END COMES TO EVENTFUL WEEKS

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK GROWING BRIGHTER

Expected Arrivals of Gold From Europe Promise to Restore Money Reserve to Something Close to Normal.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)

New York, Nov. 2.—The financial week came to a close today without any notable developments. The stock exchange was comparatively steady during the day, with little activity. The runs upon banking institutions seem to be practically at an end and few important conferences were held by financiers. The decline in the reserves of the New York clearing house banks was heavier than in any recent experience, but will be largely offset by the arrivals of gold next week. The apparent loss in the reserve was about $27,000,000, but $7,000,000 of this was due to the requirement of twenty-five per cent. against a currency in deposits of $38,000,000. This increase in deposits in clearing house banks apparently represents the transfer of funds from the institutions which have been subject to runs. The actual loss in cash is about $30,000,000, which reduced the reserve on hand to about $25,000,000. The gold engagements increased slightly today by orders from Pittsburgh and other points, making the total engagements to date $29,150,000. If all of these amounts should go into the reserves of the clearing house banks, it would practically restore their supply of cash during the past week. Even the diversion of a part of the amount to other cities will be of little consequence, as banks and will pro increase of reserve next week. Part of the decline in cash in the face of heavy deposits of treasury funds, has been due to the sale of the currency banks for currency. It is believed that these have been pretty largely met and that the amount will not be nearly as large during the coming week. Reports received from various parts of the country indicate that the system of meeting pay rolls by checks instead of in currency is being largely adopted without any essential inconvenience to wage-earners.

BANKERS IN CONFERENCE

WITH J. PIERPONT MORGAN

New York, Nov. 2.—J. Pierpont Morgan was in conference several hours today with groups of bankers in the picture gallery of his Madison avenue home. In all, he saw about fifteen financiers.

The conditions of the banks as revealed by the bank statement, was said to be the primary cause of the conference, though the shortage of currency and other matters were discussed.

It was reported that the advisability of asking President Roosevelt to deal with the needs of the financial situation was also discussed, but as nothing was given out by those in attendance this can only be classed as a surmise.

During the day Oakleigh Thorn, president of the Trust Company of America, was said to have visited Mr. Morgan relative to the sale of the Central Railroad of Georgia and other properties in which Mr. Thorn is interested. Though no formal statement was made by any of those who were present, it was understood that arrangements were made for such protective measures as the situation may require.

Lotus Club Banquet in Honor of Commander of Mighty Fleet Soon to Sail for Western Ocean.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)

New York, Nov. 2.—Admiral Evans who is soon to depart in command of the battleship squadron for the Pacific, was the guest of honor at a notable dinner given tonight at the Lotus club. A large number of distinguished guests participated in the gathering to the admiral, and the speakers included, besides the guest of honor, Hon. Elihu Root, Senator Chauncey Depew, ex-Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, Seth Low, Admiral Coughlin and Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university.

In responding to a toast to his health, Admiral Evans said:

"This fleet of sixteen battleships and other vessels will sail from Hampton Roads on December 1. I don't think anybody will stop it, for I know the men and I know the ships. You won't be disappointed in a fleet, whether it proves to be a fleet, a frolic or a fight."

"It would please me very much to take the fleet to Yokohama. I know the Japanese, and I know the fleet. I know it would not be the welcome we would get from a certain gang in San Francisco. I don't fear the flower shows and the dog shows, but I do fear the hostilities of those western people. When I took charge of the fleet two and a half years ago, we had some target practice out there which I thought was good, and it was good, but during our last target practice in Massachusetts bay we did better than was ever done in the world before."

The admiral then delivered the target practice when 39 by 30 foot target was shot at, at a range of five and a quarter miles, just as would be done in battle. He said proudly that the target was practically destroyed in two minutes and twenty-five seconds. When it was examined there were four twelve-inch, nine eight-inch shells and seven seven-inch shells in the target. The admiral, concluding, bespoke good wishes for the men of his fleet.

Hitchcock's counsel today said that Belle Mackenzie called at his office yesterday to deny the published reports that she had left town with him.

DEFENSE LAYS THE

FOUNDATION FOR APPEAL

Decline to Cross-Examine Witnesses Introduced to Prove Charge and Hearing Goes Over Until Monday.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.)

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 2.—If, as is charged, jury fixers have been at work here during the recent session of the United States grand jury, Judge McFie undoubtedly administered a severe jolt to them today when he delivered his opinion in the case against Ricardo Alarid, who is charged with the contempt of court, and who is specifically charged with having said that he "had" eight members of the grand jury.

Alarid had filed specific denials to all of the charges against him, and his attorneys had contended that in making such denial he had purged himself of contempt.

The court was urged that Alarid's denial does not purge him of contempt, and that the evidence in the case proceeded.

The argument in this case was commenced last Thursday morning, when R. C. Gortner, appearing for Alarid, contended that Alarid's denial under oath of the charges made against him was sufficient to clear him of the contempt charge, and that no other evidence could be introduced to prove the charge. He cited numerous authorities to prove his contention, but Assistant Attorney General Gordon, called the attention of the court to the fact that the cases cited were all in state courts and contended that they were not in point. He cited many authorities and went over the ground thoroughly. He admitted that the contention of the counsel for Alarid was correct in assuming the position which they did as to cases arising in the common law courts, but that these cases did not apply to the matter under consideration.

Mr. Gordon was followed by Thomas B. Catron, who presented his side of the case in his usual able manner, and at the close of his argument on Friday afternoon the court announced that he desired to look up some cases in connection with the matter and would render his decision this morning. At the morning session this morning Mr. Gordon made some additional remarks, and then Judge McFie rendered his opinion in the case.

The opinion rendered by Judge McFie was of considerable length and showed that the judge had given the matter careful attention and that he had taken into consideration a large number of cases. He stated that the case under consideration was peculiar. At the time that the alleged contempt was committed there were no cases pending, either at law or equity, before the court. A grand jury was in session and the criminal laws of the United States were being considered. It could not be said that this case grows out of a common law case, because there were no common law cases pending, nor could it be said that it grew out of an equity case, because there was no equity case pending before the court.

Judge McFie read at some length from decisions in United States cases, showing that the power of courts to punish for contempt and, as the question as to whether the court is, in reality, a United States court, he read the act of Congress creating the district courts sitting in a district of the territories for the trial of United States cases, declaring that these courts have the same jurisdiction as the circuit courts of the United States, and he held that this court has inherent power to punish for contempt when sitting as a United States court, as it is now sitting, and he held in the case pending the hearing is not conclusive and that the hearing of testimony be proceeded with.

The court then took a recess until 2 o'clock.

At the afternoon session objection was made by Mr. Gortner, counsel for Alarid, to the taking of testimony, and the foundation was laid for an appeal. The government introduced the testimony of four witnesses in support of the allegations carried in the information. These witnesses were Leo Herich, Frank Gygis, T. Sandoval and Jose Lopez. The witnesses were not cross-examined by counsel for Alarid, and Alarid did not go on the stand in his own behalf. At the close of the testimony, Mr. Gortner requested that further action in the case be postponed until the return of Mr. Catron, who left the city this morning. The court is expected to return on Monday afternoon.

Newspapers Promise Cordial

Japanese Waters.

[By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.]

Tokio, Nov. 3.—Today being the emperor's birthday, a national holiday is being universally celebrated. During the day the usual grand review of troops was held by Field Marshal Oyama, at which the emperor was present. The entire American embassy also attended. Many American visitors were invited to witness the review. Foreign Minister Hayashi has sent an unusual number of invitations to Americans to attend the imperial ball tonight.

The vernacular press today prints many congratulatory editorials, and much comment on the universal good feeling, saying that "even the little war cloud between Japan and America is passing and the friendly relations of the past which threatened to be disturbed because of the hysterical utterances of some sensational newspapers, appear to be completely restored."

Another newspaper suggests the hope that an American squadron will visit Japanese waters, in which event it is added that the nation should extend a welcome on such a scale as to leave no doubt of friendliness.

"Drawing in the lower grades," Miss Reynolds, supervisor of drawing of city schools.

"How do you keep the children busy?" Maria Espinoza, Ethel Fiske.

"Are you doing anything for your community except teaching arithmetic and reading?" J. R. Ribera, Adele Goss.

The talk on drawing by Miss Reynolds, supervisor of drawing in the city schools, was very interesting and instructive and bore directly on the practical work of teachers.

Mr. Ribera, in discussion of what may be done beside teaching reading and arithmetic, said that he had found time to urge the people of his district to build the water, typhoid and malaria having been very prevalent during the fall.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Harry Cooper, deputy United States marshal, returned to the city yesterday from Socorro county.

Miss O'Rourke, Master Baker and sisters returned home yesterday from Philadelphia, Pa., where they have been visiting relatives.

Daniel Beardon, manager of the Horabin-McGaffey company store at the American Lumber company camp, north of Kirtland, spent yesterday in the city, returning home last night.

The street department yesterday began the work of filling up with gravel the unsightly mud holes in the business district, especially on Central, Cold, Silver and Copper avenues, from First to Sixth streets.

Rev. Leon McCain, the new pastor of the Highland Methodist church, arrived in the city yesterday from Colfax, Louisiana, accompanied by his wife. The new pastor will preach in the Highland church today.

G. J. Sells, a prominent miller of Silver City, N. M., spent yesterday in the city, visiting friends. According to Mr. Sells, Silver City is booming, despite the reports of financial depression throughout the country.

Joe Underwood, the man held at the county jail and who is believed to be mentally unbalanced, will be taken to Boston, Mass., this week by G. A. Murphy, of Los Angeles, who arrived here yesterday to take charge of Underwood. According to Mr. Murphy, Underwood was crazed with grief over the death of his wife, and his hallucinations about wireless telegraphy were the result of his insane attempts to communicate with the dead wife.

G. K. Warrent post, G. A. R., gave an entertainment and luncheon last night in honor of the Women's Relief corps and the ladies of the G. A. R. An excellent program of musical selections, recitations, songs and addresses was carried out. A large crowd attended.

The heavy rains have put many of the county roads considerably to the bad, and the commissioners face a big job in getting them shipshape again. The work has been tackled with energy, however, and with the co-operation of the farmers it is hoped to get the highways in tolerably good shape in a few days.

James Fullerton, a well known resident of New Mexico, and father of John S. Fullerton, former captain of the territorial mounted police, and W. S. Fullerton, both prominent cattlemen of Socorro county, died yesterday in San Diego, Cal., where he went in search of health. His wife and children were at the bedside when he died.

The Millard Jubilee Singers delighted a big audience Friday night at the First Congregational church, the entertainment being the second of a popular series at that church. Popular negro melodies and old southern songs were the feature, and the clever members of the company made a decided hit, their voices being far above the average.

Wilder Rowe, aged 29, died last night at his room in the Highlands as the result of an attack of pneumonia. The deceased, who came here two months ago from Clinton, Tenn., was a brother of the Rev. T. Rowe, pastor of the Clinton Methodist Episcopal church. The remains will be sent to Clinton for burial by Undertaker P. H. Strong Monday morning.

California Flyer Delayed Half
An Hour at North End of Yards—Chicago Fast Train
Goes Dead—Railroad Notes.

A hot box on the buffet car in central Kansas Friday afternoon, other minor delays from La Junta to Las Vegas, the derailment of a coal car, and the derailment of a freight engine, are some of the reasons why the California Limited, No. 3, did not arrive here until 6:30 o'clock last night.

The flyer left Chicago and Kansas City on time. Shortly after leaving Emporia, Kas., a hot box on the buffet car was discovered and three hours were lost in getting the car in serviceable condition again. After leaving La Junta, stalled freight trains and other incidents delayed the fast train, causing it to arrive in Las Vegas five hours late.

From Las Vegas to Albuquerque the flyer made an average speed of fifty miles an hour. It would have arrived here at 4 o'clock, but for the fact that a coal car being switched into the main coal yard here jammed the track and delayed a freight train twenty minutes. When the freight was in the clear, its engine, No. 1459, jumped the track at Central avenue.

As a result of the two derailments, the limited was held opposite the Southwestern Brewery and Ice company thirty minutes, before it could pull into the depot.

ARGUMENT IN THE GALLEGOS CASE UNFINISHED

Defense Only Half Through When Court Adjourns—Only One Defendant Left in Trespas Action.

The arguments in the trespass case of Donaciano Gallegos versus M. Mandell, E. M. Sandoval and O. P. Hovey, tried in the district court Friday and Saturday, were begun yesterday afternoon and at 5 o'clock, when Judge Abbott adjourned court, defendants' attorneys had only half finished.

The case against M. Mandell was dismissed, it appearing that he had purchased the goods at the sheriff's sale held in Bernalillo in good faith. The case is now against E. M. Sandoval, sheriff of Sandoval county, as O. P. Hovey is dead.

Donaciano Gallegos versus Maurice Ortiz, C. B. de Ortiz and Marcelino Baca, is the title of the next civil case to be tried. It is similar to the one of Gallegos versus Mandell, Sandoval and Hovey. A. J. Mitchell and F. H. Lester are attorneys for plaintiff, while Klock & Owen appear for the defendants.

MEN GET HOLIDAY AT THE AMERICAN LUMBER MILL

Annual Inventory Being Taken at Albuquerque Plant—Slight Delay in Securing Logs.

The employees of the American Lumber company's mill were given a holiday yesterday, as the inventory for the fiscal year is being taken, and a slight delay has occurred in the arrival of logs from the Zuni mountains. The inventory was to have been made in June or July, but was postponed. It is a big task, as every bit of lumber and other property here and in all the lumber camps is to be accounted for. The delay in the arrival of logs is understood to be due to the snowfall in the mountains, which has slightly delayed operations.

PREPARING FOR A HARD WINTER OUT WEST

Heavy Rains Around Thoreau and Zuni Mountains Are Succeeded by Four Inches of the Beautiful.

The heavy rains of the past week in the Zuni mountains and vicinity were succeeded by four inches of snow on Thursday, according to General Manager W. E. Drake, of the Horabin-McGaffey company, who arrived in the city yesterday morning from Thoreau to spend Sunday here with friends. Mr. Drake has just completed a little inspection tour of the Zuni and the lumber camps, and says that every one in that section is preparing for one of the hardest winters on record, as far as weather is concerned.

MODEL ROAD FOR AUTOMOBILES UNDERWAY

Impassable Condition of Present Highway Through Tijeras Canyon Has Played Havoc With the Auto Schedule.

The impassable condition of the present road through Tijeras canyon and from Tijeras through Sedillo to Moriarty, which has been practically destroyed by heavy rains, has caused the temporary abandonment of the schedule established for the Albuquerque-Estancia auto line.

F. N. McCloskey, of the auto company, with a large party of laborers and a steam plow, is working from Moriarty, through Frost and skirting the foothills of the San Pedro mountains to join the present road through Tijeras canyon, three miles east of the town of Tijeras.

The new highway is to be made one of the best automobile roads in the southwest. It will be considerably wider than the present route, and in many places will be hewn out of solid rock. A macadamized road from the foot of the San Pedro mountains to Estancia will be constructed, enabling the automobiles to run at full speed in all kinds of weather.

A. H. Garnett, of Estancia, a director of the auto company, arrived here yesterday afternoon on car No. 1, in charge of chauffeur Pearl Bacon. The car made the trip from Estancia here in four hours and thirty minutes, excellent time, considering that for over twenty miles the auto dashed through bottomless mud, and where the roads were washed out, across the open country.

Autos Nos. 2 and 2, the former at the local garage, and the latter at the Estancia shops, are both out of commission, and it may be December 1st before the regular schedule can be resumed. The present mileage to Estancia, via the auto route, is seventy-eight miles. The new route, passing through the picturesque old town of Tijeras, skirting the foothills to the San Pedro mine road, then running due east to Frost and slightly southeast to Moriarty and Estancia, will make the distance from here eighty-two miles. The officials of the company declare that the present schedule can be maintained over the new road, the loss of time caused by chuck holes and arroyos being eliminated. Considering the difficulties the service so far maintained has been admirable. For the present the machines will not run by a set schedule, but will make the daily trips when possible.

MACHINERY ARRIVES FOR 'PRESSED BRICK PLANT'

Boilers and Engines Freightlaid With Difficulty From Algodones to Site of New Concern in the Tonque Valley.

Contractor G. J. Mace, whose carpenters are erecting a building at Tonque, near Algodones, for the plant, received word yesterday that all the heavy machinery for the plant has arrived at Tonque after an arduous trip in wagons over a "C" mile course from Algodones down the Tonque arroyo road. It took three days to haul the boilers, engines and other apparatus to the plant. The machinery, it is said, will be in place by the middle of the month, and the work of manufacturing bricks and tiles will begin by January 1.

COLLECTING FUND FOR VICTIMS OF EARTHQUAKE

Local Italians and Others Are Asked to Contribute for Relief of Homeless and Suffering Calabrians.

Dr. Nacumuli, local Italian consul, yesterday received a request from Count Corti, Italian consul general for the western United States, at Denver, Colo., to endeavor to raise a fund among the local Italians to send to the province of Calabria, Italy, which was devastated recently by an earthquake, sixty villages being wiped out.

The American Red Cross society, of which Miss Clara Barton is the head, is co-operating with the Italian Red Cross association. Any resident of Albuquerque who desires to contribute any sum of money, article of clothing or non-perishable food, should inform Dr. Nacumuli.

Already the various Italian colonies in this part of the country have contributed generously to the fund. The destitution among the poor people made homeless by the quake is said to be appalling, and every little contribution will help to save some one from starving.

MORE CLAMPS WILL BE PUT ON THE LID TODAY

FRIVOLOUS MAN MUST TAKE TO THE HILLS

It Will Be Necessary for Him to Take His Chewing Gum Along If He Was Wise Enough to Buy It Last Night.

Albuquerque will be dry again today. The lid is to be attached with the same decision which marked its application a week ago and today clamps are to be used in addition. The man who dares to sell a bunch of chewing gum to a despairing customer is liable to be put in chains and the retailing of a cigar means sudden death. That harmful and degrading instrument for the degradation of mankind, the Sunday newspaper, is looked upon with suspicion, and the sale of the evil is likely to result in grave trouble for the offender. The lid is on. New Mexico's Sunday law has been called into full force and effect and is going to be enforced. The man who insists upon having the frivolous things of life on this as on other days, and who cannot get along with the necessities will have to take to the hills and take his frivolous things with him, if he happens to have some thoughtful enough to provide himself with them the night before.

What Are Necessities? During the week the Sunday law has been discussed at great length. People have been writing lengthy letters to the newspapers about it, some of them favoring its rigid enforcement and others insisting that it is a relic of barbarism. Among other things, it has been suggested that the street cars are not a necessity in Albuquerque since we once managed to worry along without them, and that likewise there was a time when we fished our fish from the river. The idea of the law is to put a stop to the Sunday trade in the city, and why should the electric light company be forced to produce the juice when candles might well serve the purpose of lighting the town.

Also, why is a cab driver? These and numerous other questions have been asked with great frequency and some vehemence by those persons who venture to express the belief that nothing is really necessary; and that all things done on Sunday of Monday are purely the outcome of personal inclination. But the Sunday law is going to be enforced; and in the meantime, and having nothing else to do, a great many people are watching its effects with keen interest.

The general opinion in Albuquerque seems to be that saloons should be closed on Sunday, but the opinion is far less general as to the sale of chewing gum and chocolate creams, cigars, newspapers and shoe shines. According to nine of the bartenders in nine of the larger saloons in this town, more liquor was sold over the bar last night and on Saturday night a week ago, than on any similar Saturday night during the past twelve months, with the one exception of Saturday night at the close of the fair.

"I have sold more beer and whiskey in bottles tonight than I have ever sold before over this bar in a single evening," said one of the bartenders in one of the larger saloons last night. "I believe I am safe in saying that I have sold more bottled goods tonight than I would sell in drinks were bar open on Sunday. Under the old order we did comparatively little business on Sunday even when the town was wide open and the front doors open all day Sunday. I suppose it is largely a result of the advertising the Sunday closing order has had, and also that human nature plays a considerable part in it. A man thinks that he may want a drink on Sunday; therefore, he comes in and buys a couple of bottles of beer and whiskey, and then he goes home and decides he ought to have a few bottles 'up at the room,' and so it goes. I fail to see what the saloon man can find in his heart to kick at the closing order, as it certainly doubles the Saturday business and there never has been a large bar business done here on Sunday. I am in favor of Sunday closing. It is a poor business working seven days in a week and we who do not own the saloons are all glad of the closing day, but I am of the opinion that it results in the sale of more liquor here than if the town were wide open."

On the other hand there are found a very large number of people who believe that the Sunday closing order will have the opposite effect in removing the temptation held out by the open bar door of the saloons, and that with nothing else to do and temptation removed to turn to every day occupations, that more people will find their way to the churches. Effects of the closing order are, therefore, being watched carefully and closely by a great many people and within another week or two some interesting conclusions will have been drawn.

ARIZONA COWBOYS PUT SCARE ON CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Two cowboys from Arizona, each armed with two revolvers, compelled more than twenty-five men to line up against a building at Thirty-third and State streets shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. The cowboys were arrested and were taken to the Stanton avenue police station. They gave the names of John Thompson, twenty years old, and Howard Ryner, eighteen years old.

The power of the two revolvers that each carried was so great that in fifteen minutes thirty men were standing with their backs against a building and their hands reaching for the clouds. The cowboys would have prolonged their "joke" had not Police-man Walsh of the Stanton avenue station interrupted them. Walsh found a long line of men, among whom were several negroes, holding up the building, with Thompson and Ryner dancing about them, each flourishing a loaded revolver.

Walsh drew his revolver and commanded the cowboys to walk in front of him. They offered no resistance. The men who had been forced to stand against the wall, though angered at the actions of the cowboys, left the scene without making any demonstration. The policemen marched Thompson and Ryner in a patrol car to Thirty-fourth and State streets, where a wagon was summoned and the cowboys were taken to the Stanton avenue station.

They were locked up on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

The cowboys told the police that they arrived in Chicago from Arizona shortly after midnight and visited a number of saloons on the south side, where they had numerous drinks. The prisoners exhibited surprise when they were told that it was a violation of the law to carry a revolver.

"We didn't mean any harm," Thompson said. "We were out for a little fun and after we had lined one against the wall we kept adding another until we had quite a crowd."

Points on Melon Growing.

The following is a brief summary of the experiments on melon culture at the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts:

1. Watermelons and muskmelons can be successfully grown in New Mexico.

2. A fertile loam that conserves moisture well is preferable to a very sandy or extra heavy soil.

3. The distance at which to plant the seed from 1 to 3 feet apart in the row with 9 to 12 feet middles and from 3 to 5 feet middles for watermelons and muskmelons, respectively.

4. Melon vines are best under and should never be planted out until all danger of frost is over.

5. One and one-half to 3 inches for watermelons and from 1 to 2-3 for muskmelons is a good depth to plant the seed.

6. Thin the hills to two plants before they begin to crowd each other.

7. Hand picking the adult squash bugs on the watermelon vines when the adult bugs appeared in the early part of the season, and destroying the leaves containing the eggs, proved satisfactory.

8. Poisoned wheat scattered along the newly planted rows also proved quite effective for field mice and squirrels.

9. A good germination was also obtained when the seed was planted in shallow furrows and covered by plowing back another shallow furrow.

10. The cost of production, not including the cost of seed and the cost of picking, was $18.49 an acre for watermelons and $16.69 for muskmelons. (At the experiment station melons were irrigated and all work done by hired labor.)

11. The Phoenix's Early Cuban Queen, Mammoth Iron Clad, Gipsy or Rattlesnake, and Florida Favorite were among the most satisfactory varieties.

12. Rookford cantaloupes is the most satisfactory general purpose variety. The Netted Gem, Osage, Netted Nutmeg and Hackensack also proved satisfactory.

13. Cantaloupes can be forced considerably, growing the plants in paper pots in cold frames, and transplanting them to the field, or by starting the seed out in the field early in the season in small glass covered boxes. By this means ripe melons have been pulled as early as July 10th and can be doubt be produced even earlier by use of field boxes.

EIGHT MILLIONS OF TELEPHONES NOW BEING USED

Marvelous Expansion of the Telephone Lines Which Experts Say Is Just Now in Its Infancy.

(Special Correspondence Morning Journal.)

New York, Oct. 30.—The beginning of the year 1908 will see nearly if not quite 8,000,000 telephones in operation on this "whirling globe" of ours. Were they arranged in tandem on a circuit between the earth and the sun there would be a telephone station every twelve miles. This is, of course, only a beginning, according to enthusiastic telephone engineers, who foresee a time when practically everybody everywhere will be in telephonic communication with everybody else.

But it is a pretty good beginning, when one considers that hardly thirty years have elapsed since Dr. Bell's invention began to be commercially useful, and that the most important improvements, those making long distance telephony possible, have been made in still more recent years. It is just thirty years ago, for example, this coming winter when Alexander Graham Bell and that vivacious American journalist, Miss Kate Field, first introduced the telephonic marvel to the public of Great Britain, securing an enthusiastic letter of approval from Queen Victoria, who was present at one of the early demonstrations. Today the utility which annihilates space and time is making its way into the most distant parts of the earth. It has almost everywhere beaten out the telegraph in popular favor and in many countries its records are rapidly overshadowing those of the postoffice.

All the while the telephone remains a peculiarly American utility, one in which our people take especial pride because it was invented here and because we still use many more telephones than all the rest of mankind put together. A careful estimate of the world's telephones at the beginning of the present year indicated that at that time they numbered altogether about 7,200,000. This figure contrasts, of course, what the engineers call "stations," that is, combinations of transmitter and receiver, from which one may talk and at which one may receive a message—the telephone as we mean it in common parlance. Of these "subscriber's stations" approximately 2,000,000 were found in the United States on January 1, 1907, 1,800,000 of them belonging to the Bell system and 2,000,000 representing the aggregate strength of a very large number of independent companies in Europe and about 200,000 elsewhere.

These figures are very favorable to our national pride but because Americans have been so much more progressive than other people in adopting the most important of time saving conveniences, it must not be inferred that other countries are now standing still. There have been many drawbacks to the general adoption of the telephone in years past among foreign peoples. Europeans particularly are by nature more conservative than Americans. Then in many continental countries the right to administer telephonic service has been lodged with governmental bureaus. That means usually extreme inertia, insufficient appropriations and a general disposition to wait until public demand has become overwhelming before adequate facilities will be supplied. Even where the telephone has been in private hands the growth of the business has been hindered in some cases by governmental interference, as in Great Britain, where for many years the postoffice department, which administers the telegraphic system, was partly to attempt to strangle the telephonic industry.

In spite of hindrances, however, the use of the telephone is now increasing rapidly in practically all countries where it has been introduced. Business men have become so convinced that this is one of the most indispensable of modern methods of communication that engineers from various countries are constantly coming to the United States to examine the methods by which the Bell companies transmit more than 5,000,000,000 messages a year. Not long ago John Hesketh, engineer for the Australian telephone system, made a special study of the engineering work of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and its allied companies and returned to the commonwealth of the South seas there to put into operation some of the lessons he had learned just as rapidly as the somewhat disturbed political conditions of his home country permit.

The Japanese, again, have been installing throughout their empire a telephone system modeled directly upon that with which engineering skill has overspread practically the entire United States. The little brown men seldom make mistakes in their choice of industrial models. Sir William Proctor, engineer in chief and electrician of the British government, which controls a portion of the long distance telephonic traffic of the British Isles, leaving the local traffic to the National Telephone company, has for many years been a keen and enthusiastic observer of the telephone development of the United States, has kept in touch with representative American telephone engineers and has visited this country in quest of the latest information. Foreign scientists of Sir William's type who witness the remarkable extent to which Americans employ the telephone in all the affairs of daily life go back to their own countries and preach a doctrine which inevitably results in improvement of conditions even though this improvement may be a little slower than in this country, where for some years past the traffic of the Bell system has been doubling at the rate of about once in three and one-half years.

Germany, which is the best telephone user among nations of continental Europe, increased the total of its messages from 766,224,337 in 1901 to 1,207,416,272 in 1905. At the same time the use of telegrams in the Fatherland increased only from 41,146,281 to 50,827,312. In four years from 1902 through 1906, the National Telephone company of Great Britain, which somewhat corresponds to the Bell system in this country, saw its total of messages mount from 737,000,000 to 1,200,000,000. In Austria from 1901 to 1905, the growth in the number of conversations was from 104,847,969 to 166,477,183; in Belgium between 1901 and 1905, from 38,752,357 to 52,977,696; in Denmark, between 1901 and 1905, from 59,410,955 to 108,750,025.

France is a country whose telephone service has long been unusually poor—so bad, in fact, that citizens have organized an association for the sole purpose of forcing the government to accommodate better the business men and residents who would like to see established in French communities such facilities as practically all Americans enjoy. Yet even in France, according to the somewhat belated statistics which the government issues, a total of 170,825,714 telephone conversations in 1902 grew to about 236,000,000 in 1905. Switzerland is a well governed country, alert to adopt modern methods, and it has a good telephone system, at least as judged by European standards. This in 1901 handled 21,925,222 messages, in 1905, 36,802,415.

These totals appear small when compared with the enormous figures of Bell telephone messages in the United States—in 1902 there were more than 2,000,000,000 of these and in 1906 nearly 5,000,000,000—but they indicate what a world wide movement for interconnected telephone service there is. Most countries are awakening to their past deficiencies and the seeking to install the most up-to-date apparatus and to place this in the hands of telephone engineers who are familiar with American methods. The demands upon the Western Electric company, the manufacturing associate of the Bell companies of the United States, for telephone switchboards and other apparatus for use in foreign countries is steadily growing. Engineers who come here to familiarize themselves with American methods of operation are apt to decide very quickly that these can be put into force only if they are applied to the right kind of standardized apparatus. Accordingly, for some years a policy of supplying telephonic materials to all parts of the world has been in force and this by recent arrangements under which the Western Electric company will sell its apparatus to any one who wants it either in this country or abroad, is likely to be greatly facilitated.

New Zealand, to take a specific example, is a country which is supposed to be very self-sufficient and self-satisfied. It has thus far not been very well developed telephonically; but American appliances have been introduced and the popularity of telephone service, particularly in the four leading centers of population, is steadily increasing as is shown by the fact that the number of subscribers in New Zealand grew from 8,240 in 1902 to 15,325 in 1904. In a manual published some time ago in France, descriptive of the telephone and telegraph systems of the world, it is somewhat surprising to find noted in out-of-the-way lands, such as the Straits Settlements, Natal, and Mozambique, the use of Bell telephones. Meantime everywhere in the European nations American telephones are in active competition with the clunker and more primitive instruments manufactured by Swedes, Germans and English.

South America a Fake Declares Mine Expert

MINERAL RICHES OF COUNTRY ARE WORKED OUT

Melancholy View of Op- portunities in the Southern Half of Continent as Ex- pressed by Prospector.

(The following resume of conditions in South America was written for the Morning Journal by John McCafferty, a well known mining expert, who is in Albuquerque after recently returning from the country.)

A great deal of misleading matter has been published about the resources and inhabitants and the splendid opportunities awaiting the touch of foreign capital and enterprise throughout South America. I shall deem it a pleasure, as I am just from South America and Panama, to furnish your readers with the result of my observations. While there are many fertile sections and fabulously rich mineral belts in South America, it is mostly a worked out country at present. This condition is largely a result of both the industry of the aboriginal peoples and the greed of the Spanish conquerors. Although there is here and there a valley of pampa range are still producing well, yet the entire production, sugar and cotton included is not near enough for home consumption. Even the fertile sections are held tightly by the descendants, many of whom reside in Spain, of the immoral and dishonest priests who stole these lands from the public domain through government controlled and created by themselves. To be in accord with enlightenment, the governors of these southern republics should confiscate all such holdings and give the lands to the poor, industrious tenants, who, serf-like, have been leasing and tilling the lands for generations. So far as the agricultural resources of South America are concerned, American farmers should never emigrate to the country unless it be to the upper ranges of Brazil. Although there is an abundance of horses, mules, burros, cattle, sheep, hogs, llamas, alpacas and vicuñas as the native grasses are very coarse and fibrous most of these animals are scrubby and lean, with the exception of the three last named varieties. These roam on the pampa belts of the mountain ranges. In fact they cannot live and seldom range below the 8,000-foot level. Excepting therefore the smaller ranges and industrious prospectors should shun South America. The inhabitants are the most filthy, slothful, selfish, dishonest and immoral people within the pale of the so-called "Christian civilization." I have only to add that English-speaking people should never emigrate to South America as long as it is governed and controlled by ecclesiastical libertines and thieves.

ARIZONA MINING CASE BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Attorney General Will Ask for Mandamus Compelling Cochise County Supervisors to Raise Valuation of Patented Mines.

When the supreme court of Arizona meets November 11, in Phoenix, Attorney General E. R. Clark, representing the territory, will ask for a writ of mandamus, compelling the board of supervisors of Cochise county to raise the assessed valuation of the non-productive patented mines in Cochise county from $263 to $789, in accordance with a resolution passed by the territorial board of equalization at its last session.

Cochise county was the only county in the territory that had the assessed valuation of its non-productive mines raised by the territorial board of equalization. The board of equalization of the county fixed the assessed valuation of this class of property at $263 a claim, while the average assessed valuation returned by the other counties was over $700. The territorial board of equalization, by resolution, raised the assessed valuation of Cochise county non-productive patented mines 200 per cent. The board of supervisors of Cochise county refused to put into effect the order of the territorial board, notwithstanding the fact that the supreme court of the territory and the United States have held that the territorial board of equalization had the right to raise the assessed valuation of property in such cases.

The action of the territorial board of equalization in raising the non-productive patented mines of Cochise county 200 per cent, increased the assessed valuation of this class of property in Cochise county from $263,175 to $608,519, making the total assessed valuation of all property in Cochise county, after equalization by the territorial board, $10,759,715.55, the largest in the territory.

Of this amount, $6,283,041.55 is due to the operation of the bullion tax law passed by the last legislature.

The Cochise county board of supervisors is alone in the territory in its refusal to obey the mandates of the territorial board of equalization in this or any other order made at the last session of the territorial board.

MINING NEWS OF THE WEEK IN NEW MEXICO

(Denver Mining Reporter.)
Grant County.

The National Copper Mining company, operating in the Bureo mountain section, is said to be opening up sufficient ore bodies to warrant the early erection of reduction works. C. P. Laughlin is the manager.

A considerable copper production is being made in the Santa Rita section, the bulk of the ore being mined by leasers above the 500-foot level on the old Hearst mine.

The Comanche smelter at Silver City closed down last week to facilitate the addition of new machinery and the enlargement of the plant's capacity. It is expected that the plant will be operated at full capacity of 500 tons early in December.

Announcement is made from Boston that the Cheyenne Copper company is to immediately erect a 1,000-ton concentrating plant, and that upwards of $20,000 per month will be spent in immediate developments. The Top Mining company has been organized to operate properties in the vicinity of the Last Chance and Helen mines in the Mogollon camp. Work is progressing at the Eighty-five mine in the Shakespeare district. A new machinery plant is being set up.

Considerable activity is noted in the Jarilla camp, since the completion of the smelting plant. Among the companies engaged in satisfactory exploitation work are the El Paso and Orogrande Mining company, American Copper company, Southwestern Smelting and Refining company, the Electric Mining and Milling company, Monte Carlo Mining and Milling company, and the Cuprite, Ma Hele and other individually operated properties.

The Monte Carlo company is to begin the immediate sinking of a deep shaft at its properties in the Orogrande section. Charles H. Sprague is the manager in charge. The Copper Queen property in the same camp is satisfactorily responding to the deeper developments prosecuted.

Sierra County.
The Wellington Copper Mining company has lately been organized by eastern parties to operate in the vicinity of Cutter.

The postoffice department lately issued a fraud order against the Hillsboro Consolidated Mines company, alleging that the company purchased a defunct mine in the Hillsboro camp for $9,950, capitalised the company for $2,000,000 and sold a large amount of stock, the money from which went into development of the property.

The Ready Pay Reduction company is to install large Kiewit pumps at its pumping station on Pecos creek, and on its installation the mining plant will be put in commission. C. R. Hullinger has been awarded a contract for driving a 600-foot tunnel at the Silver Monument mine in the Chloride section.

GENERAL MINING NEWS OF THE WEST FOR THE WEEK

Boise, Idaho.—Negotiations that have been pending for some weeks on the part of the McKibbey Gold Mines company for the letting of their tunnel contract have finally been consummated on terms highly satisfactory to all parties concerned. The contract provides for the driving of the bore a distance of at least 1,000 feet, in addition to the 320 feet already traversed. The contractor is H. M. Hollaway of Boise. His bid was based upon an estimated speed of 200 feet per month, which figure will doubtless be exceeded as a usual thing. The company has instituted the most energetic preparations looking toward placing the camp in readiness for the contractor and his crew. Another announcement of considerable significance for the future of the company relates to its entrance into the Montezuma, Col., camp. This enterprising move on the part of the McKibbey management consists in the acquisition of the Moscow group of four claims on Glacier mountain within three-quarters of a mile of the town of Montezuma. The development of the property has already reached a well advanced stage, and work will be actively pushed by the new owners from now on.

Joplin, Nev.—Two separate shipments, one of lead concentrates, and one of zinc concentrates, were recently made by the Nevada-Commonwealth mine to Philadelphia, which yielded the gratifying returns of $150 to the town. The Nevada-Commonwealth has hundreds of tons of zinc concentrates piled up near its mill today, which will now be made available. The management of the Nevada-Commonwealth has been for some time confronted with the problem of the economic separation of their lead and zinc ores, and the problem now appears to be in a fair way to a solution. The experience of this company is closely paralleled in the history of the Cour d'Alene district of Idaho, which spent several years in solving this identical problem.

Montezuma, Col.—The rush of visitors to this camp continues, and the town's resources in accommodations are taxed to the limit. The large number of independent enterprises now on the ground for the development of the district has already effected some quite visible results. The inflow of capital has caused some quite notable advances in property valuation, and promising mineral claims which a few months ago could have been picked up for a mere trifle are now commanding fancy figures. It has been determined that active operations shall go forward during the winter, and a good number of mines are expected to be on the shipping list by early summer. One of the mines which the visitor to Montezuma usually does not fail to inspect, owing to its proximity to the town, is the Silver Princess. A shining streak of ruby silver in 250 feet from the lower tunnel and it is said to be one of the sights of Montezuma. This property belongs to the St. John group, one of the old-time producers with a record of shipments amounting to $5,000,000. Active development of the Princess is under way.

Goldfield, Nev.—In the case of a leasing company whose lease has but a short time to run the problem of getting out and marketing the ore actually stopped often becomes a serious one. The Mohave-Combination company has now found itself confronted with these conditions, and it will be compelled to construct new ore bins or platforms for the ore that is being hoisted from the overflowing stopes.

In this way the company will not have to wait until ore are available before hoisting is product, and the maximum results can be achieved before the expiration of the lease, which has but a few months to run. The Kansas City-Goldfield company, holding short leases in the immediate vicinity, has handled the problem somewhat differently. After demonstrating values by sinking and cross-cutting, the management of this company took the precaution to secure an extension of their lease on the Velvet for one year, or until October 1, 1909. The company will now crowd forward its development operations with three shifts and at high pressure, thus allowing itself sufficient time for the hoisting and marketing of its product after the ore bodies have been opened up.

Dawson, Yukon Terr.—Although the Guggenheims have done some close bargaining to obtain control of the rich placer ground on Hunker and Bonanza creeks, it is understood among local mining men that they do not begin to own all the rich sand bars in the Hunker valley. Among the well known creeks not obtained by these operators are the Hewter, Gold Bottom and Last Chance. Along the Stewart river the controlling interest is in the hands of the Yukon Basin Gold Dredging company, whose concession from the Canadian government include 105 miles of river frontage, or about 10,000 acres of rich dredging ground where average values are said to run over $1 per cubic yard. According to recent reports of Canadian government experts, the Yukon placer fields are of practically inexhaustible richness. By approved methods of operation by dredging these values can now be recovered in commercial quantities.

Centennial, Wyo.—The mining situation in the Medicine Bow district may best be described as a placer revival. The effects of the coming of transportation facilities to the district are already visible. Especially along Douglas creek are trace signs of something doing in a large way. It is here that the American Gold Placer company has lately annexed some 800 acres to its already extensive holdings of rich placer grounds, and these are to be worked by dredge for the recovery of the high values in gold demonstrated by exhaustive prospect work. The Suffolk Exploration company is also making good headway with its promising placer proposition on lower Douglas creek. The dredges of these companies are to be operated by electricity generated by water power.

Here is a simple home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney disease, who makes the statement that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe; try it:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Karger, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. A well-known local druggist is authorized that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture has a peculiar healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foul, decomposed waste matter, which cause these afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.
