BRANDEBURG TAFT DEFEND SEIZED FOR FORGERY AS JUDGE

MAN WHO SOLD ALLEGED
CLEVELAND LETTERS

Prisoner Insists Documents Are Genuine and Published With Authority; Claims He's Victim of Conspiracy.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Dayton, O., Oct. 22.—An hour before a train for New York City here this afternoon, Broughton Brandeburg was arrested by local detectives on the charge of forgery and grand larceny. A telegram from the New York city police department asked the local department to hold him. He is alleged to have sold to the New York Times a letter, which he alleged to have been written by Grover Cleveland, in which the dead statesman predicted the election of Taft and which letter is now declared to have been a forgery.

Brandeburg was locked up as the amount of his bail was not fixed. In a statement issued tonight Brandeburg says he had the proper authority from Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Hastings, co-executor of the Cleveland estate, before he sold the article to the Times and furthermore claims it is reasonable to suppose that any sane man would fairly infer the utterance of an ex-president of the United States for $120. At the time he was arrested he said he was on his way to New York City to give District Attorney Jerome additional evidence.

He says the attack was made by those interested in effecting the influence of Mr. Cleveland's utterance, the object being to secure a dramatic climax just before election.

Through his attorney, Brandeburg issued the following statement:

"It appears that I am to be the Captain Decoy of the campaign of 1908. I have been peculiarly alone and am still alone in my fight, although ready to welcome the great body of support which the facts warrant me. If it does not come, I shall go on alone.

"Is it reasonable that for the sake of $120, that would have been a profit after weeks of work, any sane man in my position would have falsified the utterance of an ex-president of the United States? Is it reasonable when persons had seen the handwriting in my possession when I presented this statement for the three articles for sale in March, and when I sought the proper authority from Mr. Cleveland and the co-executor, Mr. Hastings, before I sold the article, that there could have been anything but fair dealing in my method? Why was the alleged evidence that the document was fraudulent not produced when the document was challenged and why has it never been produced save in secret in the grand jury room when the document was challenged? I know every scrap of evidence in the matter at once. Why have my witnesses been intimidated? Why is an indictment found, if one has been found before my case is in? Yesterday I wired the district attorney that I had new evidence to present on Friday and as I stepped aboard the train for New York to fulfill my agreement I am arrested as a fugitive from justice. I have been informed by Joseph Williams and myself, informed of the district attorney of my purpose and destination on this journey.

"This allows those who are interested in effecting the election of Mr. Cleveland's utterance to secure a dramatic climax just before election. The entire matter is all fitting nicely with Colonel Patterson's plan, announced before the election, to publish that it must be discarded by any means. It remains to be seen if the American public is to be deluded on one hand while I am victimized on the other.

Habeas corpus proceedings are now being brought.

JEROME'S OFFICE DEMANDS
HEAVY BAIL FOR WRITER

New York, Oct. 22.—A telegram was received at police headquarters tonight from Chief of Police P. J. A. Alaback, of Dayton, Ohio, saying that Brandeburg had expressed his willingness to return to New York without requisition papers. Later another telegram was received that an effort would probably be made by friends of Brandeburg to obtain his release tomorrow on bail. Upon this second message the district attorney's office requested the Dayton authorities to demand large bail. Detective Norman Fitzmaurice, of the district attorney's office, will leave for Dayton tomorrow to bring Brandeburg here.

DEATH CLAIMS KING EDWARD'S MESSENGER

London, Oct. 22.—Lieutenant Arthur Jermyn Montagu Jeppson, who had been the king's messenger since 1895, died today. Jeppson had expressed his desire to be buried in the parish church of St. Andrew in 1895. In 1904 he married Miss Anna Head, the daughter of the late Admiral Head, of the Admiralty.

Lieutenant Jeppson was entitled to join the Stanley expedition through the interior of the east, Lady Jeppson, who paid $5,000 for that privilege. Jeppson came out of the expedition with credit. His health was broken by African fever, however, and he went to California to recuperate. There he met Miss Head, but her father was opposed to the marriage, and it was not until about twelve years later that Miss Head, accompanied by her mother, proceeded to London, where the wedding took place. Miss Head was said to have had a fortune in her own right of nearly $1,000,000.

REPUBLICANS ACCUSED OF FRAUD

ELECTION ROLLS PADDED

Chairman Connors Fears
Republicans Are Going to Vote
Dead Men and Outlanders

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

New York, Oct. 22.—Charges were made today by W. J. Connors, chairman of the democratic state committee, that the republican registration rolls were padded with names of dead men and outlanders from Canada. He said that when the registration rolls were being made, the republican committee had appointed a state committee with former Justice Alton B. Parker as chairman. Mr. Connors said that the law committee could be trusted to carry out its duty, but that the republican committee had not done so. He said that the republican committee had padded the rolls with names of dead men and outlanders from Canada. He said that the republican committee had also padded the rolls with names of men who had been convicted of crimes. He said that the republican committee had also padded the rolls with names of men who had been convicted of crimes.

The local socialist leaders sent a letter to the chairman of the Taft movement asking permission to let his talk to the Taft crowd twenty minutes, and in return offered to let Taft talk twenty minutes before the Debs meeting. The request was refused.

SPIRITUALISTS DECLARE WAR ON "FALSE MEDIUMS"

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 22.—At the convention of the National Spiritualists Association this afternoon steps were taken to put out of business all "false mediums" who practice their profession on pretenses of having communication with spirits. The action taken by the Portland, Ore., association in this regard was endorsed. It was decided that any medium who is unable to establish spirit communication is beyond reproach, and to be exempted from this order.

DESTRUCTIVE GALE IN PHILIPPINES

Three Hundred Dead in Path of Storm; Cholera Breaks Out Among Refugees.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Manila, Oct. 22.—Militant reports indicate that the storm of October 12 in the Cagayan valley was the worst and most destructive within the memory of living inhabitants of the valley. The official figures are not yet available as many places have not been reached from which reports are being received. The number of dead will reach 300.

There was a heavy typhoon, and a terrible rain throughout the valley and in the mountains. The storm was a heavy one, and in many places rose to a height of thirty feet, sweeping everything before them in their path to the sea. Hundreds of animals and houses were swept away by the waters.

At Apur, which was almost completely under water, the American residents, headed by Lieutenant Clark, and Chief Postmaster Foss and Engineer Clark, formed a rescue brigade which rescued many of their house and their belongings. The government has dispatched a guard unit to investigate conditions and organize relief.

It is reported that cholera has broken out among the refugees.

FIFTY-FIVE EARTHQUAKES IN ONE DAY AT MANILA

Manila, Oct. 22.—The recent seismic disturbances which have been going on in the city of Manila in the past three days, seem to have come to an end. Fifty-five separate shocks are shown in the seismograph records for the past twelve hours and of the total number of shocks recorded since the disturbances began, the report extending over a period of thirty hours, two are classified as "strong" and "destructive," and the rest as "moderate." Seismographic reports from various sections of the island show that the disturbances were most strongly felt on the east coast of Luzon, but no damage is reported. Experts express the belief that the focus of the whole disturbance is located in the Pacific ocean close to the coast of Luzon.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Thursday, W. Va., Oct. 22.—Talking to a big crowd of miners and laboring men at this place today, W. J. Bryan, after pleading for the election of the democratic ticket and the candidate for congress from this district, plunged into a discussion of the democratic platform. He particularly referred to the plank relating to currency, to the banks, deposits and labor. Recently a bank failure occurred at this place and it was said that many farmers had suffered considerable loss thereby.

On the labor question Mr. Bryan said that eight years ago the republican claim was that the laboring man had a full dinner pail. "That, my friends," he said, "was the slogan, the emblem, the banner. I saw pictures of the full dinner pail wherever I went, but I have not seen any this year. I have just heard of one man who tried to carry a dinner pail in a parade and that was down here in this state, and they arrested him for it."

"How about 14 to 12 a voice was heard to say."

"They said, my friends," quickly retorted the candidate, "the chances are 16 to 1 that you won't vote the republican ticket. That is, eight years ago that was long as the laboring man has a full dinner pail he need not think. Now, if that is a good argument what an amount of thinking that laboring man ought to do. Now, the papers announced that the officials of the New York Central road had gone out of their way to notify the employees that they could expect a wage increase of 10 per cent. Now, if my man attempts to coerce you I want to suggest a solution. You make him give bond as to how much you are going to get and how long it will take. I want you to be sure that you get the money before you give up your bright light."

BRYAN FINDS CORDIAL WELCOME IN WEST VIRGINIA

Hinton, W. Va., Oct. 22.—Enthusiastically received everywhere, W. J. Bryan today carried his war into West Virginia. The hue of travel took him through the Kanawha and New River valleys and he was afforded an opportunity to speak to many farmers and miners. Having had but four and a half hours rest following his campaign in Ohio yesterday he was out on the platform as early as 7 o'clock talking to the farmers.

Passing on into the coal district he devoted much attention to the labor question and while not specifically referring to Mr. Roosevelt's letter concerning the defeat of President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, he reported his warning to laboring men not to be coerced by their employers into voting against their will. The most notable demonstration occurred in Hinton, W. Va., where he was escorted through the streets by a number of uniformed marching clubs, holding flags by bands of almost every building was decorated with flags and bunting. From the moment he left his special train across the river until he reached the platform on his way to the coal district, his speech was devoted to a general discussion of the issues of the campaign.

Mr. Bryan had a "rough" reception. A picturesque feature of the stop here was the erection of a grand stand on the side of a mountain, having a back ground of an immense forest with a portrait of the candidate, over which was the words "what the people rub."

He spoke of the fact that in most of the industrial and mining centers he had visited or passed he saw women standing along the streets waving their aprons. "I am of the opinion," he said, "that if I don't go on a tour like this time I surely will on an apron wave."

Early this morning Mr. Bryan was handed a copy of a newspaper containing President Roosevelt's criticism of himself and several Gompers concerning their position with reference to the labor question. Shortly afterward he began the preparation of a reply, but his time was taken up during the day that he found it impossible to complete it.

Mr. Bryan left at 10:25 o'clock for New York over the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad in his special car attached to the regular train.

GOULD WESTERN LINES EFFECT CONSOLIDATION

Denver, Oct. 22.—The merger of all the lines of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad was made effective today by the filing of a mortgage of $100,000,000. The mortgage secures a new issue of bonds. The sum of $100,000,000 will be used for refunding outstanding indebtedness, $25,000,000 to aid in the construction of the Western Pacific railroad, now being built from Salt Lake to the Pacific coast and the remainder for extension of old and construction of new lines. The mortgage was recorded in every county through which the road passes in Colorado. Coincident with the filing of the mortgage here came the denial of the report that E. H. Harriman would assume control of the Western Pacific road. The statement was made that the Rio Grande owns two-thirds of the Western Pacific stock and that it would be impossible for Harriman to take over the Western Pacific without at the same time purchasing the Rio Grande.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 22.—One of the worst snow storms that ever occurred in the west is now at its height and has completely demoralized the service of both the Canadian Pacific and the Great Northern railroads. The storm started last night before midnight and has continued with unabating violence. Ten inches of snow has already fallen, accompanied by a terrible gale. Snow has blown into the railway cuts and in many cases is over ten feet deep.

The Canadian Pacific ordered snow plows to the scene and they are busy at work clearing the tracks but little progress can be made until the snow ceases to fall. The expressmen from Vancouver and other western points are completely stalled and westbound trains are held up. No trains from the east have reached the city today and it is uncertain when they will get there. Efforts to back the train failed and finally another train was sent to pull it out.

The Canadian Northern train, left Edmonton at the usual time and proceeded all right until near noon, a short distance east of Vermilion when it was into a snow bank and was held there. Efforts to back the train failed and finally another train was sent to pull it out.

ALBUQUERQUE - NEW MEXICO

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

The republican county ticket, completed by the night session of the convention, was given to full in our columns yesterday morning, and it is not necessary to say to any one who has been here long enough to become fairly acquainted with the people of the county, that it is composed throughout of first class men—men who are worthy of the position to which they have been nominated, and who will make honest, capable and faithful public officials.

But while all the selections are good, the taxpayers of the county are to be especially congratulated upon the fact that the convention named for reelection the members of the present county board, who have given the county, since they took office, a careful, honest and economical administration, which stands out in such striking contrast to the rule of incompetency and plunder to which we were subjected for years before, that their nomination ought to be ratified by the unanimous voice of the people of the county, without regard to party.

ABOUT FREIGHT RATES.

The movement by the merchants of Albuquerque to secure more favorable freight rates on the Santa Fe road, is one that is entirely reasonable, and at the same time one which the railway company, from the standpoint of its own interest, should promptly acquiesce in.

As the railway situation has changed itself in this territory, the Santa Fe road commands all the business of Albuquerque, and it is therefore much more to its interest to assist in the building up of a big jobbing trade at this point, than at points where it must divide the trade with two or three other roads, and yet the business men of Albuquerque complain that the Santa Fe does not give them as favorable rates as it gives to El Paso, where the road has only a fraction of the total business. If that complaint is well founded, it shows not only an act of injustice to Albuquerque but also a very short-sighted business policy by the part of the road's policy to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

The business men of Albuquerque do not ask for any special favors or advantages over other points on the line, but they think they are entitled to a "square deal," and they are entitled to the same. The interstate commerce commission will come with them in that contention, and for that reason, if the officers of the railway will not give them what seems to be a slightly "square" justice, they will carry the case higher up.

TWO KINDS OF DEMAGOGUES.

The Springfield Republican says there are two kinds of demagogues in politics, one being what Senator Lodge referred to as the "other" variety, an "attractive" demagogue, who appeals to the passions of the people for political purposes, appealing to the best manly qualities of the soul for the sake of votes, calling upon them to defend of social order, to gain a election, these are the kind of demagogues that form of demagogues which critics of democracy have always associated with it, and which seems in fact, to be the demagogue that democracy most easily falls into.

But if there is a democratic demagogue, there is also an aristocratic demagogue. Senator Lodge, at this moment, has become its foremost exponent. If the democratic demagogue is prone to array class against class, the aristocratic demagogue is, also, prone to array nation against nation, playing upon international jealousies and animosities among people, for the sake of the purpose of another point, and for the sake of votes. The aristocratic demagogue has seldom been better illustrated than by Senator Lodge himself in his present

Temple speech, when he got down on all fours with Hobson and backed forth a tumult of horrors concerning the sinister purposes of Japan. The American fleet was on its way to Japanese ports, where it was heartily welcomed as we have seen, but at this particular moment, the senator, in words that were doubtless calmed at once to Tokyo, found a ready tongue for war-scare oratory.

WALTER SCOTT'S HOME.

William K. Curtis, in one of his letters from Scotland, thus describes the home of Sir Walter Scott:

Abbotsford, the celebrated home of Sir Walter Scott, is about two miles by rail south of Edinburgh, four miles from Melrose station and Melrose Abbey, and a part of the village of Duns, which, when Scott resided here, he called "Duns of Duns," from Scottish friends.

It is a large, irregular structure of rough stone without any particular design, and made up of architectural imitations from ancient castles and palaces that are not loved and admired. It stands a hundred yards or so from the banks of the River Tweed, a clear, cheerful stream which shines an incessant song of joy and freedom as it dashes over its rocky bottom at the foot of the terrace. The house is situated in a hollow, and is so surrounded by trees that only the chimney may be seen from the street, and the approach to the main entrance is through a narrow passage. Indeed, there is no main entrance, although there are several doors through which the different apartments may be reached from the outside.

FAILED TO MAKE GOOD.

From the Washington Herald: "The winter is the climax of the year. It is the month of supreme delight. Its atmosphere is so exhilarating as to excite and its indulgence reflect the stimulated flow of good, red blood through earth's every vein. There is no such thing as haggard or struggling along in October. One must move, one must respond to the tang in the air, the persuasion of the turquoise skies, the glim of the honest, fresh and open sunshine. We may one must respond to these glorious influences if one does not, one's vitality, mental, moral and physical, in part or collectively, is sadly below normal, and should be inquired into."

In the vicinity of the capital city of the country October may deserve the foregoing elaborate puff, but out this way she has thus far been good. In fact, she has thus far been good in such a loud and lady-like manner that the other months might be pardoned if they should refuse to exchange calls with her.

A WISE PRECAUTION.

A good many persons incline to the opinion, or at least entertain the suspicion that hatching time for the democratic ticket in this county is being put off from day to day for the purpose of working up a deal with some of the parties who are suffering from a sore throat by the action of the republican convention. We are not prepared to say whether or not that opinion has any foundation in fact, but at any rate, before going into such a deal, it would be wise to make sure that it wouldn't cause more sore throats than it would furnish players for outside the party.

LOOKOUT FOR THE COMET!

M. Camille Flammarion, the famous French astronomer, prints a letter to the European edition of the New York Herald, in which he gives an interesting description of a new comet, which has appeared in the northern sky, and which, as seen at midnight in France, is about half way between the pole star and the north. It is not yet visible to the naked eye, but will be about the middle of November.

We are a "new" comet, because the professor tells us it is not shared, and is a celestial object who may have wandered into our neighborhood from some other universe. Regarding some of its characteristics, as described by the distinguished writer, it seems to be quite unique, even among comets. For instance, he says in a photograph taken, September 29, it presents a regular saucer-like appearance, oval at the top, the tail cylindrical. Thanks to the clearness of the night, the camera was directed on the comet for three hours, and twenty minutes from a quarter past midnight until twenty-five minutes past one, following its course closely.

"Let us now compare the photograph of October 1—only two days later. That was taken at from twelve minutes of eleven o'clock to five minutes of one, that is to say, two hours and seven minutes. What a stupor, the transformation! From the head of the comet, in the form of a fan, a new brilliant jet has burst out, spreading further away in the immensity of the heavens. It seems to be no longer the same heavenly body. A veritable detonation has been effected."

We have known for a long time that the tails of comets are opposite the sun and are formed by a repelling force coming from the sun's rays. And it is suggested that there are probably not a few who would be interested in the question, "How to get the H's?"

An exchange thinks the Pittsburgh couple who married "in fun," and now find the knot to be real, may possibly slip out of it on the idea that it isn't lawful for idiots to wed.

around the sun, but at the same time its constituent molecules are subjected to a contrary force which succeeds in changing and directing them. In view of this molecular metamorphosis, which is fixed here by the photograph, it is easy to conceive that comets have been broken in pieces and entirely metamorphosed in space like the H's comet."

WHICH?

The question in its last analysis comes down to which of these two is likely to give the country the better administration. To that there can be but one answer. Mr. Taft has no important public positions to be sure of, and has always and uniformly made good. His judgment decisions have been assisted, chiefly in those who have not read them, by his ability to administer the law as he found it, which is all a judge can do. The distinguished career in the court, and subsequently in the cabinet, has reflected credit upon himself and his country. If the simple question, "Has Taft made good?" could be submitted to the electorate, the vote in the affirmative would be well nigh unanimous.

On the other hand, we have Mr. Bryan, as a speaker, he is a success, as a stump speaker, he has no equal in this country as a public man. As a man of integrity and pure motives, his record is impeccable. But he is admittedly lacking in executive experience, so far as constructive ability is concerned, he has with great frequency suggested various panaceas for the country's ills, which have always heretofore been repudiated at the polls. One day it is to be a fourth abandonment of the Philippines, a third government ownership of railroads, and now limiting the output of trusts—all at not visionary, at least so far ahead of the times as to be for the present impracticable.

ARE WE LOSING GRET?

The Earl of Minto, writing in a British review, expresses the fear that certain portions of the community are losing Gret. He finds grave evidence of a decadent spirit and decline of vitality in all classes of the English nation, and most of his indictment would seem to apply to other civilized, rich and expanding peoples. Do the men and women of this age make light of pain, resolve in victory over adversity, regard the performance of duty as the supreme virtue? Is industry honored as it was by our forefathers, and are children trained, as they used to be, to respect authority and admire integrity, high-mindedness and useful service? The distinguished writer has no difficulty in finding and citing signs of moral retrogression, and he argues forcefully for better discipline in the school and at home, for greater attention to moral training and character building.

TROUBLES OF THEIR OWN.

It may be true, as said by the Cincinnati Enquirer, which is mildly favorable to Taft, that Blaine did not in 1884 "face such widespread apathy and discord as Mr. Taft is called upon to overcome." It is also true that the democratic party is contending with an extent of discord of which it knew nothing in 1884, a discord none the less dangerous because it is quiet and due to individual business reasons rather than to open disputes about platform doctrine.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

The following is in regard to the value of advertising in "life":

The republican national committee is using full-page advertisements in the magazines to burn its presidential candidates. There is no doubt that advertising brings results, so the pulling of the party is not to be surprised if they find before the box marked as follows:

FOR PRESIDENT.

N. William Howard Taft.
(Send your ad in Business Weekly.)

The New York newspapers have recently told that a woman who is divorcing her husband on account of an "adultery" aided with her husband and the "adultery" and the lawyers on both sides of the case, and the whole party attended the whole matter of the divorce with unduly and pleasant. "Get the divorce? Why, what difference does it make whether she gets it or not?" asks Winifred Black, who is something of a sociologist, "she never been really married," said Miss Black. "The wedding ceremony is a matter how it happened, even now a woman of such disposition, a kept wife, even if it is performed a ceremony."

The building code revision commission in New York recommends a restriction on the height of buildings to 125 feet for those facing parks or plazas and 200 feet for other structures except in cases where the street is less than 45 feet wide, when the limit should be 125 feet.

The Evening World is running an interesting discussion with its readers on "How to live on $15 a week." And it is suggested that there are probably not a few who would be interested in the question, "How to get the H's?"

An exchange thinks the Pittsburgh couple who married "in fun," and now find the knot to be real, may possibly slip out of it on the idea that it isn't lawful for idiots to wed.

Buffalo Bill, the only original, is saving the small boys of southern Arizona wild.

Manuel Juarez, a native resident of Bismarck, was crushed and killed under a falling wall the day following the big fire in the southern Arizona town, the wall being toppled over by a high wind which was blowing.

Over a hundred gold miners have left Bismarck and Warren, Arizona, for the search of a sensational gold strike at Sylvan, N. M., seventeen miles from Bismarck. The new mining town already has a newspaper and a population of several hundred and a bid to be one of the big camps of that section as the rich ore shows no signs of playing out.

It is owing only to a kind Providence that the Phoenix, Ariz., steam laundry is not a wreck and a hole waiting the streets of the new Jerusalem. The proprietor, in carrying the boiler room late at night found a hole curled up in front of a roaring fire in the furnace with an inch of water in the boiler. The hole was pushed through a window just in time to escape four or five bullets from a six-shooter and the fire was hurriedly banked, narrowly averting an explosion. But at any rate the hole got warm.

CRUISERS TO ESCORT ABRUZZI AND BRIDE

High Sounding Title for Steve Elkins If He Visages to Rome.

Rome, Oct. 22.—The Italian cruiser Piemonte has been ordered to await the duke of the Abruzzi at New York either the cruise of the Italian navy will be dispatched. It is understood the two warships will escort the duke and his bride to Italy. The statement is also made that no member of the Italian family will attend the wedding ceremony of the marriage of the duke and that when Senator Elkins visits Italy he will be given the title of "chevalier of Anagnino."

DUKE FINIS BROTHER OPPOSED TO WEDDING

Naples, Oct. 22.—The Duke of the Abruzzi had a conference with his brother the Duke of Aosta, here today.

The discussion between the two brothers concerning the marriage of the Duke of the Abruzzi to Miss Elkins is said to have been very animated, both strongly adhering to their views. The Duke of Aosta has always held that the members of the royal family should marry within their rank.

The Duke of the Abruzzi left for the north, nobody, as usual, knowing his destination.

BIG COTTON GIN FOR INDIANS

One of Most Important Steps Yet Taken by Bureau of Indian Affairs at Sacaton, Arizona.

Plans and specifications for a $25,000 cotton gin and cotton storage plant to be erected by the government at Sacaton are now in the hands of Architect J. M. Creighton having been approved by government experts at Yuma, and will be finished within the next week, says a Phoenix paper.

This is one of the latest and most important steps taken by the agricultural department of this country for the fostering of an industry of this nature. It is understood that the plans of the government are to take cotton work at this plant, thus giving the ranchers at the Arlington and Buckeye sections an opportunity to market their product. The erection of this plant which will be begun as soon as possible is along the line pursued by the government in its experiments with Egyptian cotton in the west.

The building at Sacaton will be constructed with a concrete basement and foundation, and two stories of lumber, similar to cotton gins in the south. All the floors will be 28 by 12 feet in size. In the basement the seed cotton will be stored and also some of the baled cotton. Another part of the basement will be occupied by the baling and other machinery for developing the power.

The first floor will be entered from an incline into the seed cotton storage room which will be 16x20 feet. Next to this will be a 16x20 room for the gins, three in number. It is stated that only one gin will be installed at present. Beyond this will be the cotton press room, 12x12, occupied by three presses. Adjoining will be the room for the storage of baled cotton, in size 12x20. An elevator will connect this room with the one in the basement also used for the storage of the baled cotton.

The gin to be installed is the Minger or pneumatic system with Minger vacuum box and belt distributor. This system is said to require less power than any other as it has continuous suction. The cotton in passing through the vacuum box if wet is dried out and thoroughly cleaned. The operation of a gin will be considerable of a curiosity in this part of the United States and the plant at Sacaton will attract much attention. From the success of the experiment of the government depends the future of the cotton industry in Arizona. It is certain that this section will grow Egyptian cotton approximating in quality that in the valley of the Nile. The entire country will profit by the ultimate success of this new industry.
