FRANCE CHANGES HOME MINISTRY

Will Cause Delay in Agreement About Reached in Morocco.

RUSSIAN INSURANCE STOPS

Canadian Parliament Opened By the Governor After Months Delay

TARIFF PARAMOUNT QUESTION

Paris, March 8.—The government finds itself without a ministry at the culmination stage of the Moroccan conference. A semi-official statement says: "The ministerial crisis does not affect the French policy at the conference."

This is designed, it is thought, chiefly to warn Germany not to take advantage of the situation; but the fact is that the ministerial hiatus confuses matters and threatens the agreement which otherwise might be reached today.

The vote in the chamber of deputies last night resulting in the defeat of the government and the resignation of the cabinet, also requires the government to temporize with the church manifestos, who are becoming increasingly demonstrative. President Fallieres today began a series of consultations relative to the formation of a new ministry.

CHANGE OF MINISTRY MAY CONFUSE THE CONFERENCE.

Algiers, March 8.—The ministerial crisis in Paris caused profound astonishment among the delegates of the powers attending the conference. The impression prevails that the event is deplorable and may possibly prove disastrous to French diplomacy. The delegates, however, refuse to commit themselves to that effect. Previous to the receipt of the news, the tone of discouragement had disappeared and the work of rapprochement was proceeding with feverish activity. The conference this morning resumed the discussion of the police question.

NO MORE POLICIES IN RUSSIA UNTIL PEACE.

St. Petersburg, March 8.—After today the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York and other American insurance companies will write no more policies in this country, at least not until internal peace is again restored. The insurance companies were compelled to take this step for their own protection, as so many of the deaths among the policy holders in Russia fully six per cent were directly due to the political and economical disturbances existing in Russia. The American companies who are doing large business in Russia suffered considerable loss last year owing to the fact that so many of their policy holders were killed in riots and as there seems to be but little prospect of an improvement of the situation in the near future, they found it necessary to suspend their business until further notice.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT IS OPENED IN OTTAWA.

Ottawa, Ont., March 8.—The dominion parliament will be opened this afternoon by Earl Grey, governor general of the Dominion of Canada. The session is about three months late. The reason which was given for the delay was that time was required to study the evidence received by the tariff commission and to prepare a revised schedule which will be submitted to parliament in the budget speech. It is understood, however, that there were other causes for the delay, and that they arose out of the differences in view among the parliamentary supporters of the government on the question of changes in the duties, the high expenditure, and the filling of the ministerial vacancies. A great deal of difficulty was experienced in bringing the liberal members into line and even now it is believed that there are some trouble, which is some of the important questions shall come to a vote.

Many important matters will come up for consideration in the session of parliament which opens today. The most important to the commercial and industrial interests of the dominion is the tariff question, which will undoubtedly occupy the attention of parliament for a considerable time. It is believed that the urgent demands of the merchants and manufacturers of Canada will be, to a great extent, recognized and the new tariff will contain material increases in the duties of manufactured goods. Another matter which will be considered is the problem of dealing with users. The matter has been brought to the attention of parliament several times but no practical scheme was ever evolved to curb the oppressive action of the money lenders. It is believed, that a law will be proposed, similar to that which was adopted by the British parliament a few years ago as the result of a searching inquiry by a commission. It gives the courts power to go back of any transaction involving the payment of exorbitant interest and to adjudge as to what is fair and right.

POSTMASTER HOPKINS IS EASILY CONFIRMED.

Special to The Evening Citizen. Washington, D. C., March 8.—The senate late yesterday, in executive session, confirmed the nomination of R. W. Hopkins, as his own successor in the office of Albuquerque postmaster.

WHERE THOUSANDS MET DEATH

SCENES AND PEOPLE IN THE SOCIETY ISLANDS, WHICH WERE SWEEPED BY A TERRIBLE CYCLONE AND TIDAL WAVE.

San Francisco, Cal., March 8.—The storm and tidal wave which desolated the smiling isles of the South Pacific, drowning and killing thousands, news of which has just reached this country, was but a repetition of the disastrous storm which went over the Society and Tuamotu islands in January, 1903.

Type of Natives of the Society Islands.

ary, 1903. Again, hundreds of the indolent, smiling, naked Polynesians who lolled among the feathery foliage and flowers fringing the extinct volcanoes of the South seas have scattered corpses over the waters like so many drowned flies. The greatest effect of the storm was in the Society Islands, and the low archipelago, about 3,500 miles southwest of San Francisco and over 2,000 miles east of south of Hawaii, and about that much northeast of Auckland. Tahiti, the largest of the Society group, has a fine harbor and is a stopping place on the route between

New Zealand and San Francisco. Its population is about 10,000. It has a very prosperous colony of Caucasians, mostly French. There are Germans, English, Americans, and some Chinese besides. Its commerce is mainly with San Francisco, to which it sends fruit and coconuts. Papeete is the chief town, with 5,000 population, one-half French. The streets are named after the principal boulevards of Paris, such as Rue de Petit Boulevard and Rue de Rivoli. It has six schools and four Catholic and two Protestant missions. Other islands of the group are Moorea, 1,500; Raiatea and Taiana, 2,300; Huahine, 1,300, and Bora-Bora, 500 population.

Tahiti is thirty-five miles long and about twelve miles wide. It consists of two huge volcanic peaks, with a fringe of lowland around each, connected by a valley, forming an island, shaped much like the figure eight. Moorea is also a volcanic peaked island, but the others of the group are low lying.

The low archipelago consists of the Tuamotu islands, of coral formation, many being uninhabited. The total area is about 400 miles and the total population before the storm was 700. The inhabitants were Polynesians, and most of them had been converted to Christianity. The principal town and port was Fakarava. The Tuamotu Islands were annexed by France in 1881.

ST. LOUIS POLICEMEN GO

Three Life Insurance Officers Were Indicted by the Grand Jury Today.

Washington, D. C., March 8.—President Roosevelt has removed from office John D. Oliphant, registrar; J. A. Trotter, receiver, and I. J. Chapman, clerk of the land office at Mangum, Oklahoma, for irregularities in conducting the business of the office.

TEN REMOVALS MADE FROM POLICE FORCE.

St. Louis, Mo., March 8.—Two sergeants and eight patrolmen were today suspended from the police department by Acting Chief of Police Gillespie, pending charges of grafting. It is said, which will formally be preferred against them before the police board. The men were until recently on duty in the central district, where the grand jury is making an investigation into charges of grafting.

LIFE INSURANCE HEADS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY.

New York, March 8.—Three indictments against the officers of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company were handed down by the grand jury today. Those indicted are Frederick A. Burnham, president; George D. Eldridge, first vice president, and George Burnham, Jr., second vice president.

REPORTS REACH HERE OF POSTOFFICE ROBBERY

POSTOFFICE AT NOGAL ENTERED AND SAFE ROBBED OF CONTENTS—SAFE LOCK WRECKED.

Advices received in this city today state that the postoffice at Nogal, N. M., a small station on the Captain branch of the El Paso & Northeastern railroad, was entered by robbers, who view open the safe, and then wrecked the safe's lock in an attempt to reach the safe. The postmaster states that there was a large amount of money in the safe, but that owing to the condition of the lock he has been unable to open the safe and ascertain the amount stolen. Up to a late hour this afternoon the marshals of this city had not been notified of the burglary.

SCHWAB NOT SERIOUSLY ILL SINCE LEAVING ILLINOIS.

Kansas City, Mo., March 8.—A dispatch from Hutchinson says the train of Charles M. Schwab passed through that place a few minutes after 8 o'clock today, and quotes Mr. Schwab as saying that he was feeling fine. The conductor of the train said that Schwab had not been seriously ill since leaving Los Angeles.

SOME DEEDS OF VIOLENT NATURE

Fireman on Steamer in the Brooklyn Docks Killed in Mutiny

WOMAN IN SEINE FROM OHIO

Masked Men Entered Bank Near Spokane, Wrecking Building. Secured $1,700.

New York, March 8.—A mutiny in which one life was lost occurred today on board the steamer Massachusetts, which was lying at a dock in Brooklyn. James Slocum, a fireman, was killed during a revolver battle on the steamer's decks, in which the vessel's firemen were ranged on one side and opposing them were the officers of the ship and members of the crew. The mutiny had been brewing since the steamer left Gardiner, February 5, the firemen complaining of food. The crew, however, sided with the officers. I came to a head this morning, after some of the firemen had spent the night ashore.

OHIO TOWN NOW CLAIMS WOMAN FOUND IN SEINE.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 8.—Mrs. Ethel Geachy Brown, whose dead body was taken from the river Seine in Paris yesterday, was a native of Paysonville, Ohio, from which place she removed with her parents about twenty years ago in some unknown place. Identification was made by a clue found here today.

BANK ROBBERS SECURE LARGE BOOTY AT SPOKANE.

Spokane, Wash., March 8.—Three masked men broke into the inland bank at Cunningham, eighty-five miles west of Spokane, early today. Banker W. R. Barker, who sleeps in the bank, was bound, and the safe blown open. The building was wrecked by the explosion, and some money in the safe was destroyed. The robbers secured about $1,700.

CHILD SEVERELY BURNED BY PLAYING WITH MATCHES

WOUNDS NOT THOUGHT FATAL—CHILD RESTING EASY TODAY.

One of the most to be regretted accidents in the annals of the city occurred yesterday in the afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cole, 855 North Eighth street. Their little 2-year-old child was playing in a room adjoining where his mother was working, and in some manner unknown to the parents, got hold of a box of matches. The little one's dress caught fire, and before the mother, who was attracted by the baby's screams, could extinguish the flames, its stomach, breast and chin was severely but not thought fatally burned. The physician summoned applied soothing balsams to the wounds, and this afternoon the child was resting easy.

INTERESTING CASES ARE FILED IN DISTRICT COURT

J. C. BALDRIDGE VS. C. F. MYERS.—W. S. BOWEN'S COMPLAINTS.

Several interesting cases were filed in the district court yesterday. J. C. Baldridge brings an action against Charles F. Myers for $380.45 and costs, alleging that A. L. Morgan, the contractor, purchased lumber and supplies from him for this amount, signing papers to this effect. The plaintiff alleges that Myers has since refused to settle.

Bennie and Walter Jaffa, of the firm of Jaffa Bros., grocers, have filed a claim of $121.64 with costs, against Robert Corcoran, for supplies.

Walter S. Bowen, of the Equitable Life Assurance company, has filed a claim against L. Stern, Manuel D. Garcia, Charles G. Trujillo, Rafael Tiller, Dolores G. Martinez and John Gander for sums ranging from $25 up to $90. The defendants, it is alleged, took out policies with the company and gave promissory notes to meet the premiums and the life insurance, and then, it is alleged, refused to meet the notes when they matured. In addition to the notes themselves, Mr. Bowen seeks to collect interest at 10 per cent per annum as specified in the same.

TEXAS COURT OF APPEALS KNOCKS FUTURE DEALERS.

Dallas, Texas, March 8.—The court of civil appeals at Austin, yesterday, gave what looks like a fatal blow to dealers in cotton futures in Texas, by reversing and dismissing the case of Jesse L. Norris against W. H. Logan. Complainant sued Logan to recover the money furnished to buy futures, alleging that Logan had not sold according to orders. Logan filed a counter suit for money put up on margins. The court dismissed the case, saying that it was gambling. The officer of the decision is that neither side had collected money in Texas on deals in cotton futures.

DANCE FOR AMATEUR NEW YORK SPRINTERS.

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 8.—The New York and New Jersey divisions of the Century Road club of America will hold a series of home trainer cycle races in connection with their annual ball in Schuylkill hall tonight. It is expected that all the local and out-of-town amateur stars will compete, including those of the National Athletic club, Tiger Wheelmen, the Decembo team, the Parkway Athletic club, the Century Road Club association and many other cycle clubs. Joseph T. Hallinan and Ben Hill, both of Newark, and two of New Jersey's crack sprinters, will represent the New Jersey state division, while Harry Bennett and Herman Lind will represent the New York division.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., March 8.—Three deaths followed the wreck of the local passenger train on the Delaware & Hudson railroad, bound from Rutland, Vt., for Troy. It was held up by a freight wreck near the local station the local passenger train was run down by the Montreal flyer, south bound, last night. The dead are: Mrs. Charles Esmond, Ganesvort, N. Y.; Gertrude Esmond, aged 10; Frank A. Sinden, 10½.

Four people were injured, one seriously. Slippery rails are given as the reason why the flyer did not stop.

ENGINE IN PENNSYLVANIA COSTS LIVES OF LABORERS.

Greenburg, Pa., March 8.—An engine, running light, on the Pennsylvania railroad, near Radensburg, Pa., today, crashed into a work train, on which were about 75 Italian laborers, employed on a new pipe line. Four of the men were killed and 35 others injured, several of whom will die.

STOCKMAN KILLED BY BREAKING TRAIN IN TWO.

Burlington, Vt., March 8.—A rear-end collision, today, between two sections of a freight on the Burlington railroad, injured four men. S. Heaton, a West Virginia stockman, was fatally hurt. The accident was caused by the train breaking in two, and the second section's running into the first.

SMALL RAILROADS WILL DISCONTINUE SOME TRAINS.

Cleveland, O., March 8.—The law providing for two-cent railroad rates in the state of Ohio went into effect today and it is asserted that all the roads in the state will comply with the provisions of the law, which fixes the rate for passenger transportation within the limits of the state at two cents a mile. The big roads have been changing their schedules on account of the reduction in the transportation rate, but it is understood that some of the smaller roads will be compelled to discontinue some of their trains to make up for the loss in fares.

A SOUTHERN RAILROAD COMPANY ISSUES BONDS.

Richmond, Va., March 8.—A meeting of the stockholders of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad company will be held here this afternoon to vote on the proposition of the board of directors, to issue additional $10,000,000 common stock, which is to be offered to the shareholders at par at the rate of ten per cent on their holdings. There is no doubt that the stockholders will approve of the plan submitted by the board of directors.

VESSLS TOO LARGE TO GET UP TO MONTREAL.

Montreal, Que., March 8.—The Canadian Pacific railway, which, in the last year, has had built in Great Britain two trans-Atlantic liners, which in size and tonnage exceed any vessels that have so far plied between Canada and the mother country has announced that the summer port for these vessels will be Quebec, and not Montreal, at least until such time as there is a channel all the way from Quebec to Montreal, thirty feet deep.

This announcement is a serious blow to Montreal, while in Quebec it has aroused the hope that, with the coming of a larger type of vessel, the port will regain its old-time prominence. In 1897 the work of dredging the channel from Quebec to Montreal to a depth of thirty feet was taken up in earnest by the Dominion government and since that time $8,000,000 has been spent on it. It is believed that the work can be accomplished in two seasons or less, and that by the end of 1907 the St. Lawrence will have a clear channel of thirty feet at low water from Montreal to the harbor at Quebec, and that in the straight reaches the channel will be no spot less than 450 feet broad, widening out to 750 feet at the bends. Such a channel will be sufficient for the new Canadian Pacific railroad steamers, which are of 14,500 tonnage, but the probabilities are that by the time the channel is completed, still larger vessels will be built. It would seem that the Canadian government will have to spend many millions more before a clear channel, when vessels as large as the Cedric or Baltic will be seen in Montreal.

During the present session of parliament an effort will be made to induce the dominion government to make provisions for the deepening and widening of the channel between Montreal and Quebec.

DENIES HAVING BEEN INTERVIEWED AS PUBLISHED

A. J. Mitchell, the attorney, who has offices in the First National bank building, emphatically denies an interview appearing in the columns of the Albuquerque Fakir Journal, accredited to him.

"And, furthermore," added Attorney A. J. Mitchell, "I never was a garbage contractor or city scavenger in my life. I have never given out any interviews on the subject, knowing absolutely nothing about the garbage business, and my earliest recollection of a plan to build a garbage plant is a whole rubbish dream of some reporter. Kindly deny the purported interview for me."

CIVIL WAR VETERANS DEDICATE MONUMENT.

Yonkers, N. Y., March 8.—Governor Melrose and staff and a large number of civil war veterans from New Hampshire arrived here this morning and will this afternoon dedicate the New Hampshire battle monument in the National Military park. The memorial consists of a marble shaft of heroic proportions and is located near Grant's headquarters. An elaborate program has been prepared for the dedication ceremony. On March 24, Governor Penney of Pennsylvania will dedicate the Pennsylvania battle monument.

COAL FAMINE IN THE NAVY

Black Diamonds Must be Bought on Credit Because of

Montreal Gets Serious Blow Because Deep Water Lacking

BIG MONEY IS ALREADY SPENT

Washington, D. C., March 8.—The secretary of the navy has sent to Rear Admiral Evans, commanding the Atlantic fleet; Rear Admiral Train, commanding the Asiatic fleet, and Rear Admiral Goodrich, commanding the Pacific squadron, important cautionary instructions regarding economy of fuel, the supply of which has been exhausted. It will be necessary, in order to purchase additional fuel, for the navy, to ask the contractors to await the pleasure of congress until there is a fund available for the purchase of coal. It is expected that the contractors will not object to this condition, and the service will not be seriously embarrassed by the failure of congress to provide the present means of acquiring fuel for ships of war. If there were any difficulty in that direction, the ships on distant stations could not be moved and the vessels now in southern waters would have to proceed to Guantanamo, Cuba, and remain there until coal could be obtained. But no such embarrassment is likely to attach to the service, mainly on account of the willingness of the contractors to trust the government, especially as a contract for coal has its negotiable value, although there is no doubt that the government is unable to meet the obligation. Of course, it has to be considered, that in such a state of affairs the coal dealers who sell to the government, take into account this delay and charge accordingly, so that in the end the government is likely to be favored by the coal dealers. At this time the most rigid economy is exacted of commanding officers everywhere in the use of coal, and there will be no more movement of ships than is absolutely necessary. These restrictions will doubtless have their effect on the plans for naval maneuvers in southern waters.

STATEHOOD IS IN THE THROES

Senate Assembled Slowly Less Than 12 Present When McCumber

BEGAN IMPOLITIC SPEECH

Cuts New Mexico and Arizona Out as West Needs More Senators.

PATTERSON REPEATS HISTORY

Washington, D. C., March 8.—The senate met at 11 o'clock, an hour earlier than usual, to afford additional time for discussion of the statehood bill, but it looked for a while as though the object would be frustrated, by the lack of attendance upon the part of the senators. When the hour of the meeting had arrived, not a single senator was present; but as the vice president and chaplain entered the north door McCumber and Gearing appeared at the opposite entrance, and Teller and Patterson came in a few minutes later.

The other senators were slow in arriving, and at 11:15, when McCumber of North Dakota began to speak on the statehood bill, less than a dozen senators were in their seats. McCumber introduced his speech by presenting a substitute for the statehood bill, creating one state out of Oklahoma and another out of Indian Territory, the latter under the name of Sequoyia, in honor of the Cherokee scholar of that name, and entirely eliminating New Mexico and Arizona.

More True Than Diplomatic.

He made an argument against the consolidation of the territories into a few states, contending that more western states were necessary to give the agricultural and other trans-Mississippi interests a strong representation in congress. He predicted that in the near future the west will have a much larger number of inhabitants than the east, and that if the present boundary lines shall be preserved, it will be impossible to secure as many states as there are now east of the Mississippi, and therefore, the balance of power in the senate must necessarily be against the western section. He declared that the time will come when the east will refer to the influence of foreign immigration in eastern communities, and in this connection said that at the last election Chicago elected a socialist mayor.

Tillman After President.

When McCumber closed, Tillman gave notice that as soon as an opportunity offers he will address the senate on the message of the president, sent to the senate yesterday, on the coal inquiry resolution recently passed by congress on Tillman's motion. He referred to the presidential message as a "very remarkable document," and said that but for the pressure to proceed with the statehood bill, he would ask to be heard at this time.

Patterson then addressed the senate on the statehood bill, speaking in opposition to the passage of the house bill.

He devoted his attention almost exclusively to that portion of the bill providing for joining New Mexico and Arizona, and contended that Arizona as now bounded has no doubt right to ultimate statehood.

Senator Patterson's Speech.

He expressed the opinion that Arizona and New Mexico were not prepared for separate statehood, and he contended that the country is in honor bound to observe a compact made when the territory of Arizona was created.

Patterson gave an interesting account of the narrow escape New Mexico had from becoming a state when Colorado was admitted in 1876. At that time Patterson was the delegate to congress from Colorado, and Senator Elkins was the delegate from New Mexico. Bills for the admission of both were passed by the house and amended in the senate. While held at the speaker's desk, Burrows, now senator from Michigan, made an eloquent speech, which enraged the democrats. Elkins was the first to congratulate Burrows, and as a punishment the democrats prevented the passage of the New Mexican bill, while allowing Colorado to become a state.

Senator Patterson concluded that if New Mexico was ready for statehood thirty years ago, it was ready now. This anecdote was related by Patterson in reply to the charge which Patterson said had been frequently made that he was responsible for the election of President Hayes by his assurance that if Colorado should be admitted that time its electoral vote would be cast for the democratic candidate, whereas the republican votes were in the majority in the new state.

House.

Washington, D. C., March 8.—The house, on meeting today, agreed to a resolution calling on the Secretary of State for the report of Herbert W. D. Pierce on the condition of the American consul in the orient, and especially at Shanghai.

On motion of Mondell of Wyoming the irrigation fund was relieved from $200,000 of charges for the irrigation project for the Pima Indians on the Gila river reservation.

Play Written by Root's Niece.

Baltimore, Md., March 8.—"Mozart's Romance," a new play written by Ivy Ashton Root, a niece of Secretary of State Elihu Root, will be given its first performance under the management of Frank L. Perley in this city tonight. As the title implies the great composer of the "Magic Flute" is the central figure of the play. Howard Kyle will play the part of Mozart. It is the intention of Mr. Perley to give the play a two-weeks' trial in this city and then take it for a long run to New York.

NEVER TOO OLD FOR

MATRIMONY CHAINS

CURIOUS LOVE STORY EXTEND-

ING THROUGH THREE-QUAR-

TERS OF A CENTURY.

Marysville, O., March 8.—Some interesting facts have become known in regard to the wedding in Painesville, in this county, of Captain

Samuel Kuhns and Mrs. Sarah Crawford, both over 100 years old, who were sweethearts 75 years ago. Captain Kuhns first met the lady of his heart when he was a young man, studying law in Springfield, Ill. There he met Miss Jackson, a daughter of Andrew Jackson and a relative of Abraham Lincoln. They fell in love with each other, but Kuhns had not then enough income to support a wife.

The Mexican war came and Kuhns enlisted as a private. He returned with a captain's commission after the war.

Circumstances still prevented his marriage and besides that there was an estrangement between him and his sweetheart. When the Civil war broke out, Captain Kuhns went to the front, fought in the terrible assaults at Fredericksburg, was at the taking of Vicksburg and with Sherman on the march to the sea. He was twice imprisoned in Libby. Released from prison, without occupation or career, he heard that his sweetheart was married. Stricken to the heart he wandered for many years and finally settled in Columbus. He never met her, but cherished in silence the memory of his only love. Not long ago, at a reunion of army veterans,

Mrs. Sarah Crawford, a widow—the Miss Jackson of fifty years ago—and Captain Kuhns were formally introduced. As her eyes fell upon his face

she gave a hysterical cry and fell into

GOVERNMENT TO CARRY

OUT IRRIGATION

THE PEOPLE OF CARLSBAD ARE

REJOICING IN THE CERTAINTY

OF A BOUNTIFUL SUPPLY OF WATER.

Carlsbad, N. M., March 8.—To B. M.

Hall, reclamation service, Carlsbad, N.

M. The secretary authorized the repair and reconstruction of the Pecos irrigation system by force account.

Payment for the canal system to be made when this is perfected.

(Signed) NEWELL.

Such was the wording of the telegram from the department of interior

at Washington, which has reached

Carlsbad, N. M., bringing gladness to the citizens of that county who had grown weary from waiting and who had felt the pangs of disappointment

when the conviction fastened itself upon them that the irrigation scheme attempted by the Pecos Irrigation company was an undertaking too great for the resources of private enterprise.

"Ever since word was received in October of last year," says the Argus,

"that the United States government had decided to purchase the plant

above telegram or one of similar import has been almost daily expected.

Long has been the waiting, but patient and uncomplaining has been the demand of those so vitally interested.

"The news of the order for the beginning of the work by force account when received, spread with rapidity. The streets were filled with people. Bells were rung, anvils awake

the echoes of hill and valley, giving vent to the long pent up feelings of a dependent people."

This order, coming as it does, means that the work of construction will be begin at an early date, and that it will be pushed as rapidly as conditions will permit. It means," says the Argus enthusiastically, "stability, permanency and success. It means for the farmer, for Carlsbad, for the lower Pecos valley,

the same thing that the government stamp on the dollar means—stability.

It means that the farmer occupying lands under the canal can rest confident in the knowledge that he will always have water for the proper irrigation of his crops. It means that the old days of uncertainty and fear have given way to a new condition that insures certainty and permanency. It means that the farmer, the ranchman,

the settler, the homesteaders, the prosperous settlements and towns for southeastern New Mexico and a full development of the great resources which have as yet been only partially touched. It means success for those who are already here and those who are to come after."

Twenty thousand acres will be reclaimed.

RETURN OF OLD-TIME

CUSTOM OF NO STARS.

New York, March 8.—Herr Heinrich Corried, the director of the Metropolitan Opera house and owner of the famous Irving Place theater, has decided not to part with the latter.

Two months ago it was stated on good authority that Hurler & Seamon were negotiating with Mr. Corried for the purchase of the Irving Place theater and that the negotiations had almost reached the clinching point. It seems, however, that at the last moment, Mr.

Corried changed his mind and decided not to sell out.

In an interview regarding his plans concerning the Irving Place house

Mr. Corried said: "In the future there will be no stars at the Irving Place theater, but I shall follow on the old policy of the house by trying to have every member of the stock company a star. During next season the repertoire of the company will be the very best the theaters of Germany afford.

I wish it understood that the Irving

Place theater is not in the market."

On the return of Dr. Ludwig Fulda,

the famous German writer and dramatist, who is now on a trip through the western states, Herr Corried will give a performance of "The Twin Sister," to celebrate Dr. Fulda's visit. It is expected that the author will deliver a short address after the first act of the play. Dr. Fulda is at work on a new drama in blank verse while lecturing in this country and expects to finish the last act before he sails for home.

OFFICIAL MATTERS

The Lincoln County Reserve.
Sugar Beet Seed Experiment.

LAND OFFICE TRANSACTIONS

The Lincoln forest reserve of 500,000 acres in Lincoln county will this year graze 6,500 head of cattle and horses and 15,000 head of sheep, yielding the government a revenue of between $2,000 and $2,500.

Seed Experiments.
The bureau of immigration has furnished four pounds of sugar beet seed and four pounds of Kaffir corn seed received by it from the plant bureau of the Department of Agriculture of Walter M. Taber of Glorieta, who will make experiments in planting of this seed and in the growing of crops therefrom this coming season. Mr. Taber will pay careful attention to the cultivation of half an acre of land in sugar beets and in Kaffir corn and report results to the bureau of immigration for transmission to Washington.

Given Seeds.
The following San Juan county farmers have been supplied by the bureau of immigration with four pounds of sugar beet seed received from the plant bureau of the Department of Agriculture and the seed will be planted this spring. Results of the experiments will be reported to the bureau, which will report them to the Department of Agriculture. The following are the names and addresses of the persons who have received four pounds each of these seeds: J. P. Attebury, Aztec, New Mexico; L. Current, Aztec, New Mexico; P. H. Mullarky, Flora Vista, New Mexico; J. E. McCarty, Farmington, New Mexico.

Land Office Business.
During the month of February there were 238 entries made in the federal land office at Santa Fe. Of these 152 were homestead entries covering 22,763.93 acres; 15 were final homestead entries covering 2,397.82 acres; 24 were original desert land entries, covering 3,675.32 acres; 3 were final desert land entries, covering 471.02 acres; 17 were cash entries, covering 237.05 acres; 22 were coal declaratory statements; 3 were railroad selections; and 2 were soldiers' declaratory statements.

During the month of January there were 149 entries, of which 98 were homestead entries, covering 14,828.87 acres; 31 were final homestead entries, covering 4,820.67 acres; 5 were original desert land entries, covering 520 acres; 4 were final desert land entries, covering 578.57 acres; 13 were cash entries, covering 230.87 acres; 1 was a mineral application, 4 were coal declaratory statements, covering 520 acres, and 3 were railroad selections.

ALFONSO'S FIRST LOVE AFFAIR
REHEARSED ON PARIS STAGE

THE KING'S LARK DURING A VISIT TO FRENCH CAPITAL FAITHFULLY REPRODUCED AND THE SPANISH OFFICIALS ARE AFRAID THE PRINCESS ENA WILL HEAR ABOUT IT.

Paris, March 7.—The Spanish authorities are trying hard to have ruled off the stage here a play which pretends to tell of King Alfonso's first love affair.

The play, called "His First Journey," relates an unpublised but notoriously true episode of Alfonso's visit to Paris last year, and has been running at the Theater des Deux Masques.

The Spanish officials fear that Princess Ena may hear of the play and break off the engagement with the king.

The plot in the play goes on to tell of how Alfonso on his visit told the French officer having charge of his entertainment that he wanted to make love to the prettiest girl in Paris. He said he had never had a love affair and wanted to play love right there and then.

The young king was scandalized, but the young king dancer was sent to the hotel and up a secret stair to the king's parlor.

Just how the charmer worked her charms was never known to the public, and the playwrights, Messrs. Xanrof and Guerin, were too discreet to theorize. They bring up the curtain on the parting, Alfonso has evidently had the lady on his knees, unless he has been on hers, and then they begin to tell one another goodbye, for at any moment the king will be called to rejoin the president of France and drive off between a double hedge of cuirassiers. But, though the king is gone, the name given the dancer, Alliette, the name given the dancer, tells him so, and begs him to hustle to his tap and belt and sword, Alfonso moves slowly, declaring his one ambition in life is to marry Alliette.

This pleases the little opera girl, but when he raves on about the cottage he will build for her on a Spanish hillside, reigning his crown to others since his Alliette cannot share the throne with him, Alliette decides they have gone far enough, and tells him to be a good boy. Then comes the knock at the door.

"Sire, the president of the republic is expected in two minutes."

"Coming!" answers Alfonso, and only end of the scene; but she first takes him in her arms, and he gives her a ring, swearing that his heart is hers and never can he truly love another.

FOREST FIRE TWICE
AS BAD AS REPORTED

FIRE IN THE PANHANDLE DESTROYED TWO MILLION ACRES OF GRASS—MANY OF LOSERS LIVE IN ROSWELL.

Details of the destructive prairie fire in the Panhandle of Texas show that the loss is twice as great as at first reported, says the Roswell Record. At least two million acres of grass were lost. The fire started in New Mexico, near Elida, and burned eastward, spreading rapidly to right and left and pushing forward fiercely under the strong wind. The tract burned is one hundred miles in length from east to west, and sixty miles wide from north to south, lying generally east of Roswell.

The L. F. D. has only one hundred sections of pasture left. The X— outfit, Barnett, Divers & Bird, lost all their grass. The Spade outfit lost all its grass. The Slaughter people will feed one thousand cattle for the L. F. D., and the rest of the Littlefield-White cattle will probably be brought in the direction of Roswell.

The L. F. D. outfit had 50 cattle burned to death and 200 others badly injured by the fire. Many of these may die. This, of course, represents only a small part of the death loss, as the many other ranching outfits that lost have not been reported upon. The L. F. D. outfit recently sold 3,000 three-year-old steers to Mr. Eddie of Kansas City at a figure close to $25, and this is fortunate, since the grass will be scarce. However, they are not to be delivered until April, at Bovina.

WHAT IS CATARRH?
J. H. O'Reilly & Co. Guarantees a Cure by Hyemel or Will Refund the Money.

Until very recent years, it was thought that catarrh was a disease of the blood, but modern science has proved that catarrh is a germ disease, and can be cured only by a treatment that will kill the germ and heal the mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

Therefore, when you have catarrh, you can readily see that if you want to cure it, you should use Hyemel, which mediates the air you breathe, thus killing the catarrhal germs and healing the smarting, and raw membrane of the passages through the nose and throat.

The complete Hyemel outfit, consisting of an inhaler, a bottle of Hyemel, and a medicine dropper, costs only $1, while extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

J. H. O'Reilly & Co. have sold a great many Hyemel outfits, and the more they sell, the more convinced they are that they are perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyemel does not cure.

THE WINNING STROKE

If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all-important, however, in selecting a laxative, to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectively, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without gripping, irritating, or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases.

It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. Please to remember that the genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale in bottles of one size only, by all reputable druggists and that full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co., is plainly printed on the front of every package. Party Solidification

The Las Vegas Optic has a strong editorial on the importance of the republican party of New Mexico maintaining its harmony, its solidarity, and its avoidance of every disintegrating movement or suggestion. The Optic's argument is addressed to the party considered territorially, but is equally applicable to the party in cities and counties; for what is good and appropriate for the whole, must be equally good and appropriate for the parts of which the whole is composed. The Optic says, in part:

Just now, if ever, is party harmony to be most eagerly desired, and earnestly sought after. The statehood issue will likely be before us for solution. The constitutional convention, the most important problem which New Mexico has ever solved, will very probably have to be wrestled with in the near future. The time for full elections is only a few short months away. Further, New Mexico is entering upon what promises to be in reality, a new era. Irrigation projects are being developed, rich valleys are being settled up as never before, from every city and town in the territory come reports of unexampled prosperity. We need to have the greatest possible efficiency in the administration of both the executive and legislative affairs. We need a strong, united republican party, dominated by the new governor, who is inspired by the best purposes and by the clean and able men who have made the party what it is today.

And we believe we speak for the rank and file of the republican party over the entire territory when we say that it is no more than just to demand of those who control the destinies of the party in New Mexico that they get together.

Unhappy Servia

Unhappy is the story that comes from Servia, where a king lives in fear such as even the czar cannot comprehend. In Russia the people who are loyal at least feel that their ruler is entitled to his throne. They admit that he is a weakling. They groan under their burdens. But they do not question the divine right of Nicholas to rule. But in Servia there is hatred and contempt for the man who won his throne by as foul a murder as ever disgraced a land. The stain does not wipe out.

King Peter surrounded himself with those whose hands are red with blood. They have been given the responsible positions, and the Servian monarch knows with a knowledge that must haunt him, that the fate of his predecessor may at any moment be his fate. To this day, King Peter is not recognized as a king by the United States, Great Britain, Holland, Italy and Greece, because he has not had the courage or power to drive from his court the regicides who murdered Alexander and his queen. Peter is regarded as a puppet occupant of a throne.

Students of European history say that it is only a question of time when there will be another tragedy in Servia, and another king will be violently gathered to his fathers. Unhappy Servia! A land of promise, with rich fields and mighty forests; with unlimited possibilities for growth and progress, it finds itself misgoverned, oppressed, poor, and ruled by a coward. Last night's telegrams seem to indicate that the end is approaching.

The City Beautiful

The El Paso News of yesterday has the following to say about that city. It should be of interest in Albuquerque:

The report of the work done in the way of beautifying the public school grounds of the city by the planting and cultivation of trees, rendered by Superintendent Farnham at Monday night's meeting of the school board, and published in brief in last night's News, is gratifying because of the inference that can reasonably be drawn that every child attending those schools, with a knowledge of the proverbial "three R's," is being taught an invaluable lesson, not included in the curriculum, viz., that trees and flowers and grass add beauty and that the beautiful should be cultivated. The lesson taught at the schools will be carried to the homes, with the result that there will be a tendency on the part of the children of El Paso, regardless of the desires of the parents, to make those homes beautiful. The cleanliness of the streets of Jerusalem was a proverb. It was explained that the cleanliness of the city was due to the fact that it was the never unfilled duty of each citizen to keep clean that portion of the street fronting his own home. In years to come, when the beauty of El Paso's residence streets shall be commented upon, the proud El Pasoan will explain that the beauty is due to the fact that the cultivation of trees and flowers and grasses is made a part of the education of every El Paso child.

Settling the Land

The following excellent showing of New Mexico's growth in rural settlement, is taken from the New Mexican, and must prove highly gratifying to every lover of the Sunshine Land:

During the month of February, 281 homestead entries were made in the Roswell land district. The Clayton land office has done more business since the 1st of December than any other land office in the United States, and entries at that office have run as high as 100 a day. At the Santa Fe land office, since January 1st of this year, 387 entries have been made, and at Las Cruces land office, since the reclamation service has taken hold of the Elephant Butte irrigation project, the land entries have broken all previous records, and yet there are still 52,000,000 acres of public land open to settlement in this territory. History has demonstrated again and again that the stream of immigration will continue to broaden and deepen as long as there remains an acre of public land, for the American people are land hungry. The work of the bureau of immigration is merely beginning to bear fruit, the harvest will be such as to make the growth of New Mexico during the next two decades a national marvel. A prediction of 500,000 inhabitants by the next census year is a moderate estimate, rather than a wild prophecy.

Taciturn News: There is a good deal of fuss being made in the territorial press about a proposed non-partisan constitutional convention. We do not see any possible advantage to be derived from a non-partisan, or maybe better, a non-political convention of any sort. We believe that no matter what the conditions may be when the convention assembles, if it ever does, that party lines may be drawn when the machinery begins to move. Better go about it the old way and then there will be no disappointment from either side of the questions.

The Citizen has received from Judge Juan Romero three documents which will prove of great interest to the farming population of this section. One is on the codding moth, one on the handling of dairy stock, and the third treats of the construction of small irrigating ditches. Those interested may get copies of those works which are sent out by the Department of Agriculture for free distribution, by calling at Judge Romero's store, on the old town plaza.

Raton has determined to run straight party tickets in the approaching city election. Some other towns are talking of fusion tickets; and some in Albuquerque are suggesting that there be no tickets put up by the people, but that a few bosses get together, select the men to fill the offices, and leave the people on election day either to stay at home and attend to their business affairs or a few of them to go to the polls and with perfunctory indifference condone what the bosses shall have done.

Foster's Latest

Weather Bulletin

Washington, D. C., March 8.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 6 to 10, warm wave 5 to 9, cool wave 8 to 12. Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 12, cross west of Rockies by close of 13, great central valleys 14 to 16, eastern states 17. Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about 13, great central valleys 14, eastern states 16. Cool wave will cross west of Rockies about 15, great central valleys 17, eastern states 19.

This disturbance will develop more than usual intensities; all weather features will be more prominent than usual. Temperatures will reach the top for this month as this disturbance approaches. Rainfall will increase and will be greater for next two weeks than for past two.

This warm wave will cause a general thaw farther north than is usual, and will promise an early spring, but the month will close cold, and the alternating frosts and thaws will not be good for winter wheat. We are approaching a season of unusually variable crop weather, so radical that corn, wheat, potatoes, flax, grass and cotton will depend on the nature of the soil to a greater extent than for years past. Some kinds of soil will not pay for the seed, and I again advise farmers not to sell good corn for less than 50 cents.

The success of crops this year will depend so largely upon the lay of the land and the quality of the soil that I cannot give good advice in a general letter, except to say that good crops will be produced where the soil fits the crop weather; that the corn crop will be one-fourth short of last year and that wheat will not come up to the average. Potatoes will not make more than a half crop.

Country Germany

Wants to Absorb

Brazil began the twentieth century with 17,000,000 people, a territory larger than that of the United States, and undeveloped resources surpassed by no country with the possible exception of the United States and China. Consul Seeger, reporting upon Brazil's commercial record for 1904-5, says:

Of all the South American countries Brazil is the most extensive. It contains an area of 3,200,000 square miles, is 2,630 miles long, 2,540 miles wide, and has a population of 17,000,000, mostly of Indian origin. It borders on every country of South America, except Chile. The rivers are numerous, among the largest being the Amazon, Madeira, Negro, Para, Tocantins, Parana and San Francisco. In the extreme northern part of the country are llanos, or grassy plains, on which roam millions of horses, many being caught and sold in the different markets of the world. Central Brazil, especially that part lying contiguous to the Amazon and its tributaries is called the selva or forest region; it abounds in Para rubber and palm trees, mahogany, and dyewoods. The eastern and southern parts form the great Brazilian plateau. On account of the climatic conditions and the fertility of the soil this section is especially adapted to the cultivation of the coffee tree, the production of sugar, cotton, tobacco, rice, and fruits. Among the minerals, besides gold and diamonds, iron of superior quality is abundant. The emerald, ruby, topaz, sapphire, garnet, and other precious stones are found in considerable quantities. Quite large quantities of corn and wheat are grown in the Amazon basin, but none for export.

Brazil is a country of varied and wonderful resources, and with the introduction of up-to-date methods its development could be extended so that within a few years it would produce enormously and take high rank among the leading commercial countries of the world. The export trade is increasing at a very rapid rate, especially in that of rubber, which amounts to millions of dollars annually. The introduction of the bicycle, automobile and other rubber-tired vehicles, has given the rubber production an impetus that has caused it to forge to the front as the leading export of the country. The coffee trade is being extended and has a very healthy growth. The United States buys 50 per cent of the coffee exported, which amounted to $46,922,974 during the year ended June 30, 1904. Of the three leading countries that sold their products to Brazil in 1904 Great Britain ranks first, with $34,976,265, or 28 per cent of the total amount; Germany second, with $15,915,118, or 12 per cent; the United States, $14,041,970, or 11 per cent. The great disparity in the amount of goods sold by Great Britain and the United States to Brazil presents a problem that must be studied by the manufacturers and exporters of this country if their trade with that and the other South American countries is to be extended.

Many millions of dollars were borrowed in Europe during the year 1904. For the improvement of the harbor at Rio de Janeiro a loan of $15,000,000 was negotiated, and larger amounts were borrowed for productive purposes. In 1896 the price of the gold dollar fluctuated from 4.883 to 6.380 milreis; in 1904 the fluctuation ranged from 2.636 to 4.217 milreis.

In recent years a large amount of foreign capital has been invested in Brazilian enterprises, especially in the city of Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, and in the southern states. German capitalists have established steamship lines for coast service, and American and Canadian capitalists have acquired the car lines, gas works and telephone service at Rio de Janeiro, the money invested being estimated at $25,000,000.

Apple of Discord

Why all this talk about Castro and the asphalt trust? Why did the president send Judge Calhoun to Venezuela to go over the whole case? Here is an insignificant South American republic whose president seems to stir up both Europe and the United States. The country has little or no commerce, no industries, no rich gold and silver mines—why then, such an ado about it all? The reason is— asphalt. Venezuela has enough bitumen to pave all the streets of the United States with the most perfect covering which has yet been devised. Bornandez "lake," the home of all the contention, is in the midst of a tropical jungle, but its thousand acres of oozing asphalt constitute one of the most valuable pieces of property in the world. Asphalt is to be obtained in great quantities in Trinidad, and there are smaller bodies of it in California, Texas and elsewhere, but this Venezuelan tract, by common consent, has the finest grade of asphalt for paving which has yet been discovered.

Some idea of what this deposit means may be gathered from the growth of asphalt paving. Twenty-five years ago, about twelve miles, or less than one-fifth of one per cent of the paved streets of the cities of the United States were paved with asphalt. Today this luxurious pavement is spread over twenty-five hundred miles of streets in the United States, embracing an area approximating 14,000,000 square yards. This represents an original investment of $100,000,000, and including the cost of repairs and re-surfacing, a total outlay of not less than $150,000,000.

No wonder, then, that the possession of Venezuela's great source of supply is considered such a rich prize. The Bornandez asphalt deposit is an immense morass of pitch covered here and there by patches of vegetation. As fast as the pitch or asphalt is dug out a new supply oozes up from below. From the "lake," lying about eighteen miles from the mouth of the San Juan river, the asphalt is carried by private railroad six miles to the head of navigation on the river. Here great deposits of asphalt are formed as the cars arrive from the lake. Afterwards the asphalt is transferred from these temporary deposits to steamers, especially constructed to transport it to this country.

SPRING RACING

IS CERTAIN

If Traction Park Track Can Be Secured at Reasonable Rental Price.

SO SAYS ALBUQUERQUE HORSEMAN

The Mesa Agricultural Park association did not meet last night as per arrangement, owing to the absence of a number of the members. In speaking of the matter of a spring race meet, one of Albuquerque's foremost horsemen, who is also a member of the above association, said:

"The matter of a spring race meet for Albuquerque has about resolved itself into the problem as to whether we can secure the Traction Park race track or not, and at what figure. We have had several conferences with the Traction company people, but as yet nothing definite has been decided upon. We are now awaiting the return of Colonel Greep to confer with him again relative to the matter."

Colonel Greep left last night for Omaha, Neb., in company with his brother, Julian Greep, to inspect and witness the performances of the company that is to play at Casino hall here during the summer, and of which Julian Greep is manager. He will be absent from the city a week or ten days, and pending his return nothing further can be done.

The secretary of the Western Spring Racing association at Denver, went on the horseman, referred to above, "will pass through Albuquerque within the next few days en route west as far as Los Angeles, for the purpose of arranging dates, and it looks as though we would be unable to give him any definite news as to whether we were in a condition to have a spring meet or not."

"Of course, we may be able to get him to leave open dates for us, but it would be much better if we could give him a definite answer, and secure our dates on the spot. As I said, the whole matter now rests on securing a track. We can't race without a track, no matter how much money we subscribe, but I think that we will be able to secure the Traction Park track upon the return of Colonel Greep, and at a reasonable figure, at that."

It seems to be conceded by all Albuquerqueans interested in the racing game, that a larger number of horses can be secured for a spring meet than could possibly be secured for a fall meet, and the horsemen and lovers of the sport are therefore anxious to have the spring meet.

Joseph Barnett has stated that he will bring his string of five horses here if Albuquerque has a spring meet, and horsemen who have been campaigning at the California and Colorado tracks during the winter, have written here asking about a spring meet, and saying that they would bring their strings here in the event of a meet.

Last year's spring race meet was a success from every point of view, and all those subscribing, got not only their money back, but several hundred dollars besides, which, to the credit of those having the matter in charge, was donated to charity, and there is no reason why Albuquerque should not have a meet this year just as successful as was last year's meet. Horsemen here in general are much interested in the matter and a spring meet will be held if a track can possibly be secured.

REGISTRATION WILL BEGIN

SATURDAY, MARCH 10.
Registration offices for the registration of voters for the coming city election will open Saturday, March 10th, and continue two days thereafter, at the following places in the different wards:

First Ward—E. L. Washburn's clothing store, on Second street.
Second Ward—Harsch Bottling works office, on Second street.
Third Ward—Harry Johnson's bicycle store, on Second street.
Fourth Ward—Matson's Book store, on West Railroad avenue.

After the ten days' registration period the books will be withdrawn for one day while the registration boards canvass the lists, after which they will be re-posted for six days, so that all who have failed to register may have an opportunity to do so.

CORONER'S INQUEST OVER REMAINS OF PAXTON CONCLUDED

Many Witnesses Examined This Morning--Railroad Employees Are Exonerated But Company Requested to Lessen Speed of Trains in the City Limits.

Territory of New Mexico, County of Bernalillo:

We, the undersigned, justice of the peace and jury, sitting as an inquest held on the remains of J. William Paxton, found in precinct No. 12, Bernalillo county, that that deceased came to his death on the 6th day of March, 1936, by being struck and killed by engine No. 1203, of the A. T. & S. F. Ry. company, while in charge of Engineer Archibald and Fireman Stevens. And we further find that the speed maintained in entering the city limits of Albuquerque is dangerous to life and property, and we recommend that the city council require the railroad to reduce the speed of incoming and outgoing trains, and that the railroad place a watchman at said Mountain road crossing, as we find it dangerous on account of the location of the woolen mills.

(Signed:) B. RUPPE, Foreman.
MELVILLE R. SUMMERS, JOHN HART, L. GRADY, ANTONIO ARMijo, EDWIN HALE, A. J. CRAWFORD, J. P. and Acting Coroner.
 Albuquerque, New Mexico, March 8, 1936.

The coroner's inquest into the death of J. W. Paxton, who was killed by the California limited train No. 3, at the woolen mill crossing, Tuesday morning, was resumed in police court this morning. Judge Crawford sat as coroner.

What the Evidence Shows.

Several witnesses were sworn for the people, the engineer and fireman of the limited composing those who testified in behalf of the railroad company.

The people's evidence, for the most part, showed that the engineer of the train that killed Paxton, did not blow either the long blast for the station nor the four blasts for the crossing; in the case of the two witnesses for the territory, however, it was shown that at least one of the witnesses who testified was not in the position to see the train as it passed the station, and whether it was the station or crossing blast is not known. It developed that two sharp blasts were tooted when nearly to the crossing, that the train was moving unusually rapidly, that an incline and sliding with freight cars on it prevented a view of the tracks to persons proceeding along the Mountain road in a westerly direction until nearly on the tracks; that Paxton applied the whip to the mules he was driving as he glanced down the Santa Fe right of way, the train hitting him almost simultaneously, and that the mules shied about a second previous to this movement on the part of Paxton to strike them. The engineer and fireman's testimony showed that the station and crossing blasts were blown; that the engineer did not see the deceased or his mules as they drove onto the track, but the fireman did; that the train was running between twenty and twenty-five miles an hour at the time and that the train did not stop until the station was reached.

The first witness called was James Wilkinson of the woolen scouring mill. Mr. Wilkinson said he was in his office at the time of the fatality. The mill was not in operation and all was quiet. He heard the limited sound what he called the "incoming" whistle about 100 yards above the Mountain Road crossing. Attorney Frank Moore, who examined witnesses for the people, asked Mr. Wilkinson how he happened to be so sure that he heard the whistle on this particular occasion, and the reply was that it was time for the limited, all was quiet and he heard it. Mr. Wilkinson did not witness the tragedy.

H. B. Kenebeck Examined.

The next witness examined was H. B. Kenebeck, engineer at the woolen mill. Mr. Kenebeck said he was standing in the engine room doorway at the time. He saw Paxton drive along the road toward the tracks. The mules were trotting. As he ascended the incline at the tracks and got past the box car on the siding to the east of the main right of way, Kenebeck testified that Paxton looked north on the tracks. At this moment the mules shied and as Paxton brought the whip onto their hides the collision occurred. Kenebeck described the accident. He said he did not see the whip afterwards, which is regarded as very important by the railroad company in lieu of the testimony offered by the engineer, in substance that he found the whip in its socket on the wagon seat on the east of the locomotive when he reached the round house. How Paxton could be using the whip on the mules at the time the train struck him and the finding of it in the socket, as claimed by the engineer is a mystery no one is able to solve. The train was going at a rapid rate, Kenebeck said. He heard one toot of the locomotive just before the collision, but no other whistle. Kenebeck said the machinery in the mill was inactive and he heard no bell of the locomotive ringing.

Miss Olivia Kenebeck's Story.

Miss Olivia Kenebeck, a stenographer at the woolen mill and daughter of the engineer, was in the mill office when she heard the limited coming. She stepped to a window too late to see the collision, but just in time to see the wagon, mules and man flying through the air and see the train pass on in a cloud of dust. It was running faster than usual, she said. She did not hear the locomotive whistle, and did not think it blew.

What Manuel Lucero Saw.

Manuel Lucero, an employee at the woolen mill, was at work outside, near the factory, about twenty feet from the tracks. He heard the whistle blow when some distance away. He did not see the collision, but saw what followed. Lucero was stooping over at work and did not see the man and wagon reach the scene.

A. G. Boone's Account.

A. G. Boone is a taller in charge of the third floor of the woolen mill. Hearing two sharp whistles he looked out of a window and saw the wreck flying through the air. He did not hear the incoming whistle. There was just about "an instant" between the whistles and collision. The train was moving along very fast.

Mrs. Gonzales Saw It.

Mrs. J. N. Gonzales, of Jones street, was standing in her yard, when Paxton passed along the road, driving very fast. She watched the train leave in sight. She did not hear it whistle and did not think it did. The witness testified that Paxton did not use his whip, which substantiates the statement of the engineer about finding it in the wagon seat socket. She said Paxton drove up the incline and limited smashed into the wagon. Miss Elsie Schroeder was called, but she denied seeing the accident or of hearing the limited approach or blow his whistle. "I did not hear or see anything," she said.

Engineer Archibald.

Engineer Byron Archibald, who was at the throttle of the limited's locomotive, No. 1203, when he ran down and killed Paxton, was then called. He testified to blowing the whistle at the station post and at the crossing post. They are close together, hence the whistles were likewise. He could see nothing wrong, when the fireman yelled, "Look out!" The switches were all right. All he saw was a mule fly through the air and land on his side of the track. The fireman was behind the boiler catching his breath. When he got it again, he said they had struck a mule hitched to a wagon, with a man driving. By that time he had reached the brewery, and continued on to the station. Archibald said that if he had been outside of the city he would have stopped and picked up the injured, but he thought time could be made by notifying the switch engine men at the station. He found the wagon seat with the whip in its socket, resting on the pilot of the engine, when he reached the round house. Archibald said the train was running between twenty and twenty-five miles an hour when the collision took place. The time limit within the city limits is six miles an hour, but he said he did not know where the city limits were. At the brewery the train was moving twelve miles an hour. Trains run anywhere from twenty to seventy miles an hour, he said. He stated that he could have stopped the train had he seen the danger 400 feet away. It was not over five seconds after the fireman saw the wagon on the track that the train struck it. A minute and a half after whistling for the crossing, the crossing was reached. Fireman Earl Stevens' story substantiated that of the engineer.

Attorney E. W. Dobson looked after the interests of the railroad company, and gave all witnesses a rigid examination.

The jury quickly reached a verdict, which is given in full at the beginning of this account. It was then discharged, with the thanks of Coroner Crawford.

BURGLARS ARE ABOUT AGAIN

Newcomer's Stationary Store and New York Saloon Visited Last Night.

NO CLUE TO IDENTITY OF THIEVES

Burglars were about again last evening. They visited two places of business and made a haul at each place. S. E. Newcomer's book and stationary store was one of the places "looted" and the New York saloon the other. At the Newcomer store the thieves secured an entrance by forcing the rear door. They evidently took their time in inspecting the place, for they helped themselves to nothing but valuable articles.

Two dozen gold mounted fountain pens were stolen, together with a stamp box, containing a few stamps and about 75 cents in cash. A number of costly pipes were also taken, just how many Mr. Newcomer is unable to say. The pens were valued at $50 and the pipes probably will represent a loss of about $25.

Mr. Newcomer discovered the burglary upon visiting the store this morning, and notified the police. No arrests have been made as yet.

New York Saloon Robbery.

In effecting an entrance to the New York saloon on South Second street, the thieves opened a rear window. They confined their operations to a slot machine once inside. Opening a drawer in the side bar a bunch of keys were found, one of which fitted the money compartment to the machine. Between $10 and $15 was found in the cash receptacle, which it is perhaps unnecessary to say was removed.

The police are making a determined effort to locate the offenders but with no success, thus far.

Tried to Steal a Harness.

Officer Highbarger caught sight of a man, late last night, making off with a set of harness. The policeman gave chase and in his flight the would be thief dropped the harness and made his escape. It proved to be the property of the Albuquerque Carriage company, which was inadvertently left hanging outside of the store when it closed last night.

ENDS A LIFE OF SUFFERING

Herman Necker, a German, Tires of Fighting Tuberculosis.

SENDS BULLET INTO HIS BRAIN

My Dear Wife—Forgive me, if I ever will do it, but you know what I have suffered, and I can't stand it any longer. I stood this all for you. Goodbye when the time comes. So goodbye, wife, and baby—Your Husband and Father.

Weary of the struggle against the "dread white plague," that was slowly eating his life away; distracted with the anguish of his sufferings, and realizing that he was but a detriment to the faithful wife and little son, who shared his poverty, Herman Necker, a German, 29 years of age, last night, between 8:15 and 9 o'clock, fired a 32-caliber bullet into his brain, the ball entering his head just above the right ear, and ranging slightly downwards, lodged just beneath the skin of the left eye, causing instant death.

Necker was born in Neustrelitz, Germany, and came to America about seventeen years ago. He was a carpenter by trade, but some three years ago contracted consumption. Leaving his home in Iowa, he went to Colorado for the benefit of his health. Not improving any, he came to Albuquerque about one year ago, moving into the cottage at 1207 Williams street, where he has since lived. For the past four months the unfortunate man had been confined to his bed. His wife and 3-year-old son occupied the little home of two rooms, with him. Being without funds, the wife took in washing and did housework, that she might secure for him the comforts of life, medicine and a doctor's care.

Daily, the sick man grew weaker, and daily his sufferings increased. Daily, he realized the hopelessness of the struggle, and daily his mind reverted to the fact that the faithful wife was only hampered by his presence. Often he talked to the little wife of suicide.

"It's no use, dear; I can't get well, and I can't stand my sufferings. Some day I will end it all. It will be better for you."

One day when he had brooded over his troubles, his sickness and his sufferings, he wrote the note that heads this article. His mind was made up. Some day he would do the deed, not in imagination, but in reality. Some day, when the chance presented itself.

Yesterday evening, about 8:15 o'clock his wife left him for a few moments, while she ran over to Mrs. Robinson's, the next door neighbor, who had been caring for their little boy, to get the child. Knowing that she had left her husband resting easy, she remained a few moments to chat with her neighbor.

Now was the opportune time for the husband. In the next room lying at the bottom of a trunk, was a revolver. He knew it was there, for he had found his wife removing it, saying that she would need it after he was gone. Dragging his emaciated body from the sick bed, he crawled into this room, secured the revolver, and returned to the bed. Exhausted from the exertion, he lay quiet for a few moments, gathering strength for the next move in the tragedy.

Taking the note that he had written some days before, from his hiding place beneath his pillow, he secured a pencil from the table that stood at the head of his bed, and added the following words, on the reverse side of the paper:

To My Wife—It will make it easier all around, for both of us. My real sufferings are just beginning. I hope God will bless you and the baby, and forgive me. You are not to blame. Goodbye, darling—H. N.

All was now in readiness. Raising the pistol, with a steady hand, he pulled the trigger. The revolver dropped from his hand as the bullet sped into his brain. No one heard the shot, and the wife, returning just before 9 o'clock, thought her husband asleep. Approaching him, she noticed that his head was lying on a box, which supported a cuspidor, standing at the bedside, and in attempting to place him in a more comfortable position, discovered that he was dead. Looking around, she saw the pistol, where it had fallen behind this box. Then she knew that he whom she loved, and who had suffered so long and patiently, was at last at rest.

Hastily summoned neighbors telephoned for the police, who in turn called an undertaker, and the curtain fell once more upon the last act of the tragedy of a life.

The funeral arrangements have as yet not been completed, but it is stated that the ceremonies will take place tomorrow.

AN OUTLINE OF THE ELECTION LAW OF 1905, Which Provides That All Candidates Must Run Under True Colors. INDEPENDENT TICKETS ALLOWED

Owing to the fact that a number of citizens of Albuquerque have expressed themselves as being unfamiliar with the election law of 1905, in its relation to city elections, a synopsis of the act, which was approved March 16, 1905, is given below:

The First Paragraph.

The first paragraph provides that no candidate named by one political convention can be named by any other political convention; in other words, every candidate must run under his true colors, and cannot have his name printed on a republican ballot and on a democratic ballot, or any other ballot also. All names of candidates must be filed with the probate clerk of the county, he alone having authority to order the ballots printed. It shall be unlawful for any one else to have such ballots printed. Any ticket can be scratched, however, and any name on the ticket erased and any name desired substituted, even if such name appears on another ballot.

The Second Paragraph.

The second paragraph provides for the filing of the party emblem with the territorial secretary within thirty days after the passage of the act, by the territorial chairman of each party. Any territorial convention can change its emblem by adopting any emblem it chooses, provided that emblem is not in use by some other party. If an emblem has not been filed with the secretary, any convention or primary of a party may select an emblem, and it is the duty of the first territorial convention held thereafter by the party, to adopt and file such emblem as selected.

The Third Paragraph.

The third paragraph provides for the printing of the ballots at the expense of the county, by the county recorder. No person or candidate shall accept nomination to more than one office, or by more than one party. Every ballot shall be headed with the party emblem. All ballots shall be of the same grade of paper and the same size, and each ballot shall be endorsed on the back with the fac simile signature of the county recorder. Any person violating any parts of the above act shall be considered guilty of a felony, and upon conviction, shall be punished by confinement in the territorial penitentiary for a period of from one to five years.

Independent Tickets Allowed.

Contrary to the popular supposition the above act does not prohibit independent tickets, for any primary or convention can adopt a party name and emblem, so long as the name and emblem is not in use by any other party, and can print thereon the names of its candidates, provided the names thus printed do not appear on any other ticket or ballot. The object of this law is to prevent the deception of those voters who cannot read, as well as to overcome the tendency to fraud, as practiced under the law of 1903, when names of candidates appeared under the emblems of the opposing party.

Time of Elections.
In all other respects the law of 1903 prevails, which provides for biennial city elections on the first Tuesday of April, of even numbered years, at which time a mayor, city clerk, city treasurer, one alderman and one member of the board of education from each ward, shall be elected, the city officials, hold office for two years, and aldermen and school board members for four years. Upon other matters in this connection, the provisions of the compiled laws of 1897 prevail. These provisions make it the duty of the city council to appoint judges and clerks of the election and to designate polling places. Returns of the election shall be made to the city clerk and shall be opened by him on the third day after election, in the presence of the mayor, or in the event that the mayor has been a candidate, then in the presence of a justice of the peace.

THE CLOSE OBSERVER MAKES MORE OBSERVATIONS

ON THE LACK OF FIRE ESCAPES ON HOTEL AND ROOMING HOUSE BUILDINGS IN ALBUQUERQUE.

"I'd like to call your attention," said the Close Observer, as he buttonholed the Scribe, "to the lack of fire escapes, provided for by a city ordinance, on these hotel and rooming house buildings in the city of Albuquerque. For myself, I live in a one-story bungalow, and need no fire escapes, but I love my fellowman, and I like to see human life held at its true value, and on a par, at least, with the Almighty Dollar. 'Now take that building for instance,' went on the C. O., as they passed a three-story building. 'The third floor of that building is devoted to hotel purposes. There is a front stairway, and a narrow side stairway, true, but how on earth could people on the third floor escape if a fire should destroy the stairways before they made their escape by them? It would mean jump or burn, and either way would result disastrously for the guests thus cooped up. Why, that place would be a veritable death trap if a fire should break out on the first or second floor and destroy the stairways.'"

"Here is another one," went on the C. O., as they passed a three-story hotel building on First street. "One stairway leading from the second floor to the street, one rear stairway, and not a fire escape. Same thing here as at the first one I told you about, a death trap, in case of a fire destroying these stairways on the second floor before the third floor guests had made use of them."

"And here is another," as they continued down First street. "A two-story hotel with one little narrow front stairway. No fire escape here. Down on West Railroad avenue there are some more just like it; a stairway, but no fire escapes."

"Why, say, half of them haven't even got a rope in the room for you to slide down in case of being cut off from the stairways. I know, I've slept in some of them. I'm going to call the attention of the people who are supposed to enforce these city ordinances to the flagrant ignorance."

But once again the luckless Scribe managed to make his escape.

THE GOOD THINGS STATEHOOD PROMISE

The Roswell Tribune gives half a dozen reasons why we should have statehood. Read them. They are good ones:

First—We have practically no representation in congress. If statehood carries, we get two able senators, two members of congress and an entire judiciary elected by the people.

Second—We get $5,000,000 public school fund.

Third—We get 24,000,000 acres of public lands, worth $100,000,000.

Fourth—We get $150,000 for the expenses of the constitutional convention.

Fifth—We get $500,000 for expenses of the state elections, all of which will be spent in the new state, which, with other donations, will put $1,000,000 more in circulation in the new state.

Sixth—Our taxes will be reduced one-half and capital and immigration will flow in from every quarter of the United States.

Seventh—The great state of Arizona will regulate transportation, and instead of being taxed double rates on freights over Texas and California, we can demand and enforce transportation rates, which will put us on an equal basis with Texas and California.

RICHEST WOMAN GIVES SOCIETY A FIERCE SNUB

MRS. WEIGHTMAN WALKER, OF PHILADELPHIA, WITH $50,000,000 TO THE GOOD, WILL LIVE OVER A STORE—DOES IT TO SHOW HER CONTEMPT OF MODERN SNOBBERY—MADE HER MAD BY TELLING HER WHAT SHE "OWED SOCIETY."

Philadelphia, March 8.—Mrs. Annie Weightman Walker, said to be the richest woman in America and telfress to the $50,000,000 left by William Weightman, the quinine king, of Philadelphia and New York, is going to live over a store.

The announcement has fallen with the force of a thunderclap on society in New York, Philadelphia and London. The dream that Mrs. Weightman Walker's millions were to fall in a golden stream over society is shattered.

It is not altogether the motive of economy or the desire to add to her little income of $2,000,000 a year that has influenced Mrs. Walker in her action. She said to her business representative just before her departure for the west:

"When the provisions of my father's will were made known, the first thing that I heard after the period of mourning was over was of the duty I owed to society. On every hand this was dinned into my ears. It wasn't long before I discovered that I was expected to do my duty by watering society with gold."

"This was not exactly my own view of my position. I have vainly tried to make my friends understand that, having been a practical business woman for a number of years, I intended to remain a business woman. My mental horizon is not bounded by a house at Newport, a house in New

Mrs. Weightman Walker and the house that will contain a store.

York, and a third establishment in Park lane. I had not the slightest intention of paying tribute in London to the crowd of female harpies, titled and untitled, who find their chief source of income in the ambitious American woman.

"I can testify to my contempt for the modern snobbery of the four hundred, which affects to despise trade, by turning the basement and first floor of my home, 1325 and 1328 Walnut street, into a store, and 'living over the shop.'

The Weightman homestead in Walnut street, one of the famous landmarks of Philadelphia, is in a section where the gradual trend of business is driving out what, until a few years ago, was an exclusively residential quarter.

Mrs. Jones Wistar, the half-sister of Mrs. Weightman Walker, whose suit to break the will is pending in the probate court, retains her position as the social leader of Philadelphia. Mrs. Weightman will live over the shop and she retains the millions.
