DUTY ON HIDES EXTORTIONATE COMMITTEE IS TOLD

Tanners and Shoe and Leather Merchants Make United Plea Before House Tariff Inquiry Commission.

BUSINESS NOW IN HANDS OF MONOPOLY IS CLAIM

Art Dealers Appear With Arguments in Favor of Free Entry of Works of Art From Abroad.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)
Washington, Nov. 28.—Hides returned to the free list and the duty on leather goods, belting and shoes materially reduced.

This is expected to be the result of the united appeal of the tanners and the shoe, leather and belting manufacturers for the free entry of hides, made before the house ways and means committee today.

There were numerous charges made today that there is a monopoly in control of America's production of hides. Important tanners are making the charge.

At a hearing on the subject, numerous representatives of leagues, museums and educational institutions, asking for free entry of works of art. It is not expected, however, that the committee will favor any reduction in the duty on works of art.

There was a slight misunderstanding between the fur manufacturers and the representatives of labor, which they employ, while the duty on manufactured furs was under discussion. Correlation was charged by one union labor man, while another for the manufacturers asked for an increase of 20 per cent in duty.

Tariff on corks, rubber, pens and pencils, precious stones, silverware, jewelry, buttons and other articles of the schedule also was discussed at the night session, some representative asking for protection while others, mainly importers, asked for lower duties.

"Put hides on the free list and the American tanner will beat the world," was the statement that Elisha Cobb, of Boston, another manufacturer of leather, made to the committee. As a result of the questions by Representative Gaines, Mr. Cobb was led to say that the tariff on hides added to the cost of the upper leather in a shoe to the consumer, only three cents.

"So this tribute of three cents a shoe, that every man, woman and child is paying to the huge monopoly is not so heavy after all," observed Mr. Boutell.

Mr. Cobb qualified his previous answer by saying that the upper leather was not all the leather that went into a shoe.

H. M. Hill, of Cleveland, representing thirty tanners making enameled leather, declared that the tariff of fifteen cents on hides was a rank injustice to everybody except the packers. "I think there is no limit to our trade except the skies. If we get our raw materials on the free list," Mr. Hill said.

He added that labor unions might prevent competition with free Canadian leather.

Representative Calderhead asked R. F. Spencer, of St. Louis, who took the stand to say the worst joined the rest in the demand that the tariff be taken off hides, if this would increase or decrease the price cattlemen would get. Mr. Spencer replied that he was unable to say. He added that there was some division among shoe manufacturers as to whether they need a tariff on shoes.

"Payne's neighbor" then appeared. He was Charles McCarthy, a shoe manufacturer of Auburn, N. Y. He introduced his plea for free hides by saying he belonged to the same church as Chairman Payne.

"Get a little closer to the steno-grapher," directed Mr. Payne. "I don't want any of this to miss getting into the record."

Mr. McCarthy said that the consumer would stand a better show for the same money if hides were brought in free.

Charles Keller, of Chicago, representing the Wholesale Saddlery association, said that the removal of the duty on hides would benefit the whole country. He was indifferent to any protection on the goods he manufactured with certain exceptions.

Frederick W. Brooks, of New York, representing glove importers, asked for a reduction of duty, while former Representative L. N. Littauer, of Greenville, N. Y., manufacturer of gloves, asked that the duty on men's gloves be retained and that the duty on women's and children's gloves be increased so as to build up their manufacture in this country.

He explained that fine gloves were made entirely from the imported leather, and therefore it was an injustice to American manufacturers to allow a big leather gauntlet or glove to come in at the same duty as a small glove.

Speaking of the profit in the manufacture of gloves, Mr. Littauer said there had been such a revival of prosperity since November 2 that he could not get enough men for his factory.

Mr. Clark contended that that was caused by a "conspiracy of republican business men to hold up all orders until after the election to influence the result."

Chairman Payne ended the discussion by suggesting that the debate be postponed until the next election.

Edward J. Deitch, of New York, asked for an increase of duty on fancy leather gloves.

James R. Marshall, of Fall River, Mass., a fur hat manufacturer, asked for an increased duty on fur hats.

H. B. Vanderhoof, a straw hat manufacturer, of New York, asked for retention of the duty on straw braid.

Noted Physician Fatally Hurt.

New York, Nov. 28.—Dr. Andrew McCosh, house surgeon of the Presbyterian hospital and son of Dr. James McCosh, late president of Princeton university, was injured today, probably fatally by being thrown from a carriage. He was driving a pair of spirited horses which shied at a passing train. At the Presbyterian hospital it was said tonight that but slight hope of his recovery was entertained.

INDICTMENTS FOR NIGHT RIDERS IN TENNESSEE

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)
Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 28.—Nine indictments charging implication in the lynching of Captain Quisenberry, the Trenton attorney who was hanged and shot to death at Walnut Lake a month ago by a band of so-called "night riders" were returned today by the grand jury which, immediately following the killing of Captain Quisenberry, began an investigation of the recent night rider raids in the freed folk lake vicinity. Indictments against thirty-one others have been prepared. It is stated, would have been presented in court today but for the absence of several witnesses upon whose testimony the indictments are based.

Under instructions of Judge Jones and notwithstanding the protest of R. A. Pierce, attorney for a number of the men now in custody, the names of the indicted will not be announced until Monday.

Colonel R. Z. Taylor, the assistant of Captain Rankin and who narrowly escaped a similar fate, told the grand jury today of his experience. He was before the inquisitorial body for two hours.

NAVY LOSES IN HARD FIGHT STRUGGLE

WEST POINT DEVELOPS
UNEXPECTED STRENGTH

Thirty Thousand People See
Husky Cadets Overwhelm
Midshipmen in Fastest Game of Season at Philadelphia.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)
Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—The one of the fiercest fought football games seen on Franklin field this year the Army vanquished the Navy this afternoon by the narrow score of 6 to 4.

A touchdown and goal against goal from the field. Thirty thousand persons saw the husky cadets conquer the sturdy midshipmen in a contest that never changed. That the naval boys were surprised at the unexpected strength of the army is putting it mildly—they were fairly overwhelmed with the power shown by the cadets. The Annapolis boys entered the game practically sure of victory while the cadets only hoped to win.

The Army's victory notwithstanding the strength shown was due more to a misjudged punt by one of the Navy's backs than to the good work of the teams but it took advantage of the misplay and lost no opportunity in making the score. The Navy's four points, however, were earned by hard and constant playing.

The teams were as evenly matched as it was possible to make them. The defensive of the playing of both was all that could be desired, so powerful, in fact, that neither team could make much impression on its opponent's line, and in consequence they both played a kicking game. There was more punting in today's game than has been seen on Franklin field this season. As was in the case in the big college games of the year, the contest brought out little that was new. Two forward passes and two side-kicks were the only so-called modern plays attempted and of these only one forward pass by the Navy was successful.

The day was ideal for football and a brilliant crowd was out to see the fray. On the south stand the Army side, Secretary of War Wright entertained a large party, while directly opposite, on the Navy side, Acting Secretary of the Navy Newberry had a large number of guests. Prominent in Secretary Wright's box were Representative and Mrs. Longworth, Assistant Secretary of War Oliver saw the game with a party from a box adjoining that of Secretary Wright.

Miss Ethel Roosevelt cast her fortune with the navy and had a seat in the enclosure reserved for the Newberry and wife. Among others in this box were Mrs. Metcalf and a number of friends. To their right was the box of Admiral Dewey.

All the scoring was done in the early part of the first half. The Army kicked off and the Navy returned the ball after one scrimmage. The West Point boys then tried the line for a gain, and Greble punted. Lange, the little nifty quarterback, came across the field at great speed to catch the punt and to the dismay of the midshipmen he over-ran the ball, which struck the ground behind him at the forty yard line. Quick as a flash Chamberlain, for the Army, who had dashed down the field to tackle Lange, kicked up the bounding ball, tucked it under his arm and dashed away for the goal line. There was no one near him except Lange and a touchdown looked good. But Lange quickly got up steam and went after the speeding army man. The little quarterback gained on him and just as Chamberlain was crossing the ten yard line Lange caught him and brought him down hard on the five yard line. The teams lined up for a supreme effort. Dean was given the ball and plunged into the crouching Army men for a good gain, leaving only a few inches between the ball and a touchdown. He was again entrusted with the pigskin and this time he was jammed across for the score. Lange also kicked the goal without difficulty.

The spirited playing by the Army did not dismay the Navy, however, and they went at West Point with great confidence. Securing the ball on an exchange of kicks, it was worked by good line backing to the Army's twenty-seven yard line, where it was fumbled by Clay and lost. The Army immediately punned out of danger but the Navy came back with a line exchange of offensive playing. Unerringly the ball was carried forward by Lange, who ran twenty yards; by Clay and more often by Richardson until it was inside the ten yard line. Here the Army braced, and having four yards to gain to make the first down, the navy decided to try a field goal, which proved easy for Lange, from the fifteen yard line.

During the remainder of the half little was accomplished by either team, though both played hard to get within striking distance of the opponent's goal.

In the first half of the second period of play the ball was always in the Navy's territory. Annapolis would line the line and then kick to midfield. West Point would also try line plunging and then return the kick. Finally the Army took the ball on an on-side kick, Lange making a pretty score and run of fifteen yards to his own thirty-five yard mark. He followed this up with a twenty yard run to midfield and then the tide of battle turned to the Army's side of the field where it waged throughout the remainder of the half. The same tactics were employed, each side kicking the ball after one or two tries at carrying it. It was at this period of the game that the only successful forward pass was made. The ball was tossed by Lange, who used his left arm and the play gained only ten yards.

With the minutes passing rapidly the Navy began to play desperately to get within striking distance to kick a field goal and top the West Point score but the Army continued to take the ball away from danger. Thus the strife continued until Field Judge Marshall raised his hand and declared the game at an end.

BIG ELEPHANT RUNS AMUCK IN NEW YORK

FRENZIED BEAST TEARS
DOWN CROWDED STREET

Tame Pig Responsible for Wild
Panic in Which Pedestrians Have Narrow Escape From Being Trampled.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)
New York, Nov. 28.—The antics of a tiny tame pig so frightened a four-ton elephant today that the big beast broke away from its keepers at the Hippodrome, crashed through several stout doors which barred his progress and started on a wild run toward the East river, down Forty-third street to Fifth avenue, and then through crowded Thirty-fourth street, the huge beast swerving along at a speed that amazed the great crowd following and spread consternation ahead of her. No hand was raised to stay her progress, as she swept along, dodging street cars and automobiles. Men, women and children darted into doorways to give the animal freer way, and horses reared and plunged and screamed in terror when they saw the lumbering pachyderm bearing down upon them. Madison park, Lexington, Third and Second avenues were passed at top speed.

Between Second and First avenues, however, the frightened beast straggled short and plunged into the entrance of a tenement house. The passageway was too narrow to admit the immense bulk and the elephant threw her weight forward and the sides of the doorway crumbled. Trailing through the long hallway she forced an exit in the same manner and then started on a wild rampage through back yard fences. By the time her keepers arrived on the scene she had crept through half a dozen frail obstructions and the windows of every tenement house in the block were filled with spectators. The keeper finally succeeded in getting a rope around one of the elephant's legs, and by making the rope fast to a clothes pole held her there until the beast was securely tied. Then came the problem of getting her back to the playhouse. The beast refused to leave the yard, even after she had been calmed and the ropes removed, and as a last resort three other elephants were led to the scene. It was necessary to break down two more fences before they could be gotten to the running. When she had been joined by her companions the big beast became as tractable as a kitten. The four animals were driven back to the Hippodrome through streets lined with spectators.

PACIFIC PACT ENDORSED IN EUROPE

MARKS END OF LONG
ERA OF UNCERTAINTY

Cordial Support and Sympathy
With United States and Japan in New Agreement Accorded by Older Nations.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)
Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Cordial support of, and sympathy in the end sought to be obtained by Japan and the United States in the agreement respecting China and the Pacific, as outlined in the Associated Press dispatches printed today, "has been given by some, and it is believed, will be given by all the nations of Europe having interests in that section of the world. Its influence in maintaining the status quo in the Pacific and the integrity of China is pointed out to be great enough to make the agreement second to none recorded in recent pages of the world's history."

The reticence of the state department on the question permitted comparatively little to be made public concerning the negotiations and this was confined to the announcement that there would be a restatement of the position of both countries regarding China, designed, it was said, to clear up any misapprehension that might exist. That the negotiations have progressed to the point of actual signature of the agreement, thus indicating a fast advance in the course by the other nations having large interests in the far east harbors, so diplomatic official assert, a decided step in the solution of the eastern question. The American government has fully sound the nations of the world having interests in Asia as to their attitude on the subject of the new agreement. These included the governments which heartily gave their assent to the "open door" policy so warmly advocated and consistently urged by John Hay while secretary of state.

Replies already have been received from some of them.

Having reached an entire accord on the principles of the agreement, all that remains to be done is to agree on the text. This work has made splendid progress and it was said at the state department today that in all probability the agreement would soon be made public. Baron Takahira, the Japanese ambassador, called at the state department today and remained for some time in conference with Acting Secretary Bacon.

The agreement reached between Japan and the United States is the culmination of a long line of conversations, treaties and understandings between the two countries dating back to the controversy over the Japanese school question in San Francisco which for a time, in the minds of some people threatened a rupture of the friendly relations of the two countries. That was settled amicably. Later there was a copyright and trade mark convention, an arbitration treaty, a prominent answer to an invitation by Japan to participate in the Tokyo exposition and last of all the visit of the battleship fleet, the rapid succession of which events, in the minds of the state department officials has but tended to strengthen the good feeling between the two nations, which is now vitalized by what seems to practically amount to an alliance.

FRANCE PREPARED TO GIVE APPROVAL TO TREATY

Paris, Nov. 28.—The terms of the American-Japanese agreement regarding the integrity of China are received with satisfaction in governmental circles. The last clause of the agreement, which pledges the two governments to communicate with each other for the purpose of arriving at a mutual understanding before adopting any measures in the event of the status quo being threatened, is considered of immense importance here. It is likely to make the United States and Japan the arbiters of the future destiny of China. France, however, does not object. Indeed, it is intimated in responsible quarters that she was confidentially advised prior to the publication of this agreement and that she expressed her entire approval therewith.

GERMANY PLEASED WITH SUCCESS OF NEGOTIATIONS

Berlin, Nov. 28.—The report of an understanding between the United States and Japan, guaranteeing the integrity of China and providing for the maintenance of the status quo in the Pacific, did not come as a surprise to official circles in Berlin, but otherwise no one has been led to suspect the existence of any such understanding. Officially the declaration was greeted with the greatest satisfaction as likely to remove all reason for a conflict in the Pacific.

At the same time the confirmation of the industrial and commercial status of the powers in China is considered as further strengthening the policy of the open door. Altogether the agreement is regarded as an important guarantee of complicity in the further development of political relations in the far east. The greatest advantage to be derived therefrom by China is that the Chinese can henceforth, without fear of external difficulties, proceed with internal reforms which will benefit materially all nations having commercial relations with her.

The newspapers here received the agreement as disposing of a number of dangerous questions in which Europe also was deeply concerned, and they comment favorably upon President Roosevelt's policy therein. The Tagblatt says:

"The American nation will be able to say that President Roosevelt hands over to his successor a well ordered house, not only internally but externally. The president scored a great success before leaving office by securing an agreement between the United States and Japan, which will be of extraordinary importance if it dispels the possibility of a conflict that for many months has made the world uneasy. First the Japanese immigration question was settled, and now the Philippines are guaranteed to America by Japan. Mr. Taft's visit to Tokyo has borne fruit. The new agreement will be advantageous to China and the foreign policy of the United States has thus understood how to lay the ghost of the yellow peril. We congratulate ourselves that the new world has brought such a good teacher for the old."

St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—Senator Gorin, who on the order of Emperor Nicholas has investigated the police department of Moscow, has recommended to the senate the indictment of General Rheinholt, former prefect of police there on thirteen charges of violating the criminal code. The offenses include arbitrary abuse of power, neglect of duty, acceptance of bribes and misappropriation of funds.

MOONSHINER CHIEF

NIGHT BATTLE

Two Deputy Marshals Wage
Successful Warfare Against Illicit Distiller Who Long Defied Capture.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)
Ammon, Ala., Nov. 28.—The famous home of moonshine whiskey in the Turkey Heaven mountains of Alabama was conquered, at least for the present, by United States revenue officers when today they brought to jail here Jim Floyd, for a decade the leader of the Floyd gang, and eight alleged members of his gang. Five bullet wounds in Floyd's body attested a spirited all-night fight with the alleged moonshiners.

Floyd had boasted that he would never be taken alive, and he was captured only after loss of blood had dimmed his eye and made his grip on his revolver unsteady.

Two deputies made all the captures. They were Internal Revenue Agent Knox Scott and Chief Deputy Marshal Ashley. They concentrated their hope on the leader of the band, Jim Floyd, and when his companions saw him laid prone at the officers' mercy they fled with their fighting spirit gone. The two officers believed that Floyd and some of his companions were in the home of Bob Allen, and shortly after dark they attacked the house. During the affray Floyd appeared at the window and was shot as he attempted to jump through it. Three of Floyd's friends in the house then gave up the fight, and the officers started on a night round-up of the others. By good luck escaping even the slightest scratch, the pair captured one after another of the band, only one man, keeper of an alleged still, getting away. The still was destroyed.

The deputies got on the trail of the moonshiners last Tuesday when they captured Will Floyd and Bob Allen. These two escaped, with the help of Jim Floyd, their leader.

The men under arrest in addition to Jim Floyd are Will Floyd, Mack Perkins, Ty, Fred, Will, Joe and Lee Allen and John Smith.

Perth Amboy, N. J., Nov. 28.—Four of the six companies of state troops which have been on guard at the works of the National Fire Proofing company in Reasbury where rioting led to the shooting of six strikers by deputy sheriffs were withdrawn tonight. The action, leaving about 200 men for guard duty, was the outcome of a telephone conference between Colonel Dugan, who has been in charge of the troops, and Governor Fort, followed by a further conference which included Sheriff Quackenbush and officials of the company. Citizens of Perth Amboy met in mass meeting today to demand withdrawal of the soldiers. The governor, it is said, was inclined to agree that a reduction of the military might have a pacifying effect and possibly lead to a settlement. The attempt to resume operations this morning was not successful, the strikers failing to respond. The day passed without disorder.

OVER HUNDRED MEN PERISH IN GAS FILLED COAL MINES

Unfortunates Stricken Down by Deadly Fumes Following Explosion; Ghastly Sight Greeted Rescue Expedition.

CAUSE OF CATASTROPHE SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

Disaster Occurs Within Few Moments After State Mine
Experts Complete Inspection and Declare Everything Safe.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire)
Pittsburg, Nov. 28.—More than one hundred men were killed by an explosion in the Marianna mines of this Pittsburg-Buffalo Coal company yesterday, which entombed a large number of miners.

At 1 o'clock this morning the rescuing party had recovered thirty-four bodies and brought them to the bottom of the shaft preparatory to removing them to the surface. All the victims were found in the main entry, the debris in the workings making it impossible to explore there.

The officials of the company assert that the number of men entombed will not exceed 125, while others about the scene say a larger number was in the mine when the explosion occurred.

Shortly after midnight Peter Arnold, an American miner, was brought to the surface from the Richard shaft suffering only a little from his terrible experience. Joseph Kearney, one of the rescuing party, reported that there were other miners alive, below and the rescuers were immediately set to work clearing away the debris. From the condition of the workings where Arnold was discovered, Deputy State Mine Inspector Henry Louttit believes the other twenty men may be saved.

About fifty of the victims, it is reported about the mine, were other Americans or English-speaking men. A majority of the foreigners were comparatively new arrivals in the country, many of them having left families in their old homes.

The power house on the mine has been converted into a temporary morgue. Coffins have been ordered from this city, Monongahela and Washington.

Steps have already been taken for the relief of dependents of the victims. Subscription lists have been opened by charitable organizations and newspapers and arrangements made for a collection in the churches today.

No authoritative estimate of the property loss has been made up to this time, but it will be heavy.

The workings in which today's catastrophe happened are known as the Rachel and Agnes mines in reality a double mine with underground connections. Construction work was practically finished and Deputy State Mine Inspector Henry Louttit, a few minutes before the explosion, had completed a two days' inspection which had revealed no cause for apprehension. He and General Manager Kerr of the company came to the surface a few minutes before 11 o'clock. Mine Foreman Henry Thompson and two miners entered the cage and it was started toward the bottom of the 600-foot shaft. Suddenly there was an ominous rumbling, then a trembling of the ground around the mouth of the shaft as from an earthquake and an instant later there was a terrible report and the cage was hurled up the shaft and through the roof of the shaft house, the mine foreman and the two men still in it. Their bodies were tossed through the top of the building and far beyond it. Thompson was dead when picked up and the others mortally wounded.

So great was the force of the explosion that shattered portions of the roadway about the mouth of the shaft were blown in Ten Mile creek 2,000 feet away. Beside the three men in the cage, portions of at least two other bodies were blown from the shaft house and were found in a field nearby.

The ventilating fans were put out of commission by the disaster and for several hours, until repairs could be made, no air could be forced into the mine. Immediately following the explosion a dense column of smoke issued from the shaft and it was feared a severe fire was raging at the bottom of the mine.

A short time afterward the smoke almost ceased but those on the surface were unable to tell whether the fire had been smothered or the shafts so filled with falling debris that the smoke could not escape.

Rescue work was immediately started. Inspector Louttit assuming charge but it was impossible to gain entrance to the mine for a long time. The opening of the shaft was the only solution, and for this task there were volunteers in numbers sufficient to Froese, Mrs. Edna Barn, Mrs. C. E. McElroy, Mrs. Alice Anderson, Mrs. Della Chapman, Mrs. Allen, of Kasson, Minn., Mrs. H. Field, Mr. J. Douglas, Mr. A. Randall, Mr. Louis Peterson and Mr. Charles Bergman.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix H. Leiser, 1116 East Central avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Leiser, 1164 West Central avenue, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Leiser, 1117 East Central, were traveling hosts and hostesses at a luncheon dining and dancing party, which they gave at the dining hall of the Y. M. C. A. The luncheon room was transformed into a garden under the electric lights, where flowers and plants were placed in the center of the room, and the tables were decorated with palms and small trees. The center of the floor being reserved for dancing, with those preferring to smoke used the water stage. The orchestra made a special effort to keep the music exciting, and the dancing was by no means slow. The very unique and beautiful luncheon was to the gentlemen who were guests in the afternoon. The at-may be on a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be as stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the bile-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the debilitation of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, or poor appetite, or a craving for stimulants, or constipation, or a feeling of tiredness, or weak, easily tired, dependent, frequent headaches, pain or distress, "small of heart," gnawing or distressing feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "dizziness," or "rising" to throat after eating, and similar symptoms, you are suffering with a torpid liver. This fine will relieve such a liver promptly or cure it.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or some other liver trouble. A cold, a bad cold, bad throat and hoarseness, glands caught, other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a close-acting, non-nutritive medicinal food with a full list of ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age, and are known to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret REMARK OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

O. A. Matson & Co. Present
Unusually Attractive Array of Newest Things in Holiday Goods.

Christmas things are making their appearance early this year in Albuquerque stores. One of the first complete displays to be presented, that by O. A. Matson & Co., the Matson store more than living up to its reputation this year as the Albuquerque headquarters of attractive Christmas novelties.

Christmas things this year at Matson's are unusually large and a noticeable feature is that the novelty lines combine to a greater extent than ever usefulness and decorative attractiveness. Thus the line of leather goods, every article of practical use is of ex-optionally pleasing design, including note cases, desk pads, pocketbooks, hand bags, fancy ink wells, in fact almost everything for desk and hand and pocket that comes in leather. There are some real creations in cigar

One line in particular is likely to prove attractive. This includes chafing dishes and percolators in nickel and brass at very moderate prices, the sizes ranging from the chafing dish just large enough for a rarebit for two to a percolator large enough to serve coffee to a bridge party.

The hand painted china lines are beautiful and in very original designs. There is a line of Dutch china, the painting complete and well executed from the wooden shores on the little Dutch lassies to the fans on the wind mills, the pieces in unique shapes. There is much pretty blue delf and a very handsome assortment of single pieces. The store also presents a pleasing assortment of cut glass. The vases and decorative pieces are numerous including the popular Teco ware and the Utopian ware.

These things form but small part recently which surpasses in marked degree his earlier work done while in Albuquerque and which brought him a national reputation.

Mr. Moon recently spent some time in the Taos pueblo in northern New Mexico, now rapidly becoming the headquarters for artists who turn to the northwest and southwest for material. Some studies which seem decidedly the best things he has done, Mr. Moon has mastered every secret of the photographer's art and in one of these recent pictures, "Home From the Hunt," he has made a picture which is a masterpiece of photographic technique. It is a study before an adobe fireplace and by a combination of paper and light effects an absolutely realistic firelight glow is thrown over the face, showing dimly the outline of the room and the trophies of the hunt. In conception it is as good as the picture of a child's achievement and will probably take its place as the best work Mr. Moon has done.

Wall Street.

New York, Nov. 28.—There was a spotty show of strength in today's stock market in a number of stocks not usually of foremost prominence. Speculative rumors were the material of the operators who bought and bid up these stocks. Many were in repetition of those heard yesterday and there were rather feverish fluctuations in some of the stocks which had recovered in response to such rumors yesterday. Hasty sales to realize on the sudden advance caused a sudden relapse. The effect of sporadic advances was disquieting rather than reassuring, to the tone of the general list. The artificial appearance of advances deprived them of convincing force and the usual favorite mediums for trading operations were inclined to depression. The Hayman Brothers, Trading, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting dropped to lower levels. The movement of these stocks determined the undertone of the whole market. Their decline was based on doubts over the general speculative position owing to the high level of prices, the prospective capital requirements in the form of new issues and the undercurrent of uneasiness over the European political situation. Foreign sales of securities here were large. The discrepancies between the weekly statement of banking averages and the actual condition were unusually wide, especially in the cash item. The gain in cash of $1,367,000 indicated by the average compared with a decrease of $4,000,000 in the actual condition. The average daily loans have expanded only $7,744,000, while the actual increase in that item was $10,310,700 and this was supplemented by a loan increase of $5,884,800 in loans by other banks. The important operations of the week seem to have affected this item largely. Closing quotations on active stocks:

COLORADO RIVER LANDS

PALO VERDE VALLEY AND
BLYTHE RANCH ACREAGE:
$40 AND UP, WITH WATER

The Blythe Ranch, consisting of 40,000 acres in the heart of the Palo Verde Valley, in Riverside County, California, is a second edition of the famous Imperial Valley, the soil of which it equals in every respect. It has the advantage of being 265 feet above, instead of below sea level, and it is simultaneously irrigated and fertilized by the Colorado river, through a model system of canals owned and operated by the farmers themselves.

A Splendid Chance For Investors.

The Blythe property offers an exceptional opportunity to the investor and the homeseeker because development has just begun, and the initial prices are less than either land or water rights separately are bringing at any point where the soil is fertile or the water unlimited.

If you are seeking a location in which you may secure a comfortable home with assured income, together with a chance to benefit through the certainty of largely increased values, write for literature or interview.

Illness in the Pacific Mutual and get the best.

Touching.
Buckley-Buckley is the easiest chap I ever met. Every day some acquaintance tells him a yarn and he takes a five or so.

Van Albert—Yes, his friends are beginning to call him "Wet Paint."

Buckley—Because he is so soft?

Van Albert—No, because very few people pass without "touching him."

NO ILLINOISANS IN OFFICIAL FAMILY

TAFT FIRST PRESIDENT
WITHOUT SINCE LINCOLN

West Will Get Far Greater
Share of Insurance Funds—
Campaign of Conservation League—Loan Sharks Under Fire.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

Chicago, Nov. 24.—The death of Illinois names mentioned for possible positions in the cabinet has led politicians here to comment that William H. Taft will probably be the first president since Lincoln, with two exceptions, who has not had an Illinois man in his official family. The exceptions are Hayes and Harrison, under both of whom, however, the middle western states were well represented. The middle west has furnished a total of 11 cabinet officers, beginning with Lewis Cass, secretary of war, under Jackson, and ending with Secretary Wilson in the present cabinet. The record in this respect is an interesting one. Seven secretaries of state have come from this region, 12 secretaries of the treasury, or half the incumbents of the office since the days of the civil war, 14 secretaries of war, or half the number who have held the office since 1859, 17 secretaries of the interior and every secretary of agriculture since the portfolio was established. Of the other sections of the country, the south has furnished 94 members of cabinets and New England 46. New York holds the highest record for a single state, having sent 24 men to the councils of the presidents. Massachusetts comes next, with 23, followed by Pennsylvania with 28, Ohio 25 and Virginia 21. Secretary Taft is the third head of the war department to be elected president, the others being James Monroe and U. S. Grant. Jefferson Davis was also secretary of war, under Pierce. Six presidents have been secretaries of state prior to going to the White House; they were Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, J. Q. Adams, Van Buren and Buchanan. None of the other portfolios have furnished presidents, although Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy and several cabinet officers have been presidential candidates.

Signs multiply that the west will get, during the next few years, a far greater share of the stupendous insurance funds of the United States than the tenth now withheld from coffers east of the Allegheny mountains. The sums invested by the life companies now amount to over three billion dollars, of which over $2,500,000,000 are held in the east, and a similar situation exists in respect to the life insurance companies. Chicago retains less than one per cent of the money that the west contributes to insurance revenues, but its contribution toward those revenues is huge—a large part of the $37,602,556 sent out of Illinois every year for life insurance, and of the $5,640,415 which Illinois pays for insurance other than life and fire. The removal of the Consolidated Casualty company from Philadelphia to Chicago because its president, Robert R. Armstrong, formerly assistant secretary of the treasury, foresees a great insurance development in the west, has been taken as a forerunner of a gradual shifting westward of insurance interests, but at present the tribute paid to the east is astounding. For instance, the revenues of the life insurance companies last year from Indiana were $9,941,131, and from Iowa $6,812,244, and from Michigan $2,297,734 and from Wisconsin $7,633,914. Mr. Armstrong, to make conditions attractive to Chicago others of the big insurance companies, has suggested the novel plan of having the Chicago Association of Commerce appoint a protective committee which shall safeguard the public against any but sound and reputable companies; the committee to investigate each new company and either disallow it or endorse it, according to the conditions discovered.

The first campaign of the Conservation League of America, which has just closed, has revealed the existence of a strong sentiment in favor of conservation legislation that should lead to effective action in congress this winter, declares Walter L. Fisher, president of the league. "Vigorous efforts will undoubtedly be made at the next session to pass the Appalachian bill and secure the repeal of the Stone and Timber Act," said Mr. Fisher. In a formal review of the work to date, "and from information in our possession I think it can safely be asserted that a substantial majority of members can be counted on to vote, for these measures. Of 291 members of congress elected, the league has received direct assurances of approval and support from 140, more than one-third of the total membership (nearly all of whom have signed the league's declaration). A number of other congressmen have written qualified letters of approval. Only three of the members of the next congress expressly refused to commit themselves. All of the remaining congressmen simply failed to reply. A number of these were elected before the organization of the Conservation league and it was impossible to reach many others by mail or wire because of inability to secure from state or party officials the names and addresses, or because of the absence of candidates from their homes during the active campaign."

The "loan shark" business, which has extorted hundreds of thousands of dollars of enormous interest from salaried employees in Chicago and elsewhere every year, is the latest target of attack. As a result of the recent decision by the Illinois supreme court,

Auction of Lots in Vaughn, New Mexico

To be Held in Albuquerque, December 1st and 2d

Vaughn is located at the crossing of the Santa Fe and Rock Island railroads; is a division point on the Santa Fe; has now a population of 500; costly railroad improvements, among which are an 18-stall concrete roundhouse, fine concrete depot; extensive crusher plant employing 200 men. There is an abundance of fine valley land open for homestead filing.

THE ONLY TOWN IN NEW MEXICO HAVING TWO TRUNK LINES—40 TRAINS A DAY OVER BOTH LINES.

On account of the expense and inconvenience of travel necessarily attending an auction on the spot we have decided to offer a limited number of choice lots at auction in the principal cities surrounding Vaughn, giving investors and parties wishing to go into business, a chance to acquire property in Vaughn.

THE COMING RAILROAD AND WHOLESALE CENTER OF THE SOUTHWEST.

Every man, woman and child attending the sale will have a chance at an absolutely free lot—whether they buy or not.

IS YOUR COAT DUSTY?

You Probably Have the White Scab of Dandruff on It.

If your coat or shoulders have a white dust upon it, the chances are that it is from dandruff. The only way to permanently cure dandruff is to remove the cause, which is a germ. Newbrey's Herpicide kills the germ. Every toilet table should have such a hair-dressing that contains also the destroyer of the dandruff and the hair falling germ. It stops all irritation, keeps the scalp sweet, pure and wholesome. Remember that something claimed to be "just as good" will not do the work of genuine Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00.

Springfield Riot Cases Fall.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28.—The acquittal today of two more defendants in the case of the Springfield riot is generally regarded as reinforcing the collapse of the cases growing out of the recent race riots. A verdict of not guilty was brought in by the jury in the case of William and Mabel Stout, who had been on trial on an indictment charging burglary and larceny.

CURES ECZEMA QUICKLY

New Drug, Pushton, Now Obtainable in Small Quantities.

Since its discovery one year ago the new drug, pushton, has successfully cured thousands of chronic cases of eczema and other distressing skin affections. Heretofore pushton has been dispensed solely for the benefit of eczema patients in large jars sufficient for a month's treatment. This was found to be an inconvenience to many thousands who use it for minor skin troubles, such as pimples, blackheads, herpes, acne, scaly scalp, complexion blemishes, itching face, etc., which require but a small quantity to cure. To overcome this, and in response to urgent appeals, the dispensers of pushton have been obliged to adopt, in addition to the regular two-dollar package, a special fifteen-cent size, which in future may be found on sale at O'Reilly's, B. H. Briggs and Co., the Williams Drug Co. and other leading drug stores in Albuquerque, or may be ordered direct from the Emergency Laboratories, 36 1/2 West 24th Street, New York City. In all eczema cases pushton stops itching with first application, and proceeds to heal immediately; chronic cases being cured in two weeks. In less serious skin troubles results are seen after an overnight application.

Samples for experimental purposes may still be had, free of charge, by writing to the laboratories for them.

He Had Figured It Out.

A negro who lived in Macon, Ga., was suddenly bereaved of his wife, who had relatives in Augusta. During the completion of the funeral arrangements the widower had gone to the railroad station and asked the price of roundtrip tickets to Augusta—two tickets, one for himself and one for the remains. The agent explained that while the widower might need a round trip for himself it would be necessary to purchase only a one-way ticket for the late lamented, the agent taking it for granted that the interment was to be at Augusta.

"It knows what I'm going to!" protested the negro, somewhat heatedly. "I've got a definite idea what I want. My wife has got more than eighty-nine kinfolks down to Augusta, and all of 'em wants to see her body when she's buried. I've got it all figured out; I'll be more economical for me to take her in August and book back with 'em. I'll be more economical for me to take her in August and book back with 'em. I'll be more economical for me to take her in August and book back with 'em."

THE WOODEN LEGGED SALESMAN OF THE "WOODENLEG"

A WORLDWIDE AUTHORITY ON WOODENLEG INDUSTRY

Being the Tale of the Evolution of the Woodenleg and Some of the Oddities of its Wearers.

In a long journey by a Pullman car, if he be of an observing turn of mind, the traveler runs across many odd things of human interest. In the west, ordinarily, there are pioneers, old platiners, Indian fighters, explorers and the like, and their tales always are interesting to the stranger. In these parts, but commonplace to the rest of us. However, sometimes one meets a fellow traveler who tells him something entirely new, and such was the experience of F. L. Vandegrift, of Kansas City, editor of the Santa Fe Railway's publication, "The Earth," in a recent journey through New Mexico and Arizona. Indeed, it was the second time Mr. Vandegrift has fallen in with this man, and in the same section of country. He was no less an oddity than a wooden-legged man who travels for an English trade journal, called "The Woodenleg."

"An added interest in the man this time," Mr. Vandegrift said to a reporter for the Journal yesterday, "was that he said he formerly lived in Albuquerque, and while working on your court house twenty-odd years ago sustained an injury which some years later made necessary the amputation of his leg below the knee. This entitled him in the great army of the world's wooden-legged. He has nothing to complain of, however, for the loss of his leg staided and brought him to a right sense of living and ultimately to a good job. When he left the charity hospital in San Francisco, he had the bare price of a cheap stump of a leg, upon which he started out to make his way in the world. He had been wayward and indifferent of the future, but now he was up against the real thing. No more would he ride the blind baggage, or tramp the highway. However, he was a high-school graduate and capable, and soon he began to make headway. First, he found work in the office of a coastwise steamship company. This gave him an acquaintance with seafaring men, and one day on board ship he picked up a monthly paper called "The Woodenleg," published at Hull, England.

Philosophy of the Woodenleg.

"The oddity of it struck him, of course, but a greater interest was that it contained advertisements of artificial limbs, and he slipped it into his pocket. Woodenlegged people always are interested in others who likewise may be afflicted. They not only are interested in each other's artificial legs, but in their life's stories, and they talk by the yard together upon the one subject. Let a man be ever so well informed, ever so talented, in the midst of life he is unfortunate, he is given a woodenleg, thereafter he will seek the company of woodenlegged people. Let there be a reunion of old soldiers, privates and officers, and they will drift together away from the main crowd and talk about their wooden legs. They may not be congenial, intellectually, but that is forgotten in the bond of sympathy created by their wooden legs.

"So when Hoard (for that is the man's name) found this copy of 'The Woodenleg,' he made a night of reading it. Especially was he interested in three or four pages devoted to the 'Woodenleg Exchange.' These pages contained advertisements of wooden legs for exchange. Nobody ever is satisfied with his own wooden leg. All want to trade with somebody else, and 'The Woodenleg' is a great medium of exchange. Hoard says there are many varieties of wooden legs—stumps, cork, shot, peg, stiff, adjustable—and even the most expensive never are satisfactory, and so to the 'Woodenleg' those restless people go with their griefs and offer exchange. Often, by the hands of friendly sailors, unwelcome advertisements in 'The Woodenleg' exchanges are made between woodenlegged persons who live half the circumference of the earth apart, but usually the local exchange service is sufficient.

"The 'Woodenlegged Exchange,' more often than an exchange of legs, leads to a correspondence between woodenlegged people. Occasionally there are woodenlegged women who have found husbands by the medium of the 'Woodenlegged Exchange.' Originally a trade journal only, lately it has become, in addition, a news and literary journal for woodenlegged people, and now it has a circulation of about 200 one in the English-speaking world. Originally, also, its principal circulation was among English sailors, and it follows ships from port to port around the world. So many English sailors, especially jackies of the navy, lose their legs in the service that when 'The Woodenleg' first was established they turned to it for news of their little world, and so continue to this day. They begin to write communications to it, which, published, soon attracted the attention of sailors in active duty, who subscribed for it. An English sailor reads 'The Woodenleg' no less regularly than actors people read dramatic journals, or manufacturers their peculiar trade journals.

"The paper has come into an American circulation since the war with Spain. For our navy to pick them up, British ships at the outset of that war conveniently discharged seamen in ports where our warships were handy to enlist them. Thus the new men brought to our navy copies of 'The Woodenleg.' In this way the paper attracted the attention of American sailors, who sent stray copies of it to their families, and so 'The Woodenleg' has found its way into American homes. Its circulation is along seacoasts mostly, but it goes elsewhere, also. It is found in soldiers' homes throughout the United States, and in the homes of New England people of seafaring ancestry, no matter where they frequently go.

Disastrous in Swimming.

"Mr. Hoard says modern legs enable a man to perform all the duties of good legs, even to dance, except the art of swimming. The woodenlegged man may keep afloat in water, but he can't make headway. If he wears his wooden leg it sticks above the water and his head dips. If he don't wear it, his good leg acts as a rudder and makes him swim in a circle. He says, ordinarily, one artificial leg at a time is enough for a man, but often a man has an extra. Some even have Sunday legs. For the rich there are two styles of wooden legs, all of hats and clothes. Some men affect the foot attachment. Corporal Tanner, whose two legs are gone, has cork legs with feet and shoes. However, the peg (cork or wood) is favored most.

The Mourning Leg.

"Mr. Hoard says the publishers of 'The Woodenleg' make artificial limbs to order, and all over the world they have customers to whom they send new legs annually, as men are real new hats from their own stocks, or new ships, etc., in the changing seasons. In eastern Tennessee lives a woodenlegged man who is a great mariner. Already he has lost six wives, and with each he has buried a wooden leg. After the death of a wife, he paints his new leg black, 12 feet of his grief, until he marries again, when he paints it white.

"In Concordia, Kas., a man lives whose daughter practices pyrotechny on his wooden legs. He is a man who keeps extras on hand. He takes great pride in these works of art and annually exhibits them at the county fair.

"Mr. Hoard first obtained a wooden leg by gift from his father. He wrote telling the circumstances of its accident and his physical condition, and said that he would like to know where he might buy a leg cheap, close to San Francisco, describing the leg he had, its length, etc. He also told what he was doing, and in six or eight months a tramp-sailing vessel, called the 'Three Brothers,' brought a sailor who gave him a leg with the compliments of the publishers of the journal. In the same letter he was offered a job on commission. Immediately afterward he went to work among the sailors in San Francisco, and did so well that he soon was put on the road at a salary to sell the newspaper by subscription, and to take orders for wooden legs. He has been doing this now since 1899."

LIBEL CASE LONG DRAWN OUT

Suit of Contractor Hart Against Citizen Publishing Company Expected to Reach Jury on Monday.

At 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon the case of John Hart versus the Citizen Publishing Company, in which the plaintiff seeks $10,000 damages on account of injury to character and business by reason of an alleged libelous article published in the Evening Citizen on August 23, 1908, was still on trial. Court adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning, at which time the trial will be resumed, and it is likely that it will be completed before night.

The work of introducing the defendant's side of the case, which was begun Friday morning, was continued yesterday. J. C. Baldridge was placed on the stand by the defense, and testified that he was ill in a hospital in Denver at the time the articles in question were published. Mr. Baldridge testified that Hart had requested him to go on his behalf for a libelous contract after the publication of the articles in the Citizen, and that he had also asked for return on building materials, both of which requests he had denied. Mr. Baldridge stated, however, that it was not on account of the publication of the articles that he denied the requests made by Hart. The witness also said that at the time the requests were made, Hart was indebted to him in the sum of $600. On cross-examination, Mr. Baldridge admitted that on previous occasions Hart had owed him as much as $2,500, and that he had never refused him credit before. Mr. Baldridge added that it was not on account of the articles in the Citizen which referred to Hart, that he had refused to go on his bond or to allow him further credit, and said that the articles had no influence with him.

On cross-examination, conducted by Mr. Wood, of counsel for the plaintiff, Mr. Baldridge admitted that he had read Mr. Wood and Mr. Cook several days ago that he, Mr. Baldridge, was surprised to see Hart back in town after the articles in the Citizen had been published. Mr. Baldridge also stated that after later reflection and consideration of the matter, he believed that his surprise was caused by some other means than by the newspaper publications.

Willard S. Strickler, president of the Citizen Publishing company, was placed on the stand by the defense and testified that he was interested in the Citizen, but that he did not supervise or edit the writing of articles, issued some suggestions which he might make in special cases. Mr. Strickler said that he did not know the whereabouts of F. L. Dyer, whom it is said wrote the articles regarding Mr. Hart which appeared in his paper on August 23 and 24, 1908. Lengthy depositions signed by W. T. McCreight, former business manager of the Citizen, were read to the jury and introduced in the evidence. The depositions were taken in Chicago, where Mr. McCreight now resides. They were to the effect that the articles which appeared in the Citizen regarding Hart were written by a reporter named F. Raymond Dyer, then employed on that paper.

Mr. McCreight stated in the depositions that he had no office charges and supervision of the paper with the exception of the editorial department, but that his actions in conducting the paper were at all times subject to the suggestion, approval or disapproval of Mr. Strickler, the president of the Citizen Publishing company.

Mr. McCreight also stated that he had not read either of the articles regarding Hart until after their publication, having left the matter of publishing them to the judgment of Mr. Dyer, the reporter. Mr. McCreight's deposition was into the matter of some length and was to the effect that Dyer had told him that he had received the information contained in the articles from Attorney Frank Asperman and Counselor James Smith. James Doolittle, of the Albuquerque Lumber company, another witness placed on the stand by the defense testified that he had known Hart for some time and that Hart had traded with his company both before and after the publication of the alleged libelous articles. Mr. Doolittle said that it was true that he had refused to go on Mr. Hart's bond after the publication of the articles, but explained that this was on account of the fact that the Albuquerque Lumber company had maintained a policy of refusing to go on bonds for any one, and that he had so informed Mr. Hart. Mr. Doolittle said that he knew Hart very well and that the articles in the Citizen had no influence with him either in the matter of credit or bond.

PATENT OFFICE FREAKS

One Would Change the Dead Into Attendants of Gold.

Among the many queer things at the patent office at Washington, perhaps the very queerest in the process lately patented for turning corpses toto gold statues, or incidentally into silver or bronze, if money is an object, says the Post-Dispatch.

No more "dust to dust" for the human body. Burial itself may be done away with, and our dear departed may stand around our homes for all time.

The name of the patentee is David J. Block, a letter carrier, of Chicago. He says he has been eight years experimenting, and now can turn the body of a man weighing 185 pounds into pure gold for $55,000, and into pure silver for $260,000. He makes a bronze statue, permeating the flesh to a depth of one-eighth of an inch, which can be done for $2,000, and he guarantees that to preserve a corpse intact for 100 years.

Possibly he will go on and invent some crockery process for even less money—but that might be dangerous because so breakable, and one does not want to see one's loved ones broken up about the house.

Mr. Block has, in fact, stirring on the patent office a very startling idea. He has some samples or no-works that are amazing, to say the least. Among them is a bunch of American Beauty roses metalized five years ago. They are hard as a rock, but perfectly natural in coloring, and when he opens the box to take them out, the scent appears to be as strong as in a fresh cut rose.

His wife wears hats made by him of other roses—one an American Beauty, another a pink rose and a third a white rose. The hats metalized two years ago. She has worn them constantly, winter and summer, in all sorts of weather. The odor of them is exactly like that of freshly picked roses.

Of course, Mr. Block, naturally refuses to divulge the process by which he thinks he has conquered the forces of disintegration. He has arranged with one of the largest basket companies in the country to handle the process. He says he can never turn undertaker himself, but he can show anybody else how to do it, so that there can be no possibility of mis-take.

QUARTER MILLION A MILE FOR NEW RAILROADMARVEL OF SKILL IS SPOKANE-SEATTLE LINE

Will Take Longer Trains Than Any Other Road in the Country—Huge Six-Footers to Spear for Belt in Roped Arena.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
 Spokane, Wash., Nov. 28.—Regarded by engineers as a marvel of construction is the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railway, 423 miles, the most direct line between this city and Portland, which will be completed July 1, 1909. The road, built jointly by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific systems, is the most expensive in America, the cost of much of it ranging from $250,000 to $500,000 a mile. Twenty-five miles of track remains to be laid between Spokane and Pocatello, and this work will be completed in two weeks. Besides this there are two bridges, one mile apart near Devil's canyon. One is 1,160 feet in length and 220 feet high, while the other is 1,000 feet long and 160 feet above the ground in the center.

The line will permit of longer trains being hauled over it than on any other road in the country. The most severe grade is 4-10 of one per cent, and between Cheney, Spokane county, and Portland, the line is down grade. There are no sharp curves, the greatest being three degrees and, as a result, one locomotive can pull from Spokane to Portland as many cars as it can start on level ground. This is expected to set new records for heavy hauling.

The road has been built without regard to expense, the purpose being to make it permanent and safe. An idea of this may be gained when it is known that twenty miles of line between Pocatello and Kootenai, south of here, cost $3,000,000, or $250,000 a mile, while a mile of road along the bluffs overlooking Snake river involved an expenditure of $500,000. To survey and build this part of the line, which follows the Columbia river, men were suspended over the cliffs with ropes but while there were many narrow escapes, not a life was lost nor was any one seriously injured.

Fred S. Radloff, sheriff of Whitman county, who towers six feet and two inches in his bare feet and weighs 275 pounds, and Dr. T. E. Callaghan, of Spokane, six feet and four inches from crown to sole, with 240 pounds to his credit, will meet in the roped arena with paddled gloves within two weeks, to decide the amateur championship of the Inland Empire glants. The mill is to be pulled off before the Spokane Amateur Athletic club, which will back the winner to defend the championship of the Pacific northwest in this class. Frank W. Smith, editor of Smith's Dope, who is nearly seven feet in height and weighs 320 pounds, will be referee. Eddie Volkman, manager of the bout, says that when the two gladiators meet within the squared circle the legends of the Grecian giants will be forgotten, and the rumble of Olympus at the anger of Zeus will appear like merely a ripple of the atmosphere in comparison with the deep breathing of the physical left-overs from the age of giants. Radloff and Callaghan do not sound anything like Homer's heroes, but they will have to stand in the history of twentieth century battles.

Fay McDonald, the eight-year-old expounder of the doctrines of a sect which claims to be re-enacting the deeds of the apostles, and daughter of William McDonald, formerly judge of the Whitman county superior court, was arrested in a life line mission as a delinquent juvenile and sent home by Judge J. D. Hinkle, of the Spokane county superior court. It was disclosed at the hearing that the child had never seen the inside of a school room and that her sole instruction was in the teachings of the Apostolic faith. Judge McDonald said he had arranged to have her preach a series of sermons, but the court forbade her to speak there or at any other gatherings. The mission people say the child is divinely inspired and that her preaching has won many converts.

Lord Shelton Douglas, brother of the present Marquis of Queensbury, and son of the eighth marquis, found the famous prize fight rules, has been admitted to bail in the court of assizes at Nelson, B. C., on a charge of attempted murder, having shot M. Rowland at Creston, B. C., several weeks ago. His lordship ran a saloon in Spokane in the early days and celebrated the opening by inviting the town to help itself to drinks.

CALIFORNIA BOYS DIE IN MOUNTAIN BLIZZARD

Ventura, Cal., Nov. 28.—Frozen to death in the snow that covered the high peaks north of the Santa Clara valley Wednesday night, the bodies of three Santa Paula boys, sons of well known ranchers, were found late this afternoon after a search of two days. Clifford Sharp, aged seventeen; Cuba Sharp, aged nine, and John Blase, aged thirteen, started from home early Thursday morning to see the snow. They went without coats, intending to be home for Thanksgiving dinner. When night came they had not returned. Searching parties were formed but not until this afternoon were the bodies found, at the head of Timber canon, about ten miles from Santa Paula. The boys evidently had got into the deep snow and becoming exhausted had perished from cold and hunger.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
 Spokane, Wash., Nov. 28.—Flora M. Birkess, a graduate of Baldwin seminary, until a short time ago a vaudeville performer and now head of the Choral mission in the rear of the Cosmo d'Arena theater, accomplished in a brief exhortation on the street corners what could not be done by the entire police force of the city. She rounded up John P. Gamble, alias J. P. Mansfield, a notorious highwayman, converted him to Christianity and persuaded him to confess his crimes to the authorities. He walked alone to the police station, where he told of more than forty robberies. When taken before Justice S. A. Mann, he pleaded guilty to the attempted robbery and shooting of H. E. Ayres, and was held to the superior court in bonds of $2,000. He said:

"I understand what it will mean to me to confess, but I am willing to take any punishment that may be given me for my crimes. At the same time, I want to say a word to the young men: Leave all liquor alone, it is the forerunner of evil. The first drink may be the beginning of a career of the blackest crimes. I committed all my crimes when drunk and always worked singlehanded, the first being at Helena, Mont., three years ago, and I guess I've robbed men of thousands of dollars in my time. I am not boastful of this, I am sorry now, and I am willing to atone for my wrong-doing."

Gamble gave several $10 gold pieces to strangers in the river district after talking with Miss Birkess, also scattering $250 of his ill-gotten gains into the street while on the way to the police station.

Hybridization of wheat, with which the cereal experts at the Washington state college at Pullman in the heart of the Palouse grain belt, south of Spokane, have just closed a series of successful experiments, will add from $1,800,000 to $2,000,000 a year to the value of the states' product in the future. Prof. C. W. Lawrence, station cropologist, and Prof. George Severance, now acting head of the agricultural department, took charge of the propagating work four years ago. It was ascertained late last year that their plans were successful, but they preferred to wait another year before announcing the results. In the meantime the hybrid wheats were sent to farmers in various parts of the state, from which the final reports are now being received. The ranchers report that the newly created varieties of wheat can be depended upon to yield at least ten and in many instances as high as twenty-five per cent better than the standard varieties.

Mrs. May Arkwright Hutton, wife of a millionaire mining operator in Spokane, will pick ten of the most beautiful girls in the state of Washington to canvass the city after the national election in the interest of equal suffrage. Five of the young women will come from the west side of the Cascade mountains, and a quintet will be named in the east side, thus giving both parts of the state equal representation. The purpose is to secure the signatures of thousands to a petition, urging the coming legislature to submit for popular vote an equal suffrage amendment to the state constitution. The girls will also do missionary work among hold-over and newly elected members of the legislature of 1909. Mrs. Hutton, who is president of the Spokane branch, and vice president of the Washington Equal Suffrage league, voted for years in Idaho, where she lived before coming to Spokane.

MORNING JOURNALAN INTERNATIONAL RIFLE MATCH

Shoot of Unusual Interest This Winter Under Auspices of Society of Miniature Rifle Clubs.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)
 Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—An international rifle match of unusual interest will be shot this winter under the auspices of the Society of Miniature Rifle Clubs of Great Britain and the National Rifle Association of America. Each country will be represented by fifty men who will shoot ten shots each at twenty-five yards with a miniature rifle. The Americans will doubtless use the .22 caliber, as under the terms of the challenge the caliber of the rifles is limited to .22, which is comparatively unknown in this country. The ten shots are to be fired on what is known as a double decimal target, which is really two targets joined together, each with an inner sighting bull and an inner half inch bull counting ten. Ten concentric circles one quarter of an inch apart divide the count from one to ten. Five shots are to be fired on each target, the ten shots constituting the string allowed each competitor. One hundred targets will be sent to the National Rifle Association by the Society of Miniature Rifle clubs, bearing the signature of the latter. The endorsement of the American association will be added and fifty of the targets returned to Great Britain. After the shooting the two sets of targets will be collected and exchanged to verify the scores which will be sent by cable.

It is possible that this unique match will be a three cornered affair and that Australia will be drawn into it. The British society has provided a handsome trophy to be held for one year by the winning country and each participant will receive a commemorative medal. Considerable preparation will be necessary for the match which will likely not take place until mid-winter. The National Rifle association will shortly begin selecting the club which will represent this country and as it is desired to secure the best it is probable that all the rifle clubs affiliated with the association will be invited to compete for the honor of supplying members of the team. After the "try-out" a team will be selected and when the match is shot the men chosen will shoot their strings on the range belonging to their own club. If possible the dates will be arranged so that the shooting will be done in both countries, or all three, if Australia comes in, on the same date though necessarily there will be some difference in actual time. The challenge provides that any rifle not exceeding .22 caliber may be used, with any sights not employing glass, any ammunition and that any position may be assumed. The Americans will probably request that the latter provision be changed and that the position be restricted to off-hand. It is believed the challengers will agree to this.

While .22 caliber rifle practice both in and out of doors is growing in favor in this country with great rapidity, the sport has not yet the popularity or the support it receives in England. Some of the greatest men and women of the latter country give it their hearty encouragement and patronage. For example the Society of Miniature Rifle clubs is under the patronage of H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, while the two trustees are the Duke of Norfolk (the premier Duke of England) and the Duke of Westminster, the wealthiest peer of that country. Associated with them in the management of the society are such distinguished personages as the Marquis of Londonderry, the earl of Albemarle, Viscount Calville, Lieutenant General Sir Ian Hamilton, Major General Sir Alfred Turner, Lieutenant General W. W. Bricson, Lieutenant General F. Lanse, Major General Sir R. B. Love, Major General W. H. McKinnon, Major General A. C. Codrington and many others. The president of the organization is none other than the great Field Marshal Lord Roberts, who has been so active in promoting the cause of miniature rifle practice as well as military and civilian rifle practice in general throughout the British empire. The only organization in this country which approaches the support given the English society is the National Rifle association, which includes among its life members President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Root, Judge Taft and a number of senators, representatives and governors, as well as the leading men in the regular military service and in the national guard.

SAILORS OF DEEP WILL PUT AN END TO DYSPEPSIA AND STOMACH DISTRESS FOREVER

ROISTERING OLD JACK ASHORE GETTING SCARCE

Shanghaiing and Fisticuffs are Forgotten Occupations and Even the Former Lurid Glory of the Bowery is Dimmed.

(Special Correspondence to Morning Journal)

New York, Nov. 25.—The American sailor is passing. In deed he has almost disappeared and with him many curious customs and practices of early days. Shanghaiing—the practice of obtaining sailors by force—which under the less graphic name of impressment was the chief cause of the war of 1812 with England, has been stamped out except in rare instances, its only survival being found in the oyster fisheries of Chesapeake bay. There the practice of Shanghaiing has persisted, according to a writer in Appleton's Magazine, to such an extent that the matter has recently been brought to the attention of the federal authorities. Generally speaking, however, the old school of American sailors, together with the characteristically sailor life ashore which gave picturesque to the waterfront section of every port city, has disappeared forever. In New York, the greatest port in the country, where once the pitfalls for Jack ashore were myriad, the number of shops and resorts conducted especially for the purpose of separating tars from their money, is steadily diminishing.

Chiefly this is due to the change in all conditions. While the sailor of a century or half a century ago was a skilled member of an exacting profession, he is now, as a result of the general use of steam, merely a laborer on water, needed only for the scrubbing of decks, the polishing of metal and the handling of port buckets.

Just where the term "shanghaiing" got its origin is a matter of dispute, but the best authorities agree that it came from the city of Shanghai, China. When the far eastern trade was carried on by the fastest sailing ships, men could build—the famous "clippers"—sailors were artists in their profession and well paid. Shanghaiing was one of the great ports, and there sailors after their long voyage were likely to dissipate their pay and fall to report for the home voyage. As the value of eastern cargoes depended largely on prompt handling, the mercantile arm of Shanghaiing was then Jack's special stamping ground. A dicker—usually by the use of drugs and drink, and from this it is believed came the term, shanghaiing.

In the old days New York's waterfront, calculated first to get the money of Jack-ashore and then to shanghai him for the regular fee formerly paid by captains, was the most picturesque and interesting in the country. What is now the famous Bowery was then Jack's special stamping ground. A dicker—usually by the use of drugs and drink, and from this it is believed came the term, shanghaiing.

"The Bowery was once the fifth avenue of the town," says the Appleton chronicler, "but beginning on South street from County Slip, up and down the water front, the dives started to creep in and fill the whole lower end of the Manhattan city. They did not require much law in this lurid, bygone scene, and what ever happened that wasn't right was hidden beneath the fog of heavy cut, blown up from Jack's inevitable clay pipe, and was drowned beneath the plunkety-plunk of some yellowed and cracked piano. Sailor men were more or less of a luxury in the late 70's, and the police, therefore, let them alone. That end of the big city was packed full of the sea drift of the Seven Seas, Polacks and Swedes from the north rubbed elbow with Chiniks from Hongkong, by way of "Prisco," with "smoked Irishmen," as the sailors called the blacks from the Antilles, with Hindoo coolies who had floated from Suez up past Joppa and Naples across into the lower bay."

Miserable, indeed, is the man or woman whose digestive system is unstrung—who goes to the table and cannot eat, or what little is eaten seems to fill them and lays like a lump of lead in the stomach, refusing to digest.

The old-time sailors' boarding houses or "plices" as they were called, all had their "runners"—men skilled in the game of attracting Jack ashore, getting his money and then dragging him and turning him over to the captain of any vessel short of hands. "A quarter century ago," says Mr. Lyon, "if you walked along the shore front in Quaker of New York, or New Orleans, or East street in "Prisco, and happened to step in a moment for a slug of whiskey, you were apt to wake up two days out to sea with nothing but a pair of shoes and a slonkey's breakfast," which, in the parlance of the sea dog, is merely a straw mattress.

"Today all this has changed. Sailors' missions are more popular than might be thought, considering the roistering spirit of the frequenters. When Jack is in port, he matters his age, race or religion, if he hasn't a girl or a family, he is pretty apt to turn up at the secretary's desk—that is, after his money has been spent also where in traditional pursuits. Song Harbors, he it said, with their free reading rooms and their beds, and their general assistance, seem to be ideal places for the mariners to go to—when they cannot get in anywhere else and are drifting madly down the surge of the city. The use of these institutions is not a matter of religion with him so much as it is the necessity of keeping body and soul together. To accomplish this bodily comfort he is willing to undergo a little temporary treatment for his soul, if his benefactor insists upon administering it.

"It used to be different back in the olden times, in the 50's and earlier, when they shanghai'd men off James ship, and when Catherine street and Cherry and Roosevelt and Water streets used to be lined with sailors' boarding houses instead of with the Yiddish sweatshops and the Italian pickle vendors of the present day. In those times you couldn't walk north on Water street at a balmy evening without getting into a fight. Every door led into a saloon and dance hall, and upstairs they had an empty room or two where a four-round bout was always in progress, the men before the mat always being great fighters and loving to watch a little harmless mill. You couldn't get a job downstairs as waiter in the barroom if you could not box, and you certainly would not be able to hold your job long if you could not box well. Sailors that are getting their five dollars a night now before New York's amiable little athletic clubs for a short 'go' used to browse around from Harry Hill's to the "Bucket of Blood" of a Saturday night twenty years back, fight a half dozen battles, and come away with forty or fifty dollars in premium money. There is a broken window even yet down on Oliver street through which the terrible Swede knocked Jamaica "nigger" for Larry McGowan in the spring of '93, and many a darker house can boast its darker feat of violence.

"But if the life of Jack ashore is somewhat lurid even today, when he is on duty, he is one of the finest types of the American workman. On duty he is a sturdy workman, methodical, regular as the ship's bells, as punctual as a clock at his desk or a milkman on his morning round. The city of it all is that he gets nowhere. His whole life, from the time he takes the sea in a 'lad' until the declining years he spends in some seaman's almshouse or charitable institution, is made up of just these things—a trip out and a jamboree ashore. Some of his fellows may work up to be quarter-masters or boatwains themselves; there is one chance in a hundred, some may take to the fishing industry; here and there one of them is a singer for his old years, carrying for boats at a summer boating place; and down the coast there are all ways conditions in which he may develop and grow old and end his fever of youth. One thing he has to be thankful for, however, and that is the disappearance of shanghaiing."

RELICS OF SEA FOR SEAMEN'S CLUB

ing festival at this modern hotel and club, which is now ready to provide for over two hundred seafarers each night, these evidences of the simple support of the sailor man will be added to the other contributions which are beginning to be offered from enthusiastic landmen throughout the country. Rooms, books, beds, games and decorations in this harboring skyscraper for Jack-ashore are already being made substantial Christmas memorials by many innumerable and organizations, having sentimental or practical interest in the welfare of the half million seamen who come ashore in this port each year.

Sixteen sailors, who form the Masonic lodge of the R. M. S. Adriatic, have today sent word from their out-bound vessel at Sandy Hook to have one of their treasures, the hull of a sunken ship, hung on the walls of the Seamen's Institute by Christmas day as a token of their appreciation and support. Other members of the craft among the tars who have enjoyed the entertainment of the place are planning a Christmas celebration in the lofty lookout tower room. With other characteristic gifts and offers of co-operation the men of the sea have already set their own seal of approval on the new undertaking.

Two hundred officers, engineers, reamen and stokers of the giant ocean liners that dock near by have registered in the modern club quarters of the institute within the last two weeks since its doors were first thrown open. The seafarers of America, Germany, Great Britain, Sweden, Denmark and Norway in every grade of ocean life are today represented largely upon the growing books of this sailors' home. From cabin boy to captain these men have invariably shown that they can appreciate and use the modern accommodations of which they alone of all travelers have heretofore been deprived. Immaculate floors, quiet corridors, intact fixtures and busy boot black stands in the building are bearing mute testimony today to the ability of the workers of the to-castle to respect decent surroundings on shore.

That many a man or mother in localities all over this land is seeking to lighten the shore life of seamen for the sake of a son who followed the sea at some time is evidenced by many of the memorials which have today been secured to equip or maintain some special part of the new Seamen's Institute. National, state and city organizations are also setting up rooms, beds and recreation corners as landmarks which will attract and interest such seamen as hail from their home fields. Memorials from church and philanthropic bodies already make up a part of the unique equipment of the building.

"Almost every home land congregation and nationality in the world is represented among these ocean wayfarers who drift in to us for a shore harbor," said G. McPherson Hunter, secretary of the American Seamen's Friend society, at its headquarters, 78 Wall street, today. "To each one of them our new institute would seem nearer home, I know, if the homefolks added their little memorial in the shape of some useful bit of furnishing. The sailors are already beginning to do this in their own way and I feel sure every community ashore will soon be represented."

GOVERNMENT TROOPS LOSE BATTLE IN HAYTI

Attempt to Capture Revolution Leader Meets Disaster.

Port au Prince, Nov. 28.—Government troops under command of General Celestin Cyriaque, minister of war, composed largely of young recruits who were sent out to capture the leader of the revolution, General Antoine Simon, have met with a severe defeat. The engagement took place at Anse-au-Loup, which lies about fifty-five miles to the east of Jeremie, one of the disaffected ports. After severe fighting the government forces were routed and driven back to Miragoane, about twenty miles distant. Miragoane is about twenty-five miles from Port au Prince. It is reported that General Cyriaque has taken refuge in the German consulate there. Some of the wounded were brought to Port au Prince by the Haytian gunboat Centaure.

President Alexis Nordas, who has always confidence in the ability of the soldiers to suppress the revolutionary movement, has decided to take the offensive with three divisions of disciplined troops which have been concentrated here. The United States cruiser Coma, under command of Captain John Hood, and the French training ship Duguay Trouin have arrived here, and this has gone toward reassuring the foreign residents.

Reports have been current that the revolutionary army is marching on Port au Prince, but even if these are true, a considerable time must elapse before it arrives. The residents have shown no signs of excitement, but the diplomatic corps has decided to leave the city for the purpose of pillage, by having forces landed from the warships here.

It is not consoling to walk down street behind a man who is wearing the duplicate of your suit, and to know there are five or six or a dozen more of them in town. This is bound to happen if you wear a ready-made—and can never happen if you wear custom made. This is the chief reason why careful dressers are always tailored men. There is also another reason. The custom clothes maker works to your individual measurements. He knows your size and proportions. Isn't it reasonable that he should make a better fit?
