BIG GUNS BOOM SALUTE TO TAFT

WAR SECRETARY ARRIVES
SAFE AT VLADIVOSTOK

Wilds in Special Train, Accompanied by High Officers of Czar's Army.

Vladivostok, Nov. 17.—Secretary Taft arrived here at noon today on board the converted cruiser Rainbow. The Rainbow was convoyed by the cruisers Chittanonga and Galveston. When the American vessels entered the golden horn they were met by the Russian gunboat, detailed to escort them up the harbor. Salutes were exchanged with the land batteries. As the Rainbow steamed in there could be seen the wreck of the Russian torpedo boat destroyer which was sunk during the recent naval mutiny.

guards by the Chattanooga and Galveston secretary and his party will remain until the morning of the 10th, until their departure from Vladivostok over the Transiberian railroad for St. Petersburg at 7 o'clock on the morning of November 21. An imperial carriage will be sent to Mr. Taft for this journey, and the Emperor of Russia has detailed military and naval aides to accompany him.

General Peluga, the commandant of the military police, and several military civil officers called upon Mr. Taft this afternoon. It is probable that from St. Petersburg Mr. Taft will journey direct to Hamburg and sail on the 12th of December on board the steamer "Prinzess Alice."

The arrival of the Railroad was de-men, which was encountered the 15th. The heavy seas caused considerable damage to the ship. One of the 15th the accidental sounding of the collision signal created some alarm on board. Mr. Taft was the guest of the "Redwood" mess of the Russian diplomatic corps. The 15th. The secretary made a brief speech, in which he thanked the officers for their entertainment. A minstrel show was given by the crew of the 15th. The members of the crew were present.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR AN AUDIENCE WITH CZAR

St. Petersburg, Nov. 17.—Montgomery S. Schuyler, secretary of the American embassy here, and now acting as charge d'affaires, received a telegram today from Secretary Taft at Vladivostok, saying that he would be in St. Petersburg tomorrow on the railroad the morning of the 21st. Mr. Taft hopes to reach St. Petersburg by December 1. Mr. Schuyler is in conference with Mr. von Buzuk, the minister of foreign affairs, and General Baron Fredericks, minister of the imperial house, regarding the date of Secretary Taft's arrival here on the 24th. This probably will be on the 24th.

PROPOSED VISIT TO RAISER

DEFINITE ARRANGEMENTS

Berlin, Nov. 17.—Secretary Taft has definitely and finally decided not to will support Mr. William Taft's telegram to Chancery, Mr. Tower, the American ambassador to Germany, two days ago expressing regret that he would not be able to see the emperor in England. To this Mr. Tower replied by a message in which he pointed out certain considerations which might lead Secretary Taft to change his plans. A second telegram has now been received from the secretary in which he reaffirms that he is obliged to proceed directly to America and requesting Mr. Tower to transmit to his majesty his very deep regrets. Mr. Taft will take a steamer for America at Hamburg early in December.

CHANGE OF SECRETARY'S PLAN—DISAPPOINTMENT TO PARIS.
Paris, Nov. 17.—Officials of the government with the greatest regret learn today that Secretary Taft is not likely to visit France on his way home, as they planned to extend him honors.

Opening of New Union Depot

plete Transformation in Terminal Facilities.

plant facilities at Washington was effective today when the old Baltimore and Potomac (Pennsylvania) railway station was abandoned and every railroad entering Washington shifted its trains to the new union station.

The new station, which is one of the most beautiful and most important in this lofty arched entrances. Its massive substructure, its immense trainshed and great trackage system, was founded on the site of the old station when the Baltimore and Ohio railroad began its use.

In the latter sixties the Baltimore and Ohio (as part of the Pennsylvania system) established a station in southwest Washington, later changing the location to an unimproved rural area, and in 1906 moved to the new site, a half a block south of Pennsylvania avenue. This is the building abandoned today. There it was that the great train wreck occurred, and the warred stone that marked the spot on which he fell in the waiting room was recently appropriated by a vandal.

SNOW IS GENERAL ALL OVER THE TERRITORY

RAIN AND THE BEAUTIFUL
SOAK ALL NEW MEXICO

Heavy Hail Storm All Over the Estancia Valley Followed by Snow; First Touch of Real
Winter in the South.

A heavy coating of snow on the Sandia mountains even as far down as the foothills was visible to the people of Albuquerque yesterday under the edge of the dense mantle of clouds that enveloped the range. The Manzanos were also topped with white, and as far as can be learned there has been a considerable snowfall during the past week in every part of the territory. The winter has started in cold and wet, and there is a possibility that it may be a severe one. Friday's steady rain was followed by a cold, raw day yesterday in this part of the territory. Estancia was visited Friday afternoon by a heavy hailstorm, which extended along the valley for a distance of thirty miles. Later, the storm turned into sleet and by Friday night it was snowing steadily. Altogether the weather has been welcome in the Estancia valley, where the winter wheat and other crops are in the ground.

There has been a great deal of snow during the past week all the way through the northern part of the territory, and as far south as El Paso. Silver City reports a heavy rain and snowfall throughout Grant county. The storm so far has done no damage as far as can be learned, but will result in great benefit to the farm and range.

Tales of the Town

She Was Ready to Go.

Three prominent Albuquerque business men sat in the Buffet of the Alvarado early Saturday evening. One of them was waiting for an east bound train to depart. His intention was to depart on the train. The gentleman in question is a very busy man. All of his time is occupied with his business, and he has to make close connection with trains when he makes trips. He was busy, as usual, but chancing to think of the train, which waits at the station for half an hour or more, he turned to the young man who manages the buffet.

"Find out if No. 8 is ready," he said, and the young man immediately rang for a bell boy.

A recently imported Jap responded, "Mr. — wants to know if No. 8 is ready; go and find out," he told the bell boy, and the almond-eyed youngster hurried out. But said almond-eyed youth wasn't wise to train numbers. All he knew just at that time was room numbers. He hit the gut to the second floor of the hotel, marked "No. 8" on the door of room No. 8, and when a lady opened the door he politely inquired:

"Are you ready?"

"Ready for what?" asked the lady, in mild surprise.

"Why," said the Jap, "Mr. — he send me up to find if No. 8 is ready."

The lady's reply was duly communicated to the Albuquerque man, but he has thus far declined to give it out for publication.

His Hair.

One day last week a young Albuquerque business man received an express package from a friend up in the mountains containing a few dainty slices of venison steak. Greatly delighted he trotted into a combination bar and restaurant, found his friend, the bar tender, confided to him that he had just received a beautiful venison steak and if he, said bar-tender, would have it cooked for him, said young man, the latter would divide up. The bar-tender was game. "Bring it in," he said, "and I'll have it cooked for you."

Shortly thereafter the young man sent in his venison by a messenger. Two hours later he wandered into the restaurant, sat down, crossed his feet under the table, ordered a cocktail and waited patiently for his venison steak to come in. The regular hunchman was served him. He pushed it aside in disgust.

"Ask Lou what has become of my venison steak," he ordered to the attentive waiter.

Presently the waiter came back. "Mr. Lou, he want to know what kind of a cheap skate you is, anyway," announced the boy. "He say you done give him half that venison and now you want to take half of his hair. He say you can go to the devil, cause he done eat his hair."

The owner of the venison is taking treatment for nervous shock.

Hard on the Game.

"There is one serious effect of the Sunday law," said a local sportsman yesterday, as he sat out on his balcony with a lone jack rabbit after an all-day hunt. "If this closed town deal is going to keep on we'll have to get the game law amended so as to protect the jack rabbits. At the rate they're going the tribe will have been exterminated before spring. It used to be that Sunday a man who likes to shoot could go out on the mesa anywhere and kill as many as he wanted. But since everything shut down every man, woman and child who can borrow a shot-gun takes to the high country on Sunday and hunting has become a pretty exciting sport. If you stick your head up over a sand hill you're liable to get your mouth full of buck shot, for the hills are alive with hunters and they don't care much where they shoot. But each and every one manages to get a jack rabbit or so, and the situation is certainly getting serious."

The Wild and Woolly.

A Boston mining expert who used to live in New Mexico in the early days, arrived in Albuquerque Saturday night and stopped at the Alvarado. He had been on the road for four or five days and being weary he went to bed without visiting the barber shop. Sunday morning he wandered down stairs at the reasonable hour of 8 o'clock.

"Get me a morning paper, boy," he said to an attentive bell-boy.

"Sorry, sir, we don't sell 'em on Sunday," said the boy.

"The durn you don't," said the Boston man.

"No, sir," said the boy. "It's against the law—they even pinch the newspaper for printing them."

"Well," said the Boston man, "I suppose I'll find one in the barber shop when I go to get shaved."

"Sorry, sir," said the boy, "but the barber shop is closed."

"Well, anyway, you can shine my shoes," said the visitor, when he'd recovered his breath.

"No, sir," said the boy, "it's against the law to shine shoes on Sunday."

The comment of the Boston man, as he turned to the dining room, shattered the religious calm of the hotel lobby, and caused the clerk to raise his eyes from his devotions and direct a reproving glance at the disturbing element.

Ambling out of the dining room a few minutes later the Boston man felt in both his pockets, hunting a cigar. He didn't find one, and turning to the clerk stand he sought his coin purse. A dainty cloth covered the case. No hunting face appeared on the other side.

"What'll it be," said the visitor, softly, and turning to the clerk, "where can I get a cigar?"

"Cigar, sir," said the clerk, as an expression of horrified amazement spread across his countenance, "cigar—why, sir, we never smoke here on the Sabbath; it's against the law, sir."

The visitor wandered around the verandas and took a look at the snow-clad mountains. Then he thought him of a Navajo blanket he'd seen in Mr. Harvey's. Justly celebrated Indian building on his last trip. He'd come with money enough to buy that blanket and he'd just go down and buy it.

Arrived at the front door of the curio store, he read in carefully printed letters, "Closed, on account of the Sunday law."

"I guess I'll take a ride on the street car," he announced to the clerk a little later in the day.

"I'm sorry, sir, but I'm afraid you can't," said the clerk. "I haven't been out myself, but we have heard a rumor that the manager of the car line has recently been apprehended, charged with the indiscretion of having labored on the Sabbath day. If the cars are running you might be taken into court as a witness, which is very disagreeable."

At 7 o'clock at night the Boston man came downstairs armed with his grip and coat. "I'm going to Lambs Junction," he said. "I once stayed there three days during a washout, and the excitement as I remember it, was intense. Something doing every minute. Rolling rocks down the hillside, watching the buzzards soar, listening to the burros bray and the boats ban—or do they bleat? Any way, they make a noise, and I'm off for Lambs."

"He Couldn't Tell a Lie." "Joseph," said an Albuquerque parent to his young hopeful Sunday morning, "go and bring in the kindling and put all the split wood in the shed before it gets rained on any more."

Joseph wandered meditatively out in the direction of the woodshed, as the father sat down to supper, "did you bring in the wood and kindling, like a good boy?"

"No, father," said Joseph. "Why did you not do as I told you, my son," said the parent, one hand slipping softly in the direction of the parental slipper.

"To have done so, father," said Joseph, firmly, "would have been in direct and open violation of the Sunday law, which prohibits works of any kind save those of religion, charity or necessity. I refused carefully upon your order and failed to find that carrying in the wood and kindling could possibly be admissible under any one of these heads. The respect you have taught me for the law forbade my violating it."

Thereupon the fond parents, in returning thanks for the evening meal, found it necessary to return a special thank for such a son.

The Albuquerque-Estancia Auto company held an election and meeting last week in Estancia at which Wm. McIntosh, of McIntosh, was elected president, and Duncan McGillivray was chosen treasurer and general manager, while A. H. Garnett was named as secretary.

It was decided by the officers and directors to purchase additional cars and to complete the new road, which goes through Frost and skirts the San Pedro mountains. Just west of the main Tijeras canyon road the other side of Tijeras, before any cars would be operated on a schedule.

W. H. Springer, of the Springer Transfer company here, has been appointed as agent in this city for the auto company for the year.

J. F. Huckel, of the Harvey system, returned to Kansas City last night, after spending several days here.

C. Betson, connected with the engineering department of the Rio Grande division arrived here yesterday from San Marcial.

NEW BELASCO PLAY WILL BE SET IN NEW MEXICO

Author of "The Rose of the Rancho" in Albuquerque to Secure Local Color for New Production.

Albuquerque has been widely advertised in quite a varied number of ways, but the latest and most unique will be an act in a new western drama that will be an exact reproduction of the Alvarado dining room.

The author of the new play is Richard Walton Tully, of New York City, who wrote "The Rose of the Rancho," produced by David Belasco two years ago and which has attracted packed houses in New York City from its premier performance.

Mr. and Mrs. Tully arrived here last night from the southern part of the territory, where they have been securing data, color and getting an idea of the country, which Mr. Tully will develop in the play he has in view.

The locale of the play will be in Albuquerque and vicinity for a hundred miles, and will be strictly a New Mexican product. Mr. Tully stated yesterday that he was not ready to give out any information about scenes, characters, or, in fact, anything pertaining to the production, except that one act would be in the Alvarado.

The new play will be produced in New York City by David Belasco, who has contracted with Mr. Tully for all the plays he can write for several years to come.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY
NEEDS LARGER REVENUE

Baltimore, Nov. 17.—Cardinal Gibbons, as chancellor of the Catholic University of America, has issued a circular letter relative to the income of the institution. He expressed satisfaction over the result of last year's collection, which amounted to $100,000 but points out that in order for the university to become what its name implies, the sum of $2,000,000 at least, will be required.

L. A. Jenkins, connected with the Kansas City office of the Harvey system, arrived in Albuquerque yesterday.

WHAT WILL CONGRESS DO?

Congress will meet in two weeks. Members are already arriving at Washington in considerable numbers, to make their necessary living arrangements for the winter. According to all the outcroppings of opinion which have thus far appeared, the session will be chiefly remarkable for an infinite deal of talk. It seems from all present appearances that the volume of hot stuff to be ejected upon a long-suffering public will make that $60,000-mile eruption on the sun look as feeble as a clearing house certificate. There is to be no rest for the wicked—or the weary. A long and comprehensive debate on the regulation of trusts and corporations is first on the schedule. It is conceded in administration and congressional circles that there must be new—or, rather, different legislation on this subject, and, of course, there will be preliminary talk, valuable and voluminous financial and anti-trust legislation will be the main topics of the session, and bills galore will be introduced. It goes not that in some quarters this will be deemed an inauspicious time to belabor the trusts. "Let the galled jade wince," seems to be the slogan, and there will be no hesitancy to again slap the saddle on the raw back and ride the hobby.

The demand, originating with the administration, for modification of the Sherman anti-trust law, will start the debate. It is said that the administration has not met with the success desired in proceedings against the trusts under that act. The adage that "A poor workman blames his tools," is not held to apply in this case, but anyhow the tools are to be changed. More power to the elbow of the interstate commerce commission is desired. The Elkins' rebate clause has proven the most efficacious of all the cures for corporation evils thus far, by actual experiment, it is said, and it has been applied by the commission. That body is seeking further authority and congress will be asked to grant it.

A STITCH IN TIME.

The Albuquerque board of education is entitled to a great deal of credit for the prudence and foresight it has shown in making provision for the future.

It is taken for granted by all of us that Albuquerque will continue to grow; no loyal citizen of the town ever has any doubts upon that point; and as the town grows the number of children to be accommodated in the public schools will increase, thus making more school room necessary from time to time, and as a matter of course, land values in the town will increase in proportion to the increase of population. Keeping these facts in mind, and with a view to the necessities of the near future, the board has been for some time steadily and quietly adding to the grounds owned by the educational department, adjacent to the several school buildings of the city, till now the board owns sufficient land contiguous to each of the ward school houses to permit of enlargements sufficient to almost if not quite double the seating capacity of the buildings, and still leave ample play grounds for the increased number of pupils. This present board has not only made provision against coming necessities, but has saved its successors at a few years hence the expenditure of large sums of money.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

Since the people throughout the country deem it wise, out of regard for the public good and the general interest of all, to grant unusual leniency to all of our financial and fiduciary institutions during the present emergency, why should not the government pursue the same course toward the people, especially in local affairs. Take the situation in New Mexico, for instance: Our people are as much affected by the general tie-up of the currency as are those of other sections of the country; our taxes become delinquent, one-half on the first of December, less than two weeks hence, and the other half on the first of June, and if the respective portions are not paid by the respective dates, the penalty goes on, and many hundreds of good citizens in moderate circumstances will be fined for not paying the first half at a time when all the currency of the country is so tightly locked up that it is difficult to get hold of enough to pay for the actual necessities of life. Now, why would it not be right and just, as well as generous, for the territory to make the rule work both ways, by granting to the people the same leniency which the people have shown the banks, and extend the time for the accruing of the penalty on the first half of the taxes to the date when the other half becomes delinquent?

A very large proportion of the first half of the tax has already been paid—a proportion amply sufficient to enable the territorial government to get along till next June without suffering any more inconvenience than the people of the territory in general have been obliged to submit to on account of the present extraordinary condition of affairs. No harm could possibly come to the public interests from such a temporary postponement of the penalty on one-half the taxes, as we have suggested, and many of our citizens would be saved from severe and unnecessary hardship. Therefore, in case there is no authority lodged in any official to suspend, temporarily, this paragraph of our revenue law, we would suggest to Governor Curry the advisability of calling the legislature together at the earliest practicable day, to take such action for the relief of the people of the territory as the unusual exigencies of the present time may seem to demand.

SOCIETY'S LATEST FAD.

The eastern papers tell us that "diabolo," the latest fad of foreign society and already coming into vogue in this country, is by no means a harmless parlor sport such as ping pong, its predecessor in the line of popular light entertainment. Word comes from Spain that a youth who aspired to attain expert proficiency in the game threw the little spool very high and failing to catch it on his string on its return received it on his temple. He died in three days. Diabolo may thus be found to have been rightly named. Yet in its milder forms it is a very innocent sort of amusement. The player, armed with a couple of light sticks connected by a cord, twirls a heavy spool with broad flanges until it gains a momentum, and then throws it into the air and tries to catch it on the return and to continue the spinning and tossing. Many variations of this simple theme have been devised, and contests have been evolved somewhat after the style of tennis. The followers of the sport regard it as a healthful exercise, calculated to develop the muscles and to train the body in graceful poses. Diabolists, indeed, have been hailed as the perfection of symmetry and movement. The fashionable world has gone daff over the spool and string, and the apparatus is to be found in the pocket of every other European who enjoys a margin of a few coins over and above actual necessities.

George Fred Williams was expected to explain the Massachusetts result, and has done so in a style all his own. Take this from his deliverance as a sample of his unconquered and unconquerable spirit: "The Parker fiasco was bad enough, but this later fiasco of Mr. Whitney and his little band of corporation tools demonstrates that the Bryan democrat will tolerate no more Bryan-Helmont-Whitney interferences. It means the purging of democracy, not only here, but throughout the country, and it was a blessed opportunity for us to separate the corporation forces from the radical democracy. The purpose of the Independence League is to protect radical democracy in case corporations shall cripple or defeat Bryan in convention. God speed the league in such work. It means victory in 1908, with a support behind Mr. Bryan which is not pretended but real."

The cheap inland transportation in Germany has been brought about chiefly by the development of the waterways. Upon the construction of canals and the deepening of river channels Germany has expended $150,000,000 during the past twenty years. From the beginning of railroad construction in Germany, in 1835, the policy of the government has been to allow individuals great freedom in building lines, but there has been insured an adequate control over them. It is this control which enables the German government to make effective the declaration that "the aim of a healthy transportation policy should be to diminish as far as possible the economically unproductive cost of transport."

A recent third-term talk which is indulged in more or less throughout the country, the Chicago Record-Herald says there is little possibility that Roosevelt will be a candidate next year. So long as a man can be nominated by the republican party who represents the Roosevelt policies, or whatever part of them the voters stand strongly for at the time of the convention, there is little probability of an uncompromising demand for Roosevelt and Roosevelt only. But these discussions of the merits and demerits of the third term as such are not apt to have any particular value or meaning at the time. The issue will be much too practical for that.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger thinks the southern "negrophobia," as it calls them, are making themselves "more than commonly ridiculous in the fuss they are making because Bishop Potter of New York had Bishop Ferguson of Cape Palmas to dine with him in Richmond. Apart from the obvious remark that a visiting bishop's dinner guests are not a public concern, it is scarcely less obvious that the bishop of Cape Palmas, who is a grave and dignified little gentleman with a dark skin and white hair, holds precisely the same spiritual office as the bishop of New York, and is, in the fullest official sense, his 'brother.' It never has been suggested, from the days of Philip and the Ethiopian, that color was a bar to Christian fellowship."

A MAJOR is sometimes changed to a Minor key.

WONDER if the attorney general speaks to the special agents.

OKLAHOMA has busted into these United States with a dull, sickening thud.

STATEHOOD actually looks so near that if we don't dodge it will hit us amidships.

THAT PRESIDENTIAL utterance on the statehood proposition sounds almost like Henry Clews on finance.

ANYHOW, the special assistants to the attorney general can't accuse the Major with interfering with their work.

THE MAJOR won't speak to the special agents. But then that is probably because he is too busy with his official duties.

THERE ARE probably a number of gentlemen in New Mexico who would enjoy closing up the Morning Journal every day in the week.

SUCH A NICE, tempting, luscious sugar-coated lemon, that one the Hon. T. Roosevelt has handed New Mexico on the statehood proposition.

A PARIS scientist named M. Charlette insists that he has found a way to make diamonds as big as oranges. A trifle inconvenient for ear rings.

"THANK YOU, damn you," expresses rather succinctly the attitude of the newly created state of Oklahoma toward the administration.

THE FORWARD pass in the new football rules may be changed. But what is bothering the Major is the double cross in the grand old game of politics.

EVERY DAY will be Sunday bye and bye, we are told. This being the case, those who have had a taste of the Albuquerque Blue Law will prefer to go to the other place where at least there is something doing.

AN ALLEGED copy of Noah's diary on a copper tablet dug up in Michigan has been placed on sale. The contents have not yet been published, but there is a rumor that Noah has been branded as the real original old nature fakir.

THE PRESIDENT. It is said he is heartily and strenuously in favor of statehood for New Mexico, but fears that there is no chance for it this year, will remain neutral if it comes up and MAY sign the bill if it should pass, which he doesn't think it will. All of which makes the statehood prospects almost too roseate to think about.

WHY THE "MAJOR" JOURNEYED TO WASHINGTON

WON'T EVEN SPEAK TO SPECIAL ATTORNEYS

Globe-Democrat's Washington Correspondent Says, However, That He's Solid With Roosevelt, and It Will All Blow Over.

The cause for the present visit of Major William Henry Harrison Llewellyn to Washington, while directly connected with his official duties, appears not to be directly in connection with the discharge of those duties. It appears to have something to do with discharging, however, and the grave fears which have been held in New Mexico for some time that the Major might be called upon to carry out a mission to have been realized. This is all made very plain in a dispatch from the Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat to that newspaper last week, which in addition to bringing out the startling fact that the major is not only in sympathy with the special government attorneys in New Mexico, and that he will not even speak to them as he passes by, also gives some interesting details as to the distribution of the money for the Pennsylvania Development company lands, by order of the government attorneys, and for recovery of which money Mr. Hagerman was invited to resign by President Roosevelt.

Every time the land matters in New Mexico are turned over something of interest in connection with the Pennsylvania Development company transaction, and Mr. Hagerman's connection therewith, comes up to the light, and the following dispatch is of interest in no way more than one. The dispatch is given in full below:

Governor Curry, of New Mexico, Major Llewellyn, district attorney of the territory, and Captain D. J. Leahy, his assistant, are in Washington and today had a conference with Attorney General Bonaparte and the secretary of the interior, Mr. Garfield. Tomorrow they will confer with the president at the White House.

In the absence of a statement from the New Mexico officials, it is generally supposed that they came here to discuss with the president and the administration the attitude relative to the statehood and in outline if possible some plan by which the territory of the territory can be brought before the congress at its coming session. It is known, however, that a number of other territorial matters of more importance are now before the officials.

Llewellyn Seeks Vindication.

Governor Curry is reported as being much vexed at the action of the commissioner of public lands, taken recently in his absence in distributing the funds from the sale of the lands to the Pennsylvania Development company. It is also natural to suppose that Major Llewellyn is more interested in meeting and refuting the charges which have been brought against him in connection with affairs in the territory than the statehood

The Cause of Many

Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure, etc. It is often the result of kidney trouble. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys become poisoned and blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmur's Swamp-Root, the greatest kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmur & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmur's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

BRYAN'S QUESTION MAKES HIT WITH NEWSPAPERS

"HOW CAN A CHRISTIAN EARN AN HONEST LIVING?"

Rather Remarkable Query of Albuquerque Man at Presbyterian Gathering Featured in Cincinnati Prints.

The rather startling question propounded to the meeting of the Presbyterian Brotherhood in Cincinnati the other day by R. W. D. Bryan, of this city, seems to have made a sensation not only among the members of the convention but in the Cincinnati press as well. The Cincinnati Post thus describes the incident:

"How can a Christian earn a living?" This was the question shouted to the members of the Presbyterian Brotherhood of America at the Music hall convention.

R. W. D. Bryan, delegate from Albuquerque, N. M., asked the question not timidly, but in a bold, ringing voice.

It was during the two-minute speeches of the morning session Thursday. Bryan faced the 1,800 delegates and said: "I am opposed to gag rule. I can't say what I want nor can you. If you have anything to say, say it my way. I'd gag some of these doctors of divinity who are preaching long sermons. I didn't come here to listen to sermons. I came to learn things. I want to know things. I want to know this: How can an honest man be a Christian and earn a living?"

There was absolute silence as Bryan flung this question over the heads of the delegates. Then he continued:

"Need Food. 'It's all right to talk about conservation. The minister will tell us that conservation will solve the problem, but I want to earn a living for my family.'"

"How can we follow Christ when we are in the employ of a corporation that makes us rob and steal?"

Bryan asked his last question and received a loud applause. The convention appeared to be shocked into silence, for there was no answer to Bryan's questions. The speeches on Bible classes were postponed when Bryan said down. Later Bryan said to The Post:

"In order that Christianity may have full swing in America our entire system must be changed. Christ brought us personal freedom. Luther brought us mental freedom. Who shall be the man to bring about the industrial freedom?"

"What is the meaning of all these organizations—industrial, religious, social and the rest? It means that men are getting together to find out where the dickens they're at. What kind of a spectacle do we see when Christians get on the witness stand? We see them perjure themselves like Christians and gentlemen, and lie?"

Polar Explorer.

Bryan was astronomer on the Polar expedition to the North Pole in 1871-1873, which was under the direction of C. E. Hall, of Cincinnati. Hall died in Smith's Sound, in the Arctic region.

The Cincinnati Times-Star says: Two remarkable incidents marked the conference. The first occurred when R. W. D. Bryan, of Albuquerque, N. M., gained the platform and explosively said: "I object to the gag rule of two-minute speeches which has been in effect here. I did not come here to listen to someone from doctors of divinity, but to find out, if I can, how a man may be a Christian and at the same time earn a living."

There was more than a ripple of astonishment and interest throughout the hall at the remark.

Mr. Bryan continued: "I do not see how a man can be a Christian and earn a living consistently working for great corporations, which practically force him to steal and lie."

The debate was cut down temporarily by the operation of the two-minute rule, but it is likely to come up again when the question of Mr. Bryan is answered. He is an attorney in the New Mexican city and is district attorney grand juror of the El Paso. He was the astronomer of the ill-fated Polar expedition which set out in 1871 to find the Northwest passage. It will be recalled by Cincinnatians that this expedition was directed by Capt. C. E. Hall, who had a bookstore in Cincinnati throughout the

CRYSTAL THEATER PRESENTS NEW BILL

Management of Popular Vaudeville House Announces Attractive and Novel Program for Coming Week.

The management of the Crystal theater announced an entirely new show from start to finish for the coming week. Among the new people who open this afternoon are Harry DeVoe and company, Mr. and Mrs. Currier, Polk and Martella, who come from abroad, and the ever popular Mr. Joe Scott, well known to all Albuquerqueans. Mr. and Mrs. Currier are comedy and sketch artists and very clever. Mr. DeVoe is a well known and exceedingly laughable character comedian who is good at anything he plays. Mr. DeVoe carries his own company with him and opens this afternoon in the funny interlude "Rats." Mr. Joe Scott appears in illustrated songs and it is confidently predicted that he will prove a drawing card at the popular vaudeville house. The rough house comedians, Messrs. Polk and Martella, are knockabout acrobats and will "kill them," so to speak. A new roll of pictures will be run for the first time this afternoon. Another entire change of program will be made on Thursday.

QUARREL ENDS IN A MURDER NEAR PRESCOTT

Frank Devine Shot and Fatally Wounded by Budd Neal, the Slayer Alleging That He Shot Just in Time to Save His Life

[Special Correspondence Morning Journal.] Prescott, Ariz., Nov. 18.—Frank Devine lies in the Mercy Hospital here at the point of death, pierced through the breast and lung by two bullets from a 44-caliber Colt's revolver fired by Budd Neal at Lone Pine station, two miles east of here. The physicians offer no hope of Devine's recovery. The slayer of Devine rode into the city and surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Burns. When assistance got to Devine he was found to be in a pitiable state from his wounds and the effects of liquor. From what could be learned of the fray by the Prescott Journal Miner, it appears that Devine and Neal had been drinking together for several hours. Both are alleged to have been intoxicated. They left the place to go to the Devine home, known as the Four-Mile house, about two miles distant. Mrs. Devine was a member of the party. Devine, according to Neal's statement when he surrendered, asked Neal to ride in the buggy with Mrs. Devine and allow him to ride Neal's broncho. The request was refused by Neal. Devine then threatened to make Neal accede to his request, and started in the direction of Neal. Neal alleged, in a threatening manner, with an open knife in his hand, Neal, who is inferior in stature to Devine, backed away from Devine until he was stopped by a nearby wire fence, when, he says, he pulled his six-shooter and fired two shots to save his life, being unable to make his escape further. Devine and Neal were on friendly terms until the latter refused to let him ride his broncho a short time before the shooting.

do the destination of all of these homeseekers' tickets, but it has been the practice heretofore for land agents to pull them off the train at points north of here, and very few of them would get down this far. Colonel Demier goes loaded down with good literature, including a big bundle of the issues of the Morning Journal containing the special write up of Alamogordo.

William A. Saunders, representing Lyon Bros., cantaloupe shippers, is in town examining the soil and climatic conditions, with a view of promoting the cantaloupe industry on a large scale. Lyon Bros., who handle 60 per cent of the California crop and 80 per cent of the Colorado crop, propose that if the farmers will put in three hundred acres they will send an expert to superintend the preparation of the soil and the cultivation and shipping of the crop. There will be a meeting of the business men and farmers tonight to discuss the matter with Mr. Saunders. These people are looking for a climate that will mature melons that will come on the market in the interval between the California and Colorado crops and have come to southern New Mexico to find it. They have already made arrangements to have about 600 acres planted at Las Cruces.
