BRITISH TREATMENT OF MOYER TO BE INVESTIGATED BY GRAND JURY

MOYER SOON DROPS INTO SOUND SLEEP

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, driven from Hancock, Michigan, after he had been shot and beaten last night, slept well under the care of physicians in a hospital here tonight.

The train ride of 400 miles, with a bullet still in his body, and his wounds having received only temporary care, so weakened the director of the copper miners' strike that he was unable to receive visitors after he had reached the hospital.

The doctors asserted that the ease with which Moyer dropped to sleep would prove a factor to ward off the possibility of blood poisoning.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—A grand jury investigation of the mobbing of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners at Hancock, Mich., last night, will be determined by the county seat of Houghton county, by N. H. Hilton, attorney for the federation, when the inquestorial body meets here next Tuesday.

Mr. Hilton made this announcement tonight. He left Hancock Thursday night, but returned tonight.

Moyer's wound in the shoulder, inflicted by a bullet, was subjected to an X-ray examination tonight. Upon his arrival this afternoon, recommended by Charles H. Tanner, auditor of the federation, who was also roughly handled by the mob at Hancock, he was taken to a hotel where Doctor William H. Hatcher and Dr. V. H. Hilton made a superficial examination of the wound. He was then removed to the hospital. Apparently the only danger lies in the possibility of blood poisoning.

An X-ray report of the wound will not be available until tomorrow. The wound is deep and ranges downward from the left shoulder, according to Dr. Hilton. He said it was "probably not serious, but might prove dangerous." The patient coughed up some blood but the physicians were disinclined to believe that it came from the lungs.

Moyer was guarded from reporters at the hotel and the hospital and could not be seen with reference to the denial of James McNaughton that he was with the mob at the railway station at Hancock, Mich., where Moyer, and that he searched Moyer, retaining valuable papers.

Moyer's assertion was made to reporters who met him at Corlies, Wis., and came with him to Chicago.

Attorney Hilton acted as messenger in the quest for confirmation of the charge. He disappeared for a few moments in the sick room and upon reappearing he said:

"There is no doubt about it. Moyer could not have been mistaken. He knows Jim McNaughton like his own mother—has seen him constantly since the negotiations for a settlement of the strike have been on. McNaughton and Moyer have been in conferences, which I attended. McNaughton ordered him out of the country—said he would hang him if he returned, and then he searched him. Two men armed with guns held him and McNaughton took two wallets from Moyer's person. One of these contained money and this he returned. He kept the other."

According to Moyer and Tanner, the attack occurred at about 8:10 o'clock, and they were thrust aboard the train an hour or so later.

According to several of McNaughton's friends he was at his club in Calumet, sixteen miles from Hancock, at 9:45 o'clock. The train was scheduled to leave Hancock at 9:55 o'clock.

A mass meeting of union labor men of Chicago was called for tomorrow to adopt resolutions against the copper country situation and similar meetings probably will be held in other cities.

remained there until Channing, Mich., was reached at 2 a. m.

He said that he would return to the copper range at the earliest possible moment and that Governor Ferris, in his opinion, should declare martial law in the strike section.

"The guards told me and the conductor, George Harris, that they were riding with Tanner and Moyer to protect them from copper miners," said the police officer. "Kraft said that Moyer did not protest, and Moyer confirmed this."

"The conductor and train crew could see what was happening. I don't need to tell them," said Moyer. "Two hours before the attack Moyer had completed a plan for the settlement of the strike."

"It was to the effect that the president of the United States and the governor of Michigan should appoint five or seven arbitrators to settle the whole thing and that the strikers should return immediately to work," said Moyer.

As the train drew near Chicago Tanner assisted his companion to dress in the berth. Victor Berger, who had accompanied them from Milwaukee, assisted Moyer from the train. On the platform he was surrounded by newspaper reporters and photographers and he stood, supported by Tanner, while the photographs were taken.

In the name of common sense," shouted Berger, "give him a rest; get him to bed," and he joined in the escort which protected Moyer on the way out of the union station.

Moyer, through Tanner, sent several telegrams to the mine men at Ernest, Mich., who said: "He'll go back."

Moyer replied that Mills was right and that the strikers would win.

David Klein, who said he was a guard at the Michigan mine, and three other men who Klein said also were guards, came on the same train with Moyer to Chicago.

"We were ordered aboard about ten minutes before the train left Hancock. I don't know why," said Klein. "We work for the Anker agency and we will return to the Chicago representative of the agency for further instructions."

They did not molest Moyer or Tanner on the trip. Klein said that while the mob was at work, Tanner and Moyer were making for the mine. At the time, he said that so far as he has a home it is in Virginia City, Nev., to which local union of the federation he belongs.

Moyer's letter proposing a settlement of the strike followed.

"On the eve of the departure of the victims of the terrible disaster which occurred in our midst at a time when the doctrine of peace on earth and good will to men was being spread among the little ones of your empire, I am writing to you."

"I again come to you in their behalf and ask that you join with me in an effort to adjust this deplorable controversy."

Acting with authority from the strikers' miners, I have submitted in your terms of arbitration which should appeal to anyone who is desirous of bringing to an end a conflict which has been going on for more than five months, during which time thousands of dollars have been lost and unnecessarily extended and human lives have been sacrificed to say nothing of the sufferings of the participants and those who must necessarily feel the effects of an industrial conflict.

"The thinking people of this country believe that there must be something to settle between the employers and their employees of this district. Can you longer maintain that there is but one side to this question and that labor shall not be given an opportunity to be heard. In my last proposal of arbitration, I agreed that the miners' companies of interest might select two; the miners on strike, two who are not members of their local organization of the Western Federation of Miners, and either the president of the United States or the governor of the state of Michigan should select one, and that the entire question be submitted to said board and that all partisan interests be bound by their findings. I submit to you the following:

"That the president of the United States or the governor of the state of Michigan together select a committee of arbitration composed of five or seven members; that all matters in dispute be submitted to said board, and that on the acceptance of the Western Federation of Miners on strike shall be re-employed by you without discrimination and that all interest shall be bound by the findings of said board."

"I submit to you, gentlemen, that no fairer proposition for a settlement of this controversy of this character has ever been submitted by men on strike and I urge its acceptance so that peace may be restored in this district and assurance given that such action as we have been called on to witness shall be forever ended."

The letter, according to Moyer, was addressed to the general managers of the mining companies of Houghton and Keweenaw counties."

Victor Berger quoted Moyer as saying the letter was dispatched to the general managers before the attack.

C. H. MOYER'S STORY OF
ASSAULT AND DEPORTATION

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 27.—"I was attacked by about twenty-five men in my room at the Scott hotel in Hancock, Mich., last night at about 8:34 o'clock. I was struck over the head with the butt of a revolver, shot in the back, dragged through the hotel and streets and put on a train and told to leave that country forever," said Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, during his stop here on a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train, while en route to Chicago, today.

Mr. Moyer occupied his berth and his pillow and bed linen were stained with the blood from wounds in his head and back. He was good natured despite his wounds and said that after they got "beaten up in Chicago, he would return to Calumet and fight "these mine owners to the last."

At 8:30 o'clock, Sheriff Cruise and about fifteen other men came to my room to ask me about arrangements for the burial of the poor persons who met their death in the Christmas catastrophe. They remained about fifteen minutes and left after I had told them that the Western Federation of Miners and the labor organizations of the country could and would care for its own unfortunate."

Within four minutes, fifteen ruffians burst into the room. I was standing at the telephone at the time and was putting in a call. Charles H. Tanner, of California, traveling auditor, took seats across the aisle and

ORGANIZATION OF RESERVE BANKS OUTLINED SUCCEED HUERTA AS PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

Secretaries McAdoo and Houston Announce Further Rules
for Determining Location of Institutions.

Washington, Dec. 27.—The federal reserve bank organization committee tonight supplemented its plan for locating federal reserve cities with an unofficial announcement pointing the way for cities to present their claims for honor before the committee, consisting of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Secretary of Agriculture Houston starts upon its tour of the country. It will advise clearing house associations and boards of trade in cities that are in the field for a reserve bank, when they can be heard.

Only fourteen cities, in addition to Washington, will be visited, but it was the understanding tonight that any city and any community can be heard at some point on the trip around the country which has been mapped out.

Although details for the hearings have not been worked out, it is probable that the claims of Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington will be heard here. Pittsburgh will have an opportunity either in Cleveland or Cincinnati. Fort Worth, Texas, which is in the field, will be allowed to argue in Houston and St. Paul and Minneapolis, in Chicago. Minneapolis, in Chicago, will be useful in determining the boundaries of the reserve districts.

It was said that neither cabinet officer on the organization committee had determined on the number of reserve districts and cities. The trip to be taken is almost as much for this purpose as for actually locating the cities and defining the districts.

Officials of the treasury today praised the decision of the committee to work out the district limits and cities by public hearings.

The committee took its first formal step today when it made official announcement of the procedure to be followed by banks which wish to make legal application for membership in the new system.

In accordance with this announcement, every bank desiring membership shall, within sixty days, through its board of directors, pass a resolution certifying its desire to enter the system. It provides for the full acceptance of the terms of the law and expresses the intention of the board to subscribe on behalf of the bank for stock in the proper federal reserve bank.

The filing of this form will be the first step of a bank toward membership. It will have nothing further to do toward coming into the system until the organization committee announces the geographical limits of the districts and the cities where the reserve bank is to be located.

Within thirty days after such announcement, a bank must take the second step that will bind it to the federal system. It must begin to put up its money for stock in the federal district reserve bank. Each bank entering must subscribe stock in the federal bank equal to one per cent of its paid-up capital and surplus, but not of this sum is to be paid at once.

Informal applications from banks continued to reach the treasury today. The officials were surprised when they received telegrams from several individuals who wished to subscribe for stock in reserve banks. The law provides that individuals may subscribe, but if the banks continue to come in there will be little stock left when their time limit has expired.

Secretary McAdoo's illness was diagnosed today as grippe, but Surgeon General Rupert Blue, of the public health service, who is attending him, said his patient was much better.

CONCERN STILL FELT
FOR SAFETY OF PROPERTY

Washington, Dec. 27.—Conditions in regard to the safety of private property in central Mexico continue to be unsatisfactory, according to the latest state department reports. Owing to the fact that the territory from Durango northward is in possession of neither warring faction and that telegraphs and railways generally have been destroyed, communications are so slow that it requires seven days to get news to the department from the city of Torreon. A week ago that important strategic point still was in the hands of the federalists, but the revolutionaries have been in control of the surrounding district.

On the Gulf coast, the rebels were active up to Christmas and the canal at Tampico reported that General Aguilar, with several hundred men, took possession of the town of Panuco on December 24. They destroyed some buildings and committed other depredations and the state department is trying to ascertain if American life and property were menaced.

The state department has caused representations to be made to General Villa at Chihuahua in the interest of the women and children of the Spaniards and other foreigners who were expelled from that town by the rebels. Although the American consul was assured that these families would be permitted to leave Chihuahua for some reason the committee has not been kept and it is assumed that they are being held as hostages. Further pressure will be brought to bear in their behalf.

The naval supply ship McLean arrived at Tonolowamp on the west coast of Mexico last Wednesday and sailed away yesterday. In reporting these movements, the captain of the ship made no mention of famine among the American colony there, although he had ample provisions aboard to meet any probable needs.

An offer of Japanese army officers to enlist under the Huerta standard in Mexico, which the Mexican war office claims to have received through its embassy in Tokyo, has not been made known to the state department.

Whether this service could be rendered, it is pointed out, would depend upon the statutes of the Japanese officers making the offer and it is not doubted that their own government would refuse them permission to leave their country if they were still on the active list of the Japanese army.

No Rehearing for Henry Spencer
Chicago, Dec. 27.—Judge Shuman, in the circuit court at Wheaton, Illinois, today refused to grant a rehearing on a motion for a new trial for Henry Spencer, confessed murderer of Mrs. Allison Restout, sentenced to be hanged January 16.

TELEGRAPHERS ON FRISCO SYSTEM TO STRIKE

Unless Receivers Agree to Demands of Union All Semaphores Are to Be Set at Danger Signal at Once.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 27.—The strike committee of the order of Railroad Telegraphers tonight issued orders for the telegraphers on the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad to strike Monday if the conference with the receivers of the Frisco, Monday morning, is fruitless. The telegraphers, it is announced, will make no concessions and a strike is regarded as inevitable.

The demands of the telegraphers will be submitted to the receivers in St. Louis on Monday morning. C. U. Kelso, local chairman of the strike committee, said tonight that if the demands are refused the strike would be ordered at once.

There are 1,142 men on the Frisco system who the union leaders claim, will be affected.

The instructions went out to the telegraphers, telephone men and signal men on the system tonight that the strikers and their families will be taken care of by the union.

The instructions issued tonight to the operators, conditioned on the fact that the strike actually be ordered after the conference with the strikers, followed.

When notified strike called, turn board, set semaphores at danger, whether you have train orders on hand or not, so as to train proceed they do so at their own risk. Decline to handle all Western Union business after strike called."

TELEGRAPH OPERATORS
DEMAND MANY CHANGES

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 27.—The demands of the Frisco telegraphers for a revision of the wage scale and for a readjustment of working conditions, was presented to the officials of the road last May and conferences began at the office last October. The union has issued a circular setting forth the demands of the telegraphers, the result of the conference thereon, substantially as follows:

That exclusive agents be put in the schedule the same as the agent who is required to handle telegrams or telephone messages.

A consecutive eight-hour day for all except exclusive agents, and that telegraphers be not required to work in more than one office in doing a day's work.

That a telegrapher taken from his home station to do relief work be paid for time lost in transit and be given expense money.

That telegraphers be not required to handle mail between the postoffice and station, that they be not required to do so. And where they continue to handle the mail they be paid $15 extra a month.

That the salaries of employees who are exclusive companies be increased by an amount equal to the available monthly salary paid by the express or telegraph company during 1912.

A fifteen per cent wage increase for telegraphers. As to the latter demand, the general manager offered a slight concession.

The telegraphers also asked that telegraphers be paid double time for Sunday work and overtime time for overtime. This demand was refused by the company.

The telegraphers also demanded that a committee, composed of the division superintendent and a telegrapher, be authorized to recommend an increase in the telegraph force at stations where it deemed increase is needed.

This recommendation, it was demanded, should be complied with in ten days. The telegraphers also demanded that the telegraph force in any station be not reduced over the protest of the local agent, except on the recommendation of the committee, unless both members of the committee agree to waive an investigation.

W. C. Nixon, one of the receivers of the Frisco, declined tonight to indicate what action the receivers would take when the committee of telegraphers meets this morning.

The negotiations thus far have been with E. D. Levy, assistant general manager, whose headquarters are at Springfield.

ELLA FLAGG YOUNG
RESUMES POSITION

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, school superintendent of schools, took her old desk today after a two weeks' absence during which Moyer Harrison dropped from the school board four members who had opposed her, and she had been replaced as the result of popular demand.

John D. Shoop, elected to replace Mrs. Young and deposed a few days later by the reorganized board, did not object to giving up the office he had occupied for a few days, but took his former room as first assistant superintendent.

Von Klein Sentenced to Pen.
Jaffa, Palestine, Dec. 27.—Jules Von Klein, of Chicago, under conviction of having lived polygamously in Portland, Oregon, with Miss Ethel Newcomb of San Francisco, was imprisoned before Judge Judge Kavanagh from a jail, where he was reportedly to be shaming himself, this afternoon and sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of one to four years.

Aviator Marns People of Jaffa.
Jaffa, Palestine, Dec. 27.—Jules Marns, the French aviator, passed over this port today on his way to Cairo. His appearance caused consternation among the inhabitants, most of whom were ignorant of the existence of flying machines.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 27.—The deportation of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners and leading the copper miners' strike, who was escorted from Hancock, Mich., after being shot and clubbed, will be investigated by the special grand jury when it resumes its sessions next Tuesday.

Sheriff Cruise today began an inquiry into the facts of Moyer's disappearance in response to telegrams from Governor Ferris and George Nicholas, the special prosecutor in charge of the grand jury. Ferris requested him to make a full statement of the result of his investigations.

News of Moyer's departure did not become generally known in the strike region until Moyer had reached Green Bay, Wis., today, and told of his injuries.

Warrants were served tonight on the business manager and a dozen or more names of local newspapers in Hancock, the charge being "conspiracy to publish statements calculated to incite riot."

The warrants were sworn out under the statutes relating to felony and the grand jury staff were taken from their duties to investigate the case.

The article, according to translators, accused the rescuers of slugging mothers and fathers who tried to reach the hall where their children were dead or in peril, and used the words "murder" in its description of the disaster.

John Nounavari, business manager of the paper, was taken from the editorial room after the paper had gone to press today. Two members of the editorial staff were taken from their desks and a service was made upon a dozen others as they were found on the streets this evening.

Because the charge on which they are held is a felony, it is probable that their names will be considered before the special grand jury. The grand jury was called to investigate "acts of lawlessness arising from the strike."

Intimations from union sources that the grand jury was "hand picked" and not a fair cross-section of the community, were denied in official circles. A survey of the personnel of the body showed A. F. Heikama, a brewer, a foreman, and George Williams, a railroad official, as clerks.

Among the eleven other members of the jury were Edgar E. Lye, chairman for James McNaughton, vice president and general manager of the Calumet & Hecla Mining Co. The superintendent of stamp mills, a few mechanics and a number of workmen made up the remainder of the membership.

Preparations were pronounced complete tonight for the funerals which the Western Federation of Miners is to conduct over some seventy of the victims of the panic of last Wednesday.

The task of digging the numerous graves was accomplished by a hundred strikers and the federation's relief committee finished its canvass of the stricken homes. There was some anxiety as to whether enough coffins would be available, the number of victims having overlaid the stock of local undertakers. Arrival of a carload of coffins, however, eliminated this worry.

Indications were that the thousands who are to march to the cemetery will have to make their way through snow covered roads.

A fine snow began falling steadily late today and promised to continue all night. Thus far the winter has been unusually mild. It will be no small task that will confront the marchers if the storm develops into a blizzard. The cemetery lies more than a mile west of this city and the men who are to bear the coffin upon their shoulders must have to face the full force of a wind off Lake Superior. Then too, strikers from the Keweenaw county mines intend to march five miles or more into Calumet early tomorrow and some funeral parties are to come from localities a mile or more from this city.

Italian Crowds See Mona Lisa.
Rome, Dec. 27.—This was the last day of the exhibition of the painting "Mona Lisa" at the Borghese museum, and so great was the crowd the authorities were obliged to order that only 200 persons would be allowed to enter the museum at one time. Several women fainted in the crush. During the afternoon more than 5,000 persons saw the picture.

Aged Suffrage Leader Dying.
New York, Dec. 27.—As the result of a fall two weeks ago and complications that followed, Mrs. Lillie Devorens Blake, for many years a leader in the woman's suffrage movement, is dying at a sanitarium in West Englewood, N. Y. Mrs. Blake, suffering from a breakdown, has been at the sanitarium for more than three years. On December 12 she fell and broke her hip. Her advanced years—78 years old—militated against her recovery and her physicians fear that she will not survive.

PUNISH THE PERPETRATORS.

The people of the country will read with regret and indignation of the outrages committed on Charles H.
Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, by citizens of the copper country of Michigan.

The refusal of Moyer to permit the families of the strikers to be housed by the company, was a mistake. His insistence that members of the Citizens' League, an organization opposed to the strike, were responsible for the cry of "fire" which resulted in the death of seventy-two persons, mostly children, in the panic which ensued, was equally unjust and naturally provoked bitter resentment.

But when the people allowed their resentment to take the form of lawlessness, they placed themselves upon Moyer's level, or worse. Colonel Rosenberg characterized Moyer as "an undesirable citizen," and Rosenberg was right. But men who resort to mob law are also "undesirable citizens" of any country.

Moyer had a perfect right to be in the Calumet country and direct the strike. Whenever his acts became illegal, there were the courts for redress or punishment. Also, the governor had the militia on the ground to suppress lawlessness.

The mob violence of the citizens responsible for the attack on Moyer, by which he was shot and beaten and driven from the country, can only add fuel to the flame of prejudice and intensify the hatred that exists between capital and labor.

ROOSEVELT'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

"Theodore Roosevelt—An Autobiography," is just from the press. Sections of it have been running in a number of newspapers for some weeks, and many readers are familiar with the contents. That it will be discussed, pro and con, goes without saying. For it was written by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, the most spectacular figure in American history, the most loved and most hated man now living.

Because of that fact the autobiography will be judged largely according to the prejudices of those who read
it. Judgment on its merits—the judgment that will prevail fifty years from now—may not be crystallized for a number of years.

But the autobiography makes interesting reading. The story of the childhood of Roosevelt is simply and auto-biographically relating to the delightful home life of Oyster Bay.

In dealing with the campaign in 1912, there is a moderation and a fairness that hardly could have been expected. For instance, he regards William Howard Taft as an honest and able man handicapped by a mind too legal to permit him to handle men and measures successfully, an estimate quite different from that of the columnist's campaign speeches last year. He had time to think.

He declares that his action in the matter of the Tennessee coal and iron merger was made necessary by the panic of 1907, that it saved the day, ended the panic and did not materially aid the trust, in all of which he probably is not far wrong.

He fully justifies his part in securing the Panama canal concession on the ground of public necessity, and in that he is also right. There may have been acts connected with the forming of the revolt of Panama from Colombia and the payment of the forty million dollars to wipe out the title of the old French company that would not look well in print, if all the facts were known; and also, there may be nothing of the sort. We cannot, from mere surmises, form judgment on such things.

Probably there is more space devoted to the colonel's part in the Spanish war than that part justifies.
After all the credit has been given that he has claimed, he scarcely did enough in that brief campaign to qualify as a war hero, certainly not as a commander of men.

From that, he steps into criticism

of those who oppose a big navy and a strong army and uses the word
"mollycoddles," and other epithets, rather than arguments, thereby detracting from and weakening a book that otherwise is entitled to a high place in biography.

Whether one agrees with the colonel or not, he will find the book interesting and instructive. It is far more lucid than most autobiographies, and generations to come may call it great. We are of opinion that it will be read fifty years from now and that judgment then will place it in a class with the books written by Thomas H.
Benton and James G. Blaine.

VAIN QUEST OF SCIENCE.

The British Association for the Advancement of Science opened a discussion last year as to the origin of life. Since that time several solutions have been offered by various members, no two of them in harmony with each other. However, on one point there was complete agreement that we are no nearer a solution than we were a thousand years ago.

One of the learned professors believed that organic life had its origin by the action of light on the green matter in plants. That was about as near as they got to it, and Sir Oliver Lodge gave that theory a body blow when he said: "When you have the potential living matter, life makes use of it." He continued: "What life is I don't know, I suppose it is provided by parents and passed on."

W. E. Carruth, has expressed it in the following beautiful verse on
"Each in His Own Tongue":

A fire mist and a planet, a crystal
and a cell;

A jelly-fish and a parian, and caves
where the cave men dwell.

Then a sense of law and beauty, and a face turned from the cloud—

Some call it Evolution, and others
call it God.

A haze on the far horizon, the infinite tender sky

The ripe, rich tint of the cornfield, and
the goose sailing high;

And all over upland and lowland the charm of the goldenrod—

Some of us call it Autumn and others
call it God.

Like tides on a crescent sea-beach,
when the moon is new and thin,

Into our hearts high yearnings come welling and burning in—

Come from the mystic ocean whose rim no foot has trod—

Some of us call it Longing, and others
call it God.

A picket frozen on duty, a mother starved for her brood,

Socrates drinking the hemlock, and Jesus on the cross;

And millions who, humble and nameless, the struggle, hard pathway plod—

Some call Consecration, and others
call it God.

The problem of the origin of life
never will have a scientific solution.
One is not necessary to human happiness or the discharge of duty by those who spend a little time on the earth and then pass on.

Some poet has said: "We are on the seat of life, drifting with the tide,
And another poet has said: "Our souls are filled by the winds from another world." One view of it is that "life is but an empty dream," and another is, "We shall not all sleep, but we shall be changed."

"The origin of life and the continuity of life are questions for which speculative philosophy has no answer, and he who undertakes their scientific solution is doomed to wander through caverns measureless to man, down to a sunless sea."

The attitude of C. H. Moyer toward the citizens of the Michigan copper region was bad, but the action of the copper country people toward Moyer was worse. Nothing ever is gained by violating the law.

John Lind is put down as "a man of few words" and the wrong parties find it difficult to pick those few out of him.

LADIES, LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-Time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantage of a youthful appearance.
Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, waxy and scurry, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur restores its natural color and makes it shine.
Don't stay gray! Look young.
Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Remedy." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides,
no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You maintain a spruce or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

DEATH OF DAUGHTER OF RALPH HENDERSON CAUSES DEEP SORROW

The death early Saturday morning of Katherine Anne, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M.
Henderson, was a profound shock to the many who knew and loved the winning little girl, and caused infinite sadness to the large number of friends and admirers of her parents.

The death was tragic in its suddenness. On Friday the child was enjoying the company of her playmates and getting the fun out of her Christmas toys that is characteristic of bright, happy childhood. Friday night she was taken ill with croup and medical assistance was at once summoned. The cause at first did not seem alarming, but early Saturday morning it was necessary to call in the doctors a second time, and an immediate operation was deemed to be imperative. While preparations were being made for the operation the child passed away.

Few children of her age had won so strong a hold on the hearts of those who knew them as little Katherine Henderson. Unusually bright, vivacious and pretty, she charmed those who came in contact with her, and her untimely death will be mourned by all who knew her.

The body was taken last night to Johnston, Pa., the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, where it will be interred. The sympathy of every one in Albuquerque who knows them will go out to the bereaved parents.
Ralph Henderson, a general manager of the Evening Herald, has a host of friends in the city and throughout the state, and Mrs. Henderson is widely known for her remarkable, musical talent and generally loved for her sweet and gracious character.

Three Men, Across Bay From Frisco, Arrested as They Enter Boat Containing Infernal Machine.

BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE
San Francisco, Dec. 27.—Three armed men were captured tonight at Rialto, across the bay from this city, as they were about to step into a sail boat containing an infernal machine, several boxes of dynamite and a quantity of powerful explosives. The men gave their names as Charles King, Joseph Brown and H. C. Hanton. In Hanton's pocket was an Industrial Workers of the World membership card, questioned by the police, the men promised to make a full statement tomorrow.

Police Sergeant R. N. Ruiz discovered the sail boat tied to an abandoned wharf, at 6 o'clock this evening.
He boarded the boat and found the infernal machine operated by an alarm clock which was set for 12:30 and going. He cut the wires connecting the clock and removed the machine. He also found a quantity of nitroglycerine, gun cotton, dynamite
caps and fuses, two rifles with silencers
attached, a shotgun and two other alarm clocks.

BOYS AT REFORM SCHOOL REMEMBERED CHRISTMAS DAY

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL
Springer, N. M., Dec. 27.—The boys who are inmates of the New Mexico Reform school, located here, were reminded Christmas day by Superintendent James D. McPhillips and his assistants with numerous useful gifts and a specially prepared Christmas dinner.

At 10:30 o'clock in the morning, presents were distributed, each inmate being remembered with useful gifts. He cut the wires connecting the clock and removed the machine. He also found a quantity of
nitroglycerine, gun cotton, dynamite
caps and fuses, two rifles with silencers
attached, a shotgun and two
other alarm clocks.

ECONOMIST IS TO POULTRYSHOW WILL MOVE INTO NEW QUARTERS RANK FIRST, SAYS JUDGE RHODES

Growing Demands of Business
Require More Commodious Building; Change to Be Made Early in New Year.

The announcement that Weinman & Levinson, owners of the department store generally known to the public as the Economist, will move into new quarters about February 1, is of more than passing interest to citizens of Albuquerque.

The present location of the Economist is at 208 West Central. For about eight years the owners of the store have been at this location, but the rapid growth of the business has compelled them to seek larger quarters, and it was decided to move further up the street into a building which will afford more room. Accordingly, a deal was made by which, early in the new year, the Economist will occupy the future where Albert Faber, the furniture and carpet merchant, is at present located. This store is at 208 West Central avenue.

Mr. Faber, who has occupied his present location for fifteen years, will move to 312 South Second street, the building formerly owned by the Medicine. He will begin moving his stock during the month of January, so that the building which he is to occupy will be ready for occupancy by the Economist by February 1.

Seymour Levinson, one of the proprietors of the Economist, said yesterday:

"We expect to be ready to move into the new building sometime early in February. There are many changes in our new building to be made. We will install electric elevators, a new lighting system, new fixtures throughout and there is considerable remodeling of the interior to be done to adapt the building to our needs and to the expansion of the trade, which we contemplate. This will all take time, but our removal sale will open on the second of January and by the second of February we hope to be able to begin actual movement of our stock."

"It is our intention to add a number of new departments to the building, which we have not been able to put in in the past because of lack of floor space and the scope of the business is to be considerably extended. But for some time to come our present policy of catering entirely to the needs of the trade will be continued.
Naturally we are proud of the growth of our business, which all things considered, has been rapid and which, in the short space of fifteen years, has taken us from a small one-story building to one of the largest buildings in the southwest, occupied exclusively by a single retail house. We also appreciate the generous patronage of the people of Albuquerque, which has made this growth and steady expansion possible and we can assure our friends and the public generally that with our new home and enlarged business our methods and our stock will not only be maintained at the present high standard, but that we will increase our efforts to give to Albuquerque the very best."

SHOCK SIMMONS NAMED AS DEFENDANT IN SUIT FILED IN COURT HERE

Asking judgment for $277.25, La-zie McFarland yesterday filed suit against Shock Simmons, of Socorro, in the district court. She alleges that Simmons is indebted to her "upon an open account for goods, wares and merchandise." These goods, wares and merchandise were sold and delivered to the defendant between November 8 and 10, and amounted to $277.25, she alleges.

For a further cause of action the plaintiff alleges that she loaned the defendant November 19, the sum of $40.

The Man Worth While Is the Man Worth Money

—not always but ninety-nine times out of a hundred that's so.
It takes mentality to make money. It requires manhood to save money.
The man who will take only a little of the money his mentality—his ability has earned for him and will save it, will get on. Ask any man ten years older than you. Ask him how much he regrets saving so little as ten cents a day for the last ten years. Ask him how much less he thinks of himself than men of affairs think of fellowmen who have saved regularly during the last ten years.

SECOND LIST OF CANDIDATES SHOWS NEW NAMES; INTEREST IS STEADILY INCREASING IN JOURNAL'S CAMPAIGN

Miss Lorena Wells Jumps to Lead; Other Aspirants Beginning Activities; Interest Intense Throughout State; Next Point Exhibit Thursday.

With a gain of 12,095 Miss Lorena Wells, of District 1, leads the Morning Journal's 'Round the World and Tropical Tour' campaign with Miss Sadie Olson, of the same district, second. Miss Florence Baker, who led the list last Friday, drops to third place. Aside from these three there were no material gains made by any candidates during last week.

The outside districts have not yet started the active work of subscription getting but this week promises to see increased interest among the out of town candidates. From every section of the campaign territory comes coupons and additional nominations and this morning's list is augmented by the addition of nearly 100 new names of candidates from various sections of the state.

The campaign is but just starting. This is the second exhibit of points and none of the candidates yet have shown a great amount of energy. Two new yearly subscriptions will overcome the lead of the highest candidates. Now is the best time to start because the public is just now beginning to realize that this campaign is different from any circulation campaign ever before inaugurated by an Albuquerque paper. The subscribers realize, too, that this campaign means a real money saving to them.

This week the mid-week count of ballots will be made on Wednesday and the point exhibit will appear in Thursday morning's paper. The polls will close for Thursday's exhibit at noon on Wednesday. This week end count will close at noon on Saturday. All ballots, cash and coupons for these counts MUST be in the Tour Department at noon of each count day.

It is the interest in the Morning Journal's 'Round the World and Tropical Tour' campaign is becoming intense is evidenced by the gains made by the various candidates in this morning's point exhibit. The list this morning shows the results of the effort put into the campaign during the week and many substantial gains have been made despite the fact that the holiday of New Year's Eve had to be surmounted.

From now on the battle of ballots will be waged in earnest and the candidates who take advantage of the early start will find themselves amply repaid at the end of the race.

The standing of some of the candidates in this morning's exhibit is an indication of the ease with which subscriptions to the Morning Journal are obtained under the Journal's system. Every subscriber recognizes the wonderful advantages to him under this plan and every housewife is anxious to secure the Aservo coupon books so she may cut down the household expenses accordingly.

Not the race has just started. Not one candidate is so far in the lead that she cannot be overtaken with just a little earnest endeavor upon the part of any candidate entered in the race. None is on the "home stretch" and it will be some little time before that point is reached. In other words, every candidate whether she has many or few points to her credit, has an equal chance to secure whatever award she desires.

One or two yearly subscriptions would put any candidate in the lead with the leaders. Anyone can secure a couple of subscriptions with the greatest ease. And when YOU have obtained two subscriptions you will not stop until you have secured several more and before you realize you will be in the lead.

The race is going to be an exciting one and the best candidates—the ones with the greatest amount of ambition, the ones who really are in earnest, the ones who go in with a vim and an "I will" determination—will secure the best awards.

Get Friends Busy. Right now is the time to line up your friends in your behalf. Do not wait until some other candidate has secured a big lead and possibly has been promised the support of YOUR friends. Get just as many other people interested in YOUR behalf as possible. The more friends you have working FOR YOU the easier it will make your campaign—the more successful you will be.

While the candidates in the outside districts have not yet come forward with a big exhibit of points this does not signify that they are not working. Candidates in Albuquerque should not feel too secure in their position and relax their vigilance or their efforts. The next point exhibit will undoubtedly show some surprising changes.

The standing of candidates follows:

Once a Year Is All We Could Stand

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE

Honest John, that's about the best you can say for Christmas week, so far as things social are concerned. A few little odds that were just enough to keep things from becoming absolutely stagnant—a few youngsters kicking up their heels in celebration of the joyous yuletide and vacation time—a dance or two to remind us that we are living, and the story is told.

Some sage of a past day has recorded the phenomenon that Christmas comes but once a year. I mention the matter for fear that I might be accused of claiming credit for originality in making either the statement or the discovery. It is hardly likely to bring on an argument, so we will take it as a conceded fact.

And there will be few among the army of scribblers whose duties require them to chronicle what is going on among the elect to lament that it is a fact. One Christmas a year in good and plenty for any one who is called upon to write society. When they call on you for news and "there are no news"—well, you just have to do the best you can and that is never your best.

The Ten Dons—those delicate gentlemen who constitute something of an intellectual aristocracy in this wilderness of Philistinism—have started something. They took their wives to dinner for a Christmas gift. It is sort of thing going to continue and become a custom, or is the good lady to expect it only as a special thing at Christmas?

I think it is in all this that the story is told of how, at a certain period of Spanish history, it became very fashionable for gentlemen in Madrid to spend their evenings at home with their wives, but was quite the proper supper to put in the time, and the society of somebody else's wife. One night a don was decided to have a little fun, so he went home unexpectedly. The gentleman friend whom he found there took a hasty departure, and having nowhere else to go, went to his own home, with almost results. This sort of thing kept up until everybody in Madrid was scurrying about going home when they had not intended to do anything of the sort.

The Dons should beware lest they set a dangerous precedent. It is a pity that it is necessary to listen to Judge Mann on the main clause with, and A. H. McMillen on the Christmas spirit in giving?

Old Father Hubbard. He went to the window. To catch his awful thirst. When he got there. The cupboard was bare. His wife had been there first!

OF COURSE my friend, Mayor Batters, had to snatch off a column or two during Christmas week. His dog stung was quite the cleverest thing that has been done in Albuquerque in many weary months. It was real humor, and the funniest thing about it was the committee advising that it named the recipients of his official favor. It will be a long time before the stories of what happened when the mayor's dog was delivered the out.

While the story was hot, I asked a very close friend of the mayor how he managed to get the inspiration for such a whole of a stunt. I give you the reply just as it was handed to me. "My dear friend, the answer is simple. Colonel Batters loves dogs—and he worships publicity."

I am not an expert on the currency question. The only explanation of it that I have ever been able to understand is that money by Sam Hays, who said the biggest part of the currency question was how to get it.

But I was very much interested the other day when Joshua Reynolds said that things would be better now than the present time, and the currency bill. I was interested, because somehow I feel that Mr. Reynolds knows what he is talking about. And the principal part of my interest came from the fact that there has been entirely too much talk of hard times among the people who keep things going here in Albuquerque. Discussion has languished because people have been too hard up, or, in other words, too busy with a good time. I don't happen to own a speaking acquaintance with a single paragraph of the currency bill, but if it will cause some Albuquerque people to loosen up, I hereby pledge my vote to President Wilson, as soon as Wilson's suffrage comes to pass in New Mexico.

The Queen of Hearts. She made some talk. The way a cook book said. The King of Hearts. He ate those tart. (The King of Hearts is dead!)

And here comes 1914. There are, of course, the usual pictures of the old story, which I am sure who is "all in," and the little naked baby who is just taking a running start at things. Then the New Year's resolutions—there's a contemporary writer has put the matter up in better form than I could ever hope to do. He says:

"Everybody, everybody is doing it—resolutions are making, or has made New Year resolutions. Mine is 'Just to be happy.'"

If people were taught the duty of being happy the world would be a better place.

Putney Dance Last Night

ROBERT L. PUTNEY was host last night to a jolly party of about forty young people at the Putney home on West Central avenue. Dancing was the principal diversion of the evening. Like everything bearing the Putney name, this event was in every way a success.

The following list of guests were invited by Mr. Putney: Misses Daphne Cobb, Rebecca Horner, Annette Wehman, Elizabeth Anst, Reba Connor, Grace Scott, Florence Waller, Louise Trefferners, Eunice Edstrom, Lillian Kempenich, Pauline Berradale, Adele Cary, Margaret Flournoy, Ethel McCloskey, Cleora Lightburn, Louise Bell, Irene Fee, and Messrs. Harold Perry, Floyd

Party for Miss Carr

AT THE HOME of her parents, Captain and Mrs. Clark M. Carr, Miss Adele Carr will entertain a circle of friends on New Year's eve. The party will comprise the more prominent of the younger set of Albuquerque society, who will see that the old year is put into the things that were and the new year started with on its way before the revelry commences. Miss Carr enjoys an exceptionally wide popularity in Albuquerque, and the affair in her honor Wednesday evening, gives every promise of being a conspicuous success.

For Willard Hopewell

ALBUQUERQUE'S younger set has rarely enjoyed a more delightful evening than the reception given by Colonel and Mrs. W. S. Hopewell, Monday night, at the Woman's club building, in compliment to their son, Willard.

Special preparations had been made to put the club rooms in order for the occasion, and the decorations were in harmony with the holiday atmosphere. These were dancing until a late hour, and an all-round jolly good evening at which everybody was made to have a thoroughly good time.

Among those present were Misses Rebecca Horner, Annette Wehman, Pauline Berradale, Elizabeth Anst, Cleora Lightburn, Florence Waller, Grace Scott, Reba Connor, Hazel Hawkins, Lillian Kempenich, Louise Bell, Adele Cary, Messrs. George White, Harold Perry, Donald Wilson, Floyd Lee, Charles Armbrist, Amado Chavez, Jr., James Herndon, Harold Bickenderfer, Charles Hinds, Robert Putney, Lyman Thacker, George Pratt, William Horner, Roy McChesney, Robert Hopewell and Willard Hopewell.

A Little Love Story

A DREAMER and a man of action loved a woman.

The dreamer said: "I shall write verses in her praise; they will touch her vanity and she will love me for them."

But the man of action said: "How old-fashioned! I shall corner the stock market, and that will bring her."

So the dreamer wrote verses, and induced a friend who ran a magazine, to print them. And the man of action cornered something or other and became a millionaire.

In the mean time, the girl married a man who inherited his money, and they lived happily ever after.

But the dreamer was so proud of his verses that he didn't care, and the man of action was so busy that he didn't care.

The only one to suffer was the man she married.

For Varsity Girls

THOSE of the varsity girls who for one reason or another were denied the pleasure of spending the Christmas holidays at their homes, were made to feel that they were not forgotten when, on Saturday night, a reception in their honor was given by Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Hight, at their home on University hill.

The Hight home was tastefully decorated for the occasion and a spirit of Christmas cheer and good will permeated the atmosphere. A delightful entertainment was provided, and the affair was pronounced an unqualified success by all who were present.

Pretty New Year's Dance

A DELIGHTFUL New Year's dance evening, by the ladies of the Rector's Aid society of Santa Fe, was given at the Rector's hall, which is so admirably adapted for dancing parties, and bids fair to be one of the most enjoyable occasions of the season. The hall will be tastefully decorated, and the presence of the booster orchestra is a guarantee that the music will have nothing to be desired.

A Tale Retold

THE hare is loitered by the way. The tortoise reached the spot. (First read to me when you read three.) The tale I liked me not.

Dependent sayeth not what bliss The goal awarded there. One may despise his enterprise. And yet I like that hare.

The tortoise took the level road. Without an observation. A creature mere of one idea. Void of imagination. The hare frisked sideways through the fields. Alarmed of many causes. And made, no doubt, where turnips sprout. Appreciative pauses.

The tortoise turned not right nor left. A song-bird he heard through. A most artistic soul he. The tortoise labored through the dust. Intent on destination. The hare the while skipped back a mile. In some long-eared flirtation.

Al, well, the tortoise reached the goal. With near an interference. In primers brown he wears the crown Of jolly perseverance. And encouraged to repent. Twice not his gait that made him late— Twice just his temperament.

Al, many a tortoise do I know. It is a rare feat for rarely seen. Homely and good as wholesome food. And just as interesting. And many a frisky hare I know. The boarded hours a-giving. To sing and praise and laugh and line. And take his joy in living.

L'Envoi. Yet let the ancient moral rise— My story it hath none— Of course, the tortoise won the prize— Who was it had the fun?

—Theodosia Garrison, in Life.

Mrs. Nash to Entertain

A MONG the most delightful entertainments for New Year's eve is the card party planned by Mrs. M. Nash, at her home on West Central avenue.

A number of prominent guests have been invited and arrangements have been made for six tables. The home will be prettily decorated and it is certain that an evening of rare pleasure is in store for those who are so fortunate as to be present. The party will witness the old year out and the new year in with the usual ceremonies incident to such an occasion.

It is easy enough to be pleasant when nothing at all seems to matter. But the man worth while. When he reads a line verse like this:

Delightful Children's Party

ONE of the most delightful affairs given in honor of the little folks during the Christmas season was the party given by Mrs. Theodore S. Woodley, Jr., at her home, Wednesday afternoon, to which a number of friends of her small daughters were invited. It was a happy little group of some fourteen kiddies, including the hostess, who were given a glimpse of fairyland and saw with their own eyes the wonderful world of good old King Kringle.

There were presents of all sorts for the guests, and of course there were the refreshments which which any child's party would be incomplete. It was a very wonderful affair, and a wonderfully planned and happy set of children who took part in it.

Christmas Tree at Barelbas

A MONG the entertainments given by the various schools of the county in celebration of Christmas, was that of the Barelbas school, on Tuesday. This school is under the charge of Miss Emma L. Schreder, and the quality of the work that they have done during the present year was shown by the splendid showing of the pupils in this entertainment.

The school was crowded with parents and friends of the pupils who thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment. After the rendition of the numbers on the program, a Christmas tree was lighted and Santa Claus, in all his splendor, personally distributed gifts to the children.

The program rendered was as follows: Song, "December"—School. Exercise, "All I Know"—Miss Anderson's little boys.

Song, "Christmas Bells"—Grades five and six. Recitation, "Santa Claus"—Epi-menio Salazar.

Song, "Hush-a-Little"—Miss Anderson's little girls. Exercise, "A Little Boy's Wanta"—Miss Goss, pupils.

Recitation, "A Letter"—Rosendo Tafara. Song, "Baby's Things"—Miss Anderson's pupils.

Exercise, "Christmas in Other Lands"—Miss Schroeder's pupils. Song, "Letter to Santa Claus"—Miss Goss' pupils.

Recitation, "A Gift to Santa"—Arthur Stamps. Song, "Jolly"—Antonio Vigil and Miss Schroeder's girls.

Exercise, "Bethlehem Babe"—Grades one and two. Song, "A. B. C."—Anita Salazar. Exercise, "Merry Christmas"—Grade three.

Song, "Carol"—Grades one and two. Exercise, "What I want for Christmas"—Miss Anderson's pupils.

Song, "Bethlehem Babe"—Miss Schroeder's pupils. Song, "Jolly Old St. Nicholas"—Miss Anderson's pupils.

Song, "Silent Night"—School. The stark came. Said the man: "My salary is no larger."

Said the woman: "Now I shall be paid down." Said the newspaper: "Mr. and Mrs. Blank are rejoicing in the birth of a son."

Notes of Society

MISS ELIZABETH CAMPBELL, of Bells, Mo., is a holiday guest of Mrs. Paul A. Leach, of this city. Those who have had the good fortune to meet Miss Campbell will be pleased to learn that her visit will be extended well into the new year.

Mrs. O. S. Watson and two children, who have been making an extended stay in California, where they have been visiting the H. E. Foxes and the A. B. McGaffey, will return home this week.

New Year's Reception

T WOMAN'S club Friday, as all the members were busy with affairs connected with the Christmas holidays.

We Eat Too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have headache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flushed clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in keeping their kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Santa Fe Society Notes

By Nan O'Neil

MRS. LOREN C. COLLINS entertained delightfully at tea Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Helen Laughlin, whose marriage to Mr. Emory M. Marshall, of Yerington, Nev., will take place next Thursday. The tea table was gay and attractive with holly and red ribbons and the holiday spirit was reflected in the pleasant hour spent over the tea-cups. Mrs. Collins is ever a gracious hostess and her hospitality was thoroughly enjoyed.

A Club Christmas Tree

THE SANTA FE CLUB had a Christmas tree. The candles were lighted at 9 o'clock Christmas night and the distribution of gifts began. Mr. A. D. Renchan presented a gift to each club member, with an appropriate and witty speech, for most of the gifts were "roasts," and the jokes were especially enjoyed by the members. Dr. J. A. Mammie danced a long wooden knife in his package, with gory spots of blood (red ink) splashed upon its side. It bore the legend, "Oh, You Appendicitis!" Dr. Small was made happy with a large package of mail-fur. Leo Hench was presented with a trying pass, since he is pretending to be a cook while his wife is away. Theodore N. Espe was delighted with a dancing doll to teach him a few of the new tango steps. As the club caterer was given a key kitchen. Superintendent McManus received a keg of nails with the suggestion that he nail some of the runaway convicts in their cells.

More than an hour had elapsed while the gifts were being presented, after which the crowd around the Christmas tree nestled away into the other rooms, some to find card tables and others to try the tango a la phonograph, in the dancing room. The ball leading to the dancing room, was christened "Peacock" after "in honor of its decorations and the new holiday gowns that were admired there. The club was elaborately decorated everywhere with pretty and red ribbons, while every doorway and chandelier had its own bunch of juniper berries mistletoe.

The midnight supper was the crowning glory of the evening, and its praises ran high when it was discovered that the club members had prepared it themselves—few of them have suffragette wives, either.

Christmas Card Party

THE WALLACE CLUB entertained at a merry Christmas party Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Angus McGilvray, on Don Gaspar avenue. Bridge was played at five tables. After the games were over, a delicious lunch was served in the dining room. The house was gay in every corner with Christmas wreaths and mistletoe, and the Wallace club proved themselves to be royal entertainers.

A Holiday Dance

MR. AND MRS. LEROY O. MOORE made the most of the holiday season with an informal dance at their home on Palace avenue, Saturday night. About a dozen couples led the Christmas cheer run to their heels and danced the new dances until midnight, when a dainty holiday luncheon was served.

Arrivals and Departures

MISS OLIVE THOMAS, of Alamogordo, is the attractive guest of Miss Isabel Walker for the holidays. Miss Thomas is also a student at the University of New Mexico and will return to Albuquerque with Miss Walker after the holidays.

Mrs. Stanley D. Small left Friday for Pittsburgh, where she will spend several months with friends and relatives.

Dr. Edgar L. Hewett is expected in Santa Fe Tuesday, where he will remain a few days before going to San Diego.

Miss Grace Williamson is spending the holidays with friends in El Paso.

R. S. R. Dance

THE R. S. R. club held a delightful dance at the library hall, Friday night. Among the guests were many of the girls and boys who were at home from college for the vacation.

Coal Supply and Its Distribution

(Christian Science Monitor).

THE oftener statistics are published with regard to the coal supply of the United States the less apparent reason is there for the high cost of coal to the consumer. Twenty-eight states of the union produce coal, for the most part bituminous. In many of these states only the surface of the coal fields has been touched so far; in many other states there has as yet been no actual development of potential coal deposit resources. And yet, with its present limited output, the United States produces 40 per cent of all the coal brought to the surface in the world. Its annual coal production runs into the hundreds of millions of tons; it has passed the half billion mark.

Roughly stated, there are available to the coal miner in the United States coal fields extending over an area of approximately 200,000 square miles. If the term "inexhaustible" might properly be applied to any yield of this planet it would be in connection with the coal supply. It seems certain, at all events, that there is coal enough beneath the surface in this United States to meet the demands for ages. Yet we have the constant paradox of a coal shortage. A labor misunderstanding in the mines or on the railways, or unusual weather conditions, so affect the production and movement of coal that the price of the commodity may at any time go to a point practically beyond the reach of the poor, even under normal conditions the price is excessive. It is excessive because the commodity is common, it is easily accessible, it is easily moved and handled without skill, it should be very much cheaper than it has been at the lowest point at any time within recent years.

It is literally true in the United States that coals are carried to Newcastle. In the handling of the products of the coal mines, as in the handling of other common supplies, there is much unnecessary hauling and rehauling. The system of distribution is clumsy and there is added cost at every turn, from the time the coal leaves the pit until it is emptied into the bin of the consumer. And the cost of useless hauling and rehauling is paid by the consumer. There is no expert direction of the movement of a large part of the half billion tons of coal annually mined. It is often diverted from markets where it is much needed to markets where it is little needed. Because its production is largely monopolized, individual energy and enterprise in the development of mines close to points of consumption are discouraged or wholly checked. Whether under private control the production and distribution of coal shall be so improved as to insure economies necessary to public welfare, or in the end the public will be forced in self-protection, to take over the coal mines and coal fields, will apparently depend on whether the interests now in control of the situation remain shortsighted or become far-sighted.

DELANVAN'S COMET SAID TO BE NEARING EARTH

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Washington, Dec. 27.—Delavan's comet, the latest stranger in the sky to come within the range of the telescope of expert star gazers, soon may be visible to the naked eye. The faintly illuminated detailed object apparently is drawing nearer the earth, although up to last night it was not to be seen by a less powerful glass than the five-inch finder of the great telescope at the naval observatory here.

Scientists here are keenly interested in the comet, which was discovered by Paul T. Delavan, of the Argentine naval observatory at La Plata. It was first observed in this country by Professor Asaph Hall, U. S. N., at the naval observatory last week. Reports also have been received of observations in Europe.

According to the telegram from South America," Professor Hall said, "a large telescope was necessary for observations there, meaning that the seventeen-inch reflector of the La Plata observatory was used. When the observation was taken in Washington the comet was visible in the five-inch finder of the large telescope."

"It has a bright nucleus, and on the night of December 19-20 it showed a fairly bright nucleus, surrounded by nebulousity, and appeared to have a faint tail following. It is not visible in the two and one-half-inch finder. On the night of December 22 there was considerable haze, so that no tail was to be seen."

Amateur astronomers with small glasses may seek the comet, Professor Hall said, by using the star Zeta Eridani for a starting point. "The comet is approximately 14½ minutes of time west of this star," he explained, "and north of it 213 degrees. It is moving west about 24 seconds of time per day, north about 5½ minutes."

ORPHEUM THEATER WILL GIVE BENEFIT FOR THE WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

The performance at the Orpheum theater Tuesday night is to be made a special benefit for the Woman's Relief Corps of the Grand Army of the Republic. Special pictures have been ordered for the occasion, and patriotic songs will be shown, in keeping with the object for which the benefit is to be given.

The ladies of the Woman's Relief corps are working hard for the success of the benefit, and it is certain that there will be a big crowd on hand Tuesday night to swell the fund that will be turned over to their treasurer. The Orpheum, under its new management, is showing the finest line of pictures obtainable, and those who go out will not only be contributing to a worthy cause but will also have the pleasure of enjoying an unusually fine moving picture performance.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS
AT THE WEST HOTEL

WOMAN'S SUITCASE
BURIED WITH AN INDIAN BOY

San Juan Garcia, an Acoma, May Not Have as Many Changes as He Likes in Happy Hunting Grounds.

When the shade of San Juan Miller, 16 years old, an Acoma Indian,
who died recently, reaches the happy hunting grounds and finds that the phantom suitcase he tucked all the way from McMurtry, N. M., is packed with women's garments, he is liable to become angry and return to the terrestrial abode of fellow tribesmen who attended the funeral arrangements to shriek outside their windows on windy nights.

Of course, that's only a possibility.
San Juan Miller may understand that no offense was meant by his tribesmen and that it was only a mistake that a suitcase of feminine clothes was buried with him—especially when he uncovers his other luggage and finds his own garments. This, at least, will save San Juan Miller the embarrassment of appearing before his forebears in aquatic clothes.

San Juan was a student at the Sherman institute in Riverside, Calif. He died there and his body was brought to McMurtry for burial. The youth had no relatives at the school and Miss Orrington Jewett, formerly of Fort Defiance, Ariz., accompanied the body.

Miller's relatives met the train at McMurtry, so Miss Jewett stayed on the train and came to Albuquerque.
She missed her suitcase upon her arrival and guessed that it had been taken off the train by friends of the Indian boy, thinking it was his. Miss Jewett made an effort to recover the suitcase, but too late; it had been interred with the body of Miller.

Miss Jewett did not get her suitcase, and that is why San Juan Miller will find the feminine garments in his pack when he reaches the celestial reserves.

THE THREE CHINESE, detained by the immigration officials, yesterday identified Charles I. Sharp, formerly a brakeman on the Rio Grande division of the Santa Fe, as the man who had brought them from El Paso to Albuquerque.

Sharp at the city jail denied their statement, saying that he had heard them kicking on the door of a freight car in the lower yards here and let them out. The ex-railroader, with the Chinese, was discovered tampering with the seal of a car by a switch crew last Friday and caught.

The Chinese were kept at the county jail in separate cells Friday night and yesterday they were subjected one at a time to a close examination by Yee Bock Hep, government interpreter, who arrived yesterday morning from El Paso in response to Inspector C. W.
Partch's telegram.

The Chinese are said to have told the interpreter that they changed cars four times on their way from El Paso to Albuquerque. Two of them said they paid $100 in advance each and that they were to pay $150 more when they arrived in New York, it is understood. The younger one said that a friend had arranged for his transportation and that he did not know how much was paid.

All three admitted that they are not legally residents of the United States.
The one who, Friday gave his name as Leong Fun and who had a certificate of residence, said yesterday that his right name was Leong Wai On and that he had obtained the paper from Leong Fun, a cousin, now in China, who had traveled in the United States.

Leong Wai On also said that he came to the United States twenty years ago. He entered by way of Canada then and lived in New York eight years without a certificate. A complaint charging him with smuggling
the Chinese into the United States, authorities say, will be filed against Sharp. He probably will be arraigned before United States Commissioner H.
H. Whitling tomorrow. He has retained W. C. Hancock as his attorney.

The Chinese are held as witnesses.
After the arraignment of Sharp they may be taken to El Paso, or they may be held here. They will be deported, but how long it will be before the immigration authorities take action depends upon the outcome of Sharp's case.

district court against J. C. McLeMore, asking judgment for $50,000. Vigil & Jamison are attorneys for the company.

McLeMore formerly was a resident of Albuquerque, but left here, storing property at the Springer Transfer company's warehouse, according to the company's complaint. The property is reasonably worth $500, the company alleges, and asks that it be seized on attachment and sold to satisfy its claim.

WIFE OF CITY HALL
FOREMAN KLEIN
TAKES POISON

Husband Says He Does Not Know Reason for Her Act; Condition of Woman Reported to Be Serious.

Mrs. J. F. Klein, wife of a carpenter foreman at the city hall, about 3 o'clock last night took poison at her home, 722 South Broadway. She was reported to be in a serious condition.
Whether she will recover, will not be certain for several days, it was understood.

Dr. J. W. Colbert was called from the Santa Fe Coast Lines hospital, less than a block from the Klein home and applied the stomach pump. The nearness of the doctor and the quick application of emergency treatment are favorable to Mrs. Klein's recovery.

Mr. Klein said he did not know why Mrs. Klein had taken the poison. He believed she would recover in a short time.
