STATEHOOD RECEIVES 44 MAJORITY

SUFFERING WAS MOST INTENSE

Account of Wreck of Valencia Makes Heart Grow Sick.

WAS HOPELESS FROM FIRST

Heavy Sea, Fierce Wind, and Blinding Fog Prevented Escape or Rescue.

BOATS WRECKED WHEN LOWERED

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 25.—A special representative of the Post-Intelligencer wired from Port Arthur, at 3:30 this morning, that the rescue ship, City of Topeka, picked up a life raft at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, six miles from Cape Beale, with eighteen survivors of the Valencia on board. The condition of the men was pitiable. They were half frozen and practically unconscious from exposure. A terrible sea was running when the raft was sighted. The men on the frail raft battled with a pair of oars to reach the Topeka, which owing to the dangerous coast, could not run closer to them. When within a half mile from the raft, a boat was lowered and a line made fast to the raft. At last they succeeded in bringing the raft to the steamer's side. The sight of the poor creatures brought tears to the eyes of the sailors. Several were unconscious and were retained on the raft solely by the bodies of the other men, who were closely packed. Time and again great seas swept over them.

The work of rescuing them was dangerous and several were swept into the sea while the raft was lashed to the steamer's side. Finally all were lifted aboard except one man, who was swept away in sight of rescue. The survivors tell a terrible story of the wreck. When they left the Valencia, there were about ninety people still aboard, most of them clinging to the rigging. Men, women and children were being swept away by every sea. The sea was given and she went astern at full speed, but it was too late. The waves and the wind swept the vessel ashore. The order was given to get out the boats, but the boats were smashed like eggshells as quick as they struck the water. Then the sea was given and she went astern at full speed, but it was too late. The waves and the wind swept the vessel ashore. The order was given to get out the boats, but the boats were smashed like eggshells as quick as they struck the water.

Vivid Description Given. G. Willets, one of the men rescued from the wreck, tells the following story of the wreck: "The wreck occurred at 12:07 on Tuesday morning, January 23. I was on deck at the time, smoking and looking at my watch when the crash came. In an instant all was excitement. The vessel slid off the reef and struck again. The command to back her was given and she went astern at full speed, but it was too late. The waves and the wind swept the vessel ashore. The order was given to get out the boats, but the boats were smashed like eggshells as quick as they struck the water. Then the sea was given and she went astern at full speed, but it was too late. The waves and the wind swept the vessel ashore. The order was given to get out the boats, but the boats were smashed like eggshells as quick as they struck the water.

At the local offices of the Pacific Coast company, operating the wrecked steamer Valencia, the statement was given out this morning that information has been received from the wreck that a life boat and raft which had been unaccounted for, had gotten safely away from the wreck. On the raft were eight women. It is stated, while no one knows how many were in the life boat.

ANARCHISTS ARRESTED HAVE DAMAGING LETTERS. Monongahela, Pa., Jan. 25.—Constable Lewis and Petro Foracica, alleged secretaries of an anarchistic organization, the headquarters of which were raided Tuesday, and the president and a number of the band captured together with a mass of literature threatening the life of the governors of Tennessee and Ohio, and other prominent men of the United States, were arrested today in a mining shaft near West Elizabeth, Penn. Many incriminating letters and a number of revolvers were found.

AGED BUT PROMINENT CITIZEN IS DEAD. Butte, Mont., Jan. 25.—Gen. John S. Harris, a long time and prominent resident of this state, died today, aged 81. He was surveyor general of the territory under Arthur's administration. He served as United States senator from Louisiana, 1869 to 1873. He also had been prominent in other states.

FOURTEEN KILLED IN COAL MINE EXPLOSION. Portau, I. T., Jan. 25.—Fourteen lives were lost in an explosion yesterday in the Wittenville mine, caused by fire damp. Three bodies have been rescued, but it is impossible to enter the mine to attempt the rescue of other bodies, because of gas.

THE NEW RED MAN

OLD GUARD GIVES ITS ANNUAL BALL

Most Famous Military Organization in the Entire Country.

INCLUDE MILITARY PARADE Held in Madison Square Garden to Raise Funds for the Armory.

New York, Jan. 25.—The Old Guard of New York, the most famous military organization in the country, will hold its annual ball in Madison Square Garden this evening, and it promises to be even more brilliant than any previous ball of that organization. The balls of the Old Guard have the reputation of being the most brilliant social and military functions held in this country. This time, it is said, all previous records will be surpassed. The governors of New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio have accepted invitations and are expected to attend, accompanied by their staffs, in full uniform. General Fred D. Grant, Rear Admiral Coghlan, and Mayor McCellan, and many other distinguished persons will be present. One of the most interesting features of the ball will be the military parade, which will begin at nine o'clock of midnight, and pass in review before General Grant and the other invited officers of the army and militia. Detachments of every regiment of the National Guard, companies of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston, the Worcester Continentals, the Albany Burgesses Corps, the Providence Light Infantry Corps, the Fusilier Veteran Association and National Lancers of Boston, first and second companies of the Governor's Foot Guard of Connecticut; the City Troop of Philadelphia; a company of the First Regiment of Minute Men of Washington, D. C.; United Train of Artillery of Bristol, R. I.; the Putnam Phalanx of Connecticut, and the First and Second Corps of Massachusetts Cadets, will take part in the parade. The proceeds from the sale of boxes go to the building fund for a new armory.

GENERAL JOE WHEELER IS SINKING RAPIDLY. New York, Jan. 25.—Dr. McCorkle said: "General Wheeler has one chance in twenty of recovery. His condition is very low and his strength is being kept up on stimulants, but nevertheless he has a fighting chance." General Wheeler was very low and sinking rapidly shortly before 2 p. m. today.

OLD BANK FAILS AT SAN LUIS OBISPO. San Luis Obispo, Cal., Jan. 25.—The Bank of San Luis Obispo, the oldest institution of the kind in the city, closed its doors this morning by order of the bank commissioners.

SEE AMERICA AND THEN GO ABROAD

Convention Meets at Salt Lake With a Peculiar Purpose.

FIRST OF KIND EVER HELD To Induce Home Travel Before Tour of the European Countries.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 25.—The "See America First" Convention which convened here today, in response to a call sent out by the Commercial Club of this city, is the first one of its kind ever held in this country. If the plans of the promoters of the movement are realized, this convention will mean the first step toward diverting a large part of the traveling in this country toward the west and thus greatly benefit this part of the country. About one hundred and fifty delegates, representing every one of the western states and territories, were in attendance, when the convention was opened, and considerable enthusiasm was displayed by the delegates. Among the delegates are many prominent merchants and manufacturers of the various western states, who are greatly interested in the movement. The object of the movement is to attract the traveling public of this country to the west, which, in the opinion of friends of the movement, offers some highly attractive and interesting features. It is not yet decided by what means the vessels are to be procured to accomplish its ends, but it is probable that it will favor the starting of local and state booms throughout the west, the arranging of excursions to the various states and to particularly interesting points, the advertising of the important features of interest in each one of the western states, etc. The state governments and the western railroads will be asked for their support of the movement, which would be of enormous benefit to the entire west.

BREAKS TRIUMPHANTLY INTO THE SMART SET

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Mrs. Perry Belmont of New York, determined to overcome the reserve with which she has been treated hitherto by the ultra "smart set" of the national capital, has taken heroic measures to break into the exclusive circles and win popularity, and, judged from the large number of prominent people who have accepted invitations to the brilliant musicale which she has arranged for this evening, she has succeeded, and established a secure footing. Her wealth enabled her to make her arrangements, regardless of expense. Judging from her preparations the musicale will be one of the most brilliant social affairs of the winter. She has engaged Caruso, the famous tenor, Mme. Eames Story of the Metropolitan Opera company, and the violinist, Gerardi, and they will make the trip from New York to Washington and back in a special train en route for their special use. Among those who will be present at the musicale will be Miss Alice Roosevelt, Congresswoman Nicholas Longworth and her mother; Secretary and Mrs. Taft, Mrs. J. Z. Lederer and nearly all the members of the diplomatic corps. Supper will be served by New York caterers and the floral decorations have been brought from the south. The hall in which the entertainment will be given has been transformed into a tropical forest by giant palms and flowering tropical plants.

WINTER MANEUVERS BY ATLANTIC FLEET

Will Not Be Publicly Discussed Lest Some Foreign Countries

SHOULD GET ON TO PLAN Will Include Practice on Shore and Camping By the Marines.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—It has been decided to have a search problem for the ships comprising the Atlantic fleet during the winter maneuvers in southern waters. The question of thus employing the vessels of Rear Admiral Evans' command has been thoroughly discussed by the Naval General Board, and it was at one time thought that this peculiar exercise would be omitted this year, principally because the shortage in coal required restrictions in the movements of the vessels and would compel them to remain more in one locality, instead of spending a week in exercises involving considerable maneuvering and constant change of base. The details of the search problem will be discussed privately, since they take the form of frustrating the approach of an enemy, and publicity of the exercise might disclose important naval plans which it would be desirable to keep from foreigners. The search problem will be worked out by the battleships and torpedo boats, and will probably take place near Guantanamo, whither the vessels are to proceed after five days of working on the search problem. While the ships are at Guantanamo small arms will be target practice with small arms and much work on shore, much of it on the lines indicated by the president as necessary for the better training of the enlisted force of the navy, by which they will become acquainted with the camp outfits and the means of taking care of themselves away from their ships.

PEOPLE EXCITED OVER EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS OUT WEST

The Tremors, Terrorizing the Merchants and People Generally, Felt From Gallup to Seligman.

BUILDINGS SWAYED FROM THEIR FOUNDATIONS

Glassware and Other Goods Shaken From Shelves, People Fled in Terror to the Streets and Remained Out Doors Until Shocks Had Disappeared.

Special to The Evening Citizen. Gallup, N. M., Jan. 25.—At exactly 1:35 o'clock this afternoon a slight earthquake shock was felt in Gallup, but no damage was done. The people of the town were much excited.

SHOOK BUILDINGS. Special to The Evening Citizen. Gallup, N. M., Jan. 25.—Quite a sharp earthquake occurred here at 1:27 p. m. It shook buildings and broke window glasses. At Fort Defiance and St. Michaels, Ariz., buildings were shaken, but no damage was done. People ran out of their houses, fearing a continuation of the shock.

MORE FROM GALLUP. Special to The Evening Citizen. Gallup, N. M., Jan. 25.—An earthquake of about one minute's duration passed here at 1:34 this afternoon. The shock was very distinct and it seemed to be traveling from west to east. Buildings shook, desks and tables were moved about, the large pendulum of the clock at the depot was stopped, and several people were seen to flee from their houses in fright.

At Winslow, Ariz., the shock was felt very distinctly at 1:35, and a minute or two before, Bellemont, Ariz., reported that the shock there was so severe that it cracked the ice on the pond. No injuries or serious damage has been reported, though the tremors were noticeable to the engineers and train crews en route.

PEOPLE EXCITED AT HOLBROOK. Special to The Evening Citizen. Holbrook, Ariz., Jan. 25.—An earthquake shock sufficiently strong to rock the walls of buildings, occurred here at 1:33 o'clock this afternoon. People rushed from the buildings to the streets, but no real damage was done. The shock lasted but half a minute.

HOUCK ALSO TREMBLED. Special to The Evening Citizen. Houck, Ariz., Jan. 25.—At about 1:30 o'clock this afternoon an earthquake shock was felt at Houck. There was quite heavy rocking of the houses in general. No damage has been heard of, but the few people of this town are much excited.

MERCHANTS FEARFUL AT WILLIAMS. Special to The Evening Citizen. Williams, Ariz., Jan. 25.—At 1:36 p. m. today a very perceptible earthquake shock was felt here, causing the buildings to tremble, and shaking glasses and bottles from shelves. The duration was about three seconds, and seemed to extend from west to east. Great excitement prevailed among the merchants and shoppers, as goods, etc., became disturbed on shelves and tables, which caused them to rush excitedly into the streets in awe of the fearful feeling.

FLAGSTAFF SHOOK VIOLENTLY. Special to The Evening Citizen. Flagstaff, Ariz., Jan. 25.—At 1:39 o'clock this afternoon a distinct earthquake shock was felt here, and for a minute or two the people were much excited, many running out of their houses into the streets, fearing the buildings would fall upon them. The shock was so strong that buildings trembled as if a powerful explosion had occurred; shelf goods tumbled to the floor, and other evidences of the shock are seen all over the city.

MORE FROM FLAGSTAFF. Special to The Evening Citizen. Flagstaff, Ariz., Jan. 25.—This afternoon, this town, mostly of railway employees, got a good taste of a genuine earthquake shock, which was felt at about 1:39. The depot and other buildings trembled perceptibly, and those who were in the company's reading room ran out of the building terror-stricken. Men who risk their lives in the cab of their engines, or traveling over box cars on the mountain division of the Santa Fe, without any fear whatever, showed great anxiety for their lives when Seligman was shaken by an earthquake this afternoon.

ASH FORK DID NOT ESCAPE. Special to The Evening Citizen. Ash Fork, Ariz., Jan. 25.—This town was treated to a genuine earthquake shock this afternoon at about 1:38, and at this hour, 3 o'clock, the people have not yet calmed down from their excitement and fear that other shocks are to follow. Glassware and other goods rattled from the shelves, and several houses are reported to have cracked almost in twain. A number of people fled from their homes, and men, women and children are huddled together in the cold outside. The sensation experienced cannot be told in this dispatch.

Follow His Example. Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 25.—The Scotch Thistle Society, composed of Scotch-Americans living in this city, will, as customary, celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns by a banquet at the Windsor Hotel. An interesting program has been prepared.

New Jersey Takes Part. Trenton, N. J., Jan. 25.—The Trenton Caledonian Club, which was recently organized, has arranged for a celebration in honor of Robert Burns' birthday. William Stewart, the president of the club, will act as toastmaster at the banquet. Several prominent speakers will deliver addresses.

Chicago Follows Suit. Chicago, Ill., Jan. 25.—The Scotchmen of this city will celebrate the one hundred and forty-seventh anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns this evening, by a number of entertainments and banquets.

MAJORITY GREW MUCH LARGER

Statehood Bill Swept the House By 194 to 150.

OPPOSITION LOST HEART

Polled Fifteen Less Votes Than Yesterday, Organization Two More.

STRONG ARGUMENTS PRESENTED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—At 3:22 o'clock this afternoon the statehood bill passed the house by a vote of 194 to 150.

Special to The Evening Citizen. Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—3:30 p. m.—The joint statehood bill has just passed the house by a vote of 194 to 150. Sound the loud timble.

ACCOUNT OF HOW THE THING WAS DONE. Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—With only twenty members in their places, the house at 11 o'clock today took up its special order on statehood. The debate is to run until 3 o'clock, when a vote on the bill will be taken. Basing his prediction on the great development of Arizona and New Mexico, as illustrated by his own state, Kahn, of California, depicted the wrong that was being done in joining these two territories as one state. Mondell of Wyoming, followed in the same line of argument. He predicted that the time will come when representatives of the flourishing west will object to the representation of the dead and dying east, because of its pauper majority. A brief speech in opposition was made by Lloyd of Arkansas, also. The debate shifted to the other side at this point. Cole of Ohio, who was opposed to substituting bills for homes or islands, began a speech in favor of the bill, and then said that he would yield to Mondell, if he would recount the experiences of Maine and Iowa. Hepburn complied.

Three times Hepburn said that the people of Iowa rejected statehood, and when he accepted it, it was by the barest majority; four times the territory of Maine refused to come into the union, and her final acceptance was barely carried. Should the people of the territories now in question vote against coming in, they should not be dragged in. Upon the assertion that 98 per cent of the people of Arizona opposed becoming a state with New Mexico, Webb of North Carolina, based his argument against the bill.

WHO MADE SOME OF THE LEADING TALKS. Special to The Evening Citizen. Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Mondell, of Wyoming, Adams, of Wisconsin, and Towne, of New York, were the principal speakers against the joint statehood bill. They were followed by Lloyd of Missouri, and Minn of Pennsylvania. Keppler, of Missouri, republican, defended New Mexico. Hamilton, of Michigan, and Brick, of Indiana, closed the debate for the bill.

Smith, of Arizona, made a strong speech against joint statehood, which attracted marked attention. Speaker Cannon, paid to Delegate Andrews a higher compliment than to any other man on either side. Andrews has introduced bills for the settlement of land claims in certain states and territories, and a pension bill for Christopher Buchanan.

STANDARD OIL YET DEFIES THE COURTS. Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 25.—Frank Rockefeller refused to appear before Attorney General Hadley and testify today in the hearing in connection with the state of Missouri against the Standard Oil company. A deputy sheriff served the subpoena upon Rockefeller last evening. This morning the deputy reported that Rockefeller had replied: "I won't appear. I cannot appear and there is no use talking about it. They may send me in jail if they want to." No service was obtained on John Teague, W. E. Judd, W. F. Lowe, or F. T. McCue. Lowe is of the Navarre Oil company and McCue of the Republic company, said to be subsidiary to the Standard.

PACKERS STILL UNWHIPPED OF JUSTICE. Chicago, Jan. 25.—The efforts of the lawyers in the packers' case to reach an agreement upon the facts in the case were fruitless up to noon today, but the conference is still in progress. The attorneys for the packers offered to day to agree that no promise of immunity had been made to them by Commissioner Garfield, and such promise if made, would not have had any bearing on the case. The offer was declined by the government lawyers.

GREAT GRANDFATHER COULD NOT SAVE HIM. Washington, Jan. 25.—Stephen Decatur, great grandson of Commodore Decatur, of the first class, United States naval academy, was today dismissed from the academy by Secretary Bonaparte, in conformity with the sentence of the court martial in his case on the charge of encouraging hazing.

BEAUTIFUL WIFE OF INSANE MAN

M. Y. BIGAMIST

Guardian of John B. Elliott Charges Former Spouse, Who Married Husband's Keeper, With Fraud and Conspiracy.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 25.—As the result of sensational complaint by the guardian of wealthy John B. Elliott against his former wife, now known as Mrs. Charles N. McMahon, this young and beautiful woman finds herself in prison on a charge of bigamy, and her divorce from Elliott set aside, rendering her marriage to McMahon, the former keeper of her insane husband, null and void.

According to the evidence, A. G. Rockwell, guardian of John B. Elliott, who is insane, charged that Mrs. Florence Elliott got an interlocutory decree of divorce through fraud, in which conspiracy she was aided by Charles N. McMahon, Elliott's keeper, who was an attendant at the Belmont Sanitarium, where Elliott was confined. Being hopelessly insane and behind the bars in a padded cell, he could make no defense to the charges of cruelty made against him. He was served with a summons, which he did not understand, and could not have obeyed, and a divorce was granted his wife by default.

It was then decided by the alleged conspirators to send the unfortunate Elliott to his mother's home in Iowa. While on the way, it was charged, McMahon coerced the insane man to transfer all of his property to his former wife, though Elliott knew, as well as his feeble mind could understand, that she had secured a divorce.

McMahon, after delivering his charge, hastened to Portland, Ore., and married Mrs. Elliott, just three weeks after the divorce was granted. Elliott's guardian asked that the decree be set aside on the ground of fraud. He also charged that when Elliott was taken to the asylum last July by McMahon he was under the effect of a deleterious drug administered to him with evil intent.

SLAYER OF JAMES CHASE HAS A HEARING

JUDGE MANN HEARD EVIDENCE AND TAKES CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT.

The hearing in the case of "Jap" Clark, who brought habeas corpus proceedings to secure bond, as the result of a charge of first degree murder against him for the killing of James Chase at Torrance, Torrance county, last April, was held before Judge Edward A. Mann, of the Sixth Judicial district court of Alamogordo, in the court house at Santa Fe, Tuesday.

Clark was brought into court by Deputy James Chavez, but the court waived his appearance and he was allowed to leave. No witnesses were examined but briefs of the evidence taken before a justice of the peace, were submitted. Judge Mann took the case under advisement without setting the time in which to announce his decision.

Clark's plea was self-defense. He was represented by A. B. Kanehan and Mark B. Thompson, attorneys. Samuel Gillett, of El Paso, conducted the prosecution. Clark said that he could provide bond if allowed to do so.

Indigestion Overcome.

Indigestion is easily overcome by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, because this remedy digests what you eat and gives the stomach a rest—allows it to recuperate and grow strong again. Kodol relieves Indigestion, Belching of Gas, Sour Stomach, Heart-Burn, etc., and enables the digestive organs to transform all foods into the kind of rich red blood that makes health and strength. Sold by all druggists.

"Your wife was the widow of Bill Swift, wasn't she?"

"Yes."

"Doesn't she ever remind you of Bill?"

"No, never. You see, I knew Bill pretty well, so I occasionally remind her of him."

MATTERS THEATRICALLY AT THE METROPOLIS

Interesting Gossip Concerning Plays and Players at the Great New York Theaters During the Last Few Days.

New York, Jan. 25.—Recently a rather queer combination was presented by the presentation in this city, for the first time, of five new plays, two of which were written by clergymen, the third of which served as a vehicle for an ex-pugilist, the fourth a comedy by which an actor new in this country was enabled to appear in several roles during the course of a single play, while the fifth was a plain, unvarnished musical comedy.

Corbett Couldn't Make Good.

At Daly's, James J. Corbett was introduced as the hero in George Bernard Shaw's "Cashel Byron's Profession." The story of the play, which differs slightly from that of the novel, tells of Cashel Byron, a prize fighter, who fascinated Lydia Carey, a young woman of high social position. She first meets him at Wilkeson Park, where he is recuperating from the effects of a fistful battle, and imagines him to be a professor of physical culture. She learns her mistake at a reception, to which the prize fighter has been brought as a celebrity to grace the occasion, and there repudiates him. She softens, however, and tells him that when he has forsaken the prize ring and can prove his claim to the title of gentleman, he may sue for her hand. Cashel resolves that his next fight shall be his last. The piece rids the haughty Byron seeks refuge on his sweetheart's estate. She orders him out, then relenting, hides him in her room. His mother then appears, to establish his claim to large estates; whereupon he renounces the ring and is accepted by the heiress. But, alas! it was not so. James Corbett did not make it stick and the plan of his managers is to cut the play down to one act and produce it on the vaudeville stage, where the ex-champion is likely to find a more appreciative audience.

On Sectional Prejudices.

Talked at the Liberty Theater, the much-talked about play, that has been traveling through the south, "Like a train dived from dynamite," was given its comparatively first production in the north and made a tremendous impression. The play has to do with the days that followed immediately after the Civil War, when the Ku Klux Klan defended women of the south from the depredations of the lawless negro element. It is the south's sequel to "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Briefly outlined, the play concerns the attempt of Lynch, the mulatto lieutenant governor, who not only controls the state, but also the machinery of the state—to show his equality with the white men, by marrying a pure blooded white girl. A fiery young southerner, captain of the "Klan," in South Carolina, is in love with the white maiden, whose father is an ardent northerner of the equal rights stamp, and believes in the social equality of the negro. It is only when the father is made to understand that a negro wants his daughter for his wife that he realizes that his expounding of the doctrine so hateful to the south has almost accomplished the ruin of his daughter. It is then that he gives his daughter to the young white southerner. The play is replete with thrills and sensations, such as will gain a popular endorsement. It does not depend for its interest upon the dramatic qualities of the story, but rather upon sectional feelings and sympathies which involve much tearing up of old wounds which time has done so much to heal. It does not raise the white man one inch higher nor sink the negro one inch lower. It does not illustrate as true what every intelligent man does not already know.

Playing Many Parts.

At the Madison Square Theater, Henri de Vries, an English actor, presented "A Case of Arson," in which Mr. de Vries impersonates seven of the nine characters, the other two being a police magistrate, and his nephew. The story of the play, simply outlined, is that a small cigar factory, owned by John Ahrend, has been destroyed, under suspicious circumstances, and his little daughter was burned to death. An investigation is held, and seven witnesses are brought before the magistrate. It is suspected that Ahrend, a half witted brother of John, set fire to the premises in a spirit of revenge, and he is the first one examined, followed by John Ahrend; Blankert, his old talkative father-in-law; Elsen, a dull police sergeant; Putton, the humorous innkeeper; Post, a grocer, who testified to selling John the paraffine, and Bick, a non-communicative painter. The magistrate is convinced that John had a hand in the affair, and upon re-examination, reference to his dead child to work on his feelings that he confessed to committing arson for the sake of the insurance. He asks that he be kept in prison for life, since he must not face his wife, whom he has deprived of their only child.

Fall and Redemption.

At the Majestic, the dramatic version of "The Redemption of David Corson" was presented. The story concerns David Corson, a Quaker preacher, who falls in love with a beautiful Spanish Gypsy girl, who is traveling with a patent medicine taker. When he learns that she is the wife of the peddler, he tells her that her marriage was illegal, and induces her to elope with him. He becomes a gambler, and sinks down in the world until he is stricken with an acute attack of conscience. He tells the girl that her first marriage was legal, and takes her to her lawful husband. Then the redemption of his soul is made complete by a backwoods preacher, whom he had converted years before.

An Unusual Way.

At the Princess, Henry Miller made his return to the stage in a play by Henry V. Esmond, entitled "Grison's Way." Since the author's "When We Were Twenty-one" none of his plays have received such a favorable reception in London as this has, his latest work, James Grison, the hero of the piece, is an oldish young man, who is in love with Pamela, the daughter of an old friend. Pamela is also loved by Philip Keene, who once upon a time had been a celebrated violinist. She does not care for either of these two men, and they are horrified when they discover that she has fallen victim to the charms of a married army officer, named Arnesley Murray. Grison's way of saving the girl is to marry her. An unhappy union is the result, for while Grison's love is great her love is wholly negative. Their unhappiness is intensified when Pamela learns of the death of her father's wife. The conflict between her duty to the man who became her husband only that her reputation might be saved and her passion for the man who did so much towards destroying that reputation affords the dramatic pillar upon which the play rests. The play ends with Grison's sacrifice of his life that the woman he loved so well might yet be happy with the man to whom her heart belonged. A more poetic ending could not have been planned to solve the problem. The play must rank as one of the most beautiful plays presented here in years.

Evidence of Great Success.

An idea may be gained of the great successes of the season from the record of their respective runs. Dave Warfield in "The Musketeers," is rapidly approaching his 500th performance. Robert Larnie, in "Man and Superman," has been drawing crowded houses for the past six months. William Faversham, in the "Squaw Man," has been camping on the trail for past three months. Maude Adams, in "Perseus," has been at the Empire for three months. The secret of her popularity in this play is based not only her personality, and acting, but upon the humor and action of the play, which abounds in the adventures of the pirates, fairies, Indians, crocodiles and other creatures, which keep alert one's imagination. So great is Ethel Barrymore's hold on the public that today the Criterion Theater is enjoying its greatest attendance in the past seven years. Despite her youth, in "Alice-Sit-By-The-Fire," she plays the role of a mother, who is yearning for the love of her children, as naturally as with so much grace and power, as to win universal commendation. Besides, the play is full of comedy, of the laughter provoking sort, and meets with thorough appreciation.

SUPREME COURT

LEGAL BODY IS WELL UP WITH WORK—NUMBER OF CASES HEARD YESTERDAY.

The supreme court continued its session at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the chambers in the capitol building. The following business was transacted:

Painless, Natural Childbirth.

Baby's coming into the world should be preceded by a certain preparation on the part of every woman who expects to become a mother. She owes it as a duty to her unborn babe, and to herself, to take the necessary steps to insure every means within her power to aid his entrance into the world. Baby cannot help himself in this ordeal, therefore mother must. He has a hard enough time to get into the world, and his mother's duty is to make his coming easy. His health, as a life depends greatly upon the manner of his coming. Would you have your child a cripple, or would you have him a tower of strength? Strong men are but grown-up children; a famous surgeon in Vienna is devoting his life to the cure of little helpless cripples, deformed by birth, do not allow your child to become a cripple.

Mother's Friend

is a liniment which will forestall any possibility of accident at birth; that is, it relaxes all the abdominal muscles and tissues, and permits of an easy access to the child. Teases the mother's pain, and so assists nature that when baby comes he starts out in life with a constitution well able to fight life's battles, and in bloom into strength, unquenchable that is the comfort and delight of every true mother's heart.

PARTICULARS OF THE KILLING OF REDDING

For Which the Supreme Court Says John Conley Will Have to Hang.

QUARRELED OVER PLACER CLAIM

When George B. Paxton, one of the attorneys for John Conley, under sentence of death for shooting and killing James Redding, 19 years old, last February in Tacos county, called upon the condemned man in the territorial penitentiary Sunday afternoon, he told him that the supreme court had affirmed the decision of the lower court. Conley tried manfully to hold back the tears that sprang to his eyes, but with ill success. They overflowed down his cheeks, and for a minute he was unable to speak. Then gathering himself together with an effort, he turned away a minute, cleared his throat, and said:

"It's bad weather; I believe I've caught cold, somehow."

That was the way in which John Conley faced the sentence of death.

Tells of Killing.

A New Mexican reporter accompanied Mr. Paxton to the penitentiary, and after Conley had been told of the higher court decision, he consented to talk of the killing of James Redding and Charles Purdy, aged 70 years old, at the Guadalupe placer claims, near Questa. Conley still maintained that he shot in self-defense and that his case had been misrepresented both at his trial and in the newspapers.

"Even should I hang for this affair, I now, with my last breath, will maintain that I shot to save my own life. The killing was brought about in such a manner that I could not act other than I did. It is not true, as stated, that I killed Purdy first and then shot down Redding while he was fleeing from me. Purdy and Redding had been drinking. I swear that I had not tasted liquor on the day on which the shooting occurred."

"We quarreled over the terms of a contract which I had made for doing assessment work on the placer claims. Purdy ordered me to leave the tent, and emphasized his remarks by throwing a heavy iron frying pan at me, which, had it struck me, would have made a different story of this thing."

"I backed away from the man and walked down a narrow path to where our horses were tied, intending to mount and ride to Questa. Purdy came from the tent and took a gun which was sticking in a nearby log, and followed me."

Attacked With an Axe.

"Redding, in the meantime, secured another axe from the same log and took a short cut toward the horses. I was stooping down, which made me a target for him. He came up behind me, and I saw him preparing to put the bit in the animal's mouth, when I glanced around and saw Redding standing almost over me with an upraised axe in his hands."

"I had a revolver in the waistband of my trousers, and I drew it and fired quickly at Redding, who was coming in from the rear. I fired again rapidly, and the second shot struck the boy in the throat. He fell in a heap. I had risen to an upright position by this time and saw Purdy a short distance from me with an upraised axe, as if he thought in the act of hurling the weapon at me."

"I fired at him and the shot struck him in the chest. He dropped the upraised axe across his arm and stood like a statue there on the trail, without speaking a word or making a sound. I did not want to kill him, and called out for him to go to the tent and wash the blood from his face."

"He did not answer, but turned abruptly and retraced his steps. He entered the tent and I bridled my horse. Then as I was about to mount I thought I had better go back to the tent and see if I could do anything for Purdy. We had always been friends and I regretted having been forced to shoot him."

"I walked near the tent, but fearing treachery, I called his name several times. He did not answer, so I stepped up and pulled back the tent flap, still holding my gun in my hand. To my surprise I saw Purdy standing at the tent door with the axe upraised, waiting for me. I could not jump back because I saw there was a bale of hay behind me and other obstructions barring my way. Before Purdy could strike me, I shot him, killing him. He fell in the tent and lay still."

"I tied the tent flap, but to this day I cannot tell why. Men do strange things when under excitement such as I was experiencing. Then I mounted my horse and rode to Questa. I intended to give my gun to my brother, but when I reached the town I was afraid that I would not be treated properly by the officials."

THE LITTLE WIDOW

A Mighty Good Sort of Neighbor to Have.

"A little widow, a neighbor of mine, persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts when my stomach was so weak that it would not retain food of any other kind," writes a grateful woman from San Bernardino County, Cal.

"I had been ill and confined to my bed with fever and nervous prostration for three long months after the birth of my second boy. We were in despair until the little widow's advice brought relief."

store at Questa I rode to Red River. At that place I went to the home of a justice of the peace whom I knew, and intended to talk the thing over at supper and surrender myself to him. I was prevented from doing this by the arrival of others. I went to bed, still intending to surrender at my first opportunity, when the posse arrived from Questa.

"The statement that I held them at bay is untrue. I surrendered as soon as I secured promise of humane treatment and went with the posse to Questa. This is the whole truth, as nearly as I can recall the affair. I am sorry that I had to kill those two men. They had been my friends and I had been deceived. This is the story I told in court, and the story that I swear is true, even though it should cost me my life."

Attorney Talks.

Conley's attorney would not say what means would be used to try and secure a commutation of the sentence, but that an attempt would be made.

In speaking of the case Attorney Paxton said that Conley had not had the full benefits derived from the reviewing of the evidence by the supreme court because of the fact that he did not have the funds necessary to prepare a transcript. Conley filed an affidavit of poverty, but there was no law covering such a contingency. The motion of appeal was filed, but when the supreme court came to the case there was nothing to be done but to affirm the decision of the lower court without reviewing the evidence.

He said:

"I believe that Conley would have received much less punishment had the supreme court gone into the details of the evidence."

INJUNCTION ASKED.

TO PREVENT UNITED STATES RECLAMATION SERVICE FROM TAKING OVER PROPERTY OF COMPANY.

W. A. Dunn, an attorney from Roswell, arrived in Santa Fe Tuesday, and in conjunction with U. S. Hattman, attorney, filed a petition for an injunction to prevent the United States reclamation service from proceeding with the use of the material and machinery purchased by the United States from the Taylor-Moore Construction company, contractors on the Rio Hondo dam and reservoir system.

The suits are entitled the Roswell National bank vs. the Taylor-Moore Construction company and W. P. Lewis, vs. the same company. The complainants are creditors of the construction company to the amount of $15,000 and $5,000 respectively. The construction company has a contract for work on the system, but failed, and the United States bought its machinery and material. Complainants now want an injunction as above until such time as the United States satisfies their claims against the construction company.

"Honestly, senator, don't you think the railroads gave passes year after year to influence legislation?"

"No, sir; no, sir; not at all. The railroads had no such idea, and giving passes had absolutely no influence. But," and the senator spoke in the manner of a determined man, "their withdrawal of the token that showed the high esteem they felt for the legislative office will certainly have its influence."

Government Control

T. P. Shonts, chairman of the Isthmian Canal commission, in his address to the Commercial club of Cincinnati, the other evening, to which The Citizen has already made reference, in the course of his remarks incidentally gave utterance to facts which very plainly put in contrast the difference between public and private ownership of public utilities. He said:

"One of the first acts of the present commission after taking office was the adoption of a policy designed to place all manufacturers and producers in all parts of the country on equal terms in regard to shipment of goods to the Isthmus. We threw open all terminal facilities on the Isthmus to all steamship lines on equal terms. Prior to this time the Panama railroad, being a private and not a government corporation, had endeavored to force the shipment of all canal supplies by way of New York. The management of the railroad required that steamship lines from Gulf ports should charge the same rates from their ports to Colon as were charged by the railroad's steamship line from New York to Colon, under penalty of being deprived of the railroad's dock facilities at its terminals. The result of this was to give great advantage to the port having the shortest rail line from point of production. As New York was much nearer the centers of production than Gulf or Pacific coast ports, it secured the bulk of the business. When the government assumed control, by purchase, of the Panama railroad, one of the commission's first acts was to notify all steamship lines that they could have the use of the railroad's terminal facilities on the Isthmus on the same terms as the steamships of the railroad company, without regard to any rates they might make from their ports of departure."

"In order to prevent any charge of discrimination in rates, as between New York and the Gulf and Pacific coast ports, we separated the Panama railroad steamship line from the Panama railroad and threw open the use of that steamship line to all railway connections at New York on agreed percentage divisions. We gave our direct-rail connections at New York, as well as all others, the privilege to make rates from all producing territory clear through to Colon. Under this policy the manufacturer situated on the line of a railroad leading to New York has no advantage whatever over the one situated on lines of railway running to Gulf ports. Each can arrange for his own rates straight through to Colon. We went a step further and adopted the policy of charging the government on the commission's shipments from New York exactly the same rates that are paid by any other shippers from that port locally. Our object in these various acts was to protect the United States government from any charge of favoritism to any section of the country or to any port."

American Farmer

Speaking of money conditions, and therein incidentally referring to the prosperity of the country, Henry C. Lewis, in the report mentioned by The Citizen yesterday says: "In the interior the return movement is somewhat delayed by the tendency of farmers, both south and west, to hold on to their crops. The latter are being marketed from 30 to 60 days later than usual, the improved financial standing of the farmer and his confidence in securing good prices explaining this delay."

Elsewhere in that issue The Citizen published a telegram which speaking of the joint conference of cotton growers and cotton manufacturers, now in session in New York city, says: "For the first time in history the American cotton growers are in the fortunate position to dictate to the spinners and cotton goods manufacturers. The spinners and manufacturers, realizing this fact, decided to ask the cotton producers to meet them in conference for the purpose of arranging some compromise regarding the price of cotton."

It was the case even before the civil war that the cotton grower, even more than the farmer of other sections, by the time his crop had been made, picked and ginned, found himself so deeply in debt to the dealer, who had advanced him money to raise and perfect his crop, that it was the dealer who fixed the price and not the grower, the latter finding himself after the sale, necessitated to borrow again from the dealer for family and farming expenses for the ensuing year. Thus each crop paid the expenses of the previous year. This method was inseparable from slavery, and from the hard years of recovery from bankruptcy and the subsequent misgovernment of carpetbaggers.

Fortunately for the whole country, the American farmer, north and south, east and west, was never as a class so prosperous as he is today, and it seems to be exceedingly doubtful if the old days of farm mortgages and anticipated crops will ever return.

May Be Sued For Taxes

Acting under instructions from Comptroller Metz, officers of the Finance Department have begun a searching scrutiny of the conditions under which the National City bank of New York became the owner of the old Custom House in Wall street. The comptroller is acting with a view of starting legal proceedings to compel the bank to pay over some $800,000 to the city as back taxes, it being charged that, through technicalities the bank has evaded the payment of this sum for the last seven years.

The old custom house was sold to the National City bank in 1899 by Lyman J. Gage, then secretary of the treasury, and the agreed price was $3,265,000. No actual payment was ever made by the bank, as the institution is a federal depository, and has on deposit from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000 belonging to the federal government.

When the deal was concluded, President Stillman of the bank notified the treasury department that for the property, the sum of $3,215,000 had been credited to the federal government, leaving a balance still due of $50,000. This balance has never been paid, and because of it the bank still maintains that it never has taken title, and that, as government property, the land and building are exempt from taxation.

The value of a good newspaper in a big city is well shown in the case of Mr. Singler, who was president of the Chestnut Street National bank and of the Chestnut Street Trust & Savings Fund Co., Philadelphia. It was found that losses incurred by a paper mill owned by him had brought on the trouble. Mr. Singler's one valuable asset was the Philadelphia second newspaper. An effort was made to avert the failure of his banks by other banks and bankers of Philadelphia, but they were not convinced that they would be sufficiently protected by the issue of $2,000,000 of preferred stock of his newspaper as a collateral for the necessary advances. The banks were closed and receivers were appointed. It proved in the end that Mr. Singler's newspaper, the Record, which was sold for more than $2,000,000, paid off every dollar of his liabilities.

The appellate division of the New York supreme court, in the case against Harry Marcus, charged with coercing an employee into an agreement not to become a member of any labor organization, has reversed the lower court and released the defendant, holding that the section which forbids an employer to exact such an agreement is unconstitutional. How is it, then, with the granting of an injunction against a union to prevent it from inducing laborers to abandon an employer? If the employer may boycott the union, why may not the union boycott the employer?

Brig. Gen. Greely, of the United States signal corps, announces that as the result of extensive experiments by experts under his direction, receivers have been perfected that will enable our government to intercept and read the messages sent by any system of wireless telegraphy in use. The invention is absolutely secret, and will remain so, but the truth of the statement is confirmed by Lee De Forest of the De Forest wireless telegraph company. It is understood that the government is at once to install the improved receivers in every fort in the country.

God's Noblest Work

With His Grouch On

From Chop Suey.

Man that is born of woman is small potatoes and few in a hill. He waketh up in the morning with a grouch on and by the time he hath his pants on, the hair of him standeth up straight on end like a cantankerous cat. He stampteth down to his breakfast and cusseth softly because his lacto preparatus is twelve seconds late. There is method in the mildness of his cussing, as he is afraid of the hired girl. She is his boss and he knows it. He waketh out into the morning and the tail end of his street car giveth him the laugh as it disappeareth around the corner.

He catcheth the next car and spreadeth himself out on six inches of seat space. A puffy lady goeth on the car and leaneeth a large market basket upon his port knee. The gentleman with the mutton chop whiskers beggeth his pardon for standing upon his toes and the pretty girl who has been eyeing him disdainfully passeth out a choice line of conversation talk to her friend about the selfishness of male grouchers on street cars. The car passeth the crossing and stoppeth before a large mud puddle. The conductor doesn't care and neither does the mud puddle. A man in a mud puddle is neither a dignified nor graceful object, and when that man is shaking his fist and talking words that steam sarcasm and wrath, it's enough to bring a ripple of laughter to even a mud puddle, but there is no record that this mud puddle laughed. In fact, it never even smiled but went right on tending to its business as silent partner of the boot black on the corner. The conductor informed the man that he'd pick him up on his return trip if he'd wait there, but the man decided not to wait and waded ashore.

The book-keeper informed him that it was a pleasant morning and he acknowledged that it might be for a book-keeper who drew a hundred and twenty-five dollars a month and was about as familiar with his work as a June bride is with her husband's disposition. He opened his mail and every other letter was a cancellation of an order and every other letter was a bill, and the balance were draft notices and the bank insinuated that there was a note coming due day-after-to-morrow and it would be perfectly satisfactory to them if the same were paid. And he fired the office boy and sat on the superintendent and roasted the clerk and broiled the cashier and didn't say "good morning" to the stenographer and—Yes, you've guessed it, dear reader. This is man, God's noblest work—with a grouch on.

Forest Planting

of Interest Here

Press Bulletin No. 103.

The question of reforesting waste mountain land in Wayne county, Pa., has been investigated by the Forest Service in connection with the preparation of a planting plan for lands controlled by Mr. Richard Knight, of Middletown, N. Y.

The plan recommends the planting of commercially valuable trees on 1,500 acres of denuded land. Whatever young growth is at present occupying the ground will be favored where it will not detract from the value of the future stand. There is a second-growth forest of 700 acres adjacent to the land to be planted, and the recommendations will include directions for the right management of this forest, as well as measures to protect the whole property from fire.

The principal trees suitable for planting in this locality are chestnut, European larch, red pine, and red oak. Black locust has many desirable qualities, but its susceptibility to insect damage makes its use on a large scale somewhat hazardous, so that it will be planted only to a limited extent.

The growth of all these species is fairly rapid, so that they may be expected to make a substantial yield in from thirty to forty years. The yield from thinning in the meantime will also be of value. When the plantation is from fifteen to thirty years of age a good deal of material can be utilized for such purposes as mine props.

The nursery stock needed for the plantation will be grown on the tract. This will reduce the first cost, and the seedlings, when ready for planting, will already be acclimated. To furnish these seedlings a nursery capable of rearing some 200,000 plants annually will be established in the coming spring.

The project is one of great interest to landowners of the region, as an example of what may be done with these waste lands. It is reasonably certain that the experiment will increase the value of the property and prove an excellent business investment.

The demand for timber of all kinds in northeastern Pennsylvania is far in excess of the local supply. This is especially true of the better classes of material. The coal-mining companies require enormous quantities of timber annually, and to obtain the amount needed, they are forced to accept woods which are of small value. In many cases, however, the use of strong, durable timber is imperative, and to supply this demand large quantities must be imported, principally from the southern states.

The second-growth hardwood forests which in many places have replaced the original stands are an illustration of what would have been general had the cut-over lands been protected from fire. The absence of protection, however, has resulted in large areas of brush land, absolutely worthless in their present condition. This waste land, if forested, is capable of fully supplying the local market, and it is undoubted that large areas will be planted to forests in the near future.

From The Washington Post.

The New York Globe notes that Mr. Chow, Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Rockefeller agree in the opinion that the opportunities for young men are greater today than they ever were; that in every trade, in every profession, in all walks of human activity, they see work for ambitious, capable young men to do; and that they have no sympathy with the view that the great industrial combinations have destroyed the chance for individual advancement. It is vain to protest against the centralization of business, for it is but the natural and inevitable result of an evolutionary process that had its origin when the first labor-saving invention began the substitution of the machine for the man. Economic law calls for the abolition of waste in the production of results. This is why the combines exist and will stay. And the record of the past in the evolutionary process that has led up to the era of the combine is an assurance of steady progress for this nation and the world at large.

INTERESTING LETTER

FROM DEMING

New Water Works System.

Important Facts of Interest to Water Users.

THE WANTS OF A GOOD TOWN

Special Correspondence.

Deming, N. M., Jan. 24.—Using the words of Major James R. Waddell, one of Luna county's most prominent citizens, Deming never looked better than at present. With a new water works system about completed, the prospect of joint statehood and lower taxes, and numerous business and residence buildings going up, with an increasing demand for both city and ranch property, the Wind Mill City, forsooth, is in an era of prosperity. The healthy condition of the live stock interests, too, have much to do with the present prosperity of Deming, which is the headquarters of the best and most thickly settled districts of the territory. Luna county cattle are in fine condition and many calves are already to be seen on the range, with no losses to speak of, but regardless of these facts, those who know claim that sales of yearlings this spring will be very light, owing to the light crop of calves of last year. The coming year promises to be a good one for the cattle interests, the heavy precipitation of the present winter insuring water and feed for twelve months with a golden harvest from calves for the spring of 1907.

Deming City Water Company. Colonel P. R. Smith is about to take a "fall" out of the wind mill business of Deming, with his new water works, which he expects to have in full operation by the first of March, and if the residents are not careful the town will lose the identity of its nick-name.

As the Colonel puts it himself, "it has been a long, hard struggle, but the result has been worth the effort." For three years, Colonel Smith has been giving much of his time to securing a water works for Deming, meeting with and surmounting many obstacles, bringing up at an end which is now about reached with a water system for Deming, with its 3,000 people capable of supplying a city of five times that population. And although the cost is only the nominal figure of $40,000, the plan is very systematic and complete.

Beginning at the northeast corner of the city, where nearly on a slight eminence of land is located a seventy-five foot steel stand pipe, containing 200,000 gallons of water, eight-inch mains lead steel riveted pipes are laid in a square about the business portion of the city, extending ten blocks from north to south, ten blocks from east to west, and like distances on opposite sides of the city, back to the starting point. Laterals of three and four inch pipes are laid north and south through intervening streets, thus giving an arterial circulation throughout the entire system. According to Colonel Smith, a fifty-horse power Fairbanks-Morse improved gasoline engine draws water for the plant with a Byron & Jackson centrifugal pump, at the rate of 1,000 gallons a minute, from a well of fifty feet depth and of considerable diameter, with drifts at the bottom, that has an inexhaustible supply of excellent water. The pump is so arranged that water may be pumped from the well direct into the mains as well as the stand pipe, which will prove of great value in case of a conflagration that would exhaust the supply held in the stand pipe.

After figuring carefully on the cost of production, the Deming City Water company has decided that it can furnish water to the people of Deming at the following reasonable rates:

Residences of three rooms or less, $1 per month; additional rooms, 25 cents.

Saloons, $1 and $1.50.

Stores, $1.

Water closets, 50 cents each.

Meter rate, per 1,000 gallons, 20 cents.

No meter rate less than $1 per month.

They have a twenty-five year exclusive franchise.

Social Evil.

The city council of Deming has disposed of the demi-monde question, in a manner which would solve the problem in Albuquerque, if it were applied. Deming was at one time harassed by a large number of these women occupying one of the most centrally located districts in the city. The situation was very similar to that which confronts the people of Albuquerque, until the better people of Deming demanded that the territorial statutes be enforced, which prohibits such lodgings within 700 feet of any public hall or meeting place. The occupants of the ordered were ordered to move and houses were built for them in the outskirts of the town, where they now remain. High board fences were built around these houses. The scheme worked with the desired effect.

Deming Needs Restaurant.

Although there is a large number of transient people in the city continually and many of the local people are boarders, there is not a first class or even passable eating place in Deming outside of the Harvey house, and there is a good opening here for some one with a little money who understands the business. Three Chinese restaurants located side by side, on the street leading from the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe depot, set meals for thirty-five cents, and receive good patronage, seemingly, but people patronize them because there is no better place to go, as the Harvey house is too expensive and too far from the center of the city.

Homesteaders Coming. Forty-five homesteads of 160 acres each, aggregating 72,000 acres of land, were taken up in Luna county during the year 1905, and seven desert claims of 320 acres each were filed upon in the same county during the same time.

United States Commissioner H. V. McKee, who furnished the corresponding with these statistics, says that the majority of the settlers are homesteaders from eastern states and Texas, who intend engaging in farming and stock raising. Mr. McKee also says that a large area of Luna county is yet unsettled.

Statehood. Apparently, the people of Deming are about half divided on the statehood question, there being possibly a small majority in favor of the state.

THE FIRST LESSON IN BREAD MAKING.

Is the most important of all; that is the selection of proper flour. There is no difficulty about this if Empress flour is chosen. It is so good and makes such sweet, white and nutritious bread as to be unsurpassed by any milled. The best bread makers use it for that very reason.

ANOTHER STORE IS NICELY BURGLARIZED

Nash Electrical Establishment Entered and Sum of Money Stolen.

COULD HAVE BEEN CAUGHT.

The gang of sneak thieves and burglars which have been operating very successfully in Albuquerque of late, made another haul early this morning.

The store of the Nash Electrical company was entered this time. A more dangerous selection could not have been made for the reason that M. Nash lives directly over the establishment and has a revolver in the house continually in readiness for use. Those acquainted with Mr. Nash are also aware that he is no tenderfoot when it comes to handling a gun.

If the burglars could have known at the time of the narrow escape they had from several hanks of lead and capture, they certainly would have shivered. For Mrs. Nash was awakened by the noise accompanying the entrance to the store of the thieves. She awakened Mr. Nash and half asleep and half awake, he got out of bed and listened. He was terribly sleepy, inasmuch as he got home late having attended the Elks' smoker the night previous, and consequently tumbled back beneath the warm quilt without giving the matter the investigation he otherwise would. A golden opportunity slipped by for apprehending the burglars.

Raising a rear window in the West Railroad avenue store, which it is believed was inadvertently left unlocked, the thieves gained an entrance to the place. The safe was unlocked, but the various drawers inside were not. A chisel secured in the store was utilized in prying these receptacles open. There was nothing but papers in them, however, and too wise to entrust them on their persons, the burglars contented themselves with scattering them about on the floor. A cash drawer was also pried open and there the sum of $10.65 was found and taken. Nothing else was removed.

When the thieves had completed their work they left the store again by the rear window and boldly swung around onto Railroad avenue, Mr. Nash hearing them as they stepped on the front walk. He was induced by the god of sleep to continue in his embrace however, and the burglars escaped without one getting a look at them. There is no clue, as yet, to their identity.

EX-GOVERNOR OTERO CONTEMPLATES A LONG TRIP

HE WILL JOURNEY AROUND THE WORLD, AND ON HIS RETURN, LOCATE IN LAS VEGAS.

When in Santa Fe the other day, Editor McNary, of the Las Vegas Optic, secured an interview from Ex-Governor Otero, as follows:

"I have decided to take a trip around the world, and have decided to start just as soon as I can arrange my affairs satisfactorily," said the ex-governor. "Now that the worry and strain of my work as governor is over, and I am able to relax, I feel weary, and appreciate the need of a genuine rest. I am inexpressibly relieved to find myself once more a private citizen, free to go and come as I please. I intend to take a purely pleasure trip, and am eager to get started. I will be accompanied by my son, Miguel, and the party may be enlarged to include some friends, but I can say nothing definite about that just yet. We will probably be absent about six months and we expect to enjoy every minute of that time to the fullest extent."

"Yes, it is true, that I have purchased the residence which has been our home in Santa Fe for so many years, and which is associated so closely with my official life. In some ways it is very convenient here, being so close to some of my interests, and I shall probably always spend a portion of my time in Santa Fe. But it is my desire and my disposition to reside permanently in the country where I spent my youth and began my business life, and upon my return from Europe I will look around for a residence in Las Vegas. I appreciate the host of loyal friends which I have over the entire territory, and I would enjoy taking up my home in any of our thriving cities. But it is an open question to me, Las Vegas I have always regarded as my home."

"During my years as governor I have worked unceasingly for every part of the territory. Hereafter what I may be able to do will be for the good of Las Vegas and San Miguel county. I shall cast in my lot with you, and shall use all the influence I can away for the upbuilding of the community. It was in Las Vegas that I cast my first vote. If home is where the heart is, then my home has always been among you, for Las Vegas is my choice among the cities of New Mexico."

WANTS AN INJUNCTION SERVED ON MRS. NORRIS

H. B. MONROE DOESN'T WANT TO BE ANNOYED AGAIN—SEQUEL TO STORY.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Monroe, of South Second street, whose premises Mrs. M. E. Norris, of 524 John street, had searched yesterday for a Sanyra rug which she claimed her former husband must have removed from her home and given to the Monroes, have engaged the legal services of Attorney R. W. D. Bryan, and requested him to serve an injunction on Mrs. Norris, which will prevent her from further annoying them. It is probable that this procedure will be followed out, and also a suit for damages started against Mrs. Norris for entering the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe with an officer, without cause. Attorney Bryan says that he has questioned Mrs. Norris and she is satisfied that she had no just reason for believing that rug was at the Monroe home except that her former husband was stopping there, and there was a rug on the floor in the Monroe house. "That a rug is on a floor is certainly no reason for Mrs. Norris forming the belief that it was concealed." By her actions the Monroes are led to believe that Mrs. Norris infers that they are guilty of theft.

GOVERNOR'S FIRST REQUISITION PAPER

Document Signed by H. J. Hagerman Brought Here Last Evening.

AN EXACT COPY OF IT.

Sheriff James N. McCreery, who arrived in the city on No. 1 last evening from Fort Collins, Colo., for a prisoner here, brought with him the first requisition papers signed by Governor Herbert J. Hagerman. The Evening Citizen is able to furnish its readers with an exact copy of the same, as follows:

"The territory of New Mexico, Executive Department.

"Whereas, it appearing from the requisition of his excellency, the acting governor of the state of Colorado, bearing date of January 23, 1906, and from documents thereto attached, duly authenticated, that C. E. Drake stands charged with forgery, committed in the county of Larimer in the year of 1905, in said state, and that said C. E. Drake is a fugitive from justice and has taken refuge in this territory; and

"Whereas, the said requisition requests that the said C. E. Drake be apprehended and delivered to James N. McCreery who is duly appointed agent, authorized to receive and convey him, the said C. E. Drake, to the state of Colorado to be dealt with according to law; now,

"Therefore, I Herbert J. Hagerman, governor, do command any and every sheriff in whose hands this writ may be placed, to arrest the said C. E. Drake and him safely keep and deliver to said James N. McCreery, agent as aforesaid; provided, however, that said C. E. Drake shall be offered a reasonable opportunity to assert, before delivery as aforesaid, any legal rights he may have in the premises.

"You, the said sheriff, will, with unnecessary delay, make return of this writ to the office of the secretary of the territory with statements of your doings hereunto endorsed hereon.

"In testimony of which I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the territory to be hereunto affixed. Done at Santa Fe, the capital, this 24th day of January, in the year of our Lord, 1906, and of the independence of the United States the 150th.

"HERBERT J. HAGERMAN, Governor of New Mexico."

By the Governor: J. W. RAYNOLDS, Secretary of the Territory.

A Card of Thanks.

In behalf of the members of the Coal Avenue A. M. E. church, I heartily extend thanks to Hon. Joshua S. Reynolds, president of the First National bank, for a $25 check, which sum will be used as part payment for putting down a sidewalk in front of our church. MRS. W. U. JASPER, 206 North Armo street. Solicitor.

GROWTH OF NEW MEXICO IN THE PECOS VALLEY

INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF THE SOUTHEASTERN PART OF THE TERRITORY, TAKEN FROM THE ROSWELL REGISTER.

The valley, generally speaking, is all of that region drained by the Pecos river, from its source near Santa Fe, to its mouth in Val Verde county, Texas. In recent years the name has been restricted to a more limited area—to that portion now irrigated and capable of irrigation. The new Pecos valley begins ten miles north of Roswell, and extends to Carlsbad on the south and even to the southern border of New Mexico.

The irrigated section of New Mexico, which is the finest portion of the Pecos valley, lies tributary to Roswell, the natural and commercial gateway to the newest section being developed in the great southwest.

According to the best information obtainable, about one million dollars has been invested in the valley during the last year, and thousands of acres have been turned into splendid fruit, truck and alfalfa farms. During the last nine months, parties of from fifty to seventy-five investors, from eastern and northern states, have arrived semi-monthly in the valley. Most of them have bought lands and homes in the modern paradise. This would be sufficient reason to prove to some that the valley is a prosperous and coming country. But during my stay in the valley I have ridden through the richly irrigated farming area; talked with its oldest residents; investigated every condition necessary to its present prosperity and future limitations, and have found those conditions of a still stronger proof that the tide of immigration is justified.

The present area under irrigation covers a strip fifteen miles wide, and sixty miles long. These lands are traversed by Santa Fe railroad, and tributary to good business towns. The climate of the Pecos valley is ideal. The altitude is 3,700 feet, with almost continual sunshine and dry, bracing air. The winters are mild, seasons long, and crops made sure by irrigation. Peaches, as well as exotics, are successfully grown in the Artesia district. At the Louisiana Purchase Exposition fruit grown in the valley took nine premiums. Joseph Bowman's orchard, near Artesia, yielded him an income of $2,500 from ten acres. Seven hundred acres of orchards have been set out near Artesia in the last two years.

Roswell is a city of 6,000 people, with electric lights, three banks, nine churches, eleven religious denominations. United States Land Office, weather bureau, fifty brick mercantile establishments, ice plant, large wool houses, wool scouring mills, Swedish cement rock factory, two steam laundries, tenivery barns, five hotels, well built houses, one daily newspaper with the Associated Press report, one democratic and one republican weekly, one religious weekly, a cosmopolitan and hospitable people, whose enterprises has changed Roswell from a frontier post to the principal city of New Mexico. In a few years. The school buildings alone cost $141,000. The New Mexico Military Institute is located there. Roswell is equipped to handle the commercial interest of the rapidly developing valley. They welcome investors from the older states.

Only yesterday afternoon I began distributing "Donation Cards" for building the new Highland Methodist church, and contributions began coming in this a. m. Why should we be discouraged, even on our plan of building by free will offerings? Let each donor rest assured that any amount donated will be highly appreciated. These donation cards will be distributed promiscuously, and should we miss anyone who would like to take part in this church enterprise, let them send amount and name. No one who wants to give to the building of this church shall be slighted.

WILL ENTERTAIN GOV. HAGERMAN

The Commercial Club Will Do Honors to New Executive Thursday, Feb. 15.

G. L. BROOKS ELECTED DIRECTOR

At a directors' meeting of the Commercial club last evening, G. L. Brooks was elected a director, vice H. E. Fox, who has sold his interests in this city, and will make British Columbia his future home.

At last night's meeting it was also decided to extend to Governor Hagerman an invitation to participate of the hospitality of the club on February 15, at which time the bankers of New Mexico are to meet in this city for the purpose of organizing a Territorial Bankers' association.

Colonel W. S. Hopewell, president of the Commercial club, was delegated to extend the invitation on behalf of the club, to Governor Hagerman, which he did today, going to Santa Fe this morning for that purpose.

It is understood that Governor Hagerman accepted the invitation with thanks, stating that he would be present unless something unforeseen prevented. It is planned to make this reception to the new governor the greatest social affair of the present season, and it goes without saying that the members of the Commercial club will succeed in this undertaking.

At last night's meeting Dr. W. H. Nussbaum and R. W. Hadden were elected members of the Commercial club.

ALLEGED FORGER TAKEN BACK TO COLORADO

SHERIFF MCREEERY ARRIVED LAST NIGHT, DEPARTING THIS MORNING.

Sheriff James M. McCreery, of Fort Collins, Colo., arrived in Albuquerque on No. 1 last evening and left this morning on No. 2 for home again, with C. E. Drake handcuffed to him.

Sheriff McCreery turned over his requisition papers for Drake to Chief of Police McMillin. The chief thereupon handed over the prisoner.

Drake is charged with forging the name of H. C. Bradley, of Fort Collins, to a check for $271.61, on the Poudre Valley National bank of Fort Collins. Governor Parks made the requisition on Governor Hagerman of this territory, which was granted.

Drake was running a penny photograph gallery in the Barnett building when arrested by Chief McMillin's men. Pearl Porter, the woman who was living with Drake as his wife, succeeded him to Colorado. She left the other evening.

INFORMAL AFFAIR IS BURN'S BANQUET

WHICH WILL OCCUR THIS EVENING AT 9 O'CLOCK IN THE ELKS HALL.

It must be remembered by those who have purchased tickets and will attend the Robbie Burns anniversary entertainment and banquet tonight, that it will be an informal affair—no "dress" or "kid glove" affair, and everybody will be expected to have a good time.

R. W. Hadden, Dr. W. N. Macbeth and others of the committee have worked faithfully the past few days to make the anniversary entertainment a success, and they anticipate that the affair will be one of the big successes of the season; there will be plenty to eat and drink, music and songs galore, and "SHORT" speeches by the best orators in the city. Several real funny men will be present, and they tell ONLY new jokes.

It is thought at this hour—3 p. m.—that about eighty will attend the entertainment and banquet.

TELEPHONE BALLAD PLEASED GOVERNOR

Wrote a Letter of Thanks to Learnard & Lindemann From Capital City.

HE ENJOYED THE CONCERT

The unique manner in which Learnard & Lindemann serenaded Governor Hagerman over the telephone Tuesday afternoon was told of at the time in this paper.

The governor was called to the phone at his office in Santa Fe, where he was favored with a Victor graphophone selection, as played in this city. Yesterday the chief executive of New Mexico wrote the following letter to Learnard & Lindemann:

"Gentlemen—I thank you for your kind thought in telephoning me yesterday, and I enjoyed the concert over the wire very greatly, indeed.

"Trusting that I may have the pleasure of becoming personally acquainted with the members of your firm, I am very sincerely yours,

"H. J. HAGERMAN."

Messrs. Learnard & Lindemann are justly proud of these kind words from Governor Hagerman, and feel greatly pleased over the success which attended their efforts in entertaining him.

PRESIDENT OF PHARMACY BOARD RETURNS TO CITY

AFTER A TOUR OF INSPECTION—B. RUPPE TELLS OF BEING SNOWBOUND—OTHER ITEMS.

President of the Territorial board of pharmacy, B. Ruppe, returned to Albuquerque last night, after a strenuous trip to Farmington and other points in New Mexico on an inspection tour, during which time he was snowed out three days at Chama in a snow drift.

Mr. Ruppe stated that there were thirteen engines tied up in the snow drift and that two snow plows worked three days before the tracks were cleared sufficiently to allow of trains getting through.

"Farmington is on a great boom at present," said Mr. Ruppe to a Citizen reporter this morning, "owing to the fact that the Southern Pacific has bought 2,000 acres of coal lands in that vicinity, which it will develop. It is now being developed by the building of a new line from Farmington to Gallup, via Grants; it has not been positively decided which as yet, as there are two lines surveyed. The Southern Pacific's objective point is Old Mexico, according to one of the civil engineers I was talking with."

Mr. Ruppe also stated that he had an hour's conversation with Governor Hagerman in Santa Fe yesterday, and that he felt sure the new governor, if given a representative legislature, would enact some good laws and repeal some bad ones for the people of New Mexico. During the conversation with Governor Hagerman, Mr. Ruppe also learned that Dr. J. C. Thynon of Las Vegas, had been re-appointed surgeon general, and that Major W. H. H. Llewellyn had also been re-appointed on the governor's staff.

In conversation with Adjutant General Tarkenton, Mr. Ruppe, who is captain of Company G of the New Mexico guards, learned that the adjutant had $5,000 in cash already in his possession to be used to send a team from New Mexico to the next national encampment, and that interest in the national encampment was increasing. Adjutant Tarkenton also impressed upon Captain Ruppe the necessity of having the members of Company G attend target practice, that they may become proficient enough to represent the great territory at the next encampment, and if possible carry off the prize.

NAVAJO BLANKET CROP IS NOT SO SHORT

AS SOME DEALERS WOULD HAVE IT APPEAR, ACCORDING TO J. W. BENNETT, THE VETERAN CURIO MAN.

In speaking of the shortage of Navajo blankets this season, as exploited by Santa Fe papers and other papers in the territory, J. W. Bennett, of Houck, Arizona, proprietor of the curio store at 109 North First street, stated to a representative of The Evening Citizen this morning that if there was any shortage in the supply this season it was due to the severe weather and not to a shortage of wool or to their seeking other means of a livelihood, as stated by the papers.

"You know," said Mr. Bennett, "the Indians weave their blankets out of doors, and naturally the severe weather we have had this winter has kept the Indians from making quite as many blankets as they would have done. The weather has been more mild. The talk about the shortage of wool is a loush. The weathers are never sheared by the Indians except as they need the wool to weave blankets, therefore none of the weather wool is ever marketed, and a good supply is always on hand. The demand for blankets is greater this season than over before; that's what makes the market and supply seem short."

Mr. Bennett came in from the west this morning and will remain a few days. His store on North First street is under the management of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Reilly, and under their supervision the store is enjoying a most excellent trade.

J. H. O'REILLY IS AN INSURANCE MAN NO MORE

The Washington Life Insurance Co., of which J. H. O'Reilly, of this city, is manager for this section, decided some time ago to withdraw its agencies from New Mexico and Arizona. This action necessarily compelled Mr. O'Reilly to sever his connection with the company, although he was offered several flattering positions in other places.

The prosperous drug store conducted by Mr. O'Reilly at the corner of Railroad avenue and Second street, will now receive his individual attention. It will be pleasant news to Mr. O'Reilly's many friends to learn that the Duke City will continue to hold him as a resident.

CHURCH, CLUB AND SOCIAL GATHERINGS

Holy communion was celebrated this morning at 9:30 at the St. John's Episcopal church.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church met this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. W. A. McCaskoy, 407 North Fifth street, at which time tea was served and the regular business of the society transacted.

Regular services at Temple Albert, corner Seventh street and West Gold avenue, Friday evening, at 7:45. "The Land Problem from the Idealist Standpoint," will be the subject of Rabbi Kaplan's sermon. Everybody cordially invited.

Miss Corinne Bocklett entertained a number of her friends last evening at her home, 631 South Broadway. Dancing and cards were indulged in until a late hour, when they all departed, voting Miss Bocklett an excellent hostess.

The smoker and general jollification meeting held last evening by the local lodge of Elks was a success from every point of view. The session was largely attended and a period of sociability ensued during which all drank and were merry. Two candidates were initiated into the mysteries of Elksdom, namely, L. L. Dean and Gus. Gustafson.

At 2:30 this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. A. W. Hayden, 219 North Walter street, the Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church held their regular meeting. A large attendance of members was present and the afternoon was pleasantly spent in transacting business and indulging in social conversation. Refreshments were served.

Owing to the fact that several members were unable to be present, and because those having the affair in charge thought that not sufficient time had been spent in advertising the affair, the "Elks" dance, which was to have been given last night by the members of the Commercial club, was postponed and the regular club dance substituted. All present thoroughly enjoyed the affair. The "Elks" dance will be given two weeks hence.

The Albuquerque Aerie of Eagles are preparing to give a benefit performance at Colombo hall next Monday evening, the proceeds to be donated to Eugene Thomas, his wife and two little children, who are in the city in destitute circumstances. Mr. Thomas does light and heavy balancing and the little children do a sensational high swing act and are clever singers and dancers. In addition to these features the Thomases will be assisted by an excellent array of local talent. Popular prices of 15, 25 and 35 cents will be charged.

OFFICE BUNGLARS CAME NEAR MEETING SHERIFF

PERFECTO ARMIJO BARELY MISSES CULTIVATING THE ACQUAINTANCE OF THIEVES ALSO.

The brightest kind of gilt-edged luck seems to be following the gang of burglars that are operating in this city. Last night they escaped by the skin of their teeth and a few evenings ago while ransacking the N. T. Armijo building missed forming the acquaintance of Sheriff Perfecto Armijo by another "horseshoe streak" of good fortune. Sheriff Armijo returned from Santa Fe on a late train and arrived at room in the Grand Central hotel. He was awake when persons stole cautiously down the hall, apparently in their stocking feet. The sheriff concluded it was the noise of roomers and was not a little surprised when in the morning he learned that the building had been burglarized and a roomer near him among those who suffered being "touched."

Whether the thieves were wise to the location of the sheriff or skipped his room by chance is not known for a certainty, but as the door to the officer's room was unlocked and was not molested, it would seem that his presence was not unknown.

A TIP FOR THE LOCAL POLICE FORCE

Special to The Evening Citizen.

Gallup, N. M., Jan. 25.—Harry Stowman, a private of Troop H, Fifth cavalry, stationed at Fort Wingate, has deserted. He is described as being of slight build, five foot six inches in height, with blue eyes and light hair; is probably wearing civilian clothes. A reward of $50 is offered for his arrest.

THE VERY THOUGHT OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IS HORRIBLE, MONSTROUS DEVILISH

By Gov. Edward W. Hoch, of Kansas.

The Kansas law concerning capital punishment is peculiar. It provides for the death sentence, not however, to be executed until the expiration of one year, and then only on the order of the governor. No governor ever has and I think none ever will take the personal responsibility of ordering the execution of any convict.

It is not exact, therefore, to speak of the non-enforcement of the law. I believe it ought to be repealed, not because of its non-enforcement, but because it is a foolish provision which makes its execution optional with the governor, with no probability that he will ever exercise the option but in one way.

The evolution of civilization is perhaps attested in no field better than in the field of penology. Civilization has changed the old theory and practices concerning the penalties for crime. Formerly it was inflicted as a matter of justice, that is, justice in the sense of an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, the sense of getting even with the fellow.

Criminals were bottled in oil, they were put upon iron racks and their limbs drawn from their sockets by machinery, they were put in barrels with sharp spikes on the inside and ridden down declivities, they were burned at the stake, they were crucified and left to die a slow, agonizing death, they were guillotined and their heads exposed to gaping throngs.

But gradually these barbarous practices, the result of devilish theories, yielded to the milder punishment of the gallows. These hanging exhibitions drew great crowds, who came to go to an execution, and vendors of knickknacks did a thriving business.

Again civilization got in its work with the conclusion that these public exhibitions brutalized the spectators and contributed to the crime they were intended to prevent and punish. Now criminals are hung inside of inclosures and only a few selected witnesses are brutalized by the gruesome performance. This last relic of barbarism is now giving way to the more refined way of snapping the life cord in a comfortable and luxuriously cushioned chair with a sufficient number of electric volts to give the job the character of neatness and dispatch.

Civilization will soon relegate this final method of taking life to the ash heap, where it belongs.

The fatal defect of the capital punishment theory is that it cheapens life instead of magnifying it. The criminal usually takes life hurriedly without much deliberation, but the law takes plenty of time and does it deliberately.

It is based on an entirely erroneous view of life and of its source and of its sacredness.

I can understand how the atheist or the materialist with their ideas of the nothingness of this life and the hereafter can consistently believe in capital punishment, but how a Christian, one believing in the Bible, in immortality and in the preparedness necessary in this world for bliss in the next, and of the awful conditions of the lost throughout eternity, can believe in and consent to a theory that would plunge a human soul into that eternity and into that immortality unprepared is beyond my comprehension.

Do you say the prisoner is given time for repentance? But suppose he doesn't. Would the time ever come when you would voluntarily plunge your brother or father or son into that eternity and take the risks which it involved? To me the thought is simply horrible; it is monstrous, it is devilish.

I would resign any office in the gift of the people before I would be personally responsible for plunging a human soul into eternity, except as a matter of absolute necessity and self-defense, or as a necessity of national salvation in a war.

Can you conceive, I speak it reverently, of the ideal man, who gave his own life for the blackest criminal as well as for the purest saint, can you, I say, conceive of this greatest and sweetest man who ever walked the earth, adjusting the black cap, fixing the noose, springing the trap and plunging an immortal soul into eternity?

If capital punishment, therefore, is wrong, inherently wrong, its results cannot be good any more than thistles can grow figs, and hence it must be true, as stated, that crime abounds to a greater extent in states having capital punishment than in states which have abolished this barbarism.

As to Kansas, I do not believe there are 1,600,000 people anywhere else on earth more prosperous, more moral, more law abiding and less afflicted with crime and its consequences, and where human life is safer.

FRANKLIN-HUSTON ORPHEUM SHOW SATURDAY NIGHT

Capacity audiences are the best proof of the merits of the Franklin-Huston Orpheum Show. High-class vaudeville are the leading amusements and this company has the best acts from the Orpheum circuit, featuring the Prof. Sigumoo troupe of Japs. This is undoubtedly the best aggregation of acrobatic performers that has ever appeared on any stage and act is said to be the most expensive on the road. Little "Tots" the baby Jap, is an object of especial interest, the ladies wanting to kidnap him and the small kids look as if they would like to take him home to play with. This is only one of the many features to be presented at Elks theater, Saturday night, January 27, for one night only.

"OLE OLSON" HERE TUESDAY, JANUARY 30

The Northland singer, Mr. Ben Hendricks, in his play, "Ole Olson," is scoring a great success wherever it has been produced. It is a play that leaves a pleasant flavor behind, a flavor of rustic romance and brave deeds of goodness and simplicity rising triumphant over frustrated villainy and irritating misconceptions in the third act, which is short and sweet.

Mr. Hendricks is an actor of the type made familiar years ago by Joe Emmett. He has a voice of singular pathos and power and his singing has the peculiar quality which suitably clarifies the imagination and for the moment lifts the hearer quite out of himself. With all this he is an actor of uncommon grace and spirit, has a fine presence and winning face and a Swedish accent that is equal to any linguistic emergency. He will sing six new songs during the action of the play. Mr. Gray has surrounded Mr. Hendricks with a very strong company. At Elks opera house, Tuesday, January 30.

THE WINNING STROKE

If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all-important, however, in selecting a laxative, to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without griping, irritating, or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases.

It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. Please to remember that the genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale in bottles of one size only, by all reputable druggists and that full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is plainly printed on the front of every package. Regular price, 50c per bottle.

SPORTING... BREVITIES

Jake Beckley is passing the winter months away acting as assistant starter at the Ascot track, Los Angeles.

Sailor Tom Sharkey has 16 horses in training for the trotting turf, and will enter the game as soon as his trainer gives the word.

When there was some talk of Rube Waddell being sold to Boston, one of the Hub newspapers gave as the principal reason why he would not like the town the fact that bars close at 11 p. m.

Fifteen players in the Eastern League batted 300 or better during the past season. Laporte, who has been called to New York, was the leading batsman, with an average of .331 for 120 games played.

Ireland, as a country and not as a dependency, will be represented by some of her foremost athletes at the Olympic games, to be held at Athens, under the patronage of King George, April 16th to 26th.

The term "soccer" for association football was invented by Oxford undergraduates from the third, fourth and fifth letters in association, with "cer" as an appendix. Let us hope the invention will not be copyrighted.

The University of Chicago has taken steps to abolish intercollegiate sports, the initial move being an attempt to do away with the association football schedule. Pressure has been brought to bear against any games outside the university.

If Battling Nelson and Kid Herman come together, it will probably be in Butte, next spring, for a purse of $15,000. Los Angeles and Hot Springs are anxious to secure the fight, but it is not thought they will be able to meet the offer made by the Montana town.

Dale Gear, who has been pitcher, fielder, manager and utility man in major and minor league clubs for a string of years, will play right field for the Birmingham team next season, which will give Harry Vaughan three men in the daisy patches who batted over .300 last season.

John Humphreys, manager of Terry McGovern, has posted $1,000 in New York, which he is willing to bet against $1,000 that Terry knocks out Nelson in six rounds, when they meet at Philadelphia. Eastern critics think the odds asked are too great—2 to 1 should be a tempting offer, according to expert opinion.

New York automobilists will purchase a tract of ground in southern New Jersey for the purpose of building a 25-mile track for automobile racing. An automobile racing is now carried on it is a most dangerous pastime, and is injuring the automobile in the eyes of the public. Automobile racing on mile tracks cannot continue, and when the course is over public roads it is far from satisfactory.

Chicago bowlers have just finished a twenty-four hour bowling contest, in which twelve two-men teams participated. There can be no practical or theoretical value to the bowling world by such contests and the danger to the participants is such that these endurance contests should be discouraged. The great strain on the bowling arm tends to weaken instead of strengthen the muscles. There is always the danger of the bowler going stale, while the waste tissues involved in endurance contests cannot be regained as rapidly under ordinary conditions because exhausted nature never recuperates as readily as do merely tired muscles. It is not probable that bowlers of other cities will follow the senseless lead set by the Chicagoans.

SOOTHING AND COMFORTING.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, when applied to Piles, cuts, boils, etc., subdues pain almost instantly. This Salve draws out the inflammation, reduces swelling and acts as a rubefacient, thus circulating the blood through the diseased parts, permitting or aiding Nature to permanently remove the trouble entirely. FAVORITISM IN RAILROAD RATES

See the loves of bread?
Are they not of equal size?
Not by a jugful.

But it is the way the railroad would have them.
Of course, the Mobile loaf is large. Flour (in sacks) comes all the way from East St. Louis, Ill., at 17 cents per 100 lbs.
Yet Yellow Pine, only 60 miles nearer East St. Louis, has to pay 33 cents, nearly twice as much.
Tupelo, Miss., 219 miles nearer East St. Louis than Yellow Pine, gets its flour delivered if it pays 24 cents.
Quitman, Miss., only 49 miles nearer East St. Louis than Yellow Pine, pays 25 1/2 cents.
Meridian, Miss., through which the flour has to go en route to Yellow Pine, 70 miles away, and to Mobile, only pays 20 cents.
Evidently, the railroad is about as impartial as Cinderella's step-mother.

RAILROAD TOPICS

No. 2 was again late this morning, due to trouble with the injector of the engine.

A Silva, a Santa Fe machinist, living at 608 South Second street, left last night for Los Angeles, where he goes for a few weeks' vacation. His two sisters accompanied him.

Brakeman Selvy, who has been on the Canyon run for nearly two years past, has been placed on the main line, with more pay and a better chance for promotion.

The Santa Fe will build a new track from Mellin or the cantilever bridge to Needles. The new track will be built through the foothills, thus avoiding the encroachment of the Colorado river during floods. The present track runs along the river from the bridge nearly to Needles and has been a source of trouble during high waters.

The eastern roads are watching each other like hawks these days to discover which of them will be the first to break the anti-pass agreement. It is freely predicted by those in a position to know that it is only a matter of time until as many people will be riding on passes and free transportation as ever before, as they claim the railroads cannot enforce the "no pass" rule, for the reason that it incites too much bad feeling against them.

Owing to the fact that the mechanical "arm" on a mail car on the Missouri Pacific railroad failed to work, a package containing $2,000 in bills is missing, together with about 500 other pieces of mail. A pouch containing the $2,000 was hung on a crane at Webster Groves, Mo., and when the Missouri Pacific express train passed the station at the rate of sixty miles an hour, the sack was torn from the crane and its contents strewn along the right of way for a distance of ten miles. No trace of the money has as yet been found.

Edward L. Doheny, the millionaire oil man of California, arrived in Albuquerque yesterday, en route from Los Angeles to the republic of Mexico. Mr. Doheny was accompanied by his family and traveled in his private car, "Estelle." While in the city Mr. Doheny stated that he was now supplying the Mexican Central railroad with 1,500 barrels of oil per day, for use in their engines, as they are fast converting all of their engines into oil burners. This oil comes from his Mexico oil fields near San Luis Potosi. In the same state, Mr. Doheny was one of the first men to prospect for oil in Los Angeles and from the flow struck there in 1892 came the foundation of his present immense fortune, all made out of oil. Mr. Doheny and family left last night for the south.

SOME ONE WILL GET GOOD JOB AT THE CARDENAS.
Hotel men are speculating on the successor to R. E. Pellow as manager of the Cardenas hotel at Trinidad, when Mr. Pellow leaves for El Paso to assume the management of the new eating house for the Harvey system there, says the Advertiser. No one has yet been chosen for the place. Mr. Pellow has gone to Kansas City to purchase supplies and fixtures for the new house. The Cardenas position is regarded as one of the best on the line for the Harvey system. Mr. Pellow's position is probably the best of all now, as it is the largest. The only other hotels that compare with the Cardenas on the Santa Fe western lines are the Alvarado at Albuquerque and the Las Vegas house. Mr. Pellow has brought the Cardenas up

You All Pay Up.

To all who owe their taxes will save cost by coming in paying their taxes, inside of next ten days, as you all know my time is out. So you all must come in and pay, as you ought to know that I can not pay all of your taxes.

Now please come and pay if you don't. I will levy as I go. You all promised to pay next week, but next week is slow about coming. So I am forced to collect, so I can pay off the county debt which is against me.

Now you may remember this is no joke. The money has to come, by coming in and paying you will save $2. For I don't mean to pass no one without collecting.

It may seem hard to you who have owed me for two or three years when you are walking around with money in your pocket.

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated.

Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol cures indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

DAY AND WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Friday.

Sun rose at 7:07 and will set 5:18; moon will set at 6:32 p. m. This is the supposed anniversary of the conversion of St. Paul. Bright and pleasant, but more windy than yesterday.

M. Wabrun, the capitalist of Bernalillo, is in the city today on business. G. L. Altheimer has returned from St. Louis, where he has been visiting with friends.

R. O. Potter and wife, of Las Cruces, arrived in the city last night and will remain for a few days visiting with friends.

Dave Armijo, son of the sheriff of Bernalillo county, who was reported as quite seriously ill some time ago, is now convalescent.

Mrs. Perfecto Armijo, who fractured a bone in a limb a few weeks ago as the result of a fall at the ranch, is now able to be up and around.

Miss Alma Bussor, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Frank Carpenter, of Berkeley, Cal., have arrived in the city and will remain several days, the guests of friends.

Mrs. P. P. Simmons, of Belen, who spent last evening as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Scott, of 506 West Railroad avenue, returned to her home today.

Hon. Neil B. Field, the attorney, has returned from Santa Fe, where he attended the inaugural ceremonies and transacted business before the supreme court.

Charles F. Spader and William Noedel, prominent merchants of Bernalillo, arrived in the city today, having driven overland from that point. They will return to Bernalillo tomorrow.

W. H. H. Llewellyn, United States attorney, and H. B. Holt, attorney, passed through the city last evening, en route to their homes in Las Cruces, from the inaugural ceremonies at Santa Fe.

Mrs. M. J. Gonsul, of Roswell, en route to Los Angeles, arrived in the city last night and will remain several days, the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Gonsul.

Workmen are engaged today repairing the chimney at the court house. It will be so fixed that during severe wind storms the smoke will not be prevented from leaving it, as at present is the rule.

It was reported this morning that Alfred, the little son of John A. Buchanan, 409 North Broadway, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia for some time past, had passed the danger point and would recover.

A. B. McGaffey returned to Albuquerque yesterday from Ketchikan and Thoreau, where he went a few days ago for the purpose of paying off the employees of the American Lumber company and the company he represents.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Cook are reveling in the smiles of a new youngster who arrived at their home last night. Mr. Cook is a lineerman for the Bell Telephone company and makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Westerfelt.

Work in building circles, owing to the fine weather now prevailing, is booming. All over the city new structures are in course of construction, and if the weather continues as it has been for the past few days many will soon be completed.

Mrs. Regina Strong and mother, Mrs. J. V. Norvell, from Denver, arrived in the city today, to enjoy a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Strong. They are en route to southern California, where they will spend several months.

Justice of the Peace Jose Miguel Chaves has dismissed the action started by Dan Gallegos who pitched for the Albuquerque Browns last season, and who brought an action against its manager, F. J. Houston, for $60, alleged to have been due him for back salary.

Jacob Korber, the carriage manufacturer, is erecting a $15,000 business block at 210 and 212 North Second street to be occupied by himself. The building will be two stories high and its dimensions 50 by 150 feet. The front of the structure will be of hydraulic stone and the remainder of brick.

Louis Kornberg, life insurance agent, was attacked with an epileptic fit this morning on Railroad avenue, falling to the sidewalk in front of the N. T. Armijo building and severely bruising his forehead. Medical assistance was rendered to the unfortunate man and he was soon in a normal condition.

G. C. Terry, a representative of the Press Syndicate of New York, Chicago and Denver, has arrived in the city from Santa Fe where he compiled data for a New Mexico publication that is to be issued by his company in the near future. He will secure data during his stay here of the prominent features of Albuquerque and its foremost citizens. The publication, Mr. Terry states, will contain much interesting matter pertaining to the sunshine territory, together with illustrations and portraits of its leading citizens and statesmen.

Work of tearing down the old Mar-ron building on Railroad avenue has commenced and will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. On the site of the old building Attorney O. N. Mar-ron will erect a modern two-story brick business building, to cost $10,000. Wallace Hesselton was awarded the contract and when the building is completed, which will be about May 1, it will be occupied by the firm of Weiler & Benjamin.

J. W. Spencer, representing the Press Perfecting Press company, with headquarters at Chicago, is in the city, and was a pleasant caller at the office of The Evening Citizen. Mr. Spencer has been to southern California on business connected with his company, and en route to this city stopped over a day at El Paso, where a gentleman will continue on north tonight.

Architect Christy has drawn the plans for a two-story brick building to be erected at a cost of $6,000 in Belen for the Belen Commercial club. Work on the structure will be commenced at a very near date. The building will be up-to-date in every respect, with reception room, reading room, club rooms, and all modern improvements.

Street Commissioner Tierney has his force of men busily engaged in raising the grade of Fourth street from Railroad avenue on out, and putting in good curbs. Dirt and small stones are being used freely and when the work is completed Fourth street will be one of the neatest driveways in the city.

Mrs. W. S. Vencenheller, of Fayetteville, Ark., wife of the superintendent of the agricultural department of the University of Arkansas, arrived in the city today on the limited, and will remain some time the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. B. Lankin, and her nephew, G. H. Gray, depot master for the Santa Fe.

Marriage licenses were granted today in probate court to Minnie M. Landrum and William H. Bragaw, both of Albuquerque; to Mrs. Clara Bangs and J. P. Jackson, both of Albuquerque, and to Eetela Padilla, 15 years old, of Pajarito, and Eugenia Padilla, 20 years old, of Las Padilla. J. H. Hatcher, the popular local agent of the Wells, Fargo Express company, returned the other day from a visit to Grand Junction, Kan.

Women's dress slippers, with low, medium or high heels; one, three or four straps, in patent kid or velvet. They are stylish and fit splendidly. Prices range from $1.25 to $3. C. May's shoe store, 314 West Railroad avenue.

POSTMASTER HOPKINS RECEIVES OFFICIAL NOTICE

Second Assistant Postmaster General W. S. Shallenberger of Washington, D. C., has notified Postmaster Hopkins of this city that he had been selected to carry the mail from No. 67186 from Albuquerque to Pecos, 61 miles and back, six times a week, was unsatisfactory and accordingly has caused Mr. Hopkins to notify the public that sealed proposals will be received by the second assistant postmaster general until February 27, 1906, for carrying the mails from July 1, 1906 to June 30, 1910, on the above described route, the same to include the depositing and collecting of mail along the route.

The present contract pay is $2,423.10. A bond of $6,000 is required.

HOW THE NEWS WAS RECEIVED BY CITIZENS OF ALBUQUERQUE

WHEN THEY LEARNED, THROUGH THE EVENING CITIZEN'S BULLETIN, THAT THE JOINT STATEHOOD BILL HAD PASSED THE HOUSE.

To vent their enthusiasm and to show how much they appreciated what the news meant to them, a large number of Albuquerque's citizens, when they read The Evening Citizen's bulletin to the effect that the statehood bill had passed the house, went to their homes and places of business and unfurled "Old Glory" to the evening breeze.

The stars and stripes were hoisted over the building occupied by the Surety Investment company; Edward Johnston, the old war veteran, unfurled a flag at his residence, and at several other places in the city flags were displayed as a mark of patriotism that congress had given heed to the many voices that have been crying out for statehood.

When the bulletin announcing that the rule had passed the house, which meant that the bill would pass also, was received at The Citizen office and posted in front of the building yesterday, the news seemed to spread through the city in an incredibly short time, and until The Evening Citizen was on the streets with the full story, people stood in crowds in front of The Citizen building, reading the bulletin.

This afternoon when the bulletin announcing that the bill had passed the house by a vote of 194 to 150, was posted, crowds again gathered, and many stopped to read the glad tidings as they passed by.

Everybody was stopping his neighbor on the street with the greeting: "Put her there, pard, for joint statehood is a go." On all sides only praise for the good work ex-Delegate Rodey had done, and for the good accomplished by the full papers that favored joint statehood was heard. All in all, it was a gala day for the citizens of Albuquerque who have worked so faithfully for joint statehood.
