TRAGIC DEATH OF HARVEY W. WATTERSON

YOUNG LAWYER KILLED BY, FALL FROM HIGH WINDOW

Son of Veteran Editor of Courier-Journal, His Sad Fate Creates Profound Sorrow in Louisville.

New York, Nov. 11.—Harvey W.
Watterson, a lawyer and younger brother of Henry Watterson, editor of the Memphis Courier-Journal, plunged to his death from the nineteenth floor of an office building at 37 Wall street late this afternoon. His body shot briskly accidental. Mr. Watterson's hat and coat were on his closed desk. Presumably he had attempted to lower the window and either stumbling over the radiator, which was in front of the low sill, or losing his footing in some manner unknown, pitched forward and down to death on the roof of the building below. Mr. Watter-

Shortly before 4 o'clock, after having discussed business matters with a clerk, Mr. Watterson remarked that he was going home, and passed from the library through the room of F. R. Baag, the managing clerk, into his

The body was removed to the Waterson home after the coroner had declared that the death of Mr. Waterson was due entirely to accident.

Mr. Wing said that Mr. Watterson had been a member of the firm about three years. He was sure, he said, that death was due to an accident.

Watterson was born and reared in Louisville, Ky. When about twenty-one years old he came to New York and joined the Chicago Tribe as a student there he taught in a night school. Shortly after becoming a member of the Wing, Russell & Waterson law firm he ran for the assembly on the Tammany ticket in an upper west side district, but the district was strongly republican and he was defeated.

The bond between Mr. Watterson and his son was an unusually strong one, their interest in politics and national affairs being mutually keen, and the father's satisfaction at the steadily advancing career of the son was able to undertake a journey to New York, and Miss Harvey Watterson and her sons asked to bring the body to Louisville, which probably will be done on Friday or Saturday. The funeral probably will be held Saturday, but this has not been definitely decided.

He leaves no children. His wife, before last marriage, was Miss Alice Curran, of New York.

ARIZONA BOYS TO HIT VARSITY LINE HARD

Line on the Work of the Football Giants from Tucson Will Be of Interest to Local University Team.

The members of the football team of the University of New Mexico who have been giving a good account of themselves this season are bending all their energies toward getting in the pink of condition for the Thanksgiving day game here with the University of Arizona boys. The Tucson Star thus tells of the way the young giants down in the cañon are preparing to meet the locals.

The university has employed a football coach, H. B. Galbraith, who leads the boys from now on for the Thanksgiving game with the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque. Every football player and enthusiast at the University of Arizona rejoices at Galbraith's taking charge of the gridiron. He is a professional at the game, has played for several years in eastern universities, on four prominent teams, and last year assisted Warner to coach the Carleton Indian squad. He is already putting a snap and vim into the work on the university field that shows what will happen to the New Mexico lads when they meet the University of Arizona after three weeks. Galbraith began work Friday evening, and his tactics have convinced the boys on the field that he is a master of the new game of football, and will develop a winning team.

A football rally was held in assembly hall Friday at noon to discuss the situation. Dr. Babcock, Professor Tolson and several students made enthusiastic speeches in support of football, urging the men not already practicing to come out and help the university win the biggest football game it is likely to play for some time. The students contributed liberally toward a fund for employing a coach, and the enthusiasm aroused shows that football will be a success for the University of Arizona this season.

A strong football squad is being rapidly developed. Robinson, the crack halfback from southern California; Blades, who has been starring as fullback; Rice, the swift and sure quarter; and end, Burnham, captain in 1907 of the university football team, who have been working out steadily, and many old men who have so far not had time to play, are now coming out in their suits. Callaway, redoubtable old time guard, took his place at left Friday evening. Carpenter, three years ago the speediest end on the eleven of the Texas Agricultural college, has been out a few evenings, and Frank Rice, the best center that ever snarled the ball for Arizona, will be out Monday. Hatcher, whose past work on the gridiron for the University of Arizona, gives him a sure place at quarter, and Andrews, a heavy man and a veteran at the game, will get out next week. There is a lot of good material out every evening tossing the pigskins, from which the rest of a victorious team can easily be picked.

Everything points towards a bad defeat for the Albuquerque boys. As an enthusiast said: "University of Arizona will set the example and not let New Mexico take us in."

Saturday's Game.
In a rather ragged exhibition of the "new game," Arizona defeated the Tucson Indians last Saturday in a football game on the university gridiron. Score, 42 to 0.

The playing of both sides was an improvement over that exhibited in the game a week ago, but team work was poor on both sides. Individual plays made most of the goals. The Indians played an old style game of straight line bucking. University of Arizona's work showed considerable practice in end runs and fakes. The new tandem play worked with fair success and interference was generally good.

The game was characterized by high playing in the line and a number of penalties were imposed on the varsity for fouls and off side plays. The Indians' line was weak and the university boys repeatedly went through and downed the Redmen back of their own ten.

The whole back field of the University of Arizona eleven, Blades, Robinson, Burnham and Gressett, did especially strong work, as did Carpenter and Rice on the ends. Blades plunged through for big gains on fake punts and touchdowns, though somewhat injured, did excellent work on the same plays. The longest gain of the game was made by Bill Woodel, who took Carpenter's place on left end in the second half. He sprinted with indifferent interference for a forty-yard gain on a forward pass.

The university used some of her best men only in the first half. It was evident from the first which way the game was going and several men were tried out in the second half. Rice as tackle and Callaway at left guard, were out for the first time. Hatcher 20 minutes, Hatcher, referee, Bonillas, umpire.

CRISIS IN ORGANIZED BASEBALL

Eastern League and American Association Bolt National Commission; May Go With the Outlaws.

(By Morning Journal Special Teamed Wire)

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Eastern League and American Association representatives called a session at the annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs in this city today by withdrawing from the session. The two battling factions had presented a resolution asking that they be given control of the national board of arbitration and that the Western and Southern leagues be removed from Class A to Class B.

This resolution was voted down by the meeting. President O'Brien, of the American association, then petitioned that the American association and the Eastern league be allowed to withdraw from the National association and requested permission to negotiate with the American and National leagues for a special working agreement.

The petitioners insisted upon immediate action, and when their petition was overwhelmingly defeated, the two factions withdrew from the meeting. They declined to make any statement other than they did not propose "to be governed by a great number of English hangers." Their next move, it is said, will be to confer with the two big leagues—the American and the National—with the hope that they may be given permission to set up a separate organization—really a third major league. Rumors which could not be confirmed had it that the American association had not given up all plans of invading major league territory, and that designs were held on Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago. If there is anything in these rumors it goes without saying that the American association has nothing to hope for from the National association.

"We have done nothing more serious than to withdraw from the meeting," said President O'Brien, "for we were in no connection with the National association in our action. We have not become outlaws."

Technically it was the intention of the eastern and American factions to reduce the board of arbitration from seven to five members and to obtain three of the five votes, that aroused the greatest antagonism in the convention, there not being more than five ballots out of the total of twenty-two, favoring the measure. The small leagues supported the Southern and Western leagues in the fight against the reduction in classification of these two organizations, and the vote was easily against the resolution. When the two big leagues had asked for everything they wanted and had been refused, they bolted the meeting. Efforts were made to carry the old of the Pacific coast league for the season, but it could not be learned that this move obtained success.

While these events were moving forward the National commission transacted business on its own account. It was unofficially stated that the Chicago National league team would be recommended for admission by the method of depositing of tickets in the world's championship series.

A separate meeting was held today by the Western league, at which factions prevailed. The cities of Wichita and Topeka, Kan., were voted into membership in the Western league, increasing the number of cities in that organization from six to eight.

Dick Cook, formerly of the Boston National league team, will lead the Topeka club, and George Habel, the first baseman of the Chicago White Stockings last summer, will head the Wichita athletes. Considerable routine business was disposed of. Those present were: Norris O'Neill, president of the league; J. H. Higgins, of Des Moines, W. A. Bourke, and

Police Looking for Gentleman Whose Initials Are G. H. W. and Who Hails from Massachusetts.

Any gentleman having from a town beginning with the letter P, in the state of Massachusetts, and whose initials are G. H. W., can recover a more or less valuable hand catched by applying to Chief of Police McMillin.

The grip, an innocent-looking traveling bag, was found early yesterday morning in the back yard of the Alford-Graham residence on West Central avenue.

It contained the following articles: One Angora goat skin rug, one blue flannel shirt, one rusty tin, looking as if it might be used for almost any purpose from a butter knife to a bomb.

The grip was delivered at the police station. The police are inclined to believe that the grip belongs to some traveling gentleman who planned to take the train to leave in June, forgetting the grip.
