T

Wise advertisers patronize The Citizen because they know their advertisements are seen and read at the homes in the evening, and if they are offering something worthy of attention, their ad has accomplished its mission.

I

The Citizen has never given premiums to subscribers, but is subscribed to and paid for on its news merits, showing that its subscribers have money with which to buy what they want from legitimate merchants. These are the people The Citizen invites to your store.

Z

The Citizen employs a man whose business it is to look after your advertising wants. He will write your copy if you wish. If not, he will see that your ads are "set up" to look their best and he will attend to them from day to day.

Are you advertising in The Citizen? Your competitors are, and are profiting by it. Do you think conservative business men are spending money where they are not getting results? Get in the swim and watch your business grow.

TURKEY DAY GAME WILL DRAW A CROWD

Record Attendance Is Expected at New Mexico-Arizona Football Game Tomorrow.

The sale of tickets for the game between the Universities of New Mexico and Arizona for the football championship of the southwest, which takes place at Traction Park tomorrow, indicates a big crowd, and the local university people expect that all records for attendance at a football game in Albuquerque will be broken.

The sale of tickets has been unusually large. Tickets have been on sale for several weeks, ever since the game was scheduled in fact, and with every University student pushing and a majority of Albuquerque pulling, the students have disposed of a big bunch of tickets. Even people who have never seen a football game and wouldn't know a shin guard from a referee have purchased liberally and the way the people of the city have responded is gratifying to the University students. An Arizona is expected to send a big delegation and a number of football enthusiasts will come from over the territory the crowd will probably break all records.

This is the most ambitious game the University has yet attempted. It is the first time that the Arizona University team has been brought to New Mexico for a game and it is to settle which of the two strongest teams of the two territories is entitled to the championship of the southwest.

Arizona admittedly has the strongest lineup it has ever had and New Mexico, by defeating the cadets at Roswell and the farmers of the Agriculture college is entitled to puff up and claim the territorial pennant. From all reports the two teams are about evenly matched, so much so that the game ought to be interesting enough to hold anybody's attention from start to finish.

The prospects today are that tomorrow will be an ideal football day, with just enough sun and just enough crispness in the air to put the players on their mettle and keep them in the game all the time. The field has been put in excellent condition and additional bleachers to accommodate 2,000 people are being finished today. The University is at a heavy expense in bringing the Arizona team here and consequently it will take a big crowd to enable them to break even.

Arizona's team arrived this morning. The University students plan to entertain them in style and tomorrow night will give a dance in honor of the visitors.

THE LARGEST GOAT HERD IN AMERICA

Arizona Company Plans to Create a Demand for Goat Milk.

Arizona Republican, C. E. Champie from his ranch near Castle Hot Springs is in the city attending a meeting of the American Swiss Milk Goat Co., of Arizona, composed of C. Champie, Geo. Hagerman and others of this city. This enterprise took permanent shape about the first of August last, when the articles of agreement were entered into and signed by the above named parties, who have formed their new venture into a close corporation no stock or shares to be sold.

The herd now consists of over 200 good half breed Angora-Mohair milk goats, and seven imported thoroughbred Swiss does and four thoroughbred imported Swiss bucks, consisting of one Schwatzenburg, one Toggenburg and two fine Saanen. Still it is their belief to be the largest regular established milk goat farm in the United States or all America for that matter. This farm is located about 3 miles north of Castle Hot Springs in Yavapai county, Arizona, near the Champe Angora goat ranch. The object of this company is to not only bring forward the utility and adaptability of the goat as a means of a wholesome home milk supply on farms and suburban homes, but to also promote milk goat dairies, and the breeding of goats for larger milk production.

This movement is strictly apart from the Angora goat industry or Mohair production. Angora goats are not noted for large milking qualities, but what they do produce is invariably of very high quality, percentage of cream and butter fat. The immunity of goats from tuberculosis is doubtless a point that will tell greatly in their favor in the future. In all Europe they are esteemed, especially among the peasantry, as a safe and economical means of home milk supply.

The members of this company believe that this industry has been overlooked in this country, partly on account of the foolish prejudice that prevails against goats, due some times to their vagrant habits and the sometimes mischievous character of the males. There is now at West Hartford, Conn., and in several other eastern cities regularly organized milk goat keepers association, for disseminating information among their members regarding the care, utility and breeding of the milk goat.

AMERICA LEADS IN THE AUTO INDUSTRY

United States has Double the Output of any Other Country in the World.

New York, Nov. 25.—America leads the world in the manufacture of automobiles, the present production being 80,000 a year. This is double the output of France, the mother of the motor car; Italy, another of the great European countries which has helped to develop the industry, manufactures 25,000, and Germany, England and Belgium follow. America makes as many as all the other countries together.

The growth of the industry in America has been against the greatest of odds. Prejudiced laws have been enacted to discourage automobilism, the ridicule of the masses has helped to keep the sales down, and obstacles great and small have been placed in the path of the infant industry.

Yet the progress of the motor car has been steadily onward, and although no invention of modern times has been so bitterly opposed, it is now one of the foremost industries of the world and is the least affected by the hard times, reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

A phase of the growing American industry is the development of the exports, and the future holds most promising returns for the manufacturer.

urer. This is said to be the result of the adaptability of the American car for road use, and in that respect it has no superior.

Another important phase of the industry is the growing acceptance of the automobile by all classes. The motor car is being used commercially taking the place of heavy trucks, delivery wagons, omnibuses and the horse-drawn vehicles of municipalities, such as the fire apparatus, ambulances and the police patrols. It has found a place on the farm, it is indispensable to the country doctor, and aside from the pleasurable features of it, the automobile has a multitude of uses and is increasing each year.

The greatest good which has resulted from the universal use of the car is the propensity to develop the highways of the country, and the automobile is responsible for the growth of the sentiment. The agitation, begun by the bicycle enthusiasts, has been successfully carried forward by the motorists till nearly every state in the union is discussing the good roads movement and rapidly placing such laws upon their statute books. The reason for good roads is obvious to the automobilist, and he is convincing the people of the land that good highways over the country are commercially and industrially advantageous.

Some say the roads of Illinois are the worst in the United States, but aside from the mountainous sections of the country, Ohio and Iowa lead that state in bad and impassable highways. Massachusetts has the best roads in the world, according to American enthusiasts, and of the middle west states, Indiana has thousands of miles of the finest kind of roads. The good roads in Indiana have been the cause of that state's growing prominence in agricultural and commercial life.

Statistics declare that Iowa, one of the leading agricultural communities of the country, would increase its importance 45 per cent with the development of its country roads to the perfection gained by Massachusetts.

S.S.S. NATURE'S CURE FOR BLOOD POISON

S. S. S. is known as Nature's Cure for Contagious Blood Poison because it is prepared entirely from the blood purifying and healing extracts of roots, herbs and barks taken directly from the natural forests of the land. It does not contain the least particle of strong mineral ingredients, and is so prepared as to aid in the upbuilding of every portion of the system, while driving Contagious Blood Poison from the blood. No unpleasant effects ever follow the use of S. S. S., such as stomach troubles, dyspepsia, mercurial rheumatism, etc., as is so often the case where other medicines are used. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble and gently but surely drives out every trace of the disease, cleanses and purifies the circulation, and by its fine vegetable tonic effects, assists the system to rapidly overcome the ravages of the disease, and regain its natural healthful condition. S. S. S. does not cover up or hide the symptoms for awhile, to break out later, but so thoroughly does it remove the cause that no signs of the trouble ever return. S. S. S., Nature's cure, is the surest and safest remedy for Contagious Blood Poison. Home Treatment Book with valuable suggestions and information, and any medical advice, sent to all who write.

HER RETURN MAY COMPLICATE THINGS

Miss Lonsdale Comes Back From London and May Cause Elkins Family Trouble.

New York, Nov. 25.—It is believed that the unexpected return to America of Louise Lonsdale, the actress who began a breach of promise suit against Blaine Elkins and made a mysterious departure for Europe two days later, will serve further to complicate the Abruzzi-Elkins matrimonial matter. Just what effect Miss Lonsdale's sudden reappearance in this country will have upon the fortunes of the house of Elkins in relation to the house of the Abruzzi depends upon what the fair Nemesis of Katherine Elkins' brother will do in regard to her dispute with young Elkins.

Miss Lonsdale, it is generally understood, was induced to go away to Europe and forego the breach of promise suit for a momentary consideration from the Elkins family. It was the general belief that the cash inducement settled upon the actress was a considerable sum, but now it appears that she received only $2500 down from Elkins. In addition to this, however, all her debts were paid, the expenses of a six months' trip to Europe were advanced and the compromise carried an agreement that Elkins would pay the young woman $225 a month during her sojourn on the other side.

Those who make a point in being informed in such matters say that the arrangement for being rid of the actress and her suit, with its inevitable publicity, for half a year made by the Elkins family, confident hope that that period Miss surely and safely wedded to the Duke d'Abruzzi, so that subsequent proceedings, should there be any, would not embarrass either the American senator's family or the Italian dynasty.

Now that Miss Lonsdale has reappeared, gossip is busy as to what she is going to do and what further aggravation her actions may inject into the Abruzzi-Elkins affair.

Miss Lonsdale herself deepens the mystery of her return before the end of the stipulated six months by refusing to be seen. She will not permit even her lawyers to talk with her. She left the steamer hurriedly and went to the Hotel St. Francis in West Forty-seventh street, where she keeps in close seclusion. She is accompanied by her traveling companion, Miss Margaret Carroll of Brooklyn, who likewise maintains the silence of a clam.

Alfred Epstein, one of her lawyers, turns a slight glim upon the mystery by stating that he is informed that in a month's remittance from the Elkins family has not been paid and that Miss Lonsdale has returned to this country to get the money. Others poohpooh this theory, holding that it would be foolish for the actress to come across the ocean for such an insignificant sum. These persons are of the opinion that Miss Lonsdale wants not only the $225 already due and unpaid, but also something additional to the amounts named in the original agreement.

It is said that Miss Lonsdale fully appreciates the peculiar position which she occupies in relation to the Elkins family, now that the marriage of Miss Elkins to a duke may depend upon the hushing up of the Blaine Elkins affair with herself.

Miss Lonsdale, it is said, will go to Philadelphia shortly to visit her sister. It is reported that while there she will see Stephen B. Elkins, Jr., through whom the settlement of the affair with his brother was made, and that she will make a demand for at least the alleged deferred payment.

HONOR THE MEMORY OF PHIL SHERIDAN AT WASHINGTON

a disadvantage to his reputation, for it has tended to overshadow his solid deeds. We tend to think of him only as the dashing cavalry leader, warrior as he was, a really not only that, but also a great commander. Of course, the fact in his career most readily recognized was his mastery in the military art of handling masses of modern cavalry so as to give them the fullest possible effect, not only in the ordinary operations of cavalry which precede and follow a battle, but in the battle itself. But in addition he showed in the Civil war that he was a first class army commander, both as a subordinate of Grant and when in independent command. His record in the valley campaign, and again from Five Forks to Appomattox, is one difficult to parallel in military history. After the close of the great war, in a field where there was no glory to be won by the general in chief, he rendered a signal service which has gone almost unnoticed; for in the tedious years of Indian wars on the great plains it was he who developed in thoroughgoing fashion the system of campaigning in winter, when at the cost of bitter hardship and peril, finally broke down the banded strength of those formidable warriors, the horse Indians.

His career was typically American, for from plain beginnings he rose to the highest military position in our land. We honor his memory in self, and moreover, as in the case of the other great commanders of his day, his career symbolizes the careers of all those men who in the years of the nation's direst need sprang to the front to risk everything, including life itself, and to spend the days of their steepest young manhood in valorous conflict for an ideal. Often we Americans are taunted with having only a material ideal. The empty folly of the taunt is sufficiently shown by the presence here today of you men of the grand army, you the comrades of the dead general, the men who served with and under him. In all history we have no greater instance of subordination of self, of the exalting of a lofty ideal over mere material well-being among the people of a great nation, than was shown by our own people in the Civil war.

And you, the men who wore the blue, would be the first to say that this same lofty indifference to the things of the body, when compared to the things of the soul, was shown by your brothers who wore the gray.
Dreadful was the suffering, dreadful the loss of the Civil war. Yet it stands alone among wars in this, that now that the wounds are healed, the memory of the mighty deeds of valor performed on one side no less than on the other has become the common heritage of all our people in every quarter of this country. The completeness with which this is true is shown by what is occurring here today. We meet together to raise a monument to a great union general.
In the presence of many of the survivors of the union army; and the secretary of war, the man at the head of the army, who, by virtue of his office, occupies a special relation to the celebration, is himself a man who fought in the Confederate service.
Few indeed have been the countries where such a conjunction would have been possible, and these indeed are we that in our own beloved land it is not only possible, but seems so entirely natural as to excite no comment whatever.

There is another point in General Sheridan's career which it is good for all of us to remember. Whereas Grant, Sherman and Taomas were of the old native American stock, the parents of Sheridan, like the parents of Farragut, were born on the other side of the water. Any one of the five was just as much a type of the real American, of what is best in America, as the other four. We should keep steadily before our minds the fact that Americanism is a question of principle, of purpose, of idealism, of character; that it is not a matter of birthplace, or creed, or line of descent. Here in this country the representatives of many old-world races are being fused together into a new type, a type the main features of which are already determined, and were determined at the time of the Revolutionary war; for the crucible in which all the new types are melted into one was shaped from 1776 to 1789, and our nationality was definitely fixed in all its essentials by the men of Washington's day. The strains will not continue to exist separately in this country as in the old world. They will be combined in one; and of this new type those men will best represent what is loftiest in the nation's past, what is finest in her hope for the future, who stand each solely on his worth as a man, who scorn to do evil to other, and who refuse to submit to wrongdoing themselves who have in them no taint of weakness; who never fear to fight when fighting is demanded by a sound and high morality, but who hope by their lives to bring ever nearer the day when justice and peace shall prevail within our own borders and in our relations with all foreign powers.

Much of the usefulness of any career must lie in the impress that it makes upon, and the lessons that it teaches to, the generations that come after. We of this generation have our own problems to solve, and the condition of our solving them is that we shall all work together as American citizens without regard to differences of section or creed or birthplace, copying, not the divisions which so lamentably sundered our fathers from one another, but the spirit of burning devotion to duty which drove them forward, each to do the right as it was given him to see the right, in the great years when Grant, Farragut, Sherman, Thomas and Sheridan, when Lee and Jackson, and the Johnstons, the valiant men of the north and the valiant men of the south, fought to a finish the great Civil war. They did not themselves realize, in the bitterness of the struggle, that the blood and the grim suffering marked the death throes of what was born out, and the birth pangs of a new and more glorious national life. Mighty is the heritage which we have received from the men of the mighty days. We, in our turn, must gird up our loins to meet the new issues with the same stern courage and resolute adherence to an ideal, which marked our fathers who belonged to the generation of the man in whose honor we commemorate this monument today.

THANKSGIVING MATINEE AT COLUMBO THEATER

There will be a matinee performance at the Colombo tomorrow afternoon, starting at 4 o'clock. Some specially good feature films will be given among them: "A Mysterious Knight," "A Voice From the Dead," and "House Cleaning Days." "A Mysterious Knight" is a beautifully colored film and is described as follows:
The Mysterious Knight first appears in a burst of flame and immediately begins to make things interesting for the amazed spectators. He dances around and cuts some funny capers and then with a swing of his sword calls up a group of beautiful Amazonas, who go through a drill and then disappear. Next two young girls dressed as pages, spring out from under his robe, and when he has introduced them he goes up himself, in a cloud of smoke. These little pages perform some wonderful tricks, such as bringing to life the figures on a coat-of-arms, and we look on with interest at the miniature soldiers engaged in duels. One of the pages then places a sword in the middle of the stage, on the hilt of which a tiny warrior perches himself and entertains us. Finally the Knight appears again, and there is a grand ensemble of all the different characters which have taken part in the performance, making a very beautiful tableau. All this with a swing of his sword the Mysterious Knight causes the entire group to disappear and then he himself vanishes in a cloud of smoke.

RELATIVE URGED BOY'S BANISHMENT

Grandfather Asked Court to Send a Youth Out of the State.

Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—With his grandfather urging the court to send him to the penitentiary for a term and then banish him from the state, and his mother pleading for leniency and a sentence on probation, Ray Watson, the Hollywood youth who pleaded guilty to a string of burglaries, was sentenced to five years in Folsom and fifteen years' probation by Judge Wilbur in the superior court. Mrs. Carrie Lee, mother of the boy, pleaded with the court to let the boy off, saying, "He was all right when he was with me."
"I think he ought to be sent to the penitentiary and then banished from the state," said the boy's gay-haired grandfather.
"That might not do him any good,"
replied the court.
"But it would get him out of the way of us here," responded the grandfather. The boy was shown to be entirely incorrigible and of criminal tendencies.

CENSOR OF MORALS IN GLASGOW SCHOOL

It Will Be Her Duty to Stop Flirtations and See That Boys and Girls Study.

Glasgow, Scotland, Nov. 24.—Coeducation has been passing through sharp criticism here during the last few weeks. In this period the senate of the University of Glasgow several times has forcibly expressed the opinion that coeducation is not working well so far as the relationship of young men and young women students is concerned. This relationship it is asserted, gradually has become merely one of "boy and girl flirtation," and the boasted advantages of coeducation in the way of achievement of a higher grade of common sense and seriousness have not yet appeared.

In order effectually to put a stop to the unwelcome conditions one of the woman lecturers has been appointed as a "censor of morals," and it is expected that she will at least bring to an end the "disgraceful whispering in corridors," which seems to be, according to the students themselves, the extent to which any of the flirting ever went. The censor herself has been completely boycotted by the students.

The sedan chairs, which were in general use in the seventeenth century, are still used in Dresden by noblewomen, who are carried to the opera in them.

First Bird—What's the matter, Bill? Half your feathers are missing.

Second Bird—I tried to cross the zone when someone was sending wireless messages.

THE OPEN SEASON FOR STRAW HATS

Police Only Get Sight of One so Far, and the Owner of It Leaves Town.

There was great excitement around the Alvarado hotel and in police circles last night when a man wearing a straw hat sauntered into the lobby of the hotel and calmly took up a position in front of the big fireplace.
With the exception of the hat he was dressed fittingly for the season, even to an overcoat. But a dinky little straw hat with a two inch brim and a violent band decorated his head and it caused great excitement.

"What is it?" inquired a traveling man of the clerk.

The clerk hadn't noticed "it" but a hazy glance was enough. He gasped, but caught the edge of the disk in time to save himself. Then he turned in a riot call and every policeman in town, but one, responded. Meanwhile the man with the straw hat sauntered calmly out, trailed by a bellboy who was under instructions to shadow the wearer of the hat.

When the police arrived the hat was nowhere in sight and the bellboy being still on the scolding job, hadn't returned with information.
Later he came back and said the hat and its owner had taken a southbound train.

The police force regrets exceedingly that the hat got away, but under orders from Chief McMillin, guns have been cleaned and oiled and any straw hat that appears before spring opens up again will surely suffer.

BOYS AND GIRLS FIGURE THIS OUT

The average educated man gets a salary of $1,000 a year. He works forty years, making a total of $40,- 000 in a life time. The average day laborer gets $1.50 a day, 300 days a year, or $450 a year. In forty years he earns $18,000. The difference $22,000 equals the financial value of an education.

To acquire this earning capacity requires about five months time or 150 days; divide this into 22,000, the value of an education, and we find that each day in school is worth $146.66 to the pupil, without considering the satisfaction and pleasure of living a much more successful life.

Young friend, take the editor's advice, take a course of bookkeeping, business training, shorthand and type writing, at the Tyler Commercial college of Tyler, Texas. You can complete the combined course in five months' time, or you can take their course of telegraphy and railroad work, and at completion be placed promptly in a good paying position.

PAPKE - KETCHEL FIGHT DRAWS BIG CROWD

Many Sports Will See the Mill
Tomorrow at San Francisco Arena.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 25.—On the morrow Bill Papke of Kewanee, Ill., and Stanley Ketchel of Grand Rapids, Mich., will indulge in a bit of milt-slinging in Coffroth's famed wallop-emporium here. In anticipation of the event, local fight fans are all smoked up in the prospect of seeing the cream of the year's Queensbury cards, while sports in near-by towns, all properly enthused, are packing the old carpet bags so as not to miss the big scrap, by gum!

The Papke-Ketchel fight has a little history of its own. Jack Gleason, a local promoter, apparently had the match all saddled and buckled for the Coliseum tonight and all was going along quite merrily for Gleason until Willy Willis Britt, manager of Battling Nelson and Napoleon of pugilistic intrigue, arrived from the east and saw the opportunity of tearing the match away. While the sporting world was slumbering, Willis was on the job every minute of the time and one day came to Promoter Coffroth, after having been assured that the fighters would throw the hooks to Gleason, and offered the proprietor of the Mission arena the Queensbury classic on a silver platter.

Coffroth is essentially a business man. He grabs anything that looks good to him and it took him but a minute to decide that Britt's pugilistic ploy was all to the good as far as he was concerned and before Jack Gleason just knew what was going on, the managers of Papke and Ketchel, had scratched their names to a set of articles calling for the championship fight in Coffroth's stadium.

As to the fighters they are thoroughly fit. For the past three weeks they have been working like Trojans at their training camps, Papke with a view of repeating his former decisive victory and Ketchel with a deeply imbedded desire for vengeance. This morning Papke weighed 157 1/2 pounds while Ketchel went him one pound better. The boys are to make 153 at 11:30 tomorrow and both will be at the "required notch to a certainty."

In the betting on the mill, Papke has steadily remained 7 to 10 favorite, while some bets at even money have been recorded that Ketchel does not last 20 rounds.

Jack Welsh is to referee the bout, which is expected to be the fastest 20-round fight seen between middleweights since the days of Jack Dempsey.

Attell and Welsh.
Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—This evening two of the fastest little fighters in the world, Abe Attell and Freddie Welsh, will fight 15 rounds in Jim Jeffries' Vernon arena on the outskirts of this city.

Attell is the featherweight champion of the world and a man renowned for cleverness and ring generalship. Welsh is the English boy who electrified the fight world by going 25 fast and vicious rounds to a draw decision with Paaky McFarland. The championship is going out of his class to fight Welsh as the latter is only forced by the articles of agreement to make 130 pounds at 2 o'clock the day of the contest. Jim Jeffries has to give Abe a bonus of 15 per cent in addition to a split of the gate receipts.

Attell's opponent claims that he will show the fight fans of the world that he is a master of ring science and that when he is through with Abe the latter will not be rated as high as he was in the past.

HIS KINDLY ACT SAVED HIM A TRIAL

Though Accused of Murder
a Civil War Veteran Will not be Prosecuted.

Macon, Mo., Nov. 25.—The kindly act of a soldier on a southern battlefield has probably saved him from prosecution. In July 1907, H. N. Graves, sheriff of Macon county, located Frank Drinkard, as he was informed, wanted here for a murder committed thirty years ago, and for which he had been convicted and sentenced to nine-tyne years in the penitentiary.

Sheriff Graves went to Hobart, Ok., and there arrested W. F. Davidson, asserting that he was Frank Drinkard, who was wanted here for murder. At that time Sheriff Graves was unable to secure requisition papers in time, and he was forced to release his man.

Davidson threatened to proceed against the Macon county officer for arresting him, but he didn't prosecute the case. Sheriff Graves offered to pay Davidson's railroad fare and all expenses to Macon and back in case he proved he was not the man wanted. The sheriff says that Davidson declined this offer.

Sheriff Graves returned home, saying he was certain he had the right man, and insisting on papers to protect him the next time he went out. Suddenly the matter was dropped, and the people came to the conclusion that the sheriff was mistaken. Today Mr. Graves told of an interview he had with the brother of a southern soldier soon after he returned from his fruitless trip to Oklahoma.

"This man," said Sheriff Graves, "was an old friend of mine, a gentleman of the highest respectability, and a former officer of Macon county. He said to me: 'Graves, I wish you would let Drinkard alone. There are lots of people here who do not believe that he killed Nichols deliberately. But the main reason is I know my brother was left behind the army with a bullet hole in his breast—left to die. The weather was terribly hot, and he needed attention. Drinkard stood over him day and night, giving him water and fanning the flies away. It was his kindly attention that brought my brother back to life. He would have died for that. A bad man wouldn't have acted as Drinkard did toward his comrade. Now you understand why I never wanted to see Drinkard arrested when I was in office, and why I hope you won't be hard on him now.'"

At the time when the matter was up the county was considerably excited over the reported arrest of Drinkard. Old men who knew all about the trial discussed it, and some of the debates were very acrimonious. Lawyers associated with the prosecution said a murder was a murder, and that no matter how long a time had elapsed it was the sheriff's duty to go after the fugitive. Those connected with the defense insisted that the dead man had brought on the difficulty and that he was going on toward Drinkard in a threatening attitude when Drinkard shot him. After Drinkard was sentenced he was put in jail. He escaped and has never been back.

Drinkard was living on a rented farm near Callas in August, 1879. Nichols, a man who had come from no one knew where, was a cropper on this land. The two quarrelled. Drinkard stepped on Drinkard's land and Nichols was shot by Drinkard.

There are people living in Macon county who claim to have known Drinkard's whereabouts at the time. It is likely that no further attempts will be made to arrest him by the present county administration.

Recent hospital reports show that the dread disease, rheumatism, is steadily increasing throughout the country. All known means of relief are being suggested to save the great amount of suffering this winter, especially among those who are not in a position to pack up and visit the noted health resorts to be treated. Recent tests prove rheumatism not exactly a disease in itself, but a severe symptom of kidney trouble, a condition caused by clogged up pores of the eliminative tissues in the kidneys which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, permitting these substances to remain in the veins and decompose, usually settling about the joints and muscles, causing the intense pain, swelling and stiffness of rheumatism.

The following simple home treatment will cure rheumatism and is harmless and inexpensive, and no simple that anybody can mix it at home.

The ingredients are: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon, one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Go to any good prescription pharmacy and get these three harmless ingredients and mix them by shaking in a bottle, taking as a dose a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is nothing better in the world for backache, kidney and bladder trouble, too. Such symptoms as frequent and painful urination, soreness, weakness, general and nervous debility are caused by certain acids and poisonous waste matter, decayed tissue, etc., in the blood, which the kidneys will clear and purify after a few doses of this prescription.

CATTLE MARKET REGAINED LOSS

There is a Fairly Good Run This Week and Prices Keep Up Well.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Nov. 25.—After the decline first of last week, the market turned upward, and closed with nearly all of the recent loss regained. A very large percentage of the supply last week was range cattle, and quality of receipts from the Panhandle and New Mexico was much mixed, characteristic of clean-up shipments. Colorados were generally good quality. Run today is 15,000 head, fairly good for Thanksgiving week, market strong to 15c higher on all classes today. Colorado beef steers reached $5.30 today, close to the top notch for the season, bulk of Colorado beef steers at $4.40 to $5.00, cows $3.90 to $4.25, feeders $4.00 to $4.85, stockers $3.50 to $4.40, Panhandle and New Mexico cows are mostly on the canner order, at $2.30 to $2.90, a few good cows up to $3.60, bulls $2.40 to $3.25, calves $3.25 to $5.50, beef steers $3.80 to $4.50, stockers and feeders $3.25 to $4.40, with common stuff at $3.00 or less. Demand from all sources is very satisfactory, country buyers taking out big carloads last week, the biggest week this year, and outside buyers forcing packers into sharp competition for all desirable killing cattle. Colder weather will still further sharpen the demand, and the outlook is promising from the sellers' standpoint.

Sheep and lamb receipts were 23,000 head last week, and so far this month supplies are smaller than a year ago at this time. The market was strong last week, although lambs closed slightly lower for the week. Run is heavier today, top lambs around $6.00, some medium Colorados at $5.75 today, yearlings worth $4.50 to $5.20, wethers $4.25 to $4.60, ewes $3.90 to $4.25. Country demand is sufficient to take the offerings at firm prices; lambs $4.90 to $5.40, wethers and yearlings $4.80 to $4.60, ewes $2.50 to $3.25, breeding ewes p to $4.25. Receipts are likely to be moderate balance of this year.

How to Cure a Cold.
Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of grip having resulted in pneumonia, when the remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

RICHARD JOSE SINGS OLD FASHIONED SONGS

He Heads a Strong Company Which Comes to Albuquerque Monday.

On next Monday the people of Albuquerque will have the opportunity of witnessing something in the musical line far superior to the usual offering when Richard Jose with his company come to the Elks' theater for an engagement of one night. The past season for Mr. Jose has been one of the most successful in the history of the theater, the company appearing to crowded houses everywhere, from who come nothing but words of praise.

As for Richard Jose himself, he needs no introduction to the general public, as the older generation have heard him at some time in vaudeville, with high class minstrels or with Denman Thompson's "Old Homestead" with whom he traveled for 8 years, while those who have not had this opportunity have listened to the old ballads which he has made famous through the talking machines. Any one who has a Victor machine does not consider their list of records complete without Jose's "Eight Threads Among the Clouds," "Hello Brandon," "When You and I Were Young Maggie," etc.

Jose sings his simple melodious ballads of by gone days in his own inimitable voice and style, and they seem to touch the popular strain as they say good bye to the new singers, and call in chorus for the old until he is forced by the tumult of the audience to sing "Hello Brandon" and then "Dolly Gray" at which the whole audience seems to lifted to its feet and marching in spirit down the village street to the martial melody.

Jose sings as no other has or will. Criticism or comparison are of no importance. There are other singers, different, even perhaps greater, judged by musical standards, but none in this day and generation who can render the ballads of the heart as does Jose.

No higher testimony of this proof can be given than the fact that audiences of cultivation and refinement fill the theaters night after night to hear this wonderful voice of Jose.
