CHICAGO WINS AGAIN FROM DETROIT

CUBBS UNDISPUTED WORLD'S CHAMPIONS

American League Leaders No Match for Speedy Bunch From Windy City; Cold Weather Cuts Attendance.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12.—The Chicago National league baseball team this afternoon at Bennett Park won the world's championship, defeating the Detroit American league team by the score of two to nothing. It was the fourth successive victory for the Chicago team in as many days. Taking advantage of every slip made by the local players, the running bases, cleverly, they scored two runs in the first two innings, while the Detroit team did not succeed in getting one man over the home plate. The winners who had followed the Chicago team from their home city, swarmed down to the diamond when the ninth inning closed, and showered them with congratulations.

It was a disappointing day for the local team in more ways than one. The weather was raw and cold, entirely unfit for baseball. The official count of the attendance was 7,370. The temperature was below 50 degrees, and a raw wind swept across the field throughout the game. Mullin and Brown both pitched well, but the Chicago team received stronger support from his teammates. Brown, who also steadied the Mullin, giving him one base on balls to Mullin's three, one of which developed into a run in the first inning. There was missing in the play of the Detroit team again this afternoon the dash and vim which carried them to the top of the American league and won the pennant for them. The local team had a man on third base but twice during the game, and each time Brown held the batter safely.

In an effort to check the base stealing of Chicago, Manager Jennings sent in Catcher Archer to relieve Mullin, but the Chicago men succeeded in stealing four bases from him, which figured materially in the scoring of both their runs. Jones and Coughlin succeeded in stealing bases this afternoon from King, whose throwing to bases aided so largely in Chicago's victories. Chicago scored in the opening inning. Slagle waited for a base on balls, Sheppard then sent a fly to Jones, and Howard struck out. With two out, Slagle dashed for second base and was safe. Sheppard scored him with a single to center field. Roseman dropped Coughlin's throw, of Rivers grounded at the opening of the second inning, and he was safe, taking second on Tinker's single after Schulte had pointed out to Archer while trying to bunt. The pair of infielders then worked a clever double steal. Brown was given a base on balls, and the bases were full with but one out. Evers scored on Slagle's grounder to short, while the center fielder was put out. Sheppard ended the inning and the scoring for the day.

President William Hawley of the Detroit American League gave his players for winning the American league pennant, $15,000, was their share of the receipts from the world's series, making $14,773 which the local players will divide. The share of the Chicago league team in the world's series receipts is $12,960. Secretary Bruce of the National baseball commission announced this evening that the total attendance at the five games which were played in the series was 74,746, and the gross receipts, $101,785.

The gross receipts today were $12,478, of which the players received $4,824.42, the commission $1,263.80, and the two clubs each $2,774.48. The

Russell Sage's Practice May Become General; Passing of the Political Hotels.

The passing of the Fifth Avenue hotel within the next few months will mark the disappearance of the last of the city's hotels possessing a distinctly political atmosphere. The headquarters of the Republican party of republican activity in New York practically ever since the party came into existence, and its Amen corner is famous all the country over. Until now the headquarters of the party in the state was in the hotel and during the years when Thomas C. Platt was the party boss he resided there. Now the party headquarters have moved to an obscure back street, and only a few old-time politicians are to be encountered through the corridors of the famous old hotel.

The Hoffman house once occupied a position in democratic politics similar to that of the Fifth Avenue in republican affairs, but now the new center of democratic activity in New York is much the same as the Ever since John D. Rockefeller was in France the people of Paris have been waiting for a story about him. This is the latest story circulated here.

During his stay here last year the richest man in the world ordered two wigs—a cardinal's coiffeur, "the wig" were delivered, and the hair merchant who had not read his newspaper for nothing, did not make the price too light—the bill amounted to $125.

Mr. Rockefeller said nothing when he saw the bill, but the wigmaker asked if he might demand one favor—"Ask away," said Rockefeller. "I should be very pleased to have you give me a wig," said the wigmaker. "Right," said the millionaire, and taking a piece of white paper, he wrote on it, "Bon pour six cent francs. (Signed) Rockefeller."

"Now you are," remarked the oil king. The coiffeur hesitated. "Yes, but," he said, "if I give this bon to get the money, I shan't have the autograph any more."

"Then," said Mr. Rockefeller, slowly, "then don't get the money."

The cotton is the best anybody ever saw, large, clean bolls, and eleven acres of kaffir corn made 5,000 bundles. A very creditable industrial exhibit not yet mentioned was that of the Albuquerque Marble works, T. R. Overton, manager. Mr. Overton had on display a sample of fancy and delicate marble cutting which was most interesting.

Each Day Brings Into Prominence The Economist's Many Notable Offerings

The unexcelled completeness of our stocks is made conspicuous by the display of many of the new and latest autumn styles which have just arrived after being selected with discriminating care by our organization of buyers to whom some days ago we wired to replenish our assortments which were depleted owing to the excessively heavy purchasing of the past few weeks. Superior service, unequaled value giving and merchandise of intrinsic worth have made this store the natural supply center of this city—a fact universally recognized and to which the largely increased volume of sales is attributable.

FASCINATING AUTUMN MILLINERY FOR 1907 AND 1908.

The clever versatility of our own clever designers is beautifully reflected in this diversified collection of style adorned effects in our second floor department.

These chic conceptions are the result of our ambition to show something unusual and strikingly up to date at 10c and $12.

Everything is fresh and new, and each day sees our hats stand blossoming with some pretty, fresh idea, evolved in our workshop. Though there is, it is true, a decided distinctiveness about this season's hats, there is still all great a variety of style that almost any woman may find that which is particularly becoming to her.

LADIES' SUITS, COATS AND WAISTS FOR FALL WEAR.

The fall season is now on with a rush and hurry that bodes ill for the slow shopper. The swarm of buyers that have invaded our store this last week have gone away with splendid garments. This week we call especial attention to some splendid numbers that warrant your attention. Come in and look them over. All kinds of suits reduced to close out. A full line of women's suits just received. Take note some wonderful new numbers in this season's favorites.

OUR GREAT ANNUAL OCTOBER BLACK SILK SALE
Monday and All Week.

"The fact that prices on silks have advanced to the highest point in the recollection of the present dry goods merchants make this sale a remarkable one in the point of prearrangements for the quality offered. By reason of large quantities placed almost a year ago we are today selling high grade black silk dresses not quoted by any other western house, so the farther reductions quoted in this annual autumn silk sale will make the price advantage too important to neglect. Many of these silks cannot be professed, while at the prices for which we sell them to be better than anywhere else."

IMPORTANT—Every yard of silk offered in this great sale is of the Economist's own guaranteed regular stock, offering a dependable quality.

Reap Rich Harvest.

(Special Correspondence Morning Journal.)
Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 9.—San Juan county was honored the past week by a visit from Congressman W. A. Haggart, of Colorado. Mr. Haggart was tendered a dinner at Farmington at which the chief topic discussed was the proposed annexation of this county to Colorado. The congressman, it is said, expressed doubts as to the success of any such effort, but said he would be glad to introduce such a bill providing the requisite petition was drawn up and signed by the citizens generally. This will probably be attempted at once for consideration of the congress at its session in December.

There is a decided diversion of the people here as regards the advisability of such a move as is contemplated. The advocates of Colorado annexation point out that the greatest benefit which this county would reap at once would be in the application of the Carey act to this region. As matters stand with regard to irrigation, there is an abundance of water flowing in the rivers here and plenty of good land yet unwatered. Were it possible to form an irrigation district, bond the land for money to build irrigation canals and take advantage of the Carey act, the area of arable land would be increased and where San Juan county now has about 25,000 acres under actual irrigation, it would in a few years have 150,000 acres.

On the other hand, Congressman Haggart pointed out that if statehood is obtained, New Mexico's constitution of congress to offset the democratic votes of the new state of Oklahoma, the necessity of annexation to Colorado would be somewhat removed.

Orchardists Are Getting Rich.
Orchardists in this county are now reaping a golden harvest. Such as seldom happened. Apples are selling at an eager and high-priced market. Where last year 75 cents per box was received, the same grade of apples are this year bringing as high as $2.00 per box. And San Juan county will have about 75 per cent of a full crop of apples, some peaches and pears, and a fine harvest of grapes, vegetables and hay. The people are rejoicing in their good fortune.

An Example of Prices.
A. Seiver and Sons own eight acres of apple orchard near Flora Vista, this county, have sold their crop for $4,500. This averages between $500 and $600 per acre. Other fruit growers have done equally well. It is not better. G. W. McCoy, who owns a fine orchard near Aztec, picked 600 boxes of apples from sixty-five acres. Beauty trees. These brought him $1.50 per box, or $954 from a fraction less than one acre.

District court opens at the second Monday in November. The new law, introduced by Hon. Price Walters, changing the court term to November instead of October, has been greatly appreciated by San Juan citizens. They will now have their hay and fruit all out of the way and jury duty will be less annoying.

Local citizens have written to Oregon for several pairs of Chinese pheasants, which it is believed will thrive in these valleys.

Louis Wilmer, one of the pioneers of San Juan county, died recently at his ranch near La Brea. He leaves a wife and several children. A word to the fair.

San Juan county was not well represented with exhibits at Albuquerque's fair this year. Many of the fruit growers believe that if Albuquerque would devote a small fraction of its race course to prizes for fruit and produce, it would be worth while to exhibit there. This is one way to look at it.

A. C. Bennett wanted in Amarillo for Forgery Will Be Allowed to Return With Officer.

A. C. Bennett, wanted in Amarillo, Texas, for forging and passing bad checks was arrested last night by Chief of Police McMillin on advice from the Amarillo authorities and will be held in jail here pending the arrival of a Texas officer. It is believed the man has also been working Albuquerque with some worthless paper. At any rate, it is the opinion of the authorities that Albuquerque has had enough phony paper artists to hold her for a while, and if Amarillo wants Bennett this city does not need him in its business.

DOUBT-SINCERITY OF
RECEPTION TO TAFT

Pointed Out That Same Honors Were Showered on Kuropatkin Shortly Before War With Russia Broke Out.

(By Walter Donkirk.)

Berlin, Oct. 12.—The Berlin papers, which have been commenting on the visit of Secretary Taft to Tokyo, do not believe that the cordial reception given him should be taken as a guarantee of Japan having only friendly feelings toward the United States.

Several papers bring out the fact that only a short time before the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war, the Russian minister of war, General Kuropatkin, also visited Tokyo, and received with open arms by the Mikado and General Terauchi, who is still at the head of the Japanese war department. Nevertheless, the war between the two countries broke out a few months later.

It is the general opinion here that Japan will continue to strengthen her army and navy as she is doing now, that she will remain quiet and even make a great display of good will towards the United States as long as the great American fleet is in the Pacific, but when it shall have returned she will swoop down upon the Hawaiian and the Philippine islands without any previous declaration of war, repeating her tactics at Port Arthur.

King Frederick August of Saxony, whose brutal behavior towards his wife drove her to suicide with illness, has suddenly discovered that she still loves her, and his love has grown particularly violent since the former duchess Princess Louise, later Countess Montagu, has become Mme. Tscholl by marrying the young Italian painter.

It is reported here that the king, who some weeks ago made an attempt to kidnap the little Princess Pia Montagu, has been discovered by Tscholl, who is now at Florence, with love letters, begging her to return to him, and declaring that her present marriage is void, as neither Countess Montagu nor Signor Tscholl has lived long enough in England to establish a residence when the ceremony took place.

The king's efforts to gain popularity among his subjects by insisting on an annuity being paid to his ex-wife, and other acts of conspicuous generosity, are making him the laughing stock of the whole country, and undoubtedly bring down upon him the anger of the kaiser.

The unusual sight of a real grand duke and regent of the czar, the duke of Saxe-Coburg, and possibly Berlin.

Grand Duke Constantine, of Russia, already quite well known as a poet, has in collaboration with his gifted wife, translated into Russian Shakespeare's "Hamlet," and dramatized Henrik Ibsen's famous novel "Quo Vadis."

At the present time he is busy studying the parts of the "Melancholy Dane" in "Quo Vadis," in which he expects to make his appearance.

Even though it may be years before they will get political freedom, life is going to be made easier for the Russian people, for the czar has decreed to make the divorce laws more liberal.

At present it is possible to get a divorce in Russia, and the difficulty, but now the Holy Synod has decreed that several other reasons are to be accepted by the church, when a divorce is desired, where that he or she has not married the other before. If one of the other leaves the orthodox church a divorce will be granted, allowing both to remarry. If they agree that they cannot agree, man and wife need only live apart one year, and the authorities will dissolve the marriage tie, and instantly and without discussion will also be accepted as sufficient cause for divorce.

In some respects it really seems as if Russia were ahead of America.

The Mikado wants to go into the dairy business, and wants to establish a model dairy farm on the same lines as that owned and managed by his maternal cousin, the kaiser, at Koenigsberg.

A special commission of Japanese farming experts and veterinary surgeons have arrived here from Berlin, to see if it is possible to introduce a large number of cattle of the famous Simmenthal breed.

The commission will leave the city in a few days, for the northern part of Prussia, where they intend to buy up a number of cattle of pure Holstein breed. The commission will leave Germany for Denmark, where they will secure the services of half a dozen expert butter makers to instruct the Japanese in the mysteries of producing first class butter.

For the poorer American physicians who are unable to get a sufficient practice at home, there are opportunities in the eastern provinces of Russia, where physicians are very much needed. The lack of physicians is especially great in Siberia, which, in spite of its enormous area, has only 78 practicing physicians.

Also, in the southern provinces of European Russia there are districts where you may travel hundreds of versts to find a physician, and chances are then that you do not find him in.

It is characteristic of the Russian women that nearly all of the physicians practicing among the peasants, who cannot afford to pay very much, are women who devote their lives to this kind of charity.

As a rule the peasants do not try to find a physician when sick, but go to the pope, who sells all kinds of remedies for a few kopecks. Very often he tries to cure his patients by Christian science methods, ordering the peasant to take off his cap and mumbling a prayer into it, which is then to be taken home to the patient.

The Russian ministry of the interior has drawn up a plan for the complete reorganization of the police.

Apart from its corruption and inefficiency, the chief vice of the present system is that the civil police are overburdened with political affairs, and afford no protection whatever against ordinary crime.

The new project provides for three kinds of police, each of which will have distinctly defined functions. The first will deal only with politics, the second with ordinary crime, and the third with sanitation, building and urban regulations.

The political police is to be organized on military lines, the bureau being to make it swifter in action and more inflexible.

The reorganization committee at work in the Caucasus has failed to end the bloody feud between the Tartar and Armenian populations.

The Tartars lately seized a whole Armenian family belonging to the village of Giallauli, and imprisoned them in the hills. Two of the pursuing Armenians were shot down from behind rocks, and one of the captives beaten to death.

In the neighborhood of Pakti murders take place every day. The Tartars organized in small bands hold all the roads, and let no Armenian pass. Last week they fired on a Cossack patrol which they mistook for a trading caravan. The Cossacks rode down the attackers, captured five and hanging them to trees without trial.

Near Gerush five Armenian traders fell into Tartar hands. Two escaped at night. When the flight was discovered the Tartars changed themselves by hacking to pieces the remaining captives.

Several important roads are completely abandoned to Tartar brigands, to whom even Russian officials pay blackmail.

Some of Mexico's enterprising boosters have formed a stock company to run a big general merchandise store in the border town with a stock to start with of over $20,000.

Denning is soon to host a fine new 200-room hotel—something that the Windmill City has been needing for many moons.

One man was instantly killed and six others were badly injured, one fatally by an explosion Thursday on the line of the grade being made for the new street railway in Los Angeles. The dead man was mangled so that he could not be identified. The injured were Dionicio Gonzalez, Peter McDaniels, Pedro Ortiz, Jesus Leon and two others. A big bunch of blasting dynamite was exploded, just how may never be known.

How to Cure a Cold.
The question of how to cure a cold without unnecessary loss of time is one in which we are all interested. For the quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less danger of pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mrs. E. H. Weaver, Va., has used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for years, and says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all druggists.

Many gifts of china were left, including an entire dinner set.

Women on Record Against the Billboards
Temperance Union
Voices a Protest

Also Declares in Favor of Juvenile Courts and Against Army Canteen—New Officers Elected.

The territorial convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, which closed Monday afternoon, October 7, adopted the following resolutions:

We, the New Mexico Women's Christian Temperance Union, in convention assembled, rejoice in the progress of the past year. We thank God for His guidance and blessing in our work, and reaffirm our adherence to our declaration of principles, our cordial support to and co-operation with our National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and our own state officers.

That the abolition of the liquor traffic is our main object, and we extend a welcome hand to our brothers of the Anti-Saloon League, in their efforts to suppress this evil.

We stand for total abstinence from alcoholic drinks and narcotic drugs, and voice our protest against the licensed saloon and the legalization of vice in any form, and also against the desecration of our streets and public thoroughfares by bill boards and posters, which have a tendency to deprave the taste and degrade the morals of our youth. We hereby petition those in authority to make the streets of our towns and cities safe and wholesome for the feet of childhood.

We desire a clean statehood for New Mexico, one free from the depressing influence of alcohol and all its attending evils; therefore we appeal to all home-loving people to help us prepare for the coming day. We declare for better law enforcement. We view with alarm the criminal tendencies of so many children as recorded in our daily papers; and recommend the beneficent features of juvenile courts.

We reiterate our declaration for the enfranchisement of woman, because her most effective work can only be obtained through the ballot. We believe in purity of life for both man and woman, and deplore a condition of morals which suggests a segregation of vice, as a remedy for the evil.

We are opposed to the re-establishment of the sale of beer and intoxicating drinks in the army canteen, and favor the three-mile limit law.

We express our thanks to the trustees of the First Presbyterian church; to those pastors who, by their helpful words of cheer and encouragement, have shown their co-operation with us; to the press for printing notices and reports; to the women of the local union, the musicians and all friends of the cause who have aided us in this convention.

MRS. PITT ROSS.
MRS. MATTIE GARLICK.
MRS. DAVID STEWART.
Committee.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:
President, Mrs. S. C. Nutter, Albuquerque.
Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary W. Barnes, Albuquerque.
Recording secretary, Mrs. L. A. Shirk, Las Vegas.
Treasurer, Mrs. Ella O. Wood, Santa Fe.

IT IS

of business men to speak of the conditions of business as of something quite apart—something to observe and comment upon, like the weather, but not as something over which they exercise a personal control. Business is good, or it is dull, or it is slow, and the merchant is inclined to feel discouraged by the one condition and discouraged by the other, without appearing to realize that he is ruler of his own affairs—a more absolute ruler than is any emperor of his empire.

The drifters among merchants, of course, scarcely rule their affairs—they allow the affairs to rule them. They realize the value of a good location for a store or enterprise; the value of many of the essentials in store making—but they imagine that with other things in their favor they can save money on the advertising campaign by using half as much space as a competitor uses, taking half as much trouble as he takes to make his advertising fruitful of salesmanship, and by using the cheapest medicine. In short, luck is a correlative in the structure of their business hopes.

Luck seems often to decide some things, but it does not decide races between stores.

Luck is a fickle goddess and should be wooed with persistence—and she is captured oftener with printers' ink than with other means and methods combined.

Where luck is a myth, but what passes for it is within easy reach of any merchant. Adequate newspaper publicity calls have but one logical result for a store—growth, prosperity, prospects. It is the law. It is the fact.

If you are just now giving more attention to any other part of your business than the order for the advertising let us suggest that you reverse that condition for a while—and your store will take a sudden jump forward.

ROOSEVELT TO CONTEND FOR BIG NAVY

WANTS 4 BATTLESHIPS
FROM COMING CONGRESS

Sending Fleet to Pacific Designed to Induce New England Statesmen to Loosen Purse Strings.

[Special Correspondence Morning Journal.] Washington, Oct. 7.—Now that the president has given forth the six big speeches prepared for delivery on his western and southern trip, the country can digest them while Mr. Roosevelt is hunting bears in the Louisiana canbrake.

An analysis of these speeches shows the dominant note to be a demand for the creation of a greater navy. In fact, a two-ocean navy, and it is no secret in Washington that a thorough White House campaign is to be waged this winter to persuade congress to take the initial steps in this direction. And these initial steps are to be gigantic strides, consisting of nothing less than authorization for the construction of four big battleships.

Every word the president has said in these remarkable speeches indicates an abandonment of the old program of simply keeping the navy up to its present state of efficiency by building a new battleship each year to take the place of the earlier ships as they are retired because of their becoming obsolete and assigned to the second line of defense. The sending of the Atlantic fleet to Pacific waters is another argument for the construction of this new navy. The absence of the fleet from Asiatic waters is expected to remove the opposition of the New England members to the building a larger fleet.

Strange as it may seem, it is from New England, the actual home of America's sea-faring men, that the most vehement opposition has come to any unusual enlargement of the navy. By removing the navy from that coast, the administration hopes to supply an object lesson that will have its effect. During the Spanish-American war, the inhabitants of the New England coast towns were absolutely terrorized with the fear of bombardment by Spanish warships and if they lose sight of the big battleships of the navy for a year or two the president expects them to be willing to vote plenty of money to guarantee their prompt return and continued presence. Senator Hale, of Maine, chairman of the senate committee on naval affairs, has always been the bulwark in that body against appropriations for a large increase in the navy.

By sending a fleet to the Pacific coast, the proper sentiment, of course, will be stimulated. Once having a taste of the navy and witnessing the magnificence of the ships, the members from that section, backed by public sentiment will vote as the administration may ask up to any reasonable amount. The speeches of the president during his trip down the Mississippi river constitute the education of the inland inhabitants. The need of a navy as the guarantor of peace and the strong arm of the nation in time of war, the need of preparedness in advance, the inability to build ships quickly when wanted, all are the arguments favoring appropriations by the coming congress that the president has been driving home to his auditors. The reception given the speechless ship, the president has not engaged in this propaganda in vain. His addresses have been cheered to an echo and there is little doubt but that under the impetus given by the president and the general popular approval of everything the president so far has advocated, he will win in this fight which marks the commencement of the construction of the more modern and greater American navy.

The sentiment for a large navy also has been fostered by the Jamestown exposition. So far as has been practicable the ships have been kept in Hampton Roads as exhibits for the visitors to this exposition. Nine-tenths of the visitors to Jamestown are from the interior states where ships of war are never seen and where the navy is being only to read about. These ships have been open to public inspection; in fact the public has been urged to go aboard and see what a modern warship is like, and officers have vied with each other in explaining the operations of a big fighting machine. Enthused over these men-of-war and prouder than ever of the flag which they are intended to protect, every one of these visitors returns to his inland home an advocate of the American navy and ready to support his member when he votes large sums of money for its construction and maintenance.

Thus, in divers ways is the policy of the president being bolstered and public opinion accelerated along this particular line. It costs enormous sums of money to build and maintain a navy, and sums more huge than anything the American people have yet been asked to approve will be required if the nation is to have a two-ocean fleet. This money cannot be had without popular public approval and the president's recent speeches are the big guns of the opening campaign to obtain this approval. A modern battleship is valued at about ten million dollars completed and ready to go into action. Four such ships authorized by congress means an expenditure then of upwards of $40-000,000. There probably would be a compromise and the president would get three of them. Secretary McCall recently said that four were better than three. If the battleship fleet is to be duplicated, the expense could not end with the mere construction of the ships themselves. Necessarily there would be an increase in the dock and yard facilities of the Pacific coast. This would mean several million more. Added to all this must be taken into consideration the increase essential in officers and men, for ships of war without men to man and officers to command, would not be of much benefit to the nation. It probably would be reasonable to assume that if the president's policy is carried out the number of officers and enlisted men in the navy would practically be doubled.

All this contemplates a program greater than the most ardent advocate of the navy heretofore has suggested, but it appears that other nations are doing much the same thing.
Notwithstanding the efforts of the Hague Peace conference to limit armament and reduce the possibilities of war, the nations of the earth apparently are going on in their own way, preparing for war and strengthening the lines of their national defense.

The most recent news from Japan which significantly comes from that empire by mail, shows to what unusual extent the island empire is moving in the direction of naval construction. Cable information of this sort probably would have been intercepted. This information shows that the Japanese have three big naval yards wherein they are rushing construction and are now rivaling the famous British record breaking feat of turning out high class armored cruisers in a little more than a year's time.
The Japanese are to build a big steel plant at another point for the manufacture of armor plate and guns. Her equipment has started the whole world. Naval officers on duty at Washington emphasize the fact that if Japan ever finds it convenient to go to war with any nation that it will be the United States. Is the Pacific ocean to be the scene of the next great naval war? The speeches of the president, the attitude of the navy department, the observations of naval officers and the hints of diplomats, all suggest that this is a consummation to be feared and that part of wisdom will be exhibited if the Cable information of this sort probably in whatever befalls it.

The policy has been mapped out. It now remains to be seen what congress will say in reply to the White House naval program.

THE HOLLINGSWORTH TWINS MYRTLE AND MAUDE

THE HOLLINGSWORTH TWINS THIS WEEK

Popular Young Actresses
at Head of Own Company to Open at Elk's Theatre.

Tomorrow night's play at the Elk's theatre is entitled "La Belle Marie," and is a bill that the Hollingsworth Twins are making a special feature of.
It is an American comedy drama of today, and Maude Hollingsworth, in the dual role of Jean Inglesides, LaBelle Marie, has a part that "fits her like a glove."

Myrtle Hollingsworth plays Stubbs, the office boy, the comedy part in the play. Stubbs has a slight impediment in his speech, in fact, he stutters dreadfully and causes a "laugh a minute," while he is on the stage.

Mr. Lawrence Peyton is the new juvenile leading man, and Mr. Wallie Stephen the comedian.

A change of bills will be given each night including a production of "Under Southern Moss," the play that opened the "Twins" engagement at the Elk's last February, and one that created a very favorable impression.

Mr. W. R. Orendorf, at present treasurer of the Crystal circuit, and in Albuquerque to start the new Crystal on the road to prosperity, is the author of "Under Southern Moss," and wrote the play especially for the Hollingsworth Twins.
The Twins are being featured at the head of their own dramatic company this season, and the supporting company is much better than the average popular price attraction.

Some of the plays to be presented during the "Twins" engagement are "Thelma," "Texas," "Under Southern Moss," "M'Liss," "A Hoosier Romance," "Road to Ruin," and "Among the Chicks."

Prices of admission will remain as before, 15, 25 and 35 cents. Reserved seats at Matson's.

Superbly Trained Wild Animals With the Norris and Rowe Circus.

Superbly trained wild beasts will divide the honors with the acrobats, gymnasts and acrobats with the Greater Norris & Rowe show this season. In fact more attention has been paid to educating wild and native beasts than ever before. C. I. Norris has long been acknowledged the best of the very few wild animal trainers in this country. During the past winter, Mr. Norris, assisted by John Carroll, equestrian director, has successfully broken many wild beasts, and given a school of Arabian stallions, Shetland ponies and thoroughbreds, an excellent education. A troupe of saw with bloodhounds, juggling with swirling lumps, boxing, playing saw-
saw with bloodhounds, juggling with their feet, etc. Two huge baboons turn somersaults, a large troupe of dogs of all species, kinds and breeds accomplish so many difficult tricks that one is forced to marvel at their intelligence. Leopards jump through hoops of fire, a group of tigers, lions and panthers have been successfully trained, a herd of elephants play soldiers, drill, dance, etc. The autumnal marked stallions, cavalry execute rick-shawing movements, dance and go through pretty maneuvers.
Professing denture Shetland ponies are juggling, doing stunts, and playing camels, bunnies and dromedaries have been taught to haul wagons and allow themselves to be driven in single and double harness. There are also a number of domestic animals trained to do odd appearing things, and while the element of danger is eliminated, still they were as hard to train as the wild beasts. This refers especially to the educated goats, pigs, pelicans, etc.
In fact, the arrangement of the program of the Greater Norris and Rowe circus for the present tour permits of two complete shows for which only one admission is charged. The big shows and managerie will exhibit at Albuquerque Friday, October 25th.

Unknown Steamer Lost.

Detroit, Oct. 12.—A dispatch to the Journal from Grand Marais reports an unknown steamer lost last night on Lake Superior, off Deer Park, twenty miles from Grand Marais. One survivor was washed ashore, lashed to a life raft, and is now in a critical condition. He was just able to tell that he was the sole survivor of twenty-three people on board the boat. A furious gale prevailed on the lake last night, and the steamer is supposed to have been pounded to pieces or been driven on shore.

THE PULPIT AND THE TRUSTS.

Last Tuesday evening, before the national council of the Congregational churches of the United States, at Columbus, Ohio, the Rev. Washington Gladden, who is one of the most eminent ministers of the gospel on this continent, delivered a sermon which is attracting great attention throughout the country.

In eloquent and most convincing terms the reverend speaker pointed out the dangers that threaten society, the church, and even the government itself, through the modern influence of perditional wealth, and in a striking and trenchant manner spoke of the many evils which he declared were almost sure to result from the encouragement of bloated corruption. He predicted that the United States was rapidly reaching a crisis in social conditions, and that the sharp line being drawn between the extravagant rich and the desperately poor might lead to a tremendous social upheaval.

"It is idle," he said, "to hide from ourselves the fact that we are facing, here in the United States, a social crisis," continued Dr. Gladden.
"The forces which are at work here, —the forces whose operation I have been pointing out—mean destruction.
The tendencies which have been gathering strength since the civil war —the tendencies to the accumulation of power in the hands of a few; the tendency to use this power predominantly, the tendencies to boundless luxury and extravagance; the tendency to the separation and the antagonism of social classes—must be arrested and that speedily, or we shall soon be in chaos."

"It is because we have begun to have some dim conception of this truth that we are moving, now, toward the correction by law, of those social injustices. We must terminate them; that is the fight in which there must be no faltering; we must win, or we will be destroyed. This is the truth which our brave president, by word and deed, is always enforcing upon us, and he is entirely and everlastingly right about it. He means that the law shall do all that law can do to prevent and punish the rapacity of the strong. It means that our democracy shall not harbor subtle and crippling tyrannies, forms of robbery with which like gossamer, that drop on us out of the dark, and entangle us when we are asleep; impalpable spiders that drain away our strength in driplets and leave us not only poor but ignorant of what has happened to us."

"What has the Christian church been doing while these powers of plunder and plunder have been gathering their forces and spreading their nets and heaping up their spoils?
Where was the Christian church when the grafters were ravaging the cities and the rebate robbers and the francise financiers and the insurance sharks were getting in their work?
For the most part she has been standing by and looking on, winking her eyes and twiddling her thumbs, and wondering whether she had any call to interfere."

"The prophets of old had no such embarrassment in defining their function. Here and there a prophetic voice has been heard, in our own time, not against these monstrous injustices which the nation is now in a life and death struggle with, but the church has lived up no clear and effectual protest. Indeed, she has gathered into her communion many of the most conspicuous of the perpetrators of these injustices—they are nearly all church members—and has made herself a panderer upon their bounty, and has been content with preaching to them the 'simple gospel' that such men always live to hear."

"It is a sad business, brethren, a sad and shameful business, and I am afraid that most of us have had some part in it. But I wonder if it is not true that in this hour of the nation's troubling the church is beginning to awake to some sense of her past infidelity and her present opportunity."

"I wonder if she knows that now, now is her hour of decision, and the day of salvation. Is she not aware that the treasure with which she has been entrusted is for the redemption of the world, in which she is living?
Does she not comprehend the fact that the miracle and threatening social conditions which have been appearing during the last three years are due simply to the absence from Industrial and civil society of those elements which it is her business to supply?

"If she had made men hate robbery, as they ought to hate it, there would have been no rebate robbers.
If she had enforced upon the world as she ought to have done, and could have done, the social ideals of Jesus there would have been no frenzied financiers. If the Christian church, with her present membership and social influence, would but accept heartily, for herself, the simple truth that Jesus taught about life, and would begin honestly and bravely to put it in practice, society would soon be filled with ideas and sentiments in which such unsocial evils as those which we are now confronting could not long endure."

"And this is the work to which in this great day the church of Jesus Christ is summoned. It is a day of judgment. Those who have ears to hear can hear a great voice saying:
'Now is the judgment of this world; now shall the Prince of this world be cast out.' What we are witnessing is nothing other than the culmination and collapse of the existing social order which rests on moral individualism. And the church of Jesus Christ is called to replace this principle of selfishness and strife with the principle of good will and service."

PEACE PACT MADE PUBLIC.

The peace protocol, signed at Washington by the diplomatic representatives of the five Central American states, has been made public. The draft of the protocol was given to the press prematurely, and later was re-called. The revised version, which contains a few corrections, agrees to a convention in the city of Washington during the last fifteen days of November, to devise means of preserving the good relations among the countries and of bringing about permanent peace in those countries.

The convention will be held following a formal invitation which it is understood is to be made simultaneously to each of the five Central American republics by the presidents of the United States and of Mexico.

The five diplomatic representatives by authority of their respective governments, agree to the appointment of plenipotentiaries who will meet to discuss "the steps to be taken and the measures to be adopted in order to adjust any differences which may exist among said republics or any of them and for the purpose of concluding a treaty which will determine their general relations."

HEIGHT CLASSIFICATION.

When Secretary Taft made the address at Columbus, Ohio, which marked his entry into the field as a presidential candidate and which expressed his attitude on the most important questions of public policy, he suggested an amendment to the interstate commerce law by which the commission should be granted power to establish the classification of merchandise. A uniform classification for all the railroads of the country was regarded by him as desirable, but beyond that he thought that the possibilities of manipulating rates by changes in classification were so great that the general control of the classification should be in the commission's hands as a necessary supplement to the powers it already has.

A Washington dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald announced that the commission had received word from a committee representing all the carriers of the United States that a uniform classification to replace the three territorial classifications which now exist was assured, and that the change would be made at no distant day. Twenty years ago a similar assurance was given the commission, but the railroads could never come to a final agreement and the promise was never kept. Only one traffic association stood out against the uniform classification, but its opposition was sufficient to defeat the scheme.

If the railroads do not agree now, the commission should be given power to act. That power would be to the benefit of the railroads, for this is one more of those interesting cases in which the intervention of the government is desirable for the benefit of corporations which will not compromise with one another on minor points, as well as for wider public benefits. But even if the railroads decline it is still desirable that the control of classification be given the commission. The commission's control over rates will have a weak spot until such power is granted.

THE OUTLOOK IS GOOD.

It is possible that labor may not be in as great demand a few months hence as it is now, but this fact, instead of indicating the coming of a commercial crisis, points in just the opposite direction. There has been so much said by the prophets of evil about "hard times" being sure to follow close upon every period of unusual progress, that a good many persons have been persuaded that it would be prudent to "go slow" for a little while, and see what is coming.
And that very slowing up removes whatever danger there may have been of a reaction, and furnishes ground for additional confidence in the continuance of our present prosperity. On this subject the San Francisco Chronicle says:

"One element of confidence is in the caution displayed everywhere in the purchase of fall stocks. While this means wise forethought, doubtless inspired by bankers who wish to restrict their engagements to mercantile customers for the next few weeks, its effect must be to ultimately make large cash surpluses in the country banks when the crops are finally marketed. Per contra, it must necessarily worry manufacturers and jobbers, who must finance themselves to a larger degree than they could with it, of course, increases the strain on eastern money centers. But sound conditions in the country make the strongest assurance of financial stability in the nation. Increased economy, healthful as it is, diminishes the demand for labor. The number of industries there are important reductions of force. It is probable that there may be more. It is evident that the days when premiums will be paid for ordinary labor are over for the time."

ON TO THE PACIFIC!

Notwithstanding all the boasting it does about its "metropolitan style," New York still has a very decided streak of provincialism, and in no way, of late, has that streak shown itself more distinctly than in the opposition of some of the streak shown itself more distinctly than in the opposition of some of the big journals of that city to the sailing of the great war fleet to Pacific waters. They act as though they thought there was nothing of this country worth considering except a little strip along the Atlantic coast, but it is gratifying to know that a few, at least, of the New York papers take a broader view of things, for instance the Commercial, in an editorial referring to the matter of the fleet, says:

"The territory of no other maritime power stretches, as ours does, between two great oceans, and quite apart from the naval practice and experience that the proposed cruise will afford, there is no reason under the light of the heavens why this battleship fleet should not maneuver in one ocean as well as in the other—no reason why officers and men should not be as familiar with the Pacific waters and ports as with those of the Atlantic; and especially since we have now acquired a vast territory in the far-eastern waters of the Pacific. Manila Bay and Puget Sound and Honolulu harbor are just as much American waters, 'home waters,' as are Long Island Sound or Charleston harbor or the Gulf of Mexico. To attach any sinister purpose to this new naval policy is just as uncalled for as it would be to raise an alarm over the British admiralty's announced purpose of sending a fleet from the channel to Bombay or Australia or because France was about to shift one of hers from the Bay of Biscay to the Gulf of Lyons. It is only because we have never done this sort of thing before that any reason for inquiry and explanation exists at all."

CAVALRYMEN WILL LEAVE FOR THE POST MONDAY

Stalwart Troopers of Fifth Cavalry to Start on Backward March to Wingate Tomorrow.

TROOPERS HAVE BEEN THE LIFE OF THE FAIR

Strenuous Obstacle Race and Other Maneuvers Prominent Part of Last Day's Park Program.

The sunburned and broad shouldered troopers of the Fifth Cavalry will pack up their equipment, strike their tents, say goodbye to their sweethearts, mount their big horses and ride away to the west tomorrow morning on their homeward trek to Fort Wingate, and the routine life of the military post will be resumed. The troopers have been the life of the fair, and the very best feature of the daily program at the fair grounds and have done much to make the week a thoroughly enjoyable one for the pleasure seekers.

"We have enjoyed every minute of our stay, but can't get on," said Lieut. Warren yesterday. "I'm feeling pretty good, especially as I trooped a good bunch of the horses yesterday in the races. In fact we have had a royal good time and we hate to leave."

The men of troops I and K are as fine a looking set of soldiers as could be picked out of the army by an expert. They are splendid types of the best American soldiers—thoroughly fearless, with the presence of mind and quick initiative that distinguishes the men of Uncle Sam; finely disciplined, perfect athletes physically, agile as cats, peerless horsemen and above all, clean, likable, clean young fellows. They are gentlemen all the way through and a credit to any army.

The camp in Luna park has been a favorite resort for sightseers all the week and it is likely a big crowd will stroll out to that part of the city to take a last look at the cavalrymen today.

FARCE COMEDY AT THE CRYSTAL

Popular Vaudeville House Present New Departure in Coming Week's Bill.

Manager Cordier has been keeping his eye upon a new departure that was introduced in modern vaudeville houses all over the country, simultaneously, and with some magnificent success everywhere; he has decided to try it here. It is to produce, in addition to the regular vaudeville bill each week, a farce-comedy with a regularly equipped vaudeville stock company for the purpose. The comedy-farces are put on by an experienced producer and only the most perfect talent is used in them. Each producer stays three or four weeks in each city and then goes on his way to be succeeded by another producer with an entirely new line of material. This does not in any way interfere with the regular program; it is simply one of the new features of the Crystal.

Stanton and Sandberg, at the Crystal This Week.

here, and assisted by Miss Alta and company, will begin next Monday afternoon. His first effort will be "The Troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Brown," an exceedingly humorous affair. Another great treat for next week's patrons will be Stanton and Sandberg, the rapid fire comedians and singers, late of "The Runaway Girl" company. Of course, Mr. Logan will have a new illustrated song and the moving pictures will initiate us into the mysteries of another moving panorama. An especial inducement for liver talent will be given out. Friday's song will be announced later. Upon days when but a single matinee is to be given hereafter—Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday—the performance will commence at 2 o'clock, the doors open a half hour earlier. Upon special matinees—Tuesday and Friday afternoons—the show will be given at 2:30, and the second at 3:45. The local management also wishes to state that commencing with next week, two entire changes of program with the exception of feature novelty acts, will take place. The first change of the week will, of course, happen upon Monday and the second change upon Thursday. This should bring a double patronage to the popular little amusement resort on West Grand avenue, which has become more and more popular each week. La Borden and Ryerson, Molly Thompson, Delmas and Marinetti, the moving picture and illustrated song which formed the fair week's show this week, are appearing for their final performance in Albuquerque this afternoon and tonight.

ANCIENT RECORDS FOUND IN ALASKA

Leo Nabokoff, Friend of Count Tolstoy, Has Unearthed Important Documents Which Would Have Affected Canadian Boundary Had They Been Discovered Sooner.

(Special Correspondence Morning Journal.) Seattle, Oct. 9.—Documents which would have been of great importance at the time of the conference in London in regard to the Canadian boundary question, have been recently unearthed in Alaska by Leo Nabokoff, a Russian who has been studying the old Russian papers, showing how Russia managed to lay claim to the entire northern coast of North America. Nabokoff has unearthed some of the documents to the Governor General of Canada and they will in all probability be exhibited in the Dominion building at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, which will be held at Seattle in 1909, as they would have played an important part in the history of the boundary question.

It was while in Sitka, where he was sent by his government to put in order the archives kept by the Russian authorities that Nabokoff discovered the papers. They were written in old Russian which he had studied one of the records was an order from the Russian government to the czar's governor of Alaska to bury tablets bearing the Russian coat of arms at different places along the coast which were to be carefully noted, so that in after years when the country became valuable they could be dug up and used by Russia to claim the territory.

This was done in part and the purpose of some of the documents is that Russia appropriated the whole of Alaska and that the boundary between Russia and light before the boundary decision some five years ago they might have affected it, but now that it is forever settled, they are of little interest as relics.

Nabokoff located some of the tablets and they will be secured for exhibition at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition. They were buried as far south as British Columbia. Had they been unearthed and claim laid to that territory, the United States, by the purchase of Alaska, would now own the entire Pacific coast from Mexico to the Arctic ocean.

Pullman Conductor Killed.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 12.—In a collision between a Louisville and Nashville freight train and a Louisville and San Francisco passenger train at Pratt City, Ala., this morning, Pullman Conductor J. S. Smith was instantly killed and several persons injured. The freight train had been backing into the passenger train.

Smith had melancholy, probably caused by an inactive liver. A bad liver makes one cross and irritable, causes mental and physical depression and may result disastrously.

Baldard's Herbine is acknowledged to be the perfect liver regulator. If you are blue and out of sorts get a bottle today. A positive cure for bilious headache, constipation, chills and fever, and all liver complaints. Sold by J. H. Crilly Co.
