WHITE-INDIAN MARRIAGE

Royal Gifts to That Church Are Preserved For the Present Day Interest.

Norfolk, Va., March 24.—In 1907,
the year of the Jamestown Tercentennial,
the general convention of the Episcopal church will be held at Richmond, Virginia.

Jamestown was a crown colony, created under a charter granted by the king to a commercial body, called the London company, and the religion of Jamestown was the established creed of England. When the convention met some years ago in Washington, a pilgrimage was made to Jamestown and a marble cross was then erected to commemorate the visit. It was largely because the year 1907 will be the three hundredth anniversary of the Jamestown settlement and that a great exposition is to be held at that time at Hampton Roads for the purpose of commemorating this event,
that Richmond, the capital of Virginia,
was selected as the site of the gathering.

At Jamestown the first Protestant church in America was erected, and the first regular service conducted in English on the western continent was contemporaneous with the landing, at which time the Rev. Robert Hunt officiated under a sail cloth suspended from trees. The first recorded English wedding in America occurred in December, 1608, when Ann Burras was married to John Laydon in the Jamestown church. The first known baptism of an Indian in the United States was witnessed at the same church where, also, was celebrated the first lawful marriage between a white man and an Indian. It is very probable that the Episcopal church will take a prominent part in the celebration of the Tercentennial aside from the mere convention at Richmond.

The original settlers were undoubtedly a rather rough lot, but they were never without a church, and it is rather singular that the first structure they erected was a place for religious services and the only vestige of any building to remain after the lapse of centuries is the church tower. The Jamestown parish church as it was known until the closing decade of the 17th century, enjoys the distinction of being the only church in America which has had two sets of communion silver given to it by England's royal family. One of these was presented through Queen Anne and the other was a gift from William and Mary.
This silver is now kept in the vestry of Bruton's parish church at Williamsburg, the town which succeeded Jamestown as capital of the colony.
Bruton parish will soon have another gift from England's ruling family, for when Harry St. George Tucker, president of the Jamestown Exposition company, was in England King Edward gave him for Bruton parish, a handsome Bible and it is interesting to know that President Roosevelt added a handsome lectern to the gift.

Old Jamestown is a short ride from the site of the Jamestown exposition and it will certainly be a mosaic for patriotic visitors to the great celebration. Several plans have been suggested both by historical and religious associations for taking advantage of the exposition, in order to draw the attention of the American people more convincingly to the lessons to be learned from the pioneers. In this effort the Episcopal church will probably do its full share, since there are few things more certain about the earliest days of Virginia than the record of that church.

When the bishops of the Episcopal church made their pilgrimage to Jamestown in 1898, they established an association called "The Order of Jamestown 1607," which has for its aim the restoration of old English churches in America. The church tower now standing at Jamestown is a relic of the third church erected in 1620. It was small but a very strongly built brick structure and replaced the wooden building which formerly occupied the spot. This tower was erected for the dual purpose of use and ornament. Its form makes it certain that look-outs and sentries patrolled its roof and the loop holes show that soldiers used the second story for defence. All around the church are graves and tomb stones, one of the most curious of the latter being that of a man named Blair. This slab of granite has been lifted several feet from the surface of the ground by a sycamore tree that grew almost entirely around the stone and lifted it bodily from its proper resting place.

"Judge" Hamilton should elaborate with Thomas W. Lawson.

GROUP OF YOUNG MIL- LIONAIRES ENTHUSED WITH SOCIALISM

New York, March 24.—Will the socialist party be made a power in American politics by the sons of millionaires? Paradoxical as it may seem, many of the young men who are heading the movement for a radical socialist propaganda in this country are heirs to vast fortunes.

The fact was emphasized by the recent attempt of radicals to get on a common ground at a meeting at the Brick house, the palatial country home of J. G. Phelps Stokes, as well as by the announcement of Joe Medill Patterson of Chicago that he had embraced the socialist creed.

If socialism were voted into force and its tenets accepted it would strike at the fortunes of some of the wealthiest families in the country and with their radical members themselves leading the attack.

Stokes, for instance, is the son of Anson Phelps Stokes, Wall street capitalist and multimillionaire, now retired. Robt. Hunter, another socialist student, married one of Anson Phelps Stokes' daughters, wealthy in her own right. He is a settlement worker, and is the author of "Poverty,"
a book in which he makes the remarkable statement that 10,000,000 Americans are starving today—that is, undernourished because they have not means to buy the necessities of life.

Gaylord Wilshire, although he inherited millions, has long been a socialist and conducted a monthly magazine which essayed to be an authority on the subject.

Wm. Kent, a Chicago millionaire, who has his fortune invested in a way that the returns will not exceed 3 per cent, made his last conspicuous act at the recent Stokes congress.

Another wealthy radical is Arthur Brisbane, who inherited his fortune and is now the highest paid newspaper writer in the world, his salary being $42,000 a year. Brisbane attended the fashionable society functions one day and rabidly attacks the treasures of American wealth the next.

Joe Medill Patterson, son of the owner of the Chicago Tribune, who resigned his office under Mayor Dunne because he believed that even municipal ownership would fall short of effecting political reforms, while socialism would, was asked if he intended to divide his fortune with the poor. He explained that this would do no good, for the equalization of wealth must be accomplished by an equitable distribution of the sources of wealth, and that the whole body politic must agree; no individual effort would accomplish the desired end.

Everett Colby, the Wall street banker recently elected state senator in New Jersey after a campaign in which he attacked corporation greed and espoused the cause of equal taxation, has expressed his belief that in a modified form and with proper education of the masses, socialism would work a great national reform.

There are half a dozen other wealthy young men who are more or less identified with the radical movement and attended the Stokes meeting. One of these is George Fred Williams, who is a former member of congress and a well known Boston lawyer.

Young Stokes, who married Rose Pastor, the Russian Jewess who was formerly a clairmaker in a Cleveland factory, denies that his recent congress was for the purpose of forming a new political party on socialistic lines. It was merely for an exchange of views upon general conditions, he said.

Mr. Stokes was asked if he did not consider it remarkable that so many wealthy young men were embracing a theory at war with the very conditions which made their wealth possible. "No," he replied calmly. "It means that some young men are spending their time thinking for the good of our republic instead of pursuing the poor pleasures that riches make possible. I think this is a potent sign of an awakening among the people of all classes to the abuses of the day and hour in politics and business life."

over in that city to see Superintendent
H. O. Bursum, of the territorial penitentiary, on business. Mr. Kirchman is very sanguine concerning the prospects of the Bohemian colony, which he is endeavoring to institute in the Socorro valley. He is making arrangements with the Santa Fe railway system to run an excursion train containing several hundred of his countrymen to Socorro on May 1.

These people will look over the valley and examine the project of Mr.
Kirchman, and if pleased will settle there.

Mr. Kirchman states that his plans are getting on nicely and that he believes they will be successful. He has been in St. Louis for a few days endeavoring to arrange for the purchase of the Billings smelter, which has been idle at Socorro for a number of years, to a local company, for the purpose of reopening the same and working it. There are some difficulties in the way of successful completion of this project, but there are hopes that these will be straightened out, with very good and says that during his recent eastern visit he found that New Mexico was being talked about by many people and that many intending immigrants are looking to coming to the territory.

Doctors Are Puzzled.

The remarkable recovery of Kenneth Melver of Vanceboro, Me., is the subject of much interest to the medical fraternity and a wide circle of friends.
He says of his case: "Owing to severe inflammation of the throat and congestion of the lungs, three doctors gave me up to die, when, as a last resort, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery and I am happy to say, it saved my life." Cures the worst cough and colds, bronchitis, asthma, weak lungs, hoarseness, and lagrippe. Guaranteed at all drug stores.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER

New York, March 24.—What shall I get for a new spring coat? Usually this is the first article bought in replenishing the spring wardrobe; and it becomes an important question to the woman who is compelled to consider a thin purse. A great deal of money goes into a coat, and it is limited to but one, that one must be of such material, color and style that it will serve many purposes. It must be rich enough to wear with the silk dress on cool days in summer; it must be serviceable enough for hard usage also; it must be of a color that will go with all old skirts and light summer dresses, and the style must not only conform to those prevailing but suit the figure—three requisites not always found in the same coat.

The cloths used for these jackets are many but covert, which should be of an excellent quality to be stylish, broadcloth and all the firm smooth-faced cloths, and silk are the favorites, although a number of rough faced cloths such as serges are shown but for an "aliaservic" coat silk or broadcloth is preferable.

Black is the most serviceable color, but after the black and heavy jacket of the winter many women will choose a mode or tan, which next to black are the two most useful shades. As has been already stated in previous letters the Eton will reign supreme but the "Pony" jacket is a close second. Now as many will follow the vogue of having their street costume made with an Eton, the separate jacket would better be made in the short loose box-coat style known as the "Pony" coat. A smart example of the latter mode was made of a covert cloth in gun metal grey, a favorite color this spring, topped with a deep fancy collar, and reversed cuffs finish the short sleeves.

In the matter of sleeves the tailors tell me that all coat sleeves should have a stiffening at the top, with ruffles or capes of silk or crinoline laid in between the lining and the top. The sleeves of the covert coat have long sleeves and, to be completely satisfactory should be full enough so the blouse sleeves beneath will not be crushed, while instead of straps, the seam are decorated with soutache braid, a few are double stitched.

For the suit with a long skirt, the redingote is the preferred style, but for the morning suit and the short skirt and hip-length, semi-fitting coat is the more popular mode.

At a recent exhibition a number of black silk Etons were shown. This model has held its own as having no other design, and if an extra dressy little Eton can be afforded, a black silk Eton is a good investment as it may be worn on almost all occasions and with all costumes, giving just that touch of being "dressed up."

A pretty little Eton of this description was made of black silk tulle with a heavy black trim with black lace stoles.

The first hat is a French sailor shape in mauve straw. The roses surrounding the crown are shaded from mauve into pale rose. The satin tulle ribbon which is looped high in the back of that hat is shaded in the same tints as the roses.

The second hat has a pastel blue Neapolitan straw crown in Tan-o-Shanter shape, which entirely covers a rough blue straw brim. It is held down over the brim with tiny bouquets of pink moss roses surrounded by the moss rose foliage and blue satin violets. The shaded plume which rises from the left side of the hat over the crown is shaded from white to deep blue.

The third is a walking hat of two pieces of straw, practically a double hat. The outer straw is of a darker shade of violet than the inner. The crown is decorated in fedora fashion. Two violet quills rise from the side of the front. Violet satin ribbon is looped in the back as the hat is tilted far forward.

soutache braid. It was a close-fitting model laid in three side tucks from shoulder to waist, back and front. The "set-in" vest of embroidered white silk decorated with small, white soutache buttons and black soutache braid outlined the outer edge of the coat. The puff sleeves were drawn in at the elbow by means of tucks under a band of white silk and braid. For wear with the fashionable white and black and grey and black silks in pin stripes and fine checks these coats are very effective.

Another version of the Eton was of black tulle which was a novelty from having its fullness at the waist shaped by a box-pail and was provided with two sets of collar and cuff pieces, one set in black and the other in white lingerie.

One of the new features of the spring fashions is the combining of jackets and skirts of different color and texture for street suits, and some stunning effects are accomplished by this method. These suits are by no means picked up here and there, but they come as suit pieces and harmonize to a nicety both in colors and pattern. A chic suit of this order had its skirt made of grey plaid with an over plaid of tan in a three piece skirt, front and sides in one piece and a straight forced back, while the close-fitting Eton which had a decided basque-like front was of tan covert cloth.

A second model was developed in grey and blue plaid mohair showing a touch of red by a fifteen gored

Lace stoles will replace the furry ones as soon as Old Boreas bids adieu. Neck pieces of chiffon, oriental lace and silk are shown in all the shops.

In rose colored chiffon, closely shirred, a pretty one is made. This is six inches wide, flat and is decorated with squares of the oriental lace.

Of Porto Rican straw in dull burnt tone is the hat. Its rim is broad, the crown flat, and it is trimmed with long amber colored plumes, which come from an amber buckles.

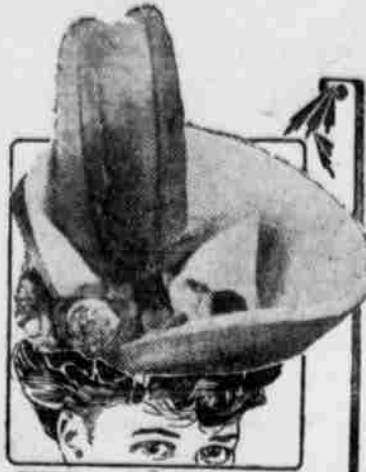

Just now it's but a coil of wire, some buckram and some tulle, a scrap of an ermine velvet, of thread a lonesome spool; and don't forget to add to this some crimson violets (a bunch of them for trimming it), or else pink micro-nettes.

Just now it's but a coil of wire—and the other things described; although a lace of purple silk by Fashion's not prescribed, nor a buckle of some shiny stuff and a parrot's bronze wing since all of them will play a part in making up the thing.

Just now it's but a coil of wire—and perhaps a tuft of fur (because there is no telling what won't make a hit

The puff sleeves were drawn in at the elbow by means of tucks under a band of white silk and braid. For wear with the fashionable white and black and grey and black silks in pin stripes and fine checks these coats are very effective.

Another version of the Eton was of black tulle which was a novelty from having its fullness at the waist shaped by a box-pail and was provided with two sets of collar and cuff pieces, one set in black and the other in white lingerie.

One of the new features of the spring fashions is the combining of jackets and skirts of different color and texture for street suits, and some stunning effects are accomplished by this method. These suits are by no means picked up here and there, but they come as suit pieces and harmonize to a nicety both in colors and pattern. A chic suit of this order had its skirt made of grey plaid with an over plaid of tan in a three piece skirt, front and sides in one piece and a straight forced back, while the close-fitting Eton which had a decided basque-like front was of tan covert cloth.

A second model was developed in grey and blue plaid mohair showing a touch of red by a fifteen gored

Lace stoles will replace the furry ones as soon as Old Boreas bids adieu. Neck pieces of chiffon, oriental lace and silk are shown in all the shops.

In rose colored chiffon, closely shirred, a pretty one is made. This is six inches wide, flat and is decorated with squares of the oriental lace.

Of Porto Rican straw in dull burnt tone is the hat. Its rim is broad, the crown flat, and it is trimmed with long amber colored plumes, which come from an amber buckles.

Just now it's but a coil of wire, some buckram and some tulle, a scrap of an ermine velvet, of thread a lonesome spool; and don't forget to add to this some crimson violets (a bunch of them for trimming it), or else pink micro-nettes.

Just now it's but a coil of wire—and the other things described; although a lace of purple silk by Fashion's not prescribed, nor a buckle of some shiny stuff and a parrot's bronze wing since all of them will play a part in making up the thing.

Just now it's but a coil of wire—and perhaps a tuft of fur (because there is no telling what won't make a hit with her); which calls to mind that lining goods and braided claret straw belong to this assortment which as yet's allowed by law.

Just now it's but a coil of wire—and let and phony memo, and glassy grapes of Alice blue that rattle on their stems; and as an indication that it's being planned with care you'll find elastic, whalebone sticks and pasteboard also there.

Just now it's but a coil of wire—and a wild, baroque heap of other objects, coarse and fine, some costly and some cheap. It looks a jockey's treasure hoard, but you mustn't go by that; when Myrtle gets through with it, why 'twill be her Easter hat.

A beautiful model designed for dress occasion for the first warm days is of the heavy white linen, elaborate with Irish guilts. The bolero is composed entirely of this lovely lace, small, hemstitched revers of the linen being the only bit of the linen reaver fabric upon the short jacket.

Vertical bands of the guilts adorn the circular skirt. This is short and close fitting at the hips. Each band of lace is finished with a large button mold covered with the linen and edged with a narrow frill of the lace. The bolero is again introduced on the bolero, which opens upon a waist of sheer white organdie. This is one mass of airy tucks, with puffed sleeves which end at the elbow.

The only touch of color in this costume is in the dull pink ribbon choux which trim the main hat.

Such coats are rather too heavy for summer wear and all the new silks, linens, come of the better class mercerized goods and lighter cloths will be extensively used. The trimmings will be profuse or extremely simple according to the use to be made of the wrap. A happy medium is the better plan if one has but one wrap and wishes it to do much service. Perhaps no material or color is so useful as the black silk wrap which if plainly made, may be used for all sorts of affairs, and with the addition of lace and other accessories such as fancy collars, etc., it may be made elaborate enough for dress functions.

There is a new and stylish raincoat from a new French model made from "Pluette." The dress form wide paneled effect gradually from the shoulders to the bottom of the coat. The skirts are slightly gathered at the applied to the body part at the sides and back where an apparent continuation of the fronts graduates to the waist-line. A slender draped girde conceals the joining of body and skirt about a hip's width in advance, but the top of the skirt which are completed with wide cuffs.

The hat to be worn with this is a slightly turned up sailor, which is always becoming to the youthful face. It is of Alice blue straw, the crown decorated with a wide ribbon of the same tone and, in the shape of ribbon, on the upturned side is a graceful group of cool plumes.

A pretty spring suit for a school girl is built of soft Venetian cloth in queen's gray. The smart jacket belongs to the popular empire period, while the skirt has nine gores, which are attached on the side seams.

The high empire bodice is rather full deep yoke to a master lower, while the stitching is again repeated upon the flat collar and the flaring cuffs.

The Libel Suit

Considerable comment has been caused in the city by the dispatch published in the Optic, yesterday, announcing that indictments for libel had been returned against D. A. Macpherson, president of the Morning Journal company, and J. H. McCutchen, editor of the Industrial Advertiser.

Wishing to keep the columns of the Optic as clean as possible, we have ever consistently refrained from referring, in any way, to the slanderous statements made by the latter paper against individuals or against this paper. The paper generally has been ignored. The time seems to have come, however, when the statements could not be passed by, and Secretary Reynolds has taken the effective way of meeting them.

We regret exceedingly that the Journal has been led so far from the path of rectitude as to follow the course of the Albuquerque weekly in making slanderous statements against the territorial secretary. Of course we are aware that the case has not been tried as yet, and we are not going to try it, but the fact remains that the charges made by the Advertiser and supported by the Journal have been thoroughly investigated and declared false by one of the very highest tribunals of the land, the senate committee on territories.

It seemed to us at the time of the vindication of Secretary Reynolds that the Journal should have retracted its harsh statements. It owed it to itself as a self-respecting, representative newspaper to do so, and we are more than sorry that by failing in this respect, it has brought on this libel suit. The Journal has our sympathy, but we still believe it will be the best policy for it to retract, apologize and make the most satisfactory terms possible.—The Optic.

Hirelings In Crime

The confession of the hireling assassin, Orchard, so far as it has been made public, is a tale of atrocity and horror such as mankind civilized seldom hears. It discloses, not in blood-and-thunder fiction, but in actual fact, the cold-blooded and methodical system of operations of the professional murderer who was ready to kill almost anybody his employers wished disposed of, so that it could be done without too great risk. By no means the least deplorable phase of it exists in the fact that the murderer himself had to be guaranteed immunity from punishment in order to get the truth. The majesty of the law is dehonored when compromise is made with such villainy.

And yet—more deplorable still—the country has become shamefully familiar with such compromises with crime. In New York one man is under sentence of death because another, who confessed the murder and went free, accused him of influencing him to the deed. And in the same state a professional lobbyist, who is charged with having made a business of bribing legislatures for years, is promised immunity if he will tell now what dead or deposed financiers furnished him the money. The worst criminal is the safest man under the law today if he will but surrender what little manhood is left in him and inform against his associates.

But even worse, the criminal is offered a reward to add perjury to murder, and thus palm off his crime upon the innocent, for the benefit of detectives and other abettors of crime.

Against Tuberculosis

The Journal of the Outdoor Life, published at Trudeau, N. Y., in the Adirondack Mountains, has been made the official organ of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, of which Dr. Herman M. Biggs, medical director of the New York City Health Department, is president. The membership of the association includes the leading workers in the field of tuberculosis, both lay and professional, throughout the United States and Canada.

The Journal of the Outdoor Life aims to be helpful to persons suffering from or having a tendency toward lung trouble. It deals with the outdoor treatment of tuberculosis in an intelligent and scientific manner and, while not advocating self-treatment by the laity, or attempting to supplant personal medical advice, it points out some of the common pitfalls that beset the unwary health-seeker. It advocates fresh air, nourishing food, carefully regulated exercise and competent medical supervision.

The Journal of the Outdoor Life is not devoted exclusively to the subject of tuberculosis, but aims to publish readable, practicable and useful articles on how to get the most benefit, satisfaction and happiness from an outdoor life. The subscription price is $1.00 a year, or 10 cents a copy.

Primaries Tonight

The primaries of both the republican and democratic parties will meet tonight in the places already announced in the daily press. Right here is the place for the people to get in their work.

If the property holder, the business man, the professional man, the laboring man—if these and other classes shall absent themselves, and permit the bosses, the fellows with axes to grind, the unreliable and those with no interests at stake, but looking out for an ineffectual graft, or, worse still, those with friends to reward and the bosses and grafters are allowed to run matters, whatever the city suffers in the next two years can be laid at the doors of the good people themselves.

Attend the primaries, voters of Albuquerque!

The Citizen challenges the Morning Grafter if it will show wherein The Citizen "misstated, misquoted or misrepresented" Mr. Luchinger in the water plant matter. Mr. Luchinger did not claim, neither did he intimate, that there had been any misstatement, misrepresentation or misquotation of himself in The Citizen, nor will he make any such charge. The charge is a lie, whole and simple, by the water organ, which has more interest in beguiling the people of Albuquerque into buying the water plant than has even the putative water company.

The Morning Grafter said today: "Cities all over the west and southwest of the population and wealth of Albuquerque are considering the question of street pavement. Most of them are doing the paving. The question of street improvement will be a live one in this town before very long." Not if the Grafter can hamboozle the people into buying for its benefit the present water plant at $300,000, with untold need of extensions and improvements.

For grand and lofty tumbling, even on the most unimportant matters, the Albuquerque Grafting Journal can certainly take the cake. The Citizen, the other day, began to notate and collate the instances in the last three months, in which the Grafter had been compelled to come out and confess that it lied; but the number grew so rapidly that the task was abandoned. However, it may be resumed.

And still the Morning Grafter and Water Organ does not give the people the information about the water plant which it is attempting to fool the people into buying for its own interest. It prefers to talk about "those essential and fundamental rules for the use of the English language," of which it is as ignorant as a New Mexico burro is ignorant of music. This The Citizen will show when it has an idle and sportive moment on its hands.

The working people of Germany are eating not only horses, but dogs and cats, because the price of beef, pork, mutton, fowls, rabbits, and other food animals, is too high to be reached by the wage earners. And yet, in the interest of the landed class, the meat products of the United States are subjected to so high a tariff as to make them, when imported into Germany, as expensive as the home products.

Forecast For Next

Presidential Choice

By Gibson Gardner.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—The personal influence of President Roosevelt will be a large factor in the choice of the next republican candidate for president. He has made it clear that he does not propose to dictate to the party, but he claims the privilege of any party leader, of having a personal choice. Who this choice will be is known only to President Roosevelt. That Charles W. Fairbanks is not favored by President Roosevelt as the republican candidate in 1908 is known positively to be the case. President Roosevelt does not think the republican party could win with Fairbanks heading the ticket. The president feels most kindly, personally, toward Vice President Fairbanks, but he does not recognize him of the same political school as himself. He believes that the next candidate will have to be a more positive personality than Mr. Fairbanks if he is to win. He believes also that the candidate will have to be a man who stands for some of the things the people now seem to favor, such as regulation of the trusts.

It is the belief of many of the shrewdest party leaders in Washington that Joseph G. Cannon will be the most available candidate for the republicans to nominate for president in 1908. In fact there has already started quite a Cannon boom. There is a feeling that Cannon would campaign well. The "Uncle Joe" personality is already quite familiar to the people, and the people seem to like it. Even the age objection—which is about the only one urged against Cannon—is being overruled. Or rather Uncle Joe himself seems to be living it down. He appears so vigorous, is so full of steam, and so unaffected by any of the physical limitations that attack even younger men, that the politicians are coming to agree that "a man is as young as he feels," and that Uncle Joe, by this test, is about 37.

Senator Joseph Benson Foraker is almost an avowed candidate for the republican presidential nomination. His lightning rod is most decidedly up. He bases his hopes on the idea that the "conservative interests" will need a good man, and that he is a much better man—much brainier and stronger in moral courage and in ability to make a campaign, than his only rival in the "conservative" field, namely Vice President Fairbanks. Some people think Foraker's course in railway rate legislation has made him unpopular with the people. Foraker himself thinks his course will eventually be popularly approved.

Occupations Now

Open For Women

Nearly 5,000,000 women go to work every day in the United States—to go to paid work, whether the returns be $2 a week or $10,000 a year, writes Juliet Wilbur Thompson in Success Magazine. Sixty years ago, Harriet Martineau, while visiting America, declared that she found here but seven occupations for women; teaching, needlework, taking boarders, typesetting, employment in cotton mills, bookbinding and domestic service. Now there are scarcely seven occupations closed to them; they are pouring out into the world of activities, and the five millions will be six, at the next counting.

Whether or not you or they like the change is wholly unimportant. As someone has suggested, the early eoliphus may have resented changing into a horse and his neighbors may have greeted his development in the matter of hoofs and legs with acridly critical comment; but, when once started horseward, nothing could stop him; he had to adjust himself to the outer conditions that demanded one concentrated toe in the place of five. In the same way woman is being swept along in a great, vague, irresistible wave of economic change, when she turns her face down town in the early morning.

She will pass an alarmist uttering his dismal note on every corner; his warning is prophetic of lost charm, lost power, and lost position. One declares that presently man will cease altogether to support woman, if this thing goes on increasing, and then how about home and mother? The answer to that—not new, but worth repeating—is that man never has supported woman. To support means to provide with the necessities of life. Who was doing the larger share of this, the man who raised and sheared the sheep or the woman who carded and spun and wove the wool, and cut and sewed the clothes?—the man who shot the bird or the woman who plucked and cooked it?—the man who provided the yarn or the woman who knit the stockings? It is fairly even matter, this "support," in the days when most of the human needs were worked out under each individual roof.

In humbler homes, where the necessities are bought instead of made and yet there is but one source of money, we often get a picture of a shriveling, care worn father, staggering under a weight of strumming, embroidering, spending daughters that makes us rejoice in that swelling five million at their gainful occupations. How can they do it, these kindly, careless girls; and what will become of them when they have worked their victim to death? Surely some change in a system that allows such uneven burdens need not make us fear a lessening of woman's intrinsic value; she will have gained in every sense when she becomes ashamed to rest her healthy young weight on overworked shoulders, and reduces his earnings a problem for professional economists to struggle with; though it has been suggested that, as a producer, she always has competed with man and reduced his earnings, whether she wove her own clothes or earned them with a typewriter.

England's Maneuvers

Will be World-Wide

London Dispatch.

The naval maneuvers in June are to be on a larger scale than has ever been contemplated before, and are designed to attack problems upon the solution of which an island like England depends. The coming maneuvers are, therefore, to be of a world wide character. On a given day and hour, just previous to the commencement of the maneuvers, the signal that Britain has been suddenly plunged into war will be flashed to the British fleets all over the world, and measures will immediately be taken to protect British commerce.

A number of squadrons, whose disposition is to be kept secret, will be engaged in the work, and their first duty will be to see to it that the merchant vessels are defended from the enemy. With this object, whenever merchant steamers are sighted they will be taken under the care of a warship and escorted in convoy to a place of safety.

While the defending fleets are thus gathering the merchantmen together, the hostile fleet, represented by rapid cruisers, will make dashes at the convoys, at different ports, and endeavor to cut out the vessels and take them as prizes. Against them, however, will be arrayed a number of vessels, whose duty it will be to shadow the enemy and discover his plans and encounter his strategy.

For example, a hostile squadron might be discovered making for the coast of Australia. Warned by wireless telegraphic messages, passed from vessel to vessel, the Australian squadron would at once gather together the merchant ships in the threatened area and detach a portion of their forces, intercept the commerce destroyers, endeavor to bring them to action and either drive them off or sink them.

UNIVERSITY NOTES

Miss Sisler gave an interesting address yesterday morning at the assembly period, describing the great libraries of the world. The six of most importance in her talk were the Bibliotheca Nationale, the British Museum, the Imperial Public Library of St. Petersburg, the Royal Library of Berlin, the library of Congress, and the Vatican.

The boys of the base ball team are delighted with their new suits, which arrived yesterday. The suits are silver grey, with the words, "New Mexico," in cherry, across the breast. Grey caps with cherry bars, cherry belts and cherry stockings, make a very pretty combination. With one victory over the Albuquerque Indian school, the team is starting out for a successful season.

Last Tuesday the assembly period was used for the purpose of warding insignia to such students as had fulfilled the athletic requirements. The insignia consists of the letters, "N. M.," of cherry felt, and is given for participation in four athletic contests or games.

In accordance with Governor Hagerman's proclamation, the university will observe Arbor Day, next Friday. For the past four years every student has been on hand to assist in planting trees and hedges. Groves have been planted and drives have been lined with cottonwoods and poplars. This year the energies of the students will be used in making an arbo-theater. The excavation and grading of the out-door amphitheater has been in progress for several days and all will be in readiness for putting in the trees next Friday. This unique landscape feature will beautify the northwest part of the campus. It is expected that as the trees grow up they may furnish the classic shade, hitherto lacking on the campus, under which university exercises may be carried on under inviting conditions.

Prof. Ansell received recently from the Leeds & Northrop company, of Philadelphia, a high sensibility galvanometer for calibrating electrical instruments of all kinds. The equipment includes a magazine wire resistance box. This is perhaps the best apparatus of the kind in New Mexico.

The shop has increased its equipment with a large wood turning lathe, a small lathe for turning iron and a small steam engine.

Three volumes of The Records of the Past, beautifully bound, have been added to the classical department of the library.

Dormitory facilities will be largely increased next year. There will be accommodations for twenty-four men and 1277 women. This shows the demand that the university has hitherto been unable to meet.

The material for the "Mirage" is all in, and in a few days will be in the hands of the printers. This is the second annual published by the students. In its material arrangement and workmanship it will far surpass its predecessor.

A GASTRONOMICAL TREAT WILL BE SERVED ALY AT THE WHITE ELEPHANT MERCHANTS' LUNCH FROM 11 TO 2:30.

TWO LETTERS ON IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

"Only a Voter" Wants to Know
What the Library Building Was Given For.

THE BONDED INDEBTEDNESS IS MUCH IMPRESSED WITH MILLS

To The Evening Citizen:

The attention of the voters of this city seems to be engrossed solely regarding the water bond issue, and as yet we have heard nothing regarding the issue of $30,000 to build a city hall on the little lot of ground on North Second street and Tupper road. I would like to ask if the Academy building was not given to this city for the express purpose of the city's using the same as a meeting place of the city officers and such other necessities as the city may wish to use it for, with the exception of a city hall? Your learned (?) morning editor says it would be a shame for ladies and children to have to go to the library and witness one of our "finest" dragging some unfortunate being to the jail. The writer knows better than this, as the building cannot be used for jail purposes. It is only one of the ways this corporation itself tries to carry out its objects, by statements that are misleading to the average voter. Why not use the old Academy building for a few years as a city hall, and erect on the present city site good building for the fire department, police station and jail? The future prosperity of our city will require in a few years a more elaborate structure than we can at present afford to pay for. Let us curtail our expenses for a few years, until we can have our present rates of taxes decreased, before we contract new debts, which will prevent people from investing in and improving large areas of unimproved property in our city.

ONLY A VOTER.

(Note—In answer to the foregoing. The Citizen would suggest to its esteemed correspondent that the annual payment of 4% per cent on bonds to erect the needed buildings, $1,250, would be better than paying present rent. This takes no notice of the utterly inadequate, unsanitary and every way undesirable arrangement which now exists. Then, too, to build fire company's quarters, jail, police headquarters, and other needed offices in one place and put the meeting hall of the common council half a mile away, would be neither economical nor convenient. The Citizen thinks that issue of bonds for a complete city building, adequate to the needs of the city government and an attractive enough to be an honor to the metropolis of New Mexico, is a proposal worthy of immediate acceptance and action.)

"A TAXPAYER" WANTS TO KNOW SOMETHING

To The Evening Citizen:

As a taxpayer, and before voting for bonds for the water company and city hall, which will be $330,000 (if passed), I would like to ask for information for myself as well as many others, who have the interests of the city at heart, how much is the bonded indebtedness of the city at present, including the city bonds for our sewer, schools, and also how much are the county bonds, which this city pays nearly 90 per cent of, outstanding at present? This is a matter which the people should know before we contract new debts. Each morning I give the voters an honest report of same, as you have always represented the people.

I am, yours truly,
A TAXPAYER.

(Note—Answering "A Taxpayer," a representative of The Evening Citizen, this morning, in his investigations, discovered that the total bonded indebtedness of Albuquerque, at present, is $257,000, upon which an annual interest of $12,450 is paid. The divisions of this indebtedness are as follows:

School bonds, $94,000; interest, $5,130; sewer bonds, $50,000; interest, $2,000; general funding bonds $93,000; interest, $4,570; viaduct bonds $15,000; interest, $750.

The bonded indebtedness of Bernalillo county is $563,000, and the interest annually amounts to $18,338.

COMMISSIONERS ORDER BRIDGES REPAIRED

COUNTY SURVEYOR RANKIN RECOMMENDS BARRELS BE CLOSED TO TRAFFIC—DYKE TO BE REPAIRED IMMEDIATELY.

The Bernalillo board of county commissioners met in the probate clerk's office this morning and transacted business as follows:

Moved by Commissioner Springer, seconded by Commissioner Sanchez, the board passed a motion ordering the clerk to draw a warrant on the flood fund in favor of County Surveyor D. J. Rankin for $142.51 in payment of county vouchers approved by the board on January 2.

This warrant was for work done by the county surveyor on two Alameda dykes last fall.

The board also received a report from Mr. Rankin on the condition of the Barrele bridge, which said in part:

"I find that the first 100-foot span on the east end of the structure and the second 100-foot span on the west end of the structure are unsafe for travel, and I recommend that it be closed to traffic indefinitely.

"In repairing the bridge, I recommend that two pile bents be driven on each side of both spans, thus reducing each span to thirty-three feet."

The Corralles bridge which is north of the city, was also reported in bad condition, and the clerk was ordered to advertise for bids to put both in good repair.

The board also ordered the clerk to advertise for bids for repairs to the city surveyor, made at

INVESTIGATES THE WOOLEN MILLS

A. W. Lumm Comes From Hobart, Oklahoma, to Investigate for Himself.

GOVERNOR HAGERMAN AT SAN MARCIAL

Speeches at Cattlemen's Convention Received With Deafening Applause.

EVEN RODE A FREIGHT TRAIN

At the adjourned meeting of the directors of the Albuquerque Woolen Mills held last night, the proposition of enlarging the Albuquerque Woolen Mills was taken up and discussed at great length. The committee having the matter in hand, composed of Messrs. Hopewell, Strickler and Brooks, stated that they would be ready to make their report at the next meeting of the club.

At last night's meeting A. W. Lumm, a prominent farmer of Hobart, Okla., and a member of the Farmers' Alliance, was present, having arrived in the city yesterday from Hobart for the purpose of investigating for himself the conditions pertaining to the woolen mills, and of which he will make a report to the members of the Farmers' Alliance in the Hobart district, upon his return to that city.

Mr. Lumm impresses the idea of a decidedly business like gentleman, one who can look deep into things of a business nature, despite the fact that his life has been spent as a farmer, and one whom it would evidently be hard to deceive in a business deal. He has made a visit to the woolen mills, having been shown every department by President Bearup, and was so much impressed with the outlook for a favorable investment that he immediately bought a block of stock for himself and his wife and family, and that he will render a favorable report to his constituents in Oklahoma concerning the Rio Grande Woolen mills can hardly be doubted after listening to Mr. Lumm's enthusiastic views on the subject.

During his stay in this city, Mr. Lumm called at the office of The Evening Citizen, and in conversation with a representative of the paper, gave out the following interview:

"Some time ago a Mr. Woodrow, representing the Rio Grande Woolen Mills, stopped off in our town and addressed a large number of the citizens and farmers on the woolen mill proposition. He was an excellent talker, but some questions asked him by some of us were of a nature that he failed to post himself on, and consequently his showing was not as good as it might have been. We asked him how many Albuquerqueans had taken stock in the mills, and how much they had taken. The showing along this line was not all it might have been either. We talked it over among ourselves, and at last I decided to come to Albuquerque and see for myself. On my way here I stopped at Trinidad, Las Vegas, Raton and other places, and I inquired at each place about the mills. Imagine my surprise when I failed to find a solitary man that even knew there was a woolen mill in Albuquerque. I arrived here and was in sight of the mill before I found anybody who knew where the mill was. I made an inspection of the mill, investigated the books, and found the entire proposition 'way beyond my wildest expectations. I believe it is a paying proposition, and I am going to let my farmer friends here in Oklahoma know what a really good thing it is."

"I hear nothing but praise for the president, Mr. Bearup, although I have asked at least fifty business men about him. He is a socialist, a politician, but from all I hear, his political creed does not interfere in the least with the excellent management of the institution, and my examination of the books showed me that Mr. Bearup, nor any other officer of the concern has any advantage, not a penny's worth, over the rest of the stockholders."

"I am so impressed with the institution that I am seriously considering retiring from the farming business and devoting my entire time to the mill and the furthering of the success of the institution. I am ready to invest in much money as I have, if they will let me have the stock."

"Friends of mine in Hobart who have received suits of clothes from the mill have stated that they could not duplicate them in any store for $25. The suit from the woolen mills, all wool and costs them $14.40."

"Another friend of the stockholders on Rio Grande Woolen mills goods, blankets, clothing, underwear, etc., and stated that on a purchase of $92 he saved $92, meaning that elsewhere the same goods would have cost him just twice what he paid for them here. I did not see, until I came and investigated for myself, how such excellent material could be turned out for such a price, and still leave a profit for the manufacturer."

Mr. Lumm, who paid his own expenses out here to investigate the mills, is exceedingly enthusiastic of this particular enterprise of Albuquerque, and who represents no party or alliance, he stated that he felt he would be doing his farmer friends a good turn by telling them of the bright prospects for the success of the mills, and putting them next to a good thing."

Mr. Lumm will remain in the metropolis until Monday or Tuesday, before returning to Hobart.

POLICE COURT.

J. F. Donahue, telegrapher for the Santa Fe, who, obtaining telegraphic transportation to San Marcial for himself, so manipulated the message, it is alleged, as to make it read for two, and who with a companion, whom he had taken along on the forged transportation, was arrested at San Marcial on a charge of forgery, was brought to this city yesterday to stand trial for forgery, together with his companion. Warrants charging Donahue and John Doe, his companion's name being unknown to the officers, with forgery, were issued, and the prisoners were taken to the county jail yesterday to await a hearing, the case being sent direct to the grand jury. Donahue and his companion refuse to discuss the case and it is not known what kind of a defense they will make. The case is set for trial next week.

Harry McCoy, formerly employed at Trimble's red barn, was arrested yesterday for abusing a horse. When remonstrated with by the foreman, McCoy, it is alleged, turned on the foreman and cursed him. This morning in police court he was found guilty and fined $5. Not having the necessary cash, McCoy will labor for the city for five days.

BERNALILLO COUNTY DISTRICT COURT

United States Petit Jury Makes Final Report and Is Discharged.

THE CALEDONIAN SUIT GOES OVER

The United States petit jury, which sat upon the case of Alfred Benson, charged with the unlawful selling of liquor to Indians at Gallup on July 4 and 5, last, found a verdict of guilty, after two efforts. In the first effort the jury found the defendant not guilty of selling liquor on July 5, which was very much out of keeping with the instructions of the court. After additional instructions, the jury in less than ten minutes consultation, brought forth a verdict directly opposite to the first—the verdict of guilty, as charged.

Bootlegger Gray on Trial. That Uncle Sam has decided to break up the practice of selling liquor to Indians is quite evident from the strategy used to trap one Gray, a colored bootlegger of Gallup, whose trial before the United States petit jury took the greater part of the day. The evidence showed that agents of the government furnished the money for which Gray sold Navajo Indians from Fort Defiance, liquor, and that the liquor was purchased upon instructions from said agents.

The witnesses in this case were three Navajo Indians, Agent Perry, and Special Agent Nichols. The latter is special agent from the department at Washington, and was one of two of Uncle Sam's special agents who succeeded in trapping Gray. Attorney E. W. Dobson represented Gray, while the prosecution was conducted by United States Attorney W. H. H. Lively, who is assisted by D. J. Leahy. The case went to the jury at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Boswell Fainted. There was an additional chapter enacted in the case of the United States vs. Rebecca Boswell, this morning. The defendant, who is an aged negro, fainted when brought before Judge Abbott and had to be carried from the court room. R. W. D. Bryan appears as attorney for the defense.

It was understood at a late hour today that the defendants would withdraw their plea of guilty, made yesterday, and the case would be continued, with making an affidavit to the death of her husband, who was supposed to have died while serving with the Ninth United States cavalry in the Philippines. The question brought up by the prosecution is that Mrs. Boswell's first husband was still alive, and that she had not secured a divorce previous to marrying the soldier.

Demurrer Filed in Maus Case. A demurrer was filed this afternoon in the case of the United States vs. John Maus, alias John Myers, and Rose Wells, charged with adultery, asking that the indictment be quashed, and the defendants forthwith be set at liberty.

The United States grand jury report was very brief, dealing with the business which had come before it. Its labors during the six days of session consisted of probing thirteen cases. True bills were found in nine cases, the evidence in four cases not being sufficient to warrant indictments.

Caledonian Suit Goes Over. In the suit of the Caledonian Coal company against the Santa Fe, the plaintiff yesterday filed a stipulation for continuance, which means that the case goes over until the next term of court.

U. S. Grand Jury Discharged. Judge Abbott complimented the United States grand jury, when discharging it, on the promptness with which it had done its work, and then subtracted from the glory thus cast upon it, by saying that no doubt the great desire of the jurymen to get through and get back to their business furnished an incentive for the dispatch with which they had worked.

The United States grand jury report was very brief, dealing with the business which had come before it. Its labors during the six days of session consisted of probing thirteen cases. True bills were found in nine cases, the evidence in four cases not being sufficient to warrant indictments.

Magdalena was designated as the meeting place of the next convention. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President—Hon. W. C. McDonald, of Carrizozo.

Secretary—W. S. Spachman, of San Acacio.

SHRINERS TO HOLD
CEREMONIAL SESSION

HERE MAY 4, TOGETHER WITH COURT OF ISIS—WILL ATTEND MEETING OF IMPERIAL COUNCIL IN STYLE.

May 4 the nobles of Ballut Ahyad temple of the Mystic Shrine will meet in ceremonial session here, at which time a court of Isis will also be held, and it is expected that after the formal announcement has been made, which will take place in the next few days, Shrinerism will be in attendance.

This meeting will be as a preliminary to a trip of the Shriner to the Imperial Council, which will be held in Los Angeles May 7 to 12, inclusive. The Shriner of New Mexico will attend in style. A special train from Albuquerque has been arranged for, and a rate of $35 for the round trip has been secured for the occasion, with an additional charge of $17 if one wishes to return by way of Portland, Ore.

Just what day the Shriner will leave here has not been definitely decided upon as yet, but a committee meeting will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, at which time the date and time of departure will be decided upon.

The special train will be for the Nobles and their ladies, and will consist of several Pullmans, a diner and buffet car, and it is thought the train will leave here at midnight on May 3, arriving in Los Angeles on May 7.

Judging from the arrangement being made and the interest being manifested among the Shriner in Albuquerque and elsewhere, the gathering of New Mexico Shriner at the Imperial Council will be such as to adequately impress all attending, with the importance of the territory as a stamping ground for good Shrinerism. The headquarters of the New Mexico Shriner will be in Los Angeles will be at the Hollenbeck hotel, where accommodations have long since been engaged.

The society which borrowed Company G's U. S. A. flag, will please return same. H. RUPPE.

MUSEMENTS AT THE ELKS THEATRE

MATINEE THIS AFTERNOON AND PERFORMANCE THIS EVENING

The immense audiences which nightly attended the concerts of the Elly band in Chicago last summer included the very best social and artistic element in that city. Indeed, the impression made on one standing outside the Coliseum as the people came out from one of the Elly concerts was almost the same as would be received from watching the exit of Chicago's choicest society folk from a performance of grand opera. Scores of automobiles and fashionable carriages lined both sides of the street during every concert, each waiting for the call of the number attached to them, while the garage assigned to the auditorium was taxed to its utmost in taking care of the machines of those who preferred to have them kept under cover during the performance.

The mention of grand opera recalls the statement made last summer by Chicago's leading musical critic who, referring to Mr. Elly's inspired young leader, Ferullo, said: "I heard him do the prologue, opening chorus and 'Lament' from 'Pagliacci' a few nights ago, and Scotti at his finest never sang the prologue with better phrasing and expressive shading and Caruso never sounded the poignant despair of the 'Lament' with deeper, truer passion than did Ferullo through the medium of his players. He sang every phrase with them. The climax of the 'Lament,' like that which he achieves in the 'Carmen' fantasia, is overwhelming in its breadth and power and yet, thanks to the superb quality of the band, noisiness is avoided."

HANFORD COMING ON SATURDAY, MARCH 31

The appearance of Mr. Charles B. Hanford in 'The Merchant of Venice' and 'The Taming of the Shrew' at the Elks' opera house on Saturday, matinee and night, March 31, is an event of more than ordinary interest.

as he represents the school of acting which is considered in the fore front. An actor who has remained "good" for so long, over the same circuit and before the same people, as has Mr. Hanford, secures a standing which cannot be estimated lightly. Mr. Hanford's name is a guarantee. He has been a welcome visitor season after season for many years and has never failed to give a performance which gratified the critical sense and delighted the auditor who seeks the theater for an evening's diversion. Trained as he was in his early career by the great masters of his art, he has steadfastly clung to the highest ideals of his profession and has claimed the admiring confidence of the public as an actor, as a stage manager and as a producer.

BUSINESS IN SANTA FE LAND OFFICE

SINCE MARCH FIRST—FIFTY-TWO HOMESTEAD ENTRIES IN TORRANCE.

The following is the business done at the United States land office at Santa Fe, since the first of March, 1906:

Number of homestead entries, 90; acres contained in same, 13,768; number of final homestead entries, 29; acres contained in same, 4,548; number of desert land entries, 18; acres contained in same, 2,148.

The homestead entries were divided among the counties in the district as follows:

Torrance 52, San Juan 8, Guadalupe 4, San Miguel 8, Taos 2, Bernalillo 3, Santa Fe 3, Valencia 3, Mora 1, Rio Arriba none, McKinley none, Socorro none, Sandoval none, Quay none, Colfax none.

The final homestead entries are divided among the counties in the district:

Rio Arriba 5, Taos none, San Juan none, San Miguel 6, Bernalillo 2, McKinley none, Valencia none, Socorro none, Sandoval none, Torrance 1, Guadalupe 3, Quay none, Mora 4, Colfax 3.

The business in the Santa Fe land district is very heavy, but not as heavy as that of the other districts on account of the large number of land grants in this district. As shown by the above figures Torrance county is in the lead with the largest number of homestead entries and San Juan and San Miguel are second. In none of the other counties is the number large.

CLARK'S SURVEY MUST GOVERN

Official Information From Governor Hagerman on the Subject.

ERROR IN THE FIRST SURVEY

Ascertaining that Governor Herbert J. Hagerman was well posted upon the status of the New Mexico-Texas boundary line, from the southeastern corner of New Mexico to the point where the southeastern corner of Oklahoma strikes New Mexico's eastern frontier, the governor's opinion and information upon the subject was asked. To a representative of the Santa Fe New Mexican, the governor said that from official sources and from personal knowledge he was quite well posted in the matter and gave the following information, which will be of great interest to the people residing along the eastern line of the territory, to this paper.

The boundary lines established between New Mexico and Texas in 1859 and 1860, by the boundary commission, under the act of June 5, 1858, (11 Stats. 510), were confirmed by the true boundary lines by the act of congress approved March 3, 1891, (25 Stats. 971). These lines were established by a boundary commission upon which John H. Clark was appointed as commissioner, on behalf of the United States, and the lines established have usually been referred to as the "Clark lines."

The thirty-second parallel of north latitude was first established as the south boundary of New Mexico from a point on the Rio Grande river to the one hundred and third meridian west longitude, which latitude formed the last boundary of the territory. Portions only of the meridian were actually established and marked in the field, that between the thirty-second and thirty-third parallel of latitude from the south end of the meridian and that from the northwestern corner of Texas (latitude 36 degrees, 30 minutes) south as far as the thirty-fourth parallel, leaving a distance of some seventy-five miles not marked in any manner.

Public land surveys have recently been made in the locality of Texas, and in these surveys the conditions along that part of the one hundred and third meridian have been found to be in accordance with previous general reports concerning the same, i. e., although no Clark monuments were found in that locality, a line of fence known as the "fence line" had been constructed by parties owning land in Texas as the west boundary of their holdings, and while this fence could not be considered as an official line, yet it was found to be in the position where other surveys referred to Clark monuments to the north would indicate its existence as approximately defining the line established by Clark.

Under authority from the secretary of the interior, an investigation was made of these boundary lines and of the 100th meridian by Arthur D. Kidder, examiner of surveys of the general lands office, in 1903, with a view of determining the astronomical locations of the various lines defining the common boundaries of New Mexico and Texas, and a report thereon was submitted. April 19, 1904, to the secretary of the interior, with the view of having the same submitted to congress as a basis for such further legislation, if any, as might be deemed necessary to define with exactness these boundaries upon the ground. So far no such legislation has been had. It was found by Mr. Kidder that at the intersection of the parallels defined as the boundaries, there were discrepancies between the Clark survey of the 103d meridian and the Kidder location thereof, varying from 2.7 miles to 3.4 miles at the southwest corner of New Mexico.

Until further legislation is had, the general land office will continue to recognize the Clark lines as establishing the east and south boundaries of New Mexico.

SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR THE MINERS

NEW LAW FOR MINING LOCATIONS FOR CONVENTION AT BISBEE.

Great interest is being manifested in the coming convention of the Arizona Miners' association, in Bisbee next month. It is very likely that a large number of mining men from all sections of that territory and the southwest will attend the convention as they believe that the association can do much good and has a wide field to work in.

It is reported that Bisbee is anxious to have the convention postponed until next fall, as the streets are torn up undergoing improvements at present. However, Douglas has come to the front and has asked for the convention if Bisbee does not care for it and it will very likely be held on April 9, as scheduled, either at Bisbee or Douglas. This will be a matter for the executive committee of the association to decide.

"One of the best things the convention could do and one that would meet with unanimous approval would be to ask to have the federal laws changed regarding the ten-foot hole that must be dug on all claims," remarked one man to a Tucson Citizen reporter, who had been at Tucson for a quarter of a century and who has made a fortune out of mines which he had himself located.

"I would suggest a law requiring that all persons who take up a mining claim pay $20 to the county in which their claim is located to have the claim recorded. This would result in many hundred additional dollars to the county, which could be well spent for roads, bridges and in a similar manner."

"At present the ten-foot hole is supposed to represent an expenditure of $100. The hole does no good, as is evidenced by the large number of abandoned holes found in so many places."

"It would be much better if the statutes were changed so that the counties would receive some direct benefit from the locating of mining claims."

CHINA SEEKS A LARGER NAVY TO DEFEND GOLDEN DRAGON

SECRETARY OF IMPERIAL COMMISSION SAYS THAT HIS NATION IS WAKING UP AND HINTS THAT IT KNOWS THE WEAKNESS OF AMERICAN COAST DEFENSES.

New York, March 24.—According to Tso Ping Lung, first secretary of the imperial Chinese high commission, now visiting this country, China knows the necessity of a larger navy and proposes to build it.

This admission came in the course of an interview here with the various members of the commission which is headed by Prince Tsai Tso, own cousin of her imperial highness, Tsi An, dowager empress.

"China is a rich country," said Tso Ping Lung, "but her resources are undeveloped. The educated people know the importance of a strong navy and army, and they realize the necessity for spending the large sums of money for building them up."

"There is a proposition now on foot looking toward the construction of a large naval base at Hang-chau lay, near Hang-chau, situated near the terminus of the Grand canal. A large garrison is located at this walled city, which is one of the great foreign ports of our country."

When it was suggested by the interviewer that China's war plans were with a view to contesting the American policy, the Chinaman, with quick perception of the fitnesses of diplomacy, said: "The Chinese government considers America China's good friend. This talk of a war between your country and mine is absurd. Yours is the richest nation in the world. As I have said, we are poor because our resources of wealth are not developed."

"It may be true that your western coast is not well fortified and that your navy in Pacific waters is small. But what could China do, even with that?"

"If Japan were with us? Well, that is a different question. I do not know. I presume that you could get your Atlantic fleets around to the Pacific if you wanted to. In the east it is well known that America is not well protected on the Pacific coast. But we also know that with your wealth it would not take you long to make the Pacific as well fortified as your eastern coast."

"You Americans act very quickly and you have the means to do so. I guess you are neglecting the western side until you see the need, and with China and Japan the friends of this world. As I have said, we are poor because our resources of wealth are not developed."

"It may be true that your western coast is not well fortified and that your navy in Pacific waters is small. But what could China do, even with that?"

"If Japan were with us? Well, that is a different question. I do not know. I presume that you could get your Atlantic fleets around to the Pacific if you wanted to. In the east it is well known that America is not well protected on the Pacific coast. But we also know that with your wealth it would not take you long to make the Pacific as well fortified as your eastern coast."

"You Americans act very quickly and you have the means to do so. I guess you are neglecting the western side until you see the need, and with China and Japan the friends of this nation it does not seem so important. "The war talk in China is the outburst of the uneducated masses. The government thinks of no such thing. Of course we do feel that America is unjust with its exclusion act and the merchants and traders people are bitter. But I can assure you that our government entertains no anti-foreign feeling."

"The situation between China and Japan is today very gratifying. We are on excellent terms of friendship. The Chinese people regard the Japanese army and navy one of the greatest in the world and we honor them for their successes."

In reply to a question as to how far Japan would go to assist China in the event of the latter being involved in a war with a foreign power, Tso Ping Lung signified his total ignorance. He also refused to go into details about the shipbuilding project.

ARIZONA VALLEY RANCH SELLS FOR $50,000.

One of the biggest real estate deals made in Maricopa county in recent days came to light this morning when the contract was filed in the office of Recorder Leonard conveying to Henry Gilman of Madison, Wis., what is known as the Hansen ranch, at Kyrene, the consideration being $50,000, says the Phoenix Gazette.

The ranch is owned at this time by Levi Seass and consists of 1,160 acres with a pumping plant, cold storage plant, etc., being one of the best ranches in Maricopa county. It now has on it nearly 600 acres of sugar beets.

Mr. Gilman has been in Phoenix a couple of times, but it not here at present, his interests in the deal being looked after by Judge Jamison, the well known Phoenix attorney.

Mr. Gilman is a beet sugar grower at Madison, Wis., and will continue in that business here. He will take charge of the Hansen ranch on May 1st.

Sugar beets tell the story of the sale. The ranch has been for sale but no purchaser was found until the sugar beets were planted thereon. The price paid is in the neighborhood of $50 an acre but much of the land on the Hansen ranch it not in cultivation.

HIGH OFFICIALS OF SANTA FE

Here Today--Tour of Inspection the Purpose of the Gathering.

KENDRICKS AND WELLS GO WEST

Over in front of the Alvarado this morning stood a string of private cars, numbering six, that bore on their sides the legend "Santa Fe," done in letters of gold. They were the private conveyances of as many officials of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad company, gathered here for the avowed purpose of inspecting local conditions.

One of the cars was Second Vice President J. W. Kendrick, of the Santa Fe system; private car No. 6 was occupied by General Manager J. E. Hurley, of the main line; General Superintendent R. J. Parker, of the main line, occupied private car No. 3; Superintendent E. P. Ripley, of the main line, was in another car; General Manager A. G. Wells, of the coast lines; General Superintendent L. L. Hibbard, of the coast lines; S. L. Bean, superintendent of machinery on the coast lines, and Superintendent P. Ripley, of the Rio Grande division, went to make up the rest of the officials who were here today.

Second Vice President Kendrick was met here by General Manager Wells and staff, of the coast lines, and left this morning for a tour of inspection over the western lines.

When seen by a representative of The Evening Citizen, General Manager Hurley stated that the officials were on a general tour of inspection only, and that their gathering here had absolutely no bearing on the famous Caledonian case.

"Anyway," said General Manager Hurley, "that is on the west end of the line, and out of my territory."

When asked if the officials intended making a trip over the Belen cut-off, as stated in a morning paper, Mr. Hurley responded that he was the only official here in whose territory the cut-off was situated, and that inasmuch as he had just completed a tour of inspection of the cut-off about a week ago, he did not intend to make another trip at this time.

"How soon will the train be running over the cut-off, Mr. Hurley?" was asked.

"Regular train service between Toledo and Belen will not be instituted before September or October," replied Mr. Hurley.

Mr. Hurley stated that as yet he had not decided just when he would return east. He added that his tour of inspection of the Belen cut-off a week ago was entirely satisfactory, and that he found everything in good shape and the work progressing as rapidly as could be expected.

Another high official of the Santa Fe who was in the party, when asked his opinion of the famous Caledonian case, stated that while he had nothing to give out for publication, he "felt sure that a compromise of the case would be effected, and that in his opinion, the case had already reached a state where the terms of the settlement were known." However, he refused to allow himself to be quoted in the matter, saying that higher officials than himself had the matter of a settlement in charge.

When asked if it was true that the stock of the Caledonian Coal company had been purchased by representatives of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and the Santa Fe, he replied, with a prodigious wink, but said not a word.

The remaining officials of the Santa Fe, who are here today, will leave tonight or tomorrow for their respective headquarters.

SANTA FE CUT-OFF NEARING COMPLETION
TRAINS WILL BE RUNNING BETWEEN BELEN AND EPRIS WITHIN A WEEK, SAYS DR. RADCLIFF.

Dr. W. D. Radcliff, chief surgeon for the Lantry-Sharp Construction at the most. "There are two gaps in the rails yet," said the doctor. "One is about three miles long and the other is four miles in length, but both are closing up fast under the pressure of four steel laying gangs working at the rail ends in every direction."

"One bridge is yet to be completed, but the scaffolding of it is sufficiently put together as to permit trains to cross."

"When the doctor speaks of trains running through on the cut-off, he does not mean that the New Mexico Eastern will be completed its entire length, but refers to that part of it lying between Belen and Epris, the latter place being the crossing of the cut-off and the Rock Island. Work beyond Epris, however, is in progress, and is being pushed toward completion."

DECLARE SANTA FE RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH

Negligence on the part of the Santa Fe railroad is charged by the coroner's jury, which investigated the death of Luciano Romero, the aged driver of the Starkville stage, who was run down and killed by a Santa Fe train near Starkville, Tuesday evening, says the Trinidad Advertiser. The verdict was rendered yesterday, and is as follows:

"We, the jury, find that the deceased, Luciano Romero, came to his death on the evening of the 20th of March, 1906, by reason of the negligence of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad."

The jury was composed of A. T. Davis, W. E. Morand, R. T. McKory, E. S. Bright and S. T. Burkhardt. The jury was apparently of the opinion that the engine did not whistle as it was rounding the curve where Romero was killed.

A number of railroad men who were wanted as witnesses by the jury did not appear.

LITTLE FELLOW FALLS INTO TUB OF BOILING WATER.

Death may be the result of a scalding received by Lloyd, the three-year-old son of John Donovan, a well known employe of the Colorado & Southern railway shops, at Trinidad. The child fell into a tub of boiling water and is in a serious condition.

Mr. Donovan had drawn a tub of hot water for bathing purposes, and was standing on the floor. He stepped out of the room for a moment to get a bucket of cold water, and during his absence the little boy, whom Donovan had not noticed in the room, fell into the tub of hot water.

The poor little fellow was almost instantly parboiled before the parents could get him out of the water. His back and left side were so badly scalded that the skin and flesh peeled off. The boy is in a very serious condition, and his parents are grief-stricken over the terrible accident.

Traveling Freight and Passenger Agent C. W. Cook left last night for El Paso, where he goes to meet a Gates excursion of ten cars, which will be brought to this city over the Rio Grande division of the Santa Fe, and after a short stop here, proceed on to California and the Grand Canyon of Arizona. The tourists on board are understood to be principally from Ohio cities.

Four cars of a Raymond-Whitcomb excursion, which has been touring Old Mexico since February, arrived in this city this morning from El Paso, the train having been divided at that place, part of the train going east over the Southern Pacific. One car of the four was cut out here, the remaining three going east today, and the one car containing nineteen eastern tourists, going west today to the Grand Canyon of Arizona, where the party will spend several days seeing the sights, after which they will return east. Most of the parties on the excursion were from the New England states.

J. H. Brennan, formerly manager of the Western Union Telegraph company at Las Vegas, but who has been manager for the Santa Fe at Cleburne, Texas, for the past seven years, has been appointed manager of the telegraph office for the Santa Fe at Las Vegas, to succeed M. J. Matthews, who has been promoted to chief dispatcher.

I. N. Wheatley, foreman for the Lantry-Sharp Construction company, arrived from the west last night. Mr. Wheatley has been superintending some work just this side of Needles, Cal., where the line of the Santa Fe is being changed. The change places the road away from the Colorado river and higher up on the bluff and straightens the line some.

J. C. Flury, who has been connected with the Santa Fe railroad for the past twenty-nine consecutive years, the latter part of which he has been in charge of the road's equipment in and out of Union station at Kansas City, arrived in Albuquerque, last night, accompanied by his brother, C. A. Flury, and will remain in the city for some time.

E. M. Clough, superintendent of bridges on the Rio Grande division of the Santa Fe, was a visitor in the metropolis yesterday.

P. Ripley, trainmaster at San Marcial, for the Rio Grande division of the Santa Fe, was in the city today.

H. C. Short, traveling auditor on the western division of the Santa Fe, was in the city yesterday.

A MAIL DRIVER WAS BADLY INJURED.

Last Thursday Philip Portigliatti was carrying the mail from Duncan to Steplerock, says the Lordsburg Liberator. Driving into camp, it being dark, the wheel of the wagon struck a rock, and "Frenchy," as he is generally called, having his foot on the brake, as he was on a steep incline, was thrown out. He fell headfirst, and his foot caught between the wagon body and the brake lever. He was dragged for some distance and probably would have been killed had not G. J. Greathouse and Theodore Bradbury been near at hand. They hard his cries and ran to his assistance in time to save him from probable death. His ankle was badly hurt and he was taken to Clinton and put in the hospital, under the care of Dr. Horn.

"It is my duty," said the conscientious lawyer to his client, "to see that you have a fair and square trial and justice all the way through."

"You're too slow for me," declared the prisoner. "What I want is a lawyer who'll see that I'm acquitted."

Shoes of Quality and Style

Shoe buyers always seek quality first. When this chief element of shoe making is lacking, all the other parts, though they may be of the highest order, will never make good the loss of this essential feature. But quality alone, without embellishment does not appeal to discriminating buyers. It requires the combination of both to please them.

"BEAUTIFYING QUALITY" is a thing that has been accomplished in our shoes, without any extra charge for the process.

Our shoes in comparison with rivals at even prices, will show you the advantage attractive shoe-making gives them over the ordinary kind.

An important object accomplished at today's gathering of Santa Fe officials in the city, was the granting of a free by the coast line department for the use of coast line engines on the main line, to help out the temporary shortage of power on the New Mexico division, brought on by extra heavy travel. The concession has a string to it, however, stipulating that the engines taken from the local shops must be turned back at Lamy, if possible, and never taken beyond Glorieta, at the farthest.

Everybody Buys Early This Spring

THERE has been a great demand for SINCERITY Suits even this early in the season. You don't have to seek far for the cause—There is no clothing so well suited to men of good taste and judgment and ordinary means. We have advised early buying this Spring for various reasons, chief among them being that raw materials, such as Wool, Cotton, Leather and other materials that enter into the making of men's wearables have gone up in price. There will be very few bona fide cut-price sales, at least by concerns handling reputable clothing. Another reason for early buying is the difficulty we have in re-ordering a great many of the choicest patterns and fabrics.

We Are the Exclusive Agents Here for SINCERITY CLOTHES.—It has always been our policy to mark goods as low as possible in the first place, providing a fair and legitimate profit on the most meritorious goods—which we could fully recommend or guarantee against imperfections of making and materials. Our Spring shipments are now practically complete. Again we say, it will prove the part of wisdom to do your buying early. SUITS, $10 to $30.
