STATEHOOD CAUCUS THURSDAY

Special to Evening Citizen.

Washington, March 13.—Sufficient names have been secured to call a house republican caucus on the statehood bill at 3 o'clock on Thursday. It seems probable that Speaker Cannon will be sustained and the result may be to force four states into the union at the next session of congress. Oklahoma is 20,000 democratic, and its admission, without an offset, might change the presidency and the political complexion of the next house. Many say that the result will be a considerable danger that the Colorado incident might be repeated. The talk is growing stronger daily in favor of admitting New Mexico to counteract Oklahoma in the senate.

Senator Knox has reported favorably the bill creating a fifth judicial district for Arizona.

Delegate Anderson has been assured of a $25,000 fish hatchery for the upper Pecos river.

Action in Senate.

Washington, March 13.—The senate today authorized the erection of a federal building at Denver to cost $2,300,000.

Connections at Crossings.

When the senate convened today, Scott presented an amendment to the railroad rate bill, requiring railroads to make connection with intersecting lines, with proper facilities for the transfer of business and the exchange of cars.

WHAT HOUSE DID.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—The committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce today decided to make a favorable report on the Townsend joint resolution, providing for an appropriation of $50,000 to enable the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate railroads and other monopolies under the Tillman-Gillespie joint resolution. The resolution also corrects the defects in the Tillman-Gillespie resolution pointed out by the president.

Big Appropriation Bill.

The house began the consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill today. The bill carries a total appropriation of $29,134,181.

Caucus Not Till Thursday.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—On account of the reception here tomorrow night to Governor Pennypacker of Pennsylvania, the republican statehood caucus has been postponed until Thursday afternoon.

NAVY PROBABLY GET

LEFT IN APPROPRIATIONS. Washington, D. C., March 13.—Because of an utter lack of "team work" between the navy department and congress the present session of congress promises to go by with little accomplished for the navy. The house committee on naval affairs has decided to report on the Townsend resolution in estimates for the next fiscal year, when the state of the revenues do not permit such an appropriation for the navy power. The committee has already cut about $20,000,000 out of the total. Members say they dislike to do this, as it would have been better for the department to have used the knife before the estimates were sent to congress.

When reported the naval bill will carry between $38,000,000 and $40,000,000. The members of the house anticipate additions of $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 by the senate. The house committee is still at sea regarding naval increase. The navy department has furnished nothing but division of opinion as to whether the next battleship should be 18,000 tons or more, like the British Dreadnought, recently launched. Not only has the department not yet advised the committee of the type of the one battleship there is a chance of having authorized, but no final decision has been reached as to the specifications, nor have contracts been made for the building of the Michigan and the South Carolina, authorized more than one year ago.

MRS. LONGWORTH'S DOG

ATTRACTION AT SHOW. Buffalo, N. Y., March 13.—"Fashion" the Boston terrier, which Millionaire Stillman bought for $1,500 and presented to Miss Alice Roosevelt, now Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, as a wedding present, will be one of the attractions at the dog show which opens here tonight at City Convention hall, under the auspices of the Buffalo Kennel club. The number of entries is unusually large this year and some of the finest dogs that have won first prizes at the exhibitions in New York and Boston will be shown here. The classification has been much enlarged this year and, while two or three breeds have been left out, more than a dozen new ones have been added to the list. The entries in the St. Bernard, Great Dane, Dalmatian and Russian Wolf hounds are represented by a number of their finest specimens. In addition to the regular list of prizes a number of special prizes in the form of cups and trophies have been offered for the best exhibits in a number of the principal classes.

TO STIFFEN BACK BONE OF CONGRESS ON CONSULAR REFORM

Grand Convention in Washington Begins Today
With Purpose of Improving American Consular Service From Top to Bottom.

ALL PROMINENT COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL

Organizations and Civic Associations, With Few Exceptions, Have Representatives There—Want Service Placed Under Rule of Promotion by Qualification.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—Nearly every prominent commercial and industrial organization in the country, as well as nearly every civic organization of prominence will be represented by delegates in the Consular Reform convention, which opens here today. The great interest shown by the public in general and the civic and commercial interests of the country in particular, proves beyond doubt that the necessity of a thorough reform in our consular system is fully appreciated and that the time has come when the people will insist upon such measures as are considered necessary to raise our consular system and service to a higher standard of usefulness.

As far back as last autumn, Mr. Frank S. Gardner, secretary of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, corresponded with Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, asking him, whether Senator Lodge intended to renew in the Fifty-ninth congress his efforts made in the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth congresses, to get a bill passed, reorganizing the consular service of the United States upon a rational basis of appointment and promotion. In his reply, Senator Lodge seemed to be much discouraged over the outlook of getting any favorable action by congress on the subject. He said that he had repeatedly succeeded in getting his bills out of committees, but that, after that had been done, he had never been adequately supported by the commercial organizations of the country. As a result of the correspondence Senator Lodge took up the matter with President Roosevelt and Secretary Root, and Mr. Gardner himself took it up with the secretary of state. The result of the correspondence was a thorough consular reform and it was agreed to call a convention of representatives of the various commercial bodies in the country, for the purpose of obtaining concerted support for any reform measures in regard to the consular service, which should meet with the approval of the convention. Secretary Gardner sent out the call for a convention and the commercial and other organizations of the country to whom invitations were sent, responded promptly by appointing delegates to the convention.

Among the prominent men who are here as delegates to the convention are the following: Guy Van Arman, George Frederick Victor, Daniel P. Morse, George B. Armstrong and Leo Alexander, representing the Merchants Association of New York; J. Harry Tregoe, former president Law League of America, Philadelphia; General Francis V. Green and Ansley Wilcox, representing the Buffalo, N. Y., chamber of commerce, and many others.

It is proposed at this convention to create a permanent national committee on consular reform to supplement and make effective the work of the National Consular Reform convention, the committee to consist of one member from each organization in the United States, favoring consular reform, or, at least one member from each congressional district. The idea is that each member of the national committee shall carry out in his own state and congressional district the purpose of the convention to secure satisfactory legislation by congress.

One of the subjects that will come up for discussion in the convention is the consular reform bill, now before congress. It has already passed the senate and is in the hands of the house committee on foreign affairs. One of the sections of the bill provides for the appointment of five inspectors of consulates, to be known as "consular general agents," who shall receive each $5,000 a year and traveling expenses. These officials shall have a roving commission to go around the world inspecting consulates and, vested with the authority to supplant the resident consuls, taking over their offices and clearing out the entire forces of their offices. There are a great many features to that bill, which make it highly unpopular in the house and also objectionable to the commercial and industrial interests of the country. The bill will be thoroughly considered and discussed and it is expected that the action of the house will be to a great extent influenced by the decision of the Consular Reform convention in the matter.

The sessions of the convention are held in the New Willard and the convention will be in session for two days.

DECLARES AGAINST PURCHASING WATER COMPANY'S PLANT

Interesting Meeting of Good Government League
Held Last Night—W. S. Burke Voted "No" Against Adoption of Important Resolution.

ALDERMAN HARRISON GAVE SIGNIFICANT FACTS

Last night at the meeting of the Good Government League the following resolution was introduced by S. Vann: "RESOLUTION OF THE ALLEGED CONDITION OF THE WATER COMPANY'S PROPERTY, THAT IT WAS THE SENSE OF THIS MEETING, AS AN ORGANIZATION, THAT WE SHOULD NOT VOTE FOR THE PURCHASE OF THE WATER COMPANY'S PLANT."

The resolution was unanimously carried, with only one dissenting vote, that being W. S. Burke, editor of the Morning Journal, and who was there to do the bidding of his masters.

The Fakir misrepresented Facts. Our esteemed morning contemporary, better known all over the southwest as the Albuquerque Fakir Journal, had W. S. Burke, its editor, at the meeting of the Good Government League last night, and that paper, in its account of the meeting, clearly faked the sentiments of the members present when it states that "the discussion last night showed that there is a pretty general sentiment in favor of purchasing the water system."

The proceedings. Pursuant to call, published in a small local paragraph in The Evening Citizen, about forty members of the Good Government League met last night at Red Men's hall on Gold avenue for the purpose of discussing important matters pertaining to the future of this city, especially the purchase of the Water company's property at the price which a majority of the members of the city council declared for $250,000, but which every fair minded man in the city has repeatedly declared an exorbitant price.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—A committee of five, representing telegraphers and station agents of the Southern railway, last night agreed to accept the wage scale of that road. The scale does not contemplate a minimum or a maximum wage but has been adjusted with a view of fitting each individual case.

SLIPPERY TRACK CAUSE
DEATH AND INJURY. Omaha, Neb., March 13.—In a collision today between two street cars one man, Jacob Paulson, watchman, was killed and seven persons were injured. The injured are: Mrs. Rich, who will die; Freda Hoffman Albricht, aged 38, arm crushed, ribs crushed and will probably die; Ella Anderson, age 4, badly hurt, may die; Joe Rykhar, internal injuries; Mary Maloney, bruised and internally injured. Slippery rails were responsible for the accident.

STOCKHOLDERS VOTE TO BUY OTHER RAILROADS. Philadelphia, Pa., March 13.—The stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad company will hold a meeting at Horticultural Hall this afternoon for the purpose of receiving and considering the annual report of the road and of acting upon the agreement in connection with the absorption of the Allegheny Valley, the Southwest Pennsylvania and the York Haven & Rowena railroads.

There will be another meeting of the stockholders on March 27, when four new directors will be elected.

Later Information Received. The principal business transacted today at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania railroad was the adoption of a resolution authorizing the acquisition of additional lines. For this purpose the directors authorized an issue from time to time of the remainder of the capital stock, which amounts to $18,000,000. The roads to be acquired are the Southwest Pennsylvania, which extends through the coal region of West Virginia to Connellsville, and the Uniontown, York Haven & Rowena railroad, and the Allegheny Valley railroad.

IOWA PREY OF SNOW STORM

At Hamburg Wind Drives Sea in Harbor and Inundates Houses.

Salt Lake, Utah, March 13.—From midnight until daylight, Salt Lake was in the grasp of the worst storm in years. Beginning with a drizzling rain, the wind, which at times blew sixty miles an hour, followed. Signs were wrenched from their fastenings, chimneys were shattered, and in some instances roofs were carried away, and great damage was done to uncompleted buildings. The telephone companies are paralyzed, but one wire out of Salt Lake being workable. The wind was followed by one of the fiercest blizzards ever experienced here. Street car traffic was almost impossible this morning.

STREET CARS AND

Des Moines, March 13.—A heavy snow storm struck Iowa early today and increased rapidly in severity. Street car traffic is badly impeded, and the interruption of train service is threatened.

SHIPS DRIVEN ASHORE
AND COUNTRY FLOODED. Hamburg, March 13.—A hurricane is blowing water into the harbor and flooding the houses and also driving vessels ashore. The country down the Elbe is flooded, while the land batteries are continuously firing alarms as the landmarks are not visible owing to the severe storm.

OKLAHOMA'S LIVE STOCK SHOW LARGELY ATTENDED

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 13.—The Midland Valley Live Stock show opened here today and the city is filled with western cattlemen, who have come here to see the exhibition of cattle and also to attend the convention of cattlemen which will be held here this week. It is the intention to form a state organization at this convention, for the purpose of erecting suitable exhibition buildings and holding in them two exhibitions every year; a hog and agricultural exhibition in the fall and a cattle show in the spring. The location of the buildings to be erected will be determined by the convention and the city funds will be raised so as to have the buildings ready for the exposition in the fall of this year.

An interesting feature in connection with the cattle show will be the last roping contest that will probably ever be held in the southwest, or anywhere else. It will be entirely under the management of Ellison Carroll and O. L. Gibson of Mangum. Carroll is the champion cow roper of the world. The sport has been prohibited by law in the other territories and Oklahoma is the only place where it is still permitted. If statehood should come, this sport will probably be prohibited as it is in all other states and territories. Entries for the contest have been sent from South America and Australia and an interesting contest is expected. Beside the champion ship of the world a prize of $1,000 will be given to the winner. Carroll will make the effort of his life to retain the championship.

FUNERALS HELD BY HUNDREDS

St. Petersburg, March 13.—This city has been free, so far, from the carnival of robbery and murder prevalent in the interior cities, but was today the scene of a daring robbery in broad daylight. A dozen men, armed with revolvers, entered the government spirits distillery, on Schilling embankment, held up the employees, rifled the safe, and escaped.

COUNTLESS CASTELLANE

Paris, March 13.—Countess Foni de Castellane, accompanied by Edmond Kelly, her lawyer, today appeared before Judge Dittre, president of the civil tribunal of the Seine, and asked permission to amend the proceedings in her application for separation, so that the decree be given her as an absolute divorce. The application asks for the custody of the children, pending the legal proceedings.

DEADLY CONFLICT

Lodz, Poland, March 13.—Marxism, a new Catholic sect, which is gaining converts by the thousands, is arousing intense hostility on the part of the orthodox Catholics here, and serious clashes are occurring. A procession of converts came into conflict today with a crowd of workmen, during which a priest was shot, and whereupon his following attacked and killed five persons.

CHURCH INVENTORY

Privas, France, March 13.—The population of the town of Concouren, about thirty miles from here, has been determined to resist the taking of an inventory of the church under the law of the church and state separation law. The doors are heavily barricaded and strong grates have been fastened across the windows. One hundred men, armed with rifles and provisions for a long siege, are installed inside the building.

CONSERVATIVE VOTE AND

APATHY MARK ELECTION. St. Petersburg, March 13.—Results from the peasant elections continue generally to show the selection of elders, priests and village scribes to represent them at the district conventions; but there are notable instances of apathy or of demand for a complete new electoral plan. It returns from the workers' election at Moscow show that 65 per cent participated, and that they mostly selected moderate liberals.

MORE BURIALS THAN

HEARSES CAN BE HAD. Paris, March 13.—Hundreds of funerals are being held at the towns surrounding Courrières, where the mine disaster of Saturday resulted in the loss of over a thousand lives. Snow has fallen and lines of mourners fill every road, many carrying easels where hearses are not obtainable. The latest figures show 1,212 victims of the explosion. Twenty-six more bodies were recovered this morning.

VENEZUELA CONDITIONS ARE NOT ATTRACTIVE

New York, March 13.—Amazing reports of the condition of affairs in Venezuela come by mail from Willemstad. According to these stories, Castro has carried his greed to such lengths that nearly all industries except those in which the president and his favorites are interested, have been ruined or driven out of the country. The people in the small towns are starving and the city people are not much better off. At a banquet given by an American in Maracaibo, the second city of Venezuela, many of the guests who included the leading men of the town, stuffed bread in their pockets, and carried away all the food they could secrete. Naked people in the streets of the small towns are a common sight. They are too poor to buy the slightest covering for their bodies. How these extraordinary conditions have been brought about is explained by an English refugee from La Guayra, who told his story to the Willemstad correspondent of the New York Herald, which has always been President Castro's strongest newspaper friend in the United States. As reported by this correspondent, his informant, until lately a prosperous sugar planter in Venezuela, said:

"The poverty of the country and its industrial prostration are due to the monopolization of all the principal industries of the country to be operated by the coteries that sing the president's praises, and in which he builds the controlling interest. In this way Castro has amassed in six years a fortune estimated at $18,000,000."

It seems that while the asphalt and French cable companies have been the heaviest and most conspicuous sufferers from Castro's rapacity, they have plenty of companions in misfortune.

Chicago, Ill., March 13.—Attorney John S. Miller, counsel for Armour's in the packing case, resumed his argument today before Judge Humphreys, contending that the court should direct the jury to return a verdict for the packers. It is expected that he will speak all day.

ILLEGAL RATE MAKING

THOROUGHLY SIFTED. Kansas City, March 13.—When the Interstate Commerce Commission resumed its hearing here today in the investigating charges of discrimination in railroad rates on oil, filed by the Kansas Oil Producers' association, it was believed the work in Kansas City would be finished this evening. When the commission concludes the hearing here, Judson C. Clements will go to Davenport, Iowa, to investigate other charges of alleged illegal rate making.

GOODING WANTS TO

CALL OUT MILITARY. Caldwell, Idaho, March 13.—Under a heavy guard, headed by Sheriff Nichols of Canyon county, Mayor Haywood and Pettibone are now in the county jail of this city. Under the orders of the supreme court and over the protests of Governor Gooding, the three federal officials were taken from Boise penitentiary this morning and placed in the local county jail here. To forestall any effort at rescue, dozens of deputies were sworn in and will patrol the jail night and day. If this protection shall not be sufficient, the governor will call out the militia.

GREAT JEWISH SOCIAL

FUNCTION FOR TOMORROW. New York, March 13.—The great Purim ball, the most important social event of Jewish society in this city, will be held at Madison Square Garden, tomorrow evening, and, judging from the preparations and from the enthusiasm and interest manifested in the ball by the better classes of Jewish society in New York, it will be the most brilliant and successful Purim ball ever held in this city, or any other city, in the United States. Among the patronesses are Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff, Mrs. Isidor Strauss, Mrs. Leo Kohne, Mrs. Alexander Morgenstern, Mrs. Louis Marshall, Mrs. Samuel Adler, Mrs. Joseph Mayar Ashor, Miss Sadie American, Mrs. Louis Adler, Mrs. M. Fatman, Mrs. H. A. Guinzberg, Mrs. Alexander Kohut, Mrs. H. Perera Mandor, Mrs. Edward Nakhai, Mrs. J. B. Greenhut, Mrs. B. J. Greenhut, Mrs. Max W. Kraus, Mrs. Jacob A. Cantor, Mrs. Jacob Wertheim and many others.

Proceeding the ball there will be a musical entertainment. The proceeds from the ball which it is believed will reach $25,000, will go to the Beth Israel hospital in this city. The demand for boxes has been unprecedented and the premiums paid for seats were higher this year than ever before.

POWER OF AMERICAN

PRESIDENT ILLUSTRATED.

New York, N. Y., March 13.—A president of the United States has great power to help worthy enterprises without putting forth any great exertion. His movements are, of course, chronicled throughout the length and breadth of the land, and if there be any worthy object to which he has made a visit or paid attention to, it is at once brought before the public notice, and to the attention of millions of people scattered throughout the country. The president's visit to Sea Breeze brought to the knowledge of hundreds of thousands the fact that thousands of maimed and crippled children can be cured of tuberculosis if brought under the influence of the health giving air breezes. No sooner had Mr. Roosevelt's visit been written up and the facts that visit brought out been made public through the press than the benevolent ones set about forming projects to accomplish the good that seemed waiting to be done.

Here is Mr. Rockefeller, pausing a moment from his exhilarating dodging of the process servers, to give $125,000 to the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, for the erection of a permanent seaside hospital, where children suffering from tuberculosis in the bones and glands may be treated. A half dozen men spring to the front at once to assist in doubling Mr. Rockefeller's offer. Let the president visit any other institution of a kindred character and he would tap the fountains of benevolence for relief measures.

ACCORDING TO J. A. STROMQUIST

To The Evening Citizen.

In justice to those most concerned and to the members of progressive labor organizations in general I consider it my duty to expose the policy as toward Meyer, Haywood and others falsely accused of the murder of Ex-Governor Steiensen of Idaho, of the vicious and unprincipled individual who presides over the editorial sanctum of the Morning Journal.

Following the lead of the Denver Republican and other labor-hating sheets of its ilk, who subsist mainly on corporation hush-money and whose motto is that made so famous by that so-called general, Sherman Bell, viz:
"To Hell With the Constitution," the Morning Journal has constituted itself public prosecutor, judge and jury, rolling into one, and having already condemned the accused without according them the "useless formality" of a hearing in their own behalf is now busy howling for their blood. Less any denial be forthcoming from the Journal, I would refer to its big scare headings, such as "Devilish Instigators of Crime," "Murderous Anarchists," "Dynamiters," "Inner Circle,"
"Friends," etc., that this is a deliberate attempt to influence public opinion against the accused men and thus encompass their destruction with or without the formality of law is plainly evidenced by the fact that neither the Journal nor any of its fellowgougers and hirelings of the Standard Oil and other unlawful aggregations of capital, have been able to present a title of proof of their assertions and must therefore be publicly branded as liars and conspirators against the lives of men who are and must be held to be innocent until proved otherwise beyond a shadow of doubt. Their whole justification rests upon the alleged confession of one Orchard, a "confession," which is already being discredited and the word of one Mc-Parland, a Pinkerton detective and member of a fraternity which can be bought with money to do any deed, however dastardly. General Bulkeley Wells, who is himself "a handy man of the 'inner circle' of the mine-owning capitalists of the west, backed by the pious Rockefeller's Standard Oil Co., and who conspired with Governor McDonald of Colorado and Gooding of Idaho in kidnapping Meyer, Haywood and Pettibone and removing them from the state in the dead of night and totally regardless of law, has this to say as to the probable guilt of these men: "I don't think anybody can know as to their guilt. I believe that there have been as many as fifty offers made to me for information concerning the killing of Arthur Collins. I have investigated most of them myself and soon learned their worthlessness. I am naturally skeptical of 'confessions'."

It is almost superfluous to add that this is not the first time that attempts have been made to railroad the active members of the Western Federation of Miners to the gallows but that despite of corporation-owned judges, corrupt or terrified juries, perjured Pinkerton "detectives," "confessions" obtained at the rate of $200 per one, and lastly the valuable aid of scurrilous yellow rags of the Journal brand, the accused have come out every time without as much as a stain on their characters. When, at the time of the Cripple Creek strike it was sought to lay at the door of the Western Federation of Miners the crimes committed by the "law and order" loving mine owners, their deputy sheriffs and hired men, one Robert Romalis, a Kansas convict was, by means of threats and a consideration of $200 induced to make a "confession" implicating members of the Western Federation. Being cross-examined he, however, gave the whole thing away and of the men who had been implicated some were liberated without being asked a single question. Other "confessions" of similar value were made by one Bean, ex-president of the miners' union of Idaho Springs, and one McKinney, who was subsequently proven to be a private detective of the mine-owners. President Meyers of the Western Federation of Miners at that time was confined in the "bullpen" for 105 days without any charges having been preferred against him only to be released at the end of that time as no charges, either true, or trumped up, could be found against him.

Having bungled their former jobs so badly it is small wonder that the capitalists and corporations of Colorado and their allies in other states are determined not to be balked of their revenge this time and a desperate attempt is now being made to murder the objects of their hatred, legally or otherwise, as witness the following statement by Pinkerton McParland, published in the Rocky Mountain News of February 19, 1906: "The officers of the Western Federation of Miners and those of the executive board implicated in the designs of the leaders will never leave Idaho alive."

And this before anything at all is known as to the merits of the case; not even the alleged "confession" of Orchard being published.

The real and unpardonable crime of the Western Federation of Miners is that of being a progressive and, worse yet, successful organization of labor.
The late Cripple Creek strike, which was deliberately provoked so as to give an opportunity of "crushing" the Western Federation of Miners, in which laudable endeavor the constitution of the United States was jeered at, justice abolished and law rendered a byword, only had the effect of solidifying and strengthening the miners organization. The Western Federation of Miners is now the only antagonist which still holds the ring against the corporations, who have already au-gusted and made to do their bidding, governors, judges and legislators.
Therefore the officials of the Western Federation of Miners must now be murdered in order that their organization may be demoralized and broken up and the conditions of the miners lowered. In order to do this successfully and without danger of any blotch in the proceedings, public opinion must be manufactured and public conscience must be dulled and it is in this nefarious work that such journalistic prostitutes, tonding inkspillers and corporation paid plug-uglies as the contemptible creature who is responsible for the contents of the Morning Journal and its likes can show their usefulness and earn their blood-money. It beats me how workingmen can support such rags, which come out openly and unblushingly as their deadly enemies on every occasion that offers.

In closing I should offer an apology for trespassing on your space to this extent were it not that the importance of the subject is, or should be, self sufficient excuse and lest the editor of the Morning Journal should attempt to turn this into an advertisement of himself on the pretext that he is now one of those "marked for slaughter" by the "inner circle," I wish to state as my honest opinion that no self-respecting anarchist would waste half a pound of powder on his miserable carcass. The worst that could possibly happen to him would be the administration of a few swift kicks, applied to the portion of his anatomy best suited for that purpose.

I trust you will find space to publish this unabridged and, thanking you in anticipation, beg to subscribe myself yours for "the square deal."

in Santa Fe, President L. Ruppe of phy of Las Vegas, were present. W.

C. Porterfield of Silver City, and P.
Moreno of Las Cruces, arrived at noon, and were in attendance in the afternoon. The morning was spent in attending to routine business. Yesterday afternoon the board took up the examination of six applicants for certificates as pharmacists.

The applicants who have arrived
thus far are H. Emory Davis of Bolea, Miss Matthews of Albuquerque, and Edwin A. Winter of Las Vegas.

able business to attend to.

consideration will be the selection of the course of study for the public schools, and also for the "wholesome institute" to be held during the summer. At this meeting, Prof. J. E.
Clark, superintendent of the city schools of Albuquerque, recently appointed a member of the board by

BOY REPORTED LOST IN MOUNTAINS NEAR SANTA FE.

Eustacio Carrillo, a boy about 18 years of age, left his father's home in the eastern part of Santa Fe several days ago for the mountains, for the purpose of cutting and bringing into town several loads of wood. As he has not been heard of for three days, his father, Peronillo Carrillo, sent a party in search of the boy Saturday. Several miles from town they found the axe the boy had and the ropes for tying wood on his burro, but found no trace of him. The affair is mysterious and is not yet clear.
The boy's people are poor and unable to employ much of a searching party.
Up to late Saturday afternoon no news of his whereabouts had been received.

Deming Is Growing

It is a gratifying fact to note that Deming's prospects for her future welfare are brighter than they have been before in many years, and conditions continue to improve. While the town is not on a "boom," there is a steady growth and an increased activity in all lines of business. Improvements are continually going on.

There is a steady and marked increase in the receipts at the postoffice. The merchants continue to enlarge their stocks of goods; business houses have been remodeled and enlarged. The Deming City Water company has just completed one of the finest water works systems in the southwest. The Deming Ice and Electric company has recently completed a large addition to their plant and new machinery has been installed, increasing the capacity for the manufacture of ice more than double what it formerly was. The Luna County Telephone company are greatly improving their line and are furnishing their patrons with as good telephone service as is to be had anywhere. The company now has a large force of men at work extending its lines to Faywood Hot Springs, also to the Mimbres Hot Springs. The intermediate ranch houses will have connection with the new line.

The live stock industry of Luna county, which contributes much to Deming's welfare, is in a better condition than it has been before in many years. Other improvements will develop in the next few months that will greatly add to the prosperity of Deming.—Deming Headlight.

Electricity For The Valley

For the better part of a year The Citizen has contended that one of the very greatest factors in the development of Albuquerque is potential in the Electric Light and Power company of this city. Electrical development all over the country has demonstrated that power from a central station can be cheaply conveyed through large sections of adjacent territory, the loss in transmission being very slight. Also, The Citizen has often called attention to the fact that in the wastage from the American Lumber company mills, the Electric Light and Power company possesses an abundant supply of cheap fuel, but a few yards distant from its furnaces.

Here, then, is the salvation of the valley above and below the city. The soil is there, the underground flow is there, and with cheap power the development of ample irrigation is assured. When a few examples shall have established the facts, the settlement of the valley will grow with a speed seeming almost to be miraculous. When the people are there, then the trolley will follow. Already the valley below town, contains, for the first six miles, a population much more numerous than anyone would suppose who has not made a trip down there. The Commercial Club never took a wiser step for the growth of Albuquerque—and it has taken many wise steps during its beneficial life—than that it took last night, when it determined to investigate the matter of extending electric power through the valley.

The Armstrong report shows that 32 companies in 1904 paid out for first year expenses the enormous sum of $50,494,799, practically all of which went to solicitors. If the insurance dividends and settlements are to be increased—in other words, if the cost of life insurance is to be lessened—there must be an enforced decrease in this amount. The life insurance habit is well established. The people of the United States now hold one policy for every four persons. It is no longer necessary to keep up a persistent beating of the thickets. Savings banks have no solicitors; and though it is likely that systematic solicitation would largely increase deposits, it is not to be imagined that present depositors would stand for the expense of convincing others that it is a good thing. The expense of the savings banks of Massachusetts in 1904 were but 1.45 per cent of the year's deposits, or only about one-tenth of the insurance expense. Life insurance represents co-operative investment; and an annual reduction in the expense account of from 12 to 20 per cent is not to be lightly set aside.

There were three "million dollar" fires last month, according to the Journal of Commerce, the grain elevator fires at Duluth and East St. Louis and the terrific fire on the untimely railroad premises of the Canadian government at Moncton, New Brunswick. New York City had a $500,000 fire, Rutland a $450,000 fire, Cleveland a $275,000 fire. The other 201 reported fires ranged in destructiveness all the way from $10,000 to $250,000; only two reached the quarter-million mark, however. The February of 1904 brought the great Baltimore fire; the computed fire loss of the United States and Canada that month was approximately $90,551,000. There was nothing that you would call a conflagration in the February of 1905, but its fires destroyed approximately $25,590,000 worth of property in the two countries. By comparison the February of 1906 shows up as a merciful February. The Journal of Commerce makes the total damage done by last month's fires—American and Canadian—$18,249,350.

There are six American women who will go down into all history, because of their connection with the marked change wrought in the last half of the last century in social, intellectual and political conditions of the women of America. They are Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Lydia Maria Child, Mary A. Livermore, Lucretia Mott, Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. Of the six, the last is critically ill; and she alone remains, for this morning Miss Anthony went to join the other four of her fellow laborers. The life of Miss Stanton need not be recapitulated. It is known from one end of America to the other, and held in loving and grateful admiration in the heart of womanhood throughout the civilized world. No greater heroes than these six women ever blessed the race, and the memory of them will ever be a heritage of blessing to the sex which they loved and for which they lived and labored.

The City Hall Albuquerque must have, the new school house cannot be done without, the sewer enlargement and extension is a necessity, the streets must be paved and crossings be made—these are things that must be done. More and cheaper water is needed, and many in the desire to secure this increase with cheapness, think the city should purchase the present water plant, but $250,000 is a big item of debt to add to the other items. Then, too, as a member of the Good Government League is quoted by the Journal as saying, last night—all he said about the league is true of all intelligent and disinterested citizens—"All the members of this organization want is to be absolutely sure that the city is getting the worth of its money at the price fixed."

Harper's Weekly: The foreign commerce of the United States approaches the $3,000,000,000 point in the calendar year 1905. The total imports of merchandise for that year, as shown by the Department of Commerce and Labor, through its bureau of statistics, was $2,806,000,000, against $2,307,000,000 in 1900, an average increase of $100,000,000 a year in the five year period. If to the $2,806,000,000 of foreign commerce in 1905 were added the figures of trade with Hawaii and Porto Rico, formerly foreign territory and included in our statements of foreign trade prior to 1901, the total would approximate $3,000,000,000, or about $500,000,000 more than five years ago, and $1,200,000,000 more than ten years ago.

Santa Rosa Sun: The old military cemetery at Fort Sumner has been abandoned; the last soldier burial there was forty-three years ago. Some few years since the greater number of the bodies were removed, and the remaining ones were taken up last week and shipped from this point, last Sunday, to Santa Fe, to be interred in the government cemetery at that place. The remains of twenty-two soldiers were in this shipment.

Why Railways Want Court Intervention

To the common mind the dispute in congress over the degree to which the courts shall have power to review railway rate decisions is uninteresting.

But a strong light is thrown upon the question by the records of an actual case which has just been called to congress' attention by litigants weary of seventeen years' delay.

It was in 1888, in the Interstate Commerce Commission's second year, that it rendered a decision remedying the complaint that certain railways discriminated in favor of Standard Oil. The railways at once made the rates on oil uniform, but caused a new grievance by charging for the weight of barrels containing oil. The summarized history of this dispute is as follows:

May 15, 1889—Hearing by the commission.
November, 1892—Decision by the commission.
October, 1893—Rehearing granted.
October, 1895—Decision by commission.
May, 1896—Proceedings begun in court by commission to enforce decision.
July, 1897—Court refuses to take equity jurisdiction.
May, 1902—Decision on law side allowing refiners damages.

May, 1905—Decision reversed on appeal.
At present—Another appeal still pending.

A delay of seventeen years in establishing a single rate decision serves as pretty good evidence that if anything practical is to be accomplished in rate regulation there must be an avoidance of the interminable delays of the courts. Senator Tillman, champion of the Hepburn bill in the senate, stands with President Roosevelt on this question. The truth about court review has never been stated more clearly and concisely than by Senator Tillman, in these words:

"Make the provisions such that the railroads cannot go running into court, obtaining stays, postponements, appeals and what not, to embarrass their opponents and tire them out, and they will abide by any fair procedure on the part of the Interstate Commerce Commission."

Delays give to the powerful favored corporations all the chance they need to crush their weaker rivals out of existence. Rate regulation that is to be of any practical service must act promptly and give relief to shippers and conditions before the shippers and conditions themselves have ceased to exist.

Summary of Weather Report For February

U. S. Weather Bureau.

Santa Fe, N. M., March 12, 1906.—At the close of February there was still considerable snow in the mountains in nearly all sections of the territory, although the fall during the month was comparatively light, and there was a general decrease in the average accumulated depth. The valleys were almost entirely free from snow, except in the higher districts of Taos and Rio Arriba counties.

The heavy snow that fell during December and a portion of January drifted and settled in the ravines and canyons. In most instances it was still very compact and frozen, with ice underneath. In general, the reports state that the snow that fell during the month had also been swept into the canyons and is compact. The ground is thoroughly saturated and many of the correspondents believe there is sufficient snow to insure a supply of water late into the summer. The amount of stored snow is not considered excessive, but should conditions favor the rapid melting of the snow, the runoff would probably be high, because the ground is already well filled and the absorption would be relatively small.

The average depth reported for the Rio Grande watershed was about seventeen inches; the greatest depths are in the mountains of Rio Arriba and Taos counties, where it averages from thirty to forty inches. In the Sandia range the average is about twenty inches; in the Valles range, twelve to eighteen inches, and in the Blanca range, about twenty inches. The averages for the other watersheds were, San Francisco, Gila and Mimbres, twenty-five inches; but the greatest depths of the drifts range from five to ten feet in the Tularosa and Mogollon mountains, draining into the San Francisco river. The average for the Canadian was about fourteen inches, but in the extreme northern sections there was but little snow. In the Pecos and southeast the average was over eight inches, varying, however, from four inches to three feet.

Another Argument City Beautifying

Duluth News-Tribune.

With the advance of spring and the "See America First" agitation, comes the awakening of interest in Duluth beautiful. More tourists than ever have been in the city in one season before will visit Duluth during the coming summer.

The campaign for increased travel to the westward from the Atlantic coast will result in many thousands of people seeing Duluth, people who will judge the city by its impression it makes upon their casual eyes. It behooves this city then to bear inspection, to present a spectacle of municipal attractiveness to the gaze of the curious traveler. Well cleaned streets, immaculate windows in the downtown districts, pavements clear of boxes and rubbish—these are the things that go to make the city attractive to visitors whose tarrying is brief, and additionally attractive to those who remain and are proud of it because it is home.

Sylvester Baxter, writing in the Century as to the chief end in civic art, offers some suggestions for thought on the part of those who study civic beauty in detail. He says to "make utility the vehicle of beauty is a chief end in civic art."

"Use and beauty have too commonly been regarded as necessarily separated attributes; things of utility must be commonplace, and it is immaterial if the commonplace be ugly; its very ugliness makes us appreciate all the more the beauty of things rare, kept precious and apart—that is the view the multitude has been led to take and from which even many artists are not exempt."

News From Sunnyside.

A young fellow named Skelton went to wake up a negro laborer one morning a week ago, at which the negro took offense and became abusive. Skelton, who is said to be handy with his gun, fired at the negro, hitting him in such a way that the bullet passed through the body near the skin, coming out without inflicting more than a flesh wound. Skelton was arrested and offered to give bail the following morning, when his father should arrive. A kind hearted officer permitted the fellow to go home to sleep, expecting he would appear in the morning. But, instead, the young man vanished over night, and has not been heard of since. An officer is out on his trail toward the Indian Territory.—Optic.

A Harsh Suggestion.

"Why couldn't George Washington tell a lie at the cherry tree?" asked the small boy.
"Because," answered his father, who is a rough and irreverent man, "he was caught with the goods."—Washington Star.

A motion was still pending when the bill was referred to the water committee. This committee never made a report, because a howl went up all over the city against extending the franchise and, again, for another reason the Water company then advanced a proposition to sell. A special committee was appointed to confer with the Water company as to price and negotiate for purchase of same—to find out what the plant could be bought for. That special committee reported to the council that they "thought" (and the alderman dwelt forcibly on the word thought), from expressions made to them from officials of the Water company that the old plant could be bought for $300,000.

Willing to Sell.
At the next meeting of the council, continued Alderman Harrison in his interesting narrative of the "bargain counter proposition," "the Water company through its president offered to take $275,000 for the plant, and supplemented his remarks by stating that they would not take a cent less than that amount for the plant."

The council offered by a majority of the board $250,000, but the president of the Water company then and there refused to accept that amount. However, at a later meeting of the council, a lengthy communication was received from the Water company, in which the company agreed to take $350,000 for the plant. The council then by a majority of its members (being opposed solely by Aldermen Harrison and Lifford, as these two gentlemen still maintained that the figures were too high), agreed to pay that amount, or, in other words, submit the proposition to vote bonds at the approaching city election to pay $350,000 for the Water company's property.

Facts From Experts.

Alderman Harrison further enlightened the meeting by reading the reports of water experts from various parts of the country, showing the cost of production, the life of various mains and pipes in use, the size of mains sufficient for proper fire protection and other points of vital interest at this particular time. Relative to Kalsomine mains (the same kind in use here for they are not steel as stated by an alleged construction engineer in the Journal the other day), the longest life is about twenty years, after which they become absolutely useless, are constantly springing leaks and in many cases have to be removed entirely. These experts all claim, in order to get any kind of good service, none of the mains should be less than six inches, while some of the mains of the local plant are as small as two inches. (No wonder the Lempi's Brewing association warehouse, on north First street, was recently at the mercy of the flames, although Chief Buttress and his gallant fire laddies fought hard to save the property. They had no water to work with.)

The Vann Resolution.

After the alderman's talk, which was listened to intently, as if the members were absorbing every word, S. Vann offered the following resolution:
"In view of the lucid report of the alleged condition of the Water company's property, that it was the sense of this meeting, as an organization, that we should not vote for the purchase of the Water company's plant."

The resolution was promptly put to the meeting by the presiding officer, and was unanimously carried, with one exception, W. S. BURKE, editor of the Morning Journal, who was present to vote according to the dictates of his employers, voting NO.

Editor Burke Speaks.
Mr. Burke made a few remarks, to the effect that he was not a doctor, neither a dispenser of medicines, but that he knew something about water and as he dwelt on "water" a ripple of laughter was noticed on the faces of those in attendance. He claimed that the report of Mr. Burke was the best protection on water and mains that he had ever read.

Another Meeting.

Just before adjournment, it was moved and seconded that another meeting be held at the Red Men's hall on Monday evening, March 19th, when it is hoped that all sides will be represented and the matter be again discussed. However, as the Good Government League has so recorded, this organization is opposed to purchasing the Water company's property at such an exorbitant price—a price considerably greater in many figures than the company offered to sell to F. B. Luchinsinger of Monroe, Wis., about a year ago, reference to this transaction being made in last Saturday's Evening Citizen.

COMING ATTRACTION

"Dora Thorne," Bertha M. Clay's popular novel, has been dramatized. The production of this play has proven it to be one of the best melodramas of the season.
The book has already achieved a reputation for the author, now the play is establishing or rather, adding to the splendid reputation of the producing managers, Messrs. Rowland and Clifford. It is a beautiful love story, simply told in a manner that everyone enjoys. Even the "silly girls" all throughout the performance with rapt attention, and afterward says it's "a bully show."
"Dora Thorne" will be the attraction at the Elks' Opera House on Saturday night, March 17th.

WAS FOR THE HORSE.

The following story is going the rounds, with the manager of Trimble's livery stable as the butt of the joke. A certain horseman in the city, noted for his broad Irish brogue, called up the barn a few days ago, over the telephone:
"Hello! Is this Trimble's barn?"
"Yes," came the answer.
"What's wanted?"
"Well, I want yez to send me two bales of hay and a sack of oats."
"Yes. Who for?"
"For the horse, you blank fool. Dye suppose I was goin' to ate it myself." It is needless to add that the liveryman immediately hung up the receiver.

COMMERCIAL CLUB AND IRRIGATION

Directors Will Undertake to Interest Electric Power
People

IN ELECTRIC POWER SYSTEM

At last night's meeting of the Commercial club after the transaction of routine business a director arose and astonished the assembly by announcing that in his opinion land in the Rio Grande valley tributary to Albuquerque could be irrigated by means of an extension of power lines from a central electric plant located in this city, north and south, to supply power for irrigation pumping from shallow wells at an average cost of $1 per acre per year, and that a system of this kind would bring under cultivation about three times the acreage now in use, and that it would increase the population of the valley tributary to Albuquerque many times over. An animated conversation concerning the project was then entered into by the members present and the plan discussed.

The plan is entirely feasible and that it would mean much to Albuquerque and the Rio Grande valley tributary to this city cannot be gainsaid. There are many hundreds of acres of land that under this system could be irrigated at present cannot be reached by water from the river under existing circumstances. The plan of the club directors is to interest the Albuquerque Electric Light & Power company and get them to extend their poles and lines at least five miles north and south from this city, claiming that if they did so the farmers, realizing the comparative cheapness of the system, would hasten to install individual pumping plants on their farms and pump water for irrigation purposes from the shallow wells that abound throughout the valley. Water can be found most any place in the valley at a depth of from ten to forty feet, but these wells are useless without a pumping system as far as irrigation purposes are concerned.

Of all the plans for irrigation the central electric power plant is perhaps the most feasible and economical with the chances for failure reduced to the greatest minimum. With power supplied to individual pumping plants upon each farm from a central electric power plant, the land of a whole community or a whole valley can be as easily served. This system combines practically all the advantages of the other systems. Sufficient water can be developed at one place to supply one farm without difficulty; misappropriation of water is impossible for the reason that the water is developed upon the land whereon it is used and therefore, at all times, is in control of the user; loss by seepage and evaporation is reduced to a minimum, as the water is only pumped as needed; unequal division of water and the injustice arising therefrom is absolutely done away with under this system; there are no long distances to maintain at a great cost; the initial cost of a pumping plant is low enough to be within the means of almost every farmer in the valley and the efficiency and economy of such a system is so high and the comparative cost of pumping so low as to be easily recognized by anyone interested as all in irrigation.

Experiments carried out by the New Mexico Agricultural Experiment station have shown that pumping irrigation yields the greater profit, as compared to river irrigation. For instance, in one case, alfalfa hay in the stack on the farm was $1.70 per ton when river water was used, and $5.00 per ton when water was supplied by pumping. The cost per ton bales, f. o. b. the car, which was stationed about one mile from the farm, was $2.57 for river water, and $5.91 for pumped water. So far the advantage appears with the river water, but only two cuttings could be secured by using river water, whereas four cuttings were secured when well water was used. The net profit, with alfalfa selling at $10 per ton, was $11.32 per acre for river water and $12.68 per acre for well water, a balance of $1.36 per acre in favor of the pumping from wells system. A 20-horse power steam engine and a 6-inch centrifugal pump, was used, with cost at $6 per ton. Think, then, how much cheaper would have been the pumping system had they had power supplied from a central electric power station, doing away with both the installation of a steam engine and the using of steam coal.

After the discussion of this very important question at last night's meeting the members of the Commercial club appointed a committee composed of President Hopewell, Secretary McCann, O. L. Brown, Walter H. Hadden and Noel Wild to confer with the Albuquerque Electric Light & Power company people and lay the matter before them with a view to seeing what can be done.

That a flourishing farming community surrounding Albuquerque would be of great benefit to this city cannot be denied and it is thought that it would be feasible to run the lines of a central electric power system as far north as Bernalillo and south to Los Lunas. No doubt if the system was installed and run as proposed there would soon be a trolley line following the lines of the power plant and connecting the farming districts with the metropolis of New Mexico.

If the matter is carried on as planned and carefully handled there is no reason why it should not only prove a decided success from the irrigationists' standpoint, but remunerative to the company thus furnishing the power as well. Irrigation in New Mexico is a vital matter and anything as feasible and as beneficial as this scheme should not be allowed to fall through.

CRAZED MAN WAS AFTER BLOOD

Tom Corcoran Took Too Much Booze and Morphine
Last Night--Ran Amuck.

WITH DIRK DEMANDED BOOZE

That Tom Corcoran did not commit murder last evening can be attributed to his prompt arrest by Officer Knapp early in the game. Corcoran, ugly from the booze imbued and crazed by a dose of morphine, into his system through the agency of a hypodermic syringe, armed himself with a long, dangerous dirk and threatened to do many bad things.

Corcoran is reported as rushing into the Alamo saloon on First street, he passed behind the bar and with the dirk in his possession demanded booze. With much difficulty the fellow was ejected from the place.

Then Corcoran, wild eyed and ugly, rushed into the White Elephant saloon on Railroad avenue. Here he demanded wine and the best wine there was. The bartender was getting ready to walk from behind the bar and hand Corcoran one when Officer Knapp who entered the place saved him the trouble, and probably was the means of averting a tragedy for there is little question but what Corcoran would have punctured the mixologist had he stayed from behind the bar.

In police court this morning Corcoran said that he was rendered temporarily crazy by the cocaine and booze he had partaken of. Judge Crawford could have charged the man with carrying deadly weapons but owing to his ill-health produced from being addicted to the morphine habit he sentenced him to serve sixty days in the county jail during which time he can be treated by the county physician.

Corcoran is a hostler by occupation. He drove a cab for the Trimble livery company and has worked at different jobs about the barn.

IRRIGATION SYSTEM FOR LAND AROUND DEMING

TWO LARGEST PROJECTS EVER ATTEMPTED IN SOUTHWEST
NOW UNDER CONTEMPLATION
--WORK TO BEGIN SOON.

J. A. Mahoney, a prominent hardware merchant and politician of Deming, arrived in the city this morning for a few days' business visit, and during the day was a pleasant caller in the editorial rooms of The Evening Citizen.

"Deming is the Windmill city of New Mexico," said Mr. Mahoney, speaking of his home town, "and has the finest water in the world. We have just installed a new water works system, and two of the largest irrigation schemes ever attempted in the southwest are now contemplated and actual work thereon will be commenced in the near future. In this connection it is expected that within the present year thousands of acres in the arid lands of Luna county will be reclaimed by irrigation.

"The lands in the Mimbres valley are the richest in the United States and when thoroughly put under irrigation this section of New Mexico will become one of the largest agricultural centers in the southwest. The cattle outlook is exceedingly bright and shipments from that part of the country this year will be up to that of any former year. Altogether things are certainly looking good down Deming way."

DEMING MAN SUICIDES WITH A SHOT GUN

BLOWS ENTIRE HEART AWAY.
WAS SUFFERER FROM ASTHMA
AND HAD SEVERAL TIMES THREATENED SUICIDE.

Sunday afternoon, between 3:30 and 4 o'clock, in Deming, Robert Redding, aged 65 years, and an old settler of that district, having resided in that part of the country for the past thirty-five years, during the past year of which he has conducted a restaurant near the Union depot, killed himself with a shot gun, blowing a hole through his breast as large as a man's fist, and entirely tearing away the heart.

Redding, who had long suffered from asthma, was heard to remark, Sunday morning, "I'll never put in another night of suffering like I did last night." His wife, becoming alarmed, knowing that her husband had, on several occasions, threatened suicide, left the house on Sunday afternoon, for a short time, to secure some one to spend the night with her husband. Upon her return the body of the unfortunate man was found lying on the floor, dead, with a shot gun and powder lying near by. The supposition is that Redding placed the muzzle of the gun to his breast, over the heart, and pulled the trigger with the poker. The body presented a gruesome sight with the big, jagged hole in the breast, blood all over the place.

Redding was a member of the Masonic order, having a card in the Silver City lodge. He is survived by his widow only. He came to Luna county some thirty-five or thirty-six years ago, with the California federal soldiers, and was engaged in the battle of Pigeon Ridge, and several others in that portion of the country. After leaving the army he settled in Luna county, and has been living there, and in Grant county, ever since, with the exception of occasional trips to California and other states.

MILLINERY OPENING.

The Gilbert Millinery company announce their spring millinery opening for Thursday, March 15th, when they will display at their new quarters one of the largest and most up-to-date line of fashionable spring and summer hats in the city. The Gilbert Millinery company, on account of the need of more room for their increasing business, has moved to 208 South Second street, the store room formerly occupied by Learned & Lindemann. Their increased floor space has enabled them to lay in a larger stock of millinery this spring than ever before, since opening in this city, four years ago.

If you wish to vote at the approaching city election, see that your name appears on the registration books.

George Cuneo Has Visited Every Indian Tribe in

RETURNED TO DENVER TODAY

George Cuneo, brother of John Cuneo, assistant manager of the St. Elmo saloon, left this morning for his home in Denver, after a pleasant visit in the city.

George Cuneo is perhaps one of the most famous collectors of Indian curios in the world today. He has spent many years searching for the handwork of the redskin, and that he has been successful, in his work, a visit to the curio shop in Colorado's metropolis, will suffice to prove.

Mr. Cuneo is not engaged in the curio business for the purpose of making money. He sells, in fact, none of his finds. It is simply an irresistible pleasure with him. Since 1880 he has traveled about the country, during which time he has paid his respects to practically every tribe of Indians and every trading post. He has secured every known weapon, utensil or article used or made by the aborigines, and will not sell them for any price. Only a short time ago Mr. Cuneo was offered $15,000 for his collection, but he refused the offer, explaining that the curios are not for sale.

Mr. Cuneo has spent much time on this trip among the Indians in the vicinity, searching for articles which he does not already possess. He is a bachelor of middle age, well fixed, financially, and perfectly happy in his favorite occupation.

VOTERS WERE REGISTERED AT NOON TODAY.

Three of the sixteen days in which the voters have to register are gone, and only ninety-nine of the 1,500 voters of the city have registered. The cause for this lethargy on the part of the voters is not apparent, but is thought that many expect the party leaders to see to it that they are properly registered, while others are depending on the registering solicitors of the party organizations, which are scouring the city. At noon today the First Ward book, located at the store of E. L. Washburn & Co., contained eighteen names. At the same hour, the Second Ward book, placed handy to the voters on the window sill at A. Harsh's place of business on South First street, contained twenty-eight names; the Third Ward book, on the front show case in Johnson's bicycle store, on South Second street, bore the names of fourteen voters, and the Fourth Ward book, on the cigar case of Mattson's book store, held thirty-nine names.

MORTUARY.

Iona Pearl Condit.

Iona Pearl Condit, the 14-year-old daughter of W. W. Condit, a carpenter and member of the local carter's union, passed away this morning, at 10:30 o'clock, at her father's home, on South Arno street, after a lingering illness, from tuberculosis. Last year the deceased's mother and eldest sister died of consumption at their home in Pennsylvania, and she contracted the dread malady while nursing them. Mr. Condit brought his daughter to this city last December, but she was beyond the aid of either climate or medicine. The funeral ceremonies will take place tomorrow afternoon, from 2:30 to 4 o'clock, at the home of the deceased, on South Arno street, and will be officiated by Rev. Cooper, of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment in Fairview cemetery.

Incencio Canon.

Incencio Canon, aged 40, died this morning, at 7 o'clock, at his home in Old Albuquerque. The funeral ceremonies will take place from the San Felipe de Neri church, tomorrow morning, at 8 o'clock. Interment in Santa Barbara cemetery.

William Hingham, formerly a resident of Meina, Ark., who died in city yesterday morning, from tuberculosis, was laid to rest in Fairhill cemetery, this afternoon, the relatives of the deceased in Arkansas not caring to have the remains sent home.

The cordiality with which the O'Brien Sisters give their semi-annual receptions is widely known, their past efforts having been a succession of successes most enviable to say the least. The approaching opening will equal if not exceed any of the past.

Although the prisoner is obliged to plead to the charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct before Judge Crawford in police court tomorrow morning, he will, in all probability, be immediately re-arrested on the charge of grand larceny. A deputy sheriff is in Albuquerque at present with the warrant for Montoya's arrest. He accompanied Officer Knapp to the city prison when the alleged thief was being escorted there, and would have taken Montoya then and there if permitted to do so by the patrolman decided that a sleep for the prisoner was the most essential thing for the time being, anyway, so the deputy was turned down.

It is alleged that Montoya visited the sheep ranch of Policarpo Armijo, recently, located about two miles southwest of the city, and made off with 33 sheep. It is probable, if the charge against Montoya is true, that the drunk he secured today was purchased by money secured from the stolen live stock.

If Prince Louis Napoleon, lieutenant in the Russian army, had gone to the front during the war in Manchuria and had done anything at all in the way of fighting or generalship, there might be a very strong movement by this time to re-establish the empire with him as emperor.

But either the czar was afraid to give him the chance, or Louis was himself not very anxious to weather the hardships of grim war, because

Now he is in Italy on a furlough, saying, it is said, and threatening to give up his commission in the Russian army.

While France as a nation isn't ready to give a few for the Bonapartes, there are lot of empire lovers and soldiers of fortune west of the Rhine who have recently been enthralled with the hope that Prince Louis may soon see the way to attempt a coup d'etat.

His aunt, the empress, Princess Matilde, who died not long ago in Paris, left an immense fortune to him, who was her favorite as against his cousins, sons of another family branch. Bonapartists figure that with her millions Louis can do much to bring French sentiment to his standard.

Among the many delightful church entertainments that have been given in this city the past season perhaps none have afforded more real enjoyment to a very large audience than that of the Lead Avenue Methodist church, entertainment last evening.

When J. H. Palmer, author, lecturer and traveler, and his Kathi boy choir, direct from the land that Cecil Rhodes made famous, entertained an audience that packed the church auditorium to its doors. The boys, the youngest of whom is but five years old and the oldest about 20, are not great singers as far as voice is concerned, but their tribal and racial characteristics, their native songs, their adornments and dress, all go to make an entertainment well worth seeing and hearing. The Kathi boy choir has been in existence for a number of years, and as a result Mr. Palmer has had many youths from South Africa under his care, sending them home when they become too large, and taking another youngster to train. In this way his choir is always composed of boys. A recent addition to the choir came all the way from Cape Town alone, tagged like an express package.

THE FIRST LESSON
IN BREAD MAKING.
Is the most important of all; that is the selection of proper flour. There is no difficulty about this if Empress flour is chosen. It is so good and makes such sweet, white and nutritious bread as to be unsurpassed by any milled. The best bread makers use it for that very reason.

AMATEUR BILLIARD CHAMPION CONTEST

Chicago, March 13.—The great amateur billiard championship tournament, under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard players will begin in the club rooms of the Chicago Athletic association last evening. The public will be admitted free of charge. This is the first time that no admission is charged to a championship billiard tournament. The billiard committee of the Chicago Athletic association was of the opinion that such a course would help to stimulate the interest in the game, and induced the new board of directors to consent to this arrangement. C. F. Conklin, of this city, is the present champion, and he will defend his title against a field as ever competed for the amateur billiard championship of this country.

The winner of the tournament will become the possessor of a magnificent solid silver cup, which cost about $1,000. He will also become the holder of the Brunswick-Balke Colander company cup, which he will have to defend with success three consecutive times before it becomes his incontestable property. The second prize will be a diamond studded repeating watch, while the other prizes will be gold and diamond studded Chicago Athletic association medals. There will be prizes for the high run, best single and best grand average.

Invitations had been sent to more than twenty of the most prominent players of class A of the amateur billiards, but only the following seven players will take part in the contest: Charles S. Norris, New York; H. A. Wright, San Francisco; Edward W. Gardner, Passaic, N. J.; J. F. Poggenburg, New York; T. M. S. Rolis, Philadelphia, and C. F. Conklin and Calvin Demarest, of Chicago.

As there are seven players, there will have to be twenty-one games, and as the gymnasium in which the tournament is to be held can only be had for nine days, the committee in charge of the tournament has decided to open the tournament tonight with one game, and have two afternoon games and one evening game every day after today. This will give the players one extra day to play off ties, should there be any.

The players entered for this contest are all well known, except Demarest, a young man, who is considered the "boy wonder" of this city. He is believed to have a good chance to win in this tournament if his nerve holds out. The condition of the contest will be 300 points, fourteen-inch ball line, with the anchor nurse bar red.

day. They were born near Buffalo, N. Y., on March 12, 1828. Neither had any inclination to become married, and up to the time of the death of their parents, some forty years ago, they lived at the parental home. Since that time they have lived in this city, or rather just outside the limits of the city, in a cozy little home of their own, where they live a simple and contented life.

One of their grandfathers was the Rev. Parsons Cooke, who was pastor of a small Presbyterian church in a Massachusetts village for more than forty years. The other grandfather was Mark S. Cole, who at one time owned all of the land on which the village of Norwich, N. Y., now stands. He donated the land on which the Norwich court house now stands and also gave the land that was used for the building of the canal at that point.

The veteran twins are inveterate readers, and are keeping well posted on the events and the literature of the day. They can trace their lineage back to the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers.

DOG, CAT AND PET STOCK SHOW OF WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Wis., March 13.—The second annual dog, cat and pet stock show, under the auspices of the Wisconsin Humane society, opened at Terry's hall last evening. The first half of the week will be devoted to the cat show, which was such a successful feature of last year's show. The last three days will be given over to the dog show, which is unusually fine this year, judging from the large number of entries and the numerous fine animals sent here for the show. The prizes offered at the two combined shows aggregate about $1,500. Besides cash prizes there are a number of cups and trophies to be competed for.

METHODIST CONVENTION OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Indianapolis, Ind., March 13.—One of the most important state missionary conventions of the Methodist Episcopal church of Indiana ever held, has convened here. The attendance is very large, and every district of the state is represented. The purpose of the convention is to bring together the conference and district officers of the different organizations of the church, the pastors and representatives from the local churches and young peoples' societies within the bounds of this state.

HUNGARIANS WILL SETTLE IN UNION COUNTY.

Scores of Hungarians from this district are quietly preparing to leave here in the near future to take up their residence in Union county, N. M., says the Trinidad Advertiser. A new colony of Hungarians is being founded there. Trinidad men are behind the movement, and it will have a large number of recruits to start with.

The colony will be Naravisa, Union county, and already some have taken up homesteads there. The promoters are Herman Deutsch, Joseph Deme, John Kovacs, Stefan Kiss and others. They expect to get the majority of their residents from the coal fields of Las Animas county, and it is understood that quite a delegation will soon leave.

ROGERS' INTERVIEW WITH THE BIG STICK

AN EXCLUSIVE ACCOUNT FROM OUR OWN RELIABLE CORRESPONDENT OF THE STANDARD OIL MAGNATE'S CONFERENCE WITH THE READY BLUDGEON.

Washington, March 13.—The late night visit of Henry H. Rogers, the jolly vice president of the Standard Oil Co., to the white house and the curtailed conference held by him with the Big Stick has occasioned considerable comment along Pennsylvania avenue.

While Mr. Rogers is regarded as the country's leading humorist when on the witness stand, no one is better aware than he that it is no laughing matter to call on the Big Stick, especially when the returns have been tangled by blundering subordinates. Mr. Rogers was as gay and chipper looking as a 17th of March parade when he tripped into the white house, but when he came forth he seemed in some haste.

To those young men of inquiring minds who asked with perfect candor for the details of what had transpired he shook his head and sighed. "I cannot say," he said.

From doubtful source it was learned that the Big Stick and Standard Oil had talked on a variety of subjects. After Mr. Rogers had taken a comfortable seat on the president's desk, he asked the Big Stick, cordially:

"How-how?"

"Garfield says—"

"Yes, yes, but are you still taking wrassling lessons?"

"You bet, and I can throw—"

"I know; but what are the seven best ways to strangle a wolf?"

Here the Big Stick handed him a cigar, and Mr. Rogers, with a far-away glance, asked why Cortelyou had been slapped on the molar tooth for taking campaign dough from Standard Oil.

"Well, I like you—"

"Oh, you stop that. Why does a hen cross the road. Huh! Huh!"

"Huh!"

"This is no joke—"

"Possibly, but has the Panama canal been built yet?"

"The Big Stick rubbed one of its Culebra cut knobs and Mr. Rogers scratched a match on his nose.

"What the thunder do you mean by this jabber and commerce department investigation of Standard Oil?"

"I know; but what are the seven best ways to strangle a wolf?"

Here the Big Stick handed him a cigar, and Mr. Rogers, with a far-away

SURE SIGN OF WARM WEATHER.

Parkersburg, March 13.—A. H. & O. freight train arrived yesterday ten minutes late, the delay having been caused by snakes about twenty miles east of here. The engineer says he noticed the engine lose speed suddenly, but could find nothing wrong. In less than three minutes the train came to a full stop. Looking out the cab window the engineer saw millions of snakes, ranging from a foot to ten feet in length. Thousands had been killed and had clogged the wheels so that the engineer was powerless to pull the heavy train.

The snakes came from the south and were bound to the cooler north. Miners say it is a sure sign of warm weather, as reliable as the flight of wild ducks or geese.

Cohoes, N. Y., March 13.—A fisherman who has been on the upper Hudson for several weeks arrived in town yesterday with a story of a terrible fight between a snapping turtle and a blacksnake. The turtle evidently found poor feeding in the water and went ashore for food. The blacksnake saw it and the battle at once began. The snake was too quick for the turtle and the latter was unable to get a hold with its jaws and the turtle evaded the snake by retreating to its shell. At last the snake wrapped itself around the shell and was carrying it away when the turtle managed to bite it. In its surprise the snake forgot caution and the turtle grabbed it and bit it to death.

SPRING SNAKE STORIES.

New York, March 13.—Jed Simpson, who has a farm near the Battery, drove to Harlem yesterday with a load of produce. When crossing a hump in the Broadway pike, not far from the New York Central depot, he was given a sudden bump and he dropped his whalebone buggy whip. He found it after a short search and put it in the whip socket so he would be sure not to lose it again.

The weather began to moderate about noon, and while the wagon was standing in front of a grocery store in Harlem Jed was astonished to see his whip-cracker wiggle, and a minute later the whole whip climbed out of the socket and crawled down the gutter. Jed gave chase, but the whip crawled under the sidewalk, not, however, before he discovered that the snake evidently had crawled out on the road the day before to sun itself and went to sleep and was frozen stiff during the night, and that Jed had picked it up instead of the whip.

Cincinnati, March 13.—A hoop snake crawled into Jeff Putnam's house yesterday afternoon and attached the rubber tube attached to a library lamp, supposing it was another snake. The snake rolled itself up like a hoop, bounced up on the table and struck its fangs clear through the tube. It hung on hard instead of withdrawing its fangs, and the result was that it was soon asphyxiated. Jeff saved the body of the snake as proof of the story.

RAILROAD NOTES

Train No. 10 carried forty-five natives this morning en route to Windfield, Kan., where they will be employed at railroad work.

Division Superintendent E. J. Gibson of the Santa Fe left last night for a trip to the Grand Canyon in his private car, accompanied by his daughters, Miss Edna Gibson and Mrs. Stanley Ward.

A fire in a car of coal near the Santa Fe shops last night caused a double alarm to be turned in. The shops fire department responded and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before any great damage had been done.

MULES DYING FROM DIS-EASE ON BELEN CUT-OFF

Veterinary Surgeon M. H. Deacon, who has charge of the horses and mules of the Grant Construction company at Belen during the winter, but who has been for several weeks in Santa Fe attending to the live stock of individuals, received a letter from the McCabe and Steen Construction company at Equis asking him to come there post haste as a number of the mules employed in the grading work were dying of some disease which first affects the nostrils and later attacks the lungs. The surgeon left promptly for the construction camp to attend to the animals but will later return to the capital city where he expects to locate permanently.

STATE BANK AT SOCORRO FORMERLY ORGANIZED

ALL CAPITAL STOCK SUBSCRIBED BY SOCORRO COUNTY RESIDENTS—OUTSIDERS ARE BARRED.

The Socorro State bank was formerly organized in Socorro yesterday with a capital stock of $30,000, as chronicled in yesterday's issue of The Evening Citizen, in a special dispatch from Socorro. The principal stockholder in the new bank is Joseph Price, for many years one of Socorro's leading merchants, and it was mainly through his efforts that the new bank was established. The citizens of Socorro, merchants and business men, came to the front liberally when it came to subscribing for stock and it was decided to bar all those living outside of Socorro county from taking stock in the new organization.

This reflects great credit upon Socorro merchants and citizens and

The "special correspondence" from Holbrook, published in our evening morning contemporary, under date of March 12, is a very slow westerner. His "alleged account" of the killing of Sergeant John McJenkins at Fort Apache at the hands of Sergeant Louis Loden, the tragedy, according to the alleged "special correspondence," taking place last Sunday evening, was published ad libitum verbatim in the Holbrook Argus March 3, and reproduced in The Evening Citizen a few days later. After going the rounds of all the Arizona and New Mexico papers, and then through all the western and eastern papers the account finally reaches our esteemed morning paper as a "correspondence" from Holbrook. The Argus should offer a protest at such journalistic enterprise.

Two runaways occurred on South First street, last evening, one occasioning the other. The instigator of the trouble was a horse hitched to a delivery wagon from the Highland Meat market. Becoming frightened, near the freight depot, it dashed south, colliding at Coal avenue with the buggy of C. C. Seemuller, causing the Seemuller horse to do a runaway with, not altogether ordinary with runaway horses. After the meat wagon horse had passed, the Seemuller nag dragged its load to the middle of the street and began bucking like a well trained broncho. After about three minutes of this kind of performance, it took a spin around the block, finally bringing up at its own stable. The meat wagon was demolished and the Seemuller rig was badly wrecked.

Grasselli, the millionaire chemical manufacturer of Cleveland, Ohio, who has come to New Mexico for his health. Mr. Grasselli is accompanied by his son, Edward, his private physician, Dr. H. C. Long, one of the most eminent medical men of Cleveland; a trained nurse and Mr. Grasselli's favorite butler, an aged negro.

Of the several houses visited, Dr. Long stated this afternoon that the Darby A. Day residence on West Railroad avenue was the most acceptable, and if satisfactory arrangements can be made, it will be taken by the Clevelanders for an indefinite period.
