NICHOLAS TO THE PEASANTS

Czar Believing Renewal of Disorder is Close at Hand

ADDRESSES THE PEASANTRY

Makes Promises of Relief but They Must Observe Property Rights.

GERMAN BANKER IS THREATENED

St. Petersburg, Feb. 2.—In view of the profound impression prevailing among the nobility members of the zemstvos, and other classes, which are in direct touch with the peasants, that spring will witness a renewal of disorders throughout the country on a larger scale, the emperor has addressed a plain, outspoken mandate to the peasantry, setting forth that the rights of property are sacred and that the peasants will be violating his will if they attempt to enter into possession of private lands. At the same time, his majesty assures the peasants that with the co-operation of the national assembly he will institute measures for their relief.

BEEN THREATENED BUT IS NOT FRIGHTENED.

Berlin, Feb. 2.—Replying to an inquiry today regarding the report that he had been condemned to death by the Russian revolutionaries for furnishing financial assistance to the government of Russia, Herr Mendelssohn, head of the banking house of Mendelssohn & Co., said:

"I have received many threatening letters from Russian revolutionaries since the revolutionary movement began. The latest was a sentence to death, with a coffin and skull and cross-bones pictured on the communication. This was six weeks ago, but I have not been molested though Berlin is full of Russians. I do not attach any importance to the threats."

ANOTHER PRIZE FIGHT IS NOW ON THE CARPET.

Colma, Cal., Feb. 2.—Mike Schreck of Cincinnati and John Willie of Chicago, will fight twenty-five rounds before the Colma Athletic Club this evening. Everything is in readiness for the battle and the two contestants are said to be in condition for a fierce and vigorous battle. This match is an outcome of the Schreck-Kaufman negotiations, which fell through on account of Billy Delaney's unwillingness to allow his charge, Kaufman, to take part in a fight with Schreck or anyone else, until he has had a complete rest. Schreck and Willie have had one meeting before this, and its ending, through the incompetency of the referee, was most unsatisfactory to the fans.

ANOTHER MURDERER SWINGS FOR CRIME.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—William Walter Hamilton, a negro, convicted of the murder of Lizzie Lyman, on June 20, 1904, was hanged this morning at the District Jail to expiate his crime. Hamilton remained calm to the very end and there was no hitch in the execution. Hamilton had two trials. The first verdict of murder in the first degree was set aside on a technicality, and a new trial granted, which resulted in a conviction. Sentence was passed fixing the execution for November 10, last, but owing to the pending of an appeal to the District Court of Appeals, the hanging was postponed. The Court of Appeals confirmed the judgment of the lower court, however, and the execution was set for today.

FEDERATED WOMEN'S CLUBS HOLD MEETING.

New York, Feb. 2.—The annual convention of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs opened here at the Hotel Astor this morning, with a large attendance. The morning session was devoted to the welcoming of the delegates and a resume of the work done during the last year. The convention also appointed a number of committees and transacted routine business. In the afternoon session three directors, from the boroughs of Manhattan, Queens and Richmond, will be elected, and some proposed changes of the constitution taken up for discussion. After that there will be a fine musical program and addresses by prominent speakers.

COMMISSION MAKES PHILIPPINE REPORT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The governor general, in his report to the Philippine commission, made public today, states:

With the exception of the provinces of Cavite, Batangas and Samar, peace and order have generally prevailed throughout the islands. Except in those provinces the instances of lawlessness have been few and insignificant. The wild and semi-barbarous hill men of Samar, fired by the fanatic teachings of an old Filipino, who called himself "Pope" Bulan, who supplied the soldiers with charms called "anting-anting," which were told to be powerful under the direction of several shrewd and unscrupulous leaders, some of whom had been outlaws from Spanish times, and began a series of attacks upon the isolated detachments of constabulary

OPERATORS AND MINERS AT OUTS

Convention Adjourns--No Effort at Compromise Between Parties.

EACH CHARGES THE OTHER

With Being Cause of Rupture Though Operators Seem Most Defiant.

ONE MINER PROVES REFRANT

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—The coal operators and miners of the central competitive and southwest districts met in a joint conference today to finally settle the question as to whether an agreement was possible. President Mitchell announced that the miners had refused to accept a continuance of the present scale. F. L. Robbins, of Pittsburgh, moved that the present scale be affirmed with the same process and conditions for the year beginning April 1. Taylor, an Illinois operator, moved as an amendment the same proposition that had been previously offered and rejected. The amendment was lost, the operators and miners voting solidly. Robbins then took the floor. He said he wanted to go on record as it seemed the future of the interstate movement was in peril.

Mitchell Replies to Robbins. Mitchell answered Robbins and in closing said: "We have come to the parting of the ways, and it seems to me that the only thing left to do is to go home and there try to overcome these seemingly insurmountable obstacles. We deeply regret the necessity for such a step, but we feel that the time has come when you can give us an advance in wages without damaging your property interests to any considerable extent."

E. H. Penna, an Indiana operator, said: "It looks as though a split is inevitable and that the joint conference movement has failed. If this institution has to break up," he continued, "it has come to the point that one party must control the mines of this country, that party will be the party which owns the property. There will be hardships, but the owners of the property must control it."

There was considerable excitement when Dolan voted "yes" and his vote was challenged. Dolan arose and said he was the authority to cast the vote for the Pennsylvania miners and until that right is taken from me I vote "yes." There were cries of "no," and "throw him out."

Mitchell said that the convention of miners had decided to refuse the proposition just presented, and so he voted "no." Robbins said that the miners had a right to vote by states until the president of the miners' association assumed the position of dictator. Mitchell said he assumed to do so. Dolan's right to vote, and the chair sustained the right, but the motion was declared lost. The conference adjourned in some confusion.

National Convention Called Again. The joint conference of coal miners and operators adjourned sine die at 11:40 today, after the chair had declared as lost the motion by F. L. Robbins, a Pittsburgh operator, that the present wage scale be continued. Patrick Dolan, president of the Pennsylvania miners, voted for the motion, which did not carry it, as a unanimous vote was required. President Mitchell, of the miners, at once called the national convention to meet at 2 p. m.

MURDERER OF GOEBEL IN THE PEN AT LAST

After Nearly Six Years of Legal Resistance, Tool of Infamous Political Clique Begins Life Sentence in Penitentiary.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 2.—James Howard, convicted of the murder of Wm. Goebel, arrived at the Frankfort penitentiary today, to spend the rest of his life there, unless some unexpected turn of fortune liberates him. He is one of the most interesting characters that ever crossed the threshold of the penitentiary and his arrival caused considerable stir among the people of this city in general and the prison officials in particular.

After spending nearly six years in jail, standing three trials and fighting his case through the supreme court, Howard was defeated in his struggle for liberty and the supreme court confirmed the judgment of the Kentucky courts.

Howard never lost his nerve for a single moment. He was cheerful on his way to the penitentiary, and upon his arrival, as he was on the first day of his arrest, and said, "I am confident that he would eventually be vindicated and liberated."

In many ways Howard is the most picturesque figure of the Goebel murder cases. The commonwealth represented him as a typical mountain feud fighter and said, "Who went to Frankfort to kill Goebel, in return for a pardon for having killed George Baker in a feud. Personally, Howard does not fit the idea of such a person at all. He would never have been taken for a desperate man from the mountains. He is handsome and of distinguished appearance, of fine physique and unusually graceful, with easy manners. He looks like a man of fine intellect and a student. Indeed, he has been a student for five years, as during his imprisonment he has devoted his time to perfecting himself in law."

Howard was born in Clay county, forty years ago. His father was a school teacher. Howard lived in the mountains his life, and early became an expert shot, like all Kentucky mountaineers. He was first a deputy sheriff of Clay county, then a school teacher, lawyer, general storekeeper in the government revenue service, and finally assessor of Clay county, which he held when he became involved in the Goebel trouble.

Howard is a victim of a Kentucky feud, whatever were the circumstances of the killing of Goebel. He was in Frankfort, the day Goebel was shot, trying to procure a pardon for killing George Baker from W. S. Taylor, then governor of Kentucky. The prosecution has maintained that he was to get the pardon for killing Goebel. Howard has maintained that in this seeming connection he was a victim of circumstances.

The Baker-Howard feud broke out in 1897. The Bakers, one day, ambushed Jim Howard's father and his brothers, killing the brothers and desperately wounding the father. Jim Howard, as soon as he heard of it, mounted his horse and rode to the ambush him, and that he escaped by using his horse as a shield. In the encounter he shot George Baker to death.

Howard was indicted for the murder of Goebel in April, 1900. He was then in Clay county, where he might have remained indefinitely, as the mountaineers are republican, and would have afforded him protection against an army, but in the month of May, Howard went to Frankfort, and surrendered. His first real trial resulted in a sentence of death, his second of life imprisonment, both being reversed. The third verdict was life imprisonment and was sustained by the supreme court of the state and the supreme court of the United States.

Morris, Eban E. O'Leary, J. W. Pear-sall, William Jay Chieffelin, Charles A. Schieren, William H. Van Steenberg, William Ives Washburn, and M. Williams.

Among those who will deliver addresses at the banquet will be Bishop Grover, Bishop Fowler, the Rev. Dr. M. R. Hutter, the Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Brown, Robert J. Ogden and other distinguished men. The two commissioners, Tuang Fang, viceroy of Fukien and Chang-Kiang, and Tai-Hung-Chi, assistant secretary of state, will speak through their interpreter, and it is expected that President Butler of Columbia will answer the toast on "Education," and Morris K. Jessup on "Commerce and Banking." Sir Chentung Lian-Cheng, the Chinese minister, has also been invited, and may be among the speakers.

THE COAL MINERS' STRIKE DOES NOT AFFECT GALLUP

The strike of soft coal miners which went into effect in the coal-mining districts of the east today, will not affect the McKinley county mines, as the miners employed at them are not organized. Although the people of New Mexico have gone through the throes of a coal famine during the past winter and have not yet been supplied with a full and sufficient quantity of the fuel, they have not the harrowing effects of a strike to go through. The unions were broken up at Gallup by a strike several years ago.

CONGRESS IS LOOKING INTO ARMY MILEAGE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—It is expected that some provision of law will be made at the present session of congress to limit travel on the part of army officers. The amount of money paid out for mileage of officers (and travel under orders has reached such proportions that each year there is a deficiency, and this year the outlay is heavier than ever. There has been evidence in the House and Senate Military Committees a desire to know all the facts concerning the mileage system, and it is believed the limitations can be put on the amount of travel, especially in such cases as permitting officers to return from the Philippines by way of Europe. The War Department authorities say there is little of this kind about travel, and that whenever it has been authorized there were good reasons, which could not always be published, for such a homecoming route. It is also said that there is little of this extra travel, and that economy should be practiced in other directions. It has been found difficult, however, to impose any restrictions in this respect, such as the disapproval of recommendations from the department commanders and head of staff corps who are anxious that their subordinates should make certain trips. At the same time it is considered necessary to exercise greater economy in the disbursements for army mileage, and it would not surprise army officers to learn that new rules will shortly be adopted to this end, even if congress does not enact special legislation on the subject.

Other Side of Question.

On the other hand, it is claimed that every day small instances of graft are coming to light, involving officers of the regular army. It has come out that Col. Clarence R. Edwards, chief of the bureau of similar affairs, and Maj. Edie, with several other officers who were members of the Taft party which visited the Philippines last summer, have tried to collect mileage both ways, although they traveled free on a government transport.

Other officers, it is discovered, have been in the habit of making circuitous trips to points to which they were ordered.

DOUBT ENDED MARRIED SURE

Certificate is Filed Which Puts End to Any Further Denial.

BRIDE SAYS SHE IS HAPPY

Only Reason For Disclaiming Deed Was Not Yet Ready.

AFTER SAYING NO STOOD BY IT

New York, Feb. 2.—All doubt as to the marriage of Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes to Wilson Minner was set at rest today by the filing of the certificate of marriage. In addition, one newspaper quotes Mrs. Yerkes as saying: "All I can say is that I am happily married."

THE GROOM GIVES HIS VERSION OF AFFAIR.

New York, Feb. 2.—Wilson Minner, the young San Franciscan, who says that on Tuesday night he married Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes, in her home at 864 Fifth avenue, returned to the Hotel Astor at midnight last night, after several hours absence, and said to the reporters:

"I have just paid a visit to Mrs. Minner at her home, No. 864 Fifth avenue. We had a long talk and canvassed the situation thoroughly. I tried to persuade her to see you, the newspaper men at least once, and settle the whole business. She would not do it tonight, but she may give out a statement tomorrow."

Minner said that the reason Mrs. Yerkes denied the marriage was because she did not wish it known for some time, and when she discovered that it had leaked out, she at first denied it, and now does not like to go back on her statement.

SUCCESSFUL TEST REPORTED OF A NEW AIR SHIP.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 2.—The information has been given out that a test with a new airship will be made today, which was invented by Fred Stegman of Hartwell, in this county, a conductor on the Mill Creek Valley street car line. Several Cincinnati capitalists are said to be interested in the venture, and it is understood that they are well satisfied with the results of the trials heretofore made by Stegman. Several times Hartwell people have reported seeing an immense body floating over the suburb, but not until now has it become known that the "immense object" was Stegman's airship, making trial trips. The inventor insists that he has overcome the difficulty in steering met by other inventors. Two fans are used and the airship is directed by stepping from one end of the airship to the other, thus changing the balance of weight.

The exact time for the test today has not been given out, but it is believed that the flight will be undertaken this afternoon from some high point overlooking the Mill Creek Valley. The capitalists interested in the airship navigation scheme will be present, but the place of starting has been kept secret to avoid the gathering of a large crowd.

ANDREWS STILL WORKING

House and Senate Both Consider Railway Rate Legislation.

MIDDY GETS PARDON ON RECORD

Special to The Evening Citizen. Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Delegate Andrews was today before the committee urging the bill for making Alton a customs port and giving it a custom house. Delegate Andrews accompanied J. W. Raynolds, secretary of New Mexico, before the interior department today. It is well understood that Mr. Raynolds is here to reply to charges which have been filed against him. Captain W. E. Barnes, clerk of the Second judicial district for New Mexico, who is in the city, called today on his former Rough Rider commander, now President Roosevelt, professing to pay his respects and talk of old times, but there are those who do not hesitate to say that he is not foot after the office of secretary for New Mexico, should Mr. Raynolds not be able to make good.

HOUSE LOOKS INTO OLD CUSTOM HOUSE SCANDAL.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Representative Sulzer today introduced a resolution in the house calling upon the attorney general for information as to when the government executed a deed for the custom property in Wall street, New York. The deed is said never to have been recorded in the county of New York. Other facts asked for in connection with the transfer of custom house property to the National City bank. In explanation of the purpose of the resolution, Sulzer said that the bank is dodging taxes. He charged that the sale of property to the bank was scandalous, as the property is said to be worth $10,000,000, while the bank agreed to pay only $3,335,000, and has not paid anything yet.

Speeches on Railroad Bill. Before proceeding to consideration of the railroad rate bill today, the house passed a bill extending the public land laws to a tract of land ten miles square in Wyoming ceded to the government by the Shoshone and Arapahoe Indians. Representative Thomas, of North Carolina, opened the discussion on the rate bill, making an argument in its favor. Representative Golden of New York, and Burton of Ohio, also made speeches in favor of the bill.

SENATE IS WRESTLING WITH RAILROAD REBATE.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The senate committee on interstate commerce today agreed to vote upon the various railroad rate bills on February 16. There are three measures being pressed for consideration—the Doolittle-Clapp bill, the Elkins bill, and the Foraker bill. The measure which shall receive the largest number of votes will be reported to the senate as the majority measure. It is likely that both of the other bills will be given to the senate in minority reports.

JOHN PAUL MILLER GETS EXECUTIVE FAVOR.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The president today pardoned Midshipman John Paul Miller, of Kentucky, recently convicted of having at the Annapolis naval academy. Miller's superior record was the reason.

ARMY CONCENTRATION INTO FEW BARRACKS

New York, Feb. 2.—Pittsburg Barracks, New York, will be one of the seven or eight large camps in this country next summer, where the entire army, with the exception of the coast artillery, will be mobilized, provided a recommendation of General Bates, chief of staff of the army, is carried out. The idea has the endorsement of President Roosevelt, who has held that the service did not get enough work in the field. The entire cavalry, infantry and field artillery branches of the army will be brought together on government reservations, such as Plattsburg Barracks, Chickamauga, Fort Riley, Indianapolis, Cheyenne, Fort Clark and American Lake, and possibly some place in southern California. It is planned to have the troops proceed to their respective camps by marching, the infantry commands to march not more than two hundred miles, going and coming, and the mounted troops to cover three hundred or three hundred and fifty miles. This will not be an economical measure, by any means, and is not to be adopted with any understanding. As a matter of fact, it costs much more to have the troops proceed from one point to another by marching them, than it would to transport them by rail, as there is a scarcity of wagons, and the cost of that class of transportation is considerable. At most places where it is proposed to hold the camps it is believed there will be sufficient ground within the limits of the reservation to engage in maneuvers. It may be necessary in some cases, however, to rent additional territory, and at those places where the reservation is not sufficiently extensive for such purposes and additional land is not obtainable, the troops will merely drill and have other similar exercises. It is planned by General Bates to have the troops actually in camp for three months, or away from their posts for about four and one-half months. In this scheme there is no provision for a share of the national guard, although that will be possible if the state authorities choose to draw upon the militia fund for this purpose. The details are now being prepared under the direction of General Bates, who is very enthusiastic over the project, and is backed by many other officers of the general staff.

The THEATER

The Ethel Tucker Stock company has been receiving good press notices at all its different stands in the west, and the company is said to contain some very capable repertoire actors. For those who have a penchant for melodramatic plays, with plenty of blood and thunder, this company is qualified to give perfect satisfaction.

"The White Feather," the great American spectacular production which has been playing the Pacific coast for some time past, may pay Albuquerque a visit en route east. The extravaganza, with its wealth of beautiful spectacular scenery, is one of the latest extravaganzas to be put on the road. After a successful run of 300 nights in New York and Chicago, it played through to the Pacific coast and is now on tour back east again. Manager Matson is making strenuous endeavors to land this excellent attraction, but as yet no dates have been assigned it.

Max Fisman, the well known comedian and stage director, heads the very capable company of players who will be seen with Florence Roberts, the noted emotional actress, when she will present her latest production, "The Strength of the Weak," a new modern play in four acts, by Alice M. Smith, at the Elks opera house, on Saturday, Feb. 10.

Mr. Fisman works as a stage director for Mrs. Fiske in many of her notable productions and his interpretation of important parts with many of the leading stars has established him as one of the very best actors in the country. As the star in "The Marriage of Kitty," last season, Mr. Fisman displayed his versatility, while his part of Baron von Kiehl, in "The Strength of the Weak," is said to be one of the best he has ever portrayed.

Manager Matson of the Elks' opera house announces that he has received a letter from the theatrical manager of "Scotty," the Death Valley miner, asking for open time, the first of May preferred. As will be remembered by readers of The Evening Citizen, "Scotty," in an interview with a reporter for this paper, announced when he passed through Albuquerque some days ago, that he was going east to complete arrangements with his manager for the floating of a "wild west" play, in which he was to be the star, with a capital S. As yet, nothing definite has been decided on between "Scotty's" manager and the local opera house management as to the date of the appearance of the festive "Scotty."

The short, fat, gray haired man and the tall, raw boned gray haired man were standing on the rear platform. "Pardon me," said the tall man, "but you face is familiar to me, yet I cannot recall your name. Nor can I remember where I saw you last. Strange too, but I am not certain whether I met you here in the east or in the west."

It is hardly necessary to add that the tall man was Henry H. Rogers.

OVER SEA HABIT.

Difference on this Side the Water.

The persistent effect upon the heart of caffeine in coffee cannot but result in the gravest conditions, in time.

Each attack of the drug (and that means each cup of coffee) weakens the organ a little more, and the end is almost a matter of mathematical demonstration. A lady writes from a western state:

"I am of German descent and it was natural that I should learn at a very early age to drink coffee. Until I was 23 years old I drank scarcely anything else at my meals.

"A few years ago I began to be affected by a steadily increasing nervousness, which eventually developed into a distressing heart trouble that made me very weak and miserable. Then, some three years ago, was added asthma in its worst form. My sufferings from these things can be better imagined than described.

"During all this time my husband realized more fully than I did that coffee was injurious to me, and made every effort to make me stop.

"Finally I had decided a few months ago, to quit the use of coffee absolutely and to adopt Postum Food Coffee as our hot table drink. I had but little idea that it would help me, but consented to try it to please my husband. I prepared it very carefully, exactly according to directions, and was delighted with its delicious flavor and refreshing qualities.

"Just so soon as the poison from the coffee had time to get out of my system the nutritive properties of the Postum began to build me up, and I am now fully recovered from all my nervousness, heart trouble and asthma. I gladly acknowledge that now, for the first time in years, I enjoy perfect health, and that I owe it all to Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a Santa Fe. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in plays.

Postum Food Coffee contains no drugs of any description whatsoever.

EUROPE'S NEW KING AND QUEEN; STORIES OF THE DEAD KING

Christian IV., Denmark's dead king, was the most respected monarch in Europe. He was looked up to by other rulers and venerated by his own Danes, not for his age or long reign, but for his goodness of heart.

As a boy, he had no expectations of a throne. His father dying when he was 13 years old, committed him to the care of his relative, Christian VIII., who adopted him. That king's two sons died and the foster son was declared heir to the throne. Before he became king, Christian IX. had a hard time making both ends meet, and it is said he taught.

King Christian's only war was his greatest mistake and he never ceased to grieve over it. He was little to blame because the conflict resulted from his sanctioning the foolish and wrongful act of his predecessor in altering the constitution of Schleswig-Holstein, to the detriment of its undeniable constitutional connection with Germany.

Blameworthy seized the opportunity.

KING FREDERICK OF DENMARK.

and began his first war of unification of the fatherland in 1864. Denmark was whipped and lost her Elsie duchies.

Christian's daughter, Alexandra, had just married the present king of England, and Denmark was wild with anger when England refused to go to the aid of the little country in its war with Germany.

It was this soreness that found expression in the first proposal to sell the Danish West Indies. Denmark thought this would be a hard blow to England.

Christian early became the idol of him implicitly.

He returned the compliment by placing the most implicit trust in the people. He behaved to them less like a king than the father of a great family. He walked about the streets of Copenhagen day and night, unattended, and was often seen at a concert chatting with a group of men or women.

A year or so ago the king saw a child on the tram line track in imminent danger of being run over by an electric car approaching at full speed. Regardless of everything, save that a precious human life was in danger, the aged monarch rushed in front of the car, seized the infant and brought it into safety, almost losing his own life in the effort.

King Christian drank little. At dinner he had a glass of claret and one of port. He did not drink champagne or spirits. He didn't get up early, but he went to bed at 11 p. m. He never had a guard over his bed room, his only sentinel being a huge dog of the Blomskind roachhound type, which slept outside his door.

Louise, the new queen of Denmark, while not celebrated for her beauty, has the distinction of being the tallest and wealthiest royal woman in Europe. The daughter of former King Charles of Sweden and Norway, she was born in 1851, and at the age of 18 married Crown Prince Frederick, the new king. She is over six feet tall, and has a fortune of over $15,000,000, inherited from her maternal grandfather, Prince Frederick of the Netherlands.

There is a romance in her family history which dates back to the stirring times of the first empire. Her grandmother, who died in 1860, was queen of Sweden and Norway, was born plain Miss, Desiree Clary, daughter of a Marseilles stock broker. She refused the hand of Napoleon, to be the wife of the one who became famous as the French General Bernadotte, who was adopted as heir to the Swedish throne, by the childless King Charles XIII.

several days in order to present my side of the case properly to the governor. I do not think from what I have heard of Governor Hagerman that he is the sort of man to commit this sentence if he is given the facts."

Mr. Redding has not yet called upon Governor Hagerman. When asked regarding the case Governor Hagerman said:

"I have as yet taken no action in the matter. I am not sure whether I shall commute the sentence provided I am asked to do so. I will be glad of course, to talk the case over with Mr. Redding."

The City Beautiful

Denver is discussing the propriety of spending $6,000,000 for the purpose of beautifying that city. A large part of the expense will consist in the purchase and removal or destruction of what has already been built.

Napoleon III will be remembered for his work in remodeling and beautifying Paris, long after men have forgotten his brilliant coup d'état in the overthrow of the second republic and the almost comic ending of his remarkable career. To give work to the unemployed and to render impossible the barricading of the principal streets, by which former revolutions had been rendered successful, this man of genius for rule if not for war, called to his aid the best architect talent in his empire. Whole streets were demolished, boulevards were made, and Paris arose from its transformation, but at immense expense, the handsomest city in the world.

Boss Sheppard fled from Washington, D. C., where for years his name was a byword of reproach, but where he is now revered as the city's greatest benefactor, because he laid at great expense the foundation upon which Washington has grown into the most beautiful city in the United States.

Several lessons may be drawn from the facts here presented, all of which lessons are well worth the most careful study of Albuquerque at the present time. One of these lessons is that beauty is as much a factor in the supremacy of a city as are climate, natural resources, and an enterprising citizenship. Albuquerque is the metropolis of New Mexico. This proposition was formerly disputed, but any such dispute now is merely a war of sound against sense. New Mexico is rapidly growing, and either with or without statehood this growth will in all probability continue by geometrical proportion. Albuquerque must not lose her supremacy. To this end the people of Albuquerque must redouble their enterprise and their energy. Amidst the multiplying avenues of activity the beautifying of the city must not be forgotten. What a beauty spot can do for any part of the city, the park at Eighth street and Railroad avenue fully demonstrates. But what a wise attention to the beauty of a locality can and will do for that locality, a similar attention to the whole city will accomplish for the city at large.

Another lesson taught is that the longer this beautification is postponed the more expensive it becomes, and if postponed very long the expense appeals the people who will not willingly incur the cost, unless there appears upon the scene a city boss or a national usurper. Albuquerque has not reached such a stage as yet, but further supineness is dangerous. In fact, no time should be lost, and to arouse an interest in this matter, The Citizens offers this discussion.

Much in the way of beautification of a town depends upon individual effort. Grass, trees and flowers can be afforded—if water rates are reasonable—by the humblest household, and even the finest cottage can be made a tower of beauty with vines, shrubs, trees, grass, and blooming plants. And just here, attention of landlords may be called to the fact that liberal aid to the renter, in this particular, will prove valuable to the owner. Let a tenant family become interested in beautifying a rented place, and not only will better care be taken of the property, but longer residence will result, thus relieving the land lord of the large losses resulting from frequent vacancies. Where the family owns its own home, nothing is truer than that every touch of beauty about the place adds to its intrinsic value.

But much also depends on organized effort. Every town should have one or more voluntary organizations—such as a woman's board of trade or a beauty club of mixed membership—the purpose of which is to promote a systematic development of beauty along well matured and definitely adopted plans. Such clubs or boards of trade are badly needed in this city.

Much, very much, can be done by architects. The design of a house should conform to the demands of the position in which it is to be built, and here architects and builders can exert strong influence and produce happy results. Nothing so adds to the beauty of a block as uniformity in diversity. For residences, each should be at the same distance from the street line, with a similar devotion of space to walks, porches and location upon lots. A block of residences thus situated gives a much more pleasing effect, even though the edifices be less costly, than does a block in which one house almost or quite reaches the street, another is nearly against the back fence, another comes at you end foremost and the next one is broadside on. In the same way a block of business houses with the fronts of the same height, where the number of stories is the same, has a massive and imposing appearance, pleasing the eye and commanding approval; while a block in which the houses, though of the same number of stories, differ in height from one to six feet, scarcely any two adjoining ones agreeing in height or in cornice finish, presents a top line like a broken-tooth saw blade and is as insignificant and unpleasing as it is possible for a pile of bricks, stone and mortar to be made. In these particulars architects and builders can exert a matchless influence, and cause succeeding generations to rise up and call them blessed.

Real estate companies which make additions to the city have a large responsibility in this matter of beauty, because their opportunities are great. They have certain units of city growth which they can make as beautiful or unsightly as they please. No addition to the city hereafter should be made unless treated as a unit. The streets should be laid off with definite purpose, preparation should be made for small parks—planned and planted by the proprietors of the addition—and reference be had to the beauty of harmony in the platting and sale of every block. Certain classes of houses should be confined to certain blocks, the classes and blocks varying to suit the financial demands of the purchaser. This can easily be done before the placing of the addition upon the market; and the proprietors of additions would find that their profits had been increased rather than diminished by such a course.

Finally, the city government can do very much within the scope of its duties and prerogatives. Requirement of tree planting can be enacted along vacant as well as improved lots, uniformly in size and species of trees can be required, cleanliness of streets and alleys be made perfect, oversight of cleanliness on premises be exacted, nursery stock be purchased in car load lots and sold to property holders at actual cost, attention to paving and sidewalks and crossing—almost, in fact, an endless number of matters in which the city government may aid and all movements looking to the beautifying of the city.

At present the organization of clubs or societies of whatever they may be called, to create a sentiment on this subject, is the first need of Albuquerque.

The Citizen feels that it should again lift a note of warning to the county commissioners. Again and again and yet again this paper has been informed that the dikes above town is in no present condition to meet the coming of flood waters, which this year promises to be early and disastrous. Now is the time when preparation should be made for the expected flood, so that its coming need be neither disastrous nor dreaded. Soon the people who work on farms will begin their spring work and labor will be neither so abundant nor so cheap as now. Then, too, time can now be taken to do the work well, which will make it much more valuable than if done under the stress and hurry of immediate danger. The Citizen devoutly hopes that the county commissioners may soon see the necessity of prompt and timely action in the matter of repairing the dike.

Globe-Democrat: The fact that Senators Lodge, Spooner and other republican members of their chamber are defending the president's course in the Santo Domingo and Morocco matters, coupled with the circumstance that the democrats have given up hope of being able to defeat the statehood bill in the upper chamber, has a broader significance than may appear on the surface. It means that the republicans are all falling into line again.

To Pledge Bride in Sparkling Champagne

Special Correspondence.

Washington, Feb. 2.—At the wedding of Miss Roosevelt and Congressman Nicholas Longworth, the famous boy choir of St. John's will render the full choral service with the Processional. Among the selections will be "Be Thou Faithful Unto Death," from the oratorio of Elijah, and "Tis Our Wedding Morn," by Penaltowski. Immediately after the ceremony the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and the bride party will proceed to the state dining room, where the health of the bride will be pledged in the traditional champagne, and the bride will cut her cake. The banquet hall of the white house cannot accommodate more than 300, and even this number will have to partake of their refreshments standing, and as many more will have places in the corridor.

Represent Interests

But Not the People

Special Correspondence.

Washington, Feb. 2.—A writer on graft has discovered that congress—and particularly the senate—has become representative of "interests" rather than of the people. Senators and leading members of the house of representatives are most readily classified according to the "interests" which they represent. One man has the steel and iron interests to look after; another has sugar; another leather; banking, railways, coal mining and so on.

The man of importance—the man whose position in the legislative organization is such as to give him control of the destinies of bills—is often charged with the care of a multiplicity of "interests." He may represent both the Standard Oil and the Harriman railway interests. Another may defend the tariff schedules of the sugar as well as the steel trust. But it is safe to say that no member represents with perfect fidelity the "special interests" and the people. In fact, all interests are adequately represented except those of the average unspecialized member of the people.

A Startling Feat

In Human Surgery

Special Correspondence.

New York, Feb. 2.—A new and marvelous feat of surgery has been successfully performed by Dr. Chas. Weir of this city, which may change many major operations in the future. It was at the Roosevelt hospital that the surgeon for the first time made a search with the powerful X-rays after the removal of an organ from a human body, instead of previous to the operation. It was the kidney in this instance that Dr. Weir operated upon, but so successful was the unique experiment that it is believed in the future that other vital organs may be examined in the same way.

The patient, suffering from stone in the kidney, was taken to the Roosevelt hospital, etherized in the usual manner, and then placed with his face downward. Swiftly was one of the essentials, and with a deft sweep of the knife, Dr. Weir revealed the kidney. The next instant he had the diseased organ in his hand and as far out as he could readily get it. The fluoroscope was immediately applied to it and plainly revealed the almost microscopic stone. While the breathless assisting surgeons closely watched, Dr. Weir opened a channel with his lance. A moment later his forceps gripped the little stone and removed it from its lodgment.

Scarcely seven minutes had passed from the first stroke of the knife until the kidney was resting securely in its natural place and the lips of the slit had been sewn together. Fifteen minutes more and the patient was taken from the operating table and was resting easily in his bed. Dr. Weir said that he believed that the liver, or some of the other vital organs, could be removed and thoroughly examined, as was done in the instance of the kidney.

See and Know First

Your Own Country

A convention in Salt Lake City has been urging upon the people of this country the importance of seeing our own land before taking trips abroad. Not all of us do either. The great majority do not travel extensively either at home or abroad. The chief concern of the average man is that he may be permitted to stay where he is. But for the small proportion of people who have money and leisure for travel the motto "See America first" is a good golden rule. And for the rest of us, who cannot travel but still desire to know the world in which we live, there is another motto just as good—know America first.

"See America first" is an excellent idea to impress upon the minds of American sightseers. Know America first is a good idea to impress upon the minds of every man, woman and child in our great country. Europe has a greater historic background than the United States offers, but the United States has a scenic beauty which is unrivaled by anything in Europe or elsewhere, while it also has a social concern which ought to appeal powerfully to every patriotic American.

It is estimated that $150,000,000 is spent in Europe every year by American tourists who have seen very little of their own land. If a large part of these millions were spent in traveling over our own country there would not only be an enormous financial saving, but the tourists would gain knowledge of infinitely more value to them. Thousands of Americans living east of the Alleghenies who are in the habit of passing a few months in Europe every year never saw the Mississippi valley, which in itself is a greater industrial empire than all Europe offers, to say nothing of the Rocky mountains before whose grandeur the Alps shrink into insignificance. There is some mild pleasure in seeing relics of the effete civilization of the east, but for people with real American red blood in their veins there is far more pleasure, and profit as well, in studying the abounding life of the highest civilization of today.

Easter and Shrove Tuesday.

Easter Sunday this year falls on April 15, and Shrove Tuesday on Feb. 27 (the next day being Ash Wednesday, of course). This Tuesday was called Shrove (alias Shrift) Tuesday at a time when it was the great day for "shrove," "shrift," or, as we now say, "confession," preparatory for the celebration of Lent.

To "confess" (in the sense of "hearing a confession" as the priest does) was then called "shrive," a slightly modified form of the Anglo-Saxon "scriban" (in which our German readers will easily recognize the German "Schreiben"), to write, to draw up a law, hence to impose a penalty, a penance, etc.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

What Spanish Titles Cost.

Spain has 600,000 titled persons; that is to say, about one in every thirty-eight inhabitants. But such titles are held as less than nothing by the original peerage of the country. These are known as the grandes, and form an aristocracy entirely of birth, some of them—like our landed gentry—having no handles at all to their names, and yet entirely refusing to mix with even dukes of new creation. To become a Spanish baron £460 is sufficient. A viscounty costs double that amount, while to be made a count a payment of £1,200 is necessary. London Times.

THE CINCINNATI BIGAMIST SKIPS WITH WIFE NO. 2

And His Bondsmen Will Have to Make Good--Drew Money Out of Bank and Then Drove Away From the City.

WIFE NO. 2 RETURNS AND IS INTERVIEWED

John Myers, or Maus, as he was known to most of his acquaintances here, who, together with the woman, Rose Weil, with whom he has been living at 217 South Broadway, was out on bonds of $500 each, awaiting trial on the charge of unlawful cohabitation, preferred against him by Mary Myers, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who claims to be Myers' first and only lawful wife, has jumped his bonds and together with the Weil woman, and the two little children that have been born to them during the time they have been living together as man and wife, left for parts unknown.

Makes His Preparations.
Yesterday Myers, who had been in the employ of Contractor Wallace Hesseldein, drew what wages were due him and announced that he was going to work for another contractor in this city. Later in the afternoon he was seen to enter his buggy, in front of the house at 217 South Broadway, together with the woman and two children, and drive off. The neighbors, who were familiar with the Myers case, through reading the full accounts of it, published exclusively in the columns of The Evening Citizen of Tuesday, January 30, did not think strange of this proceeding on the part of Myers until this morning, when, noticing that they had not returned, and that the house was apparently deserted, they decided to investigate. Myers had departed and immediately notified the officers of their suspicions.

Hesseldein Notifies Bondsmen.
In the meantime Wallace Hesseldein had become suspicious of Myers and this morning notified Henry Westfield, of the Railroad Avenue cigar store man, and Polly Larson, who is also employed at the Phoenix Planning mill, where Myers worked, both of whom were bondsmen for Myers and the Weil woman, in the sum of $500 each, that Myers had drawn his pay and left the mill with the avowed intention of securing work elsewhere in the city.

Bondsmen on the Trail.
Westfield and Larson immediately upon learning the above circumstances, started an investigation. A visit was paid to the house on South Broadway where Myers and the Weil woman had been living, and it was found to be untenanted. Not having the authority to force an entrance to the house, they applied to the officers of the premises, who accompanied them to the residence of Myers, and the house was entered. The furniture had not been packed up, but there were evidences of hasty preparations for a hurried departure. Westfield and Larson, accompanied by the United States authorities here, and messages were sent to Lakia, Las Cruces, Bernalillo, and other surrounding towns, giving a description of the fleeing couple, the rig, and the circumstances surrounding their departure from Albuquerque. The United States authorities state that it is up to the bondsmen to locate and bring back Myers and the woman, but they are lending their aid to the bondsmen to accomplish this.

Theories of the Flight.
It is thought that Myers and the woman either drove to Isleta, catching a night train there, or to Bernalillo. Messrs. Westfield and Larson, on learning of the supposed flight of Myers and the woman, mounted wheels this morning and at last reports were scouring the surrounding country in search of traces of the fleeing couple. Both the local police and the government authorities are assisting in the search for Myers and the woman, and there is but little doubt but what they will eventually be located.

Flight Indicates Guilt.
The flight of Myers and the woman whom he deserted his real wife for, completely vindicates the little woman who has followed him from Cincinnati, to have him punished for his desertion of her and his own little sons. Had Myers been "a victim of circumstances" and a malicious plot, as he claimed, it hardly looks reasonable to think that he would have fled from justice, but he honestly being made the victim of a plot. The little woman, whose pale blue eyes look straight at one when talking, and whose honesty is apparent in all her actions, has proofs of all she claims. She has her marriage certificate, and is showing that Myers deserted her for the Weil woman. She indignantly denies that there was any forced marriage with Myers and claims that she and Myers lived together for more than three years before he began to neglect her. All of the sympathy of those who have familiarized themselves with the case has gone out to the little wife who, with her little boys, 4 and 5 years of age, has made such a struggle against adverse circumstances, as she has since deserted by her husband.

Cheer Was Significant.
Polly Larson informs a representative of The Evening Citizen that since his arrest the characteristic cheerful demeanor of Maus, as Myers was transformed into one of gloom and fear. Yesterday afternoon he seemed himself again, according to Larson, whistled and sang about his work and was apparently without a care in the world. "I thought it strange, at the time," said Larson, "and suspected something was amiss. I see something was, for the cheer manifested by Maus was probably the result of his well laid plans to get away."

About His Early Marriage.
To friends Maus is reported as saying that he was a victim of unfortunate circumstances in his younger days. He is credited with saying that his marriage to the woman who has caused his arrest here was a forced one, she claiming him as the father of a child which Maus filed exceptions to. He is reported as telling friends here that he lived with this wife but a short time because of the nature of their marriage and events which preceded it.

Father Disinherited Him.
Some time ago the father of Maus came from Cincinnati to visit him. Mr. Myers was quite wealthy. It is reported that the old gentleman had just an appetite for booze and on several occasions came home to his son's domicile. "I really can't remember, for which he was reprimanded by the son and warned to cut it out if he desired to stay at the house. This injured the feelings of the old gentleman and he returned home in an angry frame of mind. He made out his will upon returning to Cincinnati, disinheriting the Albuquerque son. Since then Maus has started legal action to break the will.

Drew Cash from Bank.
Before leaving last evening with his alleged second wife and children, Maus drew $200 from the bank and also what he had coming from those he was employed by.

Was An Ideal Man.
Henry Westfield said to a representative of The Evening Citizen that Maus has been an ideal man since coming to Albuquerque. "He was a steady and skilled carpenter," said Mr. Westfield, "and at all times very attentive to his family. He was a man who could induce any one to know him to help him out of a difficulty. I believe he is a victim of circumstances."

Wife No. 2 Returns.
Following close upon the announcement that Maus, or Myers, had skipped the town, together with wife No. 2 and their children, the eldest of whom will be three years old next May, came the startling news that Mrs. Maus, or wife No. 2, had returned to the city with her little children, but minus the man for whom she is daring so much.

Reported by The Evening Citizen.
A report for The Evening Citizen called at Marshal Foraker's office, and was informed that they had heard that she had returned, but did not know whether the rumor was well founded or not, adding that the reporter might call at the Maus, or Myers residence, and find out. This the reporter did, and met Mrs. Maus, or Myers, just as she was returning from a trip down town.

Horse Looked Jaded.
Mrs. Maus, or Myers, was in the buggy in which she and the man, who claims she is his only wife, had driven away in last night. The horse, a small sorrel pony, looked tired and jaded. He was covered with dried lather, showing every evidence of having been driven far and fast. Mrs. Maus also looked tired and fagged out.

When the reporter stated his business and mission, Mrs. Maus, or Myers, who is a pleasant looking woman of perhaps 30 years of age, said, with a smile:

She Will Not Talk.
"I do not care to discuss the subject for publication."
"Isn't it a fact, Mrs. Maus?" was then asked by the reporter, "that you have just returned from a cross-country drive, in which you helped the man you love, escape?"
"I suppose," answered the woman, "that there's no use to deny that I have been driving—the horse gives me away, but further than that I will say nothing."

"Where did you drive your husband to?" was the next question asked.
Her lips formed a determined straight line, and she replied, with some heat:
"You, nor any one, will ever find that out from me."

"But if they put you in jail, Mrs. Maus?"
"They can do what they please! I'll not say a word."
"Where did you drive to last night?"
"I don't know."
"Where is Mr. Maus, now?"
"I don't know."
"Will you remain here and face the charge against you?"
"I will remain here until I leave."
Further attempts to extract any information from Mrs. Maus met with a reception and answers similar to those delivered by Henry H. Rogers, of Standard Oil fame, to the quest of Attorney General Hadley, of Missouri. A very significant fact in connection with the conversation with Mrs. Maus was that she seemed perfectly satisfied that in the escape of her alleged husband, all fear of the penitentiary had disappeared from her mind. She was evidently tired out completely, from her all night's drive, but without, seemed happy, and only once, when questioned as to the whereabouts of her husband, did she cease to smile.

CHARLIE BRAGG IS NEARLY WELL AGAIN

BOY WHO IT WAS THOUGHT WAS FATALLY HURT BY CAR WILL SOON BE OUT.

Charlie Bragg, the young boy who sustained a fracture of the skull near the base of the brain as the result of jumping off a rapidly moving trolley car on Second street a few weeks ago, and whose life was despaired of, has now so far recovered as to be entirely out of danger.

Dr. Elder says that in five or six days the youngster can be discharged from the hospital.

Charlie has refused all claims during his confinement but says he will work and pay for his treatment when he gets well and strong again.

FORNOFF RETURNS FROM INVESTIGATING BELL CASE

STATES THAT HE THINKS BELL
DEMENTED—WAS ACTING AS EMISSARY OF GOVERNOR HAGERMAN.

Deputy United States Marshal Fred Fornoff, who has been at Prescott, Ariz., investigating the alleged confession of Frank Bell to the assassination of Colonel Chavez, returned to this city last night.

Deputy Fornoff states that he is under the impression that Bell is slightly demented and that he is not guilty of the killing of Chavez. He made a careful investigation of every phase of the case while in Prescott, but refuses to give out anything definite until he has made his report to Governor Hagerman.

"I was not on the case in my official capacity as deputy marshal," said Mr. Fornoff, "but was there investigating the case as a personal emissary of the governor, and will not give out anything for publication until I have made my report to Governor Hagerman."

There seems to be but little if any doubt but what Bell, in his alleged confession, was making a "grand stand" play, owing to his demented condition, which is now being inquired into by the authorities at Prescott. He will be given an examination, and if decided insane will be committed to an asylum. He is still in the custody of the Prescott police.

A THING OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOREVER

SO SANG THE POET, AND SO WILL
THE TERRACE ADDITION SOON PROVE.

From M. P. Stamm, a Citizen representative has learned that the work on the Terrace addition to the city, east of the Highlands, is progressing very satisfactorily. The well has been sunk and cased to a depth of 240 feet, and has a constant depth of water of 47 feet. This well is in a direct line with the University, but lying about three blocks to the south of it. The well is eight inches in diameter with a six inch pump. The pump is run by electric motor having a three phase circuit.

The company has bought the 40,000 gallon tank recently owned by the American Lumber company, and the well not only supplies an abundance of water for irrigation and all other purposes, but Mr. Stamm estimates that it will cost less to do so for the first 75 houses which shall be erected. A six-acre park has been reserved around the well, and as the population upon the addition increases other wells will be sunk in the park to keep fully abreast of the demand. Mr. Stamm is thoroughly satisfied with the experiment of the addition's owning its own water system, alike as to cost, abundance and quality of the water secured.

This terrace addition will be a model for all subsequent ones, and will be the largest single addition ever made to the beauty, attractiveness and reputation of Albuquerque. Silver avenue will be the principal street of the addition and the company will plant not only the park, but both sides of the avenue with trees, furnished and maintained by them till the property shall be sold to residents. One purchase of 500 tulip trees has already been made, and other purchases of other varieties are to follow.

Silver avenue will be 80 feet in width, and no house built upon it can come within thirty feet of the street line. On either side of the street will be seventeen feet, leaving a roadway in the center, forty-six feet in width. The seventeen feet on each side will consist of a three-foot continuous grass plot, next the yards; then, going outward, will be a six-foot sidewalk of vitrified brick; and between this walk way and the roadbed, will come eight feet of the avenue with trees. It is evident that when the plans of the management shall have been carried out—and they are making rapid and satisfactory progress—there will be nothing else in all the southwest as comparable for beauty and desirability with the Terrace addition to Albuquerque.

SNEAK THIEF UNDER ARREST

Harry Hewett Behind the Bars.
Accused of Stealing
Wedding Ring.

IS SUSPECTED OF OTHER CRIMES

Incarcerated in the city prison is one Harry Hewett accused of being a sneak thief and the party alleged to have entered the rooming house of Mrs. Gable, at 222 West Lead avenue, and made off with that lady's wedding ring.

Hewett is suspected of being implicated in several other sneak thief jobs perpetrated upon residents of Albuquerque lately, and may turn out to be one of a gang which the police have been anxious to land for some time.

Yesterday afternoon, it is claimed that Hewett sneaked into the kitchen of Mrs. Gable and made off with a valuable wedding ring. As Mrs. Gable walked into the front room of her house she noticed a man answering the description of Hewett, pass by outside. She continued on upstairs. The thief circled around to the rear of the place and was seen to enter the kitchen door of the Gable house, by neighbors.

The band of gold was pawned at a South First street store for $1. Chief McMillin learned that the circlet had been "booked" shortly afterwards, before, in fact, the report of the theft was received by him. As soon as Mrs. Gable informed the police that she had been robbed of the circlet of gold, the marshal put one and one together, found the ring in the pawn shop, and took possession of it. Mrs. Gable furnished him with an accurate description of the thief. The same was turned over to Officer Knapp who located Hewett on First street and placed him under arrest. Hewett was identified by the pawnbroker as the man who put the ring up for the dollar, and accurately tallies with the description given of him by Mrs. Gable and the neighbors.

Hewett is about 35 years old, and says his home is in Boston, Mass. He has been working, he says, for some time at the plant of the American Lumber company.

FAIR ASSOCIATION HAS OBLIGATIONS ENOUGH

OFFICERS FAVOR BASE BALL,
BUT DO NOT FAVOR ASSOCIATION FINANCING TEAM.

The business men of the city as well as the base ball fans, agree with The Evening Citizen that Albuquerque should have a base ball team the coming season, and that the sooner something is done toward getting a team organized, the better. The Citizen yesterday made several suggestions as to possible plans for the support of a team, among them that the Territorial fair association take the management and contribute to the support of a team and use it as an advertising medium for the coming fair. Following this suggestion, Secretary Rosenwald, of the fair association, stated this morning that he believed that the city ought to be represented by a base ball team, and would gladly give his personal support to one, but as to the fair association taking upon itself any financial obligation more than it already has, why, he was very much opposed to it. General Director P. F. McCanna was also seen, and was found to be of the same opinion as Mr. Rosenwald. He believed that the city ought to have a base ball team, and said that the fair association was anxious that it should have one, so as to be able to enter the base ball tournament of the coming fair, but was very much opposed to the fair association taking upon itself any financial obligation more than it already has, and that the city ought to have a base ball team, and would gladly give his personal support to one, but as to the fair association taking upon itself any financial obligation more than it already has, why, he was very much opposed to it.

ALBUQUERQUE HAS A BRIGHT FUTURE

So Says "Joe" Whitaker of York State--Summer
Weather in East.

MUCH PLEASSED WITH DUKE CITY

Joseph Whitaker and wife, from Jamestown, N. Y., who have been guests at the Alvarado for the past two days, left on No. 7 last evening for points in California on a three month's pleasure trip.

Mr. Whitaker and wife spent last evening as the guests of friends from his home city.

"Joe" Whitaker is one of the veteran wool buyers of the United States in the employ of Hall & Co., of the New York state city. He reports business booming in the east, the woolen mills running every loom and all other branches of business equally active. "The market now is demanding the worsted goods again, rather than woolen, in contrast to existing trade conditions a year or so ago, when every one was wool crazy," remarked Mr. Whitaker, to a reporter from The Evening Citizen. "So universal is the demand for worsted goods that mills running on this product are filled up to their capacity with orders until spring."

Mr. Whitaker left home a few days ago. He says the weather there has been phenomenally superb. "There has been no snow on the ground for a long period there," he remarked. "The sun shines brightly, the air is as warm as it is in June, and several robins have been seen. It is the most wonderful winter thus far, I can remember, and those who are accustomed about this time of the year to arise early in the morning and get in communication with the outside world by almost steady work with the snow shovel and plow, are delighted. I can assure you, by this unprecedented kindness of nature."

Mr. Whitaker was shown about the city. He spoke of it as an ideal place. He was accompanied through the various gambling institutions. "I never saw anything like it before," he remarked. "It certainly is quite a spectacle. It is rather strange that such good order prevails where so many thousands are changing hands. Everybody seems to lose or win with the same indifference and good nature."

"From what I have seen of your city it certainly has more than pleased me," said Mr. Whitaker, before taking his train. "There seems to be a general real estate and building boom. Albuquerque has a bright future, indeed, and gives promise of being the best city between Kansas City and Los Angeles. I hope to see more of it upon my return east."

BITTEN ON THE LEG BY A SAVAGE DOG

M. M. DUTCHER, CITY CIRCULATOR OF THE EVENING CITIZEN, AT-TACKED BY CANINE.

While riding towards home on his bicycle last evening, M. M. Dutcher was attacked by a vicious bulldog on Railroad avenue, near the corner of Fifth street. The canine sank his teeth into Mr. Dutcher's leg, inflicting two ugly wounds.

Mr. Dutcher went to a physician and had the injuries properly attended to. "This is not the first time these dogs have come at me," said Mr. Dutcher. "About every time I arrive in that neighborhood I encounter the same trouble. If the police do not save the animals proper secured I will shoot them."

QUEEN OVER HEARTS OR QUEEN OVER THE BLACK BALLOT BOX?

The Rev. Madison C. Peters on the Vexed Question of Woman's Rights.

A GREATER POWER.
God has put into the hands of our women at their own hearthstone a power greater than that of presidents or kings wielded which issues either in the weal or woe of their children.—Dr. Peters.

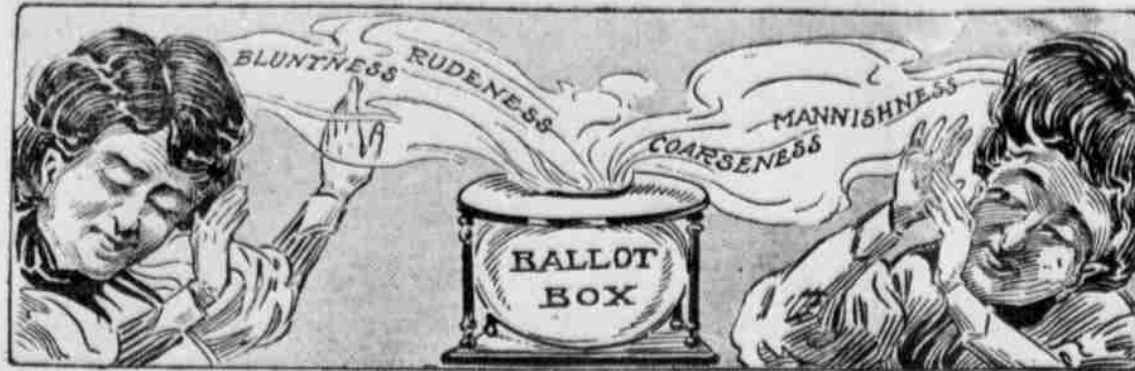

Why is the number of women who occupy high official positions less today than ever before? Why is it that civilization advances, the impression deepens on the popular mind that political position is not woman's truest and noblest mission?

It certainly is not that a lighter estimate is placed upon woman's ability and force of character than before, but because of the development of our own being the true spheres of the sexes are better defined.

Man's sphere, by his more robust constitution, is designed by Providence to be the more public one; that of woman by her more refined organization, the more private, but none the less honorable, or requiring less brains.

The world's history plainly shows that God never called woman out of her sphere except on occasions of special exigencies, when men were so equal to tasks that legitimately belonged to them. This was true way back yonder in the early age when heroic Deborah ruled all Israel for 40 years.

I dare to venture the prophecy that in the future no Elizabeth or Victoria will ever sit upon the throne of political power.

(In a recent address the Rev. Madison C. Peters, pastor of the Church of the Epiphany, New York, attacked the theory of so-called Woman's Rights. A storm of disapproval, mainly from club women, descended upon the clergyman. In the following statement, written for The Evening Citizen, Rev. Peters renounces his attack and makes clear his contentions.)

But woman is not on this account going to be dishonored or her pride mortified. As civilization advances woman shall be crowned queen in a higher sense—a queen swaying an imperial scepter over human hearts, queen of home out of which sweet empire influences will go forth that shall govern the world—proving thousands of times a light in the darkness, an inspiration in discouragement, a secret of victory in hard struggle, and a hand to restrain from sin in the time of fierce temptation.

God has put into the hands of our women at their own hearthstone a power greater than that which presidents or kings wield and which issues either in the weal or woe of their children.

Upon this vexed question of woman's rights, the burden of which seems to turn upon the one point of franchise, "Shall woman be invested with the ballot?" the question is not one of the simple right as her equal with man, but is it wise, is it best? I do not deny the inborn right of woman to smoke cigarettes, or to use the rough language of men, but most of us men are inclined to believe that women who do these things also, as someone has put it, "are no gentlemen," and if the sexes are to be equalized I would rather it were done by refining the men than by the vulgarizing of women.

The ballot is not the panacea of all wrongs. Man has had the ballot and failed with it. Would woman's vote alter things? If only good women voted. But while comparatively few good women would avail themselves of the privilege, all bad women would. Would women vote out the saloon, when in the cities at least as many women drink as men. The right to vote involves a radical change in woman's life, and the functions of citizenship which carry with it the responsibility for civic duty would mean such a change in her life as would make her more of a man than a woman.

BRILLIANT WEDDING IN MAGDALENA

Contracting Parties Very Popular—Mining Claims Are Very Popular.

OTHER ITEMS FROM THE CAMP

Special Correspondence.

Magdalena, Feb. 1.—P. E. Jonsson and Prof. Timmons, mining men of Colorado Springs, Colo., are giving this section a complete investigation. Professor Timmons states that this district has the best surface showing of any district ever visited by him. He has found leads that show numerous minerals in paying quantities.

The El Paso Smelting company has a group of claims that are showing up good copper deposits and which they intend opening up in the spring. The property of Hemling & Stephenson adjoins that of the El Paso Smelting company, and the owners have been offered a favorable proposition by Denver parties for bonding this property. The anchor claim owned by the late Governor St. John, has been leased to Johnson & Timmons, who intend opening the property with a large force of workmen in the spring.

L. P. Garcia, of the firm of Garcia & Garcia, has disposed of his interests in the merchandise business to Jose Garcia y Ortega, and intends embarking in the sheep business.

One of the most fashionable weddings that ever took place in Magdalena was solemnized at St. Magdalena Catholic church Wednesday morning, January 31. The contracting parties were Miss Lola Castillo, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Castillo, one of the most prominent and well-to-do families in Socorro county, and Bonifacio Landavazo, one of Magdalena's most promising sons. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Martin, of Socorro, before a large assemblage of the friends of the contracting parties. The bride was accompanied by several of her friends, all of whom were attired in beautiful white dresses. A reception followed the ceremony and in the evening a grand ball was given in honor of this auspicious event.

Mr. Pete McFarland, well known in Albuquerque, is holding an important position with the Becker-Blackwell company at this place. He is one of the most popular young men in this growing little city.

Bert Gamble, a former Albuquerquean, now of Magdalena, and uncle for James Jeffries, of the last battle tournament is contemplating the starting of a chicken ranch near Kelly. Those having settings of choice stock will please communicate with him.

Adolfo Torres & Brother, of Kelly, are enjoying a good trade in their line of business. They are among the foremost and enterprising citizens of this mining camp.

Miss Cavanaugh, principal of the public school at Magdalena, reports that she has 125 children on her roll book, and with the assistance of two extra teachers is making the school a model one of this county.

W. W. McClellan, manager and book-keeper of the wholesale house of Baehchee & Glom, of Albuquerque, paid the section a visit this week and was successful in introducing his line of goods. We hope to see him often.

Mr. J. M. Allen, proprietor of the Allen house, who is visiting his parents in Texas, will return to this place about April.

Col. "Fitch," or Hutchinson, one of Kelly's first prospectors, and who sold one of his claims some years ago for $45,000, is still living in Magdalena, almost penniless. He still holds some valuable claims and indications point out that he will again become the Croesus of Magdalena.

SUPREME COURT

Proceedings Yesterday.

The following business was transacted:

Case No. 1026, entitled Richard De Palma and Bernard Ruppe, plaintiffs in error, vs. Jacob Weinman and Joseph Barnett, defendants, in error: motion for rehearing overruled. Marston, McMillen and Reynolds attorneys for plaintiffs and Field and Childers attorneys for defendants.

Case No. 1143, entitled Charles E. Donnelly, appellant, vs. R. B. Kelly, et al., appellees, in error: affirmed upon motion of appellee, the appellant having failed to perfect transcript, in time prescribed by law.

Case No. 1125, entitled United States of America, appellant, vs. Benito Marcos and Anastasio Santistevan, appellees, argued and submitted. Llewellyn and Medler attorneys for appellant and Laughlin attorney for appellee.

Case No. 1130, entitled Jones Downs & company, appellees, vs. Weld C. Chandler, et al., appellants, argued and submitted. Turner attorney for appellee and Appel attorney for appellants.

In its ruling in the case of Nick Metz, appellant, vs. Martin S. Tierney, published above, in this article, the supreme court has decided that a man can build a fence as high as suits his fancy regardless of the fact that it prevents his neighbor from sitting in a window of his home and peering out at passersby. Mr. Tierney in the case erected just such a fence on his property on South Third street, in this city, and the Metz mentioned above as appellant, sat down before a window in his home with the above result. Consequently the case was carried into court where Judge Abbott ruled that so long as the fence was built on private property it could be constructed to any height. Mr. Metz, to fully settle the case, carried it to the higher court, where Judge Abbott's ruling was affirmed.

Don't deceive yourself. If you have indigestion take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It will relieve you. Rev. W. E. Hoenst, South Mills, N. C., says: "I was troubled with indigestion for several years; whatever I ate seemed to cause heartburn, sour stomach, fluttering of my heart, and general depression of mind and body. My druggist recommended Kodol, and it has relieved me. I can now eat anything and sleep soundly at night." Kodol digests what you eat, makes the stomach sweet, palatable, strengthening and affords quick relief. Sold by all druggists.

"How do you like the coffee?" the landlady asked.
"Madame," replied the new boarder, "I could not retain my self-respect and at the same time attack anything so weak that it could not defend itself."

SON SUFFERING WITH BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Samuel F. Bean went up to Santa Fe last Saturday, returning Monday with his son Sammy, who is quite ill with Bright's disease, says the Las Cruces Republican. Sammy, who was attending school at St. Michael's college, was taken sick a month ago and was steadily getting worse. Mr. Bean went up and brought him home, hoping that the change would benefit him. Try Little Early Risers.

Kodol Digests What You Eat.
Just a little Kodol after meals will relieve that fullness, belching, gas on stomach, and all other symptoms of indigestion. Kodol digests what you eat, and enables the stomach and digestive organs to perform their functions naturally. Kodol is a thorough digestant and will afford relief from any disorders due to imperfect digestion or mal-assimilation. Sold by all druggists.

HEAVY STICK BADLY BRUISED MAN'S SHOULDER.

Julian Lal came near meeting with a very serious accident a few days ago, says the White Oaks Outlook. While working down in a well for Felix Guebara, a heavy stick which was used in holding the rope to the bucket, accidentally dropped from the surface to the bottom, a distance of forty feet, striking him on the shoulder. Fortunately, no injury was done, except a severe bruise which will put him on the retired list for a few days.

Luckiest Man in Arkansas.

"I am the luckiest man in Arkansas," writes H. L. Stanley, of Bruno, "since the restoration of my wife's health after five years of continuous coughing and bleeding from the lungs; I owe my good fortune to the world's greatest medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which I know from experience will cure consumption if taken in time. My wife improved with the first bottle and twelve bottles completed the cure." Cures the worst coughs and colds or money refunded. At all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

STOCK CONDITIONS NOT BAD IN LINCOLN COUNTY.

Local conditions have very much improved here during the past ten days, says the White Oaks Outlook. The snow has about disappeared under a returning sun, except on the northern slope of the mountains, the greater part of the moisture going into the soil. From reports thus far received from outlying ranches, the loss of stock in the county has not been near what many were led to expect from the severe cold under the great depth of snow which completely covered the ground for so long a time. The losses in some herds will not go over 1 per cent, while it is estimated that 5 per cent will be a fair average. The benefit of the moisture to the ranges will fully make up for this loss later on.

A Habit to Be Encouraged.

The mother who has acquired the habit of keeping on hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saves herself a great amount of uneasiness and anxiety. Coughs, colds and croup, to which children are susceptible, are quickly cured by its use. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, and if given as soon as the first symptoms of croup appear, it will prevent the attack. This remedy contains nothing injurious and mothers give it to little ones with a feeling of perfect security. For sale by all druggists.

SHEEP SHEARING ON DOWN IN ARIZONA.

Sheep shearing has commenced at the several camps in Maricopa county, Arizona. At Beardsley, 750,000 to 1,000,000 sheep will be shorn. Cammell, Noble and McIntyre, all big sheep raisers of the northern part of the territory, are preparing to have their shearing done at Beardsley.

Houck, another big raiser from the northern part of Arizona, will have his shearing done at Cave Creek. It is estimated that between 60,000 and 75,000 sheep will be taken care of at that place.

Mesa takes third place as important as a sheep shearing center. Scott

FAVORITISM IN RAILROAD RATES

Here is a problem. The problem is—how to account for the solution. For the railroad freight rate from Chicago to Spokane, Wash., is the same as that to Seattle, Wash., and back again to Spokane. If a Spokane man were to buy some Limburger cheese in the east and wanted it to arrive a ripe old age en route (and did not care to let it walk) he could have it stay on the train until it got to Seattle, and then have it sent back to him. And this without additional cost. He would, so to speak, get it at Spokane, via Spokane. Would you believe it, the Spokane man, in spite of this, does not appreciate the kindness of the railroads.

RAILROAD TOPICS

Colonel Ralph E. Twitcheell, assistant attorney for the Santa Fe in New Mexico, is in the city from Las Vegas.

W. C. Burkholz, a Santa Fe coast lines engineer, is in the Santa Fe Pacific hospital suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism.

James Carroll, traveling engineer for the Santa Fe, left last night for Gallup, where he will remain several days transacting company business.

Two new first-class coaches for the Mexican Central railway passed through the city last night en route to the city of Mexico from the factory.

The Santa Fe air car, which was in Albuquerque a couple of weeks ago, returned this morning from a trip to El Paso and Deming, stopping at San Marcel while en route.

A. C. Armstrong, of Chicago, a mechanical expert for the Santa Fe system, who has been in the city for a few days on company business, left last night for a trip over the coast lines.

Ed. Bauman, head brakeman on No. 9, has recently taken a homestead near Deming, and contracted with R. E. Powell, government surveyor, to correctly locate his boundaries, so that he can begin work on his land within the next thirty days.

H. B. May, of Temple, Texas, has accepted a position as stenographer in the office of I. J. Custer, storekeeper for the Santa Fe, the vacancy occurring through the fact that Miss Nellie Wayne, at present in the storekeeper's department, will not go to San Bernardino when the offices are moved to that city on February 16. She will work up to the time of the removal of the offices, however.

Gardner Lathrop, general solicitor for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, has announced that the purchase by the Santa Fe of the Denver, Elgin & Gulf, mention of which purchase was made in these columns at the time, means the construction of an extension to a Santa Fe connection at Dodge City, Kan., thereby giving Guthrie, Okla., direct connections with Denver. In addition to this, the Santa Fe has started a corps of engineers out of Los Angeles for the purpose of locating a direct line of railroad into Searchlight, Nev., to be a feeder from Barnwell, a distance of about twenty-six miles.

His collar bone was broken and he was badly bruised. He sat with his back to the train and the step of the engine hit him. He was taken to the office of Dr. Joyner and given the necessary treatment. He is a stranger in Roswell.

SANTA FE'S SHORT LINE

A special dispatch from Amarillo, Texas, dated January 31, says: "Nine-five miles of the Santa Fe cut-off has been completed from Texico west. Of this, twenty-five miles has been put in condition for heavy traffic. There are about 125 miles more of the road to be completed, when it will open the short route to the Pacific coast, avoiding the Raton and Glorieta mountains in New Mexico and reducing passenger time between Chicago and San Francisco from eight to fifteen hours, and fast freight from twenty to thirty hours. On completion of this cut-off, the Southern Kansas line will be practically rebuilt, and put in shape to carry the heavy equipment used on the through serv-

SEVERAL CANDIDATES FOR

PENITENTIARY POSITION.

The street has it that there are now three candidates for the position of superintendent of the penitentiary, namely, John R. de Mier of Alamogordo, who served in that position under the former administration for over a year; Fred Furness, United States deputy marshal at Albuquerque, and J. E. Wood, railway mail clerk of this city, says the New Mexican. The truth of the reports could not be established, but they are floating about town.

HAVE YOU GOT ONE?

The 1906 World Almanac and Encyclopedia is a tabloid library of reference. It fits the pocket both in size and price and there is more facts and figures in its 680 pages than in a whole shelf full of costly encyclopedias. That is why the voluminous publications are "shelved." The Almanac buyer carries his reference library in his pocket. It is a "book" for the man who cannot afford a library display and for the man who can afford it, but wants practical knowledge quickly. It is not written beyond the understanding of any man. To see it is to buy it! It is its own best advertisement. It is the most active agent for the dissemination of quick and practical knowledge ever presented to the public.

TOUR EUROPE FREE

THE COURIER-JOURNAL TO TAKE NINETEEN YOUNG WOMEN ABROAD AS ITS GUESTS.

The Courier-Journal is conducting a popularity contest that eclipses anything of the kind ever promoted in that section. Briefly, the Courier Journal proposes to take on a seven-weeks' tour abroad nineteen young women from Kentucky and southern Indiana, all expenses paid, from the day the party leaves Louisville, July 12, until it returns to "The Old Kentucky Home," August 29. To give all chance the Courier-Journal has divided Louisville and southern Indiana into eighteen districts, and the most popular young woman from each district is to be the one to make the tour. The nineteenth young lady is to be selected in another way. Readers of the Courier-Journal are to select the guests for the paper, by ballot. It is estimated that the trip alone will cost the Courier-Journal about $15,000, to say nothing of incidental and other necessary expenses. There may be a young woman from this section who is a candidate for this tour. Write the Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky., for a list of candidates and full details of the tour.

Common Colds Are the Cause of Many Serious Diseases.

Physicians who have gained a national reputation as analysts of the cause of various diseases, claim that if catching cold could be avoided a long list of dangerous ailments would never be heard of. Every one knows that pneumonia and consumption originate from a cold, and chronic catarrh, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles are aggravated and rendered more serious by each fresh attack. Do not risk your life or take chances when you have a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure it before these diseases develop. This remedy contains no opium, morphine or other harmful drug and has thirty years of reputation back of it, proved by its cures under every condition. For sale by all druggists.

DID YOU SEE HIM? WHAT DID HE DO?

DID HE SEE HIS SHADOW AND SCURRY BACK, OR REMAIN ABOVE GROUND? "Did you see him?" This was the question that was being heard on all sides today. "Did you see him?" "Who?" "Why, the Aetionys monax, of course." "Aetionys monax? Isn't it?" "But perhaps to some it is not so simple." Know you, then, that Aetionys monax is the correct name of that little American rodent, more familiarly known as the "groundhog," or woodchuck, and it is this day, February 2nd, that the little fellow makes his first appearance after his winter of hibernation.

And, according to the superstition, upon his actions this day, depends the future conditions of the weather. Coming forth, after his long sleep, he casts a knowing eye above, to ascertain the weather conditions, present and future. Then he ventures forth into the light of day. Now comes the crucial moment. Farther and farther from his hole the groundhog proceeds. Then he stops. With a fearful look he glances behind him. "Did you see him? What did he do?"

For, know you, that if he saw his shadow, we is our portion, for, verily, it meaneth a late season, protracted winter, and all sorts of uncomfortable weather and climatic conditions. If, however, there was no bugaboo of a shadow to scare him back to his hole, then he proceeds on his way rejoicing, and future settled weather conditions are assured, no matter what the ignorant and unknowing weather bureau man may say to the contrary.

For the groundhog has spoken, and it must be so! "Did you see him? What did he do?"

The socialist party of Albuquerque, its leaders and henchmen, are already discussing their plans for the coming spring election. A prominent socialist politician stated today that their party would put a full ticket in the field at the April election, and that they expected to poll more votes this election than they did in April, 1904.

There is a rumor in circulation at Santa Fe that Col. G. W. Pritchard, attorney general of New Mexico, is arranging to retire from office in a short time in order to devote his time in the future to his own legal practice and to private matters. Albuquerque will, no doubt, among her legal lights, have a candidate for the office of attorney general.

CELEBRATED WRITERS EXPECTED TONIGHT

JOHN PHILLIPS, WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE and MISS TARBELL, TO REMAIN THREE DAYS IN ALBUQUERQUE.

For three days, beginning with tonight, on the arrival of train No. 1, Albuquerque will be host to three of the most distinguished American writers of the day—Mr. John Phillips, editor of McClure's Magazine; Mr. William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, and the author of some of the most popular of the modern day books of fiction; and Miss Ida Tarbell. Mr. White and Mr. Phillips are accompanied by their wives.

The party will arrive in a private car, attached to No. 1, and while in the city will occupy rooms reserved for them at the Alvarado. A few days ago the Associated Press sent out dispatches announcing that this trio of writers had gone to Colorado to write on corporations doing business in that state, but it now becomes evident that in this the Associated Press was at fault, as their stop in Colorado amounted to only a short sojourn at Colorado Springs, and they are now en route to California. The stop in Albuquerque will probably be of three days' duration. The purpose has not been given out, but it is hinted that the fitness of the territories for statehood will be the subject of several well based articles which will appear in some of the leading publications in the near future.

BIG IMPROVEMENT FOR HUNDRED MILES

BETWEEN RIO PUERCO AND GAL-LUP ON SANTA FE PACIFIC.

Roadmaster Hutchinson, on the division west from Albuquerque, is in the city, for the purpose of organizing a force of 100 men to take with him to Rio Puerco. He hopes to leave tonight with the men for the west, a number of whom are from Mexico and came in from El Paso this morning.

Mr. Hutchinson tells The Evening Citizen that the road bed between Rio Puerco and Gallup, a distance of 100 miles, will be almost entirely rebuilt; the old rails taken up and replaced with 85-pound steel, and the road put in such condition that trouble and delays from washouts occasioned by rains, snows and heavy fires in the Rio Puerco will be a thing of the past. Mr. Hutchinson says the working force will be increased to 500 men, and a consignment of natives from Mexico will undoubtedly arrive every morning until Mr. Hutchinson cries "Enough!"

DELIGHTED WITH WINDOW

TWO GIRLS SURPRISED AT PRICE OF LINEN LAWN SILK EMBROIDERED STOCK COLLARS.

Two ladies stopped in front of the Racket store's second street display window this morning. "Oh, Grace, aren't those fine?" was the ejaculation of one of the fair ones, as she looked long and searchingly into the window profusely adorned with ladies' handsomely silk embroidered linen lawn stock collars. "Aren't they sweet?" escaped from the lips of Grace, almost before her companion had finished speaking. "Oh, dear, but I would like one, Maude," remarked Grace in a manner most earnest. "I don't like the idea of paying thirty-five cents for them, though, because the ones I have are good yet, but not half so pretty as these." "Why, you foolish girl, they are not thirty-five cents, but only a dime. You must be blind. See, the card there says so." Grace looked. "Of course it does. That's awfully cheap. I never bought a collar in my life for less than a quarter. When does it say the special sale begins—oh, yes, tomorrow, Saturday. I must get down before all the best ones are gone, for there will be a big rush unquestionably. Come over, Maude, and we will go down town together." Maude said she would, and the two girls separated.
