Sixteenth National Irrigation Congress Will Take Up Its Resolutions Today

COMMITTEE AND SECRETARIES PUT IN LONG HOURS LAST NIGHT COMPLETING THE DOCUMENT

Plenty of Resolutions Affecting the Administration of the National Forests Come Up to the Committee for Action; Much Interest in the Result; Organization Committee Has Its List of Officers Ready to Report.

INTERESTING EVENTS TRANSPIRE IN YESTERDAY'S CLOSING SESSION

Will C. Barnes Replies in Spirited Vein to Attack by Judge Beaman While President Goudy Undertakes Defense of the San Luis Valley Water Users; Long List of Interesting Papers Complete the Program.

It is probable that the report of the committee on resolutions, the culmination of the work of the Sixteenth National Irrigation Congress, will have been completed in time to be presented to the congress at the session this afternoon. All yesterday afternoon and until an early hour this morning, members of the committee and stenographers were at work completing what is expected to be the final draft of the report, and unless some action of the committee this morning should necessitate radical changes the report will have been completed by this afternoon. The report was not completed without much work by the committee, covering consideration of a long list of resolutions discussing almost everything from the Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress to the tariff on sugar. Recent reserve resolutions were numerous and a strong effort has been made to embody in the report some resolutions which criticize the administration of the national forests. It could not be stated definitely last night what the result of these efforts had been, but that some criticism of certain phases of the forestry policy will get into the report is finally presented to the congress is not improbable.

The committee on permanent organization completed its work yesterday morning without prolonged discussion. The report will recommend to the congress the following as the officers of the Seventeenth congress: President, George H. Bates, of Texas.

First vice president, Colonel H. D. Loveland, of California.
Second vice president, Ralph E. Telford, of New Mexico.
Third vice president, I. D. O'Donnell, of Montana.
Secretary (for collection), P. A. Fowler, of Arizona.

The committee will recommend the creation of the office of foreign secretary, and in the event of the creation of the office by the congress will recommend Dr. E. McQueen Gray, of Carbondale, N. M., for the position. In its sessions and in the report, pays a high compliment to the splendid work done by Dr. Gray in bringing about the large foreign representation at this congress.

Other recommendations by the committee will be that hereafter the day before the closing day of the congress be fixed as the day for election of officers and for determining the place of meeting. A recommendation will also be made for the creation of a board of directors, to be formed from within the membership of the executive committee, the action being suggested upon the ground that the present large executive committee, consisting of members from every state, is too large and too scattered over to be called together save during the sessions of the congress, and that the work of the congress between sessions could be more successfully directed with a small committee empowered to act for the executive board.

This report will be presented by Chairman Frank C. Ely, of Denver, at this afternoon's session. It is set for action for tomorrow's program, but the recommendation of the committee that the election of officers of the Seventeenth congress take place on Friday may be adopted. The recommendation of the committee is expected to close the discussion at any other candidate for the presidency.

It is understood that Mr. George H. Maxwell will present a resolution asking the appointment of an assistant to the secretary, who shall act as a publicity secretary, and the suggestion of the veteran irrigation congress worker is meeting with much favor among the delegates.

While yesterday's session of the congress was devoted chiefly to the reading of papers of a scientific and technical nature, the sessions were not without their features of general interest. One of these was the brief address of Assistant Secretary William H. Wheeler, of the department of commerce and labor, who came to the congress as the personal representative of President Roosevelt. Mr. Wheeler received a cordial welcome from the delegates.

Another feature of the afternoon session was a spirited defense of himself in particular and the forestry service in general, by Will C. Barnes, inspector of grazing, and for many years a resident of New Mexico. Mr. Barnes replied to the attack made upon him by Judge Beaman, of Colorado, in his address on Wednesday in connection with the writing of certain magazine articles dealing with the forest administration of Mr. Pinchot, taking occasion to vigorously defend the forestry and the service. Mr. Barnes is an entertaining speaker and his address was well received.

An interesting feature of the session was the brief address of President Goudy, in which he referred to the forestry discussion, pronouncing himself fully in favor of the policy of forest conservation, although he paid a high tribute to Judge Beaman in the same connection, referring to his firm belief in his honesty of purpose. President Goudy also vigorously defended the San Luis valley of Colorado against the remarks made by W. W. Pollard, consulting engineer of the international boundary commission, at Wednesday's session, in which the engineer said that the Colorado people were looking to grab all the waters of the Rio Grande. Mr. Goudy stood firmly for what he believed to be the rights of the people on the upper reaches of the river.

AFTERNOON SESSION OF THE CONGRESS IN DETAIL

The first paper in the afternoon program was one scheduled to have been delivered on the previous day by Dr. William Saunders, U. S. G. I., U. S. D. P. H. & C., director of experimental farms in the Dominion of Canada. Dr. Saunders is one of the most prominent men in the agricultural development of the great northern provinces and territories. The Saunders paper, while not a long one, was a most interesting effort and brought out the fact that for twenty years agricultural experiment work under the supervision of the government and private enterprises has been in progress in all parts of the dominion. This experimental work has been largely instrumental in the vast agricultural development of the north, the boundless wheat fields of Manitoba, Alberta and other agricultural marvels in Canada.

Dr. Saunders was followed by Vernon L. Sullivan, New Mexico territorial irrigation engineer, whose address was on the very interesting subject of "Development of Irrigation in the Valley of the Rio Grande," an address which is published in full elsewhere.

INTERESTING ADDRESS ON SUGAR BEET PROPOSITION

Major Aaron Gove of Colorado, who delivered a most interesting address on the subject "What the Sugar Beet Has Done for Colorado." It is unfortunate that lack of space prevents printing his address in full.

Mr. Gove said in part: For the best crop the market price is fixed, when the seed is put in the ground the contract price per ton is assured, for every ton of beets delivered, the selling price is guaranteed. The factory takes the risk of falling markets. The crop may turn out little or big, the selling price is fixed, the farmer knows what he is to receive, he knows this about nothing else which he raises. The best grower takes no risks except those incurred by the weather. In our irrigated country the risk imposed by such conditions is less than elsewhere. Risks from drought are eliminated, the water in the ditch is there on call. Risks from floods are scarcely considered in the arid mid-west. Without irreverence and with-

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST OF NEW YORK, CHAIRMAN OF NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF INDEPENDENCE PARTY.

HEARST WILL SPEAK TODAY AT IRRIGATION CONGRESS

Leader of the Independence Party and Its Candidate for President of the United States, in Albuquerque for Brief Stay.

William Randolph Hearst, organizer of the Independence party, and Thomas L. Hogen, its candidate for president of the United States, arrived in Albuquerque late last night and will stay here until tonight at 12:25, when they will leave for El Paso, where both Hearst and Hogen will speak tomorrow evening. Mr. Hearst had expected to reach Albuquerque in time to address a political meeting early in the evening, but owing to bad train connections at El Paso, was delayed until a later train and it became necessary to abandon the meeting.

It was announced shortly after Mr. Hearst's arrival that no meeting would be held in Albuquerque, and Mr. Hogen will not appear here. Mr. Hogen, however, has been invited to address the National Irrigation congress during the day, and will probably speak at the morning session from a seat at the rear of the hall. Mr. Hogen has taken a lively interest in the congress, has contributed some of the handsomest trophies ever offered to the event, and will be given a cordial reception when he appears.

The Hearst party are only at the station by a committee from the Irrigation congress and the Commercial club, headed by Dr. E. McQueen Gray. Governor Curry gave one of his rooms and J. D. Hurd, of Las Vegas, another at the Granada for the accommodation of the party, and Mr. Hogen retired at once. Mr. Hearst, being in the Commercial club, where he remained for a short time. At the club Mr. Hearst was cordially welcomed by Governor Curry and a number of prominent New Mexicans and made his way to the Irrigation congress.

"I wish you would say to the people of Albuquerque for me," said Mr. Hearst in the Morning Journal last night. "That I am exceedingly sorry that we did not arrive in your city in time to appear here. Both Mr. Hogen and myself felt very much disappointed when we learned that we would not be able to keep our appointment. However, it could not be helped. We did not arrive at El Paso in time to make the connections that would get us into Albuquerque Yesterday's proceedings in the irrigation congress were the most interesting since the inauguration of the congress in New Mexico. Today's program, however, is even more so, as it is the day when the resolutions will be taken up and the final action taken.

The feature of the afternoon program at the irrigation congress this afternoon, in addition to the resolutions, will be the address by William Randolph Hearst, of New York, and Thomas L. Hogen, of Massachusetts, who will speak at the morning session. The resolutions will be taken up and the final action taken. The resolutions will be taken up and the final action taken.

THE NATIONAL IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

The set program of the National Irrigation Congress will be arranged today and after, and the resolutions will be taken up and the final action taken. The resolutions will be taken up and the final action taken.

The feature of the day will be the address at the morning session by William Randolph Hearst, who arrived in Albuquerque last night. The resolutions will be taken up and the final action taken.

FOREST NAMES IN NEW MEXICO

Derivation and Significance of Titles of Various Government Reserves in This Territory.

(Forest Service Bureau.) In the process of redesignating the national forests which have just been completed, numerous changes of names were made. These changes were by no means haphazard or arbitrary. The new names have been chosen on account of their importance in local and national history, and they will serve to all time as reminders of men and events prominently connected with the country's progress from the pioneer days. Merely to read them understandingly is to trace the silent facts of western growth and development.

The national forest in New Mexico, with the significance and derivation of their names are as follows:

The Alamosa national forest is named from Fort Alamos, which received its name from the old Alamo mission of Texas. This fort is the site of the most important battle which has ever been fought in Texas and, being the place on which William B. Travis died, it is one of the most important places in the history of Texas. The name Alamosa signifies "a place of water," and was probably given to it by the troops quartered there who came from Fort Alamos de Texas. In the province of California, to which this forest was annexed, the name was changed to Alamosa. The forest includes 1,144,000 acres and is under the supervision of Acting Supervisor Arthur M. Seal, with headquarters at Albuquerque.

This Gila national forest takes its name from the city, plus the fact that it is in the Gila Mountains. It was named after the Gila Mountains, which are the most important mountains in the region. The forest includes 1,144,000 acres and is under the supervision of Acting Supervisor Arthur M. Seal, with headquarters at Albuquerque.

The Santa Fe national forest is named from the city of Santa Fe. The forest includes 1,144,000 acres and is under the supervision of Acting Supervisor Arthur M. Seal, with headquarters at Albuquerque.

ENGINEER SULLIVAN DISCUSSES IRRIGATION ON RIO GRANDE

New Mexico Officer Reads Interesting Paper Before the National Irrigation Congress on Development of Irrigated Farming Along the Stream in New Mexico.

One of the most interesting papers read before the irrigation congress yesterday was that by Vernon L. Sullivan, irrigation engineer of New Mexico.

Mr. Sullivan said, in part: It is a great pleasure to me to address a few remarks to such a distinguished congress. A congress which, which the development of the natural resources of our great west be so closely allied.

No country offers better chances for such development than the area comprising the territory of New Mexico. New Mexico is a territory which has been added to and taken from for the past three hundred years. It is a territory which is an unexplored and undeveloped world to the different races of the Pacific Indians, large portions of New Spain, acquired by the right of conquest by Coronado and his soldiers, then French, then Mexican and now forming a part of the southern boundary of the most fertile part of the United States.

By referring to the historical records we find that there is over three million acres of arable land and of the territory annually, while many thousands more are lost by evaporation within its borders. This it is possible to add to our irrigated acres of already irrigated land, some five million acres. Applications for permits to appropriate water for some 700,000 acres more have been approved within the last year and a half by the territorial engineer and there are still applications pending for over a million and a half acres.

In addition to this we have nearly two million acres of good marketable timber with several hundred thousand acres of other timber suitable for wood, fence posts and pulp, over ten million acres of land where the rainfall is sufficient and the soil suitable for dry farming, and in addition to all of this, we have over fifty million acres of grazing land.

A great deal has been said of the climate, prevalent throughout the southwest. The aridity of this portion of the United States prevents the humidity so desirable in the east and north, and the percentage of cloudless days is perhaps greater here than anywhere else, which is perhaps one of the most important factors in bringing about such great results in farming when water is applied to the fertile soil.

It is not the desire of the speaker to infer that nature has done all for us, for that is far from being true. We have large problems yet to solve. In calling your attention to these problems, one presents itself more forcibly perhaps because it is so in harmony with this assembly, and that is the improvement and development of one of our principal water courses—the Rio Grande. In this connection it is my desire to invite the attention and assistance of that important commission on inland waterways headed by Mr. Newlands, that progressive senator from Nevada.

This river meanders around through the Rio Grande valley, shifting from side to side at the caprice of the water, often washing away homes and preventing its inhabitants from obtaining the benefits from the abundant farming qualities of the surrounding country. Many times the river has left the banks of ditches high and dry, which together with the uncertainty of a supply of water for irrigation has prevented the valley from reaching the fair share of development. The broad crooked course of the river traverses the valley crosswise making its length double of what it should be, covering up a large portion of it and still other portions are, especially during high water times, covered with water.

The river in its present condition carries large quantities of silt. Practically all of the silt carried in the water is caused from the erosion of the sides of the river banks in the valleys itself by its continual shifting process. This is proven by the fact that there is very little silt carried in the water above the Española valley and also by the fact that the ditches for many years have been filled with silt. There is no foundation other than the valley itself, which has been built up by the deposits of silt, upon which to construct works to control or confine the river to any particular course and our experience in such work has proven that it is very difficult to build any such work will soon cut under it, and our experience in such work has proven that it is very difficult to build any such work will soon cut under it, and our experience in such work has proven that it is very difficult to build any such work will soon cut under it.

First, to relieve the river of its tendency to cut the stream banks, for if the water is allowed to flow in a straight course it only proceeds with its nature. Second, it shortens the crooked grade increases its velocity. Third, increased velocity of water in a straight channel causes it to cut from the bottom of the river and not on its banks. Fourth, the scouring of the river bottom lowers it thereby allowing a greater cross-section below the level of the valleys and also an increased discharge from a given cross-section by the increased velocity. Thus, increasing twofold the capacity of the channel, preventing the overflowing of land, confining the channel to a narrower strip and affording sufficient fall for drainage. In addition to all of this let me suggest, that you have solved the problem of riding the river of the excess amount of silt which is now carried in the water to the detriment of that great New Mexico project, now being built in the southern part of the Rio Grande valley by the reclamation service.

The United States congress in 1892, appreciating the need of this work, donated some land for such improvement. The appropriation, however, was distributed to the various states by the legislature of the territory so that no systematic method of the improvement could be arranged, nevertheless sufficient knowledge was obtained to suggest a method for its proper handling.

The root hills of the higher mesa lands at points along the river almost join time containing it at these places and affording opportunities for permanent diversion points by the construction of a substantial dam to irrigate the valleys below.

Such improvement work should be commenced at the upper portions of the river by dropping a small straight channel through the first upper valley, allowing the water to be turned into this little channel to secure it out by its own power to the proper size, thus minimizing the cost of such work and at the same time allowing the full method of operation in the valley lower down and so on until the whole course is completed.

When such work has been done in all of the valleys clear down to the Elephant Butte reservoir, you will have a river flowing straight with the water table lowered sufficiently to give plenty of fall for drainage and a narrow channel which will be easy to maintain because you allow the water to flow according to its natural law which is—in a straight course.

As stated before the valley has considerable swampy land and I feel quite safe in saying that the water lost by evaporation from a given area of swampy ground, where the water table is just above the surface, if economically used will irrigate several times that area. Thus in conserving the water of the valley which is now lost by evaporation from swampy land and the broad crooked river, you would increase the stream's flow sufficiently to provide irrigation for all of its lower lands and still have water to spare.

The next question which would naturally arise is whether results gained would be sufficient to justify the work. In that connection it might be stated that such work would increase the irrigated area many thousands of acres without depleting the water supply, and at the same time putting the irrigated area, already under cultivation, on a safe basis by the guaranteeing a positive water supply and the safety from overflowing at times of high water. Now Mexico's fruit is of the highest standard excellent in flavor and beauty, or that of other states. Cane that in the east weigh from 30 to 40 pounds a bushel weigh when grown here from 25 to 40 pounds, and wheat weighing in the east 60 pounds per bushel when grown here weigh 70 to 72 pounds per bushel. Hay yielding from half a ton to a ton and a half in the east yields here from 2 to 7 tons, and so on.

In view of the benefits thus afforded by the improvement of the Rio Grande, may I ask the United States congress to appropriate money to assist the reclamation service in making this improvement or that it set aside sufficient land, the revenue of which may be used for that purpose, in order that the territory may undertake that work?

Coming from the East some six years ago, I can appreciate the feeling of those who are here for the first time, and I wish I could picture to you the true conditions of our territory as prettily as the story writer told you that it is the land where the rattlesnakes, coyotes and the outlaw with his gun reign supreme, and even some of the eminent congressmen have told the United States congress that we are a people unfit for self-government. These same stories have been largely responsible for the undeveloped conditions of a great many of our virgin resources, but in spite of all these statements let me say, that within the next ten years New Mexico will reclaim a million acres of land, and will open up the largest coal fields in the United States, and that its development will be greater than any other state in the union.

REPUBLICAN BIG GUNS TO HELP CANNON

CONGRESSMEN PLEAD FOR UNCLE JOE'S RE-ELECTION

Strong Effort to Overcome Opposition of Church People and Labor Interests to Return of Speaker.

(By Morning Journal Special Teamed Wire)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—Tonight four members of congress, one of whom is the republican vice presidential nominee, delivered addresses pleading with the voters of the section of the republic, congressional district to elect to congress Speaker of the House, Mr. Cannon, who has been their representative for thirty-five years. Special trains brought hundreds of people here from nearby towns to hear the speaking and see the huge torchlight parade. Some time ago the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church united in an appeal to the voters in this district to defeat Mr. Cannon for re-election, charging that he refused to let the Littlefield bill, relative to interstate commerce in liquor, be reported out of committee for passage at the last session of congress. The rally tonight was devised for the purpose of strengthening the speaker's position in his home district. Congressman James S. Sherman delivered his speech to a great audience and repeated it later to a huge audience in the morning. Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, William B. McKinley, of Connecticut, and William H. Wood, of Chicago, also spoke.

Tonight Mr. Sherman and Congressman Longworth were taken in a private car over the trolley line to Cincinnati, where they were to speak for the night of Mr. McKinley. Mr. Sherman, in his address tonight, said:

"For over a generation you have sent Joseph C. Cannon to Washington, and no other man has done as much to advance legislation as you have worked harder to put wise, efficient and beneficial laws on our statute books; no man has been able to serve his party and his country so faithfully and so fully as he. Now let me see what is the charge against him. The democratic platform says: The house of representatives has come under the absolute domination of the speaker, who has entire control of its deliberations and powers of legislation."

"If that were strictly true, then I should reply that we are indebted to Speaker Cannon for some of the most important laws ever passed by any country the world over. And while it is not true, yet I wish briefly to examine the record to ascertain what has been done, not under the speaker's domination, but with his aid and advice."

"It was in 1872 that Mr. Cannon first took his seat, and since that time, with the exception of two years, he has helped to make the country's good laws, has helped to kill the vicious bills and has played a large part in framing the appropriations which annually necessitate the careful deliberation and also judgment of our congress. In every session, in which Mr. Cannon has taken part, most of the time a pronounced factor in the economical appropriations of the government funds."

Tens of millions of dollars have been saved by the wisdom and courage of Mr. Cannon while in congress."

STANDARD OIL ARCHIVES LOOTED

ARCHBOLD TELLS HOW MR. HEARST GOT INFORMATION

Company's Letters and Letter Books Stolen and Photographed for Newspaper by Trusted Employee of Trust.

(By Morning Journal Special Teamed Wire)

New York, Oct. 1.—A new phase of the discussion of the so-called "Standard Oil correspondence," made public recently by W. R. Hearst, was entered upon yesterday when John D. Archbold, vice president of the company, made a statement to the Associated Press, setting forth details of the alleged theft of correspondence from his files. Former United States Senator John L. McLaurin, of South Carolina, also entered the fight with a signed statement, declaring his attitude in the matter of the correspondence between himself and Mr. Archbold. Mr. Archbold said:

"In response to many inquiries as to the theft of letters from my files, the following may be made known:

"Over three years ago a report reached me that certain of my letters had been offered for sale to newspapers of this city, allegedly as stolen letters. Examination showed that some letters were missing and that they could only have been taken by some one not only familiar with the office details, but highly trusted. The party upon whom suspicion fell stoutly denied all guilt. A little later, however, a man who represented himself as acting between the thief and those to whom the letters had been sold, proposed to return some of the letters for a consideration. His story was that the idea of the theft had been conceived by his brother, who had at one time been in the company's employ and that his brother had induced the employee already suspected to accomplish the theft. According to the go-between's story he had disposed of the letters, or some of them, to two men, who purchased them on behalf of Mr. Hearst's newspaper, the Journal. Not only had stolen letters been thus traded for, but the thief was supposed to carry off one or more letter copying books, many of whose pages he claimed, were photographed, other pages being removed altogether. The books in question were, the publisher said, returned after four or eight hours. It is impossible to say how many were stolen and sold in this way. The thieves worked at their trade. It is not thought necessary to say more at present or mention names. Corroboration of the publisher's story of three years ago lay in the return of some of the correspondence at the time. The production of stolen letters by Mr. Hearst is further corroboration now. Obviously, among such a coterie, authenticity of their output is not to be lightly accepted. The opportunities for fabrication, suppression of context and distortion of passages are many."

ATTACKS EXISTENCE OF COMMERCE COMMISSION

San Francisco, Oct. 1.—Declaring that the rate fixed by the Interstate Commerce commission, or finally stippled from the Whitehouse valley to San Francisco bay points is confiscatory and attacking the constitutionality of the act creating the commission, attorneys representing the Southern Pacific and Oregon and California railways today filed in the United States circuit court of appeals a new bill of complaint containing allegations which ended yesterday in a decision upholding the demerit of the government.

The attorneys for the government were given until 2 o'clock today to prepare an answer to the new bill.

HOWARD GOULD FIGHTS DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS

New York, Oct. 1.—To permit counsel for Howard Gould an opportunity to submit affidavits of three disinterested persons, who had seen Mrs. Gould intoxicated, a hearing on Mrs. Gould's application for alimony at the rate of $120,000 a year was adjourned by Justice Gleason in the supreme court today to October 12.

The adjournment followed a spirited discussion between counsel in the court of which Clarence J. Sherman, attorney for Mrs. Gould, declared the application for an adjournment was merely a delaying tactic to "save" Mr. Gould a few paltry dollars and to attempt to get on the records as a weak and wavering statesman against Mr. Gould in an attempt to further blacken her character."

TAFT CLAIMS ROOSEVELT IS HIS ELECTION ASSURED

FINDS ENTHUSIASM FOR NATIONAL TICKET

Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa and Nebraska, Candidate Declares, Are Cinch for Republican Party.

(By Morning Journal Special Teamed Wire)

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 1.—"I am going to be elected." This statement, made by W. H. Taft tonight, sums up in a word what the candidate thinks of the effects of his speech-making tour thus far. The belief is based, Mr. Taft explained, on the manner of his reception in states thus far traversed in which there was reported to be defections among the republican ranks. As to the national ticket, Mr. Taft now believes that there is no reason to doubt that the republican party will hold its own, and should this prove the case, Mr. Taft says there is no doubt that he will get the electoral vote of Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa and Nebraska—the states in which the disaffection was supposed to exist. "I have been in real touch with the people," continued Mr. Taft. "They have come to see and hear me in numbers far beyond my anticipation and what seems of even more importance, they have responded to what I have had to say in a way that I could feel their sympathy. The desire of my audience today to get in personal contact with me has been marked and shows more than a passing interest."

Thirteen speeches were made by the candidate today in a swing around the southeastern part of Nebraska, terminating at Omaha tonight, where two long meetings were held, one for the benefit of the stock yard employees in South Omaha, the other in the auditorium. Throughout the day the crowds were larger than usual, at the short stops. At Crete, Beatrice, Table

BITTER TIRADE FROM OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR

President Challenged to Prove a Single Charge Made Against Mr. Haskell, Either by Himself or Mr. Hearst.

(By Morning Journal Special Teamed Wire)

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 1.—Governor C. N. Haskell, former treasurer of the democratic national committee, has written a letter to President Roosevelt, in which he says:

"I lay aside my appeal for justice to you for the reason that I am convinced that no matter how dignified, great and honorable the office of president may be, the present clearly demonstrates the fact that the security of that office may be without faithfulness, justice or integrity."

"You have clearly demonstrated by honesty dealing and vacillating from one charge to another, by admitting that various of your charges were without foundation and therefore abandoned, and yet without acknowledging the method in apologizing for your untruthful statement you seek another issue. It leads me to assert that I shall seek justice against you before the people and in a court not subject to your domination. Frankly speaking, I could have arrived at no other conclusion than that you in your reckless partisanship and disregarding the rights of others would seek a court or fix a jury."

The Gold of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains

NOT SINCE the report of U. S. Geologist F. V. Hayden, upon the geological survey of the ROCKY MOUNTAINS, which he undertook by direction of the Honorable, the Secretary of the Interior, J. D. Cox, which survey covered COLORADO, NEW MEXICO and additional territory, has there been a MORE IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT in relation to MINERALIZED LANDS than the one herein made.

VAST MINERAL RESOURCES have been lying dormant for many years in NORTHERN NEW MEXICO. A few attempts have been made here and there, with crude methods, and RICHLY REWARDED.

Such mines as the Aztec, the Montezuma, Rebel Chief, Comstock and the Red Bandana Group are known to many readers, but owing to inadequate railway facilities, mines in these districts have remained almost unknown. Although claims were located under difficult rules and the mining attempted was of a surface or prospecting character, still prospects sold at good prices in many instances. One, the HARRY BLUFF, sold for $10,000 cash. While only a few mines are mentioned, still it may safely be asserted that at least two hundred and fifty persons have availed themselves of the locating privilege, even under the rules which existed in the past.

ALL THIS HAS NOW CHANGED and great possibilities are expected.

ALL THIS HAS NOW CHANGED and great possibilities are expected. TWO RAILWAY LINES have been built within 6 to 8 miles of these districts and the old rules have been abolished.

Get this out—it will not appear again citizens of this state during this presidential campaign and you will not undertake to deny that petty politics for the purpose of repudiating about 20,000 Indian voters was your sole motive for having those suits brought and I charge you with knowing that there has been no delay in these suits except that occasioned by the court's deliberations, taken by himself, as time he deemed necessary to consider whether or not there is any merit in the petitions filed by your attorneys.

"You say that on the land question you will see that I get a hearing in court. Yes, sir, I welcome your hearing. Call to your assistance all the power that your office commands present your case in any form you like. I am ready to meet it and before the conclusion the people of American will be disgusted that they ever elected you president of the United States.

"Mr. Roosevelt, I have said that you were responsible for the granting of the franchise to the Prairie Oil and Gas company before statehood, thereby creating vested right in that company that our state authority is powerless to interrupt. You have tried in your last statement to evade this issue. You have tried to give your readers a wrong impression. In the office of the interior department the records will speak as between us. I say that you granted that franchise. I say that you did it at the solicitation of Senator Depew and others and that within a few days thereafter, chiefly by subscriptions of Standard Oil men, according to Mr. Harriman, the sum of $250,000 in cash was added to your campaign fund.

"I challenge you to publish the records of the interior department on the subject of this franchise and mark you now, Mr. Roosevelt, you must not garble the records nor suppress any of them. The public shall know the truth. It may have been sufficient four years ago for you to wipe out the truthful statement made by Judge Parker by simply calling him a liar, but that was four years ago and your controversy now is with a man who will not accept a bluff in exchange for a receipt in full settlement. In any character of statement you make that I have at any time during my life had any connection whatever with the Standard Oil company or any of its subsidiary companies, I am ready to refute such statement.

"It is still fresh in the minds of the people of our state, labor unions, farmers' unions and other advocates of honest and humane government that the sixteen objections that you raised to our constitution struck at the very vitals of honest government. Your threat to turn down our constitution because it contained a provision for jury trial in contempt cases is one of the many things that you criticized and I thank God to this day that I had the courage to challenge you at this time to turn down our constitution on that ground if you dared to do so. You said that your opinion of our constitution would not look well in print. Mr. Harriman and J. P. Morgan said the same thing but Samuel Gompers said the constitution of Oklahoma was the best ever written. I expected you to agree with Morgan and Harriman and of course you did not.

"Morally you challenge, Mr. Roosevelt, I should not undertake to make a comparison between you and me. I don't set myself on any occasion and never did in my life but I still have your letter of last winter, which I shall be glad to publish with your permission, advertising your idea of interests, commerce, of whiskey into prohibition territory. It was your answer to my appeal for assistance and would freeze the heart of any honest public official seeking to administer the laws of his state as the people by their votes had made him.

"Mr. Roosevelt, let me not leave this Standard Oil question without saying from your information that as really now. You made a ruling that four thousand, eight hundred acres of land was the limit that any person or corporation directly or indirectly could obtain under lease for oil purposes in the Indian Territory and renewed the lease on 650,000 acres of Osage land to the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company and you know that the agent of the Standard Oil company owned a majority of the stock. Why did you give them a monopoly on the Osage National Oil lands? Again Mr. Burnside, the well known representative of the Standard Oil company has been as I am advised by Mr. Siles of Bartlesville, a little over one hundred thousand acres of Indian allotments in the Indian Territory and I am advised that on account of the controversy brought to your personal attention, that you knew of their excessive lease holding. Why did you do this?

"You criticize my directing the dismissal of the suit against the Prairie Oil and Gas company, which would not have been successfully maintained by the state. Tell me please what your reason was for directing the dismissal of the suit against the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad being prosecuted by Judge Harmon special counsel, when the facts disclosed that a member of your cabinet (Paul Morton) was being uncovered as the prime offender. Answer this will you?

"Mr. Roosevelt, you cry out for purity. You say you did not four years ago know where the corruption corporation fund was coming from to secure your election until the election of two years ago disclosed the bargains and sales between Mr. Cortelyou and corrupt interests of Wall street. You have known that fact for two years and Mr. Cortelyou is still a member of your cabinet.

"Now, Mr. Roosevelt, while you are reflecting on these questions will you justify yourself in giving faith or credit to any statement that has come to you from your political associate, Mr. Hearst, whom two years ago you branded as the man chiefly responsible for the assassination of our late president.

"Remember Mr. President, if at your next cabinet meeting you decide to try me under any of your present past or future charges, before your cabinet sitting as a jury to try an honest man that I challenge Mr. Cortelyou for cause."

TAFT CLAIMS HIS ELECTION IS ASSURED

Rock and Nebraska City, the voice of the candidate was entirely inadequate to reach the limit of the crowds. At several of the stops Mr. Taft left his car and spoke from a platform. At practically every station the local band was in attendance and the cheers which greeted the candidate upon his arrival and departure came with a vim.

Throughout the day Mr. Taft confined his speech to platitudes and platitudes under the last denunciation of his administration and contrasting them with republican rule. As he has done during his two days in Nebraska, he did not fail to pay his respects to Mr. Bryan whenever he spoke. On several occasions he delivered his labor speech and declared to be a labor man that he had ever declared that one day a day was enough for any laboring man.

Omaha's reception of the candidate was in keeping with that accorded him at Lincoln last night. The Ak-Sar-Ben carnival in progress and the added illumination of the city, past a holiday appearance. No parade was arranged. The arrival of the Taft special at 5:40 o'clock was signified by the tooting of whistles and firing of bombs. A reception committee awaited the candidate at the Omaha station. He was taken for a short automobile ride and then returned to his car for dinner. The South Omaha meeting was reached by automobiles and the return was made shortly after 5 o'clock to the audience in which Senator Doolittle had been invited to an immense audience.

In his South Omaha speech Mr. Taft, after reviewing the labor decisions he had rendered, made this conclusion:

"That is not all. I had down the rule that labor not only had the right to union, but that it ought to unite in order to gain capital on a level that working men had a right to demand; that they had a right to raise their voice in order to secure action which would not be embodied in their laws; that they had the right to the employ of their employees in concert if they choose; that they had the right to appoint officers who should direct them in what they should do; that they had a right to withdraw from association with those with whom they had controversy; that they had the right to induce all their co-workers to withdraw from such association, but that they did not have the right to induce the property of their employers or to declare a secondary boycott against them.

"These decisions I claim have been the main cause of the trouble which has arisen since. The railway union used that decision in a case before Judge Adams against the Great Northern, in which an injunction was issued forbidding them to follow the decisions of their chiefs. They went into court and asked my case and Judge Adams withdrew his injunction. The same thing happened down in Cincinnati under Judge Thompson. In a similar case with respect to the Typographical union.

"I have not denied all my cases to labor unions. I have had also to turn against corporations. As one of the court, I would the opinion in the first important anti-trust case that was decided and I laid down the principles upon which all my anti-trust prosecutions are now conducted. I did not apologize for anything when I said that the legality and the expediency of men permitted to carry on their organizing in the perfection that they have reached, to raise the funds that they have raised, to bring about trade agreements to enable them to take the responsibility upon their employees. It is largely due to the law which I laid down as to the other case.

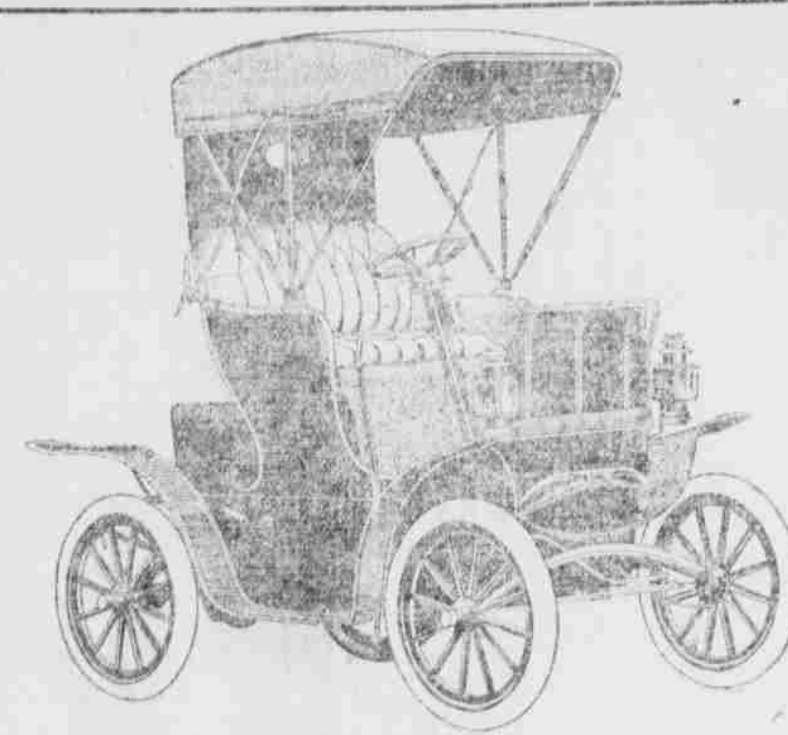

"I am glad to be the father of the judgments. I cannot imagine that, as to the question about that, and if I were on the bench and the question called for an injunction I would issue it, but I deny that I conducted any business before we were elected. I agree that many men have been injured which have been made by the law, but I believe that they have been injured without notice and the judge has not sufficiently considered it. Therefore I have been to court in requesting that we eliminate all these without notice, but the republican convention did not desire to do so, but that it was not into mind for any change in the law except a temporary injunction may issue with notice and require that when a temporary injunction is issued with notice, it shall not have effect for more than thirty days, leaving as the law may have a hearing within thirty days before the court in which they complete, and of which they might complete. Because the judgments have been issued temporarily without notice and the time for hearing has been lost, a temporary injunction will be given away with it is an offense and might not be permitted and I am not defending it."

The Taft speech in the Amphitheatre tonight was a recitation of what he has frequently said about the merits of the trade and the general records of the democratic and republican parties. The entire Taft itinerary for the day included at the following places: Hastings, Winnetka, Pawnee, Grand, Falls, Cheyenne, Auburn, Teton, Rock, Nebraska City, Plattsmouth, South Omaha and Omaha. The Taft special left Denver at 10:30 a. m. and arrived at Omaha at 10:30 a. m.

Mr. Taft will reach Denver tomorrow night.

ORGANIZED HELP FOR SAILORS

Representatives of Dozen Nations to Meet in New York in Interest of Seamen of Every Sea.

(Special Correspondence Morning Journal.)

New York, Sept. 29.—(Times-Herald.) thousand miles for over three thousand miles, representatives from a dozen nations are today bound for this city to plan organized help for the sailor on every sea of the globe. For the first time in history an international conference in the interest of millions of men who live on the ocean has been called by the American Seamen's Friend society, and from almost every country in the world delegates are hurrying here to be present at the gathering on October 4th. America will be represented by authorities on the interests of seamen from more than a dozen of the society's branch stations in the leading ports on both oceans.

To outline and propose remedies for the problems with which the great international body of seafarers is faced on every shore of the world today is the object of this unique congress.
The world-wide waves of the crime, the beating master, the shipping agent and ship owner will be attacked by men who have made a life long study throughout the globe of these vital elements in the life of Jack-aboard.
The treatment of Jack in the navy of the nations as well as the merchant marine will come up for consideration.
Efforts will also be made to perfect the establishment by which the American Seamen's Friend society is aiming to keep in touch with the suffering body of sailors through their forty-five stations all over the world.

From Great Britain, E. W. Matthews, secretary of the British and Foreign Sailors' society of London, is on his way to give the conference the benefit of his investigation in a leaflet of the globe, which he has just completed. The problems of the sailors from Mediterranean ports will be reported by T. J. Irving, who is bound for New York from Naples, where he has for years been an active worker for stranded seamen. Charles Walkman, of the society's station at Valparaiso, has today arrived in this city and will be followed by other leading workers in the ports of Germany, Holland and Sweden.

From the Western Hemisphere, excess workers for the American Seamen's Friend society from Montreal along to Buenos Ayres are already enbarked on their long journey to the American conference. Tucker, who has succeeded a long line of strikers workers at the branch in the last few years, which for several years the society has battled to maintain against the ravages of yellow fever, is to report on conditions surrounding Jackaboard in South America today. Another experienced worker in Argentina has begun the long voyage from Buenos Ayres. Reports will also be received from the other South American stations of the society at Valparaiso, Montevideo and Rosario.

New Orleans, Gloucester, Seattle, Norrish, Vancouver, Newport, New Pawnee, Boston, Charleston, Albany and Portland, Ore. will send representatives to tell the congress of workers their lines of looking out for the welfare of the sailor. The experiments of the society's agents in the ports of every seafaring state in this country to provide for shipping entitled to the seamen on the shores of the United States will all be discussed and new suggestions offered along these lines.

"As we were the first to place and maintain stations for the benefit of the world's sailors outside of our country, we feel glad at the opportunity to call this first international conference to help the seamen of the world," said J. McTherson Hunter, secretary of the American Seamen's Friend society at its headquarters, 74
Wall street, today. "No class of men

RAMS For Sale

We have at our ranch at Shoemaker, N. Mex., 300 Rambouillets, 250 Delaines and 50 Hampshires. These rams are bred by the Butterfield Livestock Co., at Weiser, Idaho, one of the best breeders in the west, and are as good as can be found anywhere for wool and mutton qualities combined; the 50 head of Hampshires are strictly a mutton type, and any one breeding to sell all their lambs should see this stuff. Those coming to the ranch should catch No. 1 from the north and No. 10 from the south; stop at Shoemaker; phone out to the ranch and we can be there in 20 minutes to meet them, as we are only 2 miles from the station. Will have 100 head of these rams at Albuquerque during the fair, so

COMMISSION HAS JURISDICTION

Commerce Law Provides For Regulation of Foreign Trade Passing Over the American Roads to Seaboard.

Washington, Oct. 2.—That the interstate commerce commission has jurisdiction over the foreign commerce of the United States while moving between seaboard and interior points is set forth in a letter written by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Lane, to the Federal chamber of commerce, of Chicago, Wash., and made public today. In his letter Mr. Lane says:

"The interstate commerce act is by its terms applicable to the transportation of property shipped from and to the United States to a foreign country and carried from such place to a port of re-shipment or shipped from a foreign country to any place in the United States, and carried to such place from a port of entry, either in the United States or in an adjacent foreign country."

"It thus appears that the commission has jurisdiction over the foreign commerce of the United States while moving between the seaboard and interior points. It is not necessary to follow the route for the inland movement to or from the seaboard must be filed and published, in order to comply with the provisions of the law. A contrary holding would deprive the commission of all jurisdiction over foreign commerce if port rates only were required to be published, the proportion of each carrier being included in the published rates."

"The commission is urged to issue its ruling on the ground that it is doing serious injury to the Pacific trade. If this were not so it would not be that among the commission's ruling, it would argue against the jurisdiction of the law which the commission is charged to enforce. However, there is good authority for the position that the ruling in question is not the cause of the distress in the Pacific trade. The Interstate Commerce Commission, yet when interested with respect to the interstate condition of the Pacific trade it does not seem to them to place the responsibility with the interstate commerce commission."

Mr. Lane adds that for some time the Pacific trade has been in difficulty. The Interstate Commerce Commission, yet when interested with respect to the interstate condition of the Pacific trade it does not seem to them to place the responsibility with the interstate commerce commission."

Do You Open Your Mouth Like a young bird and gulp down what overfed or indigestible food is offered? Do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people give a day's thought to knowing what they swallow whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes that a perfect right to know is a knowledge of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine. This he feels he can not afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior quality be appreciated.

last night for Point Richmond, Cal., was recently transferred as master mechanic of the Santa Fe shops at that place.

J. H. Schellenberger, James F. Mc-Farland, and W. W. Moore are here from Logan, N. M., to attend the irrigation project proposed for Logan.
They report harvest in that part of the territory in good shape and little damage by frost.

John W. Sullivan, superintendent of the coal mines at Higan, N. M., is in the city for the fair. Next year he expects to come via the New Mexico Central, which by that time will be one of the old established railway routes of this section.

B. R. Crago, of Loraine, Ohio, master mechanic of the Lake Terminal railroad shops at that point, has arrived in the city to visit his son, Robert Crago. Mr. Crago, Sr., will remain here during the congress, and fair.

Mr. and Mrs. McHart, of Washington, D. C., are in the city to remain during the irrigation congress, and are stopping at the Alvarado. Mr. Mc-Hart is a special assistant United States district attorney of the District of Columbia.

At 8 o'clock tonight there will be a demonstration of the various good qualities of the new fire escape which has recently been erected on the Bar-nack building. Fire Chief Burdick, assisted by other firemen, will take part in the demonstration.

The prospects for the big industrial parade next Tuesday are most encouraging to Colonel John Borradale, grand marshal of the event. The big parade, which starts at 10:30 a. m., will be the greatest display of the kind in the history of the southwest, and new additions to the column are being received daily. Elaborate efforts in decorating and devising floats are prompted. The full formation and line of march of the parade will be published in a few days. Colonel Borradale says that no one should wait for an invitation to be represented, but should make arrangements and send in the entry at once.

The Colombo theater has installed the latest up-to-date talking and singing moving picture machine. This machine is making the grand hit of the year in the east. New York City has endorsed it as being the best thing that was ever invented. The Colombo theater deserves great credit for this innovation, the expense of which is something enormous. This is the first machine of the kind to be introduced in the southwest, but the Colombo management is confident that Albuquerque will support the best going, and in this they seem justified by the generous support that has been accorded its efforts in the past. There will be no raise in prices, the old schedule of ten and twenty cents pro-vailing.

Chief Justice Mills, of Las Vegas; Judge McPhee, wife and daughter, of Santa Fe; Judge Pope and wife, of Tomball, and Miss Hall, Mrs. Pope's sister, are the guests of Judge Ira A.
Abbott during the irrigation congress.

Mrs. Juanita Baca de Pino, fifty-eight years of age, wife of Narciso Pino, died yesterday at the family residence, 704 West Gold avenue. The immediate cause of Mrs. Pino's death was reported trouble. Mrs. Pino was a member of one of the most prominent families in the territory and resided in Albuquerque for several years.
Mr. Pino, the deceased husband, is a member of the firm of Narciso Pino & Brothers, general merchants of Albuquerque. The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock this morning in Sacred Heart church. Rev. P. Tommasini, S. J., will officiate at the services. The funeral service will leave the residence at 8:30 o'clock. The remains will be shipped on train No. 1 tonight to the family home in Coahuila, where interment will be made.

Can there be any stronger proof of-the following, surely answer the question.

Mrs. E. Adair, of 517 South Edith St., Albuquerque, N. M., says: "Whenever any symptoms indicated kidney trouble or so, I was not certain, but nevertheless from reading about Doan's Kidney Pills I was given a desire to try them. I suffered severely from pain between and just below the shoulder blades. While on my feet or sitting around, I did not feel the slightest inconvenience, but when I would sit down, the pain would assert itself and at times was very severe. The use of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills brought a relief and that warrants my having a high appreciation of this medicine."

WHAT THE VISITORS THINK OF ALBUQUERQUE'S EFFORT

Here is an editorial from the El Paso Herald of Wednesday that will make every loyal Albuquerque man feel some proud of himself and his home city:

To read about the magnificent exposition at Albuquerque, N. M., in connection with the National Irrigation congress, and about the great success of the congress itself, makes the loyal El Pasoan very proud of Albuquerque and the southwest, but does not add to his self-satisfaction concerning El Paso's achievements. Albuquerque has set a pace that El Paso will have to stretch out to follow. One of the best things that could happen to El Paso is just what has happened—to have a railroad of her ability, live citizens go to Albuquerque and see for themselves what it means to do a good job well.

The southwest has never before seen anything to compare even remote with this Albuquerque display.
Every effort of El Paso in the past to show what the southwest possessed in the way of resources, and what she can do in the way of industrial production, looks indescribably puny and amateurish, beside Albuquerque's great exposition. Let every El Pasoan, for his own soul's chastening enter go to Albuquerque and see for himself what a city of 15,000 or 18,000 people can do, or else read the accounts of Albuquerque's doings in the Herald and try to imagine what it is all like.

Read about the exposition, the elaborate exhibits, the perfect preparation, the care for details. A solid year has been put in on the preparatory work for this week's gathering, and the results show that the work was done with wisdom and persistent application. El Paso, several times as large as Albuquerque, looks at such an undertaking. There must be something in the make-up of that Albuquerque bunch that we lack. Live all good business men, we will not rest until we have found out the secret and applied it to our own problems.

PUEBLO IS STILL ON TRAIL OF THE CONGRESS

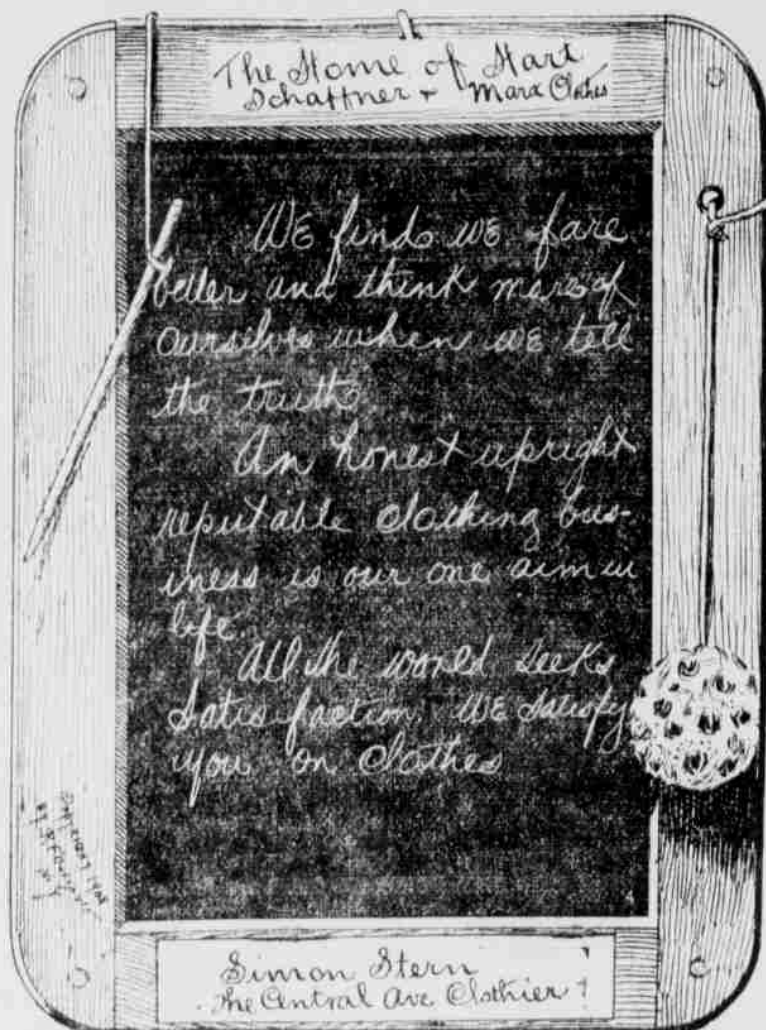

Boosters, Banners, Badges
and Buttons to Say Nothing of a Band Working Overtime on the Home Stretch.

If there is any one who thinks Pueblo has retired from the competition for the next session of the National Irrigation congress, he should "come out of it" quickly, for Pueblo boosters, banners, badges and buttons are going to be more in evidence today than ever before and the Colorado crowd will make a last determined effort to win out. It has strong opposition, but it is not at all daunted and will be in the fight right to the last with every Pueblo man certain up to a late hour last night that he would go home with irrigation congress written all over him and crowned with success. Pueblo is prepared to give the irrigation congress an object lesson in irrigation by pumping that will be well worth seeing. A gigantic plan is now being worked out for raising underground water in the Arkansas valley by means of hydro-electric power and in this way it is expected to bring a vast area of land under cultivation that is now above the water line of the Arkansas river. There is widespread interest in this method of irrigation throughout the west and it is becoming more and more important as further use is made of the water in the streams and the land that can be irrigated by gravity canals is reclaimed.

The Pueblo project involves millions and will be the first large effort of the kind to be attempted. Pueblo proposes an irrigation project for the delegation through the valley and to provide entertainment of a very practical and useful nature for the delegates should the congress go there.

The Pueblo men have worked hard here and have won many friends for themselves and their enterprising city.

Wyoming Mines Reach Agreement.
Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 1.—A conference here between miners and operators of coal mines ended this afternoon, with the acceptance of a wage scale by both sides, ending the dispute begun at Denver just a month ago and on account of which the Wyoming miners quit work for three weeks. Under the new agreement the scale of wages is to be the same as last year, except that tipple men receive $2.60 per day instead of $2.57.
The next conference is to be held in Cheyenne on July 1, 1909, to fix a scale to take effect September 1, next year.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York

Prominent among the delegates to the Irrigation Congress from Utah is John Henry Smith, of Salt Lake, who is one of the presiding elders of the Mormon church, and one of the most prominent men in the state. Mr. Smith was one of the best friends of the irrigation cause in Utah last year, when the delegates from this city were making a bid for the next meeting of the congress. "The people in Utah are contented and prosperous," said Mr. Smith last night, "and at present I do not see any problem confronting them which they will not be able to meet and deal with in an intelligent and satisfactory manner. We have forty delegates here from Utah, many of whom are taking a prominent part in the congress. But for the fact that there are several conflicting attractions in session at the same time with the congress, we would have a much larger representation here. The state fair is now on in Utah, the bankers' association in Denver, and the trans-Mississippi congress convenes in a few days at San Francisco. However, we have a large enough delegation to make a noise like Utah always does."

Mr. Smith leaves for Salt Lake today, where he will attend the annual session of the Mormon conference, and from there goes to San Francisco to attend the trans-Mississippi congress, to which he is a delegate.

A number of beautiful paintings, descriptive of the wonderful Yosemite valley in California, are on exhibition at the Convention hall and will remain on exhibition until the end of the Irrigation Congress. The pictures are works of art, drawn by famous artists, and are among the best paintings ever exhibited outside of the large institutions of the big cities. Two large paintings by Mr. Jorgensen, a California artist, are conspicuous. One shows a general view of the famous Yosemite with its sheer walls of granite, rising over three thousand feet above the floor of the valley. The beautiful water falls for which the valley is noted are portrayed in an artistic manner. The second painting, which is also attractive, is a great deal of attention is a view of El Portal, the terminus of the Yosemite Valley railroad at the entrance to the Yosemite National Park. The scene is featured in the building, showing exceptionally clever work on the part of the artist, and creates a desire in the part of those who know the picture, to make a trip to the Yosemite at this season of the year, when it is at its best.

The picture of the big tree, "Sentinel Giant," thirty-three feet in diameter, and estimated to be 7,000 years old, is also on exhibition. Credit for bringing the beautiful collection of pictures to Albuquerque is due to Mr. C. W. Lehner, superintendent and traffic manager of the Yosemite Valley railroad, who maintains headquarters at Merced, Cal. Mr. Lehner accompanied the exhibit to this city and will remain here until after the congress, to which he is a delegate. Mr. Lehner is being assisted in the work of explaining the history of the pictures to Mr. N. H. Wilson, also a delegate to the congress from the Yosemite Valley.

One of the most varied exhibits to be found at the exposition grounds is that of Valencia county, which has an exhibit which includes everything from daisies, lilies and English woads to sugar beets and cantaloupes. The exhibit is a wonderful showing of the varied products of Valencia county, prominent among the grapes on exhibition are varieties of all descriptions, almost every variety known to be in existence, and a number of semi-tropical productions. The exhibit is well worth seeing, and should not be overlooked by visitors to the exposition. E. L. Walden, of Belton, is in charge of the exhibit and was one of the chief speakers in gathering.

A Plowing Mill Running.
One of the cleverest exhibits on the grounds is in the forestry building, where the plowing mill and mill company is running a small sized plowing mill and work and floor factory. An operator is kept at work during the day and the display is attracting much attention.

This is one of the best theatrical attractions Albuquerque will see this winter, full of fun and music and beautiful stage effects and the seats will go fast.

According to a telephone message received from Espanola yesterday, the citizens of the valley have decided to commence drilling operations with a hope of reaching artesian water. B. A. Mayo, a well driller of Tularosa, commenced work yesterday with a big combination rotary drill and expects to strike water at a depth of two thousand feet. He is prepared, however, to drill an additional thousand feet in the event that an artesian flow is not struck at the first depth.

Charles Robert Stone, late of Steamboatville, O., died at 8 p. m. yesterday at the age of 24 years at St. Joseph's hospital. He is survived by three sisters and two brothers, his sister Mrs. Pearl Connolly, being with him at the end. The funeral will take place from the Immaculate Conception church at 9 a. m. Saturday. Father Mandulak officiating with interment in Santa Barbara cemetery.

Col. C. W. Mott, general immigration agent of the Northern Pacific railway, who was to have had an address before the Irrigation Congress yesterday, is down on today's program for a different subject than originally announced. Mr. Mott will speak on "There is Nothing the Matter With Our Country."

EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE CAUSES SMALL BLAZE

The second street fire department and the Highland auxiliary department responded to an alarm turned in from box four in the business district last night at 11 o'clock. The fire proved to be a small blaze in one of the "red hot" lunch stands on Central avenue between Third and Fourth streets and was caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove. The proprietor of the stand was kept so busy handing out "red hot" that he neglected his stove with the result that it exploded. The flames spread quickly and but for the timely arrival of the firemen would have consumed the stand and several small booths adjoining. But a few dollars loss resulted from the fire.

LAS CRUCES AND ROSWELL THE WINNERS

COMPETITIVE DRILL PLEASES BIG CROWD

Company A of National Guard and Company A of Military Institute Take Trophies at the Exposition Grounds.

Company A of the New Mexico National guard of Las Cruces and Company A, cadets of the New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell, were declared the winners of the competitive military drill, which closed in front of a huge crowd at the exposition grounds yesterday afternoon. The winners were announced by Lieutenant Hobson of the 21st infantry, U. S. A., a brother of Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson of Merrimack fame and the announcement was greeted with deafening applause.

The drill was one of the prettiest things ever seen here, and received salutes of applause from the spectators. The trim and natty young cadets from the Agricultural college at Las Cruces and the Roswell institute and several companies of the National Guard took part in the competition. The cadets especially were the recipients of much admiring comment, executing the various movements with perfect precision. The Roswell institute performed by the Roswell boys to the accompaniment of a medley by the institute band, while not a part of the competition, made a tremendous hit, especially when the band struck up the "Merry Widow" and the cadets swung their rifles over their heads in a fashion which reminded one slightly of the familiar Merry Widow hat effect. The cadets in their trim gray uniforms and white gloves made a beautiful spectacle and their drilling showed magnificent training, training which would do credit to West Point. They are all well set up, erect young fellows who have mastered the manual of arms and field movements perfectly.

The guardsmen also made a splendid showing and for a time it was anybody's guess who would get the trophies. The decision of the judges was, however, quite satisfactory to the grand stand. Vociferous cheers from the Roswell boys and Company A of Las Cruces greeted the announcement of the prize winners.

The drill was followed by the ever thrilling field maneuvers of the troops of cavalry from Fort Wingate under command of Captain H. G. Winder. A spectacle which never fails to attract the crowd with its flashing of sabers, its thundering of hoofs and blare of bugles. Troops I and K whose members are all seasoned campaigners of the plains, have reached a high degree of efficiency and their performance yesterday was a magnificent and an inspiring one.

It is a performance which never fails to catch and hold the liveliest interest of the onlookers and is always one of the very best features of the show.

PRESENTATION OF TROPHIES TO BE MADE TODAY

The trophies and prizes, a handsome set of them, which will go to the winners of the competitive drills, will be made at Camp Curry tomorrow after the parade this morning at 10 o'clock. General J. Franklin States army will make the presentation of the magnificent loving cups given by Governor Curry and a number of other New Mexico men, and a long list of handsome special prizes and trophies will also be awarded.

BEAUTIFUL FLAG DRILL BY SCHOOL PUPILS

Preceding the drilling of the troops yesterday a unique feature of the entertainment was a flag drill by the pupils of the city and county public and denominational and special schools. Massed together to form a huge national flag, and dressed in the several colors were about 420 pupils from the county and city public schools, 120 from the United States Indian school, 20 from the Menaul Mission school, and about 200 from the Catholic parochial schools—nearly a thousand in all. The huge uniforms of the Indian school boys, who held aloft silver stars fitted perfectly into the color scheme, while the girls with white dresses and boys with red caps and blouses completed the tricolor effect. The pupils formed at the court house, marched to the fair grounds, reformed there and marched to the grand stand amid loud applause.
