FIFTY-SEVEN FOREST SERVICE PEOPLE COMING HERE

Announcement Made of the Personnel of Forces Which Will Come to the West

OFFICE WILL OPEN BY DECEMBER FIRST

A Total of 377 Foresters, Clerks and Stenographers Will Leave Washington this Week for new Offices in the West

Washington, Nov. 26.—The names of the 377 foresters, clerks, and stenographers who are to make up the personnel of the United States forest service headquarters of the six districts into which the national forests have been divided, have just been announced. The district foresters' offices, located in Denver, Colo., Ogden, Utah, Missoula, Mont., Albuquerque, N. M., San Francisco, Cal., and Portland, Ore., will open on December 1.

The new field organization of the forest service will greatly facilitate the use of the national forests by the people. It will mean that the national forest business which formerly was transacted in Washington will be handled by officers on or near the ground. The establishment of the district headquarters is the culmination of a plan towards which the forest service has been working steadily since it took charge of the national forests.

Each national forest district will be in charge of a district forester. The work at district headquarters will be distributed among four offices, operation, grazing, silviculture and products, each equipped with men of special training for the work of their office.

The office of operation will be charged with responsibility for the protection of national forests, for the building of roads, trails and other permanent improvements upon them, for the organization of the force on national forests, and with the supervision of all business relating to the special use of national forest resources. The office of silviculture will have supervision of the free use and sale of timber from national forests, forest planting upon them, and will conduct forest studies on national forests as well as in co-operation with private owners in the district, except for the actual fixing of allowances, periods and rates, and will make studies looking to the improvement of the forest crop on national forests. The office of products will make both independently and in co-operation with private owners, studies looking to a more profitable use of timber on and off national forests within the district and to their preservative treatment.

From the district foresters down, the personnel of the district offices is made up of men picked for their proved capacity, for their thorough training, and for their experience in the west. Most of them are men who not only have worked in the forest after they entered in the service, but who lived in the west before they took up the government forest work. Many of them are men who formerly were employed on the national forests and have been promoted to larger responsibilities as a result of their high efficiency. The personnel of the district offices, which has just been announced, is as follows:

CARLSBAD MAN WINS THE PRIZE

He Is Awarded Sullivan Trophy for Article on Irrigation.

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 26.—The judges in the contest organized by Territorial Engineer Sullivan have given their decision, and awarded the silver cup offered by Mr. Sullivan for the best article dealing with irrigation to Francis G. Tracy of Carlsbad. Mr. Tracy won the cup over a large number of contestants, and all the articles written for the contest were so good that the judges had a hard time to decide the prize winner. The contest aroused a great deal of interest and many papers were submitted by farmers and others interested in the subject.

GETS BLACK BASS FOR THE CLUB LAKE

Government Car Arrives Today With Consignment for Albuquerque.

"Attorney Frank Ackerman, Secretary Rio Grande Gun Club, Albuquerque, N. M.
"Meet train No. 1 of Nov. 26, with two ten-gallon receptacles for fish. (Signed) "CAMPEFF, EL D."
"In Charge of Government Fish Car."
The above telegram sent out from St. Joe, Mo., was received this morning by Secretary Frank Ackerman of the Rio Grande Gun Club, and means the coming of a consignment of black bass for the club's preserve. Mr. Ackerman said that he and a number of the club members would meet the train and get the fish and if necessary, carry them to the lake tonight. Whether the fish will be deposited tonight or not until tomorrow will depend upon what Mr. Campbell says. If he says that the fish should be put in the lake tonight they will be put there. Mr. Ackerman was unable to say how many fish twenty gallons would be. It depends to a large extent on the size of the fish. However, the club will be glad to get whatever number it shall receive.

After the thieves had gone Mrs. Ouse remained unconscious an hour and a half and was not released until her son returned from school. She is seriously ill.

SAY PRIZE FIGHT WAS ONLY A FROST

Albuquerque Pug Met Las Vegas Man at Madrid Last Saturday.

It has leaked out that the fight at Madrid last Saturday night between Wallace, the heavyweight of Las Vegas, and Will Pettus of this city, both colored, was a frost. It is said to have ended in the second round on a foul by Pettus, and that the miners who put up the money for the go were much dissatisfied. Pettus weighs about 165 pounds and Wallace is a few pounds lighter. Las Vegas sports declare that Wallace is the best man in the territory. Pettus has always been a favorite among Albuquerque sports. He is known to be honest and it is not believed here that he would enter into any kind of a game to take money away from the public on a fake fight. Wallace, a few will remember, was in Albuquerque a few days in the summer with the old man with the goats. A Las Vegas man said this morning that he had proved a very cool and gentlemanly mannered fellow. This Meadow City merchant said he did not believe that Wallace would throw a fight, that if he got a decision over Pettus, he won it fairly.

AUTO ASSOCIATION WENT OUT TO JONES

Meeting of the Speedsters Held This Morning East of Town.

Streaks of red and white and clouds of dust on the mesa road was about all that could be seen of the machines of the members of the New Mexico Automobile association as they steamed for Jones' place this forenoon for the Thanksgiving meet. The start was made from the corner of Gold avenue and South Second street about 9:55 o'clock, a half hour late, but no time was lost after they once got under way. The fifty-horse power touring car of President Flournoy led off and twenty cars of various sizes and descriptions, flying the pennant of the association, followed in the wake, each one loaded to capacity. Tom and Jerry awaited them at Jones' place.

COAST CITY IS FREE FROM PLAGUE

Campaign Against Rats Is Having Its Effect, Says Doctor.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Dr. Walter Wyman, surgeon general of public health and of the marine hospital service, in a report to the secretary of the navy concerning human plague and plague-infected rats in San Francisco and other coast towns, shows that since October 31 last there has been no case of plague discovered. The disease has been definitely traced to rats and many rats have been exterminated. During this year twenty-one plague infected rats have been captured, but since September none have been found. The officers most active in the work of suppressing the plague are encouraged to believe that with continued vigilance its complete eradication is probable.

DE PALMA LEADS IN AUTO RACE

Event at Savannah Slightly Marred by Fog But Fast Time Is Made.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 26.—The grand prize automobile race started at 9:45 this morning in a dense fog. The race was postponed from 9 o'clock, the hour originally set, but as the fog did not show any signs of lifting, it was decided after 45 minutes of waiting, to make the start. Twenty cars were sent away at one minute intervals.

The fastest time in the first lap was made by De Palma in the Fiat car, Italian. De Palma held the lead through the second lap, which was made in 21:26, at the rate of 70 miles an hour.

The race is being held under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America. The first prize is a gold cup and $4,000. Of the contestants, six are Americans, five French, six Italian, three Germans. The distance is 403 miles over a course twenty-five miles and a fraction in length.

GREAT PROSPERITY ERA TROUGHTOUT THE COUNTRY

Business men Predict big Increase in Business During the Next Year

ENTIRE COUNTRY CELEBRATES TODAY

This Thanksgiving Day Is one of the Old Time Kind With a Prosperous Year Ahead and Business Growing Every Day.

New York, Nov. 26.—With business conditions throughout the country practically normal after the flurry of last fall, the national election out of the way and a judicious administration assured for the next four years the country is today celebrating Thanksgiving Day in the old-time way and with the assurance that the prosperity of the country has not and will not be materially interfered with.

Reports from every section of the country following the national election indicate a greater era of prosperity during the coming year. Many factories that were idle during the period of uncertainty have reopened, orders have been placed for material and supplies and the business of the country is going forward with a surge from where it was temporarily stopped last fall.

The sentiment that exists throughout the country finds expression in statements from capitalists, manufacturers and business men in this city, and other trade centers of the east. They predict a big increase in the business of the country and a greater era of prosperity, basing their predictions on the country's efforts in the past. Statements from some of these men follow:

Confidence is the mainspring in our business activity. The election of Taft has strengthened public confidence and given a marked impetus to business that is far reaching in its results. I believe that the next four years will be an epoch period in our commercial and industrial progress.

V. H. METCALF,
Former Secretary of the Navy,
Washington, D. C.

The election has re-established confidence and released hoarded capital for enterprises and development. This means a restoration of normal conditions in old industries and the starting of new ones with increasing demand for labor. All business is affected by the tariff, and uncertainty as to changes in schedules caused paralysis until conditions are settled. But with the certainty of no radical change for four years merchants feel safe in buying and carrying large stocks of goods, and manufacturers, responding to the demand, are starting on full time and re-employment and stimulating production of raw materials. Rigid economies on the railroads have enormously increased their necessities and their managers believing business conditions assure increasing traffic, are giving orders for supplies which mean large production in every department of railway requirements. This upward trend of demand and supply is the healthy outcome of a prosperity checked by uncertainty, but now sure, safe and lasting.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW,
U. S. Senator and Capitalist,
New York City.

It is my belief that the country has entered upon an era of great prosperity. The election of Taft has established confidence in the future. Economic conditions throughout the country are such that the improvement should be rapid. There is an abundant supply of money and the banking position is sound.

FRANK A. VANDERLIP,
Noted Financier; Managing Vice President National City Bank,
New York City.

I believe the next four years will bring the greatest prosperity to this country we have ever had. We are starting out at relatively low prices and with plenty of money in all the banks at reasonable rates. I believe that Taft will make an ideal president on account of temperament and training. I can see nothing but great prosperity ahead of us the next four years.

J. OGDEN ARMOUR,
President Armour Packing Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

I am a believer now, as ever that we are the greatest nation and the best people on the face of the earth, and that we are yet in our infancy in every way. What we need more than any other one thing to make us

UNKNOWN VESSEL WAS SUNK IN COLLISION OFF SANDY HOOK

Linnet Georgic ran Down a Boat Believed to be the Steamer Finance

SAY PASSENGERS WERE RESCUED

The two Vessels Collided in a Heavy Fog and one Went Down, but Probably Without Loss of Life.

New York, Nov. 26.—An unknown steamer, believed at first to have been owned by the Panama Railroad and Steamship company, and later thought to be the steamer Finance, was run down and sunk in collision with the White Star steamer Georgia in the main ship channel off the end of Sandy Hook this morning. The Georgia was only slightly damaged.

The collision took place in a thick fog in which it was impossible to see any distance ahead. It is believed that the crew and passengers of the sunken steamer all escaped as the crew was seen leaving the vessel in a yawl shortly after the accident. If the boat is the Finance, which is now thought probable, she carried 100 passengers and sailed for Colon last Monday but was probably detained by the fog. Soon after the collision the Georgia anchored near the sunken vessel and it is believed that the crew and passengers were taken on board the liner. The Sandy Hook life-saving crew and a tug were seen near the sunken boat.

The fog is so thick that the wreck is just barely visible from Sandy Hook. The Finance's passengers appear to be on the deck of the Georgia. The Finance lies on the north side of the channel, with nothing showing above the water except the bridge pipes and masts. The hull is entirely submerged. Boats are still going back and forth. It is believed the collision took place as the Finance was attempting to leave the lower bay and the Georgia was coming in from Liverpool.

BOGUS NOBLEMAN FOOLED THE TEXANS

He Had a Scheme For Buying Up All the Western Part of the State.

Abilene, Tex., Nov. 26.—Visions of a stream of gold pouring into this part of Texas from British coffers, a dream of an empire directed by one man, where Utopian social experience would be carried out, and 400,000 acres set aside for the culture and packing industries, faded with the sudden departure of "Sir Thomas Lipton, Baronet of Aberdeen, England." His exit and subsequent investigations indicate that a bold impersonator laid wires for a big swindle.

The plan in brief was to buy up all the western part of Texas and colonize it with English men. The deal involved three million dollars. "Sir Thomas" gave it out that he was backed in his plan by C. W. Post, the millionaire pure food manufacturer of Battle Creek, Mich. The entrance of "Sir Thomas" suave and with a rich Irish brogue, and his departure fooled the capitalists of several counties. Incidentally a private car, chartered by "Sir Thomas" is on a Texas & Pacific siding here with stocks with champagne and other stacks on ice, awaiting a titled occupant.

Saturday morning a tall stranger, whose mustache fairly bristled with business, left his private car and registered at the Windsor hotel. "Sir Thomas" got along splendidly with every one he met. Today there are a hundred bankers and business men in Abilene, Post City and other nearby towns wondering how upon the polly will find "Sir Thomas."

When citizens, interested in the word that they were entertaining a nobleman unaware, clamoring for an introduction to him, "Sir Thomas" sent down word that he was not receiving visitors, but that he would see them later and interest them in his plan. Later he conferred with many business men singly. All refuse to tell their experiences with him. The general impression, backed by sundry circumstances, is that they were lured by the bogus nobleman.

VETERAN CIRCUS MAN DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

New York, Nov. 26.—Frank Melville, one of the best known circus men in the United States, and for a number of years equestrian director of the Hippodrome, died of heart failure in the general offices of the Hippodrome, aged 57 years, forty-four of which he proudly boasted he had passed in the saddle.

The Back and Front

Some one with considerable wit and a quaint philosophy once remarked that a certain fine house was Queen Anne in front and Mary Ann behind. That assertion aptly fits more than one character. There are some people who are morally constructed along the lines of many a modern residence and who keep all the architectural beauties for the front. Probably one of the greatest evils of the present day is the pretense which some people keep up out of foolish pride. Press dispatches of recent date give statistics indicating that hundreds and hundreds of families not financially able to own and operate automobiles are mortgaging their homes in order to present the same front as their neighbors.

It is the same way in lesser fashion as regards clothing, amusements, social affairs and the like. There is so much pretense nowadays that one is forced to rely on the ratings of commercial agencies for the financial standing of one's friends and as to their moral and social standing it is a case of guess work.

The man who occupies the most prominent place in a church may be the man who is to be trusted the least. The man who drives the auto may compromise his personality in a pessimistic way to look at it and it must be admitted that the greater part of the people can not be so classed. But there is enough of pretense in the world today to make the man who envies his neighbor certain seeming luxuries, to first take the precaution to look at the back of the house.

A fresh coat of paint on the front does not make the inside look any brighter, and too many people think they present the proper appearance by gilding the outside, unmindful of the fact that the best there is in life does not find its being in what it is world thinks. This is a little Thanksgiving Day sermon. It is not along the usual lines but the logic of it lies in the fact that you never find true thankfulness where you do not find simple contentment. Both are among the rarest and the choicest blessings of today.

Her Privilege

That a wife has the privilege of going through her husband's pockets is the decision of a police judge in Washington, D. C.

"It shows the interest your wife has in you," said the judge to the complaining husband. "It shows that she loves you. A woman who does not go through the pockets of her husband does not love him."

Whether this is good law or not, it is good philosophy. If a wife is not to be permitted to pry into her husband's secret letters and his pocketbook, she is deprived of nine-tenths of the joys of living.

Every wife fondly imagines that her husband is loved by at least one other woman.

To find proof in his pocket confirms this suspicion and so gives her, not pain, but exquisite triumph.

If careful and persistent searching fails to reveal proof against him, then she is happy in his fidelity.

Whether she finds incriminating evidence or does not, she has the satisfaction in going through his pockets, of exercising a generally disputed right—and that, to a woman, is in itself next thing to perfect bliss.

And then the keen joy of secretly extracting change, or even bills, from his pockets and appearing before him with a new ribbon, or even in a new dress, and causing him to vainly inquire where she got it, and possibly to suspect that some other man is in love with her and is giving her presents—this is just a very, very little short of heaven on earth.

In spite of its manifest justice, perhaps a police judge would dare to render such a decision nowhere but in Washington, D. C., where the office is apologetic and not subject to the votes of men.

The New York Sun thus describes General Gomez, the recently elected president of Cuba: General Gomez speaks no English and has not sought American companionship. Comparatively few Americans speak Spanish, and not many have sought the acquaintance of the quiet, reserved and dignified man whom the Cubans know as "Jose Miguel." During the first intervention General James H. Wilson served for a year and a half as military governor of the provinces of Matanzas and Santa Clara. During the greater part of that service General Gomez occupied the post of civil governor of Santa Clara. In an official report General Wilson refers to him as a "vigilant and intelligent man of affairs." A Cuban writer has described him thus: "As a soldier he has fought for liberty; as a governor, his long control of the province of Santa Clara is the most fruitful and brilliant in the history of Cuban independence; as a citizen, he is a man of active patriotism and austere virtue. He has no vices. He has always lived modestly and he has no millions to leave to his sons."

Jose Miguel Gomez is a man of the people, of the people of the country rather than of the city. He left his fields to fight for the independence of Cuba and achieved distinction as a leader. When the struggle was over he devoted his time and his energy to the reconstruction of the wrecked industries of the island and to the construction of the new government. As a member of the constitutional convention and as governor of Santa Clara province, he has been one of the leading forces in the building of the republic. Measuring by his past, we predict his success in the future.

Over fifty thousand dollars' worth of property changed hands in Albuquerque last week and several other good sized deals were gotten under headway. Real estate men predict that the present winter and in fact the next eight to ten months will witness one of the busiest seasons in the history of Albuquerque real estate. There is no use in denying that real estate in Albuquerque can not be held back any longer and prices are going up steadily and surely, almost fast enough to give the situation the appearance of a small boom. One of the best investments at this time is Albuquerque real estate and those who are familiar with conditions are beginning to make some heavy investments. No one can make a mistake in buying business property at present prices in the recognized business districts of Albuquerque for the next eight or ten months will see some remarkable advances in that kind of property while there will be healthy advances in residence and ranching sections.

An imperial rescript just issued in Japan enjoins on all classes in the community the need of economy and simplicity the emperor saying that for the purpose of keeping pace with the constant progress of the world and participating in the blessings of its civilization, the development of national resources is essential. He calls on all classes to act in unison, to be faithful to their callings, frugal in their domestic management, submissive to the dictates of conscience and to the call of duty, frank and sincere in their manners and inured to arduous trial, eschewing all indulgences. Nothing slier in the way of an appeal to a people has ever been issued by a ruler.

Miss Ida Tarbell thinks that John D. hasn't done himself justice in describing the formation of the Standard Oil corporation. She should remember that John D. is only adding a few little remarks to supplement what she has already written.

The Chicago Record-Herald appears to be greatly worried over what to do with our ex-presidents. Judging from those who are with us now, the question is not a momentous one.

Some of the gentlemen who are starting senatorial booms might do better by putting their shoulders to the wheel in the interests of statehood and fight it out later.

It looks like there is going to be plenty of fun before a speaker of the house is finally elected.

The divine right of kings and emperors received rather a hard jolt in Germany recently.

THE LAST STRAW

DAILY SHORT STORIES

THE TEAR OF WONDERFUL PRICE.

By Stuart R. Stone.

When a young and pretty woman declares in stilted legal phraseology that her affections are worth just $50,000 and proposes on a day duly set to detail all the pro and con business of a love of such great treasure, it is no wonder that the great common people come out to see and hear. It is not every one that is young and pretty, and it is not every one that has the gift of loving so many thousands of dollars' worth either.

Because of these things the court room at Merryville was jammed. Merryville is a good bit from Broadway, but the pull and the lure of these things is just the same.

But the finding a jury was difficult in this case of a wounded love. Uncle Hiram Plunkett, the sixth man, had been agreed to by both sides after his admission that he was a Baptist and a Democrat and had forgotten how to read, and therefore the matter stuck.

The pretty young plaintiff tapped nervously on the scarred old table where the legal lions roared; the judge shifted his home-spun to his left cheek and turned from page 614 to 618 in the Revised Statutes; the greedy crowd buzzed yet louder in the anxious anticipation of the seasoned feast to come.

Now the plaintiff's massive-browed leading counsel turned to the seventh prospect.

"What is your name?"

"William Henry," answered the exhibit.

"Your full name, please?"

"Oh—William Henry Harrison Skeeters."

"Have you formed an opinion in this case?"

"I don't know just what you mean."

"We accept this juror, your honor," declared the leading counsel.

"He is satisfactory to us," agreed the counsel for the defendant. This is to show that here in America a jury of the unlearned and the glibless of knowledge can always be found if the effort is persistent.

Then the eighth juror studied only the Merryville Bugle and a horse-doctor book, and he was taken gladly.

The ninth couldn't spell his name and was seized on a gem. Number ten had never been out of the county, and the eleventh abhorred all manner of book learning. It would be a jury of peers, ready to do equity in chunks, you see.

But when the clerk called out the name of "Wilbur Madison" there was a little stir. Wilbur sold beans and sugar now for the Merryville Mercantile company, but in the days that were gone he had swung over a green painted gate with a charming young thing, who has yet to learn that fat bankers of 60 may love slips of girls—$50,000 worth, even. Now Mr. Madison came forward, with a head bowed down and little, round, red spots in both of his high-boned cheeks.

The pretty, young plaintiff turned, and there was a little red spot in cheeks that were fairer than Wilbur's. "Ten years ago," mused the plaintiff, and her thoughts went from the dainty money-barrel back of a vine-clad cottage and the cool of a summer afternoon, and all those little property bits that go to the making of the sentimental scenes.

But Wilbur, the Potato Seller, was hardly the Wilbur that had kissed very red lips through the green-painted gate, and the fair plaintiff wondered.

The defendant's attorney was busy, and Wilbur, abashed at the glimpse of a childhood's dream grown so glorious could hardly answer. So that the wise lawyer, finding another ignorant, nodded his acceptance.

Then the plaintiff's attorney questioned the prospective twelfth juror, and Mr. Madison, recovering himself, answered with some intelligence, so that the plaintiff's attorney rather doubted.

But the pretty young plaintiff sat and bit her lip. Sentiment might lurk beneath the grocery clerk's soiled coat, and the memory of gates that swung in the twilight; and if the mood ran thus—why, it was well. But there are the blacker moods that rankle at times in the minds of the forgotten—revenge, you know, and jealousy, and sometimes spite. And there were the $50,000.

So a full still minute went by in the crowded court room, while the pretty plaintiff on the docket gazed into the eyes of a six-dollar-a-week grocery salesman, and the fate of a juror hung in the balance.

Then a great big tear started from the blue right eye of Mr. Wilbur Madison and ran in uncertain jerks down the rough, scaly face and splashed over the rough floor covering. The pretty plaintiff saw, and she nodded her blonde head at the attorney.

"We accept the twelfth juror, Your Honor," said the lawyer.

And two more big tears ran and caught up with the first by Mr. Wilbur Madison's great feet.

BENEVOLENT SOCIETY SUPPLIED PROVISIONS

The Poor of the City Were Well Cared for Yesterday by Good People.

In a store room on Central avenue on the south side of the street and between Third and Fourth streets, there were a number of women working yesterday afternoon for charity. The room was piled high with boxes and barrels, filled with apples and potatoes and groceries of various varieties, and there were sacks of old clothing. On one long table in the rear of the room were rows of canned goods and home-made jelly. On another was a pile of freshly killed spring chickens. On still another were cakes and pies and leaves of home-made bread.

This was the scene at the headquarters of the Non-Sectarian Benevolent Society yesterday afternoon. From here was directed the work of delivering comfort and good cheer to forty poor families, numbering 200 people, for Thanksgiving Day.

The ladies identified with the work most closely are Mrs. J. T. McLaughlin, president of the society; Mrs. E. V. Edie, Mrs. Bernard Hild, Mrs. F. W. Clancy, Mrs. A. B. Stroup, Mrs. Minnie Clark and Mrs. C. D. Goff.

The red-trimmed cap of the Salvation Army was noticed among the workers. And Mr. Still, the truancy officer, was in the thickest of the battle to see that the hungry were fed.

"Where do we get all these things?" asked one of the ladies, in answer to a question from the reporter. "We buy some of them and we have lots of them given us."

The schools contributed more bountifully than ever before. By a concerted movement nearly all charitably inclined sects and organizations of the city, who usually take part in providing for the poor at Thanksgiving time, turned their help and their poor over to the care of the Benevolent society, so that the work could be done more carefully and evenly. Every school building in the city sent a wagon load of goods to the headquarters this morning, and the cash donations were larger than ever before. The money donated was used in purchasing food. But the fact that the donations are larger than usual does not mean that the poor will be better cared for than usual. There is more sickness and poverty in Albuquerque this year than ever before in the history of the Non-Sectarian Benevolent society, according to a member.

Probably one of the most touching examples of need and deserved assistance is found in the Third ward where there is a family of four living on what the mother and one little boy can earn. The father is an invalid and the little girl goes to school. But they have been well provided for. The little girl's school chums have seen to that. The teacher bought a turkey and the children brought groceries and good things to eat. Yesterday afternoon the goods were delivered at the home by the boys of the school room.

Colds and Croup in Children.
"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. H. Serig, No. 41, Fifth St., Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup. As soon as he shows any signs of croup I give him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for three or four days which prevents the attack." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

GOLDEN NOTES FROM THROATS OF NEW YORK'S SONG BIRDS DRAW FLOOD OF GOLDEN COIN

New York, Nov. 25.—"La, la, la," ripple the great divas.
"Tra, la, la," respond the renowned tenors.

New York is reveling in the greatest season of the greatest grand opera it has ever known.
Floods of crystal, silver or golden notes from the most perfect voices in the world in every tongue of civilization, are at the command of him who will pay the price. When music clashes, as it has in the rivalry between Oscar Hammerstein at the Metropolitan and Giulio Gatti-Casazza at the Manhattan, there are no jarring notes but only more and sweeter, clearer ones.

In every level in New York life there are those who find delight in the torrents of music. They will contribute about $2,000,000 to it this year. It will cost each social aspirant about $12,000 to hold his boxes for the season at the two theaters, at the rate of $75 a night. In high society one is considered "queer" if one does not attend grand opera; strangely enough, one is considered "queerer" if one abandons oneself to it.

Grand opera is a chief occasion for new gowns, and the silk directoire of this season are adding a delightful optical sensation to the season. The moments are busy before the curtains rise. With the doffing of luxuriant furs—the boxes all quivering with nodding plumes and abaking textiles—are revealed feminine beauty, rare gems and gorgeous apparel.

Five dollars a seat is the price paid by the general public, and there are so many grand opera lovers in the common walks of life that this financial support from the middle class keeps grand opera afloat.

know its New York by heart, even at a wheel-and-a-half a crack.

One opera house has abolished the Saturday afternoon popular priced operas, and it is expected the other will do the same.

The principal operas at Hammerstein's will be Tosca, Samson and Dalia, Thais, the Barber of Seville, Le Jongleur de Notre Dame, the Pearl Fishers, and Daughter of the Regiment. At the Metropolitan, an innovation of which much is expected will be an English production by Prof. Converse of Harvard, called the "Pipe of Desire."

Oscar Hammerstein numbers among his song birds this year, Melba, Tetrazzini, Mary Garden, Maria Laba, Zanabelli and Renaud; while Gatti-Casazza has Emmy Destinn, Caruso, Fremstad, Gadski, Geraldine, Farrar, Sembrich and Eames.

These are but a few of the great singers. In addition there will be mammoth orchestras and great choruses led by the best dancers of Europe.

really great commercially is a federal incorporation law.
JOHN D. ARCHBOLD,
Vice President Standard Oil Co.
New York City.

It is my belief that conditions throughout this country must improve as the result of the election just held. The people everywhere are supporting the principles of President Roosevelt, and as a consequence there is hope for obtaining truly representative form of government and the re-establishment of honesty and fair dealing in business. This must restore our confidence in one another, save the honor of our country and insure permanent prosperity.

RUDELPH SPIECKELS,
California Millionaire.
San Francisco, Cal.

This country is prosperous as the products of the earth are bounteous.
On this score we have nothing to complain of. The period of depression resulting from a lack of confidence in the government policy will pass with the assurance given by the election of a man to fill the office of chief executive who believes in the honest enforcement of the law instead of the sporadic attacks on some and the immunity of others. More favored as a nation, we discount the future. The resumption of business will be as rapid as the remembrance of past hurts will allow.

JOS. LEITER,
Millionaire Capitalist and Coal Mine
Operator.
Zeigler, Ill.

All business operations with which I am connected, touching most of the commercial centers of this country, have already shown substantial improvement. The tone of business is sound. Consumers, contractors and financial interests are alike showing their desire to begin to do business with confidence in a just return. I believe that this revival will be gradual, extending over the winter months so that by the spring of the next year all necessary and usual business operations will have fully recovered from the depression of the past twelve months.

DANIEL GUGGENHEIM,
President American Smelting and Refining Co.
New York City.

I can only speak from my own recent happy experiences which justify the brightest optimism with stars playing to capacity and every one seeming to rush to the box office for seats in advance. There are liberality, cheer and hopefulness about the outlook, which, now that the honest and reliable Taft is our chosen leader, give promise of renewed and abundant prosperity.

DAVID BELASCO,
New York Theatrical Manager and Playwright.

As a result of the election, I feel that confidence has largely been restored. Men engaged in all classes of business will now have a feeling of safety which they have not had for several years, and therefore, I provement in all business, such as we are now experiencing in our own.

HUGH J. CHISHOLM,
President International Paper Co.
Portland, Me.

The republic is to surmount her troubles as she always has done. Her prosperity is as sure to come to her again as flowers come with the spring.
She bears a charmed life.

ANDREW CARNEGIE,
New York City.

The satisfactory outcome of the recent election has restored confidence to a marked degree. There is already a substantial improvement in business, with prospect of steady increase in same. Underlying conditions of the country are and have been sound and the outcome of the election was the only element of uncertainty that has delayed return to normal conditions, and this is now removed.

W. H. TRUESDALE,
President Lackawanna Railroad.

The outlook for general business as a result of the election is very greatly improved. With business men generally I look forward to a conservative administration which won't in any degree lessen the present administration's big ideas, but carry them out in a temperate, judicial manner. The prosperity of this country is so interwoven with the great corporations that they cannot be injured without almost everybody being hurt.

President Corn Products Refining Co.

You Never Know the Moment When
This Information May Prove of Infinite Value.

It is worth considerable to any citizen of Albuquerque to know how to be cured of painful annoying and itching piles. Know then that Doan's Ointment is a positive remedy for all itchiness of the skin, for piles, eczema, etc. One application relieves and soothes. Read this testimony of its merit:

A. M. Whitcomb, living at 325
North Eighth st., Albuquerque, N. M., says: "I have nothing to retract from the statement I gave for Doan's Ointment some five years ago. What I then stated was to the effect that this preparation had cured me of a breaking out, which, if not eczema, closely resembled this trouble and was confined to a spot about the size of a silver dollar just below one of my knees. Off and on for ten years it had annoyed me, always being worse when I was in bed or if I would sit near a fire. I consulted two of our leading physicians but what they gave me proved of no more avail than all the different kinds of salves and ointments that I tried. I had no faith in Doan's Ointment expecting that it would act similarly to the other remedies I had used, but I was surprised to find that the first application stopped the itching and a continuation of its use healed the place affected. The fact that I can say after this long interval that there has been no return of the trouble is pretty good reason for my willingness to confirm my original statement. I recommend this preparation at all times as one that can be relied upon to act as represented."

The annual oratorical contest will be held December 18 in the Elks opera house. Prof. J. A. Miller assisted by the teachers is putting forth every effort to make the contest the best ever held. No admission will be charged to the contest, and the boys who have canvassed the town in search of advertising matter for the programs have met with surprising success. Enough cash is already assured to defray the expenses connected with the affair. Simon Stern, treasurer of the board of education, has offered four prizes, amounting to fifty dollars in cash, for the successful contestants.

Music will be furnished by the First Regiment band.

British Government Has a Scheme For Permanent Court of Arbitration.

London, Nov. 26.—The government's scheme for setting up a permanent court of arbitration in trade disputes has now taken a practical shape, and the names of those who have accepted the invitation of the president of the board of trade to serve on the respective panels were issued yesterday.

A few weeks ago Mr. Churchill caused a memorandum of the government plan to be communicated to chambers of commerce and employers' and workmen's associations. In this circular the president pointed out that board of trade intervention had been repeatedly and successfully called for in recent disputes, and while that would still be available, he proposed popularizing the conciliation act by setting up a permanent arbitration court, consisting of: First, a neutral chairman; second, one or two employers' representatives; third, one or two workmen's representatives; fourth, an expert assessor without a vote. The first panel—of chairmen—it will be seen, comprises men of eminence and impartiality. It includes: The Duke of Devonshire; Viscount Selby, better known as William Court Gully, P. C.; Viscount St. Aldwyn, formerly Sir Michael Hicks-Beach; Lord Balfour of Burleigh, K. T.; Lord James of Hereford, former solicitor and attorney general; Lord Ripon, head of the House of Lords; and the Lord Gifford, was Sir John J. Jenkins, commercial magnate of South Wales; Sir William T. Lewis, Baronet, engineer, managed the Cardiff Railway and Butte Docks company for nearly thirty years; Sir Christopher Furness, M. P.; shipowner, shipbuilder and chairman of Furness, Withy & Co., and member of Parliament for Hartlepool.

USES TELEPHONE UNDER THE WATER

Italian Invents System by Which He Can Talk for Many Miles.

Milan, Nov. 26.—While Professor Majorana is toiling in Rome to solve the problem of wireless telephony across the world's great oceans, another inventor, Captain Anzalone, an officer in the Italian army, whose earlier technical devices won the patronage of the French government, claims to have finally overcome the obstacle to the transoceanic transmission of telephonic messages along submarine cables.

The best results in telephoning across big stretches of water have hitherto been obtained by a system of bobbins introduced by Mr. Puppi, an American inventor, but even between Catania and Dover the service is very erratic, and Captain Anzalone's attention was originally directed to the special study of this subject while in Paris through having the difficulties of telephonic communication between France and England vividly set before him by the French authorities.

Captain Anzalone's principle differs from those recently resorted to. "Empty a glass of water into the river Po at Turin," says he, "and you may be certain that a goodly portion of it, after allowing for evaporation and the like, will find its way to the Adriatic sea. Similarly telephonic transmission across vast oceans on my own system consists in confining microphonic currents, which in themselves are so exceedingly weak, to the care of massive electric waves, which gather them up and speed them along for indefinite distances." This promising new Italian discovery, after successful tests across the Straits of Messina, is now being tried on the great trans-Atlantic submarine cables between Italy, the United States and South America. It is rumored that Genoa has just performed the feat of calling up Buenos Ayres on the Anzalone telephone.

ALL ALBUQUERQUE IS ENJOYING THE DAY

Thanksgiving Holiday Is Celebrated in Style by People of This City.

No city of the affable east is celebrating more thoroughly or more joyously today than Albuquerque. Crisp and cold, but bright and quiet, the day is ideal to whet appetites and spirit. The hotels of the city are filled with guests, and the bills of fare that have been printed savor of turkey and cranberry sauce and other good things to eat in abundance. Every neighborhood and every clan is having its house warming and family gathering. Dances and parties will take place tonight galore.

This afternoon the football players of the University of Arizona and the boys from the hill above the city, are running into each other in a manner fit to please the primitive man of the stone age as well as the modern college student. The crowd in attendance is the largest ever assembled to witness a football game in New Mexico. For an hour this afternoon automobiles and carriages flying the favorite colors of the occupants, bowled down Central avenue and through Old Albuquerque in a procession going to the game. Up and down the river for miles can be heard the boom of the gun of the hunter.

Fully twenty-five men wearing hunting coats boarded the morning trains and at an early hour rigs carrying men with guns, left the city in every direction. The Rio Grande Gun Club preserve was the destination of a large number. Others were going to the mountains. It will be a bad day for the festive duck and quail and rabbit as well as the turkey.

The benevolent societies finished up their work of giving food and clothing to the city's poor this morning. The goods were delivered in boxes and baskets and some were so heavy that it took a strong man to carry them. The supply of donations was larger this year than ever before.

OWNERS OF AUTOS BOUGHT THE PLOWS

E. L. Medler Rang the Bell and Judge Craig Auctioned.

The spectacle of E. L. Medler, president of the Albuquerque Commercial club and one of the most prominent attorneys of New Mexico, ringing an auction bell, Judge George R. Craig, the able jurist of precinct No. 25, standing on the corner of Gold avenue and South Second street, auctioning off a lot of plows to a bunch of members of the New Mexico Automobile association, caused no little wonder this morning. And those who are not on the inside are wondering yet.

Judge Craig was a special master recently in the sale of a consignment of goods among which were a number of plows the kind a farmer uses when he wishes to turn the soil over. Judge Craig sold the plows to a party, who did not leave his name, and did not return to claim the property, so of course, they had to be sold over again.

This morning just prior to the start of the Automobile association for Jones' place, where a meeting was scheduled to take place, Mr. Medler appeared on the street ringing a bell announcing the auction. A few moments later Judge Craig offered the plows to the highest bidders.

There was a wager connected with the sale, the ringing of the bell and the plows, but the principals are not telling what it was.

THE CARLSBAD PROJECT IS GROWING

That Section of the Pecos Valley Is Making Good at a Rapid Rate

The Carlsbad Argus: There is something doing in Carlsbad and throughout the Carlsbad project. Only a few months ago people grewled about the large number of vacant houses and other signs of a dead town and country. Little knowing that people in all parts of the United States were investigating the resources of the project and the opportunities for business in Carlsbad, Loveland and Malaga. As soon as the busy season was fairly over these people began to come to see for themselves what was here. Their coming and going were not noted by the people who grewled about the place that feeds them. House after house was taken by the incoming people in Carlsbad until today the rental agents are ready to hang out their signs, "standing room only." Every desirable house is occupied and the wide awake men of the town are already considering the advisability of building more houses. In the country lands that have lain idle for many years are again tilled by new owners, who after careful investigation have decided that the climate, the soil, the water supply, the substantial irrigation works give assurance of a bright and prosperous future. In the country old houses have been remodeled and enlarged and new houses are going up on lands that are being brought under cultivation for the first time in the history of the valley. The stream of prospectors is growing larger from week to week, and the population of both Carlsbad and the project is being added to constantly. Up to a few months ago when a sale was made it meant no addition to the population, and the one who sold moved to some other section; now this is changed; the old settler may reduce his holdings, but will retain enough of his land for a profitable farm for himself.

In addition to the general improvements in the town and country certain public improvements must be noted. The Public Utilities company, which owns the telephone system in this part of the valley, finds that it is outgrowing the facilities that at one time were considered far in advance of requirements. The increase in patrons of the telephone system has necessitated the extension of lines both in the town and in the country. The 141 line has been extended for a considerable distance below the power station, four miles below town. The business of the line became so heavy that an additional line was run for about eight miles south. The capacity of both is already taxed. A new line was built to Rocky Arroyo, about eighteen miles out, and plans are already under way to extend this line further out. To accommodate the business the Utilities company has decided to build a new exchange and install a new switch board large enough to accommodate their patrons properly.

Another important improvement in Carlsbad has received very little consideration. A new high school building to cost $12,000 is now in course of construction. It will be a modern, two-story building with five recitation rooms on the first floor, and a hall on the second floor with a seating capacity of 1,200. The foundation is nearly in, and on the 22d, in. i. the corner stone will be laid with due ceremonies. The contractor will complete the building as rapidly as possible. When completed Carlsbad will have a new high school building that will be a pride to Southeastern New Mexico. The increase in school population has necessitated this substantial addition to the already large facilities of the town. Carlsbad schools compare very favorably with the schools of larger towns in older districts.

It must also be noted that Eddy county as a whole is awake to the value of good roads and substantial bridges. Bonds were carried at the election for the construction of three bridges; one at Artesia, one at Carlsbad, and one near Malaga, at the lower end of the Carlsbad Project. Much work has been done on road improvements during the past season, and additional work on the roads will yet be done before the close of the present year. The roads under the Carlsbad Project are in far better condition at the present time than is usual in new districts, but the authorities desire to have roads that will be satisfactory to the citizens of the country, and are spending considerable money judiciously in bettering the roads.

Other things showing the material development of Carlsbad are under way. It is likely that the Carlsbad Springs will soon be developed, as plans are formulated for building commodious hotels at the springs. The tuberculosis sanitarium in La Huerta has passed into new hands and will probably be enlarged and conducted on modern plans.

Taken all in all the showing for the year is very satisfactory. Carlsbad and the Carlsbad Project are making good. New people and new blood will develop the resources that the Project has in such abundance.

WOULD DECIDE BOUNDARY QUESTION

Land Office to Have a Hearing at El Paso to Settle Discussion of Years.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Under an order from the general land office a hearing is to be held soon at El Paso, at which the old controversy involving the boundary of the state of Texas and New Mexico will be the subject. It is expected that a decision will be reached and the boundary fixed at least in part at this hearing.

While the Rio Grande river was the dividing line between Texas and New Mexico in 1853, the course of the river has changed so often that the exact location of the river in 1853 is now unknown. Consequently Texas claims that the Santa Teresa land grant is partly in Texas, though in 1902 it was awarded to New Mexico by the court of private land claims.

The land office in an order to the New Mexico land office goes into detail concerning the case, and says in part:

By the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 864), Congress created the court of private land claims to adjudicate the Spanish and Mexican grants within the "limits of the territory derived by the United States from the republic of Mexico, and now embraced within the territories of New Mexico, Arizona or Utah or within the states of Nevada, Colorado and Wyoming."

On June 19, 1902, the clerk of this court transmitted to this office a certified copy of the decree rendered by said court, confirming the Santa Teresa grant, from which it appeared that the said grant was located in New Mexico and that by virtue of the original grant an imperfect title was vested in the grantee such as the United States was bound to recognize under the stipulations of the treaties had with the republic of Mexico in 1848 and 1853.

The eastern boundary of this grant according to the decree of confirmation, was the old bed of the Rio Grande river, as the same existed in the year 1853. The survey of the grant having been made as alleged in accordance with the decree, showed the eastern boundary to be a considerable distance east of the present bed of the Rio Grande, and this survey was approved by the court of private land claims on June 14, 1904, notwithstanding the fact that certain persons had filed in said court a protest against the approval of the survey upon the ground that the grant as thus surveyed extended into Texas and covered lands for which said persons held patents from the state of Texas.

This protest was supported by affidavits and charged specifically that the survey as made of the Santa Teresa grant conflicted with the Texas grant known as El Canutillo, made in the year 1823, approved by an act of the legislature of Texas on February 1, 1853, and patented by the state in September, 1856.

It was further set forth in the protest that the claimants to the Texas grant had paid taxes to the state of Texas for more than 20 years; that since the location of the grant on the east bank of the Rio Grande in 1886 the state of Texas had exercised exclusive civil judicial and political jurisdiction over the lands embraced in said El Canutillo grant and that the civil and political authorities of New Mexico had always recognized said grant as being within El Paso county, Texas, and subject to its jurisdiction.

It was further alleged in the protest that the survey of the Santa Teresa grant conflicted with other patented grants in the state of Texas. However, as stated above, the court of private land claims overruled the objections to the survey of the Santa Teresa grant and approved the same on June 14, 1904.

Hon. A. S. Burleson was advised by this office on October 14, 1904, that no patent had been issued on the Santa Teresa grant and that from the evidence then before it the office was of the opinion that it would issue no patent for lands shown upon the face of the survey to be within the state of Texas. However, the parties claiming under the Santa Teresa grant having deposited to the credit of the United States one-half of the cost of the survey of said grant, Messrs. Bonham and Wade, of Las Cruces, attorneys for said grant claimants, by their letter of February 23, 1907, formally demanded that a patent be issued for the grant that a patent be issued for the grant.

By office letter "K" of May 1, 1907, addressed to surveyor general, it was held that the boundary between Texas and New Mexico was the bed of the Rio Grande river as the same existed in 1853, regardless of the present location of the river, and that inasmuch as the grant in Dona Ana county, New Mexico, and in the absence of any showing that said survey did not correctly locate the bed of the river as it existed in 1853, or that the land as surveyed actually extended into Texas, patent should issue for the location of the boundary line between the territory of New Mexico, and the state of Texas, at least insofar as same office did not wish to issue a patent grant as surveyed. However, it was stated in said letter of May 1, 1907, that as the survey was made without affording the Texas claimants a right of appeal, notice was ordered to be served on the claimants under the Texas grant and also upon the proper officers of the state of Texas.

Claim Made by Texas. The state of Texas, through its attorney general, protested against the issuing of a patent and has requested that a hearing be ordered at which an opportunity may be afforded to show that the survey of the Santa Teresa grant embraces land within the state of Texas, it being alleged on behalf of the state:

1. All that portion of the land in controversy which lies east of the most westerly channel of the Rio Grande is not a portion of said Santa Teresa grant and forms no part of the territory of New Mexico, but is a portion of said El Canutillo grant and is wholly within the state of Texas and under its jurisdiction.

2. If the portion of the land in controversy which lies east of the most westerly channel of the said Rio Grande be not included within the state of Texas and subject to its jurisdiction, this controversy is infinitely as to render it unjust to the state of Texas and its citizen claimants and wholly inexpedient and in-

GREAT KICKER WILL PLAY BASEBALL FOR ATHLETICS

Carlsbad, Pa., Nov. 26.—Barenti, quarterback on the Carlsbad football eleven, is one of the great players of the season.

He is a member of the Cheyenne tribe, and hails from Oklahoma. He is 21 years old, five feet ten inches tall, and weighs 148 pounds. Barenti has done wonderful work for the Indians in all their games this fall, his greatest feat being when, in the game against the Navy eleven, he dropped four goals from the field.

Besides being a gridiron star, Barenti is a crack baseball player, and has made a name for himself on the Carlsbad nine. Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics, whose specialty is Indian players, got to Barenti some time ago, through Charlie Bender, the Athletics' big Indian pitcher and exacted a promise from him that when he had finished his studies at advisable for the government of the United States of Texas.

MIKE BARENTI.

Carlsbad he would join Mack's baseball team.

Questions are involved in this case that were in no way involved in the case cited by the attorneys for the grant claimants. In those cases the United States, at one time at any rate, was the owner of all the lands involved and exercised jurisdiction civil and political, over the territory in which the lands were embraced. In this case, as alleged, any part of the land is in the state of Texas, the United States government never owned it, but such land belonged to the state and the state exercised exclusive political, civil and judicial jurisdiction over the same.

While the court of private land claims unquestionably had exclusive jurisdiction to adjudicate title to private land claims within the boundaries fixed by law, the said court had no authority to determine those boundaries. In other words, the boundary between Texas and New Mexico was fixed by some higher authority than the court of private land claims and the mere fact that the court of private land claims assumed jurisdiction over the land is in no sense conclusive and is not binding upon any one, especially one who was not a party to the suit by which the grant was confirmed. It is true that the claimants under the Texas grant intervened, or attempted to intervene in the court of private land claims and objected to the survey but the state of Texas was not a party to that suit and it is the state of Texas that now asks that no patent be issued by the government tending to prejudice her rights and her sovereignty over the land which is alleged to be within her boundaries.

Office Is Bound to Know. This office is bound to know whether or not any of the land covered by the survey of the Santa Teresa grant is beyond the boundary of the territory of New Mexico as fixed by law, because if the court of private land claims assumes to confirm a title to land outside of the boundaries fixed by law, such a decree, as stated above, would be absolutely null and void, and any one acting under such a decree would be a trespasser. (See Elliott vs. Piersall et al., 1 Peters, 325.)

Jurisdiction over the subject matter is absolutely essential to render valid the judgment or decree of the tribunal which assumes to act in the case, and any other tribunal before which a decree or judgment is brought or any officer or person who takes action on such decree or judgment, must look to the jurisdiction of the court and must find that the court rendering the decree had jurisdiction before action thereunder is justified. If by inquiry into the facts necessary to confer jurisdiction it is found that such jurisdiction did not exist the decree may be disregarded; indeed, in such a case anyone acting under such a decree would be a trespasser and could not plead the decree in justification. This is clearly the law, and the rule announced in no way conflicts with the general rule that the judgment of the court in the regular exercise of its jurisdiction cannot be collaterally attacked. See Simmons vs. Saul (138 U. S. 439-448); Thompson vs. Whitman (118 Wallace, 457) and Therman vs. Frame (174 U. S. 330).

Inasmuch as the state of Texas has alleged that the Santa Teresa grant as surveyed extends into and over lands belonging to the state of Texas and subject to the state's jurisdiction and as color is lent to this claim by the admitted fact that the survey extends east of the present bed of the Rio Grande and as such bed has, certainly, for years, at least been the de facto boundary between Texas and New Mexico, and as this office would be wholly unjustified in issuing a patent for lands in Texas, the state's application for a hearing must be allowed in order that evidence may be introduced to determine, as far as this office can determine it, the true boundary between the state and territory.

MUST MAINTAIN TARIFF ON LUMBER

Cheapening It Would Result In Wasteful Methods.
say the Dealers.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Lumber manufacturers and lumbermen have developed a unique argument for maintaining the tariff of $2 a thousand on lumber.

They declare that the cheapening of lumber, which, they say, would follow reduction of the tariff, would make wasteful lumbering necessary. One company, operating in the south, claims that the reduction in price of yellow pine, following the financial crisis of a year ago, forced it to utilize 23 per cent less of the timber than had been previously utilized.

A comparatively high price is necessary, these interests declare, if lumbermen are to become foresters, instead of merely wasteful cutters of the natural growth. It costs more money to use all parts of the tree closely, and to leave the forests so clean that fires will not sweep through.

It is more expensive, too, to give immature trees further time to develop than it is to make a clean sweep of trees of all sizes, as was done in cutting over the great lake states.

This sort of argument, by which, according to the present outlook, the National Lumber Manufacturers' association will set much store, will have peculiar weight at a time when conservation is a popular policy, and when the forest service is urging less wasteful methods of lumbering.

The government experts are not likely to contradict the lumbermen's claims that careful utilization cuts the profits, nor have they at any time preached the doctrine that cheaper lumber might be expected as a result of better forestry.

The fact which has been reiterated is that the price of lumber in this country is not high enough to cover the cost of reproducing the trees. The cost of production is only beginning to figure in the price of American lumber because only natural resources have thus far been called upon for the supply.

It is precisely because they want cheaper lumber that the plains states of the middle west, and the furniture manufacturing sections are expected to fight for a lower tariff.

And yet it is not sure in the judgment of at least one expert, that the expectation of either the lumbermen or the consumers will be realized. Lower prices through a reduction of tariff could follow only through heavy importations of Canadian lumber, and it is not certain that, with the single exception of white pine importations would be greatly increased.

The Canadian government is suspected of favoring a policy of keeping its lumber at home, so far as possible. But even aside from this policy, the question of demand enters in.

The government experts have figures which show that there is a great demand in the plains provinces of Canada for the lumber products of British Columbia. These provinces are developing rapidly, and statistics secured by the forest service a year ago showed that the price secured in the Canadian plains provinces for British Columbia lumber was actually higher than the price paid in the Dakotas for lumber of the same kind produced in Oregon and Washington. This condition has led to small shipments into Canada from the far northwest of this country.

The eleven years which have passed since the enactment of the Dingley tariff have brought greatly changed conditions in the lumber business. The great lakes states have so far lost their standing as pine producers that Minnesota lumbermen recently decided to stand for the present tariff largely because lumbermen in other parts of the country want it and not primarily because it would help them.

The chief demand for a protective tariff on lumber has traveled to the democratic free trade south, where yellow pine is being largely produced, and to the west where there is much Douglas fir.

WHAT'S A BIG FAMILY? WELL HERE ARE MANY; ONE MOTHER OF SIXTY-NINE BABIES

Remarkable Cases of Anti-Race Suicide Families—A Cavalry Squadron of 30 Brothers—Plenty of Instances of People Who Had From 25 to 40 Children—Russian Mother's Wonderful Record.

Perhaps you are one of those folks who believe with President Roosevelt in anti-race suicide.

Perhaps, being married, you have practiced as you preach, and you have three or four kiddies at home. Oh, they are a great care! Well tells in an article about Thos. Greenhill, a surgeon, who, in 1893, obtained a special coat of arms from the Heraldic college on the ground that he was the seventh son and thirty-ninth child of one father and mother, Nicholas Hooker, who died in Wales in 1637, was the forty-first child of his parents, and had 27 children, Dionora Salviati, an Italian noblewoman of several centuries ago, bore 52 children—one set of sextuplets, all the rest triplets save one child.

But the world's record—that belongs to Feodor Wassiliev, a Russian peasant. His first wife gave him 18 successive pairs of twins, then seven worth it, you and your other half agree, but—gee, it's a lot of work and worry to raise a family of four or five or seven children!

Now, then, hold your breath—what do you think of a woman who bore 26 children in 20 years. In 1855, in Russia, she lived in London in 1855.

How about a countrywoman of hers, who had 15 boys then 15 girls. Or Lady Elphinstone, another daughter of Britain, and a mother of sets of triplets (in seven years) then four sets of quadruplets—69 in all. Then she died, and a second Mrs. Wassiliev had two sets of triplets and six sets of twins, so that Feodor was the father of 37. He was presented to the Empress Catherine in 1783 as Russia's champion sire.

The birth of quadruplets stirs the nation nowadays, but it was not so in the days of old, when big families at a birth were not uncommon. Three sets of triplets and two of five each came to a wife at Dunstable, Eng-

TRIPLETS RECENTLY BORN TO MRS. J. R. STEINBERG OF BROOKLYN, N. Y., AND SENT IN A HAT BOX TO A "BABY INCUBATOR."

36. Only 27 of them grew up, but Helen Urquhart of Cromarty castle, Scotland, raised all her 36 to mature age. Many of the 25 boys became men of distinction, and all the eleven girls married and had large families. Consider Donagh O'Carroll and his wife, who reared 30 sons, and, when the youngest was big enough presented the outfit, fully mounted and accoutered as a troop of cavalry, to the earl of Ormonde.

And still there are not the biggest families. Munsey's Scrap Book, which has delved deeply into birth statistics

NORDICA COMING HERE IN JANUARY

Famous Prima Donna Will Appear at Elks' Theater With Company.

Lillian Nordica, known throughout the musical world as "Nordica," will appear at the Elks' opera house January 12th, 1927. Nordica occupies the most foremost place as a representative American prima donna. This brilliant singer is recognized as the greatest living lady singer in the world. This famous Wagnerian heroine comes to this city next January with a representative concert company and her appearance here will be a much-looked-for treat by the many lovers of good music. Lillian Nordica, like Emma Eames, is a daughter of New England and from a coloratura soprano she gradually developed herself into a dramatic artist, in which capacity she ranks high. Last year this great singer still appeared in grand opera with the San Carlo company, but this season she has organized a concert company and her appearance at the head of this aggregation of some of the best talent in the country, will, beyond a doubt, fill the local opera house to overflowing.
