TWO GOVERNORS SEND MESSAGES TO LEGISLATURES OF RESPECTIVE STATES

They Are Folk of Missouri and MacDonald of Colorado--Folk Takes Strong Ground For Reforms.

RAILROAD AND INSURANCE CONTROL-PRIMARY NOMINATION

MacDonald Would Sustain President in Anti-Trust Work.
Said Finances in Good Condition and Wanted "Insurrection" Debt Paid.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 3.—Governor Folk, in his message to the legislature today, embodied a number of changes relating to life insurance companies. Among others was a standard policy for all life companies, prohibiting discrimination and relating to the election of directors and requiring non-resident companies to keep at least 75 per cent of premiums received from Missouri policy holders invested within the state. Also he recommended the enactment of a law making it a crime for anyone for compensation to lobby with members of the legislature. Railroads, he said, should be required to carry passengers within the state for two cents a mile. There should be a primary state law for the nomination of all elective officers, including United States senators; every corporation should be required to furnish each stockholder with a balance sheet of its business once a year; there should be a privilege tax on corporations doing business in the state; the state should regulate the charges of public service corporations; the people of each city and town should be authorized to purchase and operate their own public utilities. He touched upon a number of other subjects, including child labor, the suppression of bucketshops and the liquor traffic.

CONSTITUTION GRANTED TO THE PEOPLE OF TRANSVAAL

Crown Appoints Governor Who Appoints Upper House.

LOWER LEGISLATIVE HOUSE IS ELECTED

London, Jan. 3.—In a parliamentary blue book issued today giving text of the letters patent and instructions relating to the new transvaal constitution Lord Elgin in the preamble addressing Lord Selborne states: "In announcing to you the transmission of the instrument for promulgation I am commanded by the king to express through you to the people of the transvaal his earnest wishes for the peace and prosperity of the country under the new constitution. He desires to add, on behalf of his majesty's government, that they have advised his majesty to grant immediate responsible government to the transvaal in full confidence that under the free instructions established by this constitution the prosperity and contentment of the transvaal and its people will be permanently assured, and with the hope that the steps now taken will in due time lead to the union of the interest of the whole of his majesty's dominions in South Africa." The following are the leading provisions of the letters patent: A governor and commander-in-chief of the transvaal will be appointed by the imperial government. The legislature is to consist of a legislative council (upper) and a legislative assembly (lower). The legislative council shall consist of fifteen members to be summoned in the case of the first council by the governor, and hold office for five years, unless before that time a law shall have come into effect providing for the election of members of the legislative council. The legislative assembly shall consist of 66 members, whose qualification is that they are registered as voters in the colony. Every white male over 21 years of age shall be registered unless he has committed grave offenses. All members must swear to bear true and faithful allegiance to the king. Chinese labor is to be completely abolished in one year after the meeting of the legislature.

PENNSYLVANIA MEDICALS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET.
York, Pa., Jan. 3.—At the annual banquet of the York Medical society today Dr. L. H. Betz, the newly elected president, announced that during the coming year the people of Pennsylvania would hear addresses from the most distinguished medical men in the United States, who had been retained to lecture on a variety of interesting surgical and medical subjects.

GOVERNMENT'S BIGGEST THIEVES ARE LIVING HIGH IN A SOUTHERN JAIL

GREENE AND GAYNOR, AWAITING A REHEARING OF THEIR CASE, ARE STAR BOARDERS IN MAISON PRISON—LIVE IN LUXURY AND HAVE PECULIAR PRIVILEGES.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 2.—"When serving time or waiting for a new trial without bond, do not fail to visit the Greene and Gaynor hotel, located at Mulberry street, one of Macon's most fashionable thoroughfares. Caters only to the most exclusive trade."

The hotel is the fifth county jail and the star "boarders" are Capt. Benj. D. Greene and Col. John F. Gaynor, who, after many exciting experiences as fugitives from justice in Canada, were returned to this state, convicted last March of swindling the United States government out of hundreds of thousands of dollars in connection with work of improvement upon the Savannah harbor, and sentenced to terms of four years in the penitentiary in addition to a fine of over $500,000 each. They are now awaiting a hearing upon their appeal for a new trial, set for January 5.

Occupy Hospital Ward.
Messrs. Greene and Gaynor are sole occupants of the hospital ward on the second floor of the Macon prison. The large room, illuminated by electric light, is furnished with comfortable cots, chairs and tables, piled high with newspapers, magazines and books. The stairs leading to the apartments are near the front of the building and thus it is never necessary for the occupants to mix or mingle with the common herd of criminals.

Despite recent assertions of officials that Messrs. Greene and Gaynor have lived strictly within prison rules, it is generally known in Macon that they have enjoyed liberties prisoners convicted of much lesser offenses never enjoy.

During the past base ball season this town were interested spectators at base ball matches at Central park. A sporting writer for a local paper one day referred to the lusty cheering done by the former government contractors, whereupon, it is said, they immediately resigned from the "rooters' club." Perhaps they didn't care for notoriety.

Greene and Gaynor have often been seen walking or driving upon the streets of this city, accompanied by obliging bailiffs. Colonel Gaynor has gone so far as to make excursions into the country. Captain Greene, the older of the two, appears more retiring in disposition. He is said to spend a good portion of his time in the back yard of the jail, either walking for exercise or seated beneath a tree, poring over a French novel.

In explaining the appearance of Colonel Gaynor upon the streets, an official of Uncle Sam is quoted as follows:

"Mr. Gaynor is a sufferer from asthma of the worst type and is also afflicted with locomotor ataxia. On account of his condition we have driven him out into the country where he has been able to inhale the pure ozone, but he has always been closely guarded."

Curiously was naturally aroused as to how the men occupied themselves in the evening. One night angry citizens stormed the jail for the purpose of securing another prisoner. Soon after their arrival Messrs. Greene and Gaynor were seen on the outside of the prison mingling in the edge of the mob. It was suggested that they take advantage of the excitement of the moment and escape. They laughed at the idea, so it is related.

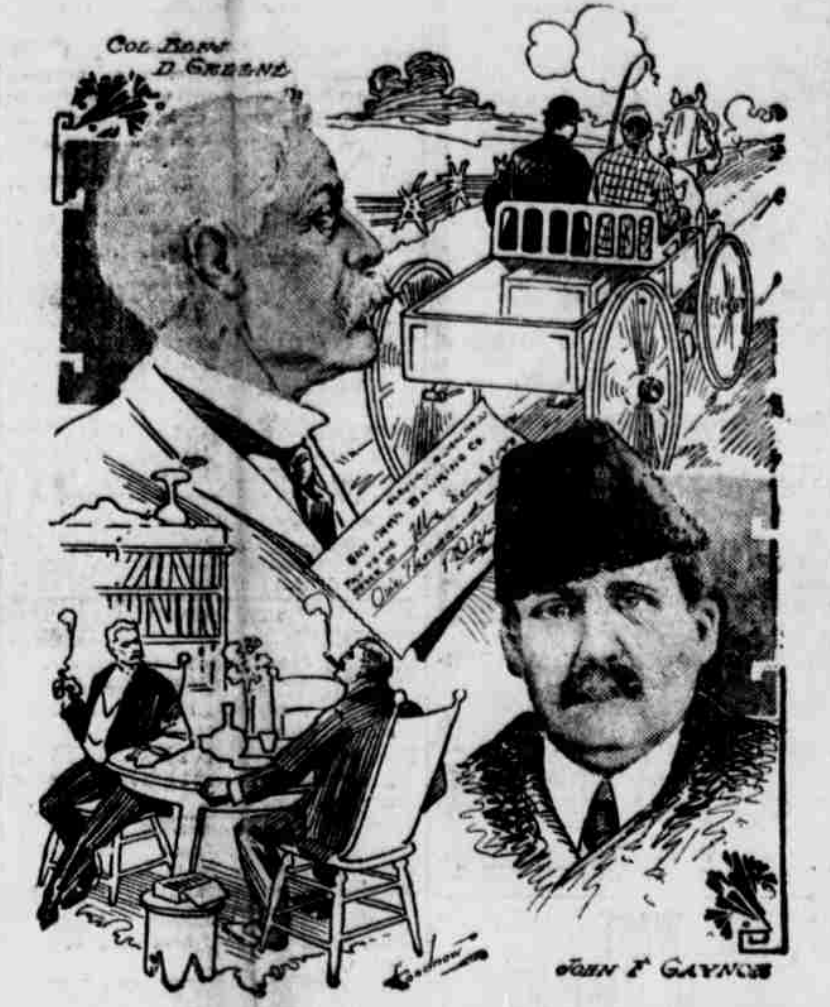

Mrs. Greene and the wife and grown son of Colonel Gaynor spend much of the time in Macon, stopping usually at a leading hotel, and are frequent visitors to the jail. Young Gaynor has entered to exclusive circles of society among the young men.

$1,000 Checks.
Financiers state that checks for amounts as high as $1,000 have been placed in circulation, bearing the Greene or Gaynor signature.

The two have their meals sent regularly from one of the best hotels in the town.

FOX HUNTING STOPPED IN IRELAND FOR PRESENT.

Dublin, Jan. 3.—The members of the famous Dubhallow (cock) Fox hunt have received notice that hunting has been stopped for the present. Quite recently a large number of valuable hounds were poisoned to the death. This act is attributed to the presence at the meet of some landlords, to whom exception is taken by the peasants, and the master considers it undesirable in the circumstances to continue the hunt. A number of armed men, with masks on their faces attacked the house of a farmer at Athenry, a few days ago and after firing a few shots decamped. The farmer has been boycotted by the united Irish league for dealing with landgrabbers. Shots were fired into a police barracks at Castlesland, county Kerry, a few days ago but no person was injured. A large number of tenants on the estate of Lord Headley near Killybegs, are under notice of eviction for nonpayment of rent. To carry out the evictions a large force of police will be necessary as the tenants will make a stubborn fight for their homes. Several agrarian outrages are reported from North Cork, where proceedings are being taken against the tenants of Lord Kenmare for nonpayment of rent. The branches of the united Irish league in Galway and Mayo, though proclaimed by the government are still active and all settlers and landgrabbers are strenuously boycotted.

Japan Buys Largely of Cordite But Only to Replenish Her Store.

RUSSIAN POLICE PREFECT KILLED IN PETERSBURG

Havana, Jan. 3.—Governor Nunez says he will take steps to end gambling, which has become most flagrant here. Havana is wide open, according to Nunez, and the town of Bejucal he describes as "Monte Carlo."

JAPAN IS STOCKING UP ON SUPPLY OF EXPLOSIVES.

New York, Jan. 3.—A cable dispatch to the American reports that the Japanese government has bought large quantities of cordite in London, which is being shipped to Japan as rapidly as the manufacturers can deliver it. It is stated that Japan is rapidly replenishing her reserve of explosives, which were exhausted by the war.

ANOTHER POLICE PREFECT KILLED IN RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 3.—Major General Von Der Launitz, prefect of police of St. Petersburg, was shot and killed by a young man at the Institute of Experimental Medicine this afternoon.

BRITISH BATTLESHIP IS BADLY DAMAGED.

London, Jan. 3.—Complaints are being made in naval circles that the British cruiser Brilliant has touched a rock but no information has reached the public as to the extent of the injury. It has leaked out, however, that the vessel is so badly damaged and strained that she will never be fit for service again. She is now in Bermuda, where she arrived with 2,000 gallons of water in her double bottom. If she should be pronounced fit to cross the Atlantic, which is not supposed to be likely, she will be overhauled in Chatham dockyard but everything at present points to the fact that she will not again take her place in the firing line. The Dominion is a comparatively new vessel of 18,000 tons displacement and was built at a cost of $5,250,000.

OVER 3000 NETS ARE REPORTED DESTROYED.

St. John, Newfoundland, Jan. 3.—The British cruiser Brilliant has arrived here and reports that over 3,000 herring nets are frozen in the ice in the Bay of Islands and will become a total loss. The colonial cruiser Fiona has succeeded in cutting a portion of the herring fleet out of the ice but it is feared there is no chance for the nets. Most of the fishing smacks have arrived here and have gone into winter quarters. Everything is quiet in the banks. The captain of the steamer Active has been fined $400 with an alternative of six months imprisonment for conveying colonists beyond the marine boundary to join American vessels.

CONGRESS AT WORK AGAIN RECESS OVER

House Session Lasted Only Fifteen Minutes Before Adjournment.

SENATE TAKES FORAKER'S RESOLUTION ON TROOPS

Culbertson Speaks Against It and Foraker For It—Committee Turns Down Salary Raise.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The house convened today after the holiday recess and adjourned after a fifteen minutes session.

SENATE CONSIDERS THE NEGRO SOLDIER SITUATION.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The senate resumed its sessions at noon today. Foraker's resolution providing for an inquiry into the discharge of the colored troops of the Twenty-fifth infantry was called up. Culbertson addressed the senate on the subject and said that the conduct of the negro soldiers at Brownsville had been very irritating.

He related that on August 4, the day before the "shooting up" of the town, a criminal assault had been committed by one of the soldiers on the wife of a reputable citizen, and no arrests had been made for this crime. In defending President Roosevelt, Culbertson said that the fact that the troops were negroes had nothing to do with their discharge. Confusing as the legal question involved was, he said the president's constitutional authority and the authority given him by the articles of war conferred in such cases, made the action legal. He declared in closing that the people of Texas would defend the honor of their women with their lives, and advised strongly against any action that would lead to a conflict between the races.

Foraker followed with an argument in favor of his resolution, and at the conclusion of his remarks the senate agreed to postpone further action on the resolution until next Monday.

SENATE COMMITTEE IS AGAINST SALARY RAISE.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington says: The senate committee has turned down the proposition of the house for more salaries for members and has even cut out the increase for the speaker, the vice president and the members of the cabinet.

PRESIDENT SENDS IN TWO NOMINATIONS.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The president today sent to the senate the nomination of Edward T. Sanford, of Tennessee, as assistant attorney general, and of Brigadier General J. Franklin Bell to be major general.

COMMISSIONERS TAKE UP ROADS

Supervisors Ordered to Report on Alleged Strictures in Barrels.

The new board of county commissioners met in the commissioners' room at the Bernalillo county court house this morning. A large amount of detail affairs was presented to the commissioners, only a small part of which was adjusted before the meeting adjourned for the noon hour.

Attorney E. V. Chavez appeared before the board with a judgment rendered by the district court for the services of certain road supervisors. He did not state the amount of the judgment, which is to be paid out of the judgment fund set aside by legislative act for the purpose of paying judgments against the county.

Chairman Alfred Grunfeld, of the board, referred him to the probate clerk and the district attorney to learn the condition of the judgment fund and if there is sufficient money to satisfy the demand.

Probate Clerk A. E. Walker stated this morning that he did not know the status of the judgment fund, as he had received no report from the county treasurer and ex-officio collector. "It will probably be two weeks before we get an accounting from that office," he declared.

The matter of the alleged obstruction to the opening of a certain road ordered in Bernalillo was brought before the board. The road supervisors of that precinct were advised to investigate the alleged obstruction to the road opening and report to the commissioners at the earliest possible time.

The commissioners took up outstanding accounts against the county, but there is not much likelihood that these will be adjusted before the meeting adjourns this afternoon. The board will probably meet again tomorrow morning.

NEVER WILL KNOW EXACT NUMBER WHO

Were Killed on Rock Island. Officials Would Make It Small.

WRECK ON UNION PACIFIC OCCURS IN NEBRASKA

Hill of Great Northern Says Never Knows But Each Journey Will Be His Last.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 3.—It is still impossible to say exactly how many persons perished in the Rock Island train wreck at Alma, Kan., yesterday, as a number of bodies of Mexicans were completely destroyed by the burning of the smoking car. The conductor says there were seventy-six Mexicans on the train, and it is feared that forty-four of these were killed, together with four other passengers and the negro train porter, making a total of forty-nine.

Officials Minimize Loss.
The Rock Island officials here today insisted that but thirty persons were killed and thirty others seriously injured in the collision of two fast passenger trains near Alma, Kan. The officials declare that the statement attributed to the conductor of train No. 29, that he had killed seventy-six Mexicans, is a mistake. They assert that at most there were not over thirty-five Mexicans aboard the ill-fated train. The known dead are four whites, a negro porter and twenty-five Mexican laborers. There are twelve seriously injured in the hospital here. Some may die. At Alma today, in the coroner's inquest over the victims, responsibility was placed on John Lyons, the boy telegrapher, who was present as the principal witness.

WRECK OCCURS ON UNION PACIFIC WITH FATALITIES.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 3.—The Union Pacific overland limited and the Low Angeles limited, trains Nos. 2 and 3, both bound for this city, collided last night at Brule station, twenty miles west of North Platte, in a blinding snow storm. The Los Angeles train crashed into the observation car in the rear of the overland train. There were thirty passengers in the observation car and one, E. W. Hastings, of New York, was instantly killed. Mail Clerk Worley, of this city, sustained a fractured skull, and a passenger named Jennings was scalded.

TRAVELER TAKES LIFE IN HIS HANDS, SAYS HILL.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—A dispatch from Washington credits the following statement to J. J. Hill, of the Great Northern: "Of late I never start on a railway journey without considering how it will end—whether it will not be my last. The enormous increase in the volume of traffic has caused it to be a common practice on many of the lines to allow three trains on a block at the same time. Practically they run on sight."

WESTERN FRUITERS IN CONVENTION.

Kansas City, Jan. 3.—The Western Fruit Jobbers association commenced their third annual convention in the Midland hotel yesterday afternoon. The attendance is large. After an address of welcome to the delegates by the Hon. H. M. Meadeley, mayor of this city, the different committees were appointed. Then followed the annual address by the president, W. Anderson, of Topeka, which was discussed by C. H. Williamson, of Quincy, Ill., R. R. Scott, of Minneapolis, H. S. Kruden of Duluth, Minn., T. D. Turner, of Oklahoma City; H. M. Jones, Sioux Falls, S. D., and others. A. P. Decker, Jan., of Oklahoma City delivered an interesting address on the future prospects of the trade and W. M. Royce, of Lovoe, Utah, read a paper on "Competition and Co-operation." The advertisement was the subject of an address by C. E. Walker, of Kansas City, and Southwest and its relation to Fruit and Produce was spoken of by T. D. Turner, of Oklahoma City. The delegates are the guests of the Kansas City Fruit and Produce trade and a number of ladies have arranged an elaborate program of entertainments during the convention which will last until Friday night. The banquet will be held tonight when C. H. Williamson, of Quincy, Ill., will act as toastmaster.

NEW GRAIN RATE WENT INTO EFFECT YESTERDAY.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 3.—The new grain rate throughout the southeastern states which went into effect yesterday was adopted by the various competing lines tapping that territory in order to equalize the rates with those prevailing in the north and northwest. For years the grain handlers have been complaining, as to the disparity of rates through the various gateways of the south and their resultant effect on making a price on shipments and it was with a view to give the grain handlers some redress that the new rates were adopted. The general opinion is that the new rates must get a trial before those interested in it can form an opinion as to its merits. The dealers are for the most part of the opinion, however, that the change will not disturb the present arrangements of shipments in Louisville, as it will be higher in some places and lower in others, and will be equated only the length of the haul being figured in the rate.

Greeley, Colo.—For New Year's day this section received a raging blizzard of snow and wind, making it almost impossible for pedestrians to find their way for short distances and absolutely dangerous for those who venture out on the plains away from settlements. For two days the sky had been hidden. At noon on New Year's day snow began to fall, continuing until 4 o'clock, when five inches were piled on the ground. A high wind from the northwest set in, causing the snow to drift badly. Cattle on the range were in good condition and able to withstand the storm. Farmers in this vicinity have gathered their best crop, but many in the western end of the county have a considerable portion still on hand, which bad roads will now prevent hauling to the sugar factory.

HEARST MEN OUSTED FROM THE INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE.
New York: Following a period of revolt that had its inception in part before the election, the Gilsey house clique of the Independence League and W. R. Hearst were completely overthrown New Year's day, when the revolutionists met at the state headquarters and elected a complete set of new officers for the state committee.

Availing themselves of that clause in the league's constitution which provides for the annual election of officers on the first Tuesday of every January, thirty-six members of the state committee, called together by pre-arrangement, met just before noon on that day and gave themselves over to the task of ousting the men that Hearst had placed in command of the organization and who had become distasteful to the rank and file.

As a matter of fact, the man who stole a march on the opposition and finding the latter wholly unprepared, they encountered no difficulty in completely dominating the situation.

IS MANIC NIGHTLY FOR AN HOUR AT MIDNIGHT.
Kent, Ohio: Having madness, which comes upon him every night at midnight and which passes off in an hour, leaving him rational, has resulted in the commitment of John Hastine, 35 years old, to the Massillon State hospital.

Hastine has a wife and three children in Poland. He has been working to provide funds to bring them here. It is the man's memory of something which happened at midnight in the old country, the authorities say, that drives him insane, and it is that which prevents his return, it is believed. What the "something" is they cannot explain.

PARDON GRANTED BEFORE PRISON IS EVEN ENTERED.
Jackson, Miss.: For the first time in history a pardon has been granted a man in this state convicted of crime before he had entered prison to serve his term.

R. L. McLendon, a young attorney of Greene county, Miss., was given a full pardon, issued by Governor Vardaman. McLendon was convicted of manslaughter three years ago in Lawrence county, and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. The crime of which he was convicted was the killing of a livery stable keeper of Greene county, who, McLendon claimed, had wronged his wife.

McLendon appealed from his conviction by the lower court to the supreme court, and that court affirmed the lower court's decision. After the opinion had been given out by the supreme court, Vardaman granted him a full pardon, believing McLendon was justified in his action.

GREAT RESULTS EXPECTED FROM THE SILENCE CURE.
Ansonia, Conn.—Beginning with the New Year a number of society women in this city will take the "silence cure." The treatment is very simple, and consists of keeping the mouth closed. They assert that the results will be marvelous, benefiting not only the patient, but in many cases bringing recuperative peace to other members of the family.

college, has been given full charge of the Zimmerman Realty company. "I am everything from office boy to secretary," said Miss Zimmerman. "I am a janitor, a painter, a janitor, and an engineer, which is a most important part of the business, all fall to me. And I like every bit of it."

"The care of apartment houses is an education in itself. My tenants are lawyers, physicians, teachers, engineers, men who operate mines in the west, and all sorts of interesting people, and they are all willing to chat a half hour when I'm there to hear complaints or see to repairs or show prospective tenants through. So I really learn more from my intercourse with them than I could in years from books."

"Whenever I am in New York or Chicago, or some city abroad, the first thing I want to do is to visit flats and apartment houses."

J. J. Young of Raton, N. M., passenger on train between Las Vegas and Raton, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and was greatly pleased with the results I got from them. I had been having backache and twinges of pain in my back and also a slight urinary trouble, and when I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I got a box. They cured me of the trouble, and I can speak highly of them. I know of a great many other railroad men who have used your remedy with good results."

NEW YORK'S FINANCIAL CONDITION

Why New Year Saw Decline
In Many Stocks Listed on the Market.

CHITTING THOSE MELONS
HAD MUCH TO DO IN IT

Wide Margin Between Stock and Mercantile Rates of Interest
Tells the Bank View.

Special Correspondence.

New York, Jan. 3.—Wall street has been experiencing one of its periodic setbacks. The efforts of the so-called "big interests" to keep up prices and at the same time sell stocks to the public have met with a severe check due principally to Secretary Shaw's praiseworthy refusal to hand out the funds of the national treasury to aid in stock market jubilation. The pressure brought to bear on Mr. Shaw was probably the most severe a secretary of the treasury has ever been called upon to withstand but he has maintained throughout that his duty was to the country at large and not to the couple of acres between Trinity church and the East river in which the stock exchange is situated. Prices were held pretty well in trying times before election and afterward in spite of high money and bad bank statements, speculators believing that heavy long accounts and favorable statistics in all lines of industry would counteract what they were pleased to regard as merely technical difficulties in the money market. This frame of mind lasted for a considerable time and in fact lasted longer than it should have. Even the sharp warning conveyed by the Bank of England some weeks ago, in raising its discount rate was disregarded and it was not until Secretary Shaw made it plain that not even a deficit in the reserves of the New York banks would move him that the temper of the street underwent a change. The result was a spilling out of some small stocks accompanied by declines that resulted in the failure on December 23 of what had been a prominent brokerage firm. This firm had been carrying some heavy long accounts in Reading, sharing in the general belief that the dividend would be increased. But the directors decided to make no change at this time and the result was a drop in the stock. The weakness that developed in the market recently was not confined to any particular group of shares but was general. While the so-called Morgan and Hill stocks such as Reading and Great Northern suffered so did the Harriman and Standard Oil properties as is shown by the falling off in Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and St. Paul.

One cause of the gloomy feeling among bull speculators undoubtedly has been the dissatisfaction over the announcements of the long-expected "melons" by the Great Northern and St. Paul. These so-called "melons" are now referred to derisively as "lemons" and in fact appear to be little more than a somewhat drastic maneuver to force the stockholders to give needed funds for the properties at a time when it would have been difficult to negotiate loans through bankers. If it is necessary for green prosperous railroads to resort to such methods to obtain funds, asks the stock trader, then of what kind of stuff is their prosperity made. To this the railroad man replies that it is his prosperity and nothing else that forces him to seek funds for new tracks, new equipment and new lines to meet the growing demand for railway transportation. Whatever may be the facts in the matter there is no doubt that the incident has produced an unfavorable impression.

Another source of uneasiness is the new potent subject of the public and governmental attitude towards corporations. The report that the Minnesota authorities will seek to tax the Great Northern ore lands, now leased to the United States Steel corporation at the value placed upon them, recently by officers of the Great Northern was not without effect. If this is done it will be at the expense of the Great Northern and not of the steel corporation as by the terms of the lease the Great Northern is to pay the taxes on these lands. This report therefore probably had some part in the decline in Great Northern, which sold down 4 1/2 in one day's trading. London's attitude on American securities is being watched closely at present owing principally to the high charges exacted there for carrying American shares over settlement day.

Whether the decline here is a temporary one caused by a momentary crisis of small magnitude or a more serious interruption to the marking up of prices is the principal problem just now. That all lines of industry continue to thrive no one denies and from this it is argued that the dreams of a further bull movement are not unreasonable. But just at this point the money situation looms up as the big factor. A bull campaign requires large capital and the New York banks are milked dry. Unless Mr. Shaw should change his mind, or conditions abroad loosen sufficiently to permit of gold importations it is hard to see where the funds are to come from. An illustration of the present situation that should not be lost sight of is that while the Wall street trader has been paying a rate of from 10 to 20 per cent for money payable on call, mercantile loans have been made right along at around 6 per cent. In other words the banks themselves apparently have regarded a merchant's indorsed note as better collateral to lend on than the stocks offered by the brokerage houses. The banks were obliged January 1st to finance the payment of dividends aggregating over $150,000,000.

The report of the Nipissing company is a very interesting one and shows a strange state of affairs, and makes the rise of the stock to above 30 and its collapse to 12, more of a mystery than ever. The principal mystery is why it ever rose to 30 at all. The report says that the 10 per cent of the property mined shows a profit of about $2,000,000. Assuming that all the rest of the operations turn out as well it means a total value of $20,000,000, or approximately $18 or $17 per share of stock.

The report also says that the company there in the gambler's chance that further operations might make it worth more, and of course also there is the chance that the later workings might turn out of less value. At any rate it is difficult to see what induced the Guggenheims to pay for an option on 400,000 shares at $25 per share. The Nipissing has no had less effect than was expected on other mining shares, some of which continue in good demand on the "Curb" where they are traded in.

The proceedings by Attorney General Mayne, of New York, against the American Ice company had little or no effect on the stock. There was a decline of a few points followed by more than a complete recovery. The stock is not active and to support the price was not a very difficult matter.

RAIN IN ARIZONA
BENEFICIAL TO STOCK
A Tucson dispatch says there is joy among the stockmen of Southern Arizona because of the copious rains which have fallen during the past few days.

The rain came just at the time when it was needed almost as badly as the general rain, which fell throughout southern Arizona several weeks ago and started the grass to growing at a time when the grazing was decidedly limited and cattlemen feared that their cattle would die by the hundreds during the winter from starvation.

The grass started on the range by the recent rains is still very short and needed moisture badly to continue its growth. Consequently the warm rain last evening and today filled the bill nicely. With this rainfall the grass will be helped along in fine shape and as a result the cattlemen are jubilant.

A telephone message from Phoenix stated that the rainfall had been continuous there and had benefited the agricultural ranchers there.

CHINAMAN SUICIDES

AT TOMBSTONE
A Chinaman by the name of Hung Lim, committed suicide in jail at Tombstone Friday night by hanging himself with his cue. He slipped it around his neck and then tied the end to the top of the wall and jumped off from his bunk into space. The body was not found until early Saturday.

The remains were removed to a local undertaking parlor and were interred after the coroner's inquest Sunday.

This is the second effort Lim has made to take his life. Three days ago he took the top off of a gas jet and held his mouth over it, breathing the gas. He was seen by the other prisoners, who notified the jailer in time to frustrate the attempt. Lim had been in jail five days waiting deportation by Inspector C. T. Connell.

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION ONLY FOUR

Months Off--Preparations Are Progressing Favorably.

WILL BE COMPLETE IN EVERY WAY FOR OPENING

Very Considerable Interest Has Been Awakened in All Parts of the Country.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 3.—With the opening date of the Jamestown Tercentennial Exposition only four months off, the interest in the celebration that is to commemorate the three hundredth anniversary of the first permanent English speaking settlement in America, is becoming intense.

Not only are individuals and organizations from all parts of the country making arrangements to visit the Jamestown exposition, singly or in masses on the shores of historical Hampton Roads, but in many cities clubs are being organized for the sole purpose of advancing the interests of the tercentennial and assisting in a large attendance from their cities. Especially in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island, is the enthusiasm at the high-water mark, more than twenty Jamestown exposition clubs having been organized in the larger cities of those states. Much interest is being manifested in the exposition by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, one of the largest and most influential secret organizations of the country, who are to hold their 1937 annual convention at the tercentennial.

Many of the aeries of this organization are banding themselves together in clubs for the purpose of swelling the attendance of Eagles at the exposition, and it is fully expected that at least 50,000 will soar at the celebration on Sept. 16 to 19th inclusive, the days that have been set aside by the exposition company to be known as "Eagles Days."

On the southern shores of Hampton Roads, some seven or eight miles from the city of Norfolk, there is rising as if by magic a beautiful exposition city. Push and pull are everywhere in evidence and the immense exhibit palaces, government and state buildings, all of the old colonial style of architecture and for the most part, of permanent construction, are rapidly nearing completion. Thousands of workmen dot the landscape, building the big structures by day, and in the sunshine appear as so many flies. By night the electricity is turned on and a new force of laborers pass in the gates to carry on the work.

At the head of the "Raleigh Square" overlooking the grand piers and the waters of Hampton Roads is the auditorium and convention hall, also known as the administration building, one of the principal structures of the exposition. The keynote of the architectural design of the tercentennial is colonial and has been strictly adhered to in the erection of this building. The auditorium will be used for the offices of the exposition company as well as for the headquarters for the many conventions that will hold their annual sessions at the exposition. The seating capacity of the main hall is 4,900 and the building will be replete with all of the modern conveniences.

On either side of the auditorium and convention hall, and connected with it by colonnades, are the palaces of art and historic art, twin structures fifty feet high. The group, which is almost complete, forms the corner piece for the architectural design. The exhibit palaces to house the industrial display are also nearing completion, being under roof and the decoration work well along. These two buildings will be an immediate proportion as they are beautiful in design and construction, having 139,000 square feet of exhibit space each.

A "village of arts and crafts," to house the colonial industries, consisting of seven buildings, all of colonial architecture, is complete, and with their winding walks and pretty flower plots, form one of the most attractive groups of the exposition. These buildings are permanent structures, with an idea of converting them into summer cottages at the termination of the exposition. The general dimensions of the buildings comprising the "village of arts and crafts" is as follows: Iron foundry, 50x48 feet; copper and silver building, 137x44 feet; textile building, 137x44 feet; model school house, 45x35 feet; hospital, 35x50 feet; pottery building, 45x42 feet; mothers and children's building, 60x100 feet.

The contracts for all the government buildings, including that for the great exhibit and the grand piers, have been awarded and the construction of the same has begun.

The states participation at the exposition, for reason of the mutual interest and historical connection that the states have in the event that the exposition is to commemorate the tercentennial, more extensive than at any of the previous expositions. The state buildings grouped along the water front of the exposition, facing Hampton Roads, form a beautiful picture and the scheme of reproducing the various buildings, famous in the states they are to represent, will add still more to the beauty and historical interest of the display.

Owing to the more important part that Virginia is to play in the exposition, the state will have the most imposing exhibit of any of the sister states. The structure represents a large type of the colonial mansion, of original design. The building will not house the state exhibit but will be used entirely for the entertainment of the guests of the state. It will have a construction of 140 feet in width and 75 feet. The broad verandas and tall white columns, supporting the balconies, and the handsomely ornamented stone and marble trimmings, will give the "Old Dominion" a building of which she may well be proud.

The Pennsylvania building will be a replica of the old Independence hall of Philadelphia. In size and appearance it will conform to the original building, even to the tower, eighty feet high. The famous old Liberty bell will also be seen at the exposition, making the reproduction of the Independence hall the more realistic. Maryland will have a reproduction of the "Carroll Homestead" for her state building at the exposition, the legislature having appropriated $50,000 for their building, the general dimensions for which are 100x90 feet.

Georgia, the empire state of the south, will reproduce the Bullock hall, the birthplace of President Roosevelt's mother. The Talmadge home, the first and one of the only colonial mansions of the state, will be represented at the exposition by the "Adena," the first stone house erected west of the Allegheny mountains, will be reproduced by Ohio. For years this was the executive mansion, and closely identified with the Buckeye state. The general dimensions of the building are 100x90 feet.

A replica of the first capitol building of Rhode Island will represent that state at the exposition. Rhode Island was the first to appropriate the money for the erection of a building at the tercentennial; the first to build a grand for sold building, and will be the first to finish the work. Rhode Island's building will be 60x50 feet and with its wide porches and balconies, together with its beautiful site, overlooking the waters of Hampton Roads, will make one of the most attractive structures on the grounds.

Every department of the work of the exposition, from the paving of the streets and sidewalks, to the erection of the domes and towers of the biggest buildings, is progressing in the most pleasing manner. So the dream city is being formally introduced on April 26, of this year, as the Jamestown Tercentennial exposition, that is to commemorate the three hundredth anniversary of the first permanent English speaking settlement in America, will be an exposition of the kind that has never been complete and ready for the opening day.

Four years ago the estimated value of real estate and improvements in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut was $4,952,575,145. This increased in four years to $5,596,598,204.

In 1900 the census count showed 5,520,017 inhabitants. The population in 1920, according to the census experts, was 5,888,622. So the average value of an acre of real estate in New England has increased in the same period from $27.60 to $32.75 and the per capita value of the real estate has increased from $691.32 to $767.22.

What Uncle Sam's Worth

(By Gibson Gardner.)

Washington, Jan. 3.—The total value of everything in the United States, including real estate, live stock, farm implements, tools, gold and silver bullion, railroads, street railways, clothing, furniture, jewelry, etc., has been summed up by the government experts, and here is the total:

Each year sees an increase in the sum total of our wealth. The count which has resulted in the above figures, was made in 1904 and has just been tabulated. The census of 1900 showed the total value of property to be $88,517,306,775. Thus we have gained something like $9,000,000,000 in four years. This gain is in actual tangible commodities, things which can be seen and handled, and does not include the kind of values in which Wall street and the stock markets deal.

According to the authorized figures every man, woman and child ought to have more wealth than he or she had four years ago. If all of the real estate were divided up on the basis of its actual value, and shared together with the houses, fences and other improvements upon the land, each of the $125,602 individuals in the United States would possess $767.22 worth of real estate. Four years previously his share would have been $691.33 worth.

The present average value per acre of real estate with improvements is $32.75. Four years ago the average value per acre was $27.60. The total of all the real estate with improvements in the United States is $62,341,492,134. Four years ago the aggregate value was $52,537,828,164.

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS

It is now the time of year when those who have strayed from the straight and narrow during the past twelve months are busy framing resolutions to govern their conduct during the ensuing year. For the most part, these resolutions will be made in perfect good faith, and, as usual, broken before the end of January. Just when the custom of making New Year's resolutions was inaugurated is obscure, but it would seem to be a custom of which, as the legal fraternity put it, the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

Reformation at any time is a laudable action, though it is hard to explain why a man cannot as well reform upon the Fourth of July as upon the first of January. If he is leaving behind him the season of Tom and Jerry, he is facing the season of Bock beer. Temptations we have always with us.

The postponement of the "swearing-off" does not make it any easier. To a certain extent the New Year resolution habit is one of the deadliest enemies of the cause of temperance.

To form resolutions only to break them is weakening to the will and injurious to a man's own self-respect. Every time a resolution is broken it is that much harder to keep the next one.

The man who goes out for one last fling on New Year's eve is likely to feel the need of a bracer New Year's morning. The old adage of the "hair of the dog that bit you" is one of the most potent factors in filling the alcoholic ward. If you are going to quit, quit altogether, and do it now.

If you intend to continue in any of your present vices, be it smoking, drinking or gambling, do not deceive yourself with false promises.

If you cannot keep those New Year's resolutions, do not make any.

EXERCISE OUR CITIZENSHIP

The chief argument advanced in behalf of joint statehood was that the territorial condition is one of tutelage, formed for the purpose of preparing the people of a particular section for the duties and privileges of self-government; that New Mexico had been in such condition for about fifty years, and was weary of it, desiring the rights of full citizenship for which she is fully prepared; and that separate statehood apparently being impossible, we should accept jointure as better than no statehood at all. The argument was well made, the premises being true and the conclusion logical.

This being the state of the case, why is it that some are so fond of running to congress to have it done for us what, even in our state of tutelage, we are thoroughly equipped and prepared to do for ourselves?

We have a legislature endowed with the qualification to make laws for the government of the territory, and these laws stand unless declared unconstitutional or nullified by congress. If we believe that we are qualified for the fullest exercise of self-government, then why stultify ourselves by running to congress and asking that body to do for us what our own legislature is fully able to do?

There are several matters which fall in this category, among them being that of gambling and the liquor traffic. Our legislature is fully empowered to handle these questions, and can at its approaching session dispose of them in any way the people of the territory may desire, either by direct enactment on the subjects themselves, or by giving local jurisdiction within certain limits. That these subjects, and certain others—the social evil, for instance—should be legislated upon, goes without saying. The only question is as to whether we shall do it ourselves or leave it to congress to do it for us.

A TRUE AMERICAN

Old Esop tells us that a man walking one day with a lion pointed out a statue of a man conquering a lion, and remarked that here was proof that man was more powerful than the king of beasts. "But that statue was made by a man," retorted Leo. "If a lion had made it it would have been different." Man makes history, and so history is a record of what man has done, without deserved credit to the animal creation. But for a she-wolf of the Roman empire and western civilization might never have been founded. And but for a Nebraska rabbit the fact that man existed on this continent 18,000 years before the time of Christ might have remained forever buried in the bluffs along the Missouri.

While walking through a wooded tract along the Missouri river, R. F. Gilder found upon the summit of a hill some human bones scattered about a hole where boys had dug out a rabbit. He got a spade and turned out several skulls that showed signs of great antiquity. Prof. Osborn, of Columbia university, was notified, and set out post-haste for Omaha to investigate. The skulls, writes Prof. Osborn in the January Century, "indicate a man of small cerebral capacity, having a brain inferior to that either of the Indian or the mound builders."

For many obvious reasons, discoveries of the remains of primitive man have been more numerous in Europe and the east than in America. The most important of such discoveries is the trinal man of Java, found a few years ago, and claimed by evolutionists to be the intermediate between apes and man. Compared with this antique, the Nebraska man of 20,000 years ago is decidedly modern. Yet he is a mute but eloquent witness that this continent has been a long time inhabited. And he also serves to remind us that while we of this day know a good deal and make a great fuss over it, there is a lot we don't know—even upon our favorite subjects.

SUITED TO NEW MEXICO

The Citizen is glad to see the New Mexican take up the question of sugar beet industry for this territory, a matter in which this paper for more than a year past has from time to time been endeavoring to excite interest. In the course of an able and interesting article, the New Mexican of yesterday said:

The beet sugar industry in the state of Colorado has grown to immense proportions within a few years. In fact, this growth is astonishing, and were it not for the fact that the figures bore out the fact, they could not be believed. This is all the more remarkable when it is remembered that ten years ago there was not a pound of beet sugar manufactured in the Centennial state. What has been done in Colorado can, ought to and should be repeated in New Mexico. The New Mexico sugar beets carry a higher percentage of saccharine matter than do those of Colorado. They grow more prolific, yield more to the acre. This has been conclusively established by experiments in various sections of the territory, especially in the Santa Fe valley, in the Espanola valley, in San Juan county, in Bernalillo and Valencia counties and other sections. The analysis of sugar beets raised there made by the chemists of the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Mesilla Park also demonstrates conclusively that the New Mexico beets are superior in every way to those raised in Colorado. There certainly should be no difficulty in getting 10,000 to 15,000 acres of land to place under sugar beet culture. The Santa Fe and Espanola valleys alone could furnish that amount of land easily.

During the nine months ended September, 1904, 4,184,181 dozen eggs, valued at $365,437, were exported from the United States, against 2,160,359 dozen exported during the same period in 1903. This is one reason why we are paying five cents apiece for the fresh article, at the present time.

At this writing it looks like 1907 will be a year of post-mortems.

The president didn't find much game in Virginia, but the senate continues to be a good live target.

ARE WE GUILTY OF THINGS SO VIGOROUSLY CHARGED?

In the January number of Everybody's Magazine is a tremendously forceful article by Chas. Edward Russell which ought to be read most thoughtfully by every American citizen. It is the conclusion, the summary, of his notable series of articles on "Soldiers of the Common Good," and in it he contends that in this land of the free, as we are pleased to call it, the people are subjugated to the rule of privileged interests to a degree known nowhere else on earth. He points out that in all countries except ours there is being constructed a new economic system, the basis of which is the supremacy of the interests of the community over the profits of the individual. He illustrates this startling proposition with pregnant facts that come directly home to every city in this country.

He shows us that while we cry out incessantly but impatiently against the exactions and robberies of the railroads, all the rest of the world is bringing the railroads under public ownership or strict control. While we stand aghast at our monstrous series of insurance scandals, New Zealand has in operation an insurance scheme that is absolutely safe and honest. Germany, France, Italy and Australia have beneficent old-age pensions, but we give the example no thought. We bitterly denounce the powerful corporations, but tamely permit them to dictate our legislation. We anathematize the political bosses, but meekly vote for the candidates they nominate and the measures they stand for.

We are blind to what is going on in the rest of the world. The general progress in human rights does not touch us. We, of all the peoples of the world, have the least to say in our public affairs and the least benefit from our enormous wealth. At least, so Mr. Russell forcefully says, and he makes a mighty interesting showing of evidence.

In sharp contrast with the clean, smooth-running thoroughly adequate street car service of the cities of Europe, he presents the familiar spectacle in the average American city of the weary workers coming from the shops and stores at close of the day's work to stand in crowds on every street corner in all kinds of weather for the infrequent cars, of the almost riotous pushing and pulling and squeezing for a place to stand in them all the way home. No other people in the world tolerate such conditions as we do, because in no other country are the corporations supreme.

Perhaps some of Mr. Russell's pictures are overdrawn, perhaps some of his truths overheated. But he makes a thrilling appeal to American manhood which every man will be a better citizen for having read and weighed.

USE OF HORSE MEAT NOW GROWS IN EUROPEAN FAVOR

Scattered through Liege are many shops selling horse meat exclusively, a horsehead attached to the front of the shop or a sign indicating the business within. While it is not forbidden for a meat market to handle both beef and horse meat, it is quite unusual to do so, dealers carrying their separate lines. When the meat is dressed and exposed for sale the only noticeable difference is in the color, which is of a deeper red and a coarser fiber than the beef. Those accustomed to eat horseflesh are loud in its praise, and declare it to be as palatable as beef, and that many persons eat horseflesh under the impression that they are eating beef. There is no doubt that horseflesh is growing in favor. It sells about half the price of beef or mutton.

The dealers in horse meat are most active in proclaiming the prime quality of their article and a campaign of persuasion is now on. They contend that the horse in ancient times was held in high esteem; that the eating of horseflesh dates back before the eighth century, and that in China the horse has been eaten for 600 years. The first European people openly practicing hippophagy were those of Denmark in 1807, when Napoleon invaded that country. The Germans also attribute that practice in their country to the same person during the wars of 1815, at which time the food supply was very low. The first hippophagous slaughterhouse was created in Prussia in 1847, also a year of great famine.

In Belgium the eating of horseflesh dates back to 1870, from which time it has been increasing steadily. The only seeming obstacle to its immediate popularity is the prevailing impression that only the worn-out animal unable to further serve as a dray horse is handed over to the butcher for slaughter and sale. This impression is no doubt circulated by the beef dealers. In Liege many colts are slaughtered for sale, as well as young horses. The charge for slaughtering and appraising at the public slaughterhouse is 50 cents for a horse and 32 cents for a young horse under eighteen months. The animal undergoes the same rigid inspection given to beef, mutton or pork, which inspection is under the supervision of a veterinary duly recognized and appointed by the governmental authorities, under whose guidance the public abattoir is administered. The number of horses and colts slaughtered for Liege in 1904 was 1,287 and it is estimated at 2,000 head for 1905. The choice cuts of horse meat sell for about 20 cents a pound, while the beef commands about 35 cents.—Consul McNally of Liege.

THE CARNEGIE RECOGNITION OF OUR LEADING EDUCATORS

Among the first educators who participate in the benefits of the Carnegie pension fund are Dr. Harris, United States commissioner of education; Dr. Marsh of Lafayette; Dr. Young of Princeton, and Dr. Ladd of Yale—men of international reputation in their spheres of labor. Dr. Harris is America's greatest philosopher; Prof. Marsh stands in the front rank of the philologists; Prof. Young is known far and wide for his astronomical researches, and Prof. Ladd is one of the three or four most distinguished writers on psychology in the English language. The acceptance of the benefits of that fund by those men has effectually removed whatever hesitancy existed in some quarters regarding the propriety of accepting a pension.

The retirement of William Torrey Harris, after serving the United States for seventeen years as commissioner of education, is an event of exceptional importance. It was his great personality that raised the office from mere respectability to something like the importance it ought to occupy. In a country more economical in the utilization of its really great possessions—Germany, for instance—he would not have been permitted to retire, even now, on the eve of his seventy-first birthday; he would at least have been placed so as to remain officially an adviser of the government.

Dr. Harris owes absolutely nothing to the bureau of education, which occupied a rather obscure and unimportant place before his name became identified with it. His reputation was solidly established, here as well as abroad, long before he took the office; indeed, he had already won an enduring place in the history of American education, in line with Thomas Jefferson, Horace Mann, and Colonel Parker. Jefferson was the first to organize an ideal plan for American education, which is today more fully exemplified, perhaps, in the state of Michigan. Horace Mann announced the basic principles of the common school. Parker was an inspirational force which burst the yoke of traditional and Europe-bred scholasticism, and infused in the schools and their methods a spirit in harmony with democracy. Harris has laid the foundation for an American philosophy of education. He is the most commanding figure in the educational field today.—The Forum.

NERVY MESSENGER SHOTS TO SAVE

His Life and When Attacked Holds Angry Mob at Bay With His Winchester

A. H. Hatcher, agent for the Wells-Fargo Express Co., at Albuquerque, stated this morning that he was not intimately acquainted with John M. Morris, the extra messenger who shot and killed Catalino Lobato at and in the quarrelsome.

"I talked with the messenger who came down from Santa Fe on train No. 1 with him though, and he does not seem to be in any way connected with the shooting. He was not drinking when they left Santa Fe," said Mr. Hatcher. The company employees who know him say he is a quiet, well behaved young gentleman and is not quarrelsome.

"Previous to the time he secured an extra run, he drove an express delivery wagon on at Trinidad, Colo. He has been on the road about a month running into Albuquerque from La Junta, Colorado."

PARTICULARS OF THE ASSAULT AND KILLING OF LOBATO

From New Mexican, Jan. 2.

Barred in the lunch room at the station eating house in Lamy, Express Messenger J. M. Morris of the Wells-Fargo Express company, who is employed on the main line of the Atchafalaya, Santa Fe, railway, spent an uncomfortable two hours last night standing off a mob of from fifty to seventy-five armed and determined men. He sought safety in the lunch room after having shot and killed Catalino Lobato, who was until the day previous a deputy under Sheriff Antonio J. Ortiz. Morris is now confined in the county jail here awaiting a preliminary hearing.

The tragedy occurred about 7:30 o'clock last night.

It is not known exactly what the cause was which led up to the fatal assault. It is said that Morris had alighted at Lamy from a west bound train and was going to double back to his headquarters on train No. 8. While waiting the arrival of the east bound train he was lying on one of the benches in the waiting room of the depot.

Native Sat Down on Express Messenger

Lobato's brother is reported to have gone into the waiting room and sat down on Morris' leg. Morris became angered at this and a quarrel ensued in which it is alleged Morris beat the man over the head with the butt end of his revolver. As soon as the man who was attacked could release himself he ran away muttering threats.

Morris in the meantime went from the depot waiting room to the hotel and barricaded himself in the lunch room. Joseph V. Barras, the telegraph operator at the station, had warned Morris to seek shelter at the eating house, as he felt sure that Morris would be roughly handled. Morris had hardly reached the lunch room when Catalino Lobato and the latter's brother entered from different doors. Each was carrying a revolver. Morris claims that one of them shot at him whereupon he began firing.

Only One Shot Struck Lobato, Killing Him

Catalino Lobato was struck in the breast by one of the four shots fired from Morris' pistol, and the bullet penetrated the heart. Lobato staggered through the office adjoining into the wash room where he fell to the floor dead. His revolver was found lying at his side. The pistol was cocked but none of the cartridges had been exploded. Lobato's brother who was the cause of the trouble beat a hasty retreat when Morris began shooting, and was not injured.

Morris made no attempt to escape but remained at the lunch room. When he saw a mob of armed men approaching he barricaded the doors, determined to fight for his life. The infuriated crowd made several futile attempts to break in the door. It is said that none of Lobato's friends fired a shot although the lunch room was bombarded with rocks and other missiles.

Sheriff Closson Called Upon to Act Quickly

Sheriff Charles C. Closson, who assumed his new duties yesterday morning received a telegram at 8 o'clock informing him of the tragedy and of the fact that the man who did the shooting had locked himself in the lunch room. It was also reported that further bloodshed was imminent. He hurried to the depot in time to catch the train for Lamy, which left a few minutes later and within an hour had Morris placed under arrest.

When Sheriff Closson appeared on the scene the mob ceased its demonstrations and was not interfered with when the officer took charge of him. He was brought to this city on the train and lodged in the new county jail.

A New Mexican reporter called at the jail this morning to secure a statement from Morris as to his version of the shooting but he declined to discuss it.

He talked freely enough last night to the sheriff about the tragedy and asserted that he was justified in shooting. He said that one of the men had fired at him first and then he retaliated. In the excitement he declared he did not know how many shots he fired.

An inquest was held last night over the remains of Catalino Lobato. A verdict was returned to the effect that he came to his death from a pistol shot wound inflicted by Morris. Undertaker M. J. Heberer of this city of the Wagner Furniture company, left this afternoon for Lamy to prepare the body for burial.

Telegraph Operator's Life Threatened Because He Was With Slayer

A report received from Lamy late this afternoon is to the effect that Joseph Barras, the day operator, who occupied the lunch room during the time the slaying was being committed, was besieged by friends of the dead man, had his life threatened if he remains longer in Lamy. More trouble is feared as

It is reported that the neighborhood "aroused over Morris' act."

Lamy Correspondent Tells of Killing. A special from Lamy to the New Mexican says:

"J. M. Morris, express messenger on train No. 8, engaged in a quarrel with Catalino Lobato, a native at this place, and knocked him down. Lobato then secured the assistance of friends and relatives and returned, evidently to renew the encounter. Morris shot and killed him. Joseph Barras, day operator at Lamy for the Santa Fe, took Morris to his room, where the latter barricaded himself, and the two men spent a most unpleasant two hours waiting for the sheriff. A mob of Lobato's friends tried to break down the door with railroad iron but were afraid to make a determined effort and did not succeed in effecting an entrance. A number of pistol shots were fired. The besiegers then remained on watch making threats but not attempting violence until the arrival of the sheriff. Barras says it was the most strenuous and exciting two hours he ever experienced and he does not want to repeat it. "Even to save the life of another railroad man."

NINE WRECKS IN A SINGLE JOURNEY

TRAVELER DECLARES MEXICAN CENTRAL TAKES THE RUN FOR RAILROAD ACCIDENTS

"When it comes to railroad wrecks, the Mexican Central must hold the record at least in point of number," declared Dr. T. J. Stewart of Ukl, declared Dr. T. J. Stewart of Ukl, at the Hotel Savoy this morning.

Dr. Stewart is physician to Judge R. M. Garvey of Ukl. Judge Garvey and daughter with the physician, compose a party which reached Albuquerque this morning, returning from the City of Mexico to their home. They leave this evening.

"Two weeks ago we left El Paso, Texas, for the City of Mexico and it required five days to make the trip and two trains to carry us there," said the physician. "No less than five wrecks were piled up ahead of us between El Paso and Mexico. Our train was wrecked, too, and that made six. A relief train from the City of Mexico was sent out to carry the passengers the remainder of the journey. Spreading rails caused our train to leave the track and the cars ran 50 feet over the ties before the engine was stopped."

"Returning there were three wrecks ahead of us which delayed our arrival at El Paso. No one was killed in any of these accidents that I heard of but they certainly tied up traffic."

"What is responsible for the accidents?"

"Bad ties more than anything else, I should say. Here is a sample of the ties. I picked up this piece on the way down when our train waited for the wrecker."

"He produced a piece of the timber old and rotten. It was as brittle as chalk."

"The engine was rounding a curve," he said, "running at a s'w rate of speed when suddenly the rail turned over and the next minute the train was running on the ground. Only one of the cars turned over. It happened to be on a grade. The track for the most part is laid on the flat ground and is free of grades."

"The week we spent in the City of Mexico was very cold. They say the weather is unusually cold down there now. The winds sweep from the snow capped mountains which surround the city and they are very chilly. The nights are especially cold. The city, you know, has an altitude of about 7,800 feet."

GREENE AND HIS PART NOW AT CANANEA

Where a Directors' Meeting of the Big Corporation Will Be Held.

After traveling over the country as rapidly as possible, the party headed by Col. W. C. Greene and Thomas F. Cole arrived in Cananea Tuesday morning, says the Bisbee Miner. The party is traveling in the private cars "Washed" and "Yonder." It is composed of the most prominent men in the copper world, all of whom are interested in the new Greene-Cananea flotation.

Besides Col. Greene and Mr. Cole, the party is composed of John D. Ryan, known over the country from his connection with the mining and insurance work; Richard Congdon, George E. Tener and several other of the foremost capitalists in the country.

It was expected that the party would come to Bisbee for a brief stop Tuesday, but on reaching Osborn the cars were detached from the regular westbound train which brought them to that point, and waiting there for the return of the train from Bisbee, the cars were again attached and taken to Naco, where they were taken over the C. R. Y. & P. to Cananea.

They were joined at Osborn by Superintendent L. W. Powell, of the Bismarck Circle properties; T. D. Collins and George A. Newitt, who passed Monday night in Bisbee. All refused to talk, however, saying that they knew nothing of the action to be taken at the directors' meeting, which will be held at Cananea.

Among those who will attend the meeting are Capt. Thomas Hoatson, Col. Powell, James Kirk, superintendent of the mining division for the C. R. Y. & P., Dr. Ricks, Superintendent David Cole, and other officials of the Greene and Cananea Central companies.

The Greene-Cananea has a total capitalization of $50,000,000, while it has been announced that $10,000,000 will be expended in improvements on the properties owned by the company.

On returning from Cananea Messrs. Coal, Hoatson, Congdon, Ryan and Tener will stop over for a short time in this city to inspect their various interests here.

A Story of a Little Black Cannon

On New Year's day there was a small black cannon weighing about 100 pounds awaiting shipment at the Wells-Fargo express office in this city. To it was attached an express tag with this device: "Hon. Thomas B. Catron, Santa Fe, N. M. From H. R. Whiting, Albuquerque."

The express people knew nothing regarding this baby field piece save what was indicated by the tag, but finally the consignor was seen at his home by a representative of "The Citizen," occupied in pursuing his romantic rather than realistic, but in fairly good humor notwithstanding, and said in reply to inquiries:

"The cannon formerly belonged to Gen. Manuel Armijo, who at the time of the invasion of New Mexico by the American army under Gen. Stephen W. Kearney, in 1846, was a walk-over governor and general commanding the few troops that New Mexico had to oppose it. Whether this field piece was a portion of Armijo's artillery when he marched in battle array I am not informed, but if the guns were like this, it is not to be wondered at that Kearney had a walk-over."

There was no fighting, and Don Manuel retired to private life at Albuquerque. When he died Don Luis Maria Baca, then of Lemitar, Socorro county, came into possession of the gun, and it was by him presented to Mr. Catron.

"In June, 1876, I borrowed the gun from Mr. Catron to be used in firing a national salute at Albuquerque on July 4th, following the centennial of our nation's birth. When it reached Albuquerque (the old and only at that time), on the stage coach, its arrival was greeted with enthusiasm and the committee appointed William Brown, an ex-soldier of the civil war, as chief artilleryman. Brown was succeeded by Francisco Ruiz, who had served in both the Mexican and American armies. Both were wounded during the gun's use, and both have passed over the divide. Brown was the father of Frank, deceased; Mariano and Willie Brown, and who, with their mother, a United States pensioner, still reside in Albuquerque."

The two last public occasions upon which the gun was used were the receptions of Governor Oscar W. Hagerman. When the gun's owner knows this, how his bosom will swell with pride and satisfaction, that his gun was in at the receptions of these, his dear friends. S. Whiting was the "man behind the gun" on this last celebration.

"During the more than thirty years that it has been in my possession, it was used on all sorts of occasions, Independence day, San Felipe day, the advent of the railroad in 1880 and the breaking of the ground for the Atlantic & Pacific railroad, with Bill Garland at the plow; the many victories of the republican party; local festivals, births and marriages. Having had this engine of destruction so long, it has become endeared to me. I would be tempted to resist quo war-rantos, mandamus, etc., now so much in vogue in these times of reform were it not that I am sure its owner will need it himself toward the end of this month, when he turns out his friend Epimenio, of Sandoval county, and wrapped in his senatorial toga, again takes his seat in the territorial council at Santa Fe. And then, too, I shall never more have the prospect of the senator when I visit in the future the senator that was and is to be, by having him repeat the question he has propounded to me so many times during the past thirty years: 'Whiting, when in the hell are you going to send that cannon up?' But, soberly speaking, I know

Mr. Catron will forgive this long delay in returning the gun when he realizes the fun we had with it. "All who took an active part in that centennial celebration are dead, as far as I know, except Frank W. Clancy and myself."

GREAT RAILROAD LITIGATION ON HERE

Rival Railroads Contend For Right of Way in Las Animas Valley.

One of the largest railroad cases that has engaged the attention of lawyers in this part of the southwest in recent years, after hanging fire in the territorial court for months, during which time a mass of testimony and exhibits has been taken, is now being tried on its merits before Judge Ira A. Abbott of the district court of Bernalillo county. It comes here on a change of venue from the first district tribunal, Judge J. R. McFie, presiding.

The Arizona and Colorado Railroad company, a New Mexico corporation, seeks to recover a certain strip of roadbed and right-of-way from Durango, Colo., down the Las Animas valley to Farmington, N. M., from the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad company.

An imposing array of legal talent is engaged in the case, representing the Denver and Rio Grande company are Attorneys E. N. Clark of Denver, Colo.; A. J. Abbott, Santa Fe, and Reese McCloskey, Durango, Colo.

Attorneys for the Arizona and Colorado Railroad company include B. W. Ritter, Durango, Colo.; Hon. T. R. Catron, Santa Fe; A. B. Reuehan, Santa Fe, and H. B. Ferguson, Albuquerque.

Mass of Testimony and Exhibits.

The mass of testimony, which was taken before Edmund C. Burke of Santa Fe, sitting as a referee, includes 1,500 typewritten pages, and there are about 250 exhibits in the case. The lawyers do not think the testimony will be reviewed before the end of this week.

When court opened this morning Judge Abbott began hearing the testimony which was read to him by Attorney Clark, of counsel for the defendant, and hearing the objections of counsel for the plaintiff's sustaining or overruling them. In either case the usual "exception" to the court's ruling was taken and carefully noted by Harry P. Owen, stenographer for the court. The hearing of testimony was continued the afternoon.

History of the Case.

The case is the outgrowth of a temporary injunction. On the 12th of May, 1905, the Arizona and Colorado Railroad company, applied to Judge McFie of the First Judicial district for a temporary restraining order to prevent the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad company from in any manner interfering with or trespassing upon the line of route from Durango, Colo., down the Las Animas valley, claimed by the plaintiff by virtue of and alleged survey, and location approved by its board of directors. The temporary restraining order was granted a day later.

The defendant demurred to the plaintiff's bill and the demurrer was heard on June 2, 1905, after which Judge McFie dissolved and dismissed the writ. Plaintiff's next move was to ask for a writ of superadeas to stay the legal proceedings in the case, and this Judge McFie denied. The application for the writ was renewed before Judge William J. Mills at Las Vegas. He also refused the writ and referred the matter to the full bench of the territorial supreme court.

In the meantime the decision of Judge McFie was also appealed from. It was taken to the supreme court, where the superadeas writ was denied a third time on condition that the defendant put up a bond of $50,000. The Denver and Rio Grande furnished the bond and the construction of the line between Durango and Farmington, which had been tied up, was completed.

The case again came up for hearing in the supreme court on the plaintiff's appeal from Judge McFie's ruling, which was reversed, the court holding that there was not sufficient allegation in the plaintiff's bill to justify the case going to trial.

The matter was taken to the district court of Bernalillo county on a change of venue and a referee appointed to take testimony in the case. Several months were consumed in taking the testimony, the referee sitting at Deming, Aztec and Santa Fe, where numerous witnesses were examined. Much time was also used in preparing the large number of exhibits.

After hearing all of the testimony and ruling upon the same, Judge Abbott will hear the arguments in the case and then render his opinion.

City Building Case Deferred. The argument in the city building case has been deferred. Part of this has been heard but the argument had not been closed before the railroad case was taken up. The argument will probably be concluded during a lull in the litigation, which is now engaging the attention of District Judge Abbott.

"LADY FLO" MUST MAKE FIGHT IN TEXAS

Courts, as Mexico Does Not Recognize Common Law Wife.

"Lady Flo" Wolf cannot prove herself the common law wife of Lord Delavel Beresford in Mexico in her fight for his wealth, says the El Paso Herald. Mexican laws recognize no marriage except the civil marriage of their own country and the legal marriage of foreign countries.

"Lady Flo" therefore will not have the boasted protection of the laws of Mexico on her side in her fight for more than the $10,000 of the Beresford $1,000,000 estate.

This fact will in all probability result in forcing the negro woman who claims to have lived as the wife of the Englishman into Texas, where she says a negro cannot get justice, to force her claims and seek recognition in the courts as the common law wife of Beresford.

Shortly after the woman and Beresford began living together near Ahumada, twenty-two years ago, they came to El Paso and spent several weeks here, living together, the woman states, as man and wife. Their agreement to become husband and wife was made here as well as in Mexico, she declares, and the fact that they occasionally lived here and were recognized as man and wife will give her standing in the courts, she believes.

Furthermore, the filing of the will here will give her additional grounds for action. If the courts of the United States should recognize the woman as the common law wife of Beresford, then a unique point of law is brought up.

Would Mexico, under those circumstances, having the decree of the American court before it, recognize the woman's claims as a widow? If an American court should decide she was the common law wife of Beresford and decreed that she should have a widow's dower out of the estate, would Mexico, whose laws recognize no such thing as common law marriage, recognize the decision of the court?

Those are questions which her lawyers both in Juarez and El Paso are trying to ferret out and find the solution for.

In any event, it is almost certain that "Lady Flo" Wolf will bring no action in Mexico to establish herself as the common law wife of Beresford. She will, on the other hand, fight to the bitter end in the courts of Texas, where she herself says that those who are unfortunate enough to be born back get scant justice. She will pin her faith higher than this, however, and trust to the fairness of American judges and jurors to give her, as a woman and not as a negro, all that she is entitled to.

"A week after we first met in the dance hall in Chihuahua more than twenty years ago, Lord Beresford came after me and took me to his ranch," declared "Lady Flo." "We did not meet but once, there at the dance, and we agreed then to become man and wife. We lived as such throughout the long years, and I do not intend to be defrauded now out of what is rightfully mine," she declared.

TRUNK MAY SOLVE MYSTERY OF A DEAD MAN

MAN DIES SUDDENLY IN DOUGLAS, BELIEVED TO BE A ROBBER; SUPPOSED PARTNER IN CRIME KILLED.

That an unknown man came to his death from a bullet wound from a six-shooter in the hands of Jefferson Kidder, an Arizona ranger, was the verdict of the coroner's jury which sat in a case of more than ordinary interest at Douglas, Arizona, says an exchange. Ranger Kidder had been called to Douglas to assist in running down some of the thieves now operating in this camp. Monday night he approached a suspicious character near the Southwestern depot and called to the man to halt. The man did not stop and the officer says the fellow fired at him. Kidder returned the fire, shooting the man through the brain.

Lying in the morgue beside the unknown dead is the body of John Furlong, whose silence keeps the mystery of another tragedy of the young year. Furlong died during the night in the county jail, where he was held as a suspect in some of the larceny and burglary cases.

Furlong was identified by a letter from an old mother in Philadelphia, which pleaded with a wandering son to return home. It is known that the dead man had expressed a trunk to El Paso and for this trunk the officers have sent, suspecting that its contents may reveal some object which will connect the dead man with the recent epidemic of robbery here. Many persons say that the two dead men were often seen together the last few days.

EFFORT GROWS TO DISPLACE ROOSEVELT

As Leader of Republican Party—Organization Extending North and South.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Ohio, it would seem, is about to recapture from Iowa that political primacy which Iowa flched from Ohio only a few years ago. With Taft and Foraker contending for the presidency, Ohio would have the limelight and Iowa would have to join the commonwealths of minor consequence.

The announcement by Mr. Taft's friends that the war secretary is willing to become a candidate if there appears a substantial demand that he do so is the chief political development of the month. It is to all intents and purposes a formal and authoritative launching of the Taft boom and an invitation to Taft adherents in all parts of the country to get busy. It also is notification of the "Conservatives," or anti-Roosevelt, republicans, that they cannot have the 1908 nomination without fighting for it. There has been for some time a crystallization of sentiment in the anti-Roosevelt camp favorable to the nomination of Senator Foraker and politicians are beginning to believe that the lines of the next contest within the republican party already have been drawn.

That Secretary Taft's friends will have to fight for the Ohio delegates to the next national convention goes without saying. The men opposed to him in his native state are born fighters and are strongly entrenched. With the warriors of the old Hanna organization, now marshaled by Senator Dick, and Foraker's veterans of the war-path joined in an offensive and defensive alliance, it is a pretty hard proposition for the Taft people to go up against. This is especially true in view of the fact that there has not yet been developed in the Ohio Taft faction any formidable and sagacious leader.

Congressman Burton of Cleveland, is the strongest man they have, but he is neither a politician nor a fighter, and last spring when it seemed he had a chance to do something blundered so badly that Foraker and Dick got away with about everything in sight.

Should Senator Foraker become the candidate of the anti-Roosevelt faction in the republican party it is believed a large share of the old Hanna followers would line up behind him, and again would be demonstrated the truth of the old adage that politics makes strange bedfellows. Already, it is said, that some of the old Hanna lieutenants are at work trying to alienate the south from its allegiance to Mr. Roosevelt the purpose being to capture the southern delegates to the next national convention and vote them against any man whom Mr. Roosevelt may favor for the presidential nomination. Mr. Hanna had a strong hold on southern republicans while Mr. Roosevelt has stepped on the toes of southern republican leaders without any attempt at gentleness.

All over the country there is an awakening of interest in the 1908 election, and from almost every state comes word of effort to displace Mr. Roosevelt as the leader of his party.

WILD TURKEY VISITS QUIET PLAZA OF SANTA FE

A wild turkey perched on a limb high up on one of the trees in the plaza was an unusual spectacle yesterday morning in Santa Fe. A crowd of boys collected around the tree and attempted for several hours to capture the bird. Several of them climbed up in the tree but were not able to reach the limb on which the turkey was roosting. The boys on the ground threw snowballs, sticks, rocks and other missiles in an effort to dislodge Mr. Gobbler. The bird finally disappeared and it is not known whether it escaped or was captured. No one tried to shoot it.

The Grip. "Before we can sympathize with others, we must have suffered ourselves. No one can realize the suffering attendant upon an attack of the grip, unless he has had the actual experience. There is probably no disease that causes so much physical and mental agony, or which so successfully defies medical aid. All danger from the grip, however, may be avoided by the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy, not one case has ever been reported that has resulted in pneumonia or that has not recovered. For sale by all druggists.

ALL ABOUT THE MOST HATED MEN ON EARTH

HERE ARE THE FACTS ABOUT THE NINETEEN GRAND DUKES OF RUSSIA—THEY ARE MEN WHO SUFFER FROM TYRANNY THEMSELVES—BUT THEY GET A NEAT HALF MILLION APiece EVERY YEAR.

The general idea regarding a Russian grand duke is that he is an idle, tyrannical autocrat, with no object in life save the cruel oppression of the Russian lower orders, and the maintenance of himself in supreme power only second to that enjoyed by the czar himself. To a certain extent this estimate of a grand duke is correct, but when we consider their environment and the narrow teachings of their class, we find that they are not so bad as we are accustomed to regard them.

From the talk one hears of them, there might be thousands of Russian grand dukes, whereas, as a matter of fact, at the present time there are only nineteen.

The grand dukes consist of the male relatives of the czar, and include his brother, four uncles, four first cousins and ten second cousins. All of the czar's male relations after that are merely princes, with the prefix of "highness." Grand dukes have "imperial highness."

There are actually 32 male relations of the czar all told, excluding his infant son, the baby czarvich. Every one of these 32 is a member of the imperial house, and each one receives from the day of his birth an income of $500,000 a year from the national exchequer.

Besides this they own between them about 50,000 square miles of land, which means, roughly, a fortieth of the territory of Russia in Europe. They also possess 325 palaces and castles and they give employment to about 20,000 servants.

The grand dukes have many privileges enjoyed by no one else. They are free from arrest. They cannot be sued in a court of law or compelled to be a witness, and need not make oath to any statement, their signature giving it verity.

Their social position is second only to that of the czar, and is equal to that of the monarchs of other countries. Everyone must stop and salute them in the street and moving on until they are ten paces away.

Yet their bed is not all roses.

They can do nothing without permission from the czar. They cannot leave Russia or marry unless he consents.

Disobedience means imprisonment, confiscation of estates, and banishment, one or all, as the czar pleases. There are other minor disabilities without number.

Their frequent breaches of the edict against unsanctioned marriages, too, show that they are human. Of the nineteen, seven or eight have either married, not only without asking the czar's consent, but actually against his express command, or they whom the czar disapproves of.

Grand Duke Alexis, whom young, married his mother's lady-in-waiting, and was expelled from Russia for three years, but was subsequently pardoned, and he is a favorite with the czar.

Grand Duke Nicholas has been in exile for thirty years. He wished to marry a Paris music hall celebrity, and, while exiled to prevent him, married a Caucasian peasant girl. This doomed him for good.

Duke Michael married a girl whose life he saved from a runaway horse. They now live in England as Count and Countess Torbay.

To the Blatz malt is due the prevailing full-bodied state of Blatz Beer.

The Hops used in the brewing of Blatz Beer are rich in aromatic properties and tonics (hop bitters), which lend to the beer that fragrance which captivates lovers of the beverage. The tonics act as a mild stimulant to the digestion. Blatz Beer is perfectly fermented and ripened in the coldest and cleanest cellars extant.

The most skilled masters zealously guard "Blatz" individuality. The paramount object being to maintain with absolute uniformity every characteristic that has these many years meant Blatz Quality.

THE ROCK ISLAND AND ITS NEW LINE

It Will Be a Transcontinental Route, With San Diego as Terminal.

It is reported on good authority that the proposed San Diego & Arizona railroad is a Rock Island project and that it will complete the link of the Rock Island by way of El Paso, says a Yuma dispatch. It has been currently believed in the southwest for some time that the Rock Island interests are in control of the El Paso & Southern, which it runs from Tucuman, N. M., to Benson, Ariz., a distance of 626 miles. It connects with the Rock Island at Tucuman and through trackage rights Rock Island trains are operated over that division into El Paso. The San Diego & Arizona is to run from Benson to San Diego, Cal.

John D. Spreckles, the sugar magnate of San Francisco, has been elected president of the new company. He is said to represent the Rock Island interests. The route of the proposed line is through Yuma, where it will connect with the Southern Pacific railroad. The new company has acquired all of the franchises and holdings of the San Diego Eastern Railway company, which had the building of a similar line of road in view.

H. F. Yonkers, chairman of the executive board of the Rock Island and Frisco, visited San Diego about four years ago and shortly thereafter it was announced that extensive tracts of ground for port and terminal facilities had been purchased there on behalf of Mr. Yonkers for use when the time came for building the new transcontinental line. The proposed road would run from San Diego west to the Colorado river, then south to the Gulf of California, and then north to the Colorado river, where it would connect with the Rock Island line.

The Denver, El Paso & Gulf, which is owned by the Santa Fe, has been extended during the past year from Cherokee, Okla., to Sun City, Kan., a distance of 59.7 miles, and work is in progress from Sun City to Belvidere, Kan., 10.4 miles. The line in Kansas has been built under the charter of the Denver, Kansas & Gulf.

In the annual report of the Southern Pacific company, President Harlan notes an expenditure of $546,428 on the line of the railroad in the Salton basin, in moving the tracks several times and finally in building about forty miles of new track higher up the side of the basin.

Frank Dibert, assistant treasurer of the Santa Fe Central, who was here on business and as the guest of Col. and Mrs. W. S. Hopewell, has returned to Santa Fe.

George H. Shone, of Alameda, Colo., master mechanic of the Denver & Rio Grande, was at Santa Fe yesterday on business.

General Superintendent L. L. Hibbard, of the Santa Fe coast line, is recovering from a serious illness at Alameda, Cal.

TEXAS CAR SHORTAGE MAY RESULT IN RECEIVERSHIP.

The Texas railroad commission is threatening to throw several railroads into the hands of receivers because of their inability to handle traffic promptly on account of the car shortage. In a letter written to W. C. Preston, of Fort Worth, general freight agent of the Texas lines of the Frisco railroad, Commissioner O. B. Colquitt said:

Complaints coming to this commission from the refusal of railroads to accept freight or to forward same are so numerous that we have not stenographers enough in the office to answer same with promptness, and the situation is becoming unbearable to the public. There is pending in this commission a number of motions by Commissioners Allison and Mayfield to put several railroads in this state in the hands of receivers and if the managers of those properties can not perform their duties to the public without such unreasonable delay and the situation is not relieved within a reasonable time, I expect to vote for this motion as a relief to the public and let the courts run the railroads awhile.

JAPS FOR WORK ON THE RAILROADS.

Several Japanese laborers are arriving in the city over the Mexican Central every day and are going out of here on the Southern Pacific and other roads, some being destined for California and others stopping off before they reach the coast to work on railroads, says the El Paso Herald.

One hundred and fifty of these foreigners are said to be leaving Guadalajara for this port. Here they will enter the United States and go into different sections of the country. It is stated that the Japanese coming here are those who were brought into Mexico as contract laborers and have served their time.

Many of those arriving are refused admission because of lack of funds and danger that they will become a public burden.

NO CARS FOR COAL AT CARLSBAD, N. M.

A Carlsbad dispatch says: A. P. O'Quinn is in receipt of a letter from General Manager Avery Turner, of the Pecos Valley & Northern railway, regarding the coal situation in Carlsbad, the attention of the railroad men having been called to the necessity for some action on the road's part by Mayor O'Quinn several days ago.

In his letter Mr. Turner assured the mayor that he and his assistants were keeping a close watch on the situation and were doing all they could to rush cars into Carlsbad, and stated that the railroad would, if the necessity became so stressful, divide the last lump it possessed with the people of Carlsbad.

WHITE MAN SOLD INTO SLAVERY IN KENTUCKY; BAD BARGAIN AT $1

"DOCK" AUBURY, A LAZY, ILLITERATE YOUNG FELLOW, PUT UP AT AUCTION AND SOLD UNDER AN OLD LAW AT ELIZABETHTOWN, KY.—CAN DO WONDERFUL FEATS AT THE TABLE AND SNOOZING—"DOCK'S" LITTLE EXPERIENCE WITH MATRIMONY AND FATHER-IN-LAW'S BOOT.

Special Correspondence.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 3.—Kentucky's old vagrancy law, by which a man may be sold into slavery, is still in force, and under its provisions "Dock" Aubury, a white man, 30 years of age, able-bodied, but illiterate, was sold to a master for nine months at Elizabethtown, the other day.

Aubury brought but $1. Most people would think this rather cheap for the services of a full-grown man for nine long months, but there are others who doubt if J. J. Johnson, the Hardin county blacksmith, the purchaser, got a bargain.

"Dock" has the reputation of being a big eater. Those who say they know say he can clean up a table set for an ordinary family in a few minutes.

They say "Dock" actually did this. He had upon one occasion gone to the home of the county judge to beg. The cook had spread and placed dinner upon the table, and was just about to ring the bell for the family when she had a call to the telephone upstairs.

When she returned in about five minutes "Dock" had helped himself to everything in sight, and only remnants remained to tell the tale. "Dock" took his departure and was later sent to the county jail for begging.

"Dock" married a few years ago to a pretty young girl of the Breckenburg neighborhood. He had begged a new suit of clothes, collar and tie, and promised the donor that he would go to the country and assist in harvesting the grain. He went to the home of a distant relative, and went with the family to church.

There was a revival meeting going on and he met a neighbor girl. He looked fine and she fell in love with him. In a few days they ran away, and going into the clerk's office told the clerk that they wanted to get married. At first a license was refused them, but "Dock" begged and said he was going to marry and go to work on the farm.

Every one about the court house had taken kind of a liking to the fellow, because he would not work and had managed to live without it so long. So a pause was made up to pay for the license. He was married, and returning to the home of his wife's parents proceeded to continue his life of ease.

At first the father-in-law, an easy-going farmer, thought his new son-in-law would go to work as soon as the honeymoon began to wane, but after giving him plenty of time and meeting with a positive assertion that he did not have to work he kicked "Dock" out.

He had been away from Elizabethtown only a month when he reappeared and went on the looking job again.

Now, Mr. Johnson, who bought

"DOCK" AUBURY, WHO WAS SOLD

SCENE AT SALE OF "DOCK" AUBURY.

KENTUCKY WHITE SLAVE WHO BECAME GREAT HERO.

Vagrants have long been sold into bondage in Kentucky. Long before the war a worthless white man called "King Solomon," because when sawing a limb from a tree in the court yard on one occasion he stood on the limb and cut it off between himself and the tree, getting an ugly fall for his carelessness, was put up and auctioned off the same as slaves were sold in those days.

He was bought by an old woman known as "Gingerbread Charlotte," because she lived by selling gingerbread on the streets. "King Solomon" went home with her, but would not work, and she finally drove him away.

Later when the cholera broke out here grave diggers could not be found. Everyone was fleeing for his life, but "King Solomon" took up a spade and worked night and day burying the dead in the city graveyard.

For this "King Solomon" received his reward. He was made a hero and no history of Lexington or Kentucky is complete without telling of the deeds of "King Solomon" during the 1833 cholera epidemic in Lexington, and a neat stone marks his grave in the Lexington cemetery.

"Dock" has begun to fear he has made a mistake. "Dock" is about to eat him out of house and home, and will work only when the sturdy blacksmith is right with him. The first thing "Dock" did was to assist in welding a wagon tire. He was holding the rim while Mr. Johnson struck it with his hammer. "Dock" went to sleep and pulled the tire too far over the side of the anvil and the hammer broke it in two places, ruining the rim so that it could not be fixed.

Mr. Johnson set "Dock" to shuckling and his little boy came in soon with the report that the lazy one was fast asleep in the corn crib.

When "Dock" first arrived on the place the honest blacksmith gave him a seat at the table with the family, as he did any other farm hand, but "Dock" took a whole pone of cornbread and emptied the meat dish in his plate the first time it was passed to him. Now "Dock" eats in the kitchen, and only such things as can be spared are given him.

Asked how he liked being a slave "Dock" said he did not like the idea of being so far from town. He said he could not think of walking so far, but that he must go to town soon or he would lose his mind. Mr. Johnson said:

"Dock" will do all right. He is sleepy, but I think this is due to eating too much. Since he came here he has tried to eat everything on the place.

Lawyers here say that were the law taken before the court of appeals it would likely be declared unconstitutional, but nobody cares to take up the case.

Dangers of a Cold and How to Avoid Them.

More fatalities have their origin in or result from a cold than from any other cause. This fact alone should make people more careful as there is no danger whatever from a cold when it is properly treated in the beginning. It acts on nature's plan, loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by all druggists.

New Year's Resolutions

Only express our intention to do something heretofore undone or undo something done.

They are easy in theory, but often very hard in practice.

We Have Made No New Resolutions

Old habit still clings and will dominate the policy we shall pursue through 1907—the habit we formed at the beginning of our business career of serving our customers faithfully. For our old friends and the numerous new ones 1906 brought us we still retain the old habits that brought us all success—that of aiding them in spending their shoe money to the best advantage. Just at this period when the increased cost of materials is such a temptation to skip a little we stick as close as ever to the quality habit. So when you buy our shoes you need have no misgivings about their future. We guarantee satisfaction.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

B. J. Manot came in from Las Vegas last night on business.

Harry W. Kelly and C. C. Robins of Las Vegas arrived at the Alvarado last evening.

Charles Reinken of the Helen Mercantile Co., Helen, is among the visitors to the Duke City.

Judge A. J. Abbott of Santa Fe arrived here last evening on business. He was at the court house this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Freelove of 711 West Roma avenue are being congratulated by their friends on the arrival of a son.

Hon. Solomon Luna paid his fare to Magdalena last night, where he has gone on business connected with his nearby sheep ranges.

L. G. Rosenfield, the pawn broker, will take a rest. He did a good business during the month of December, and in a few days he will visit relatives and friends in Kansas City. He will be absent several weeks.

Governor Hagerman has reappointed Prof. C. M. Light president of the Silver City Normal school, to succeed himself as a member of the territorial board of education, his term there having expired Jan. 1.

Miss Claude Albright, an Albuquerque girl, who has achieved the highest success in the musical world possible in this country, will appear in concert at Elks' opera house next week.

Frank Sandoval, who worked in this office at various times during the last few years has returned to the city from Raton, where he was employed as pressman on the Raton Range.

Mrs. H. J. Cowgill is about to leave Albuquerque for San Pedro, Mexico, where she will join her husband. Mr. Cowgill recently allied himself with a new lumber company at that place and the family will reside there in the future.

The Sandia mountains on the side facing the city, are covered clear down to the mesa with snow. Particles in from the plains beyond the Sandia and Manzano ranges report snow to at least a foot deep, but no losses to stock are reported. The fall of snow, the past forty-eight hours, seems to have been general in central New Mexico.

Dr. K. B. Kaufman, who has been sojourning in the city the past few weeks and made professional calls together with Dr. D. H. Carns, left today on the delayed No. 8 passenger train for the east. He will first visit Chicago, and from there he will go to Washington, where he will remain several weeks and watch the doings of the national lawmakers.

E. N. Clark and C. W. Tully of Denver, also Bens McClellan of Durango and C. C. Sroufe of the Southern Pacific railroad, are in the city in connection with the Colorado and Arizona-Denver and Rio Grande railroad junction suit, which comes up before Judge Abbott this morning.

A. B. Renahan of Santa Fe, who arrived here last night with Mrs. Renahan, will also appear in the suit.

There was a delay of more than twelve hours in the arrival of all trains from the west today, owing to a wreck somewhere west of Winslow. Train No. 8 due last night at 6:45 did not arrive here till 1:45 today. Train No. 4, which should have been here at 12:18 last night arrived today at 11:59 and No. 2, due here at 8:25 this morning, did not reach here till after 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Owing to the death of Mrs. Ada Campfield-Clarke, which sad event was chronicled in The Evening Citizen yesterday afternoon, the ladies of the St. John's Guild today announce that their concert, advertised to take place at the Elks' opera house on Wednesday evening, Jan. 9, has been postponed to Friday evening, Jan. 11. The deceased, had always been active in just such church entertainments as that to be given by the ladies of the St. John's Guild, and out of respect to her memory they considered it only proper and right to announce a postponement of two days, so none of their arrangements might conflict with the funeral and burial of the deceased.

Interest among politicians is now centering about the nominations for justice of the peace and constable in the various precincts, the election for which offices occurs on January 14. Last evening in Caesar Grande's hall on north Broadway, W. W. McClellan was nominated by the democrats for justice of the peace in precinct 12 and W. C. Burgess received the democratic nomination for constable. The meeting was presided over by John Silva. At Ranchos de Atrisco last evening the people's party placed in nomination for justice of the peace Francisco Gabaldon, and for constable Salvador Ansuarez. Nominations have already been made in most of the county precincts and the contest promises to prove a lively one.

MORTUARY

The funeral of Mrs. Ada Campfield-Clarke, whose death was published in The Evening Citizen yesterday afternoon, will take place at the Congregational church, on south Broadway, tomorrow (Friday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Rev. Barron, pastor, officiating. Burial will be had in the Fairview cemetery. The following gentlemen will act as pall-bearers: Felix Lester, Maynard Gunsul, E. J. Alger, Samuel Pickard, Roy Stamm and Raymond Stamm.

The casket will not be opened at the church, but all friends who wish to take a last farewell look at the beautiful dead woman can call at the residence, No. 221 North Seventh street, tonight and tomorrow morning.

Late yesterday afternoon, by permission of the bereaved parents and husband, a post mortem examination was made, and it developed the fact that the diagnosis of the cause, as made by Dr. Hope and the physicians in consultation, was correct—that of intestinal obstruction in the region of the gall duct, and that no skill nor operation of any kind could have prevented death.

Miss Maud Holland. The body of Miss Maud Holland, who died of tuberculosis at the home of her brother-in-law, F. M. Morgan, 410 South Eighth street, will be shipped to Columbus, Ga., on delayed No. 2 this afternoon. Miss Holland's death occurred on last Wednesday afternoon. She came here two years ago for the benefit of her health. Mrs. Lena White, sister, will accompany the body to Columbus, where two sisters and two brothers reside.

Yesterday afternoon services were held at Strong's undertaking establishment over the remains of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hauser, of New York avenue. Rev. Ernest Moser, of the German Lutheran church, officiated. Interment took place in Fairview cemetery.

Off With the Old On With the New

OUR annual January sale is a demonstration of our belief in making merchandise move in season. Some lines that remain practically intact must share the fate of broken lots and sizes in this January clearance. Goods that have been too high class for the majority of buyers must move back into the ranks of the lower priced. Excess stock must diminish, and our method of bringing this result about is the ready knife that cuts deep into prices.

In a few days we will announce some startling price-reductions on all of our left-overs.

In the meantime, call in if in need of any Clothing or Furnishing Goods and we can convince you quickly that our store is the best place for you to obtain these goods. All of our Suits, Overcoats, Underwear, Hosiery, Sweaters and other Winter Furnishings are offered at cut prices.
