STATEHOOD BILL IN COMMITTEE

Sessions to be Daily Till Committee is Ready to Report.

INTERESTED PARTIES WILL

Be Heard by Committee--No
Doubt of Favorable Report.

EXPECT VOTE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Washington, Jan. 4.—The senate committee on territories met today and began consideration of the joint statehood bill. This was the first meeting of the committee to consider the admission of states.

The pending bill was read and considered by sections. It is expected that meetings will be held nearly every day until the bill is reported. Several interested parties will be heard.

LATER INFORMATION IS ALSO FAVORABLE TO IT.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The joint statehood bill will probably be reported favorably by the house committee on territories next Monday or Tuesday, and unless present plans are changed, it will be considered by the house on Wednesday.

The bill to be reported by the committee will provide for the admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory as one state, and New Mexico and Arizona as another. It will differ from the bill defeated at the last session in the senate in that it will not carry the Gallinger-Stone prohibition amendment. Prohibition is provided for only in the Indian Territory, and the Indian reservations in Oklahoma. The names of the new states are to be Oklahoma and Arizona.

TO RAISE FUNDS FOR

MONUMENT TO VETERANS.

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 4.—This is a banner day for the veterans of the civil war in this city. The Joe Spratt Post of the Grand Army of the Republic has undertaken to raise funds for the purpose of erecting a building in memory of the soldiers and sailors of Jefferson county who have fought and died for their country. Last December the post inaugurated the move with a fair, which was opened in the name of President Roosevelt by Gen. O. O. Howard, and netted about $2,000. In furtherance of this movement the post has arranged for a large meeting this evening, at which Corporal James Tanner, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, will deliver the principal address. He will arrive late in the afternoon and will be escorted to the meeting by a committee of members of the post.

A NOVEL SOCIETY

HOLDING ANNUAL MEETING.

Jenkintown, Pa., Jan. 4.—The members of the Union Society for the Recovery of Stolen Horses will hold their ninety-fourth annual meeting and banquet here today. The society was formed in 1812, and has had a highly interesting history. When a member loses a horse by theft nowadays the authorities in the various cities are notified, but only comparatively few years have elapsed since the "riding list" was effective, and members would ride, for days, perhaps, on the trail of the thief. Secretary Mather, one of the most interesting characters to attend the banquet, is 88 years old, and has held the office of secretary continuously for 37 years. His brother is Isaac Mather, who was 99 years old on October 27 of last year.

SCANDAL WAS MORE

THAN HE COULD BEAR.

Pretoria, Transvaal, Jan. 4.—Captain J. Hopkins, quartermaster of the Second Dragon Guards, whose name had been mentioned in connection with the war stores scandal, was found dead this morning under circumstances pointing to suicide.

The matter has been under investigation since the close of the South African war, and the value of stores misappropriated is estimated to be between thirty and thirty-five millions of dollars. The prosecution of the officers concerned in the scandal was ordered for December 27th, just passed.

OLD MISSOURI AND OIL KING

Will Take Testimony
Tomorrow.

BIG LEADERS NOT SERVED

Rockefeller, Flagler and Others Keep Out of The Way.

TWO SUITS HAVE BEEN BROUGHT

New York, Jan. 4.—The taking of testimony in the suits brought by the State of Missouri against the Standard Oil company and several of its allied companies, will begin here tomorrow. Henry R. Rogers, John D. Archibald, Wm. G. Rockefeller, Wade Hampton, Frank D. Barstow, E. T. Bedford, Howard Page and James A. Moffett are expected to testify tomorrow.

John D. Rockefeller, Henry M. Flagler, Charles M. Pratt and H. Clay Pierce are among those who have not been served.

There are two suits pending in Missouri courts against the Standard Oil company and its subsidiary concerns. The one in the Supreme Court is an action to bar the Standard Oil company of Indiana, a branch which does business west of the Ohio river, the Waters-Price Oil company, and the Republic Oil company, from doing business in Missouri. The other suit, in the circuit court, is an application to prevent the same concerns from carrying out terms of alleged pooling agreement, by which, it is alleged, the business of competitors is crushed.

INDIANA STOCK BREEDERS

HOLD BIG MEETING.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 4.—One of the best attended meetings of the Indiana Live Stock Breeders' association opened in the supreme court room at the state house today. Besides the regular members of the association there were many prominent farmers and stock breeders from all parts of the state in attendance. The program arranged for the meeting is exceptionally fine and interesting, and includes addresses by Prof. H. W. Mumford of the University of Illinois, the Hon. P. Gray of Wisconsin, and A. J. Lovejoy of Roscoe, Ill., one of the most prominent swine breeders in America. In addition several prominent Indiana breeders will appear upon the program, among them Lloyd Muggs of Kokomo, W. J. Beckett of Indianapolis, S. M. Lockridge, president of the Southern Breeders' association, and others.

"MUM'S THE WORD"

WITH TAWNEY

THE CONGRESSMAN REFUSES TO DISCUSS THE QUESTION OF
JOINT STATEHOOD—HAS PRESIDENT
PUT THE GAG ON HIM, TOO?

Congressman Charles A. Tawney, of Minnesota, was in Albuquerque last evening for thirty minutes, arriving from San Francisco on train No. 8 and leaving on the same train for the east. Mr. Tawney is one of the republicans in the congress, and is known for his opposition to joint statehood, and Mr. Tawney was asked by the congressmen with the territorial party which saw the territories recently from a Pullman coach, who owns Arizona mining stock.

At the time the Tawney party was in the city, on their return east from Arizona, Congressman Adams, of Wisconsin, admitted that three of the party were owners of Arizona mining stock, but Mr. Adams did not think at that time that any of the party had increased their holdings while on that trip. However, that three of the party should have Arizona mining stock, and two of them had never before seen Arizona, looked rather queer at the time, but now since Walter Wellman, in the Chicago Record-Herald, has told of the picturesqueness of the Arizona mob at Washington in boldly disposing of dividend paying stock of favored congressmen and senators at twenty-five cents below par, there is nothing at all queer about Mr. Tawney and his colleagues having some of the preferred stock if they were preferred friends of the mining companies.

Mr. Tawney was making the trip from Frisco to the east, with the national capital probably as his destination, in the privacy of a Pullman state-room. He refused to discuss the statehood question.

PREPARING FOR MONUMENT

ON VICKSBURG BATTLEFIELD.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 4.—Ex-Gov. L. F. Hubbard, Gen. C. C. Andrews and Thomas Wilson, the commissioners in charge of the selection of sites and monuments to be erected upon the site selected on the battlefield of Vicksburg, in honor of the Minnesota troops who fought during the siege of Vicksburg, arrived here today to consider the drawings and models of the monuments from which the selection is to be made. One large state monument will be placed on a site selected by the commissioners and the markers or small monuments will be placed to indicate the positions taken by the Third, Fourth and Fifth Infantry and the First Minnesota battery. Other markers will show the advanced positions occupied by the regiment in the assaults of May 22, 1863.

FLEEING RUSSIA 100,000 A MONTH

Just Like in the French Revolution People Are Flying From a Reign of Terror--Finland a Haven for Many-- Wealthy Emigres to Berlin.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 4.—Russia is being deserted by her population at a rate greater even than the general flight from France during the French revolution. Cities, provincial districts and the smallest villages are all represented in the flight. During the past three months 300,000 people have fled from the country and the exodus is now proceeding to the extent of at least 25,000 people a week.

Everybody who leaves the country has to receive a permit from the Russian government. This antiquated procedure has not yet been abolished, and the passport bureau of the St. Petersburg police department is employing a huge special staff to deal with applications for departure papers. The authorities interpose no obstacles to those wishing to cross the frontier. The only rule that has to be followed is the presentation of a declaration from the local police bureau in the district where an intending emigrant resides, stating that there are no police reasons against the applicant leaving the country.

Many Russians who do not care to go abroad, and who at the same time are afraid to remain in Russia proper, are going to Finland, which is the only peaceful part of the czar's dominions. Many thousands who cannot afford to leave the country in any event have arranged to go to Finland if a reign of terror begins. The local self-government given to the Finns has been followed by entire quiet throughout the country, which is now as safe a refuge for the Russians as America.

A large proportion of the army of emigrants moving toward the frontier are Jews. Only those Jews who cannot obtain enough money to leave the country, or whose local interests make it imperative that they remain are not joining the exodus. These two classes are in the great majority but at least 1,000 Jews a day are emigrating themselves.

Hundreds of wealthy Christians are sending their families from the country, and every train that crosses the frontier has its quota of unescorted women and children.

Berlin is the most popular terminal of the wealthy emigrants. There are between 50,000 and 60,000 Russians in Berlin who have arrived there during the past few months prepared to remain until their country recovers its equilibrium. Others have gone to Paris, some to Switzerland and a few to London.

The poorer classes almost invariably go to London, either to remain there in the east end district, or else to continue on to the United States, Canada or South America. They have a little money in their possession, and if they are Jews they count on receiving assistance from the Jewish organizations in London.

FATAL FOG HOVERS

AROUND NEW YORK

One Hour Objects Shut Out
On Land and River.

MANY COLLISIONS OCCUR
Navigation Almost Ceased and Several Accidents Proved to be Fatal.

New York, Jan. 4.—Scores of tugs and steamers went astray in the dense fog which enveloped the New York harbor, Hudson River and East River for over an hour today.

One wreck, a collision, in which one man was fatally injured, and several smaller accidents were reported. Fully half of the ferry lines stopped running for about an hour. Many of those which did run had half-breadth escapes from disaster.

On Raritan, a small schooner went ashore, and a life saving crew went in search of the crew, who had taken refuge in a scow, which the schooner had been towing. The ferry boat, "Passaic," was run down, in the Hudson River by the ferry boat "Binghamton." The "Passaic's" side was crushed in. Nicholas Carlo, a deck hand, was fatally injured, and a passenger was slightly hurt.

Fire this afternoon destroyed a coal and wood shed at the corner of Eighth and Roma avenue, belonging to Francisco Arrijo, who resides in Old Albuquerque. The shed was adjacent to the house occupied by the family of F. E. Ellsworth, and was valued at about $40. It is thought the fire originated from lighted matches thrown near the shed.

EX-SHERIFF HUBBELL'S BILL ORDERED PAID

The county commissioners held a meeting in the court house this morning for the purpose of considering two bills presented to them by Ex-Sheriff Thomas S. Hubbell.

One of Mr. Hubbell's bills was for feeding prisoners in the county jail. It was for $3,814.50 and represented the amount of money spent in boarding prisoners from January to September, inclusive.

Another bill presented by Mr. Hubbell called for $274 for boarding the jailer and assistant jailer. The board approved this bill but deferred ordering a warrant drawn for the amount until some time in the future.

The object of the course is to give the men and women on the farm the privilege of taking practical instruction in farm crops, dairy work, stock husbandry, horticulture, plant study, insect life, including bee culture, and household economy. The cost is so small to each student that it does not amount to more than the cost of the ordinary living expenses at home. The course includes forty-five lectures and exercises on the different subjects

Shaw's Plans.

New York, Jan. 4.—In a speech before the Chamber of Commerce today, Jacob H. Schiff, head of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., declared that unless something shall be done for currency reform, there will be a panic in this country. He said that he regarded the money of a note elastic currency as of prime importance, but he would not favor the plan recently outlined by Secretary Shaw for an emergency circulation. He said that he rather favors a circulation based upon commercial paper, and which may be issued through the clearing houses. There was a sharp break in prices on the stock exchange as soon as the tenor of Schiff's speech became known.

Several distinguished orators will deliver addresses in response to toasts.

TROOPS TO SUBDU CAUCASIA

Riga, Tuesday, by courier to St. Petersburg, Jan. 4.—About 5,000 armed workmen before daylight this morning, took possession of the Provoznik rubber factory, and the military, as this messengers forwarded, are bombarding the factory.

The revolutionists killed the policemen who were guarding the building, and a detachment then crept into an adjoining structure, where a party of dragons was asleep, and murdered eight dragons and six stablemen and wounded eleven others.

One man escaped and gave the alarm to the troops, two regiments of which, with artillery and six quick firing guns, arrived at the scene by daylight. In the meantime the revolutionists had thrown up a barricade and a terrific fire was opened by the troops upon these defenses and on the factory. It is known that many were killed and over one hundred wounded. The soldiers are almost insane with fury.

WORKMEN SURRENDER

RUSSIAN ADMIRAL.

London, Jan. 4.—It was learned at the foreign office today that Great Britain anticipates that Russia will repudiate the statements made by Admiral Rodjstevsky in the letter published yesterday in Novoe Vremya, that the British fleet in far eastern waters intended to crush the Russian in case the Japanese failed to do so, at the battle in the Sea of Japan, and which the foreign office declares is absolutely unfounded.

GATHER AT WHITE HOUSE.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The white house will once more be the scene of a brilliant official event, when the members of the diplomatic corps will gather there this evening to attend the first official reception to the diplomatic corps given by the president in the new year. The members of the diplomatic corps attended the regular New Year's reception on Monday, but the reception on New Year's day is not recognized as a specifically diplomatic function. It is more of a general character, although it would be considered highly improper for any foreign representative to fail to attend. The diplomatic receptions of which several are held during the course of every season, have a distinctly diplomatic character, and are among the most interesting and brilliant events of the social season at the white house. The first diplomatic dinner will be given at the white house a week from today.

LA FOLLETTE SWORN AND SEATED

Washington, Jan. 4.—The customary holiday recess having come to an end both houses of congress reconvened today. Contrary to the usual custom of delaying their return to business for one or more days after the roll-calls both houses showed a large attendance when they were called to order again. The senate started in rather mildly, but the announcement was made, that the roll call would be taken up at the earliest opportunity. A debate of considerable length is expected. The regular order filled practically the entire session of the senate.

In the house of representatives Mr. Payne, chairman of the committee on ways and means, called up the Philippine tariff bill for consideration immediately after the opening of the session. The bill provides for free trade with the Philippine Islands after July 1, 1909. In the mean time the bill orders a reduction of the tariff on Philippine sugar and tobacco to 20 per cent of the rates under the Dingley tariff and allows other island products to enter free of duty. The amendments have been made by the committee, the most important one putting American refined sugar and tobacco going to the islands on the free list.

It is expected that the consideration of this bill will take up considerable time, and it is quite sure that the bill will be strongly opposed by the American Protect league, which is headed by Cornelius Blaes of New York. It is not considered probable, however, that the opponents of the bill will be able to prevent its passage, as the bill has not only the powerful support of President Roosevelt, but of Secretary Taft and nearly every member of the Taft party, which visited the Philippine Islands during the past summer. The islands are not prospering, and will not do so, it is claimed, until their commercial relations with this country are closer, and until they are put on a footing that will enable them to get their agricultural products into the United States without heavy charge.

A WELL SPREAD TABLE.

And the Man "Fell Out" With It.

A manufacturer in Missouri says he started out as young man with all most perfect health, but that, "by the time I was 24 my digestive apparatus was so completely wrecked as to make my life a positive burden."

"I was neither a hard drinker nor an inveterate user of tobacco; my condition could not be charged up to those things."

"I had simply ruined my digestion by a course of living common among those who indulged in unwisely selected food and deny their appetites nothing, and so years passed, during which every sort of food seemed to do just the opposite of what it should have done, with me. A well spread table was offensive to me. The sight or smell of food made me deathly sick. In brief, I had dyspepsia, in its worst form. I spent many a hard earned dollar for remedies which did me no good whatever."

"This was my condition, when a friend insisted that I should try Grape-Nuts food, and to please him I consented, expecting to derive no more benefit or pleasure from it than I had from other prescribed foods that I had tried. But I was most happily disappointed."

"For more than a year I ate positively nothing but Grape-Nuts—it was my soup course, my meat and my dessert. I never tired of it and grew steadily fatter and more hearty. I put forty pounds of good, solid flesh that had never been there before, on my bones. My dyspepsia is gone—the memory of a terrible nightmare."

"I am well now—seems like I can go on. In ill—aid Grape-Nuts is still found on my table, in one form or another, at every meal, and is never out of supply in my home. A meal without Grape-Nuts is a mighty poor meal for me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Two strong Kansas foot ball eleven tried the new rules for playing the game at Wichita the other day, and players and spectators were in the mood for a failure. Jimmy Callahan is having more trouble with his proposed city league in Chicago, than the keeper of a grudge. Thus far he has been able to lure only two organizations to his fold, while the strongest of the amateur teams are fighting him, with a fair chance of knocking the scheme out. It looks as though Callahan would be back in the big league fold after all.

Joe Grim, "the human punching bag," was getting the worst of it in his fight with Jack Reardon at Wilmington, the other night, and three rounds to the floor and kicked him. The referee pounced upon Grim and hurled him through the ropes and then ordered the fight to go on. The next three rounds were as savage as any as were ever fought in a prize ring. Only the round which saved Grim from being put out. The referee is being censured for not awarding the fight to Reardon on a foul.

KILTIES FAMOUS BAND TONIGHT

The famous Kilties' band will appear at the Elks opera house tonight. The band is just returned from its great European tour, and no doubt will be welcomed back to Albuquerque by the many friends they have made during their engagement here last year. They come back with new music and increased numbers. The standard of playing and the music is better than it has ever been. In fact the band has improved in every way since it appeared here last.

They have just recently finished a nine months' tour of England, the longest ever made by any similar musical organization in that country. The band landed in England September last, and had not been there very many days before Mr. King Edward VII issued a royal command for the Kilties to go to Balmoral Castle and give one of their admirable entertainments before the king and his guests, and in the hall room was given one of the most diversified programs ever played by the Kilties, a little of everything in the band's repertoire being introduced to the delight of the distinguished guests, who applauded every number very heartily. All of the royal party, including the king, were Kilties in honor of the Kilties.

The Kilties' choir of 20 voices, with new songs and songs, is a feature which has been much commented upon by the press and public. And last, but not least, Roderick Bain MacKenzie, the giant drum major who created such an impression here last year, and was greatly admired in the old country as one of the biggest men in kilt, and, in fact, when he appeared before his majesty at Sandringham, the king personally congratulated him on his height and physique, and said that he was the tallest man that had ever visited him at Sandringham, and shortly after he was there MacKenzie received an official letter from the king's secretary, offering the position of bodyguard to the king, which MacKenzie could not accept at that time, owing to the circumstances over which he had no control, but the position still remains open to him.

MARKET LETTER

Special Correspondence.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 1.—The cattle supply last week was only half as large as the previous week, at 21,000 head, but was about the usual holiday run. The market was satisfactory on all kinds except fed steers, which lost 10 to 20¢ during the week. They have regained all of this today, some sales being 15 to 25¢ higher today than last Friday. Cows and butcher stuff advanced 10 to 15¢ last week, and this class is strong to 10¢ higher today. Stockers and feeders were quiet last week, but had a firm undertone. The market was strong to 10¢ higher today.

The year 1935 was a successful one for cattle raisers generally, the average value of cattle marketed being $30 per head—$3 per head more than during the year 1934. Colorado marketed 75,000 cattle at Kansas City, an increase of 45 per cent over the previous year. Receipts from the Panhandle county and New Mexico were about normal. Arizona shows an increase, Utah and Idaho and the far western country also a large increase, as a good many shipments came here last year that ordinarily would be sent to California. The demand from the packers has been phenomenal all the year and the slaughter of cattle and sheep is the largest on record here by 15 per cent.

The mutton market is strong and active and receipts moderate. The supply today is 3,500 head and the market is a quarter above that of a week ago. Fed western lambs today brought $7.40 to $7.50, while some 55-pound lambs brought $7.40, fed yearlings, $6 to $6.50; wethers, $5.75 to $6; ewes, $5 to $5.50. The lambs today were from the Arkansas valley and from Kansas feed lots. No San Luis valley stuff has been here lately. Fed Arizona lambs, 77-pounds, sold at $7.50 today and 65-pound fed Mexicans at $7.40 and $7.45. Other Mexican feeding wethers, 77-pounds, sold at $4.85 today. The market is apparently on a very firm basis and liberal receipts could be well taken care of just now.

More Water Wagon Plans.

A handsome Waterbury watch is to be presented to H. Rivers, the veteran driver of the water wagon.

The program to be used at the entertainment will be made of hand-some paper, bearing the water mark of the National Water Wagon Association.

Fuller Stein has been expelled from the association by the executive committee, and will not be allowed to march in the parade.

The Cedar Rapids orchestra has volunteered its services for the entertainment.

The request of Miss Flo Brooks, that she be permitted to recite "Cur-few Shall Not Wring Tonight," has been denied. The entertainment committee believes the recitation would not be in keeping with the spirit of the affair. If such an affair can be said to have a spirit.

A Rest for Everybody.

good reasons, we will not put out an indicator next week. We consulted several, and all seemed willing; in fact, too much so for us to feel real good.—West Lafayette (O.) Indicator.

WIENER BEER

To be health inspiring, appetizing, nourishing—the beer must be good. Blatz Wiener beer possesses every element of beer quality. Its very fragrance and "body" suggests at once the honesty of its ingredients. The vitality of the malt and the aromatic properties of the hops are manifest in every glass. The Blatz method of preparing the malt and original style of brewing accomplish certain results peculiar to Blatz Beers—this is the secret of Blatz character.

Wiener as a Table Beverage

The hop bitters act as an appetizer and digestant—and the malt is nourishing and "foody." The result is eminently satisfying. Nature knows the value of Blatz Wiener as a dietetic. Intelligence fosters Nature's demands. As a culinary adjunct Blatz Wiener is the beverage par excellence. It gives you that well fed feeling. Order a case sent home.

Judge Freeman's Letter

Elsewhere in this issue The Citizen reproduces from the New Mexican an interview with H. O. Bursum, agent of the letter of Judge Freeman to Mr. Bursum, recently given to the public by publication in the morning paper of this city. And just here The Citizen wishes to compliment Mr. Bursum on the admirable tone characterizing both his interview and his reply to Judge Freeman.

Both Mr. Luna and Mr. Bursum having already on their return from Washington, denied that there was any truth in the report of an agreement reached by them and the president on statehood matters, The Citizen declined to publish the letter of Judge Freeman, though received by this paper in the morning of the day prior to that on which it was published, the sole ground of refusal being its assertion of matters already refuted.

The Citizen is glad that Mr. Bursum's interview and letter do but confirm what this paper previously said: "There is too much patriotism and good sense in the republican party of New Mexico, alike in its organization and office-holders, for them to oppose statehood when it becomes fully manifest that jointure is the only kind procurable, even though they are ardent supporters of single statehood as their first choice."

Good Judges Selected

The best judges of live stock in the country have been selected to pass upon the stock to be shown at the Western Live Stock Show, Jan. 25th to Feb. 2d, 1906. T. B. Ford, one of the most extensive feeders of cattle in the world, will judge feeder cattle. Thomas Cross, head cattle buyer for the National Packing Co., and judge of the fat cattle at the International at Chicago, will judge all classes of fat cattle. The single classes of sheep will be judged by Geo. McKerron, president of the state board of agriculture in Wisconsin. Mr. McKerron has won more prizes on pure bred sheep in the last ten years than any other exhibitor in America. Chas. Gray, secretary of the American Galloway Breeders' association, winner of the gold medal for stock judging at the Chicago International in 1902, will pass judgment on the Galloways. Overton Harris, a prominent Missouri breeder, will judge Herefords, and C. R. Thomas, secretary of the American Hereford Cattle association, will have charge of this exhibit. Peter Jansen, of Jansen, Neb., has been asked to judge the carcasses of sheep, and Henry Gebhard, president of the Colorado Packing and Provision Co., will judge the carcass classes. The exhibits will be arranged conveniently so that visitors may see and learn the most possible in the shortest time. The judging will take place in a heated pavilion.

In Success Magazine for January, Cleveland Moffett begins the second series of his powerful articles on "The Shameful Misuse of Wealth." He devotes his attention this month to the great and increasing concentration of riches in the hands of a few wealthy families, and shows how these immense fortunes are rapidly becoming so colossal as to baffle the imagination and defy the utmost efforts of the owners to spend even the income. A man of towering intellect, he says, springing up in the next generation, backed by the accumulating billions of some great family, might wield a power greater than that of emperors and potentates, and sway nations at his will. This second series promises to be of even greater interest than the first, which attracted so much attention a year ago.

Denver News: Now Dr. Pond of Liverpool propounds a theory in his paper, the Lancet, which the government thinks important enough to incorporate in its daily consular reports. He believes that appendicitis and other disturbances of the digestive organs, can often be attributed to antimonial poisoning and the source of the antimony taken up by man is said to be the rubber rings which are frequently used to close all sorts of bottles. Doctor Pond has established the fact that such rings consist of almost one-third their weight of antimony. The antimony is not only dissolved by the mineral waters containing alkalis and organic acids, but these rubber rings, as daily observation shows, soon become brittle and some of the compound falls into the contents of the vessels.

Some in the east, and especially the manufacturers, are demanding that the Chinese be placated by this government's throwing open the door of immigration to all classes of Chinamen above the coolie. This would be a sad error. America neither needs nor wants the "beastly Chinese," no matter what his rank or occupation. Instead of relaxing the exclusion laws, they should be more restricted and more strictly enforced. What guarantee can we have that after the door has been thrown open the boycott will not continue? Recent disturbances have been directed equally against Europeans and Americans, and boycott and disturbance alike arise from the ineradicable Chinese hatred for the "foreign devils."

One of the questions which the Insurance investigation has left unsettled is this: Thos. F. Ryan, who bought the controlling interest in the Equitable from James H. Hyde, and who is a financier-politician, might explain why he paid, as he says, $2,500,000 for 502 shares of Equitable stock, par value $50,000, that is limited by law to 7 per cent dividends. Ryan's legal earnings on this investment cannot be more than $5,514 a year. The interest on $2,500,000 at 4 per cent is $100,000. Is Mr. Ryan sacrificing $96,486 annually for the privilege of merely controlling the $413,000,000 assets of the Equitable society? The only answer so far offered is that of Harriman, who ironically spoke of Ryan as a philanthropist.

Denver Republican: Some wise man has said that the newspaper is the people's university. It is true. Whatever faults the average newspaper may have, even the worst has an educating influence. So far as the news items are concerned, the paper is the history of a day, but there are few papers which content themselves with news and news only. More and more the newspaper is becoming a daily magazine in which one gets the latest details in the world of thought and books, while the editorial expression of opinion covers the widest range of topics.

American Banker: Mr. Wiley has introduced a bill in the United States house of representatives which provides: Sec. 2. That in order to encourage the return of national bank notes to the treasury which are mutilated or soiled so that they are unfit for circulation, for the purpose of replacing them with new notes, so much of the National Bank Act as provides for an assessment on national banks for expenses for returning national bank notes to the treasury for redemption and assorting them is hereby repealed. This proposed repeal of the assessment now levied on the banks will afford general satisfaction.

New Mexican: The Albuquerque Citizen published a very creditable special edition Saturday last. A number of valuable articles on the growth and advancement of the Duke City appeared therein. The Citizen shows by facts and figures that Albuquerque is growing at a very rapid rate and that its business is extending profitably in many directions. The Citizen is keeping pace with the improvement of the town it is published in, as the issue alluded to clearly demonstrates.

Capitan News: The heaviest snow for twenty years has fallen the past week, and, as a consequence, traffic of all kinds has been impeded, and in many instances stopped entirely. The snow in Capitan was about twenty inches deep, and in the Parsons country it was over three feet, while the plains in the Black ranch country it measured 33 inches on a level.

Curtain-Fall At

Close of Old Year
Harper's Weekly.

Over the sorrow and over the bliss,
Over the fondling, over the kiss,
Over the crimes that blotted and blurred,
Over the wound of the angry word,
Over the deeds in weakness done,
Over the battles lost and won,
Now at the end of the flying year,
Year that tomorrow will not be here,
Over our freedom, over our thrills,
In the dark and midnight the curtain falls.

Over the gain and over our loss,
Over our crown and over our cross,
Over the fret of our discontent,
Over the ill that we never meant,
Over the stars of our self-denial,
Over the strength that conquered trial,
Now in the end of the flying year,
Year that tomorrow will not be here,
Swiftly final the prompter calls,
Over it swiftly the curtain falls.

Over the crowds, and the solitude,
Over our shifting, hurrying moods,
Over the clamor, over the strife,
Over the pagantry of life,
Now is the end of the flying year,
Year that tomorrow will not be here,
Swift and surely from starry walls,
Silently downward the curtain falls.

What The Insurance Inquiry Has Shown

With the old year, ended the investigation of the gigantic life insurance frauds by the New York legislature's committee. The reputations of a score of men who have stood as models are tarnished black as the result of the disclosures.

This financial earthquake was started by a personal squabble between Jas. W. Alexander, president of the Equitable, and Jas. Hazen Hyde, nominally vice president, but the real power, by inheritance from his father, the founder of the Equitable. Inquirer Chas. E. Hughes has examined Hyde, Thos. F. Ryan, E. H. Harriman, of the Equitable; John A. McCall and subordinates in the New York Life; McCurdy in the Mutual; Frederick A. Burnham, of the Mutual Reserve; John A. Hezeman, the one-man power of the Metropolitan, and many others including Senators Platt and Tappan, all forming cogs of the great wheel of insurance fraud.

The policy holders' money, it was shown, was commonly diverted to the use of the companies in which Equitable directors hold stock and which, in turn, loaned their mortgages on the Equitable. The mutual feature was found to be a farce, the policy holders having really no voice in the government of the big mutual companies. Millions of dollars belonging to Equitable policy holders were deposited in banks controlled by Equitable directors, only a nominal rate of interest being charged in place of much higher rates gladly offered by independent banks. Of a profit of more than $13,000,000, made by the Equitable in syndicate transactions, not one dollar reached the coffers of the society. No record was kept on the books of syndicate operations amounting to $685,000 by G. H. Squire, the financial manager of the Equitable. From President McCall and Vice President Geo. W. Perkins, (partner of J. Pierpont Morgan) Hughes learned that the New York Life had contributed $150,000 to republican campaign funds. Upwards of $250,000 was paid at one time or another to the "Yellow Dog" fund, which the insurance companies maintained to influence the legislatures of the country. To one man, "Judge" Andrew Hamilton, who looked after the interest of the New York Life particularly in the Albany legislature, $100,000 in one sum had been paid for a purpose not disclosed. Hamilton declined to return from Europe for the purpose of examination, and sent over an evasive accounting of a $720,000 balance known as the "Yellow Dog" fund. The New York Life entered into a secret agreement with Morgan's First National bank to advance millions on loans and charge only 1 1/2 per cent interest. Perkins admitted that he, representing the New York Life, sold to his partner, Morgan, $800,000 worth of International Marine stocks, and the following day, as the representative of J. P. Morgan & Co., sold this stock back to the New York Life at par.

After this the public heard the story of an appalling nepotism in the Mutual Life. McCurdy's salary of $150,000, fixed by himself, has been reduced to $50,000 a year, now that McCurdy is out and Peabody is in. McCurdy's son, Robert H., general manager, had an income of $250,000 a year from various sources in the company. A total profit of $932,823 was made by McCurdy's son-in-law, Thebaud, on sales and commissions. The Mutual paid $92,500 to the republican campaign fund. McCurdy was a member of the firm of Chas. H. Raymond & Company, who, as chief agents of the Mutual, drew enormous profits on commission. United States Senator T. C. Platt admitted that the Equitable had paid him $100,000 a year regularly for the state campaign fund. He also admitted getting campaign funds from the Mutual and New York Life in staggering amounts. He frankly said that these contributions would put the legislators under "moral obligations."

The Equitable's old crowd is out, with the affairs of the company in the hands of a committee of "reform" headed by Grover Cleveland. Alexander is prostrated with nervous disorders and Hyde has sailed away to Europe "for a rest." The McCurdy crew has been forced out of the Mutual, and the McCall, after clinging desperately to power in the New York Life, have also been compelled to retire to the shades of private life.

Ryan has gobbled the Equitable, but he may have to operate it under reform laws. Interests representing the Standard Oil have become heavily involved in the Mutual and are understood to be tunneling under the New York Life. State and district attorneys are at work upon the evidence, and in addition to litigation now pending, some criminal proceedings are imminent.

The Happy Change

From Then to Now

It was only the other day that the boom of French cannon echoed throughout the length and breadth of Europe. The Emperor Napoleon dictated fashion for the world, and in the splendor of his establishment outlived civilization. And now? On Feb. 18, President Loubet will go out of office, gladly, willingly, quietly, and retire to a simple Paris flat. And when the door is closed and the world is outside he will sit by the fire, rest his weary limbs and forget the fret and tumult of life. He will ask little but rest from the turbulent world. What a contrast! The world still reveres an emperor who has long since turned to dust in his coffin. It says "vale" to a president and all but forgets him.

It is all right. It is the growing equality of things. It is the day of the plain people. Once a king stood out from the people, like a giant among pigmies. Now the world is full of men equipped to rule, and birth is not a handicap. Today the peasant of yesterday governs a province, and there is no higher title than that of good citizen. And while Loubet, of France, who has served his country fifty years, sits by the fire and nods over his pipe, the world may marvel over the rising tide of freedom and the recession of all that stands for permanent government and monarchial oppression.

CHAIRMAN BURSUM
MAKES STATEMENTDenies That Statehood Subject
Was Mentioned in Interview With President.

NO THOUGHT OF TRADE MAKING

A reporter for the New Mexican called upon H. O. Bursum, chairman of the territorial republican central committee, and asked for facts concerning the alleged agreement on joint statehood between himself and National Committeeman Luna, on the one hand, and the president on the other, whereby certain territorial appointments it was said had been obtained, and which alleged agreement had recently been reasserted by Mr. Bursum. In answer to the New Mexican representative, Mr. Bursum said:

Bursum's Statement.
"Certainly, since Judge Freeman has seen fit to publish a letter directed to me, and in which he stated that an agreement had been made between the president of the United States on one hand and Mr. Luna and myself on the other hand, pledging the support of the party organization to joint statehood in consideration of obtaining the appointments of officials recommended by the organization—I think in view of the publicity that has been given the letter of Judge Freeman that it is due to the public to know the facts.

"The president did not exact any pledge by any name, form or manner, either from Mr. Luna or from myself, either in return for his recognition of the party organization in this territory or otherwise. I was present when the matter of selecting the appointees for the various offices to be filled in New Mexico was brought up and discussed with the president.

Statehood Not Mentioned.

"Not one single word was expressed by any of the members of our delegation at that conference with reference to statehood, either joint, separate or otherwise. We, of course, understood and understand today that the president is heartily in favor of joint statehood, but as for any barrier or trade having been made or suggested, by either the president or myself or Mr. Luna as representing the Republican organization of New Mexico, this is absolutely without foundation in fact.

"As I stated a few days ago, I will be time enough for the republican party to take the question of statehood under consideration for action when congress has passed an enabling act. As chairman of the republican territorial central committee, I shall be guided by the desires of a majority of the republicans of this territory.

No Trade Made.

"I am at a loss to account for Judge Freeman's authority in his assumption that any barrier or trade was entered into between the president and the organization, and in view of the fact that his assumption so stated is erroneous, I cannot see any good reason for calling the central committee of this territory together at this time to again consider the statehood question until some action shall have been taken by congress.

"I notice that the main item in the editorial columns of the Albuquerque Journal, but I do not propose to be bulldozed or driven into any position which will place me in a false attitude before the people. In making this statement, I do not commit either myself or the organization as to what their action will be in the event that an enabling act either for the state of Arizona or the state of New Mexico should be passed by the fifty-ninth congress.

"In this connection I desire to serve notice upon in my opinion whoever policy the republican party of this territory should decide to pursue when the proper time arrives, such policy will be victorious and will be approved by the people."

The regular monthly business meeting of the Congregational church was held on Tuesday evening at the home of William Farr on Edith street. It being the first meeting of the year, and the eve of Mr. Farr's departure for Colorado, where he will spend a week looking after some business, Mrs. Farr surprised the gentlemen by serving an elaborate lunch. The table was beautifully arranged and covers were laid for twelve. Mrs. Farr served the repast in her usual charming manner. She was assisted by Miss O'Neal, after which the gentlemen proceeded to transact the business of the evening.

DELEGATE ANDREWS INTRODUCES BILLS

Four Which Are of Especial
Interest to City of Albuquerque.

FIVE PERTAIN TO PENSIONING

Disposed of the enacting clause, the following is the language of four bills introduced in congress by Delegate Andrews:

Albuquerque Support.

That Albuquerque, territory of New Mexico, be, and is hereby established as a support of entry and delivery in the customs district of Arizona, and that the privileges of the seventh section of the act approved June 16, 1880, governing the immediate transportation of dutiable merchandise without appraisement be, and they are hereby extended to Albuquerque, territory of New Mexico.

Albuquerque Building.

That the secretary of the treasury be, and he is hereby authorized and directed to contract for the erection and completion of the site already acquired by the government of the United States for the purpose of a suitable building, including fire proof vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus and approaches, for the use and accommodation of the United States postoffice and other government offices in the city of Albuquerque, territory of New Mexico, the cost of said building, including said vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus, and approaches complete, not to exceed the sum of $200,000. The building shall be unexposed to danger from fire by an open space of at least twenty feet on each side, including streets and alleys.

That the secretary of the treasury be, and he is hereby authorized and directed to pay unto the widow of the late Francisco Luna, late a delegate from the territory of New Mexico in the fifty-eighth congress, the sum of $5,000, to be in full for all claims for contest expenses and interest in the election contest case of Francisco A. Manzanares against the said Luna.

Relief of W. A. Walker.

That the postmaster general of the United States is hereby authorized and directed to credit the account of W. A. Walker, late postmaster at Albuquerque, N. M., with the sum of $168.86, on account of moneys received from the sale of postage stamps and the rent of boxes, and the further sum of $243.48 on account of moneys received from the sale of money orders, and the further sum of $1,405.79 on account of stamps; the above amount having been stolen from the safe and vaults in the postoffice at Albuquerque, N. M., on the night of January 24, 1890.

AULOFF HAD TO BE DRAGGED FROM HOUSE

The wife of Dene Auloff was obliged to leave her husband some time ago for various reasons. The most important of these was because Auloff did not support her and the next in importance because the man, it is claimed, shamefully maltreated the woman.

She secured employment in the home of Mrs. Stern, the liquor man, one of the firm of Stern, Schloss & company, Auloff, it appears, was not content to even let his spouse shift for herself in peace for last evening he sought her at the Stern residence. Getting into the house he refused to leave and the terrified woman had to scream for help. It came in the form of Officer Highbarain, Auloff refused to obey the command of the officer to leave the place and was dragged unceremoniously out and then to the city prison.

This morning Auloff pleaded not guilty and he was remanded to the "cooler" to languish there until Officer Highbarain came on duty at 5 o'clock. It is understood that Auloff is waiting for a pass which will take him to San Bernardino. If this is correct and he promises to move town is the intention of Judge Crawford to give the fellow his liberty.

FORMER ALBUQUERQUE WOMAN GAINS UNENVIABLE NOTORIETY

IS COMPLAINING WITNESS IN A CASE WHICH ACTS AS A BOOMERANG—BRINGS HER INTO ILL REPUTE.

Mrs. Madge Hall, formerly of this city, is gaining much notoriety at Bisbee, Ariz., where she is the complaining witness in the case of the Territory of Arizona vs. F. E. Smith, charged with sending defamatory letters to her husband.

Mrs. Hall, who lived here three or four years ago, is the mother of two children and has a husband some where in the east, but he was not given very much thought, according to the testimony of witnesses, until Smith wrote to him telling him of the licentious actions of his wife.

About ten witnesses so far have been examined, and the testimony of all tends to show that Mrs. Smith was very lax of morals. In fact, all of the testimony so far given in the case has been very defamatory to the character of the woman.

Later advices indicate that the evidence at the second day's proceedings became so racy that the judge ordered the court room cleared of all spectators. After hearing further evidence the court discharged Smith as not guilty.

A report was received in the city yesterday to the effect that a tramp had frozen to death on a Santa Fe train while waiting for a car. Constable Smith was requested to be on hand at the depot when the train arrived to hold an inquest and Undertaker Borders notified to take charge of the remains. Constable Smith found no dead body nor any signs of a live one, and it was concluded by all concerned that a bad mistake had been made.

Carlo Piupioni Brought It All the Way From Old Country
Only to Lose It.

THE GUILTY PARTIES ARE KNOWN

Carlo Piupioni, when he came to the United States from the old country, brought along with him, among other articles, an overcoat. He brought this piece of wearing apparel to Albuquerque, only to have it fall into the hands of a thief.

Piupioni valued the coat, not from its intrinsic value alone, but more from the fact that it bore many pleasant reminders of his old home across the ocean blue.

A few days ago Piupioni left the treasure on the macaroni box in the saloon of C. A. Grande, at the corner of Broadway and Tijeras avenue. He did not think of it again until yesterday morning. When he went into the bar-room to get it, the coat of foreign weave had disappeared. Piupioni was not kept in suspense as to what had happened to his property, for another patron of the place told him that he remembered seeing two young men take the coat and leave the saloon with it during the absence of the proprietor. The patron thought of course, the coat was the property of one of the young men, and thought no more about it for the time being.

One of the young men was quickly ascertained, was the individual whom it was believed committed the theft. Chaves, with a companion, had been hanging around the saloon for some days previous to the day the theft occurred.

Mr. Grande proceeded to police headquarters and swore out a warrant for the arrest of both Chaves and his companion, whose name is not known. It being learned that Chaves and his companion had gone to Santa Barbara, Officer Joe Salazar went to that place today in search of the accused offenders. They are charged with petit larceny.

A SECOND SHERLOCK HOLMES ON THE TRAIL OF GOATS

M. SALAZAR, DEPUTY SHERIFF,
SEARCHES RESTAURANTS FOR
LOST LAMB CHOPS—OFFERS $25
REWARD.

M. Salazar, deputy sheriff of Bernalillo county, was in the city last night on the trail of some bold, bad burglar who had broken into the goat corral of one Donaciano Gutierrez, living near the town of Tijeras, in Tijeras canyon, and decamped with fifty-two goats.

Salazar, with an intuition worthy a Sherlock Holmes, trailed the goats to a point near this city, where the scent was lost, but by the Holmes method of observation and deduction, he decided the goats were in or near Albuquerque, together with the erstwhile robber.

Consequently Salazar, resplendent in a new blue uniform with shiny brass buttons, was scouring the city last night in search of the thief and, incidentally, the goats.

The saloons and gaming houses were searched for the robber, and, naturally, the restaurants were inspected in the hopes of locating the goats, but up to press time no sign of the goats, other than a few muton chops, served at the Sturges restaurant, had been found.

Mr. Sturges, however, stoutly denies that the lamb he serves is a part of the parcel of the lost fifty-two, and advised the redoubtable detective, Salazar, to follow the example of Little Bo Peep, and let them alone until they came home, "wagging their tails behind them."

To expedite matters, Salazar has offered a reward of $25 for the recovery of the goats or information that will lead to their being restored to their rightful owner, and as a result a large portion of Albuquerque's population is out today hunting goats.

THE CATHOLIC PIONEER FOR JANUARY OUT

This office is in receipt of the January number of the Catholic Pioneer which as usual is bright and breezy and well worth the perusal of the general public. From pages 5 to 9 are several short articles on topics of the day and from page 10 to 15 are several highly interesting matters on Indians, their superstitions and mode of living. The letter from Rome chronicles the latest happenings in that famous city while the space devoted to religion, exclusively, is crisp and timely.

The Pioneer is fast forging to the front and being recognized as a periodical of importance, treating as it does, of matter of general interest, literary, scientific and religious. Its circulation is rapidly augmenting, which makes of it an advertising medium of worth, and explains the liberal advertising patronage received.

TRULY A VALUABLE OLD NEWSPAPER

S. Truby has a newspaper which is one, at least, that money can not buy. As the paper referred to bears the date of Saturday, January 4th, 1890, having about 16 years old, there is reason for the owner cherishing it sincerely and valuing it even higher than money.

The paper is one of an edition of the Ulster County Gazette published at Kingston, N. Y. Its volume is 2 and congress took on the death of George Washington. Mr. Truby claims the paper is the original one left the family.

Chief McMillin Learns That
2,000 Are Camped Between Deming and This City.

TERRORIZING RAILROAD MEN

Chief of Police McMillin has received information to the effect that 2,000 hobos are camped between this city and Deming and though the tidings were not accompanied by any alarm on the part of the police executive, it is no doubt has furnished plenty of material for McMillin to deliberate upon during his spare moments as to what disposition to make of the tramps should they descend upon this city.

The information goes on to state that the "Wandering Willies" have made their headquarters along the Santa Fe railroad and are terrorizing employees of this road.

The fellows board trains in such numbers that, according to the report, they are operated with difficulty. Numerous assaults have been made on trainmen and brakemen and conductors are arming themselves for their own protection, others being deputized as officers to protect trains.

Such a gang of toughs can not be broken up too quickly. There are plenty of balls and chains accessible to the Albuquerque police which can be utilized advantageously in case the "side-door Pullman" tourists decide to pay their respects to this city. The council may, in anticipation of this visit, decide to build cross walks in Albuquerque and have a steady job waiting for the nights of the sore knuckle association.

FAVORITES WILL

THE GEORGE SAMUELS ATTRAC-
TIONS HERE ON JANUARY 8, 9
AND 10.

"Hello Bill" and "Mr. Plaster of Paris," as presented by the George Samuels company, is simply irresistible, and one of the best pieces of theatrical property in the United States. They have become institutions like "Uncle Tom's Cabin." People who are never seen in a theater at any other time take their children and go to see these performances. They are good and wholesome, thoroughly American, and any newspaper that attempts to criticize "Hello Bill" and "Mr. Plaster of Paris" are wasting their time. The people want them and that settles it. The owner of these two plays has always been wise in that he never cheapens his productions. His plays are produced today as capably as they were on his first trip. In fact the two plays, "Hello Bill" and "Mr. Plaster of Paris" are bigger and funnier than any yet produced, the first mentioned, "Hello Bill" being a companion play to the "Man From Mexico." You can see the entire company at their best in each play, the dates being set for January 8, 9 and 10, at the Elks' opera house.

FAREWELL DINNER PROVES VERY ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

The dinner given by the friends of Miss Mildred Fox and Erna Schuster, last evening, in the banquet hall of the Zeiger Cafe, as a farewell dinner to those young ladies, the former of whom will leave Saturday evening in company with her father for Spokane, Wash., and the latter, Miss Schuster, who will leave for Philadelphia after her marriage here the latter part of the month, was, according to those present, one of the most pleasant affairs of the season.

Twenty-five covers were laid and a menu of nine courses was served, and Mrs. O. A. Matson acted as chaperon, and Miss Roday was the toastmistress of the occasion. Following is a list of those present, in addition to the guests of honor:

Misses Campbell, Dobson, Hazledine, Childers, Spitz, Ferguson, Roday, Walton, Zuckerman, Strong, Messrs. Clark, C. White, W. White, Peters, Bittner, Pearlman, Billings, K. Bryan, L. Bennett, Wharton and R. H. Jaffa, and Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Matson.

POISONED PORK CAUSES DEATH

Guests Made Ill From Eating
Sausage at a Christmas Dinner.

MRS. HUNING IS EXPECTED TO DIE

It now develops that the direct cause of the demise of Carlos Huning, who died at Belen last week, as chronicled at the time in these columns, was from ptomaine poisoning.

From Albuquerqueans who attended the funeral of Huning, it is learned that Carlos Scheele gave a party there Christmas week, at which time as part of the menu, roast pig was served, out of a part of which sausage had been made. About twelve guests were present at the dinner, and all of those who partook of the sausage were made violently ill.

Among those who ate of the sausage and pork were Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Huning, Dr. Radcliffe's wife, a brother of Carlos Scheele, and Scheele and his wife and one other guest.

Of those made ill, Huning so far has been the only one to die, although the death of Mrs. Huning is expected momentarily and the brother of Scheele, who is in the hospital in this city, is not expected to live.

All of those who have since become ill exhibit the same symptoms, that of malignant typhoid fever. Mrs. Huning is delirious, and raves all the time. It is said that she cannot live.

Huning, up to the time of his death, was severely ill, and the doctor in attendance had just told him that he could get up the next day. He was joking with the nurse about his illness and had just raised up on his elbow to shake hands with her, when he fell back dead.

Mrs. Radcliffe is progressing nicely, and as she did not eat any of the sausage, it is thought she will recover. Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Scheele, while still very ill, are expected to recover.

Mr. Scheele stated that he had purchased the pig from a native a few days before Christmas, and that the animal seemed all right. Whether the pig was diseased or that the sausage was poisoned in some manner while being made, is not known. No blame whatever is attached to Mr. and Mrs. Scheele, as they suffered alike with their guests, and if the pig was diseased, no one, with the possible exception of the native, was aware of the fact.

Friends here of the dead man and also his sick wife, insist that the officials of Valenciana county should investigate the case thoroughly and report as soon as possible.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE OF SAM POLLOCK

RINCON RANCHER FALLS FROM
TRAIN MOVING TWENTY-FIVE
MILES AN HOUR, AND IS UNIN-JURED—BOOZE SAVED HIS LIFE.

"Of all the lucky accidents that I have witnessed during my railroad career, one which occurred on the Rio Grande division last night takes the cake," said Conductor Gifford, who brought train No. 10 up from El Paso this morning.

"Several cowboys boarded the train at Las Cruces, for Rincon. All were more or less filled up with Christmas cheer, but one, a big man by the name of Sam Pollock, was drunker than the rest. Pollock had on one of those lousy jags. He was continually moving around from seat to seat and running from one coach to the other.

"It was while Pollock was making one of these car tours that the accident occurred," continued the conductor. "And it's a wonder that he was not killed. He was going from the smoker to the chair car, as the train was rounding a curve just north of Seldon, when he lost his balance and pitched headlong into the darkness.

"I didn't see him fall, but one of his friends did. The man came running to me all out of breath, saying that Pollock had fallen off. I stopped the train and backed up about three-quarters of a mile, where we found him lying beside the track, as drunk as ever, but unharmed.

"On being found, he said to one of his friends, 'Frank, it's cold out here, let's get in our warm bed.' Pollock got off at Rincon with only a skinned nose the worse off for his experience, though his chances to be killed were a hundred to one against him. At the time of the accident No. 10 was going at about twenty-five miles an hour.

SHE MOVED CZAR'S STONE HEART; WON GREAT PRIZE

THE BARONESS SUTTNER, AUSTRIAN NOBLEWOMAN, AND THE BOOK SHE WROTE WHICH WON THE NOBEL PEACE PRIZE OF $40,000—SOME STRIKING EXTRACTS THAT HELPED BRING ABOUT THE HAGUE PEACE CONFERENCE.

She is the Austrian noblewoman who has been awarded the Nobel peace prize of $40,000. For years she has been a champion of the international peace movement, and her strong novel, entitled "Lay Down Your Arms," so moved the czar of Russia that he issued his famous peace rescript that led to the conference at The Hague.

The book is really a story out of the baroness's own life. She herself is the heroine who recites the horrors of war she has seen. The book deals with the life of a soldier's daughter who marries a soldier, and who first realizes the inhuman aspect of war when she loses her husband in it. So does her second husband die in war, and all this exposure and confounding the stereotyped arguments in defense of war. The campaigns of the Schleswig-Holstein, the Prussian-Austrian of 1866 and the Franco-German of 1871 are covered in the tale.

A Military Execution.

Here is a brief sketch of a military execution from the pen of Capt. Tilling, an Austrian officer wounded at Sadowa:

"What is about to happen? Ah! an execution of spies; 13 this time. Here they come, marching three abreast, with hanging heads and eyes downcast."

"Behind them a cart conveying an almost nude corpse, and upon it, bound with stout cord to an outstretched limb, lies a 12-year-old boy—the dead man's son, also condemned to be shot."

The following is given as an incident in an encounter in a village street: "At the foot of an image of a Goliath, drags one of our officers—a handsome, aristocratic lieutenant—from the saddle, and with one blow from the butt end of his rifle smashes his skull."

"Another dragoon clutches my neighbor and twists him around in the saddle, backward, until, with a sickening crack, his backbone snaps asunder."

After Koeniggratz.

After the battle of Koeniggratz, the authoress hurried to the battlefield to search for her husband amid the dead and wounded. She thus describes the terrible spectacle, the contemplation of which caused her to swoon, afterward bringing on an attack of delirium.

"To right and left of me gory mounds of corpses, the faces of many of the dead still retaining the traces of terrible agony. Wide staring eyes, hands half buried into the sodden earth, teeth tight clenched under distorted lips, with stiff bent knees they lie heaped together in ghastly masses and here and there an even more horrible sight still—the moving arms and heads, and faces of the living, rendered unrecognizable with their wounds."

Perhaps the most gruesome picture of all is that of a baron in the vicinity of the battlefield, whither about a hundred wounded men had been hastily conveyed and even more hastily tended. Suddenly a hurrying shell sets the place ablaze, and amid the crackling of the flames are heard the cries, or rather howls, of the despairing and helpless soldiers as they are slowly suffocated and burnt to death.

MOST ANYTHING

"I regard Judge Hamilton's report as a very good one," said John A. McCall. Sure, it is. The "judge" didn't give away a thing.

"Dear me, I'm so sorry, the family that moved next door has one of those mechanical piano players."

"That is too bad. But is she good looking?"

"So you've sold out your business and made all plans to live in Philadelphia?"

"Yes, we move next week."

"But why to Philadelphia?"

"Simply because I think that's the most appropriate place for a man who wishes to retire."

The chaplain of the regiment in which Ohio's new governor served in the civil war has been selected to pray at the inauguration. The significance of the selection will be understood by everybody who knows anything of Ohio politics.

Dr. Osier is back in this country. It is something of a coincidence that he arrived on the day Bob Fitzsimmons, aged 43 or more, broke out in talk.

AND THIS PARAGRAPH IS NEWS TO ALBUQUERQUE.

J. P. Erickson returned this morning on No. 8 from Albuquerque. He reports exceedingly severe weather down there and much more snow than has fallen here. All day yesterday it snowed and sleighs were more common on the streets than wheeled conveyances. The minimum Albuquerque temperature during the recent cold spell was five below zero, according to the reports published in the newspapers.—Optic.

Prompt, Easy Recovery.

The greatest thing in the world—A Mother's Love; the love she lavishes on her children; the love her child should have for her; without this love she could not endure the agonies incident to childbirth; appreciation of this love, Mother's Friend was devised to lessen the pain and anguish of childbirth, that her love might not be strained to the breaking point. Mother's Friend does all this and more—it enables the fond mother to speedily recover from the labors of maternity, enables her to retain her lost strength, preserves her youthful lines of beauty, and makes pregnancy her crowning joy without any thorns to mar it.

Mother's Friend

is applied externally, is most harmless in its consistency, most happy in its results, and of such such that no case of labor should be conducted without its use. It is a liniment for massage of the abdominal muscles during pregnancy and by its use their tonicity and power of contraction is greatly enhanced, enabling them to sustain the great strain brought to bear on them at the time. It is Mother's Friend. The name should be enough to recommend it to all who expect to be mothers.

IT IS ONLY NINE BELOW AT LAS VEGAS.

Several letters have been received in the city which say that the writers read in the Albuquerque papers that the temperature here had gone to eighteen degrees below zero. This is news to Las Vegas people and furnishes another instance of the fact that you must go away from home to hear the news. The government weather bureau, however, insists that the coldest weather Las Vegas has had this year is nine below zero.—Optic.

A Modern Miracle.

"Truly miraculous seemed the recovery of Mrs. Mollie Holt of this place," writes J. O. R. Hooper, Woodford, Tenn., "she was so wasted by coughing up puss from her lungs. Doctors declared her end so near that the family had watched by her bedside forty-eight hours; when, at my urgent request Dr. King's New Discovery was given her, with the astonishing result that improvement began, and continued until she finally completely recovered, and is a healthy woman today. HE WAS WISE TO THE SANTA CLAUS FABLE

The following story is going the rounds of the San Francisco press relative to A. P. Payne, of Albuquerque, who was sojourning in the Golden Gate city some time ago:

"I was riding out to the Cliff on a crowded car this afternoon," remarked A. P. Payne, a visitor from Albuquerque, at the Grand Hotel, "when I met with an experience that is calculated to make a man ponder seriously on the precociousness of children of the present day. There was a cute little youngster on the car, probably not over 3 years of age, and because the car was crowded he was standing up in the aisle. Incidentally, he was very unhappy because he couldn't see out of the window. So I took him on my knee and that pleased him very much. Before he had gone many blocks we were great friends and we began to get very confidential."

"Did Santa Claus bring you lots of nice things for Christmas?" I finally ventured to ask him.

"He looked at me with a pained expression for a moment, then, whispering in my ear, he said:

"Say, ain't you on to Santa Claus yet?"

"I pretended to be greatly mystified. Then he whispered confidentially, for my better enlightenment:

"Well, I'll tell you. Santa Claus is the big bunk."

Announcement!

Wednesday will record the beginning of a Green Tag Sale. It will mark the inaugural of what we intend to make the greatest price-lowering event, which has ever occurred in this city.

Our store room is congested with an overflow of stock—winter goods still piled up on every side—in some cases, sold, complete lines, without a garment or a size sold. It's a wrong state of affairs for this time of the year.

A state of affairs which demands an immediate and big reduction of prices, which will move the stock and so relieve the tension.

First in Importance is the GREEN TAG SALE of SUITS

We have gone through the entire stock and have tagged every suit. The reductions are phenomenal—in some instances as much as $6 to $8 has been taken from the original price. In every instance have made the price so low that thrifty men will buy for years to come. Then the sale of which will be decidedly interesting to all, as wonderfully small prices have been made on all lines.

SOFT AND FLANNEL SHIRTS AND UNDERWEAR

The Sale of Furnishings and Small Articles

Will mean the saving of many a dollar. Here are just a few of the items:

25c Fancy Hosiery, 2 pairs for.....	25c
$1 Flannel Night Shirts	60c
75c Flannelette Soft Shirts	45c
$2 Wool Sweaters	$1 25
50c Four-in-Hand Ties	25c
$1 Gloves, Short or Gauntlet	60c

And so on, through a long list.

We advise you to look for the big Green and Black Posters—they tell the story—the greatest sale ever in a more complete way.
