ROCKY MOUNTAIN AGRICULTURE.
What Colorado Has Done and What New Mexico Can Readily Double Discount.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The department of agriculture has received some interesting reports from the Colorado experimental station. The report relating to botany and horticulture includes a brief record of the growth of seventeen varieties of apples, six of pears, six of poplars and two of willows; tabulated notes on eighty-five varieties of grapes, thirty-one of strawberries, seven of gooseberries, six of currants, nineteen of sweet corn, forty-seven of peas, thirty-six of beans, five of pumpkins and ten of squashes, and brief descriptive notes on twelve varieties of corn, very brief accounts of experiments with potatoes, onions, cabbage, tomatoes and carrots, and a statement of the number of varieties of vegetables grown for seed for distribution.

L. G. Carpenter prepared the report on meteorology and irrigation engineering.
This includes meteorological observations studies of evaporation, observation of soil temperatures, and the collection of data regarding irrigation as practiced in Colorado.

Preliminary estimates, given in the report, from the data collected by the station and from other sources, indicate that the total amount of land under ditch in Colorado at present is not far from 4,500 square miles, or 3,000,000 acres. The amount of land actually irrigated can not be so reliably estimated at present. It is much less than the amount under ditch. From the sections of the state which have been visited, it would be safe to estimate that not over one third of this is under cultivation.

"Evaporation, in view of the questions arising from water storage, is of considerable importance. Measurements were made on tanks placed in the ground, here and at the sub-stations, and also on tanks floating in the water of reservoirs, canals, and the river. The tanks used for comparison here and at the sub-station were three feet square and three feet deep. At this station smaller tanks, to determine the influence of the wind and the material composing the tank were also used.
The evaporation for the whole year from our principal tank is less than forty inches. At the other stations it has been much greater."

A table gives the monthly evaporation for three years (1887-89) at the station, and for 1889 at the two sub-stations.
H. H. Griffin sends this report from the San Luis Valley station:
"The San Luis Valley (or park) is about 120 miles long from north to south, and from forty to sixty miles in width and is inclosed by mountains except on the south.
Water for irrigation is principally obtained from the Rio Grande river. It is a region of heavy winter snows, but scant summer rain fall; of high winds and late frosts in the spring and early frosts in the fall.

"The station is situated near the Rio Grande river, seven miles east of the town of Del Norte. It is about sixty miles from the southern state line and has an altitude, approximately, of 7,500 feet. The station farm comprises 200 acres; the soil is a light, sandy, gravelly loam; the subsoil is composed of gravel and cobbles and is found at depths varying from one to four feet." Irrigation is used on this farm.

Brief notes are given on experiments with wheat, barley, oats, rye, corn, buckwheat, peas, red clover, alfalfa, esparsette, German millet, English rye grass, and timothy. Notes, in most cases tabulated, are also given for twenty varieties of peas, two of onions, three of radishes, three of lettuce, five of beets, two of carrots, twenty-nine of beans, six of cucumbers, thirteen of muskmelons, four of watermelons, five of peppers, ten of squashes, twelve of sweet corn, three of turnips, three of rutabagas, thirty of tomatoes, and forty-one of seedling and fifty-nine of standard potatoes. Experiments begun with orchard and small fruits and forest trees are briefly reported.

Will Not Enlist.
ARKANSAS CITY, Kas., April 18.—The pet scheme of the last congress to enlist Indians in the regular army is a total failure. At Fort Reno they expected to enlist 500, but failed to get a single one.
The Indians will not enlist and be compelled to drill and work. They say there is too much walking in the infantry, and in the cavalry too much trouble to keep the horses in fine shape. At the Sac and Fox agency only three recruits were secured. At Fort Supply none. Every recruiting officer reports similar failures.

Cleveland Battles 'Em
RICHMOND, Va., April 18.—Congressman Springer, of Illinois, was in the city today and talked freely of Democratic national politics. He declares that Cleveland is in accord with the Democratic party on the tariff question, but that his recent declaration on the silver problem has weakened him. Mr. Springer says the party managers are searching for a man to take Cleveland's place on the ticket in 1892, but none is yet in sight, and if none is found they will nominate Cleveland.

CONDENSED NEWS.
La grippe is still killing scores of people in New York, Chicago and other eastern cities.
Major Benjamin T. Talbot, prominent in Philadelphia society, committed suicide in Boston while crazed by grippe, yesterday, by shooting himself in the right temple with a revolver.
It is said now to have been a mistake—Mary Anderson Navarro hasn't had a baby; she is very unhappy, an invalid, and a wreck of her former self.

DIEGO DE VARGAS.

How the Spaniards Returned The Reconquest of New Mexico in 1692 and 1693.

To the Conde de Pareles had succeeded, as Viceroy of New Spain, the Conde de la Monclova in 1689, and he was in turn followed by the Conde de Galve in 1688. To him Vargas, after having successfully repressed the Apaches, submitted a proposition for the re-conquest of New Mexico. The proposition was accepted, since it exonerated the depleted royal treasury of the greatest portion of the expense. Vargas accordingly set out from El Paso del Norte on the 21st of August, 1692, with a small mounted force—not exceeding 100 men, and advanced with great rapidity up the Rio Grande valley and directly upon Santa Fe. All the villages below San Felipe were permanently abandoned and falling to ruins, intertribal strife and fear from Spanish raids had driven out the inhabitants. The people of San Felipe, however, and the tribes of Santa Ana and Cia had only temporarily retreated into the mountains. On the 13th of September VARGAS ARRIVED BEFORE SANTA FE WITH FORTY SOLDIERS

and fifty Indian auxiliaries, to the utmost surprise of the Tanos. The latter had left their village at Galisteo and quartered themselves on the site of the old Spanish capital where, out of the debris of the Spanish buildings, they had constructed a two and three-story pueblo over the former plaza and the ruins of the palace. That pueblo was quite a formidable affair; not so much on account of its size as of its massiveness and the modern appliances of defense which the Indians had added. A strong wall surrounded the already strong edifice, and that wall was provided with ravines and a bastion, also with two round towers; Vargas camped before the place and began to parley. Soon troops of Indians from the north appeared in his rear, and he despatched twenty-eight men to hold them in check, remaining in front of the pueblo with only twelve soldiers. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Tanos capitulated, without a shot having been fired, and

VARGAS TOOK POSSESSION OF THEIR village and of the "Town of Santa Fe" again. Vargas felt (and probably knew) that this success was due to surprise, and that upon the rapidity of his movements depended further results. So he immediately set out for the north. He had three small pieces of artillery. These he took with him as far as the Pueblo of San Juan where he left them in the charge of a few soldiers, and then, holding received the submission of all the Tehuacans and of the two Tanos settlements of San Lazaro and San Cristobal (then recently established near the present town of Santa Cruz), marched toward Pueblito and Taos. The former village surrendered peacefully on the 5th of October. Taos he found without a soul and so at once entered into the canon east of the pueblo, where he succeeded in bringing the Indians and bringing them to surrender easily. Not the slightest opposition was offered.

VARGAS TREATED THEM AFFABLY and kindly, but already then he noticed that their submission was not sincere, and only due to the stupefaction which his easy capture of Santa Fe had produced.
He soon ascertained that these Indians, as well as the Tanos and Tehuacans, made peace only in order to gain time. The Queeres of San Felipe and Cia subsequently warned him to be on his guard and to mistrust the pledges of the other.

On the 15th of October Vargas had returned to Santa Fe and on the 17th already he was at Pecos, which tribe, sorely pressed by the Indians from the plains and at war with the Tanos, eagerly surrendered. Thence he marched to Santo Domingo which pueblo, as well as that of Cochiti, was abandoned, but Vargas followed up their tracks.

PENETRATING FEARLESSLY INTO THE mountain-fastnesses west of the Rio Grande. He met the people from Cochiti, San Felipe and San Marcos on the same abrupt mesa above the "canada" whence Mendoza had been obliged to withdraw seven years ago, and they also surrendered peacefully. Those of Cia and Santa Ana were together on a high plateau four leagues from Cia, and they also yielded at once. The Jemez and those of Santo Domingo had built a large village on one of the mesas that tower above the picturesque gorge in which the hot springs are situated, and Vargas moved upon them with his little band. The Indians at first showed a disposition to resist, but finally yielded and although reluctantly, returned to obedience, pledging themselves to allegiance to the Spanish crown.

VARGAS HAD NOW CONSOLIDATED his forces, which consisted of 100 Spaniards and fifty Indian auxiliaries. From the banks of the Rio Grande (whither he returned on the 27th of October) he sent back twenty Indians, ten Spanish mili-tians and a few soldiers to El Paso, while he, with eighty-nine soldiers and thirty natives, proceeded to the westward in quest of Acoma, Zuni and the Moqui.
The Acomas detained him at the foot of their formidable cliff the whole of the 3d of November, they were loth to submit.
Still, on the following day, he was permitted to ascend with the two priests in his company and with fifteen men. On the top he received the UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER OF THE PUEBLO.
Thence he went on to Zuni, which tribe sent a delegation to greet him at Pescado

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors," which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How CAN CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.
"My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 2 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE, Nauright, N. J.

spring. The Zuni tribe had retired to the summit of the high mesa of Thunder mountain, where they had built new villages. Their inhabitants rendered to the Spanish commander the most hearty welcome he had experienced until then, and they were the only ones who turned over to him church ornaments and sixteen volumes of printed books, which had been preserved by them after the rebellion. From the

ZUNIS HE PASSED ON TO THE MOQUIS who also received him in a friendly manner at last, although at the outset the people of Aguatayba made hostile demonstrations. Oraybe was the only Moqui village which he could not visit, owing to the dilapidated condition of his stock.
On the 27th of November he was again at Zuni and now bethought himself of returning to El Paso, there to prepare the re-settlement of New Mexico.

He effected that return without difficulty, except two skirmishes with Navajoes, in one of which a Spaniard was wounded and two Apaches were killed.
VARGAS ENTERED EL PASO AGAIN on the 20th of December, highly elated over this quite unexpected success, the peaceful reconquest of New Mexico.

What all his predecessors, since 1680, had in vain attempted, and sometimes with a large force, he had achieved with a handful of men, without the firing of a gun, or the striking of a blow. It appeared almost incredible to himself, and it can not surprise us to see, that he attributes it to a miracle. On purpose, however, I related the above events cursorily only, and with the little detail, for in order to understand the causes of this apparent remarkable change in the dispositions of the Pueblos, but lately so bitterly and inexorably hostile, it is necessary to take each instance for itself, remembering the loose condition and tribal segregation, that characterized their social and political organization. A. T. BANDELER.

For a number of years I have been subject to violent attacks of inflammatory rheumatism which generally lasted about two months. On the first of this month I was attacked in the knee and suffered severely for two days, when I procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it relieved me almost instantly. I therefore most cheerfully recommend it to those who are similarly afflicted everywhere.—R. D. Whitley, Martindale, N. C., February 1888. Mr. Whitley is a very prominent man in this place, and his disease was very widely known as he suffered such severe pain. W. H. H. H. Co., Merchants, Martindale, N. C., 50 cent bottles for sale by C. M. Creamer, druggist.

It is quite probable that you may need the services of a physician some day; but you can postpone the time indefinitely by keeping your blood pure and your system navigated through the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Preventions are better than cure.

Two ladies who hadn't met for a month met at a silk counter yesterday. "I was sorry to hear your husband has lost his position," said one. "Yes," was the reply, "but everything happens for the best. He started some sort of a benefit association, and he is doing right comfortably."

The promptness and certainty of its cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy famous. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and it is the most effective remedy known for these diseases. 50 cent bottles for sale by C. M. Creamer, druggist.

Chained to the Rock.
Prometheus was chained to the rock while vultures gnawed his entrails. So many people chained to the rock of prejudice while all manner of violent medicines inflict injury upon the sensitive lining of the stomach and intestines. They are apparently immovable in the belief that to experience benefit they must keep dosing with drastic medicines. Unless the action of these is powerful and is averted, a just valuation. Constipation, liver complaint, dyspepsia and kidney troubles yield to its action. So also do malaria and rheumatism.

HISTORICAL.

Santa Fe, the city of the Holy Faith of St. Francis, is the capital of New Mexico, trade center, sanitary and archeological see. An Indian pueblo had existed on the site previous to the 15th century. Its name was O-ga-pho-ga, but it had been abandoned long before Coronado's time. The Spanish town of Santa Fe was founded in 1605, it is therefore the second oldest European settlement still extant in the United States. In 1804 came the first venturesome American trader—the forerunner of the great line of merchants who have made traffic over the Santa Fe world-wide in its celebrity.

THE CLIMATE.

of New Mexico is considered the finest on the continent. The high altitude insures dryness and purity (especially adapted to the permanent cure of pulmonary complaints, as hundreds will be witness), and by traveling from point to point almost any desired temperature may be enjoyed. The altitude of some of the principal points in the territory is as follows: Santa Fe, 7,047; Costilla, 7,774; Tierra Amarilla, 7,485; Glorieta, 7,587; Taos, 6,350; Las Vegas, 6,452; Chuarro, 6,489; Bernalillo, 5,764; Albuquerque, 4,918; Socorro, 4,655; Las Cruces, 3,844; Silver City, 5,940; Ft. Stanton, 5,900. The mean temperature at the government station at Santa Fe, for the years named as follows: 1874, 48.9 degree; 1875, 48.6 degree; 1876, 48.1; 1877, 48.3; 1878, 47.6; 1879, 50.6; 1880, 49.7, which shows an extraordinary uniformity. For tubercular diseases the death rate in New Mexico is the lowest in the union, the ratio being as follows: New England, 25; Minnesota, 14; Southern States 2; and New Mexico, 3.

ELEVATIONS.

The base of the monument in the grand plaza is, according to latest corrected measurements, 7,019.5 feet above the level of the sea; Bald mountain, toward the northwest, and at the extreme northern end of the Santa Fe mountains, is 12,061 feet above sea level; Lake Peak, to the right (where the Santa Fe creek has its source), is 12,045 feet high; the divide (Teague road) 7,171; Agua Fria, 6,480; Cimarron (west) 6,025; La Bajada, 5,514; mouth of Santa Fe creek (north of Pena Blanca), 5,225; Sandia mountains (highest point), 10,608; Old Pecos, 6,801; Los Cerrillos mountain (south), 5,584 feet in height.

POINTS OF INTEREST.

There are some forty various points of more or less historic interest in and about the ancient city.

The adobe palace stands on the spot where the old Spanish palace had been erected shortly after 1605. That ancient structure was destroyed in 1880, and the present one was constructed between 1887 and 1916.

The chapel of San Miguel was built between 1636 and 1680. In the latter years the Indians destroyed it. Fully restored in 1711, it had previously, and after 1893, been the only Spanish chapel in Santa Fe. It still remains the oldest church in use in New Mexico.

The walls of the old cathedral date in part from 1622, but the edifice proper is from the past century.

Other points of interest to the tourist are: The Historical Society's rooms; the "Garden," the military quarter; chapel and cemetery of Our Lady of the Rosary; the church museum at the new cathedral; the archbishop's garden; church of Our Lady of Guadalupe with its rare old works of art; the soldiers' monument, monument to the Pioneer Path-Finder, Kit Carson, erected by the G. A. R. of New Mexico; St. Vincent's hospital, conducted by the Sisters of Charity, and the Orphan's industrial school; the Indian training school; Loreto Academy and the chapel of Our Lady of Light.

The eight-story here may also take a vehicle and enjoy a day's outing with both pleasure and profit. The various spots of interest to be visited are Tesuque pueblo, taking in the divide en route; Monument rock, up in picturesque Santa Fe canon; the Archaic prehistoric springs; Nambe pueblo; Agua Fria village; the turquoise mines; place of the assassination of Governor Perez; San Ildefonso pueblo, or the ancient cliff dwellers, beyond the Rio Grande.

THE CITY OF SANTA FE is making a steady momentum growth; has now a population of 8,000, and has every assurance of becoming a beautiful modern city. Her people are liberal and enterprising, and stand ready to foster and encourage any legitimate undertaking having for its object the building up of and improvement of the place. Among the present needs of Santa Fe, and for which liberal bonuses in cash or land are undoubtedly being secured, may be mentioned a cannery, factories, wool scouring plant and a tannery. Skillful labor of all kinds is in demand at good wages. The cost of living is reasonable, and real property, both inside and suburban, is steadily advancing in value.

Do not be imposed on by any of the numerous imitations, substitutes, etc., which are flooding the world. There is only one Swift's Specific, and there is nothing like it. Our remedy contains no Mercury, Potash, Arsenic, or any poisonous substance whatever. It builds up the general health from the first dose, and has never failed to eradicate contagious blood poison and its effects from the system. Be sure to get the genuine.
