SPAIN BESET AT HOME AND IN MOROCCO

Government Faces Critical Situation as Result of War with Tribesmen.

MOORS DEFEAT SPANISH TROOPS

More Than 3,000 Soldiers Were Killed in Hand to Hand Fight—Internal Troubles Are On the Increase.

The desperate condition of Spain at home and abroad was disclosed when the government officially admitted the defeat of the government troops in a great battle in Morocco and when the reports show that Barcelona is completely in the hands of a mob, the streets running with blood and troops trying in vain to check the revolutionists with machine guns. The Moors are flushed with victory and are preparing to attack the Spanish at Alhucemas. Melilla is so hard pressed by the Moors that the surrender of the city at any time would not cause surprise. Spain is bordering on anarchy, resembling the Paris commune. The government is preparing to use stern methods, but it is reported that a vast crowd held an anti-war manifestation before the royal palace and the garrison is said to be affected.

Melilla in Danger.
Madrid, July 29.—General Marin's report says: "On July 27 the Moors cut the railroad, cutting off advance posts which had to be abandoned. The situation at Melilla is grave, despite the desperate bravery of the troops now fighting under the walls of the city. The loss in the engagement was General Platas, three colonels and 1,000 men. The wounded number 1,500. Two generals were mortally wounded."

Conditions Desperate.
Biarritz, France, July 29.—Reports received here show that Barcelona is in desperate condition, with insurgents having the upper hand. The government troops are insufficient to hold the insurgent stronghold and have been forced to abandon several quarters of the city.

Spanish Defeated.
Madrid, July 29.—Official dispatches from Melilla admit that the battle with Moorish tribesmen July 27 was a Spanish defeat. The Moors cut off communication with the Spanish outposts and the main Spanish force was driven back under the walls of the city, where the fighting was continued, hand to hand.

Need All the Army.
Complete mobilization of the Spanish army and reserves has been ordered and all officers on leave have been recalled. The railroad lines are strictly guarded and no one is permitted to enter Spain without consent of the military authorities.

Minister of Public Works.
Vancouver, B. C., July 29.—Minister of Public Works Pugsley referring to the proposed Canadian navy, in an address before the board of trade here said: "I look forward to seeing a number of first class vessels of war of purely Canadian origin and manned by Canadian crews on both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard."

Roswell Capitalist Given Verdict in Sensational Case Which Ended Last Night.

Roswell, N. M., July 29.—William T. Wells, who was charged with the murder of Ollie Shirley, a labor leader, was acquitted of the murder charge last night, the jury being out more than eight hours. ## ASKS DIVORCE FROM SILENT HUSBAND

New York Woman Tired of Non-Talkative Spouse Who Confines His Conversation to "Yes" and "No."

New York, July 29.—Silence! A Spinklike, wooden, impenetrable silence, which has been broken by the utterance of hardly a single word in the four years since he mumbled the responses at his wedding is the reason Frank J. Beckman of Asbury Park is being sued by Mrs. Lizzie Beckman for divorce.

TO FLY IN THE AIR OR SAIL IN WATER

Cleveland, July 29.—An airplane covered with water-proof canvas and filled with propellers at its bow and stern which will work like oars in water is being built by the Boston Airship company here. These strange appliances have been added to the ship in order to prevent it from sinking in case it should fall into a body of water while on a cruise.

J. R. Garfield May Oppose Harmon

A MILLION A MINUTE

By Hudson Douglas

Cornoyer shook hands, rather limp-ly and since he could not very well help himself, with this boisterous twosome, in whom Quintance recognized his own namesake, the man he had first seen in Cornoyer's company at the Cornucopia club in New York. He was dressed for motoring, and looked more prosperous now than he had at that date.

"Who's your friend, J. J.?" he demanded, but Cornoyer was conveniently deaf, and shook his head.

"Oh, come on, fill up!" the other insisted. "Just this one round. And maybe you won't have another chance for I'm going to get married, J. J. my boy! You never saw such a peach of a girl as I've got on a string up stairs, and--well both be rolling in money."

Quintance saw that he was not as sober as he might have been, and paid no attention to what he said further. He was in the midst of some husky confidential communication to Cornoyer when an irascible-looking man with a big black beard and moustach bore down on him from the doorway, reproached him for waiting his time thus. He rose, sulkily querulous but obedient; once more shook hands and departed unsteadily in the wake of his masterful companion.

Cornoyer scowled at his back as he went.

"I wish they had kept that fellow in jail in New York," he muttered. "Let us go home now, Newman."

They passed through the deserted inn, and stepping into the alley, Quintance looked right and left to see how the land lay. Standing there while Cornoyer went back to buy cigars, he caught the sight of two dim figures at the blind end of the passage, recognized in them his unworthy namesake and that individual's black-boarded friend. They seemed to be engaged in an angry argument. They turned away from the door at which they were standing, passed rapidly, without noticing him in the shadows, and turned the corner into a cross-street. Quintance in a celerity unobtainable, and started with Cornoyer to find a cab.

"How is the sorriest fellow," asked that astute gentleman as they drove across the silent Isle de la Cite. "I say a duchess at the Blue Rabbit, but not the Duchesse des Reves. There are plenty of peaches in Paris, Newman, and even that first water cad of a Quintance has found one to marry him--the same girl he made to kiss him before he would mend her automobile."

"What?" asked Quintance stupidly. "The one that he told us about at the Club in New York--when you and O'Ferral were so cross with me?"

Quintance stared at him through the darkness, unable to understand. "But how the devil can he marry her if she's the Duchesse des Reves away. Don't know when I may get back."

CHAPTER XX. The Prodigal, Duc Des Reves, Goes Back to His Husks and Has an Encounter.

"May I telephone in the morning to inquire how you are?" the Duc des Reves asked wistfully of his wife as he bade her good night in the corridor of the Elysee opposite the ladies' boudoir. There he met her when she had arrived at the palace, and she had forbidden him to see her further on her departure, not caring to afford him opportunity for any less public leave-taking.

"Yes, if you wish to do so," she answered without much interest, and, having bowed to him, went her way.

He watched the straight, slender figure disappear down the broad passage, the pale silk cloak she wore outlined against the crimson carpet between the two thicknesses of green plants overtopped by tall palms. And then he turned reluctantly back to the salon to spend another half hour there as he had promised her that he would. It hurt him that she should deem necessary such precaution against his following her, and yet he could not blame her.

He had been greatly gratified by the reception they had met at the hands of society, knowing how little he himself had done to earn any of the most frigid tolerance. Their first evening together had been a great success to all outward seeming, and beyond that he need not yet aspire. In time he would show his world that even such a prodigal as he had been might make a model husband, and at the moment he must baffle its curiosity as to the wife for whose sweet sake he had undertaken that radical change.

When he reached his rooms in the Rue St. Honoré, Jules Chevreton was absent and that annoyed him. He resolved to rid himself of Chevreton at the first opportunity. The fellow just then came sauntering in from the garage where he had been cleaning the car which Seager had just redelivered. When his first impetive remark earned him immediate dismissal he merely smiled with superior indifference.

"He has the swelled head with this wife of his," said that observer of events. "Well we shall see what happens. I have my 20,000 francs, and--I would be interesting to catch another glimpse of madame's wealthy friends. I'll take a cab to the Blue Rabbit on the chance of catching across them there."

The due slept badly, and spent the next forenoon in aimless anticipation of the time when he might telephone the hotel des Reves. That came at last and he rang up, asking that Madame la Duchesse might speak with him. When he was told that she had not returned since leaving the hotel the night before, his heart almost stopped beating.

He called up the head of the household, and had swift permission made, but all that had happened since he had first arrived there from the Rue des Trois Freres. He was told that her maid had gone to the Elysee for her, in his own motor, and neither mistress nor maid had from that moment been heard of. The chauffeur knew nothing. He had been off duty, by Monsieur's permission, on the previous evening. Then the due called up the Palais des Justice and asked for Tissot-Labour and invited him to call at the Rue St. Honoré that afternoon. And lastly, the white-tipped man called up Jules Chevreton, who made no comment when he was informed that he was reinstated in employment, and bidden to come without delay.

He found monsieur in a state bordering on distraction and started in unfeigned astonishment when he was told the reason.

"Madame has left me, Jules," said the due in a hoarse whisper which was the best voice he could muster. "She did not return to the Hotel des Reves from the Elysee. You must help me to find her again."

Jules Chevreton's face darkened, so this was why those Americans had been so liberal! And he who had acted as chauffeur, the tall, fair man who called himself Stephen Quintance, had told him that madame had been safely delivered at her destination. They had misled him, had tricked him, and--A chilling inspiration entered his mind. He almost chuckled to think how fortune's wheels had revolved since the day on which that other American beast had thrown him into the sea at Backaway beach. It seemed that he might now revenge himself condignly for that ranking insult. For it was not other than the aggressor whom he had observed overnight in the corners of the Blue Rabbit at the entrance with the chauffeur, Stephen Quintance. He would reach all those perfidious foreigners that they could not make a fool of a Frenchman and go scot-free. But he must be very, very cautious should the part he himself had played with regard to the car.

"It is not right to assume," he suggested, "that Madame la Duchesse has not disappeared. If her whereabouts will be ascertained, my maintenance of her in the neighborhood."

Monsieur was on his feet in an instant, striking toe and toe in the specious bedroom. He had indeed noticed that the prodigious Jules had suggested, and that no later than his visit at the Elysee. He told the chauffeur that some part of what he had observed there, and that racial war inwardly transported although he had intended with great outward gravity.

"It may be that I can offer Monsieur a glass," he declared. "The gentlemanly Monsieur describes was seen with madame in America. I caught a glimpse of him yesterday at Autoul. Last night I saw him in company with two others at a cab, and one of the others were most striking a complete chauffeur's outfit. It almost looks as though they had abducted madame!"

EVEN THE RICH GET NO FAVORS

Loeb Says Customs Laws Will Be Lived Up to and the Work Done Better.

New York, July 28.—"There will be no more low-bowing to the rich by the customs agents of this port," announced William Loeb, Jr., the collector today. "No more skip-throughs, no more subterfuges. Heretofore, the poor school teacher who had taken a frugal trip abroad has had all the worst of it, but from now on we are going to have quicker clearances, more revenue and fewer disgruntled citizens."

By placing customs desks on both passenger decks of incoming liners, instead of on one only, as formerly, Mr. Loeb was recently able to clear his first-class in one hour, against a past average of three, and he says he expects eventually to cut the time to thirty minutes. "I feel proud," he added, "that while we have lessened the clearing time two-thirds, we have increased the customs receipts 100 per cent."

WHITE RETURNS FROM AUTO TRIP

Van Sant and Party Made Good Time Across the Country, Despite Bad Weather.

Shown as a dainty but and twice as hard, smiling, but a little off in weight, Charles White of the Bank of Commerce, one of the Van Sant auto party which made the trip from Albuquerque to Detroit, Mich., tonight, returned from the California limited today, and to get home.

"We made the 2,700 miles in fifteen days," said Mr. White, "and had all kinds of experiences. It rained on us all the time in New Mexico. Bad roads impeded our progress until we reached Raton. We were the first auto party to travel over the new scenic Highway between Raton and Trinidad. The steepest grade is only 5 per cent and we made good time. We had very good roads from Denver, Colo. Our stops included four days at Denver, and one each at Omaha, North Platte, Neb., Peoria, and South Bend, Ind. We arrived in Detroit a little the worse for wear, but we could have buzzed on to New York if we had the time.

"The Chalmers-Detroit company showed us every courtesy. We were passed by the president to the vice president, who took us through the company's factory. In the evening the head salesman showed us Detroit by gas light."

Mr. White saw Tom Crampacker, a former Albuquerque boy, at La Porte, Ind. Mr. Crampacker is married and holds the responsible position of head salesman in the La Porte carriage works.

Mr. White left Dr. Van Sant and the rest of the party in Detroit.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE SUED IN COURT HERE

McKinley County Official Accused of Misconduct by Electric Light Company.

J. G. Kammer, a justice of the peace at Gallup, N. M., was made defendant in a damage suit for $209 and costs today for alleged misconduct of office. The plaintiff is the Gallup Electric Light company, a corporation doing business at Gallup. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff, previous to the present suit, sued Gordon & Co., of Gallup, for a bill of $21.25, alleged to be due for services performed. The suit was heard by Justice of the Peace Kammer and judgment was rendered against the plaintiff. The plaintiff then asked for an appeal, which Kammer refused to grant. It is alleged, John Fowler and W. H. Morris are also made defendants in the second suit. They are bondsmen of Kammer. McKinley county came forward with another suit entitled John Sholek versus the Rock Cliff Coal company. The plaintiff asks judgment in the sum of $178.11 alleged to be due on thirty accounts assigned to the plaintiff.

NARROW ESCAPE IN A RUNAWAY

Lives of Three Endangered When Vehicles Collided on Silver Avenue Today.

William J. Burgess, a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, and the two daughters of Mexican Chavez, an employe of the First National bank, had narrow escapes from death shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon, when the vehicles in which they were driving collided on Silver avenue near Second street.

Burgess was thrown forcibly to the street and received painful contusions about the head, arms and limbs, but escaped serious injury. He is a health seeker and it is feared he may suffer severely from the effects of fright. The young women, fortunately, were not thrown from their carriage, and escaped without a scratch, although both were given a severe fright.

Just how the accident happened none could say, although half a dozen people witnessed it. Mr. Burgess, who had just left the postoffice, started to drive down Silver avenue. The young women were driving west on Silver avenue, and in some manner the rear wheel of their carriage became tangled in the wheel guard of the carriage driven by Mr. Burgess. Both horses began to plunge and the Burgess carriage was overturned, throwing Mr. Burgess to the ground, directly between both carriages and the frightened horses. The horse he was driving bolted and ran east on Silver avenue, tearing a wheel from the carriage driven by the young women.

As the horse passed Bitner & Stamm's warehouse, it was stopped by Raymond Stamm, who seized the bridle. Spectators assisted the young women from their carriage and others helped Mr. Burgess to his feet.

Mr. Chavez, father of the young women, reached the scene a few minutes after the accident. He was happy to learn that no one was seriously injured and that his daughters had escaped unscathed.

"The damage to the carriage amounts to little since my daughters are safe," he said. The horse driven by the young women, although frightened, did not attempt to run, and the young woman driving the animal displayed unusual presence of mind, handling the reins with the ease of a good horsewoman.

SANTA FE GRAYS HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Padilla Arranges Game and Is Trying to Get Other Attractions Later

The Solomon Grays of Santa Fe are coming to Albuquerque again next Sunday, and there is bound to be a tight game at Traction park. These teams are so evenly matched that it is a toss-up as to which is the better, and they put up a pretty fair class of brush baseball, too. If the weather is favorable there will be a good crowd out to see the battle. Padilla has tried to get the All American team on for another game, but there seems to have been an absence of a head to the organization. Clancy and Safford are members of the National guard and have been in Las Vegas attending the encampment for the past ten days. Padilla says that the $100 the Gallup aggregation proposes to play for looks good to him. He says that he has hesitated about bringing Gallup here on account of them having never proved a good drawing card, but if they are willing to put up a hundred pesos and there is a chance to break even, he will give them any Sunday after the next. He says that Gallup has no horrors for the Grays.

Padilla is also greatly wrought up over the conduct of the management of the Trinidad teams. He says Trinidad refuses to come to Albuquerque. He believes they are afraid to leave their own yard. They can't win a game away from home and they can't lose a game at home.

Trinidad has not averaged up as well this year with other Colorado semi-professional teams as in past years. Whether the Trinidad team is not as strong as usual or whether the other teams are stronger, is not apparent. If they are no stronger than last year the Grays will give them a very warm reception and a series of games here should prove a good drawing card.

ASSURES Y. W. C. A. BRANCH IN THIS CITY

Meeting Last Night Was Well Attended and Enthusiasm Was Manifest.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting held at the Congregational church last night the organization of a Young Woman's Christian association was assured and a committee was named to report on officers. The committee will meet Tuesday and confer on the organization of an Albuquerque branch of the Young Woman's Christian association. Officers will be nominated and a report made at the next public meeting, which will be held Thursday. The place of meeting will be announced later. Action will be taken on the nominees at the public meeting Thursday, and organization will be effected. Those appointed on the committee were: Mrs. W. D. Sterling, Mrs. John Strumquist, Mrs. Forest Cartwright, Mrs. George L. Brooks and Mrs. E. A. Field.

Dr. Margaret Cartwright, who is a strong advocate of the Y. W. C. A., presided at the meeting last night. A program consisting of musical selections and remarks on the subject of the meeting by the ministers, by Mrs. Yarchow and Mrs. Carrie Brott, was given. The remarks by Mrs. Carrie Brott, a widely experienced Y. W. C. A. worker of the east, proved very interesting and helpful. She gave a concise outline of the work to be accomplished and the objects of the organization, its scope and methods. She said in part: "One feature of the work is the attention given to the social life of the young women, by affording them an open room and social evening when they can meet and have good innocent amusement, in connection with physical culture, basketball, domestic science, needlework, etc.

"One great object of the association is to make the young woman acquainted with Christ and to bring the kingdom of God into the hearts of the young women. This is done largely in the study of the connected life of Christ.

"The funds for carrying on the work come from the membership fees, which are $1 a year for the active and associate members, and $5 a year for the sustaining members, from the class and gymnasium fees, from lunch room, etc., and also donations from the public, although the work is not charitable but co-operative.

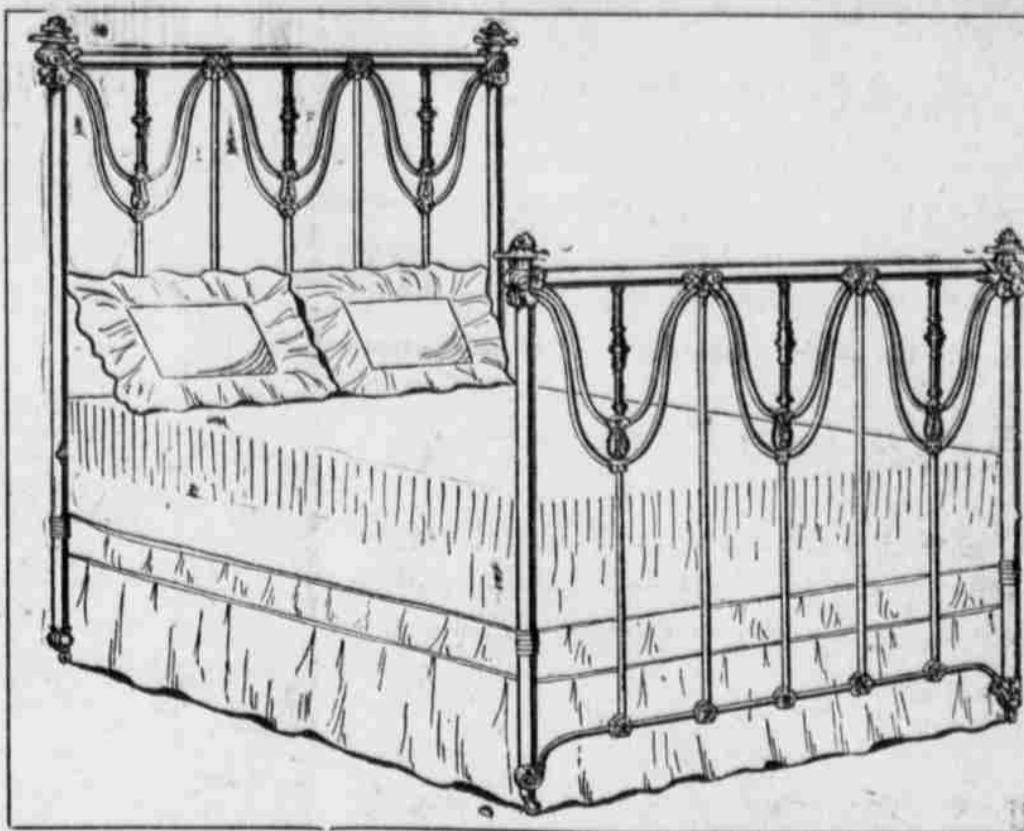

"To carry on the work there are five committees appointed, which look after the finance, membership, house, etc. The chairmen of these committees help to constitute an executive board. Money is raised by the finance committee. The treasurer has charge of the money and pays the bills. The superintendent is paid a salary, which is determined by the executive board. Reports of the progress of the work will be published.

"Let us hope and pray for the interest in the membership and a more vital force in the lives of young women in our city."

AN ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE FORMED

Albuquerque People Take Prominent Part in Organization at Mountaintain.

Albuquerque temperance workers were appointed to three of the four prominent offices of the New Mexico Anti-Saloon league formed yesterday at the Mountaintain Chautauqua. D. A. Porterfield of the Porterfield company, Gold avenue, was made president; Dr. L. S. Burton, of the Barnett building, was elected secretary, and Attorney M. E. Hickey, also of the Barnett building, was elected treasurer. The vice presidency was given to John W. Corbett, of Mountaintain. The headquarters committee is composed as follows: Rev. Hugh A. Cooper, of Albuquerque, chairman; W. G. Ogle, of Las Vegas; Judge R. E. Lund of Roswell, and Judge E. A. Mann, of Albuquerque.

The meeting of the temperance workers was the feature of the day at the Chautauqua. The organization of a New Mexico league was the result of abandoning the plan of conducting a joint league for the two territories. This plan was found unsatisfactory, and it was decided that each territory should continue the fight alone.

The meeting yesterday adopted resolutions thanking Rev. W. W. Havens, superintendent of the joint league, for the work he had done in New Mexico. Mr. Havens was the pioneer temperance worker of New Mexico and Arizona. He was one of the active workers at the meeting yesterday.

Besides the election of officers a number of addresses were made on the temperance question. It was decided that the position of superintendent of the New Mexico league would be tendered J. I. Seder, of Elucclair, Wis. Mr. Seder is an ardent temperance worker and a man of experience in the work and has been wanting to come to New Mexico for some time on account of the health of a son.

The meeting yesterday voted to hold the annual meetings of the league every year at Mountaintain during the Chautauqua. Mountaintain has the reputation of being the only cold water city in New Mexico. "Fighting Booze" is a strong phrase in Mountaintain and much of it has been done there since the starting of the town five years ago, but not in the sense usually understood. The Mountaintain people have "fought booze" at home and in the courts. A number of saloons have been started there but in every instance the places have been closed up by injunction or some other means.

COUNTY AFFAIRS NEED REVISION

District Attorney Klock Spent Yesterday Straightening Out Troubles.

District Attorney Klock, who returned to the city last night from attending to matters concerning the alleged shortage of J. J. Sheridan, deputy treasurer, deputy assessor and deputy sheriff, says that the Sandoval county officials will soon have their office matters straightened up and the government will be put on a stable basis. Mr. Klock says that Sandoval county has good county officers, and the only trouble has been that they have depended too much on deputies.

The office of the assessor, however, is the only one that is badly behind. The books in the office of Treasurer Alejandro Sandoval have been kept up to date. The books of the sheriff's office are in a bad condition, much of the data being kept on pieces of paper. Sheriff Sandoval, who is in the hospital in this city and has been sick since his election, said that he had never received a cent from the office.

Court has not been held in Sandoval county on an average of once a year. If there is a shortage in the sheriff's office, District Attorney Klock says he does not think it is large.

The assessor's office is in the most deplorable condition. The books are months behind, but three men are now at work on them and they will soon be in shape so that the county commissioners can make the levy for the ensuing year.

District Attorney Klock found that there had been a very dilatory practice of collecting taxes and made a few notations on which suits for the collection of taxes will be brought. The district attorney says that Sandoval county has a million and a half of taxable property and should be in safe financial condition.

Mr. Klock spent the entire day in Bernalillo looking into county matters and came home prepared to make what rectifications his office is empowered to make. Sheridan waived preliminary hearing on the charge of embezzlement and was bound over to the territorial grand jury under $2,000 bonds, $1,000 on each charge. The bonds were presented to District Attorney Klock at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon for approval. The bondsmen were Chas. Spader and William Noedel. Sheridan stated to Mr. Klock that he did not deny a shortage but denied intent to defraud the county.

EXTENDS TIME FOR PROVING CLAIMS

Congressional Resolution Is Given Wide Publicity by Territorial Secretary.

Santa Fe, N. M., July 29.—Copies of House resolution number 15442 have been received here and the territorial secretary, Mr. Jaffe, is making every effort to have them circulated as widely as possible, since it is quite likely that the provisions of this act will never again be enacted by Congress.

The resolution in question extends the time for proving up on private land claims and small holdings before a court of private land claims, from March 4, 1901, to March 4, 1910. In other words, thousands of acres of valuable land, now claimed by the holders thereof, would be without title, except for the extension of time thus given the claimants in which to show that they have a proper right to the lands under the laws of the United States covering such claims. The full text of the House resolution is as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section eighteen of an Act entitled "An act to establish a court of private claims in certain states and territories," approved March 1, 1891, as amended by the act approved February 21, 1892, and by the act approved June 27, 1898, be, and the same is hereby, further amended by striking out the words, "before the fourth day of March, 1901," and inserting in lieu thereof the words, "before the fourth day of March, 1910," so that the first clause of said section shall read as follows, namely:

"That all claims arising under either of the two next preceding sections of the act shall be filed with the surveyor general of the proper state or territory before the fourth day of March, 1910, and no claim not so filed shall be valid."

Provided, that the extension herein granted shall not apply to lands within the limits of a confirmed grant or embraced in any entry completed under the public land laws prior to filing of a claim hereunder, nor shall its provision extend to persons holding under assignments made after March 3, 1901.

A MAN TRIED THE DOOR.

J. P. McGuire, a merchant at 427 South Second street, was awakened about 2 o'clock this morning by the barking of his dog, which sleeps in the store at night. McGuire lives in the rear part of the store building, and when awakened by the dog he took a revolver and went into the store. By the bright moonlight he saw a man trying the front door and after a minute the man went to a window on the south side of the store. He couldn't open the window and then came back to the door while McGuire telephoned the police. Officers Marquette and O'Grady arrived in a few minutes but the man had disappeared. The two officers, following McGuire's belief that the man had gone south, started in that direction and came upon Archie Hilton, a half block from McGuire's store. Hilton was arrested and in police court this morning was charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He pleaded not guilty and his hearing was postponed until 5 o'clock this afternoon.

SHIP MICHIGAN PRELATE SCORES WILL SOON BE READY ELIOT'S NEW IDEA

The Government Will Then Have Twenty-eight Battleships in the Navy. Humanitarianism Religion Is Nothing but Paganism. Declares Archbishop.

Washington, July 29.—Having in its official trials fully met the rigid requirements of United States naval constructors, the new first-class battleship Michigan probably will be turned over to the government by its builder, the New York Shipbuilding company, early in August.

The splendid new ship, which thus far is the speediest war vessel of its class, having surpassed the record of the battleship Georgia, the present speed record holder of the fleet, will, when commissioned next month, make the twenty-eighth first-class battleship of the navy.

Five other battleships, a sister ship of the Michigan and four others more powerful and speedier, at present are under construction, and two 26,000-ton battleships have been authorized by Congress. These, when completed, will increase the American battleship fleet to thirty-five in number.

Naval officers who witnessed the trials of the Michigan are enthusiastic over its accomplishments. They declare it will be capable of making an average speed of twenty knots. All speak very highly of the ease with which the ship was maneuvered during its trials and of the manner in which its machinery worked. They regard it as the best battleship in the navy. On its final standardization trial at sea, which ended at Philadelphia Sunday, the Michigan made record time. The official figures of this trial have not been made public, but it is unofficially reported that it exceeded thirteen knots. In the 24 hours' straight run to sea it maintained an average of more than seventeen and a half knots, it is said.

NOTICE.

Territory of New Mexico, County of Bernalillo, In the Probate Court. In the matter of the estate of George L. Tinker, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned was on the 6th day of July, 1909, duly appointed administrator of the estate of George L. Tinker, deceased, and all persons having claims against said estate will present the same to the undersigned or to the Probate Court of Bernalillo county within the time prescribed by law.

CLAUDE HUTTO, Administrator.

Philadelphia, July 29.—The suggestion of a new religion founded on humanitarianism, advanced by President Eliot of Harvard, was called to the attention of Archbishop Ryan, head of the Philadelphia diocese.

"I have already read of this so-called new religion of humanitarianism," said the archbishop. "The more humanitarian theories of infidel paganism, when tried, melted in the sunshine like the waxen pinions of the Athenian artist. Paganism sank to the wildest barbarism in the Religion of Terror. This is a lesson to posterity of the essential connection of Christianity and true civilization."

"But here I may be confronted by some young orator of progress who would say to me: 'I acknowledge that Christianity did great things in its day, but that day has passed. It helped humanity in its infancy to rise and walk, but it needs no such assistance. The church must conform herself to the new and advanced state of things or be pulverized beneath the chariot wheels of progress. We freely admire and adopt all that is beautiful in the morality of Christianity. We admire the Sermon on the Mount and its preacher. We take its morality, but we care little for its doctrines, for these doctrines only lead to differences of opinion and sectarianism.'"

Morality and Doctrine Inseparable. "One of the most fatal and demoralizing superstitions of this country is this attempted separation of morality and doctrinal teachings. Doctrines are as the granite foundation to the whole edifice of Christian ethics, and with them that edifice must stand or crumble into ruins. What makes the value of holy childhood but the doctrine that the child has an immortal soul? Abolish this, look at the state and soon infanticide will commence again and deformed children will be put to death when most shall have lost the tendencies which Christianity has produced and fostered."

Most men admire the Church's action in regard to divorce. They believe that her conservatism in this respect is essential to the preservation of the family with the sanctity of human love. But all her action and her suffering in maintaining this principle are founded in doctrine that marriage is indissoluble, and because of this doctrine the Pope himself and all the bishops of the world united with him cannot grant a single divorce.

"Look at the great motives of human action. Bewildered that young man, trembling with fearful temptation, quivering with some mid-day demon, the pleasure promised is certain and alluring. Religion whispers in his ear: 'Play not with your conscience, you know that to yield is wrong, remember the punishment which God has threatened. Remember the heavens you renounce if you yield, and the hell whose punishment you deserve.'"

"If Hell is Abolished, 'Now all the warning is based on doctrine. Only whisper in his ear: 'There is no hell. God is indulgent, it takes no countenance of human position strike down the great truth and you strike down the great motive.'"

"But some may say that it is utterly impossible that we should go back to the paganism from which Christianity has liberated us. There is no danger of our going back to the paganism from which Christianity has liberated us, yet one must remember that human culture will not save us. We have no greater or as great poet as Horace and Virgil, no greater or great orators as Cicero, no greater moralists outside of Christianity than Seneca, and yet they could not save society from the civilized barbarism of paganism."

"We must remember that, though the new religion of the future of which some men dream may not be called paganism, it is paganism under another name. We occasionally hear of the religion of humanity. What is this but paganism which defies all that is true and beautiful and good with all that is vile in our nature, and calls these things by various names the deities of its religion?"

Man Must Worship Something. "If anyone whispered to the infidel philosophers of France who sought the destruction of the Christian religion that the day would come when they would find themselves worshipping at a pagan altar they would have smiled in derision. But false principles soon led themselves out into institutions. Man is a religious being. If he worships not God he will worship himself. Deny the doctrine of faith and you try to kill Christianity and establish some form of paganism."

"In the name of our Christian civilization, I, a bishop of the Christian Church, lift up my voice to warn you that the popular modern system of teaching morality without the doctrines that motivate it, whether that system be called Christian ethics or moral instruction or unsectarian teaching, is sapping the very foundation of Christianity and Christian civilization."

JAPS EXHIBIT A BEAUTIFUL NEW ART

Butterflies Are Transferred to Cloth by Means of Recent Invention.

Seattle, July 29.—A beautiful art, new in invention, is demonstrated by a number of examples shown in the fine arts display of the Imperial Japanese government at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

The art consists in transferring butterflies and motifs directly to certain materials and fabrics with such skill that no loss is experienced in either color or delicateness of outline. When the operation is completed the finished picture presents the winged insects in all the beauties of actual life. Of the examples shown, two pieces of fine white silk have been decorated in the way mentioned. More than one hundred butterflies have been transferred to the cloth, and as it hangs, subject to the slightest air current, the beautiful creatures have every appearance of life.

The process can be applied to many materials, but the fineness of silk appears to lend itself more satisfactorily than others. Past cards, fans and many other articles appear with this butterfly decoration and their naturalness is remarkable.

The invention is protected under patent by the noted entomologist, Professor Y. Nawa, of Gifu, Japan, and according to his statement, the completed article is not susceptible to the influence of water or rubbing. Professor Nawa is not unknown by reputation, at least through the United States, and his assistance was contemplated some time ago in aiding the securing of the patents used in destroying the Egyptian moth which was for a time so destructive in the eastern states. At that time Professor Kinade of the University of Washington, made a journey to Japan in the interests of the University of Massachusetts, for the purpose of securing the desired parasite. In his work he was assisted by Professor Nawa.

Little Old U. S. That the area of the United States when compared with other countries is but little realized by the ordinary person is brought forcibly to mind when one looks over the maps and statistics exhibited in the department of Bureau of American Republics at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

Many of the countries of South America generally regarded as being somewhat insignificant in extent, population and production, are found to be empires in area and remarkably rich in production. Brazil in particular is almost universally misunderstood. If it could be placed over the entire United States, it would not only hide them from view, but would still have enough territory left to carve out the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and the entire group of New England states. Running across the entire country is the Amazon river, and through its delta flows three times the amount of water daily discharged by the Mississippi.

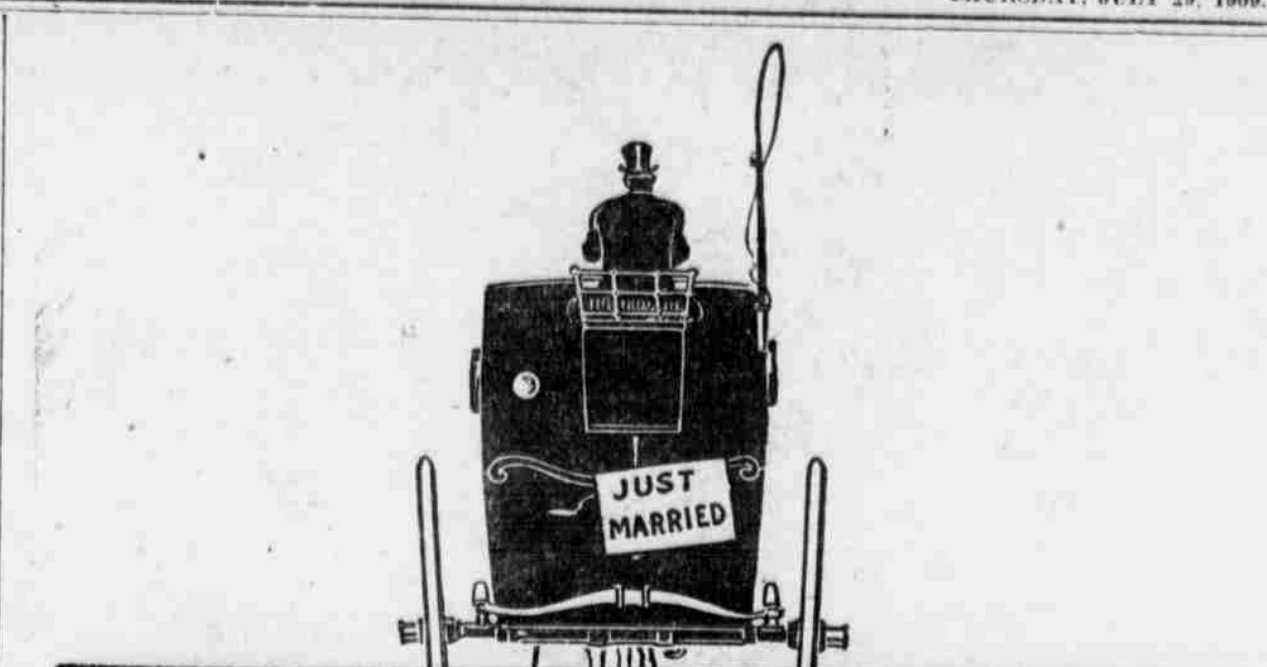

Rio de Janeiro is growing with the same rapidity as Boston, St. Louis or Baltimore, and has today a population of more than 900,000. As a center of civilization, education, art, industry and literature it ranks among the foremost cities of the world. Forty-five million dollars have been expended in dock improvements alone and other public improvements are being prosecuted on the same scale. It took $142,000,000 to buy last year's coffee crop alone, and this is but one of the enormous sources of revenue found in the land. Other republics of Latin America hold even greater surprises, and their conditions are eagerly inquired into daily by thousands of exposition visitors.

FARMERS ANSWER SENATOR'S QUESTIONS

Salt River Valley Residents are Preparing for Arrival of Legislators This Fall.

Phoenix, Ariz., July 29.—Farmers in the Salt River valley have called a meeting to be held tonight for a discussion of the questions sent out in advance of a committee of senators who will visit the various reclamation projects of the west this fall. The Salt River valley farmers will prepare comprehensive answers to the questions and a committee of farmers will meet the senators, present the answers to the questions and discuss whatever phases of the reclamation work the senators may desire. It is believed that by concerted action the farmers will be able to give the senators better information concerning their project and at the same time their action will result in benefit to themselves by showing the legislators what they have accomplished.

Public Inspection Invited. On the laboratory of the Pinkham Medicine Company at Lynn, Mass., is a large sign which reads as follows: "Public Inspection Invited from 8:30 A. M. Until 4:00 P. M.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. This means that everything in connection with the preparation of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is open to public inspection. The roots and herbs are tested for uniformity of strength, and the utmost care and accuracy is maintained throughout the entire preparation of this great remedy for woman's ills."

Off for the Honeymoon

Off for the train in a shower of rice and old boots—the happiest shower that ever fell upon the earth. It is the one time in life when the world seems the rosiest and brightest, when everything seems bursting with the sheer joy and happiness of living. But when the honeymoon begins to wane and the youngsters are ready to settle down in a home of their own—then begins the round of time old problems. First they must find a flat, unless they are going to live with the old folks. Then they must buy the furniture—and what fun it is too! and the cook—yes it is wisest to have a cook even if she did learn "domestic science" at high school. All of these problems can be simplified by a careful study of the want ad columns. The best flat in the city will be found listed there—if it is empty. Furniture just as good as new is for sale in these columns. And the cook—yes, you can find her there too by a little ad of your own. Don't overlook these little suggestions and the honeymoon will still continue to shine through all the dense clouds of reality—see if it don't.

Martha Washington Juliets

There were more Martha Washington shoes sold last year than the combined sales of all other shoes of the same kind.

This proves beyond all question of doubt their great popularity. And why has the Martha Washington this wonderful sales record?

In the first place it fits more feet than any other shoe made. It is the genuine comfort shoe of the age. It has many imitators, but none equal in style, fit and wear.

The very choicest stock is used for them. The uppers are of selected kid and the soles of the highest quality oak tanned leather, tough and flexible.

Last, but not least, they look dainty.

HILTON TRIO
MADE A BIG HIT

Albuquerque Audience Delighted With Concert at Theatre Last Night.

The appearance of the Hilton Trio at the Elks' theatre last evening, was greeted with a fair sized audience, which numbered among it, nearly all of the music lovers in the city.

Much advertising and the fact that Miss Hilton, the star of the occasion, was a well known New Mexico young lady, led the audience to expect much of the trio and in all fairness, it must be said that the young ladies fully measured up the standard set for them.

That Miss Hilton, violinist; Miss Head, contralto; and Miss Chapman, pianist, have exceptional ability in their respective musical spheres, coupled with exceptional education and training, was demonstrated by the reception accorded them last evening by an audience which was disposed to be critical.

The concert was one of the musical treats of the year in this city and the young ladies had the good sense to so arrange their program that it was not classical, yet amply displayed their ability in their particular lines—211 of which was further proof of their art.

Miss Hilton, the violinist, gave to her playing last night that subtle feeling and perfection of technique, which is the rarest accomplishment of violinists in the production of music such as she selected. Her work was a personification of grace, and ease and she received a hearty and spontaneous encore after each number. Her pleasing western personality was a subject of general comment.

Miss Head, the contralto, possessed a voice of exceptional power and sympathy and her years of hard work and study, gave her excellent control of each and every tone. She sang with ease and held her audience without effort. Miss Head rendered selections in several languages but her "La Golastrina" was undoubtedly the most popular, although by no means the best, of all she sang last night. The manner in which she rendered it, however, entitles any New Mexico audience to pardon for admiring it much more than selections of greater note.

Miss Chapman, the pianist, made a decided hit last night and received a veritable ovation after each rendition. She is undoubtedly one of the most accomplished pianists an Albuquerque audience has heard in many months and last evening she was compelled to respond to encore after encore. Her interpretations of Chopin were particularly good, although it would have required a critic of much judgment to have discriminated between her numbers.

Should the Hilton Trio visit Albuquerque during the theatre season, when fewer people are absent from the city, they may feel assured that standing room will be at a premium and that they will receive a hearty and responsive welcome from all lovers of high class music by high class artists.

The program last evening was as follows:

THE DUST AND GREASE OF SUMMER

Is more trying on the light and more delicate summer garments than what is experienced in winter, which fact furnishes abundant reason why you should have them frequently cleaned, as summer attire must be fresh and undefiled to appear at its best. The facilities for cleaning every kind of ladies' and gentlemen's wearing apparel, and the service offered by The Duke City Steam Cleaning and Dye Works, will be found particularly satisfactory.
