MORNING JOURNAL'S PAID-UP MAIL CIRCULATION IS THREE TIMES GREATER THAN A YEAR AGO

Plain Statement About This Paper's Growth During the Past Year

Just Three Times as Many Newspapers Being Distributed Outside of Albuquerque as on the Day Great Leased Wire Service Was Installed a Year Ago—People of New Mexico Have Justified the Faith of the Morning Journal in This Territory as a Newspaper Field.

The Morning Journal desires to call attention today to the series of receipts from the Albuquerque postoffice, published herewith. These receipts represent the money paid to the postoffice for the months indicated, as charges on the Morning Journal's paid-up, bona fide mail circulation. Each receipt is signed by Postmaster H. W. Hopkins and can be easily verified, since the picture accompanying is made from photographs of the original receipts.

Look over these receipts from top to bottom, noting the gross amount charged on each, and you will see that within a period of eleven (11) months the Morning Journal's paid-up mail circulation has increased three times over.

In other words, the mail circulation placed in the Albuquerque postoffice and paid for by weight, was three times greater in August, 1907, than it was in September, 1906.

We believe this is a showing to be proud of, and we believe the patrons of this newspaper, the subscribers and the advertisers are entitled to know it.

These postoffice receipts represent the mail circulation alone, and only that part of the mail circulation paid for by weight.

They do not include any portion of the Morning Journal's city circulation, which is larger than the combined circulation of all newspapers, daily and weekly, published in Albuquerque, or sent into this city for distribution.

They do not include the Morning Journal's mail circulation for territorial counties, on which the postoffice regulations require stamps.

They do not include the thousands of newspapers which are taken each month by the Harvey system and other news agencies for sale on trains and at news stands.

They do not include the newspapers sold in Albuquerque news stands and on the streets.

They do not include the large number of newspapers sold and distributed each day from this office.

It is merely that part of the mail circulation which is paid for by weight, and these receipts are published herewith because they give final and unquestionable proof that the Morning Journal's mail circulation has increased THREE TIMES within the past eleven months.

It will be noticed by a comparison of these receipts that as the months have passed each month has shown a larger increase, and it is a fact, which we will be able to prove when the postoffice receipt for September, 1907, comes in tomorrow, that the increase in mail circulation has been greater in September than in any previous month in the history of the newspaper.

What does it mean?

It means just one thing: That the Morning Journal is growing, and growing rapidly; that it is going into the homes not only of the people of Albuquerque, but of New Mexico—and all New Mexico—for of this tremendous increase in mail circulation, 99 per cent of it is within the boundaries of this territory.

This magnificent increase in circulation in the territory is just the final and convincing proof we have been confidently waiting for that the Morning Journal's policy is the right one—the only one for a real newspaper.

What is that policy?

Simply this: That we believe New Mexico offers as good a newspaper field for a real newspaper as any other state or territory; that its people are as intelligent and that the standard they demand of their daily newspaper is just as high as the standard set by any other people. It has been our firm belief that the people of this territory would welcome and support a real newspaper, giving them the best news service that money could buy; and this splendid increase in circulation has justified our belief.

It was a year ago tomorrow that the Morning Journal installed its great Associated Press leased wire news service, placing a wire in our own office, one of the longest leased wires in the world, in this city of long private wire service.

It was an expensive proposition, and some of our friends shook their heads and gravely told us that we were getting too far ahead of the game; that Albuquerque and the territory wouldn't stand and couldn't support the same news service furnished by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, the San Francisco Chronicle, the Denver Republican and the other established and solid newspapers of the coast and the middle west.

But the Morning Journal's faith in New Mexico and in Albuquerque is absolute. We knew something of the people of this city and this territory, and we thought we knew what they wanted. Now we know it.

The people have given the enlarged and perfected news service the most hearty support, and this support is increasing every day by great, big jumps; increasing so rapidly that the present mechanical equipment of the Morning Journal purchased a couple of years ago and considered adequate for ten years to come is already nearly outgrown, in spite of constant improvement; so nearly outgrown that new mechanical equipment will be necessary in just a little while.

The splendid increase in the circulation of the Morning Journal in New Mexico proves another thing. It is a firmly established fact that an intelligent man will not continue to take a newspaper for any length of time, the editorial policy of which he does not approve or like. The subscribers who have come to the Morning Journal during these past eleven months are the kind who stick; the kind we want; the intelligent, thinking people of the territory. We know they approve the policy of this newspaper because they take the paper. It is just as convincing proof for us as are the mail receipts published here of our increase in mail circulation.

The Morning Journal is going to continue its policy of giving the people of New Mexico and Albuquerque the best news service we can get; getting it to the people as quickly as it can pass through our presses.

The leased wire service of the Associated Press will be continued, and when the present telegraphers' strike, which has entangled all the newspapers of the country, but which is now being adjusted, is finally settled, the leased wire service will be bigger and better than ever.

The territorial news service will be kept at the highest standard and we can reach the local service will be adequate and the newspaper and the news will be given to our patrons in the most attractive form we are able to.

As for the policy of the newspaper, it will simply go on telling the truth about public affairs when it is necessary for the welfare of the community to tell it; doing the best we can to give every man a square deal, his own keeping in mind that the people are entitled to first consideration, and fighting as best we can for honesty and decency and efficiency in the management of the business of this city and the territory of New Mexico.

This newspaper has now reached the point in its development when nothing can check its growth. The people have come to know that this newspaper has no interest in politics or political affairs save the interests of the community in which we live and work; that the newspaper cannot be turned to the interests of any man or set of men, who have not the best interests of the community at heart. It is a confidence that we have worked hard to attain. It is a confidence of which we are very proud, and which we are going to work mightily hard to retain for posterity from our knowledge that the people of New Mexico believe in the Morning Journal, that confidence is the best business asset this or any other newspaper could have.

The circulation of the Morning Journal is greater today than the combined circulation of all the other daily newspapers in the territory. Its circulation in a week of seven days is greater than the combined circulation of all the other daily and weekly newspapers in the territory in a week of seven days. It is a circulation that is growing so rapidly that we, although knowing the work it has required to make this newspaper, and knowing all the conditions, have been surprised by it.

The Morning Journal is not given to fancy work. We believe the people of New Mexico, the thoughtful, intelligent people, and they are the ones we want to reach, want the news first and all the time; the news in reliable, compact, conservative form; and that a newspaper which gives that kind of news service will succeed. We believe the people want in connection with this news service, honesty and square dealing. We believe that kind of a combination will succeed, and that it is the only one which will succeed.

In fact, we know it.

WINEYARDS WIPED SECRETARY TAFT OUT BY FLOODS REACHES JAPAN

Swollen Rivers Devastate South of France; Grape Harvest Total Loss; Many Die In Spain.

Paris, Sept. 28.—The flood situation in the south of France was a little better today. Reports from the department of the Rhone, Gard and Vaucluse say the river has been overflowing its banks, causing much damage and distress among the people, many of whom sought refuge in the upper parts of their houses and have been without food for days. The authorities are hurrying railroads and supplies to the flood sufferers.

The correspondent of the Temps telegraphs that the country in the vicinity of the Herault river is completely submerged. Only here and there are little islands and tops of houses visible and upon this vast lake rowboats are engaged in the ceaseless work of rescue.

The grape harvest in the lowlands is a total loss.

MANY DEAD BODIES WASHED OUT TO SEA
Madrid, Sept. 28.—The church of Benavente, which was undermined by floods, fell last night. There was no loss of life.

UNION ORDERS STRIKERS TO RESUME WORK
Expulsion From Union Penalty for Refusal to Comply With Order.

Brockton, Mass., Sept. 28.—John F. Tobin, national president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, with which organization the W. L. Douglas company had a working contract, has sent a letter to the striking hatters announcing that unless they are back in their places by Monday morning they will be liable to a heavy fine and suspension from the union.

The strike of 250 men followed the declaration of the company to recognize an official of an independent organization recently formed among the shoe workers, which, it is understood, is measuring strength with the boot and shoemakers union.

Australian False Alarm Proves Easy Victim for Jack Twin Sullivan; Lasts 19 Rounds.

San Francisco, Sept. 28.—Australian "Burr" Sullivan, the heavyweight pugilist, who came to this country with the avowed intention of wrestling the title of champion of the world from Big Jim Jeffries, was down to defeat the second time today, when he was practically knocked out by Jack "Twin" Sullivan in the nineteenth round of what was to have been a twenty-five round glove contest.

The fight took place in the Madison street armory, and was witnessed by a fair sized crowd. Squires showed very little improvement since his last appearance in the ring. He was strong, willing and game. Had Sullivan been a first class man he would have knocked the Australian out early in the fight. As it was he smashed Sullivan in the face and on the stomach all through the nineteenth round.

Several times he had Squires groggy, but could not put him out. In the nineteenth round the Australian was bleeding and weak. Sullivan went in a right and left to the jaw and Squires went down. He remained on the mat eight seconds, and then staggered to his feet. Another punch to the jaw sent him down again, but he was not knocked out. He got up, but was promptly sent down again. Referee Billy Roche then awarded the fight to Sullivan.

ANNUAL WAIL FROM THE SUFFERING
AUTHORITIESINFLUX OF HELPLESS
CONSUMPTIVES BEGINS

Time Is Coming When Relief Measures Must Be Adopted Against Doomed and Impoverished Dumped Into Southwest.

The annual wail of protest from the long-suffering authorities of counties, cities and towns in New Mexico and Arizona, is being heard again. It is the usual protest against the thoughtless, or criminal, course of eastern physicians in sending to this country the impoverished, helpless and dying victims of tuberculosis, who are too ill to make a living, too poor to buy the necessities of life, and with no hope of recovery from the white plague.

A prominent Albuquerque man who has much to do with charitable work came to the Morning Journal's editorial rooms yesterday with a clipping from a Tucson newspaper which he asked to have published. The clipping follows:

"If the eastern doctors who in all appearances treat the unfortunate persons as long as they have the means and then, when their funds are exhausted, send them to this country, would cease that practice, much unnecessary suffering would be done away with and the expenses of caring for the indigent and invalids on this county would be greatly reduced."

This was the statement today of Supervisor J. P. Hohsen, who looks out for the sick. He is a humane man. He stated further that the number of poverty-stricken consumptives who come here in the last stages of the disease is increasing rapidly and that if every effort for aid from the county were needed it would be but a short time until the county would be bankrupt.

"Yesterday we were compelled to refuse three applications for aid," he remarked. "And this is but a sample of what happens every day. It seems that the poor unfortunate are beginning early to come to Tucson, and if the increase continues when the cold months set in back east and in the north, the county will be badly up against it."

to another town, we furnish them with transportation."

Supervisor Hohsen stated that the attention of eastern people could not be too strongly called to the fact that Pima county's funds have a limit and that if all of the persons who come here with small means were taken care of at the county's expense, that the cost would mount far into the thousands. He is also of the opinion that when conditions out here are learned, more care will be exercised in sending invalids here without means.

"Tucson is just one of the cities and towns of the southwest which are called upon to bear this burden," said the Albuquerque man. "It is a situation which is becoming more and more serious year by year and the time is coming fast when some kind of remedial means will have to be adopted to put a stop to it all. It isn't because the people of the southwest are not humane and kind, it is not because we do not sympathize with the helpless sufferers. We do sympathize with them and we help them all we can and in many ways we care, but we haven't the money to take care of them all, and there is no way to get the money. Albuquerque annually provides temporary relief for hundreds of these poor people. The number of charity patients cared for in St. Joseph's sanitarium is just one evidence of our willingness to do all we can, but there is a limit to our means and when that limit is reached the suffering begins. The spirit of the people of the southwest is all right. I can give you hundreds of instances where people of my acquaintance have denied themselves comforts and even necessities to lend aid to some helpless consumptive. The fault, and the crime—for it is a crime—lies with the eastern physicians who send these helpless ones to the southwest, with just money enough to get here and no means of livelihood, and no strength to work. It is these men who must be impressed in some way or another with the needless suffering they are causing and the helpless burden they are placing on a generous people. How to do it, I do not know, but the time is coming when it will have to be done."

HONEST CONSERVATISM IS SURE TO SUCCEED

An Interesting Letter to the Morning Journal From Former Resident of Gallup.

The Morning Journal, Albuquerque, N. M. Attn: Kas., Sept. 27, 1907.

Gentlemen:—I am pleased with the fight for good government which you have been leading against the "ring" who have retarded the welfare of New Mexico for so many years.

You took up the fight when no other paper dared or cared to do so, and the effect was immediately felt and the reaction has not yet reached its climax.

I regret that having left Gallup I shall be obliged to have my Journal discontinued at the end of my subscription, which expires in November or December, I think.

FAKE ADVERTISING.

Every now and then the merchants of the town—or rather we ought to say, some of the merchants of the town—are taken in and done for by fake advertising schemes, which are worked by wandering adventurers. Barnum, the great showman, declared that the "American people like to be humbugged," and he grew rich by making use of his information. These advertising fakirs make money in the same way, by playing their game on the unsophisticated. The man who has been sold once is hardly ever taken in again by the same scheme, but the fakirs know that, and are constantly inventing new schemes. And there are also new dealers going into business all the time, and they serve to keep up the stock of material to be worked upon, and as was remarked a day or two ago by a gentleman who is just now working a scheme which is very attractive to the unwary, "There's never a total failure of the sucker crop." But every "sucker" who is caught sends just that much more money out of the country, and thus hurts by that much his own business as well as that of every one else who is doing business in the town. The only proper thing to give the wandering advertising fakir, is the cold shoulder.

SOMETHING OF A SHOWER.

Referring to the great rainstorm which drenched so many of the eastern cities last Sunday and Monday, the Washington Star of Tuesday afternoon says:

"Yesterday's downpour of rain was tremendous. The weather bureau declares that no records were broken by the precipitation, but there is no doubt about the fact. With a house washed from its foundations in one of the suburbs and the little creeks and rivers raging beyond their banks, the local situation comes close enough to the sensational to suffice for a long time."

On the same subject the New York Commercial of Tuesday morning says: "The storm that drenched us late Sunday afternoon and all day yesterday was a corker from a rainfall standpoint. From the time the drops started to come down on Sunday afternoon until early last night, when things cleared up, there had been a total rainfall in this city of 2.60 inches. This is the heaviest for the current year, the heaviest experienced previously being during last month, when 1.66 inches fell in twenty-four hours. What hit us in the way of a drenching isn't a marker to what some other cities got. Hartford, Conn., got 2.64 inches in twelve hours ending last night."

WHEN TIME WAS YOUNG.

The democratic of West Virginia, it is stated, want Henry G. Davis to accept their nomination for governor. He is, right, strong, and vigorous in mind and body, and keeps in close touch with affairs financial and political. His friends express the opinion that with him in the lead, his party might win.

And that what probably remains a good many people in different parts of the country of many things which have come to be generally regarded as ancient history.

Mr. Davis has had an interesting career, and for many years a power at home in those days West Virginia was a colony democratic as Old Virginia was. There were local feudists and factional feuds, but the power was in the party of the people.

As a business man he was successful in the country too well to join in the democratic cry in favor of a tariff for revenue only. Particularly did he know the value of protection—a policy in which his rapidly developing state was vitally interested. He was of the Harvard school of democrats, as was his youth, Mr. Garrison, and while for revenue he was a supporter of free trade candidates on true trade platform, he did not surrender his individual views on the subject.

At last, however, the people of West Virginia decided that their interests were with the other party, and they installed it in local control, taking what they want from that party to represent them in congress. Believing in protection, and seeing that they were profiting by it, they cast their lot with the party which proclaimed that policy, and when in power shaped its tariff legislation on that line openly. Old cries which in other southern states had proved so potent were cast aside by this progressive young commonwealth, and five questions of the day decided according to the judgment of the men of substance and calculation. Since then West Virginia has been a reliably republican as before it had been reliably democratic, and its development has been wonderful.

It is to be doubted, says the Washington Star, if Mr. Davis, able and personally worthy as he is, could "redeem" the state to the democracy. The pride felt in his great success as a man of affairs would be subordinated to the fear that would be felt as to his party in its present condition. As a matter of fact, indeed, Mr. Davis is a democrat only in name and memory. He is not a democrat, and probably never will be, to the extent which have made Mr. Bryan the leader of the party, and have caused the party, under that leadership, to be regarded as a menace to the prosperity of the country.

MEASURES OF SAFETY.

Secretary McCall has received the report of the special turret board appointed after the accident on the battleship Georgia to make a general investigation of turret construction and handling, with a view to suggestion of measures to prevent accidents hereafter. The board was composed of Lieutenant Commanders Kaiser and Vogelsang and Lieutenant Palmer. They inspected most of the ships of the Atlantic fleet, which are equipped with every type of turret and investigated the possibility of danger to the guns from the magazines.

The secretary was not inclined to go into details concerning the recommendations which had been made, but it was intimated that they involved a great deal of change, which will include practically all the ships now in service. The proposed alterations include safer installation of electrical appliances, removal of combustible material from the turrets, greater protection from fire, and improvement in the gas ejector system, aimed at the prevention of flarebacks. The board also recommended modifications in the present type of turrets which will give greater speed in handling and at the same time allowing for greater safety in handling ammunition.

GOOD FOR THE FOREIGNER.

It has been declared by defenders of Standard Oil that if this giant monopoly is broken up the United States will lose control of the world's market in petroleum products. The "man in the street," as the English say, is not likely to worry over such a possibility so long as he has a chance to get his oil necessities at a fair rate. Indeed, says the Washington Star, if "ex oil" is shipped abroad there will be more for the home market, and that will mean lower prices, irrespective of the effect of restored competition. This is, of course, a highly individualistic view. But it is the view of the majority of people. It is, to be sure, a fine thing for the United States to command the world's market in any line, but it is a bad thing to dominate in the foreign field by reason of lower prices while holding some commodities up to rates that net the corporation from 50 to 75 per cent.

The San Francisco Chronicle says the organization that is kicking up a row over the selection of a model used by St. Claudius in designing the head for the new postage is apparently oblivious of the saying that art knows no nationality. In all probability the "Independent Americans" are barking up the wrong tree. There are nine chances out of ten that Miss Mary Cunningham is as good an American as is the one who objected to her face being placed on our gold coins. In the United States the spelling of a name does not indicate the nationality of the person bearing it. There are descendants of Dutch, German, French and Irish in this country whose ancestors made it their home long before the Revolution. The fact that a name is of German origin does not prove that he is a German. His granddaddy may have shouldered a musket in the Revolutionary War. And even if that were not the case, if he is merely a good citizen and devoted to his country, he is as good as an "Independent American," and if he is born here he has a better chance of becoming president than a member of the narrow-minded association which is raising a sobriety about a matter not worth talking about.

The New York Herald prints over Sunday morning a short sermon written especially for it by some minister. From the Herald's version of last Sunday we take the following paragraph which presents the scheme of a very good religion in a very small space. "A simple, manly, unpretentious religion, which is good to the soul, and which is good to the body, and which is good to the world, and which is good to the individual, and which is good to the whole." The sermon is a very good one, and it is a very good one to read.

It would be as careful to give the world credit for all the good it develops as we are to charge it up with all the evil. It would be as much like saying a very bad world, after all. Here is a case in point. A few days ago the Rev. Father Dwyer, S. J., of the Old Town, received a letter from a man, whose name need not be given, enclosing a check for six dollars, and saying that in the year 1888, the writer was in Old Town, totally unknown, sick and destitute, that he was a robber and might have been taken home to his people if he only had money enough to buy a little leather. He applied to Father Dwyer for help, and received the sum of six dollars. After that, nothing further was heard about the matter. Father Dwyer himself had forgotten all about it, and now, after twenty-one years, comes a check for the money and an explanatory letter. Of course the Reverend Father is properly grateful to receive his long lost six dollars, but the value of the money is as nothing compared with the gratifying acknowledgment which has thus been given to the abiding faith in the inherent honesty of man.

The public of Count Tolstoy's literary activity was marked by an attack on his residence at Yasnaya Polyana, near Moscow, made by armed peasants of the neighborhood according to reports received from Moscow. Several peasants, it is said, advanced to within one hundred yards of the count's house and opened fire on it with flintlock guns and pistols, but were driven off by the gardener. Although his family was much excited by the incident, Count Tolstoy refused to summon the police, saying he had no need of defense against the peasants, to whom he had devoted a whole life of labor and love.

Automobile racing on circular tracks or those intended primarily for horse racing has been attended by so many accidents in different parts of the country that the American Automobile association has appointed a special committee to investigate the subject and make a report on the advisability of granting further sanctions for race meetings to be held on such tracks.

King Solomon observed that it was a wise son who knew his own father—a view which we infer that the civilization of the Four Hundred, in Solomon's day, was not materially different from the standard recognized by the same set in our own times.

An item in an eastern exchange tells us that the discussion of the increase in paper prices between the publishers and paper manufacturers has resulted in several proposals for relief by men interested in newspapers.

Walter Wellman seems to be unwilling to assume an unnecessary risk in order to please a skeptical public. He says he was at Spitzbergen to try to reach the pole, not to commit suicide.

The Washington Star thinks "practical people will be found to insist that what our civilization needs is not bear hunters so much as mosquito exterminators."

The most palatial hotel in the world has just been opened for business in New York. Perhaps it would be more appropriate to call it a hotel palace.

Clever Anecdotes of Men in the Limelight

The Aged Babe.—W. H. Trimmer, of Mobile, Ala., says there are no happy faces in New York. Mr. Trimmer, an aged, healthy, cheerful man, crossed New York last month and the strained, worried look of the New Yorkers shocked and displeased him.

"You live in New York," he said to a reporter, "that is your trouble, fast living. Your very children have an acid air."

He gave a loud laugh. "Did you ever hear about the New York child and the christening? No? Then listen."

"There was a young couple on the East side that postponed the christening of their first born till the little fellow was three years old."

"He was, of course, very blue for three. He had gotten under a ink. In short, he was a New Yorker."

"And the morning of the christening, in the thronged and crowded church, when the congregation took the christening babe in its arms and sprinkled it with holy water, the father, who was standing in the good people's line."

"Her chosen one, will you? If he do that, I'll kill you."

No Real Change.—Contrasting Mark, of New York, and the other day of a bill that he delivered. "I object to this bill, because it would accomplish nothing. It would make no real change. It would be like the case of the water and the sandal wood captain."

"There was once upon a time an sailor who, after an extended illness of two months, was today about to meet an acquaintance in a town twenty-five miles away."

"The case was a happy one. The sailor had to reach the distant town that night. He failed to arrive. His wife sought for him, but he was not there."

Wedding of Miss Mesa Rose. A great many Albuquerque people will be interested in a wedding announcement from the Nashville, Tenn., Banner of Thursday, September 19, telling of the marriage of Miss Mesa Rose, and Mr. Joseph R. O'Bryan. The bride received her unusual and very attractive name from the fact that she was born on the mesa west of Albuquerque. The article follows:

The first notable social event of the fall was the marriage at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at Christ church of Miss Mesa Rose and Joseph R. O'Bryan. The prominence of the families of the two young people and their own personal popularity, made their marriage an event of considerable interest, and it was unusually beautiful and impressive in its solemnization. The church decorations were elaborate, a profusion of ferns and palms being combined with graceful sprays of Jackson vines, starred with myriads of electric lights and bouquets of white asters caught with bows of white satin ribbon. A similar arrangement of the same lovely fall flowers designed the pews reserved for the families and near friends.

The Right Rev. Thomas F. Gallor, Bishop of Tennessee, was the officiant, assisted by Dr. F. E. Reese, Mr. F. A. Henkel was at the organ and played Mendelssohn's wedding march for the processional and Lohengrin's for the recessional. He also played "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes, the Day But One," and "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." Carter Milam, who was in beautiful voice, sang "All for You" and "O, Fair, O, Sweet and Holy." The bridal procession was led by the ushers: Dr. Larkin Smith, Messrs. R. Kirk Hankin, C. C. Laughlin, Frank Martin, Harvey H. Trachue, W. L. Nichol and Hamilton S. Woolwine. The bride's only attendants were two maids of honor, her sister, Miss Margaret Rose and Miss Leonora O'Bryan, who entered singly, followed by Master Angus McCannan, and little Miss Harriet Woolwine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton S. Woolwine, who carried the white satin prayer cushion. They were costumed in white. Little Miss Woolwine in a puffed frock of white mull and lace, with a blue sash. Mr. Lawrence O'Bryan was his brother's best man.

The bride, who entered with her cousin, Mr. Granville P. Rose, was a charming picture of youthful grace and beauty in her exquisite wedding gown of white faille, draped with rose point lace on the corsage, where there were alternating folds of the faille and lace beneath a yoke of filmy points applied net. Sprays of orange blossoms gave a finishing touch and the tulle bridal veil was caught to her dark hair by sprays of the lilies of the valley. The same flowers combined with maidenhair ferns, formed her superb bouquet. Her only ornament was a Tiffany bracelet set with large pearls and clusters of diamonds, a gift from Mr. O'Bryan.

The maids of honor were charming in Empire costumes of soft white silk, elaborately inset with lace, with sheaths of American Beauties caught with ribbon streamers in the same tint. E. Mrs. Solon E. Rose, the bride's mother, appeared in black Canton crepe and lace, with a bouquet of purple asters. The bride's grandmothers, Mrs. J. R. Childers, of Palaski, was in black crepe with touches of white. Miss Meda Mason and Mrs. H. D. Lane of Salt Lake City, the bride's aunts, were gowned in white, the former in radium silk and lace and the latter in mosseline satin, combined with Irish point. Mr. and Mrs. George O'Bryan and Miss Martha O'Bryan of Ridge Top, were among the groom's relatives in attendance.

Following the ceremony, the ushers and their wives joined the immediate bridal party at Mrs. Rose's apartments in the Polk to cut the wedding cake, and pledge the health of the bride and groom in champagne. Later Mrs. Rose entertained the bride and groom, the best man, maids of honor and Bishop Gallor at a handsomely appointed dinner. The table, which was veiled with lace, had a central plaque of white carnations and ferns beneath a chandelier entwined with asparagus vines, and the candles and flower petals shone in the silver candlesticks were in white and green. The wedding gifts made an unusually handsome collection, there being superb silver, cut glass, china, bric-a-brac and Oriental rugs.

At 8:30 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. O'Bryan left for their wedding journey, the bride wearing a brown Rabbit silk traveling gown, bridled in a pretty design with hat to match. On their return next week they will be at home at the O'Bryan residence on Seventh avenue north.

The bride's gifts to her maids were large gold chased pins, and Mr. O'Bryan presented his attendants with pearl-seal scarf pins.

TOOK EVERY CENT IN THE CLUB TILL

An Incident in the Exciting Career of Clifford Davenport, Hastings, Commercial Club Porter Is Grieved.

There is one man in Albuquerque who has especial cause to mourn the sudden and unhappy termination of the career here of Clifford Davenport Hastings, now held in the county jail on a charge of obtaining money on worthless checks. This man is the night porter at the Commercial club. He is not a particularly trusting individual, and his long experience in the service of the club has made him as wise as the next man, but Mr. Hastings managed to induce him late one evening to part with every cent of his ill-gotten money on a charge of obtaining money on worthless checks. It was late one evening, after midnight in fact, when Mr. Clifford Davenport Hastings wandered into the club.

"Where's Fletcher?" he asked of the porter casually, using the familiar abbreviation used by frequenters of the club for Mr. Fletcher Bullington, the steward. "He's gone home long ago," said the porter. "Too bad," said Mr. Hastings, regretfully. "I'm awfully sorry. Wanted a little money, you know. Got twenty dollars in the till?" "Oh, no," said the porter. "We never keep so much change on hand over night." "How much have you got?" asked Hastings, beginning to evidence some interest in the proceeds of his frequenting the club. "Just six dollars and twenty cents," said the porter, after counting the change in the till. Mr. Clifford Davenport Hastings wrote a check for the six dollars, including the twenty cents. When the porter got his envelope this week, he found charged thereon, $4.20 account of Mr. Hastings, whereas he was sad.

MORE RECORDS FOR STAGE DRIVER IN NEW MEXICO

J. W. Orchard, Now a Successful Railroad Contractor, Has Made a Record that Smashes Them All.

The publication in the Morning Journal recently of the record of an Arizona stage driver who drove 15,000 miles in a year, has served to bring out the records of half a dozen more in New Mexico, which beat the Arizona record, and which are furnishing some very decidedly interesting statistics as to the old stage lines of this country.

Yesterday Colonel W. S. Hopewell headed to the Morning Journal a letter from J. W. Orchard, formerly of Hillsboro, but now in Woodward, Okla. Mr. Orchard modestly did not desire his name used, but his record as a stage driver is a most extraordinary one, and since he is now a very successful railroad contractor, employing lots of men, and his stage driving days are over forever, his record belongs to the public. The letter follows:

Woodward, Okla., Sept. 14, 1907.

Mr. W. S. Hopewell, Albuquerque, N. M.: Dear Sir: Inclosed is a clipping that I cut from the Morning Journal of the 14th inst. These clippings think they have done some driving. If you remember the first two years after times got hard and I had to go to driving myself, I drove two years straight clean through to Kingston without missing a trip. Counting sixty miles to a trip, I drove 42,800 miles without a lay-off. Bill Hubbard drove fifteen months, making 25,000 miles, without a lay-off, of a single day. He drove 46,800 miles with a lay-off of eight days at the end of fifteen months.

Please call the attention of the editor of the Morning Journal to the fact that he never heard of any long driving. This man was 1,000 days driving his 15,000 miles, and thinks it was going some. We never had an accident and never missed a train and left Kingston at 4:30 a. m. and had only a margin of twenty minutes between our arrival and the train's departure. Thousands of traveling men can vouch for this.

This man, Hawkins, boasts that he had a few runaways, but nobody hurt. We drove the best stock in the country and never had even a runaway. We hauled more stuff in a week than he did in a month, and never lost anything. Yours truly,

J. W. ORCHARD.

Eighteenth United States Infantry on Way to San Francisco to Sail on October 5 for Manila.

Three special trains carrying the headquarters and staff, regimental band and the first, second and third battalions of the Eighteenth United States Infantry, will pass through Albuquerque Tuesday morning, en route to the Presidio, whence they sail on October 5 for the Philippines on their third term of service in the Orient.

For the past two years the Eighteenth has been stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., and it is succeeded at that post by the Thirtieth Infantry, now en route to the United States from Manila. The Thirtieth will pass through Albuquerque en route to Leavenworth about October 28.

The total number of officers and men who will be with the soldier train is estimated at 900; the regiment being reduced recently by the transfer of all short term soldiers to another regiment.

Word was received here yesterday by General Agent Purdy and News Agent Otto Haas, of the Harvey association, that the Eighteenth would leave Fort Leavenworth this morning and afternoon, and while the Santa Fe has orders to rush the train to San Francisco, the soldiers will be permitted to get a glimpse of the country they pass through.

WOULD WOUND DIGNITY OF WILHELM

SOCIALISTS RESENT
HIS VISIT TO LONDON

Popularity of King Edward,
Even Among Foes of Monarchy,
Does Not Extend to His Imperial Nephew.

(By Robert Broderick.)

London, Sept. 28.—To make the Kaiser understand that he is by no means a welcome guest in England, the socialists declare they will make his passage through the streets of London to the Royal Castle as unpleasant as they can without actually hurling bombs at him.

"We do not want the Kaiser here," says a veteran revolutionist, H. M. Hyndman, in a recent issue of the official organ of the socialist party, "and we are certain that the overwhelming majority of the British people do not want him either."

"The Kaiser and his government are today the mainstay of reaction in Europe. Not content with carrying on his jack-boot system of domination in Germany, where he forces the doctrine of high treason to a point never before heard of, and imprisons men and women for a chance phrase, the Kaiser also represents the incarnation of that accursed military system against which the workers of the world have just unanimously protested at Stuttgart."

"Should any attempt be made to take up a sham 'popular' reception for this reactionary potentate in our metropolis we ourselves may have a word or two to put in, and in London, at any rate, we can say what we have to say publicly, and to some purpose along the public highway."

After having thus forebodingly expressed his opinion of the Kaiser, the socialist writer pays quite a remarkable tribute to King Edward, ending with the words:

"Republicans though we are and shall ever remain, we have always recognized that the king has fulfilled until quite recently the functions of a most capable and enlightened permanent president, with all the advantages which attach to the ancient descent and high rank in our queer society of today."

The American cotton trade is likely to benefit by the visit of 120 European spinners to Atlanta and the cotton belt this fall. The visit is the result of the cotton congress at Vienna last June, which was attended by American growers as well as by spinners of various European countries.

Complaints were made by the Europeans about the inferior methods of baling and transporting the cotton, which the growers admitted were not so good as they might be. They promised improvement, and invited the Europeans to visit the cotton fields and attend the convention at Atlanta in October, when many difficulties may be smoothed out and valuable information exchanged by direct contact between growers and spinners on the cotton fields themselves during the harvest.

The party of spinners who sailed from here Saturday last, include Englishmen, Germans, Austrians and Italians, and they will make a tour of the cotton country lasting eighteen days.

Prince George of Greece, who is engaged to Princess Marie Bonaparte, the great-granddaughter of Napoleon I, might once have allied himself closely to the English throne. Some years ago a marriage was being arranged between him and Princess Victoria, King Edward's eldest daughter, but her state of health forbade any union. Princess Victoria's malady is apparently incurable, and likely to be transmitted to any children she might have.

The obstacles against the marriage were therefore insuperable, but naturally the real reason for the falling through of the match were not stated at that time. Very transparent explanations, about the objections raised by the Greek church to the marriage of cousins, etc., were given out. Prince George and Princess Victoria, of course, are cousins, the King of Greece being brother to Queen Alexandra.

One of Ireland's most serious troubles is the appalling increase of insanity among her people. That the Irish are rapidly becoming a nation of lunatics is indicated by statistics given by Dr. Graham, medical superintendent of the Belfast and District asylum.

He shows that there is one insane person in every 179 of the population, and that there are 2,800 lunatics in Belfast and county Antrim, where fifty years ago there were only 250. The total number of lunatics in all Ireland is 25,050, or 56.2 per 10,000 of the population. The increase of insanity in Ireland is strikingly shown by the comparative increases in the ratio in the three kingdoms during twenty years:

Year	England	Scotland	Ireland
1901	49.8 per 10,000	45. per 10,000	56.2 per 10,000

Continental emigration, of course, has affected the statistics of lunacy in Ireland. The population is rapidly being drained away to the United States and the British colonies, while all the insane persons are left at home to crowd the asylums.

Because Mr. Haldane, the British minister of war, recently placed an order for 216,000 horseshoes with an American firm and accused the British manufacturers of being too slow and also of combining "when a war office bird is to be plucked," has got himself into exceedingly hot water.

The president of the United Horse-shoe and Nail company, the largest concern of its kind in Great Britain, writes in a London paper:

"There is not an atom of truth in Mr. Haldane's statement about an understanding between manufacturers and we refute his suggestions entirely. There is no ground for his assertion that he got quicker delivery from the American firm, and we are in a position to prove that the whole statement is absolutely false."

raised 15 per cent by giving the contract to America. This means a saving of about $2,250, but he has taken away about $4,000 from English workmen, for we should have spent at least this amount extra in wages if we had secured the contract.

"The Americans have not to pay a shilling in the pound income tax on their profit on the contract, yet we had to make an allowance for this in our tender. Moreover, we had to agree to pay the standard rate of wages to our men, but the Americans are not similarly bound."

Quite a sensation has been caused among biblical students by the discovery by Brugsch Bey, the great Egyptologist, of a monumental inscription telling how the Nile failed to rise for seven years in succession about 1,700 years before the Christian era. A long and terrible famine was the result.

B. C. 1700 is the date recognized as the beginning of the "seven lean years," described in the Book of Genesis, and theologians are very much interested in the confirmation which the discovery gives, in hard facts, to the famous Bible story.

The account of the failure of the Nile and the continuous famine throughout the land was told in a number of extraordinary hieroglyphics which Brugsch Bey fortunately has been able to decipher.

BIOGRAPH NOW ROYAL FAD IN BERLIN

KAISER SOLICITOUS OF COMING GENERATIONS

Anxious That They May Know
How the War Lord Looked Going Through His Various Stunts on Sea and Land.

(By Walter Dunkirk.)

Berlin, Sept. 28.—That coming generations may not be deprived of the pleasure of seeing how William II looked and moved on civil and military occasions, the Kaiser has developed a real mania for posing for biograph pictures which are becoming more and more popular in Germany.

During the recent naval and military maneuvers he gave special orders to facilitate the work of the moving picture operators, a number of whom were always near him, and he spent several hours at the castle of Wilhelmshoehe looking at the films, condemning some, and picking out others which showed him to the greatest advantage.

Biograph cameras were used on board the imperial yacht "Hohenzollern" and also on the flagship "Deutschland."

The Kaiser's patronage of moving pictures has been a blow to the agitation among the German Comstocks against the alleged harm done by the numerous biograph shows in Berlin. They say that young children attend these shows late at night and see the reproductions of scenes unfit for youthful eyes.

The University of Harvard, which already possesses the Kaiser's voice on a phonograph record, will undoubtedly soon receive his image on a roll of film.

A real good story is told of the crown prince showing his democratic affability and his popularity among the "holi polli." The prince while going to the parade ground was seated in a very unconventional manner by a number of young men who had served under him in the Foot guards. They shouted cheerily to him: "Hail, Wilhelm!" which was more than they dared to any other of their prince or no prince.

Instead of taking their names and reporting them for disrespect as a non-royal officer would have done, the prince rode over to the men, shook hands with each, and chatted with them for some minutes. The prince by the way, is no longer actively serving in that aristocratic and expensive regiment, the First Foot guards.

When asked the reason why his son had transferred from the guards to a line cavalry regiment, the Kaiser replied: "I am not rich enough to keep a son of mine in the guards." His majesty left it an open question whether he was in jest or earnest.

A pretty story is related here to show the orderly and economical spirit of the imperial family. Princess Victoria Louise, the emperor's only daughter, ordered a charming navy blue costume for the autumn maneuvers.

The dress when it came home was found to be a great success and was admired by the young princess. The only thing she did not much care for was the buttons, which did not seem to be good enough for such a pretty dress. The dressmaker thereupon proposed to replace them by others of more elegant description which cost 25 cents each. The price seemed rather high to the princess, who said she would ask papa.

When the dressmaker returned to the palace in the evening to learn the paternal decision, the princess replied: "Papa will not allow me to have these buttons, as he finds them dear, and says I must not be extravagant." So the princess wore the dress with the plain buttons.

As a means of protection against the smallpox epidemic which has broken out in Vienna, the old emperor of Austria has allowed himself to be vaccinated. At first Franz Josef made objections on account of his age—77 years old—but after a consultation had taken place between his private physician and a professor of medicine, who persuaded his majesty that the operation was necessary, he gave in.

The operation was performed by Dr. Kera, and the vaccine was specially prepared for the purpose. The old monarch has felt no inconvenience beyond the slight inflammation in such cases.

The biggest automobile garage in the world will be the one to be established by the Berlin Omnibus company, which has taken possession of the unprecedented quantity of 12,000 gallons of benzine.

To safeguard the building against explosions, the benzine will be stored on the Mari-Hunko system, which has prevented an explosion of 24,000 gallons in a fire which destroyed a huge Berlin storage building. The benzine will be kept in two underground tanks, upon which will be a strong pressure of carbonic acid gas to prevent the formation of explosive gases, and the carbonic acid gas will provide the power for pumping the benzine up to tanks.

The establishment of this great garage was not possible until after months of negotiation with the Berlin municipality, which was rather unwilling to grant permission for the construction of such a gigantic auto-house.

The Serbian courts have upheld the right of newspapers to abuse King Peter. The "Ostobina," which is constantly being confiscated by the police for its violent articles against the monarch, appealed to the court against the confiscation of a whole edition by the police, and won its case. The verdict of the court reads quaintly:

"We find that the words, 'hideous bloodsucker draining the life of the nation, incapable idiot who only lent his lips in conspiracy, bandit upheld by a gang of assassins,' do not asperse his majesty, King Peter, and we authorize the full publication of the article containing them."

The "Ostobina" accordingly reprinted the article with the vindicated phrases in double capitals. A "prison editor," however, is still kept to take the responsibility for too outspoken articles.

Other Serbian papers that do not approve of the Karageorgewitch dynasty are subject to severe censorship, and six confiscations have taken place within about a week.

The simple life has become so popular in Germany that even the dead must have it.

The first "simple life cemetery" in Germany, consisting of 300 acres, is to be made near Munich.

All the beauty of the woodland scenery will be preserved in the new garden of the dead. There will be no rows of white headstones, monuments or urns, but the memorials will be restricted to wooden crosses and rough stone cairns.

Flowers will not be allowed, although natural growths of wild flowers will be encouraged. Springs and streamlets will be introduced pictorially in imitation of nature.

LAST ADVERTISING WORK TO BE DONE TODAY

FAIR OFFICERS WILL HELP
WORK ALONG AT SOCORRO

Twenty-one Horses Now at the Fair Grounds Stables, With More on Way—Announcement for Montezuma Ball.

The last big advertising effort for the coming territorial fair will be made in Socorro today when the officers of the fair association will go down with the excursion crowd loaded to the guards with hot air and hoister paper. In the party will be Manager Jay A. Hubbs, his assistant, Mr. Webster, Secretary Roy A. Stamm, Manager Sowers of "Fighting the Flames," and in addition every Albuquerque man in the crowd will constitute himself a fair booster for one long day. It is expected that Albuquerque will be well represented at Socorro's big day.

LOTS OF ENTRIES FOR ROUGH RIDING TOURNAMENT

Walter O'Brien, manager of the cowboy tournament which is to be revived at this year's territorial fair, and made one of the stellar features, returned home yesterday from a trip through southern New Mexico. He brought home with him ten entries, all from riders who have reputations to sustain. Two have been received from northern Colorado and it is expected that about twenty men from the range will be formally entered when the rough riding begins. In addition, Mr. O'Brien, who knows the New Mexico range like a book, has secured a large number of outlaw horses of the most vicious character, horses that are guaranteed to furnish the excitement if given a chance. The bronco busting is going to be full of thrills this year, if Mr. O'Brien can manage it, and he believes that he can.

Twenty-One Horses at the Grounds

There were twenty-one horses in the fair grounds stables last night and more are on the way, several being due to arrive today. The stock is as busy as of old and some fact tyroons are being done. The drivers say the track is unusually fast this year and that the meeting should offer some surprising marks.

Soldiers to Play Base Ball

In addition to the other athletic doings which the cavalrymen will part of during their stay in Albuquerque, they will present an exhibition of soldier base ball. There are two teams of them being the holder of the championship of this military division. General Thomas of the department, will arrive in Albuquerque on the evening of the 7th, according to a letter received at fair headquarters from the department headquarters at Denver yesterday. He will be accompanied by two aides and quarters have been reserved for the party at the Alvarado.

Montezuma Ball Announcement

For the benefit of those who contemplate attending the Montezuma ball at the Alvarado Friday, October 12, and especially for the visitors who are in the city at that time, the committee on arrangements announce that no invitations are to be sent out and the public in general is invited to the ball. The parties of the hotel will be at the disposal of the reception committee at 8 o'clock. A canopy will be provided to extend from the entrance to the curb for the protection of guests in event of inclement weather. Entrance will be on the first street side. Regulation evening dress is expected of both ladies and gentlemen. The grand march, led by Mrs. J. A. Weinman, wife of the president of the fair association and Governor George Curry, will begin promptly at 9 o'clock. Carriages may be ordered for 2 a. m.

While the decorations and expense of the ball will exceed very much that of any previous year, the price of admission will be the same as before. Gentlemen, $5; gentlemen and one lady, $5; each additional lady, $2.50. For those who want to make preparations before the night of the ball, tickets will be placed on sale at Matson's book store and the news stand at the Alvarado hotel.

ASSISTANTS TO THE GRAND MARSHAL FOR FAIR WEEK

Colonel John Herpold, marshal in charge of the parade of fair week, yesterday made public the following order:

"The following citizens of Albuquerque are hereby appointed as assistant marshals, during the entire week: Major J. E. Elder, Major C. C. Carr, Colonel Perfecto Armijo, Captain M. O'Donnell, Dr. L. H. Chamberlain, Jose Romero, W. H. Hahn, W. W. Strong, Frank H. Strong, M. L. Stern, Ysidro Sandoval, J. E. Haines. They are expected to muster as many mounted men as possible of their respective precincts for Tuesday, October 8, to escort His Excellency, Governor George Curry to the fair grounds from the Alvarado at 1 p. m. His excellency."

"JOHN BORRADALE,
"Marshal."

HAPPY RESULTS OBTAINED.

By the Use of the New Scalp Antiseptic.

It wouldn't take longer to number the hairs on the heads of some people, the reason being they haven't many to number. In most instances, however, the fault is their own. A germ at the root even plays havoc with the most luxuriant growth and causes it to fade and fall out. A remedy for this has recently been discovered, called Newbore's Herpicide, that acts by destroying the germ that does the damage besides removing all impurities from the scalp. In addition it permits new life and vigor to enter the scalp, and happy results are sure to be obtained from its use. Try it. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. U. H. Briggs & Co., special agents.

UNIVERSITY LITERARY SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Interesting Discussion of Plans for School Year and Excellent Program by the Khiva Club.

The Khiva Literary society of the University of New Mexico held a regular meeting last night at the Women's club rooms. Besides discussing ways and means for the school year an excellent program of talks, speeches and debates was held. John Waggoner spoke up in "Boosting for the School." A very interesting debate upon "The Advantages of Small and Large Schools for the Development of an All-Round College Man." Fred Forben and Allan Keller were the talkers.

David Lane discussed the possibilities of the adoption of military tactics at the University.

William Wood spoke upon "The Manual Training in Colleges," and William Sterling made a decided impression with his illustrated lecture on the University, with cartoons.

Harvey Ferguson talked about the big hunting exploits in New Mexico. Allen Keller presided while Hugh Bryan acted as secretary.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Charles Q. Goodwin, cashier of the Southwestern Brewery and Ice company, returned home yesterday from an extended trip to the coast. He was accompanied by Mrs. Goodwin.

W. M. Haywood, representative of the N. K. Fairbanks company of Chicago, returned to Albuquerque yesterday after an extended trip through the northern portion of the territory.

The concluding ceremonies of the feast of tabernacles will be celebrated at Temple Albert this evening. Services will commence promptly at 7:45. The rabbi, Rev. Dr. Chapman, will officiate and preach.

O. A. Matson, manager of the McIntosh Brothers, who has assumed the reins of management after being laid up in bed for some time, has arranged for a game at Trachon park next Sunday afternoon with the El Paso team which plays at the fair.

A carload of homeseekers from Garden City, Kas., passed through the city last night on No. 1. On the exterior of their car they had posted a large number of stickers carrying pictures of Garden City, issued by the Garden City Industrial club.

The annual meeting of the Improved Order of Redmen will be held here during fair week, convening October 7. The reception committee of local Redmen has completed an interesting program for the visitors. The meeting will be held in the Redmen's hall, while the members will make their headquarters at the new Grand building on North Broadway.

TAKING TESTIMONY IN TRIAL OF SENATOR BORAH

Dummy Entryman Allowed His Name to Be Used in Return for Similar Courtesy Extended Him.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 28.—Mention of the Meyerhauser, owners of vast timber lands in the northwestern states, made in the trial of Senator Borah today for the first time. This was when George S. Long of Tacoma took the stand, and stated that, in response to a request from James T. Barber, of Eau Claire, Wis., he had allowed his name to be used as a "dummy" trustee in the acquisition of Idaho timber lands. He produced a letter from Barber making a proposition as follows: "Exigencies have arisen which make it desirable to pass title to certain lands in Idaho through some party entirely removed from association with the Barber Lumber company. The circumstances being similar to those which made it desirable for you to use my name in connection with some of the Meyerhauser Timber company's property, I have therefore taken the responsibility of directing the placing of title to certain lands in you." Long said he had been a personal friend of Barber for seventeen years. He received no compensation for his services as trustee, never saw any of the deeds, did not employ Borah as counsel and, in fact, never met the senator until this year. Attorney Long's definition of Long, who the "exigencies" referred to by Barber meant, "I suppose," replied the witness, "they were the same as arose in Washington when I was purchasing property for the Meyerhauser company, and when I used Mr. Barber's name. If we used the Meyerhauser name in any locality it always went prices up and brought competition."

More letters tending to show that former Governor Steunenberg was interested in the timber land speculation were introduced and read to the jury.

SUBPOENAS OUT FOR HARRIMAN OFFICIALS

San Francisco, Sept. 28.—Judge De Haven of the United States district court today issued an order for the summoning of officials of the Southern Pacific railroad and the Pacific Mail Steamship company on the indictments returned yesterday charging the Harriman corporations with granting reductions in rates on shipments from Japan without filing the three days notice required under the old law to be filed with the interstate commerce commission. Those upon whom summons were served are: R. P. Schwerin, general manager of the Pacific Mail Steamship company; A. M. Garland, traffic manager, and W. J. Harby, agent; E. E. Calvin, general manager of the Southern Pacific; W. R. Scott, general superintendent; J. L. Willett, assistant secretary, and George Readington, assistant treasurer.

LAME BACK.

This is an ailment for which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has proven especially valuable. In almost every instance it affords prompt and permanent relief. Mrs. Lake LaGrange of Orange, Mich., says of it: "After using a plaster and other remedies for three weeks for a lame back, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and two applications effected a cure." For sale by all druggists.

The Young Man

Cuts a big figure with us, and we have planned for him. In school or college or business his clothes should be the echo of his tastes and not of his father's or his uncle's. The Average American

The average American is the man of the hour—that is, he lives for today's pleasures and troubles—lets tomorrow provide for itself. He would be in absolute want if thrown out of employment for one or two weeks, not because of small income, but because he is regularly living up to that entire income.

Be above the average. Whatever your income may be, make expenditures less, and deposit the differences in this good bank. Make the start, and your pride in watching the growth of that account will do the rest, and you will be largely depositing money that you will never miss.

Why persist in living constantly on the brink of money troubles when it only requires the start to put you beyond the fear that the loss of your position will bring suffering to yourself and those dependent upon you.

HASTINGS HELD FOR TRIAL ON SEVEN COUNTS

YOUNG ADVERTISING AGENT HAS HARD ROW TO HOE
Territorial Grand Jury Returns Ten Additional Indictments and Is Still Working—New Suits Filed.

Clifford Davenport Hastings, whose series of unpaid checks have gotten him into all sorts of trouble, was yesterday indicted by the grand jury on seven counts charging uttering false checks. Hastings will be arraigned with other prisoners during the early part of this week. The grand jury yesterday returned ten additional indictments making a total of about thirty thus far returned. None of the indictments have thus far been made public, only of the indicted parties having been placed under arrest. The grand jury will probably be in session the greater part of the week.

Important Land Suits Filed.
The San Mateo Land company of Albuquerque yesterday filed suit in district court for Valencia county against a large number of defendants of whom Jose Eugenio Azuara is the only one named, charging illegal residence on lands of the company in Bernalillo county and illegal claim to title, and asking the court for eviction of defendants, and that they be required to surrender claim to the land. A. B. McMillan appears for the company.

Lopez to Be Tried.
The case of Benjamin Lopez, accused of the murder of Luis Padilla at Los Padillas in 1904, will be tried when the petit jury is called October 24. M. C. Ortiz will defend Lopez.

PITIFUL DEATH OF FORMER SANTA FE ENGINEER

Robert Young, Once Master of a Locomotive on the Old Atlantic and Pacific, Dies Alone in Prescott Hotel.

Robert Young, known to the people of Prescott, Ariz., where he had lived for years as "Gunnysack Bob," and once a locomotive engineer on the Atlantic and Pacific railroad, died alone in a hotel in Prescott Tuesday. The Prescott Journal-Miner says: Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock, the dead body of Robert Young, known throughout the city for many years as "Gunnysack Bob," was found in a cabin on the shooting grounds, near the base ball park.

The gruesome discovery was made by Henry Oatman, a neighbor, who had seen Young alive for the last time a short time after dark, Monday evening, carrying a bucket of water from a nearby spring. Young complained of feeling ill at the time, but refused to allow Oatman to come to the city and call a physician. He told Oatman that he did not want to see a doctor and suggested that the former needed the services of a physician more than he did.

Oatman reported his discovery to the officers and the body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Maus and Rhannon, where an inquest was held, a verdict being returned that deceased came to his death from natural causes. His remains were interred yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Citizen's cemetery.

Deceased was aged about 56 years, and a native of Scotland. He resided in this city for the past fifteen years and previous to that time was employed for many years on the Atlantic and Pacific railroad as a locomotive engineer.

He was absent from America for some time. His official connection with the company of which he was president has been severed entirely, and his successor, Mr. E. F. Barden of Boston, was elected upon the acceptance by the company of Mr. Ensign's resignation. A board of five directors was elected. These directors will practically control the company's affairs. Until a board meeting is held the exact policy cannot be outlined, except that there will be but little change in the local management and that the work will be contained in the various corporations. Raton's best interests will be conserved and every possible advantage be given the town in the general plans of the company.

RAILROAD NOTES.
Conductor Greenaway and Engineer Lane were dethroned here yesterday on No. 2 from Gallup.

Freight engine No. 321, used on the second district of the New Mexico division, has been transferred to the third district temporarily. It pulls one of the refrigerator fast trains from here to Las Vegas.

As the result of a hot box on the buffet car of the California limited yesterday, the flyer arrived here ten minutes late and was delayed about twenty minutes in departing, while new axles were placed on the car.

As a result of spreading rails on the Los Angeles division Thursday night, as No. 2, the Atlantic express, was pulled out of a small station north of Los Angeles, the locomotive was derailed and the train was held there about eight hours, arriving here at 2:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon, six hours and forty minutes behind time.

Fortunately the train was under control of the engineer as a bad wreck would have occurred, but little damage was done except that the engine jumped the track. The accident occurred about 10 o'clock at night and few of the passengers were aware of any trouble.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF WESTERN MINES

Colorado Springs, Col.—Dr. E. A. Ritter, the well-known mining engineer, whose reports have covered a wide range of camps in the best producing sections of the west, has lately made an exhaustive examination of the Montezuma silver district, and is convinced that it is a camp of wonderful possibilities. Engineer Ritter says that the drop in silver values in 1902 gave a severe blow to the district, but that the conditions ruling silver, lead and zinc mining have seen a remarkable change during the last five years. He also states that the distance of Montezuma from the beaten trail has kept this camp long in the background, but that it is coming into its own again, and several properties are being reopened with great success.

Two years ago, he says, "some enterprising mining men began to clear the old tunnels and to reopen the best among the old producers of the camp, and their efforts are being splendidly rewarded." Mining men and investors returning to Colorado Springs from Montezuma report the town crowded with visitors and accommodations at a premium. From all appearances the flood tide of prosperity is flowing to this long neglected district.

Manfield, Ariz.—The general manager of the Mansfield Mining and Smelting company reports large bodies of free milling ore in the Black Cap mine at the fifty-foot level, with some good streaks of shipping ore. Stopping will be begun as soon as the upgrade is completed to supply the necessary ventilation. Gray copper has been cut in both the lower levels of this mine, and assays show 34 per cent copper, 88 ounces silver, and 2 ounces gold, or a total value of $171.95, figuring on 15-cent copper. Recent assays from the fifty-foot level show assays of from $54 to $214. It is stated that the management, in which the value of ore were followed. There have been taken steps looking toward the installation of adequate milling facilities for the Mansfield ores at a very early date.

Jerome, Ariz.—Mr. Eli Barrett, a pioneer Arizona prospector of thirty years' practical mining experience in the southwest has the following to say in regard to the Jerome district: "I confidently expect to see clashes between the United Verde, the Jerome Verde and other adjoining properties. In Butte there was an underground war on between the Amalgamated and the United Verde, and the result was a loss of millions of dollars. It is likely to be trouble of the same kind at Jerome. But all that aside, outsiders do not begin to realize the great copper deposits in Arizona. There is more copper in the hills of Arizona than exists in all other copper districts in the world combined. In the Jerome district alone there is enough copper to almost equal the entire production of the copper mines of Montana. The sulphide ores are nearer the surface, too, and they have already been recognized." Those statements are of special interest to such companies as the Verde Grande, the Chinita and the Boston and Jerome, a home property, are diversified by the holdings of the United Verde.

Denver, Col.—Dr. David H. Moffatt, president of the Denver Northwestern and Pacific, states that there will be no further delay in the construction of the road. Competent judges assert that the road will be a money maker from the start, as it will pass through some very rich mineral regions, notably Summit and Routt counties in Colorado, while the Encampment and Snake river districts of southern Wyoming should also furnish a heavy and profitable tonnage.

Phoenix, Ariz.—Investors returning from the Copper Creek district of Yavapai county describe the Sunset copper property which has lately been attracting considerable notice, as fairly bristling from end to end with copper bearing outcrops. There are eight or ten parallel ledges, all trending in the same direction, and ore samples can be picked up right at the surface which assay as high as $210 per ton. The ledges frequently reach a height of several feet above the surrounding ground, and show a width at the surface of from two to ten feet. The machinery now in operation on the property is of the most substantial character. The consensus of opinion seems to be that the Sunset group will fully equal the Rosalia, its immediate neighbor, which is now among the heaviest shippers of the district.

Laramie, Wyo.—The incentives to the construction of new railway lines through this section are greater than generally appreciated. The Laramie, Hahn's Peak and Pacific railway, for instance, is counting on a revenue of $2,000,000 from coal tonnage alone, as the North Park coal fields are known to contain 125,000,000 tons of coal, which should yield a daily output of 5,000 tons. This road will also pass through a rich mining section that will furnish a heavy tonnage in Douglas creek, while the Snake river district of southern Wyoming is likely to furnish some surprises in the way of heavy copper and silver production. The railway is now nearing completion.

Breckenridge, Colo.—So many new ore shoots are being opened up in the Wellington lead and zinc mine that it seems impossible to walk more than a few feet in the workings without coming upon an ore body. One of the best of those recently uncovered is eight feet wide in the breast of the tunnel, and there are three feet more on the floor, making a total width of eleven feet. Heavy shipments from the Wellington and Oro tunnels continue to go forward.

Cripple Creek, Colo.—The latest rich strikes in the Delmonico are no surprise to experienced miners, men familiar with the history of the district. In fact, it has long been known that Stratton regarded the Delmonico as among the very best of his properties, and it would have been almost unaccountable had the present operators failed to strike pay dirt in rich quantities at the same level where it was encountered in the Isabella, the Victor and the Findley. The 400 or 500 tons of ore just exposed will average $70 per ton, and good shipments are already going forward. The management of the Consolidated company is highly satisfied with the turn that events have taken.

HUNDREDS GRIEVED TWO DIE AS RESULT BY DEATH OF FR. GENTILE OF PTOMAINE POISONING

Pioneer Priest Whose Life Has Been Spent in Good Work Passes Away in Las Vegas.

Hundreds of people in Bernalillo county and throughout New Mexico who have felt the influence of his kindly life, will be grieved at the announcement of the death in Las Vegas at 3 o'clock Saturday morning, of Rev. Father A. M. Gentile, S. J., a pioneer of the Jesuits in this part of New Mexico, a man whose faithful work has left its mark on the territory and whose strong character and active useful life, make his death a heavy loss to the church and to the people. Father Gentile was born at Benevento, Italy, July 14, 1838, and when eighteen years of age consecrated his life to the work of the church and the Society of Jesus. His education was broad and thorough and his training for the difficult work in which he spent the best fifty years of his life was complete. In 1869, when the Jesuits were expelled from Italy, Father Gentile went to Spain, where he completed his education for the priesthood and was sent to take up the mission work in New Mexico. His record has been one of unbroken service since that time. For many years he has been the editor of "Revista Catolica," a weekly newspaper devoted to the interests of Christian work and which he has made a success. For more than a year Father Gentile has been in failing health, although he has persisted in his labors up to a few months ago, when he was forced to go to Las Vegas for rest in the hope that a change of climate would be of benefit to him. His death yesterday was not unexpected.

The funeral service will take place in the Church of San Felipe de Neri, in old Albuquerque, next Thursday morning. The remains will be laid to rest in Las Vegas.

Speaking of Father Gentile last night, another pioneer of New Mexico, who has known him long and well said: "Humanity lost a faithful friend, and the church of Christ on earth one of its most devoted laborers, when Rev. Father Gentile, at Las Vegas yesterday morning finished his work and responded to the kindly invitation of the Master to come up higher. The telegram bringing the news says: 'He died at three o'clock.' But that is a mistake. Such men as Father Gentile do not die; they merely put aside this mortal coil to put on immortality, and while the many thousands of loving hearts throughout New Mexico in which his memory is enshrined, will receive the announcement with profound sorrow, they will but mourn the world's loss, through his great gain."

JUAN MARINO AND WIFE OF PADILLAS THE VICTIMS

Dr. Osuna After Examination Declares Canned Meat Was the Direct Cause of Death. Third May Die.

Ptomaine poisoning, alleged to have been caused by eating canned meat, resulted in the death late Friday night of Juan de Dios Marino, and early Saturday morning of his wife, Mrs. Solidad Marino, well known people of Las Padillas. A brother of Mrs. Marino, who also ate of the canned meat, is also a victim of the deadly poison and is not expected to live.

Dr. Egleo Osuna, of Albuquerque, was called to Las Padillas late Friday night to attend the Marinos. When he arrived he found Marino in the death agony and although he did all he could to relieve him, the man died soon after his arrival. The physician then turned his attention to Mrs. Marino, who was also suffering terribly, but after working over the patient for more than five hours the poison won the victory and at 3 o'clock Saturday morning death came. The physician continued his fight to save the life of the third victim, and late last night he was still alive although in a very serious condition.

Dr. Osuna made an examination yesterday of the food eaten by the Marinos shortly before the poison made its appearance, and found what he considers unmistakable evidence of ptomaine poison in canned meat of which all three victims had eaten. Marino was 58 years old and his wife 42. They were respected people and Mr. Marino was comfortably fixed financially. Relatives of the dead live in El Paso and no funeral announcement will be made pending their arrival.

Salvatore Armijo, justice of the peace in Las Padillas precinct, it was announced last night, would make an investigation into the case, although it is not known whether an inquest will be held. The bodies are held at the Adams morgue.

The family of the deceased have been informed of his death.
